WEEKLY NEWS RELEASE

NOV. 5, 2019

BALTIMORE RAVENS (6-2) AT CINCINNATI BENGALS (0-8)

WEEK 10, GAME 9
SUNDAY, NOV. 10
AT PAUL BROWN STADIUM

NEXT WEEK:
NOV. 17 AT OAKLAND

GAME NOTES

Kickoff: 1 p.m. Eastern.

Television: The game will air on CBS-TV. In the Bengals' home region, it will be carried by WKRC-TV (Ch. 12) in Cincinnati, WHIO-TV (Ch. 7) in Dayton and on WKYT-TV (Ch. 27) in Lexington. Broadcasters are Kevin Harlan (play-by-play), Rich Gannon (analyst) and Jay Feely (sideline reporter).

Radio: The game will air on the Bengals Radio Network, led by Cincinnati flagship stations WLW-AM (700), WCKY-AM (ESPN 1530; all sports) and WEBN-FM (102.7). Broadcasters are Dan Hoard (play-by-play) and Dave Lapham (analyst).

Setting the scene: The Bengals this week enter the second half of their 2019 season when they host the Baltimore Ravens on Sunday at Paul Brown Stadium. Cincinnati is still in search of its first win, after starting 0-8.

"I'm not discouraged," said Bengals head coach Zac Taylor. "It's frustrating the way the season has gone to this point, but I'm not in the least bit discouraged with the guys. I do feel like we're close (to getting a win). People probably don't want to hear that, but we're giving ourselves a chance.

"This bye came at the right time for us. We had a chance to take a couple days off, get healthy, free up our minds a little bit, and then come back and start the second half of the season."

And while the Bengals did use their bye week to refresh and regroup, they also seized an opportunity to make a significant and noteworthy change. Two days after the Bengals fell 24-10 to the L.A. Rams at Wembley Stadium in London, Taylor announced that rookie Ryan Finley would take over as starting QB in place of ninth-year veteran Andy Dalton, the team's all-time leader in passer rating (88.0) and winning percentage as a starter (.539; 68-58-2).

"I spent a lot of time (thinking about it) the last couple of days," Taylor said shortly after announcing his decision. "We talked about it as a staff, but ultimately it's my decision. I'm the one that brought it up, and I'm the one that felt like we needed a change.

"We want to win the next eight games. Andy would give us a chance to do that, but I just felt like now is the time. I don't think there's ever a good time (to make a QB change), but it's the bye week, so now we give Ryan a little more time to grasp it and get ready for the next opponent. If we're going to do it, let's go ahead and make the switch, get behind Ryan and try to go win these next couple games."

Against the Rams, Dalton tied former QB Ken Anderson for the team's all-time lead in passing TDs (197). He even took the lead outright for a brief moment late in the game, but a replay review reversed what had been called a TD pass to WR Auden Tate, erasing the score from the board and out of the record books.

But while he doesn't figure to get a shot at topping Anderson's record in this week's contest, Dalton said his focus has shifted to helping Finley's transition.

"I'm going to do my part," Dalton said of his new role. "I'm here, and so I'm going to help Ryan the best I can. Ryan was one of the first people I reached out to (after the decision was made). This has nothing to do with Ryan. He and I have been close ever since he's been here, and we've built up a really good friendship. I don't want Ryan to think I have any ill will toward him. He didn't do anything wrong. All he did was be here, and show up and do things the right way, and they want to give him an opportunity.

"I'm going to help him out. I've seen a lot of football. We have a lot of division games coming up, and I understand how all these defenses have played us and their scheme. So I'll help him from that standpoint."

Finley, a rookie fourth-round pick out of North Carolina State, drew the attention of onlookers after a strong preseason in which he completed 73.4 percent of his passes (47 of 64), tossed three TDs and posted a 99.3 passer rating.

"I'm sad for Andy, but I'm excited for this opportunity," Finley said. "I'm just going to have fun with it, execute and do whatever I can to help this team win.

"Andy's been unbelievable. He's a really good dude. He's a class act. He's special to me. I look up to him a ton. I can't imagine how hard this is for him. He texted me (after the decision was made) and said he's got my back."

Finley's first test comes in the form of the AFC North-leading Ravens, a team with a long history of stout defenses.

"It will be fun," he said when asked about the challenge his first opponent presents. "It's part of the game. I just have to get thrown in there and figure it out. I have a lot of guys around me that know what they're doing, and I feel more confident because of that."

Baltimore enters Sunday's matchup 6-2, after topping the previously undefeated New England Patriots at home last week on Sunday Night Football.

The series: Baltimore leads the series, 24-23.

Here are some series notes:

- When Cincinnati took a 23-22 series lead in Week 2 last season, it was the first time the Bengals had led the series since after the first of two meetings of 1998, when they were up 3-2. That lead didn't last long, however, as the Ravens now have won two straight and recaptured a one-game advantage.

- A Ravens win on Sunday would give Baltimore its first season sweep over Cincinnati since 2011. The Bengals' most recent sweep of the Ravens was in 2015.

- It hasn't been an easy series for the visiting team. The Ravens lead 16-8 in Baltimore, and the Bengals lead 15-8 in Cincinnati.

- Since 2010, 14 of the teams' 19 meetings have been one-score decisions, by eight or fewer points.

Complete Bengals-Ravens series results are on page 206 of the 2019 Bengals Media Guide.

Team bests from the series:

Bengals — MOST POINTS: 42, in a 42-29 win in 2005 at Paul Brown Stadium. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 17, in a 34-17 win at Paul Brown Stadium in the 2013 regular-season finale. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 7 (three times), most recently in a 17-7 win in 2009 at Paul Brown Stadium.

Ravens — MOST POINTS: 44, in a 44-13 win at M&T Bank Stadium in 2012. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 37, in a 37-0 win at Baltimore in 2000. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 0 (four times), most recently on Sept. 10 in the Ravens' 20-0 win in the 2017 season-opener at Cincinnati.

The last meeting: A summary of the last Bengals-Ravens meeting — on Oct. 13 at Baltimore — is on page 17 of this news release.

Turnover margin is key vs. Ravens: In the 36 all-time Bengals-Ravens meetings in which the turnover differential has not been even (1995-present), the team who wins the turnover battle has posted a 31-5 record.

Putting it another way, the Bengals are 14-3 against the Ravens with a plus turnover differential, and 2-17 with a minus. Looking at it from Baltimore's point of view, the Ravens are 17-2 with a plus and 3-14 with a minus.

Cincinnati leads 7-4 in games against Baltimore in which the turnover margin was even. The Raven's 23-17 victory on Oct. 13 earlier this season was one of those even-margin meetings.

Bengals career records watch: Here is a look at potential upcoming movement in the Bengals' career records book (regular season):

- WR A.J. Green has 63 career receiving TDs, three behind WR Chad Johnson (66) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
• Green has 63 total TDs, one short of WR Carl Pickens and RB James Brooks (both with 64) for third place all-time.
• Bengals S Brandon Wilson has one career kickoff return for a TD, one shy S/CB Tremain Mack (two) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
• Bengals WR Alex Erickson has 96 career punt returns, two shy of CB Adam Jones (98) for fourth place all-time.
• Erickson has 742 career punt return yards, 42 shy of Casanova (784) for fifth place all-time.
• Erickson has 103 career kickoff returns, 12 shy of FB Eric Ball (115) for fifth place all-time.
• DT Geno Atkins has 74 career sacks, 9.5 shy of DE Eddie Edwards* (83.5) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
• Dunlap has 73.5 career sacks, 0.5 short of Atkins (74) for second place all-time.
• QB Andy Dalton has 197 career TD passes, tied with QB Ken Anderson (197) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
• Dalton has 2647 career completions, seven shy of Anderson (2654) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
• Dalton has 4259 career pass attempts, 216 behind Anderson (4475) for the Bengals' all-time lead.

*—The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Records vs. Ravens: In the first Bengals-Ravens game, Nov. 3, 1996 at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, head coach Bruce Coslet's Bengals overcame what still stands today as the largest deficit (18 points) to win a road game in franchise history. The Ravens led 21-3 at halftime, but Cincinnati rallied for a 24-21 win on a 39-yard Doug Pelfrey field goal at the final gun.

The Bengals' second-biggest comeback in a road win also was at Baltimore. On Dec. 5, 2004 at M&T Bank Stadium, Cincinnati rallied from a 20-3 deficit to win 27-26. Also:

- Shayne Graham kicked a Bengals-record seven field goals — for all of Cincinnati's scoring — in a 21-7 win at Baltimore in 2007. Graham did not have a missed attempt. The NFL record for field goals in a game is eight, set by Rob Bironas of Tennessee in 2007, and Graham is one of eight players sharing second place with seven.

- In the 2014 season opener at Baltimore, Bengals K Mike Nugent tied the NFL record for field goals in a half (five). His five in the first half gave the Bengals a 15-0 lead toward an eventual 23-16 win.
• WR A.J. Green's 227 receiving yards at Baltimore in 2015 stands as second most in a game in team history, behind only Chad Johnson's 260 vs. San Diego in 2006.
• In 2008 against the Ravens in Cincinnati, P Kyle Larson punted 11 times, which is tied with three other instances for most in a game in team history. Larson's 480 yards punting that day also stand as the third-most for a single game in Bengals history.
• The Bengals record for kickoff return yardage in a game (228 yards) was set at Baltimore by Brandon Bennett in 2002. Bennett had a 94-yarder for a TD.

Individually vs. Ravens: Past offensive performances by current Bengals players against the Ravens include (ordered by total games played):

- QB Andy Dalton: 16 games (8-8 record); 594 attempts with 336 completions (56.6 percent), 4021 yards (251.3 yards per game), 21 TDs and 18 INTs (76.6 passer rating); 55 rushes for 185 yards (3.4) and five TDs.
• WR A.J. Green: 11 games; 53 receptions for 886 yards (80.5-yard average per game; 16.7-yard average per catch) and nine TDs.
• HB Giovanni Bernard: 11 games; 105 rushes for 386 yards (3.7) and one TD; 42 receptions for 310 yards (7.4) and one TD.
• TE Tyler Eifert: Eight games; 20 receptions for 251 yards (12.6) and two TDs.
• WR Tyler Boyd: Seven games; 26 receptions for 375 yards (14.4) and two TDs; one rush for 15 yards; one pass attempt (incomplete).
• WR Alex Erickson: Seven games; five receptions for 54 yards (10.8); one rush for 17 yards.
• TE C.J. Uzomah: Six games; 12 catches for 132 yards (11.0) and one TD.
• HB Joe Mixon: Five games; 67 rushes for 213 yards (3.2); 10 receptions for 86 yards (8.6).
• WR John Ross: Two games; three catches for 35 (11.7) yards.
• WR Auden Tate: Two games; six receptions for 96 yards (16.0).
• TE Drew Sample: One game; one reception for minus-one yard.
• TE Jordan Franks (currently on practice squad): One game; one reception for five yards.
• WR Damion Willis (currently on practice squad): One game (no statistics).

Uniform watch: The Bengals are scheduled to wear black jerseys and black pants this week vs. Baltimore.

Since 2004, the year of the Bengals' last significant uniform redesign, a number of color options for jerseys and pants have been available. Below are the records (regular season plus postseason) for the different combinations:

JERSEY	PANTS	W-L-T	PCT.
Orange*	Black.....	6-1-0	.857
Orange*	White.....	16-7-1	.688
Black	Black.....	16-15-1	.516
Black	White.....	36-36-1	.500
White	Black.....	28-36-0	.438
White (CR)*	White (CR)*.....	2-3-0	.400
White	White.....	19-30-0	.388

* — NFL rules allow teams to wear designated alternate jerseys, color rush (CR) uniforms and/or throwback uniforms for a combined total of three regular-season games. As in years past, orange served as the Bengals' designated alternate jersey, and for the third straight year, the team used their color rush uniforms (white jersey, white pants), which debuted in 2016. Cincinnati does not have a throwback uniform.

