The game also will air nationally on Sports USA Radio, with broadcasters Ted Robinson (play-by-play) and Doug Plank (analyst).

Setting the scene: Still is in search of their first win of the season, the Bengals this week travel to Oakland to face the Raiders on Sunday at Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum.

"We're shooting ourselves in the foot and not giving ourselves the best opportunities," head coach Zac Taylor said after the Bengals lost 49-13 at home to Baltimore (7-2) last week. "But we still have a bunch of players and coaches that believe in what we're doing, and that it's going to come at some point.

"(Baltimore) was a really good football team that was playing as well as any team in the league, and we did some silly things that broke that game wide open. It shouldn't have been that way, but that's football. We've got to put it behind us and make the corrections and be ready to respond at Oakland."

The Baltimore game marked the first start in the career of QB Ryan Finley, a rookie fourth-round pick who took over as Cincinnati's starter during the team's Week 9 bye. Finley drew positive reviews for much of his performance, which featured 16 completions in 30 attempts for 167 yards and a TD pass. But he also had two costly mistakes — an INT that was returned 89 yards for a TD, and a lost fumble that was returned 33 yards for a score.

"We had some really good drives," Finley said after the game. "But we have to finish them with points and eliminate some of those negative plays — that pick-six and that fumble for a touchdown. If we do that, the game is a lot closer."

A bright spot that emerged from the Baltimore game was the resurgence of HB Joe Mixon, who has not matched his output from a year ago, when he led the AFC with 1168 rushing yards. On Sunday, Mixon rushed for 114 yards on a career-high 30 carries against the Ravens, who entered the contest ranked second in the NFL in rush defense. Mixon also added 37 receiving yards (on two receptions), which gave him a season-high 151 yards from scrimmage.

"That was really our best rushing performance of the season," Taylor said after the game. "Guys were doing some good stuff. (The offense) has done a better job in the run game, and Joe has really been running his tail off and giving us some really tough yards.

"It's hard to find them in this moment, but there are positives that we'll take from that game. Certainly Joe the last two weeks has responded really well. Joe gets beat up more than any player. He gets asked questions about why things aren't going well, and I think he's handled it like a pro. I've been really proud of the way he's done that."

And while the Bengals' 0-9 record has been disappointing, Taylor says he's confident a turnaround is near.

"It's always going to feel bad when you've lost as much as we have," Taylor said. "But we just need to approach this as a new game. It's a new opportunity for us. Our guys still believe we can win and get this thing turned around. I don't feel any differently when I'm in front of the team talking to them.

"We're excited to go play Oakland. It's another opportunity for our guys to put the past behind us, get a win and get the season jumpstarted and try to finish it the right way."

The Raiders enter Sunday's matchup 5-4, after a 26-24 win over the L.A. Chargers at home last week on Thursday Night Football.

The series: The Raiders lead, 20-11, including 2-0 in postseason, though the Bengals have won three straight, and four of the last five meetings.

Despite the Bengals' recent success against the Raiders, Oakland has dominated as the home team throughout the series, leading the Bengals 14-2 in both Oakland and Los Angeles. The Bengals' road win in the most recent meeting in Oakland in 2015 was the team's first in 11 visits to Oakland dating back to 1968 (the Raiders were based in Los Angeles from 1982-94).

In all games, home and road, the Bengals are 7-14 against the Oakland Raiders and were 4-6 against the L.A. Raiders.

The series includes two playoff games. The Raiders won 31-28 in a divisional game at Oakland in 1975, and they won 20-10 in a divisional game at Los Angeles in '90.

Team bests from the series:

Bengals — MOST POINTS: 45, in a 45-21 win at Los Angeles in 1988. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 24 (twice), set in the 45-21 win in '88, then matched in a 34-10 win at Cincinnati in 2012. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 10 (four times), most recently in the 2012 game at Cincinnati.

Raiders — MOST POINTS: 38, in a 38-14 victory at Cincinnati in 1991. LARGEST VICTORY MARGIN: 34, in a 34-0 win at Cincinnati in 1968. FEWEST POINTS ALLOWED: 0, in the 34-0 win in '68.

The last meeting: Summaries of the last two Bengals-Raiders meetings — in 2015 at Oakland and in '18 at Cincinnati — are on page 14.

*—The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Records vs. Raiders: The two longest rushing gains ever against the Bengals were both by Bo Jackson of the Raiders. Jackson had a 92-yarder for a TD at Los Angeles on Nov. 5, 1989, and he had an 88-yarder (no score) on Dec. 16, 1990 at Los Angeles. Also:

- Four times, the Bengals have posted five interceptions against an opposing quarterback. The first of those instances came against Raiders QB Daryle Lamonica on Nov. 2, 1969 at Nippert Stadium.

- Eight times a Bengals defender has logged three interceptions in a game. One of those instances was recorded by CB Ken Riley on Nov. 28, 1982 vs. the L.A. Raiders.

- K Mike Nugent tied the record for the longest field goal in team history with a 55-yarder vs. the Raiders on Nov. 25, 2012.

As in years past, orange served as the Bengals' designated alternate jersey, and for the third straight year, the team used their color rush uniforms (white jersey, white pants), which debuted in 2016. Cincinnati does not have a throwback uniform.

THE HEAD COACHES

Zac Taylor was named the 10th head coach in Cincinnati Bengals history on Feb. 4, 2019. He comes to Cincinnati after two seasons with the L.A. Rams, where he served as assistant wide receivers coach in 2017 and quarterbacks coach in '18.

In 2018, Taylor helped guide Rams QB Jared Goff to career highs in every major passing category — completions (364), attempts (561), passing yards (4688), passing TDs (32), completion percentage (64.9), yards per attempt (8.36) and passer rating (101.1). Goff ranked fourth in the NFL in passing yards and eighth in passer rating. The Rams' QB play was a key component to their offense, which finished the regular season ranked second in the NFL in total net yards (421.1 per game), fifth in net passing yards (281.7), second in scoring (32.9), first in first downs (401) and fifth in third-down percentage (45.0). Los Angeles won the NFC West with a 13-3 regular-season record and advanced to Super Bowl LIII against the New England Patriots.

In 2017, Taylor helped oversee an emerging Rams passing offense that ranked 10th in the NFL in pass yards per game (239.4). Taylor directed the Rams' young receiving corps, headed by rookie Cooper Kupp, who finished the season with 62 catches, a team-high 869 receiving yards and five TDs. Kupp (869 yards), TE Gerald Everett (244) and WR Josh Reynolds (104) — all rookies — helped the Rams finish with the third-most receiving yards among rookie pass catchers.

Prior to his time with the Rams, Taylor had a one-year stint in the college ranks, serving as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Cincinnati in 2016. Taylor served under head coach Tommy Tuberville at UC.

Taylor broke into NFL coaching in 2012 with the Miami Dolphins as assistant quarterbacks coach. He was elevated to quarterbacks coach from 2013-15, and spent the final five games of '15 as the Dolphins' interim offensive coordinator and primary play-caller, after the team made coaching staff changes in late November. During his time in Miami, Taylor was instrumental in the development of QB Ryan Tannehill, the team's first-round draft pick in 2012.

Taylor's coaching career began at Texas A&M University, where he served as offensive graduate assistant and tight ends coach under head coach Mike Sherman from 2008-11. The Aggies shared the Big 12 South Championship in 2010 and played in three bowl games during Taylor's time in College Station.

As a player, Taylor began his collegiate career at Wake Forest (2002-03), before transferring to Butler County Community College in Kansas ('04) and then playing his final two seasons ('05-06) at the University of Nebraska. Taylor had a decorated career with the Cornhuskers, setting numerous school records and passing for a combined 5850 yards and 45 touchdowns. In his senior season of 2006, Taylor was named Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year after passing for 3197 total yards and leading the Cornhuskers to a 9-3 record, an appearance in the Big 12 Championship Game and a berth in the Cotton Bowl. He was inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 2017.

Taylor joined the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a college free agent in 2007, but he was waived prior to the start of training camp and never saw NFL action. Later that year, he joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, where he spent one season (did not play).

His father, Sherwood, was a defensive back and captain at the University of Oklahoma, playing under Sooners head coach Barry Switzer from 1976-79.

Sherwood Taylor later served as an assistant coach at Oklahoma and Kansas State University. Taylor's brother, Press, played quarterback at Marshall University and is currently quarterbacks coach for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Taylor was born on May 10, 1983, in Norman, Okla., where he was raised and later attended Norman High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in communication studies from the University of Nebraska in 2006. He and his wife, Sarah, have four children — Brooks, Luke, Emma Claire and Milly. Sarah Taylor is the daughter of former Green Bay Packers and Texas A&M head coach Mike Sherman.

Jon Gruden returned as head coach of the Oakland Raiders on Jan. 9, 2018. The naming of Gruden marked his return to coaching after spending nearly a decade in broadcasting, including color analyst duties on the Monday Night Football franchise from 2009-17. His career record is 109-101.

Gruden compiled a 95-81 (.540) regular season mark in 11 seasons as a head coach with the Raiders and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2002-08), and a 5-4 record (.556) in postseason contests, which includes a victory in Super Bowl XXXVII.

The youngest head coach in the NFL at age 34 upon his initial hire by Raiders Owner Al Davis in 1998, Gruden posted a 38-26 record (.594) and led the Silver and Black to back-to-back AFC West titles in 2000 and '01. He guided the Raiders to an AFC Championship Game appearance in 2000, a campaign in which the Raiders set a franchise record with 479 points.

In all, Gruden-led teams have claimed five division championships (including three with Tampa Bay) and have recorded six seasons with nine-or-more wins. Gruden's 57 victories with Tampa Bay are the most in Buccaneers franchise history.

Prior to beginning his initial tenure in Oakland, Gruden was an offensive coordinator with the Philadelphia Eagles (1995-97) and was an offensive assistant with the Green Bay Packers ('92-94) and San Francisco 49ers ('90).

As a broadcaster, Gruden joined ESPN in 2009 as an analyst for Monday Night Football and earned six Sports Emmy nominations.

Gruden played quarterback at the University of Dayton, earning three letters. He graduated from UD with a degree in communications in 1985. He coached collegiately at Tennessee (1986-87), Southeast Missouri State ('88), Pacific ('89) and Pittsburgh ('91).

Gruden was born on Aug. 17, 1963 in Sandusky, Ohio. He and his wife, Cindy, have three sons, Deuce, Michael and Jayson. His brother, Jay, was an AFL and NFL quarter and most recently was head coach of the Washington Redskins, and his father, Jim, is a long-time veteran of professional, collegiate and high school coaching and scouting. His son, Deuce, serves as a strength and conditioning assistant for the Raiders.

Taylor vs. Raiders: No previous meetings.

Taylor vs. Gruden: No previous meetings.

Gruden vs. Bengals: Gruden leads 3-1 (1-1 as Oakland head coach, and 2-0 as Tampa Bay head coach).

