JAGUARS SEARCHING FOR COMPLEMENTARY GAME

Jaguars looking for spark in return to TIAA Bank Field

By: J.P. Shadrick

Kam Nedd/©2021

JACKSONVILLE – There is one month remaining in the 2021 season.

Four games to continue trying to improve, four games to look for winning results.

Last week, the Jaguars lost to the division-leading Tennessee Titans 20-0, and after the game Head Coach Urban Meyer said the Jaguars continue to struggle to put a complete game together.

“The game of football will always be about complementary football, and that’s offense, defense working together, and obviously special teams, and when that happens, you win games,” Meyer said after last week’s game. “We’re not doing that right now. The best defense is sustained drives, first downs, and obviously score points, and that didn’t happen today.”

The Jaguars have dropped five straight games, and as difficult as it is to take the losses, Meyer still sees this team fighting for a positive result.

"Losing sucks – that's all I can tell you," Meyer said. "It eats at away at your soul... I keep bragging about the locker room because there is a great locker room in there, guys fighting, guys that want to win. There's no pointing fingers. I've seen that before. Not very often in my lifetime, but I've seen it. There's none of that.

"But we just have to play better and go beat Houston next week."

The Jaguars look to rebound today against another division rival as the Houston Texans (2-11) meet the Jacksonville Jaguars (2-11) at TIAA Bank Field. The Texans won the initial meeting in Week 1 at NRG Stadium in Houston with a final score of 37-21.

Offense

After some early season hiccups, the Jaguars offense seemed to be trending upward before the Week 7 bye week.

Over the last seven games since the bye week, the Jaguars are averaging 9.1 points per game.

"If it was one issue, you'd fix the one issue," Meyer said. "I think it starts with the inability to consistently run the ball and be a run, play-action offense. We're not getting the movement. We're not running the ball very effectively, and then today just couldn't run the ball."

Last week against the Titans the Jaguars were held to 192 total yards, including a franchise-record low eight rushing yards.

In the second half, quarterback Trevor Lawrence threw four interceptions as the Jags tried to climb back in the game. Even still, Lawrence believes in the offensive group and their ability to get things done.

"I think we've got some guys in that room, we've got enough guys to make it work," Lawrence said after last week's game. "We're just not playing well and that's something that you obviously see on tape. Everyone that watches the game, they see."

As for the game itself last week, it got away from the offense in the second half.

"I thought the start of the game, obviously we didn't put any points on the board but we're moving the ball," Lawrence said. "We were really good on third down. I thought we had a really good plan. I felt dialed in. I felt like I was seeing it well, especially in the first half. Obviously, the one interception off (Laviska Shenault Jr.), the guy was in the right spot, caught the ball. That's tough, you know? That's just a play that bounced their way. And then from there, we kind of seemed to go downhill.

"I'm frustrated the way I finished. Obviously towards the end of the game, that last interception, I think that was definitely the worst one, as far as decisions. I'm frustrated with that. I can't give them the ball again even if the game is probably already away from us. You've got to take care of it and put a drive together and feel good about where you're at."

Moving ahead, Lawrence knows the search for an offensive spark must continue.

"You can't try to change everything, and I think that's where you have to be careful," Lawrence said. "You have to figure out what you're good at. Obviously, we don't know that right now because you can see we're not playing well on offense. That's something we need to work on and need to have a lot of conversations and figure it out.

"There's definitely some things we need to consider to jump-start the offense because we have to be better for the defense. They're playing pretty well, and we put them in a bad spot."

Defense

The Jaguars defense was on the field much of the first half last week as the Titans' first three drives were 10 plays, nine plays and 15 plays, respectively. The Titans held the ball for 19:02 of the first half.

Kam Nedd/©2021

In the second half, the Jaguars defense was put on the field in four quick-change scenarios following Lawrence interceptions. In those four ensuing drives, the Jaguars defense allowed a total of 21 yards and only three points.

"(The) defense gave up a couple drives, but they were on the field far too long," Meyer said. "I was very appreciative of the fact that they were swinging as hard as they possibly could in that second half. Even sudden changes, they were out there sacking the quarterback, stopping the run.

"I know we gave up a few points, but they were on the field far too long."