THE HEAD COACHES

Zac Taylor was named the 10th head coach in Cincinnati Bengals history on Feb. 4, 2019. He comes to Cincinnati after two seasons with the L.A. Rams, where he served as assistant wide receivers coach in 2017 and quarterbacks coach in '18.

In 2018, Taylor helped guide Rams QB Jared Goff to career highs in every major passing category — completions (364), attempts (561), passing yards (4688), passing TDs (32), completion percentage (64.9), yards per attempt (8.36) and passer rating (101.1). Goff ranked fourth in the NFL in passing yards and eighth in passer rating. The Rams' QB play was a key component to their offense, which finished the regular season ranked second in the NFL in total net yards (421.1 per game), fifth in net passing yards (281.7), second in scoring (32.9), first in first downs (401) and fifth in third-down percentage (45.0). Los Angeles won the NFC West with a 13-3 regular-season record and advanced to Super Bowl LIII against the New England Patriots.

In 2017, Taylor helped oversee an emerging Rams passing offense that ranked 10th in the NFL in pass yards per game (239.4). Taylor directed the Rams' young receiving corps, headed by rookie Cooper Kupp, who finished the season with 62 catches, a team-high 869 receiving yards and five TDs. Kupp (869 yards), TE Gerald Everett (244) and WR Josh Reynolds (104) — all rookies — helped the Rams finish with the third-most receiving yards among rookie pass catchers.

Prior to his time with the Rams, Taylor had a one-year stint in the college ranks, serving as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Cincinnati in 2016. Taylor served under head coach Tommy Tuberville at UC.

Taylor broke into NFL coaching in 2012 with the Miami Dolphins as assistant quarterbacks coach. He was elevated to quarterbacks coach from 2013-15, and spent the final five games of '15 as the Dolphins' interim offensive coordinator and primary play-caller, after the team made coaching staff changes in late November. During his time in Miami, Taylor was instrumental in the development of QB Ryan Tannehill, the team's first-round draft pick in 2012.

Taylor's coaching career began at Texas A&M University, where he served as offensive graduate assistant and tight ends coach under head coach Mike Sherman from 2008-11. The Aggies shared the Big 12 South Championship in 2010 and played in three bowl games during Taylor's time in College Station.

As a player, Taylor began his collegiate career at Wake Forest (2002-03), before transferring to Butler County Community College in Kansas ('04) and then playing his final two seasons ('05-06) at the University of Nebraska. Taylor had a decorated career with the Cornhuskers, setting numerous school records and passing for a combined 5850 yards and 45 touchdowns. In his senior season of 2006, Taylor was named Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year after passing for 3197 total yards and leading the Cornhuskers to a 9-3 record, an appearance in the Big 12 Championship Game and a berth in the Cotton Bowl. He was inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 2017.

Taylor joined the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a college free agent in 2007, but he was waived prior to the start of training camp and never saw NFL action. Later that year, he joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, where he spent one season (did not play).

His father, Sherwood, was a defensive back and captain at the University of Oklahoma, playing under Sooners head coach Barry Switzer from 1976-79. Sherwood Taylor later served as an assistant coach at Oklahoma and Kansas

State University. Taylor's brother, Press, played quarterback at Marshall University and is currently quarterbacks coach for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Taylor was born on May 10, 1983, in Norman, Okla., where he was raised and later attended Norman High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in communication studies from the University of Nebraska in 2006. He and his wife, Sarah, have four children — Brooks, Luke, Emma Claire and Milly. Sarah Taylor is the daughter of former Green Bay Packers and Texas A&M head coach Mike Sherman.

John Harbaugh is in his 12th season as head coach of the Ravens. He has led Baltimore to a playoff berth in seven (2008-12, '14, '18) of his 11 full seasons, and in '12, captured the franchise's second Super Bowl championship. Under Harbaugh's guidance, the Ravens have secured an appearance in three AFC Championship games (2008, '11 and '12). Baltimore is one of only six teams with at least seven playoff berths in the past 11 seasons (the others are New England [10], Green Bay [8], Indianapolis [7], Pittsburgh [7] and Seattle [7]). Additionally, under Harbaugh, the Ravens' 10 playoff wins since 2008 rank as the NFL's second most (New England has 16).

In 2018, Baltimore (10-6) captured its fifth-ever AFC North Division title, earning a Wild Card playoff berth vs. the Los Angeles Chargers. In 2014, the Ravens posted a 10-6 record en route to capturing a 30-17 victory at Pittsburgh in the Wild Card round.

In 2012, the Ravens seized the franchise's second Super Bowl championship. Baltimore topped the Colts in the Wild Card round and followed that by earning a Divisional Round victory over top-seeded Denver before advancing to Super Bowl XLVII with a win in the AFC Championship Game at New England. In the Super Bowl in New Orleans, the Ravens bested the San Francisco 49ers by a final of 34-31.

In his initial season with the team (2008), Harbaugh led Baltimore to an 11-5 record and a berth in the AFC Championship Game. Baltimore set an NFL record that season for most total wins (13) by a team with both a rookie head coach and a rookie starting quarterback (Joe Flacco).

Harbaugh spent his first 10 NFL seasons (1998-2007) with the Philadelphia Eagles. He was the team's secondary coach in 2007, after nine seasons as its special teams coordinator. He was voted the 2001 NFL's Special Teams Coach of the Year by his coaching peers. His career record is 119-80.

Harbaugh played defensive back at Miami University (Ohio) from 1980-83 and earned a degree in political science. He coached collegiately at Western Michigan (1984-86), Pittsburgh ('87), Morehead State ('88), Cincinnati ('89-96), and Indiana ('97).

Harbaugh was born in Perrysburg, Ohio on Sept. 23, 1962. He and his wife, Ingrid, have a daughter, Alison. He is the son of longtime college coach Jack Harbaugh, and his brother, Jim, currently is head coach at the University of Michigan. Jim played for the Ravens in 1998. John's brother-in-law, Tom Crean, who is Georgia's head basketball coach, is married to the brothers' sister, Joani.

Taylor vs. Ravens: The Ravens lead, 1-0.

Taylor vs. Harbaugh: Harbaugh leads, 1-0.

Harbaugh vs. Bengals: The Bengals lead, 12-11.

BENGALS NOTES

At the top of the list: Here's a look at where the Bengals rank — both individually and in team categories — among the top 10 in the NFL.

TYLER BOYD:

- Tenth in receptions (51).

SHAWN WILLIAMS:

- Tied for eighth in solo tackles (48).

BRANDON WILSON

- Fourth in kickoff return yards (337).
- First in kickoff returns of at least 40 yards (three).
- Tied for sixth in kickoff returns of at least 20 yards (eight).
- Tied for seventh in forced fumbles (two).

ANDY DALTON:

- Second in pass attempts (338).
- Fifth in completions (204).
- Tied for ninth in completions of at least 40 yards (six).

BENGALS TEAM:

- Third in yards gained per kickoff return (29.6).
- Seventh in yards allowed per kickoff return (20.5)
- Tied for ninth in yards allowed per punt return (5.5).

Bengals turn to rookie QB Finley: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor announced at his Oct. 29 news conference that rookie Ryan Finley would take over as the team's starting quarterback after the Week 9 bye. Finley replaces ninth-year QB Andy Dalton, the Bengals' all-time leader in passer rating (88.0) and winning percentage as a starter (.539; 68-58-2).

After a players' day off on Monday (Oct. 28), due to the team's late arrival from London early that morning, Taylor addressed the change with each position group on Tuesday morning.

"I just wanted them to hear it from me," Taylor said. "There are a lot of guys that have played a lot games, and have won a lot of games with Andy. They understand that this isn't an easy decision, and that we're not 0-8 because of Andy. Andy has worked harder than anyone else in this building to help us win football games. It's just a decision I made, and I wanted to make sure everyone heard it from me before they heard it from anyone else."

Taylor, though, said he did speak individually with veterans like WR A.J. Green, Dalton's No. 1 target since the two entered the NFL together as the Bengals' top two draft picks in 2011.

"I talked to A.J. one-on-one about it," Taylor said. "He's one of the few guys that I wanted to tell in person. He understands the position we're in and the decision we made. They're still there to support Andy, and they're there to ride behind Ryan."

Taylor noted that an important factor in the timing of his decision was the extra practice time allotted by the bye week.

"I don't think there's ever a good time (to make a QB change), but it's the bye week, so now we give Ryan a little more time to grasp it and get ready for the next opponent.

"We have practice (on Wednesday going into the bye week). I wanted to make sure Ryan got those reps. If we're going to make this decision, let's go ahead and make it. Let's not wait. Let's not go through meetings knowing that this is likely going to happen. There's certainly that thought as we talked about it as coaches, and ultimately our decision was just to go ahead and get it done with. We're going to have meetings and practice (on Wednesday), so I wanted to make sure everyone knew before we got going."

Finley at a glance: The Bengals named rookie Ryan Finley their starting QB on Oct. 29, the Tuesday of their bye week. Finley, a fourth-round pick (104th overall) out of North Carolina State, has been praised by coaches since arriving for his accuracy and football intelligence.

Finley turned heads right away in preseason. He completed his first 10 passes in the preseason opener at Kansas City, and then followed that up the next week by converting his first nine attempts at Washington. Finley played in three preseason games for the Bengals and completed 73.4 percent of his passes (47 of 64) for a team-high 414 yards, three TDs, one INT and a passer rating of 99.3.

Finley spent his first three college seasons (2013-15) at Boise State University, before graduating in the spring of '16 and transferring to N.C. State for his final three seasons of eligibility ('16-18). Finley started all 39 possible games during his time at N.C. State, and became just the second QB in school history (Philip Rivers) and fifth in ACC history to post three seasons of at least 3000 passing yards. He left with the school's top career completion percentage (.645), and despite playing just three seasons compiled the second-most passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard games (18) in program history. In 2017, Finley went an FBS-best 339 pass attempts — a span of 10 games — without an INT.

Finley showed flashes of potential during his time at Boise State, but his tenure there was ultimately derailed by injuries. He joined the BSU program in 2013, but had to redshirt after undergoing preseason shoulder surgery. After seeing action in five games in a reserve role in 2014, he started the Broncos' first three games in '15 before suffering a season-ending ankle injury.

Miscellaneous Finley notes: Bengals QB Ryan Finley may be a rookie, but he has a rather impressive background in a wide variety of sports. Here are a few of the highlights, along with some other miscellaneous facts.

- Finley attended Paradise Valley High School in Phoenix, Ariz., where he lettered in football, basketball, tennis, and track and field (long jump).

- In football, Finley led the state of Arizona in passing yards as a senior (3442) and was named the 2012 Arizona Cardinals Player of the Year across all divisions.

- In basketball, Finley earned second-team all-state honors, helped his team to a state title in 2012-13, and once scored 37 points in a game in which he missed just one shot.

- As a kid, Finley excelled at roller hockey and played for Team USA.

- Finley is widely known in the Bengals' locker room as the best ping pong player on the roster. The team has a ping pong table set up in the auxiliary area of the locker room, and games between players have been known to get competitive. "Ryan Finley is best ping pong player on the team," said LB Nick Vigil. "You can't hit it (back) when he hits it to you." Finley's ping pong prowess even stretches back to N.C. State, where he would sharpen his skills against Wolfpack men's basketball coach and noted ping pong specialist Kevin Keatts. Takayo Siddle, an assistant to Keatts, watched the two play and said of Finley, "He's the Floyd Mayweather of Ping Pong. He's big time."

- Finley's parents were both athletes at St. Olaf College in Minnesota. His mother, Robin, played tennis, and his father, Pat, played football.

- Finley's brother, Ben, is a senior at Paradise Valley, plays QB, and is committed to play at N.C. State next season.

- Finley graduated magna cum laude in psychology from Boise State in 2016, earning his degree in just three years. He later earned a master's degree (liberal studies) and a graduate certificate from N.C. State.

Bengals rookie QBs in first start: On Sunday vs. Baltimore, Ryan Finley is expected to become just the 13th Bengals rookie ever start a game at quarterback. The previous 12 rookie QBs went 5-7 in their debuts.

