BY THE NUMBERS

142

LB Robert Spillane now has 142 tackles in 2024, the sixth most in the NFL. He is now one of only three players in Raiders history to record 100+ tackles, multiple INTs and multiple sacks in a single season - and he has now done it in back-to-back seasons.

248.9

Since Scott Turner took over the offense as the interim offensive coordinator in Week 11, the Raiders have averaged 248.9 passing yards per game, the seventh best mark in the NFL over that span.

WHAT TO WATCH FOR

41

With seven tackles, LB Robert Spillane would set a new single-season career high in tackles (149). With eight tackles, Spillane would become one of two Raiders since 2000 to record 150+ tackles in a single season, joining Denzel Perryman (154 in 2021). Spillane would also become the 10th undrafted player in the NFL since 2000 to record 150+ tackles in a single season. With 10 tackles, Spillane would notch his 18th game with 10+ tackles, passing Todd Davis (17) for the 10th most of such games among undrafted defenders since 2000. His 18 games would also rank tied for fifth among undrafted defenders in their first 83 career games since 2000. With 10 tackles, Spillane would also notch his eighth double-digit tackle game in 2024, passing Gibril Wilson (7 in 2008) and Tyvon Branch (7 in 2009) for the second most 10-tackle games in a single season in franchise history (since 1987) - only behind Denzel Perryman (10 in 2021).

With nine receptions, TE Brock Bowers would pass Zach Ertz (116 in 2018) for the most receptions by a tight end of any experience level in a single season in NFL history. With 56 receiving yards, Bowers would become one of nine tight ends of any experience level in NFL history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season. Bowers would also become one of nine rookies at any position in NFL history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season. Bowers would also become one of seven players of any experience level in Raiders history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season.

WHAT TO WATCH FOR VS. CHARGERS

- With two receptions, Bowers would become one of five tight ends of any experience level in NFL history to record 110 receptions in a single season. Bowers would also be the first player in Raiders history to accomplish the feat.
- With three receptions, Bowers would pass Travis Kelce (110 in 2022) and Jason Witten (110 in 2012) for the third most receptions by a tight end of any experience level in a single season in NFL history.
- With seven receptions, Bowers would pass Evan Engram (114 in 2023) for the second most receptions by a tight end of any experience level in a single season in NFL history.
- With nine receptions, Bowers would pass Zach Ertz (116 in 2018) for the most receptions by a tight end of any experience level in a single season in NFL history.
- With 56 receiving yards, Bowers would become one of nine tight ends of any experience level in NFL history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season.
- With 56 receiving yards, Bowers would become one of nine rookies at any position in NFL history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season.
- With 56 receiving yards, Bowers would become one of seven players of any experience level in Raiders history to record 1,200 receiving yards in a single season.
- With two receiving first downs, Bowers would become one of four rookies in NFL history to record 60 receiving first downs in a single season.
- With 10 receptions, he would pass Odell Beckham Jr. (4) to become the only rookie at any position in NFL history to record five games of 10+ receptions in their first season.
- With 10 receptions, Bowers would pass Tim Brown (4 in 1997) for the most games of 10+ receptions by any player in a single season in Raiders history.
- With two receiving touchdowns, Bowers would tie Amari Cooper (6) for the most receiving touchdowns by a rookie in Raiders history.
- With 104 receiving yards, Bowers would set the Raiders single-season receiving record by a tight end, passing Todd Christensen (1,247 in 1983).

- With 10 points - Carlson's 111th career game - he would notch his 34th career game with 10+ points, tied for the seventh most 10-points games in NFL history by a kicker in his seven NFL seasons. His 34 10-point games would also be the second most in the NFL since 2018.
- With three made field goals, Carlson would notch his 30th career game with 3+ field goals, tied for the fourth most of such games in NFL history among kickers in their first seven NFL seasons.
- With at least one field goal made and zero misses, Carlson would notch his 79th game with a perfect field goal percentage, the second most games with a perfect field goal percentage in NFL history among players in their first seven NFL seasons - only behind Justin Tucker (81).
- With three points scored, Carlson would reach 120 points in 2024, his fourth career season with 120+ points. He would be one of 12 kickers in NFL history to record 4+ seasons of 120 points in their first seven seasons.
- With 13 points scored, Carlson would notch his fourth season with 130+ points. He would be one of five kickers in NFL history to record 4+ seasons of 130+ points in his first seven NFL seasons.

- With two more punts of 60+ yards in 2024, Cole would pass his previous record of 16 punts of 60+ yards in a single season (2023), establishing a new franchise record (since 2000).
- With a gross punting average of 50.0 or better and at least three punts, Cole would notch his 29th career game with a punting average of 50.0 or better. His 29 games would be the third most in the NFL since 2019 and would rank 15th in the NFL since 2000. His 29 games would also be the second most in Raiders history.
- If Cole downs two punts inside the 20-yard line, he would notch his 54th career game with multiple punts downed inside the 20-yard line, the second most in the NFL since 2019. His 54 games would also be tied for the second most in the NFL since 2000 among players in their first six seasons.

JONES 18

- With one interception returned for a touchdown, Jones would have five career interceptions returned for a touchdown, tied for the most in NFL history among players in their first three NFL seasons. He would be one of only four players to accomplish the feat, joining DaRon Bland (5), Ken Houston (5) and Janoris Jenkins (5).
- With one interception returned for a touchdown, Jones would become just the fourth player in NFL history to record two seasons with multiple interceptions returned for a touchdown in his first three NFL seasons.
- With one pass defensed, Jones would pass Stanford Routt, Fabian Washington and Charles Woodson and Gareon Conley to be tied for the ninth most passes defensed in a single season in Raiders history.
- With two passes defensed, Jones would tie Eric Allen (17 in 1999) for the fifth most passes defensed in a single season in Raiders history.

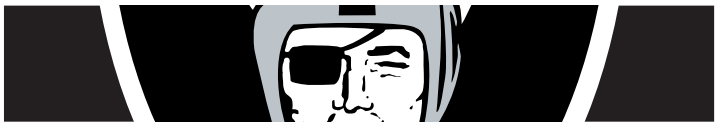

MEYERS 16

- With 81 receiving yards, Meyers would pass Victor Cruz (4,469) for the eighth most receiving yards among undrafted players in their first 90 career games.
- With three receptions, Meyers would pass Antonio Gates (386) for the fourth most receptions among undrafted players in their first 90 games.
- With 10 receptions, Meyers would pass Austin Ekeler (393) for the third most receptions among undrafted players in their first 90 games.
- With 12 receptions, Meyers would pass Wayne Chrebet (395) for the second most receptions among undrafted players in their first 90 games.
- With six receptions, Meyers would set a new career high for the most receptions in a single season (84).
- With 96 receiving yards, Meyers would hit 1,000 receiving yards in a single season for the first time in his career.
- With 96 receiving yards, Meyers would become one of 11 undrafted players in NFL history to record 1,000 receiving yards in a single season, the first since Robbie Chosen (1096 in 2020).

SPILLANE 41

- With 10 tackles, Spillane would notch his 18th game with 10+ tackles, passing Todd Davis (17) for the 10th most of such games among undrafted defenders since 2000. His 18 games would also rank tied for fifth among undrafted defenders in their first 83 career games since 2000.
- With 10 tackles, Spillane would notch his eighth double-digit tackle game in 2024, passing Gibril Wilson (7 in 2008) and Tyvon Branch (7 in 2009) for the second most 10-tackle games in a single season in franchise history (since 1987) - only behind Denzel Perryman (10 in 2021).
- With one interception, Spillane will notch his third interception of the season, tying his single-season career high and notching his second consecutive season with three interceptions. He would be one of three linebackers in Raiders history to record multiple seasons of 3+ interceptions. He would be one of only 15 linebackers in the NFL to notch two-straight seasons of 3+ INTs since 2000.
- With seven tackles, Spillane would set a new single-season career high in tackles (149).
- With eight tackles, Spillane would become one of two Raiders since 2000 to record 150+ tackles in a single season, joining Denzel Perryman (154 in 2021).
- With eight tackes, Spillane would become the 10th undrafted player in the NFL since 2000 to record 150+ tackles in a single season.

ANTONIO PIERCE

Antonio Pierce was named Head Coach of the Las Vegas Raiders by Owner Mark Davis on Jan. 19, 2024. He was named to the post following a nine-game stint as the team's Interim Head Coach during the 2023 season. Pierce, a nine-year NFL veteran player and a former Super Bowl Champion, team captain and Pro Bowl selection, enters his third season with the Silver and Black after originally joining the Raiders as linebackers coach in 2022.

Pierce assumed Interim Head Coach duties prior to Week 9 of the 2023 season and posted a 5-4 record in nine games, highlighted by a 3-1 mark against AFC West opponents. Pierce's leadership rejuvenated the franchise midseason and inspired several outstanding performances, including a franchise-record 63 points in a Week 15 win over the Chargers, and an emphatic road victory over the Kansas City Chiefs on Christmas Day that featured two defensive scores for the Silver and Black.

Under his guidance, the Raiders finished the season with the fewest penalties in the NFL (75) and twice completed games without a single penalty flag. After Pierce took the helm on Oct. 31, the Raiders were tied for 10th in the NFL in takeaways (14), tied for fifth in turnover margin (+6), and tied for third in sacks (30). The defense also allowed a league-low 16.0 points per game.

His presence was felt in all three phases last season, as rookie Aidan O'Connell was named the starting quarterback prior to Week 9 and promptly led the Raiders to victories in the first two games of Pierce's tenure. The Raiders later became just one of three NFL teams to score 20-or-more points in each of the last four games of the regular season. The opportunistic defense finished the season with five touchdowns, the second-highest total in the NFL and the second most in a season in franchise history. On special teams, Pro Bowl selection AJ Cole continued to emerge as one of the NFL's elite punters and two players finished ranked among the league's top-20 in special teams tackles.

Pierce's linebacker corps was a key catalyst for the defense, as free agent acquisition Robert Spillane paced the team with 148 tackles and rarely missed a snap, starting all 17 games and earning AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors following a two-interception performance in a win over Green Bay. Divine Deablo also eclipsed the century mark for tackles, totaling 105 stops to give the Raiders two 100-tackle performers at linebacker for the first time since 2013.

In his first season with the Silver and Black in 2022, Pierce tutored a linebacker group that included two undrafted rookie free agents in Luke Masterson and Darien Butler. Masterson played in all 17 games with seven starts, and his 50 tackles ranked third-most in the NFL among undrafted rookies and second-most in a single season in Raiders history by a UDFA. Pierce also guided Deablo's progression, as he averaged 9.25 tackles per game, the 11th best average in the league, while veteran Denzel Perryman established a career high with two interceptions on the year.

Before entering the NFL coaching ranks, Pierce spent four seasons at Arizona State, serving as linebackers coach and recruiting coordinator before adding the titles of associate head coach and defensive coordinator.

Pierce played nine years in the NFL, entering the league as an undrafted free agent with Washington, and playing in 55 games with 25 starts over four seasons before signing with the New York Giants as an unrestricted free agent in 2005. He was named to the Pro Bowl in 2006 after posting a career-high 139 tackles, including 10 tackles for loss. A team captain with the Giants, Pierce helped lead New York to victory in Super Bowl XLII. Over his nine-year career, Pierce played in 115 games with 85 starts, totaling 732 tackles (462 solo), eight sacks, seven interceptions, eight forced fumbles and 11 fumble recoveries.

JIM HARBAUGH

Harbaugh brings with him a winning culture, posting a 144-52 record as a collegiate head coach and a 49-22-1 record as an NFL head coach. In four years, he led the San Francisco 49ers to three-straight NFC Championship Games, including an appearance in Super Bowl XLVII.

With a keen eye for talent and an ability to develop players, Harbaugh coached nine eventual first-round selections over his nine-season tenure at Michigan (2015-23). Over the course of his four seasons (2011-14) with San Francisco, Harbaugh coached 17 players to a combined 30 Pro Bowl selections — the second-most Pro Bowlers in the NFL in that time. Eight of those players were also recognized as first-team All-Pro selections from The Associated Press, including linebackers Patrick Willis (twice) and NaVorro Bowman (three times).

One of the most accomplished coaches in football, Harbaugh led Michigan to an 86-25 record in his nine seasons as head coach. His teams topped 10 wins six times and made three consecutive CFP appearances from 2021-23, winning the national title this past season and setting a school record with 15 wins. Since taking over as head coach for the Wolverines in 2015, Harbaugh coached the top defense in the nation, allowing just 291.0 yards per game in that span. Michigan had a top-five defense in the country five times over those nine seasons, including twice as the top-ranked defense in the nation.

Harbaugh was named 2011 NFL Coach of the Year by The Associated Press after his first season with San Francisco when he led the 49ers to an NFC West division crown with a 13-3 record. That season, the defense led the NFL with 38 takeaways and ranked No. 1 in rushing defense, allowing just 77.3 yards per game on the ground. The team made a deep playoff run to its first of three-straight NFC Championship Game appearances, including an appearance in Super Bowl XLVII in 2012. In Harbaugh's four years with San Francisco, the 49ers led the NFL in rushing defense (92.0 yards per game), while ranking No. 2 in scoring defense (17.4 points per game), third in total defense (310.2) and fourth with 122 takeaways.

Prior to being a head coach in the NFL, Harbaugh spent four years at the helm at Stanford University (2007-10) and three at the University of San Diego (2004-06). He turned around a Stanford program that went 1-11 in 2006 and led the Cardinal to 29 wins over his four seasons in Palo Alto, Calif., including a 12-win season that culminated in an Orange Bowl victory in 2010. Harbaugh broke into the head coaching ranks at San Diego, leading the Toreros to a 29-6 record in three years.

Harbaugh began his coaching career as the quarterbacks coach for the Oakland Raiders from 2002-03. In his first season with Oakland, the Raiders went to Super Bowl XXXVII, while quarterback Rich Gannon earned MVP honors and was named a Pro Bowler and an AP first-team All-Pro.

In 15 years as an NFL quarterback (1987-2001), Harbaugh played for five organizations, including with the Chargers from 1999-2000. He got his start in coaching while he was still playing in the NFL, working as an unpaid assistant at Western Kentucky from 1994-2001, where his father, Jack, was the head coach. Harbaugh was selected with the 25th overall pick in the 1987 NFL Draft by Chicago and went on to start 140-of-177 career games played, throwing for 26,288 yards and 129 touchdowns. He led the NFL in passer rating in 1995, earning Comeback Player of the Year recognition and a Pro Bowl selection after leading the Colts to an AFC Championship Game appearance. Harbaugh eventually went to the Chargers for two seasons and is one of four Bolts quarterbacks to throw for 400 yards in a single game.

