Vikings

GAME PREVIEW

The Oakland Raiders will start the second half of the season at home this weekend as they take on the Minnesota Vikings on Sunday, Nov. 15 at 1:05 p.m. PT at O.co Coliseum. The Vikings, who hosted the Raiders in the preseason, mark the second NFC opponent of the year for Oakland and first at home. Sunday's game will also start a two-game stretch against NFC North opponents, as the Raiders will travel to Detroit to play the Lions next weekend. With Oakland on the road the next two weeks, the contest will be its final home game of November and only game at O.co Coliseum until Dec. 6. Last week, the Raiders lost on a last-second field goal, 35-38, to the Steelers in Pittsburgh. The Vikings won an overtime contest at home against the St. Louis Rams, 21-18.

The Raiders and Steelers played in a high-scoring contest on Sunday, with the two teams combining for 1,037 yards of total offense on the day. The Raiders' 35 points in the contest marked the third straight game that the team has scored at least 34 points, just the fifth time in franchise history the team has achieved such a streak. QB Derek Carr led the offense again, throwing for 301 yards and four touchdowns. WR Michael Crabtree led the receiving corps, hauling in seven receptions for 108 yards and two touchdowns, including a 38-yarder to tie the game late in the fourth quarter. Rookies WR Amari Cooper (seven receptions for 88 yards) and TE Clive Walford also caught touchdown passes from Carr. FB/RB Jamize Olawale scored the only Raiders rushing touchdown of the day and RB Latavius Murray paced the ground attack with 96 rushing yards on 17 carries before leaving the game with a concussion. On defense, LB Aldon Smith recorded a sack and CB David Amerson posted an interception, his first as a Raider.

Starting next week, the Raiders will head back on the road for two games, beginning with a match-up with the Detroit Lions next Sunday. The Vikings will host the Green Bay Packers next week.

POINTS AND PROTECTION

Over the last three weeks, the Raiders have scored at least 34 points in each game, just the fifth time in franchise history that they have had such a streak. In those three games, QB Derek Carr has been sacked just once, and Oakland's pass blocking has posted clean sheets each of the last two weeks. With 34 points on Sunday, the Raiders would match the 1968 team as they only teams in franchise history to score at least 34 points in four straight games. Here is a look at the breakdown of the last three games:

Date	Opp.	Points	Sacked	Outcome
10/25	at SD	37	1	W, 37-29
11/1	vs. NYJ	34	0	W, 34-20

NOTABLE CONNECTIONS

Pro Connections

- Raiders G/T J'Marcus Webb spent the last two seasons (2013-14) with Minnesota.

- Three Raiders coaches played for the Minnesota Vikings: Head Coach Jack Del Rio (linebacker, 1992-95), defensive assistant Sam Anno (linebacker, 1987-88) and offensive line coach Mike Tice (tight end, 1992-93, 1995). Tice then coached with the Vikings from 1996-2005, serving as head coach from 2002-05.

- Raiders offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave was offensive coordinator of the Vikings from 2011-13.

- Raiders quarterbacks coach Todd Downing, a native of Eden Prairie, Minn., and University of Minnesota alum, was with the Vikings from 2001-05, serving as a coaching intern/assistant (2001-02), football systems analyst (2003-04) and quality control - offense (2005). Downing also played quarterback for the Minnesota Maulers from 2000-02 and served as head coach at Eden Prairie (Minn.) High School (1999-2000).

- Vikings offensive coordinator Norv Turner, a native of Martinez, Calif., served as head coach of the Oakland Raiders from 2004-05.

- Raiders defensive backs coach Marcus Robertson and Vikings defensive backs coach Jerry Gray were teammates in the Houston Oilers' secondary in 1992. Robertson later played for Gray (defensive quality control/ defensive backs) with the Tennessee Oilers/Titans from 1997-2000, and coached alongside Gray in 2011 when he was defensive coordinator.

College Connections

- Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio (1981-84) and defensive assistant Sam Anno (1984) were linebackers at USC when Vikings offensive coordinator Norv Turner served as quarterbacks coach (1981-83) and offensive coordinator (1984). Anno and Turner were also together with the Los Angeles Rams in 1987, where Vikings defensive backs coach Jerry Gray was a defensive back.

- Raiders LB Curtis Lofton and Vikings RB Adrian Peterson were teammates at Oklahoma from 2005-06.

- Raiders C Rodney Hudson (2010), DE Mario Edwards Jr. (2012) and T Menelik Watson (2012) all played with Vikings CB Xavier Rhodes at Florida State.

High School/Hometown Connections

- Vikings QB Teddy Bridgewater's Miami (Fla.) Northwestern High School team was defeated by Sanford (Fla.) High School in the 2008 Class 6A State Championship Game when Raiders LB Ray-Ray Armstrong threw a game-winning 40-yard TD pass to Raiders WR Andre Debose. Bridgewater also later played with WR Amari Cooper at Miami Northwestern.

- Vikings defensive line coach Andre Patterson is a native of Richmond, Calif., and played one year on the offensive line at Contra Costa College in San Pablo, Calif.

VIKINGS SNAPSHOT

Overview: The Raiders' second NFC North opponent of the season is the 6-2 Minnesota Vikings, who enter the Week 10 match-up with Oakland following a 21-18 overtime win against the St. Louis Rams. The Vikings are led by second-year Head Coach Mike Zimmer, who posted a 7-9 record in his first season with Minnesota. His team is on a four-game winning streak, tied for the team's longest stretch since 2008-09. Currently tied for first in the NFC North with the Green Bay Packers, Minnesota is seeking a division title for the first time since 2009.

Offense: The Vikings are led by 2014 first-round draft pick QB Teddy Bridgewater, who has posted a 12-8 record in 20 games as a starter. This season, Bridgewater has completed 149-of-232 passes (64.2 percent) for 1,670 yards with six touchdowns and six interceptions for a passer rating of 83.4. His top target thus far has been rookie WR Stefon Diggs, who has 28 receptions for 461 yards (16.5 avg.) with two touchdowns. TE Kyle Rudolph has also been a dangerous weapon with 22 catches for 176 yards (8.0 avg.) and three touchdowns. On the ground, All-Pro RB Adrian Peterson leads the charge with 169 carries for 758 yards (4.5 avg.) and four touchdowns.

Defense: Through eight games, the Vikings boast a top-10 defensive unit, allowing 332.3 yards per contest. Minnesota is especially stingy against the passing game, giving up only 220.6 passing yards per game. The team has produced a total of nine takeaways in 2015, including four interceptions by four different players. LB Chad Greenway, now in his ninth NFL season, brought one pick back 91 yards for a touchdown. Rookie LB Eric Kendricks leads the team with 42 tackles (38 solo) and also has four sacks. DE Everson Griffen leads the squad with 4.5 sacks, and the team has accumulated 19 sacks altogether.

INDIVIDUAL STATS VS. VIKINGS

Sebastian Janikowski

Career Totals: 7-for-9 on field goal attempts, and 8-for-8 on extra point attempts for 29 total points in three career meetings (2-1).
 • On Nov. 18, 2009, Janikowski was a perfect 5-for-5 on FG attempts, including a 52-yarder, and one point-after try, supplying 16 points in total.

Donald Penn

Career Totals: Paved the way for 372 rushing yards on 93 attempts (4.0 avg.) and four rushing touchdowns, and was part of a line that allowed just four sacks in three career games (3-0).

- Helped the Tampa Bay Buccaneers average 5.53 yards per carry and total 105 rushing yards with two touchdowns in the team's 24-20 win at Minnesota on Sept. 18, 2011.

Marcel Reece

Career Totals: Six attempts for 45 yards (7.50 avg.) and two receptions for 16 yards (8.0 avg.) in one career meeting.

- On Nov. 20, 2011, Reece's only game against the Vikings, he averaged 7.50 yards per carry on six attempts in the Raiders' 27-21 win.

Charles Woodson

Career Totals: 76 tackles (59 solo), five interceptions with 51 interception return yards, 21 passes defended, one forced fumble and 21 punt returns for 165 yards (7.86 avg.) in 14 regular season meetings (11-3); one postseason appearance with six solo tackles.

- As a member of the Green Bay Packers on Oct. 23, 2011, notched six tackles (five) and hauled in two interceptions, returning one 25 yards. He also recorded six passes defended in the game, a personal high against Minnesota.
- Two weeks later, on Nov. 14, 2011, Woodson tallied nine tackles with eight solo stops, both personal bests against the Vikings, and added four passes defended.

RAIDERS VS. VIKINGS

WHAT TO WATCH FOR IN WEEK 10

- The team amassing at least 30 points in a fourth straight game, tying the second longest streak in franchise history (2002).
- The offensive line not allowing a sack for the third straight game, tying the longest streak in team history (2007 and 1965). That would also mark the team's fourth clean sheet of the season, tied with 2014 for second most in team annals.
- The Raiders totaling at least 400 yards of offense for the sixth time this season, tied for third most in team history and the most since 2011.
- Oakland averaging 7.0 yards per play in the game, becoming just the second Raiders team to do so at least four times.
- The defense intercepting a pass for the eighth straight game, the team's longest streak since 2001.
- RB Latavius Murray rushing 18 times to reach 150 carries for the season, becoming the eighth Raider to do so through nine games and the first since LaMont Jordan in 2005.
- DE Khalil Mack setting a new career high with his fifth sack of the season.
- FB/RB Jamize Olawale picking up 10 yards from scrimmage to match his previous career high for offensive production (69 yards in 2013).
- FB Marcel Reece catching five passes to become the fifth Raiders running back or fullback to reach 200 career receptions.
- Reece gaining 51 receiving yards to eclipse 2,000 career receiving yards, becoming the third Raiders running back or fullback to do so (Marcus Allen and Clem Daniels).
- LB Malcolm Smith recording an interception to become the ninth Raider with two picks and three sacks in a season (last: Michael Huff in 2010).

INDIVIDUAL STREAKS AND MILESTONES

- QB Derek Carr becoming the first Raiders quarterback with three straight games of three touchdown passes and 300 passing yards.
- Carr throwing one touchdown pass to become the first Raider since Kerry Collins (2004-05) with 20 touchdown passes in back-to-back seasons. He needs two touchdown passes to tie his career high (21 in 2014).
- Carr completing two touchdown passes to tie Jeff Garcia and Otto Graham (42) for the seventh most by a player through his first two NFL seasons.
- Carr tossing four touchdown passes in a third straight game, becoming the fourth player to do so since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. He would join Drew Brees (three straight), Dan Marino (four) and Peyton Manning (five).
- With a fourth four-touchdown game, Carr would join Fran Tarkenton (four) and Dan Marino (six) as the only players since 1960 with at least that many through their first two NFL seasons.
- WR Amari Cooper picking up 47 receiving yards to become the third NFL rookie since the 1970 merger with 700 receiving yards through nine games (Anquan Boldin and Marques Colston).
- WR Michael Crabtree catching six passes and a TD in a fourth straight game, tying Tim Brown (2001) for the longest streak in team history.
- Crabtree picking up 64 all-purpose yards to reach 5,000 career yards from scrimmage, and gaining 82 receiving yards to eclipse 5,000 career receiving yards.
- Crabtree totaling 100 yards and a TD in a third straight game to become the second Raider ever to do so (Cliff Branch, three straight games, 1974).
- K Sebastian Janikowski making two field goals of 50-or-more yards to tie Jason Hanson (52) for the NFL's all-time record.
- Janikowski extending his streak of consecutive extra point attempts made, which currently stands at 217.

WATCHING WOODSON

- S Charles Woodson intercepting his 66th career pass to move into sole possession of fifth place on the all-time list, breaking his tie with Night Train Lane. Woodson needs two interceptions to tie Dave Grayson (29) for seventh on the Raiders' franchise list.
- Woodson setting a new Raiders career high with his sixth interception of the season, surpassing his rookie season total of five (1998).
- Woodson scoring his 14th defensive touchdown to pass Rod Woodson and Darren Sharper for the NFL's all-time record. An interception return for a touchdown would be Woodson's 12th, tying him with R. Woodson for the most in NFL annals.
- Woodson totaling 34 interception return yards to become the 10th NFL player, and the fifth since the 1970 merger, to accumulate 1,000 career interception return yards.
- Woodson notching one sack to tie Lawyer Milloy (21) for the sixth most all-time by a defensive back.

A WIN WOULD...

...lift the Raiders' overall and home records above .500 to 5-4 and 3-2, respectively.

...even Oakland's 2015 record against the NFC at 1-1, having already lost to the Chicago Bears in Week 4, 20-22.

...give the Raiders a 10th win over Minnesota, with the all-time regular season series currently standing at 9-4 in Oakland's favor.

...be Oakland's second straight victory over the Vikings, with the team's last loss coming on Nov. 18, 2007 (22-29).

...improve the Raiders' home record against Minnesota to 6-1, with the only loss coming in overtime on Nov. 17, 1996 (13-16, OT).

Oakland Raiders	7	7	7	14	35
Pittsburgh Steelers	3	18	0	17	38

Raiders Fall to Steelers, 35-38, in Road Battle

- The Raiders scored at least 33 points for the fourth time this season, the team's most through eight games since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger.
- The offense posted 440 total yards, improving the season total to 2,997 yards, the team's third most through eight games and the most since 2002 (3,259).

Offense Strikes Quickly

- The Raiders scored the team's fourth opening-drive touchdown of the season with a 22-yard touchdown pass from QB Derek Carr to WR Michael Crabtree on the team's third offensive play. The entire drive spanned 66 yards in 43 seconds.
- The Raiders took a fourth-quarter drive 60 yards in four plays (1:52) and capped it off with a 19-yard rushing touchdown by FB/RB Jamize Olawale.
- The team's final touchdown drive took only one minute and went 69 yards for the game-tying 38-yard touchdown pass to WR Michael Crabtree.

Offensive Line Keeps Carr Clean

- The offensive line did not allow a sack for the second straight game, giving the team only 10 sacks allowed through eight games, tied for the fewest since the 1970 merger (2011 and 2014).

Raiders Force an Interception, Special Teams Turnover

- The Raiders have recorded an interception in seven straight games, the team's longest streak since 2000-01.
- On a late fourth-quarter punt, the Raiders recovered an Antonio Brown fumble forced by WR Andre Holmes, setting up the offense at the Steelers' 39-yard line. LB Ray-Ray Armstrong came up with the fumble for the second recovery of his career.

Cooper and Crabtree Over 45 Receptions, Four Touchdowns

- WRs Amari Cooper (45) and Michael Crabtree (47) are the first pair of Raiders to be on pace for 90 receptions each through eight games since Charlie Garner and Jerry Rice in 2002.
- The pair has also combined for nine receiving touchdowns this season, four by Cooper and five by Crabtree.

QB Derek Carr

- QB Derek Carr threw for 301 yards on 24-of-44 passing (54.5 percent) with four touchdowns and one interception, giving him a passer rating of 96.9. Carr is the second Raider with four 300-yard games through the team's first eight contests (Rich Gannon in 2002).
- Carr now has 19 touchdown passes on the season, the most by a Raider through eight games since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. Carr has thrown 11 touchdowns of 20-or-more yards.
- Carr is the third Raider with four touchdown passes in back-to-back games and the first since the 1970 merger (Cotton Davidson in 1964 and Tom Flores in 1963).
- Carr entered Week 9 leading the NFL in first-half touchdown passes and tossed two more today to improve his season total to 13 with only one interception (13.0 TD-INT ratio).

WR Michael Crabtree

- WR Michael Crabtree hauled in seven passes for 108 yards (15.4 avg.) and two touchdowns for his 11th career 100-yard game and third of the season. He has 100-yard games in back-to-back outings within a regular season for the first time in his career.
- Crabtree hauled in two touchdowns in a game for the fifth time in his career and the first time since 2012. He now has five touchdowns on the season and 31 career scores.
- Crabtree has caught a touchdown pass in three straight games for the second time in his career (2012).

WR Amari Cooper

- WR Amari Cooper finished the day with seven receptions for 88 yards (12.6 avg.) and one touchdown.
- Cooper set the franchise record for receptions by a rookie, passing Zach Miller (44 in 2007). With his sixth reception, he passed Tim Brown (43 in 1988) for the most by a rookie wide receiver in team history.
- Cooper hauled in his fourth receiving touchdown of the season on a 15-yard pass from Carr.

RB Latavius Murray

- RB Latavius Murray averaged 5.65 yards per carry on 17 attempts for 96 yards before leaving the game in the third quarter. Murray's first carry of the game went for 44 yards, his sixth rush of 20-plus yards this season.

FB/RB Jamize Olawale

- FB/RB Jamize Olawale recorded a career-long 19-yard run for his first career rushing touchdown, bringing the Raiders back within seven points in the fourth quarter.

LB Aldon Smith

- LB Aldon Smith got to Ben Roethlisberger on a third-and-10 in the fourth quarter for the team's first sack of the game, giving him 2.5 sacks this season and 46.5 sacks in his career.

HEAD COACHING MATCH-UP

JACK DEL RIO

Jack Del Rio was named the 19th head coach in the 55-year history of the Oakland Raiders franchise on Jan. 15, 2015. The appointment marked a homecoming for Del Rio, who was raised in nearby Hayward, Calif.

Now in his 30th year in the NFL and his 19th season in coaching, He recently concluded his second stint as a defensive coordinator under Head Coach John Fox, as the two also spent the 2002 season together in Carolina. In all, he has coached 18 players to a total of 27 Pro Bowl selections.

In his second season with the Broncos in 2013, Del Rio's defense helped Denver to a 12-4 record and an appearance in Super Bowl XLVIII. Del Rio also accepted the additional role of interim head coach (Weeks 10-13) while Fox underwent a heart procedure, and led the Broncos to a 3-1 record against teams with a combined record of 29-9 (.763).

Prior to joining the Broncos in 2012, Del Rio spent nine seasons at the helm in Jacksonville. During his head coaching tenure (2003 to 2011) with the Jaguars, the club ranked sixth in the NFL in yards per game allowed (317.3) and eighth in points per game allowed (20.3).

Under Del Rio, the Jaguars made two playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007, highlighted by the club's first postseason win in eight seasons with a 31-29 road victory against the Pittsburgh Steelers in a 2007 AFC Wild Card Game.

The Jaguars posted an 11-5 record in 2007 to earn a second playoff berth in three years, in addition to claiming the franchise's first playoff win since the 1999 season, while becoming the first team in NFL history to win in Pittsburgh twice in one season.

In 2005, the Jaguars won eight of the last nine regular season games, including four straight on the road, en route to a 12-4 finish and a Wild Card playoff berth.

During his lone season as a defensive coordinator with Carolina in 2002, he inherited the NFL's worst defense statistically (371.4 yards per game allowed) and turned it into the league's second-ranked unit (290.4 yards per game allowed). Additionally, the 2002 Panthers squad led the NFL in rushing average against (3.7 avg.).

As linebackers coach for the Baltimore Ravens from 1999-2001, Del Rio tutored a talented group that included Ray Lewis. Baltimore's 2000 team set the NFL 16-game record by allowing only 165 points while recording four shutouts and forcing a league-best 49 turnovers. Lewis was named the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year and the MVP of Super Bowl XXXV that season.

A veteran of 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker, he was selected in the third round (68th overall) of the 1985 NFL Draft by New Orleans and went on to make the NFL's All-Rookie Team and earn the Saints' Rookie of the Year award. For his career, he played 160 games in the regular season and totaled 1,078 tackles, 12 sacks and 13 interceptions.

Born on April 4, 1963, in Castro Valley, Calif., Del Rio and his wife, Linda, have three daughters, Lauren, Hope and Aubrey, and a son, Luke, who is a collegiate quarterback.

MIKE ZIMMER

Mike Zimmer held true to his football principles in his 1st season as the Vikings Head Coach in 2014. The Vikings defense made vast improvements over the previous season, highlighted by jumping from #32 in the NFL in points allowed to #13 and going from #31 in pass defense to #7.

Zimmer was hired as the 9th Head Coach in Vikings history on January 15, 2014. Zimmer enters his 22nd season on an NFL sideline in 2015.

The 2014 Vikings turned to Bridgewater to start 12 games of his rookie season and he responded with a 6-6 record, going 3-2 in his final 5 starts and set virtually every franchise record for a rookie QB.

Defensively, the 2014 Vikings had 8 different regular starters compared to the 2013 unit and improved from #31 in total defense to #14 in the NFL with the new lineup. The Vikings #7 ranking in the NFL in passing defense was the highest finish since the 1993 season when the club was #6. The Vikings had a 113-point improvement in offensive points allowed from 2013 to 2014, the biggest improvement in the NFL in that span. The 2014 squad allowed 20.3 points per game, compared with 27.4 the previous season.

Zimmer has been a part of 11 playoff teams in his NFL tenure and teams that have won 7 Division titles. He coached the Cowboys DBs when the team won Super Bowl XXX over Pittsburgh after the 1995 season. From 2009-13, Zimmer's Bengals defenses ranked in the NFL's top 10 in total defense 4 times, climbing to #3 in 2013. From 2011-13, the Bengals ranked #2 in the NFL with 139 sacks (46.3 per season) and have allowed 18.8 points per game, ranking #4 in the NFL in points allowed.

Zimmer's arrival in Cincinnati for the 2008 season signaled a franchise turnaround on defense. The Bengals notched top-10 defensive rankings in 2009, '11, '12 and '13 after only cracking the NFL's top 10 once in 18 seasons prior to Zimmer joining the team.

Zimmer led top-10 defenses for Dallas in both a 4-3 and 3-4 scheme. The 2003 Cowboys defense ranked #1 in the NFL with only 253.3 yards per game allowed. During Zimmer's tenure in Dallas as DBs coach (1994-99) and Defensive Coordinator (2000- 06) the team ranked in the top 5 of NFL scoring defense a total of 6 times. The 1995 Cowboys hoisted the Lombardi Trophy in Super Bowl XXX with a win over Pittsburgh and one of Zimmer's pupils, CB Larry Brown, won Super Bowl MVP with a pair of INTs in the game.

Before moving to the NFL ranks, Zimmer spent 15 seasons coaching at the collegiate level. He spent his final 5 seasons in the college ranks as defensive coordinator at Washington State from 1989-93. Zimmer was at Weber State from 1981-88, serving as defensive coordinator from '83-88. He entered the profession at Missouri as an assistant from 1979-80.

Zimmer played QB and later LB at Illinois State, earning a degree in physical education. He has 3 children - son, Adam, and daughters Corri and Marki. Vikki Zimmer, Mike's wife of 27 years, passed away in Cincinnati on October 8, 2009. The Pro Football Writers of America recognized Zimmer overcoming the tragedy and the Bengals #4 ranked defense playing a key role in winning then AFC North title by voting him the winner of the Halas Award for the season, an annual award presented to the individual in the NFL that overcame the most adversity to succeed.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

The Raiders — who began play in the American Football League in 1960 — enter their 56th year of professional football competition, including the last 45 as a member of the National Football League.

In five memorable decades — the 1960s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the 2000s — the Raiders have been dominant in professional football since Al Davis first pledged in 1963 to build the finest organization in pro sports.

During these decades of dominance, the Raiders have won an AFL championship, four American Football Conference championships, and three world championships of professional football, participated in five Super Bowls, played in 14 championship games, won or tied for 17 division championships, had 21 playoff seasons, finished 34 seasons at .500 or better and played in 40 postseason games.

Pro football's dynamic organization placed first in the AFC West in 2000, 2001 and 2002 despite playing among the toughest schedules in the NFL in each of those seasons. With their appearance in Super Bowl XXXVII, the Raiders became the first NFL team to have had a season end in the Super Bowl in four different decades.

The Raiders are the only team to have been in Super Bowls in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s and the 2000s.

The Silver and Black are the only AFC team — and one of just two NFL teams (Minnesota) — to have a season that advanced to the conference championship game in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s, the '90s and the 2000s.

The Raiders are one of only two original AFL teams to have captured three world championships of professional football with Super Bowl victories. The Raiders are one of only four AFC teams to have won more than one Super Bowl since 1980.

With four postseason victories, the Raiders were the first of the AFC West teams to win multiple postseason contests in the new millennium by six years.

Since 1963, when Al Davis first took over the failing Oakland franchise that had struggled to win only nine of 42 league games in the initial three seasons of the new AFL and pledged to build the finest organization in sports, the Raiders have dominated professional football in terms of consistent victory. During those memorable 55 years in Oakland and Los Angeles, the Raiders have won 437 league games, tied 11 and lost 388.

"Commitment to Excellence" has never been an idle phrase to those who have proudly represented the Raiders organization during the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium as shown by their domination of pro football.

More than 20 of the great players who proudly wore the Silver and Black, as well as Owner-Leader Al Davis and legendary Head Coach John Madden, have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The Raiders have also produced five Coaches of the Year.

In addition, 62 Pro Bowl players have made 182 Pro Bowl appearances representing the Silver and Black. In 1970, as the Raiders began their second decade of play, the merger between the AFL and NFL became a reality on the field. In the 1970 through 2012 period of interconference play, the Raiders have compiled a remarkable 92-73-1 record against present National Football Conference rivals.

Another innovation came to professional football in 1970 — "Monday Night Football." The Raiders' domination of this prime-time television series has seen the Silver and Black build an incredible 37-27-1 record in Monday night play. In the 43 years of this series, the Raiders are 15-8-0 in "Monday Night Football" games at home.

Through the decades — the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and now the 2000s — the Raiders have had the greatest players, the greatest coaches, the greatest plays and participated in the greatest games in the annals of professional sports.

Challengers to Raider domination of professional football will arise as they have in the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium. The Raider organization will continue to meet these challenges.

REGGIE McKENZIE

THE GENERAL MANAGER

Reggie McKenzie, a former draft pick by Raiders Owner Al Davis as a player, is in his 29th season in the National Football League and his fourth as General Manager of the Silver and Black. McKenzie was named to the position by Owner Mark Davis on Jan. 10, 2012, becoming the first General Manager of the franchise since Al Davis was hired as Head Coach and General Manager in 1963.

In his first four years as General Manager, McKenzie has overseen significant changes in the organization's scouting, player personnel and football operations departments, while bringing refined football acumen to the Silver and Black. Adhering to a strategy of building a competitive roster through the draft while making strategic acquisitions via free agency and trades, McKenzie enters his fourth season at the helm having already earned plaudits from some of the most respected voices in football.

UNDRAFTED GEMS

Every preseason, hundreds of undrafted free agents vie for a spot on their team's 53-man roster. Reggie McKenzie has brought in numerous players that were not drafted, developing them into significant contributors for the Silver and Black.

- WR Andre Holmes, originally an undrafted free agent with the Minnesota Vikings in 2011, has two of the Raiders' top four single-game receiving totals from 2013-14. He set career highs in 2014 with 47 catches for 693 yards and four touchdowns.

- In 2013, P Marquette King posted numbers among the NFL's best in both gross average and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards on the year, King finished sixth in the NFL, and led the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. In 2014, King set Raider franchise records in punts (109) and punting yards (4,930).

- QB Matt McGloin made his mark on the NFL in his rookie season, making his first career start on Nov. 17, 2013 at Houston. In that game, McGloin became the first undrafted rookie to throw for three-or-more touchdown passes in his first NFL start since 1987. He also became just the second quarterback to throw for three touchdowns without an interception in his first NFL start since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970.

- WR Seth Roberts has posted two touchdowns so far in 2015, including the game-winning touchdown with just :26 seconds left in Oakland's Week 2 win over the Ravens in 2015.

Below are some of the notable current Raiders who entered the NFL as undrafted free agents:

Player	School	Year	Team
LB R. Armstrong	Miami (Fla.)	2013	St. Louis
LS Jon Condo	Maryland	2005	Dallas
WR Andre Holmes	Hillsdale	2011	Minnesota
G/T Austin Howard	Northern Iowa	2010	Philadelphia
P Marquette King	Fort Valley State	2012	Oakland
DE Benson Mayowa	Idaho	2013	Seattle
QB Matt McGloin	Penn State	2013	Oakland
T Donald Penn	Utah State	2006	Minnesota
FB Marcel Reece	Washington	2008	Miami
WR Seth Roberts	West Alabama	2013	Oakland
WR Rod Streater	Temple	2012	Oakland

LATE-ROUND STEALS

"It definitely helps. When you play on Sunday and a guy goes down and that player that you have running on special teams now can play a position and you're not afraid to put him in, it gives you depth. They may not be the starter. These young guys, you really have to give them a couple of years to figure out what they really are. Some of them, you have to throw them in because of where you are as a team. Let's all hope that not only the guys at the top of the draft but the guys at the bottom, if we can get a couple of those guys to give us some production within the first three years, that would be great." - Raiders GM Reggie McKenzie on getting production from lower-level draft picks

GM Reggie McKenzie's philosophy of building his roster through the draft includes standouts players from the top of the board like LB Khalil Mack, QB Derek Carr and WR Amari Cooper. But a good drafting team will make all of their picks count, and McKenzie has done that of late. Here is a look at some players that McKenzie has drafted in the fourth round or later since 2013 and have provided solid production:

Player	Year	Round
RB Latavius Murray	2013	6
TE Mychal Rivera^	2013	6
DT Stacy McGee^	2013	6
DT Justin Ellis	2014	4
CB TJ Carrie	2014	7
LB Ben Heeney	2015	5
LB Neiron Ball^	2015	7

* - current starter on Oakland's unofficial depth chart

^ - has started multiple games over career

THAT'S WHAT THEY SAID...