Here's a look at how Bengals rookie QBs fared in their debut as a starter.

A.J. nears a return: WR A.J. Green has not yet played this season, due to an ankle injury suffered in the Bengals' first training camp practice on July 27. All signs, though, point to Cincinnati's star WR making his 2019 debut within the next few weeks. The possibility even remains that he could return this Sunday vs. Baltimore.

Green ranks as the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), and is second in career receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907). His 63 career receiving TDs rank tied for second in team history with WR Carl Pickens, and are just three shy of all-time leader Chad Johnson (66). Green also stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to begin his career with seven straight Pro Bowl nominations. He and DT Geno Atkins are tied for second-most Pro Bowl nominations (seven) in team history, behind Hall-of-Fame OT Anthony Munoz.

Green has played in 111 of 136 possible regular-season games in his nine Bengals seasons. Of the 25 regular-season games he's missed, 15 have come since the beginning of 2018.

Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury (right foot) to just nine games. He suffered the injury on the final drive in Game 8 vs. Tampa Bay, missed the next three games, and then re-aggravated it in the first half of Game 12 vs. Denver. He ended the season on Reserve/Injured, but returned healthy for the start of 2019 training camp. Then came the ankle injury.

Despite the unclear timeline that came with this summer's injury, the Bengals opted to carry Green on the active roster at the start of the season rather than putting him on Reserve/Injured, thus leaving open the narrow possibility of a return within the first eight weeks of the season. During his rehab, Bengals head coach Zac Taylor publicly expressed satisfaction with Green's progress while also declining to put a timetable on his return. But Green's recent participation in practice has stirred optimism. Green returned to practice on a limited basis prior to Week 6, and has bounced between limited participation and DNP since.

Over the bye week, Green was asked if he could be ready for the Baltimore game.

"I hope so," he said. "That's what I'm shooting for. I'm hoping everything works out."

T.B. chasing T.J.: Eight games into the 2019 season, WR Tyler Boyd remains in position to make a run at former Bengals WR T.J. Houshmandzadeh's team record for receptions in a season. Houshmandzadeh's 112 catches in 2007 stand as the top mark in team history, with WR Carl Pickens' 100 in 1996 counting as the only other instance of a Bengal reaching the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd so far has 51 catches, 10th in the NFL this season, tied for the fifth-most ever by a Bengal in the first eight games of a season, and slightly behind pace to break Houshmandzadeh's record.

Houshmandzadeh had 62 catches through eight games in 2007, and Pickens had 44 in 1996. Boyd would need to average 7.6 catches over the Bengals' final eight games to equal Houshmandzadeh's 112, and 6.1 per game to reach the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd eyeing another thousand: With WR A.J. Green having not yet played this season due to an ankle injury, WR Tyler Boyd has again stepped into the spotlight as the Bengals No. 1 WR. But it's familiar territory for the fourth-year pro. Boyd served in the same role the second half of last season while Green was out with a foot injury, and he ended the year with a career-high 1028 receiving yards despite missing final two games with his own injury. That made him the first Bengal other than Green to top 1000 receiving yards in a season since 2009 (Chad Johnson, 1047).

So far this season, Boyd has 536 receiving yards on a team-high 51 receptions (10th in NFL). He needs to average 58 receiving yards over the final nine games to reach 1000 for the season.

"Tyler is a young, up-and-coming receiver in this league, and he's had great production over the years," Bengals head coach Zac Taylor said of Boyd. "He's a great separator, he's got great hands, has great attention to detail and is very coachable. All the traits that we look for in receivers, Tyler exhibits."

T.B. a menace on third down: WR Tyler Boyd this season has picked up right where he left off the last three years — causing problems for opposing defenses on third downs. Boyd has 11 receptions on third-down (for 132 yards), including 10 that have converted first downs.

Last season, Boyd finished with a career-high 24 total catches on third downs. His 22 third-down catches that converted first downs last year were also a career-high, the most by a Bengal since 2008 (26 by T.J. Houshmandzadeh), and tied for last year's league lead in that category with Houston's DeAndre Hopkins and New Orleans' Michael Thomas. It should also be noted that Boyd missed the final two games of 2018 due to a knee injury.

Having success on third down isn't a new trend for Boyd. As a rookie in 2016, his 22 third-down receptions tied all rookies, and his 16 third-down receptions that converted first downs tied for the rookie lead with the N.Y. Giants' Sterling Shepard.

Green and some gold jackets: Ninth-year Bengals WR A.J. Green has 10 career games of at least 150 receiving yards and one TD, making him one of only nine receivers to ever reach as many games through their first nine NFL seasons. It should also be noted that Green's numbers come despite missing 25 regular-season games to injury throughout his career, including 15 since the beginning of 2018.

Here's a look at the list of players with 10 or more games of 150-plus receiving yards and a TD through their first nine NFL seasons.

PLAYER	TEAM	NO. OF GAMES
Jerry Rice*	San Francisco 49ers	14
Lance Alworth*	San Diego Chargers	16
Calvin Johnson	Detroit Lions	12
Torry Holt	St. Louis Rams	11
A.J. Green	Cincinnati Bengals	10

Isaac Bruce	St. Louis Rams	10
Don Maynard*	N.Y. Jets	10
Randy Moss*	Minnesota Vikings	10

* — Asterisk denotes a Pro Football Hall of Famer.

A.J. finds paydirt: Bengals WR A.J. Green has 63 career receiving TDs, which since his rookie year of 2011 ranks as the sixth-most of any NFL player, the most among WRs and the second-most among active players. Green and former Bengals WR Carl Pickens are tied for second in team history in TD catches, behind WR Chad Johnson (66). It should be noted that Green has posted those lofty totals despite missing 25 career regular-season games due to injury, including 15 since the beginning of 2018.

Here's a look at the NFL's leaders in receiving TDs since 2011.

PLAYER	TEAM	RECEIVING TDs
Antonio Brown	Pittsburgh/New England	75
Jimmy Graham	New Orleans/Seattle/Green Bay	69
Rob Gronkowski	New England	69
Dez Bryant	Dallas/New Orleans	67
Jordy Nelson	Green Bay/Oakland	66
A.J. Green	Cincinnati	63

Hey, Mr. Wilson: Coming into the 2019 season, Bengals S Brandon Wilson had just one career kickoff return — he was on the receiving end of a 36-yard pooch kick designed to run out the clock in the first half of Game 9 vs. New Orleans last season. But opportunity came knocking in Game 5 this season, when the Bengals, who were already down their No. 1 KOR Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured; knee), lost No. 2 KOR Alex Erickson to a concussion.

On his first opportunity, Wilson, a third-year pro from the University of Houston, returned a kickoff 52 yards and nearly broke free for a TD. He later added a 40-yarder that was called back by a penalty.

The next week at Baltimore, Wilson bolted 92 yards for a TD on the game's opening kickoff, marking the first time in team history a Bengal has opened a game with a kickoff-return TD. The NFL's Next Gen Stats service, which tracks players' speed by using GPS, clocked Wilson's TD dash at 22.03 MPH, the third-fastest speed in the NFL this year and the fastest by a Bengal since NGS' launch in 2016.

And then in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Wilson nearly scored again, but had to settle for a 61-yard return thanks to a shoestring tackle as he broke into the clear.

Wilson now has 10 career kickoff returns for 334 yards (33.4 average). He stands as the first NFL player in eight seasons to have his first 10 career kickoff returns include three of 40 or more yards and at least one TD (Jets RB Joe McKnight, 2010-11). He currently ranks second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in kickoff return yardage, but he does not have enough returns to officially qualify among the league's leaders in KOR average (must have at least 1.25 returns per team game played).

Finding the end zone isn't new to Wilson. In college at Houston, he ranked as one of college football's most dynamic playmakers, and scored eight career TDs in six different ways — two rushing, two KORs, a missed FG return, fumble return, INT return and a blocked FG return.

Bengals tough when Joe's clicking: While Bengals HB Joe Mixon hasn't yet found the form that helped earn him the AFC rushing crown last season (more info in "Joe looks to regain 2018 form"), head coach Zac Taylor has alluded several times this season to the coaching staff's effort to involve him more heavily in the offense. That's likely a good idea, because as history shows, the Bengals are tough to beat when Mixon is heavily involved.

The Bengals are 6-1 since Mixon's rookie season of 2017 when he gets at least 20 carries, with the lone outlier being a narrow loss at the L.A. Chargers late last year after the Bengals had lost QB Andy Dalton and WR A.J. Green for the season due to injuries.

The Bengals are also 6-5 in games where Mixon has reached 100 total yards, with two of the five losses coming late last year without Dalton and Green.

And when Mixon reaches 100 rushing yards, Cincinnati is 3-2, with both losses coming last year without Dalton and Green.

The Bengals are 0-1 this season when Mixon reaches 100 total yards (109 in Game 5 vs. Arizona). He has not yet reached 20 carries or 100 rushing yards.

Mixon looks to regain 2018 form: Despite missing two games due to a knee injury last season, HB Joe Mixon still managed to become the only Bengals player ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards (1168) in a season (RB Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing in 1968).

Mixon, though, has topped 100 total yards just once this season (109 in Game 5 vs. Arizona) and hasn't yet found the statistical success in 2019 that he had in '18, when he recorded the 22nd 1000-yard rushing season in Bengals history and became just the 11th Bengal ever to hit that mark. He also scored a team-high nine TDs (eight rushing, one receiving) last year, and had four games of 100 or more yards rushing and seven games of 100 or more yards from scrimmage.

Through eight games this year, Mixon has 101 rushes for 320 yards. Bengals head coach Zac Taylor, who entered the season stressing the importance of the run game in his system, said recently that fixing Cincinnati's ground attack is among the coaching staff's top priorities.

"We talk about (the ground game) every day," Taylor said. "We're trying to find the best answers. We're trying to find the best rhythm for the five (offensive linemen) that are out there. 'What do each of them do best? What's the best way to find success?' It's an ongoing conversation that's nonstop."

Looking at first-year Bengals coaches: When Zac Taylor was named Bengals head coach on Feb. 4, questions immediately surfaced about how quickly he could return the team to success. But even the best coaches in Bengals history have taken time to right the ship.

Here's a look at the nine previous Bengals head coaches' records in their first full season as the team's head coach.

HEAD COACH	1ST FULL SEASON	RECORD
Paul Brown	1968	3-11-0

How rookie head coaches stack up: Over the last 10 seasons (2009-18), first-time NFL coaches in their first full season have gone a combined 304-352 (.463). Here's a look at how many wins those 41 rookie head coaches piled up in their first full regular season.

15 carries for Gio does the trick: Over his now seven seasons in Cincinnati, Giovani Bernard has carved out a spot among the top dual-threat running backs in team history.

But when examining Bernard's workload specifically as a rusher throughout his career, a significant trend becomes apparent — the Bengals are 10-1-1 in games in which Bernard has at least 15 rushing attempts. Bernard has not yet reached 15 carries in a game in 2019, however Cincinnati was 1-0 in 2018 when Bernard hit the mark (15 rushes for 69 yards in Game 4 at Atlanta).

In the 12 career games in which Bernard has reached 15 carries, he has averaged 78.4 yards, scored seven rushing TDs and topped 100 yards three times.

Gio sets sights on Brooks: HB Giovani Bernard currently stands within striking distance of the Bengals' all-time leads in both receptions and receiving yards by a running back, which are both held by RB James Brooks. With 283 career receptions, Bernard stands 14 short of James Brooks' record of 297. And with 2404 receiving yards, Bernard is 608 short of Brooks' record of 3012. Brooks played eight seasons with the Bengals (1984-91), while 2019 is Bernard's seventh.

Bernard averaged 898 yards from scrimmage in his first six NFL seasons — 518 rushing, 380 receiving — although his pursuit of Brooks' records has been slowed slightly by injuries in recent years. In 2018, he got off to a fast start before a knee injury sidelined him for four games. He also missed the final six games of 2016 due to a torn ACL in his left knee.