Harbaugh played quarterback at the University of Michigan, finishing his career as one of the most efficient passers in college football history. He posted a 21-3-1 record as a starter for the Wolverines, earning first-team All-American honors and finishing third in voting for the Heisman Trophy in 1986. Harbaugh paced the nation in 1985 in passing efficiency rating, while his career passing efficiency rating ranked as the best in NCAA history for more than 12 years following his time at Michigan.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

The Raiders - who began play in the American Football League in 1960 – are in their 65th year of professional football competition, including the last 52 as a member of the National Football League. In seven memorable decades - the 1960s, '70s, '80s, '90s, 2000s, 2010s and 2020s - the Raiders have been dominant in professional football since Al Davis first pledged in 1963 to build the finest organization in pro sports.

During these decades of dominance, the Raiders have won an AFL championship, four American Football Conference championships, and three World Championships of Professional Football, participated in five Super Bowls, played in 14 championship games, won or tied for 17 division championships, had 23 playoff seasons, finished 38 seasons at .500 or better and played in 45 postseason games.

Pro football's dynamic organization placed first in the AFC West in 2000, 2001 and 2002 despite playing among the toughest schedules in the NFL in each of those seasons. With their appearance in Super Bowl XXXVII, the Raiders became the first NFL team to have had a season end in the Super Bowl in four different decades.

The Raiders are the only team to have been in Super Bowls in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s and the 2000s. The Silver and Black are the only AFC team - and one of just two NFL teams - to have a season that advanced to the conference championship game in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s, the '90s and the 2000s.

The Raiders are one of only three original AFL teams to have captured three World Championships of Professional Football with Super Bowl victories. The Raiders are one of only five AFC teams to have won more than one Super Bowl since 1980. In their five Super Bowl appearances, the Raiders have been led by four head coaches and started four quarterbacks.

Since 1963, when Al Davis first took over the failing Oakland franchise that had struggled to win only nine of 42 league games in the initial three seasons of the new AFL and pledged to build the finest organization in sports, the Raiders have dominated professional football in terms of consistent victory. During the memorable 62 years in Oakland, Los Angeles and now Las Vegas, the Raiders won 491 league games, tied 11 and lost 447. "Commitment to Excellence" has never been an idle phrase to those who have proudly represented the Raiders organization as shown by their domination of pro football.

Twenty-eight of the great players who proudly wore the Silver and Black, as well as Owner-Leader Al Davis and legendary Head Coach John Madden, have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The Raiders have also produced six Coaches of the Year. In addition, 79 Pro Bowl players have earned 211 Pro Bowl selections representing the Silver and Black.

Another innovation came to professional football in 1970 - Monday Night Football. The Raiders' domination of this prime-time television series has seen the Silver and Black build a 42-31-1 record in Monday night play. The Raiders won 12 games at home to begin this series and are 19-9-0 at home in the 52 years of Monday Night Football.

Through the seven decades of pro football competition, the Raiders have had the greatest players, the greatest coaches, the greatest plays and participated in the greatest games in the annals of professional sports. Challengers to Raider domination of professional football will arise as they have in the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium. The Raider organization will continue to meet these challenges.

In addition, the Raiders are proud to contribute to community engagement, youth initiatives, multicultural awareness, and global outreach. The Raiders played in Oakland from their inception through 1982, relocated to Los Angeles in 1983, moved back to Oakland in 1995, and made Las Vegas home in 2020.

The Raiders base training and business operations in Henderson, Nevada at Intermountain Health Performance Center and play home games at Allegiant Stadium, a fully enclosed, state-of-the-art facility located adjacent to the world-famous Las Vegas Strip. The Raiders maintain an international presence and communicate with the worldwide Raider Nation through the team's official website and social media channels.

PIERCE, A NINE-YEAR NFL VETERAN PLAYER AND A FORMER SUPER BOWL CHAMPION, TEAM CAPTAIN AND PRO BOWL SELECTION, ENTERS HIS THIRD SEASON WITH THE SILVER AND BLACK AFTER ORIGINALLY JOINING THE RAIDERS AS LINEBACKERS COACH IN 2022.

PIERCE ASSUMED INTERIM HEAD COACH DUTIES PRIOR TO WEEK 9 OF THE 2023 SEASON AND POSTED A 5-4 RECORD IN NINE GAMES, HIGHLIGHTED BY A 3-1 MARK AGAINST AFC WEST OPPONENTS. PIERCE'S LEADERSHIP REJUVENATED THE FRANCHISE MIDSEASON AND INSPIRED SEVERAL OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCES, INCLUDING A FRANCHISE-RECORD 63 POINTS IN A WEEK 15 WIN OVER THE CHARGERS, AND AN EMPHATIC ROAD VICTORY OVER THE KANSAS CITY CHIEFS ON CHRISTMAS DAY THAT FEATURED TWO DEFENSIVE SCORES FOR THE SILVER AND BLACK.

UNDER HIS GUIDANCE, THE RAIDERS FINISHED THE SEASON WITH THE FEWEST PENALTIES IN THE NFL (75) AND TWICE COMPLETED GAMES WITHOUT A SINGLE PENALTY FLAG. AFTER PIERCE TOOK THE HELM ON OCT. 31, THE RAIDERS WERE TIED FOR 10TH IN THE NFL IN TAKEAWAYS (14), TIED FOR FIFTH IN TURNOVER MARGIN (+6), AND TIED FOR THIRD IN SACKS (30). THE DEFENSE ALSO ALLOWED A LEAGUE-LOW 16.0 POINTS PER GAME.

HIS PRESENCE WAS FELT IN ALL THREE PHASES LAST SEASON, AS ROOKIE AIDAN O'CONNELL WAS NAMED THE STARTING QUARTERBACK PRIOR TO WEEK 9 AND PROMPTLY LED THE RAIDERS TO VICTORIES IN THE FIRST TWO GAMES OF PIERCE'S TENURE. THE RAIDERS LATER BECAME JUST ONE OF THREE NFL TEAMS TO SCORE 20-OR-MORE POINTS IN EACH OF THE LAST FOUR GAMES OF THE REGULAR SEASON. THE OPPORTUNISTIC DEFENSE FINISHED THE SEASON WITH FIVE TOUCHDOWNS, THE SECOND-HIGHEST TOTAL IN THE NFL AND THE SECOND MOST IN A SEASON IN FRANCHISE HISTORY. ON SPECIAL TEAMS, PRO BOWL SELECTION AJ COLE CONTINUED TO EMERGE AS ONE OF THE NFL'S ELITE PUNTERS AND TWO PLAYERS FINISHED RANKED AMONG THE LEAGUE'S TOP-20 IN SPECIAL TEAMS TACKLES.

PIERCE'S LINEBACKER CORPS WAS A KEY CATALYST FOR THE DEFENSE, AS FREE AGENT ACQUISITION ROBERT SPILLANE PACED THE TEAM WITH 148 TACKLES AND RARELY MISSED A SNAP, STARTING ALL 17 GAMES AND EARNING AFC DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK HONORS FOLLOWING A TWO-INTERCEPTION PERFORMANCE IN A WIN OVER GREEN BAY. DIVINE DEABLO ALSO ECLIPSED THE CENTURY MARK FOR TACKLES, TOTALING 105 STOPS TO GIVE THE RAIDERS TWO 100-TACKLE PERFORMERS AT LINEBACKER FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE 2013

BEFORE ENTERING THE COACHING RANKS, PIERCE PLAYED NINE YEARS IN THE NFL, ENTERING THE LEAGUE AS AN UNDRAFTED FREE AGENT WITH WASHINGTON, AND PLAYING IN 55 GAMES WITH 25 STARTS OVER FOUR SEASONS BEFORE SIGNING WITH THE NEW YORK GIANTS AS AN UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT IN 2005. HE WAS NAMED TO THE PRO BOWL IN 2006 AFTER POSTING A CAREER-HIGH 139 TACKLES, INCLUDING 10 TACKLES FOR LOSS. A TEAM CAPTAIN WITH THE GIANTS, PIERCE HELPED LEAD NEW YORK TO VICTORY IN SUPER BOWL XLII. OVER HIS NINE-YEAR CAREER, PIERCE PLAYED IN 115 GAMES WITH 85 STARTS, TOTALING 732 TACKLES (462 SOLO), EIGHT SACKS, SEVEN INTERCEPTIONS, EIGHT FORCED FUMBLES AND 11 FUMBLE RECOVERIES.

3 takeaways from Raiders' win over Saints: Rookie rewrites record books

By Adam Hill
December 29, 2024

Here are three takeaways from the Raiders' 25-10 win over the Saints at Caesars Superdome in New Orleans on Sunday:

1. Records keep falling

Brock Bowers has consistently said he cares more about wins than his own personal records.

In that case, he can truly enjoy Sunday's result.

The Raiders (4-12) won consecutive games for the first time all season and Bowers continued to rewrite the NFL's record books.

Bowers, the 13th pick in April's draft out of Georgia, had seven catches for 77 yards Sunday, giving him 108 receptions for 1,144 yards on the season.

That meant the 22-year-old broke Mike Ditka's 63-year-old record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end. Ditka had 1,076 yards in 1961, though he played only 14 games.

Bowers also surpassed Rams wide receiver Puka Nacua's record for most catches by any NFL rookie (105). He broke tight end Darren Waller's franchise record for receptions in a single season (107) as well.

Bowers has one game remaining to add to his totals, but he's running out of records to break. His teammates are also running out of superlatives to explain just how good he's been this year.

Bowers and the rest of the Raiders' offense did more than enough to make a strong defensive effort stand up Sunday. The team finished with four sacks and two interceptions while holding the Saints (5-11) to just 269 total yards.

Kicker Daniel Carlson also made all four of his field goal attempts in the win. He now has the fifth-most games with at least four field goals since he entered the league in 2018.

2. Draft help

Those who were hoping the Raiders would finish the season with a high draft pick may be disappointed the team followed its 10-game losing streak by winning two games in a row.

Not all hope for the future is lost, however.

The quarterback-needy Giants upset the Colts on Sunday, making it likely New York will not end up with the top pick. The Patriots instead appear in the driver's set to get the first selection. New England may be open for business, as it selected quarterback Drake Maye third overall in April.

That means the Raiders may not have to lose their final game to get a top quarterback. They may just have to meet the Patriots' asking price.

The Raiders are currently projected to pick No. 8 in the draft, according to the website Tankathon.

3. Run, Ameer, Run

Veteran running back Ameer Abdullah, in his 141st NFL game Sunday, gained more than 100 rushing yards for the first time.

Abdullah, 31, finished with 115 yards on 20 carries in the victory. His previous career high of 94 rushing yards was set in Week 4 of the 2017 season. That was the last year he gained at least 50 rushing yards in a game before Sunday.

Abdullah has been lauded by teammates and coaches during his three seasons with the Raiders for his special-teams prowess, leadership and abilities as a third-down back. He waited for more opportunities to run the ball and was rewarded Sunday.

'Better late than never': Road victory gives Raiders 1st winning streak
By Vincent Bonsignore
December 29, 2024

NEW ORLEANS — The Raiders, to do something they have not done all season, remained true to a blueprint they drew up months ago.

They ran the ball well and controlled the line of scrimmage against the Saints on Sunday at Caesars Superdome. They won the turnover battle, did well on third downs and got solid quarterback play.

The result was a convincing 25-10 road victory despite the team's travel issues Saturday. The win gave the Raiders their first two-game winning streak of the season.

"I guess better late than never," said quarterback Aidan O'Connell, who completed 20 of his 35 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns.

Sticking to the script

O'Connell's most important accomplishment Sunday? Zero turnovers. The Raiders (4-12) did not turn the ball over for just the second time this season. They also didn't have a turnover in last week's home win over the Jaguars.

The Raiders' running game played a huge role in Sunday's victory as well. They had a season-high 156 rushing yards against the Saints, with veteran running back Ameer Abdullah gaining 115 yards on 20 carries.

It was the first 100-yard game of the 31-year-old Abdullah's NFL career. He credited the offensive line for his big day.

"We were just beating them up up front," Abdullah said. "They understood when to come off on double teams, and when you have that kind of synergy with the O-line and backs, we just do our job."

Tight end Brock Bowers had seven catches for 77 yards, giving him 108 receptions for 1,144 yards on the season.

Bowers broke Mike Ditka's NFL record for yards by a rookie tight end (1,076) and Rams wide receiver Puka Nacua's record for most catches by any rookie (105). He also broke tight end Darren Waller's record for the most receptions in a single season in franchise history (107).

Bowers' performance helped power a Raiders offense that scored points on six of its first eight drives. Kicker Daniel Carlson made all four of his field goal attempts, while wide receivers Jakobi Meyers and Tre Tucker scored touchdowns off passes from O'Connell. The Raiders converted 10 of their 18 third downs and scored touchdowns on two of their four trips to the red zone.

The defense, on the other hand, allowed the Saints to convert just one of their 10 third downs. The Raiders also held New Orleans to 81 rushing yards, recorded four sacks and grabbed two interceptions off rookie fifth-round pick Spencer Rattler.

"It's a process," Raiders coach Antonio Pierce said. "And (it's) just (about) staying true to it."

Questions remain

The win was both satisfying and maddening.

The Raiders knew this formula was their only chance at success this season. They had too many holes on their roster to try to win games otherwise.

But following the blueprint proved to be an elusive endeavor. The Raiders, after starting 2-2, lost their next 10 games. That stretch might end up costing some people their jobs.

"We would have liked (to fix things) earlier in the year and not (go into) the slump that we did," O'Connell said.

The Raiders didn't. So they'll head into the offseason with difficult questions.

They need to decide whether to bring Pierce back for another season. And whether they will run things back at quarterback with O'Connell and veteran Gardner Minshew battling for the starting job.

Pierce said "no comment" when asked about his job security Sunday. O'Connell, for his part, has shown he can be effective in the NFL. But his inconsistency raises questions about whether he can lead a team to the playoffs over a 17-game schedule.

The Raiders will search for answers in the coming weeks and months. For now, they'll leave New Orleans understanding they can win football games if they follow the right blueprint.