"My approach is old school. I'm a roll up the sleeves type of guy that wakes up early in the morning like iron workers, and comes prepared to get the job done." - Reggie McKenzie, introductory press conference, Jan. 10, 2012

"He has the courage of his convictions about players that Ron Wolf had, including blunt assessments of their talent. But Reggie also has the patience of Ted Thompson; he adheres to the draft-and-develop model of team-building. The latter means trusting scouts to constantly fill a pipeline of young talent, empowering coaches to play and develop young players, and identifying core players to secure contractually for the future." - Andrew Brandt, Monday Morning Quarterback (MMQB), March 12, 2014

"He is an exceptional evaluator of talent. Just has a great skill for it, especially for guys already in the NFL who might be flying under the radar. He was my right-hand man for all those years, a big reason why the Packers were good all those years." - Ron Wolf, April 24, 2012

"You can see this foundation starting to build there with the things Reggie [McKenzie] has done. He goes and hires Jack Del Rio, and I think that's a pretty good situation. They have a ton of cap space and an opportunity to build. All of a sudden you look at the AFC West, and they're kind of on the rise and you're very familiar with the AFC West so you know. It's very competitive." - Andy Reid, March 24, 2015

2014 DRAFT CLASS

JACK DEL RIO

DEL RIO QUICK FACTS

- Jack Del Rio left the Jaguars tied with Tom Coughlin as the franchise's winningest head coach with 68 wins. Del Rio compiled a 68-71 regular season record (1-2 in the postseason) with Jacksonville from 2003 to '11. As the Broncos' interim head coach from Weeks 10-13 in 2013, he posted a 3-1 record, helping the Broncos secure the top seed in the AFC Playoffs.

- As a defensive coordinator and head coach, Del Rio's defenses have finished in the top 10 in total defense in seven times, and four times in the top five. Of the top seven defensive seasons in Jaguars team history, Del Rio was the head coach for five of them.

Year	Team	Position	Rank	Yds./Game
2002	Carolina	Def. Coord.	2	290.4
2003	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	291.1
2005	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	290.9
2006	Jacksonville	Head Coach	2	283.6
2011	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	313.0
2012	Denver	Def. Coord.	2	290.8
2014	Denver	Def. Coord.	3	305.2

- Del Rio has coached 18 different players to a total of 27 total Pro Bowls during his 18 seasons as a position coach, coordinator or head coach.
- As Jacksonville's head coach from 2003 to '11, Del Rio helped the Jaguars rank seventh in total defense over that time period, allowing opponents to just 318.7 yards per game. They also ranked sixth in the NFL over that same time period, allowing opponents to just 105.1 yards per game on the ground.
- During his tenure as Denver's defensive coordinator (2012-14), the Broncos compiled 134 sacks in three seasons, the fourth most over that time span.
- With the Carolina Panthers in 2002, Del Rio inherited the NFL's worst defense from the season before (371.4 yards per game) and turned it into the league's No. 2-ranked unit (290.4). His Panthers also led the NFL in rushing average (3.7), and ranked second in sacks (52).
- In 2000, Del Rio coached the linebackers on a Baltimore Ravens unit that is considered by many as the best defensive unit in NFL history. Baltimore's defense set the NFL record for 16-game season with only 165 points allowed, including four shutouts and 49 turnovers.

COACHING STAFF NOTES

FROM PLAYERS TO COACHES

The 2015 Oakland Raiders coaching staff certainly has pedigree. Ten of the team's coaches played at the NFL level before getting into coaching. The staff has 102 years of combined playing experience, with 15 Pro Bowl appearances, five All-Pro selections and one induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Raiders S Charles Woodson on having former players on the 2015 coaching staff: "Yeah, I think for any player, when you have a guy that played the game, he knows the scrutiny put on you as a player. He knows the bumps and bruises that you take on a day-in and day-out basis. He knows about being in training camp. He knows about what it takes to win. It's validation for that guy when he played the game. When you're a player, there's almost automatically a respect that you have for a person that's been in it, been in that fight, knows what it's all about. These guys really they do have a wealth of knowledge. I think our teaching level this year has been at an all-time high, as far as guys understanding where they're supposed to be each and every play. I think that'll go well for us."

STUFFING THE RUN

"We're going to be really good against the run. I think we have a good front. It'll be hard for people to run it on us." - Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio, Sept. 28, 2015

The Raiders' run defense has proved Jack Del Rio right so far in 2015. Oakland has limited opponents to just 96.9 yards per game on the ground this year, eighth best in the NFL.

Additionally, Oakland has held opponents under 100 yards rushing in five of the team's eight games. The team is 3-2 in those games and 2-1 on the road.

The defense has allowed less than 4.0 yards per rush in four of the team's eight games, including the Week 5 contest against the Denver Broncos, when they allowed only 2.4 yards per rush.

NFL RUN DEFENSE

Rank	Team	Rushing Yards Per Game
1.	NY Jets	80.6
2.	Atlanta	88.9
3.	New England	89.3
4.	Arizona	90.1
5.	Denver	93.1
6.	Buffalo	93.6
7.	Jacksonville	94.3
8.	Oakland	96.9

Since the Raiders returned to Oakland in 1995, the team limited the opposition to less than two yards per carry in a game only 13 times, including three in 2013 and twice in 2014. The 1.0 yards per carry allowed vs. Buffalo was the seventh time since 2012 that the Silver and Black have allowed an average of less than two yards per carry. Here is a look at the games:

Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards	Attempts	Avg.
12/16/12	Kansas City	10	10	1.0

'COOP' AND 'CRAB'

In the Raiders' Week 2 win against the Baltimore Ravens, WR Amari Cooper (seven receptions, 109 yards and one touchdown) and WR Michael Crabtree (nine receptions, 111 yards and one touchdown) paced an offense that totaled 448 total yards. The duo became the first pair of Raiders receivers to each post 100 receiving yards in a game since Jan. 1, 2012. This also marks the first time since Dec. 31, 2005 that the Raiders had two receivers with 100 receiving yards and one touchdown each.

Together, "Coop" and "Crab" are averaging 11.5 receptions per game and have combined for nine touchdowns through eight games. Here is a look at their combined 2015 statistics:

Season Notes

- Between the two of them, they have six 100-yard receiving games (Cooper and Crabtree each have three).
- At the current pace, both Cooper and Crabtree are on pace to catch over 75 passes and record over 1,000 receiving yards.
- Both players have caught at least four passes in each of the team's first eight games. The Raiders are 4-2 when they combine for at least 10 receptions in a game.
- For the first time since 2002 (Charlie Garner, Jerry Porter and Jerry Rice), three Raiders (Cooper, Crabtree and Andre Holmes) had at least three receiving touchdowns through the team's first seven games.
- Both receivers rank in the top 23 in the NFL in receiving yards and in the top 18 in receptions.

TEAM NOTES

300/100/100 CLUB

In Week 3's victory over the Cleveland Browns, QB Derek Carr (314 passing yards), WR Amari Cooper (134 receiving yards) and RB Latavius Murray (139 rushing yards) made some history. According to the NFL, no trio of players 25 years old or younger have produced more passing/rushing/receiving yards, respectively, as Carr, Murray and Cooper did in Week 3. Additionally, they are also just the 11th trio of teammates age 25 or younger to join the 300/100/100 club. Since neither player will turn 26 this season, they could become the first trio of teammates to accomplish the feat twice. Here is the list of teammates 25-years old or younger in the 300/100/100 club:

Year	Quarterback	Running Back	Wide Receiver

TAKING CARE OF THE BALL

The Raiders have forced 14 turnovers (nine INTs, five fumbles) on the season with only 13 giveaways (five INTs, eight fumbles) for a turnover margin of +1, tied for 13th best in the NFL. Here is a look at the NFL rankings in turnover differential:

2015 TURNOVER DIFFERENTIAL

Rank	Team	Takeaways	Giveaways	Net Diff.
6.	Philadelphia	20	15	+5
7.	St. Louis	14	10	+4

10.	Kansas City	11	8	+3
10.	Denver	17	14	+3
10.	Arizona	17	14	+3
13.	Oakland	14	13	+1
13.	Tampa Bay	15	14	+1
13.	Buffalo	12	11	+1

- The +1 turnover margin would be tied for the best margin the Raiders have had since 2003 (Also were +1 in 2008).
- Oakland did not turn the ball over in two straight games in Week 7 and 8, the team's longest streak since 2010.

CHUNK YARDS

The Raiders are fielding the team's most productive offense in over a decade, as Oakland is piling up yards with potentially record-breaking efficiency. The Raiders are averaging 5.96 yards per play on offense this season, third best in franchise history through eight games.

YARDS PER PLAY AVG. THROUGH 8 GAMES - TEAM HISTORY

6.	Oakland	503	2,997	5.96	4-4

In three games in 2015, the Raiders have averaged more than 7.0 yards per offensive play, and the team has gone 3-0 in those contests. The three games is tied for the second most in a season in team history and is just two games shy of the franchise record of five games set in 2011. Here is a look at the Raiders' three games averaging more than seven yards per play this season:

TEAM NOTES

KEEPING CARR CLEAN

So far in 2015, the Raiders have kept QB Derek Carr relatively upright, as he has only been sacked eight times. Carr was not sacked in the team's opening game against Cincinnati, Week 3's win against Cleveland, Week 8's victory over the New York Jets and the Week 9 match-up against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Through eight games, Oakland has only given up 10 sacks on the year, good for third best in the league. Last season, the Silver and Black gave up only 28 sacks on the entire year, good for tied for sixth in the NFL.

The Raiders' offensive line has held opponents to less than two sacks or less in seven of the team's eight games. The only time the team gave up more than two sacks in a game was in Week 5's game against the Denver Broncos, the NFL leader in sacks.

Carr has thrown for 300 yards in a game four times so far this year, and has not been sacked in three of those games.

Oakland has benefited from continuity in the trenches as they have had the same lineup on the line for all eight games.

In Week 8 (11/1 vs. NYJ) and Week 9 (11/8 at Pit.) of the 2015 season, the Raiders offensive line recorded clean sheets by not allowing a single sack in either game. That marks the third straight season, and the 11th time since team sacks became an official statistic in 1982, that the Raiders' line kept the quarterback upright in back-to-back games. The Raiders have allowed zero sacks in a contest three times so far in 2015. Here is a look at those streaks since 1990:

SPECIAL TEAMS SUCCESS

Under new special teams coordinator Brad Seely, the Raiders' special teams units have helped Oakland win the field position battle.

- On kickoffs returns, Oakland's average starting position is the 22.7-yard line, good for fourth in the NFL and second in the AFC. RB Taiwan Jones is averaging 25.1 yards per kickoff return.
- On kickoffs, the Raiders are forcing opponents to start their drives at the 19.4-yard line on average, a tally that ranks second in the NFL. K Sebastian Janikowski has 28 touchbacks on the year.

EXPLOSIVE OFFENSE

Oakland's offense has proven to be one of the better units in the league so far this season behind QB Derek Carr, RB Latavius Murray, WRs Amari Cooper and Michael Crabtree, FB Marcel Reece and a dominant offensive line. The unit ranks eighth in total yards per game and eighth in passing yards per game. The rushing offense ranks 18th in the NFL.

TEAM NOTES

VICTORY IN CLEVELAND

Week 3's road win against the Cleveland Browns came with a few notes:

- The win snapped an 11-game road losing streak and a 16-game losing stretch in the Eastern time zone, marking the Raiders' first win in the east since Dec. 6, 2009 at Pittsburgh.
- Coupled with the team's win in Week 2, the Raiders won back-to-back games for the first time since Weeks 7-8 of the 2012 season (Oct. 21 vs. Jac. and Oct. 28 at KC).
- QB Derek Carr (314 passing yards), RB Latavius Murray (139 rushing yards) and WR Amari Cooper (134 receiving yards) on Sunday helped mark the first time since Oct. 31, 2010 vs. Seattle that the Raiders had a 300-yard passer, 100-yard rusher and 100-yard receiver.

DIVISIONAL WIN IN SD

Below are some notes from Oakland's Week 7 victory against the AFC West-rival San Diego Chargers:

- The Raiders improved to 2-1 on the road this season and 3-3 overall, marking the Raiders' best start through six games since a 4-2 beginning in 2011.
- The Raiders earned their first divisional win on the road since Oct. 28, 2012, a 26-16 win at Kansas City.
- The Raiders never trailed in the game, opening up a 37-6 lead in the third quarter before going on to win 37-29. The 37 points are the most by the Raiders since a 39-point outing on Dec. 19, 2010.
- The team took a 31-point lead into the fourth quarter, marking the franchise's fourth largest scoring margin after three quarters on the road.
- The Raiders offense averaged 7.1 yards per play in the game, marking the team's fourth best average on the road against the Chargers.
- The Raiders scored 30 points in the first half of an away game for the seventh time in franchise history and the first time since Oct. 24, 2010 at Denver.

SPREADING IT AROUND

So far this season, 14 different receivers have caught a pass from either QBs Derek Carr or Matt McGloin. Oakland has had at least eight different receivers in seven of eight games, nine different receivers four times and 10 different receivers twice. Among those who have caught passes for the Silver and Black this year include WR Amari Cooper, WR Michael Crabtree, RB Roy Helu, Jr., WR Andre Holmes, RB Taiwan Jones, RB Latavius Murray, FB/RB Jamize Olawale, T Donald Penn, FB Marcel Reece, TE Mychal Rivera, WR Seth Roberts, TE Lee Smith, WR Rod Streater and TE Clive Walford.

MILES AND MILES

Factoring in three trips to the Eastern time zone and two more to the Central time zone, the Raiders will travel the third most miles in the NFL this season. According to Pro Football Reference, Oakland travels 26,336 miles in 2015, with three trips over 2,000 miles. The Raiders trail only the Miami Dolphins (26,452 miles, including a trip to London) and San Francisco 49ers (27,998) Here is a look at the teams that travel the most in 2015:

FRED BILETNIKOFF

Pro Football Hall of Famer Fred Biletnikoff is one of the most beloved Raiders of all-time. He is the second leading receiver in Raiders history, catching 589 passes for 8,974 and 76 touchdowns during his 14-year career as a Raider and the collegiate award given annually to the nation's top wide receiver is named after him. After not having a winner of Biletnikoff Award in more than a decade, the Raiders now have two on the team - WR Amari Cooper (2014 winner) and WR Michael Crabtree (2007 and 2008 winner). Oakland is one of three teams in the league (Detroit Lions and Jacksonville Jaguars) who have two winners of the award on their roster.

Cooper on Biletnikoff and meeting him at training camp this year: "He was a really great receiver and that award was something that I really wanted, that I really sought after my whole career in college. It was nice to finally meet him. It means a lot to just be in the NFL. To play for the team that Fred Biletnikoff played for is just a great feeling to try to continue that legacy."

Biletnikoff on having two winners of the Biletnikoff Award on the Raiders this season: "It's great. I'm excited about it. It means a helluva lot to me to have both of these guys on the team, with both of them winning the award. I have big expectations of those two guys and I'm so happy they're playing together and they're going to be a part of this team. They're going to make a big difference with this team, they really are."

In April 2015, Raiders Owner Mark Davis donated $50,000 to Fred and Angela Biletnikoff and the Biletnikoff Foundation to help increase education in an effort to eradicate a horrible dilemma. In addition to monetary support, the Raiders will execute an extensive platform, including ongoing programs and public service campaigns to assist in preventing domestic violence and sexual assault.

"The Raiders are proud of our continuing commitment to raising awareness of this important issue that is close to the heart of the Raider family," said Davis. "We are excited to have the opportunity to work with this tremendous organization and assist them in reaching the ultimate goal, ending domestic violence and sexual assault."

The Biletnikoff Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to supporting youth, primarily from low to moderate income neighborhoods or backgrounds, who are "at risk," particularly to the realities of drug and alcohol addiction as well as domestic and gender violence. The mission of the Biletnikoff Foundation is to commemorate Tracey Biletnikoff's life and her untimely death and to enable young people to realize their full potential through the support of community and education programs that effectively address the related problems of substance abuse and gender violence.

RAIDERS OFF THE FIELD/INTERESTING FACTS

- General Manager Reggie McKenzie has an identical twin brother, Raleigh, who is a college scout for the team. He also has a son, Kahlil, who is a freshman defensive lineman at Tennessee, his father's alma mater.
- Head Coach Jack Del Rio, who grew up in nearby Hayward, Calif., was a standout catcher on USC's baseball team and was drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in 1981.
- Assistant linebackers coach Brent Vieselmeyer coached Jack Del Rio's son, Luke, when he was the head coach at Valor Christian High School in Highlands Ranch, Colo., when Luke was the team's starting quarterback.
- LB Ray-Ray Armstrong and WR Andre Debose were high school teammates at Seminole High School in Sanford, Fla., and helped the team to a Class 6A title. Armstrong, playing quarterback, connected with Debose in the final seconds of the championship game to secure the victory.
- QB Derek Carr is the brother of former No. 1 overall pick of the Houston Texans, David. The two brothers started a training facility for all athletes in Southern California called Carr Elite.
- DE Mario Edwards Jr.'s father played in the NFL for five seasons from 2000-04. He also currently works at Florida State, where Mario Jr. went to school.
- RB Roy Helu, Jr.'s father was a captain on the U.S. national rugby team in the 1980's.
- WR Andre Holmes' brother, Jason, is a member of St. Kilda Football Club of the Australian Football League.
- T Austin Howard played basketball in college at Northern Iowa.
- K Sebastian Janikowski is a former member of the Polish national under-17 soccer team and turned down various pro soccer offers to enroll at Florida State.
- T Donald Penn was a Raider fan growing up in Inglewood, Calif., going to Raiders games as a kid in Los Angeles.
- TE Mychal Rivera's sister, Naya, was an actress on the hit TV show "Glee."
- DE Justin Tuck founded his R.U.S.H. for Literacy foundation in 2008 to bring the same opportunities that made him successful to low-income youth in New York, New Jersey, and Alabama. Focused on literacy, the program began with a simple book distribution, then grew to include an essay contest and supporting materials, as well as grantmaking.
- T Menelik Watson was born in Manchester, England and was raised there before attending Marist College to play basketball.
- S Charles Woodson is a wine entrepreneur, owning the wine label TwentyFour by Charles Woodson, leasing acres of vineyards in Napa Valley, Calif., a short distance from the Raiders' training-camp home.

CRAIG LONG AWARD

Last season, the Raiders introduced the Craig Long Award, presented to the player who best exemplifies professionalism and collaboration with the media at large. The award, chosen by a select group of local media and facilitated by the Oakland Raiders' media relations department, was won by DL Antonio Smith.

Craig Long, who passed away in 2007 at age 36, was a valuable member of the Oakland Raiders' public relations staff from 1997-2004. An Iowa native, Long fulfilled his childhood dream of working in the front office for his favorite team.

PERFORMANCE CENTER

Upon the team's return from training camp in Napa this summer, the Raiders opened their Performance Center. The new Oakland Raiders Performance Center was custom built from the ground up, and will provide the training, nutrition and recovery needs of the entire organization. The new addition to the Raiders' Alameda headquarters will enable the team's strength and conditioning staff to maximize player performance and efficiently manage their time.

Performance Center Facts

- The Performance Center building slab was poured on June 11 and opened for team workouts on the morning of Aug. 25.
- The building is approximately 18,500 square feet. It is 25 feet tall at the ridge, 160 feet long and 100 feet wide.
- The building is heated and air conditioned. To assist with air flow there are six fans, produced by Big Ass Fans, and two louvered vented windows on the back of the building. There are also six 20-foot garage style glass doors that open up to the practice field.
- The building's walls are clad in 10-foot diamond plate inside with a four-foot diamond plate wainscoting on the exterior. The interior flooring is 18mm athletic flooring.
- The Raiders partnered with Gatorade to create and install a state-of-the-art Fuel Bar to assist with performance and recovery for players.
- The Performance Center includes an interior artificial turf field for use in walk-throughs and floor exercises. The field can also be used during inclement weather.
- The building is fully equipped with high-performance workout equipment from Sorinex, Keiser and Power Plate.
- Two new multidirectional football fields (178,000 square feet of sod) were installed immediately outside of the Performance Center.
- A bio retention field was installed to handle drain water as it comes off of the roof, ensuring that clean water is flowing into the Bay.

CHARLES WOODSON

A LEADER IN PICKS

S Charles Woodson, who posted nine interceptions when he won the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year award in 2009, is the NFL's active leader in interceptions. Woodson, who is in his 18th NFL campaign, has 65 interceptions, 22 more than DeAngelo Hall's 43. Woodson has six seasons with at least five picks in his Hall of Fame career.

Woodson also moved into fifth on the all-time interceptions list in 2015. Here is who is ahead of him:

ALL-TIME INTERCEPTION LEADERS

Rank	Player	INTs
1.	Paul Krause	89
2.	Emlen Tunnell	79
3.	Rod Woodson	71
4.	Night Train Lane	68
5t.	Charles Woodson	65
5t.	Ken Riley	65
6.	Ed Reed	64

LONG-TERM HAWK

Remarkably, S Charles Woodson has intercepted at least one pass in each of his first 18 NFL seasons. Woodson has joined an elite company of just one other player to intercept a pass in at least 18 consecutive seasons. He is now in sole possession of second place on this list, trailing only Hall of Famer Darrell Green. Woodson has four seasons of at least seven interceptions in his career.

Player	Consec. Seasons w/INT	Years
Darrell Green#	19	1983-2001
Charles Woodson*	18	1998-2015
Eugene Robinson	16	1985-2000
Willie Brown#	16	1963-78

* - Still Active
- Hall of Famer

FIRST TO 50/20 AND 60/20

In Week 12 last season against Kansas City, S Charles Woodson achieved some history. With a third quarter sack of Chiefs QB Alex Smith, Woodson became the first player since sacks became an official statistic in 1982 to record 50 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career. Woodson is the only active player with at least 60 career picks and one of just 11 players in NFL history. His 20 sacks are tops among current defensive backs and make him just one of eight defensive backs to record at least 20 sacks for their career.

WOODSON QUICK HITS

- Only two players in football history have ever won a Heisman Trophy, Associated Press Rookie of the Year, Associated Press Player of the Year and a Super Bowl in their career. Charles Woodson is one of them. The other? Former Raiders RB Marcus Allen.
- Since 1995, only four players have won both the Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year and Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year awards in their career - Raiders S Charles Woodson (1998 & 2009), Ravens OLB Terrell Suggs (2003 & 2011), former Bears LB Brian Urlacher (2000 & 2005) and Panthers LB Luke Kuechly (2012 & 2013).
- Woodson posted an interception touchdown in six straight seasons (2006-11), becoming the first player in NFL history to do so. No other NFL player has accomplished the feat in more than four consecutive seasons.
- In 2009, Woodson became the fourth player in NFL history (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record at least nine interceptions and two sacks in a single season.
- Is the only player in NFL history to post at least seven interceptions and two sacks in back-to-back seasons.
- Became the first NFL player (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record two interceptions, an interception touchdown, a sack and a fumble recovery in the same game when he posted all of those statistics on 11/26/09 at Det.
- Became the first player in NFL history to record 60 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career on Dec. 21, 2014.
- Had two interceptions against Denver on Oct. 11, 2015. Woodson is the only player in NFL history with two interceptions in a game at age 39 or older. He is one of three players in NFL history with an interception at age 39 or older, joining Hall of Famer Darrell Green and Clay Matthews, Jr.

TAKING IT TO THE HOUSE

The only thing better than forcing a turnover is turning it into a touchdown, and S Charles Woodson has done that just as well as anybody in the history of the NFL. Woodson is one interception-touchdown away from tying assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson's all-time mark, and just one defensive touchdown away from setting the all-time mark. With every touchdown going forward, Woodson will be adding a new note to the NFL record books.

KHALIL MACK

SILVER AND MACK

As the Raiders' first-round pick in the 2014 NFL Draft, DE Khalil Mack had lofty expectations in his rookie season and he met them all and more. Mack finished third in Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year voting, falling to St. Louis' DT Aaron Donald. Proving to be one of the NFL's best run defenders and generating pressure on quarterbacks that didn't always show up on the stat sheet, Mack was selected to the Pro Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated and NFL.com All-Rookie Teams.

Mack was the only rookie named to the 2014 USA Football All-Fundamentals Team, on December 10, 2014, an honor awarded to 26 NFL players who exhibit exemplary football techniques for young players to emulate. The USA Football All-Fundamentals Team was assembled with guidance from a five-person selection committee: Charles Davis, Herm Edwards, Merrill Hoge, Carl Peterson, Bill Polian.

Last season, became the third Raider linebacker to start all 16 games in his rookie season, and the first to do so since General Manager Reggie McKenzie in 1985. Matt Millen also started all 16 games as a rookie in 1980. While most of Mack's success last year didn't always show up on the stat sheet, he'll look to improve on the below numbers, seeing a lot of time as a defensive end.

NO GUARANTEED GAINS

According to unofficial press box statistics, Mack totaled 75 tackles (59 solo) in 2014. Of those 75 tackles, 52 (69.3 percent) of them were made for a loss or within three yards of the line of scrimmage. Of his 59 solo tackles, 37 (62.7 percent) of those have been for a loss or within three yards of the line of scrimmage.

He finished second among defensive players in "stuffs" with 11.5 tackles at or behind the line of scrimmage, according to STATS LLC.

S'MACK" TALK

DE Khalil Mack's NFL career is still in its initial stages, but opposing coaches and players are already taking notice. Mack has made an impact on games as a run defender and pass rusher. Here are a few things players and coaches around the NFL have had to say about Mack:

"I loved him coming out of college. He's everything as advertised. He plays hard – run and pass equally well. He is just a hard-playing, dominate-type guy, a very physical-type player. He's one of those guys you have to account for at all times." - Ravens Head Coach John Harbaugh, Sept. 16, 2015

"If I needed a yard, I would run anywhere on planet Earth other than at Khalil Mack. That guy is the biggest hammer that I've seen for a while now playing that defensive end/outside linebacker kind of position." - NBC Sunday Night Football Analyst Cris Collinsworth, Aug. 30, 2015

"Khalil was definitely a guy that we thought was an instinctive player, an explosive player, a guy that we felt like his best football was ahead of him, because we felt like this is a guy that can really rush the passer and also probably drop into pass coverage, be a second-level defender." - Texans Head Coach Bill O'Brien, Sept. 10, 2014

"No. 52 [Khalil Mack] is a phenomenal player. He's a great pass rusher, but he's really good in the run game. We knew it was going to be a challenge." - Cardinals QB Carson Palmer, Oct. 19, 2014

"He was a guy that was definitely highly rated on our board. We thought a lot of him coming out. And sometimes you don't necessarily get the sack production and people can be fooled by that. We look at the effectiveness of a rusher – how much they're affecting the quarterback. They might not be getting the finish, they might be causing production for somebody else." - Browns Head Coach Mike Pettine, Oct. 22, 2014

"Talking to the guys in the locker room, he gained the respect of everybody on our team. That guy 52, Khalil Mack, is one of the best players we've gone against this year and that's a unanimous decision in that locker room. He gained all of our respect, and we knew coming in he was going to be a tough player." - Browns QB Brian Hoyer, Oct. 26, 2014

"Every week, one of the teams I watch early on is the Raider defense, and the reason I want to watch is Khalil Mack. He's not just one of the best rookies to come out, he's the best linebacker in the National Football League, and he is the best against the run." - Former NFL RB and current ESPN analyst Merrill Hoge

DEREK CARR

CARR AT THE HELM

QB Derek Carr was named the Raiders' starting quarterback heading into Week 1 last year, becoming the first rookie quarterback in franchise history to start in Week 1. Carr was leaned on heavily early in his career, completing the second most passes (348) by a rookie in NFL history. Praised for his poise and maturity as a young signal caller, Carr has already shown significant growth in a number of key areas and currently ranks sixth in the NFL in passer rating (104.3) and tied for third in passing touchdowns (19). Here is a brief look at Carr's career numbers through his first two seasons:

Carr has orchestrated two fourth-quarter comebacks and game-winning drives in his career, including a 17-play, 80-yard TD drive (7:21) vs. KC to seal his first NFL win on Nov. 20, 2014. His second came on Sept. 20, 2015 vs. Bal. on a 9-play, 80-yard TD drive (1:44).

In 2014, Carr became the 14th quarterback since the 16-game season was adopted in 1978 to start every game of his rookie campaign. He and his brother, David Carr (2002), comprise the only pair of siblings to have accomplished the feat.

