CINCINNATI BENGALS (0-5) AT BALTIMORE RAVENS (3-2)

WEEK 6, GAME 6
SUNDAY, OCT. 13
AT M&T BANK STADIUM

NEXT WEEK: WEEK 7, GAME 7
SUNDAY, OCT. 20 VS. JACKSONVILLE

GAME NOTES

Kickoff: 1 p.m. Eastern.

Television: The game will air on CBS-TV. In the Bengals' home region, it will be carried by WKRC-TV (Ch. 12) in Cincinnati, WHIO-TV (Ch. 7) in Dayton and on WKYT-TV (Ch. 27) in Lexington. Broadcasters are Kevin Harlan (play-by-play), Rich Gannon (analyst) and Jay Feely (sideline reporter).

Radio: The game will air on the Bengals Radio Network, led by Cincinnati flagship stations WLW-AM (700), WCKY-AM (ESPN 1530; all sports) and WEBN-FM (102.7). Broadcasters are Dan Hoard (play-by-play) and Dave Lapham (analyst).

The game also will air nationally on Sports USA Radio. Broadcasters are Josh Appel (play-by-play) and Charles Arbuckle (analyst).

Setting the scene: The Bengals meet the division-rival Baltimore Ravens on Sunday at M&T Bank Stadium. Cincinnati currently stands 0-5 and in search of its first win of the season, after falling last week to the Arizona Cardinals, 26-23.

"We're 0-5," said Bengals head coach Zac Taylor. "We're not pointing fingers, (we're saying) 'Figure out what you can do better.' That's me, that's the coordinators, that's the players, that's the leaders at each position group. What can we do to ramp it up a notch to go get this first win?"

The Bengals started fast against Arizona by forcing a Cardinals three-and-out on the first series the game, and then following that up with a powerful first offensive possession that featured eight rushes for 60 yards from HB Joe Mixon. But that drive stalled in the red zone, Cincinnati was forced to settle for a FG, and the Bengals were held out of the end zone until midway through the fourth quarter.

"It wasn't too far off from the type of game that we wanted to play," Taylor said. "There were two opportunities where we had first-and-goal, and really it was on those eventual third-and-goals where we lost out on eight points. That's the difference for us right now in some of these games. We can't miss those opportunities.

"We scored on five of the nine drives on offense, but we had opportunities to score touchdowns on most of those drives. We ended up kicking a couple of field goals instead, and that's where this game got us on offense."

Defensively, Cincinnati surrendered 514 yards to Arizona, including 266 on the ground. But the game was kept close with stout defensive play in the red zone, where the Cardinals converted just one TD on six total trips. That set the stage for a dramatic fourth-quarter Bengals comeback, which was punctuated by a 42-yard TD pass from QB Andy Dalton to WR Tyler Boyd to tie the game with 1:41 remaining. But Arizona drove 62 yards in six plays on the ensuing possession, and kicked a 31-yard FG as time expired to escape with a win.

"We had that momentum going, and we made the plays when we needed to," said Bengals QB Andy Dalton. "We had good tempo. Guys were making plays, we were getting positive gains and it led to those two touchdowns."

Though he is still looking for his first win as a head coach, Taylor says he hasn't noticed a difference in attitude or approach from anyone inside Paul Brown Stadium.

"We all go into every game thinking we're going to win, and we're disappointed when we don't," Taylor said. "But I wake up and have my Starbucks, and I feel ready to roll Monday morning to get excited and go attack the next team. The people around us feel the same mentality.

"It can be hard if you have the wrong people surrounding you, but we don't.

That's what makes it easy to rebound. We have 11 games left, and we have a huge one this week that we want to win."

Baltimore enters this week's matchup 3-2, after edging the Pittsburgh Steelers 26-23 in overtime last week.

The series: Cincinnati-Baltimore series is tied, 23-23.

Here are some series notes:

- When Cincinnati took the series lead in Game 2 last season, it was the first time the Bengals had led the series since after the first of two meetings of 1998, when they were up 3-2.
- The Bengals have won three of the last five meetings, and nine of the last 13. The two teams split their meetings last year.
- It hasn't been an easy series for the visiting team. The Ravens lead 15-8 in Baltimore, and the Bengals lead 15-8 in Cincinnati.
- Since 2010, 13 of the teams' 18 meetings have been one-score decisions, by eight or fewer points.

Complete Bengals-Ravens series results are on page 206 of the 2019 Bengals Media Guide.

Team bests from the series:

Bengals — MOST POINTS: 42, in a 42-29 win in 2005 at Paul Brown Stadium. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 17, in a 34-17 win at Paul Brown Stadium in the 2013 regular-season finale. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 7 (three times), most recently in a 17-7 win in 2009 at Paul Brown Stadium.

Ravens — MOST POINTS: 44, in a 44-13 win at M&T Bank Stadium in 2012. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 37, in a 37-0 win at Baltimore in 2000. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 0 (four times), most recently on Sept. 10 in the Ravens' 20-0 win in the 2017 season-opener at Cincinnati.

The last meetings: Summaries of the two Bengals-Ravens meetings last season are on page 15 of this news release.

| TURNOVERS: | | |
| Differential..... | T-29th (minus-5) | T-15th (even) |

Turnover margin is key vs. Ravens: In the 36 all-time Bengals-Ravens meetings in which the turnover differential has not been even (1995-present), the team who wins the turnover battle has posted a 31-5 record.

Putting it another way, the Bengals are 14-3 against the Ravens with a plus turnover differential, and 2-17 with a minus. Looking at it from Baltimore's point of view, the Ravens are 17-2 with a plus and 3-14 with a minus.

Cincinnati leads 7-3 in games against Baltimore in which the turnover margin was even.

Last season, the Bengals won the first meeting with a plus-one turnover margin, while the Ravens won the second meeting with a minus-one differential.

Bengals career records watch: Here is a look at potential upcoming movement in the Bengals' career records book (regular season):

- QB Andy Dalton has 4125 career pass attempts, 350 behind QB Ken Anderson (4475) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Dalton has 2572 career completions, 82 shy of Anderson (2654) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Bengals WR Alex Erickson has 94 career punt returns, four shy of CB Adam Jones (98) for fourth place all-time. WR Brandon Tate (153) is the Bengals' all-time leader. Erickson passed S Tommy Casanova (91) for fifth place all-time in Game 3 at Buffalo.
- Erickson has 737 career punt return yards, 47 shy of Casanova (784) for fifth place all-time. Tate (1411) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- Erickson has 103 career kickoff returns, 12 shy of FB Eric Ball (115) for fifth place all-time. S/CB Tremain Mack (146) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- Erickson has 2566 career kickoff return yards, 186 behind RB Stanford Jennings (2752) for fourth place all-time. Mack (3583) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- DE Carlos Dunlap has 73.5 career sacks, 10 short of DE Eddie Edwards* (83.5) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- DT Geno Atkins has 72 career sacks, 1.5 short of Dunlap (73.5) for second place all-time. Edwards* (83.5) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- WR A.J. Green has 63 career receiving TDs, three behind WR Chad Johnson (66) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Green has 63 total TDs, one short of WR Carl Pickens and RB James Brooks (both with 64) for third place all-time. FB Pete Johnson (70) is the Bengals' all-time leader.

*—The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Records vs. Ravens: In the first Bengals-Ravens game, Nov. 3, 1996 at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, head coach Bruce Coslet's Bengals overcame what still stands today as the largest deficit (18 points) to win a road game in franchise history. The Ravens led 21-3 at halftime, but Cincinnati rallied for a 24-21 win on a 39-yard Doug Pelfrey field goal at the final gun.

The Bengals' second-biggest comeback in a road win also was at Baltimore. On Dec. 5, 2004 at M&T Bank Stadium, Cincinnati rallied from a 20-3 deficit to win 27-26. Also:

- Shayne Graham kicked a Bengals-record seven field goals — for all of Cincinnati's scoring — in a 21-7 win at Baltimore in 2007. Graham did not have a missed attempt. The NFL record for field goals in a game is eight, set by Rob Bironas of Tennessee in 2007, and Graham is one of eight players sharing second place with seven.
- In the 2014 season opener at Baltimore, Bengals K Mike Nugent tied the NFL record for field goals in a half (five). His five in the first half gave the Bengals a 15-0 lead toward an eventual 23-16 win.
- WR A.J. Green's 227 receiving yards at Baltimore in 2015 stands as second most in a game in team history, behind only Chad Johnson's 260 vs. San Diego in 2006.
- In 2008 against the Ravens in Cincinnati, P Kyle Larson punted 11 times, which is tied with three other instances for most in a game in team history. Larson's 480 yards punting that day also stand as the third-most for a single game in Bengals history.
- The Bengals record for kickoff return yardage in a game (228 yards) was set at Baltimore by Brandon Bennett in 2002. Bennett had a 94-yarder for a TD.

Individually vs. Ravens: Bengals QB Andy Dalton has 15 career games against Baltimore, with an 8-7 record. Dalton has completed 315 of 555 attempts (56.8 percent) for 3786 yards (252.4 yards per game), 21 TDs and 17 INTs for a 77.7 passer rating.

Statistically, Dalton's best game against the Ravens was in the Bengals' 2015 comeback win at Baltimore when he passed for a then career-high 383 yards and a 122.3 rating. More recently, against the Ravens in Game 2 last season at Paul Brown Stadium, Dalton led the Bengals to a 34-23 win, completing 24 of 42 passes for 265 yards, four TDs and no INTs (107.7 rating).

Here is a look at offensive statistics for other current Bengals against Baltimore (ordered by total games played):

- WR A.J. Green: 11 games; 53 receptions (4.8 per game) for 886 yards (80.5 per game and 16.7 per catch), with nine TDs.
- HB Giovani Bernard: 10 games; 101 rushes for 382 yards (3.8), with one TD; 40 receptions for 290 yards (7.3) with one TD.
- TE Tyler Eifert: Seven games; 18 receptions for 238 yards (13.2), with two TDs.
- WR Tyler Boyd: Six games; 23 receptions for 365 yards (15.9) and two TDs, with one rush for 15 yards; one pass attempt (incomplete).
- WR Alex Erickson: Six games; one reception for seven yards.
- TE C.J. Uzomah: Five games; 10 catches for 106 yards (10.6) and one TD.
- HB Joe Mixon: Four games; 59 rushes for 203 yards (3.4); eight receptions for 57 yards (7.1).
- WR John Ross: Two games; three catches for 35 (11.7) yards.
- WR Auden Tate: One game; one reception for five yards.
- TE Jordan Franks (currently on practice squad): One game; one reception for five yards.

Bills fans gracious to Dalton, Boyd after '17 finale:

Cincinnati's memorable and dramatic win over Baltimore in the 2017 season finale at M&T Bank Stadium had an instant impact for fans of the Buffalo Bills, and in turn, a lasting effect for a pair of current Bengals.

