WEEKLY NEWS RELEASE

OCT. 2, 2019

ARIZONA CARDINALS (0-3-1) AT CINCINNATI BENGALS (0-4-0)

WEEK 5, GAME 5
SUNDAY, OCT. 6
AT PAUL BROWN STADIUM

NEXT WEEK: WEEK 6, GAME 6
SUNDAY, OCT. 13 AT BALTIMORE

GAME NOTES

Kickoff: 1 p.m. Eastern.

Television: The game will air on FOX-TV. In the Bengals' home region, it will be carried by WXIX-TV (Ch. 19) in Cincinnati, WGRT-TV (Ch. 45) in Dayton, WDKY-TV (Ch. 56) in Lexington, and WTTE-TV (Ch. 28) in Columbus. Broadcasters are Thom Brennaman (play-by-play), Chris Spielman (analyst) and Shannon Spake (sideline reporter).

Radio: The game will air on the Bengals Radio Network, led by Cincinnati flagship stations WLW-AM (700), WCKY-AM (ESPN 1530; all sports) and WEBN-FM (102.7). Broadcasters are Dan Hoard (play-by-play) and Dave Lapham (analyst).

Setting the scene: The Bengals this week return home to face the Arizona Cardinals at Paul Brown Stadium. Both teams will be attempting to shake off disappointing Week 4 losses and find the win column for the first time this season.

The Bengals' Week 4 defeat came at the hands of the Pittsburgh Steelers on Monday Night Football. Cincinnati gained an early 3-0 advantage after one quarter, but failed to score again the rest of the night. And after starting slow, Pittsburgh scored 27 unanswered points in the final three quarters and cruised to a 27-3 victory.

"It's definitely been tough," said Bengals QB Andy Dalton after the game. "But with where we're at right now, we just have to understand that every game is important. We've got to figure out who we are."

That process starts on Sunday against Arizona, when both Bengals head coach Zac Taylor and Cardinals head coach Kliff Kingsbury will be seeking their first win as a head coach. But to find the win column on Sunday, Taylor's Bengals will need to overcome injuries to several key players.

The statuses of WR A.J. Green (ankle) and OT Cordy Glenn (concussion), who have yet to play this season, remain uncertain. So does that of WR John Ross, who left Monday's contest with a shoulder injury. And it's also unclear whether DT Ryan Glasgow (thigh) and DE Carl Lawson (hamstring) can return after missing the last two games.

"I told the (players) that we're going to turn this thing around with the guys that are in that locker room," Taylor said. "We feel awful right now, but that's the way it is. We're 0-4. No one feels sorry for us. We've got a game in six days, so we've got to turn around, be ready and go try to get our first win."

Needless to say, no one inside Paul Brown Stadium expected an 0-4 start to the season. But while there certainly are plenty of Xs and Os to examine this week, Taylor says the most important way to right the ship can't be practiced.

"It's a test of our character," he said. "That's what I told the guys. Your character as a man and your character as a football player — how are you going to respond right now? Are you going to feel sorry for us, because nobody else on this planet feels sorry for us right now. It's going to be the opposite. People are going to take shots at you now."

"So what are we about? I think it's a group of guys that's going to step up and respond. It just hasn't been that way yet."

Arizona enters Sunday's game 0-3-1, after falling 27-10 to Seattle last week.

The series: Cincinnati leads 6-5 overall. The Bengals also lead 6-1 in games played in Cincinnati. The only game in series history won by the visitors was Arizona's 35-27 win at Paul Brown Stadium in 2007.

The Cardinals won the most recent meeting, 34-31 at University of Phoenix Stadium in 2015 on Sunday Night Football.

The Bengals were 2-1 against the Cardinals when the franchise was based in St. Louis (prior to 1988), and the series is tied 4-4 since the Cardinals' move to Arizona.

Complete Bengals-Cardinals series results are on page 206 of the 2019 Bengals Media Guide.

Team bests from the series:

Bengals — MOST POINTS: 42, in a 42-24 win over the St. Louis Cardinals at Riverfront Stadium in 1973. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 18, in the 42-24 win in 1973. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 13, in a 24-13 win at Paul Brown Stadium in 2000.

Cardinals — MOST POINTS: 41, in a 41-27 win at St. Louis in 1985. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 21, in a 28-7 win at Sun Devil Stadium in 1994. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 7, in the 28-7 win in 1994.

The last meetings: Summaries of the two Bengals-Cardinals meetings — at Cincinnati in 2011 and at Arizona in '15 — are on page 14 of this news release.

Bengals career records watch: Here is a look at potential upcoming movement in the Bengals' career records book (regular season):

- QB Andy Dalton has 4087 career pass attempts, 388 behind QB Ken Anderson (4475) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Dalton has 2545 career completions, 109 shy of Anderson (2654) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Bengals WR Alex Erickson has 93 career punt returns, five shy of CB Adam Jones (98) for fourth place all-time. WR Brandon Tate (153) is the Bengals' all-time leader. Erickson passed S Tommy Casanova (91) for fifth place all-time in Game 3 at Buffalo.
- Erickson has 727 career punt return yards, 57 shy of Casanova (784) for fifth place all-time. Tate (1411) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- Erickson has 103 career kickoff returns, 12 shy of FB Eric Ball (115) for fifth place all-time. S/CB Tremain Mack (146) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- Erickson has 2566 career kickoff return yards, 186 behind RB Stanford Jennings (2752) for fourth place all-time. Mack (3583) is the Bengals' all-time leader.

- DE Carlos Dunlap has 73.5 career sacks, 10 short of DE Eddie Edwards* (83.5) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- DT Geno Atkins has 72 career sacks, 1.5 short of Dunlap (73.5) for second place all-time. Edwards* (83.5) is the Bengals' all-time leader.
- WR A.J. Green has 63 career receiving TDs, three behind WR Chad Johnson (66) for the Bengals' all-time lead.
- Green has 63 total TDs, one short of WR Carl Pickens and RB James Brooks (both with 64) for third place all-time. FB Pete Johnson (70) is the Bengals' all-time leader.

*—The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Records vs. Cardinals: The Bengals record book does not list any Bengals records set previously against the Cardinals or opponent records set by the Cardinals against Cincinnati.

The closest entry on the Bengals side is 37 completions by Carson Palmer against Arizona in 2007. That ranks second in Bengals history behind Ken Anderson's 40 in 1982 at San Diego.

Additional trivia note: Andy Dalton's 48 rushing yards against Arizona in his rookie season of 2011 stands through this week as his career-high rushing total for a game. He had five carries.

Individually vs. Cardinals: Current Bengals' past offensive performances for Cincinnati against Arizona in regular season include:

- QB Andy Dalton: Two games; 70 attempts and 40 completions (57.1 percent) for 469 yards (234.5 per game), 4 TDs and zero INTs (96.7 passer rating); 13 rushes for 82 yards (6.3-yard average).
- WR A.J. Green: Two games; Six receptions for 104 yards (17.3); Two rushes for 25 yards (12.5).
- HB Giovani Bernard: One game; Six rushes for 18 yards (3.0); Eight receptions for 128 yards (16.0).
- TE Tyler Eifert: One game; Three receptions for 22 yards (7.3) and two TDs.

Bengals-Cardinals connections: Cardinals LB Jordan Hicks is from Cincinnati (Lakota West High School) ... Cardinals OL Justin Murray was with the Bengals in 2017. Murray is also from Cincinnati (Sycamore High School) and played at the University of Cincinnati ... Cardinals DL Clinton McDonald was originally a seventh-round pick of the Bengals in 2009, and was with Cincinnati through the '11 preseason ... Cardinals DB Josh Shaw (Reserve/Injured) was originally a fourth-round pick of the Bengals in 2015, and was with Cincinnati through the '18 preseason ... Cardinals defensive coordinator Vance Joseph was on the Bengals' coaching staff from 2014-15. Joseph also coached at Bowling Green State University in 2004 ... Bengals QB Ryan Finley is from Phoenix, Ariz. (Paradise Valley High School) ... Bengals DT Renell Wren played at Arizona State University ... Cardinals DL Corey Peters is from Louisville, Ky., and played at the University of Kentucky ... Cardinals WR Johnnie Dixon (practice squad) played at Ohio State University ... Bengals defensive line coach Nick Eason played for the Cardinals from 2011-12 ... Bengals assistant strength and conditioning coach Garrett Swanson was college free agent signee of the Cardinals in 2016, and was with the team through preseason ... Cardinals linebackers coach Bill Davis played QB and WR at the University of Cincinnati from 1985-88. Davis also coached at Ohio State University from 2016-18 ... Cardinals assistant wide receivers coach Peter Badovinac coached at Ohio State University in 2018 ... Cardinals assistant special teams coach Randall McCray coached at the University of Toledo from 2003-06.

Uniform watch: The Bengals are scheduled to wear orange jerseys and white pants this week vs. Arizona.

Since 2004, the year of the Bengals' last significant uniform redesign, a number of color options for jerseys and pants have been available. Below are the records (regular season plus postseason) for the different combinations:

| JERSEY | PANTS | W-L-T | PCT. |
|-------------|-------------|---------|------|
| Orange* | Black | 6-1-0 | .857 |
| Orange* | White | 16-6-1 | .717 |
| White (CR)* | White (CR)* | 2-2-0 | .500 |
| Black | Black | 16-15-1 | .516 |
| Black | White | 36-35-1 | .507 |
| White | Black | 28-35-0 | .444 |
| White | White | 19-30-0 | .388 |

* — NFL rules allow teams to wear designated alternate jerseys, color rush (CR) uniforms and/or throwback uniforms for a combined total of three regular-season games. As in years past, orange served as the Bengals' designated alternate jersey, and for the third straight year, the team used their color rush uniforms (white jersey, white pants), which debuted in 2016. Cincinnati does not have a throwback uniform.

THE HEAD COACHES

Zac Taylor was named the 10th head coach in Cincinnati Bengals history on Feb. 4, 2019. He comes to Cincinnati after two seasons with the L.A. Rams, where he served as assistant wide receivers coach in 2017 and quarterbacks coach in '18.

In 2018, Taylor helped guide Rams QB Jared Goff to career highs in every major passing category — completions (364), attempts (561), passing yards (4688), passing TDs (32), completion percentage (64.9), yards per attempt (8.36) and passer rating (101.1). Goff ranked fourth in the NFL in passing yards and eighth in passer rating. The Rams' QB play was a key component to their offense, which finished the regular season ranked second in the NFL in total net yards (421.1 per game), fifth in net passing yards (281.7), second in scoring (32.9), first in first downs (401) and fifth in third-down percentage (45.0). Los Angeles won the NFC West with a 13-3 regular-season record and advanced to Super Bowl LIII against the New England Patriots.