3 takeaways from Raiders' win over Saints: Rookie rewrites record books
By Ed Graney
December 29, 2024

How the Raiders performed in a 25-10 win against the Saints:

Offense: A

What a day for Brock Bowers. He had seven receptions for 77 yards to set NFL records for most receiving yards by a rookie tight end (1,144) and most receptions by a rookie (108). He also broke Darren Waller's franchise record for most receptions in a single season. The Raiders also finally found a running game, rushing for 156 yards. Veteran running back Ameer Abdullah finished with 115 yards on 20 carries for the first 100-yard game of his career. Quarterback Aidan O'Connell was more than solid, completing 20 of his 35 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns. He helped the Raiders score points on four of their first five possessions. Wide receiver Jakobi Meyers added five catches for 61 yards.

Defense: A

The Raiders had two takeaways as part of a solid defensive performance. Cornerback Jack Jones and Thomas Harper each had an interception. The Raiders also held New Orleans to one third-down conversion on 10 attempts. The Saints had just 81 rushing yards and quarterback Spencer Rattler completed 20 of his 36 passes for 218 yards. Linebacker Robert Spillane had a team-best eight tackles, a sack and two pass breakups. The Raiders finished with four sacks. Rookie cornerback Decamerion Richardson added six tackles.

Special teams: B+

That's two straight solid weeks of play from this unit. Kicker Daniel Carlson made all four of his field goal attempts. He connected on a try from 54 yards, matching his season long. AJ Cole averaged 49.5 yards on four punts with a long of 71. He dropped two inside the 20-yard line. The Raiders' lone miscue here was a blocked extra point.

Coaching: A

Coach Antonio Pierce's team responded with flying colors despite having travel hiccups Saturday. The offense consistently moved the ball thanks to some impressive play-calling from interim offensive coordinator Scott Turner. Its ability to convert third downs was stellar. The defense didn't bend much at all. This was a memorable outing for Pierce and his staff given all the things that have gone wrong for the Raiders this season.

LAS VEGAS SUN

Raiders come up big for Antonio Pierce in victory at Saints
By Case Keefer
December 29, 2024

Jack Jones made a diving interception near the Raiders' sideline Sunday afternoon at Caesars Superdome in New Orleans, and the first person he went towards to celebrate alongside wasn't a teammate.

Jones headed straight for longtime mentor Antonio Pierce, as the Raiders' coach and cornerback shared a moment face to face.

Jones' takeaway set up Las Vegas' final touchdown three minutes later, an 18-yard touchdown pass from Aidan O'Connell to Tre Tucker, in a 25-10 victory at New Orleans where the Raiders showed up big-time for Pierce.

An NFL Network segment Sunday morning confirmed what many already suspected — that Pierce's job was "in serious doubt" even after the team snapped a 10-game losing streak by beating Jacksonville last week.

Pierce shrugged his shoulders and offered no comment on the report in his postgame news conference. But it was hard not to read into his comments about the challenges of coaching an inexperienced team — the Raiders have third youngest roster in the league — and the rewards he's now feeling as a campaign to be retained.

"These guys are really buying in especially late in the season," Pierce said. "With the way it's gone, I'm really, really proud of these guys. It's not easy being in that situation that we're in and a lot of guys can go either way. They can go the opposite, but they have not. They've stuck to the script and these young guys have really played their asses off."

Las Vegas improved to 4-12 on the year with the victory. Pierce may not return for a second season as the Raiders' permanent coach regardless, but his best chances in building a case for himself would be by winning his final set of games.

Two down, one to go.

Las Vegas has back-to-back victories for the first time this season heading into a Week 18 finale hosting the Los Angeles Chargers next Saturday or Sunday (the official schedule for the whole NFL is expected to be released tonight).

While the Raiders' even-more-shocking-in-hindsight Week 2 upset win at the Ravens stands as their best moment of the season, the victory at the Saints was their most dominant showing — and the game where they made the most history.

Rookie tight end Brock Bowers set the franchise record for most receptions in a season (108 and counting to snap Darren Waller's 107 in 2020) and most ever by a rookie in the NFL (beating Puka Nacua's 105 from last year).

"He was special the moment he walked in the door and he was special again today," Pierce said of Bowers. "He doesn't want any attention. The team tried to grab him at the very end and he doesn't even want to break down the team in the team huddle."

A more outspoken member of the Raiders, ten-year veteran running back Ameer Abduallah, also had a day to remember.

The 31-year-old logged 20 rushing attempts for a career-high 115 yards, the first time he's ever banked triple-digit production on the ground.

"Fountain of youth," Pierce said of Abdullah. "To do that at 30-plus years old and thrown into the fire late in the season, hats off to him. He's a really resilient player, true pro. He's been like that throughout the time (he's been with the Raiders)."

Abdullah appeared to score on the Raiders' opening drive when he took a 13-yard pass from quarterback Aidan O'Connell down the sideline, but replay revealed his knee was down at the 1-yard line.

The Saints then mounted a goal line stand, forcing a 31-yard field goal from kicker Daniel Carlson — his first of four makes on the day.

Settling for three points put the Raiders at a deficit when the Saints opened the second quarter with a 30-yard double-pass touchdown from rookie quarterback Spencer Rattler to former Raider tight end Foster Moreau.

New Orleans never put together another play that long or impactful for the rest of the game.

"I'm proud of this team, how resilient they are," Pierce said. "Don't blink, they don't flinch. They just go out there and play. They love one another and obviously you could tell how much they like playing the game of football."

Las Vegas recaptured the lead right before halftime when O'Connell led a nine-play, 97-yard scoring drive that he concluded with a 3-yard touchdown to top receiver Jakobi Meyers.

O'Connell is fighting for his future every bit as much as Pierce, and he might be stacking a superior case as far as showing he can be a useful NFL quarterback. He finished with 242 yards on 20-for-35 passing against the Saints with a pair of touchdowns.

The strike to Tucker off the Jones interception was one of the best plays of his career. O'Connell showed newfound mobility for the second straight week to buy time while the speedy receiver found a hole behind the Saints' defense.

Pierce was once again in the middle of the celebration when it made his way to the sidelines. He might not be appealing for his job explicitly in public, but all his actions scream of a desire to get another chance next year.

"That's really a testament to our coaches," Pierce said of his young team peaking at the end of the year. "It's easy to coach the Maxx (Crosby), the Christian (Wilkins) of the world, the Jakobi (Meyers) and all that but when you've got these young guys like 27-plus on our team in their first and second year there's a lot more details that go into it, a lot more patience."

THE ATHLETIC

Raiders' Brock Bowers breaks Mike Ditka's, Puka Nacua's rookie receiving records
By Vic Tafur, Tashan Reed, Lauren Smith
December 29, 2024

Las Vegas Raiders rookie tight end Brock Bowers spent Sunday's game rewriting the record books, most notably breaking Mike Ditka's 63-year-old NFL record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end.

With a 13-yard catch from quarterback Aidan O'Connell in the first half, Bowers moved past Ditka's longstanding record of 1,076 yards, which the Hall of Famer Ditka set in 1961 in a 14-game schedule with the Chicago Bears.

Earlier in the first half, Bowers, Las Vegas' first-round draft pick in 2024, also set the Raiders rookie record for receiving yards in a season, passing wide receiver Amari Cooper, who had 1,070 receiving yards his first season with the Raiders in 2015.

In the third quarter, Bowers broke the NFL record for receptions in a rookie season, surpassing the mark of 105 catches set by Los Angeles Rams receiver Puka Nacua last season. Later in the quarter, he surpassed Darren Waller's franchise record for most receptions in a season with his 108th catch.

"It's pretty awesome," Bowers said on his record-setting day. "It's always been a childhood goal to play in the NFL, obviously. And then to come in here and be able to catch as many balls as I did and get as many yards as I did, I mean, it's pretty shocking to me."

Bowers had seven catches for 77 yards in Sunday's win over the New Orleans Saints, and now has 108 catches for 1,144 yards and four touchdowns through 16 games this season.

Well worth the draft slot

There were plenty of raised eyebrows when the Raiders drafted Bowers with the 13th selection in April's draft, but the selection has already turned out to be Las Vegas' best pick in years. Bowers has had a historic season, is already the Raiders' No. 1 receiving option and has arguably been the best tight end in the NFL.

At just 22 years old, he should be a building block for the franchise moving forward. He's been one of the few bright spots in what's been a long season for the Raiders. — Tashan Reed, Raiders beat writer

Historic production despite weak offense

Bowers' success has come despite the Raiders' cycling through three different starting quarterbacks this year, none of which has played well. Gardner Minshew, O'Connell and Desmond Ridder have all had their struggles.

Additionally, the Raiders had a midseason offensive play caller change when former offensive coordinator Luke Getsy was fired and interim offensive coordinator Scott Turner was promoted. Those aren't ideal circumstances, but Bowers has been the constant week in and week out. It bodes well for what he could accomplish if the Raiders are able to discover more consistency on offense. — Reed

A locker room favorite

Antonio Pierce has praised Bowers' no-nonsense approach all year, and how he has reacted to teams' increased attention to him, Pierce said one of the players he was happiest for last week when the team broke it's 10-game losing streak was Bowers. "Probably the biggest smile I've seen on his face last week was in the locker room post-game," Pierce said Friday. — Vic Tafur, Raiders beat writer

Brock Bowers' record-setting day pushes Raiders to win vs. Saints: Key takeaways

The Las Vegas Raiders posted back-to-back wins for the first time this season with a 25-10 victory over the New Orleans Saints on Sunday.

After ending a 10-game losing streak in Week 16 with a win over the Jacksonville Jaguars, the Raiders took a second-quarter lead and shut the Saints out in the second half to earn their fourth win of the season.

Rookie tight end Brock Bowers led the Raiders in receiving with seven catches for 77 yards, and set several records throughout the contest. Las Vegas' 2024 first-round pick set the NFL record for most receiving yards by a rookie tight end in a single season late in the first half, and most receptions by a rookie in a single season in the second. Bowers also set Raiders single-season records for most receiving yards by a rookie and most receptions during Sunday's game.

Las Vegas quarterback Aidan O'Connell threw for 242 yards and two touchdowns in the game, including a score to Jakobi Meyers in the final minute of the second quarter that gave the Raiders the lead for good, and another to Tre Tucker in the fourth that extended the lead to 15 points.

Running back Ameer Abdullah added a career-best 115 rushing yards on 20 carries and Daniel Carlson had four field goals.

New Orleans' only touchdown in the game was Spencer Rattler's 30-yard pass to Foster Moreau on the first play of the second quarter, which gave the Saints their only lead of the afternoon.

The Raiders are now 4-12 with one regular-season game to play, while the Saints drop to 5-11. Las Vegas hosts the Los Angeles Chargers in Week 18, while New Orleans travels to play the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Record-setting day for Bowers

Bowers sure stockpiles records for a guy who doesn't care about them. On Sunday, after breaking both the rookie records for yards and receptions, Bowers set the Raiders record for most receptions in a single season, passing Darren Waller (who had 107 in 2020).

The rookie tight end needed 10 yards to top Mike Ditka for the rookie record and got that one early. He also needed five catches to top Puka Nacua's mark of 105, and he got that one in the third quarter. Bowers finished with seven catches for 77 yards. — Vic Tafur, Raiders beat writer

Las Vegas defense holds New Orleans to 10 points

The Raiders' defense was facing a shorthanded Saints offense sans starting quarterback Derek Carr, lead running back Alvin Kamara and No. 1 receiver Chris Olave. They gave up some plays early, but ultimately settled in and limited New Orleans to just 10 points. Linebacker Robert Spillane led the way with eight tackles, one sack, two tackles for loss and two pass breakups. It marked the fourth time in the last five games that the Raiders' defense held its opponent to fewer than 20 points. — Tashan Reed, Raiders beat writer

Abdullah leads Raiders in rushing with career performance

Abdullah has never run for 100 yards in his 10-year career, and started off this season as the Raiders' No. 3 running back. He even got bypassed by practice squader Sincere McCormick when Alexander Matttison and Zamir White were injured.

But a patient runner also waits to hit his mark, and Abdullah ran for 115 yards on 20 carries in Sunday's win. Abdullah also had three catches for 32 yards. — Tafur

2024 season can't end fast enough for Saints

The Saints lay down in Green Bay in Week 16, leaving the door wide open for the trend to continue against the Raiders. Against the Packers, the Saints offense looked inept and the defense offered no resistance. Against the Raiders, an inferior team to Green Bay, the Saints offense looked inept (outside one trick play for a touchdown) and the defense offered little resistance.

Next week's season finale against the Buccaneers in Tampa Bay might be 50-0. The Bucs are fighting for their playoff lives and scorched the Carolina Panthers in Week 17. It's apparent the Saints players are counting down the minutes until the end of the most miserable season for the franchise since 2005.

The Saints have to re-evaluate everything from top to bottom this offseason. — Larry Holder, NFL senior writer

Saints shut out in second half

Rattler was surprisingly efficient in the first half, completing 11 of 13 passes for 146 yards and even leading a late field-goal drive. But the 13-10 deficit was the high point for the Saints. Rattler was 3-of-13 for the next quarter and a half for 20 yards as the Raiders pulled away.

Part of the problem was that Rattler was the Saints' leading rusher, with 46 yards. Kendre Miller had three carries before getting hurt, and Saints RBs finished with 10 carries for 35 yards. — Tafur

Raiders tight end Brock Bowers sets pair of rookie records
By Paul Gutierrez
December 29, 2024

NEW ORLEANS -- Las Vegas Raiders rookie tight end Brock Bowers broke two NFL rookie pass-catching records in the Raiders' 25-10 win at the New Orleans Saints on Sunday, as well as a franchise record.

Bowers first surpassed Pro Football Hall of Famer Mike Ditka's 63-year-old mark for most receiving yards in a season by a rookie tight end. Bowers' 13-yard catch late in the second quarter eclipsed Ditka's mark of 1,076 receiving yards set in 1961 for the Chicago Bears.

The Raiders tight end also set a record for most catches in a season by any NFL rookie. His seven catches for 77 yards Sunday gave him 108 catches for the year with one game to play. Los Angeles Rams receiver Puka Nacua set the mark last season with 105 receptions.

"I mean, it's pretty awesome," said Bowers, who has 108 catches for 1,144 yards and 4 touchdowns with the season finale at home against the playoff-bound Los Angeles Chargers (10-6) next week.