FIVE 300-YARD GAMES

Carr has eclipsed the 300-yard mark five times in his career, more than any other Raider through his first two seasons. The Raiders are 3-1 this season when Carr reaches the 300-yard threshold.

- Carr became the first Raiders rookie with a 300-yard game on Oct. 26, 2014 at Cleveland (328 yards).
- Carr has thrown for 300 yards in back-to-back games twice this season: 351 yards vs. Bal. (9/20) and 314 yards at Cle. (9/27); 333 yards vs. NYJ (11/1) and 301 yards at Pit. (11/8). The last Raider to throw for 300 yards in back-to-back games was Carson Palmer in 2012.

LEADING THE CLASS

As a rookie in 2014, Carr led his draft class in completions (348), passing yards (3,270) and touchdowns (21). His prolific rookie campaign ranks among the best in NFL annals. Now in his second season, he continues to excel compared to both the 2014 draft class and the NFL in general.

TDs, NOT TURNOVERS

Carr has consistently been able to find the end zone in his short career, posting 40 TD passes in 24 career starts. His 21 TDs as a rookie tied with Cam Newton for the fifth most by a rookie since 1960.

- Carr has posted 12 multi-TD performances and six three-TD games, both the most by a Raider through his first two seasons.
- Carr has thrown four TDs in a game three times, tied for third most by any quarterback through his first two seasons.
- He became the first Raiders rookie to throw four TDs in a game on Oct. 12, 2014 vs. SD. He already has two four-TD games this season, one in each of the Raiders' last two games (11/1 vs. NYJ and 11/8 at Pit.).

Carr has posted 40 TDs while throwing only 16 INTs in 872 career pass attempts (1.83 percent), the fourth best INT rate in the NFL since 2014. Additionally, his 2.50 TD-INT ratio ranks seventh in the NFL since 2014.

- Of all players with at least 40 passing TDs through their first two NFL seasons, Carr is one of only four players with fewer than 20 INTs.
- As a rookie, Carr threw the fewest INTs (12) of any NFL rookie with at least 500 pass attempts.
- Carr has thrown for at least two touchdowns without an interception in six career games and three games this season.

KEEPING IT 100

Carr has posted a passer rating of at least 100 points in six games (5-1 record; 4-0 in 2015). He has also posted ratings of at least 130 points on three occasions, the most of any Raider through his first two seasons. Here is a look at Carr's 100-plus ratings:

RED ZONE EFFICIENCY

When the Raiders have gotten inside the red zone over the last two years, they have been able to count on QB Derek Carr. According to TruMedia, Carr ranks fourth in the NFL since 2014 with a total QBR of 83.5 inside the red zone. This season, Carr has thrown eight TDs in the red zone, including a game-winning 12-yarder to WR Seth Roberts to seal the Week 2 victory over the Baltimore Ravens.

AMARI COOPER

FIRST-ROUNDER

WR Amari Cooper was tabbed as the Raiders' first-round draft pick in the 2015 NFL Draft and the fourth-overall selection. He was the highest wide receiver taken in the draft and the first receiver taken by Oakland in the first round since 2009. Despite the hype, the even-keeled Cooper has garnered rave reviews from his college playing days and so far in his young NFL career. While enjoying one of the most dominant careers a wide receiver has ever had at the college level, Cooper is already seeing that success translate to the NFL.

Age Not a Factor: In Week 2, Cooper became the youngest Raiders wide receiver and second youngest player in franchise history to catch a TD pass (Darren McFadden, 21 years and 88 days). In Week 3, Cooper also became the youngest player in franchise history to return a punt at 21-years and 102-days old.

EXPLOSIVE AFTER CATCH

In 2015, Cooper ranks third among NFL wide receivers in yards after catch (YAC) with 318 and ranks tied for seventh among wideouts with 92 yards after contact, according to TruMedia.

Cooper has the most yards after catch and yards after contact of any rookie wide receiver through eight games, according to TruMedia records dating back to 2001. Marques Colston (NO, 2006) had the next highest YAC total through eight games with 263.

Cooper ranks 15th among rookie wide receivers since 2001 in both yards after catch and yards after contact.

THREE 100-YARD GAMES

In his first six games, Cooper had three 100-yard outings, including a career-high 134 yards in Week 3 against Cleveland (9/27).

Cooper is the first NFL rookie since 1961 (Mike Ditka) with three 100-yard receiving games in his team's first six games.

Cooper joins DeSean Jackson (2008) as the only NFL rookies in the past 30 years with two 100-yard receiving games in their team's first three games.

In Week 3 at Cleveland (8 rec., 134 yds), Cooper became the first Raiders rookie with 100 receiving yards in back-to-back games since James Jett (Nov. 21-28, 1993).

Cooper is tied with Mike Evans (TB, 2014) for the fourth most 100-yard games by an NFL player 21-or-younger. Keenan Allen (SD, 2013) leads the pack with five 100-yard games before he turned 22.

RECORD RECEPTION PACE

It took Amari Cooper just eight games to set the franchise record for receptions by a rookie, passing Zach Miller's mark of 44 in 16 games (2007). With 45 receptions through eight games, Cooper's catching pace threatens several NFL and franchise receiving records. His eight-game catch total is the sixth most by a rookie since 1960:

MOST RECEPTIONS BY ROOKIE THROUGH FIRST 8 GAMES (SINCE 1960)

Rank	Player	Team	Year	Receptions

T-4th	Reggie Bush	NO	2006	46
T-4th	Eddie Royal	Den.	2008	46
6th	Amari Cooper	Oak.	2015	45

- Cooper has three seven-reception games, tied for third most by a rookie through eight games since 1960.
- Cooper is also the first Raiders rookie with six five-reception games. He is on pace to tie the rookie record of 12 five-catch games shared by Terry Glenn (1996) and Anquan Boldin (2003).
- He is the first rookie wide receiver since at least 1960 with at least four receptions in each of his first eight games.

ALL-TIME PRODUCTION

Cooper has been picking up yards in big chunks, as he already has nine receptions of 20-plus yards. His receiving yardage total through eight games is the fifth most by an NFL rookie since 1960:

MOST REC. YARDS BY ROOKIE THROUGH FIRST 8 GAMES (SINCE 1960)

Rank	Player	Team	Year	Rec. Yds	Rec.

4.	Charlie Brown	Was.	1982	662	29
5.	Amari Cooper	Oak.	2015	653	38

- Cooper currently ranks fourth in team history for receiving yards by a rookie. He needs 118 yards to tie James Jett (771 in 1993) for the team rookie record.
- Cooper's three touchdown receptions of 25-or-more yards are tied for the second most by a Raiders rookie since 2001 (Denarius Moore, four in 2011). The most by any rookie since 2001 is five, last done by Kenny Stills in 2013.

QUOTES ON COOPER

"He is a pro. He is a legit pro and he's been a pro even when he wasn't a pro. He is gym rat who just only wants to play football. On the field, he's just polished. ... He is smart enough and savvy enough to do a lot of things, and that's great. If he's the kind of player that the Raiders think and a lot of other people around the NFL think, then you're going to have to find ways to get him out of double coverage, and moving him around will help." - NFL Network reporter Ian Rapoport

"They have their new Tim Brown. He's very much like Tim Brown, very explosive, got speed to burn, really going to strike fear into the opposing team." - Pro Football Hall of Fame and former Raiders WR Jerry Rice

SEBASTIAN JANIKOWSKI

ALL-TIME RAIDER

In Week 5 vs. Denver, K Sebastian Janikowski passed Hall of Famer and former Raiders WR Tim Brown and moved into first place on the Raiders' all-time games played list. Janikowski, who has played in 244 games, was originally drafted by the team in the first round (17th overall) of the 2000 NFL Draft. Since 2000, Janikowski has missed only four games over his career (two in 2000, one in 2001 and one in 2011). Including postseason play, Janikowski has played in 251 games in Silver and Black for his career.

Moving up the all-time games played list for a franchise as historic as the Raiders takes longevity, and Janikowski has it. Here is the top four Raiders on the all-time games played list heading into this week's game:

Rank	Player	Years	Games
1.	Sebastian Janikowski	2000-15	244
2.	Tim Brown	1988-2003	240
3.	Gene Upshaw	1967-81	217
4.	Jim Otto	1960-74	210

HITTING FROM A DISTANCE

Known for his booming leg, K Sebastian Janikowski is in historic company when it comes to long-distance field goals. With three more field goals over 50 yards, Janikowski will pass Jason Hanson's mark of 52.

Since 2001, Janikowski has connected on 50 field goals of 50-or-more yards. The next closest player on that list is Josh Brown, who has made only 35 field goals of 50-or-more yards.

Of his 15 completed seasons in the NFL, Janikowski has made at least two field goals of 50-or-more yards in 11 of those seasons. His career percentage from 50-plus yards is 55.5 percent, including connecting on 7-of-10 from distance in 2011.

GAME-WINNERS

K Sebastian Janikowski kicked two game-winning field goals in 2012. His 43-yard field goal as time expired against the Steelers on Sept. 23, 2012 marked his 12th career game-winning field goal, and his overtime game-winner against Jacksonville came from 40 yards out and marked the 13th of his career. RACKING UP THE POINTS

K Sebastian Janikowski is the Raiders' all-time scoring leader with 1,637 career points, which ranks 15th on the NFL's all-time scoring list.

Janikowski has posted eight seasons of 100-or-more points in his career, including a personal- and franchise-high of 142 in 2010. He has never totaled less than 70 points in any full campaign.

He has scored in at least 80 consecutive games twice in his career, tallying at least one point in 93 straight games from 2000-05 and 83 straight games from 2009-14.

As a rookie in 2000, Janikowski set the franchise's rookie scoring record with 112 points.

PINPOINT ACCURACY

K Sebastian Janikowski has been nearly automatic throughout his career, connecting on 80.2 percent of his field goal attempts, which is the 12th best percentage of any kicker with at least 400 career field goal attempts.

Janikowski has connected on 217 straight extra point attempts, including all 24 this season at the new extra point attempt distance.

Janikowski has totaled nine seasons with at least an 80 percent field goal conversion rate, including a high of 91.2 percent in 2012, when he was named a first alternate for the Pro Bowl.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

SMITH'S SACKS

LB Aldon Smith joined the Raiders on Sept. 11 of this year looking to make an impact for the Silver and Black. Throughout his career, Smith has been a disruptive force for opposing offensive lines and quarterbacks, as he has notched 46.5 sacks in just 58 games played. He has also risen to the occasion in the postseason, recording 5.5 sacks in eight postseason contests.

Career Honors

2011: Defensive Rookie of the Year by Pro Football Writers of America, All-Rookie Team by PFWA, USA Today's All-Joe Team, Linebacker of the Year by NFL Alumni, NFL Defensive Rookie of the Month (October and December/January), Pepsi NFL Rookie of the Week (Week 5 and Week 6)

2012: Associated Press first-team All Pro, PFWA first-team All Pro, Sporting News All Pro, ESPN All Pro, 2013 Pro Bowl starter, NFC Defensive Player of the Month (November), NFC Defensive Player of the Week (Week 11), USA Football All-Fundamentals Team

Career Highlights

- Posted 33.5 sacks in his first two NFL seasons, the most by a player in their first two years in NFL history and are the most by any player in consecutive seasons in 49ers history.
- From 2011-14, his 44 career sacks were eighth most in the NFL during that span.
- Reached 30.5 sacks in just 27 games, marking the least amount of games for any player in NFL history to hit the 30-sack plateau.
- His 19.5 sacks in 2012 led the NFC and set a San Francisco single-season record.

During the 2012 season, he pledged $5,099 for each sack earned to be split between the Boys and Girls Clubs of the Peninsula and the Boys and Girls Clubs of San Francisco. As a product of the Boys and Girls Clubs himself growing up, his 19.5 total sacks resulted in a donation of $99,432 to help support the children and teens in the community by keeping them safe, academically focused, physically and emotionally healthy and equipped with job-readiness skills.

MEAT AND POTATOES

Over the last two offseasons, the Raiders' interior defensive line got a sizeable upgrade. Oakland drafted DT Justin Ellis (6-foot-2, 335 pounds) in the fourth round of the 2014 NFL Draft and signed DT Dan Williams (6-foot-2, 330 pounds) as an unrestricted free agent this past offseason.

Tasked with fortifying the Raiders' run defense, "meat and potatoes" are among the biggest interior defensive linemen in the league. The Raiders have held their opponent to less than two yards per rush in a game seven times since 2012, and they will look to add to that number in 2015 with Ellis and Williams clogging the middle.

"We call them 'meat and potatoes.' They eat up that middle and they send that running back to the high side and create that gap and create that push-back that we need in the middle to make it bounce. It's going to be fun, it's going to be fun, and we like to play football like that." - Raiders DE Khalil Mack

"So to be able to have [Williams and Ellis] and those guys in the front, we feel like you shouldn't be able to run the ball on us. Really, if you put those guys up there, we should be a pretty stout defense. That's what we're counting on." - Raiders S Charles Woodson

MAN IN THE MIDDLE

LB Curtis Lofton was signed as a free agent this offseason, solidifying the Raiders defense up the middle. Lofton, who has made stops with the Atlanta Falcons and New Orleans Saints, is a tackling machine, recording at least 100 tackles in each of his first seven NFL seasons. He also set a career high and Saints franchise record with 185 tackles last season. Below is a look at his career

SUPER BOWL XLVIII MVP

Coming over from the Seattle Seahawks in the offseason, LB Malcolm Smith has big-game pedigree. Appearing in eight postseason games over the last three years, Smith has totaled 27 tackles (16 solo), two interceptions, two passes defended and one fumble recovery. In Seattle's win over the Denver Broncos in Super Bowl XLVIII, Smith earned Super Bowl MVP honors after posting nine tackles (five solo), one fumble recovery and one interception returned 69 yards for a touchdown. Smith also intercepted 49ers QB Colin Kaepernick in the final seconds of the 2014 NFC Championship Game, clinching a victory over San Francisco and a Super Bowl berth.

This season, Smith has helped solidify the Raiders' linebacking corps. Playing at both outside and middle linebacker, Smith is the team's leading tackler with 72 and second on the team with three sacks. He has also recorded one interception, nearly returning it for a touchdown.

SAFETY NET

The Raiders added a reliable member of the secondary in free agency this past offseason, signing S Nate Allen in March. Allen joins Oakland following five seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles, where he played in 74 games and made 69 starts. Originally a second-round pick in 2010, Allen has totaled 10 career interceptions and 28 passes defended.

Allen was placed on the reserve/injured - designated for return list after suffering an injury in Week 1. He is eligible to return for the team's Week 10 game vs. Minnesota.

Career Highlights

- Posted a career-high four interceptions, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries in 2014.
- Tallied a career-high 94 tackles in 2013 as he started all 16 games for the first time in his career.
- As a rookie, earned NFL Defensive Rookie of the Month honors for September 2010 after recording 19 tackles (13 solo), two interceptions and one sack in three games.
- Became the only rookie in Eagles history to record at least three interceptions and two sacks in his rookie campaign.

DJ AT CORNER

The Raiders' first-round selection (No. 12 overall) in the 2013 NFL Draft, CB DJ Hayden has come a long way. After suffering a life-threatening injury to his heart in November 2012, Hayden played a major role in Oakland's defensive makeover. In his rookie year, Hayden recorded 29 tackles and two PD. In the Week 7 victory over San Diego this season, Hayden recorded his first interception of the season, as well as recording a career-high 10 tackles.

DYNAMIC TJ

Bay Area-native CB TJ Carrie was drafted by the Raiders in the seventh round of the 2014 NFL Draft and immediately showed he belongs. Carrie proved to be one of Oakland's most versatile players last season, contributing on defense and special teams. Not only did he handle his assignment as one of the team's top cornerbacks, he also served as the team's primary punt returner and took over returning kickoffs midway through the season.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

MURRAY MAKES HISTORY

RB Latavius Murray emerged onto the scene late in 2014, totaling 424 rushing yards on 82 carries (5.2 avg.) in six games since Week 11. Murray, who spent the 2013 season on the reserve/injured list, made a name for himself in his sophomore campaign, getting the majority of the carries down the stretch last season.

So far in 2015, Murray has 630 rushing yards on 132 carries (4.8 avg.) with a long of 54 and three touchdowns. Here are some notes on Murray's start:

- Murray is on pace to be the first Raiders to rush for 1,000 yards since Darren McFadden did it in 2010.
- His 630 rushing yards are first in the AFC and sixth in the NFL.
- His 734 yards from scrimmage are tied for ninth among NFL running backs.

-----2014 VS. KANSAS CITY-----

In Week 12 of last season against Kansas City, Murray burst onto the scene on national television, producing 112 rushing yards on just four carries (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns before leaving the game due to injury. Here are a few notes from Murray's breakthrough performance:

Murray scored his first career touchdown on an 11-yard run around the left end in the first quarter and added a 90-yard rushing touchdown in the second quarter. Murray finished with four carries for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, making him the Raiders' first 100-yard rusher since Marcel Reece ran for 123 yards at NYJ on 12/8/13.

Murray is the first player in NFL history to gain at least 110 rushing yards on five or fewer carries in a game, posting four rushes for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, all in the first half.

Murray's 11-yard touchdown run in the first quarter was the first rushing touchdown allowed by the Kansas City Chiefs in their last 12 games (12/22/13 vs. Ind.). It was also the Raiders' third rushing touchdown of the season and the first since 10/19 vs. Arizona.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown run was the Raiders' second rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards since 1998 and the longest by a Raider since Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score against the Steelers on Oct. 27, 2013.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown was the longest offensive scoring play in the NFL in 2014 and the fourth rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards in Raiders history (last: Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score vs. Pit., 10/27/13).

THE LEAD BACK

Since 2009, FB Marcel Reece has been lethal out of the backfield when it comes to picking up big yards through the air. Reece, who is second in the NFL during this time in average yards per reception among active RBs and FBs, averages 10.0 yards per catch.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

CRAB CROSSES THE BAY

When the Raiders signed WR Michael Crabtree in April, they immediately upgraded their offense with a proven performer. After being selected by the San Francisco 49ers in the first round (10th overall) of the 2009 NFL Draft, Crabtree has caught at least one pass in each of his 87 games played. Before joining the NFL ranks, "Crab" turned in one of the most prolific receiving careers in college football history, winning the Biletnikoff Award - given to the nation's most outstanding wide receiver - in each of his two seasons at Texas Tech. He was the first and only player to win the coveted award twice.

Career Highlights

- Became the first 49ers player since WR Terrell Owens in 2003 to post a 1,000-yard receiving season, tallying a career year in 2012 with 85 receptions for 1,105 yards and nine touchdowns.
- Registered two 100-yard receiving games in the 2012 postseason with three touchdown receptions.
- Has registered at least three receptions in 74 of his 87 career games.

Awards and Honors

- Named to USA Today's All-Joe Team in 2012

2015 Highlights

- In Week 2, Crabtree (nine rec., 111 yards) and WR Amari Cooper (seven rec., 109 yards) became the first pair of Raiders receivers to each post 100 receiving yards and a touchdown in a game since 2005.

RIVERA STEPS UP

TE Mychal Rivera proved to be one of QB Derek Carr's favorite targets last season, as he finished second on the team with 58 receptions and third with 534 receiving yards. Since being drafted in the sixth round of the 2013 NFL Draft, Rivera has emerged as a reliable tight end, providing a security blanket for quarterbacks. In Week 14 vs.

San Francisco in 2014, Rivera posted a career high with 109 receiving yards on seven catches and one touchdown, becoming the first Raiders tight end since 2012 to eclipse 100 yards receiving in a game.

DURABLE PENN

T Donald Penn joined the Raiders prior to the 2014 season after he was released from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Last season, Penn was widely considered one of the better left tackles in the league and helped Oakland yield only 28 sacks on the year, good for sixth in the NFL.

Since 2007, Penn has been one of the most durable players in the NFL. He has played in 136 consecutive games and started 132 consecutive games. Both of the totals are second in the NFL during that time frame among offensive lineman. His streak is now in its ninth season in 2015.

Originally signed by the Minnesota Vikings as an undrafted free agent in 2006 out of Utah State - where he started 44 consecutive games - Penn earned Pro Bowl honors after the 2010 season, when he helped the Buccaneers to one of the best offensive seasons in franchise history.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

PUNTING KING

In his first season as the Raiders' punter in 2013, P Marquette King put up numbers among the NFL's best in both gross average and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards, King finished sixth in the league and led the NFL in gross punting with an average of 48.9.

King continued his punting success into his second season in 2014, ranking at the top of the league in punts, punting yards and punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. In 2014, he set Raider franchise records for punts (109) and punting yards (4,930). He led the league in both categories.

HISTORICAL PUNTER

In 2013, P Marquette King became the third punter in franchise history to lead the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. It was the eighth time since 1974 that a Raiders punter has led the league in the category. Shance Lechler accomplished the feat four times, and newly-inducted Hall of Famer Ray Guy did it three times. Below is a look at the seasons a Raiders punter has led the league in gross average:

Season	Player	Avg.
2013	Marquette King	48.9
2009	Shane Lechler	51.1
2007	Shane Lechler	49.1
2004	Shane Lechler	46.7
2003	Shane Lechler	46.9
1977	Ray Guy	43.3
1975	Ray Guy	43.8

STEADY SNAPPER

LS Jon Condo has been a constant for the Raiders' special teams for many years. Condo has appeared in 136 consecutive games for the Silver and Black, snapping on field goal attempts and punts. He also has 39 career special teams tackles.

- He has earned two trips to the Pro Bowl, in 2009 and 2011.
- Has two fumble recoveries on special teams.
- Hasn't missed a game since taking over the team's long-snap duties in 2007.

LIMITING RETURNS

P Marquette King is one of the best in the game at putting air under his punts, evidenced by the seven fair catches opponents have made on 35 punts this season. In 2015, opposing punt returners have been limited to only 13 return attempts for 65 yards (5.0 avg.). As a result, King's net punting average continues to rank near the top of the NFL.

Raiders' late comeback not enough as Steelers win, 38-35

By Jimmy Durkin

November 8, 2015

PITTSBURGH -- The Raiders had no answer for Antonio Brown, and that offset an inspired offensive performance in a 38-35 loss Sunday to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Oakland (4-4) allowed a franchise-record 597 yards to the Steelers (5-4), and Brown caught 17 passes for 284 yards, including a 57-yard catch-and-run in the final minute to set up Chris Boswell's winning 18-yard field goal with two seconds left.

That spoiled a valiant comeback by the Raiders, who roared back to life after falling behind by two touchdowns.

"I think we let the team down," safety Charles Woodson said of the Raiders' defense. "When your offense is able to put up the amount of points they did today, we were the weak link. That's tough when you're not carrying your weight."

The Raiders came into the game occupying the AFC's top wild-card playoff spot but now hit the halfway point looking up from the No. 8 spot in the conference. It was their first loss in three games.

Derek Carr passed for 301 yards and threw four touchdown passes for the second straight week, the first Raiders quarterback to do so in 41 years.

Carr connected with Michael Crabtree for a 38-yard touchdown with 1:15 to go that had him thinking overtime, but a Raiders defense that was torched most of the game couldn't stop the Steelers, even with quarterback Ben Roethlisberger carted off the field with a left foot injury.

"We had a great opportunity, but we let them pop a little screen there," Raiders coach Jack Del Rio said. "They did a good job executing the play and got themselves in position to kick the winner."

Landry Jones was forced into the game after Roethlisberger was injured in the fourth quarter while being sacked by Aldon Smith, the only sack of the game by either team.

On the game's biggest play, Brown cut in to catch a short pass, and Martavis Bryant's route helped set a screen that took David Amerson and DJ Hayden out of the play. By the time Woodson could catch Brown, Pittsburgh had the ball at the 15-yard line and kicked the game-winner three plays later.

It was another game effort on the road for the Raiders, who brought an 11-game road losing streak into this season and had lost 16 straight in the Eastern time zone before winning at Cleveland on Sept. 27. The Raiders are 2-2 away from Oakland this year, with both losses coming on last-second field goals.

"It hurts to be so close," Carr said. "It really does. We have a great group of guys, not just on offense. This team is a very resilient bunch. Things started to fall apart, and we just kept fighting. That's good to see."

The one play Carr would've liked to have back came with Oakland down 35-28 with 4:31 remaining. The Raiders had overcome a quick 14-point blitz by Pittsburgh, which scored twice in 53 seconds thanks to a Taiwan Jones fumble on a kickoff return that set up the second score.

Oakland's initial response came with an explosive four-play drive, capped by a Jamize Olawale 19-yard touchdown run. The Raiders got the ball back, and their offense sputtered before catching a break. Brown, returning his first punt of the game, fumbled and Ray-Ray Armstrong jumped on it at the Steelers' 39.

The Raiders got down to the 11-yard line and on third down, Carr tried to hit Clive Walford in the end zone. But Pittsburgh's Ross Cockrell jumped in front of the pass for the interception.

"They gave us a look that we liked," Carr said. "I tried to throw it in the spot for our guy to make a play. Their guy made the play."

The Raiders' hopes remained alive when an offensive pass interference call negated a Steelers' third-down conversion and Pittsburgh had to punt with 2:22 to play.

Carr, with Oakland starting at its own 31, quickly hit Amari Cooper for 9 yards, then found Mychal Rivera for 8 yards on third down.

Carr converted another third down when he found Crabtree for 14 yards, and one play later, it was Carr to Crabtree up the middle of the field for the 38-yard tying touchdown.

But the Raiders defense couldn't get the stop it needed. DeAngelo Williams, starting in place of the injured Le'Veon Bell, rushed for 19 yards on first down, although a holding penalty brought most of it back. Jones picked up 5 yards on a pass to Heath Miller, then threw incomplete on a deep shot to Bryant. The big play to Brown converted a third-and-2 and delivered the heartbreaking loss to Oakland.

"We're doing a lot of good things," Del Rio said of the comeback that fell short. "We'll stick together. At the end of the day, we didn't make plays when we had the opportunity to win the game."

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Raiders fall to Steelers on late field goal

By Vic Tafur

November 8, 2015

PITTSBURGH — The Raiders went haymaker for haymaker with a desperate Steelers team Sunday, but in the end, it was the self-inflicted damage that cost them in a thrilling 38-35 loss at Heinz Field. And they were a little stunned and punch-drunk in the locker room afterward.

"I'm sad," receiver Michael Crabtree said. "It was a lost opportunity."

Oakland couldn't overcome four second-half turnovers, even though it did score twice in the fourth quarter to tie the game 35-35. The Raiders also couldn't cover Antonio Brown — he had a franchise-record 284 yards receiving — and he took advantage of a bad scheme and poor coverage for a 57-yard catch that set up the winning field goal.

Chris Boswell tapped in an 18-yard field goal with two seconds left to give the Steelers (5-4) a win they had to have and drop the Raiders to 4-4. Backup quarterback Landry Jones threw that pass to Brown after Pittsburgh starter Ben Roethlisberger was carted off with a left foot injury.

"If you put up 35 points, you should win," said Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio, whose team gave up a franchise-record 597 yards total offense. "If you win the turnover battle, you win the game. We didn't."

Brown had a franchise-record 17 catches for his 284 yards, 180 of which came in the first half. That last pass was an underneath route against man coverage. Cornerback David Amerson took a bad angle and might not have gotten Brown down even if Pittsburgh receiver Markus Wheaton hadn't picked him off. "Landry put a great ball out in front of me, and I was able to catch it with my hands," Brown said. "And I was off to the races."

Brown turned inside after the catch and then ran back outside, away from safety Charles Woodson, before running out of real estate at the 15-yard line.

"Honestly, I felt like I could have put in a better call," Del Rio said. "We can do a better job to help our guys get in better position."

Though man coverage wasn't the answer there, it often didn't matter what type of coverage the Raiders used on Brown, who's 5-foot-10.

"Several of those plays when he was making plays, we actually had him doubled," Del Rio said.

The Raiders fell behind 35-21 on two Pittsburgh touchdowns in a span of 49 seconds early in the fourth quarter, sandwiched around a Taiwan Jones fumble on the kickoff. Martavis Bryant danced around DJ Hayden and Woodson on a 14-yard reception, and tight end Jesse James then scored on a 4-yard pass with 11:24 left after Jones' fumble was recovered by the Steelers on the 6-yard line.

Carr, who threw for 301 yards and four touchdowns, led the Raiders back. Jamize Olawale capped a 60-yard drive with a 19-yard touchdown run, and then Carr hit Crabtree for a 38-yard scoring pass to tie the game with 1:15 left.

Carr had hit Crabtree on a 22-yard touchdown pass 2:50 into the game. Crabtree, who finished with 108 yards receiving, high-pointed the ball and held onto it when former Oakland safety Mike Mitchell took out his legs.

Mitchell was a one-man wrecking crew. He knocked running back Latavius Murray out of the game in the third quarter, and Murray lost the ball on the play. Murray also fumbled early in the third quarter, and Mitchell would have had a 25-yard touchdown return had he not been out of bounds before he picked up the ball.