In 2017, Taylor helped oversee an emerging Rams passing offense that ranked 10th in the NFL in pass yards per game (239.4). Taylor directed the Rams' young receiving corps, headed by rookie Cooper Kupp, who finished the season with 62 catches, a team-high 869 receiving yards and five TDs. Kupp (869 yards), TE Gerald Everett (244) and WR Josh Reynolds (104) — all rookies — helped the Rams finish with the third-most receiving yards among rookie pass catchers.

Prior to his time with the Rams, Taylor had a one-year stint in the college ranks, serving as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Cincinnati in 2016. Taylor served under head coach Tommy Tuberville at UC.

Taylor broke into NFL coaching in 2012 with the Miami Dolphins as assistant quarterbacks coach. He was elevated to quarterbacks coach from 2013-15, and spent the final five games of '15 as the Dolphins' interim offensive coordinator and primary play-caller, after the team made coaching staff changes in late November. During his time in Miami, Taylor was instrumental in the development of QB Ryan Tannehill, the team's first-round draft pick in 2012.

Taylor's coaching career began at Texas A&M University, where he served as offensive graduate assistant and tight ends coach under head coach Mike Sherman from 2008-11. The Aggies shared the Big 12 South Championship in 2010 and played in three bowl games during Taylor's time in College Station.

As a player, Taylor began his collegiate career at Wake Forest (2002-03), before transferring to Butler County Community College in Kansas ('04) and then playing his final two seasons ('05-06) at the University of Nebraska. Taylor had a decorated career with the Cornhuskers, setting numerous school records and passing for a combined 5850 yards and 45 touchdowns. In his senior season of 2006, Taylor was named Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year after passing for 3197 total yards and leading the Cornhuskers to a 9-3 record, an appearance in the Big 12 Championship Game and a berth in the Cotton Bowl. He was inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 2017.

Taylor joined the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a college free agent in 2007, but he was waived prior to the start of training camp and never saw NFL action. Later that year, he joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, where he spent one season (did not play).

His father, Sherwood, was a defensive back and captain at the University of Oklahoma, playing under Sooners head coach Barry Switzer from 1976-79. Sherwood Taylor later served as an assistant coach at Oklahoma and Kansas State University. Taylor's brother, Press, played quarterback at Marshall University and is currently quarterbacks coach for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Taylor was born on May 10, 1983, in Norman, Okla., where he was raised and later attended Norman High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in communication studies from the University of Nebraska in 2006. He and his wife, Sarah, have four children — Brooks, Luke, Emma Claire and Milly. Sarah Taylor is the daughter of former Green Bay Packers and Texas A&M head coach Mike Sherman.

Kliff Kingsbury became a first-time NFL head coach when hired by Arizona on Jan. 11, 2019.

Kingsbury spent the previous six seasons (2013-18) as the head coach at his alma mater, Texas Tech, where he also called the plays for a Red Raiders offense that annually ranked among the top units in the country. Texas Tech averaged at least 30 points per game, 470 total yards per game and 300 passing yards per game in all six of his seasons. In 2016, Texas Tech led the nation in total offense (566.6 yards per game), passing offense (463.0) and ranked fifth in scoring offense (43.7 points per game). Patrick Mahomes, the NFL MVP in 2018, spent two full seasons (2015-16) as the starter at Texas Tech under Kingsbury during which the Red Raiders finished No. 1 nationally (2016) and No. 2 in total offense (2015). Kingsbury began coaching collegiately at Houston (2008-11) and Texas A&M ('12). Under Kingsbury's guidance, Mahomes (2016) and Houston's Case Keenum ('09, '11) both led the nation in passing.

Kingsbury played quarterback collegiately at Texas Tech (1999-2002) where he set 39 school records, 16 Big-12 marks and 17 NCAA records while throwing for 12,423 yards and 95 touchdowns.

Kingsbury was drafted in the sixth round (201st overall) by the New England Patriots in 2003, spent the '04 season on the Saints practice squad, and played with the N.Y. Jets in 2005. He played for the Cologne Centurions of NFL Europe in 2006 before attending training camp with the Bills that summer. Kingsbury finished his playing career in the CFL with the Montreal Alouettes and Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 2007.

Kingsbury played in high school for his father, Tim, at New Braunfels (Texas) High School. Kingsbury earned a bachelor's degree in management from Texas Tech in 2001. He was born on Aug. 9, 1979 in San Antonio, Texas.

Taylor vs. Cardinals: No previous meetings.

Taylor vs. Kingsbury: No previous meetings.

Kingsbury vs. Bengals: No previous meetings.

BENGALS NOTES

At the top of the list: Here's a look at where the Bengals rank — both individually and in team categories — among the top 10 in the NFL.

ANDY DALTON:

- Sixth in passing yards (1150).
- Fourth in pass attempts (166).
- Fifth in completions (102).
- Ninth in completions for first downs (50).
- Tied for ninth in completions of at least 20 yards (15).
- Tied for ninth in completions of at least 40 yards (three).

TYLER BOYD:

- Tied for sixth in receptions (27).
- Tied for fifth in third-down receptions (eight).

JOHN ROSS:

- Tied for 10th in receiving yards (328).
- Tied for ninth in receiving TDs (three).
- Tied for sixth in receptions of at least 20 yards (six).
- Tied for fifth in receptions of at least 40 yards (two).

BENGALS TEAM:

- Second in yards allowed per punt return (1.6).
- Tied for eighth in yards allowed per kickoff return (19.0).

Looking at first-year Bengals coaches: When Zac Taylor was named Bengals head coach on Feb. 4, questions immediately surfaced about how quickly he could return the team to success. But even the best coaches in Bengals history have taken time to right the ship.

Here's a look at the nine previous Bengals head coaches' records in their first full season as the team's head coach.

| HEAD COACH | 1ST FULL SEASON | RECORD |
|---------------------------|-----------------|--------|
| Paul Brown | 1968 | 3-11-0 |

How rookie head coaches stack up: When a first-time NFL head coach takes over, the age-old debate of "fresh face vs. experience" soon follows. So when Zac Taylor took over the Bengals in February, that debate surfaced, along with questions about how quickly he could produce results.

Over the last 10 seasons (2009-18), first-time NFL coaches in their first full season have gone a combined 304-352 (.463). Here's a look at how many wins those 41 rookie head coaches piled up in their first full regular season.

(NOTE: This includes only rookie coaches who made their NFL head coaching debut at the start of a season.)

Ross' happy homecoming: After battling injuries and struggling to stay on the field during his first two NFL seasons, Bengals WR John Ross III admitted over the offseason that he hadn't been himself.

"I can honestly say now that I lost confidence in myself the last two years," Ross explained. "I think that's what a lot of players lack sometimes."

Nevertheless, there was no shortage of pressure on the Bengals' 2017 first-round pick (ninth overall) entering his third season. To make matters worse, Ross suffered a hamstring injury just before the Bengals' first training camp practice, didn't practice until late August, and didn't play at all in preseason.

And so it seemed fitting that the Bengals were to open their season in Seattle, home of Ross' impressive college career at the University of Washington, and in the very stadium (CenturyLink Field) where he worked security in college.

Ross, though, struggled early on with drops, a problem that plagued him during his first two seasons in Cincinnati. But instead of finding himself on the bench, the Bengals stuck with him. After one drop in the second quarter where he would have had room to run for a significant gain, Dalton went right back to Ross on the next play and connected for a 55-yard TD (career-long for Ross).

"I just knew (Dalton) wasn't going to stop going to me," Ross said of his bounce-back TD. "I ran a route when I knew we needed a big play, and I had to go down the field, so I just figured I should just run as fast as I can, go up and make a big play."

When all was said and done at Seattle, Ross had posted career highs in receptions (seven), receiving yards (158) and receiving TDs (two). Only one other Bengal had ever broken 150 receiving yards and scored two TDs in a season-opener — A.J. Green in 2013 (162 yards, two TDs at Chicago). Not a bad homecoming.

"It felt surreal," Ross said of playing in front of the Seattle fans. "To play here in front of people who used to watch me in college, it did feel good. I'm thankful."

"Now I come in with a different mentality, and now I've got to go out there and continue to believe in myself."

Through the first four weeks of the season, Ross' 328 receiving yards rank tied for fourth in the AFC, and his six catches of at least 20 yards are tied for sixth in the NFL.

Boyd eyeing another thousand: With WR A.J. Green missing time due to an ankle injury, WR Tyler Boyd has again stepped into the spotlight as the Bengals No. 1 WR. But it's familiar territory for the fourth-year pro. Boyd served in the same role the second half of last season while Green was out with a foot injury, and he ended the year with a career-high 1028 receiving yards.

Boyd himself ended up missing the Bengals' last two games of 2018 due to a knee injury, but not before becoming the first Bengal other than Green to top 1000 receiving yards in a season since 2009 (Chad Johnson, 1047). Now fully healthy, and fresh off of a new contract extension that keeps him in Cincinnati through 2023, Boyd and head coach Zac Taylor have their sights set on another productive season.

"Tyler is a young, up-and-coming receiver in this league, and he's had great production over the years," Bengals head coach Zac Taylor said of Boyd. "He's a great separator, he's got great hands, has great attention to detail and is very coachable. All the traits that we look for in receivers, Tyler exhibits."

Boyd has gotten off to a fast start this season, with 283 receiving yards on a team-high 27 receptions (sixth in NFL). He needs to average 59.8 receiving yards over the final 12 games to reach 1000 for the season.

T.B. chasing T.J.: Although it's still early in the 2019 season, WR Tyler Boyd has already positioned himself to make a run at former Bengals WR T.J. Houshmandzadeh's team record for receptions in a season. Houshmandzadeh's 112 catches in 2007 stand as the top mark in team history, with WR Carl Pickens' 100 in 1996 counting as the only other instance of a Bengal reaching the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd so far has 27 catches, sixth-most in the NFL this season, tied for fourth-most by a Bengal in the first four games of a season, and just narrowly off pace to break Houshmandzadeh's record.

Houshmandzadeh had 39 catches through four games in 2007, and Pickens had 21. Boyd would need to average 7.1 catches over the Bengals' final 12 games to equal Houshmandzadeh's 112, and 6.1 per game to reach the 100-catch plateau.