"It's always been a childhood goal to play in the NFL, obviously, and then to come in here and be able to catch as many balls as I did and get as many yards as I did ... it's pretty shocking to me, I guess. It's pretty cool."

The Raiders (4-12) have won two in a row for the first time this season after enduring a 10-game losing streak, making the record-setting performance sweeter for Bowers, Raiders coach Antonio Pierce said.

After all, the Raiders' two-game winning streak is on the heels of their worst skid since 2014.

"He is special and, at the end of the day, he doesn't want no attention," Pierce said. "The team tried to grab him at the very end, and he doesn't even want to break down the team in a team huddle; all he cares about is winning and smiling. I mean, he can break records but just watch him after victories -- that's the true Brock Bowers.

"He's a competitor, he's a true pro and, like I said, it's scary how good this kid could be."

Bowers, the No. 13 pick in last spring's draft, also set a Raiders franchise record for most catches in a season. Tight end Darren Waller caught 107 passes in 2020, and Pro Football Hall of Fame receiver Tim Brown had 104 catches in 1997.

Raiders quarterback Aidan O'Connell was impressed after Bowers passed Ditka, Nacua and Waller on the same day.

"Consistency comes to mind," said O'Connell, who passed for 242 yards and two TDs in completing 20 of 35 attempts. "Normally, when you see a player who is consistent throughout the week, you can rely on him in the games. And he's very routine ... I see him having breakfast around the same time every day and just sticking to his routine and working hard to make sure his body feels right, his mind is right. I just really can't say enough good things about the guy.

"I played as a rookie [so] I know how hard it is. And not just play, but to exceed and then to set historic records is insane."

Bowers and the Raiders did not arrive at their team hotel in New Orleans until after midnight local time, less than 12 hours before kickoff, due to problems with the team charter.

The Raiders had to wait several hours -- returning from the Las Vegas airport to the team facility before heading home for a few hours and then returning for team meetings -- before another plane became available.

"A little adversity but I mean, we're paid to play football," Bowers said. "We're going to get up and get after it no matter what we feel like and how we're feeling.

"The wins are huge, the vibes are way better. We worked so hard throughout the whole offseason and during camp and throughout the season. I feel like we've been due, so it's been good."

Raiders' Brock Bowers breaks 2 records, including Mike Ditka's 1961 rookie tight end mark for yards

By AP
December 29, 2024

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Brock Bowers has broken Mike Ditka’s 1961 record for yards receiving by a rookie tight end and also has set a rookie record for receptions at any position.

Drafted by the Las Vegas Raiders 13th overall out of Georgia, Bowers eclipsed Ditka’s mark of 1,076 yards when he made a 13-yard catch late in the second quarter on Sunday against New Orleans.

During the second half, Bowers’ fifth catch of the game broke Los Angeles Rams receiver Puka Nacua’s 2023 rookie receptions mark of 105.

Bowers had entered the game with 101 catches for 1,067 yards and four touchdowns, needing 10 yards receiving to surpass Ditka’s record in his 16th career game. Ditka set his mark in 14 games.

The 6-foot-3, 243-pound Bowers starred for three seasons at Georgia before turning pro, winning national championships with the Bulldogs in the 2021 and 2022 seasons.

He finished his college career with 2,538 yards and 26 touchdowns receiving in 40 games before declaring for the 2024 NFL draft, in which he was the first tight end to be selected.

Brock Bowers sets NFL rookie records as the Raiders roll to a 25-10 victory over the Saints
By Brett Martel
December 29, 2024

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Aidan O'Connell and the Las Vegas Raiders played with a lot of energy — and looked pretty sharp — for a last-place team that had every excuse to be sluggish and sleep-deprived.

O'Connell passed for two touchdowns, tight end Brock Bowers broke two rookie NFL records, and the Raiders won for just the fourth time this season, 25-10 over the struggling New Orleans Saints on Sunday.

The convincing victory came after flight delays so long on Saturday that players didn't get into their New Orleans hotel until after midnight — less than 12 hours before kickoff.

"These guys didn't blink, flinch," Raiders coach Antonio Pierce said with a satisfied grin. "We got in at 1 o'clock in the morning, got up this morning and rolled."

Bowers' seven catches for 77 yards gave him 108 receptions for 1,144 yards this season, eclipsing Mike Ditka's 1961 rookie tight end mark of 1,067 yards receiving and Puka Nacua's 2023 mark of 105 catches by a rookie at any position. Bowers also surpassed Darren Waller's franchise mark of 107 receptions in a season, which had stood since 2020.

"It's pretty shocking to me," Bowers said of his records, saying he had "no clue what to expect, coming from college to the NFL."

Ameer Abdullah rushed for 115 yards for the Raiders (4-12) — the journeyman running back's first 100-yard game in his 10 NFL seasons.

"I'm not surprised by it," Abdullah said. "I put a lot of work in. I'm very consistent. ... I'm happy for it, but I still think there's a lot more out there for me."

O'Connell finished with 242 yards passing, including a 3-yard TD pass to Jakobi Meyers and an 18-yarder to Tre Tucker as the Raiders won their second straight on the heels of a 10-game skid.

"Better late than never," O'Connell said. "We have a resilient bunch of guys and I'm sure it was probably harder for people to believe that when we were losing a lot of games."

Daniel Carlson kicked four field goals — his longest from 54 yards — for Las Vegas.

With former Raiders QB Derek Carr unable to suit up for the Saints (5-11) because of his injured left, non-throwing hand, rookie Spencer Rattler received his fifth career start. He remained winless as a starter after completing 20 of 36 passes for 218 yards and one TD with two interceptions.

Saints interim coach Darren Rizzi cited dropped passes, untimely penalties and breakdowns in pass blocking as the leading causes of his team's offensive anemia.

"I felt like Spencer really never got settled in there, and he was moving around," Rizzi said. "And he made some plays moving around, to his credit."

Rattler also rushed for 46 yards to finish as New Orleans' leading rusher for a second straight week.

"It's no secret our team is in a dark time right now," Saints linebacker Demario Davis said.

The Saints used trickery to take an early 7-3 lead. Running back Kendre Miller took what looked like a toss sweep to the right before throwing a lateral back to his left, where Rattler caught it and threw 30 yards downfield to wide-open tight end Foster Moreau in the end zone.

Las Vegas moved in front for good on O'Connell's short scoring pass to Meyers with a minute left in the second quarter.

Travel trouble

After congregating for their flight on Saturday, only to learn of mechanical issues with their plane, Raiders players were sent home for several hours.

"It was pretty weird," O'Connell said. "I kind of got back home and my wife and my dog both looked at me like, 'What are you doing here?' It was fun to be home for an extra couple hours but last night was a late night."

The Raiders returned to team headquarters for meetings that normally would have been held in their New Orleans hotel before finally flying two times zones east.

"It was kind of funny when we came in this morning," O'Connell said. "It was really a lot of juice from a lot of guys that I think kind of saw it as a challenge and tried to just enjoy it."

Injuries

Saints: Miller left the game with concussion symptoms in the second quarter. LB Jaylan Ford appeared to seriously injure his lower right leg on punt coverage in the fourth quarter. DE Payton Turner left with an ankle injury. WR Marquez Valdes-Scantling briefly went down, but walked off on his own, after a hard collision over the middle.

Quick Snap: Raiders pick up win over Saints in season road finale
By Levi Edwards
December 29, 2024

In their final road game of the season, the Las Vegas Raiders defeated the New Orleans Saints, 25-10.

This was the first time the Silver and Black scored at least 20 points in a game since Week 9.

The Raiders struck first in Caesars Superdome with a 31-yard field goal made by Daniel Carlson on their first possession. The offense moved down the field in a 16-play drive that took nearly 10 minutes off the clock.

Running back Ameer Abdullah accounted for 53 total scrimmage yards on the drive, helping get the unit down to the 1-yard line before ultimately settling with the three points. The veteran running back rushed for a career-high 115 yards on 20 carries.

The Saints responded with some trickery to take the lead early in the second quarter. Rookie Spencer Rattler pitched the ball off to Kendre Miller, who lateraled the ball back to the quarterback. Former Raiders tight end Foster Moreau broke free down the opposite sideline to catch a 30-yard deep shot and make it a 7-3 score.

On the following drive, the Silver and Black got back into scoring territory with a 28-yard grab from Terrace Marshall Jr. Yet, the possession ended with another field goal from Carlson, cutting the lead to 7-6 with 10:19 left in the second quarter.

As the first half came to a close, the Raiders retook the lead with their first touchdown score of the day. Aidan O'Connell drove the offense 95 yards down the field, going 4-of-6 for 62 passing yards, and culminated the drive with a three-yard toss to Jakobi Meyers in the end zone.

On that touchdown drive, Brock Bowers caught two passes for 30 yards on his way to breaking the record for most receiving yards in a single-season by a rookie tight end. The record had stood for over six decades, previously set by Pro Football Hall of Famer Mike Ditka in 1961. Bowers also ended the day as the team's leading receiver with 77 yards on seven catches.

The Saints added a 34-yard field goal by Blake Grupe, but the Raiders went into halftime with a 13-10 lead over the Saints – their second straight game with a halftime lead.

The Raiders continued to dictate the time of possession in the second half, keeping the Saints offense off the field and stringing together lengthy drives. Two more made field goals from Carlson brought the score to 19-10 early in the fourth quarter, as the Raiders kicker went a perfect 4-for-4 on field goals for the day.

With 11:30 left in regulation, Jack Jones secured his third interception on the season when he caught a bobbled pass intended for Saints receiver Cedrick Wilson. It was also the defense's seventh turnover in their last four games.

Following the turnover, an 18-yard ballerina catch in the back of the left end zone by Tre Tucker sealed the deal for the Silver and Black.

Brock Bowers reflects on record-setting day in New Orleans
By Carter Owen
December 29, 2024

Sixty-three years after Mike Ditka set an NFL record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end (1,076), Brock Bowers has surpassed the Pro Football Hall of Famer with a new benchmark of 1,144 yards (and counting) for rookie tight ends.

"It's pretty awesome," Bowers said after the game. "It's always been a childhood goal to play in the NFL, obviously. Then to come in here and be able to catch as many balls as I did and get as many yards as I did, it's pretty shocking to me. It's pretty cool."

The rookie from Napa, California, entered Sunday's game against the Saints needing 10 yards to move past Ditka. He recorded two catches for eight yards on the Raiders' first two plays from scrimmage and then pulled in the record-breaking reception for a 13-yard gain in the second quarter.

"Like I said from day one, he was special when he walked in the door and he was special again today," Antonio Pierce said.

"He's a competitor," the head coach added. "He's a true pro. It's scary how good this kid can be."

It wasn't just Ditka's record that Bowers shattered in the road win over the Saints. With his fifth catch of the day, Bowers broke the NFL record for most receptions by a rookie of any position, set by Puka Nacua in 2023 (105).

Later in the game on a third-down play in the fourth quarter, Bowers hauled in another 13-yard catch to break the Raiders' single-season receptions record set by Darren Waller in 2020 (107).

"I try not to put goals like numbers and stuff," Bowers said when asked how he envisioned his rookie season would go. "I just try to ask myself, 'How can I help the team in the best way that I can?' Just catching the ball when it comes to me, that's kind of what I try to think of. I mean, if you're setting numbers goals – I had no clue what to expect coming from college to the NFL, so just trying to help the team."

Help the team he did as Bowers ended the day with a team-high seven catches for 77 yards. His final five receptions all gained 10+ yards.

Of all the superlatives that might come to mind about Bowers, it's his consistency that stands out most to quarterback Aidan O'Connell.

"Normally when you see a player who's consistent throughout the week, you can rely on them in the games," O'Connell said. "He's very routine. I see him having breakfast around the same time every day. Just sticking to his routine and working hard to make sure his body feels right, his mind is right. We ask tight ends to do a lot. I think tight end is one of the hardest positions to play. You've got to learn a lot in the run game and the pass game. Super proud of him. I really can't say enough good things about the guy."

While Bowers will head back to Las Vegas atop the NFL history books, it's the 25-10 victory that made his record-setting day even sweeter.

"The wins are huge," he said. "The vibes are way better. We worked so hard throughout the whole offseason and during camp and throughout the season, I feel like we've been due. So, it's been good."

Ameer Abdullah impresses with career showing in Raiders' win over Saints
By Levi Edwards
December 29, 2024

Coming off their second consecutive victory, the Raiders have adopted the mentality of not needing to prove anything to anyone – but only to each other.

Another all-around team effort placed the Raiders in the win column with a 25-10 victory over the New Orleans Saints in their last road game of the 2024 season. It's the most points the team has scored since Scott Turner took over as interim offensive coordinator. Additionally, the defense held the Saints scoreless in the second half.

"Did everything that we talked about – control the line of scrimmage, time of possession, not turning the ball over," Head Coach Antonio Pierce said postgame. "The running game, I thought we were very efficient, especially on third down. Had some great opportunities there in the red zone defensively with a stop and then offensively, I think we were 2-for-4 there.

"But just proud of this team, how resilient they are. Don't blink, they don't flinch. They just go out there and play. They love one another and you can tell obviously they like playing the game of football."

Top factors in pulling out the victory were controlling the clock and success in the ground game. The Raiders bested the Saints in time of possession by over 15 minutes. This was also their second straight game without committing a turnover. While the Raiders offense went 10-of-18 on third down, they held the Saints to 1-of-10 in the same situation.

"Between red zone third down back from OTAs and spring ball, that's all we worked on and was constantly part of the process we talked about with having a team effort and playing a complete game," Pierce said. "That's something we work on each and every week. Obviously, every team in the league does, but it's something that we really emphasize because if we can keep those drives going, we feel good about it. In the league, the more and more you keep a defense on the field late in the season, you get the points and scores you were getting, especially offensively."

Notably, their 156 rushing yards Sunday afternoon are the most totaled on the season. Ameer Abdullah topped 100 rushing yards for the first time in his 10-year career, ending the day with a career-high 147 scrimmage yards.

"Honestly, we were just beating them up upfront," Abdullah said, giving the offensive line credit for his showing. "I feel like our guys leaned on them, they understood when to come off on double teams. And when you have that type of synergy with the O-line and the backs, we just do our job. ... We felt like the O-line had an advantage."

While the career performance means a lot to Abdullah, the win holds more weight. He views the overall success of the team against the Saints as a representation of how the team has fought for each other to close out this season.