With 49 seconds remaining in the game, Bengals QB Andy Dalton connected with WR Tyler Boyd for a thrilling 49-yard TD pass on fourth-and-12, putting the Bengals ahead, 31-27. The play sealed a Bengals win, which eliminated Baltimore from the playoffs and gave Buffalo its first postseason berth since 1999. Video of jubilant Bills players watching the play in their locker room after a game in Miami was viewed nationally, and Dalton and Boyd were the talk of the town in Buffalo.

Almost immediately, happy and charitable Bills fans took to the internet to show their appreciation, and they spoke loudest with their wallets. Over the days following the game, the Andy and J.J. Foundation website — AndyDalton.org — was flooded with donations. According to Dalton, the final tally included more than 17,000 donors and over $450,000.

"What happened with Buffalo has been able to shed a lot of light on what we do and what our foundation helps," Dalton said. "If I go anywhere and there's somebody from Buffalo, they're going to make sure to come up and tell me that they're a Bills fan, or that they're from Buffalo or have a certain tie there."

Bills fans also heaped appreciation on Boyd. The third-year WR estimates that more than $100,000 was donated to his cause of choice, the Western Pennsylvania Youth Athletic Association, a youth sports league in his hometown of Clairton, Pa.

"That's priceless to me," Boyd said. "It's more than the money. What matters to me is affecting people's lives. Inspiring people. That's what I loved growing up — seeing people inspire me in ways to make me want to do something like that in the future. Doing good for the community."

Since that Bengals-Ravens meeting, both Boyd and Dalton have shown their appreciation to Bills fans in interviews with media and through their own social media accounts. And last year, when the Bengals traveled to Buffalo for a preseason matchup, the board of the Andy and J.J. Foundation (which includes Dalton's wife J.J.), traveled to Buffalo to present a donation to the Roswell Park Cancer Center.

"Buffalo had given so much to us and our foundation," Dalton said. "We're very appreciative and thankful of everything we received from them. For us, we felt like that was an opportunity to give back and say 'thank you' for how generous they were to us."

The Andy and J.J. Foundation's mission is "to provide support, resources, opportunities and life-changing experiences to seriously ill and physically challenged children and their families."

Uniform watch: The Bengals are scheduled to wear white jerseys and black pants this week at Baltimore.

Since 2004, the year of the Bengals' last significant uniform redesign, a number of color options for jerseys and pants have been available. Below are the records (regular season plus postseason) for the different combinations:

| JERSEY | PANTS | W-L-T | PCT. |
|-------------|------------------|---------|------|
| Orange* | Black..... | 6-1-0 | .857 |
| Orange* | White..... | 16-7-1 | .688 |
| White (CR)* | White (CR)*..... | 2-2-0 | .500 |
| Black | Black..... | 16-15-1 | .516 |
| Black | White..... | 36-35-1 | .507 |
| White | Black..... | 28-35-0 | .444 |
| White | White..... | 19-30-0 | .388 |

* — NFL rules allow teams to wear designated alternate jerseys, color rush (CR) uniforms and/or throwback uniforms for a combined total of three regular-season games. As in years past, orange served as the Bengals' designated alternate jersey, and for the third straight year, the team used their color rush uniforms (white jersey, white pants), which debuted in 2016. Cincinnati does not have a throwback uniform.

THE HEAD COACHES

Zac Taylor was named the 10th head coach in Cincinnati Bengals history on Feb. 4, 2019. He comes to Cincinnati after two seasons with the L.A. Rams, where he served as assistant wide receivers coach in 2017 and quarterbacks coach in '18.

In 2018, Taylor helped guide Rams QB Jared Goff to career highs in every major passing category — completions (364), attempts (561), passing yards (4688), passing TDs (32), completion percentage (64.9), yards per attempt (8.36) and passer rating (101.1). Goff ranked fourth in the NFL in passing yards and eighth in passer rating. The Rams' QB play was a key component to their offense, which finished the regular season ranked second in the NFL in total net yards (421.1 per game), fifth in net passing yards (281.7), second in scoring (32.9), first in first downs (401) and fifth in third-down percentage (45.0). Los Angeles won the NFC West with a 13-3 regular-season record and advanced to Super Bowl LIII against the New England Patriots.

In 2017, Taylor helped oversee an emerging Rams passing offense that ranked 10th in the NFL in pass yards per game (239.4). Taylor directed the Rams' young receiving corps, headed by rookie Cooper Kupp, who finished the season with 62 catches, a team-high 869 receiving yards and five TDs. Kupp (869 yards), TE Gerald Everett (244) and WR Josh Reynolds (104) — all rookies — helped the Rams finish with the third-most receiving yards among rookie pass catchers.

Prior to his time with the Rams, Taylor had a one-year stint in the college ranks, serving as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Cincinnati in 2016. Taylor served under head coach Tommy Tuberville at UC.

Taylor broke into NFL coaching in 2012 with the Miami Dolphins as assistant quarterbacks coach. He was elevated to quarterbacks coach from 2013-15, and spent the final five games of '15 as the Dolphins' interim offensive coordinator and primary play-caller, after the team made coaching staff changes in late November. During his time in Miami, Taylor was instrumental in the development of QB Ryan Tannehill, the team's first-round draft pick in 2012.

Taylor's coaching career began at Texas A&M University, where he served as offensive graduate assistant and tight ends coach under head coach Mike Sherman from 2008-11. The Aggies shared the Big 12 South Championship in 2010 and played in three bowl games during Taylor's time in College Station.

As a player, Taylor began his collegiate career at Wake Forest (2002-03), before transferring to Butler County Community College in Kansas ('04) and then playing his final two seasons ('05-06) at the University of Nebraska. Taylor had a decorated career with the Cornhuskers, setting numerous school records and passing for a combined 5850 yards and 45 touchdowns. In his senior season of 2006, Taylor was named Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year after passing for 3197 total yards and leading the Cornhuskers to a 9-3 record, an appearance in the Big 12 Championship Game and a berth in the Cotton Bowl. He was inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 2017.

Taylor joined the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a college free agent in 2007, but he was waived prior to the start of training camp and never saw NFL action. Later that year, he joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, where he spent one season (did not play).

His father, Sherwood, was a defensive back and captain at the University of Oklahoma, playing under Sooners head coach Barry Switzer from 1976-79. Sherwood Taylor later served as an assistant coach at Oklahoma and Kansas State University. Taylor's brother, Press, played quarterback at Marshall University and is currently quarterbacks coach for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Taylor was born on May 10, 1983, in Norman, Okla., where he was raised and later attended Norman High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in communication studies from the University of Nebraska in 2006. He and his wife, Sarah, have four children — Brooks, Luke, Emma Claire and Milly. Sarah Taylor is the daughter of former Green Bay Packers and Texas A&M head coach Mike Sherman.

John Harbaugh is in his 12th season as head coach of the Ravens. He has led Baltimore to a playoff berth in seven (2008-12, '14, '18) of his 11 full seasons, and in '12, captured the franchise's second Super Bowl championship. Under Harbaugh's guidance, the Ravens have secured an appearance in three AFC Championship games (2008, '11 and '12). Baltimore is one of only six teams with at least seven playoff berths in the past 11 seasons (the others are New England [10], Green Bay [8], Indianapolis [7], Pittsburgh [7] and Seattle [7]). Additionally, under Harbaugh, the Ravens' 10 playoff wins since 2008 rank as the NFL's second most (New England has 16).

In 2018, Baltimore (10-6) captured its fifth-ever AFC North Division title, earning a Wild Card playoff berth vs. the Los Angeles Chargers. In 2014, the Ravens posted a 10-6 record en route to capturing a 30-17 victory at Pittsburgh in the Wild Card round.

In 2012, the Ravens seized the franchise's second Super Bowl championship. Baltimore topped the Colts in the Wild Card round and followed that by earning a Divisional Round victory over top-seeded Denver before advancing to Super Bowl XLVII with a win in the AFC Championship Game at New England. In the Super Bowl in New Orleans, the Ravens bested the San Francisco 49ers by a final of 34-31.

In his initial season with the team (2008), Harbaugh led Baltimore to an 11-5 record and a berth in the AFC Championship Game. Baltimore set an NFL record that season for most total wins (13) by a team with both a rookie head coach and a rookie starting quarterback (Joe Flacco).

Harbaugh spent his first 10 NFL seasons (1998-2007) with the Philadelphia Eagles. He was the team's secondary coach in 2007, after nine seasons as its special teams coordinator. He was voted the 2001 NFL's Special Teams Coach of the Year by his coaching peers. His career record is 116-80.

Harbaugh played defensive back at Miami University (Ohio) from 1980-83 and earned a degree in political science. He coached collegiately at Western Michigan (1984-86), Pittsburgh ('87), Morehead State ('88), Cincinnati ('89-96), and Indiana ('97).

Harbaugh was born in Perrysburg, Ohio on Sept. 23, 1962. He and his wife, Ingrid, have a daughter, Alison. He is the son of longtime college coach Jack Harbaugh, and his brother, Jim, currently is head coach at the University of Michigan. Jim played for the Ravens in 1998. John's brother-in-law, Tom Crean, who is Georgia's head basketball coach, is married to the brothers' sister, Joani.

Taylor vs. Ravens: No previous meetings.

Taylor vs. Harbaugh: No previous meetings.

Harbaugh vs. Bengals: The Bengals lead, 12-10.

BENGALS NOTES

At the top of the list: Here's a look at where the Bengals rank — both individually and in team categories — among the top 10 in the NFL.

ANDY DALTON:

- Sixth in passing yards (1412).
- Third in pass attempts (204).
- Fourth in completions (129).
- Tied for ninth in completions for first downs (62).
- Tied for sixth in completions of at least 40 yards (four).

TYLER BOYD:

- Tied for fifth in receptions (37).
- Eighth in receiving yards (406).
- Tied for eighth in third-down receptions (nine).

JOE MIXON

- Tied for first in third-and-one rushing (100 percent; four for four)

SHAWN WILLIAMS

- Tied for seventh in solo tackles (31)

BENGALS TEAM:

- Ninth in passing yards per game (258.0)
- Eighth in yards gained per kickoff return (24.3)
- Eighth in yards allowed per punt return (4.6).

T.B. chasing T.J.: Although it's still early in the 2019 season, WR Tyler Boyd has positioned himself to make a run at former Bengals WR T.J. Houshmandzadeh's team record for receptions in a season. Houshmandzadeh's 112 catches in 2007 stand as the top mark in team history, with WR Carl Pickens' 100 in 1996 counting as the only other instance of a Bengal reaching the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd so far has 37 catches, tied for fifth-most in the NFL this season, the third-most ever by a Bengal in the first five games of a season, and ahead of pace to break Houshmandzadeh's record.

Houshmandzadeh had 47 catches through five games in 2007, and Pickens had 27. Boyd would need to average 6.8 catches over the Bengals' final 11 games to equal Houshmandzadeh's 112, and 5.7 per game to reach the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd eyeing another thousand: With WR A.J. Green missing time due to an ankle injury, WR Tyler Boyd has again stepped into the spotlight as the Bengals No. 1 WR. But it's familiar territory for the fourth-year pro. Boyd served in the same role the second half of last season while Green was out with a foot injury, and he ended the year with a career-high 1028 receiving yards.