T.B. a menace on third down: Bengals WR Tyler Boyd has started the 2019 season right where he left off the last three years — causing problems for opposing defenses on third downs. Seven of Boyd's eight catches on third downs so far this season have converted first downs. Those seven third-down receptions that went for first downs are tied for fifth in the NFL. Boyd has 100 receiving yards on third down this season, good for a 12.5-yard average.

Last season, Boyd finished with 22 first-down receptions on third down, good for a career-high and the most in a season by a Bengal since 2008 (26 by T.J. Houshmandzadeh). That total also tied for last year's league lead in that category with Houston's DeAndre Hopkins and New Orleans' Michael Thomas. It should also be noted that Boyd missed the final two games of 2018 due to a knee injury.

Overall on third down last season, Boyd had 24 catches (tied for third in AFC) for 302 yards (12.6 average) and three TDs.

Having success on third down isn't a new trend for Boyd. As a rookie in 2016, his 22 third-down receptions led all rookies, and his 16 third-down receptions that converted first downs tied for the rookie lead with the N.Y. Giants' Sterling Shepard.

Bengals tough when Joe's clicking: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor has alluded several times to his intent to lean more heavily upon HB Joe Mixon in 2019. History shows that probably is a good idea.

The Bengals are 6-1 since Mixon's rookie season of 2017 when he gets at least 20 carries, with the lone outlier being a loss at the L.A. Chargers late last year after the Bengals had lost QB Andy Dalton and WR A.J. Green for the season due to injuries.

The Bengals are also 6-4 in games where Mixon has reached 100 total yards, with two of the four losses coming late last year without Dalton and Green. And when Mixon reaches 100 rushing yards, Cincinnati is 3-2, with both losses coming last year without Dalton and Green.

Mixon has not yet reached any of those three marks so far this season.

Mixon looks to build on strong 2018: Third-year HB Joe Mixon this season is looking to defend a strong 2018 campaign in which he became the only Bengals player ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards (1168) in a season (RB Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing in 1968). Mixon, who also led the conference in rushing attempts (237), achieved the feat despite missing two games with a knee injury.

"I feel like Coach Taylor's going to throw the load on me," Mixon said of his 2019 approach. "But I've got to be physically and mentally prepared to be able to take it on and do the best job that I can do. As long as I'm in great condition, I feel like I'll thrive in this offense."

Mixon last season recorded the 22nd 1000-yard rushing season in Bengals history, and became just the 11th Bengal ever to hit that mark. He also scored a team-high nine TDs (eight rushing, one receiving), and had four games of 100 or more yards rushing and seven games of 100 or more yards from scrimmage.

Mixon has started 2019 behind his pace from last season, in part due to an ankle injury suffered in the season opener at Seattle, and currently has 149 rushing yards on 47 carries.

15 carries for Gio does the trick: Over his now seven seasons in Cincinnati, Giovani Bernard has carved out a spot among the top dual-threat running backs in team history.

But when examining Bernard's workload specifically as a rusher throughout his career, a significant trend becomes apparent — the Bengals are 10-1-1 in games in which Bernard has at least 15 rushing attempts. Bernard has not yet reached 15 carries in a game in 2019, however Cincinnati was 1-0 in 2018 when Bernard hit the mark (15 rushes for 69 yards in Game 4 at Atlanta).

In the 12 career games in which Bernard has reached 15 carries, he has averaged 78.4 yards, scored seven rushing TDs and topped 100 yards three times.

Gio sets sights on Brooks: After a strong start to his 2019 season, Bengals HB Giovani Bernard stands within striking distance of the team's all-time leads in both receptions and receiving yards by a running back. With 274 career receptions, Bernard stands 23 short of James Brooks' record of 297. And with 2350 receiving yards, Bernard is 662 short of Brooks' record of 3012. Brooks played eight seasons with the Bengals (1984-91), while 2019 is Bernard's seventh.

Bernard has averaged 898 yards from scrimmage in his first six NFL seasons — 518 rushing, 380 receiving — although his pursuit of Brooks' records has been slowed slightly by injuries in recent years. In 2018, he got off to a fast start before a knee injury sidelined him for four games. He also missed the final six games of 2016 due to a torn ACL in his left knee.

Keep an eye on Andy: QB Andy Dalton owns a 68-54-2 record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.556) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. And as the numbers have shown, the Bengals' success is tied closely to that of their QB.

Dalton has thrown at least two TDs 62 times in his career, and the Bengals are 41-20-1 (.669) in those contests. In his 23 games with at least three TD passes, the Bengals are 22-1 (.957), with the only outlier coming in a 2012 loss at Cleveland. Conversely, the Bengals are just 6-16 (.273) when Dalton is held without a TD pass, and haven't won such a game since 2014 at Cleveland.

A similar trend is true with passing yardage. In the 49 instances of Dalton topping 250 passing yards, the Bengals are 29-18-2 (.612). He's topped 300 yards 26 times, with Cincinnati going 15-10-1 (.596) in those contests.

The Bengals have also proven tough to beat when Dalton is at his most accurate. When he completes at least 65 percent of his passes (minimum 20 attempts), the Bengals are 36-14-1 (.716), including wins in eight of their last 11 such games. And when that completion percentage jumps to at least 70, the Bengals are 21-5-1 (.796), with wins in 12 of their last 14 such games.

25 points does the trick: Since 2011, the rookie season of both QB Andy Dalton and WR A.J. Green, the Bengals own a 46-1-2 record (.959) when scoring 25 or more points. Only Miami has a better winning percentage, at .970 (32-1-0), when topping the 25-point mark over that span.

The Bengals were a perfect 6-0 in 2018 when scoring 25 points or more, and 0-10 when failing to hit the mark. They have yet to reach 25 points in a game in 2019.

Here are the top five teams in the NFL since 2011, in terms of winning percentage, when hitting the 25-point plateau.

| TEAM | WINS | LOSSES | TIES | WINNING PCT. |
|----------------------------|------|--------|------|--------------|
| Miami Dolphins | 32 | 1 | 0 | .970 |
| Cincinnati Bengals | 46 | 1 | 2 | .959 |
| New England Patriots | 82 | 8 | 0 | .911 |
| Arizona Cardinals | 35 | 3 | 1 | .910 |
| Denver Broncos | 51 | 6 | 0 | .895 |

Dalton ties Kenny in TDs: After more than two seasons of being held out of the end zone, Bengals QB Andy Dalton finally reached paydirt in Game 3 at Buffalo when he rushed for a one-yard score in the third quarter. It was the 20th total TD of Dalton's career, tying him with former Bengals QB Ken Anderson for most career TDs by a QB in team history. Dalton in 2019 is playing his ninth season, while Anderson played 16 Bengals seasons (1971-86).

All of Anderson's 20 TDs were rushing scores. Dalton has 19 rushing TDs, and he has 20 total by virtue of being the only Bengals QB ever to catch a touchdown pass. He scored on an 18-yard gadget connection from WR Mohamed Sanu vs. Tennessee in 2014.

The next-most TDs by a Bengals QB is 10, by Jeff Blake.

Dalton and Jack Thompson share the Bengals season record for touchdowns by a QB, at five. Dalton had five in 2014, tying the record first set by Thompson in 1979.

'Crazy Legs' Andy: QB Andy Dalton's 19 career rushing TDs not only put him in rare company in team history, he also is among the best when compared to his current NFL peers. In the category of rushing TDs by a QB, only Carolina's Cam Newton, whose 58 are beyond similarity, ranks higher than Dalton since 2011. Dalton and Dallas QB Dak Prescott (19) stand tied for second behind Newton, with Russell Wilson (18) and Tyrod Taylor (16) not far behind.

'Ice-Water' Andy: Bengals QB Andy Dalton has 24 career game-winning drives, the most in Bengals history ahead Boomer Esiason (22).

A game-winning drive is defined as a drive that results in an offensive score in the fourth quarter or overtime that is responsible for putting the team ahead to stay (PATs included).

The Bengals' record for most game-winning drives in a season is five, set by former QB Jeff Blake in 1996, and then tied by former QB Carson Palmer in '09. Dalton had four game-winning drives in 2018, despite missing the final five games due to a season-ending thumb injury.

Since 2011, the year the Bengals drafted him, Dalton's 24 game-winning drives are tied with Seattle's Russell Wilson and Atlanta's Matt Ryan for the third-most in the NFL.

Here's a look at the NFL quarterbacks with the most game-winning drives in the fourth quarter or overtime since 2011.

| QUARTERBACK | TEAM | GAME-WINNING DRIVES SINCE 2011 |
|------------------|-------------------|--------------------------------|
| Matthew Stafford | Detroit | 32 |
| Drew Brees | New Orleans | 26 |
| Andy Dalton | Cincinnati | 24 |
| Russell Wilson | Seattle | 24 |
| Matt Ryan | Atlanta | 24 |
| Eli Manning | N.Y. Giants | 23 |

An Andy roundup: Other records and notable accomplishments in QB Andy Dalton's career include:

- Dalton has posted 47 career games with a passer rating of 100 or more, and the Bengals are 39-8 (.830) in those contests.
- Dalton's .556 winning percentage (68-54-2) is the best of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts.
- Dalton holds club season records for passing yards (4293) and TD passes (33), both set in 2013.
- He is the only Bengals passer to throw for 300-plus yards in four consecutive games (2013).
- He opened his career with 77 consecutive regular-season starts, a Bengals record for quarterbacks at any point during a career. The previous mark had been 61, posted by Boomer Esiason from 1985-89. Dalton's streak ranks tied for fourth in NFL history for the start of a career by a QB, trailing only Peyton Manning of Indianapolis (208), Joe Flacco of Baltimore (122) and Russell Wilson of Seattle (116 and counting). Dalton is tied with Tennessee QB Ryan Tannehill, whose streak of 77 ended in 2016 while with Miami.

The Huber roundup: Long considered the top punter in Bengals history, 11th-year pro Kevin Huber now has the career records to back up that claim. Already a considerable presence in the Bengals' record book heading into last season, Huber moved into first place in the only two remaining career punting categories in the Bengals' record book.

Huber now stands first in team history in the following categories:

- Punts (788)
- Punting yards (35,469)
- Gross average (45.01)
- Net average (39.80)
- Inside-20 punts (272)

Huber has also taken over many of the Bengals' single-season and single-game records. Among them are:

- He holds the top four Bengals season averages in gross yardage and the top five Bengals season averages in net. His gross record is 46.84, and his net record is 42.10 — both were set in 2014.
- He shares the team record for longest punt (75 yards) with Kyle Larson.
- His 33 inside-20 punts in 2012 is a single-season franchise record.
- His six inside-20 punts on Sept. 14, 2017 vs. Houston are tied with Lee Johnson (Nov. 2, 1997) for the most in a game in Bengals history.

