TRYING TO “BREAK THE ROCK”

Jaguars open second quarter of the season at home against division rival Tennessee Titans | By: J.P. Shadrick

Kam Nedd/©2021

JACKSONVILLE – The Jacksonville Jaguars have four straight losses to open the season, but the last two have been the toughest to get past.

Two weeks ago, the Jaguars had a nine-point lead late in the third quarter against the Arizona Cardinals, but seven scrimmage snaps later the Jaguars trailed by five points and never recovered.

In Week 4 on Thursday Night Football in Cincinnati, a similar script.

The Jaguars led 14-0 at halftime, but the Bengals scored on all four of their second half possessions – including a game-winning field goal as time expired – to hand the Jaguars a 24-21 loss.

The idea of breaks not going the Jaguars way? Head Coach Urban Meyer does not subscribe to that theory.

“There are no breaks – I mean no disrespect, but you have to make your own,” Meyer said after last week’s game. “We don’t look at it that way. I’ve said this from Day One – the core of this team has good players. We’re getting better each week.

“It’s sickening we couldn’t win that game. I’m not wrong about those guys in that room. We’re going to keep swinging as hard as we possibly can.”

Meyer has full confidence in this Jaguars team continuing to stay together and improving.

“Usually, I’m not wrong about stuff like this—I see a good team in there," Meyer said after last week's game. "I see good hearts and guys that work in that locker room. I tell them, 'I'm not wrong about that stuff.' This team is going to win some games."

Today the Jaguars (0-4) entertain the AFC South-leading Tennessee Titans (2-2) at 1:00 p.m.

OFFENSE

The Jaguars offense again showed flashes last week of what they can be week-in and week-out.

Leading 14-0, the Jaguars had a goal-line opportunity just before halftime, and on a fourth-and-goal play from the 1-yard line, the Bengals defense stopped quarterback Trevor Lawrence on an option keeper run to the right. The defensive stop for the Bengals kept it a two-possession game with the Bengals getting the ball to begin the second half.

"When you can control the game like we did in the first half, that's the key," Lawrence said after last week's game. "It should have been 21-0 (at halftime), but we got stuffed at the goal line. Second half, we didn't do a great job of eating clock and moving it. We had a three-and-out, touchdown and a few first downs, but we had to punt."

Lawrence showed optimism about some of the positives from the offensive performance overall.

"We played better on offense, as far as cleaning up turnovers," Lawrence said. "I did a good job of not putting the ball in harm's way and used my legs well. The guys up front killed it. The run game, especially in the first half, was really good."

The Jaguars ran for 139 yards for the game, 115 of those in the first half. Running back James Robinson carried the ball 18 times for 78 yards and scored two rushing touchdowns. Lawrence had eight carries for 36 yards and a rushing score.

Wide receiver DJ Chark Jr. suffered a fractured ankle in the first quarter of last week's game, but a few different contributors stepped up in the receiving game with nine different players making a reception.

Wide receiver Laviska Shenault Jr. made six receptions for 99 yards. Marvin Jones Jr. had three catches for 24 yards. Jamal Agnew got into the offensive plan with a toe-tapping sideline catch of 27 yards. Newly-acquired tight end Dan Arnold made a pair of catches for 29 yards, showing some run-after-catch ability. Tavon Austin, Chris Manhertz, Luke Farrell and Jacob Hollister each had a reception.

The Jaguars quarterback is still confident on this team getting on track soon.

"We'll have to regroup a little; this one hurts to be up 14-0 and somehow come up on the wrong side of it," Lawrence said. "We'll bounce back; I know what we're made of."

"I really want to get a win with these guys. We've been working so hard and put ourselves in positions the last two weeks to win. We just have to finish. It's collectively. It's not one side of the ball. We're right there. This hurts for sure. It's a prime-time, Thursday night game. But it happens. We'll keep working."

DEFENSE

After pitching a first-half shutout, the Jaguars defense failed to get off the field in the second half as the Bengals scored on all four of their second-half possessions.

On the final drive, the Jaguars sacked Bengals quarterback Joe Burrow on a third-and-1 play from the Bengals' 31-yard line. On the play, Jaguars cornerback Tre Herndon was flagged for holding, negating the sack and keeping the drive alive.