"This is probably one of the closest teams I've been on," Abdullah said. "From just a relationship standpoint, we really care about each other. We've been through some lows, so we've seen each other at very vulnerable moments. We know how hard each one of us works to be in this situation. ... I know those guys are happy for me and I'm just proud to call myself a Raider and to share the locker room with these guys."

Brock Bowers breaks Mike Ditka's NFL record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end
By Michael David Smith
December 29, 2024

Raiders rookie tight end Brock Bowers has just broken one of the NFL's oldest records.

On his third catch today in New Orleans, Bowers broke the record for most receiving yards for a rookie tight end in NFL history, which was set by Bears tight end Mike Ditka in 1961. Ditka gained 1,076 receiving yards that year; Bowers is now at 1,087 and counting this year.

It's a great achievement for Bowers and also a reminder of the greatness of Ditka, who was a Hall of Fame tight end before he became a Super Bowl-winning head coach. It took 63 years, much more sophisticated passing offenses, rules favoring receivers and longer seasons for a rookie tight end to match Ditka's yardage total.

Bowers has already broken the rookie tight end receptions record, which was set by Detroit's Sam LaPorta last year. LaPorta had 86 catches in 2023; Bowers has 104 catches so far this year and is closing in on Puka Nacua's overall NFL rookie record of 105 catches, set last year.

What Ditka did in a 14-game season and a very different NFL is an extraordinary achievement, and Bowers putting up bigger numbers doesn't necessarily reflect a better season. But any time a record has stood for 63 years, breaking it is a major accomplishment. And Bowers has done it.

Brock Bowers breaks Puka Nacua's record for catches by a rookie
By Michael David Smith
December 29, 2024

For the second time today, Raiders tight end Brock Bowers has broken an NFL rookie record.

This time it's the record for most receptions in a rookie season. Last year, Rams wide receiver Puka Nacua caught 105 passes, setting a new NFL record for receptions by a rookie. Today against the Saints, Bowers caught his 106th pass of the season in the third quarter.

That came shortly after Bowers broke Mike Ditka's 63-year-old record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end.

Giants wide receiver Malik Nabers is also closing in on Nacua's total, so it's possible that the 2024 season will see the two top rookie reception totals in NFL history.

The rookie receiving record that Nacua broke was only two years old, having been set by Jaylen Waddle in 2021. As passing offenses continue to evolve and college football puts more NFL-ready receivers into the pros, and with the bonus of a 17-game season, this looks like a record that will continue to fall. Bowers or Nabers may give the record up to another rookie a year from now.

Aidan O'Connell and Brock Bowers have big day as Raiders beat Saints
By Michael David Smith
December 29, 2024

Raiders tight end Brock Bowers set two NFL records and helped his team beat the Saints 25-10 today in New Orleans.

Bowers broke Mike Ditka's record for receiving yards by a rookie tight end, and then about an hour later broke Puka Nacua's record for receptions by a rookie. It was a big day for Bowers, who has had an all-time great rookie season and has been one of the Raiders' few bright spots.

Raiders quarterback Aidan O'Connell also had a big day, completing 20 of 35 passes for 242 yards, with two touchdowns and no interceptions. O'Connell is doing his best to make his case that he deserves a shot at the Raiders' starting job in 2025.

The Saints didn't get much out of quarterback Spencer Rattler, who has largely looked overmatched since taking over for the injured Derek Carr, but who also hasn't been getting much help from a Saints team with a depleted roster.

The win improves the Raiders' record to 4-12, while the Saints fall to 5-11. Both teams are thinking about the 2025 NFL draft right now, but the Raiders aren't tanking. They played hard in a meaningless game, and Bowers put his name in the record books.

Brock Bowers: Record-setting rookie year pretty shocking, pretty cool
By Josh Alper
December 29, 2024

The 2024 season hasn't been a terribly pleasant one for the Raiders, but they can take some solace in the fact that they nailed their first-round pick in April.

Tight end Brock Bowers broke Rams wideout Puka Nacua's year-old record for rookie receptions on Sunday and he also broke a much longer-standing mark by passing Mike Ditka's 1961 record for receiving yards for a rookie tight end. If that wasn't enough, Bowers also set the Raiders' single-season reception record.

"It's pretty awesome," Bowers said, via the team's website. "It's always been a childhood goal to play in the NFL, obviously. Then to come in here and be able to catch as many balls as I did and get as many yards as I did, it's pretty shocking to me. It's pretty cool."

Sunday's win was the second in a row for the 4-12 Raiders and Bowers said he felt like "we've been due" for better results. Using Bowers as a building block for more of them in the future should be a focus of the offseason in Las Vegas.

Raiders CB Nate Hobbs played despite being hospitalized with pneumonia last week

Raiders cornerback Nate Hobbs missed last week's game with an illness. He wasn't on the practice report this week until Friday when he had a limited practice with an illness.

It turned out Hobbs was diagnosed with pneumonia, and, according to Tashan Reed of TheAthletic.com, Hobbs was hospitalized Thursday.

Hobbs played Sunday, seeing action on 41 snaps.

He had four tackles in the Raiders' 25-10 win over the Saints.

For the season, Hobbs has 49 tackles, one interception and five passes defensed.

Raiders' Brock Bowers breaks Mike Ditka's 63-year-old record for rookie TE receiving yards
By Grant Gordon
December 29, 2024

More than six decades after "Iron" Mike Ditka seemingly cast into stone a rookie record for all tight ends to strive for, Brock Bowers has moved aside the Hall of Famer.

Bowers set a new rookie receiving yards record for tight ends on Sunday, surpassing Ditka's mark of 1,076 set in 1961, during the Las Vegas Raiders' 25-10 win over the New Orleans Saints.

Needing just 10 yards, Bowers' record-setting grab went for 13 yards in the second quarter off an Aidan O'Connell pass. It was his third catch of the day.

When Ditka made history with the Chicago Bears, the Oakland Raiders were only in their second season as a member of the American Football League. Sixty-three years later, Bowers etched his name in the record books for Las Vegas.

After taking down a record set more than six decades prior, Bowers also eclipsed another standard that lasted but a season, as he surpassed Los Angeles Rams wide receiver Puka Nacua's rookie receptions record set in 2023. Nacua hauled in 105 catches last year and Bowers tallied the 106th grab of his season in the third quarter Sunday.

Bowers finished Sunday with seven catches for 77 yards, leaving him 108 receptions for 1,144 receiving yards on the season.

What a season it's been for Bowers, who just a week before became only the third rookie tight end to record 1,000 receiving yards, joining Ditka, of course, and the Atlanta Falcons' Kyle Pitts (1,026, 2021), and the first to surpass 100 catches. Bowers had already surpassed the Detroit Lions' Sam LaPorta for the TE rookie receptions record earlier in the campaign.

Though the Raiders have been mired in a season overflowing with strife and struggle, Bowers has been sensational for the Silver and Black and provided optimism for the season ahead, along with history.

Now he's put his name above the legendary Ditka and the burgeoning Nacua in the NFL record books.

Raiders Training Camp Notebook: Tom Telesco Relishing Another Opportunity

Tom Telesco didn't put serious thought into becoming a media member when he contemplated his next career steps after the Los Angeles Chargers relieved him of his duties as general manager of the team after nearly 11 seasons.

But Telesco thought he had better odds of being a football analyst than becoming a GM for another NFL team. He considered helping out a high school football team or landing a different front office job before he got the surprising call from Las Vegas Raiders owner Mark Davis expressing interest in interviewing him for the club's GM vacancy.

"I've just seen the way it's been lately, most GMs don't get a second opportunity," Telesco says. "I was completely prepared that, 'Hey, if I don't get another opportunity. I had a great run and I got 11 years at it. Got a great chance to build something and I took it as far as I could go. I just couldn't push it over the top.'"

Telesco said those words about coming up short with the Chargers, as he sat in the bleachers of where his old organization used to hold training camps while Raiders fans got situated a few feet away from him before Friday's practice at Jack Hammett Sports Complex in Costa Mesa, Calif.

"In this business, you just never know," Telesco says. "You never know who's watching, who thinks what. It was flattering to get a chance to go in and talk with them."

Eight months after being fired following the Chargers' embarrassing 63–21 loss to Las Vegas, Telesco was sporting silver sunglasses and a white Raiders t-shirt talking to an NFL reporter about his new job with a second AFC West team.

Getting his second shot so soon wasn't something Telesco expected so quickly, but Davis and the Raiders took notice of the talented rosters he put together on an annual basis with the Chargers. He had quarterbacks Philip Rivers and Justin Herbert, wide receivers Keenan Allen and Mike Williams and edge rushers Joey Bosa and Melvin Ingram. Those are just a few of many names that became Pro Bowlers under Telesco's watch the past decade.

Davis wanted that type of stability, with an experienced GM who had a track record of turning first-round picks into household names. The Raiders had struggled the past decade with turning first rounders into cornerstone pieces, but they did start to turn a corner before Telesco arrived in January.

Las Vegas doesn't have Herbert or Rivers at quarterback, but the roster does have plenty of talent at critical positions, including edge rusher Maxx Crosby, wide receiver Davante Adams, defensive tackle Christian Wilkins and left tackle Kolton Miller.

Telesco talked to Sports Illustrated before Friday's practice to discuss how he plans to get the Raiders over the top. Here are various topics he touched on, including the quarterback battle between Gardner Minshew and Aidan O'Connell.

Sports Illustrated: When will the Raiders decide on a starting QB?

Tom Telesco: "We'll see how it plays out. We don't really have a time frame on when to make a decision. I don't think anybody ever really knows. It's such a subjective decision on who you end up going with. We'll let it play out and go from there."

SI: What went into the decision of drafting tight end Brock Bowers in the first round?

Telesco: "We had talked earlier in the process that it could happen where [if] Brock Bowers is there, what would we want to do? There were some long discussions on that because the team had just drafted Michael Mayer the year before. Michael Mayer is an excellent tight end. 'Do we really want to take another tight end?' We went through the whole process.

"Really what we came down to. We wanted to make sure whoever we took in the first round had the highest odds of success. We wanted to make sure we hit on the player. As I looked at the roster when I got here, there's just that dearth of some first-round picks that just hadn't panned out. So, 'Hey, we want a high-odds player. Where we were [at pick No. 13], picking right there, a non-quarterback, we felt like he was the highest odds player there after the quarterbacks."

SI: What has impressed you the most about head coach Antonio Pierce?

Telesco: "He's got a lot of qualities as a head coach that are hard to find. He's a natural born leader. … But his attention to detail has been outstanding, like, you wouldn't see him as a first-time head coach by just watching how he's put everything together, how much thought he's put into everything.

"How he communicates, his expectations level of the players is really, really good. The players know exactly what he expects out of them, but he also tells them how to do it. But it's been really, really good so far."

SI: Why was Christian Wilkins the right player to target in free agency?

Telesco: "Christian checked off a lot of boxes for us. He plays a premier position in this league that's really hard to find. He's a great leader. He's been healthy and durable and highly productive. We think he's in the prime of his career right now. It really helped that [defensive coordinator] Patrick Graham knew him a little bit from his first year in Miami.

"He plays a position that can really affect the quarterback. We think he can even help our edges even more to have that presence inside, along with that of Adam Butler and John Jenkins. It gives us a nice group."

Here are camp notes from Raiders practice Friday …

Best thing I saw: Jack Jones's pass breakup vs. Davante Adams

Jones, the Raiders' feisty cornerback, had the daunting challenge of keeping Adams out of the end zone during red-zone drills, which the Raiders prioritized in Week 1 of camp.

The 5'11," 175-pound Jones had a size disadvantage against the three-time first-team All-Pro receiver. But Jones found an opening and extended his arms to swat a pass from O'Connell.

O'Connell struggled to find a rhythm and had a few interceptions, but in his defense, he didn't have the luxury of a full-field series to get in rhythm. Pierce wasn't happy about the team's lack of points in the red zone last season and wants to make sure his offense improves in that area.

Minshew was a bit better than O'Connell, but he didn't have many "wow" throws during the heavy red-zone day. Perhaps the most efficient quarterback who can get the ball to the Raiders' skill players will win the starting gig. But in practice Friday, Adams was rather quiet.

Best thing I heard: Jakobi Meyers not surprised he looks good in camp

The Raiders' signal-callers had a tough time getting the ball to Adams, but that wasn't the case with Meyers, the Raiders' No. 2 wideout. He's had a strong start to training camp, but that's not surprising to the sixth-year veteran.

"No, it's a little early," Meyers said when asked if he's in the zone right now. "My legs are fresh right now. I better look good, with all the work I've put in. We'll see around Day 10. Ask me again. I'll let you know."

Rookie who impressed: Brock Bowers, tight end

The Raiders can maybe get away with not having a franchise quarterback this season because they have a talented group of skill players, which could be even better this year with the arrival of Bowers, the team's first-round pick.

Bowers made life easier for O'Connell and Minshew as a friendly target who can create plays near the line of scrimmage and across the field.

Veteran who impressed: Jack Jones, cornerback

Jones is the only answer here and not just because of his backflip in the end zone that made Raiders fans "ooh and aah" from the stands.

The 2022 fourth-round pick was all over the field, breaking up plays in various ways. And it seemed his batted passes carried plenty of force, creating energy for the defense, which got the best of the offense Friday.

HEAD COACH ANTONIO PIERCE

Can NFL coaches pass their players' conditioning test? Raiders' Antonio Pierce challenges his staff

By Vic Tafur
August 5, 2024

COSTA MESA, Calif. — The Las Vegas Raiders players showed up for the first day of the offseason program this spring and could not believe what they were seeing in the film room.

Their assistant coaches stretching … and then grinding through the same conditioning test the players go through.

"The players laughed a lot," coach Antonio Pierce said last week about the video clip shared with the players. "We had Rob (Ryan) go out there with his shirt off and belly out. We had Marvin Lewis, 65 years old, and Joe Philbin on the bike.

"And then you had a couple of guys who played in the league thinking that they were sprinters still, and they came up lame on a couple of the runs."

Pierce gave his 28 coaches a heads-up early in the offseason that they would be tested in April. Ryan was speechless.

"Whew …" Ryan, the Raiders' 61-year-old senior defensive assistant coach, said. "It was shocking."

Pierce simply wanted his coaches to be healthier and to come together as the players have. And he thought his players would get a message underneath all the laughter.