Dunlap's PD frenzy: While he hasn't yet recorded a pass defended so far this season, Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap has a reputation as one of the league's best defensive linemen at batting down passes at the line of scrimmage. And he has the numbers to back it up, too.

Dunlap had eight passes defended in 2018, second-most in the NFL among non-DBs. His eight PDs were the third-highest single-season total of his career, behind the 2013 (10) and '16 (15) seasons. His 2016 total led all Bengals defenders and all other NFL defensive linemen, and it was the first time since Cincinnati began recording defensive stats in 1976 that a Bengals defensive lineman had ever led the team in PDs.

To paint a clearer picture of just how effective Dunlap has been at batting passes, here's a list of non-defensive backs in the NFL with the most passes defended since the start of the 2016 season.

| PLAYER | POS | TEAM | PDs SINCE 2016 |
|----------------|-----|---------------------------------------|----------------|
| Alec Ogletree | LB | St. Louis/L.A. Rams/N.Y. Giants | 32 |
| Carlos Dunlap | DE | Cincinnati | 30 |
| Deion Jones | LB | Atlanta | 28 |
| Eric Kendricks | LB | Minnesota | 25 |
| Cameron Jordan | LB | New Orleans | 23 |
| Cory Littleton | LB | L.A. Rams | 23 |

Dunlap's, Atkins' dominance = team success: Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap and DT Geno Atkins entered the NFL together in 2010 as draft picks of the Bengals, and in the 10 seasons since they've established themselves among the top pass-rushing duos in the league. Most importantly though, the record shows that when Dunlap and Atkins are at their most dominant, it usually spells success for Cincinnati.

The Bengals are 10-6 (.625) when Dunlap records more than one sack, and 8-4 (.667) when Atkins records more than one sack. There have been two instances in which both have had more than one sack in the same game (Bengals are 1-1 in those contests), which means Cincinnati is a combined 17-9 (.654) when getting more than one sack from either player.

The Bengals are 7-1 since the beginning of the 2015 season when Dunlap records more than one sack, with the only outlier coming in a 20-17 overtime loss at Denver in 2015. Dunlap had a career-best three sacks in that Denver game and finished 2015 with a career-high 13.5, second-most in Bengals history. Dunlap had one multi-sack game in 2018, which came in a win vs. Tampa Bay in Game 8 (two sacks).

Since 2015, the Bengals are 6-2 when Atkins has more than one sack. The only outliers during that span were losses vs. Houston and at Minnesota in 2017. Atkins had three multi-sack games in 2018 — Game 2 vs. Baltimore (two), Game 5 vs. Miami (two) and Game 14 vs. Oakland (three) — and the Bengals were 3-0 in those contests.

Dunlap and Atkins are under contract with the Bengals through the '21 and '22 seasons, respectively. Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) currently stands second on the Bengals' all-time sack list, and Atkins (72) is third. The Bengals' leader in career sacks is DE Eddie Edwards, with 83.5.

Dunlap, Atkins neck-and-neck in career sacks: Just 1.5 sacks separate Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) and DT Geno Atkins (72), who rank second and third, respectively, on Cincinnati's all-time sack list behind all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). And now that Edwards' record is within sight, the race is on to see which player catches him first.

Atkins, who missed nearly half of the 2013 season with a torn ACL, has more than double the number of sacks of the next-closest interior defensive lineman in Bengals history (Tim Krumrie, 34.5). Atkins in 2018 had a team-high 10 sacks, the third-highest single-season sack total of his career (he had a career-high 12.5 in 2012, and 11 in '15). Atkins has finished with at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior lineman five times in nine NFL seasons, including in three of the last four years (see "Geno looks to re-claim his crown" below).

Dunlap, a two-time Pro Bowler (2015 and '16) who turned 30 after the '18 season, averaged 8.1 sacks over his first nine NFL seasons, while Edwards averaged just under seven over 12 seasons. In 2015, Dunlap set a career-high in sacks, with 13.5, the second-most in Bengals history. Besides his 73.5 sacks, Dunlap's career totals include 18 FFs, nine FRs, 56 PDs, four blocked FGs and three TDs.

NOTE: The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sack statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Geno on HOF pace: Bengals DT Geno Atkins, who is playing his 10th NFL season in 2019, currently stands at 72 career sacks, third in team history and the most ever by a Bengals interior defensive lineman.

But a closer look reveals that Atkins is on a Hall-of-Fame pace. When compared to defensive tackles in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Atkins compares quite favorably at this point in his career.

Here's a look at the sack totals of notable Hall-of-Fame DTs through their 10th seasons, as well as where they stood at the end of their careers. It should be noted that Atkins missed nearly half of the 2013 season, due to a torn ACL.

(NOTE: This list includes only DTs whose careers started after 1982, when the NFL began counting sacks as official statistics):

*—Atkins is four games into his 10th NFL season.

Geno looks to re-claim his crown: Bengals DT Geno Atkins in 2019 is looking to reclaim a crown that, for all intents and purposes, has been his for much of this decade. In nine previous NFL seasons (2010-18), Atkins has five times finished in at least a tie for most sacks by an NFL interior defensive lineman. He claimed it outright in 2012 (12.5 sacks), '16 (nine) and '17 (nine), while sharing it in '11 (7.5) and '15 (11).

Last season, though, Atkins (10 sacks) finished in fourth place among interior linemen, and fell two short of the leader (49ers DT DeForest Buckner, 12). It marked the first time in the previous four seasons that Atkins failed to finish in at least a tie for the top spot.

Atkins has just one sack thus far this season, but remains within striking distance of the NFL leader among interior linemen, Bears DT Nick Williams (4.0).

Atkins has been selected to the Pro Bowl seven times in his nine previous seasons. Those seven selections are the most by a Bengals defensive player in team history, just ahead of CB Lemar Parrish (six). No other Bengals defensive lineman has been selected more than twice. Atkins currently stands at 72 career sacks, the most by a Bengals interior lineman and third overall.

Rookies get the call to start: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor raised more than a few eyebrows at his Aug. 25 news conference, when he named two rookies — WR Damion Willis and G Michael Jordan — as starters for Game 1 at Seattle. The announcement, which came prior to the preseason finale, was not only the antithesis of the closely guarded approach many head coaches take with similar information, it signified what some in the media called a meritocracy — Taylor's willingness to play the best players, regardless of experience, salary or draft position.

Willis, a college free agent from Troy, now stands as only the 11th rookie WR ever to start an opener for Cincinnati, and the first to do so since A.J. Green in 2011. All 10 previous Bengals receivers to start an opener were drafted in the fourth round or higher.

Here's a look at the 11 Bengals rookie receivers to start the season-opener, along with their eventual rookie season receiving totals.

| YEAR | ROOKIE WR | RECEPTIONS | YDS | TD |

*—Willis has played four games so far in 2019.

Jordan, a fourth-round pick out of Ohio State, won a training-camp battle for the No. 1 LG position after longtime starter Clint Boling retired in July. Jordan now stands as just the 16th Bengals rookie ever to start along the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to ever do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower.

Here's a look at the 16 Bengals rookie offensive linemen to start a season-opener, along with how many games they ended up starting as a rookie.

*—Jordan has started three of four possible games so far in 2019. He missed Game 3 at Buffalo with a knee injury.

Three Bengals hail from Queen City: The Bengals have three players — LB Preston Brown, DE Sam Hubbard and P Kevin Huber — who grew up in Greater Cincinnati.

Brown, who grew up in College Hill and attended Northwest High School, is in his second year with the Bengals in 2019. He spent his first four NFL seasons with the Buffalo Bills. After signing with Cincinnati as an unrestricted free agent in March of 2018, Brown called the opportunity "living out a dream."

"When I started looking around (in free agency), I knew there might be a spot here," Brown said. "And the Bengals definitely jumped to the top of my list when I found out they had interest in me as well."

After missing nine games due to multiple injuries in his first Bengals season, Brown is now back for Year 2 as a starting LB.

Hubbard, a Moeller High School alum and former Ohio State standout, is now in his second season with the Bengals. A third-round draft pick (77th overall) a year ago, Hubbard followed up a productive rookie season by earning the Bengals' No. 1 RDE spot in preseason. He has two sacks through four games this season.

"It's insane," Hubbard said after being drafted by his hometown Bengals. "Seeing that 513 area code pop up on my phone on draft day was just incredible. To get an opportunity to represent the city of Cincinnati one more time, and to do it for the pro team in this city, is a dream come true. I watched every game the Bengals played. I was there when Carson Palmer got hurt in the playoffs (in the 2005 season). I've just always been a big fan."

Huber, an Anderson Township native and alum of McNicholas High School and the University of Cincinnati, was a fifth-round draft choice of the Bengals in 2009. He has played in all but two games throughout his career in Cincinnati, and he currently stands as the Bengals' career leader in both gross (45.01) and net (39.80) punting average.

Huber and his wife, Mindi, have been active in the local community throughout his Bengals career. The couple started their own charity, The Foundation for Underserved Rescues, which "provides resources and support to underserved Cincinnati-area animal rescues."

It should also be noted that Bengals have a fourth player with Cincinnati ties. Rookie G Michael Jordan was born in Fairfield, Ohio, just outside of Cincinnati, but his family moved and he attended high school in Michigan.

Bengals draft picks stick in NFL: A familiar trend has emerged this season regarding which teams have the most keen eye for talent in the draft, and the Bengals are again toward the top of the list. As of Tuesday (10/1), there were 50 players on NFL rosters who entered the NFL as draft picks of the Bengals, two shy of Baltimore for the most of any team in the NFL.

Cincinnati was among the top three teams all of last season as well, and even held a double-digit lead over the second place team early in the year before 13 qualifying players landed on Reserve/Injured. Only players on active 53-man rosters are counted in this data.

Of the 53 players on Cincinnati's active roster on Tuesday (10/1), 41 entered the NFL with the Bengals — 34 as draft picks, and seven as college free agents. That total includes OT Andre Smith, a Bengals first-round pick in 2009 who later spent time with Minnesota and Arizona before rejoining Cincinnati.

Of the Bengals' 34 draft picks on their roster, seven were first-round picks (including Smith), seven were second-rounders, five were third-rounders, seven were fourth-rounders, three were fifth-rounders, three were sixth-rounders and two were seventh-rounders.