Bengals turn to rookie QB Finley: Bengals head coach Zac Taylor announced at his Oct. 29 news conference that rookie Ryan Finley would take over as the team's starting quarterback after the Week 9 bye. Finley replaces ninth-year QB Andy Dalton, the Bengals' all-time leader in passer rating (88.0) and winning percentage as a starter (.539; 68-58-2).

After a players' day off on Monday (Oct. 28), due to the team's late arrival from London early that morning, Taylor addressed the change with each position group on Tuesday morning.

"I just wanted them to hear it from me," Taylor said. "There are a lot of guys that have played a lot of games, and have won a lot of games with Andy. They understand that this isn't an easy decision, and that we're not 0-8 because of Andy. Andy has worked harder than anyone else in this building to help us win football games. It's just a decision I made, and I wanted to make sure everyone heard it from me before they heard it from anyone else."

Taylor, though, said he did speak individually with veterans like WR A.J. Green, Dalton's No. 1 target since the two entered the NFL together as the Bengals' top two draft picks in 2011.

"I talked to A.J. one-on-one about it," Taylor said. "He's one of the few guys that I wanted to tell in person. He understands the position we're in and the decision we made. They're still there to support Andy, and they're there to ride behind Ryan."

Taylor noted that an important factor in the timing of his decision was the extra practice time allotted by the bye week.

"I don't think there's ever a good time (to make a QB change), but it's the bye week, so now we give Ryan a little more time to grasp it and get ready for the next opponent.

"We have practice (on Wednesday going into the bye week). I wanted to make sure Ryan got those reps. If we're going to make this decision, let's go ahead and make it. Let's not wait. Let's not go through meetings knowing that this is likely going to happen. There's certainly that thought as we talked about it as coaches, and ultimately our decision was just to go ahead and get it done with. We're going to have meetings and practice (on Wednesday), so I wanted to make sure everyone knew before we got going."

Finley at a glance: The Bengals named rookie Ryan Finley their starting QB on Tuesday, Oct. 29, during their bye week. Finley, a fourth-round pick (104th overall) out of North Carolina State, has been praised by coaches since arriving for his accuracy and football intelligence.

Finley's first career NFL start came on Nov. 10 vs. Baltimore. His first career completion was a three-yard pass to TE Drew Sample, and his first career TD pass was a six-yarder to TE Tyler Eifert in the second quarter against the Ravens. Through one game, Finley has passed 16 of 30 for 167 yards, with one TD and one INT (66.9 rating).

In preseason, Finley captured the attention of observers and coaches when he completed his first 10 passes in the preseason opener at Kansas City. He followed that up the next week at Washington by converting his first nine attempts. In three preseason games, Finley completed 73.4 percent of his passes (47 of 64) for a team-high 414 yards, three TDs, one INT and a passer rating of 99.3.

Finley spent his first three college seasons (2013-15) at Boise State University, before graduating in the spring of '16 and transferring to N.C. State for his final three seasons of eligibility ('16-18). Finley started all 39 possible games during his time at N.C. State, and became just the second QB in school history (Philip Rivers) and fifth in ACC history to post three seasons of at least 3000 passing yards. He left with the school's top career completion percentage (.645), and despite playing just three seasons compiled the second-most passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard games (18) in program history. In 2017, Finley went an FBS-best 339 pass attempts — a span of 10 games — without an INT.

Finley showed flashes of potential during his time at Boise State, but his tenure there was ultimately derailed by injuries. He joined the BSU program in 2013, but had to redshirt after undergoing preseason shoulder surgery. After seeing action in five games in a reserve role in 2014, he started the Broncos' first three games in '15 before suffering a season-ending ankle injury.

Miscellaneous Finley notes: Bengals QB Ryan Finley may be a rookie, but he has a rather impressive background in a wide variety of sports. Here are a few of the highlights, along with some other miscellaneous facts.

- Finley attended Paradise Valley High School in Phoenix, Ariz., where he lettered in football, basketball, tennis, and track and field (long jump).
- In football, Finley led the state of Arizona in passing yards as a senior (3442) and was named the 2012 Arizona Cardinals Player of the Year across all divisions.
- In basketball, Finley earned second-team all-state honors, helped his team to a state title in 2012-13, and once scored 37 points in a game in which he missed just one shot.
- As a kid, Finley excelled at roller hockey and played for Team USA.
- Finley is widely known in the Bengals' locker room as the best ping pong player on the roster. The team has a ping pong table set up in the auxiliary area of the locker room, and games between players have been known to get competitive. "Ryan Finley is best ping pong player on the team," said LB Nick Vigil. "You can't hit it (back) when he hits it to you." Finley's ping pong prowess even stretches back to N.C. State, where he would sharpen his skills against Wolfpack men's basketball coach and noted ping pong specialist Kevin Keatts. Takayo Siddle, an assistant to Keatts, watched the two play and said of Finley, "He's the Floyd Mayweather of Ping Pong. He's big time."
- Finley's parents were both athletes at St. Olaf College in Minnesota. His mother, Robin, played tennis, and his father, Pat, played football.
- Finley's brother, Ben, is a senior at Paradise Valley, plays QB, and is committed to play at N.C. State next season.

- Finley graduated magna cum laude in psychology from Boise State in 2016, earning his degree in just three years. He later earned a master's degree (liberal studies) and a graduate certificate from N.C. State.

T.B. chasing T.J.: Nine games into the 2019 season, WR Tyler Boyd remains in position to make a run at former Bengals WR T.J. Houshmandzadeh's team record for receptions in a season. Houshmandzadeh's 112 catches in 2007 stand as the top mark in team history, with WR Carl Pickens' 100 in 1996 counting as the only other instance of a Bengal reaching the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd so far has 57 catches, tied for eighth in the NFL this season, tied for the sixth-most ever by a Bengal in the first nine games of a season, and slightly behind pace to break Houshmandzadeh's record.

Houshmandzadeh had 68 catches through nine games in 2007, and Pickens had 50 in 1996. Boyd would need to average 7.8 catches over the Bengals' final seven games to equal Houshmandzadeh's 112, and 6.1 per game to reach the 100-catch plateau.

Boyd eyeing another thousand: With WR A.J. Green having not yet played this season due to an ankle injury, WR Tyler Boyd has again stepped into the spotlight as the Bengals No. 1 WR. But it's familiar territory for the fourth-year pro. Boyd served in the same role the second half of last season while Green was out with a foot injury, and he ended the year with a career-high 1028 receiving yards despite missing final two games with his own injury. That made him the first Bengal other than Green to top 1000 receiving yards in a season since 2009 (Chad Johnson, 1047).

Through nine games this season, Boyd has 598 receiving yards on a team-high 57 receptions (tied for eighth in NFL). He needs to average 57.4 receiving yards over the final seven games to reach 1000 for the season.

"Tyler is a young, up-and-coming receiver in this league, and he's had great production over the years," Bengals head coach Zac Taylor said of Boyd. "He's a great separator, he's got great hands, has great attention to detail and is very coachable. All the traits that we look for in receivers, Tyler exhibits."

T.B. a menace on third down: WR Tyler Boyd this season has picked up right where he left off the last three years — causing problems for opposing defenses on third downs. Boyd has 14 receptions on third-down (for 172 yards), including 12 that have converted first downs.

Last season, Boyd finished with a career-high 24 total catches on third downs. His 22 third-down catches that converted first downs last year were also a career-high, the most by a Bengal since 2008 (26 by T.J. Houshmandzadeh), and tied for last year's league lead in that category with Houston's DeAndre Hopkins and New Orleans' Michael Thomas. It should also be noted that Boyd missed the final two games of 2018 due to a knee injury.

Having success on third down isn't a new trend for Boyd. As a rookie in 2016, his 22 third-down receptions led all rookies, and his 16 third-down receptions that converted first downs tied for the rookie lead with the N.Y. Giants' Sterling Shepard.

A.J. nears a return: WR A.J. Green has not yet played this season, due to an ankle injury suffered in the Bengals' first training camp practice on July 27. All signs, though, point to Cincinnati's star WR making his 2019 debut in the coming weeks. The possibility even remains that he could return this Sunday at Oakland.

Green ranks as the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), and is second in career receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907). His 63 career receiving TDs rank tied for second in team history with WR Carl Pickens, and are just three shy of all-time leader Chad Johnson (66). Green also stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to begin his career with seven straight Pro Bowl seasons. He and DT Geno Atkins are tied for the second-most Pro Bowls (seven) in team history, behind Hall-of-Fame OT Anthony Munoz.

Green has played in 111 of 137 possible regular-season games in his nine Bengals seasons. Of the 26 regular-season games he's missed, 16 have come since the beginning of 2018.

Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury (right foot) to just nine games. He suffered the injury on the final drive in Game 8 vs. Tampa Bay, missed the next three games, and then re-aggravated it in the first half of Game 12 vs. Denver. He ended the season on Reserve/Injured, but returned healthy for the start of 2019 training camp. Then came the ankle injury.

Despite the unclear timeline that came with this summer's injury, the Bengals opted to carry Green on the active roster at the start of the season rather than putting him on Reserve/Injured, thus leaving open the narrow possibility of a return within the first eight weeks of the season. During his rehab, Bengals head coach Zac Taylor publicly expressed satisfaction with Green's progress while also declining to put a timetable on his return. Green returned to practice on a limited basis prior to Week 6, and has bounced between limited participation and DNP since. Green and Taylor both publicly expressed optimism during the bye week about a possible return in Game 10 vs. Baltimore, but a setback on Wednesday of that week caused Green's return to be further delayed.

Green and some gold jackets: Ninth-year Bengals WR A.J. Green has 10 career games of at least 150 receiving yards and one TD, making him one of only nine receivers to ever reach as many games through their first nine NFL seasons. It should also be noted that Green's numbers come despite missing 26 regular-season games to injury throughout his career, including 16 since the beginning of 2018.

Here's a look at the list of players with 10 or more games of 150-plus receiving yards and a TD through their first nine NFL seasons.

Jerry Rice*	San Francisco 49ers	14
Lance Alworth*	San Diego Chargers	16

A.J. finds paydirt: Bengals WR A.J. Green has 63 career receiving TDs, which since his rookie year of 2011 ranks as the sixth-most of any NFL player, the most among WRs and the second-most among active players. Green and former Bengals WR Carl Pickens are tied for second in team history in TD catches, behind WR Chad Johnson (66). It should be noted that Green has posted those lofty totals despite missing 26 career regular-season games due to injury, including 16 since the beginning of 2018.

Here's a look at the NFL's leaders in receiving TDs since 2011.