"When you look at coaches in the National Football League, health is probably the No. 1 concern," Pierce said. "Stress level, being overweight, not having a chance to work out. … I wanted to challenge our coaches, and also I thought it would be good for our players to see the commitment that even our coaches were making in the offseason."

It was a scaled-down version of the players' conditioning test, with interval runs, on-field drills and weight-room bars to hit.

"It's my 16th year in the league and I have never been a part of a coaching staff conditioning test," said tight end coach Luke Steckel, who coached with the Chicago Bears last season and spent the previous 10 seasons with the Tennessee Titans. "But it was pretty cool. I like the message that it sends to our team: If we're going to hold our players accountable for being in elite physical condition, then we at least better be in shape ourselves.

"And it was fun to see all competitive juices flowing between all of us. I was having flashbacks to my college playing days."

The older coaches trained just like the younger ones did, though they weren't asked to do as much in the test.

"It was great," assistant head coach Marvin Lewis said. "I have two replacement knees and two replacement hips, so I got to be on the bike. The coaches had a lot of fun. There was a lot of camaraderie, watching everybody train every morning for it. It was great."

Ryan actually lost eight pounds over two months of training.

"The man's making me do it, so I started working out a little bit each day a couple of months in advance," Ryan said. "They let me go on the bike rather than face injury. It was cool, and I actually lost weight out of the deal. When it was over it was a proud moment.

"(Strength and conditioning coach) A.J. (Neibel) and his crew were always keeping a close eye in case someone had a heart attack, but it was good."

Rob Ryan said he lost eight pounds training for the conditioning test Antonio Pierce had all the Raiders coaches go through. (Kirby Lee / USA Today)

Players like tackle Thayer Munford Jr. are just thankful for the pure entertainment value.

"I was dying, seeing those old people run," he said. "Other old people on the bikes and stuff thinking they're really running but they're not. Big Rob was the funniest. But apparently they all passed with flying colors."

Pierce said the coaches were nervous beforehand.

"Their heart rates were up," Pierce said, smiling. "And it wasn't because of their conditioning, it was because of their nerves and anxiety. I thought it was good for them to feel what the players feel. Most of the athletes are in top-tier shape but whenever there is testing, everything raises up a little bit.

"The No. 1 thing we're trying to teach them is to slow down their heart rate and their mind and play faster and looser. And this was a good opportunity and example to show the same."

Just like teams want a roster that cares for and plays for one another, Pierce thinks he has a unified staff that is ready to help lead the Raiders forward from last year's 8-9 record (5-4 finish under Pierce). Things like the conditioning test and group outings to Vegas Golden Knights hockey games only tighten that bond.

"I see a tight cohesiveness amongst our staff," Pierce said. "They hang out together, they do stuff in the offseason, they go out to dinners together here at camp. We're going to have some heated moments where we disagree, but when you have that bond — no different than the players — it's easy to get over it and understand that you're not being disrespected and that's just the way it is if it's coming from Luke (Getsy), Patrick (Graham), Tom (McMahon) or myself. It's nothing malicious, it's just the way that it needs to be done."

It was quick work with 14 new assistants on the staff this season.

“AP’s always looking for ways to bring the staff together,” Ryan said. “He’s big on people and he’s a natural leader, so getting our coaches on both sides of the ball together, working out together and putting us head-to-head against each other when the staff meets, he really develops a camaraderie. We’re a close-knit unit.”

The last regime obviously had problems in that area, and individuality is encouraged now as long as the hard work is put in. Former coach Josh McDaniels was a micro-manager who had trouble connecting with players, and Pierce is practically the complete opposite. The coaches’ fitness test immediately broke the ice with the new assistants and new players this season.

“It gave us that jell with the coaches that we didn’t have the last couple of years,” Munford said. “This staff has a lot more energy. For me, not only than last year’s coaches, but my college coaches. They are very passionate about what they do, and they don’t really blink an eye over anything at all.

“We all love them for that. We can see that they care about us.”

And some of the coaches also really cared about the results.

“I just remember winning every rep,” said Steckel, who was a linebacker and team captain for an Ivy League-winning Princeton team in 2006. “You have to ask the other guys what the back of my head looks like. I was blazing. To go out there and be able to compete with your co-workers was a lot of fun.”

So … did every coach really pass the conditioning test?

“Uhhhhhhh … yes,” Pierce said. “One coach finished, but he limped in. He limped the last 10 yards but he made it.”

Every coach also finished the test with a big grin.

“When AP says bring a smile with you when you walk into the building, he means it,” Ryan said. “Be focused on ball, but love it, and he makes it a fun environment and I know that it’s going to be successful.”

Will things like a coaches’ conditioning test, a fun environment and a roster and coaching staff that fully buy in lead to the Raiders’ third playoff appearance in 22 years?

That’s the next test.

“The culture that AP has established — not only on the roster, but on the coaching staff — is pretty special,” Steckel said. “We talk about the brotherhood and the camaraderie all the time. It’s a message that I know, offensively, Luke Getsy will echo all the time. And when it’s important to the guys who lead the organization, it starts to be important to you. It just trickles down.

“You build a great culture, and a lot of times great results follow. And I can tell you that we are building a great culture right now.”

TIGHT END BROCK BOWERS

Brock Bowers' story comes full circle as Raiders' first-round pick
By Vic Tafur
May 30, 2024

Like a child still marveling at their surprise gift long after they opened it, the Las Vegas Raiders lined up rookie tight end Brock Bowers inside and out wide at OTAs last week. They even handed him the ball out of the backfield a couple of times.

A month has passed, and the Raiders still can't believe Bowers was on the board at pick 13. Yeah, it was like hitting a Las Vegas jackpot.

"I'm extremely excited," offensive coordinator Luke Getsy said last week. "Brock's a unique guy. … This league is about finding as many dynamic guys as you can get on your team. I think he's just one of those elements that gives us an opportunity to do a bunch of different things."

Bowers has a great catch radius and explodes down the field after his catches. He is also a man of few words.

"I just try and turn good plays into great plays," he said.

Watching him at the University of Georgia and, now, with the Raiders, no one would have guessed that one of the NFL's more unique, dynamic young playmakers got his start at a nondescript high school program in Napa, Calif. More accurately, Bowers' origin story began in eighth grade at KT Prep, a national seven-on-seven academy in Danville, Calif.

"We are at Diablo Valley College practicing — and we had a pretty good seven-on-seven team that we were coaching — and this eighth-grader came out onto the field," former NFL running back Maurice Jones-Drew said. "He started killing these juniors and seniors. We had some kids that were going to big-time college programs. I was like, 'Who is this dude?'"

Jones-Drew didn't know what KT Prep founder Nathan Kenion had in store for him that day. Kenion had been surprised himself when he first met Bowers.

"He was a big, 6-foot-1 kid with big hands and big feet," Kenion said. "I thought he was a swimmer. I thought he was going to be a little clumsy his first time on the field. But he wasn't. It was the complete opposite. He already had good speed and he caught the ball well, and I remember looking at the other people on the sideline and being really excited."

Now 6-foot-3 and 240 pounds, Bowers went on to star at Georgia, where he became the first back-to-back winner of the John Mackey Award, given to the nation's top tight end. He joined Herschel Walker and David Pollack as the only Bulldogs to be named All-America three straight years and finished his career with 26 receiving touchdowns and five rushing TDs.

That first day Jones-Drew saw him, he saw that Bowers was a competitive, natural receiver who ran good routes. Then he didn't see Bowers again for 18 months (due to some broadcasting opportunities) — until a seven-on-seven tournament in Los Angeles.

"I couldn't believe it. He had changed drastically," Jones-Drew said. "He had gotten bigger and stronger and still had that burst. He was the best player on the whole circuit. By far. And he was only a sophomore. He was so strong, and we just threw the ball to him all day. He was unguardable. The last game, it was on the line and we threw him a post into double coverage and he comes down with it to get us within one point.

"We then go for the win, and we throw him a slant and the defense is all over him. He catches the ball and the safety lowers his shoulder and hits him and the ball rolls out and we lose."

Bowers came to the sideline in tears.

"He was like, 'My bad, I can't believe I lost us the game,'" Jones-Drew said. "I was like, 'What are you talking about? We wouldn't be here if it wasn't for you.' He cares so much."

KT Prep has had more than a handful of players make the NFL, but Bowers is — pardon the cliché — a unicorn. Take the Nike SPARQ Combine his sophomore year in high school, where Bowers ran a 40 for the first time.

"He didn't know how to do a three-point stance," Jones-Drew said. "So, on his 40-yard dash, he did a defensive end stance instead of a track stance. And he ran a 4.5."

Said Kenion: "He also had a 40-inch jump and was unguardable, and that's when the recruiting really took off."

Bowers had one offer (Nevada) before he walked into that combine. Afterward, the recruiting faucet turned on, and once the film of Bowers' first game of his junior season was out, it was a flood.

"The phone started going crazy," said his father, Warren Bowers. "There aren't a whole lot of guys who come out of Napa High School, so it was a big thrill for the school to have all of the top coaches wandering around."

Bowers took it all in stride.

"He is a really quiet kid who never talks back and aims to please," Kenion said. "He is a real throwback, a coach's dream. And he always went full speed and never asked for a play off. He'll rip something off the bone before he slows down or shows he's in any pain."

Bowers comes from a family of athletes, so doing everything it takes to win came naturally. His mom, DeAnna, was an All-American softball player and is in Utah State's Hall of Fame, while Warren was an All-Big West center on Utah State's football team. Brock's lone sibling, older sister Brianna, played softball at Sacramento State.

"It was definitely a competitive household," Brock said. "We couldn't play too many games as a family."

When Brock was 10, the family found a game at Legoland in which teams had to pump water from a fire truck and hit targets. The losing team walked, while the winners stayed on. Other families were less than thrilled at the Bowers clan's high-fiving zeal as they won eight or nine straight before walking off and retiring as sweat-soaked champions.

"We don't take anything lightly," Warren said, adding that the title of "best athlete in the family" is still hotly contested. Warren, though, takes credit for Brock's explosiveness after the catch.

"My wife says she will beat me in a 40-yard dash, but that I would be winning the first 10 yards, so I must have the burst," he said, laughing.

His parents and their friends first noticed their son was different in sixth grade on his traveling basketball team.

"He was getting by bigger and bigger kids with his first step, and once we got to KT Prep, we really started taking the show on the road," Warren said.

Brock, meanwhile, was dedicated to ensuring the show only got better.

"We practiced 45 minutes from him, and he never missed a practice," Jones-Drew said. "He was professional back in the eighth and ninth grade. And he is just a crazy athlete at that size and speed."

Oregon and Washington were high on his list at one point. Stanford — a local school known for academics and for producing top tight ends — came into the process too late. ("He had already picked his top six schools; we were heading up to go fishing one day when they called," Warren said, "and he told them that he appreciated the phone call but no thanks.") Notre Dame wanted him as a pass rusher. LSU just wasn't the right fit despite then-coach Ed Orgeron's persistence. ("Brock would say, 'The Cookie Monster left a message again,'" Warren said, referring to Orgeron's raspy voice.)

Bowers and his parents liked the coaching continuity at Georgia — something Brock didn't have in high school — as well as the small-town family vibe there, and he didn't get the same feeling on their trip to LSU.

"His parents knew he was talented, but there was a point where they may have wondered if he was Georgia talented," Kenion said. "And I told them he could go anywhere and play. I compared him to Travis Kelce and George Kittle, and he would beat both those guys in a foot race."

Bowers wanted to play against the best players in the country, and he also wanted to hunt and fish in his spare time.

"At Georgia, he would be 20 minutes away from the middle of nowhere fishing or 30 minutes away from turkey and deer hunting," said Warren, who passed on his father's love of the outdoors to his son.

Bowers got a jump on Georgia living when Napa High canceled his senior season due to the COVID-19 pandemic and he enrolled in college a semester early, in January 2021.

"He had been training that fall when he took his last two classes, and he showed up in Georgia in great, great shape," Warren said. "He was running every single day, and I think part of that was out of frustration at losing his senior year."

Todd Monken was the offensive coordinator then at Georgia, the role he now holds with the Baltimore Ravens.

“We didn’t know exactly what we were getting in Brock,” Monken told reporters in 2022. “We knew he was rare in how he worked. We knew he was fast, and then all of a sudden, that catch-and-run at UAB (an 88-yard touchdown) … we were like, ‘I don’t know, that’s different.’ The GPS says one thing and then that happened and we’re like, ‘Let’s keep trying that.’”

Georgia did a good job of moving Bowers around; he finished his career with 876 snaps as an inline tight end, 818 in the slot, 214 as a wide receiver and 41 in the backfield.

“We were able to throw some defenses off,” Bowers said at the NFL Scouting Combine. “It was awesome playing under (Monken). We were able to install things the week before a game, make everything look the same and find the defense’s soft spots.”

Bulldogs tight ends coach Todd Hartley said Bowers was the hardest-working kid he’s ever met.

“He’s got extreme talent, he can run, he can jump, he can catch, he’s tough. But what makes him special to me is his competitiveness,” Hartley told reporters last season. “He gets pissed off when I take him off the field to get another kid some reps, (asking) what he did wrong. He wants to be great.”

Said Jones-Drew: “I have never seen him plateau. He just keeps getting better and better and better.”

As a kid in Napa, Bowers would check out the Oakland Raiders’ training camp — at Bowers’ middle school behind the Napa Valley Marriott.

“It’s kind of cool how things come full circle like that,” Bowers said after being drafted. “Derek Carr was there, and I got an autograph from him, so that was pretty sweet.”

This summer, Bowers will be the one signing the autographs.

How Raiders plan to upend Patrick Mahomes, Chiefs dynasty
By Anthony Olivieri
September 12, 2024

SITTING IN THE visitors' locker room after Game 6 of the 1988 NBA Finals, Detroit Pistons guard Isiah Thomas knew his badly injured ankle needed treatment. But the Los Angeles Lakers, who had just beaten the Pistons by a point, wouldn't help. Not even with ice.

As Thomas thought about Game 7, the door to the locker room swung open and in walked Mike Ornstein. Known as an NFL fixer, Ornstein had been former coach John Madden's gofer before being promoted to the executive suite, where he worked for Al Davis, owner of the Los Angeles Raiders.

"'Al Davis said you can come over and use his facilities,'" Thomas recalls Ornstein telling him.

