A NEW ERA BEGINS

Jaguars open 2021 preseason against Cleveland Browns By: J.P. Shadrick

JACKSONVILLE – The new era of Jaguars football officially begins September 12, Week 1 of the regular season when the Jaguars visit the Houston Texans.

Head Coach Urban Meyer's debut. A new-look offense including No. 1 overall pick quarterback Trevor Lawrence. The rollout of a revamped defensive scheme.

We all cannot wait until that Sunday, but there is still plenty of fine-tuning to be done between now and Kickoff Weekend – continuing with tonight's major piece of the evaluation process, the preseason opener between the Cleveland Browns and Jacksonville Jaguars.

How do rookies handle their first taste of NFL lights and another team on the other side of the ball? How is the retention from the meeting room to practice to the game field? How will Meyer adjust to the rules and game flow of the NFL when a game is live? Who plays fast and aggressive using that plus-two, four-to-six, A-to-B mentality Meyer and the coaching staff instilled this offseason? Which dark horses will impress enough to move up the depth chart and build toward making the 53-man roster?

Tonight will be our first look to see how the Jaguars respond under bright NFL lights, against a 2020 AFC playoff team in the Browns.

Urban Meyer's message

The day before the first on-field practice of his first NFL training camp, Meyer had a final message for his first NFL team.

"There is a big saying around here – '10 strong,' and there are 10 units on a team, and you have to own your unit. Don't worry if I am a linebacker unit about the cornerback's unit. Make sure we take care of the linebacker unit, so individual unit, team unit – own it."

It's a similar tone used with his past stops at Bowling Green and Utah, and then with national championship teams at Florida at Ohio State. The only FBS coaches with at least 100 wins and a higher career winning percentage than Meyer's .854 are Knute Rockne (.881) and Frank Leahy (.864) – legendary company.

The "10 strong" message is one of many that Meyer uses to keep players on the right track, to instill a culture of excellence and winning. The message that resonated back in his college coaching days and seems to be taking hold with the Jaguars early in training camp.

To keep players motivated and increase their value – both for the team and for themselves – Jaguars Owner Shad Khan increased investment in the sports performance areas for players. Now that the new additions are open for player use, it is up to the individual player to utilize the facilities.

"Don't make excuses, seems like this whole world is full of excuses right now – no excuses," Meyer said. "Take care of your bodies, training camp is hard. We have a great sports performance model, and we need to use it. If you don't use it, that's on you — be a pro."

Eighth-year veteran center Brandon Linder looks to take full advantage of the facilities provided, but he understands that Meyer will ask a lot of the players on the field in return.

"I mean, he's got a formula – he's won everywhere he's been, so it's easy for us to buy into that," Linder said. "It's very player-emphasized. What he gives us, we know we've got to take it and then also give it when we're on the field."

Linder described some of the additions to the facility this offseason to help player recovery.

"We got that new room that's open for us with a float tank, cryotherapy, wellness cocoon, dry needling, cupping, we've got it all. It's a big emphasis and everyone is taking advantage of it. And I mean, on the third day (of training camp) putting in the work, I feel good, and I know a lot of these guys feel good."

"The number one thing I wanted to make sure we got done is the players' safety and health, and I don't feel good about it – I feel great about it," Meyer said. "Shad Khan was good enough to give us what we need and we have built a brand new rejuvenation room for our players that was not here.

"We also made our trainers... We don't say trainers anymore, we call them experts, so taping ankles doesn't make you a trainer – becoming an expert at deep tissue, acupuncture or dry needling they call it. It's full of experts now and that part was an A-plus. The one thing I told our players was that the one thing worse than not having that stuff is not using it."

So far so good for the Jaguars in 2021 training camp. "It goes back to the "own it" – take care of yourself," Meyer added. "It's going to be a long journey here. I like where we are at, but we have a long way to go."

Shadrick's position groups to watch

Here are a few position groups to watch in tonight's game:

Quarterback: Well, of course. Lawrence was the No. 1 overall pick in the 2021 NFL Draft after an outstanding career at Clemson. Gardner Minshew II is now in his third training camp, and as his comments just prior to training camp noted, he's still fighting to be the starter after 20 career starts. The Jaguars signed C.J. Beathard in free agency this offseason from the 49ers with 12 career starts. Second-year quarterback Jake Luton made three starts in his rookie campaign a season ago.

Wide receiver: The trio of DJ Chark Jr., Laviska Shenualt Jr. and Marvin Jones Jr. seem solidified, in whatever order you prefer. Phillip Dorsett II enters his seventh NFL season and came to the Jags in free agency from the Colts, while Laquon Treadwell enters season four in the NFL after signing with the Jaguars in mid-June. Both Dorsett and Treadwell are former first-round draft picks. Second-year receiver Collin Johnson is the tallest of the receiver group, undrafted rookie Josh Imatorbhebhe has the highest vertical leap of anyone (though he missed some time early in camp) and 2021 sixth-round pick Jalen Camp has the size and physicality to overpower defenders.

Tight end: Chris Manhertz was signed in free agency from the Carolina Panthers, and Meyer considered him one of the best blocking tight ends in the NFL. James O'Shaughnessy enters his seventh NFL season and is still looking for a statistical breakout in the passing game. Tyler Davis and Ben Ellefson return from last season, each looking for more experience heading into their second NFL seasons. Luke Farrell was a late-round draft pick in 2021 out of Ohio State and played for Meyer in Columbus. Tim Tebow also played for Meyer – as a Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback – 11 seasons ago at Florida. Can Tebow handle the physicality and mindset needed to become a consistent NFL blocker or find a role in the offense and on special teams? One way to truly find out: live games against other willing participants.