PLAYER	TEAM	RECEIVING TDs
Antonio Brown	Pittsburgh/New England	75
Jimmy Graham	New Orleans/Seattle/Green Bay	69
Rob Gronkowski	New England	69
Dez Bryant	Dallas/New Orleans	67
Jordy Nelson	Green Bay/Oakland	66
A.J. Green	Cincinnati	63

Hey, Mr. Wilson: Coming into the 2019 season, Bengals S Brandon Wilson had just one career kickoff return — he was on the receiving end of a 36-yard pooch kick designed to run out the clock in the first half of Game 9 vs. New Orleans last season. But this season, Wilson leads the NFL with a 36.0-yard average on KORs, nearly seven yards better than the next-best qualifying player, Chicago's Cordarrelle Patterson (29.1). Wilson's 12 returns for 432 yards this season have included four of at least 40 yards and one TD.

Opportunity came knocking for Wilson in Game 5 this season, when the Bengals, who were already down their No. 1 KOR Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured; knee), lost No. 2 KOR Alex Erickson to a concussion. On his first opportunity, Wilson, a third-year pro from the University of Houston, returned a kickoff 52 yards and nearly broke free for a TD. He later added a 40-yarder that was called back by a penalty.

The next week at Baltimore, Wilson bolted 92 yards for a TD on the game's opening kickoff, marking the first time in team history a Bengal has opened a game with a kickoff-return TD. The NFL's Next Gen Stats service, which tracks players' speed by using GPS, clocked Wilson's TD dash at 22.03 MPH, the third-fastest speed in the NFL this year and the fastest by a Bengal since NGS' launch in 2016.

In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Wilson nearly scored again, but had to settle for a 61-yard return thanks to a shoestring tackle as he broke into the clear. And in Game 9 vs. Baltimore, he added a 47-yarder to his resume.

Finding the end zone isn't new to Wilson. In college at Houston, he ranked as one of college football's most dynamic playmakers, and scored eight career TDs in six different ways — two rushing, two KORs, a missed FG return, fumble return, INT return and a blocked FG return.

Bengals tough when Joe's clicking: While Bengals HB Joe Mixon hasn't yet found the form that helped earn him the AFC rushing crown last season (more info in "Joe looks to regain 2018 form"), head coach Zac Taylor has alluded several times this season to the coaching staff's effort to involve him more heavily in the offense. That's likely a good idea, because as history shows, the Bengals are tough to beat when Mixon is heavily involved.

The Bengals are 6-2 since Mixon's 2017 rookie season when has at least 20 carries, 6-6 when he reaches 100 total yards, and 3-3 when he has at least 100 rushing yards. Mixon this season has reached 100 total yards twice, 100 rushing yards once and 20 carries once, but the Bengals are winless in those games.

Mixon looks to regain 2018 form: Despite missing two games due to a knee injury last season, HB Joe Mixon still managed to become the only Bengals player ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards (1168) in a season (RB Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing in 1968).

But this season, Mixon has topped 100 rushing yards just once, and 100 yards from scrimmage twice. Last year, he had four games of 100 or more yards rushing and seven games of 100 or more yards from scrimmage.

But in Game 10 vs. Baltimore, the tide started to turn. Mixon notched a season-high 151 yards from scrimmage, including 114 rushing yards on 30 carries. That brings his season total to 131 rushes for 434 yards, and 21 catches for 147 yards and two TDs.

Bengals head coach Zac Taylor, who entered the season stressing the importance of the run game in his system, said recently that fixing Cincinnati's ground attack is among the coaching staff's top priorities.

"We talk about (the ground game) every day," Taylor said. "We're trying to find the best answers. We're trying to find the best rhythm for the five (offensive linemen) that are out there. 'What do each of them do best? What's the best way to find success?' It's an ongoing conversation that's nonstop."

Looking at first-year Bengals coaches: When Zac Taylor was named Bengals head coach on Feb. 4, questions immediately surfaced about how quickly he could return the team to success. But even the best coaches in Bengals history have taken time to right the ship.

Here's a look at the nine previous Bengals head coaches' records in their first full season as the team's head coach.

How rookie head coaches stack up: Over the last 10 seasons (2009-18), first-time NFL coaches in their first full season have gone a combined 304-352 (.463). Here's a look at how many wins those 41 rookie head coaches piled up in their first full regular season.

15 carries for Gio does the trick: Over his now seven seasons in Cincinnati, Giovani Bernard has carved out a spot among the top dual-threat running backs in team history.

But when examining Bernard's workload specifically as a rusher throughout his career, a significant trend becomes apparent — the Bengals are 10-1-1 in games in which Bernard has at least 15 rushing attempts. Bernard has not yet reached 15 carries in a game in 2019, however Cincinnati was 1-0 in 2018 when Bernard hit the mark (15 rushes for 69 yards in Game 4 at Atlanta).

In the 12 games in which Bernard has reached 15 carries, he has averaged 78.4 yards, scored seven rushing TDs and topped 100 yards three times.

Gio sets sights on Brooks: HB Giovani Bernard currently stands within striking distance of the Bengals' all-time leads in both receptions and receiving yards by a running back, which are both held by RB James Brooks. With 284 career receptions, Bernard stands 13 short of James Brooks' record of 297. And with 2404 receiving yards, Bernard is 608 short of Brooks' record of 3012. Brooks played eight seasons with the Bengals (1984-91), while 2019 is Bernard's seventh.

Bernard averaged 898 yards from scrimmage in his first six NFL seasons — 518 rushing, 380 receiving — although his pursuit of Brooks' records has been slowed slightly by injuries in recent years. In 2018, he got off to a fast start before a knee injury sidelined him for four games. He also missed the final six games of 2016 due to a torn ACL in his left knee.

25 points does the trick: Since 2011, the Bengals own a 46-1-2 record (.959) when scoring 25 or more points. Only Miami has a better winning percentage, at .971 (33-1-0), when topping the 25-point mark over that span.

The Bengals were a perfect 6-0 in 2018 when scoring 25 points or more, and 0-10 when failing to hit the mark. They have yet to reach 25 points in a game in 2019.

Here are the top five teams in the NFL since 2011, in terms of winning percentage, when hitting the 25-point plateau.

TEAM	WINS	LOSSES	TIES	WINNING PCT.
Miami Dolphins	33	1	0	.971
Cincinnati Bengals	46	1	2	.959
New England Patriots	86	8	0	.915
Philadelphia Eagles	52	6	0	.897
Denver Broncos	51	6	0	.895
Arizona Cardinals	38	5	1	.875

An Andy roundup: QB Andy Dalton now finds himself in a reserve role, after head coach Zac Taylor named rookie Ryan Finley as Cincinnati's starter during the team's bye week. Dalton, though, still ranks among the most accomplished QBs in Bengals history. Here's an overview of his statistical accomplishments.

- Dalton's .539 winning percentage (68-58-2) is the best of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts.
- He stands as the team's all-time leader in career passer rating (88.0) and 300-yard passing games (27), and is second in career completions (2647), passing yards (30,352) and completion percentage (62.15). He's tied for the all-time lead in passing TDs (197).
- He has posted 48 career games with a passer rating of 100 or more, and the Bengals are 39-9 (.813) in those contests.
- His 197 career TD passes and 112 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.76-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100).
- His 24 game-winning drives are the most in Bengals history ahead of Boomer Esiason (22). A game-winning drive is defined as a drive that results in an offensive score in the fourth quarter or overtime that is responsible for putting the team ahead to stay (PATs included).
- His 22 total TDs are the most ever by a Bengals QB, ahead of Ken Anderson (20).
- His 21 rushing TDs are also the most ever by a Bengals QB, ahead of Anderson (20).
- He holds club season records for passing yards (4293) and TD passes (33), both set in 2013.
- He is the only Bengals passer to throw for 300-plus yards in four consecutive games (2013).
- He is the only Bengals QB ever to catch a TD pass. He scored on an 18-yard gadget connection from WR Mohamed Sanu vs. Tennessee in 2014.

- He opened his career with 77 consecutive regular-season starts, a Bengals record for quarterbacks at any point during a career. The previous mark had been 61, posted by Boomer Esiason from 1985-89.

The Huber roundup: Long considered the top punter in Bengals history, 11th-year pro Kevin Huber now has the career records to back up that claim. Already a considerable presence in the Bengals' record book heading into last season, Huber moved into first place in the only two remaining career punting categories in the Bengals' record book.

Huber now stands first in team history in the following categories:

- Punts (808)
- Punting yards (36,368)
- Gross average (45.01)
- Net average (39.86)
- Inside-20 punts (281)

Huber has also taken over many of the Bengals' single-season and single-game records. Among them are:

- He holds the top four Bengals season averages in gross yardage and the top five Bengals season averages in net. His gross record is 46.84, and his net record is 42.10 — both were set in 2014.
- He shares the team record for longest punt (75 yards) with Kyle Larson.
- His 33 inside-20 punts in 2012 is a single-season franchise record.
- His six inside-20 punts on Sept. 14, 2017 vs. Houston are tied with Lee Johnson (Nov. 2, 1997) for the most in a game in Bengals history.

Dunlap's PD frenzy: While he's recorded just one pass defended this season, in part due to missed time with a knee injury, Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap still has a reputation as one of the league's best defensive linemen at batting down passes at the line of scrimmage. And he has the numbers to back it up, too.

Dunlap had eight passes defended in 2018, second-most in the NFL among non-DBs. His eight PDs were the third-highest single-season total of his career, behind the 2013 (10) and '16 (15) seasons. His 2016 total led all Bengals defenders and all other NFL defensive linemen, and it was the first time since Cincinnati began recording defensive stats in 1976 that a Bengals defensive lineman had ever led the team in PDs.

To paint a clearer picture of just how effective Dunlap has been at batting passes, here's a list of non-defensive backs in the NFL with the most passes defended since the start of the 2016 season.

PLAYER	POS	TEAM	PDs SINCE 2016
Alec Ogletree	LB	St. Louis/L.A. Rams/N.Y. Giants	33
Eric Kendricks	LB	Minnesota	33
Carlos Dunlap	DE	Cincinnati	31
Deion Jones	LB	Atlanta	28
Cory Littleton	LB	L.A. Rams	25
Luke Kuechly	LB	Carolina	25

Dunlap has played in seven of Cincinnati's nine games so far this season. He missed Games 6-7 due to a knee injury.

Dunlap's, Atkins' dominance = team success: Bengals DE Carlos Dunlap and DT Geno Atkins entered the NFL together in 2010 as draft picks of the Bengals, and in the 10 seasons since they've established themselves among the top pass-rushing duos in the league. Most importantly though, the record shows that when Dunlap and Atkins are at their most dominant, it usually spells success for Cincinnati.

The Bengals are 10-6 (.625) when Dunlap records more than one sack, and 8-5 (.615) when Atkins records more than one sack. There have been two instances in which both have had more than one sack in the same game (Bengals are 1-1 in those contests), which means Cincinnati is a combined 17-10 (.629) when getting more than one sack from either player.