Ornstein had met Thomas before; he had been around the Pistons, whose bare-knuckle style had them nicknamed "The Raiders of the NBA." The comparison had delighted Davis, who sent the Pistons 15 boxes of white-knit sweaters with silver-and-black Raiders logos earlier in the season.

Thomas made the six-mile drive from the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, California, to the Raiders' facility in El Segundo, where the team was based during its 13-season stint in Los Angeles. Pistons trainer Mike Abdenour accompanied Thomas. "We had access to everything," Abdenour said. He worked on Thomas' ankle, and the Raiders staff helped, too.

While Thomas was getting treatment, he struck up conversations with Raiders players who were in the building during the offseason. There was Howie Long, the future Hall of Fame defensive lineman, and Matt Millen, the linebacker who would be named to the Pro Bowl, and Marcus Allen, the running back who was the MVP of the Raiders' last Super Bowl victory nearly five years earlier. They talked about how to dictate a game and how to play, think and act as one.

"We would have long, long, long, deep conversations about football, basketball, how it works, and how we can connect the two," Thomas said, "... They liked our tenacity, and then we just started telling Raiders stories."

The Pistons weren't shy about being connected to the old Oakland Raiders, wearing the villain's persona with pride. Their path to the Finals saw them beat an ascending Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls with a combative style.

It was known as The Jordan Rules.

In El Segundo, Thomas said he spent the night at the facility and left with a Raiders shirt, gifted by Ornstein, that read "Real Men Wear Black." He was pictured on crutches, wearing the shirt, ahead of Game 7.

There was a Compton, California, kid who was influenced by both franchises. Antonio Pierce grew up a fan of the Raiders; his first memory of the silver and black, as a 5-year-old boy, was of Allen reversing field on his way to pay dirt in Super Bowl XVIII. As the franchise became a symbol of late '80s counterculture, its hats famously showcased to a burgeoning MTV generation by artists like N.W.A, Pierce wore a Raiders Starter jacket. He's now the head coach, in his first full season after an interim stint, of the Las Vegas Raiders.

But this time, Pierce wants his Raiders to emulate Thomas' Pistons who were emulating the old Raiders, completing an unlikely circle. And the Michael Jordan he wants to thwart is Patrick Mahomes, the three-time champion quarterback of the rival Kansas City Chiefs. Making Mahomes the center of a defense's attention isn't a novel concept, but with the connection between the Raiders and Pistons in mind, Pierce's team has a unique mission.

"We've got The Jordan Rules," Pierce said on an episode of "The Rush," a podcast co-hosted by Raiders defensive end Maxx Crosby, in February," and what I'm calling, from now on as long as I'm here, The Patrick Mahomes Rules."

TO OVERCOME MAHOMES, the Raiders must transcend both sport and era, while tapping into their own storied history.

The Raiders debuted in Oakland in 1960, one of the eight founding members of the AFL. They quickly took on the persona of both their hardscrabble hometown, a port city that historically has housed the working class, and the man who would become their maverick owner.

"Oakland was the Bay Area and not the trendy, rich side, the San Francisco side of the Bay Area, but the East Bay," said author Matt Ehrlich, who wrote the book "Kansas City vs. Oakland: The Bitter Sports Rivalry That Defined An Era." "The Raiders' franchise and the image that they cultivated [connected] with Oakland's self-image as being that of an underdog.

"[But] the Raiders' identity really was an outgrowth of Davis' identity."

Davis arrived as the franchise's head coach and general manager in 1963. He changed the team colors from black and gold to silver and black. He eventually became the team's owner and one of the most influential figures in pro football history. An outsider from the start, Davis even had a short stint as AFL commissioner, taking the establishment NFL head on before the leagues merged in 1970.

The Raiders of the 1970s had a secondary -- safeties George Atkinson and Jack Tatum, along with cornerbacks Willie Brown and Alonzo "Skip" Thomas -- who were known as the "Soul Patrol," a hard-hitting group fueled by intimidation. Pittsburgh Steelers coach Chuck Noll once described Atkinson's play, the day after an especially brutal hit, as part of the game's "criminal element." Tatum, nicknamed "The Assassin," said his signature hits were akin to "felonious assault," and Thomas was called "Dr. Death."

"They always embraced that villainous image," Ehrlich said. "They've always tried to have that kind of swagger."

By 1974, an NFL Films video showed the team's season highlights over an ominous tune, with drums and trumpets building to a crescendo as the Raiders wrecked their opponents. "The autumn wind is a pirate, blustering in from sea," broadcaster John Facenda began. He continued: "The autumn wind is a Raider, pillaging just for fun." It became part of the franchise's lore, and Facenda's voice became synonymous with the NFL's tough guy image.

The Raiders went on to win three Super Bowls, in the 1976, 1980 and 1983 seasons. But they haven't won one since. They moved from Oakland to Los Angeles and back to Oakland before leaving for Las Vegas before the 2020 season. They haven't won a playoff game since January 2003, the same month as their last Super Bowl berth. Davis died in 2011, handing the franchise to his son, Mark, who has presided over eight coaches in 14 seasons during which he was controlling owner. Pierce is the third coach since Jon Gruden resigned five games into the 2021 season, when reports surfaced that emails he sent years earlier as an ESPN employee had racist, sexist, homophobic and transphobic language.

During his introductory news conference in January, Pierce nodded to his earlier years as a fan. Then, this past July, to decidedly less fanfare, the Raiders returned to Southern California, holding their training camp in Costa Mesa, less than 40 miles south of their old facility in El Segundo.

Before one July practice, Pierce told the gathered media that he expected "bang-bang" when his players put pads on for the first time. He talked about his memories of participating in the Oklahoma drill, the since-banned, survival-of-the fittest staple of old-school football, as a player. On the field, defensive assistant Rob Ryan, a member of one of the NFL's first families, shouted instructions, hair flapping in the breeze, and franchise sack leader Greg Townsend looked on just steps away.

But this was a different league than the one dominated by Tatum and Atkinson. Over the past 20-plus years, the NFL has implemented rules changes to both encourage offense (in 2004, league officials cracked down on illegal contact on receivers after 5 yards) and ensure safety (the league's website says there have been more than 50 rules changes since 2002 "to eliminate potentially dangerous tactics"). Many of those are centered on protecting quarterbacks like Mahomes.

So, Pierce must use a different blueprint to help his players understand their mission.

"You remember when Jordan was going through it with the Pistons, all those guys in the '80s," Pierce said on Crosby's podcast, "before he became Michael Jordan, Air Jordan, the Pistons used to whup his ass. Any time he came to the hole? Elbows, feeling him, love taps. We touched him. We're in the head, mentally, physically, emotionally, spiritually, I'm touching you.

"So, I showed those guys Jordan getting his ass whupped."

BEFORE HE RECEIVED those so-called love taps, Jordan scored 59 points against the Pistons one afternoon in early April 1988. The Bulls won by 2. Pistons coach Chuck Daly later said that's when The Jordan Rules were born.

Jordan was amid one of the greatest individual seasons of all time. He would become the first player in NBA history to win regular-season MVP and Defensive Player of the Year in the same year. But heading into the 1987-88 season, Jordan's Bulls had yet to make it out of the first round of the playoffs. They would make it to the second round, in May 1988, only to be ousted in five games by the Pistons, who would go on to make the NBA Finals. The Pistons lost Game 7 of those Finals, which Thomas played with a limp, but they were the team to beat in the East.

"The Bulls had the best player: Jordan," said former Chicago Tribune writer Sam Smith, whose book "The Jordan Rules" came out in 1991 and became a New York Times best-seller. "All Star. MVP. Defensive Player of the Year. Most popular. Not considered the greatest of all time yet, but elite for his era and certainly better talent than anyone on the Pistons.

"The Pistons, they were belittling Jordan all the time, saying, 'Yeah, score all your points, but you can't win the games,' which continued to raise his frustrations toward them."

Pejoratives were used to describe center Bill Laimbeer, who opponents called a cheap-shot artist. And power forward Rick Mahorn was viewed as a hockey enforcer in an NBA player's body. Jordan accused Mahorn and forward Adrian Dantley of deliberately trying to injure him during the 1988 season and got in a fight with Laimbeer during the playoffs. The role of heel became a part of the Pistons' identity.

Thomas told ESPN that NBA video personnel were embedded with the Pistons during the 1987-88 season. As an ode to a line from the 1983 movie "Scarface," Thomas used to rally his teammates before games by belting out, "Say hello to The Bad Boys because you're never going to see bad boys like us again." The NBA-issued team video was named "Bad Boys: 1987/88 Detroit Pistons," and the name stuck. And the Pistons embraced it.

"I was very critical of how they were describing our play," Thomas said. "And so you get to the point where, OK, well, if this is the [label] they're going to stick on that, then in sociology and psychology class, you say you adapt a label and you try to make it work for you as best you can."

As "The Bad Boys" gained momentum, and kept winning, a Detroit Bad Boys logo was born. It had white lettering over a black background, and there was a skull and crossbones over an orange basketball. Fans wore T-shirts with the logo, and there was even a flag at home games.

"This is where Al Davis and the Raiders, the connection came through," Thomas said, "because we were playing with a mentality of toughness and mental toughness where the league was looking at it as physical toughness."

Ornstein, the NFL fixer, died in July. He went on to become Reggie Bush's marketing agent. He would be sentenced to eight months in jail for "conspiring to scalp Super Bowl tickets and selling fake 'game-worn' jerseys." CBS Sports even reported a connection to the New Orleans Saints and "Bountygate." But during the heyday of "The Bad Boys," he was an outsider who became a Pistons insider. He even went to Abdenour's wedding. The connection had endured.

Davis gave Raiders jerseys to the Pistons with their names and numbers on the back. The Pistons of that era rattled other teams, there was even an instance where before a game, the Pistons sent their whole roster to the pregame captains meeting. "In our Raiders jerseys," Thomas said. Teams usually send one or two players.

"The game was over," Abdenour said, "before it started."

FIRST, PIERCE made sure his team hated the color red.

The old AFL rivalry between the Raiders and Chiefs had been one-sided. Heading into the Christmas Day 2023 matchup, Mahomes-led Chiefs teams had won 10 of 11 games against the Raiders. Ahead of the Monday matchup, Pierce was reminded of the first game between the teams last season, four weeks prior, when the Raiders took a 14-0 lead but lost 31-17. Pierce didn't want that to happen again.

So, in the week leading up to the game, after his players built up a sufficient aversion to the Chiefs' home reds, Pierce explained to Crosby on his podcast how he separated his preparation into four quarters.

On Wednesday of that week, he showed his team the three-round bout between Marvin Hagler and Thomas Hearns from 1985 that includes what many consider the best first round in boxing history, a slugfest that had constant action from the start. It set the tone for a clash.

On Thursday, it was Nate Diaz vs. Conor McGregor from UFC 196 in 2016. After McGregor had his way in the first round, Diaz forced McGregor to submit in the second with a rear-naked choke. It showed resilience.

Before Saturday's final part, footage of 12- and 15-round Muhammad Ali fights, and on Friday Pierce showed his team how it can achieve a tactical advantage. He had televisions in the room playing footage of the Raiders and Chiefs -- and another with Jordan getting swarmed by Pistons. The footage showed how the Pistons wouldn't allow Jordan any space on the court.

They bumped him when he didn't have the ball and knocked him to the floor when he did.

When he wanted to be in the middle of the court, they sent him to his left.

When he was isolated on the wing, they funneled him toward three or four hulking defenders in the middle.

"We wanted to force [Jordan] to be a decision-maker," Thomas said. "He's got to make decisions, and he's got to be under duress making those decisions. So consequently, when you're trapping him, you're sending him to his weaker hand, which is his left side. ...

"All the great players want it their way. They want it easy. They want to walk in and score their points and look good and everybody clap for them and go home. Well, we don't let you do that."

It was a blueprint for how Pierce hoped to attack Mahomes.

"We've got to knock off the head of the snake," Pierce said on the podcast.

In that Christmas Day game, with the footage of Jordan fresh in their minds, the Raiders defense took over, scoring two touchdowns on consecutive plays -- a scoop and score by defensive tackle Bilal Nichols and a pick-six by cornerback Jack Jones. Las Vegas won 20-14.

Mahomes was sacked four times, the most by the Raiders against Mahomes since he entered the league, according to ESPN Stats & Info. The 22 pressures were the most by the Raiders against the Chiefs in four years, and the 20 quarterback contacts were the most against Mahomes by any opponent. The old Oakland Raiders were back for one game.

The smell of victory cigars wafted out of the Raiders' locker room.

The Chiefs haven't lost since.

"ULTIMATELY," SAID OSI Umenyiora, an ex-NFL defensive lineman and Pierce's former teammate on the New York Giants, "you don't have to play dirty."

Those Giants won perhaps the most famous Super Bowl title in history, toppling Tom Brady's previously undefeated New England Patriots in dramatic fashion. Brady was sacked 21 times in 578 pass attempts during the 2007 season. In Super Bowl XLII, he was brought down five times while being hurried, pressured and forced out of his comfort zone.

"[Mahomes] needs to feel you in his vicinity," Umenyiora said. "He needs to feel you breathing down his neck. He needs to understand he doesn't have time to make these throws. You're going to disrupt the rhythm of their offense.

"He hands the ball off, you're going to smack the running back. You're going to make him uncomfortable, move off the spot. You're going to be in his space when he's throwing the ball. As his motion is coming down, maybe he's hitting his hand on your helmet. You have to be around him. And I think that's pretty much all they're going to be able to do."

Jessie Armstead, special assistant to the GM for the Giants and a former Pro Bowl linebacker, talks to Pierce weekly on the phone. The two became fast friends in Washington during Pierce's second year. Armstead said that he knows Pierce's mentality because it's his own. Armstead said there are ways for a defense to gain a mental edge despite rules that have increasingly protected quarterbacks over the past two decades.

"Hopefully," Armstead said, "something you do will start irritating that quarterback."

That's where Patrick Graham comes in. The Raiders' defensive coordinator acknowledged that there is a special set of principles when facing the best quarterback in the game, like when the Giants -- or anyone, for that matter -- faced Brady.

"You're dealing with a quarterback who has full access to the field with his arm," Graham said. "He's had a ton of reps. So, it's going to be hard to disguise and trick him."

So, the defense molded by Graham and Pierce went back to the basics. When talking to ESPN about it during training camp in July, Graham used defensive buzz words. Effort. Discipline. Communication. Disrupt the timing of receivers. Make it hard to throw from the pocket on time and on target.