Boyd himself ended up missing the Bengals' last two games of 2018 due to a knee injury, but not before becoming the first Bengal other than Green to top 1000 receiving yards in a season since 2009 (Chad Johnson, 1047). Now fully healthy, and fresh off of a new contract extension that keeps him in Cincinnati through 2023, Boyd is having another productive season in 2019.

"Tyler is a young, up-and-coming receiver in this league, and he's had great production over the years," Bengals head coach Zac Taylor said of Boyd. "He's a great separator, he's got great hands, has great attention to detail and is very coachable. All the traits that we look for in receivers, Tyler exhibits."

So far this season, Boyd has 406 receiving yards (eighth in NFL) on a team-high 37 receptions (tied for fifth in NFL). He needs to average 54.0 receiving yards over the final 11 games to reach 1000 for the season.

T.B. a menace on third down: Bengals WR Tyler Boyd has started the 2019 season right where he left off the last three years — causing problems for opposing defenses on third downs. Boyd this season ranks tied for eighth in the NFL with nine third-down receptions (for 102 yards). Eight of Boyd's nine catches on third downs so far this season have converted first downs.

Last season, Boyd finished with 22 first-down receptions on third down, good for a career-high and the most in a season by a Bengal since 2008 (26 by T.J. Houshmandzadeh). That total also tied for last year's league lead in that category with Houston's DeAndre Hopkins and New Orleans' Michael Thomas. It should also be noted that Boyd missed the final two games of 2018 due to a knee injury.

Overall on third down last season, Boyd had 24 catches (tied for third in AFC) for 302 yards (12.6 average) and three TDs.

Having success on third down isn't a new trend for Boyd. As a rookie in 2016, his 22 third-down receptions led all rookies, and his 16 third-down receptions that converted first downs tied for the rookie lead with the N.Y. Giants' Sterling Shepard.

Looking at first-year Bengals coaches: When Zac Taylor was named Bengals head coach on Feb. 4, questions immediately surfaced about how quickly he could return the team to success. But even the best coaches in Bengals history have taken time to right the ship.

Here's a look at the nine previous Bengals head coaches' records in their first full season as the team's head coach.

Bengals tough when Joe's clicking: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor has alluded several times to his intent to lean more heavily upon HB Joe Mixon in 2019. History shows that probably is a good idea.

The Bengals are 6-1 since Mixon's rookie season of 2017 when he gets at least 20 carries, with the lone outlier being a loss at the L.A. Chargers late last year after the Bengals had lost QB Andy Dalton and WR A.J. Green for the season due to injuries.

The Bengals are also 6-5 in games where Mixon has reached 100 total yards, with two of the five losses coming late last year without Dalton and Green. And when Mixon reaches 100 rushing yards, Cincinnati is 3-2, with both losses coming last year without Dalton and Green.

The Bengals are 0-1 this season when Mixon reaches 100 total yards (109 in Game 5 vs. Arizona). He has not yet reached 20 carries or 100 rushing yards.

Mixon looks to build on strong 2018: Third-year HB Joe Mixon this season is looking to defend a strong 2018 campaign in which he became the only Bengals player ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards (1168) in a season (RB Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing in 1968). Mixon, who also led the conference in rushing attempts (237), achieved the feat despite missing two games with a knee injury.

"I feel like Coach Taylor's going to throw the load on me," Mixon said of his 2019 approach. "But I've got to be physically and mentally prepared to be able to take it on and do the best job that I can do. As long as I'm in great condition, I feel like I'll thrive in this offense."

Mixon last season recorded the 22nd 1000-yard rushing season in Bengals history, and became just the 11th Bengal ever to hit that mark. He also scored a team-high nine TDs (eight rushing, one receiving), and had four games of 100 or more yards rushing and seven games of 100 or more yards from scrimmage.

Mixon has started 2019 behind his pace from last season. In five games, he has 242 rushing yards on 66 carries.

15 carries for Gio does the trick: Over his now seven seasons in Cincinnati, Giovani Bernard has carved out a spot among the top dual-threat running backs in team history.

But when examining Bernard's workload specifically as a rusher throughout his career, a significant trend becomes apparent — the Bengals are 10-1-1 in games in which Bernard has at least 15 rushing attempts. Bernard has not yet reached 15 carries in a game in 2019, however Cincinnati was 1-0 in 2018 when Bernard hit the mark (15 rushes for 69 yards in Game 4 at Atlanta).

In the 12 career games in which Bernard has reached 15 carries, he has averaged 78.4 yards, scored seven rushing TDs and topped 100 yards three times.

Gio sets sights on Brooks: HB Giovani Bernard currently stands within striking distance of the Bengals' all-time leads in both receptions and receiving yards by a running back, which are both held by RB James Brooks. With 277 career receptions, Bernard stands 20 short of James Brooks' record of 297. And with 2366 receiving yards, Bernard is 646 short of Brooks' record of 3012. Brooks played eight seasons with the Bengals (1984-91), while 2019 is Bernard's seventh.

Bernard averaged 898 yards from scrimmage in his first six NFL seasons — 518 rushing, 380 receiving — although his pursuit of Brooks' records has been slowed slightly by injuries in recent years. In 2018, he got off to a fast start before a knee injury sidelined him for four games. He also missed the final six games of 2016 due to a torn ACL in his left knee.

Keep an eye on Andy: QB Andy Dalton owns a 68-55-2 record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.552) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. And as the numbers have shown, the Bengals' success is tied closely to that of their QB.

Dalton has thrown at least two TDs 63 times in his career. and the Bengals are 41-21-1 (.659) in those contests. In his 23 games with at least three TD passes, the Bengals are 22-1 (.957), with the only outlier coming in a 2012 loss at Cleveland. Conversely, the Bengals are just 6-16 (.273) when Dalton is held without a TD pass, and haven't won such a game since 2014 at Cleveland.

A similar trend is true with passing yardage. In the 50 instances of Dalton topping 250 passing yards, the Bengals are 29-19-2 (.600). He's topped 300 yards 26 times, with Cincinnati going 15-10-1 (.596) in those contests.

The Bengals have also proven tough to beat when Dalton is at his most accurate. When he completes at least 65 percent of his passes (minimum 20 attempts), the Bengals are 36-15-1 (.702), including wins in eight of their last 12 such games. And when that completion percentage jumps to at least 70, the Bengals are 21-6-1 (.768), with wins in 12 of their last 15 such games.

25 points does the trick: Since 2011, the rookie season of both QB Andy Dalton and WR A.J. Green, the Bengals own a 46-1-2 record (.959) when scoring 25 or more points. Only Miami has a better winning percentage, at .970 (32-1-0), when topping the 25-point mark over that span.

The Bengals were a perfect 6-0 in 2018 when scoring 25 points or more, and 0-10 when failing to hit the mark. They have yet to reach 25 points in a game in 2019.

Here are the top five teams in the NFL since 2011, in terms of winning percentage, when hitting the 25-point plateau.

| TEAM | WINS | LOSSES | TIES | WINNING PCT. |
|----------------------------|------|--------|------|--------------|
| Miami Dolphins | 32 | 1 | 0 | .970 |
| Cincinnati Bengals | 46 | 1 | 2 | .959 |
| Arizona Cardinals | 36 | 3 | 1 | .913 |
| New England Patriots | 83 | 8 | 0 | .912 |
| Denver Broncos | 51 | 6 | 0 | .895 |
| Philadelphia Eagles | 51 | 6 | 0 | .895 |

Dalton ties Kenny in TDs: After more than two seasons of being held out of the end zone, Bengals QB Andy Dalton finally reached paydirt in Game 3 at Buffalo when he rushed for a one-yard score in the third quarter. It was the 20th total TD of Dalton's career, tying him with former Bengals QB Ken Anderson for most career TDs by a QB in team history. Dalton in 2019 is playing his ninth season, while Anderson played 16 Bengals seasons (1971-86).

All of Anderson's 20 TDs were rushing scores. Dalton has 19 rushing TDs, and he has 20 total by virtue of being the only Bengals QB ever to catch a touchdown pass. He scored on an 18-yard gadget connection from WR Mohamed Sanu vs. Tennessee in 2014.

The next-most TDs by a Bengals QB is 10, by Jeff Blake.

Dalton and Jack Thompson share the Bengals season record for touchdowns by a QB, at five. Dalton had five in 2014, tying the record first set by Thompson in 1979.

'Crazy Legs' Andy: QB Andy Dalton's 19 career rushing TDs not only put him in rare company in team history, he also is among the best when compared to his current NFL peers. In the category of rushing TDs by a QB, only Carolina's Cam Newton, whose 58 are beyond similarity, ranks higher than Dalton since 2011. Dalton and Dallas QB Dak Prescott (19) stand tied for second behind Newton, with Russell Wilson (18) and Tyrod Taylor (16) not far behind.

'Ice-Water' Andy: Bengals QB Andy Dalton has 24 career game-winning drives, the most in Bengals history ahead Boomer Esiason (22).

A game-winning drive is defined as a drive that results in an offensive score in the fourth quarter or overtime that is responsible for putting the team ahead to stay (PATs included).

The Bengals' record for most game-winning drives in a season is five, set by former QB Jeff Blake in 1996, and then tied by former QB Carson Palmer in '09. Dalton had four game-winning drives in 2018, despite missing the final five games due to a season-ending thumb injury.

Since 2011, the year the Bengals drafted him, Dalton's 24 game-winning drives are tied with Atlanta's Matt Ryan for the fourth-most in the NFL.

Here's a look at the NFL quarterbacks with the most game-winning drives in the fourth quarter or overtime since 2011.

| QUARTERBACK | TEAM | GAME-WINNING DRIVES SINCE 2011 |
|------------------|-------------------|--------------------------------|
| Matthew Stafford | Detroit | 32 |
| Drew Brees | New Orleans | 26 |
| Russell Wilson | Seattle | 25 |
| Andy Dalton | Cincinnati | 24 |
| Matt Ryan | Atlanta | 24 |
| Eli Manning | N.Y. Giants | 23 |

An Andy roundup: Other records and notable accomplishments in QB Andy Dalton's career include:

- Dalton has posted 48 career games with a passer rating of 100 or more, and the Bengals are 39-9 (.813) in those contests.
- Dalton's .552 winning percentage (68-55-2) is the best of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts.
- Dalton holds club season records for passing yards (4293) and TD passes (33), both set in 2013.

- He is the only Bengals passer to throw for 300-plus yards in four consecutive games (2013).
- He opened his career with 77 consecutive regular-season starts, a Bengals record for quarterbacks at any point during a career. The previous mark had been 61, posted by Boomer Esiason from 1985-89. Dalton's streak ranks tied for fourth in NFL history for the start of a career by a QB, trailing only Peyton Manning of Indianapolis (208), Joe Flacco of Baltimore (122) and Russell Wilson of Seattle (117 and counting). Dalton is tied with Tennessee QB Ryan Tannehill, whose streak of 77 ended in 2016 while with Miami.