The Bengals are 7-1 since the beginning of the 2015 season when Dunlap records more than one sack, with the only outlier coming in a 20-17 overtime loss at Denver in 2015. Dunlap had a career-best three sacks in that Denver game and finished 2015 with a career-high 13.5, second-most in Bengals history. Since 2015, the Bengals are 6-3 when Atkins has more than one sack.

Atkins has recorded multiple sacks once this season — two sacks in a Game 7 loss vs. Jacksonville. Dunlap has not recorded more than one sack in a game this season, due in part to missing two contests (Games 6-7) with a knee injury.

Dunlap and Atkins are under contract with the Bengals through the '21 and '22 seasons, respectively. Atkins (74 career sacks) currently stands second on the Bengals' all-time sack list, and Dunlap (73.5 career sacks) is third. The Bengals' leader in career sacks is DE Eddie Edwards, with 83.5.

Dunlap, Atkins neck-and-neck in career sacks: Just a half sack separates Bengals DT Geno Atkins (74 career sacks) and DE Carlos Dunlap (73.5), who rank second and third, respectively, on Cincinnati's all-time sack list behind all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). And now that Edwards' record is within sight, the race is on to see which player catches him first.

Atkins, who missed nearly half of the 2013 season with a torn ACL, has more than double the number of sacks of the next-closest interior defensive lineman in Bengals history (Tim Krumrie, 34.5). Atkins has three sacks so far this season, including two in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville. Last season, he had a team-high 10 sacks, the third-highest single-season sack total of his career (he had a career-high 12.5 in 2012, and 11 in '15). Atkins has finished with at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior lineman five times in nine NFL seasons, including in three of the last four years (see "Geno looks to re-claim his crown").

Dunlap, a two-time Pro Bowler (2015 and '16) who turned 30 after the '18 season, has just one sack this season and missed Games 6-7 with a knee injury. Dunlap averaged 8.1 sacks over his first nine NFL seasons, while Edwards averaged just under seven over 12 seasons. In 2015, Dunlap set a career-high in sacks, with 13.5, the second-most in Bengals history. Besides his 73.5 sacks, Dunlap's career totals include 18 FFs, nine FRs, 57 PDs, four blocked FGs and three TDs.

NOTE: The NFL has counted sacks as official statistics since 1982. However, the Bengals have sack statistics compiled since 1976 and recognize those sacks recorded from '76-81 in its records. Thus, please note that, because the NFL has sacks statistics for all teams only since 1982, the Bengals' sack statistics for players whose careers included seasons prior to '82 will not be included in league information.

Geno on HOF pace: Bengals DT Geno Atkins, who is playing his 10th NFL season in 2019, currently stands at 74 career sacks, second in team history and the most ever by a Bengals interior defensive lineman.

But a closer look reveals that Atkins is on a Hall-of-Fame pace. When compared to defensive tackles in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Atkins compares quite favorably at this point in his career.

Here's a look at the sack totals of notable Hall-of-Fame DTs through their 10th seasons, as well as where they stood at the end of their careers. It should be noted that Atkins missed nearly half of the 2013 season, due to a torn ACL.

(NOTE: This list includes only DTs whose careers started after 1982, when the NFL began counting sacks as official statistics):

NAME	YEARS ACTIVE	THRU 10 SEASONS	CAREER SACKS
John Randle.....	1990-2003	106.0	137.5
Warren Sapp.....	1995-2007	79.5	96.5
Geno Atkins.....	2010-present	*74.0	*74.0
Cortez Kennedy.....	1990-2000	57.0	58.0

*—Atkins is nine games into his 10th NFL season.

Geno looks to re-claim his crown: Bengals DT Geno Atkins this season is looking to reclaim a crown that, for all intents and purposes, has been his for much of this decade. In nine previous NFL seasons (2010-18), Atkins has five times finished in at least a tie for most sacks by an NFL interior defensive lineman. He claimed it outright in 2012 (12.5 sacks), '16 (nine) and '17 (nine), while sharing it in '11 (7.5) and '15 (11).

Atkins has three sacks so far this season, but stands three behind the league's leaders among interior linemen — Bills DT Jordan Phillips and Bears DT Nick Williams (each with 6.0).

Last season, Atkins had a team-high 10 sacks but finished two short of the top spot, held by 49ers DT DeForest Buckner (12). It marked the first time in the previous four seasons that Atkins failed to finish in at least a tie for the lead.

Atkins has been selected to the Pro Bowl seven times in his nine previous seasons. Those seven selections are the most by a Bengals defensive player in team history, just ahead of CB Lemar Parrish (six). No other Bengals defensive lineman has been selected more than twice. Atkins currently stands at 74 career sacks, the most by a Bengals interior lineman and third overall.

Two Bengals hail from Queen City: The Bengals have two players — DE Sam Hubbard and P Kevin Huber — who grew up in Greater Cincinnati.

Hubbard, a Moeller High School alum and former Ohio State standout, is now in his second season with the Bengals. A third-round draft pick (77th overall) a year ago, Hubbard followed up a productive rookie season by earning the Bengals' No. 1 RDE spot in preseason. He has three sacks so far this season (tied for team lead).

"It's insane," Hubbard said after being drafted by his hometown Bengals. "Seeing that 513 area code pop up on my phone on draft day was just incredible. To get an opportunity to represent the city of Cincinnati one more time, and to do it for the pro team in this city, is a dream come true. I watched every game the Bengals played. I was there when Carson Palmer got hurt in the playoffs (in the 2005 season). I've just always been a big fan."

Huber, an Anderson Township native and alum of McNicholas High School and the University of Cincinnati, was a fifth-round draft choice of the Bengals in 2009. He has played in all but two games throughout his career in Cincinnati, and he currently stands as the Bengals' career leader in both gross (45.01) and net (39.86) punting average.

Huber and his wife, Mindi, have been active in the local community throughout his Bengals career. The couple started their own charity, The Foundation for Underserved Rescues, which "provides resources and support to underserved Cincinnati-area animal rescues."

It should also be noted that Bengals have a third player with Cincinnati ties. Rookie G Michael Jordan was born in Fairfield, Ohio, just outside of Cincinnati, but his family moved and he attended high school in Michigan.

Bengals draft picks stick in NFL: A familiar trend has emerged this season regarding which teams have the most keen eye for talent in the draft, and the Bengals are again toward the top of the list. As of Monday (11/11), there were 47 players on NFL rosters who entered the NFL as draft picks of the Bengals, two shy of New England for the most of any team in the NFL.

Cincinnati was among the top three teams all of last season as well, and even held a double-digit lead over the second place team early in the year before 13 qualifying players landed on the Bengals' Reserve/Injured list. Only players on active 53-man rosters are counted in this data.

Of the 53 players on Cincinnati's active roster on Monday (11/11), 39 entered the NFL with the Bengals — 32 as draft picks, and seven as college free agents. That total includes OT Andre Smith, a Bengals first-round pick in 2009 who later spent time with Minnesota and Arizona before rejoining Cincinnati.

Of the Bengals' 32 draft picks on their roster, seven were first-round picks (including Smith), seven were second-rounders, four were third-rounders, six were fourth-rounders, three were fifth-rounders, three were sixth-rounders and two were seventh-rounders.

Here's a look at the teams with the most draft picks on an active NFL roster, as of Monday, Nov. 11.

TEAM	DRAFT PICKS ON NFL ROSTERS
New England Patriots.....	49
Cincinnati Bengals.....	47
Baltimore Ravens.....	47
Seattle Seahawks.....	46
San Francisco 49ers.....	45
Green Bay Packers.....	45

Bengal bites: Three Bengals on the 53-player roster have changed uniform numbers since preseason — CB Darius Phillips (Reserve/Injured) now is No. 24, CB B.W. Webb now is No. 23 and WR Damion Willis (practice squad) now is No. 15 ... The tallest Bengal is QB Jake Dolegala, who is 6-7 ... The shortest Bengal is HB Trayveon Williams, who is 5-8 ... There is a tie for heaviest Bengals player between DT Josh Tupou and OT Cordy Glenn, who are both 345 pounds ... The lightest Bengal is CB Tony McRae, who is 185 pounds ... The oldest Bengal is LS Clark Harris, who is 35 (born July 10, 1984) ... The youngest Bengal is G Michael Jordan, who is 21 (Jan. 25, 1998).

BENGALS QUOTES

Head coach Zac Taylor, on the state of the team:

"We're in this thing together. We genuinely care about each other, and we've put in a lot of work. If we stay the course and we believe in what we're doing and we believe in the people we're doing it with, good things are going to happen. We know good things are coming our way. We just have to keep working."

Taylor, on handling the offensive play-calling responsibilities:

"It leaves you with a lot on your plate, but at the same time I know what I want this thing to look like. (Offensive coordinator) Brian Callahan and I are in lockstep. We're on the same page, along with all the other coaches in this offense. It may be me calling the plays, but everybody has input. Even at practice, I'm listening to Brian and some of the other coaches talk about ideas."

Even though it's coming out of my mouth, it doesn't mean the ideas for play-calls are solely coming from me. (Communication between us) is something we try to iron out in practice — we try to make it as game-like as possible — and it's important that everyone is equally involved."

Taylor, on QB Ryan Finley overall:

"Everything that we've seen from him — in the meeting rooms, in training camp and the offseason — shows us what led us to draft him. In the pre-draft process, this was a guy that we really liked and identified as someone we needed in our program. He's shown us everything that we've needed to trust that he can help us. ... (And) he's a smart guy. He's been able to handle a NFL playbook as you would expect a smart, intelligent rookie would handle it."

Taylor, on QB Ryan Finley's debut against Baltimore last week:

"He did a really good job in the pocket. He did a really good job handling the protection and the blitz packages. They (the Ravens) came after him pretty good most of the game. He responded well to that. There was a couple throws I think he'd like to have back — the interception would certainly be one of them. When you watch him, you see his timing. He's getting used to playing NFL-caliber football and not preseason football — real starting football against a good defense. And so, his timing was a little bit off. I think you'll see a pretty dramatic leap for him in game two, understanding what it's like to play at that speed."

Offensive coord. Brian Callahan, on QB Ryan Finley overall:

"He moves well in the pocket. He moves well as a runner. He can throw from different arm angles. He has a unique skill set, he's accurate and he throws the ball well. We're hoping to find a way to score more points at the end of the day, and I believe he can help us do that."

Callahan, on QB Ryan Finley's debut against Baltimore last week:

"The part that I think was the most impressive about him in the game is that that we go down there, we put a good drive together and then we turn the ball over and give up seven points (on a pick-six). He bounces back on the very next drive, takes it all the way down the field and doesn't really flinch. And he throws right back at (the DB who intercepted his pass previously). ... He showed no fear in going right back at them. Nothing affected him negatively that way. He just went right back down the field. So he responded the way you want to see a quarterback respond to some adversity in a game."

QB Ryan Finley, on being named a starter:

"I'm excited for this opportunity. I'm just going to have fun with it, execute and do whatever I can to help this team win."