Carr threw an interception in the fourth quarter to kill a scoring drive, and Marcus Thigpen lost the ball on a lateral on the kickoff with two seconds left for the other two second-half turnovers.

The Raiders had no turnovers during their two-game winning streak coming into the game.

That wasn't the only glaring difference from the wins over the Chargers and Jets. The Raiders, who came into Sunday with the No. 2 run defense, also couldn't stop backup running back DeAngelo Williams, who stutter-stepped his way to 170 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

The Steelers and Jets pulled back ahead of the Raiders in the AFC playoff race because of not only Williams, replacing injured Le'Veon Bell, but also because Jones completed 4 of 6 passes in the final minutes.

"That wasn't supposed to happen," defensive end Khalil Mack said.

Raiders' 3 notables

Offensive line: Kept Derek Carr clean even though he threw 44 times, and opened big holes for Latavius Murray, Marcel Reece and Jamize Olawale.

David Amerson, DJ Hayden: The cornerbacks finally had the day of reckoning that many thought was coming. Antonio Brown had 284 yards on 17 catches.

Taiwan Jones: His fumble on a kickoff return gave the Steelers seven points. He is an explosive player, but the reason former head coach Dennis Allen had moved RB to CB was ball security.

Instant Replay: Raiders shredded by Brown, Williams in loss

By Scott Bair

November 8, 2015

PITTSBURGH — The Raiders were down two scores in the fourth quarter, without momentum or time on their side.

No matter. The Silver and Black never stopped fighting. They caught a few breaks, kept their foot on the gas and found a way to tie it late.

Somehow.

The Raiders overcame three second-half turnovers and erased a 14-point deficit. Then Antonio Brown did his thing. The Steelers wide receiver punctuated a career day with a 57-yard catch and run that put his team in position to win it 38-35 with a late field goal.

Brown torched the Raiders all day, recording 17 catches on a whopping 23 targets for 284 yards. He beat them at the end without Ben Roethlisberger, who left the game early in the fourth quarter with a foot injury.

The field goal by Chris Boswell nullified an excellent comeback attempt from the Raiders. They chopped the lead to one score with a touchdown run by Jamize Olawale, and then tied it late on a 38-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Derek Carr to Michael Crabtree.

The Raiders were good, not good enough on defense when it mattered most.

Carr's interception with roughly four minutes left was hurtful, but Taiwan Jones' fumble was a back breaker. His mistake came returning a kickoff and allowed the Steelers to score two touchdowns in 49 seconds in a series that changed the course of this game.

The Raiders will rue an opportunity missed to beat a good team on the road. They had chances, and could've sent the game to overtime had they held stronger at the end or found a way to tackle Brown.

The Carr-Crabtree connection concluded an excellent two-minute drill and made many forget about the interception he threw earlier in the fourth quarter.

This game was a close one most of the way.

The Raiders tied the game at 21-21 midway through the third quarter with Carr's third touchdown pass, a one-yard connection that punctuated a nine-play, 90-yard drive extended by Seth Roberts' 36-yard catch.

David Amerson kept positive momentum with an interception in Steelers territory, but the Raiders gave the ball right back. Latavius Murray lost a fumble after taking a huge from former Raiders safety Mike Mitchell. Murray was down on the field for a while following the hit, which included clear helmet-to-helmet contact.

Murray did not return to the game and was evaluated for a concussion. The Steelers could not turn that turnover into points, as their ensuing drive ended with a missed field goal.

Pittsburgh took a 28-21 lead early in the fourth quarter on a 14-yard touchdown catch and run from Martavius Bryant. The Jones' fumble happened, and the Raiders were fighting from behind the rest of the way.

Murray takes shot to head: Raiders running back Latavius Murray was hit hard in the third quarter by Steelers safety Mike Mitchell, who put the crown of his helmet into Murray's chin to stop a 2-yard reception.

Murray, who was having a solid day running the football, did not return and was evaluated for a concussion it seemed clear that he suffered.

Murray finished with 96 rushing yards on 17 carries.

Raiders suffer a Brown-out: Steelers receiver Antonio Brown torched the Raiders secondary on Sunday afternoon, and was the primary catalyst of Steelers production.

He had 10 catches for 180 yards in the first half alone, including a pair of deep passes that led to Steelers touchdowns. The Raiders struggled to cover him one-on-one, and he got open consistently no matter how much attention was paid.

Another quick strike: The Raiders scored a touchdown on their opening drive for the third straight week, with a pair of big plays that moved the Silver and Black downfield fast.

Latavius Murray's first carry of the game went for 44 yards through the interior, and Derek Carr found Michael Crabtree in the end zone for a 22-yard touchdown. The Raiders had opening touchdowns against the Chargers and Jets, which helped secure victories in those games.

Sitting it out: Safety TJ Carrie was questionable to play Sunday with shoulder and hip ailments, and trainers held the game-time decision out of an important game. Larry Asante started for Carrie alongside Charles Woodson, though Taylor Mays played lots of defense as well.

Other Raiders inactives: CB Dexter McDonald, RB Roy Helu, LB Neiron Ball, OLs Matt McCants and Jon Feliciano and WR Rod Streater.

What's next: The Raiders have one game left in a difficult stretch against quality opposition. They complete the run with a home date with the Minnesota Vikings, who feature Adrian Peterson and a surprisingly stout defense.

Late rally not enough as Raiders fall to Steelers 38-35

By Will Graves

November 8, 2015

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Oakland Raiders are no longer pushovers. The evidence came into stunning view on Sunday in Pittsburgh.

There was Derek Carr matching Ben Roethlisberger throw for throw. The Raiders were overcoming three turnovers to rally from a 14-point deficit to tie it on the road with 75 seconds remaining.

Then just as quickly, the potentially watershed moment vanished. There was Steelers' wide receiver Antonio Brown dashing 57 yards. There was kicker Chris Boswell nailing an 18-yard field goal with 2 seconds left to send Oakland to a 38-35 defeat.

"Things started to fall apart and we just kept fighting," Carr said. "That's good to see. In this league, you have to win football games."

And as encouraging as Oakland's first half of 2015 has been, the Raiders aren't quite there yet. Given a chance to reach the midway point with a winning record for the first time since 2001, the Raiders took a minor step back when they couldn't cover Brown or tackle DeAngelo Williams. Brown set a Steelers' record with 17 catches for 284 yards while Williams ran for 170 yards and two scores.

"I think we let the team down," Raiders safety Charles Woodson said. "When your offense puts up the amount of points that they did today, you'd think that you would win the game. So, it's tough when you're not carrying your weight."

Carr threw for 301 yards with four touchdowns and an interception for the Raiders (4-4), including a pretty 38-yard rainbow to Michael Crabtree with 1:15 to go that knotted the game at 35. Pittsburgh backup quarterback Landry Jones, filling in after Roethlisberger exited with a left foot injury, then hit Brown over the middle. The All Pro spun and darted down the sideline to the Oakland 15.

"I really don't know what to say but 'Wow,'" Woodson said.

"It's a tough one," Oakland cornerback David Amerson said. "It's definitely not something that the secondary is proud of. We know that we're better than that."

Michael Crabtree caught seven passes for 108 yards and two scores. Rookie Amari Cooper added seven receptions for 88 yards and a touchdown. Running back Latavius Murray ran for 96 yards before leaving in the third quarter with concussion-like symptoms. Murray did not return after going through the concussion protocol.

Pittsburgh appeared to be firmly in control early in the fourth quarter, scoring two touchdowns in the span of three snaps. Roethlisberger threw a little bubble screen to Martavis Bryant that Bryant turned into a nifty 14-yard touchdown. Oakland's Taiwan Jones fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Pittsburgh's Roosevelt Nix fell on it at the Raiders' 6. Roethlisberger pump faked rookie tight end Jesse James open in the back of the end zone and Pittsburgh was up 35-21.

The giddiness in the fourth-largest crowd ever at Heinz Field quickly faded. The Raiders drew within a touchdown on a 19-yard sprint by Jamize Olawale and Pittsburgh's next possession ended with Roethlisberger hopping off the field after all 265 pounds of Smith landed on Roethlisberger's foot. Roethlisberger missed four games earlier this season with a sprained left knee.

Ross Cockrell picked off Carr in the end zone on Oakland's ensuing possession, but Carr collected himself to tie the game with a pretty strike to Crabtree to pull Oakland even. Carr now has 19 touchdowns and just four picks on the year, though he wasn't exactly in the mood to reflect after letting it slip away.

"We could have done so much more," Carr said. "That's the thing that hurts me. When we lose close games like this, I'm hard on myself."

The Raiders have been one of the league's bigger surprises in coach Jack Del Rio's first year. Decisive wins over San Diego and the New York Jets thrust Oakland firmly into the playoff mix at the midpoint. And despite the franchise's issues since its last playoff appearance in 2002, the Raiders have owned the Steelers, going 4-1 against Pittsburgh since 2006 compared to 43-103 against the rest of the league.

NOTES: Woodson left the game three times with minor injuries but returned each time. ... Oakland was flagged just three times for 21 yards. ... The Raiders host Minnesota next Sunday. ... Roethlisberger was taken for an MRI on his injured foot and his status was not immediately known.

Looking into Jack Del Rio's past for clues about the future

By Jerry McDonald

September 13, 2015

From the time he was a kid growing up in Hayward until his early 30s, Jack Del Rio was too busy playing football to think much about coaching it.

But it's telling that his coaches, from youth sports to Hayward High to John Robinson at USC, remain close friends and mentors. As his career as an NFL linebacker progressed, Del Rio began to see himself as a budding NFL head coach.

He learned about enthusiasm and dedication from Jimmy Johnson while a member of the Dallas Cowboys from 1989 to 1991. Then he moved on to the Minnesota Vikings, where head coach Dennis Green, defensive coordinator Tony Dungy and offensive coordinator Brian Billick provided a triple shot of coaching philosophy and wisdom.

Yet upon retirement, after Johnson had cut him from the Miami Dolphins in 1996, Del Rio was all set to begin his second career as a financial consultant. He'd even spent the previous four offseasons with Merrill Lynch.

But football wouldn't let him go. At Dungy's urging, Del Rio decided to see what the football coaching market had to bear. It was yet another coaching giant, Mike Ditka, who hired him as an assistant with the New Orleans Saints in 1997. (An eight-year stint as head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars would begin in 2003.)

So how will Del Rio, hired by the Raiders in January, fare in his second head coaching stint? We posed that question to the list of top-shelf NFL coaches who helped shape the football leader he is today.

JIMMY JOHNSON

Del Rio signed with the Cowboys in 1989 after two years with the Kansas City Chiefs, the same season Johnson was hired from the University of Miami.

Johnson ran a brutally tough camp and turned over most of the roster within three seasons, during which time the Cowboys went from 1-15 to 7-9 to 11-5. Del Rio, a starting linebacker all three seasons, had a role in turning around a failing NFL franchise.

"Jack was smart, tough, very much a leader," Johnson said. "We didn't talk about it at the time, but I could certainly tell he had all the qualities he would need to be a head coach. Later, when he had a chance to be the head coach in Jacksonville, I recommended him highly."

Del Rio recalled Johnson's physical, two-a-day practices in the sweltering heat of Austin, Texas. Regardless of the conditions, Johnson demanded to see a fire from his team every day.

"Jimmy Johnson reminded me of the passion necessary to play at a high level, the commitment necessary," Del Rio said.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio departed as an unrestricted free agent just as the Cowboys were headed to their first Super Bowl championship under Johnson. But he signed on for a second dose of Johnson when the coach joined Miami in 1996.

With the Dolphins, Del Rio learned firsthand that a head coach must make tough decisions. Johnson cut Del Rio because of the presence of Zach Thomas, a fifth-round draft pick out of Texas Tech.

"Releasing Jack was one of the most difficult things I ever had to do in coaching," Johnson said. "I told him I didn't bring him in to be a second-string player, and I had a young player who was ready to start."

Johnson, a Fox Sports analyst, believes Del Rio and defensive coordinator Ken Norton Jr., a Cowboys linebacker alongside Del Rio, will change the way the Raiders play defense.

"At Dallas, we always tried to be aggressive, and if you look at what Ken did in Seattle, I'm sure that's what they have in mind," Johnson said.

DENNIS GREEN

Green was already a Jack Del Rio fan after watching him play at USC, so it was no surprise that he scooped up the linebacker when a contract agreement couldn't be reached with the Cowboys. Like Johnson had been, Green was in his first year as an NFL head coach.

"We knew we were starting a new program, and when you're trying to rebuild, you want guys who are natural leaders," Green said. "That's what Jack brought us. I think maybe there was a perception his career was over, but we didn't feel that way."

The Vikings went from 8-8 to 11-5 in Green's first year. Del Rio's four-season stretch in Minnesota was his longest with an NFL team.

Green, having worked for the 49ers and Bill Walsh, believed in keeping players fresh with less contact during practices and more work in the classroom. Del Rio responded with his only Pro Bowl season in 1994 at age 31.

"If you're going to run around and be a speed team, you have to be fresh to do that," Green said. "Jack not only helped us, but established his own name as a player."

Green, who was close with Al Davis and whose name came up periodically in Raiders coaching searches, likes Del Rio's chances of turning things around in Oakland.

"He's got to come in and be very insistent. If you want to have the least number of penalties, be insistent on it," Green said. "You want to rely on the tradition of what has been established. I don't care if it was 20 years ago, it's there."

"It's what Al always wanted, and it's a shame he's not here right now because Jack is the kind of guy he's always respected, and he's going to do a great job."

TONY DUNGY

Dungy, Green's defensive coordinator in Minnesota from 1992 through 1995, was the first person to put the bug in Del Rio's ear about coaching when he took over the head job in Tampa Bay.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I told him it's something I thought he'd be good at," Dungy said. "He was intrigued but wanted to play another year. Then Jimmy signed him in Miami, and I was never able to coach with him."

As middle linebacker of the Vikings, Del Rio did more than simply digest Dungy's weekly game plan.

"He was one of those guys who was always wondering not only what we were going to call, but why we were going to call it," Dungy said. "He had a lot of suggestions, and it was a lot of fun coaching him."

Dungy, who led the Bucs to an NFC championship game but didn't win a Super Bowl until he had moved on to the Indianapolis Colts, believes Del Rio's first go-round as a head coach will help him with the Raiders.

"You definitely learn things," Dungy said. "I think the second time you have a little more credibility when you go into training camp and into that first game. He is coming to Oakland with a track record, has coached playoff teams. He's seen what does work, what might not work. And a chance to start over again can be invigorating."

While Del Rio may not have known he was going into coaching, Dungy said he was always looking at the Vikings from the perspective of the entire team and not just his own unit.

"Jack wasn't a guy who was there to play his position and nothing else," Dungy said. "He talked to everybody. He built relationships with the entire team."

BRIAN BILLICK

"I wasn't on the defensive side of the ball, but was around him and you knew he was a very smart player. You knew if he was one of those guys who wanted to get into coaching, he could."

Many former players simply aren't aware of the time demands of an assistant coach, with a fraction of the salary they were getting as players.

"A lot of guys say, 'Yeah, I think I'll coach,' " Billick said. "Then they say, 'You mean I don't get Tuesdays off? I have to be here until how late? And you're going to pay me how much?' "

Billick described Del Rio as a "good player who played beyond his ability," and like Dungy, took notice of how he interacted with teammates and coaches.

When Billick became coach of the Baltimore Ravens, he hired Del Rio to coach a group of linebackers that included Ray Lewis, Jamie Sharper and Peter Boulware.

Billick said Del Rio's reputation as a former player carried some weight initially, but that it was his ability to coach and teach that made him a success.

"You have credibility and players respond to it. But then, it's 'What can you do for me?' " Billick said. "I thought Jack would be a perfect fit for Ray Lewis. Jack was such a well-prepared mental player, and I think Ray tapped into that with Jack more than anything else."

Billick said the timing is right for Del Rio in Oakland.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"They've got a quarterback, they've rectified issues with the checkbook, so to speak," Billick said. "There was a price to pay for a few years, and no question Dennis Allen paid for that. But I think now they've got the potential to go forward with a playoff-caliber team."

MIKE DITKA

Ditka never had Del Rio as a player, but had admired his game from afar. Once Del Rio determined the financial consulting business wasn't for him, Ditka was happy to help him stay in the game.

Del Rio's title was "assistant strength and conditioning coach," but mostly it was a way to get him in the building and get started on his career.

"I reached out because he had a good football mind, I knew he was looking for a job, and it was one of the best decisions we made," Ditka said. "We didn't win a lot of games there, but I take the blame for that. We had good coaches, and Jack was one of them."

Del Rio began working with linebackers in his second season in New Orleans, and Ditka said by the end of the season "he was calling the plays," although not listed as the coordinator.

Mindful of his experience in New Orleans, Ditka thinks Del Rio has a chance to do well in Oakland, but realizes it's a tough job.

"Listen, it hasn't been a bed of roses out there," Ditka said. "I don't think somebody is going to come in and wave the magic wand and change it overnight. The trick is to put the pieces into the puzzle. I think that's what they're trying to do right now, and Jack is a good man to start with."

Del Rio to Raiders: Pride of Hayward comes home

By Daniel Brown

January 14, 2015

Hayward High sits 10.1 miles from the Oakland Coliseum. If all is clear on I-880 North, the commute should take less than 15 minutes.

It took Jack Del Rio almost 34 years. But at long last, the East Bay native, whose father worshipped Raiders stars like Ken Stabler and John Matuszak, will be working for his home team.

The Raiders hired Del Rio, 51, on Wednesday to serve as their next head coach. Among the first to hear the news were Del Rio's old pals from Hayward High. Andy Miller, a friend since the fifth grade, said he got a text from Del Rio early Wednesday morning.

Miller declined to read the exact contents of the exchange but said the message was, essentially: I'm coming home and I'm proud to be leading the Silver & Black.

"It's almost impossible to believe. It's something I've been dreaming about since he got into coaching," Miller said. "To have him come home to the Raiders just boggles the mind."

Del Rio, who graduated in '81, was a three-sport star at Hayward High -- football, baseball and basketball -- and remains closely connected to the school. His former teammates include Don Wakamatsu, the Kansas City

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Royals bench coach and former Seattle Mariners manager, who said Wednesday that he was "thrilled for him. I think it's the perfect place."

Del Rio, previously a head coach with the Jacksonville Jaguars, is the second Hayward High graduate to coach in the NFL. Bill Walsh, a Hall of Famer with the 49ers, played running back at the school.

Wakamatsu, like others who knew Del Rio growing up, recall a player who was good at whatever sport he tried. But they stressed that Raiders fans should know their new coach has brains, too.

Miller, now an attorney in Pleasant Hill, remembered playing alongside the linebacker on the freshman football team. The coach had a "very simple defense," he said, so Del Rio sometimes shrugged off one of the three blitz packages being signaled from the sideline.

"Jack would look over at the coach and get the call and then he would ignore what the coach said and then call his own defense," Miller said. "That was as a freshman."

Around that same time, Miller said Del Rio would come over to his house sometimes and sit there drawing up X's and O's on binder paper. He's hoping he still has a few of those schemes in his boxes of childhood souvenirs.

Wakamatsu, who also grew up to coach at the Coliseum -- as the A's bench coach in 2008 -- said Del Rio "had a great feel for whatever game he played. That leads to where he is now. I think he understood defenses. He understood the bigger picture in whatever he did. It's no shock to me that he's doing all this now."

'WE CAN BEAT ANYBODY'

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, played 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker and made the Pro Bowl in 1994 while with the Minnesota Vikings. In his previous stint as a head coach, he went 68-71 (.489) for the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003-11.

Along the way, friends say, he's demonstrated an attitude his father taught him in Little League. Jack Sr. -- even the other boys called him "Pops" -- was a Raiders fan who admired the way John Madden's teams embraced the underdog role.

"That's really where that mindset of, 'We can beat anybody' came from," said Jim Gurule, who was two years behind Del Rio at Hayward High and grew up to become a distinguished rugby coach. "That's very much from the Raiders days and the Super Bowls that they were winning at that time."

Del Rio remains so grateful to his Hayward High mentors that when he coached against the 49ers at Candlestick Park in 2009, he invited former coaches to the game. That included Jim Bisenius (baseball), Charley Kendall (basketball), Joe Fuccy (basketball) and Jeff Rankin (football).

"There's no question the man I am today, the type of coach I am, they all have shaped who I am," Del Rio said at the time. "I definitely appreciate that. I'm talking about Little League coaches, youth coaches, high school coaches, all the way through."

Del Rio had a lot of coaches because he played a lot of sports. He was a sensational shooter in basketball who once hit a turnaround jumper at the buzzer to beat powerhouse Berkeley High. Wakamatsu said he thinks his friend once topped 50 points in a game. ("He was the prototypical 6-foot-4, 240 guard," he joked.)

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio was also a power-hitting catcher/pitcher/first baseman who went on to spend some time behind the plate at USC. His teammates included a wild-armed left-hander named Randy Johnson, who was recently elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

"Randy had wicked movement. He crossed me up once and got me right in the cup," Del Rio once told The Denver Post. "At UCLA's baseball stadium. And, of course, they all delighted in that."

The Toronto Blue Jays liked him enough to draft him in the 22nd round out of Hayward High in 1981, but his high school teammates knew all along that his future was in football. Del Rio proved that on the same field where he'll soon be coaching.

In the NCS 2A championship at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979, the Hayward High Farmers were being tormented by the brilliant short passing game of Miramonte High quarterback Bryan McKeen.

The Miramonte game plan was smart enough to keep rolling away from Del Rio's side of the field. But early in the third quarter, Del Rio solved the riddle, blasted through the line and delivered a clean but potent hit that left McKeen with a broken collarbone.

Hayward went on to beat the Matadors 12-10 for the title.

Miller, who also played in that game, can't believe Del Rio will now be calling NFL plays from the same sideline.

"It's such a Hollywood story," said Miller, a Raiders season-ticket holder since 1995. "I've been imploring him to come save this franchise for a long time. Now, it's a remarkable day today. And my phone has just been blowing up."

Raiders' choice of Del Rio ushers in new era

By Jerry McDonald

January 14, 2015

The Raiders decided on a head coach from their own backyard rather than one from their own building Wednesday.

Jack Del Rio, 51, grew up a Raiders fan with East Bay roots as a three-sport star athlete at Hayward High, which makes for an interesting story even if it has little to do with why he was hired over interim coach Tony Sparano.

An announcement isn't expected until Thursday. According to CSN-Bay Area, the press conference will be Friday.

Del Rio, the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator the past two seasons, was busy lining up possibilities for a coaching staff even before details of a reported four-year contract were being worked out. The Associated Press reported Sparano was told Wednesday morning he was out of the running.

The Raiders interviewed seven candidates for the job, five of them with NFL head coaching experience, before zeroing in on Del Rio and Sparano. Del Rio got the job the morning after a four-hour off-site interview that included owner Mark Davis, general manager Reggie McKenzie and Hall of Fame coach John Madden.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Sparano, who still has a year left on his contract, will be freed to explore other options after posting a 3-9 record and making an impassioned pitch for the job at his postseason press conference.

While Sparano cited a need for continuity, Davis ultimately decided he wanted change given the direction of a franchise which hasn't had a winning season since 2002 and is 11-37 over the past three seasons with 24 of those losses coming by 10 points or more.

The Broncos had the NFL's third-ranked defense in 2014 and were second in 2013. Pro Bowl defensive tackle Terrance Knighton, a pending free agent, said in a tweet, "The Raiders are getting a great damn coach. He will revive that locker room and that organization."

The head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003 through 2011, Del Rio had playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007 with a regular-season record of 68-71. He was fired with a 3-8 record in 2011 and hired the next season as the defensive coordinator for the Broncos.

Former Raiders quarterback and CBS analyst Rich Gannon was a teammate of Del Rio's with the Minnesota Vikings in 1992 and believes the move was a good one.

"I think he felt like he had some unfinished business after the way things ended in Jacksonville," Gannon said. "They made some personnel decisions that weren't the best, he was looking to land in a better place, and I think he thinks he found that in Oakland."

Del Rio is targeting Mike Smith, the former Falcons head coach, as defensive coordinator. Smith was the defensive coordinator under Del Rio in Jacksonville from 2003 through 2007. According to Fox Sports, Del Rio is interested in Marc Trestman as a possible offensive coordinator.

Trestman, who is under consideration for that post in Cleveland, was the Chicago Bears head coach the past two seasons and the Raiders offensive coordinator under Bill Callahan in 2002 and 2003. He also is rumored to be in the mix with the 49ers, where he was offensive coordinator in 1995-96.

In Jacksonville, Del Rio stressed defense and the running game. A defensive coordinator in Carolina for a season before taking over in Jacksonville, Del Rio's teams were considered fundamentally sound but were not known for blitzing heavily.

Gannon thinks Del Rio has the right mindset to deal with a team that has gone a long time without winning.

"He's not going to be a class clown or a comedian," Gannon said. "He's honest, and players won't feel they're having the wool pulled over their eyes. He'll dig in, find out what the issues are and go to work."

A third-round draft pick out of USC, Del Rio played 11 seasons in the NFL for the Rams, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He played in 160 games, starting 128, with 13 sacks, 13 interceptions and 12 forced fumbles.

Del Rio worked his way up through the coaching ranks, starting as a strength and conditioning coach under Mike Ditka in New Orleans in 1997. He became linebackers coach with the Baltimore Ravens in 1999 and was there when the Ravens beat the Raiders 16-3 in the AFC championship game en route to a Super Bowl victory.

The Carolina Panthers made Del Rio their defensive coordinator in 2002 and he was hired by Jacksonville to be head coach the following season.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Other Raiders coaches under contract include offensive coordinator Greg Olson and special teams coordinator Bobby April. Olson is not expected to return and reportedly will interview with Jacksonville to be offensive coordinator.

Raiders' Jack Del Rio creates sound approach

The music blasts out of the loudspeakers over the practice field behind the Napa Valley Marriott. Rap, some hip-hop, a bit of country and occasionally a classic rock hit.

If it's the last, you know that's the head coach's contribution to the playlist.

"Blue Oyster Cult, Ted Nugent, AC/DC," said Jack Del Rio, who saw many of the bands at the Day on the Green concerts at the Oakland Coliseum when he was growing up in Hayward. "Journey, Foreigner. When you hear classic rock, that's coming from me."

The Raiders' summer soundtrack is significant in a couple of ways. First, it's part of the high-energy, upbeat mood around the team.

"We want them to get used to playing with noise and we also want to connect with guys," Del Rio said. "It keeps the mood light and fresh."

That's a big emphasis with the Raiders this training camp. Del Rio is working — on virtually every level — at changing attitudes, energy levels and mind-sets.

"Everything we're doing is with an eye on creating and sustaining a high-performance environment," he said.

To that end, he also has hired a high-performance coach — Scott Peltin of the firm Tignum — to work with coaches and players on positive energy and mind-set.

"He came in and talked to us about ways to communicate with each other in a positive way," Del Rio. "How you eat, sleep. Everything that has to do with performance."

Del Rio uses phrases like "being mindful" and "bringing positive energy." He's not exactly new-agey but he is employing whatever tactics are available to get his team moving in the right direction. The Raiders have been mired in negativity for too long.

"I'm definitely making a concentrated effort to turn the page on all that and look to the future," said Del Rio, who went as far as asking the alumni who visited camp not to discuss past failures. "This is one of the many ways that we're going to invest in ourselves, in creating the best environment possible for players and staff."

Del Rio has collected ideas and strategies for years. From his playing days, his days as the head coach in Jacksonville, his time as Denver's defensive coordinator.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“I definitely am far more prepared now,” he said. “You’re able to spend some time and think through how you’d do it if you got another opportunity. And apply some of those lessons.”

So you’ll see a little Denny Green, some Jimmy Johnson, a dash of Pete Carroll (who plays music at his practices). Some Bum Phillips, who taught Del Rio that players respond better if they feel like their coaches truly care about them.

And some John Wooden, a legend Del Rio admires. In Jacksonville, Del Rio had Wooden’s Pyramid of Success on the locker room wall and he might introduce it to the Raiders.

“I believe in building a team that way,” Del Rio said of the pyramid, which has a foundation of strong character traits. “It’s simple. It’s wisdom.”

Del Rio is also pleased with the current $8 million investment to improve the team’s Alameda training facility, something he convinced owner Mark Davis was mandatory.

“We want to create an environment where coaches are excited and players are excited about coming to work every day,” he said.

Del Rio speaks and carries himself with more authority and swagger than any other head coach in the Raiders’ recent history. He seems comfortable in his own skin, comfortable enough for a little sartorial splendor, like the cool white Stetson — complete with black Raiders hatband — he wears to deal with the Napa sun. (Del Rio was the only head coach besides the 49ers’ Mike Nolan to wear that black Reebok suit on the sideline a decade ago).