Here's a look at the teams with the most draft picks on an active NFL roster, as of Monday, Sept. 23.

| TEAM | DRAFT PICKS ON NFL ROSTERS |
|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| Baltimore Ravens | 52 |
| Cincinnati Bengals | 50 |
| Seattle Seahawks | 47 |
| New England Patriots | 47 |
| L.A. Rams | 46 |
| San Francisco 49ers | 48 |

Bengal bites: Three Bengals on the 53-player roster have changed uniform numbers since preseason — CB Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured) now is No. 24, CB B.W. Webb now is No. 23 and WR Damion Willis now is No. 15 ... The tallest Bengal is QB Jake Dolegala, who is 6-7 ... The shortest Bengal is HB Trayveon Williams, who is 5-8 ... There is a tie for heaviest Bengals player between DT Josh Tupou and OT Cordy Glenn, who are both 345 pounds ... The lightest Bengal is CB Tony McRae, who is 185 pounds ... The oldest Bengal is LS Clark Harris, who is 35 (born July 10, 1984) ... The youngest Bengal is G Michael Jordan, who is 21 (Jan. 25, 1998).

BENGALS QUOTES

Bengals president Mike Brown, on head coach Zac Taylor and a young staff of assistant coaches:

"It's new, it's different, and we're going to find out. You'll get a feel for (Taylor) as they go about it. They all have good certifications, good backgrounds, and I'm as interested as anybody to see just how it fits together out on the field and how it all works. It's going to be quite different for us. That's the fact. I think that's what our fans wanted. They felt we needed that. I think maybe they're right in how they feel."

Head coach Zac Taylor, on handling the offensive play-calling responsibilities:

"It leaves you with a lot on your plate, but at the same time I know what I want this thing to look like. (Offensive coordinator) Brian Callahan and I are in lockstep. We're on the same page, along with all the other coaches in this offense. It may be me calling the plays, but everybody has input. Even at practice, I'm listening to Brian and some of the other coaches talk about ideas. Even though it's coming out of my mouth, it doesn't mean the ideas for play-calls are solely coming from me. (Communication between us) is something we try to iron out in practice — we try to make it as game-like as possible — and it's important that everyone is equally involved."

WR A.J. Green, on new head coach Zac Taylor's approach to team practices:

"Playing with (former Bengals head) coach (Marvin) Lewis, it was all about the defense. You didn't show up the defense at practice. But at OTA No. 1 (this year), Zac was like, 'We're going to kick the defense's butt.' That's what we like to hear on offense. I love the way he teaches. He's not yelling at you — he's teaching every little detail and having you understand why we run it a certain way."

QB Andy Dalton, on the changes that have occurred under new head coach Zac Taylor:

"With Zac getting here and the whole change, and trying to make it feel new and feel different, I think he's done great. From the day he stepped in here, you felt the change. Obviously he had a plan for what he wanted, and they're doing it. You can see it with all the construction (around the building) and the way the staff came together. They're all in for what Zac is wanting to do."

Offensive coordinator Brian Callahan, on the offense being temporarily without A.J. Green, who was injured early in training camp:

"Listen, we all want A.J. out there. Everyone wants him. When you have those guys, you find ways to use them. But there are plenty of instances where you may not have him. You always stay true to what you believe offensively is going to help you win the game. If that involves featuring matchups with a guy as dynamic as A.J., then that's going to be part of it. If we don't have that piece, we will move the pieces around to get us the best matchups that help us win the game. That's what our system is designed to do — move pieces wherever we need them."

Taylor, on playing time being based on merit and not experience (referencing rookies Damion Willis and Michael Jordan earning starting positions at the start of the season, along with fourth-year player Trey Hopkins):

"I wouldn't say that we're trying to make a statement in any way, shape or form. The guys that have earned opportunities will get them. We haven't factored experience into our decision making. That's not the way we are approaching it. We're approaching it as they've earned that time (with their performances) in practice and in preseason games. We feel like they have our trust, so let's get them out there and let them go compete. We've done a really good job — especially in this last draft — of bringing in new guys who have the right mindset, and these moments aren't too big for them."

WR John Ross III, on his outlook for his third NFL season:

"Not to make excuses, but I haven't put my best foot forward in preparing my body physically. Mentally, I don't think I've been there each year, based on me not being ready. Now, given a full offseason, working with T.J. (Houshmandzadeh), coming here, speaking to Coach Taylor and Coach (Bob) Bicknell — I feel like I'm more ready than I've ever been."

Dalton, on WR John Ross:

"You can't coach speed, and that's one thing he definitely has. Anytime you put a guy with his elite speed on the field, that changes everything. We are excited to have him in this offense. He's going to have a big role in what we do this year."

Taylor, on WR Auden Tate:

"Where Auden has been consistent is he's got aggressive hands and he's tough. Those are two traits that you love. He's a guy you can find a role for in this offense. He looks like a tight end playing wide receiver. He's physical in the run game, he has a great catch radius, he catches the ones you throw to him, and he's hard to take down. When his number has been called, he's produced for us."

Taylor, on HB Giovani Bernard, who signed a contract extension on Sept. 3:

"He's consistent with his approach every day. You know what you're getting from him. He's very detailed with his craft — he's a good runner, he's a good receiver and he's a good protector. He fits all three of those traits that you want in a running back, and particularly in a No. 2 running back, because Joe gets the majority of the touches. Gio has always been reliable and goes about it the right way. He sets a great example for the other players on this team. He's very deserving of what he received (with a contract extension) and I'm happy for him."

Taylor, on offensive line coach Jim Turner:

"Our experience working together (in the past) has great value. We see protections the same way, we see the run game the same way (and) the cadences the same way. We are always on the same page. ... I believe in Jim. I've seen him coach for six years live and in person now. I've seen what he has gotten out of players and the way he has developed players. Jim's attention to detail is unmatched. Our offensive linemen are going to be disciplined and know how we want it done. I don't believe in anybody more than I believe in Jim to get that job done."

Offensive line coach Jim Turner, on rookie G Michael Jordan being named a starter:

"Mike jumped out at us at Ohio State. He jumped out at us on tape, and I went up there and interviewed him. The scouts loved him, I loved him, and obviously he was the right decision. He's just very smart, very physical, and he's ready to play. He's the guy we think can help us win right now at left guard."

Dalton, on rookie G Michael Jordan being named a starter:

"He's going to get a lot of experience early on in his career. He's been great so far. He keeps getting better. One thing about him is that he's a guy with size that can move well too. And he has a good understanding of everything that we're doing. I'm glad for him. He's earned that spot."

Turner, on C Trey Hopkins being named a starter:

"We feel like, right now, Trey can help us win at center better than anybody else on our team. As far as the performance of playing center and all the things that go into that position, Trey's got a lot of experience. When you watch the tape over Trey's career, he has done a heck of a job, and he has developed into a heck of a player. We expect a lot out of him now, having given him this responsibility."

HB Joe Mixon, on his approach for the season:

"(I will do) as much as I have to do individually and as much as I can for the team, to put ourselves on top. If it takes 250 (carries), I'm going to take 250. If it takes 400, that's what I'm going to do. At the end of the day, every touch counts. I've always been a one-play-away guy until I just break, and I'll continue to do that. If it takes 400 touches, then that's what I'm going to want."

Taylor, on rookie TE Drew Sample:

"He's a gritty player. He really just has a special knack in all three phases — pass protection, run blocking and being a receiver. (The first preseason game) was his welcome-to-the-NFL moment. I thought he played much better (the next at Washington), and he's only going to improve with every single game he plays against a different defensive line and different linebackers he will have to go against. We are only going to see him improve. I'm very pleased with the direction he is headed in."

Callahan, on TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert:

"There's no question — when we put those guys in different positions in formations, they can do a lot for us both as coverage indicators and as pieces in the passing game. On top of that, they can run block well. We're going to be able to run a lot of different things with them in the lineup."

Tight ends coach James Casey, on using TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert on the field at the same time:

"It opens up so many possibilities with both those guys on the field. I don't think C.J. gets enough credit for how well he runs and catches the ball, and I don't think Tyler gets enough credit for how well he does blocking."

S Shawn Williams, on new defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"There isn't a big difference in the playbook — there's actually a lot of carryover. But there's no gray. I want to say it's simplifying everything, but it's really not, because some aspects are the same. There's no gray, so we can play fast. Everything is simple. No hesitation."

CB B.W. Webb, on new defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"Lou is very strategic about what he calls and has a lot of confidence in his players. That's very big for us — for our confidence —when a coach trusts you enough to put you in certain positions against the opponent's best players. He knows what the offense wants to do against us, so he just prepares us throughout the week, and we trust him."

Defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo, on his coaching philosophy:

"It's to make sure that we allow the players to play as fast as possible. Whatever their job description is on a particular play, if it's clear cut, they can do it faster. That's with any job on the planet. If I'm supposed to put concrete over there, I can do it quick. If I'm not sure where to put it, I'm going to do it slower."

Taylor, on DT Andrew Billings:

"Billings has been a consistent player for us. Those D-linemen have played a lot of snaps and Billings is a guy that shows up. He's stout against the run and he gets on the edge and gets penetration and takes the quarterbacks off the spot."

Anarumo, on DE Carl Lawson:

"He's a powerful guy. I watched Cam Wake do it for six years (with the Miami Dolphins). Carl has the same body type and can also jack up 300-pound tackles in the run game. And Carl has that same kind explosion. I think Carl's an all-around player and a three-down guy for us, for sure."

POSITION BY POSITION

Quarterbacks: Veteran Andy Dalton is in the Bengals' starting QB role for the ninth consecutive season. Through four games, Dalton ranks sixth in the NFL in passing yards (1150), fourth in attempts (166) and fifth in completions (102). In Week 3 against Buffalo, Dalton rushed for a one-yard touchdown that tied the game at 14 and snapped his two-year drought of being held out of the end zone. More notably, the TD was the 20th of his career (19 rushing, one receiving), which tied QB Ken Anderson for most TDs by a QB in team history. Dalton is now tied with Dallas QB Dak Prescott for the second-most rushing TDs by a QB (19) since 2011. In the opener at Seattle, he posted career-highs in completions (35) and passing yards (418), en route to a 106.5 passer rating. Dalton's 418 passing yards against the Seahawks are the fourth-most in an NFL game this season. Dalton owns a 68-54-2 regular-season record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.556) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. He stands as the Bengals' all-time leader in career passer rating (88.5) and 300-yard passing games (26), and is second in career completions (2545), passing yards (29,250), passing TDs (193) and completion percentage (62.27). His 193 career TD passes and 108 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.78-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100). Dalton has posted 47 career games with a passer rating at or above 100, and the Bengals' record in those contests is 39-8 (.830). The Bengals traded up in April's draft to select N.C. State's Ryan Finley in the fourth round. Finley jumped from third to second on the Bengals' QB depth chart after a strong preseason in which he notched a 99.3 passer rating. Touted by scouts for his accuracy and football intelligence, Finley left N.C. State with the top career completion percentage (.645) in school history. Despite playing only three seasons (2016-18) at N.C. State, Finley finished his career ranked third in ACC history in both passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard passing games (18). Finley began his college career at Boise State (2013-15), then graduated and played his final three seasons ('16-18) at N.C. State. Perhaps the biggest surprise of training camp was the play of college free agent Jake Dolegala of Central Connecticut State, a tall (6-foot-7), athletic and strong-armed passer who impressed in a little more than one game of action in preseason. Dolegala set school records in college for career passing yards (8129) and TDs (48).