The Huber roundup: Long considered the top punter in Bengals history, 11th-year pro Kevin Huber now has the career records to back up that claim. Already a considerable presence in the Bengals' record book heading into last season, Huber moved into first place in the only two remaining career punting categories in the Bengals' record book.

Huber now stands first in team history in the following categories:

- Punts (791)
- Punting yards (35,616)
- Gross average (45.03)
- Net average (39.81)
- Inside-20 punts (272)

Huber has also taken over many of the Bengals' single-season and single-game records. Among them are:

- He holds the top four Bengals season averages in gross yardage and the top five Bengals season averages in net. His gross record is 46.84, and his net record is 42.10 — both were set in 2014.
- He shares the team record for longest punt (75 yards) with Kyle Larson.
- His 33 inside-20 punts in 2012 is a single-season franchise record.
- His six inside-20 punts on Sept. 14, 2017 vs. Houston are tied with Lee Johnson (Nov. 2, 1997) for the most in a game in Bengals history.

Dunlap's PD frenzy: While he hasn't yet recorded a pass defended so far this season, Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap has a reputation as one of the league's best defensive linemen at batting down passes at the line of scrimmage. And he has the numbers to back it up, too.

Dunlap had eight passes defended in 2018, second-most in the NFL among non-DBs. His eight PDs were the third-highest single-season total of his career, behind the 2013 (10) and '16 (15) seasons. His 2016 total led all Bengals defenders and all other NFL defensive linemen, and it was the first time since Cincinnati began recording defensive stats in 1976 that a Bengals defensive lineman had ever led the team in PDs.

To paint a clearer picture of just how effective Dunlap has been at batting passes, here's a list of non-defensive backs in the NFL with the most passes defended since the start of the 2016 season.

| PLAYER | POS | TEAM | PDs SINCE 2016 |
|----------------|-----|---------------------------------|----------------|
| Alec Ogletree | LB | St. Louis/L.A. Rams/N.Y. Giants | 32 |
| Carlos Dunlap | DE | Cincinnati | 30 |
| Deion Jones | LB | Atlanta | 28 |
| Eric Kendricks | LB | Minnesota | 27 |
| Cameron Jordan | LB | New Orleans | 23 |
| Cory Littleton | LB | L.A. Rams | 23 |

Dunlap's, Atkins' dominance = team success: Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap and DT Geno Atkins entered the NFL together in 2010 as draft picks of the Bengals, and in the 10 seasons since they've established themselves among the top pass-rushing duos in the league. Most importantly though, the record shows that when Dunlap and Atkins are at their most dominant, it usually spells success for Cincinnati.

The Bengals are 10-6 (.625) when Dunlap records more than one sack, and 8-4 (.667) when Atkins records more than one sack. There have been two instances in which both have had more than one sack in the same game (Bengals are 1-1 in those contests), which means Cincinnati is a combined 17-9 (.654) when getting more than one sack from either player.

The Bengals are 7-1 since the beginning of the 2015 season when Dunlap records more than one sack, with the only outlier coming in a 20-17 overtime loss at Denver in 2015. Dunlap had a career-best three sacks in that Denver game and finished 2015 with a career-high 13.5, second-most in Bengals history. Dunlap had one multi-sack game in 2018, which came in a win vs. Tampa Bay in Game 8 (two sacks).

Since 2015, the Bengals are 6-2 when Atkins has more than one sack. The only outliers during that span were losses vs. Houston and at Minnesota in 2017. Atkins had three multi-sack games in 2018 — Game 2 vs. Baltimore (two), Game 5 vs. Miami (two) and Game 14 vs. Oakland (three) — and the Bengals were 3-0 in those contests.

Dunlap and Atkins are under contract with the Bengals through the '21 and '22 seasons, respectively. Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) currently stands second on the Bengals' all-time sack list, and Atkins (72) is third. The Bengals' leader in career sacks is DE Eddie Edwards, with 83.5.

Dunlap, Atkins neck-and-neck in career sacks: Just 1.5 sacks separate Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) and DT Geno Atkins (72), who rank second and third, respectively, on Cincinnati's all-time sack list behind all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). And now that Edwards' record is within sight, the race is on to see which player catches him first.

Atkins, who missed nearly half of the 2013 season with a torn ACL, has more than double the number of sacks of the next-closest interior defensive lineman in Bengals history (Tim Krumrie, 34.5). Atkins in 2018 had a team-high 10 sacks, the third-highest single-season sack total of his career (he had a career-high 12.5 in 2012, and 11 in '15). Atkins has finished with at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior lineman five times in nine NFL seasons, including in three of the last four years (see "Geno looks to re-claim his crown").

Dunlap, a two-time Pro Bowler (2015 and '16) who turned 30 after the '18 season, averaged 8.1 sacks over his first nine NFL seasons, while Edwards averaged just under seven over 12 seasons. In 2015, Dunlap set a career-high in sacks, with 13.5, the second-most in Bengals history. Besides his 73.5 sacks, Dunlap's career totals include 18 FFs, nine FRs, 56 PDs, four blocked FGs and three TDs.

NOTE: The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Geno on HOF pace: Bengals DT Geno Atkins, who is playing his 10th NFL season in 2019, currently stands at 72 career sacks, third in team history and the most ever by a Bengals interior defensive lineman.

But a closer look reveals that Atkins is on a Hall-of-Fame pace. When compared to defensive tackles in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Atkins compares quite favorably at this point in his career.

Here's a look at the sack totals of notable Hall-of-Fame DTs through their 10th seasons, as well as where they stood at the end of their careers. It should be noted that Atkins missed nearly half of the 2013 season, due to a torn ACL.

(NOTE: This list includes only DTs whose careers started after 1982, when the NFL began counting sacks as official statistics):

| NAME | YEARS ACTIVE | THRU 10 SEASONS | CAREER SACKS |
|----------------|--------------|-----------------|--------------|
| John Randle | 1990-2003 | 106.0 | 137.5 |
| Warren Sapp | 1995-2007 | 79.5 | 96.5 |
| Geno Atkins | 2010-present | *72.0 | *72.0 |
| Cortez Kennedy | 1990-2000 | 57.0 | 58.0 |

*—Atkins is five games into his 10th NFL season.

Geno looks to re-claim his crown: Bengals DT Geno Atkins in 2019 is looking to reclaim a crown that, for all intents and purposes, has been his for much of this decade. In nine previous NFL seasons (2010-18), Atkins has five times finished in at least a tie for most sacks by an NFL interior defensive lineman. He claimed it outright in 2012 (12.5 sacks), '16 (nine) and '17 (nine), while sharing it in '11 (7.5) and '15 (11).

Last season, though, Atkins (10 sacks) finished in fourth place among interior linemen, and fell two short of the leader (49ers DT DeForest Buckner, 12). It marked the first time in the previous four seasons that Atkins failed to finish in at least a tie for the top spot.

Atkins has just one sack thus far this season, but remains within striking distance of the league's leader among interior linemen, Bears DT Nick Williams and Buffalo DT Jordan Phillips (each with 4.0).

Atkins has been selected to the Pro Bowl seven times in his nine previous seasons. Those seven selections are the most by a Bengals defensive player in team history, just ahead of CB Lemar Parrish (six). No other Bengals defensive lineman has been selected more than twice. Atkins currently stands at 72 career sacks, the most by a Bengals interior lineman and third overall.

Rookies get the call to start: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor raised more than a few eyebrows at his Aug. 25 news conference, when he named two rookies — WR Damion Willis and G Michael Jordan — as starters for Game 1 at Seattle.

Willis, a college free agent from Troy, now stands as only the 11th rookie WR ever to start an opener for Cincinnati, and the first to do so since A.J. Green in 2011. All 10 previous Bengals receivers to start an opener were drafted in the fourth round or higher.

Here's a look at the 11 Bengals rookie receivers to start the season-opener, along with their eventual rookie season receiving totals.

*—Willis has played five games so far in 2019.

Jordan, a fourth-round pick out of Ohio State, won a training-camp battle for the No. 1 LG position after longtime starter Clint Boling retired in July. Jordan now stands as just the 16th Bengals rookie ever to start along the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to ever do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower.

Here's a look at the 16 Bengals rookie offensive linemen to start a season-opener, along with how many games they ended up starting as a rookie.

*—Jordan has started four of five possible games so far in 2019. He missed Game 3 at Buffalo with a knee injury.

Three Bengals hail from Queen City: The Bengals have three players — LB Preston Brown, DE Sam Hubbard and P Kevin Huber — who grew up in Greater Cincinnati.

Brown, who grew up in College Hill and attended Northwest High School, is in his second year with the Bengals in 2019. He spent his first four NFL seasons with the Buffalo Bills. After signing with Cincinnati as an unrestricted free agent in March of 2018, Brown called the opportunity “living out a dream.”

“When I started looking around (in free agency), I knew there might be a spot here,” Brown said. “And the Bengals definitely jumped to the top of my list when I found out they had interest in me as well.”

After missing nine games due to multiple injuries in his first Bengals season, Brown is now back for Year 2 as a starting LB.

Hubbard, a Moeller High School alum and former Ohio State standout, is now in his second season with the Bengals. A third-round draft pick (77th overall) a year ago, Hubbard followed up a productive rookie season by earning the Bengals' No. 1 RDE spot in preseason. He has a team-high three sacks through five games this season.

“It's insane,” Hubbard said after being drafted by his hometown Bengals. “Seeing that 513 area code pop up on my phone on draft day was just incredible. To get an opportunity to represent the city of Cincinnati one more time, and to do it for the pro team in this city, is a dream come true. I watched every game the Bengals played. I was there when Carson Palmer got hurt in the playoffs (in the 2005 season). I've just always been a big fan.”

Huber, an Anderson Township native and alum of McNicholas High School and the University of Cincinnati, was a fifth-round draft choice of the Bengals in 2009. He has played in all but two games throughout his career in Cincinnati, and he currently stands as the Bengals' career leader in both gross (45.03) and net (39.81) punting average.

Huber and his wife, Mindi, have been active in the local community throughout his Bengals career. The couple started their own charity, The Foundation for Underserved Rescues, which “provides resources and support to underserved Cincinnati-area animal rescues.”

It should also be noted that Bengals have a fourth player with Cincinnati ties. Rookie G Michael Jordan was born in Fairfield, Ohio, just outside of Cincinnati, but his family moved and he attended high school in Michigan.

Bengals draft picks stick in NFL: A familiar trend has emerged this season regarding which teams have the most keen eye for talent in the draft, and the Bengals are again toward the top of the list. As of Monday (10/7), there were 49 players on NFL rosters who entered the NFL as draft picks of the Bengals, three shy of Baltimore for the most of any team in the NFL.

Cincinnati was among the top three teams all of last season as well, and even held a double-digit lead over the second place team early in the year before 13 qualifying players landed on Reserve/Injured. Only players on active 53-man rosters are counted in this data.

Of the 53 players on Cincinnati's active roster on Monday (10/7), 42 entered the NFL with the Bengals — 33 as draft picks, and nine as college free agents. That total includes OT Andre Smith, a Bengals first-round pick in 2009 who later spent time with Minnesota and Arizona before rejoining Cincinnati.