Of course, Del Rio played at USC and had a long NFL career as a linebacker. His exterior confidence is similar to Jim Harbaugh’s, though he has a much more extensive NFL coaching resume and doesn’t seem to have the manic Harbaugh tendencies. But the swagger is similar.

What’s the other reason a little shot of Aerosmith’s “Dream On” coming over the Napa loudspeakers is relevant?

Because it’s a nod to Del Rio’s roots, planted deep in the East Bay, including at those Bill Graham productions on the same field where his team will play this season. Del Rio also has roots in Napa, where his grandfather had a farm not too far from the Raiders’ training grounds, before the valley’s wine boom. He has had old friends stop by training camp to say hello.

Sometimes, Del Rio finds himself overwhelmed at his new position, coaching his childhood team, wearing the colors he loves, surrounded by the familiar.

“Yes, I get sentimental at times,” he said, “because it’s so cool to be home.”

Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio still hero in Hayward

By Vic Tafur

January 21, 2015

It’s been a week since Jack Del Rio was named head coach of the Raiders. He’s been busy doing all the things required of an NFL coach, which hasn’t given the East Bay native much of an opportunity to relive his glory days in Hayward or reach out to all the people who helped him along the way.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

But he will.

“Overwhelming,” Del Rio, 51, said of the reaction in his hometown. “It’s been great. They’ve all reached out. I haven’t had the time or chance to really sit and take it all in because it’s a whirlwind. ... Just a text response saying, ‘Thank you, appreciate that.’”

While Del Rio has been too busy to recount his story of becoming a Bay Area high school sports legend, his former coaches have been more than happy to do so.

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, graduated from Hayward High School in 1981 after a trophy- and accolade-filled career that saw the Farmers take home seven consecutive Hayward Area Athletic League titles in three sports: football, basketball and baseball.

The greatest ever?

Charley Kendall, the basketball coach at Hayward High in Del Rio’s junior and senior seasons, thinks tales of Del Rio should be told throughout the region.

“There is a real argument that Jack was the greatest athlete in the history of NorCal high school sports,” Kendall said. “Nobody was as good in all three sports.”

Former Farmers defensive coordinator Jeff Rankin agrees.

“He is the guy,” Rankin said.

Rankin said it was borderline cruel for opposing players to go against the muscular 6-foot-3 Del Rio at linebacker.

“Right from the beginning, it was amazing how much better he was than the people he was going against,” Rankin said. “It really was a man going against boys. Jack was too strong, too fast, too smart.”

“People like to say John Elway was the greatest all-around Bay Area athlete, but he couldn’t play basketball like Jack did,” said Joe Fuccy, Del Rio’s basketball coach his sophomore season. “Jack had great body control and could knock down 17-foot jumpers all day.”

A born leader

Fuccy, who said Del Rio could have started as a freshman, made Del Rio a co-captain.

“Some of the seniors on the team didn’t like that, but it was clear he was a leader and I wanted him to be in that role,” Fuccy said. “It was a nonissue. He was great.”

“He wasn’t afraid of it,” Rankin said.

Kendall said Del Rio made his job easier as coach.

“He was the first one to kick his teammates in the butt if they didn’t play hard,” Kendall said. “I never had to.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio primarily knocked down jumpers but also dunked during a game in which Hayward High reportedly became the first school to score 100 points against perennial power McClymonds-Oakland.

All the coaches interviewed said basketball was clearly Del Rio's favorite sport, but "there are no 6-foot-4 power forwards in the NBA," Rankin said.

Del Rio saw that his future was in football, even though he also might have cracked the major leagues as a power-hitting catcher. He was even called on to pitch to bail out an injured staff. He struck out 16 in a playoff game against Mission San Jose-Fremont.

"No question he would have made the major leagues if he stuck to baseball," former Farmers baseball coach Jim Bisenius said. "He was so smart that I could tell, whichever sport he chose, one day he was going to be a coach."

That's the same career path blazed by another Hayward graduate, onetime Farmers running back and 49ers Hall of Fame coach Bill Walsh.

Besides dominating in three sports, Del Rio also found time to work at the student newspaper and was sports editor his senior year.

"All the kids in school looked up to him," said Kendall, who supervised students on the newspaper. "But he was never arrogant and was good to everybody around him."

And there were plenty of chances to get a big head: buzzer-beating jump shots; tackles that led to a North Coast Section 2A Championship defeat of Miramonte at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979; two home runs in the HAAL playoffs at Chabot College (which has major-league dimensions); being drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in the 22nd round of the 1981 draft.

Del Rio instead chose a football scholarship to the University of Southern California, where he also played baseball and caught for Hall of Fame pitcher Randy Johnson.

Del Rio went on to play 11 years at linebacker in the NFL for the Saints, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He had three stops as an assistant coach before being the head coach in Jacksonville from 2003 to 2011.

Staying true to his school

But Del Rio also kept a foothold in Hayward.

"I'm still close with all my high school coaches from Hayward High," Del Rio said. "They all had an impact on me."

Del Rio has had former coaches and teammates as his guests at Jaguars games, in Jacksonville and on the road.

"He appreciates loyalty," Fuccy said. "And he is extremely loyal himself."

Del Rio has hosted golf tournaments and luaus to raise money for the Hayward High football program in the past 10 years, and current Farmers coach Justin Redemer said Del Rio often makes donations "out of his own pocket."

"The name Del Rio means something in Hayward," Rankin said. "And hopefully it will for the Raiders as well."

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR BILL MUSGRAVE

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Raiders' Bill Musgrave has offense clicking

By Ann Killion

November 5, 2015

A quarter century ago, a solid quarterback from Oregon was drafted by the Dallas Cowboys but was cut in training camp.

Turned out to be the greatest thing that ever happened to Bill Musgrave.

The Raiders' first-year offensive coordinator ended up in offense nirvana. Because someone named Joe Montana was placed on injured reserve in late August 1991, the 49ers needed an extra quarterback.

That quarterback was Musgrave, who was signed to the practice roster and ended up spending four years with the 49ers. He was quiet; the beat writers privately called him "Muskrat" with a dry sense of humor.

But he was soaking it all in, learning offense from first Mike Holmgren and then Mike Shanahan, sharing a quarterback room with Montana and Steve Young and Steve Bono, even playing tennis in Atherton with Bill Walsh and Montana a few times.

"Definitely the right place at the right time," Musgrave said. "It was just a tremendous experience for me to witness all of that."

There have been moments in the past two weeks when the Raiders' offense has clicked, dare we say it, like a well-oiled West Coast machine, with Derek Carr directing traffic, moving the ball down the field, short passes, long passes, runs. The Raiders are eighth in points per game and 10th in passing yards per game.

Musgrave, who followed Shanahan to Denver in 1995 and who coached for Ray Rhodes and George Seifert, among others, considers himself a West Coast disciple.

"We have quite a bit of that language," Musgrave said. "We're a hybrid."

He even runs a play named for his old teammate, John Taylor. And some plays straight out of the Walsh archives. Musgrave has evolved and a huge influence came last season when he was the quarterbacks coach in Philadelphia.

"The majority of what we're doing is Chip Kelly stuff," Musgrave said. "Shotgun runs. Shotgun play actions. Derek's really good at that."

Carr was a huge attraction for Musgrave when he was interviewing for the job. Musgrave was looking to become an offensive coordinator again. Jack Del Rio already had hired Mike Tice as offensive line coach before he hired Musgrave.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

It was an intriguing hire because Del Rio had fired Musgrave after two seasons in Jacksonville. Their current working relationship shows that, despite evidence to the contrary, football men can put aside egos and past feelings to work together.

“I was excited for the original opportunity in Jacksonville and enjoyed those two years and wish I’d done a better job to make it last longer,” Musgrave said. “When we did lose games, it was when the offense fell short. It was an objective decision made by Jack that I completely understand. I wanted to win as much as him. Over the years, we moved on. Both of us.”

Over the years, Musgrave was tagged as a run-first coordinator. He traces that to his three years with the Minnesota Vikings.

“Anyone would be when you have Adrian Peterson,” he said. “One thing I’ve learned is that we need to think of players first and then plays. You need to know your roster and where your strong suit lies.”

“Definitely a strong suit,” he said with a smile.

“He’s an amazing kid,” Musgrave said. “There are guys that are able to come off the field and not be surprised by anything, who see the game better on the field than the coaches on the sideline or in the press box.

“John Elway used to come off the field and say, ‘The O linebacker came through the B gap,’ and all of us on the sideline hadn’t seen that detail. Derek’s like that.”

Musgrave was Elway’s backup in Denver. Musgrave was hurt at the end of 1996 season, when Junior Seau sacked him, basically ending his playing career. Rhodes called him and asked him to come to Philadelphia, launching his coaching career.

Now he’s back in the Bay Area, and being here has brought up plenty of memories of his early years, trying to toss rolls of tape into the top of the goalpost (a favorite game of the 49ers’ quarterbacks) or hiding teammates’ bikes in the trees in training camp at Rocklin.

And most of all, sitting in a quarterbacks room with some of the greatest quarterbacks and coaches of all time and soaking up the lessons.

It was a hell of a laboratory in which to work at age 23. Now Musgrave is running his own lab.

Raiders rookie LB Neiron Ball has persevered through crisis after crisis

By Bill Williamson

June 9, 2015

Tuesday marks the first day of what Neiron Ball hopes will be many minicamps in his NFL career.

Four years ago, the idea of practicing football suddenly became insignificant in Ball's world.

"Football wasn't on my mind much, I was just trying to live," Ball said in a telephone interview Monday after working out at the Oakland Raiders' facility. "I just wanted to live."

After dealing with unspeakable tragedy as a child, Ball, a high-energy outside linebacker, was preparing for his sophomore season at the University of Florida when he had to stop a workout.

"I developed a headache and was feeling off balance," Ball recalled. "I was sent home to rest and I never felt any better. I was taken to the emergency room and then everything was discovered and it all got kind of fuzzy after that."

Ball underwent emergency brain surgery after physicians discovered that he was bleeding on his brain. Ball was diagnosed with a rare condition called an arteriovenous malformation (AVM). It's a congenital condition in which the brain's blood vessels get tangled and rupture.

It was another in a series of shocking, life-altering events for Ball, then 18-years old.

When he was 6, Ball's mother, Johanna, who was fighting cancer, died on Mother's Day after suffering a heart attack.

Three years later, Ball's father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer. Soon after, Ball watched his father have a sudden seizure. He died that night.

"When Neiron had his brain surgery, it was so tough to see," said Dary Myricks, Ball's brother-in-law. Myricks, who entered Ball's life when Ball was a toddler, was a high school football coach in the Atlanta area. Myricks also became a father figure to Ball after his dad died.

"This is a kid who has gone through a lot in life -- a lot," Myricks said. "He's seen so much death. ... For him to be dealing with an uncertain future, it was just so hard to watch."

However, the surgery was a success and physicians assured Ball and his family he eventually would be able to resume a normal life. Ball sat out the 2011 season. Physically, he focused on regaining his balance and dealing with some sensitivity to light. Myricks credits the Florida coaching staff for sticking with Ball and helping him focus on his academics while he recovered. A year later, he was cleared to resume playing football.

"I will never forget the day I was cleared," Ball said. "It was one of the greatest moments of my life. I will always cherish it."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Doctors told Ball and his family that while there is a small chance of a recurrence of his AVM, it's highly unlikely. Myricks said physicians assured the family that football presents no specific danger because of Ball's condition, and if he were to have a complication, it would be just as likely to occur if he were mowing the lawn as if he were running on a football field.

Once he resumed football, Ball continued to excel for the Gators. Even though his 2014 season was cut short with a knee injury that required microfracture surgery, Ball was closely scouted. He had an excellent showing at the Florida pro day and he visited about a dozen NFL teams prior to the Raiders taking Ball in the fifth round on May 2.

"NFL teams did their homework on him medically," Myricks said. "It was an emotional day when the Raiders took him. It was such a long road.

"But to me, what I think the Raiders are getting in Neiron as much as a good football player, is a great kid. He's a great kid. The Raider Nation should feel good that he is going to represent them and the people who drafted him well."

Myricks said Ball's ability to get through the hard times of his life has made him a stronger, more mature person. Perhaps that's one of the reasons Ball continues to make strides after having microfracture surgery, which can come with big complications.

Ball has his sights set on contributing on special teams early in his Oakland career. He is thankful for getting this far.

"I try to get stronger every day in life," Ball said. "I thank God every day for getting me this far and allowing me to function through all of this."

Neiron Ball Is Beating the Odds to Become an NFL Draft Prospect

By Bo Marchionte

March 18, 2015

Former Florida Gators linebacker Neiron Ball spent five years in Gainesville, Florida. The fifth-year senior is now doing NFL Draft Prep (training) at Bommarito Performance Systems as he readies himself for his Pro Day which is slated for April 7th. What Ball is doing is similar to basically every other top prospect across the country making their path towards the NFL Draft.

That is where the similarities stop.

"I didn't want to die," said Ball.

It first began with pain in his neck during practice. The throbbing discomfort continued to persist in the morning session and led Florida head trainer Anthony Pass to send Ball home for some rest.

Ball left practice on Valentines Day (2011). The unbearable aching did not cease for Ball. It only worsened as the day continued on.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Excruciating,” said Ball referring to the pain he felt. “I could not even look down. My initial thought was I just want this pain to go away. I was hoping it wasn’t life threatening.”

It was the last thing Ball expected to encounter after leaving Jackson High School (Georgia) as a four-star recruit who the Gators envisioned as their future defensive end.

“Football wasn’t even a thought when I was going through that,” said Ball. I wasn’t just trying to survive.”

Ball woke up the next day and doctors determined he had a rare medical condition known as arteriovenous malformation (AVM), where the brain’s blood vessels get knotted and rupture. The bleeding on Ball’s brain could have cost him his life.

Fortunately, Ball recovered and was given another chance at life. He is taking on the next challenge in his path and looking to earn his keep on a 53-man NFL roster.

“It is like a dream come true,” Ball said as he is readying himself for the NFL Draft.

He originally played quarterback growing up and spent some time as a defensive back before moving to linebacker. Former Gators head coach Urban Meyer wanted him to be up front playing defensive end, but that changed once they got him to Gainesville.

“They wanted me to play defensive end,” said Ball. “They saw my athletic ability and that I could drop in coverage and they moved me to linebacker.”

Ball appeared in all 13 games as a true freshman before missing the next year due to his illness. He returned to full strength one year later (2012) and started two games. He continued to work his way back to form and Ball made his first career sack in 2013 against Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston.

In his final season with the Gators, Ball played in nine games, making seven starts. He finished with a career high 49 tackles, three tackles-for-loss, two sacks, two fumble recoveries, and one forced fumble. He missed the last three games of the year after hurting his meniscus that required surgery. Ball was tied for second on the Gators defense in tackles at the time of the injury.

Only a couple short months ago Ball said he “was walking with a limp” and now he is pushing on all cylinders when attacking his 40-yard dash in practice. He arrived at Bommarito Performance System at 217 pounds and added nearly 20 pounds (19) of muscle to his lean frame.

“My rehab went well,” stated Ball. “I’m training for my drills. I feel good. Injuries come and go.”

With a clean bill of health, Ball can now focus on his Pro Day and the chance to impress the teams that attend.

“I’m able to play in the box,” says Ball referring to some of the qualities scouts will revel in when breaking down Ball as a player. “I can drop in coverage and plus I can rush the passer.”

Ball’s versatility is his ticket to the next level as a three-down linebacker. In a league that emphasizes the passing game the talent Ball brings to the table plays well in his favor. He can be stout against the run and use his size (6-foot-3, 236 pounds) to show his fluid smooth hips and quick feet to drop in coverage. Those intangibles few possess at his position, but Ball is not a one-trick pony. He can do it all.

“I really like Von Miller (Denver Broncos) and Jamie Collins (New England Patriots),” said Ball. “I really like to watch those guys. I kind of remind myself of them and Justin Brown (Kansas City Chiefs) too.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Each one of those linebackers he mentions are able to stay on the field and provide their respective teams with three-down play at an extremely high level.

In limited action throughout his career at Florida and rehabbing his injury, Ball was still an invitee to the NFL Scouting Combine. It validates the potential NFL teams see in Ball. Projected to be a fourth to sixth round pick, his Pro Day will be paramount in determining his value on draft day.

Ball anxiously awaits the opportunity to display his array of talents to NFL Scouts, and conquer another obstacle in his path.

Raiders' Neiron Ball has Already Overcome Insurmountable Odds

By Sean Bialaszek

May 5, 2015

With the 161st pick in the NFL Draft, the Oakland Raiders selected Neiron Ball, an outside linebacker from Florida. The pick wasn't the most highly regarded, but after everything he's gone through, finding a role on an NFL team seems like child's play.

Ball stands 6'2", and tips the scales around 235 pounds. In his college career, he totaled 5.5 tackles for loss, three sacks, an interception, and three pass deflections.

He has NFL size, and is versatile. He played outside linebacker in both 3-4 and 4-3 schemes, and has played inside linebacker as well. Ball possess good speed, and the non-stop motor that coaches love.

The numbers are not all that impressive, and they won't make your eyes pop. But his story is incredible. He underwent knee surgery last November. Microfracture surgery to be exact, the same procedure that Jadeveon Clowney underwent during the 2014 season. But after everything that Ball went through before that, that surgery seems almost trivial.

The term "lucky to be alive" is used quite a lot, and when it's used, it doesn't always mean exactly what it says. However, when you say Ball is lucky to be alive, you mean it.

Ball lost both parents when he was a child. His mother, Johanna, died when he was six, on Mother's Day in 1998, from a heart attack.

A few years later, his father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer, and underwent surgery on his throat. The nine-year-old Ball had to help his father eat through a tube, and one night during this ritual, Ronnie suffered a seizure, and passed away later that night. He watched his father die.

Ball stuck with football, and eventually became a Florida Gator. He played all 13 games in 2010, his freshman year, in his familiar linebacker spot. But after his inaugural college campaign, he experienced something that nearly cost him his own life.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In a February practice in 2011, Ball was forced to leave practice with a migraine that caused him horrible pain. When the aching persisted, he found himself in the hospital, and had to sit in a dark room, because the pain was just too much to handle.

It turned out that Ball had bleeding in his brain. The diagnosis came back as Arteriovenous Malformation (AVM), which is defined as “a tangle of abnormal blood vessels connecting arteries and veins in the brain.” In other words, the blood vessels in the brain get tangled up, and eventually rupture, causing bleeding.

AVM is a congenital condition, meaning if a person has it, they were born with it. Less than one percent of the population, one in approximately 200-500 people, have the condition. Once the brain starts to bleed for the first time, 10 to 15 percent of people don’t survive. If another hemorrhage were to occur, that percentage vastly increases. Another 30 percent suffer permanent brain damage.

If he hadn’t gone to the hospital, if he had continued on with practice like normal and the bleeding continued and eventually worsened, he might have ended up with irreparable brain damage, or worse.

Surgery occurred a little later for Ball, with surgeons basically untangling the vessels, stopping the bleeding, and putting them back where they’re supposed to be. Ball was essentially fixed, but his journey, another journey, was just starting.

He worked hard in recovery, the same way he worked hard on the field, putting his non-stop motor to use in a different area. Little by little, Ball regained strength, but he missed the 2011 season, and his football future remained in doubt. Even though Ball’s brain condition had been fixed, he had still gone through brain surgery, and there is always that nagging thought that maybe his head can’t take another blow.

He continued his trek back, and in June of 2012, 16 months after his brain operation, he was cleared to play again. Another two months passed before he strapped on the pads again. But one and a half years after a dangerous condition nearly took his life, he suited up and practiced with his team. In 2012, Ball ended up playing 11 games for the Gators, and totaled 10 tackles with his only career interception.

The knee surgery is likely to cost Ball his rookie year, as the recovery for a microfracture procedure can take anywhere from nine to 15 months. NBA players have returned in six months, but that’s a completely different game. It usually takes football players longer to get back. If Ball approaches this recovery with the same vigor and gusto he’s become known for, his return could fall on the lower end of the scale.

Ball may never become an impact player in the NFL. He may never change a game single-handedly. Quite honestly, he may never play a down in the league. But he will work harder than anyone else who steps on the practice field. He has no choice. You never know when it all is going to go away.

By Vic Tafur

October 17, 2015

Neiron Ball came out of nowhere, which is to say he has overcome many obstacles that would have stopped most people. On this particular day, in a game three weeks ago against the Browns in Cleveland, the seldom-used Raiders rookie linebacker burst through the line to sack Josh McCown.

“It felt really good,” Ball said. “My eyes got really big when I saw it coming, And then when it happened, I knew I had to celebrate, gotta make it cool.”

So Ball proceeded to dab, a dance move in which he swings his arms up while taking small steps forward and what looks like sneezing into the inside of each arm.

“That’s what you do when you are dripping in sauce,” Ball said.

Ah yes, dripping in sauce. UrbanDictionary.com defines that as “when one walks around with such an abundance of flavor, swag, style, and extravagance, that they are literally dripping sauce.”

Ball, 22, is soaked in sauce now, after shutting down Denver tight end Owen Daniels in a larger role last Sunday. And for him, he is also walking around with an abundance of perseverance, heart and a feeling of raw thrill just to be on the football field. Or walking around at all.

“At one point, I remember thinking that I didn’t want to die,” Ball said. “I was very scared.”

Ball started getting headaches four years ago, during his sophomore season at the University of Florida. Then he felt a pain in his neck. And a loss of balance.

Coaches sent him home from the spring practice, and before the day was out, Ball was in an emergency room at the hospital. A CT scan showed that he had a rare medical condition known as arteriovenous malformation (AVM), where the brain’s blood vessels get knotted and rupture.

Ball could have died from the bleeding on his brain, and underwent surgery involving radiation.

He sat out the 2011 season, which wasn’t a big concession considering playing football again wasn’t high on his list when he was in the hospital.

“Football wasn’t even a thought in my mind then,” Ball said. “I just wanted to live, and enjoy my life.”

When he first got out of the hospital, Ball still had some balance issues as well as being very sensitive to light. He focused on academics the year that he sat out, and the Florida trainers slowly brought him back.

“I know it was tough for him to watch the games he missed,” Florida trainer Anthony Pass said, “but Neiron is a guy who you always see smiling. He doesn’t stay down for long ... if at all.”

Ball credits his sister, Natalie, and the rest of his family for being there for him. They helped him stay patient.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Ball was cleared for the 2012 season.

“One of the greatest days of my life,” Ball said. “To go from the emergency room wondering if you are going to live, to working hard to try to get football back, to being cleared. ... It’s something I think back on often.”

Unfortunately, Ball had a lot of perspective to draw from as even at 18, he had long been hardened to life’s unexpected attacks.

When he was 6 years old, Ball’s mother, Johanna, died of a heart attack on Mother’s Day. She had been dealing with cancer.

When he was 9, Ball’s father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer and had surgery on his throat. He died one night, hours after Neiron, feeding his father through a tube, saw him have a sudden seizure.

“She made sure I never gave up, worked hard and gave me all the values to help me get where I am today,” Ball said. “What happened to my parents was a terrible thing that I had no control of, but I had control of a lot still.”

Ball pushed to get back on the football field after his surgery (doctors say there is a very slim chance of a recurrence) and his senior year, he had 49 tackles and two sacks in the first nine games. That’s when he tore up his knee.

“That was nothing compared to what I had been through,” Ball said.

The 6-foot-2, 230-pounder came back once again and turned some heads at the NFL combine this year with a 4.50 40-yard dash and 34.5-inch vertical leap.

Florida teammate Dante Fowler Jr., who was picked third in the first round, wanted to yell at scouts and coaches to draft Ball.

“Neiron is freakishly athletic,” Fowler told reporters at the combine. “Any coach would love to get him. I know he’s going to be a surprise.”

The Raiders agreed and drafted him in the fifth round — “great character kid, with a lot of speed and upside,” general manager Reggie McKenzie said — and Ball has been brought on slowly but surely at all the linebacker spots. After playing only a handful of snaps in that win over the Browns, Ball played 36 snaps, 14 more than starting middle linebacker Curtis Lofton, against the Broncos as he took over tight-end-coverage duties.

Oakland had allowed career highs in receptions to tight ends in each of the first four games. Daniels had zero catches on five attempts last Sunday.

“We see the skills that he brings and the work ethic that he has every day and the way that he prepares, so we increased his role,” Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio said. “He did a nice job in his first extended activity.

Ball weighed 215 pounds last season and has added 15. He plans to get up to 240 pounds after a full offseason in the weight room.

"Until then, I am just playing with what I got," Ball said. "Speed."

And one other thing.

"Playing every play like it's your last," Ball said.

A 10-year-old kid, a Raiders rookie and a rare blood vessel disorder

By Jerry McDonald

October 23, 2015

The heart of Angela Ramirez Holmes was already full.

She and her husband, Garrett, had seen the eyes of their 10-year-old son, Andrew, beam upon meeting a professional football player who had successfully beaten the same, rare blood vessel affliction he was now battling himself.

But as Neiron Ball, the Raiders' rookie linebacker, walked toward an awaiting car in the aftermath of that preseason game against the Arizona Cardinals in August, something made him turn back around.

"I want to hang out with you guys. Do you want to have dinner?" he asked the Pleasanton family.

It was Valentine's Day, 2011, when Ball felt a pain in his neck following practice at the University of Florida. That pain morphed into an "excruciating" headache, immediately sending Ball to the doctor.

He was eventually diagnosed with arteriovenous malformation, a congenital defect that leads to blood vessels in the brain becoming knotted and prone to rupturing. The condition can occur in different portions of the brain and varies wildly in terms of severity.

Ball's AVM was alleviated with a radiation procedure called "gamma knife," which targets the affected area. Miraculously, Ball returned to full strength a year later from a condition that can leave its victims disabled -- if they survive at all.

In March 2013 -- a few months before Ball made his first career sack, against Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston -- 8-year-old Andrew went on a family bike ride with his parents and was planning on playing in an afternoon baseball game.

But after Andrew complained of feeling ill and took an unscheduled nap, he woke up complaining of pain in the head and neck. Angela and Garrett raced him to the emergency room. There, his parents were told Andrew's brain was bleeding, and a critical care ambulance transported him to Children's Hospital Oakland.

Brain surgery stopped the bleeding, and doctors diagnosed an AVM. After recovering from the initial rupture, Andrew underwent the same gamma knife radiation procedure that Ball had undergone. But Andrew would be faced with a far more difficult recovery.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

A side effect from the procedure caused Andrew's brain to swell, resulting in paralysis on his right side. Intense sessions of physical therapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy followed. He emerged from the hospital in a wheelchair and braces on his legs.

Angela stumbled upon Ball's story while researching AVMs and contacted the Raiders in hopes of setting up a meeting. The Raiders obliged with a day at training camp. Andrew met with quarterback Derek Carr and other players. He connected instantly with Ball.

"It was like a dream, just amazing. Cool," Andrew said. "I was excited, definitely, to meet someone who is like me."

Ball, 23, had a football autographed by as many Raiders as he could muster for Andrew, even stopping teammates in mid-workout or during medical treatment to sign.

"There was definitely a bond, and it just got stronger as I got to know him," Ball said. "I know how it feels, and I'm on the other end of it. He's just so young, he gives me more inspiration than I could ever give him. I have never seen him when he's not smiling. To see that natural joy is incredible."

The two text each other regularly, with Andrew congratulating Ball for his first NFL sack at Cleveland and again for a strong performance against Denver. His parents presented Andrew with a No. 58 jersey, which he immediately wore for a photo to send to his friend and favorite player.

"I was blown away -- the first person I'd ever seen with a jersey with my name on it," Ball said.

Ball has twice been to the Holmes house for dinner, and he is taking note of Andrew's progress.

Angela said she initially "managed Andrew's expectations" regarding dinner invitations and the like.

"When a 10-year-old hears, 'Call me any time,' he's going to call," Angela said. "But we certainly were not anticipating developing the kind of relationship that has happened."

Ball, who lost both his parents at a young age and had never been to California before being drafted by the Raiders, is partial to Angela's "corn casserole" and grateful for new relationships outside the team setting.

"It's nice to step away, and nice to get a home-cooked meal, too," Ball said. "It's so nice to have their support. ... It feels like family."

The radiation procedure, in Andrew's case, is working slowly. He still has an AVM, but it is diminishing in size and the family hopes he will be AVM-free in 2016. In the meantime, Andrew works on regaining the use of the right side of his body through electrical stimulation and rehabilitation.

In a fall youth baseball league, Andrew is throwing and catching with his left hand. He read a book on former major league player Jim Abbott, who was born without a right hand, and is taking Ball's pep talks to heart.

"He's so positive," Andrew said, "that it makes me want to work harder."

Working hard comes naturally to Ball, who needed a little more than five months to recover from microfracture knee surgery and put himself in line to be drafted by the Raiders.