Running backs: Joe Mixon now is in his third season with the Bengals, after a 2018 campaign in which he rushed for 1168 yards and became the first Cincinnati RB ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards in a season (Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing as a rookie in 1968). Mixon had his most productive game of the season in Game 3 at Buffalo, posting 95 yards from scrimmage, including 61 rushing yards, a 33-yard reception and a one-yard TD catch in the fourth quarter. In 32 career games (24 starts), Mixon has five 100-yard rushing performances, 10 games of at least 100 yards from scrimmage and the eighth-most rushing yards (1317) since the start of 2018. Also a threat through the air, he has caught 84 career passes for 635 yards and two TDs. A 2017 second-round pick out of Oklahoma, Mixon began his rookie season listed as the Bengals' No. 3 HB, but he worked his way to the No. 1 spot by mid-season. Giovani Bernard, a 2013 second-round pick of the Bengals, again serves in the No. 2 HB role behind Mixon. In the opener at Seattle, Bernard caught two passes for 42 yards, including a 35-yarder on a screen pass, which was his longest gain since 2017, when he had a 61-yard TD catch at Cleveland on Oct. 1. Bernard ranks second in Bengals history in both receptions (274) and receiving yards (2350) by a RB, trailing only James Brooks (297 and 3012). Brooks played seven Bengals seasons (1984-91), and Bernard in 2019 is in his seventh season. Bernard also owns the Bengals' record for receiving yards in a game by a RB (128), which he set in 2015 at Arizona, and his 89-yard TD run vs. Carolina in '14 stands as the second-longest rush in team history. New to the Bengals' backfield this season is rookie sixth-round pick Trayveon Williams of Texas A&M. Williams suffered a foot injury in preseason, which caused him to miss the first four games of the regular season (inactive for Games 1-2 and Game 4, active/DNP in Game 3). In three seasons at A&M, Williams amassed 4176 yards from scrimmage and 35 total TDs. Last season, Williams led the Southeastern Conference in rushing yards (1760) and TDs (18), while ranking second among SEC running backs in receptions (27) and third in receiving yards (278). Adding depth to the running backs room is HB Samaje Perine, a waiver acquisition from the Washington Redskins after roster cut-downs. Perine, who has played in all four games this season, has been a regular contributor on special teams, totaling two tackles, which is tied for the team lead. A fourth-round pick of Washington in 2017, Perine rushed for 635 yards and a TD on 183 carries in two seasons with the Redskins. In college at Oklahoma, Perine shared the backfield with Mixon, and the two formed one of college football's most productive running back tandems. In 2014 at Oklahoma, Perine rushed for an NCAA single-game record 427 yards vs. Kansas.

Wide receivers: Tyler Boyd has stepped into the No. 1 receiving role to start the season, while A.J. Green rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in the first practice of training camp. Boyd has gotten off to a fast start in 2019, and is tied for sixth in the NFL in receptions (27). Boyd's 27 receptions so far are tied for fourth-most in Bengals history through the first four games of a season. Boyd led the team in targets, receptions and receiving yards against San Francisco, while posting double-digit catches and his fourth career 100-yard receiving game. Boyd's 1000-yard season in 2018 was the first of his career, and the first by a Bengal other than Green since Chad Johnson in 2009. Boyd has become among the most reliable and productive receivers in the league on third down, and is currently tied for fifth in the NFL with eight third-down receptions. Seven of his eight third-down receptions have converted first downs. In 2018, Boyd tied for the league lead with 22 third-down catches that resulted in first downs, a total that also counted as the most by a Bengal since T.J. Houshmandzadeh's 26 in 2008. Boyd has caught at least one pass in all 44 of his career games. Originally a 2016 second-round pick of the Bengals, Boyd signed a contract extension in July that will keep him in Cincinnati through the 2023 season. John Ross III, the Bengals' first-round pick out of Washington in 2017, is off to a fast start in his third NFL season. Ross is currently tied for 10th in the NFL in receiving yards (328), and his three receiving TDs are tied for ninth. Additionally, his 20.5 yards per catch is the most among NFL wideouts with at least 15 receptions. Ross left Monday's game against Pittsburgh in the fourth quarter after suffering a right shoulder injury on an 11-yard catch. He did not return, and his status for Sunday's game vs. Arizona is uncertain. Against San Francisco, Ross posted his second consecutive 100-yard game, which included a career-long 66-yard TD reception. The reception is the longest by a Bengals player since Green's 70-yard TD catch on Nov. 12, 2017 at Tennessee. Ross' Week 2 performance followed his breakout performance in the season-opener at Seattle, where he notched career-highs in receptions (seven), receiving yards (158) and TDs (two). His catches went for 33 yards on a flea-flicker, and a 55-yard pass to give the Bengals the lead at the half. Known for his record-breaking speed, his 4.22-second 40-yard dash at the 2017 NFL Combine is considered to be the fastest in the event's history. Second-year pro Auden Tate, a 6-5 WR out of Florida State, carved out a roster spot out of training camp for the second straight year, after another strong preseason showing. For the second consecutive game (Games 3-4), Tate led the team in receiving yards (50) and receptions (four). Tate made his first NFL start in Game 3 at Buffalo, and posted career-highs in receptions (six) and receiving yards (88). Damion Willis, a college free agent out of Troy who entered training camp as a long shot to even make the roster, was the 11th WR to start a season-opener for the Bengals; all 10 of the previous players to do it were drafted in the fourth round or higher. Willis has played in all four games, made two starts and has five catches for 44 yards so far this season. Alex Erickson, who has served as the Bengals' No. 1 PR and KOR since joining the team as a CFA in 2016, has seen time throughout his career at both returner spots, WR and emergency RB. Erickson has played in all 52 games of his NFL career and posted 44 catches for 473 yards and a TD. Regarding ninth-year wideout Green, his climb up the Bengals' record books is temporarily on hold, while he rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in Cincinnati's first training camp practice. Green has not yet played in 2019, and Bengals head coach Zac Taylor says there is no specific timeline for Green's return. Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury to just nine games, and for the first time in his eight seasons, missed out on earning a Pro Bowl nod. Green, though, still stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to start his career with seven consecutive Pro Bowl nominations. Green's seven Pro Bowl selections are tied with DT Geno Atkins for second in Bengals history, behind HOF OT Anthony Munoz (11). Despite his limited action in 2018, Green finished second on the team in receptions (46), receiving yards (694) and receiving TDs (six); it was the first time in his eight seasons he did not lead the team in receptions and receiving yards. Green currently ranks second in team history in career receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907); Chad Johnson, who played 10 seasons with the Bengals, is first in both categories (751 and 10,783). Green is the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), after passing Johnson (31) last season.

Tight ends: Fifth-year pro C.J. Uzomah, who signed a three-year contract extension (through 2021) with the Bengals over the offseason, has started all four games this season, and is listed as the No. 1 TE on the Bengals' depth chart. Uzomah's four catches and 66 yards so far this season were all posted in Game 1 at Seattle. Uzomah's 66 yards against the Seahawks were a career-high. Last season, Uzomah notched career-highs in catches (43), receiving yards (439) and TDs (three). Tyler Eifert entered 2019 healthy, after being limited to just 14 games from 2016-18 due to back and ankle injuries. Eifert, whose season ended after four games last season due to a serious ankle injury, has played in all four games so far this season and has 11 catches for 81 yards and a TD. In Game 2 against San Francisco, Eifert collected a one-yard TD in the first quarter, which was his first time reaching the end zone since his 15-yard score against the Atlanta Falcons on Sept. 30, 2018. When healthy, Eifert has proved to be among the top pass-catching TEs in the NFL. In 2015, Eifert caught 13 TDs (in just 13 games), the most ever by a Bengals TE. Cincinnati invested a second-round pick in April's draft in Drew Sample of Washington, who was touted by scouts as a well-rounded prospect who excels in the blocking game. Sample has seen action in all four games this season, and has two catches for 25 yards. In college, Sample was a key part of a blocking effort that helped Washington RB Myles Gaskin top 1200 rushing yards and score double-digit TDs in each of his four seasons. Cethan Carter, a third-year player out of Nebraska, is healthy again this year after missing all of 2018 with a shoulder injury suffered in the preseason finale. Carter has appeared in each of the Bengals' four games this season, with most of his action coming on special teams.