"It will be fun. (Being challenged) is part of the game. I just have to get thrown in there and figure it out. I have a lot of guys around me that know what they are doing, and I feel more confident because of that."

"I hope to bring energy — bring some juice — and do my best to be good passer in the pocket, get the ball out on time and extend plays. We've struggled a little bit in the red zone, so I'm hoping to find some ways to score points."

Callahan, on the offense being without A.J. Green (injured early in training camp) for the first half of the season:

"Listen, we all want A.J. out there. Everyone wants him. When you have those guys, you find ways to use them. But there are plenty of instances where you may not have him. You always stay true to what you believe offensively is going to help you win the game. If that involves featuring matchups with a guy as dynamic as A.J., then that's going to be part of it. If we don't have that piece, we will move the pieces around to get us the best matchups that help us win the game. That's what our system is designed to do — move pieces wherever we need them."

Taylor, on HB Giovanni Bernard, who signed a contract extension on Sept. 3:

"He's consistent with his approach every day. You know what you're getting from him. He's very detailed with his craft — he's a good runner, he's a good receiver and he's a good protector. He fits all three of those traits that you want in a running back, and particularly in a No. 2 running back, because Joe gets the majority of the touches. Gio has always been reliable and goes about it the right way. He sets a great example for the other players on this team. He's very deserving of what he received (with a contract extension) and I'm happy for him."

HB Joe Mixon, on the Bengals' recent rushing efforts:

"We've done a good job up front, and the receivers on the perimeter are blocking. I hope we build on this so this can be the best November and December possible. I think that's what's going to help us in these games — running the football and controlling the line of scrimmage."

Taylor, on offensive line coach Jim Turner:

"Our experience working together (in the past) has great value. We see protections the same way, we see the run game the same way (and) the cadences the same way. We are always on the same page. ... I believe in Jim. I've seen him coach for six years live and in person now. I've seen what he has gotten out of players and the way he has developed players. Jim's attention to detail is unmatched. Our offensive linemen are going to be disciplined and know how we want it done. I don't believe in anybody more than I believe in Jim to get that job done."

Offensive line coach Jim Turner, on Trey Hopkins earning the starting center position:

"We feel like Trey helps us win at center better than anybody else on our team. As far as the performance of playing center and all the things that go into that position, Trey's got a lot of experience. When you watch the tape over Trey's career, he has done a heck of a job, and he has developed into a heck of a player. We expect a lot out of him now, having given him this responsibility."

Taylor, on WR Auden Tate:

"Auden has aggressive hands and he's tough. Those are two traits that you love. He's a guy you can find a role for in this offense. He looks like a tight end playing wide receiver. He's physical in the run game, he has a great catch radius, he catches the ones you throw to him, and he's hard to take down. When his number has been called, he's produced for us."

Taylor, on rookie TE Drew Sample:

"He's a gritty player. He really just has a special knack in all three phases — pass protection, run blocking and being a receiver. He's improving every game he plays against a different defensive line and different linebackers. I'm very pleased with the direction he is headed in."

Callahan, on TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert:

"There's no question — when we put those guys in different positions in formations, they can do a lot for us both as coverage indicators and as pieces in the passing game. On top of that, they can run block well. We're going to be able to run a lot of different things with them in the lineup."

Tight ends coach James Casey, on using TEs C.J. Uzomah and Tyler Eifert on the field at the same time:

"It opens up so many possibilities with both those guys on the field. I don't think C.J. gets enough credit for how well he runs and catches the ball, and I don't think Tyler gets enough credit for how well he does blocking."

CB B.W. Webb, on defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo:

"Lou is very strategic about what he calls and has a lot of confidence in his players. That's very big for us — for our confidence — when a coach trusts you enough to put you in certain positions against the opponent's best players. He knows what the offense wants to do against us, so he just prepares us throughout the week, and we trust him."

Defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo, on DE Carl Lawson:

"He's a powerful guy. I watched Cam Wake do it for six years (with the Miami Dolphins). Carl has the same body type and can also jack up 300-pound tackles in the run game. And Carl has that same kind explosion. I think Carl's an all-around player and a three-down guy for us, for sure."

S Clayton Fejedelem, on S Brandon Wilson's kickoff return for a TD against Baltimore in Game 6:

"Brandon is one heck of a returner. He's strong, he's fast and he's explosive. The Ravens might have been No. 1 in kickoffs. (Baltimore K Justin) Tucker is hands-down the best kicker in the league, and he puts that thing right on the goal line, one-yard out almost every time. They have been pinning people down there all season. We knew we were going to get opportunities for returns, we had a great return plan drawn up that week, and Brandon did the rest."

POSITION BY POSITION

Quarterbacks: After serving as the second-string quarterback for the first eight games of 2019, rookie Ryan Finley took over the reins as the starting signal-caller for Game 9 vs. Baltimore. In his debut, Finley passed for 167 yards on 16-of-30 passing, with a touchdown pass to TE Tyler Eifert for his first-career score. The Bengals traded up in April's draft to select Finley, from N.C. State, in the fourth round. Finley left N.C. State with the top career completion percentage (.645) in school history. Despite playing only three seasons (2016-18) at N.C. State, Finley finished his career ranked third in ACC history in both passing yards (10,505) and 300-yard passing games (18). Finley began his college career at Boise State (2013-15), then graduated and played his final three seasons ('16-18) at N.C. State. Veteran Andy Dalton yields to Finley after nine seasons in the starting quarterback role. Through eight games, Dalton ranked second in the NFL in passing attempts (338) and fifth in completions (204). In Game 8 at the L.A. Rams (London), Dalton completed 32 passes en route to 329 yards and one touchdown through the air. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Dalton totaled four rushes for 33 yards and collected his third rushing touchdown of the season. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Dalton posted a season-high 107.6 passer rating, his highest output since Game 4 of 2018, when he notched a 109.5 rating at Atlanta. In the opener at Seattle, he set career-highs in completions (35) and passing yards (418), en route to a 106.5 passer rating. Dalton owns a 68-58-2 regular season record as a starter, good for the top winning percentage (.539) of any Bengals QB with 10 or more starts. He stands as the Bengals' all-time leader in career passer rating (88.0) and 300-yard passing games (27), and is second in career completions (2647), passing yards (30,352), passing TDs (197) and completion percentage (62.15). His 197 career TD passes and 112 INTs are good for a ratio of 1.76-to-1, the best in Bengals history ahead of second-place Carson Palmer at 1.54-to-1 (154-100). Dalton's 22 total TDs in his career are the most ever by a Bengals QB, ahead of Ken Anderson (20); his 21 career rushing TDs are also the most ever by a QB, ahead of Anderson (20). Dalton has posted 48 career games with a passer rating at or above 100, and the Bengals' record in those contests is 39-9 (.813). Perhaps the biggest surprise of training camp was the play of college free agent Jake Dolegala of Central Connecticut State, a tall (6-foot-7), athletic and strong-armed passer who impressed in a little more than one game of action in preseason. In college, Dolegala set school records for career passing yards (8129) and TDs (48). Dolegala has not yet played this season — inactive for Games 1-6 and 8-9, and active/DNP for Game 7.

Running backs: HB Joe Mixon now is in his third season with the Bengals, after a 2018 campaign in which he rushed for 1168 yards and became the first Cincinnati HB ever to lead the AFC in rushing yards in a season (Paul Robinson led the AFL in rushing as a rookie in 1968). Through nine games, Mixon has rushed 131 times for 434 yards, and has 21 catches for 147 yards and two TDs. In Game 9 vs. Baltimore, Mixon surpassed the 100-yard rushing mark for the first time this season, with 114 yards on the ground. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Mixon collected a receiving touchdown on a two-yard pitch-and-catch from Dalton with 1:25 left to play in the first half. Mixon had his most productive game of the season in Game 5 vs. Arizona, reaching 100 yards from scrimmage (93 rushing, 16 receiving) for the time this year. In Game 3 at Buffalo, Mixon reached the end zone for the first time in 2019 with a one-yard reception in the fourth quarter. In 36 career games (28 starts), Mixon has six 100-yard rushing performances and 12 games of at least 100 yards from scrimmage. Giovani Bernard, a 2013 second-round pick of the Bengals, again serves in the No. 2 HB role behind Mixon. In Game 8 against the L.A. Rams, Bernard ripped off a season-long 25-yard run. In the opener at Seattle, Bernard caught two passes for 42 yards, including a 35-yarder on a screen pass, which was his longest gain since 2017. Bernard ranks second in Bengals history in both receptions (284) and receiving yards (2404) by a RB, trailing only James Brooks (297 and 3012). Brooks played seven Bengals seasons (1984-91), and Bernard in 2019 is in his seventh season. Bernard also owns the Bengals' record for receiving yards in a game by a RB (128), which he set in 2015 at Arizona, and his 89-yard TD run vs. Carolina in '14 stands as the second-longest rush in team history. New to the Bengals' backfield this season is rookie sixth-round pick Trayveon Williams of Texas A&M. Williams was inactive for Games 1-2 due to a foot injury suffered in preseason, then was an active/DNP (coach's decision) in Game 3 and inactive again for Games 4-5 (coach's decision). Williams has appeared in three games this season, and has seen action on special teams. In three seasons at A&M, Williams amassed 4176 yards from scrimmage and 35 total TDs. Last season, Williams led the Southeastern Conference in rushing yards (1760) and TDs (18), while ranking second among SEC running backs in receptions (27) and third in receiving yards (278).