Of the Bengals' 33 draft picks on their roster, seven were first-round picks (including Smith), seven were second-rounders, five were third-rounders, seven were fourth-rounders, two were fifth-rounders, three were sixth-rounders and two were seventh-rounders.

Here's a look at the teams with the most draft picks on an active NFL roster, as of Monday, Oct. 7.

| TEAM | DRAFT PICKS ON NFL ROSTERS |
|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| Baltimore Ravens | 52 |
| Cincinnati Bengals | 49 |
| Seattle Seahawks | 48 |
| New England Patriots | 47 |
| San Francisco 49ers..... | 47 |
| L.A. Rams | 46 |

Bengal bites: Three Bengals on the 53-player roster have changed uniform numbers since preseason — CB Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured) now is No. 24, CB B.W. Webb now is No. 23 and WR Damion Willis now is No. 15 ... The tallest Bengal is QB Jake Dolegala, who is 6-7 ... The shortest Bengal is HB Trayveon Williams, who is 5-8 ... There is a tie for heaviest Bengals player between DT Josh Tupou and OT Cordy Glenn, who are both 345 pounds ... The lightest Bengal is CB Tony McRae, who is 185 pounds ... The oldest Bengal is L.S. Clark Harris, who is 35 (born July 10, 1984) ... The youngest Bengal is G Michael Jordan, who is 21 (Jan. 25, 1998).

BENGALS QUOTES

Bengals president Mike Brown, on head coach Zac Taylor and a young staff of assistant coaches:

“It's new, it's different, and we're going to find out. You'll get a feel for (Taylor) as they go about it. They all have good certifications, good backgrounds, and I'm as interested as anybody to see just how it fits together out on the field and how it all works. It's going to be quite different for us. That's the fact. I think that's what our fans wanted. They felt we needed that. I think maybe they're right in how they feel.”

Head coach Zac Taylor, on handling the offensive play-calling responsibilities:

“It leaves you with a lot on your plate, but at the same time I know what I want this thing to look like. (Offensive coordinator) Brian Callahan and I are in lockstep. We're on the same page, along with all the other coaches in this offense. It may be me calling the plays, but everybody has input. Even at practice, I'm listening to Brian and some of the other coaches talk about ideas. Even though it's coming out of my mouth, it doesn't mean the ideas for play-calls are solely coming from me. (Communication between us) is something we try to iron out in practice — we try to make it as game-like as possible — and it's important that everyone is equally involved."

WR A.J. Green, on new head coach Zac Taylor's approach to team practices:

"Playing with (former Bengals head) coach (Marvin) Lewis, it was all about the defense. You didn't show up the defense at practice. But at OTA No. 1 (this year), Zac was like, 'We're going to kick the defense's butt.' That's what we like to hear on offense. I love the way he teaches. He's not yelling at you — he's teaching every little detail and having you understand why we run it a certain way."

QB Andy Dalton, on the changes that have occurred under new head coach Zac Taylor:

"With Zac getting here and the whole change, and trying to make it feel new and feel different, I think he's done great. From the day he stepped in here, you felt the change. Obviously he had a plan for what he wanted, and they're doing it. You can see it with all the construction (around the building) and the way the staff came together. They're all in for what Zac is wanting to do."

Offensive coordinator Brian Callahan, on the offense being temporarily without A.J. Green, who was injured early in training camp:

"Listen, we all want A.J. out there. Everyone wants him. When you have those guys, you find ways to use them. But there are plenty of instances where you may not have him. You always stay true to what you believe offensively is going to help you win the game. If that involves featuring matchups with a guy as dynamic as A.J., then that's going to be part of it. If we don't have that piece, we will move the pieces around to get us the best matchups that help us win the game. That's what our system is designed to do — move pieces wherever we need them."

Taylor, on WR Auden Tate:

"Where Auden has been consistent is he's got aggressive hands and he's tough. Those are two traits that you love. He's a guy you can find a role for in this offense. He looks like a tight end playing wide receiver. He's physical in the run game, he has a great catch radius, he catches the ones you throw to him, and he's hard to take down. When his number has been called, he's produced for us."

Taylor, on WRs Damion Willis and Stanley Morgan, both rookie CFAs:

"Competitors. They are as competitive as they come. They're natural football players. They make the play whenever the ball is in their vicinity. They love to compete; they love to practice. Those are guys that impress you with the energy they bring to the whole team. Yeah, they're undrafted rookie free agents, but I've really been impressed with them since the first couple of weeks they were here — enough that they're both active right now. You can always ask, 'Do you want to go sign somebody else (a veteran) that you've seen on tape, maybe that's played more in the league?' No. These are guys we believe in, and if we didn't, we wouldn't bring them up (to the active roster) — we'd go get somebody else. But we truly believe in both of those guys."

Taylor, on HB Giovani Bernard, who signed a contract extension on Sept. 3:

"He's consistent with his approach every day. You know what you're getting from him. He's very detailed with his craft — he's a good runner, he's a good receiver and he's a good protector. He fits all three of those traits that you want in a running back, and particularly in a No. 2 running back, because Joe gets the majority of the touches. Gio has always been reliable and goes about it the right way. He sets a great example for the other players on this team. He's very deserving of what he received (with a contract extension) and I'm happy for him."

Taylor, on offensive line coach Jim Turner:

"Our experience working together (in the past) has great value. We see protections the same way, we see the run game the same way (and) the cadences the same way. We are always on the same page. ... I believe in Jim. I've seen him coach for six years live and in person now. I've seen what he has gotten out of players and the way he has developed players. Jim's attention to detail is unmatched. Our offensive linemen are going to be disciplined and know how we want it done. I don't believe in anybody more than I believe in Jim to get that job done."

Offensive line coach Jim Turner, on rookie G Michael Jordan being a starter:

"Mike jumped out at us at Ohio State. He jumped out at us on tape, and I went up there and interviewed him. The scouts loved him, I loved him, and obviously he was the right decision. He's just very smart, very physical, and he's ready to play. He's the guy we think can help us win right now at left guard."

Dalton, on rookie G Michael Jordan being a starter:

"He's going to get a lot of experience early on in his career. He's been great so far. He keeps getting better. One thing about him is that he's a guy with size that can move well too. And he has a good understanding of everything that we're doing. I'm glad for him. He's earned that spot."

Turner, on C Trey Hopkins being a starter:

"We feel like, right now, Trey can help us win at center better than anybody else on our team. As far as the performance of playing center and all the things that go into that position, Trey's got a lot of experience. When you watch the tape over Trey's career, he has done a heck of a job, and he has developed into a heck of a player. We expect a lot out of him now, having given him this responsibility."

HB Joe Mixon, on his approach for the season:

"(I will do) as much as I have to do individually and as much as I can for the team, to put ourselves on top. If it takes 250 (carries), I'm going to take 250. If it takes 400, that's what I'm going to do. At the end of the day, every touch counts. I've always been a one-play-away guy until I just break, and I'll continue to do that. If it takes 400 touches, then that's what I'm going to want."

Taylor, on rookie TE Drew Sample:

"He's a gritty player. He really just has a special knack in all three phases — pass protection, run blocking and being a receiver. (The first preseason game) was his welcome-to-the-NFL moment. I thought he played much better (the next at Washington), and he's only going to improve with every single game he plays against a different defensive line and different linebackers he will have to go against. We are only going to see him improve. I'm very pleased with the direction he is headed in."

Callahan, on TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert:

"There's no question — when we put those guys in different positions in formations, they can do a lot for us both as coverage indicators and as pieces in the passing game. On top of that, they can run block well. We're going to be able to run a lot of different things with them in the lineup."

Tight ends coach James Casey, on using TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert on the field at the same time:

"It opens up so many possibilities with both those guys on the field. I don't think C.J. gets enough credit for how well he runs and catches the ball, and I don't think Tyler gets enough credit for how well he does blocking."

S Shawn Williams, on new defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"There isn't a big difference in the playbook — there's actually a lot of carryover. But there's no gray. I want to say it's simplifying everything, but it's really not, because some aspects are the same. There's no gray, so we can play fast. Everything is simple. No hesitation."

Defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo, on his coaching philosophy:

"It's to make sure that we allow the players to play as fast as possible. Whatever their job description is on a particular play, if it's clear cut, they can do it faster. That's with any job on the planet. If I'm supposed to put concrete over there, I can do it quick. If I'm not sure where to put it, I'm going to do it slower."

Anarumo, on DE Carl Lawson:

"He's a powerful guy. I watched Cam Wake do it for six years (with the Miami Dolphins). Carl has the same body type and can also jack up 300-pound tackles in the run game. And Carl has that same kind explosion. I think Carl's an all-around player and a three-down guy for us, for sure."

Taylor, on DT Andrew Billings:

"Billings has been a consistent player for us. Those D-linemen have played a lot of snaps and Billings is a guy that shows up. He's stout against the run, he gets penetration, and he pushes the quarterbacks out of position."

POSITION BY POSITION

Quarterbacks: Veteran Andy Dalton is in the Bengals' starting QB role for the ninth consecutive season. Through five games, Dalton ranks sixth in the NFL in passing yards (1412), third in attempts (204) and fourth in completions (129). In Week 3 against Buffalo, Dalton rushed for a one-yard touchdown that tied the game at 14 and snapped his two-year drought of being held out of the end zone. More notably, the TD was the 20th of his career (19 rushing, one receiving), which tied QB Ken Anderson for most TDs by a QB in team history. Dalton is now tied with Dallas QB Dak Prescott for the second-most rushing TDs by a QB (19) since 2011. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Dalton posted a season-high 107.6 passer rating, which was his highest output since Sept. 30, 2018 when he notched a 109.5 rating at Atlanta. In the opener at Seattle, he set career-highs in completions (35) and passing yards (418), en route to a 106.5 passer rating. Dalton owns a 68-55-2 regular-season record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.552) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. He stands as the Bengals' all-time leader in career passer rating (88.7) and 300-yard passing games (26), and is second in career completions (2572), passing yards (29,512), passing TDs (195) and completion percentage (62.35). His 195 career TD passes and 108 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.80-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100). Dalton has posted 48 career games with a passer rating at or above 100, and the Bengals' record in those contests is 39-9 (.813). The Bengals traded up in April's draft to select N.C. State's Ryan Finley in the fourth round. Finley jumped from third to second on the Bengals' QB depth chart after a strong preseason in which he notched a 99.3 passer rating. Touted by scouts for his accuracy and football intelligence, Finley left N.C. State with the top career completion percentage (.645) in school history. Despite playing only three seasons (2016-18) at N.C. State, Finley finished his career ranked third in ACC history in both passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard passing games (18). Finley began his college career at Boise State (2013-15), then graduated and played his final three seasons ('16-18) at N.C. State. Perhaps the biggest surprise of training camp was the play of college free agent Jake Dolegala of Central Connecticut State, a tall (6-foot-7), athletic and strong-armed passer who impressed in a little more than one game of action in preseason. Dolegala set school records in college for career passing yards (8129) and TDs (48).