Offensive linemen: Rookie G Michael Jordan, a Bengals fourth-round pick and the youngest player on the roster (turns 22 in January), is listed as the Bengals No. 1 LG this season. Jordan entered training camp as a long shot for the job, with several veterans in front of him, but strong performances in practices and preseason games prompted Zac Taylor to announce Jordan as a starter on Aug. 25, prior to the final preseason game. In the season-opener at Seattle, Jordan became just the 16th Bengals rookie to start on the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower. After missing Game 3 at Buffalo with a left knee injury suffered in Game 2, Jordan returned to action at LG against Pittsburgh. Jordan, a three-year starter in college at Ohio State, is one of only six players, and the first offensive lineman since Pro Football Hall of Famer Orlando Pace in 1994, to ever start an opening game as a true freshman at OSU. At RG this season is John Miller, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first four seasons with the Buffalo Bills. At 6-3, 315, Miller is considered a powerful run-blocker and helped the Bills rank in the top 10 in rushing offense in each of his four seasons with the team. In 47 career starts with the Bills, Miller helped the team top 100 net yards rushing 33 times, and top 200 yards 10 times. Miller has now started all 51 games of his career, including four this season. Between Jordan and Miller at center is veteran Trey Hopkins, who won the starting center job after a strong preseason. Hopkins, now in his sixth season in Cincinnati, is known for his intelligence, versatility (has started all three interior OL spots during his career) and experience (25 career starts). Bobby Hart again holds down the ROT position, and has started all 20 games in his Bengals career. Hart was originally a seventh-round pick of the N.Y. Giants in 2015 and spent his first three seasons there before joining Cincinnati in the '18 offseason. The Bengals invested a first-round pick in OT Jonah Williams of Alabama, who was slated as the 2019 starter at LOT, but a shoulder injury suffered in OTAs will cause Williams to miss most or all of his rookie season (currently on Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform). Instead, veteran Cordy Glenn, last year's No. 1 LOT who had been slated to move inside to LG, returns back outside to LOT. Glenn, who has played all 91 of his career NFL games at LOT, was acquired in a trade with Buffalo during the 2018 offseason. Glenn, though, missed the final two preseason games and first four regular-season games with a concussion, and his status for Game 5 vs. Arizona is unknown. Providing depth at all of the interior offensive line positions is former first-round pick Billy Price, who was selected 21st overall out of Ohio State in 2018. Price played last season as the Bengals' No. 1 C but was limited to just 10 games by a foot injury. Price has seen action in all four games, including Game 3 at Buffalo, where he made his first start of the season and first professional start at LG, subbing for the injured Jordan. Backing up both OT positions is veteran Andre Smith, the Bengals' 2009 first-round draft choice. Smith has replaced Glenn as the starting LOT in Games 1-4. Smith, who has played the majority of his 10 NFL seasons with Cincinnati, re-signed with the Bengals as a free agent on July 25. His career totals include 114 games played, with 97 starts. Also providing depth at G and OT is veteran John Jerry, who signed with the Bengals in June after Williams' injury. Jerry has seen time in Games 2-4 after not playing in the season-opener at Seattle. Jerry has valuable experience under offensive line coach Jim Turner and head coach Zac Taylor from their time together with the Miami Dolphins. Jerry has played in 124 career games, with 101 starts, and has twice filled in as a starter at LOT in previous seasons. G Alex Redmond, who last year started 15 games at RG, was suspended for the first four games of the season for violating the NFL's policy on performance-enhancing substances, has returned to the team on a roster exemption.

Defensive linemen: Considered one of the top interior defensive linemen in football, 10th-year DT Geno Atkins again anchors the Bengals' defensive line and continues his climb up the Bengals' all-time sack list. Atkins recorded his first sack of the season against Buffalo (a two-yard loss), bringing his career total to 72 sacks, third-most in team history, most by a Bengals interior lineman and 11.5 shy of the all-time lead. Atkins in 2018 led the Bengals in sacks (10) for the fifth time in his career. In his nine previous seasons, Atkins has finished in at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior defensive lineman five different times — he claimed it outright three times (2012, '16, '17) and shared it twice ('11 and '15). Atkins has 12 career games with more than one sack, and the Bengals are 8-4 in those contests, including 6-2 since 2015 and 3-0 last season. Atkins' seven Pro Bowl selections are the most ever by a Bengals defensive player, and tied with teammate A.J. Green for the second-most in team history behind Hall of Fame OT Anthony Munoz (11). Standing in second place on the Bengals' all-time career sack list is 10th-year DE Carlos Dunlap, whose 73.5 sacks stand 1.5 ahead of Atkins and just 10 shy of all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). Dunlap has one sack this season, which he registered in Game 1 at Seattle. Dunlap has 16 career games with more than one sack, and the Bengals are 10-6 in those contests, including 7-1 since the beginning of 2015. Also considered one of the NFL's most proficient defensive linemen at batting down passes, Dunlap's 30 PDs from 2016-18 were the most in the NFL among non-defensive backs. In 2016, he became the first-ever defensive lineman to lead the Bengals in passes defended (15). And in 2015, Dunlap's career-best 13.5 sacks were the second-most in a season in Bengals history. Fourth-year DT Andrew Billings lines up as Cincinnati's No. 1 NT for the second straight season. Last season, Billings started all 16 games and totaled 32 tackles and 2.5 sacks. Billings has played in every game this season, and has started the last three contests at NT. Second-year DE Sam Hubbard, a Cincinnati native (Archbishop Moeller High School), has taken over at RDE this season. So far in 2019, Hubbard leads all Bengals defensive linemen in tackles (27) and sacks (2). In Game 3 at Buffalo, Hubbard posted six tackles (five solo) and collected his second career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after stripping the ball from Bills RB T.J. Yeldon. Hubbard made his first career start in the opener at Seattle, and recorded a team-high 10 tackles, including two sacks of Seahawks QB Russell Wilson. Third-year DE Carl Lawson, considered one of the Bengals' most talented young defenders, returned to action this season after having his 2018 campaign cut short by a torn ACL in his right knee. But in his second game back, Lawson suffered a right hamstring injury in the third quarter against San Francisco and did not return. He was an active/DNP in Game 3 at Buffalo, and was inactive for Game 4 at Pittsburgh. His status for Game 5 vs. Arizona is uncertain. Lawson turned heads in 2017, when his 8.5 sacks led all NFL rookies and tied for the second-most ever by a Bengals rookie. Third-year DT Ryan Glasgow, who also suffered a torn ACL in his right knee early last season, returned to action for Games 1-2, but missed Game 3-4 due to a thigh injury. His availability against Arizona is not known. Glasgow is considered a valuable rotational player on the interior of the defensive line. New to the roster this season is veteran DE Kerry Wynn, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first five seasons with the N.Y. Giants. Wynn played in 63 career games (15 starts) for the Giants, and totaled 122 tackles and 4.5 sacks. Wynn played in Games 1-2, but missed Games 3-4 due to a concussion. Wynn's status for Week 5 vs. Arizona is unknown. The only rookie on the defensive line entering 2019 is DT Renell Wren, a fourth-round pick out of Arizona State. Wren has played in three games (Game 1 and Games 3-4) so far this season, and has one solo tackle. At a massive 6-5, 318 pounds, Wren totaled 14.5 tackles for losses and three sacks in four seasons at ASU. Veteran DT Josh Tupou, who is tied for the heaviest Bengal on the roster, adds a massive run-stuffing presence to the middle of the Bengals' defensive line. After missing the final six games of 2018 due to a torn pectoral muscle, Tupou has appeared in all four games this season, and he made his first career start in Week 3 at Buffalo. Rounding out the Bengals' defensive line is DE Andrew Brown, a 2018 Bengals fifth-round draft pick out of Virginia who made the roster this year after spending his rookie season on Cincinnati's practice squad and Practice Squad/Injured list (hand). After being inactive for the first two games this season, Brown has logged time in Games 3-4, and made a career-high three tackles against Buffalo. Brown was the Gatorade National Player of the Year coming out of high school in 2013, and totaled 26.5 TFLs and 10.5 sacks in four seasons at UVA.

Linebackers: The Bengals' linebackers are led in 2019 by fourth-year pro Nick Vigil, who has started all four games at LB this season, and has 25 tackles. In Game 3 at Pittsburgh, Vigil racked up a team-high 11 tackles (eight solo), and collected his first career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after jarring the ball loose from Steelers WR Diontae Johnson. Vigil now has six career games with double-digit tackles. Last season, Vigil finished third on the team in tackles (84), despite missing five games due to a knee injury. Lining up next to Vigil is sixth-year pro and Cincinnati native (Northwest High School) Preston Brown, who is in his second season with the Bengals. Brown has started all four games this season, and leads the linebackers in tackles (29). Brown recovered a fumble and totaled two special teams tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, Brown recorded a team-high 14 tackles, and in Game 1 at Seattle, he had four tackles and forced a fumble (Bengals recovered). When healthy, Brown has proved to be one of the NFL's most productive tacklers, after recording an NFL-best 504 combined tackles from 2014-17. Third-year pro Jordan Evans, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen time mainly as a rotational linebacker over his three seasons in Cincinnati, with 33 games played and nine starts. Evans this year has contributed mainly on special teams. The Bengals this year invested a third-round draft pick on Germaine Pratt of North Carolina State, who began his college career at S before switching to LB. Thus far, Pratt has appeared in each of the four games and totaled four tackles. Last season was Pratt's first as a starting LB, and he ended up leading the Wolfpack in tackles (104) and earning first-team All-ACC honors. LaRoy Reynolds, the newest Bengals LB, joins the club after signing as a free agent on Sept. 10. Since being acquired, Reynolds has appeared in all three games, and has three tackles. Reynolds, a seventh-year player out of the University of Virginia, has previously spent time with the Jaguars, Bears, Falcons and Eagles. For his career, Reynolds has 87 career games played (seven starts) with 84 tackles and two fumble recoveries.

Defensive backs: Considered one of Cincinnati's top young defenders, William Jackson III is in his fourth season as a Bengal, and second as a full-time starting CB. Jackson, the Bengals' first-round pick in 2016, collected his second career interception in Week 2 with a 19-yard pick off of San Francisco QB Jimmy Garoppolo. His other career INT is a 75-yard pick-six of Packers QB Aaron Rodgers in 2017. Manning the other starting CB spot for the fifth straight season is Dre Kirkpatrick, a first-round pick of the Bengals in 2012. Kirkpatrick got off to a strong start in the season-opener in Seattle, posting five tackles, including a sack, along with a fumble recovery. Since then, Kirkpatrick has posted six tackles in each of the last three games, marking the first time he's collected six or more tackles in three consecutive games. Kirkpatrick struggled with a shoulder injury late last season and missed three games, but he's proven mostly durable over his career, playing in 94 of the last 100 possible games (including postseason). Kirkpatrick has 10 career INTs, one behind teammate Shawn Williams (11) for the lead among active Bengals. Williams, a 2013 third-round draft pick, fills a starting S position for the fourth straight season. Through four games, Williams is the team leader in tackles (31). Williams posted a team-high nine tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. At the other safety spot is second-year pro Jessie Bates III. After leading the team in tackles (111) a year ago, Bates currently has the second-most tackles on the team at 30. Against Pittsburgh, Bates collected his first career fumble recovery in the first quarter after Vigil knocked the ball loose. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, Bates collected his fourth career double-digit tackle performance (10). At nickel DB, the Bengals turn to veteran CB B.W. Webb. Webb returned to action against Pittsburgh after being inactive with a right arm injury in Game 3 at Buffalo. An unrestricted free agent signee over the offseason, Webb has spent time with the N.Y. Giants (2018), Cleveland ('17), New Orleans ('16), Tennessee ('15), Pittsburgh ('14) and Dallas ('13). Last season with the Giants, Webb's defensive backs coach was current Bengals defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. Adding depth at safety is Clayton Fejedelem, a seventh-round pick of the Bengals in 2016 who has become a core special teams player and valuable reserve on defense. Fejedelem has played in all 52 possible games over his career (six starts), and he's led the Bengals in special teams tackles in each of his first three seasons. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen limited time on defense throughout his career but is considered a valuable part of Cincinnati's special teams units. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Wilson saw extended action on defense and made back-to-back tackles for losses on a third and fourth down, forcing a Steelers turnover on downs. In Game 3, Wilson forced a fumble by Bills QB Josh Allen, but it was deemed that the ball was recovered by the Bengals out of bounds. CB Tony McRae, a rotational defensive player and special teams regular, also returns in 2019. McRae has played in 20 career games for Cincinnati, and has nine tackles on defense and nine on special teams. New to the Bengals secondary is CB Greg Mabin, who was signed to the practice squad on Sept. 24 and moved to the active roster on Sept. 25. Mabin made his Bengals debut in Game 4 at Pittsburgh, and now has 21 games played in the NFL. The third-year player out of the University of Iowa was originally a 2017 college free agent signee of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, and now has 18 career tackles, one pass defended and a forced fumble. Also new to the defensive backfield is CB Torry McTyer, who the Bengals signed from the Kansas City Chiefs' practice squad on Sept. 26. McTyer, a third-year player out of Nevada-Las Vegas, was originally a college free agent signee of the Miami Dolphins in 2017, and has previous experience playing under secondary/cornerbacks coach Daronte Jones and defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. He was an active/DNP in Game 4 at Pittsburgh. McTyer has played in 22 career games, and has 30 tackles and three passes defended.