Wide receivers: Tyler Boyd has stepped into the No. 1 receiving role to start the season, while A.J. Green has been rehabbing from an ankle injury suffered in the first practice of training camp. Boyd currently leads the Bengals in both receptions (57) and receiving yards (598). His receptions total is tied for sixth-most ever by a Bengal through the first nine games of a season. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Boyd led the team in receptions (10) and receiving yards (season-high 123), and had a 42-yard touchdown catch in the fourth quarter. In Game 2 vs. San Francisco, Boyd had 122 yards on 10 receptions. He now has five career 100-yard receiving games and three career games with double-digit receptions. Boyd has become among the most reliable and productive receivers in the league on third down, and currently has 14 third-down receptions, including 12 that have converted first downs. Boyd has caught at least one pass in all 48 of his career games played. Originally a 2016 second-round pick of the Bengals, Boyd signed a contract extension in July that will keep him in Cincinnati through the 2023 season. Second-year pro Auden Tate, a 6-5 WR out of Florida State has worked his way into the regular rotation at WR, and has 30 receptions (second on team) for 427 yards (third on team). In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Tate hauled in three receptions for 65 yards, including a career-long 33-yard grab in the third quarter. Tate had a career day in Game 6 at Baltimore, leading the team in catches (five) and receiving yards (91). Tate recorded his first career touchdown in Game 5 vs. Arizona on a two-yard pass from Dalton with 4:11 remaining in the game. Tate made his first NFL start in Game 3 at Buffalo, and posted 88 receiving yards on a career-high six receptions. Alex Erickson, a Bengals CFA signee in 2016, has seen time throughout his career at both returner spots, WR and emergency RB. Erickson has played in all 57 games of his NFL career, and has 63 career catches for 761 yards and a TD. In Game 8 against the L.A. Rams, Erickson led the team with 97 receiving yards, including a career-long 52-yard connection in the fourth quarter. Erickson had a career day in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, notching his first career 100-yard receiving game, while posting career highs in catches (eight) and yards (137), and had a 48-yard catch. Stanley Morgan, a 2019 college free agent signee out of Nebraska, was signed from the practice squad to the active roster on Oct. 2. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Morgan collected his first career special teams tackle, and downed a first-quarter punt at the Jaguars three-yard line. He made his NFL debut in Game 5 vs. Arizona and notched his first career reception with a six-yard catch in the second quarter. Morgan spent four seasons (2015-18) at Nebraska, and set school records in career receptions (189) and receiving yards (2747). Regarding ninth-year wideout Green, his climb up the Bengals' record books is temporarily on hold, while he rehabs from an ankle injury suffered in Cincinnati's first training camp practice. Green has not yet played in 2019, and Bengals head coach Zac Taylor says there is no specific timeline for his return. But Green has practiced on a limited basis in recent weeks and has said publicly that he is nearing a return. Last season, Green was limited by a toe injury to just nine games, and for the first time in his eight seasons, missed out on earning a Pro Bowl nod. Green, though, still stands as the only NFL WR since the 1970 merger to start his career with seven consecutive Pro Bowl nominations. Green's seven Pro Bowl selections are tied with DT Geno Atkins for second in Bengals history, behind HOF OT Anthony Munoz (11). Despite limited action in 2018, Green finished second on the team in receptions (46), receiving yards (694) and receiving TDs (six); it was the first time in his eight seasons he did not lead the team in receptions and receiving yards. Green currently ranks second in team history in receptions (602) and receiving yards (8907); Chad Johnson, who played 10 seasons with the Bengals, is first in both categories (751 and 10,783). Green is the Bengals' all-time leader in 100-yard receiving games (33), after passing Johnson (31) last season.

Tight ends: Fifth-year pro C.J. Uzomah, who signed a three-year contract extension (through 2021) with the Bengals over the offseason, is listed as the No. 1 TE on the Bengals' depth chart and has started all nine games this season. Uzomah has nine receptions for 112 yards this season, including a career-high 66 yards in Game 1 at Seattle. Last season, Uzomah notched career-highs in catches (43), receiving yards (439) and TDs (three). Tyler Eifert, who was limited to just 14 games from 2016-18 due to back and ankle injuries, has played in all nine games so far this season. Eifert has 25 catches for 112 yards and two TDs on the year, including 14 third-down catches for 142 yards this season. In Game 9 against Baltimore, Eifert hauled in his second touchdown of the season to convert a red zone opportunity. In Game 8 against the L.A. Rams, Eifert posted season-highs in receptions (six) and receiving yards (72). In Game 2 against San Francisco, Eifert collected a one-yard TD in the first quarter, his first score since his 15-yard TD in Game 4 of 2018. When healthy, Eifert has proved to be among the top pass-catching TEs in the NFL. In 2015, Eifert caught 13 TDs (in just 13 games), the most ever by a Bengals TE. Cincinnati invested a second-round pick in April's draft in Drew Sample of Washington, who was touted by scouts as a well-rounded prospect that excels in the blocking game.

Sample has seen action in all nine games this season and has five catches for 30 yards. In college, Sample was a key part of a blocking effort that helped Washington RB Myles Gaskin top 1200 rushing yards and score double-digit TDs in each of his four seasons. Cethan Carter, a third-year player out of Nebraska, has appeared in each of the Bengals' seven games this season, with most of his action coming on special teams. Carter's four special teams tackles are tied for the team lead.

Offensive linemen: At center is veteran Trey Hopkins, who won the starting job after a strong preseason. Hopkins, now in his sixth season in Cincinnati, is known for his intelligence, versatility (has started all three interior OL spots during his career) and experience (29 career starts). Hopkins and ROT Bobby Hart are the only Bengals offensive linemen to start each of the nine games this season. Hart, a seventh-round pick of the N.Y. Giants in 2015, signed with Cincinnati in the '18 offseason, and has started all 25 games in his Bengals career. At RG this season is John Miller, an unrestricted free agent signee who spent his first four seasons with the Buffalo Bills. At 6-3, 315, Miller is considered a powerful run-blocker and helped the Bills rank in the top 10 in rushing offense in each of his four seasons with the team. After starting the first 53 games of his NFL career, Miller was inactive for Games 7 and 8 due to a groin injury he suffered in the second quarter of Game 6 at Baltimore. The Bengals invested a first-round pick in OT Jonah Williams of Alabama, who was slated as the 2019 starter at LOT, but a shoulder injury suffered in OTAs will cause Williams to miss most or all of his rookie year (currently on Reserve/Physically Unable to Perform). Instead, veteran Cordy Glenn, last year's No. 1 LOT who had been slated to move inside to LG, returns back outside to LOT. Glenn, though, suffered a concussion in preseason and has not yet played this season. After returning to practice on Oct. 16, Glenn spent Game 7 vs. Jacksonville on the Reserve/Suspended by Club list, but has since returned to the roster. Glenn, who has played all 91 of his career NFL games at LOT, was acquired in a trade with Buffalo during the 2018 offseason. Backing up both OT positions is veteran Andre Smith, who started Games 1-5 at LOT in place of Glenn. Smith, the Bengals' 2009 first-round draft choice, left Game 5 vs. Arizona with a left ankle injury and missed Games 6-8. Smith, who has played the majority of his 10 NFL seasons with Cincinnati, re-signed with the Bengals as a free agent on July 25. Veteran John Jerry, who signed with the Bengals in June after Williams' injury, has played in eight games this season, with starts at LOT in Games 6-8 for the injured Smith. Jerry has played in 129 career games, with 105 starts. Entering this season, he had two career starts at LOT. Billy Price, a 2018 first-round pick (21st overall) out of Ohio State, began the year as a reserve but has since started five games at LG (Game 3 and Games 6-8). Price was limited during preseason and early in the regular season by a foot injury. G Alex Redmond returned to the active roster on Oct. 7, after serving a suspension for Games 1-4 due to a violation of the NFL's policy on performance-enhancing substances. Redmond saw his first action of the season in Game 6 at Baltimore, and started Games 6-8 at RG for the injured Miller. Redmond started 15 games at RG last season for the Bengals. In Game 1 at Seattle, rookie G Michael Jordan, a Bengals fourth-round pick and the youngest player on the roster (turns 22 in January), became just the 16th Bengals rookie to start on the offensive line in an opener, the seventh to do so at G, and the seventh to do so after being drafted in the fourth round or lower. Jordan has played in seven games this season, with four starts at LG. Jordan endured a knee injury that caused him to miss Game 3 at Buffalo, and is now in a reserve role. New to the Bengals' offensive line is OT/G Fred Johnson, who was acquired on Oct. 14 on waivers from the Pittsburgh Steelers. Johnson, a rookie out of the University of Florida, was originally a college free agent signee of the Steelers in May. Johnson made his NFL debut in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, but was an active/DNP in Games 8-9.

Defensive linemen: Considered one of the top interior defensive linemen in football, 10th-year DT Geno Atkins again anchors the Bengals' defensive line and continues his climb up the Bengals' all-time sack list. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Atkins recorded his second and third sacks of the season after dropping Jaguars QB Gardner Minshew two times in a three-minute span. Atkins also recorded a sack in Game 3 at Buffalo. The 10th-year veteran now has 74 sacks, second-most in team history, most by a Bengals interior lineman and 9.5 shy of the all-time lead. Atkins in 2018 led the Bengals in sacks (10) for the fifth time in his career. In his nine previous seasons, Atkins has finished in at least a share of the NFL lead for sacks by an interior defensive lineman five different times — he claimed it outright three times (2012, '16, '17) and shared it twice ('11 and '15). Atkins' seven Pro Bowl selections are the most ever by a Bengals defensive player, and tied with teammate A.J. Green for the second-most in team history behind Hall of Fame OT Anthony Munoz (11). Standing in third place on the Bengals' all-time career sack list is 10th-year DE Carlos Dunlap, whose 73.5 sacks are 10 shy of all-time leader Eddie Edwards (83.5). After appearing in 115 consecutive contests and not missing a game since 2012, Dunlap missed Games 6-7 with a knee injury. Dunlap has one sack this season, which he registered in Game 1 at Seattle. Also considered one of the NFL's most proficient defensive linemen at batting down passes, Dunlap's 32 PDs since 2016 are tied for the most in the NFL among non-defensive backs over that span. And in 2015, Dunlap's career-best 13.5 sacks were the second-most in a season in Bengals history. Second-year DE Sam Hubbard, a Cincinnati native (Archbishop Moeller High School), has taken over at RDE this season. Hubbard leads all Bengals defensive linemen in tackles (46) and is tied with Atkins in sacks (three). In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Hubbard totaled five tackles, including a sack (a five-yard loss). In Game 3 at Buffalo, Hubbard posted six tackles and collected his second career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after stripping the ball from Bills RB T.J. Yeldon. Hubbard made his first career start in the opener at Seattle, and recorded a team-high 10 tackles, including two sacks of Seahawks QB Russell Wilson. Fourth-year DT Andrew Billings lines up as Cincinnati's No. 1 NT for the second straight season. Billings has played in every game this season, with seven starts at NT, and has 17 tackles. Third-year DE Carl Lawson, considered one of the Bengals' most talented young defenders, returned to action this season after having his 2018 campaign cut short by a torn ACL in his right knee. Lawson, though, has been limited to just five games this season due to a hamstring injury. Lawson made his second career start in Game 6, and totaled three tackles and a sack. Lawson turned heads in 2017, when his 8.5 sacks led all NFL rookies and tied for the second-most ever by a Bengals rookie. Veteran DT Josh Tupou, who is tied for the heaviest Bengal on the roster, adds a massive run-stuffing presence to the middle of the Bengals' defensive line. After missing the final six games of 2018 due to a torn pectoral muscle, Tupou has appeared in all nine games this season, has 11 total tackles and he made his first career start in Game 3 at Buffalo. Andrew Brown, a 2018 Bengals fifth-round draft pick out of Virginia, made the roster this year after spending his rookie season on Cincinnati's practice squad and Practice Squad/Injured list (hand). After being inactive for the first two games this season, Brown has logged time in Games 3-9, and has 10 total tackles. Brown made his first career NFL start in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville and recorded a career-high five tackles. DT Renell Wren, a 2019 fourth-round pick out of Arizona State, has played in seven games so far this season and has four total tackles. At a massive 6-5, 318 pounds, Wren totaled 14.5 tackles for losses and three sacks in four seasons at ASU. Anthony Zettel, a fourth-year DE, was originally signed by the Bengals on Oct. 18 and has played in Games 7-9 in a reserve role. He originally was a college free agent signee of Detroit in 2016, and also spent time with Cleveland.