25 points does the trick: Since 2011, the Bengals own a 46-1-2 record (.959) when scoring 25 or more points. Only Miami has a better winning percentage, at .971 (33-1-0), when topping the 25-point mark over that span.

The Bengals were a perfect 6-0 in 2018 when scoring 25 points or more, and 0-10 when failing to hit the mark. They have yet to reach 25 points in a game in 2019.

Here are the top five teams in the NFL since 2011, in terms of winning percentage, when hitting the 25-point plateau.

TEAM	WINS	LOSSES	TIES	WINNING PCT.
Miami Dolphins	33	1	0	.971
Cincinnati Bengals	46	1	2	.959
New England Patriots	86	8	0	.915
Philadelphia Eagles	52	6	0	.897
Arizona Cardinals	38	4	1	.895
Denver Broncos	51	6	0	.895

An Andy roundup: QB Andy Dalton now finds himself in a reserve role, after head coach Zac Taylor named rookie Ryan Finley as Cincinnati's starter during the team's bye week. Dalton, though, still ranks among the most accomplished QBs in Bengals history. Here's an overview of his statistical accomplishments.

- Dalton's .539 winning percentage (68-58-2) is the best of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts.
- He stands as the team's all-time leader in career passer rating (88.0) and 300-yard passing games (27), and is second in career completions (2647), passing yards (30,352) and completion percentage (62.15). He's tied for the all-time lead in passing TDs (197).
- He has posted 48 career games with a passer rating of 100 or more, and the Bengals are 39-9 (.813) in those contests.
- His 197 career TD passes and 112 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.76-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100).
- His 24 game-winning drives are the most in Bengals history ahead of Boomer Esiason (22). A game-winning drive is defined as a drive that results in an offensive score in the fourth quarter or overtime that is responsible for putting the team ahead to stay (PATs included).
- His 22 total TDs are the most ever by a Bengals QB, ahead of Ken Anderson (20).
- His 21 rushing TDs are also the most ever by a Bengals QB, ahead of Anderson (20).
- He is the only Bengals QB ever to catch a TD pass. He scored on an 18-yard gadget connection from WR Mohamed Sanu vs. Tennessee in 2014.
- He holds club season records for passing yards (4293) and TD passes (33), both set in 2013.
- He is the only Bengals passer to throw for 300-plus yards in four consecutive games (2013).
- He opened his career with 77 consecutive regular-season starts, a Bengals record for quarterbacks at any point during a career. The previous mark had been 61, posted by Boomer Esiason from 1985-89.

The Huber roundup: Long considered the top punter in Bengals history, 11th-year pro Kevin Huber now has the career records to back up that claim. Already a considerable presence in the Bengals' record book heading into last season, Huber moved into first place in the only two remaining career punting categories in the Bengals' record book.

Huber now stands first in team history in the following categories:

- Punts (807)
- Punting yards (36,315)
- Gross average (45.00)
- Net average (39.86)
- Inside-20 punts (281)

Huber has also taken over many of the Bengals' single-season and single-game records. Among them are:

• He holds the top four Bengals season averages in gross yardage and the top five Bengals season averages in net. His gross record is 46.84, and his net record is 42.10 — both were set in 2014.

- He shares the team record for longest punt (75 yards) with Kyle Larson.
- His 33 inside-20 punts in 2012 is a single-season franchise record.
- His six inside-20 punts on Sept. 14, 2017 vs. Houston are tied with Lee Johnson (Nov. 2, 1997) for the most in a game in Bengals history.

Dunlap's PD frenzy: While he's recorded just one pass defended this season, in part due to missed time with a knee injury, Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap still has a reputation as one of the league's best defensive linemen at batting down passes at the line of scrimmage. And he has the numbers to back it up, too.

Dunlap had eight passes defended in 2018, second-most in the NFL among non-DBs. His eight PDs were the third-highest single-season total of his career, behind the 2013 (10) and '16 (15) seasons. His 2016 total led all Bengals defenders and all other NFL defensive linemen, and it was the first time since Cincinnati began recording defensive stats in 1976 that a Bengals defensive lineman had ever led the team in PDs.

To paint a clearer picture of just how effective Dunlap has been at batting passes, here's a list of non-defensive backs in the NFL with the most passes defended since the start of the 2016 season.

PLAYER	POS	TEAM	PDs SINCE 2016
Carlos Dunlap	DE	Cincinnati	32
Alec Ogletree	LB	St. Louis/L.A. Rams/N.Y. Giants	32
Eric Kendricks	LB	Minnesota	32
Deion Jones	LB	Atlanta	28
Cory Littleton	LB	L.A. Rams	25
Luke Kuechly	LB	Carolina	25

Dunlap has played in six of Cincinnati's eight games so far this season. He missed Games 6-7 due to a knee injury.

Dunlap's, Atkins' dominance = team success: Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap and DT Geno Atkins entered the NFL together in 2010 as draft picks of the Bengals, and in the 10 seasons since they've established themselves among the top pass-rushing duos in the league. Most importantly though, the record shows that when Dunlap and Atkins are at their most dominant, it usually spells success for Cincinnati.

The Bengals are 10-6 (.625) when Dunlap records more than one sack, and 8-5 (.615) when Atkins records more than one sack. There have been two instances in which both have had more than one sack in the same game (Bengals are 1-1 in those contests), which means Cincinnati is a combined 17-10 (.629) when getting more than one sack from either player.

The Bengals are 7-1 since the beginning of the 2015 season when Dunlap records more than one sack, with the only outlier coming in a 20-17 overtime loss at Denver in 2015. Dunlap had a career-best three sacks in that Denver game and finished 2015 with a career-high 13.5, second-most in Bengals history.

Since 2015, the Bengals are 6-3 when Atkins has more than one sack.

Atkins has recorded multiple sacks once this season — two sacks in a Game 7 loss vs. Jacksonville. Dunlap has not recorded more than one sack in a game this season, due in part to missing two contests (Games 6-7) with a knee injury.

Dunlap and Atkins are under contract with the Bengals through the '21 and '22 seasons, respectively. Atkins (74 career sacks) currently stands second on the Bengals' all-time sack list, and Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) is third. The Bengals' leader in career sacks is DE Eddie Edwards, with 83.5.

Dunlap, Atkins neck-and-neck in career sacks: Just a half sack separates Bengals DT Geno Atkins (74 career sacks) and DE Carlos Dunlap (73.5), who rank second and third, respectively, on Cincinnati's all-time sack list behind all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). And now that Edwards' record is within sight, the race is on to see which player catches him first.

Atkins, who missed nearly half of the 2013 season with a torn ACL, has more than double the number of sacks of the next-closest interior defensive lineman in Bengals history (Tim Krumrie, 34.5). Atkins has three sacks so far this season, including two in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville. Last season, he had a team-high 10 sacks, the third-highest single-season sack total of his career (he had a career-high 12.5 in 2012, and 11 in '15). Atkins has finished with at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior lineman five times in nine NFL seasons, including in three of the last four years (see "Geno looks to re-claim his crown").

Dunlap, a two-time Pro Bowler (2015 and '16) who turned 30 after the '18 season, has just one sack this season and missed Games 6-7 with a knee injury. Dunlap averaged 8.1 sacks over his first nine NFL seasons, while Edwards averaged just under seven over 12 seasons. In 2015, Dunlap set a career-high in sacks, with 13.5, the second-most in Bengals history. Besides his 73.5 sacks, Dunlap's career totals include 18 FFs, nine FRs, 57 PDs, four blocked FGs and three TDs.

NOTE: The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Geno on HOF pace: Bengals DT Geno Atkins, who is playing his 10th NFL season in 2019, currently stands at 74 career sacks, second in team history and the most ever by a Bengals interior defensive lineman.

But a closer look reveals that Atkins is on a Hall-of-Fame pace. When compared to defensive tackles in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Atkins compares quite favorably at this point in his career.

Here's a look at the sack totals of notable Hall-of-Fame DTs through their 10th seasons, as well as where they stood at the end of their careers. It should be noted that Atkins missed nearly half of the 2013 season, due to a torn ACL.

(NOTE: This list includes only DTs whose careers started after 1982, when the NFL began counting sacks as official statistics):

NAME	YEARS ACTIVE	THRU 10 SEASONS	CAREER SACKS
John Randle	1990-2003	106.0	137.5
Warren Sapp	1995-2007	79.5	96.5
Geno Atkins	2010-present	*74.0	*74.0
Cortez Kennedy	1990-2000	57.0	58.0

*—Atkins is eight games into his 10th NFL season.

Geno looks to re-claim his crown: Bengals DT Geno Atkins this season is looking to reclaim a crown that, for all intents and purposes, has been his for much of this decade. In nine previous NFL seasons (2010-18), Atkins has five times finished in at least a tie for most sacks by an NFL interior defensive lineman. He claimed it outright in 2012 (12.5 sacks), '16 (nine) and '17 (nine), while sharing it in '11 (7.5) and '15 (11).

Atkins has three sacks so far this season, and stands three behind the league's leader among interior linemen, Bills DT Jordan Phillips (6.0).

Last season, Atkins had a team-high 10 sacks but finished two short of the top spot, held by 49ers DT DeForest Buckner (12). It marked the first time in the previous four seasons that Atkins failed to finish in at least a tie for the lead.

Atkins has been selected to the Pro Bowl seven times in his nine previous seasons. Those seven selections are the most by a Bengals defensive player in team history, just ahead of CB Lemar Parrish (six). No other Bengals defensive lineman has been selected more than twice. Atkins currently stands at 74 career sacks, the most by a Bengals interior lineman and third overall.

Three Bengals hail from Queen City: The Bengals have three players — LB Preston Brown, DE Sam Hubbard and P Kevin Huber — who grew up in Greater Cincinnati.

Brown, who grew up in College Hill and attended Northwest High School, is in his second year with the Bengals in 2019. He spent his first four NFL seasons with the Buffalo Bills. After signing with Cincinnati as an unrestricted free agent in March of 2018, Brown called the opportunity "living out a dream."

"When I started looking around (in free agency), I knew there might be a spot here," Brown said. "And the Bengals definitely jumped to the top of my list when I found out they had interest in me as well.”

After missing nine games due to multiple injuries in his first Bengals season, Brown is now back for Year 2 as a starting LB.

Hubbard, a Moeller High School alum and former Ohio State standout, is now in his second season with the Bengals. A third-round draft pick (77th overall) a year ago, Hubbard followed up a productive rookie season by earning the Bengals’ No. 1 RDE spot in preseason. He has three sacks so far this season (tied for team lead).

“It’s insane,” Hubbard said after being drafted by his hometown Bengals. “Seeing that 513 area code pop up on my phone on draft day was just incredible. To get an opportunity to represent the city of Cincinnati one more time, and to do it for the pro team in this city, is a dream come true. I watched every game the Bengals played. I was there when Carson Palmer got hurt in the playoffs (in the 2005 season). I’ve just always been a big fan.”

Huber, an Anderson Township native and alum of McNicholas High School and the University of Cincinnati, was a fifth-round draft choice of the Bengals in 2009. He has played in all but two games throughout his career in Cincinnati, and he currently stands as the Bengals’ career leader in both gross (45.00) and net (39.86) punting average.

Huber and his wife, Mindi, have been active in the local community throughout his Bengals career. The couple started their own charity, The Foundation for Underserved Rescues, which “provides resources and support to underserved Cincinnati-area animal rescues.”

It should also be noted that Bengals have a fourth player with Cincinnati ties. Rookie G Michael Jordan was born in Fairfield, Ohio, just outside of Cincinnati, but his family moved and he attended high school in Michigan.

Bengals draft picks stick in NFL: A familiar trend has emerged this season regarding which teams have the most keen eye for talent in the draft, and the Bengals are again toward the top of the list. As of Monday (11/4), there were 49 players on NFL rosters who entered the NFL as draft picks of the Bengals, tied with Baltimore and New England for the most of any team in the NFL.

Cincinnati was among the top three teams all of last season as well, and even held a double-digit lead over the second place team early in the year before 13 qualifying players landed on the Bengals’ Reserve/Injured list. Only players on active 53-man rosters are counted in this data.