The Jaguars held the Titans to only 263 total yards, the second-lowest total for any opposing offense in 2021 (Seahawks, 229 yards).

As cornerback Shaquill Griffin sees it, this defense has focused only on what they can control, not how often or how long they are on the field.

"The main thing I tell the defense is to focus on the defense, focus on you," Griffin said after last week's game. "One thing about it, whatever you do is going to be on tape. I refuse to let my emotions run me because of what is going on outside of the defense and then I go out there and mess up. I can't do that. I won't do that. The defense has been doing a phenomenal job focusing on that.

"We can be a top defense if we focus on defense. I don't care where you put that ball, we are going to fight. You can put it at the two-yard line, we have got to fight. That's what this defense has been doing so I take my hat off to those guys because it is tough for anybody."

History

The Texans have controlled the recent history in the series, winning the last seven straight against the Jaguars and 18 of the last 24 meetings dating back to the final week of the 2010 season. The last Jaguars wins against the Texans came when the Jags swept the 2017 season series, outscoring them 74-14 in the two games.

SOUTHERN RIVALRY

Senior correspondent Brian Sexton examines Jaguars-Texans from a historical perspective...

Kam Nedd/©2021

The Jaguars series with the Texans has been decidedly one-sided. Houston has owned it since they came to Jacksonville in their Inaugural Season and beat the Jaguars 21-19 and has won 25 of the 38 games played between the two teams since that 2002 season.

The Texans have always been able to lean on a particular match-up that the Jaguars couldn't ever seem to overcome.

Wide receiver Andre Johnson was an unstoppable force for Houston, against everyone as his 1,062 career catches, 14,185 yards and 70 touchdowns will attest.

Johnson seemed to save his biggest and best performances for the Jaguars averaging more than 100 yards per game in 14 vs. Jacksonville including a memorable day in 2012 when Chad Henne threw for 354 yards and 4 touchdowns and Justin Blackmon made 7 catches for 236 yards and a touchdown... Johnson made 14 for 273 yards and won the game for Houston almost singlehandedly.

JJ Watt was the next player the Jaguars never seemed to be able to account for and more often than not he dominated the line of scrimmage and on rare occasions when he didn't put up big numbers he was so big an issue that he pulled the attention away for Whitney Mercilus or Jadeveon Clowney to create new problems for the Jaguars. He had 17 sacks in 16 games and those numbers feel low for the impact he made. Watt logged 3 sacks in the season finale in 2015 and hit Blake Bortles 4 other times...truthfully... it felt like he had 10 sacks that afternoon.

Sad to say the series has been as tilted in favor of the Texans in the last seven years as it ever has been. Houston has won six in a row and 10 of 12 with only a pair of wins in 2017 to offer in Jacksonville's favor.

DeShaun Watson became the next nemesis in 2018 and over the last six games the Texans have run for an average of 142 yards per game to only 78 for the Jaguars with many of them coming from the quarterback's nimble feet and swift legs. Watson averaged 5 yards per carry in a close game in Jacksonville last season and kept the chains moving just as it appeared the Jaguars were going to close the gap. Those 50 yards didn't come in big chunks but death by a thousand paper cuts is also effective and probably more disheartening.

The good news for the visitors from Florida is that on Sunday all of those players will be out of the line-up and there doesn't appear to be a player in Houston whom the Jaguars can't block, cover or tackle.

This feels like the beginning of a brand-new rivalry thanks in large part to the upheaval on the Texans roster caused by Watson, who was the NFL's leading passer a season ago but who declared at the end of last season he was done in Houston.

If they're going to start the series over with head coach Urban Meyer and Trevor Lawrence leading the way two things have to happen. First, they have to be able to run the ball and second they have to protect it. In the last six games in this match-up, all losses, the Jaguars have turned the ball over 13 times.

PLAY OF THE WEEK

Kaitlyn's client is a regional restaurant chain with a constant need to hire and re-hire employees. Their onboarding process was inconsistent and communication to new hires was a regular challenge. Kaitlyn helped streamline and standardize the onboarding process, and worked with individual store managers to educate them on things like I-9 compliance and effective communication with new hires. As a result, the client has reduced their level of risk from a compliance standpoint, and improved the overall employee onboarding experience.