Running backs: HB Joe Mixon now is in his third season with the Bengals, after a 2018 campaign in which he rushed for 1168 yards and became the first Cincinnati RB ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards in a season (Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing as a rookie in 1968). Mixon had his most productive game of the season in Game 5 vs. Arizona, reaching 100 yards from scrimmage (93 rushing, 16 receiving) for the time this season. In Game 3 at Buffalo, Mixon reached the end zone for the first time this season with a one-yard reception in the fourth quarter. In 33 career games (25 starts), Mixon has five 100-yard rushing performances, 11 games of at least 100 yards from scrimmage and the eighth-most rushing yards (2036) since the start of 2017. Also a threat through the air, he has caught 85 career passes for 651 yards and two TDs. A 2017 second-round pick out of Oklahoma, Mixon began his rookie season listed as the Bengals' No. 3 HB, but he worked his way to the No. 1 spot by mid-season. Giovani Bernard, a 2013 second-round pick of the Bengals, again serves in the No. 2 HB role behind Mixon. In the opener at Seattle, Bernard caught two passes for 42 yards, including a 35-yarder on a screen pass, which was his longest gain since 2017 when he had a 61-yard TD catch at Cleveland on Oct. 1. Bernard ranks second in Bengals history in both receptions (277) and receiving yards (2366) by a RB, trailing only James Brooks (297 and 3012). Brooks played seven Bengals seasons (1984-91), and Bernard in 2019 is in his seventh season. Bernard also owns the Bengals' record for receiving yards in a game by a RB (128), which he set in 2015 at Arizona, and his 89-yard TD run vs. Carolina in '14 stands as the second-longest rush in team history. New to the Bengals' backfield this season is rookie sixth-round pick Trayveon Williams of Texas A&M. Williams was inactive for Games 1-2 due to a foot injury suffered in preseason, then was an active/DNP (coach's decision) in Game 3 and inactive again for Games 4-5 (coach's decision). In three seasons at A&M, Williams amassed 4176 yards from scrimmage and 35 total TDs. Last season, Williams led the Southeastern Conference in rushing yards (1760) and TDs (18), while ranking second among SEC running backs in receptions (27) and third in receiving yards (278). Adding depth to the running backs room is HB Samaje

CB B.W. Webb, on defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"Lou is very strategic about what he calls and has a lot of confidence in his players. That's very big for us — for our confidence — when a coach trusts you enough to put you in certain positions against the opponent's best players. He knows what the offense wants to do against us, so he just prepares us throughout the week, and we trust him."

Perine, a waiver acquisition from the Washington Redskins after roster cut-downs. Perine, who has played in all five games this season, has been a regular contributor on special teams, totaling a team-high four tackles. A fourth-round pick of Washington in 2017, Perine rushed for 635 yards and a TD on 183 carries in two seasons with the Redskins. In college at Oklahoma, Perine shared the backfield with Mixon, and the two formed one of college football's most productive running back tandems. In 2014 at Oklahoma, Perine rushed for an NCAA single-game record 427 yards vs. Kansas.

Wide receivers: Tyler Boyd has stepped into the No. 1 receiving role to start the season, while A.J. Green rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in the first practice of training camp. Boyd has gotten off to a fast start in 2019, and is tied for fifth in the NFL in receptions (37) and ranks eighth in receiving yards (406). Boyd's 37 receptions so far are tied for third-most in Bengals history through the first five games of a season. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Boyd led the team in targets, receptions and receiving yards for the second time this season. He hauled in 10 receptions for a season-high 123 yards, and reached the end zone for the first time this season on a 42-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter, which is the second-longest TD catch of this career. He now has five career 100-yard receiving games and three career games with double-digit receptions. Against San Francisco, Boyd collected his first 100-yard receiving game of the season with 122 yards on 10 receptions. Boyd's 1000-yard season in 2018 was the first of his career, and the first by a Bengal other than Green since Chad Johnson in 2009. Boyd has become among the most reliable and productive receivers in the league on third down, and is currently tied for eighth in the NFL with nine third-down receptions. Eight of his nine third-down receptions have converted first downs. In 2018, Boyd tied for the league lead with 22 third-down catches that resulted in first downs, a total that also counted as the most by a Bengal since T.J. Houshmandzadeh's 26 in 2008. Boyd has caught at least one pass in all 45 career games. Originally a 2016 second-round pick of the Bengals, Boyd signed a contract extension in July that will keep him in Cincinnati through the 2023 season. Second-year pro Auden Tate, a 6-5 WR out of Florida State, carved out a roster spot out of training camp for the second straight year, after another strong preseason showing. Against Arizona, Tate recorded his first career touchdown on a two-yard pass from Dalton with 4:11 remaining in the game. In each of the two previous games (Games 3-4), Tate led the team in receptions and receiving yards, combining for 10 catches and 138 yards. Tate made his first NFL start in Game 3 at Buffalo, and posted career-highs in receptions (six) and receiving yards (88). Damion Willis, a college free agent out of Troy who entered training camp as a long shot to even make the roster, was the 11th WR to start a season-opener for the Bengals; all 10 of the previous players to do it were drafted in the fourth round or higher. Willis has played in all five games, made two starts and has nine catches for 82 yards so far this season. Alex Erickson, who has served as the Bengals' No. 1 PR and KOR since joining the team as a CFA in 2016, has seen time throughout his career at both returner spots, WR and emergency RB. Erickson has played in all 53 games of his NFL career and posted 45 catches for 480 yards and a TD. After making a seven-yard reception that resulted in a first down, Erickson left Game 5 vs. Arizona and was placed in concussion protocol. He did not return to the game and his status for Week 6 at Baltimore is not yet known. Stanley Morgan, a 2019 college free agent signee out of Nebraska, was signed from the practice squad to the active roster on Oct. 2. He made his NFL debut in Game 5 vs. Arizona, and notched his first career reception with a six-yard catch in the second quarter. Morgan spent four seasons (2015-18) at Nebraska, and set school records in career receptions (189) and receiving yards (2747). Regarding ninth-year wideout Green, his climb up the Bengals' record books is temporarily on hold, while he rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in Cincinnati's first training camp practice. Green has not yet played in 2019, and Bengals head coach Zac Taylor says there is no specific timeline for Green's return. Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury to just nine games, and for the first time in his eight seasons, missed out on earning a Pro Bowl nod. Green, though, still stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to start his career with seven consecutive Pro Bowl nominations. Green's seven Pro Bowl selections are tied with DT Geno Atkins for second in Bengals history, behind HOF OT Anthony Munoz (11). Despite limited action in 2018, Green finished second on the team in receptions (46), receiving yards (694) and receiving TDs (six); it was the first time in his eight seasons he did not lead the team in receptions and receiving yards. Green currently ranks second in team history in receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907); Chad Johnson, who played 10 seasons with the Bengals, is first in both categories (751 and 10,783). Green is the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), after passing Johnson (31) last season.

Tight ends: Fifth-year pro C.J. Uzomah, who signed a three-year contract extension (through 2021) with the Bengals over the offseason, has started all five games this season, and is listed as the No. 1 TE on the Bengals' depth chart. To this point, Uzomah has six receptions for 82 yards, including a season-high four catches for career-high 66 yards in Game 1 at Seattle. Last season, Uzomah notched career-highs in catches (43), receiving yards (439) and TDs (three). Tyler Eifert entered 2019 healthy, after being limited to just 14 games from 2016-18 due to back and ankle injuries. Eifert, whose season ended after four games last season due to a serious ankle injury, has played in all five games so far this season, and has 13 catches for 95 yards and a TD. In Game 2 against San Francisco, Eifert collected a one-yard TD in the first quarter, which was his first time reaching the end zone since his 15-yard score against the Atlanta Falcons on Sept. 30, 2018. When healthy, Eifert has proved to be among the top pass-catching TEs in the NFL. In 2015, Eifert caught 13 TDs (in just 13 games), the most ever by a Bengals TE. Cincinnati invested a second-round pick in April's draft in Drew Sample of Washington, who was touted by scouts as a well-rounded prospect who excels in the blocking game. Sample has seen action in all five games this season, and has two catches for 25 yards. In college, Sample was a key part of a blocking effort that helped Washington RB Myles Gaskin top 1200 rushing yards and score double-digit TDs in each of his four seasons. Cethan Carter, a third-year player out of Nebraska, is healthy again this year after missing all of 2018 with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason finale. Carter has appeared in each of the Bengals' five games this season, with most of his action coming on special teams.

Offensive linemen: Rookie G Michael Jordan, a Bengals fourth-round pick and the youngest player on the roster (turns 22 in January), is listed as the Bengals No. 1 LG this season. Jordan entered training camp as a long shot for the job, with several veterans in front of him, but strong performances in practices and preseason games prompted Zac Taylor to announce Jordan as a starter on Aug. 25, prior to the final preseason game. In the season-opener at Seattle, Jordan became just the 16th Bengals rookie to start on the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower. He has appeared in four games this season, missing Game 3 at Buffalo with a left knee injury. Jordan, a three-year starter in college at Ohio State, is one of only six players, and the first offensive lineman since Pro Football Hall of Famer Orlando Pace in 1994, to ever start an opening game as a true freshman at OSU. At RG this season is John Miller, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first four seasons with the Buffalo Bills. At 6-3, 315, Miller is considered a powerful run-blocker and helped the Bills rank in the top 10 in rushing offense in each of his four seasons with the team. In 47 career starts with the Bills, Miller helped the team top 100 net yards rushing 33 times, and top 200 yards 10 times. Miller has now started all 52 games of his career, including five this season. Between Jordan and Miller at center is veteran Trey Hopkins, who won the starting center job after a strong preseason. Hopkins, now in his sixth season in Cincinnati, is known for his intelligence, versatility (has started all three interior OL spots during his career) and experience (26 career starts). Bobby Hart again holds down the ROT position, and has started all 21 games in his Bengals career. Hart was originally a seventh-round pick of the N.Y. Giants in 2015 and spent his first three seasons there before joining Cincinnati in the '18 offseason. The Bengals invested a first-round pick in OT Jonah Williams of Alabama, who was slated as the 2019 starter at LOT, but a shoulder injury suffered in OTAs will cause Williams to miss most or all of his rookie season (currently on Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform). Instead, veteran Cordy Glenn, last year's No. 1 LOT who had been slated to move inside to LG, returns back outside to LOT. Glenn, who has played all 91 of his career NFL games at LOT, was acquired in a trade with Buffalo during the 2018 offseason. Glenn, though, suffered a concussion in preseason and has not yet played this season. Glenn's status for Game 6 at Baltimore is unknown. Providing depth at all of the interior offensive line positions is former first-round pick Billy Price, who was selected 21st overall out of Ohio State in 2018. Price played last season as the Bengals' No. 1 C but was limited to just 10 games by a foot injury. Price has seen action in all five games, including Game 3 at Buffalo, where he made his first start of the season and first professional start at LG, subbing for the injured Jordan. Backing up both OT positions is veteran Andre Smith, the Bengals' 2009 first-round draft choice. Smith, who has replaced Glenn as the starting LOT in Games 1-5, left Game 5 vs. Arizona with a left ankle injury and did not return. His status for Week 6 at Baltimore in unknown. Smith, who has played the majority of his 10 NFL seasons with Cincinnati, re-signed with the Bengals as a free agent on July 25. His career totals include 115 games played and 98 starts, with 103 of those contests coming with the Bengals. Also providing depth at G and OT is veteran John Jerry, who signed with the Bengals in June after Williams' injury. Jerry has seen time in Games 2-5, and has filled in as an injury replacement at OT. Jerry has experience under offensive line coach Jim Turner and head coach Zac Taylor with the Miami Dolphins. Jerry has played in 125 career games, with 101 starts, and has twice filled in as a starter at LOT in previous seasons. G Alex Redmond returned to the active roster on Oct. 7, after serving a suspension for Games 1-4 due to a violation of the NFL's policy on performance-enhancing substances. Redmond started 15 games at RG last season for the Bengals.