"I'd heard a lot of bad stories about microfracture surgery and that most people don't come back from it," Ball said. "But I went through a head injury that was life-threatening. It was definitely a smaller bump in the road."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Ball, whose play against Denver may have put him in line to start Sunday against the San Diego Chargers, finds that Andrew's situation helps put things in perspective.

"When he told me he was learning how to catch and throw with the same hand, I was overwhelmed," Ball said.

Ball has recently become popular on the Aneurysm and AVM Foundation Twitter page and is just beginning to realize the impact he has with more people than just Andrew. October is the foundation's Aneurysm and AVM Awareness Month.

At an AVM benefit walk in San Francisco two years ago, the family saw firsthand how destructive the condition can be

"You see a lot of people that are really struggling, people in wheelchairs, people carrying signs for their loved ones that passed away," Garrett said. "It was really, really tough."

Dina Chon, community engagement manager for the Aneurysm and AVM Foundation, said Ball is an inspiration for victims of the condition.

"So few people come out of something like this, like Neiron has, without having to relearn how to walk or talk," Chon said. "It's huge for people like Andrew to see someone who is living his dream, doing what he always wanted to do."

At a visit Wednesday to the Raiders facility, Andrew was starry-eyed at a chance to meet Justin Tuck but went up to Ball like an old friend.

Andrew and his father were invited to a taping of the "Silver and Black Show," with Ball as a guest. Andrew sat alongside Ball at the interview table, and producer Vittorio DeBartolo asked off-camera if he had any tough questions for his friend.

Andrew giggled and said, "When are we going to see an interception, man?"

"You've just got to keep working hard," Andrew said.

"Keep working hard," repeated Ball. "That's what we do."

Why Derek Carr shows maturity beyond his years

By Jerry McDonald

September 13, 2015

Rodger Carr will never forget the sight of his oldest son being greeted by Commissioner Paul Tagliabue at Madison Square Garden on NFL Draft day.

Or the follow-up sight, that of his precocious youngest son, Derek, then 11, making his own Tagliabue moment.

It was April 20, 2002, when the Houston Texans made David Carr the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft. Derek, already brimming with enthusiasm and good at working a room, wasn't about to let the bright lights of the NFL's biggest offseason stage unnerve him.

"He walked up, shook the commissioner's hand and said, 'I'll be back,' " Rodger Carr said.

Rodger let that sink in for a moment then repeated, "I'll be back," shaking his head in amazement before continuing his story.

"When Dave got drafted, Derek was determined to become an NFL quarterback, too," Rodger said. "He was already that focused."

Thirteen years later, Derek goes into his second season as the unquestioned leader of the Raiders. The leaguewide feeling is that he has given the franchise stability at football's most important position for the first time since Rich Gannon retired in 2005 due to a neck injury.

Carr is charged with leading the Raiders out of the wilderness of 12 consecutive nonwinning seasons, 10 of them with double-digit losses, and halting the never-ending conga line of starting quarterbacks.

The Carr family knows all about bad football teams. Taking over as the would-be savior for the first-year Texans, David was 22-53 as a starter in five seasons and absorbed 249 sacks

The way it works with the Carr family is that if you draft one, you draft them all. So every time David hit the deck, there was a collective wince from Rodger, mother Sheryl and brothers Darren and Derek.

Derek, by contrast, was sacked only 24 times in 16 games as a rookie starter, taking more lumps in the win-loss column (3-13) than on the field.

While David's experiences provided the black-and-blueprint, Derek's journey to the NFL has been just as much a family affair. In a world where kids are lucky to have two parents around even some of the time, the Carrs are a tight-knit, deeply religious bunch who are unafraid to keep each other in line.

And back before he was staring NFL stardom in the eye, Derek Carr needed to check himself.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The only reason a second-round pick out of Fresno State could be so polished, and act as if he'd seen it all before, is because he had. David Carr had some successes, but he mostly took a beating. Derek had a front-row seat and unlimited access to information.

The Houston Texans were a first-year expansion team, and it wasn't pretty.

"You hear people saying, 'The Raiders are terrible,' but you don't know what terrible is," Darren said. "I went through the inaugural season with David, and it was bad. Really bad. The Raiders, by comparison, had some talented guys."

David, 34, remains philosophical, without a trace of bitterness. After Houston let him go and signed Matt Schaub, he played for three other teams -- the 49ers, Carolina Panthers and New York Giants. David has a Super Bowl ring and passed for 14,452 yards with 65 touchdowns and 71 interceptions.

"When you get picked first, your team is usually pretty bad," David said. "Some teams climb out of it, some don't. It wasn't until I got to New York until I saw how a team was supposed to be run."

With the Carr family following David to Houston, Derek immersed himself in the life of his older brother. Derek learned the NFL routine, hung out with the Texans and had all the pass codes to the club's facility. Star wide receiver Andre Johnson came to his youth football games.

"I was preparing to play Peyton Manning 14 years ago, and now he's playing Peyton," David said. "He had experience going through all those years before he ever set foot on a field."

The age difference, if anything, made the brothers even closer.

"It makes it OK to be the little brother," Derek said. "If you're three, four years apart, you don't want to be the little brother. You want to beat 'em. I wasn't going to beat David at anything. I loved being around him, and he said, 'I'm going to take you under my wing and show you the way.' "

David remains a go-to for Derek in matters of football and life, and it's a relationship that wouldn't have been possible had it not been for the years between them.

"If we were closer in age, maybe we wouldn't be like this," David said. "I played with Eli Manning and was around him for five years. Eli and Peyton have a great relationship, but it's not like ours. Because they're closer in age, they were kind of doing their own thing, while Derek was jumping in the boat with me, and we were riding together."

Derek maintains that some of the biggest lessons imparted from David came from observation. Sometimes he didn't understand the significance of what he saw until years later. Derek remains flabbergasted that during the NFL scouting process, unattributed reports suggested being David's brother was a negative trait rather than a positive.

"I couldn't believe people were saying this stuff," Derek said. "How could that possibly be a bad thing? What I realized was David was a man of character. I mean, there would be times where he'd be ready to throw the game-winning touchdown, and he'd get hit. Or he'd get sacked eight times in a game."

"I remember going to family dinners after those games, and he never once said, I can't believe he didn't block that guy, or I can't believe he didn't finish that route or tipped the ball to a defender. It finally hit me later, and it blew my mind. Those are characteristics I want to have."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Derek threw the letter away, but he remembers its contents as clearly as he does the Bible scripture he reads regularly.

It arrived in 2010 from Heather Neel, a friend and fellow student with whom Derek had a budding relationship. She was instantly drawn in by Derek's gregarious, outgoing personality, as well as the fact that he espoused the same Christian values.

Yet she'd begun to hear the stories circulating around Fresno State. Derek, quarterback and big man on a campus where his brother was still revered, was getting around. Derek has since opened up to church youth groups in general terms about experiences with parties, women, alcohol and marijuana.

The way they tell it, Derek might have been well on his way to becoming the next Johnny Manziel.

The message of Heather's letter was succinct: "Derek, you're not the man I thought you were."

Sitting on a bench following a training camp practice, Carr shakes his head at the memory of being exposed -- and the anger and regret that followed.

"She caught me," Carr said of the woman who eventually would forgive him and accept his marriage proposal. "I was such a hypocrite. I was the biggest one. I'm glad I'm not anymore."

Derek wasn't only being called out by Heather. His parents and brothers were making their voices heard, even if Derek wasn't ready to listen.

"We had a big altercation about a week or so before that all went down," Sheryl said. "I told him, 'This is not the son I raised, you are not the person I know, and I won't accept it. You're either going to straighten up, or we're going to have problems.' "

"We won't get into details, but we sat down and talked to him ... yelled at him, screamed at him, threatened him," Darren said. "Eventually, only God can take care of him."

David acknowledged that Derek's behavior wasn't out of the norm in terms of the college experience. It wasn't the rebellion and experimentation that was an issue as much as Derek living a different life than the one he professed to lead.

"It would be one thing if he had said, 'I'm a college kid. This is the life I want to live. I'm having fun,' " David said. "But if you're saying one thing and doing another, that's a different story."

Sheryl Joyner didn't have brothers. She grew up with a sister and her father. There were aunts around but no uncles.

"I thought when I had kids, I would have girls," Sheryl said.

Then she met and married Rodger, and life became a parade of sports activities with three sons. First came David then Darren three years later. Nine years after Darren was born, Derek arrived.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The boys remember their dad coming home from long days at work then working them out for various sports under the parking lot lights of a local high school.

"They're all hard workers, like their dad," Sheryl said.

Not surprisingly, Rodger is proud of the football work his boys put in, David at Fresno State and in the NFL, Darren as an offensive lineman at the University of Houston, and now Derek with Fresno State and the Raiders.

"Derek is like his brothers -- he thinks he is going to outwork everybody," Rodger said. "He thinks, 'You might have more talent, but I'm going to outwork you.' "

Sheryl grew up the daughter of a preacher, her life rooted in her Christian faith as well as people in general, and that is reflected in her sons.

"All of them have a spiritual side and a gentle spirit," Sheryl said. "They have a tough, hard-core side on the field -- they'll fight a bear if they have to -- but also a soft, gentle side that can confuse people who don't know them."

Derek, like his mother, is comfortable striking up a conversation with anyone willing to listen and has been like that since a young age.

When the family went to Los Angeles Dodgers games when Derek was barely old enough to talk, he would stand on his stadium seat and recite the names and numbers of Eric Karros, Raúl Mondesí and Mike Piazza to the amusement of fans sitting in the vicinity.

"You'd turn around in the grocery store, and he'd be talking to people he didn't know," Sheryl said. "I'd tell him, 'Honey, you don't know them. You can't talk to strangers like that.' He just loved talking to people -- and he's still that way."

When David was a star at Fresno State, Sheryl became panicked when she lost sight of Derek following a game against Louisiana Tech. Frantic, she finally saw her grade school son walking alone from the visiting team's locker room.

Derek had gone to console Luke McCown, the Louisiana Tech quarterback, whose team had lost to David's Fresno State team.

Derek's explanation, as recalled by his mother?

"I went to the other team's buses. I found the quarterback and told him he did a good job. I didn't want him to be sad."

Derek doesn't think what he did was unusual.

"I just wanted to go up and say, 'Hey, great game, I appreciate what you do,' " Derek said. "I guess I just wanted to tell him I looked up to him."

Added Heather: "He can walk into a room and be friends with everyone. He just has that mentality, and it's genuine. He's a kind, loving personality that cares about everyone."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

At Derek and Heather's wedding, following David's toast as best man, Darren took the microphone and announced, "I'm the other Carr -- I'm Darren!"

As Sheryl said, "He takes it really well."

While David and Darren have the athletic build of quarterbacks, Darren, a former college linebacker, has a thick beard and the body of a man who enjoys dirty work in the trenches.

"I guess he ate all the food growing up, because he took all the size," Derek said. "From the outside looking in, people don't see it, but it's the three of us, all together."

Darren is the head coach at Bakersfield Christian High, where Derek starred at quarterback. David, who was the star quarterback across town at Stockdale High, will serve as Darren's offensive coordinator this fall.

"We'll all sit down, and I'm a sponge, man," Darren said. "It's an absolute blessing to have two brothers that played in the NFL. I think only a couple of other people can say that."

Darren, in fact, once met Cooper Manning, brother of Peyton and Eli, and the two jokingly commiserated on what it's like to be a third wheel.

During a session of the Carr Elite camp in late July in Bakersfield, as Derek, David, Darren and Rodger were instructing players on football and good sportsmanship, Dallas Carr was in constant motion, wearing a T-shirt that said "Never stop moving."

As a newborn, Dallas began throwing up and was diagnosed with intestinal malrotation, a serious condition that is sometimes fatal. Derek called Sheryl in tears, but when doctors came in to inform the Carrs a second surgery was necessary, a calm came over him.

"Heather was sitting in a wheelchair, kind of in shock, and Derek took her by the shoulders and said, 'We're going to go in there, talk to the doctors, figure out what's wrong, and we're going to fix it. Don't cry,' " Sheryl said. "I asked him if he needed his dad and I at the meeting. He said, 'No, mom. This is my family. I'm going to be all right.' "

Derek concedes to being initially terrified, but said, "I had faith everything would be OK. ... Something like that happens, it changes your perspective. Nothing that ever happens in a football game can compare. I'm always going to be the same person."

Dallas eventually made a complete recovery, and the circumstance, according to Darren, "toughened him up."

Heather agreed.

"You just saw this man, this father," she said. "It was incredible to watch how he became our leader, our rock, through the hard times."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In the East Bay neighborhood where Derek lives during the season, it isn't unusual to see him in a local park playing with the neighborhood kids.

"We were visiting him once -- they've got this soccer field and a basketball court -- and Derek knows all these kids, and they all want him to come out," Darren said.

One young friend would come to his door, asking, "Can Derek come out and play?"

At the same time, David knows the cutthroat, competitive side to his brother all too well.

"He'll be at the end of a workout, play a game of H-O-R-S-E with my two boys, and he'll reach this point where, 'There is no way I'm going to lose this game,' " he said.

David calls it Derek's "default mechanism" to push through a difficult situation. Derek said something just comes over him, much as it does on Sunday afternoons in a Raiders uniform.

"There are times when you can mess around and just play catch or something like that, but if I'm competing -- really competing -- I don't know what it is," Carr said. "All of a sudden, I'm dunking on my nephews. It just switches."

Raiders fans have taken notice and are anxious to hitch their hopes to that Carr intensity. No one in the Carr household is surprised at the path the youngest, most precocious Carr brother finds himself on. Even if it took a few wrong turns to get there.

"He enjoys the game and his life so much," his mom said. "The more time that goes by, the more comfortable he gets, the environment will flourish around him because he's at peace."

'Faith, family, football' puts Raiders QB Carr on brink of stardom

By Scott Bair

August 24, 2015

BAKERSFIELD – Derek Carr was born to play quarterback, equipped with a perfect combination of nature and nurture to hone a difficult craft. He was athletically predisposed with size, speed, smarts and a cannon right arm accented with the right amount of touch.

He had guidance worthy of a crown prince, with a father to mentor him early on and an older brother who had already been king. Rodger Carr taught his son about fundamentals and work ethic. David Carr, an excellent quarterback in his own right, bestowed football knowledge and life lessons he experienced as a Fresno State star and an NFL signal-caller to a brother 12 years younger.

Thanks to David's labor of love, little Derek had a blueprint for success. Work hard, stay focused, maximize talent and follow a pre-travelled path to the pros. Do that Derek, and you'll get there. Stumble along the way? Pops and big brother will pick you back up.

Support certainly helped Derek Carr become a Fresno State legend and a Raider with the No. 36 overall pick in last year's NFL draft.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Assuming that made everything easy is oversimplification. Hard times made Derek Carr the man he is today, someone able to weather adversity without crumbling under its weight. That's a trait only discovered by doing.

There was no instruction manual detailing how to handle 10 straight losses to start a pro career or stay above water in tidal waves of change, with three head coaches and two offensive schemes in 12 months. Yet here he stands, on the verge of a second season as Raiders quarterback, confident as ever that this is the start of something great.

There was no instruction manual for how to act with a son at death's door just days after taking his first breath. Yet there he stood at 22 years old, a pillar of strength while baby Dallas spent his first 23 days clinging to life.

While he's learned from his mentors, individual experiences like these make Derek unique and properly equipped to handle the pressure of his current position. He's a person with fixed priorities and overflowing optimism in difficult situations, even when frustration might play better to the crowd.

"People wonder if bad times impact me because I have a smile on my face," Carr said last month in an extended interview with CSNBayArea.com at one of his family's Carr Elite football camps. "Of course they do. They rip my heart out, but I'm going to fight harder than anyone because I lean on my faith in tough times. That's where I find my strength. When a doctor says, 'Dallas might not make it,' all I can do is lean on my faith to keep from crumbling. That's all I know how to do. And I trust it's right because I've seen it come through time and time again."

You've certainly heard that cadence before. It was a common refrain during Derek's rookie press conferences, often combating questions about the wear and tear of a Raiders season quickly circling the drain. The point: Losses ruin Derek's evening, not his entire week.

Football isn't life. It's a game, a job he loves dearly. He's grateful for every moment in a jersey, but it doesn't compare to the time spent with his wife and son.

Derek the quarterback is an incredibly early riser, someone who arrives at the Raiders' Alameda facility with the sun and returns to his Dublin home after it sets behind him.

Carr has the unique ability to leave No. 4 in the car, turning himself over to his wife Heather and son Dallas upon walking through the door.

"It's good to be able to get away from it all," Heather Carr said. "Derek will tell you that football is his job, it's not who he is. That's so true. When he comes home, he isn't NFL quarterback. He's dad. He's husband. We don't really talk about football at home unless he wants to. He doesn't let bad days bleed into his home life. We just get to be family."

Those times are never, ever taken for granted. Whether it's an extra 90 seconds engaged with Dallas or a friendly game of Nerf basketball between husband and wife (please, watch this video), the Carrs try to maximize each minute together.

Through simple pleasantries and grand gestures, Derek and Heather walk an extra mile to honor this dynamic and the three weeks when it was nearly ripped apart.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I always think about those times," Heather said. "You can still see the scar on Dallas' belly and when you do, you just thank God that he's alive. It could have all been taken from us. That's why we cherish every moment we have as a family. We know that, no matter what happens, family will always be our top priority."

Dallas' scar symbolizes a young life saved. The boy was born on Aug. 5, 2013, just before Derek started his senior season at Fresno State. Derek was a Heisman hopeful and the San Joaquin Valley's favorite son, with an NFL gig ahead on a career path paved in gold.

Early, frequent vomiting was the first sign of trouble. It led to panic and eventually a life-threatening diagnosis. Dallas Mason Carr had intestinal malrotation, meaning his intestines weren't properly aligned and cutting off the flow of his digestive tract. Dallas needed surgery, and was taken by ambulance from a Clovis hospital to Children's Hospital Central California in Madera.

He underwent one procedure, then another during a touch-and-go 23-day period that coincided with Bulldogs training camp. Derek rarely missed a practice, and spent most every other minute at the hospital with his wife and son.

The schedule was emotionally and physically draining. It wore on Derek, who broke down several times over the phone with his parents and coaches.

In front of his wife, Derek held strong. He would read Bible verses aloud well into the night, and remained a source of positivity as the couple prayed for a happy ending that was not guaranteed.

"I always had my faith, but that was a real test of it," Derek Carr said. "Everyone knew who we were in Fresno. It was my senior year and everything was going great. Life was good, and we didn't worry about much. Then Dallas' ordeal comes up and it ripped my heart out. At that point, I thought, 'am I still going to be the man I say that I am? Am I going to be strong and be there for my wife and child?' Saying those things is easy. Living and doing can be extremely difficult."

This was, and always will be, Derek's defining moment.

"There was no way to tell him how to get through it," said Rodger Carr, Derek's father. "Derek had to be the man of the house, and he stepped up in a big way. He had things under control and believed God would help him and his family through it. You won't find anyone in the family who didn't have faith Dallas was going to make it.

"That's how we looked at it. We knew Derek and Heather would do their part and that God would do the rest."

Dallas underwent a third procedure in September 2013, but was eventually given a clean bill of health. He recently celebrated his second birthday and carries on with the exuberance of a young child unaware of a scary period that put life in proper perspective.

Faith. Family. Football. In that order. That was something Rodger Carr often told his three young sons.

Before Heather, before Dallas, that mantra didn't belong to Derek. It was something he heard, not advice he heeded. He was a teenager interested in teenager things, especially after enrolling at Fresno State in the footsteps of his famous older brother. He was a rock star before throwing a college pass, especially as a big fish in a small pond.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

After Heather, after Dallas, Derek's priorities came into focus. They all stem from faith. He has faith his family will offer unconditional support. He has faith in his own character and work ethic. Dallas' ordeal taught Derek that his faith in God is a sturdy crutch, one that won't let him buckle under stresses he can't control.

"I knew faith, family and football was my foundation, but I wasn't living by it until I grew up and figured it out on my own," Derek Carr said. "It wasn't people saying things to me. I found the path through experience. I've lived both ways, and I like the path I'm on a whole lot more."

Derek Carr is mature beyond his 24 years, overqualified to survive 0-10 and eventually 3-13 without permanent damage.

Talented quarterbacks have been beaten down by losses, but Derek weathered a trying rookie season with aplomb because he knows that football isn't life. It's just a game, one with problems he can work through.

His optimism and determination never waned, even late in a chaotic season where the Raiders hit rock bottom.

"I am human, and I feel each loss as much as anyone," Carr said. "I hate to lose. There were moments where I took time to be disappointed and admit just how hard winning is at this level. There were times when I'd talk to my brother or my wife about just how difficult all the losing was, but they never lasted long. It does me no good to feel sorry for myself or wallow in disappointment. I didn't worry or stress out because I knew I would keep working and I had faith there were better days ahead."

David Carr experienced his youngest brother's trying rookie season from the couch. He didn't travel to road games and stayed away from Raiders home dates on purpose, to avoid the inevitable comparisons between them. David didn't want cameras searching for a reaction every time Derek did something on the field, so he chose to babysit nephew Dallas while momma and family watched games in person.

It wasn't just games experienced from afar. David Carr has stayed away from Raiders training camps and in-season practices. He was loathe to go on the record last season, while Derek was getting used to life in the league.

"The comparisons between us always come, from his rookie year through each stage of his progress," David Carr said. "I just want him to have his own career and let him do his own thing. I can take a step back, but he knows I'll always be there for him no matter what."

The two still have an open dialogue, and Derek would be crazy not to use David's intelligent football mind. David knows a phone call is coming after road games, when brothers freely discuss what went right and wrong. David typically stays in Dublin after home games, ready to break down tape after baby brother returns from a long, hard Sunday.

They used to do something similar a decade ago, when David quarterbacked the expansion Houston Texans and young Derek was an aspiring signal-caller obsessed with football scheme and strategy. Derek became proficient at X's and O's working with David – Derek even called his own plays in high school -- who also helped him refine form, technique and his life around the game.

David "put extra tools in the toolbox," but Derek now has to build his own house.

“My hands are off,” David Carr said. “If he specifically asks me a question or something comes up in conversation about a coverage or a play, we’ll discuss. He’s pretty savvy chalkboard-wise, but there’s no equal to experience. I’m trying to let his NFL development happen naturally over time ... Hopefully I give him enough information to help him grow, but Derek has to take ownership of himself. He’s done a great job of that since getting drafted.”

Derek Carr’s better for the 16 games played his rookie year, and many believe he’s on the path to stardom with an upgraded supporting cast heading into the 2015 season.

He was far from perfect as a rookie, with plenty to work on as his career advances. Unlike last year at this time, Carr is not the quarterback of the future. He’s the quarterback right now, someone counted on to produce each week.

Teammates and coaches believe in his brand of leadership and have faith he can make strides necessary to spark a Raiders renaissance.

A resurgence won’t happen without quality quarterbacking, but that doesn’t add pressure to this fall’s proceedings.

Outside expectations will never match his own benchmarks, which are sky high because Carr has been to the puppet show and seen the strings. There are no illusions about NFL life and what it takes to succeed.

“It was such a blessing to be able to play all 16 games and gain that experience because now, coming into it, I don’t just have a film point of view,” Carr said. “I have a ‘from where I stood’ point of view. I know what works. I know what I can and can’t get away with. The experience is just a huge factor.”

No matter what he experiences this year, Carr knows he can handle it. He is supremely comfortable in his own skin and the knowledge that faith, family and football will carry him through.

With Amari Cooper, Raiders are in good hands

By Daniel Brown

May 7, 2015

ALAMEDA -- Amari Cooper reports for duty Friday with the opening of Raiders rookie minicamp. Fred Biletnikoff, who is already a Cooper expert, expects the No. 4 overall draft pick to get off on a better foot than he himself did back in 1965.

"Oh, I was horrible," Biletnikoff said. "I had a hell of a time making the adjustments. Lots of dropped balls."

Cooper, in contrast, appears ready to make an immediate impact. On draft day, general manager Reggie McKenzie and coach Jack Del Rio described the Alabama star, who officially signed his deal Thursday, as "polished" so often you started to think the Raiders drafted a pair of Oxford wingtips.

Biletnikoff, who recovered from his shaky early Raiders days to earn a place in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, agreed. And he ought to know: Cooper won the honor that bears his name, the Biletnikoff Award, as the top receiver in college football.

"If you know nothing about football, you might not see that he's mature beyond his years," Biletnikoff, 72, said in a phone interview. "But he's a step ahead when it comes to the things required to be a receiver. The way he runs his routes, catches balls, gets open. He can do it against man-to-man coverage or press or zone. This guy is not one-dimensional."

"He can line up inside, outside, right or left and do a good job wherever he is. Jack and Reggie and the staff were dead on when they talked about him."

TOP IN HIS CLASS

The numbers support the case. Pro Football Focus, which analyzed every play and player on the college schedule last season, evaluated 1,800 receivers. They ranked Cooper No. 1, in part because of his complete game.

Playing against top competition while at Alabama, Cooper led the country in targets and receptions and finished second in receiving yards and touchdowns. PFF found a few hidden measures of success, noting Cooper tied for the most missed tackles forced (26) and finished third in total yards after the catch (878).

Del Rio praised Cooper on draft day for his ability to run the entire route tree. PFF determined that Cooper logged 30 catches on screens, 57 on stops, slants, crosses or outs and 16 on posts or go-routes. Half of his catches on post/gos resulted in touchdowns.

As it turns out, Cooper was running those patterns as early as 5 years old. He just didn't know what they were called. In a constant search of ways to juke his friends during backyard games in Miami, Cooper learned the science of planting, cutting, turning and blasting his way out of a break.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"So when I had to run a slant route or a comeback route, which the coach called it, I was already familiar with running and getting open," he says now. "It came easy."

Teddy Bridgewater was among the first beneficiaries. Before he grew up to be the quarterback of the Minnesota Vikings, Bridgewater was a star at Miami Northwestern Senior High, a local football powerhouse.

Cooper was one of his top targets. "He was always in the right place at the right time," Bridgewater recalled.

Bridgewater, in a phone interview, said that the football team's tradition called for the best receiver on the team to wear jersey No. 2. This was hallowed territory. Miami Northwestern receivers over the years have included Antonio Bryant, Brett Perriman and Tony Martin -- all of whom went on to produce 1,000-yard seasons in the NFL.

Bridgewater said that Cooper, well aware of the lineage, set his sights on the jersey early.

"He wound up wearing No. 2 for two years," the quarterback said. "He took pride in running the best routes. And he didn't want to just be the best on the team. He wanted to be the best in the state of Florida."

Cooper's seriousness about his craft can make for stilted conversation. At his first news conference with the Raiders, the 6-foot-1, 211-pounder looked as happy as the last guy in line at the DMV. He barely smiled for photos and answered questions in a quiet monotone.

Reporter: "The team hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver in 10 years. Do you think you can end the drought?"

Cooper: "Hopefully."

Reporter: "You mentioned running routes as a kid. Was the NFL the main dream you had growing up?"

Cooper: "Yes."

And so on.

It was a jarring introduction, but Bridgewater recognized the look. He said Cooper was intensely serious-minded even as a teenager. The two were so determined to follow in the footsteps of the college-bound players from their high school that they treated schoolwork and practice as a job.

The duo proved so influential on campus that they wound up changing the culture of the school. Principal Wallace Aristide credits Cooper and Bridgewater for setting a new academic tone at what had been a sports-focused campus.

Aristide said Miami Northwestern went from annually getting "F" and "D" grades in the state's annual evaluation to becoming the first inner-city school in Miami to receive a "B" grade in 2011.

"People like Amari and Teddy were instrumental in helping us really change the climate," Aristide said. "When you're on campus -- especially one like ours -- the people with the most influence are the football players. Everybody looks up to them."

"And when they carry themselves the right way, they help you sell the importance of academic success. And I think Amari helped us do that here. ... He carried himself around campus like he was all about business. He was a tremendous student when he was here at this institution."

IN NEED OF A BOOST

Now, the Raiders hope Cooper can transform another moribund institution. Oakland hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver since Randy Moss in 2005 and is coming off a season in which it finished last in overall offense.

The Raiders had only 30 connections of 20 yards or more. The Indianapolis Colts, in contrast, had 78.

Cooper offers some big-play potential. Over three years with the Crimson Tide, he averaged 15.2 yards on his 228 receptions.

He also shown a knack for the end zone: His 31 career touchdowns catches are the most by an SEC player since 1956.

At the scouting combine -- where he ran a 4.42 in the 40-yard dash -- Cooper credited Alabama offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin for making the most of his talents. Cooper said the former Raiders head coach "moves me around a lot, so a team can't really prepare for me. He'll line me up at the H, Z to X, he'll even put me in the backfield to create some mismatches."

Wherever he was, Cooper caught passes -- and attention. As soon as the Raiders called his name, some key voices cheered the selection on Twitter.

Rich Gannon, the former Raiders quarterback and NFL MVP, posted: "(Derek) Carr and Cooper ... Match made in heaven for the Oakland Raiders!"

