CARDS IN THE COMMUNITY

The Rocky Mountain Southwest Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences announced it will honor the Arizona Cardinals' Civics Matters Arizona Initiative with the 2025 Governors' Award during this year's awards ceremony on Saturday, November 8th.

The Governors' Award is the Rocky Mountain Emmys' highest honor an individual, organization or company can receive. It recognizes excellence in broadcasting that goes beyond those normally found in individual craft or program categories as well as has made a significant impact on the community.

Now in its fourth year, Civics Matters Arizona is a civics education initiative that flies 275 high school students—many from Title I schools—aboard the Arizona Cardinals' team plane for an all-expenses-paid, immersive trip to Washington, D.C. With exclusive access to institutions such as the U.S. Capitol and opportunities to meet national leaders, students gain firsthand insight into democracy and their role within it. The program empowers both students and teachers to return home as catalysts for civic engagement in their communities.