Of the 53 players on Cincinnati’s active roster on Monday (11/4), 39 entered the NFL with the Bengals — 32 as draft picks, and seven as college free agents. That total includes OT Andre Smith, a Bengals first-round pick in 2009 who later spent time with Minnesota and Arizona before rejoining Cincinnati.

Of the Bengals’ 32 draft picks on their roster, seven were first-round picks (including Smith), seven were second-rounders, four were third-rounders, six were fourth-rounders, three were fifth-rounders, three were sixth-rounders and two were seventh-rounders.

Here’s a look at the teams with the most draft picks on an active NFL roster, as of Monday, Nov. 4.

TEAM	DRAFT PICKS ON NFL ROSTERS
Cincinnati Bengals	49
Baltimore Ravens	49
New England Patriots	49
San Francisco 49ers	46
Seattle Seahawks	46

Bengal bites: Three Bengals on the 53-player roster have changed uniform numbers since preseason — CB Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured) now is No. 24, CB B.W. Webb now is No. 23 and WR Damion Willis (practice squad) now is No. 15 ... The tallest Bengal is QB Jake Dolegala, who is 6-7 ... The shortest Bengal is HB Trayveon Williams, who is 5-8 ... There is a tie for heaviest Bengals player between DT Josh Tupou and OT Cordy Glenn, who are both 345 pounds ... The lightest Bengal is CB Tony McRae, who is 185 pounds ... The oldest Bengal is LS Clark Harris, who is 35 (born July 10, 1984) ... The youngest Bengal is G Michael Jordan, who is 21 (Jan. 25, 1998).

BENGALS QUOTES

Head coach Zac Taylor, on the state of the team:

“We’re in this thing together. We genuinely care about each other, and we’ve put in a lot of work. If we stay the course and we believe in what we’re doing and we believe in the people we’re doing it with, good things are going to happen. We know good things are coming our way. We just have to keep working.”

Taylor, on handling the offensive play-calling responsibilities:

“It leaves you with a lot on your plate, but at the same time I know what I want this thing to look like. (Offensive coordinator) Brian Callahan and I are in lockstep. We’re on the same page, along with all the other coaches in this offense. It may be me calling the plays, but everybody has input. Even at practice, I’m listening to Brian and some of the other coaches talk about ideas. Even though it’s coming out of my mouth, it doesn’t mean the ideas for play-calls are solely coming from me. (Communication between us) is something we try to iron out in practice — we try to make it as game-like as possible — and it’s important that everyone is equally involved.”

Taylor, on QB Ryan Finley:

“Everything that we’ve seen from him — in the meeting rooms, in training camp and the offseason — shows us what led us to draft him. In the pre-draft process, this was a guy that we really liked and identified as someone we needed in our program. He’s shown us everything that we’ve needed to trust that he can help us. ... (And) he’s a smart guy. He’s been able to handle a NFL playbook as you would expect a smart, intelligent rookie would handle it.”

Offensive coordinator Brian Callahan, on QB Ryan Finley:

“He moves well in the pocket. He moves well as a runner. He can throw from different arm angles. He has a unique skill set, he’s accurate and he throws the ball well. We’re hoping to find a way to score more points at the end of the day, and I believe he can help us do that.”

QB Ryan Finley, on being named a starter:

“I’m excited for this opportunity. I’m just going to have fun with it, execute and do whatever I can to help this team win.

“It will be fun. (Being challenged) is part of the game. I just have to get thrown in there and figure it out. I have a lot of guys around me that know what they are doing, and I feel more confident because of that.

“I hope to bring energy — bring some juice — and do my best to be good passer in the pocket, get the ball out on time and extend plays. We’ve struggled a little bit in the red zone, so I’m hoping to find some ways to score points.”

Callahan, on the offense being without A.J. Green (injured early in training camp) for the first half of the season:

“Listen, we all want A.J. out there. Everyone wants him. When you have those guys, you find ways to use them. But there are plenty of instances where you may not have him. You always stay true to what you believe offensively is going to help you win the game. If that involves featuring matchups with a guy as dynamic as A.J., then that’s going to be part of it. If we don’t have that piece, we will move the pieces around to get us the best matchups that help us win the game. That’s what our system is designed to do — move pieces wherever we need them.”

Taylor, on WR Auden Tate:

“Auden has aggressive hands and he’s tough. Those are two traits that you love. He’s a guy you can find a role for in this offense. He looks like a tight end playing wide receiver. He’s physical in the run game, he has a great catch radius, he catches the ones you throw to him, and he’s hard to take down. When his number has been called, he’s produced for us.”

Taylor, on WRs Damion Willis (currently on practice squad) and Stanley Morgan (active roster), both signed by the Bengals as rookie CFAs:

“Competitors. They are as competitive as they come. They’re natural football players. They make the play whenever the ball is in their vicinity. They love to compete; they love to practice. Those are guys that impress you with the energy they bring to the whole team. Yeah, they’re undrafted rookie free agents, but I’ve really been impressed with them since the first couple of weeks they were here — enough that they’re both in our plans. You can always ask, ‘Do you want to go sign somebody else (a veteran) that you’ve seen on tape, maybe that’s played more in the league?’ No. These are guys we believe in, and if we didn’t, we wouldn’t have them here — we’d go get somebody else. But we truly believe in both of those guys.”

Taylor, on HB Giovani Bernard, who signed a contract extension on Sept. 3:

“He’s consistent with his approach every day. You know what you’re getting from him. He’s very detailed with his craft — he’s a good runner, he’s a good receiver and he's a good protector. He fits all three of those traits that you want in a running back, and particularly in a No. 2 running back, because Joe gets the majority of the touches. Gio has always been reliable and goes about it the right way. He sets a great example for the other players on this team. He's very deserving of what he received (with a contract extension) and I'm happy for him."

Taylor, on offensive line coach Jim Turner:

"Our experience working together (in the past) has great value. We see protections the same way, we see the run game the same way (and) the cadences the same way. We are always on the same page. ... I believe in Jim. I've seen him coach for six years live and in person now. I've seen what he has gotten out of players and the way he has developed players. Jim's attention to detail is unmatched. Our offensive linemen are going to be disciplined and know how we want it done. I don't believe in anybody more than I believe in Jim to get that job done."

Offensive line coach Jim Turner, on Trey Hopkins earning the starting center position:

"We feel like Trey helps us win at center better than anybody else on our team. As far as the performance of playing center and all the things that go into that position, Trey's got a lot of experience. When you watch the tape over Trey's career, he has done a heck of a job, and he has developed into a heck of a player. We expect a lot out of him now, having given him this responsibility."

Taylor, on G Alex Redmond being added to the roster after beginning the season on a four-game suspension:

"What I like about Alex Redmond is that he's physical and he's dialed in to what we need him to do. He has spent a lot of extra time lately making sure he knows what his role is on this team, and he has done a very good job getting reacquainted with our offense. He's up to the challenge."

HB Joe Mixon, on his approach for the season:

"(I will do) as much as I have to do individually and as much as I can for the team, to put ourselves on top. If it takes 250 (carries), I'm going to take 250. If it takes 400, that's what I'm going to do. At the end of the day, every touch counts. I've always been a one-play-away guy until I just break, and I'll continue to do that. If it takes 400 touches, then that's what I'm going to want."

Taylor, on rookie TE Drew Sample:

"He's a gritty player. He really just has a special knack in all three phases — pass protection, run blocking and being a receiver. He's improving every game he plays against a different defensive line and different linebackers. I'm very pleased with the direction he is headed in."

Callahan, on TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert:

"There's no question — when we put those guys in different positions in formations, they can do a lot for us both as coverage indicators and as pieces in the passing game. On top of that, they can run block well. We're going to be able to run a lot of different things with them in the lineup."

Tight ends coach James Casey, on using TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert on the field at the same time:

"It opens up so many possibilities with both those guys on the field. I don't think C.J. gets enough credit for how well he runs and catches the ball, and I don't think Tyler gets enough credit for how well he does blocking."

Defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo, on his philosophy:

"It's to make sure that we allow the players to play as fast as possible. Whatever their job description is on a particular play, if it's clear cut, they can do it faster. That's with any job on the planet. If I'm supposed to put concrete over there, I can do it quick. If I'm not sure where to put it, I'm going to do it slower."

CB B.W. Webb, on defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"Lou is very strategic about what he calls and has a lot of confidence in his players. That's very big for us — for our confidence — when a coach trusts you enough to put you in certain positions against the opponent's best players. He knows what the offense wants to do against us, so he just prepares us throughout the week, and we trust him."

Anarumo, on DE Carl Lawson:

"He's a powerful guy. I watched Cam Wake do it for six years (with the Miami Dolphins). Carl has the same body type and can also jack up 300-pound tackles in the run game. And Carl has that same kind explosion. I think Carl's an all-around player and a three-down guy for us, for sure."

S Clayton Fejedelem, on S Brandon Wilson's kickoff return for a TD against Baltimore in Game 6:

"Brandon is one heck of a returner. He's strong, he's fast and he's explosive. The Ravens might have been No. 1 in kickoffs. (Baltimore K Justin) Tucker is hands-down the best kicker in the league, and he puts that thing right on the goal line, one-yard out almost every time. They have been pinning people down there all season. We knew we were going to get opportunities for returns, we had a great return plan drawn up that week, and Brandon did the rest."

POSITION BY POSITION

Quarterbacks: After serving as the second-string quarterback for the first eight games, rookie Ryan Finley takes the reins as the starting signal caller for Game 9 against Baltimore. The Bengals traded up in April's draft to select Finley, from N.C. State, in the fourth round. Finley jumped from third to second on the Bengals' QB depth chart after a strong preseason in which he notched a 99.3 passer rating. Touted by scouts for his accuracy and football intelligence, Finley left N.C. State with the top career completion percentage (.645) in school history. Despite playing only three seasons (2016-18) at N.C. State, Finley finished his career ranked third in ACC history in both passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard passing games (18). Finley began his college career at Boise State (2013-15), then graduated and played his final three seasons ('16-18) at N.C. State. Veteran Andy Dalton yields to Finley after nine seasons in the starting quarterback role. Through eight games, Dalton ranks second in the NFL in passing attempts (338) and fifth in completions (204). In Game 8 vs. the Los Angeles Rams, Dalton completed 32 passes en route to 329 yards and one touchdown through the air. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Dalton totaled four rushes for 33 yards and collected his third rushing touchdown of the season. Dalton's three rushing TDs are now tied for the second-most by a QB this season. Dalton now has 22 total TDs in his career, the most ever by a Bengals QB ahead of Ken Anderson (20). Dalton's 21 career rushing TDs are also the most ever by a QB, ahead of Anderson (20). In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Dalton posted a season-high 107.6 passer rating, his highest output since Game 4 of 2018, when he notched a 109.5 rating at Atlanta. In the opener at Seattle, he set career-highs in completions (35) and passing yards (418), en route to a 106.5 passer rating. Dalton owns a 68-58-2 regular season record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.539) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. He stands as the Bengals' all-time leader in career passer rating (88.0) and 300-yard passing games (27), and is second in career completions (2647), passing yards (30,352), passing TDs (197) and completion percentage (62.15). His 197 career TD passes and 112 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.76-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100). Dalton has posted 48 career games with a passer rating at or above 100, and the Bengals' record in those contests is 39-9 (.813). Perhaps the biggest surprise of training camp was the play of college free agent Jake Dolegala of Central Connecticut State, a tall (6-foot-7), athletic and strong-armed passer who impressed in a little more than one game of action in preseason. In college, Dolegala set school records for career passing yards (8129) and TDs (48). After being inactive for the first six games of the season, Dolegala was active for Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, but did not play (coach's decision).