"He gets the ball out so quickly," Meyer said. "In the second half they were out quicker. I thought we were off the field, and they called that holding. On a sack — wow, that's tough."

For the third time in four games, the Jaguars defense failed to get a takeaway. With only one takeaway through four games, giving the Jaguars offense more opportunities in tight-game situations is crucial.

"That was an emphasis all the way through," Meyer said. "It's not happening. Turnovers are created by pressure on the quarterback and hats on the ball. The emphasis is there, but it has to happen."

Veteran defensive tackle Malcom Brown added his thoughts on the lack of takeaways.

"We need to keep getting after the ball every game and take opportunities to create turnovers whenever they come up," Brown said.

According to Brown, a seventh-year defensive lineman with two Super Bowl rings in his earlier time with the New England Patriots, there is only one approach for a team still searching for its first winning result of the season.

"We were one or two plays away – the whole locker room knows it," Brown said. "We've felt that way every game, so that's the sad part of it. We know as a team. We should be sitting on the other side right now, but it is what it is, and we'll go back to work."

TODAY'S OPPONENT

The Tennessee Titans lost last week's game against the Jets in New York on a missed field goal in overtime, falling to 2-2 for the season, but still sitting atop the AFC South standings through four weeks.

Running back Derrick Henry leads the NFL in rushing attempts (113) and rushing yards (510) and is tied for the league lead in rushing touchdowns (4).

Wide receivers Julio Jones and A.J. Brown missed last week's game with hamstring injuries. When available the first three weeks, Jones has 12 receptions for 204 yards but failed to find the end zone. The seven-time Pro Bowl receiver is 18th on the NFL's all-time receiving yardage list (13,100), 99 yards from surpassing Andre Reed for 17th all-time.

The Titans' defense ranks 17th overall (358 yards per game), eighth against the run (92 yards per game), and 23rd against the pass (267 yards per game).

Outside linebacker Harold Landry has been impactful so far with 21 tackles, a team-best 2.5 sacks with a team-high four tackles for loss and seven quarterback hits.

In the regular season the Titans lead the all-time head-to-head series against the Jaguars 31-21, with the Titans winning the lone postseason matchup in the AFC Championship game following the 1999 season. The records include the Houston Oilers records before the team moved to Tennessee in 1997. The Titans have won three straight over the Jaguars and seven of the last eight meetings.

ONVILLE

ROOKIE OF THE WEEK

JACKSONVILLE – Jaguars Head Coach Urban Meyer wanted pass-rushing defensive end Jordan Smith from Alabama-Birmingham during April's 2021 NFL Draft enough to wheel and deal to move up in the fourth round for the tantalizing prospect. Smith stands nearly 6-feet-7 inches and has the frame, wingspan and flexibility to be a force in the Jaguars' new 3-4 defensive alignment. Meyer put a verbal asterisk next to Smith at the end of Draft Weekend when he told the media Smith would be a developmental guy, a player who has plenty to work with but lots to learn about playing in the NFL. You can see the athleticism when he walks onto the field – and you can clearly understand why Meyer was so quick to give a guy with prototypical size and skills the kind of timeframe that would ensure he develops because guys who look and move like Smith aren't common. Here's senior correspondent Brian Sexton's recent conversation with Smith:

Question: Meyer told us in April you were a guy who would pass the eye test with the way you look and move, but that you would need some time and patience as you learn the game at this level. How's it going as we come to the end of training camp?

Answer: I agree. They brought me in to be a big piece of the defense and I feel like I've had to pick up a lot of weight and put it on my shoulders to adjust to the rookie transition. I feel like they've treated me like a veteran and a grown man, because they want me to be able to do a lot and they've put a lot on my plate – and I appreciate that. They want me to do a lot of good things here and they believe in me, and I want to give that back to them sooner rather than later. I get the developmental piece, but I think I can do it faster than maybe they expected me to be able to – to adjust and put some of the weight of making plays on my shoulders.

Question: How would you describe the transition from UAB – where you racked up 23.5 sacks and created all kinds of havoc – to the NFL?

