PART VII

Season Ticket Account Policies

1. SEASON TICKET ACCOUNTS. A Season Ticket Account is a revocable license issued annually by PDB Sports, Ltd. ("Denver Broncos" or "Broncos"), as licensor. Season tickets accounts are subject to the terms, conditions and policies (including the "Fan Code of Conduct"), established from time to time by the Broncos. The current policies may be modified and/or supplemented at any time by the Denver Broncos. Any modifications or new policies will be effective when adopted. Season Ticket Account Holders should not rely upon or have any expectation that the policies presently applicable to Season Ticket Accounts will be applicable at any time in the future.
2. PURCHASE FROM YEAR-TO-YEAR (RENEWAL). Season Ticket Account Holders are valued customers of the Denver Broncos, and the Broncos will diligently attempt to accommodate its customers. However, the opportunity to purchase season tickets accounts from year-to-year, at any seat location, is a privilege granted by the Broncos, which may be revoked by the Broncos at any time. Neither a Season Ticket Account, nor the opportunity to purchase a Season Ticket Account from year-to-year, constitutes any form of legal or equitable right, including without limitation an express or implied contract, lease, option, right of first refusal, implied trust, or expectancy interest. There is no automatic right to purchase a Season Ticket Account from year-to-year, nor is there any guarantee that this privilege will be offered or granted by the Broncos. Season Ticket Account Holders should not form any manner of reliance on the privilege to purchase a Season Ticket Account from year-to-year, nor can there be any prescriptive right to purchase a Season Ticket Account annually. The privilege to purchase a Season Ticket Account from year-to-year is not "property" and creates no property rights whatsoever under state statutory or common law or under the United States Bankruptcy Code. Location of seats in a Season Ticket Account from year-to-year shall be determined by the Broncos in its sole discretion.
3. LIMITED TRANSFER POLICY – BANKRUPTCY. Except as expressly set forth in this section, season tickets and season tickets accounts are nontransferable, including without limitation assignment or transfer to a third-party, change of names (except upon submission of a marriage certificate or court order evidencing the same), or purported assignments to an "in care of" status. A Season Ticket Account Holder may not either voluntarily or by operation of law, assign, encumber, sublicense, or otherwise transfer a Season Ticket Account (collectively, "Transfer"), EXCEPT that a Season Ticket Account Holder shall be permitted to Transfer a Season Ticket Account (i) to an Affiliate (defined below) if the Account Holder is a partnership, corporation or limited liability company (in which case the account must be transferred in its entirety); or (ii) to Immediate Family Members (defined below) if the Account Holder is an individual by reason of gift or death only (in which case the account may be transferred in whole or in part; provided, however, that if less than all of the seats in an account are transferred, the transferring party must designate which party is to be assigned the present priority number and the other party will be assigned a new priority number). For purposes of this section, "Affiliate" means any entity controlling, controlled by or under common control (directly or indirectly) with the Season Ticket Account Holder ("control" shall mean the ownership of more than 50% of the controlled or controlling entity) and "Immediate Family Members" means a parent, spouse, child or sibling. Season Ticket Accounts shall not be deemed to be property of an estate in bankruptcy and are not transferable under the United States Bankruptcy Code. In the event that a Season Ticket Account Holder files for protection under any chapter of Bankruptcy Code, the subject Season Ticket Account shall immediately become void and of no further force and effect, and the Broncos shall be entitled to resell the Season Ticket Account to a third-party in its sole and complete discretion.

If the Season Ticket Account Holder of Record is deceased, the court appointed Personal Representative may transfer the tickets to one or more of the deceased Season Ticket Account Holder's Immediate Family Members as defined above. The Personal Representative must provide documentation by the courts authorizing him or her to act in that capacity and information or documentation to demonstrate that the Proposed Account Holder is an Immediate Family Member.

4. REVOCAION OF SEASON TICKET ACCOUNT – DISPUTES. The Denver Broncos reserve the right to revoke any season ticket or Season Ticket Account without cause upon tender of the refund based on the price printed on the face of the ticket. The Denver Broncos reserve the right to revoke any season ticket or Season Ticket Account with cause and without refund, because of without limitation, violation of any of the policies of the Denver Broncos, misconduct (see the "Fan Code of Conduct"), or ticket ownership disputes involving the Broncos. All costs of the Broncos, including attorneys' fees, relating to any dispute concerning Season Ticket Account ownership, costs, benefits and/or policies (whether or not the Broncos are named as a party in any litigation) will be charged to the Season Ticket Account holder. There are no refunds or exchanges on Broncos season tickets or Season Ticket Accounts.
5. AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT INFORMATION. The Denver Broncos will fully meet and comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act and its implementing regulations to ensure that patrons with disabilities received full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services facilities, privileges advantages or accommodations provided by Empower Field at Mile High. The Broncos, in conjunction with representatives of the Colorado disabled community have prepared certain ADA-specific seating information, which is set forth in the 2019 Renewal Brochure.