Running backs: HB Joe Mixon now is in his third season with the Bengals, after a 2018 campaign in which he rushed for 1168 yards and became the first Cincinnati RB ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards in a season (Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing as a rookie in 1968). In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Mixon collected his second receiving touchdown of the season on a two-yard pitch-and-catch from Dalton with 1:25 left to play in the first half. Mixon had his most productive game of the season in Game 5 vs. Arizona, reaching 100 yards from scrimmage (93 rushing, 16 receiving) for the time this year. In Game 3 at Buffalo, Mixon reached the end zone for the first time in 2019 with a one-yard reception in the fourth quarter. In 36 career games (28 starts), Mixon has five 100-yard rushing performances and 11 games of at least 100 yards from scrimmage. Also a threat through the air, he has caught 92 career passes for 693 yards and four TDs. A 2017 second-round pick out of Oklahoma, Mixon began his rookie season listed as the Bengals' No. 3 HB, but he worked his way to the No. 1 spot by mid-season. Giovani Bernard, a 2013 second-round pick of the Bengals, again serves in the No. 2 HB role behind Mixon. In Game 8 against the Los Angeles Rams, Bernard ripped off a 25-yard run that was good for his longest scamper since 2017, when he also had a 25-yard rush against Detroit on Dec. 24. In the opener at Seattle, Bernard caught two passes for 42 yards, including a 35-yarder on a screen pass, which was his longest gain since 2017 when he had a 61-yard TD catch at Cleveland on Oct. 1. Bernard ranks second in Bengals history in both receptions (283) and receiving yards (2404) by a RB, trailing only James Brooks (297 and 3012). Brooks played seven Bengals seasons (1984-91), and Bernard in 2019 is in his seventh season. Bernard also owns the Bengals' record for receiving yards in a game by a RB (128), which he set in 2015 at Arizona, and his 89-yard TD run vs. Carolina in '14 stands as the second-longest rush in team history. New to the Bengals' backfield this season is rookie sixth-round pick Trayveon Williams of Texas A&M. Williams was inactive for Games 1-2 due to a foot injury suffered in preseason, then was an active/DNP (coach's decision) in Game 3 and inactive again for Games 4-5 (coach's decision). Williams has appeared in two games this season, playing in a reserve role on special teams. In three seasons at A&M, Williams amassed 4176 yards from scrimmage and 35 total TDs. Last season, Williams led the Southeastern Conference in rushing yards (1760) and TDs (18), while ranking second among SEC running backs in receptions (27) and third in receiving yards (278).

Wide receivers: Tyler Boyd has stepped into the No. 1 receiving role to start the season, while A.J. Green has been rehabbing from an ankle injury suffered in the first practice of training camp. Boyd currently leads the Bengals in both receptions (51) and receiving yards (536). His receptions total ranks 10th in the NFL, and tied for fifth-most ever by a Bengal through the first eight games of a season. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Boyd led the team in receptions (10) and receiving yards (season-high 123) for the second time this season, and reached the end zone for the first time in 2019 on a 42-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, Boyd collected his first 100-yard receiving game of the season with 122 yards on 10 receptions. He now has five career 100-yard receiving games and three career games with double-digit receptions. Boyd has become among the most reliable and productive receivers in the league on third down, and currently has 11 third-down receptions, including 10 that have converted first downs. Boyd's 1000-yard season in 2018 was the first of his career, and the first by a Bengal other than Green since Chad Johnson in 2009. In 2018, Boyd tied for the league lead with 22 third-down catches that resulted in first downs, a total that also counted as the most by a Bengal since T.J. Houshmandzadeh's 26 in 2008. Boyd has caught at least one pass in all 47 career games. Originally a 2016 second-round pick of the Bengals, Boyd signed a contract extension in July that will keep him in Cincinnati through the 2023 season. Second-year pro Auden Tate, a 6-5 WR out of Florida State, carved out a roster spot out of training camp for the second straight year, and has worked his way into the regular rotation at WR. So far, Tate has tallied 27 receptions for 391 yards, which ranks second and third on the team respectively. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Tate hauled in three receptions for 65 yards, including a career-high 33-yard grab in the third quarter. Tate had a career day in Game 6 at Baltimore, leading the team in catches and receiving yards for the third time this season, while totaling a career-high 93 receiving yards. Tate recorded his first career touchdown in Game 5 vs. Arizona on a two-yard pass from Dalton with 4:11 remaining in the game. In each of the two previous games (Games 3-4), Tate led the team in receptions and receiving yards, combining for 10 catches and 138 yards. Tate made his first NFL start in Game 3 at Buffalo, and posted 88 receiving yards on a career-high six receptions. Alex Erickson, a Bengals CFA signee in 2016, has seen time throughout his career at both returner spots, WR and emergency RB. Erickson has played in all 56 games of his NFL career, and has 63 career catches for 761 yards and a TD. In Game 8 against the Los Angeles Rams, Erickson once again led the team with 97 receiving yards, including a career-long 52-yard connection in the fourth quarter. Erickson had a career day in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, notching his first career 100-yard receiving game, while posting career highs in targets (14), catches (eight) and yards (137), along with recording the longest catch of his career (48 yards). His 137 yards receiving against Jacksonville are the second-most by a Bengals pass catcher this season, behind John Ross III's 158-yard performance against Seattle in the season-opener (Ross is on Reserve/Injured now. Stanley Morgan, a 2019 college free agent signee out of Nebraska, was signed from the practice squad to the active roster on Oct. 2. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Morgan collected his first career special teams tackle, and downed a first-quarter punt at the Jaguars three-yard line. He made his NFL debut in Game 5 vs. Arizona and notched his first career reception with a six-yard catch in the second quarter. Morgan spent four seasons (2015-18) at Nebraska, and set school records in career receptions (189) and receiving yards (2747). Regarding ninth-year wideout Green, his climb up the Bengals' record books is temporarily on hold, while he rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in Cincinnati's first training camp practice. Green has not yet played in 2019, and Bengals head coach Zac Taylor says there is no specific timeline for Green's return. But Green has practiced on a limited basis in recent weeks and has said publicly that he is nearing a return. Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury to just nine games, and for the first time in his eight seasons, missed out on earning a Pro Bowl nod. Green, though, still stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to start his career with seven consecutive Pro Bowl nominations. Green's seven Pro Bowl selections are tied with DT Geno Atkins for second in Bengals history, behind HOF OT Anthony Munoz (11). Despite limited action in 2018, Green finished second on the team in receptions (46), receiving yards (694) and receiving TDs (six); it was the first time in his eight seasons he did not lead the team in receptions and receiving yards. Green currently ranks second in team history in receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907); Chad Johnson, who played 10 seasons with the Bengals, is first in both categories (751 and 10,783). Green is the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), after passing Johnson (31) last season.

Tight ends: Fifth-year pro C.J. Uzomah, who signed a three-year contract extension (through 2021) with the Bengals over the offseason, is listed as the No. 1 TE on the Bengals' depth chart and has started all eight games this season. To this point, Uzomah has nine receptions for 112 yards, including a season-high four catches for a career-high 66 yards in Game 1 at Seattle. Last season, Uzomah notched career-highs in catches (43), receiving yards (439) and TDs (three). Tyler Eifert entered 2019 healthy, after being limited to just 14 games from 2016-18, due to back and ankle injuries. Eifert, whose season ended after four games last season due to a serious ankle injury, has played in all eight games so far this season, and has made one start at TE and one at WR. He has amassed 23 catches for 192 yards and a TD. Additionally, Eifert has 13 third-down catches for 128 yards this season. In Game 8 against the Los Angeles Rams, Eifert posted season-highs in receptions and receiving yards with six and 72, respectively. In Game 2 against San Francisco, Eifert collected a one-yard TD in the first quarter, which was his first time reaching the end zone since his 15-yard score in Game 4 of 2018. When healthy, Eifert has proved to be among the top pass-catching TEs in the NFL. In 2015, Eifert caught 13 TDs (in just 13 games), the most ever by a Bengals TE. Cincinnati invested a second-round pick in April's draft in Drew Sample of Washington, who was touted by scouts as a well-rounded prospect who excels in the blocking game. Sample has seen action in all seven games this season and has four catches for 27 yards. Sample has made two starts this season (Games 6-7), lining up as a second TE in both contests. In college, Sample was a key part of a blocking effort that helped Washington RB Myles Gaskin top 1200 rushing yards and score double-digit TDs in each of his four seasons. Cethan Carter, a third-year player out of Nebraska, has appeared in each of the Bengals' seven games this season, with most of his action coming on special teams. Carter is currently tied with HB Semajie Perine (practice squad) for the team lead in special teams tackles (four).

Offensive linemen: At center is veteran Trey Hopkins, who won the starting job after a strong preseason. Hopkins, now in his sixth season in Cincinnati, is known for his intelligence, versatility (has started all three interior OL spots during his career) and experience (28 career starts). Hopkins and ROT Bobby Hart are the only Bengals offensive linemen to start each of the eight games this season. Hart, a seventh-round pick of the N.Y. Giants in 2015, signed with Cincinnati in the '18 offseason, and has started all 24 games in his Bengals career. At RG this season is John Miller, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first four seasons with the Buffalo Bills. At 6-3, 315, Miller is considered a powerful run-blocker and helped the Bills rank in the top 10 in rushing offense in each of his four seasons with the team. In 47 career starts with the Bills, Miller helped the team top 100 net yards rushing 33 times, and top 200 yards 10 times. After starting the first 53 games of his NFL career, Miller was inactive for Games 7 and 8 due to a groin injury he suffered in the second quarter of Game 6 at Baltimore. The Bengals invested a first-round pick in OT Jonah Williams of Alabama, who was slated as the 2019 starter at LOT, but a shoulder injury suffered in OTAs will cause Williams to miss most or all of his rookie season (currently on Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform). Instead, veteran Cordy Glenn, last year's No. 1 LOT who had been slated to move inside to LG, returns back outside to LOT. Glenn, though, suffered a concussion in preseason and has not yet played this season. After returning to practice on Oct. 16, Glenn was placed on the Reserve/Suspended by Club list, and was suspended for Game 7 vs. Jacksonville. Glenn rejoined the active roster following that matchup, but was inactive in Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. His status for Game 9 vs. Baltimore is unknown. Glenn, who has played all 91 of his career NFL games at LOT, was acquired in a trade with Buffalo during the 2018 offseason. Backing up both OT positions is veteran Andre Smith, the Bengals' 2009 first-round draft choice. Smith, who has replaced Glenn as the starting LOT in Games 1-5, left Game 5

vs. Arizona with a left ankle injury and missed Games 6-8. Smith, who has played the majority of his 10 NFL seasons with Cincinnati, re-signed with the Bengals as a free agent on July 25. His career totals include 115 games played and 98 starts, including 103 games and 86 starts for Cincinnati. Also providing depth at G and OT is veteran John Jerry, who signed with the Bengals in June after Williams' injury. Jerry has seen time in seven games this season, and started at LOT in Games 6-8, subbing for the injured Smith. Jerry has experience under offensive line coach Jim Turner and head coach Zac Taylor with the Miami Dolphins. Jerry has played in 128 career games, with 104 starts. Entering this season, he had two career starts at LOT. Billy Price, a 2018 first-round pick (21st overall) out of Ohio State, began the year as a reserve but has since started four games at LG (Game 3 and Games 6-8). Price played last season as the Bengals' No. 1 C but was limited to just 10 games by a foot injury. G Alex Redmond returned to the active roster on Oct. 7, after serving a suspension for Games 1-4 due to a violation of the NFL's policy on performance-enhancing substances. Redmond saw his first action of the season in Game 6 at Baltimore, and started Games 6-8 at RG for the injured Miller. Redmond started 15 games at RG last season for the Bengals. In Game 1 at Seattle, rookie G Michael Jordan, a Bengals fourth-round pick and the youngest player on the roster (turns 22 in January), became just the 16th Bengals rookie to start on the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower. Jordan has played in six games this season, with four starts at LG. Jordan struggled with a knee injury that caused him to miss Game 3 at Buffalo, and is now in a reserve role. He was an active DNP in Game 6 at Baltimore. Jordan was a three-year starter in college at Ohio State, and is one of only six players, and the first offensive lineman since Pro Football Hall of Famer Orlando Pace in 1994, to ever start an opening game as a true freshman at OSU. New to the Bengals' offensive line is OT/G Fred Johnson, who was acquired on Oct. 14 on waivers from the Pittsburgh Steelers. Johnson, a rookie out of the University of Florida, was originally a college free agent signee of the Steelers in May. Johnson made his NFL debut in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, but was an active/DNP in Game 8 against the L.A. Rams.