Answer: It's a big adjustment. It's a lot faster. The game moves a lot faster. There are a lot more pre-snap things that you have to go through in your head, so it makes it a little slower as far as processing. But so far, it has been a good transition. I feel like I am making progress. It's getting to be a lot slower to me now than it was when I first got here. I feel like it's the intellectual side that's coming on. The more you know, the less you have to work to process everything – which allows you to play faster. As much as I think now I know, there's another level that I want to get to so that I can let it all go and rush the passer.

Question: Do you understand the approach of giving you the time to learn and develop? Is it a benefit to you?

Answer: I've always been "the guy" wherever I've been, and I think it's good as a rookie to take a step back and kind of, you know, take it all in – how the veterans work and manage the whole day and how other guys lead and in the locker room and on the practice field, and how they train so that when it's my time to play and lead I know what it takes to be great in the league. I'm loving the chance to watch guys and not have to be out in front, but I know that they expect I will be soon, and I'll be ready when that day comes when it's on me and my shoulders.

Getting to know:

Question: You had a bump in the road, off the field in your career, but the word from the folks in Birmingham is that you learned from it and the maturity showed every day you were with the Blazers program. How did adversity shape you and how does it impact you even now?

Answer: Being in the NFL challenges you daily, so going through a challenging situation in my career has given me the chance to prepare for whatever comes at me in the NFL. I know that whatever comes at me I can handle because I've been through some things. I don't spend too much time looking back, you know. It has its place and helps me prepare, but I'm focused on making sure I'm ready for whatever on a daily basis because that's how you overcome – by being prepared and taking it daily.

Question: Meyer is known for being demanding and pushing players every play, every day on the practice field. What are your impressions of what he wants to build and how he wants to build it in Jacksonville?

Answer: I feel like Urban Meyer is doing what he said he would do when he signed his contract. He's here to build a winner and apparently this place needed a culture change and he's definitely impacting, you know, building the culture every single day. I can see how hard he's working and he's working everybody harder than they probably ever have worked before. I know that is definitely the case with me. He wants to see if we want it as much as he does, and I definitely do want to up it to another level. He won at Florida and Ohio State, but the league is another level and so he has to up his game and so do we. The coaching staff, all the assistants, have that same plus two mentality and it is becoming the culture and I love it.

Question: Describe the "plus-two" mentality that Meyer speaks of often. I know that's a big part of the culture.

Answer: "Plus-two" is like when your coach tells you to run to the ten-yard line you run to the twelve. If he asks you to do two reps, you do four. We're adding to the work so that we play as hard as we train. I've always played like that, but as far as doing it every single rep on the practice field, that's making me work harder and be better. I can feel it physically, but it also puts you in a different type of mental place as well.

Question: What have you learned and what do you expect to learn from having Jaguars defensive end Josh Allen in your meeting room and on the field?

Answer: Josh Allen can be a great example to anyone – football or not. You can learn anything from that man. How to be a great man and how to be a great football player, how to deal with adversity on the field and off ... anything you ask him, he's an open book. He's a great guy and I'm blessed to have him in the room as the veteran because he's going to put me under his wing. Every time I'm in, he watches me and critiques me and I'm really lucky to have him in my corner.

It's World Mental Health Day. Let's break stigmas.

One in five children is living with a significant mental illness, and half of all lifetime mental health conditions start by age 14.

Because kids don't wear their thoughts on their sleeves, it can be difficult to tell when a child is struggling with mental health. No child or family should struggle alone.

Wolfson Children's On Our Sleeves provides free, easy-to-use educational tools and resources to help children, families and advocates improve children's mental wellness.

Visit WolfsonChildrens.com/OnOurSleeves to:

- Sign up for our monthly e-newsletter, featuring actionable mental health information.
- Find tips and tools to help start conversations with kids and teens.
- Learn how to recognize and respond to children in or at risk of crisis.

HR PLAY OF THE WEEK

Carrie's client experienced several COVID outbreaks which threatened to shut down their manufacturing facility. Carrie proposed implementing a streamlined PCR test capability in cooperation with Mayo Clinic which resulted in employees being able to be tested quickly, reliably, and receive their results same day. She also worked with the company's leaders to develop thoughtful policies for vaccinated and unvaccinated employees. The client has reduced their number of cases and in-office virus spread, and they are increasingly better positioned to serve their customers.