Another former Raider, Hall of Fame receiver Tim Brown, wrote: "Young brother! Welcome to the dark side! If you need me I'm here for you!"

Chad Johnson, the six-time All-Pro receiver wrote: "Who's the offensive coordinator in Oakland? It's a blessing to have a receiver you don't have to move around to get open."

Biletnikoff isn't of the social media generation, but he, too, was enthusiastic in his review. With Cooper and fellow Biletnikoff Award winner Michael Crabtree added to the mix, the former Raider expects Carr to enjoy a breakthrough season.

"Derek's confidence has to be going sky high," Biletnikoff said. "You know how pitchers can get by as long as guys are making plays behind them? It's the same way with quarterbacks.

"You catch the ball for him, he's going to win some games. And Amari can catch the football as well as anybody."

Raiders expect an elite wide receiver with Amari Cooper draft pick

By Phil Barber

April 30, 2015

OAKLAND — Derek Carr made great strides during his rookie season, cementing his place as the Raiders' quarterback for years to come. Carr may have taken another leap Thursday, without even stepping on the field.

With their young passer in mind, the Raiders used the No. 4 overall selection in the NFL Draft to acquire something they haven't had since the days of Rich Gannon flinging the football to Jerry Rice and Tim Brown: an elite wide receiver.

In Alabama's Amari Cooper, the Raiders got a guy whose epic college production is matched only by his NFL-quality route-running and reading of coverages, according to the scouts.

"He can run a route," Oakland general manager Reggie McKenzie said after making the pick. "Seems like he can do that with his eyes closed. He's exceptionally quick, he's fast and he understands the game. You can tell the guy's been playing football and playing that position all his life."

A fact quickly confirmed by Cooper, who explained on a conference call that he started to take his routes and cuts seriously when he was 5 or 6 years old, even before he had played organized football; by the time he joined a youth team in Miami in third grade, he had only to learn the names of the routes.

That team happened to have a couple of good running backs, including the coach's son, so Cooper tried his hands at wide receiver. He's never wandered from the position. The Raiders, in essence, are getting an athlete whose entire life has prepared him to catch passes in the NFL.

"It's unusual when words like polished are thrown out," Oakland head coach Jack Del Rio said. "But that's what you see. He's been lined up all across the board: outside, both sides, inside in the slot, moved around, even lined up in the backfield some. He's been exposed to a lot and utilized a lot of different ways. He's run the entire route tree."

Cooper is fast (4.42 seconds in the 40-yard dash at the scouting combine), but there are other receivers in this draft who can outrace him. He has good size (6-foot-1, 211 pounds), but won't tower over most NFL cornerbacks.

What set Cooper apart were his technique, his "football IQ" (if you can pardon the cliché) and his college production, the latter being light years ahead of the Raiders' previous top-10 pick at wide receiver, Darrius Heyward-Bey in 2009.

Alabama has been known as a run-first team for ages, but head coach Nick Saban and offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin – remember him, Raiders fans? – changed the philosophy with Cooper in the arsenal. The Crimson Tide targeted the junior an astounding 178 times in 2014. Cooper caught 124 of those passes (best in the nation) for 1,727 yards (tops among draft-eligible players) and 16 touchdowns (ditto).

Sometimes the college receivers with the biggest numbers are products of their offenses. That doesn't seem to be the case with Cooper, who is beloved by most NFL analysts.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

College Football Focus, which breaks down film of every FBS game, had this to say about Cooper: “He can use his hands at the line to defeat the jam and contact from defensive backs like it’s already instinct. This is something most college receivers struggle with and it takes them a while to learn it in the NFL. Cooper is already a master.”

CFF added this appraisal of Cooper’s mental game: “He also shows a fantastic understanding of defenses and zone coverage, knowing exactly what he’s looking at and when to throttle down to sit in an open space.”

“I’m a wide receiver,” Cooper said. “There are only two ways you can get open at wide receiver, your releases and the top of your route. The whole route-running process is really important. I just focus on it and try to be the best that I can at it so I can create as much separation as I can for my quarterback.”

In other words, Cooper is NFL-ready, maybe the most NFL-ready player on the entire board.

That’s great news to new Raiders offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave, who is charged with adding some zip to an offense that ranked 26th in the NFL with 204.7 passing yards per game last season, 31st in scoring with 253 points and dead last with 30 completions of 20-plus yards.

Carr already had a stable of decent young receivers like Rod Streater, Andre Holmes, Brice Butler and tight end Mychal Rivera, and a proven newcomer in Michael Crabtree. But none of them is a clear No. 1 receiver. The Raiders hope they have found their top dog in Cooper.

The void he seeks to fill goes back for more than a decade. Oakland hasn’t had a 1,000-yard receiver since Rice totaled 1,211 in 2002. That also happens to be the last time the Raiders made the playoffs.

The first two picks of this draft offered no surprises, with a pair of quarterbacks, Florida State’s Jameis Winston and Oregon’s Marcus Mariota, going to Tampa Bay and Tennessee, respectively. When the Jaguars took outside linebacker Dante Fowler at No. 3, the Raiders had at least a couple of strong possibilities: Cooper and Leonard Williams, the USC defensive lineman that some touted as the top talent in the draft.

Surprisingly, trading down might not have been much of an option. McKenzie said he got plenty of calls leading up to the draft, but none when the Raiders were on the clock.

To hear the general manager tell it, Williams wasn’t strongly debated either. The Raiders had targeted Amari Cooper, just as his quarterbacks did 178 times last year.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Raiders' Michael Crabtree 'blessed' to have a fresh start

By Vic Tafur

September 13, 2015

It was time for a new beginning, so Michael Crabtree packed his belongings this spring and moved. About 40 miles.

The former 49ers receiver relocated from San Jose to San Francisco, to be closer to his new team, the Oakland Raiders. It has seemed like a much longer journey, considering how well Crabtree has fit in with his new team heading into Sunday's season opener against the Bengals.

At training camp and in the preseason, he is looking again like the sure-handed threat who had 85 catches for 1,105 yards in 2012.

"It's been a great move, for both parties," Crabtree said, in a one-on-one interview with The Chronicle. "I feel really good about it. ... Blessed, really."

For the first time in years, Crabtree is healthy in body and healthy in spirit, done with what he thought was a lot of negativity on his old team.

"A lot of people don't know that the Niners offered me a contract, I just didn't take it," Crabtree said. "I wanted a fresh start. It was more money too — the Niners offered me more money than anybody did — but business is business and I wanted to come to a team that really wanted and needed me."

He is excited about how the Raiders have come together the last few months.

"I like the guys around me and I would do anything for them, on or off the field," Crabtree said. "We're going to have fun."

Crabtree might have been misunderstood with the 49ers, at times labeled a diva or a malcontent. And he can be hard to read at times, as Rodney Baker, the executive director of Crabtree's charitable foundation, will attest.

"If you know him, he is going to show you love," Baker said. "But if he doesn't know you, he doesn't know you. As Mike likes to say, he is an authentic guy. He is not going to pretend, or try to pretend."

With the Raiders, Crabtree immediately hit it off with quarterback Derek Carr. Crabtree knew Derek's brother, David, when they were teammates in San Francisco, and immediately liked Derek's competitive nature.

"Little brother has a chip on his shoulder," Crabtree said, laughing.

Crabtree and Carr always seem to be in the other's ear on the practice field.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“He’s awesome, one of the coolest people I’ve ever been around,” Carr said. “He makes catching look really boring and easy. It’s like catching the ball is something he has to do so he can have it. I can’t say enough good things about him.”

Crabtree doesn’t want to take shots at any of his former teammates but sometimes he can’t help it.

“I needed new scenery. It wasn’t for me,” Crabtree said. “I needed a quarterback that can deliver the ball, and that was hungry like I was.”

“With all the stuff going on on the other side, it just feels so good to be on this side,” Crabtree said. “Just play ball and don’t worry about too much. Just play ball.”

Crabtree insists he doesn’t pay much attention to all of the 49ers’ defections, retirements and arrests. He is not very convincing.

“All I can do is just focus on me, I don’t really get into all that stuff,” he said. “They said all types of stuff about me that was false. They said I was this type of guy or that type of guy. I’m the same dude, man. I don’t bother nobody. ... I play ball, that’s what I do.”

And Crabtree is playing well again, the team’s most impressive player at training camp. He finally is all the way back from a nagging foot injury and a torn Achilles tendon from a couple of years ago.

“With an Achilles injury, you might feel like you’re healthy but the burst is not there,” said Crabtree, who turns 28 on Monday. “I came back in six months, usually it takes a year, but I came back really fast to do what I could to help the team make the playoffs.”

“Now, I look forward to see what I can contribute to this team. Injuries slow you down, man. You aren’t the same person.”

Carr echoes former 49ers coach Jim Harbaugh’s sentiment that Crabtree has the best hands he’s ever seen. And he makes up for a lack of elite speed with know-how.

“He knows coverage,” Carr said. “He knows how to set up his routes so that he can win. He plays that chess match with the corner throughout the game. If there’s a certain coverage and he knows the read’s not coming to him, he’ll make it look like something to set something else up down the line.”

Crabtree also has been a mentor to first-round pick Amari Cooper, giving him tips and urging Carr to throw more passes to the rookie in the preseason.

“Coop is nice,” Crabtree said. “He’s like my little brother, and watching him do work is going to be exciting. It’s important to get a feel for the game in the preseason.”

Crabtree has a lot of little brothers and sisters, thanks to his Crab5 Foundation back in his hometown Dallas area. The foundation has annual free football camps as well as opportunities for inner city kids to explore and develop their interests in the arts, music, other sports and academics.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“We’ll send the whole band to the Grambling-Prairie View game, fashion kids to New York, actors to Los Angeles,” Crabtree said. “They get that exposure. I was really big on that because I never had that. Open the doors a little bit for these guys.”

Crabtree never went to a football camp as a kid. But he found a way to get the swag that he now gives out to kids at his camps.

His mom, Bessie Turner, sold concessions at Texas Stadium, and Crabtree would help to raise money for his little league team. After the games, he would run down to the field to get gloves and towels from players that he would wear in his games.

Crabtree grew up in the same Oak Cliff area of Dallas that former Raiders great Tim Brown did.

“He was from my neighborhood,” Crabtree said. “He made it possible. ‘I can make it, man.’ ... I used to sneak in and watch him work out. He didn’t know that.

“He used to work out at a middle school and I would sneak in, and watch him run all the different routes. Then, I finally met him about eight years ago. That’s my dude.”

Which made it even cooler when Crabtree decided to sign a one-year, incentive-heavy deal with the Raiders.

Not that anybody back home could figure out why he would sign with a team that was 11-37 the last three years.

“If everybody goes left, Mike is going to go right,” Baker said. “People were like, ‘Why would you go to the Raiders?’ But he had a real connection with Derek Carr and he just knew that was going to be his home.”

Home, 40 miles north, is where the heart is for Crabtree.

Mario Edwards, a likely first-rounder you're not seeing in many mock drafts

By Jason La Canfora

April 13, 2015

It is inevitable, come the start of the NFL Draft on April 30, there will be a player or two selected in the first round who virtually no one was chattering about leading up to the event. There will be first-round picks who showed up on nary a mock draft, generated precious little buzz, who teams were loathe to speak about lest they give away a secret or two, and who many in the media overlooked.

In 2015, one such player could be Florida State junior defensive lineman Mario Edwards Jr. You won't find him projected high and he might have mediocre grades from some draft sites, but plenty of evaluators I trust believe he's a legit first-round talent. In fact, I wouldn't be shocked if this kid ends up going somewhere in the teens, depending on the first 10 picks.

Execs I know who've studied Edwards are very impressed with his athleticism. They project a pass rush at the next level, making him potentially much more impactful as a pro than in college, where he was first-team All-ACC in 2014. And in 2012 he was the only true freshman to start on the Seminoles' vaunted defense.

"Why aren't any of you guys writing about Mario Edwards?" one evaluator asked. "I look around the Internet at these mock drafts and I don't think I've seen him in the first round in one of them. He's not showing up in any of them. I think you're missing on him. He's going to surprise some people. I think he goes in the first round. In this [not overly talented] draft, he's definitely a first-rounder for me."

For what it's worth, in my years of dealing with this particular scout, he has been overwhelmingly right. He's a big reason why I called for Deone Buchannon going in the first round before last year's draft. The hard-hitting safety largely was considered a mid-round guy who ended up going 27th overall. And this phenomenon occurs seemingly every year, be it Bruce Irvin or Tyson Alualu or Kyle Long. It's part of the process, and reactions I got from some evaluators regarding Edwards was pretty telling.

Some were loathe to talk about him because, well, they would prefer I not write this column. They would prefer no one shine a light on Edwards. When the same names of defensive linemen show up over and over in mock drafts, you get a lot of smiles in the scouting community. They're perfectly fine with it. They don't want a lot of hype about a kid who they think may be falling through the cracks.

"Everybody [doing a mock draft] pretty much ends up with the same names, but in a different order," said another evaluator who doesn't believe his team is a great fit for Edwards but expects he goes high. "That's usually how it works. So why should I give you a name [outside that group]? Why would a team want to let you in on that? But, since you're asking me, do I think Edwards could be that kind of guy? You could be on to something there."

Edwards is raw, and had he stayed in school we might have heard a lot about him before the 2016 draft. But there is no denying the talent, some still untapped (that is the very nature of the draft -- projecting, projecting, projecting). His father was a star at FSU and played corner in the NFL. Edwards was considered perhaps the nation's best defender coming out of high school. He is strong and powerful at 6-feet-3, 279 pounds, and can play with burst and explosiveness. He could be a fit in a 3-4 or a 4-3 scheme, though the scouts I talked to saw him more projected as a 4-3 tackle and believe he will be more of a pass-rushing factor as he develops.

One evaluator who did extensive work on him thought Edwards should be one of the first three defensive linemen off the board, and attributed some overall dropoff in FSU's defense in 2014 to the loss of defensive coordinator Jeremy Pruitt (who left after their national title in 2013 to go to Georgia).

"There was a dropoff across the board from that defense, and a lot of it I think was from losing their coordinator," he said. "He was the man. But if you look at some of those kids over the last two or three years, man, there are a lot of players there. I think Edwards and [Seminoles defensive tackle Eddie] Goldman are first-rounders."

Within the Florida State program, Edwards was viewed as a difference maker still coming into his own. He picked up valuable scheme diversity having to work with three coordinators in three years -- all three coordinators speak very highly of Edwards, I'm told -- and someone who performed often selfless tasks in that defense at a very high level.

"There were some very high expectations on him coming as the No. 1 recruit in the nation, so I guess maybe to some on the outside it might seem like his numbers aren't huge or something like that," said someone who worked closely with him while at Florida State. "But if you evaluate his entire Florida State career, he played a very major role on a team that went 39-3 with him here, and that was just 9-4 the season before he and Jameis [Winston] got here.

"He has great leadership qualities. He was one of the most coachable kids you could work with. You could always count on him on the field and off the field. He did everything that was asked of him and expected of him. He was incredibly well-liked within the program. He's very comfortable with the professional game because of his legacy with his father playing in the NFL. He's built for the league and he will keep getting better."

Certain teams definitely seem to like Edwards more than others, including the Vikings, who pick No. 11 overall. That might be high for Edwards -- plenty of mocks have nose tackle Danny Shelton going there -- though I wouldn't rule it out. And if perhaps you see the Vikings trade down out of that spot, definitely keep an eye on Edwards as a target. It wouldn't shock me at all if the Bengals, 49ers, Cowboys, Lions, Seahawks or Browns invested a top pick in him.

He would fill a need with plenty of 3-4 teams as well, though some have said they aren't sure he would fit at defensive end and doubt he could move to outside linebacker. Others believe he could play inside in a 3-4 in certain packages. Regardless, he has people talking, or perhaps whispering. His 4.74 time in the 40 and video of him doing a standing backflip -- at 300 pounds! -- and his athletic prowess are very difficult to ignore.

Personally, I won't consider it a surprise if he ends up going somewhere between 11th and 19th. After reading this, I suppose neither should you. I assure you in some draft meetings and war rooms, it won't be looked at as a stunner, either, if things play out that way.

By Jared Shanker

April 27, 2015

The morning of the NFL draft, Mario Edwards Jr. will look at himself in the mirror, just as he's done every morning since declaring for the draft. He'll pose a question to his reflection, knowing he doesn't have a satisfying answer.

"Why did I take so long?"

The former Florida State defensive lineman, who entered the draft after his junior season, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 279 pounds and is in such good shape he spent pro day wearing the football equivalent of spandex. It's a stark contrast to where he was less than a year ago.

The last draft-eligible No. 1 high school prospect was Jadeveon Clowney, who was drafted first overall in 2014. Edwards, who succeeded Clowney as ESPN RecruitingNation's No. 1 recruit, isn't following the same trajectory. Instead, Edwards' name draws varying opinions. There's talk of him sneaking into the second half of the first round or falling all the way to the end of the second day.

NFL front offices have to ask why it took so long for Edwards, who ballooned to 310 pounds at FSU, to turn himself into the player people expected -- and whether the change is permanent.

"In order for me to be great, I've got to take care of my body," Edwards said. "The 310, it's a closed chapter."

Edwards' reputation preceded him when he arrived at Florida State in 2012. He was described as a pass-rusher with first-step quickness who also possessed the power to play defensive tackle. The Seminoles had aspirations of competing for a national championship, and the decorated recruit was expected to contribute. Unprepared and overweight, though, he would have redshirted if not for an injury to a starter.

Part of the problem was he always ate until he felt full. It might take a bucket of hot wings or a burrito bowl with quadruple meat and three tacos to do that. That would be lunch, and he'd reorder it in the evening for dinner.

Teammates cracked fat jokes, but it didn't faze Edwards. Even at 300 pounds, he could still do standing back flips. The problem, he said, was he couldn't sustain his performance all four quarters. His weight caused him to wilt.

"I couldn't blame anybody but myself," he said.

The other problem was the hype and publicity, said Edwards' father, Mario Sr., who has coached his son the last six years -- the last three as Florida State's director of development.

"I think he had the big head, because all his life he's been more talented than most guys he faced. Like a lot of kids, he felt like he already arrived," Mario Sr. said. "Being humbled and not realizing I'm not the big dog on the block anymore, it was the wake-up call he needed.

"The seed needed to be watered and nourished, and it blossomed into something beautiful."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

As a sophomore, Edwards showed flashes of brilliance and dominated in the 2013 national championship. This past season, Edwards was voted a team captain. His numbers aren't staggering when compared to those of other linemen, but his role as a 3-4 defensive end differed play to play, a team-oriented role he learned to relish.

"I was an all-about-me player and not about the team," Edwards said, "and I had to learn it wasn't about me and support my teammates. I'm the guy that does my job that you don't have to worry about."

Still, NFL teams will worry. In pre-draft workouts, Edwards outperformed most other linemen and was one of the biggest risers to come from the combine. But central to the pre-draft process is convincing teams the weight will stay off. Edwards weighed 276 pounds at the Rose Bowl and 272 at pro day. He's at 279 now. That question is put to bed, he said.

Training with EXOS, a health and performance consulting company, Edwards worked with dietician and performance nutritionist Bob Calvin. Calvin said Edwards was motivated to change his eating habits, which consisted of about 80 percent of his calories coming from poor food choices.

Calvin heard all the right things from Edwards, but he still had to see whether Edwards was applying it. One of the ways Calvin gauges a player's level of sincerity is if they're eating vegetables at breakfast and eschewing sugary drinks for water. That's exactly what Edwards was doing on a daily basis, and he was ending nights with Caesar salads and sweet potatoes.

"He made upgrades in his habits and saw the rewards and benefits," Calvin said.

Weekdays at EXOS before the draft have also consisted of four workouts. Edwards was in the top linemen group, joined by potential first-round picks Dante Fowler Jr., Cam Erving and D.J. Humphries. Edwards said he wasn't the quintessential teammate early in his Florida State career, but EXOS performance specialist Stefan Underwood said he has been a valuable asset in group settings during training.

"He elevated the people around him," Underwood said. "He was there to work and brought a business mentality."

Because of his size, Edwards is being looked at as a 4-3 defensive end -- he said he'll play end in either scheme or even stand up as a linebacker -- which means he'll have to improve his pass rush. For the past month, Edwards has worked with three-time Pro Bowl left tackle Tra Thomas.

Edwards and Thomas worked on the rookie's stance and spin moves. The two watched film and Thomas offered insight into the tricks that annoy offenses most. There was no lack of motivation, Thomas said.

"He'll give a lot of O-linemen fits," Thomas said. "He's going to be a huge success."

On draft morning, Edwards might not have an answer for himself when he looks in the mirror, but he knows the person staring back is here to stay.

Miami OL Feliciano has found his way home

By Andrea Adelson

October 13, 2014

He had no home. Scratch that. Technically, he had a home, but it was condemned. So he bounced around here and there, staying with his best friend or his girlfriend. On days he felt too proud to ask for another favor, he went back to the condemned house, with no water or power. He just needed a place to fall asleep.

All those nights he had nothing, Jon Feliciano thought about football. He thought about the University of Miami, the only place he ever wanted to go to college. Somehow, he thought, I have to get there. Football will get me there.

Never mind that Miami had never shown any interest in him, even though he went to high school in Davie, Florida, 40 minutes north of the campus. If Feliciano wanted to change his fate, he would have to do it himself.

A junior offensive lineman at the time, the 6-foot-4, 280-pound Feliciano put together a highlight tape to hand-deliver to the coach recruiting his area, Tommie Robinson. Feliciano and West initially wanted to sneak down to the field when the game ended, but there were too many people to make it far. Feliciano was crushed.

West, familiar with the stadium layout, knew where the Miami buses would be parked. He drove Feliciano to the back of the stadium, where they waited for the team to emerge. When Robinson came out, Feliciano gave him the tape.

The fact that Feliciano could run, let alone play football, should be regarded as a minor miracle. He was born breech and with a foot deformity that required braces, or "magic shoes," as his mother called them. For two years, he wore the braces. Doctors told Alicia Feliciano that her son would never play sports. She told the doctors they would be wrong. She spent hours pulling on his legs, willing them to work, massaging his feet until her hands hurt.

Her youngest son, Christopher, had even more health problems. He was born deaf and requiring a feeding tube and heart monitors. Her marriage deteriorated, and she got divorced when her three sons were still young. She wanted to move far away, so she left her family and home in New York with $300 in her pocket and a car worth $200 and headed to Florida.

She never had a steady job but made ends meet, always making sure her children were clean and fed. When she worked nights, Jon would take care of his little brother, cooking him dinner or helping with homework. His older brother was not always around, so it was up to Jon to be the man of the house.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

When Jon was in eighth grade, Alicia developed breast cancer. She kept her diagnosis a secret because she did not want her sons to worry. She went to treatments alone and would come home with a smile, tuck her kids into bed and then scream in pain through the night. When Jon asked what was wrong, she claimed she was watching a scary movie.

When she lost her hair, Jon asked why she wore a wig. She told him her hairdresser was at fault. But after a few months, Alicia finally broke down.

"She told me, 'I've had breast cancer the last few months, but I'm OK,'" Jon said. "I was like, 'Thanks, Mom. I would have liked to know that a few months ago. I could have helped you.' She just didn't want me to worry about her."

"Never say that again," she told him.

Jon always loved football, but he could not afford to play in the local Optimist league. Even if he had the money, he had no way to get there. Instead, he grew up idolizing Ray Lewis and Sean Taylor and dreamed about playing tight end for the Canes.

The summer before his freshman year of high school, a friend asked him to go check out football practice. They rode their bikes over to the field. The coaches took one look at Jon and told him, "You're going to play football."

He began to excel on the field and on the basketball court -- his first love -- but at home his mother was struggling to pay the bills. Sometimes the water and electricity would be turned off. She had a generator for food and one light. They would sometimes sleep at a cousin's house or in their car.

Jon was too proud to tell his coaches what was happening at home; his mother was too proud to ask anybody for help. She wanted to provide for her children, but she no longer could when Jon was a junior and their house was condemned.

"I was really upset about it, but I didn't want to let my mother or younger brother know how much it was bothering me," Jon said. "My mom was very upset, crying. She would always say, 'I don't want to be a bad mother,' and I'd tell her, 'Mom, you're not a bad mother. It's not your fault.' I didn't want to put more pressure on my mother with me being upset or letting her know I was upset. I tried to stay strong for my family."

She wanted him to move back to New York with her and Christopher. Jon thought it would be best if he stayed in Florida and kept playing football, hoping to get a scholarship. Alicia reluctantly agreed.

"Promise me you'll go to school and become somebody," she told him.

He promised.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I would just focus on school and playing football and playing basketball. Those things kept me away from everything. But there were times I didn't know what house I'd be able to stay at," he said. "It was challenging looking back at it, but I really just try to think about the positives. If I can get through this, I don't think there will be anything in my life harder to get through."

Jon freely admits he gets his pride from his mother. Pride kept him from giving West or his basketball coach, Steve Todd, any indication that something was wrong at home. He wanted to try to manage on his own.

"He never let on how bad it may have been," West said. "There are some things I'm finding out now that you had a clue about but you didn't know to what extreme."

Feliciano and his mother, in town from New York at the time, went down to Coral Gables. Everything was how he envisioned, from the coaching staff to the facilities to the campus and community. They left, not knowing what to expect as they drove to a friend's house.

Then the phone rang. It was Miami offensive line coach Jeff Stoutland.

"Jon, we want to offer you a scholarship to the University of Miami," he said.

"OK," Feliciano said. "I'm going to commit right now."

"Are you sure?" Stoutland asked. "Do you want to talk to your mom about it?"

Feliciano turned to his mother.

"Mom," he said. "I'm committing to Miami."

She cried.

"Since he was 6 years old, all he ever said was, 'I want to go to that team, Mom!'" she recalled. "He doesn't even remember being in braces, but I always said to him, 'You're going to do it, Jon!' And he did it."

Shortly after, Alicia moved back to Florida with her parents, who bought a house for them to live in. A year later, Jon arrived at Miami, but he started doubting whether he belonged. The plan was to redshirt, so he played on the scout team every day, facing stronger guys like Sean Spence, Colin McCarthy and Marcus Forston -- all in the NFL now.

Then Randy Shannon and his staff were fired. Al Golden came in with a new offensive line coach. Feliciano had no idea what to expect. After the first spring, he went in for his exit interview with Golden.

"Jon, you have four more years. Do you know how good a player you're going to be?" Golden said.

Feliciano looked at him and thought, "Do you see what I see?"

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Golden saw much more. "He's tough, he's durable, and he's versatile, and that's a great combination to have," Golden said. "You could see early on that he was a very humble kid from a humble background, lunch-pail ethic, and [he was] grateful for the opportunity to be here."

Feliciano worked harder than he ever had that summer and used Christopher as inspiration. He had no reason to be down, not when he was playing the game his brother never could.

Feliciano has started 38 games since then while facing even more difficulty at home. Alicia was diagnosed with cancer again several years ago and had her uterus removed. She asked the coaches not to tell Jon, but they thought he already knew.

"I've been through a lot," she told him. "What I deserve is for you to stay in school."

In May, Feliciano became the first person in his family to graduate from college. His father, who has maintained a presence in Jon's life, flew down from New York for the ceremony, attending with his brothers, grandparents and, of course, Alicia, grateful to be alive to see Jon walk across the stage.

"Of all the kids who had a reason to go the other way, he is one of them," said West, his high school football coach. "But he didn't. We always say it's a great story. It could be made into a movie."

Jon and Alicia struggle to reveal all the details of their past, but it has shaped them both.

"It just taught me to be strong," Jon says. "No matter what you're going through, you'll get through it if you keep a positive attitude and work hard. Everything will be all right."

Turns out everything is more than all right. Feliciano has a football career, a college degree and a future. He has his family.

He has a home.

DE KHALIL MACK

Khalil Mack is busy paving a path to stardom

By Jeffri Chadiha

June 5, 2015

Khalil Mack's eyes narrowed as he crouched into a two-point stance in early September. Standing across from the Oakland Raiders outside linebacker was Houston Texans Pro Bowl left tackle Duane Brown, a 6-foot-4, 320-pound mammoth of a blocker eager to test a first-year player in a game that was quickly turning into a Houston blowout. But as soon as Brown fired across the line of scrimmage after the snap, the 6-3, 252-pound Mack deftly slid away from the oncoming lineman, then easily tackled Texans running back Alfred Blue for no gain.

A few plays later, Mack was even more determined, as he noticed Texans backup tight end Ryan Griffin lining up across from him. I played against this guy in college, Mack thought to himself. If he's out here, I know I can play this game at a high level. Mack easily tossed Griffin aside on a couple more runs to remind the former UConn star that little had changed now that they were competing on football's biggest stage.