Defensive linemen: Considered one of the top interior defensive linemen in football, 10th-year DT Geno Atkins again anchors the Bengals' defensive line and continues his climb up the Bengals' all-time sack list. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Atkins recorded his second and third sacks of the season after dropping Jaguars QB Gardner Minshew two times in a three-minute span. Atkins' first sack of the season came in Game 3 against Buffalo (a two-yard loss). The 10th-year veteran now has 74 sacks, second-most in team history, most by a Bengals interior lineman and 9.5 shy of the all-time lead. Atkins in 2018 led the Bengals in sacks (10) for the fifth time in his career. In his nine previous seasons, Atkins has finished in at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior defensive lineman five different times — he claimed it outright three times (2012, '16, '17) and shared it twice ('11 and '15). The Bengals are 8-5 (.615) over Atkins' career when he records more than one sack. Atkins' seven Pro Bowl selections are the most ever by a Bengals defensive player, and tied with teammate A.J. Green for the second-most in team history behind Hall of Fame OT Anthony Munoz (11). Standing in third place on the Bengals' all-time career sack list is 10th-year DE Carlos Dunlap, whose 73.5 sacks are 10 shy of all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). After appearing in 115 consecutive contests and not missing a game since 2012, Dunlap has missed Games 6-7 with a knee injury. Dunlap has one sack this season, which he registered in Game 1 at Seattle. Dunlap has 16 career games with more than one sack, and the Bengals are 10-6 in those contests, including 7-1 since the beginning of 2015. Also considered one of the NFL's most proficient defensive linemen at batting down passes, Dunlap's 30 PDs from 2016-18 were the most in the NFL among non-defensive backs. In 2016, he became the first-ever defensive lineman to lead the Bengals in passes defended (15). And in 2015, Dunlap's career-best 13.5 sacks were the second-most in a season in Bengals history. Second-year DE Sam Hubbard, a Cincinnati native (Archbishop Moeller High School), has taken over at RDE this season. So far in 2019, Hubbard leads all Bengals defensive linemen in tackles (44) and is tied with Atkins in sacks (three). In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Hubbard totaled five tackles, including his third sack (a five-yard loss) of the season. In Game 3 at Buffalo, Hubbard posted six tackles (five solo) and collected his second career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after stripping the ball from Bills RB T.J. Yeldon. Hubbard made his first career start in the opener at Seattle, and recorded a team-high 10 tackles, including two sacks of Seahawks QB Russell Wilson. Fourth-year DT Andrew Billings lines up as Cincinnati's No. 1 NT for the second straight season. Billings has played in every game this season, with six starts at NT, and has 14 tackles. Third-year DE Carl Lawson, considered one of the Bengals' most talented young defenders, returned to action this season after having his 2018 campaign cut short by a torn ACL in his right knee. Lawson has played in four of the eight games this season, missing Games 3-4 and Games 7-8 with hamstring issues. After returning to action in Game 5, Lawson re-aggravated his right hamstring injury in Game 6 at Baltimore. Lawson made his second career start in Game 6, and totaled three tackles and recorded his first sack of the season, and first since Game 4 of 2018. Lawson turned heads in 2017, when his 8.5 sacks led all NFL rookies and tied for the second-most ever by a Bengals rookie. Veteran DT Josh Tupou, who is tied for the heaviest Bengal on the roster, adds a massive run-stuffing presence to the middle of the Bengals' defensive line. After missing the final six games of 2018 due to a torn pectoral muscle, Tupou has appeared in all eight games this season, has 11 total tackles and he made his first career start in Game 3 at Buffalo. Andrew Brown, a 2018 Bengals fifth-round draft pick out of Virginia, made the roster this year after spending his rookie season on Cincinnati's practice squad and Practice Squad/Injured list (hand). After being inactive for the first two games this season, Brown has logged time in Games 3-8, and has 10 total tackles. Brown made his first career NFL start in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville and recorded a career-high five tackles. Brown was the Gatorade National Player of the Year coming out of high school in 2013, and totaled 26.5 TFLs and 10.5 sacks in four seasons at UVA. Rounding out the defensive line is DT Renell Wren, a 2019 fourth-round pick out of Arizona State. Wren has played in six games so far this season and has four total tackles. At a massive 6-5, 318 pounds, Wren totaled 14.5 tackles for losses and three sacks in four seasons at ASU. Anthony Zettel, a fourth-year DE, was originally signed by the Bengals on Oct. 18 and played in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville (no statistics), before being waived on Oct. 21. He signed again on Oct. 23 and played a reserve role in Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. He originally was a college free agent signee of Detroit in 2016, and was with the Lions through the '17 season. He spent last season with the Cleveland Browns, before being waived on final cuts this season. He has played in 45 career games (16 starts), and has 73 tackles, 7.5 sacks and a forced fumble.

Linebackers: The Bengals' linebackers are led in 2019 by fourth-year pro Nick Vigil, who has started all eight games at LB this season. Vigil's 65 tackles this season lead the team. In Games 4-6, Vigil not only led the team in tackles, but he posted double-digit stops in each of those contests, marking the first time he collected 10 or more tackles in three consecutive games. In Game 6 at Baltimore, Vigil tied his season-high with 13 tackles, and collected his second career fumble recovery. In addition to his team-high 11 tackles in Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Vigil collected his first career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after jarring the ball loose from Steelers WR Diontae Johnson. Vigil now has eight career games with 10 or more tackles. Last season, Vigil finished third on the team in tackles (84), despite missing five games due to a knee injury. Lining up next to Vigil is sixth-year pro and Cincinnati native (Northwest High School) Preston Brown, who is in his second season with the Bengals. Brown has started all eight games this season, and has 48 total tackles. Brown recovered a fumble and totaled two special teams tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, he recorded a team-high 14 tackles, and in Game 1 at Seattle, he had four tackles and forced a fumble (Bengals recovered). When healthy, Brown has proved to be one of the NFL's most productive tacklers, after recording an NFL-best 504 combined tackles from 2014-17. The Bengals this year invested a third-round draft pick on Germaine Pratt of North Carolina State, who began his college career at S before switching to LB. Pratt has played in all eight games and totaled 15 tackles on defense and three on special teams. Pratt made his first career start in Game 6 at Baltimore, and has seen increased playing time since. Last season was Pratt's first as a starting LB, and he ended up leading the Wolfpack in tackles (104) while earning first-team All-ACC honors. Third-year pro Jordan Evans, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen time mainly as a rotational linebacker over his three seasons in Cincinnati, with 37 games played and nine starts. Evans this year has contributed mainly on special teams, making two solo tackles. LaRoy Reynolds, the newest Bengals LB, joins the team after signing as a free agent on Sept. 10. Since being acquired, Reynolds has appeared in all seven possible games, and has three tackles and one pass defended. Reynolds, a seventh-year player out of the University of Virginia, previously spent time with the Jaguars, Bears, Falcons and Eagles. For his career, Reynolds has 91 career games played (seven starts) with 84 tackles, two fumble recoveries and two passes defended.

Defensive backs: Shawn Williams, a 2013 third-round draft pick, fills a starting S position for the fourth straight season. Williams' 64 tackles lead the Bengals' secondary. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Williams collected his fourth-career game with double-digit tackles (12). Williams posted a team-high nine tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. At the other safety spot is second-year pro Jessie Bates III. To begin his career, Bates has played and started in all 24 career games. Bates has five career games with double-digit tackles, including two this season. After leading the team in tackles (111) a year ago, Bates currently has the third-most tackles on the team at 63. In Game 8 against the Los Angeles Rams, Bates led the team with seven solo tackles. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, he recorded 12 tackles, which led the team and tied his career high. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Bates collected his first career fumble recovery. Considered one of Cincinnati's top young defenders, William Jackson III is in his fourth season as a Bengal, and second as a full-time starting CB. Jackson suffered a shoulder injury in Game 6 at Baltimore, which caused him to miss Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, but he returned to action in Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. Jackson, the Bengals' first-round pick in 2016, collected his second career interception in Week 2 with a 19-yard pick off of San Francisco QB Jimmy Garoppolo. His other career INT is a 75-yard pick-six of Packers QB Aaron Rodgers in 2017. Manning the other starting CB spot for the fifth straight season is Dre Kirkpatrick, a first-round pick of the Bengals in 2012. So far this season, Kirkpatrick has 33 total tackles and four passes defended (tied for team lead). After starting the first six games of the season, Kirkpatrick missed Games 7-8 after suffering a knee injury in Game 6 at Baltimore. His status for Game 9 against Baltimore is not yet known. Kirkpatrick got off to a strong start in the season-opener in Seattle, posting five tackles, including a sack, along with his first career fumble recovery. Kirkpatrick has 10 career INTs, one behind Williams (11) for the lead among active Bengals. At nickel DB, the Bengals turn to veteran CB B.W. Webb. Despite suffering a right arm injury in Game 2, Webb has appeared in seven games this season and made six starts (four at NCB, and two at CB). In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Webb started in place of Jackson and collected three tackles and two passes defended. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Webb had two tackles and two passes defended, including a pass deflection on third-and-10, which forced a Cardinals punt late in the fourth quarter. The stop led to the offense scoring the game-tying TD with 2:03 left in game. An unrestricted free agent signee over the offseason, Webb has spent time with the N.Y. Giants (2018), Cleveland ('17), New Orleans ('16), Tennessee ('15), Pittsburgh ('14) and Dallas ('13). Last season with the Giants, Webb's defensive backs coach was current Bengals defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. Making his 2019 debut in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville was CB Darqueze Dennard, who started at CB for the injured Kirkpatrick. In his first action of the season, Dennard recorded five tackles and two passes defended. But Dennard suffered a hamstring injury in the Jacksonville game, and was inactive for Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. His status for this Sunday's game vs. Baltimore is unknown. Dennard had missed Games 1-6 after being placed on the Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform list (knee) prior to the start of training camp. Dennard, a Bengals 2014 first-round pick, has played in 69 career games (20 starts), and has 219 tackles, three INTs, three sacks, 19 PDs, two FFs and a FR. Adding depth at safety is Clayton Fejedelem, a seventh-round pick of the Bengals in 2016 who has become a core special teams player and valuable reserve on defense. Fejedelem has played in all 56 possible games over his career (six starts), and he's led the Bengals in special teams tackles in each of his first three seasons. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen action in all eight games this season, and has been a contributor on both defense and special teams. Wilson has 11 tackles this year, and ranks tied for seventh with two forced fumbles. In addition to his work on defense, Wilson has nine kickoff returns for 337 yards, including a 92-yard TD on the opening kickoff in Game 6 at Baltimore. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Wilson saw extended action on defense and made back-to-back tackles for losses on a third and fourth down, forcing a Steelers turnover on downs. In Game 3, Wilson forced a fumble by Bills QB Josh Allen, but it was deemed that the ball was recovered by the Bengals out of bounds. CB Tony McRae, a rotational defensive player and special teams regular, also returns in 2019. McRae has played in 24 career games for Cincinnati and has 20 tackles on defense and 10 on special teams. In Game 8 against the Los Angeles Rams, McRae logged a career-high five tackles and one PD. New to the defensive backfield is CB Torry McTyer, who the Bengals signed from the Kansas City Chiefs' practice squad on Sept. 26. McTyer, a third-year player out of Nevada-Las Vegas, was originally a college free agent signee of the Miami Dolphins in 2017, and has previous experience playing under secondary/cornerbacks coach Daronte Jones and defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. He had his first playing time of the season on special teams in Game 5 vs. Arizona, and had two defensive tackles in Game 6 at Baltimore. McTyer has played in 26 career games and has 34 tackles and three passes defended. Greg Mabin, a rotational CB and third-year player out of the University of Iowa, has spent time on both the active roster and practice squad this year for the Bengals. He played in Game 4 at Pittsburgh (no statistics) and was inactive for Game 5 vs. Arizona. He was originally a college free agent signee of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 2017, and also spent time with the Buffalo Bills and San Francisco 49ers. He has played in 21 career games (one start), and has 18 tackles, a pass defended and a forced fumble.