Defensive line: New coordinator. New scheme. New players. Tonight we will get our first glimpse at what this defense could be. Will we see much? I doubt it, as defensive coordinator Joe Cullen will save the bells and whistles for Houston Texans and Denver Broncos in Weeks 1 and 2, respectively. But what we could see tonight are some of the new faces for a short time. Defensive linemen Roy Robertson-Harris and Jihad Ward came over to the Jaguars in free agency, and the Jaguars traded for nose tackle Malcom Brown from the Saints. You know what defensive end/linebacker Josh Allen is on the outside. Nose tackle DaVon Hamilton has put on a show in training camp once the pads came on. Former first-round pick K'Lavon Chaisson is looking for a breakout second NFL season, and could see significant time tonight. Rookie defensive tackle Jay Tufele and rookie defensive end Jordan Smith should get their first tastes of the NFL.

Linebacker: Myles Jack returns in 2021 to anchor the second level of the defense at the linebacker spot.

Veteran Damien Wilson joinedthe Jaguars in free agency this offseason after two Super Bowl appearances with the Chiefs.

Jacksonville native Shaquille Quarterman enters season two after contributing mainly on special teams in his rookie season.

Defensive back: There is so much new here to see including: cornerbacks Shaquill Griffin, Tyson Campbell, DJ Daniel, Corey Straughter, Jameson Houston and safeties Andre Cisco, Rudy Ford and Rayshawn Jenkins. 2020 first-round pick cornerback CJ Henderson missed the first two weeks of camp on the reserve/COVID-19 list and looks to prove himself again as an elite outside cornerback after a rookie season filled with injuries. Returning veteran safeties include Jarrod Wilson, Andrew Wingard, Daniel Thomas and Josh Jones. As always, as a defensive back, the more you can do the better, so a contribution on special teams can go a long way.

Senior correspondent Brian Sexton recently caught up with Jaguars rookie DT Jay Tufele, discussing – among other topics – his return to football after a year off and his thoughts on the upcoming 2021 season.

JACKSONVILLE - Jaguars rookie defensive tackle Jav Tufele is thrilled to be back on the football field this summer. Tufele, a fourth-round selection by the Jaguars in the 2021 NFL Draft from the University of Southern California, was one of many college football players who called an audible in 2020 and spent the season on the sidelines - deciding to protect his family. which was grinding through the COVID-19 pandemic in Salt Lake City, Utah, instead of returning to USC. It was an impactful decision because he might have been a firstround draft selection had he played. But family considerations were more important and he says they're all on board with the Jaguars now that he's back on the field. Here is senior correspondent Brian Sexton's recent conversation with Tufele:

Question: Is your family as excited as you are to get back to football after a season of watching?

Answer: They've always been my biggest fans and supported me since I started playing football. They missed it as much as I did last season and they're really excited that I'm back playing. Now, I'm wearing the Jaguars logo instead of the Trojans and wearing teal – and they're excited to be wearing teal also. It's cool to be back and my love of the game is 1,000 percent stronger than it was before. We're glad to be back and in the game. It took a lot from me mentally and physically, but at the end of the day the Lord has provided this opportunity to be here. I don't take anything for granted but I know we're going to do some awesome things in Jacksonville.

Question: How is football different for you now in the NFL in Jacksonville as opposed to playing at USC in Los Angeles?

Answer: As a little kid, I dreamed about being in the NFL – and now I'm here in the NFL in Jacksonville. That's the biggest difference. It's no longer a dream. It's a reality and you know I'm here around such amazing players and of such high status that you know you're teammates with now and you get to play with them and hopefully do some great things. That's the best part of it for me.

Question: Why did the Jaguars draft you? What role will you play in new defensive coordinator Joe Cullen's defensive scheme?

Answer: My role is to do whatever Joe asks of me. I'm going to do whatever he needs me to do and I'll line up wherever he tells me to line up. The big thing for me is that I am going to be asked to make plays and I will make plays. I'm going to make plays. There is so much talent on this defensive line and with this defense and I know we're going to do great things together for Joe. It's going to be an awesome year and Joe's such a great defensive coach and the staff is all together. I can't wait.

Getting to know: JAY TUFELE

Question: What's your take on this team and the locker room? Everything and nearly everyone is new in 2021. Do you know what to make of it all just yet?

Answer: You know, we're really committed. All the guys that I've seen throughout my whole time here, they're all eager to win and they're doing whatever it takes and whatever the coaches have asked of us. We want to win and we have so much we can win with; we have great coaches, such a great staff, a great owner, a general manager who really believes in us and that's what it's all about. I think we can do a lot of great things this season and that's why we're here, to do great things.

Question: This season? It's pretty clear this team, this franchise, is on the upswing but not many folks would say they expect to see it this season. It sounds like you have a different outlook?

Answer: My expectation is always to be great so my expectation for this season is we're going to be great no matter what anyone thinks. We're definitely going to take it one day at a time, but we're not worried about what happened last season. We're focused on this season. We're always going to expect to be great and I think we should start this season thinking that is what we're going to be.