"But it starts with the mental," Graham said, "in terms of knowing that it's going to be a tough task. So, the rules are just to give yourself a shot."

Brad Donohue, a clinical licensed psychologist and professor at UNLV, works with amateur and professional athletes on both giving and receiving intimidation. Donohue has the athletes watch videos, including one of Laimbeer throwing Larry Bird to the floor in a 1980s NBA game before Bird comes back and scores on him. Donohue mentions strategies like Jim Brown walking in front of the competition on purpose before the game or Walter Payton hopping up spryly after a big hit to show he wasn't fazed.

"There's a science and skill set to intimidating optimally," Donohue said. "Basically, trying to lead the opponent into a state of timidity, overconcern and anxiety. Learning to use intimidation optimally requires practice, and years of experience, which is why most intimidators are exceptional at what they do.

"I've found the benefits of intimidation are clear in boosting confidence, increasing adrenaline and positive emotions, motivation and ability to distract opponents from their gameplan."

Then, when you're playing Mahomes, you also have to pray.

PATRICK MAHOMES, LIKE Michael Jordan before him, has shaped the legacies of his teammates and contemporaries as much has his own. There may be a potential NFL quarterback counterpart for every Patrick Ewing, Clyde Drexler, Charles Barkley, John Stockton and Karl Malone, who finished their careers without a title because of Jordan.

In July, ESPN released a list of the best quarterbacks in the NFL, according to league executives, coaches and scouts. Six of the top seven -- including Mahomes at No. 1 -- play in the AFC. The Bengals' Joe Burrow, No. 2 on the list, has lost to Mahomes twice in the AFC Championship Game. The Bills' Josh Allen, ranked No. 3, has lost to Mahomes three times in the playoffs. The fourth quarterback in the rankings, Lamar Jackson, lost to Mahomes in last year's AFC title game, and Justin Herbert, No. 6 on the list, is stuck in Mahomes' division, unable to win it.

The Raiders, without a star quarterback and thought to be among the league's worst teams, are in that division, too. Pierce, though, brings a reason for optimism: His defense allowed just 16 points per game in the nine games -- five of them wins -- during his interim tenure last season. But he will be judged, ultimately, on how he stacks up against the Raiders' oldest rival.

Pierce wasn't interviewed for this story, but he did tell ESPN's Andscape in August "at the end of the day, you've got to try something different. You've got to try to make the change you want," in reference to not backing off any actions since becoming Raiders coach. A Chiefs spokesman said that Mahomes hasn't been asked about Pierce's comments since they happened shortly after February's Super Bowl, when there was no media availability. The spokesman didn't respond to a follow-up request for comment.

Mahomes and the Chiefs aim to become the first NFL team in the Super Bowl era to win three consecutive championships. Jordan, of course, is famous for winning his six championships in two separate three-peats. On the NBC broadcast before the NFL's season-opening game between the Chiefs and the Ravens, The Mahomes Rules were a topic of conversation.

"It's the highest compliment that our team could receive, to be embraced by another sport, in particular football," Thomas said. "But I wouldn't say our style of play [is what's being emulated]. I would say what's being incorporated is our mentality."

For the Raiders, translating that into wins is another story.

In the season opener against the Chargers, the Raiders defense allowed just 83 total yards and two first downs in the first half en route to a 7-6 lead. With the game in the balance in the fourth, when the Raiders trailed 16-10 with 7:15 remaining, Pierce decided to punt on fourth-and-1 from the Chargers' 43.

The Raiders were the first team to punt on fourth-and-1 in opposing territory in the fourth quarter in a one-score game since 2016.

"We got what we wanted," Pierce told reporters after the game.

The Raiders had all three of their timeouts. The Chargers were pinned back on their own 8-yard line after the punt. Pierce's defense was on the field.

Los Angeles promptly took the ball and drove 92 yards for the deciding score thanks to a 61-yard run by J.K. Dobbins that led to a 10-yard score from rookie WR Ladd McConkey.

"Again, defense was the strength for the most part of the game," Pierce said.

After the score, the Chargers went for two, and running back Gus Edwards was stopped short. But players from both teams spilled out the back of the end zone as multiple fights broke out when the play finished. Flags flew. Punches were thrown, and there were two ejections: Chargers wide receiver Joshua Palmer and Jones, the Raiders cornerback.

"Undisciplined," Pierce said of the brawl.

Las Vegas lost 22-10.

Ultimately, the principles of The Mahomes Rules are the same that have defined defensive football for generations: play together, play physical, be relentless, go get the quarterback - and capture any mental edge available against an opponent.

For the Raiders, Jackson and the Ravens are the next test.

Mahomes and the Chiefs arrive in Las Vegas for Week 8. That's six weeks away.

THE ATHLETIC

For 3 Raiders, their Father's Day gift is hopefully wearing the same uniform as Dad
By Vic Tafur
June 15, 2024

HENDERSON, Nev. — Jalen McKenzie was 12 when he first walked through an ivy tunnel behind the Napa Valley Marriott and hit the field for Oakland Raiders training camp.

His dad, Reggie, was the team's general manager (and a former player), and the slack-jawed Jalen would watch the players run around and work on their craft — one the super-sized kid had big dreams about himself back then. One day when Jalen was roaming the sidelines, Hall of Famer Willie Brown pulled Jalen aside. And then another day, another Hall of Famer, James Lofton.

"Willie Brown was this larger-than-life type of character, the coolest cat you will ever meet," McKenzie said. "I couldn't believe these guys were talking to me. James Lofton told me that every time you touch the grass is an opportunity to get better. And that always stuck with me."

The moment and the memories hit Jalen harder than the 111-degree heat after minicamp practice Wednesday. He is 24 now, and the offensive tackle was on the Las Vegas Raiders' practice squad last October before re-signing with the team in February. Yeah, McKenzie is trying to make his dad's team. And Brown's and Lofton's team. McKenzie is one of three former Raiders' sons now on the field, as veteran offensive lineman Andrus Peat was signed away from the New Orleans Saints and undrafted rookie Ron Stone Jr. is trying to follow in Ron Stone Sr.'s footsteps.

The older Stone played guard for the Raiders in 2004 and 2005, and his son wearing Silver and Black is the best Father's Day gift possible.

"Him just getting a chance to play in the NFL is great, but having a chance to play at one of my old stomping grounds put a big smile on my face," Stone said in a phone interview this week. "It was a real proud moment for the Raiders to pick him up."

Stone Sr. played for coach Norv Turner when he was with the Raiders, and Norv's son, Scott, is on the staff as the pass game coordinator. The Raiders also have a new coach: young offensive assistant De'Andre Pierce. His dad is Raiders coach Antonio Pierce, who got a little nostalgic and sentimental when talking about his son Thursday.

"There's nothing like that relationship," Antonio Pierce said. "As fathers, we get beat up a lot. I wasn't a deadbeat dad. I was always there for my son, and I'm proud of where he is. I'm proud of all my children. And I'm just proud of the men that we have in this building because I think we've got some excellent men in his building. … Happy Father's Day."

Peat's dad, Todd, played three years for the Raiders as an offensive lineman in the 1990s. Andrus spent the first nine years of his career with the Saints before heading to Las Vegas. Good things come to those who wait.

"It was a dream come true," Andrus Peat said. "Growing up, as young as I can remember, I was a Raiders fan. And the three years my dad played here, he always had great things to say about the organization, teammates, ownership, coaches and the great tradition. He had a lot of great stories."

Andrus was born in 1993, Todd's last year with the Raiders and the final season of his seven-year NFL career. (He also played a year for the World League's Frankfurt Galaxy in 1995.)

"Every baby picture there is of me, I am wearing Raiders gear," Andrus said.

Jalen was the same way.

"I have been riding for this brand since I was born," he said.

McKenzie played at USC before being on and off the Seattle Seahawks' practice squad the last two years.

"That was a great feeling when he signed with the Raiders," Reggie McKenzie said in a phone interview. "Anytime your son not only follows in your footsteps but plays ball and loves it like he does, and then gets to line up and wear the same uniform, that's the best. My oldest son (Kahlil) played at the University of Tennessee, where I did, and that was also a great feeling."

Jalen McKenzie is 6 feet 4, 310 pounds and had to wait as a kid to fully embrace football.

"My sons loved football even before they started playing it," McKenzie said. "They were always a bit too heavy to play youth football early on, and Jalen didn't start playing until he was 9 or 10. He was too big. He wasn't allowed. But when he started playing tackle football, he loved it. I thought he might play baseball because he was very good and nobody could touch his high heat, but he tore his ACL and couldn't play baseball for a year, and from that point he locked in on football."

Like Jalen, the elder McKenzie would have been undrafted, but the NFL had 10 rounds back in 1985, and the Tennessee linebacker was the 275th player picked.

"One of the best feelings I have ever had was when coach Tom Flores pulled me aside after the third preseason game and told me I had not only made the team but was going to be starting," McKenzie said. "That was a moment I will never forget."

Stone Jr. was also undrafted out of Washington State and says he never considered playing for the Raiders until his agent mentioned they were interested as the draft wound down.

"He said Raiders and I was like … the Raiders? The Las Vegas Raiders? And then I told my dad," Stone Jr. said. "It was pretty exciting when we all sat there and realized that the place where his career ended is where mine is starting. It's a full-circle moment."

Raiders defensive line coach Rob Leonard said Tuesday that this is the best group of players he's had in his 12-year coaching career, and Stone Jr. can feel that. Not only the sheer talent and relentlessness of guys like Maxx Crosby and Christian Wilkins but also the leadership and selflessness of all the players in the meeting room.

"I am super blessed to be in that room with guys that truly care about each other, starting with Maxx and Christian on down to the guys who just got here like Charles Snowden," Stone Jr. said. "They're all here to help, and they want everyone in that room to succeed."

The young players were finding their feet at the offseason workouts and this past week's mandatory minicamp. But so are the young coaches, like De'Andre Pierce. He is helping out the offense — he was a defensive quality control coach at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo last season, his first year coaching — and was holding the pads during an offensive line drill last month when rookie guard Jackson Powers-Johnson sent him flying.

He is loving the transition after playing six years as a safety in college at Boise State and Arizona State.

"Like the players, I am still learning the system," the younger Pierce said Tuesday. "And how I try and help the offensive players is by telling them what I would try and how I would approach things and attack it as a defensive player.

"As a player and now as a coach, my big thing is always have a countermove. The moment you're out there and the opposing player does something and you don't have a counter, that's the most terrifying thing to me."

Pierce played for his dad at Long Beach Poly High, and then his dad was on the staff at Arizona State, so the third time is the charm. De'Andre Pierce played for his dad in high school and part of his college career at Arizona State. Now he's on his dad's staff with the Las Vegas Raiders. (Joe Nicholson / USA Today)

"I grew up in the game of football with him," the younger Pierce said. "This is the most comfortable I could be because everything that he believes in and preaches as a coach, that's all me as well. I am a little more calm and more neutral than he is. … (Snaps his fingers.) He can flip it on in a switch.

"But in terms of mindset and everything I would want to do as far as when I get to his level, I would do it his way."

His father was a great leader as a player with the New York Giants and now as a coach, and the Raiders players clearly bought in when he took over as interim coach last season. And his son is taking notes.

"He is a clear and concise communicator, and then he shows up every day with great purpose and energy," De'Andre Pierce said. "The moment that a player sees a coach back off a little, they feel that they can back off. You always have to keep them on edge and keep it fresh."

Antonio Pierce is pretty busy during a minicamp practice, firing up and instructing the defensive players as well as watching his assistants and taking time to learn the new offensive scheme. But every now and then, he glances over at his son and smiles.

"When I played, I had De'Andre at 18 years old," Antonio Pierce said. "So, sophomore year of college, you've got a son, I'm chasing my career goal, and there's a lot of things I missed. There's a lot of graduations, performances, practices I couldn't take him to. And I didn't want a chance that when I got older and I finished playing that I missed those again."

Rosters of coaches around the league are littered with head coaches' sons, and they all have to pay their dues.

“De’Andre has done a good job throughout his life of high school, playing college football, tried the pros, got into coaching,” Antonio Pierce said. “Listen, the opportunity came up. You put him on the staff, you put him at the bottom of the list, make him do the simple things, the hard things, things he’s not comfortable with. He’s over there coaching the O-line getting the hell beat out of him by Jackson, getting thrown out of the club.”

Ron Stone Sr., meanwhile, has kept his eyes on the Raiders through the team’s vast alumni events and visits, and he tells his son how lucky he is that there aren’t two-a-day practices anymore. Ron Stone Sr., left, played guard for the Raiders in 2004 and ’05. His son, Ron Stone Jr., is competing for a roster spot this season.

“They really take it easy on the guys,” Stone Sr. said. “They take real care of their bodies now. But I remember how much fun I had just being around the guys, and I am excited for my son to enjoy all that camaraderie and good stuff.

“This is his journey, and if I can help in any way, I will. He is a very smart player, and his technique is pretty good, so it’s going to be fun to see how things go.”

His son can’t wait for training camp to start July 23. And to run things by his dad.

“It’s always great to talk about things that he sees when he watches,” Stone Jr. said. “We play different positions, but he tells me what to look for from offensive linemen. What their goal is, their communication and their set and how I can use that to my advantage.”

When it comes to advice for training camp, McKenzie just told his son two things.

“Doggone, know what to do and go hard while you’re doing it,” McKenzie said. “Work the whole offseason on getting your technique down and studying the playbook. Then you go out there and just grind. As an offensive lineman, if you play smart and play tough and play to the whistle, that’s half the battle. Then your ability, size and strength comes into it and has to take over.

“You don’t always have to be the most powerful, but you have to be the best at your craft.”

Jalen plans to earn the coaches’ trust and show them, his teammates, his dad, his mom, his entire family — everybody — that he is appreciative of being a Raider.

“It’s a blessing in every sense of the word,” he said. “You put in the work every day not really knowing the outcome, not really knowing what all your dedication is going to bring. And then a situation comes up where it’s even more intense than your wildest dreams. It’s something you could never fathom.

“It’s not like when he was playing, my dad was ever thinking that it would be great if his son could play here one day. For the same team in a whole different city. … It’s surreal how things fall into place, and you just take the opportunity, and you take it as far as you can.”

And that’s all any father could ask of his son.