Special teams: S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick out of Houston who has long been a key contributor in kick coverage (three ST tackles), has burst onto the scene as a kickoff returner this season. Wilson currently has nine kickoff returns for an NFL-best 337 yards and a TD. Wilson is the first NFL player since 2010-11 (Jets RB Joe McKnight) to have his first 10 career KORs include at least three of 40 or more yards and a TD. In Game 6 at Baltimore, Wilson totaled 142 KOR yards (47.3 avg.), the most in a single game this season, and his TD was the third-longest of the season (longest in the AFC), the first Bengals KOR TD since HB Bernard Scott 2009 and it marked the first time the Bengals opened the game with a kickoff return for a TD. Wilson got his first KOR opportunity of the season in Game 5 vs. Arizona, after WR Alex Erickson left with a concussion, and he recorded three returns for a total of 97 yards (32.3 avg.). Erickson has been a key contributor for the Bengals in the return game since joining the team as a CFA in 2016. Erickson, though, has seen more action at WR early this season due to injuries at that position group, and has just two kickoff returns (for 44 yards) on the year. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh — his first action returning kickoffs this season — Erickson had two returns for 44 yards, including a 25-yard return in the second quarter. Erickson also has posted 57 yards on eight punt returns this year. Last season, Erickson's 1049 kickoff return yards were second-most in the NFL. As a rookie in 2016, Erickson posted an AFC-best 27.9-yard average on kickoff returns, the second-best mark in team history. Eighth-year pro Randy Bullock has served as the Bengals' placekicker since midway through the 2016 season, when he joined Cincinnati on waivers from Pittsburgh. So far this season, Bullock is 13-for-13 on PATs and 11-for-13 on FG attempts, including nine for his last nine. Handling punting duties again this season is 11th-year pro Kevin Huber, the longest-tenured Bengal on the roster. Huber, a Cincinnati native (McNicholas High School), stands as the Bengals' career leader in every significant punting category, including punts (807), punting yards (36,315) gross average (45.00), net average (39.86) and inside-20 punts (281). He also shares the franchise record for longest punt (75 yards) and owns the Bengals' best career ratio for inside-20s to touchbacks (4.39-to-1; 281-64). Huber, who also serves as the holder for placekicks, has played in 171 of 173 possible games (including postseason) since joining the team as a fifth-round draft pick in 2009. LS Clark Harris, the oldest Bengal on the roster at 35, has served as the Bengals' long snapper since midway through the 2009 season. Harris has been a paragon of reliability throughout his career in Cincinnati, with no unplayable snaps in 1486 attempts as a Bengal (804 punts, 688 placekicks). In 2017, Harris became the first-ever Bengals long snapper to earn a Pro Bowl nod. Harris has also been solid in kick coverage throughout his time in Cincinnati, with 33 career special teams tackles.

2019 GAME SUMMARIES

WEEK 1, GAME 1

Seattle Seahawks 21, Cincinnati Bengals 20 Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 at CenturyLink Field

Cincinnati outgained Seattle by 196 net yards (395-161), recorded 10 more first downs (22-12) and held more than a 10-minute advantage in time of possession (35:50-24:10), but the Bengals ultimately were inefficient in converting yards into points and lost their first game under new head coach Zac Taylor. The Bengals scored just one FG in three trips inside the Seahawks' red zone in the game. And in the third quarter alone, three times Cincinnati reached Seattle's 36-yard line or farther (36, 27 and 12) and came away with no points (the drives ended on a fumble, a missed FG and a turnover on downs). Seattle, however, scored TDs on three of their four drives into Cincinnati territory overall, including two TDs on their only two trips inside the Bengals' red-zone. QB Andy Dalton had career highs in yards (418) and completions (35) in 51 attempts, tossed two long TDs to WR John Ross III, and had a 106.5 passer rating. Ross had career highs in catches (seven) and receiving yards (158), and his TDs came on passes of 55 and 33 yards. The Bengals' defense enjoyed a solid game overall, recording four sacks and holding the Seahawks, who led the NFL in rushing in 2018, to just 72 yards on the ground. Seahawks QB Russell Wilson, however, stung the Bengals with a 44-yard TD pass to WR Tyler Lockett on the first play of the fourth quarter for what ultimately were the game's winning points.

WEEK 2, GAME 2

San Francisco 49ers 41, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Sept. 15, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

The game started poorly right away for Cincinnati — a penalty erased a kickoff return, followed by a sack, then by a fumble on QB-RB exchange for no gain, then a failed third-down conversion attempt, and then a punt that barely made it to midfield. And, largely, the game was all downhill from there for the Bengals. The 49ers scored TDs on three of their first four drives to jump out to a 21-7 first-half lead and never looked back. San Francisco beat the Cincinnati soundly on both sides of the ball, outgaining the Bengals in total net yards 572-316, including 259-25 rushing. There were some individual positives for Cincinnati, as WR Tyler Boyd had 10 catches for 122 yards, and WR John Ross III had four catches for 112 yards and a TD. The 49ers improved to 2-0. The Bengals fell to 0-2.

WEEK 3, GAME 3

Buffalo Bills 21, Cincinnati Bengals 17
Sunday, Sept. 22, 2019 at New Era Field

Cincinnati's offense stalled for nearly the entirety of the first two quarters en route to a 14-0 halftime deficit, and the early ineffectiveness ultimately doomed the Bengals' late efforts for a comeback win against an undefeated Buffalo team in a stadium packed with rowdy Bills fans. The Bengals, who failed to produce a first down until the two-minute warning of the first half, had just 76 total net yards at intermission. Still, when they kick-started their offense in the second half, the Bengals scored 17 unanswered points to take a 17-14 lead with just under five minutes left. The Bills, however, responded with a late seven-play, 78-yard drive, which was highlighted by a 49-yard pass from QB Josh Allen to TE Dawson Knox in which Knox stiff-armed and bulldozed his way deep into Bengals territory, and ended in a one-yard TD run by RB Frank Gore. QB Andy Dalton drove the Bengals 42 yards to the Bills' 28-yard line with 20 seconds left, but his next pass bounced off the outstretched hand of WR Auden Tate and was intercepted by Buffalo CB Tre'Davious White to seal the Bills' win. The Bengals fell to 0-3, while the Bills improved to 3-0.

WEEK 4, GAME 4

Pittsburgh Steelers 27, Cincinnati Bengals 3
Monday night, Sept. 30, 2019 at Heinz Field

A FG by K Randy Bullock gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead after one quarter of the 100th meeting between the Bengals and Steelers, but Pittsburgh scored 27 unanswered points in the final three quarters and cruised to a dominant 27-3 win on Monday Night Football. Both teams entered the matchup 0-3, and the Steelers were without QB Ben Roethlisberger (Reserve/Injured; elbow) for the first time in a game against the Bengals since 2003. But Roethlisberger's replacement, QB Mason Rudolph, filled in admirably, completing 24 of 28 passes for 229 yards, two TDs and no INTs (124.6 passer rating). His top two targets were RBs James Conner and Jaylen Samuels, who combined for 16 catches for 140 yards and one TD receiving. Samuels also added another TD rushing. Bengals QB Andy Dalton was sacked eight times, the most in his nine-year career, and Cincinnati's offense gained just 175 total net yards. It was the eighth straight win in the series for the Steelers, who improved to 1-3. The Bengals fell to 0-4.

WEEK 5, GAME 5

Arizona Cardinals 26, Cincinnati Bengals 23 Sunday, Oct. 6, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

Behind 23-9 midway through the fourth quarter, the Bengals rallied to tie the game on a 42-yard TD pass from QB Andy Dalton to WR Tyler Boyd with 1:41 remaining. But Cardinals rookie QB and No. 1 overall draft pick Kyle Murray led Arizona on a six-play, 62-yard drive that ended with a Zane Gonzalez FG as time expired, and Arizona escaped Paul Brown Stadium with a 26-23 win. Despite allowing 514 total yards, including 266 rushing yards and a 7.0-yard rushing average, the Bengals' defense was stout in the red zone, keeping the game close by allowing the Cardinals just one TD on six trips inside the 20. Despite not having two of his top three receivers — John Ross and A.J. Green, both out due to injury — Dalton completed 71.1 percent of his passes (27 of 38) and leaned heavily on Boyd, who totaled 10 receptions for 123 yards and a TD. The Bengals fell to 0-5, while Arizona improved to 1-3-1.

WEEK 6, GAME 6

Baltimore Ravens 23, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Oct. 13, 2019 at M&T Bank Stadium

Cincinnati raced to literally the fastest start in team history when S Brandon Wilson took the opening kickoff 92 yards for a score, becoming the first Bengal ever to begin a game returning a kickoff for a TD. But the Ravens answered, scoring on their first three possessions to take a 17-7 lead, and they never looked back. Baltimore, which amassed 497 total yards, leaned heavily on a ground attack that gained 269 yards on 43 rushes and earned a 19-minute edge in time of possession (39:42 to 20:18). The Ravens were led by QB Lamar Jackson, whose 152 rushing yards were the third-most ever in a game by a QB. Cincinnati's rushing offense, on the other hand, struggled to find traction and totaled just 33 yards on 14 attempts. But the game was kept close, and the visiting Bengals pulled to within six with 1:28 remaining when QB Andy Dalton capped a 12-play, 48-yard drive with his 21st career TD (a Bengals QB record). Wilson recovered the ensuing onside kick attempt, but it was ruled that the kick did not travel the required 10 yards, and the Ravens were able to run out the clock. Cincinnati fell to 0-6, while Baltimore improved to 4-2.

WEEK 7, GAME 7

Jacksonville Jaguars 27, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Oct. 20, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

Cincinnati led 7-6 at halftime and 10-9 after three quarters, but the visiting Jaguars scored 18 fourth-quarter points to depart Paul Brown Stadium with a win, leaving the Bengals still in search of their first victory. The Jaguars gained 460 net yards, including 216 rushing, but Cincinnati's defense proved stout in the red zone and held Jacksonville to just one TD on six trips inside the 20. Bengals QB Andy Dalton threw three fourth-quarter INTs, including one in the red zone and another that was returned for a TD. The Bengals' offense struggled to find traction in the ground game, as HBs Giovanni Bernard and Joe Mixon were held to a combined two yards on 14 carries, and the Jaguars had nearly a 17-minute advantage in time of possession (38:17 to 21:43). Jacksonville improved to 3-4, while Cincinnati fell to 0-7.

WEEK 8, GAME 8

Los Angeles Rams 24, Cincinnati Bengals 10 Sunday, Oct. 27, 2019 at Wembley Stadium (London, England)

The Bengals traveled to London, England, as part of the NFL's International Series, and took on head coach Zac Taylor's former team, the L.A. Rams. The two teams traded scores for much of the first half, before Rams WR Cooper Kupp caught a 65-yard TD on a double-reverse pass that gave L.A. a one-score edge at the break. But while the Bengals' defense managed to hold the Rams to just seven second-half points, the offense struggled after halftime and was held scoreless in the final two periods en route to the defeat. Cincinnati couldn't find an answer for Kupp, whose 220 receiving yards tied for the third-most ever in a game by a Bengals opponent. Bengals QB Andy Dalton tossed his 197th career TD, tying former QB Ken Anderson for most in team history. Then, with :08 remaining and the game out of reach, Dalton connected with WR Auden Tate for what would've been the record-setter, but a replay review overturned the ruling on the field of a catch and nullified the score. Los Angeles improved to 5-3, while Cincinnati fell to 0-8. On Tuesday following the game, Taylor announced that rookie Ryan Finley would take over as the team's starting QB in the Bengals' next game after the bye.