Defensive linemen: Considered one of the top interior defensive linemen in football, 10th-year DT Geno Atkins again anchors the Bengals' defensive line and continues his climb up the Bengals' all-time sack list. Atkins recorded his first sack of the season against Buffalo (a two-yard loss), bringing his career total to 72 sacks, third-most in team history, most by a Bengals interior lineman and 11.5 shy of the all-time lead. Atkins in 2018 led the Bengals in sacks (10) for the fifth time in his career. In his nine previous seasons, Atkins has finished in at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior defensive lineman five different times — he claimed it outright three times (2012, '16, '17) and shared it twice ('11 and '15). Atkins has 12 career games with more than one sack, and the Bengals are 8-4 in those contests, including 6-2 since 2015 and 3-0 last season. Atkins' seven Pro Bowl selections are the most ever by a Bengals defensive player, and tied with teammate A.J. Green for the second-most in team history behind Hall of Fame OT Anthony Munoz (11). Standing in second place on the Bengals' all-time career sack list is 10th-year DE Carlos Dunlap, whose 73.5 sacks stand 1.5 ahead of Atkins and just 10 shy of all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). Dunlap has one sack this season, which he registered in Game 1 at Seattle. Dunlap has 16 career games with more than one sack, and the Bengals are 10-6 in those contests, including 7-1 since the beginning of 2015. Also considered one of the NFL's most proficient defensive linemen at batting down passes, Dunlap's 30 PDs from 2016-18 were the most in the NFL among non-defensive backs. In 2016, he became the first-ever defensive lineman to lead the Bengals in passes defended (15). And in 2015, Dunlap's career-best 13.5 sacks were the second-most in a season in Bengals history. Fourth-year DT Andrew Billings lines up as Cincinnati's No. 1 NT for the second straight season. Last season, Billings started all 16 games and totaled 32 tackles and 2.5 sacks. Billings has played in every game this season, and has started the last three contests at NT. Second-year DE Sam Hubbard, a Cincinnati native (Archbishop Moeller High School), has taken over at RDE this season. So far in 2019, Hubbard leads all Bengals defensive linemen in tackles (32) and sacks (three). Versus Arizona, Hubbard totaled five tackles, including his third sack (a five-yard loss) of the season. In Game 3 at Buffalo, Hubbard posted six tackles (five solo) and collected his second career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after stripping the ball from Bills RB T.J. Yeldon. Hubbard made his first career start in the opener at Seattle, and recorded a team-high 10 tackles, including two sacks of Seahawks QB Russell Wilson. Third-year DE Carl Lawson, considered one of the Bengals' most talented young defenders, returned to action this season after having his 2018 campaign cut short by a torn ACL in his right knee. Lawson has played in three of the five games this season, and returned to action in Week 5 vs. Arizona after missing Games 3-4 with a right hamstring injury. Lawson turned heads in 2017, when his 8.5 sacks led all NFL rookies and tied for the second-most ever by a Bengals rookie. Third-year DT Ryan Glasgow, who also suffered a torn ACL in his right knee early last season, has played in three of the five games this season. He returned to action in Game 5 vs. Arizona after missing Games 3-4 with a thigh injury. Glasgow is considered a valuable rotational player on the interior of the defensive line, and has six tackles this season. New to the roster this season is veteran DE Kerry Wynn, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first five seasons with the N.Y. Giants. Wynn played in 63 career games (15 starts) for the Giants, and totaled 122 tackles and 4.5 sacks. Wynn played in Games 1-2, but missed Games 3-5 due to a concussion. Wynn's status for Game 6 at Baltimore is unknown. The only rookie on the defensive line entering 2019 is DT Renell Wren, a fourth-round pick out of Arizona State. Wren has played in three games (Game 1 and Games 3-4) so far this season, and has one solo tackle. At a massive 6-5, 318 pounds, Wren totaled 14.5 tackles for losses and three sacks in four seasons at ASU. Veteran DT Josh Tupou, who is tied for the heaviest Bengal on the roster, adds a massive run-stuffing presence to the middle of the Bengals' defensive line. After missing the final six games of 2018 due to a torn pectoral muscle, Tupou has appeared in all five games this season, and he made his first career start in Week 3 at Buffalo. Rounding out the Bengals' defensive line is DE Andrew Brown, a 2018 Bengals fifth-round draft pick out of Virginia who made the roster this year after spending his rookie season on Cincinnati's practice squad and Practice Squad/Injured list (hand). After being inactive for the first two games this season, Brown has logged time in Games 3-5, and made a career-high three tackles against Buffalo. Brown was the Gatorade National Player of the Year coming out of high school in 2013, and totaled 26.5 TFLs and 10.5 sacks in four seasons at UVA.

Linebackers: The Bengals' linebackers are led in 2019 by fourth-year pro Nick Vigil, who has started all five games at LB this season, and has 38 tackles to lead the position group. For the first time in his career, Vigil has posted double-digit tackles in consecutive weeks, and has led the team in tackles in back-to-back weeks (11, Game 4 at Pittsburgh and 13, Game 5 vs. Arizona). In addition to his 11 tackles in Game 3, Vigil collected his first career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after jarring the ball loose from Steelers WR Diontae Johnson. Vigil now has seven career games with double-digit tackles. Last season, Vigil finished third on the team in tackles (84), despite missing five games due to a knee injury. Lining up next to Vigil is sixth-year pro and Cincinnati native (Northwest High School) Preston Brown, who is in his second season with the Bengals. Brown has started all five games this season, and has 35 total tackles. Brown recovered a fumble and totaled two special teams tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, he recorded a team-high 14 tackles, and in Game 1 at Seattle, he had four tackles and forced a fumble (Bengals recovered). When healthy, Brown has proved to be one of the NFL's most productive tacklers, after recording an NFL-best 504 combined tackles from 2014-17. Third-year pro Jordan Evans, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen time mainly as a rotational linebacker over his three seasons in Cincinnati, with 34 games played and nine starts. Evans this year has contributed mainly on special teams, making two tackles. The Bengals this year invested a third-round draft pick on Germaine Pratt of North Carolina State, who began his college career at S before switching to LB. Thus far, Pratt has appeared in each of the five games and totaled five tackles, and one special teams tackle. Last season was Pratt's first as a starting LB, and he ended up leading the Wolfpack in tackles (104) and earning first-team All-ACC honors. LaRoy Reynolds, the newest Bengals LB, joins the club after signing as a free agent on Sept. 10. Since being acquired, Reynolds has appeared in all four possible games, and has three tackles. Reynolds, a seventh-year player out of the University of Virginia, has previously spent time with the Jaguars, Bears, Falcons and Eagles. For his career, Reynolds has 88 career games played (seven starts) with 84 tackles and two fumble recoveries.

Defensive backs: Considered one of Cincinnati's top young defenders, William Jackson III is in his fourth season as a Bengal, and second as a full-time starting CB. Jackson, the Bengals' first-round pick in 2016, collected his second career interception in Week 2 with a 19-yard pick off of San Francisco QB Jimmy Garoppolo. His other career INT is a 75-yard pick-six of Packers QB Aaron Rodgers in 2017. Manning the other starting CB spot for the fifth straight season is Dre Kirkpatrick, a first-round pick of the Bengals in 2012. Kirkpatrick got off to a strong start in the season-opener in Seattle, posting five tackles, including a sack, along with a fumble recovery. Since then, Kirkpatrick has posted at least six tackles in each of the last four games, marking the first time he's collected six or more tackles in four consecutive games. Kirkpatrick struggled with a shoulder injury late last season and missed three games, but he's proven mostly durable over his career, playing in 95 of the last 101 possible games (including postseason). Kirkpatrick has 10 career INTs, one behind teammate Shawn Williams (11) for the lead among active Bengals. Williams, a 2013 third-round draft pick, fills a starting S position for the fourth straight season. Through five games, Williams is the team leader in tackles (43), and has posted nine or more tackles in four straight games. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Williams collected his fourth career double-digit tackle game and made 12 stops, one shy of tying his career-high. Williams posted a team-high nine tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. At the other safety spot is second-year pro Jessie Bates III. After leading the team in tackles (111) a year ago, Bates currently has the third-most tackles on the team at 36. Against Pittsburgh, Bates collected his first career fumble recovery in the first quarter after Vigil knocked the ball loose. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, Bates collected his fourth career double-digit tackle performance (10). At nickel DB, the Bengals turn to veteran CB B.W. Webb. Webb has appeared in four of the five games this season, despite playing with a right arm injury that he suffered in Game 2. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Webb had two tackles and two passes defended, including a pass deflection on third-and-10, which forced a Cardinals punt late in the fourth quarter. The stop led to the offense scoring the game-tying TD with 2:03 left in game. An unrestricted free agent signee over the offseason, Webb has spent time with the N.Y. Giants (2018), Cleveland ('17), New Orleans ('16), Tennessee ('15), Pittsburgh ('14) and Dallas ('13). Last season with the Giants, Webb's defensive backs coach was current Bengals defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. Adding depth at safety is Clayton Fejedelem, a seventh-round pick of the Bengals in 2016 who has become a core special teams player and valuable reserve on defense. Fejedelem has played in all 53 possible games over his career (six starts), and he's led the Bengals in special teams tackles in each of his first three seasons. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen limited time on defense throughout his career but is considered a valuable part of Cincinnati's special teams units. Against Arizona, Wilson took his first three kickoff returns of the season after the injury to Erickson. He returned all three for a total of 97 yards (32.3 avg.). In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Wilson saw extended action on defense and made back-to-back tackles for losses on a third and fourth down, forcing a Steelers turnover on downs. In Game 3, Wilson forced a fumble by Bills QB Josh Allen, but it was deemed that the ball was recovered by the Bengals out of bounds. CB Tony McRae, a rotational defensive player and special teams regular, also returns in 2019. McRae has played in 21 career games for Cincinnati, and has nine tackles on defense and 10 on special teams. Also new to the defensive backfield is CB Torry McTyer, who the Bengals signed from the Kansas City Chiefs' practice squad on Sept. 26. McTyer, a third-year player out of Nevada-Las Vegas, was originally a college free agent signee of the Miami Dolphins in 2017, and has previous experience playing under secondary/cornerbacks coach Daronte Jones and defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. He received his first playing time of the season on special teams in Game 5 vs. Arizona. McTyer has played in 23 career games, and has 30 tackles and three passes defended.