Linebackers: The Bengals' linebackers are led in 2019 by fourth-year pro Nick Vigil, who has started all nine games this season and leads the team in tackles (69). In Game 9 against Baltimore, Vigil recorded his second-career sack when he took down elusive QB Lamar Jackson on a drive that ended with a punt. In Game 6 at Baltimore, Vigil tied his season-high with 13 tackles, and collected his second career fumble recovery. In addition to his team-high 11 tackles in Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Vigil collected his first career forced fumble (Bengals recovered) after jarring the ball loose from Steelers WR Dontae Johnson. Vigil now has eight career games with 10 or more tackles, including three this season. The Bengals this year invested a third-round draft pick in LB Germaine Pratt of North Carolina State, who began his college career at S before switching to LB. Pratt has played in all nine games this season and made his second-career start in Game 9 against Baltimore. Pratt made his first career start in Game 6 at Baltimore, and has seen increased playing time since. He has totaled 19 tackles on defense and three on special teams. Last season was Pratt's first as a starting LB, and he ended up leading the Wolfpack in tackles (104) while earning first-team All-ACC honors. Third-year pro Jordan Evans, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has played in 38 career games (nine starts) for the Bengals, seeing time mainly as a rotational linebacker. Evans this year has contributed mainly on special teams, with four tackles. LaRoy Reynolds, signed with the Bengals as a free agent on Sept. 10, and has appeared in all eight games since. He has three tackles and a PD on defense, and one tackle on special teams. Reynolds, a seventh-year player out of the University of Virginia, previously spent time with the Jaguars, Bears, Falcons and Eagles. LB Preston Brown was waived by the Bengals on Tuesday this week (Nov. 12).

Defensive backs: Shawn Williams, a 2013 third-round draft pick, fills a starting S position for the fourth straight season, and he currently leads the team with 74 tackles. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Williams collected his fourth-career game with double-digit tackles (12). Williams posted a team-high nine tackles in Game 3 at Buffalo. At the other safety spot is second-year pro Jessie Bates III, a 2018 second-round draft pick of the Bengals who has started all 25 possible games of his career. Bates has five career games with double-digit tackles, including two this season. After leading the team in tackles (111) a year ago, Bates currently ranks second on the team in tackles, with 71. In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, he recorded 12 tackles, which led the team and tied his career high. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Bates collected his first career fumble recovery. Considered one of Cincinnati's most talented young defenders, William Jackson III is in his fourth season as a Bengal, and second as a full-time starting CB. Jackson suffered a shoulder injury in Game 6 at Baltimore, which caused him to miss Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, but he returned to action in Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. Jackson, the Bengals' first-round pick in 2016, collected his second career interception in Week 2 with a 19-yard pick off of San Francisco QB Jimmy Garoppolo. His other career INT is a 75-yard pick-six of Packers QB Aaron Rodgers in 2017. Manning the other starting CB spot for the fifth straight season is Dre Kirkpatrick, a first-round pick of the Bengals in 2012. So far this season, Kirkpatrick has 33 total tackles and four passes defended (tied for team lead). After starting the first six games of the season, Kirkpatrick missed Games 7-9 after suffering a knee injury in Game 6 at Baltimore. Kirkpatrick got off to a strong start in the season-opener in Seattle, posting five tackles, including a sack, along with his first career fumble recovery. Kirkpatrick has 10 career INTs, one behind Williams (11) for the lead among active Bengals. Veteran CB B.W. Webb, an unrestricted free agent signee over the offseason, has played this season through a right arm injury he suffered in Game 2. Webb has appeared in eight games this season and made seven starts (four at NCB, and three at CB). In Game 7 vs. Jacksonville, Webb started in place of Jackson and collected three tackles and two passes defended. In Game 5 vs. Arizona, Webb had two tackles and two passes defended, including a pass deflection on third-and-10 that forced a Cardinals punt late in the fourth quarter and set up a Bengals game-tying TD with 2:03 remaining. Webb previously spent time with the N.Y. Giants (2018), Cleveland ('17), New Orleans ('16), Tennessee ('15), Pittsburgh ('14) and Dallas ('13). CB Darqueze Dennard, the Bengals' first-round pick in 2014, began the season on the Physically Unable to Perform list with a knee injury before making his season debut in Game 7 vs. Jacksonville. Dennard recorded five tackles and two passes defended against the Jaguars, but suffered a hamstring injury in the contest that caused him to miss Game 8 against the L.A. Rams. Dennard has played in 70 career games (20 starts), and has 221 tackles, three INTs, three sacks, 19 PDs, two FFs and a FR. Adding depth at safety is Clayton Fejedelem, a seventh-round pick of the Bengals in 2016 who has become a core special teams player and valuable reserve on defense. Fejedelem has played in all 57 possible games over his career (six starts), and he led the Bengals in special teams tackles in each of his first three seasons. S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick of the Bengals, has seen action in all nine games this season. Wilson has 14 tackles and two FFs on defense this year, but his impact has been felt most on special teams. Wilson this season has 12 kickoff returns for 432 yards, including a 92-yard TD on the opening kickoff in Game 6 at Baltimore. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh, Wilson saw extended action on defense and made back-to-back tackles for losses on a third and fourth down, forcing a Steelers turnover on downs. In Game 3, Wilson forced a fumble by Bills QB Josh Allen, but it was deemed that the ball was recovered by the Bengals out of bounds. Veteran CB Tony McRae, a reliable contributor on both defense and special teams, also adds depth in the secondary. McRae this season has 15 tackles and a PD on defense, and one tackle on special teams. In Game 8 against the L.A. Rams, McRae logged a career-high five tackles and one PD. New to the defensive backfield is CB Torry McTyer, who the Bengals signed from the Kansas City Chiefs' practice squad on Sept. 26. McTyer, a third-year player out of Nevada-Las Vegas, was originally a college free agent signee of the Miami Dolphins in 2017, and has previous experience playing under secondary/cornerbacks coach Daronte Jones and defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo. McTyer has played in four games for the Bengals this season, and has two tackles on defense. CB Greg Mabin, a rotational CB and third-year player out of the University of Iowa, has spent time on both the active roster and practice squad this season for the Bengals. He's played in two games (Games 4 and 9) and was inactive for another (Game vs. Arizona). He was originally a college free agent signee of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 2017, and also spent time with the Buffalo Bills and San Francisco 49ers. He has played in 22 career games (one start), and has 18 tackles, a pass defended and a forced fumble.

Special teams: S Brandon Wilson, a 2017 sixth-round pick out of Houston who has long been a key contributor in kick coverage (three ST tackles this season), has burst onto the scene as a kickoff returner this season. Wilson currently has 12 kickoff returns for 432 yards, which are second most in the league, and a TD. Wilson is the first NFL player since 2010-11 (Jets RB Joe McKnight) to have his first 10 career KORs include at least three of 40 or more yards and a TD. In Game 6 at Baltimore, Wilson totaled 142 KOR yards (47.3 avg.), the most in a single game this season, and his TD was the third-longest of the season (longest in the AFC), the first Bengals KOR TD since HB Bernard Scott 2009 and it marked the first time the Bengals opened the game with a kickoff return for a TD. Wilson got his first KOR opportunity of the season in Game 5 vs. Arizona, after WR Alex Erickson left with a concussion, and he recorded three returns for a total of 97 yards (32.3 avg.). Erickson has been a key contributor for the Bengals in the return game since joining the team as a CFA in 2016. Erickson, though, has seen more action at WR early this season due to injuries at that position group, and has just two kickoff returns (for 44 yards) on the year. In Game 4 at Pittsburgh — his first action returning kickoffs this season — Erickson had two returns for 44 yards, including a 25-yard return in the second quarter. Erickson also has posted 57 yards on eight punt returns this year. Last season, Erickson's 1049 kickoff return yards were second-most in the NFL. As a rookie in 2016, Erickson posted an AFC-best 27.9-yard average on kickoff returns, the second-best mark in team history. Eighth-year pro Randy Bullock has served as the Bengals' placekicker since midway through the 2016 season, when he joined Cincinnati on waivers from Pittsburgh. So far this season, Bullock is 14-for-14 on PATs and 13-for-15 on FG attempts, including 11 for his last 11. Handling punting duties again this season is 11th-year pro Kevin Huber, the longest-tenured Bengal on the roster. Huber, a Cincinnati native (McNicholas High School), stands as the Bengals' career leader in every significant punting category, including punts (808), punting yards (36,368) gross average (45.01), net average (39.86) and inside-20 punts (281). He also shares the franchise record for longest punt (75 yards) and owns the Bengals' best career ratio for inside-20s to touchbacks (4.39-to-1; 281-64). Huber, who also serves as the holder for placekicks, has played in 172 of 174 possible games (including postseason) since joining the team as a fifth-round draft pick in 2009. LS Clark Harris, the oldest Bengal on the roster at 35, has served as the Bengals' long snapper since midway through the 2009 season. Harris has been a paragon of reliability throughout his career in Cincinnati, with no unplayable snaps in 1486 attempts as a Bengal (805 punts, 690 placekicks). In 2017, Harris became the first-ever Bengals long snapper to earn a Pro Bowl nod. Harris has also been solid in kick coverage throughout his time in Cincinnati, with 33 career special teams tackles.

THE LAST BENGALS-RAIDERS MEETINGS

2015 SEASON

WEEK 1, GAME 1

Cincinnati Bengals 33, Oakland Raiders 13
Sunday, Sept. 13, 2015 at O.co Coliseum

The Bengals posted their largest winning margin in a season opener since 1982, when they won by 21 (27-6) at home over Houston. And it was really more lopsided than that. Cincinnati led 24-0 at halftime and 33-0 through three quarters. Cincinnati's 33-0 lead marked its biggest lead in a road game since 2005, when the Bengals led by 35 in a season finale at Philadelphia that saw the Eagles resting front-liners for the playoffs. QB Andy Dalton posted a 115.9 passer rating, and the offense got two TDs each from a pair of young stars, HB Jeremy Hill and TE Tyler Eifert. CB Adam Jones led a playmaking Bengals defense, with a forced fumble against QB Derek Carr that helped turn the game into a rout in the second quarter. The Bengals won in Oakland for the first time in franchise history, in their 11th try (including one playoff game). Cincinnati ended Week 1 in sole possession of the AFC North Division lead, as rivals Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh all lost.