Special teams: WR Alex Erickson has held the Bengals' No. 1 PR and KOR positions since joining the team as a CFA in 2016. Erickson, though, has seen more action at WR early this season due to injuries at that position group, and had been taken off of KOR return duty until CB Darius Phillips, who saw a bulk of the KOR duty early in the season, landed on Reserve/Injured with a knee injury. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, in his first action returning kickoffs this season, Erickson had two returns for 44 yards, including a 25-yard return in the second quarter. Erickson also has posted 42 yards on six punt returns this year. Last season, Erickson averaged 26.2 yards on kickoff returns, and his 1049 kickoff return yards were second-most in the NFL. Erickson also averaged a career-best 10.6 yards per punt return last season. As a rookie in 2016, Erickson posted an AFC-best 27.9-yard average on kickoff returns, the second-best mark in team history. Eighth-year pro Randy Bullock has served as the Bengals' placekicker since midway through the 2016 season, when he joined Cincinnati on waivers from Pittsburgh. Bullock is six-for-six so far this season on PATs, and five-for-seven on FG attempts. Handling punting duties again this season is 11th-year pro Kevin Huber, the longest-tenured Bengal on the roster. Huber, a Cincinnati native (McNicholas High School), stands as the Bengals' career leader in every significant punting category, including punts (788), punting yards (35,469) gross average (45.01), net average (39.80) and inside-20 punts (272). He also shares the franchise record for longest punt (75), and owns the Bengals' best career ratio for inside-20s to touchbacks (4.25-to-1; 272-64). Huber, who also serves as the holder for placekicks, has played in 167 of 169 possible games (including postseason) since joining the team as a fifth-round draft pick in 2009. LS Clark Harris, the oldest Bengal on the roster at 35, has served as the Bengals' long snapper since midway through the 2009 season. Harris has been a paragon of reliability throughout his career in Cincinnati, with no unplayable snaps in 1461 attempts as a Bengal (785 punts, 676 placekicks). In 2017, Harris became the first-ever Bengals long snapper to earn a Pro Bowl nod. Harris has also been solid in kick coverage throughout his time in Cincinnati, with 33 career special teams tackles. The Bengals return three of their top four special teams tacklers from a year ago, including S Clayton Fejedelem, whose 13 tackles led the team. Fejedelem led the Bengals in special teams snaps in each of his first three seasons (2016-18) and led the team in special teams tackles in each of the last two seasons. Fejedelem has made a mark on special teams outside of kick coverage as well — last season, he had a blocked punt and ran for a first down on a fake punt. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick out of Houston, ranked second in special teams tackles last year. Known for his speed, Wilson excels on punt and kick coverage. Wilson's special teams ability was on full display in Game 2 vs. San Francisco, when he collected a team-high two special teams tackles. CB Tony McRae, who ranked fourth on the team in special teams tackles last season, is also known for his speed and figures to contribute heavily on punt and kick coverage.

|------------|---|
| Mid-Oct. | — Beginning on the sixth calendar day prior to a club's seventh regular-season game (including any bye week) clubs are permitted to begin practicing players on Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform and Reserve/Non-Football Injury or Illness (if the player failed his preseason physical due to a non-football injury or illness) for a period not to exceed 21 days. Players may be activated during the 21-day practice period, or prior to 4 p.m. Eastern, on the day after the conclusion of the 21-day period, provided that no player may be activated to participate in a Week Six game. |
| Mid-Oct. | — At any time after six weeks have elapsed since a player was placed on Reserve/Injured or Reserve/Non-Football Injury/Illness, each club is permitted to designate two players for return from either list to the Club's 53-player Active/Inactive List. A player who is "Designated For Return" must have suffered a major football-related injury or non-football-related injury or illness after reporting to training camp and passing his preseason physical examination and must have been placed on the applicable Reserve List after 4 p.m. Eastern, on the day following the final roster reduction. A player whom the Club wishes to designate for return is permitted to return to practice for a period not to exceed 21 days. The Club is required to notify the League office that the player has been "Designated For Return" on the first day the player begins to practice. The player cannot be returned to the Active/Inactive List until eight games have elapsed since the date he was placed on Reserve. |

THE LAST SEASON BENGALS-CARDINALS MEETINGS

2011 SEASON

WEEK 16, GAME 15

Cincinnati Bengals 23, Arizona Cardinals 16
Saturday, Dec. 24, at Paul Brown Stadium

The Bengals took a 23-0 lead with 3:09 left in the third quarter, but the Cardinals closed the gap to 23-16 with 3:16 left in the final period. To claim victory, the Bengals had to fend off subsequent Arizona possessions which died at the Cincinnati 17- and 34-yard lines. The win, tense as it turned out to be, gave the Bengals a 9-6 record and control of the No. 2 AFC Wild Card spot entering the final week of the regular season. QB Andy Dalton became the first rookie to throw for 20 TDs and win eight or more games. The Bengals defense gave up a whopping 208 yards in the fourth quarter, but its performance in the first three periods (just 108 yards, six first downs and no points allowed) eventually outweighed the late Cardinals surge. Arizona fell to 7-8.

2015 SEASON

WEEK 11, GAME 10

Arizona Cardinals 34, Cincinnati Bengals 31
Sunday night, Nov. 22, 2015 at University of Phoenix Stadium

In an interconference matchup of division leaders, the Bengals trailed 28-14 after three quarters, rallied to tie at 31-31 with just over a minute to play, and then fell as Arizona drove 70 yards in the final minute to win with :02 remaining on K Chandler Catanzaro's 32-yard FG. Bengals QB Andy Dalton passed for 140 yards in the fourth quarter, leading TD drives of 80 and 50 yards, but Cincinnati's drive for a third TD stalled when WR A.J. Green was unable to stay in bounds while catching a Dalton pass beyond the goal line on a third-and-two play from the Arizona 25. The Bengals followed with a 43-yard FG by K Mike Nugent to tie the score at 31. Bengals CB Leon Hall and S Reggie Nelson each had first-half INTs against Cardinals QB Carson Palmer, the former Cincinnati first-round draft choice, and Palmer finished the quarter with a passer rating of only 14.2. But Palmer rallied to throw four TD passes and finished with a 111.2 rating. The result left both teams with 8-2 records.

2019 GAME SUMMARIES

WEEK 1, GAME 1

Seattle Seahawks 21, Cincinnati Bengals 20 Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 at CenturyLink Field

Cincinnati outgained Seattle by 196 net yards (395-161), recorded 10 more first downs (22-12) and held more than a 10-minute advantage in time of possession (35:50-24:10), but the Bengals ultimately were inefficient in converting yards into points and lost their first game under new head coach Zac Taylor. The Bengals scored just one FG in three trips inside the Seahawks' red zone in the game. And in the third quarter alone, three times Cincinnati reached Seattle's 36-yard line or farther (36, 27 and 12) and came away with no points (the drives ended on a fumble, a missed FG and a turnover on downs). Seattle, however, scored TDs on three of their four drives into Cincinnati territory overall, including two TDs on their only two trips inside the Bengals' red-zone. QB Andy Dalton had career highs in yards (418) and completions (35) in 51 attempts, tossed two long TDs to WR John Ross III, and had a 106.5 passer rating. Ross had career highs in catches (seven) and receiving yards (158), and his TDs came on passes of 55 and 33 yards. The Bengals' defense enjoyed a solid game overall, recording four sacks and holding the Seahawks, who led the NFL in rushing in 2018, to just 72 yards on the ground. Seahawks QB Russell Wilson, however, stung the Bengals with a 44-yard TD pass to WR Tyler Lockett on the first play of the fourth quarter for what ultimately were the game's winning points.

WEEK 2, GAME 2

San Francisco 49ers 41, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Sept. 15, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

The game started poorly right away for Cincinnati — a penalty erased a kickoff return, followed by a sack, then by a fumble on QB-RB exchange for no gain, then a failed third-down conversion attempt, and then a punt that barely made it to midfield. And, largely, the game was all downhill from there for the Bengals. The 49ers scored TDs on three of their first four drives to jump out to a 21-7 first-half lead and never looked back. San Francisco beat the Cincinnati soundly on both sides of the ball, outgaining the Bengals in total net yards 572-316, including 259-25 rushing. There were some individual positives for Cincinnati, as WR Tyler Boyd had 10 catches for 122 yards, and WR John Ross III had four catches for 112 yards and a TD. The 49ers improved to 2-0. The Bengals fell to 0-2.

Pittsburgh Steelers 27, Cincinnati Bengals 3
Monday night, Sept. 30, 2019 at Heinz Field

A FG by K Randy Bullock gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead after one quarter of the 100th meeting between the Bengals and Steelers, but Pittsburgh scored 27 unanswered points in the final three quarters and cruised to a dominant 27-3 win on Monday Night Football.

WEEK 3, GAME 3

Buffalo Bills 21, Cincinnati Bengals 17
Sunday, Sept. 22, 2019 at New Era Field

Cincinnati's offense stalled for nearly the entirety of the first two quarters en route to a 14-0 halftime deficit, and the early ineffectiveness ultimately doomed the Bengals' late efforts for a comeback win against an undefeated Buffalo team in a stadium packed with rowdy Bills fans.