Special teams: WR Alex Erickson has held the Bengals' No. 1 PR and KOR positions since joining the team as a CFA in 2016. Erickson, though, has seen more action at WR early this season due to injuries at that position group, and had been taken off of KOR return duty until CB Darius Phillips, who saw a bulk of the KOR duty early in the season, landed on Reserve/Injured with a knee injury. After making a seven-yard catch to convert a first down in the second quarter vs. Arizona, Erickson left the game and was placed in concussion protocol. His status for Week 6 at Baltimore is not known. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh — his first action returning kickoffs this season — Erickson had two returns for 44 yards, including a 25-yard return in the second quarter. Erickson also has posted 52 yards on seven punt returns this year. Last season, Erickson averaged 26.2 yards on kickoff returns, and his 1049 kickoff return yards were second-most in the NFL. Erickson also averaged a career-best 10.6 yards per punt return last season. As a rookie in 2016, Erickson posted an AFC-best 27.9-yard average on kickoff returns, the second-best mark in team history. Eighth-year pro Randy Bullock has served as the Bengals' placekicker since midway through the 2016 season, when he joined Cincinnati on waivers from Pittsburgh. Bullock is eight-for-eight so far this season on PATs, and eight-for-10 on FG attempts. Handling punting duties again this season is 11th-year pro Kevin Huber, the longest-tenured Bengal on the roster. Huber, a Cincinnati native (McNicholas High School), stands as the Bengals' career leader in every significant punting category, including punts (791), punting yards (35,616) gross average (45.03), net average (39.81) and inside-20 punts (272). He also shares the franchise record for longest punt (75), and owns the Bengals' best career ratio for inside-20s to touchbacks (4.25-to-1; 272-64). Huber, who also serves as the holder for placekicks, has played in 168 of 170 possible games (including postseason) since joining the team as a fifth-round draft pick in 2009. LS Clark Harris, the oldest Bengal on the roster at 35, has served as the Bengals' long snapper since midway through the 2009 season. Harris has been a paragon of reliability throughout his career in Cincinnati, with no unplayable snaps in 1469 attempts as a Bengal (788 punts, 681 placekicks). In 2017, Harris became the first-ever Bengals long snapper to earn a Pro Bowl nod. Harris has also been solid in kick coverage throughout his time in Cincinnati, with 33 career special teams tackles. The Bengals return three of their top four special teams tacklers from a year ago, including S Clayton Fejedelem, whose 13 tackles led the team. Fejedelem led the Bengals in special teams snaps in each of his first three seasons (2016-18) and led the team in special teams tackles in each of the last two seasons. Fejedelem has made a mark on special teams outside of kick coverage as well — last season, he had a blocked punt and ran for a first down on a fake punt. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick out of Houston, ranked second in special teams tackles last year. Known for his speed, Wilson excels on coverage teams. He received his first opportunity at returning kicks in Game 5 vs. Arizona, and had three returns for a total of 97 yards (32.3 avg.). Wilson's special teams ability was on full display in Game 2 vs. San Francisco, when he collected a team-high two special teams tackles. CB Tony McRae, who ranked fourth on the team in special teams tackles last season, is also known for his speed and figures to contribute heavily on punt and kick coverage.

2018 BENGALS-RAVENS MEETINGS

2018 SEASON
WEEK 2, GAME 2

Cincinnati Bengals 34, Baltimore Ravens 23
Thursday night, Sept. 13, 2018 at Paul Brown Stadium

The Bengals scored 28 first-half points, including TD passes by QB Andy Dalton on four of the team's first five possessions, and then held on late for the win. Three of Dalton's TDs went to WR A.J. Green, who had the first three-TD game of his decorated career. The Bengals held the Ravens without a sack despite 42 pass attempts by Dalton, who finished with a 107.7 passer rating. The Bengals' defense allowed 425 total yards, but it had four sacks and three takeaways. S Shawn Williams made perhaps the game's biggest play when he sacked Ravens QB Joe Flacco and forced a fumble the Bengals recovered with 2:52 left. K Randy Bullock's ensuing 40-yard FG extended the Bengals' lead to 11 and secured the win. The Bengals improved to 2-0, while the Ravens fell to 1-1.

2018 SEASON
WEEK 11, GAME 10

Baltimore Ravens 24, Cincinnati Bengals 21
Sunday, Nov. 18, 2018 at M&T Bank Stadium

Bengals head coach Marvin Lewis took over as defensive coordinator in the game, and while the change didn't produce immediate dramatic results with respect to yardage given up — the Ravens gained 403 total yards — Lewis and Bengals players left the game optimistic that the defense was headed in the right direction. Cincinnati played without seven-time Pro Bowl WR A.J. Green for the second straight game, and his absence was noticeable, as the Bengals totaled just 255 net yards against a Ravens defense that entered the game No. 2 in the NFL in both yards and points allowed. Cincinnati totaled just 48 net yards rushing, while giving up 265 to Baltimore, including 117 to Ravens rookie QB Lamar Jackson, who was making his first NFL start. The Bengals had an opportunity to tie or go ahead when they received their last possession with 2:45 left, but gained just one first down before surrendering the possession on downs. The game left both teams at 5-5.

2019 GAME SUMMARIES

WEEK 1, GAME 1

Seattle Seahawks 21, Cincinnati Bengals 20 Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 at CenturyLink Field

Cincinnati outgained Seattle by 196 net yards (395-161), recorded 10 more first downs (22-12) and held more than a 10-minute advantage in time of possession (35:50-24:10), but the Bengals ultimately were inefficient in converting yards into points and lost their first game under new head coach Zac Taylor. The Bengals scored just one FG in three trips inside the Seahawks' red zone in the game. And in the third quarter alone, three times Cincinnati reached Seattle's 36-yard line or farther (36, 27 and 12) and came away with no points (the drives ended on a fumble, a missed FG and a turnover on downs). Seattle, however, scored TDs on three of their four drives into Cincinnati territory overall, including two TDs on their only two trips inside the Bengals' red-zone. QB Andy Dalton had career highs in yards (418) and completions (35) in 51 attempts, tossed two long TDs to WR John Ross III, and had a 106.5 passer rating. Ross had career highs in catches (seven) and receiving yards (158), and his TDs came on passes of 55 and 33 yards. The Bengals' defense enjoyed a solid game overall, recording four sacks and holding the Seahawks, who led the NFL in rushing in 2018, to just 72 yards on the ground. Seahawks QB Russell Wilson, however, stung the Bengals with a 44-yard TD pass to WR Tyler Lockett on the first play of the fourth quarter for what ultimately were the game's winning points.

WEEK 2, GAME 2

San Francisco 49ers 41, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Sept. 15, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

The game started poorly right away for Cincinnati — a penalty erased a kickoff return, followed by a sack, then by a fumble on QB-RB exchange for no gain, then a failed third-down conversion attempt, and then a punt that barely made it to midfield. And, largely, the game was all downhill from there for the Bengals. The 49ers scored TDs on three of their first four drives to jump out to a 21-7 first-half lead and never looked back. San Francisco beat the Cincinnati soundly on both sides of the ball, outgaining the Bengals in total net yards 572-316, including 259-25 rushing. There were some individual positives for Cincinnati, as WR Tyler Boyd had 10 catches for 122 yards, and WR John Ross III had four catches for 112 yards and a TD. The 49ers improved to 2-0. The Bengals fell to 0-2.

Pittsburgh Steelers 27, Cincinnati Bengals 3
Monday night, Sept. 30, 2019 at Heinz Field

A FG by K Randy Bullock gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead after one quarter of the 100th meeting between the Bengals and Steelers, but Pittsburgh scored 27 unanswered points in the final three quarters and cruised to a dominant 27-3 win on Monday Night Football. Both teams entered the matchup 0-3, and the Steelers were without QB Ben Roethlisberger (Reserve/Injured; elbow) for the first time in a game against the Bengals since 2003. But Roethlisberger's replacement, QB Mason Rudolph, filled in admirably, completing 24 of 28 passes for 229 yards, two TDs and no INTs (124.6 passer rating). His top two targets were RBs James Conner and Jaylen Samuels, who combined for 16 catches for 140 yards and one TD receiving. Samuels also added another TD rushing. Bengals QB Andy Dalton was sacked eight times, the most in his nine-year career, and Cincinnati's offense gained just 175 total net yards. It was the eighth straight win in the series for the Steelers, who improved to 1-3. The Bengals fell to 0-4.

WEEK 3, GAME 3

Buffalo Bills 21, Cincinnati Bengals 17
Sunday, Sept. 22, 2019 at New Era Field

Cincinnati's offense stalled for nearly the entirety of the first two quarters en route to a 14-0 halftime deficit, and the early ineffectiveness ultimately doomed the Bengals' late efforts for a comeback win against an undefeated Buffalo team in a stadium packed with rowdy Bills fans. The Bengals, who failed to produce a first down until the two-minute warning of the first half, had just 76 total net yards at intermission. Still, when they kick-started their offense in the second half, the Bengals scored 17 unanswered points to take a 17-14 lead with just under five minutes left. The Bills, however, responded with a late seven-play, 78-yard drive, which was highlighted by a 49-yard pass from QB Josh Allen to TE Dawson Knox in which Knox stiff-armed and bulldozed his way deep into Bengals territory, and ended in a one-yard TD run by RB Frank Gore. QB Andy Dalton drove the Bengals 42 yards to the Bills' 28-yard line with 20 seconds left, but his next pass bounced off the outstretched hand of WR Auden Tate and was intercepted by Buffalo CB Tre'Davious White to seal the Bills' win. The Bengals fell to 0-3, while the Bills improved to 3-0.

WEEK 5, GAME 5

Arizona Cardinals 26, Cincinnati Bengals 23
Sunday, Oct. 6, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

Behind 23-9 midway through the fourth quarter, the Bengals rallied to tie the game on a 42-yard TD pass from QB Andy Dalton to WR Tyler Boyd with 1:41 remaining. But Cardinals rookie QB and No. 1 overall draft pick Kyle Murray led Arizona on a six-play, 62-yard drive that ended with a Zane Gonzalez FG as time expired, and Arizona escaped Paul Brown Stadium with a 26-23 win. Despite allowing 514 total yards, including 266 rushing yards and a 7.0-yard rushing average, the Bengals' defense was stout in the red zone, keeping the game close by allowing the Cardinals just one TD on six trips inside the 20. Despite not having two of his top three receivers — John Ross and A.J. Green, both out due to injury — Dalton completed 71.1 percent of his passes (27 of 38) and leaned heavily on Boyd, who totaled 10 receptions for 123 yards and a TD. The Bengals fell to 0-5, while Arizona improved to 1-3-1.