2018 SEASON

WEEK 15, GAME 14

Cincinnati Bengals 30, Oakland Raiders 16
Sunday, Dec. 16, 2018 at Paul Brown Stadium

Cincinnati scored on four consecutive first-half drives en route to a 20-7 halftime lead. Oakland scored three second-half FGs to pull to within seven points, 23-16, late in the fourth quarter. After that third FG, however, Bengals WR Alex Erickson returned the ensuing kickoff 77 yards (a season long) to the Raiders' 21-yard line, and HB Joe Mixon scored on a 15-yard rush two plays later for the game's final score. Mixon rushed for a season-high 129 yards and two TDs on 27 carries (4.8-yard average), while WR Tyler Boyd caught four passes for 38 yards and a TD, passing 1000 yards receiving on the season. Cincinnati's defense held Oakland to only 297 total net yards, including just 68 yards rushing, and just three total third-down conversions, while also recording two fumble recoveries. DT Geno Atkins and DE Sam Hubbard combined for five sacks (Atkins 3.0, and Hubbard 2.0). The win was the first for QB Jeff Driskel, who made his third start in place injured Andy Dalton. The Bengals improved to 6-8, while the Raiders fell to 3-11.

2019 GAME SUMMARIES

Seattle Seahawks 21, Cincinnati Bengals 20 Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 at CenturyLink Field

Cincinnati outgained Seattle by 196 net yards (395-161), recorded 10 more first downs (22-12) and held more than a 10-minute advantage in time of possession (35:50-24:10), but the Bengals ultimately were inefficient in converting yards into points and lost their first game under new head coach Zac Taylor. The Bengals scored just one FG in three trips inside the Seahawks' red zone in the game. And in the third quarter alone, three times Cincinnati reached Seattle's 36-yard line or farther (36, 27 and 12) and came away with no points (the drives ended on a fumble, a missed FG and a turnover on downs). Seattle, however, scored TDs on three of their four drives into Cincinnati territory overall, including two TDs on their only two trips inside the Bengals' red-zone. QB Andy Dalton had career highs in yards (418) and completions (35) in 51 attempts, tossed two long TDs to WR John Ross III, and had a 106.5 passer rating. Ross had career highs in catches (seven) and receiving yards (158), and his TDs came on passes of 55 and 33 yards. The Bengals' defense enjoyed a solid game overall, recording four sacks and holding the Seahawks, who led the NFL in rushing in 2018, to just 72 yards on the ground. Seahawks QB Russell Wilson, however, stung the Bengals with a 44-yard TD pass to WR Tyler Lockett on the first play of the fourth quarter for what ultimately were the game's winning points.

WEEK 2, GAME 2

San Francisco 49ers 41, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Sept. 15, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

The game started poorly right away for Cincinnati — a penalty erased a kickoff return, followed by a sack, then by a fumble on QB-RB exchange for no gain, then a failed third-down conversion attempt, and then a punt that barely made it to midfield. And, largely, the game was all downhill from there for the Bengals. The 49ers scored TDs on three of their first four drives to jump out to a 21-7 first-half lead and never looked back. San Francisco beat the Cincinnati soundly on both sides of the ball, outgaining the Bengals in total net yards 572-316, including 259-25 rushing. There were some individual positives for Cincinnati, as WR Tyler Boyd had 10 catches for 122 yards, and WR John Ross III had four catches for 112 yards and a TD. The 49ers improved to 2-0. The Bengals fell to 0-2.

WEEK 3, GAME 3

Buffalo Bills 21, Cincinnati Bengals 17
Sunday, Sept. 22, 2019 at New Era Field

Cincinnati's offense stalled for nearly the entirety of the first two quarters en route to a 14-0 halftime deficit, and the early ineffectiveness ultimately doomed the Bengals' late efforts for a comeback win against an undefeated Buffalo team in a stadium packed with rowdy Bills fans. The Bengals, who failed to produce a first down until the two-minute warning of the first half, had just 76 total net yards at intermission. Still, when they kick-started their offense in the second half, the Bengals scored 17 unanswered points to take a 17-14 lead with just under five minutes left. The Bills, however, responded with a late seven-play, 78-yard drive, which was highlighted by a 49-yard pass from QB Josh Allen to TE Dawson Knox in which Knox stiff-armed and bulldozed his way deep into Bengals territory, and ended in a one-yard TD run by RB Frank Gore. QB Andy Dalton drove the Bengals 42 yards to the Bills' 28-yard line with 20 seconds left, but his next pass bounced off the outstretched hand of WR Auden Tate and was intercepted by Buffalo CB Tre'Davious White to seal the Bills' win. The Bengals fell to 0-3, while the Bills improved to 3-0.

WEEK 4, GAME 4

Pittsburgh Steelers 27, Cincinnati Bengals 3
Monday night, Sept. 30, 2019 at Heinz Field

A FG by K Randy Bullock gave Cincinnati a 3-0 lead after one quarter of the 100th meeting between the Bengals and Steelers, but Pittsburgh scored 27 unanswered points in the final three quarters and cruised to a dominant 27-3 win on Monday Night Football. Both teams entered the matchup 0-3, and the Steelers were without QB Ben Roethlisberger (Reserve/Injured; elbow) for the first time in a game against the Bengals since 2003. But Roethlisberger's replacement, QB Mason Rudolph, filled in admirably, completing 24 of 28 passes for 229 yards, two TDs and no INTs (124.6 passer rating). His top two targets were RBs James Conner and Jaylen Samuels, who combined for 16 catches for 140 yards and one TD receiving. Samuels also added another TD rushing. Bengals QB Andy Dalton was sacked eight times, the most in his nine-year career, and Cincinnati's offense gained just 175 total net yards. It was the eighth straight win in the series for the Steelers, who improved to 1-3. The Bengals fell to 0-4.

WEEK 5, GAME 5

Arizona Cardinals 26, Cincinnati Bengals 23
Sunday, Oct. 6, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

Behind 23-9 midway through the fourth quarter, the Bengals rallied to tie the game on a 42-yard TD pass from QB Andy Dalton to WR Tyler Boyd with 1:41 remaining. But Cardinals rookie QB and No. 1 overall draft pick Kyle Murray led Arizona on a six-play, 62-yard drive that ended with a Zane Gonzalez FG as time expired, and Arizona escaped Paul Brown Stadium with a 26-23 win. Despite allowing 514 total yards, including 266 rushing yards and a 7.0-yard rushing average, the Bengals' defense was stout in the red zone, keeping the game close by allowing the Cardinals just one TD on six trips inside the 20. Despite not having two of his top three receivers — John Ross and A.J. Green, both out due to injury — Dalton completed 71.1 percent of his passes (27 of 38) and leaned heavily on Boyd, who totaled 10 receptions for 123 yards and a TD. The Bengals fell to 0-5, while Arizona improved to 1-3-1.

WEEK 6, GAME 6

Baltimore Ravens 23, Cincinnati Bengals 17
Sunday, Oct. 13, 2019 at M&T Bank Stadium

Cincinnati raced to literally the fastest start in team history when S Brandon Wilson took the opening kickoff 92 yards for a score, becoming the first Bengal ever to begin a game returning a kickoff for a TD. But the Ravens answered, scoring on their first three possessions to take a 17-7 lead, and they never looked back. Baltimore, which amassed 497 total yards, leaned heavily on a ground attack that gained 269 yards on 43 rushes and earned a 19-minute edge in time of possession (39:42 to 20:18). The Ravens were led by QB Lamar Jackson, whose 152 rushing yards were the third-most ever in a game by a QB. Cincinnati's rushing offense, on the other hand, struggled to find traction and totaled just 33 yards on 14 attempts. But the game was kept close, and the visiting Bengals pulled to within six with 1:28 remaining when QB Andy Dalton capped a 12-play, 48-yard drive with his 21st career TD (a Bengals QB record). Wilson recovered the ensuing onside kick attempt, but it was ruled that the kick did not travel the required 10 yards, and the Ravens were able to run out the clock. Cincinnati fell to 0-6, while Baltimore improved to 4-2.

Jacksonville Jaguars 27, Cincinnati Bengals 17 Sunday, Oct. 20, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

Cincinnati led 7-6 at halftime and 10-9 after three quarters, but the visiting Jaguars scored 18 fourth-quarter points to depart Paul Brown Stadium with a win, leaving the Bengals still in search of their first victory. The Jaguars gained 460 net yards, including 216 rushing, but Cincinnati's defense proved stout in the red zone and held Jacksonville to just one TD on six trips inside the 20. Bengals QB Andy Dalton threw three fourth-quarter INTs, including one in the red zone and another that was returned for a TD. The Bengals' offense struggled to find traction in the ground game, as HBs Giovanni Bernard and Joe Mixon were held to a combined two yards on 14 carries, and the Jaguars had nearly a 17-minute advantage in time of possession (38:17 to 21:43). Jacksonville improved to 3-4, while Cincinnati fell to 0-7.

WEEK 8, GAME 8

Los Angeles Rams 24, Cincinnati Bengals 10 Sunday, Oct. 27, 2019 at Wembley Stadium (London, England)

The Bengals traveled to London, England, as part of the NFL's International Series, and took on head coach Zac Taylor's former team, the L.A. Rams. The two teams traded scores for much of the first half, before Rams WR Cooper Kupp caught a 65-yard TD on a double-reverse pass that gave L.A. a one-score edge at the break. But while the Bengals' defense managed to hold the Rams to just seven second-half points, the offense struggled after halftime and was held scoreless in the final two periods en route to the defeat. Cincinnati couldn't find an answer for Kupp, whose 220 receiving yards tied for the third-most ever in a game by a Bengals opponent. Bengals QB Andy Dalton tossed his 197th career TD, tying former QB Ken Anderson for most in team history. Then, with :08 remaining and the game out of reach, Dalton connected with WR Auden Tate for what would've been the record-setter, but a replay review overturned the ruling on the field of a catch and nullified the score. Los Angeles improved to 5-3, while Cincinnati fell to 0-8. On Tuesday following the game, Taylor announced that rookie Ryan Finley would take over as the team's starting QB in the Bengals' next game after the bye.

WEEK 10, GAME 9

Baltimore Ravens 49, Cincinnati Bengals 13

Sunday, Nov. 10, 2019 at Paul Brown Stadium

The Ravens scored TDs on five of their first six possessions and cruised to an easy 49-13 win at Paul Brown Stadium. Rookie QB Ryan Finley made his first career start, replacing longtime starter Andy Dalton, who was assigned to a reserve role the previous week during the team's bye. Finley played mostly well, passing for 167 yards and a TD against a stout Ravens defense, however he made two costly mistakes — an INT that was returned 89 yards for a TD, and a fumble that was returned 33 yards for a TD. The Ravens were led by second-year QB Lamar Jackson, who became just the third player ever to post a perfect 158.3 passer rating in a game (minimum 15 attempts) against the Bengals (also Oilers QB Chris Chandler in 1995, and Rams QB Kurt Warner in '99). Jackson also impressed with his feet, stunning fans with a 47-yard TD run that featured a highlight-reel spin move. The Bengals fell to 0-9, while the Ravens improved to 7-2.