In fact, the longer Mack played in that 30-14 Week 2 loss, the more he felt as though he was making a statement with every play. The Raiders may not have been winning, but the rookie was telling the world something about a player who had been selected fifth overall in the 2014 draft. "I learned early on that it's hard to win games in this league," Mack said. "You have to pay attention to detail. You have to always have the right technique. And you really do have to play every down like it's your last."

The lessons Mack learned during his rookie season undoubtedly will come in handy this fall. There are still many questions surrounding a Raiders team that hasn't enjoyed a winning campaign since 2002 -- including the mysterious hand injury that has hampered second-year quarterback Derek Carr throughout organized team activities -- but one spot the franchise shouldn't worry about is strongside outside linebacker. At 24 years old, Mack already has flashed so much potential that Raiders safety Charles Woodson told the San Jose Mercury News last season the "dude is going to be special."

In his first season, Mack finished with 75 tackles, four sacks and a forced fumble, numbers that helped him finish third in voting for the league's defensive rookie of the year award (behind St. Louis' Aaron Donald and Baltimore's C.J. Mosley). This year the Raiders have much bigger expectations for Mack, especially with new head coach Jack Del Rio starting his first season and defensive coordinator Ken Norton installing new schemes. Del Rio wouldn't give many specifics on how Mack's role would change but he did make it apparent that Mack won't spend nearly as much time in pass coverage as he did in 2014. This time around, Mack will be chasing quarterbacks as much as possible, which is something he did quite well when given the chance, even if the sack totals don't look significant. Mack had 40 QB hurries last season to go with his exceptional run defending.

Since Del Rio coached Pro Bowl outside linebacker Von Miller as the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator from 2012-14, he'd like to see Mack have a similar impact on opposing passing attacks. "I think Khalil is way more physical than Von," Del Rio said. "Von got up to somewhere around 250 pounds when I had him but he's naturally closer to 240. Khalil can be up around 260 or 265 and they both play that strongside linebacker position and sub-pass-rusher role. Since most teams use their sub packages for two-thirds of the game, there will be some opportunities there. They're different but they're both special."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I definitely want to get after the quarterback more this year," Mack said. "I got some hits [in 2014], but people didn't really see what I can do. Those sack numbers I had really weren't me. At the end of the day, you want people to see you at your best."

That explains why Mack didn't spend his offseason in trendy hot spots such as South Florida or Scottsdale, Arizona, the typical areas where many young NFL players prefer to train. Despite being a Florida native -- Mack grew up in Fort Pierce -- he returned to the University of Buffalo to work out with trainer John Opfer. When Mack wasn't running steep hills or lifting weights with his former college teammates, he was focusing on areas that could fine-tune his physique for a strong second year. Some of the most vital elements of Mack's conditioning program involved strengthening his hands (so he can shed blockers far more easily) and building his core muscles (to increase his overall explosiveness).

Why train in upstate New York? "It's very easy to focus in Buffalo," Mack said. The decision speaks volumes about his approach to his career in general. Mack's road to the NFL was filled with several setbacks and plenty of people who questioned if he'd ever be a difference-maker in college. The last thing he wants to do now is forget the same ideals that brought him this far in the first place.

As Mack recently leaned against a wall outside the team's training facility following an organized training activity session, it wasn't hard to see the appreciation he has for his current standing. He laughed when thinking about this time of year last season, when he walked into the locker room for his first minicamp and bumped into defensive end Justin Tuck, a veteran of 11 NFL seasons. Tuck told Mack that he was impressed with his game, then offered a bit of invaluable advice. "Whatever you do this year, just shut up and listen," Tuck said. "You're a great player but you don't have any idea of what you're doing yet."

That suggestion helped Mack understand that his road to success in pro football would come down to how well he did the little things -- such as studying film and refining his techniques -- instead of overwhelming opponents with jaw-dropping athleticism. It was a lesson quite similar to the one he learned while growing up in a deeply religious, two-parent household, with a father who worked as both a program specialist and a deacon. Sandy Mack Sr. had long ago counseled his son to spend more time listening to his elders than speaking his mind. In his father's eyes, that was the best approach for young Khalil to find his way through the hurdles that eventually would challenge him.

That combination of humility and faith helped Mack when a torn patella tendon ended his hopes of earning a basketball scholarship when he was only a sophomore at Fort Pierce Westwood high. It also meant plenty when he was a lightly regarded football recruit who wound up at Buffalo only because the coach who was previously recruiting him to Liberty University decided to take a job at that program. Of course, there's also the story of why Mack wore number 46 in college. He donned it because the video game "EA Sports College Football 10" had given him a rating of 46 (an extremely low mark) before he started his redshirt freshman season in 2010.

Mack ultimately became an All-American by his senior year and left Buffalo as the NCAA's career leader in forced fumbles and tied for career tackles for loss. "I don't know if Khalil really understood all his talents when he was in high school," said Opfer, who also has become a mentor to Mack. "He didn't go to the big [exposure] camps in the summer and he didn't play competitively until his junior and senior years. So to have that little experience and end up blowing up college football says a lot. When he started to believe he could be great, that's when he took off."

Still, all that success in college had some repercussions once Mack arrived in Oakland. When his first NFL season began, he found himself pressing to make the same splash plays that had defined him in college. "I knew the only way to make a strong impression was to make the big plays," Mack said. "But I wasn't making the same plays I was making in college when I first got here. Eventually I had to understand that this is a group effort. We all have to be involved in order to make the plays we need to make."

Just as difficult for Mack was grinding through a season during which the Raiders won only three games. He leaned on the wisdom of veterans like Tuck and Woodson but Opfer also saw a player who learned how to play the longer the season went on. "Khalil is a smart guy but he got away with being a read-and-react player in college," Opfer said. "He had so much God-given ability that he could miss a read and still react fast enough to make a play. But as last season went on, you saw his football IQ grow. He became a lot more proficient at putting himself in the best possible positions to make plays."

Mack drew plenty of praise in the process. Seattle Seahawks coach Pete Carroll told reporters last season that Mack "jumped off the film" when his staff studied the Raiders. Former Cleveland Browns quarterback Brian Hoyer, now with Houston, said Mack was one of the best players that team faced in 2014 and added that "he gained the respect of everybody on our team." Del Rio said the Broncos had similar impressions. "Our offensive guys always wanted to know where he was," Del Rio. "That tells you a lot about what he can do."

Now the Raiders need to see even more growth as Mack heads into this coming season. The popular belief in the NFL is that players show the greatest improvement between their first and second years in the league, which means Mack should be poised for a huge leap in productivity. That goal weighed heavily on his mind whenever he strapped on a weighted vest in Buffalo this offseason and trudged toward a steep hill near the facility where he trained. Joined there by former Buffalo players such as San Diego Chargers running back Branden Oliver, Mack charged up that incline at least three times a week, all with the hopes of chiseling his thick legs and testing his willpower.

Mack had followed a similar routine in college, when he helped the Bulls grow from a program that won two games during his freshman season to one that finished second in the MAC during his senior year. A similar challenge now awaits him in Oakland. The Raiders know they still have plenty of changes to make in order to become a playoff contender. But if Mack can become the foundation of a young defense, that task will prove to be much easier.

"I can definitely say we will be relentless on defense this year," Mack said. "We're going to be dominant and physical and we're going to fly to the football. That's what this game comes down -- playing with that kind of effort. And we want to be the kind of defense that takes the ball away and gives it back to our offense as much as we possibly can."

Raiders LB Mack looks to build on big rookie season

By Josh Dubow

August 5, 2015

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Despite being a top five draft pick, a heralded rookie and a selection on the NFL's top 100 players list, Oakland Raiders linebacker Khalil Mack is far from satisfied heading into his second pro season.

That attitude is fueled by the rejection he faced coming out of high school when he got only one scholarship offer to Buffalo rather than the opportunity to play at a higher-profile school.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

It helped Mack pass all those five-star recruits to become the second defensive player drafted in 2014 and become one of the top outside linebackers — not just rookies — in the league last season.

"I had a lot of space between Buffalo and those elite conferences, so I had to do a lot of work in order to get to that level, in my mind," he said. "I'm still the same way. I feel like it's a lot of people on this level that are still great, but there's still a gap, so I'm trying to close it every day."

That work ethic has been evident all offseason as Mack has impressed a new coaching staff that had seen him from the other side of the field and on film but not up close.

So far, only one thing has been missing for Mack, and the Raiders believe that will change this season. Mack had just four sacks as he was unable to turn all that pressure into big plays.

"Everybody is saying how good he is and he got four sacks," new defensive coordinator Ken Norton Jr. said. "I thought to myself, 'How many great players have four sacks?' You have to get in double digits. So he has a lot of growth to make. If they're thinking he's this good and he's done so little, imagine when he actually does what he's supposed to do."

In order to get to the quarterback more often, Mack added some extra pounds of muscle to allow him to use power as well as speed to beat NFL tackles.

Mack also could get more time as a defensive end this season under the new coaching staff after having a close to even split last season as a stand-up linebacker and a rush end with his hand on the ground.

"He's pretty doggone good getting after the quarterback," general manager Reggie McKenzie said. "He's just really good going forward and it's an opportunity really to do a lot of things with him. They're going to use Khalil all kinds of ways and that's the way it should be. He's a dominant defensive player, so let him do what he does best and move him around."

Mack hopes the added strength will help him deal with the longer NFL season and deliver the sacks that he was close to getting a year ago.

"It was a little frustrating," he said. "Even then, I had talks with Justin Tuck. He let me know everybody gets lucky. It's not all just because of technique and being fundamentally sound. Everybody gets lucky and you have to know how teams are scheming against you."

While many outside linebackers make their names by sacking the quarterback, Mack has been at his best against the run where he fights off blocks to make plays in the backfield every week. Mack was second in the NFL to Houston's J.J. Watt with 11 1/2 tackles at or behind the line against the run, according to STATS.

Mack is no slouch rushing the passer despite seeing more than his share of double-teams. In addition to his four sacks, he was tied for sixth among all linebackers with 51 quarterback pressures. Mack ranked third in quarterback pressures among linebackers over the last 11 weeks.

"Khalil is special," Norton said. "There are a lot of players that might be similar. But he's in a class of his own. Bruce Irvin in Seattle was similar. But, at the same time, Khalil is built. He's athletic. He's smart. And he's relentless. ... He's amazing."

Mack has earned comparisons with many of the top pass rushers in the league with former coach Dennis Allen likening him to Von Miller as soon as he was drafted.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Quarterback Derek Carr said Mack was similar to Kansas City's Justin Houston and Tamba Hali and Denver's DeMarcus Ware as well.

"I'm trying to go out there and be the best player I can be," Mack said. "My name is Khalil. I want to be the best Khalil. Whatever he says about me, I appreciate it but I still have a long way to go."

RB LATAVIUS MURRAY

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Latavius Murray looks ready to become Raiders' top back

By Vic Tafur

August 5, 2015

One look at Raiders running back Latavius Murray, and it's hard not to think of Adrian Peterson and DeMarco Murray. Yes, those are two of the best running backs in the NFL, and Latavius Murray has only 82 career carries.

But just look at him. How many running backs are 6-foot-3, with a chiseled 230 pounds and speed to burn?

"Size and speed," said Murray, who was asked to switch to linebacker by his coaches at Central Florida. "Not many guys with that combination. I do watch those two guys, but I know I have to stick to my game."

Murray, who missed his rookie season in 2013 with a foot injury, had some highlight-reel runs last season and started the last three games. But new head coach Jack Del Rio still brought in Trent Richardson to compete with Murray for the starting job.

Well, Richardson has missed the first week of training camp with an injury, and Murray isn't looking back. He is getting all of the first-team reps and has looked powerful, especially in a scrimmage late in Wednesday afternoon's practice in Napa.

"My mentality is to stay where I am at and be that guy," Murray said. "It's big being able to get a series of carries together and getting comfortable back there. Get used to the scheme and the guys I am in there with."

Murray wasn't able to prove that he was a starter to the head coaches last year, Dennis Allen and interim man Tony Sparano. It took 10 losses of Darren McFadden and Maurice Jones-Drew running into tacklers before Sparano finally threw his hands up and gave Murray a shot.

General manager Reggie McKenzie was asked what took so long, what was holding back Murray.

"I think he's holding himself back," McKenzie said. "Being able to practice all the time, not having nitpicking injuries. Last season, leading up to it, he was nicked up. So, if he could stay healthy, nothing is holding him back."

This year the 2013 sixth-round pick is coming off the first offseason in which he was 100 percent healthy, and he was even a little faster, he says, coming into camp.

Is Murray ready to be a 1,000-yard, No. 1 running back in the NFL?

"No question," McKenzie said. "He can do it all."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Murray had the foot injury his rookie year and an ankle injury and concussion last year. He still finished with 75 carries for 413 yards (5.5 average) and two touchdowns, one a 90-yarder against Kansas City, in the final seven games.

“I had a great offseason, and I want that to carry over,” he said.

It started with renting a house in Newport Beach (Orange County) and working out with former Central Florida teammate and current Jacksonville quarterback Blake Bortles. From there, he went back home to New York and did whatever friend and trainer Vinny Scollo told him. Murray hit the weights, ran hills with a flak jacket and played dodge ball — with large, four-square balls being flung at him.

“The biggest improvement has been in his explosiveness and his conditioning,” Scollo told Syracuse.com. “Last year, we really had to taper the workouts and work around his injury. This year, his conditioning, his wind, is 100 percent there.”

Raiders offensive line coach Mike Tice had heard Murray was a hard worker. Tice, back in the day, played for longtime coach George O’Leary, who coached Murray at Central Florida.

“We talk about it a lot, like ‘That’s something O’Leary would do or say,’” Murray said. “It’s pretty cool. The O’Leary mentality is tough, physical. We still talk, and he knows I am in good hands with Coach Tice, and I know that as well.”

O’Leary said Murray had to learn to run between the tackles in college instead of trying to bounce everything outside. Instead of reading the defensive linemen, Murray learned to read the linebackers.

“George (said) he is a hard worker and a tough kid,” Tice said. “So I know Latavius was raised the right way, and I know he got yelled at a lot.”

Tice likes Murray’s jump-cut move and how he can change direction. But the main thing, again, is the combination of speed and power.

“For a big guy, Latavius has extremely good quickness,” Tice said. “And when he gets behind his pads, he is hard to tackle. Smaller linebackers might be in serious trouble.”

T DONALD PENN

DAILY BREEZE

St. Bernard High product Donald Penn of Raiders is sort of a big deal

By Dave Thorpe

August 10, 2015

On the small campus of St. Bernard High, the hulking Donald Penn, who transferred from Manual Arts, was easy to spot.

St. Bernard football coach Greg Dixon saw him coming a mile away.

"He was one of the bigger guys on campus, if not the biggest," Dixon said. "I had to try."

Penn was a basketball player, not a football player, so Dixon had work to do.

"He was a basketball guy, and he was good," Dixon said. "I had to convince him to come out to football."

The 6-foot-4, 340-pound Penn, who is embarking upon his ninth year in the National Football League and second with the Oakland Raiders, didn't start playing football at St. Bernard until his junior year.

"I grew up playing basketball, but everybody kept telling me I'm a big guy, I should play football," Penn said. "Coach Greg Dixon asked me to tryout, and things picked up fast."

Basketball was Penn's first love, but it soon became clear football was his future.

"I had basketball dreams, but letters were coming in from colleges for football, not basketball," Penn said.

Penn was a junior on St. Bernard's 1999-2000 basketball team that reached the CIF Southern Section Division 4-AA final and the CIF Division 4 State championship game.

"It's one of my fondest memories, just playing with him," McCrumby said. "He was a light-hearted dude who kept everyone laughing."

Everyone except opposing post players.

"He was the big clog in the middle, he took up a lot of space inside," McCrumby said. "He had soft hands. Even though he was a big boy, he had the most nimble feet of anyone his size I ever played with, just excellent footwork."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Being at a small school like St. Bernard, he flew under the radar,” McCrumby said. “In this day in age of social media, he would have been a big-time lineman getting tons of offers.”

There were a few Pac-10 schools interested in Penn, but nothing worked out.

“The Oregon schools were interested, but they were hesitant, I’m not quite sure why,” Dixon said. “It was unfortunate, we felt he could play at that level by his senior year.”

Penn actually committed to Arizona at one point, but at the end of the college season, Arizona coach Dick Tomey was replaced by John Mackoric, and the offer went to someone else.

“I still had a couple of offers hanging around,” Penn said.

Penn ended up signing with Utah State, where he redshirted his first year before becoming a four-year standout starter. Despite his success at Utah State, he went undrafted in 2006 before signing with the Minnesota Vikings as a free agent. The Vikings released Penn, then he signed with Tampa Bay. Penn started the last 12 games of the season for the Buccaneers in 2007, and hasn’t missed a start since. He’s started 124 consecutive NFL games, showing amazing durability.

“He really took me under his wing, he saw a lot of potential in me that I didn’t really even see in myself,” Penn said. “I started shutting guys down and stirring things up.”

After eight years with Tampa Bay, including one Pro Bowl year, Penn was released and the Raiders picked him up before last season.

“It hurt when Tampa Bay released me, but I look at it like everything happens for a reason,” Penn said.

“It brought me closer to home, and I’m ecstatic to play for the team I grew up cheering for,” Penn said.

“Playing for the Raiders is like a dream come true, and hopefully I can help turn things around here, the goal is to win a Super Bowl and retire a Raider.”

“Deep down in my heart, how would I not want to play at home?” Penn said. “Of course it would be amazing. But we have some of the best fans in the country, Raider Nation is everywhere, I love playing here in Oakland, but I’m happy wherever we play.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Now he's a veteran leader on the left side of Oakland's offensive line, mentoring younger players like Gabe Jackson and Matt McCants.

"It's crazy, when I was younger I'd joke around about how old the other guys were, it seems like just yesterday I was that young," Penn said. "It's kind of funny, but I embrace it, I make sure I do everything right, take notes heavily, come early, stay late, work hard, the younger guys see that and follow your lead."

The likability factor with Penn makes him easy to follow; it's on display every June at St. Bernard High when Penn and his foundation, which is designed to help low-income youth, host a free football camp.

"I hung out with him a couple of years ago, he's down to earth, very humble, approachable, qualities a lot of guys don't have that have his stature," McCrumby said.

WR SETH ROBERTS

TALLAHASSEE DEMOCRAT

Maclay alum Seth Roberts goes reaches NFL with Oakland Raiders

By Brian Miller

September 11, 2015

When Seth Roberts got the highly anticipated yet nerve-wracking phone call he was standing in his bathroom.

The words from the Oakland Raiders' director of player personnel took him to his knees, where he offered up a prayer of thankfulness.

Roberts, a class of 2010 Maclay School alum, had made the Raiders' 53-man roster. He was an NFL player despite a non-traditional route and dreams that centered on another sport entirely.

"I just thanked the Lord, because without him I couldn't have made it," said Roberts via phone exclusively to the Tallahassee Democrat. "It was a struggle out here in California, but I told myself there'd be better days to come.

"That's where I'm at right now, but I'm still not satisfied. I have more work to do."

Not there yet

Roberts was watching the 2014 NFL Draft when his father joined him after work. Round by round teams passed him by.

Scouts from the Seattle Seahawks and Green Bay Packers were most interested in him following pro days and visits to each team's headquarters. But their draft slots slipped by in the final rounds and Roberts went undrafted.

Immediately after the Raiders called.

"His phone was ringing off the hook and the Raiders' scout was trying to tie the line up so he wouldn't get any more calls," Ronnie Roberts said. "Finally, he hangs up, Seattle calls, Green Bay calls, and Seattle wants him to start on practice squad. But Seth wanted to compete to be on a roster."

Roberts asked his father what to do, and Oakland, which hadn't drafted any receivers, became his choice.

He ultimately wound up on Oakland's practice squad, where he came to work every day preparing for the next opportunity.

He knew he'd come a long way since picking up football later than most. He was bigger, faster and stronger.

It hit Roberts how much had changed when former Florida State wide receiver Kenny Shaw also wound up on the Raiders' practice squad with him.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I used to sit at home at the desktop and look at Rivals, all these kids with five stars, four stars, and I didn't have any stars," Roberts said. "I saw Kenny on practice squad and thought, 'Wow, he played at Florida State and they bypassed me.' I felt like I was so much farther along, faster and stronger and had separated myself on the practice squad.

"It's crazy, but it was all about my work ethic. It's not going to happen overnight."

Shaw is now in the Canadian Football League with the Toronto Argonauts.

This preseason, Roberts led the AFC in receiving and turned in a seven-catch, 110-yard game with a touchdown against the Seahawks to earn a spot on the coveted 53-man roster and become an NFL player.

"I learn something new every day, every year," Roberts said. "I try to get better. I tell the reporters out here when they ask me the difference between practice squad last year and this year that I understand the scheme of what's going on. I watch everything. I always have my ears open. I don't think I know everything."

Starting at the bottom

Roberts was born in Moultrie, Georgia, but his family moved to Tallahassee when he was 1. As he grew up, he caught passes from his dad in the front yard at their house.

It's been over 15 years since those beginning days with football, and along the way Roberts thought he'd become a basketball player.

He played his freshman and sophomore years of high school at North Florida Christian, and was nearly talked into staying to play football by former Florida State quarterback and NFC alum Casey Weldon, who had become head coach for the Eagles.

Wanting to prepare him for college, however, Ronnie and Jill Roberts enrolled their son a few miles north at college preparatory Maclay.

He could play basketball there, which he did and quite well as the Marauders' point guard, for the next two years.

He became a wide receiver and soon used his natural athleticism and silky-smooth running to turn everything he touched into gold.

"I didn't really love it at first," Roberts said. "My high school coaches just told me I had a better chance of getting a scholarship through football than basketball because there were more guys on the field than on the court.

"I took that to heart going into offseason before senior year. I tried to get stronger and faster. It didn't happen overnight. I just stayed at it."

The next level

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In signing, he became the first Maclay player to sign a college scholarship in only the program's third year of existence.

"Maclay really drilled it in me that you can be anything you want to be in life," Roberts said. "It was probably the best years of school in my life, because I was well-known and the teachers loved me. I'd love for my jersey to go up there."

As a college freshman for the Wildcats, Roberts posted a team-leading 49 receptions for 733 yards. He scored six touchdowns, then as a sophomore became a preseason All-American.

He validated the accolade by nearly doubling his previous year's numbers with 105 catches for 1,290 yards and 12 touchdowns.

"It's easy to see it now, but he looked like a football player when I first saw him," said former FSU Hall of Fame wide receiver Kez McCorvey, who was Roberts' head coach his senior year. "He was 6-2, had great ball skills, all the things you want in a receiver. I just didn't know if he wanted to love football. In college, I think he fell in love with football."

Roberts was getting interest from Division I schools, but ultimately never received an offer.

"The D-1 schools were always saying I was too small," Roberts said. "I needed to gain weight, eat more."

He signed with Division II West Alabama, and in his senior season caught 40 balls for 857 yards and 12 touchdowns to be named to the All-Gulf South Conference second team.

"My father had a big role in my success, because he kept me training in the offseason," Roberts said. "When no one was watching, I was working out."

Playing on Sundays

He's surrounded now by veterans such as Michael Crabtree or 2015 No. 4 pick Amari Cooper that are teaching him even more about his craft.

Roberts plays his first regular-season NFL game on Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals at 4:25 eastern time.

"I'm just going to stay humble," Roberts said. "I can't get too hyped because we have work to do."

Ronnie Roberts never missed a game when his son was in college. He's making the trek to the west coast to watch that little boy he once threw passes to run out of the tunnel and catch passes for a living.

"It will be very emotional, because we've been through a lot as a family," Ronnie Roberts said. "That's the only son and only kid I have. It will be a dream come true."

TE CLIVE WALFORD

MIAMI HERALD

For UM tight end Clive Walford, football is now a family matter

By Susan Miller Degnan

September 18, 2013

Clive Walford has a sleek new haircut, precious new son and proud new attitude.

“My overall favorite tight end is Kellen Winslow,” Walford said of the former Cane, recalling Winslow’s famous “It’s about this U!” rant after Miami’s 2003 loss to Tennessee. “I always looked up to him when I was younger.”

Walford, UM’s third-leading receiver as a sophomore last season with 451 yards and four touchdowns on 25 catches, said baby Clive III — born Aug. 2 — has afforded him a fresh perspective and burning desire to do right by his namesake.

His closely cropped haircut, which he gave himself after 6 1/2 years of growing dreadlocks, has added to Walford’s new, more serious image. He said he and his late cousin grew dreads together. The two made a pact that when the cousin’s hair “caught up” to Walford’s length, Walford would get shorn.

“I felt like this was probably the time he would have caught me,” noted Walford, 21, who said he decided on the haircut in August but needed more time to muster the courage.

“It took almost an hour to cut my first dread — my fiancée cut that one. Then it took not even six minutes to cut the rest. Once I snipped my first one, I was snipping away.”

He pulled out a purple brush and began to repeatedly run it over his hair.

“With dreads it was kind of tough, having to tie them up all the time and at night sleeping. Now I feel free. I feel the breeze. My scalp can actually feel the air. I sleep more comfortably at home.”

And straight home to little Clive (8 pounds, 3 ounces and 22 inches at birth) and his fiancée Aneliz — a UM senior who took the semester off to care for the baby — is where Walford goes after each day of classes, football and meetings.

“I can’t even put in words what it’s like being a father,” said Walford, who has five catches for 58 yards and a touchdown in two games.

“It’s special. You see things differently. Things that used to be fun — all the partying and stuff like that — aren’t as fun. I owe it to my son.”

A powerful, 6-4, 260-pounder after putting on 15 pounds of muscle in the offseason, Walford plans to graduate in December with a degree in sports administration. The fourth-year junior was a standout basketball player at Belle Glade Glades Central, and didn’t play football until his senior year of high school.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

He misses “being the guy” in basketball, but is intent on putting all his focus on football.

He is fast (4.6 seconds in the 40-yard dash), has a knack for big plays and said he loves blocking. In his final four games of 2012, he tallied 303 yards and three touchdowns on 11 catches. Against Duke in the season finale, he had four catches for 99 yards and a score. Just 1 more yard would have made him the first UM tight end since 2003 with two consecutive games of at least 100 receiving yards.

The last one to do that? Kellen Winslow II.

Coach Al Golden said he wants Walford to get the ball more, especially on third down, an area in which UM sorely lacks. “He’s been one of the guys we’ve been pushing to get his timing down, run everything full speed so Stephen [Morris] knows exactly where he is.”

UM offensive coordinator James Coley described Walford as “a big guy who’s fast. If you’re fast, you’ve got to learn how to get open. ... Can he get open on that safety? Can he change up his speed and burst and get out of his break? He’s been working really hard at it.”

“I still have a long way to go, but I’m more focused than I’ve ever been,” he said. “I have a major responsibility to my family and myself.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL SENTINEL

Prospect Watch: Miami (Fla.) TE Clive Walford Driven by Late Cousin

By Tyler Dunne

April 10, 2015

Green Bay — Injuries are bound to happen. Hardship. Pain to some degree. Clive Walford battled through a knee injury at the Senior Bowl and knows more dings are inevitable.

“If I’m hurt or have a small injury,” Walford said, pausing, “his life is gone. So there isn’t any injury worse than having your life taken away from you.”

Alonzo Jones was a virtual big brother to Walford. Blood. The one he looked up to as a kid.

And in 2010, Jones lost his life in a tragic car accident. As Walford re-tells it, Jones crashed into a canal, was knocked unconscious and drowned. A freshman at Miami (Fla.) at the time, Walford has thought about his cousin “every day” since. Heading into the NFL draft as one of the top tight end prospects, he’ll keep thinking about him, too.

“I was very close to him,” Walford said. “He was like my oldest brother, even though he actually wasn’t my brother. I saw him that way.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The Packers' tight end duo of Andrew Quarless and Richard Rodgers did yeoman's work in 2014, combining for 58 catches, 627 yards and seven touchdowns.

If the team does decide to gamble at tight end early in the draft, the choice may be between Minnesota's athletic, highlight-waiting-to-happen Maxx Williams and the 6-foot-4, 251-pound Walford, who brands himself as a complete tight end. Last season, Walford had 44 receptions, 676 yards and seven touchdowns — and he was asked to block plenty.

Walford didn't back down from his NFL scouting combine statement that he is the best tight end in this year's draft.

"Because I'm a dual-threat tight end," he said. "I don't only catch the ball. I get down and dirty and I block. I do everything that a tight end is expected to do. ... It's very rare. A lot of guys don't take pride in their blocking or don't take pride in catching the ball. I take pride in both of them, so that's what helps me excel at both positions."

And experiences — often the tragic ones — shape us all.

Walford's most traumatic, the one that stuck with him his entire collegiate career struck when he was leaving a class that freshman year. His younger cousin called him with the news.

Alonzo was dead.

"Your heart drops," he said. "You don't know how to deal with that situation. You've got to let God handle it. Just pray about it. Memories pop in your head. The good times you had. And you just cherish those moments."

Like all the times the two played video games together. Like the time Jones bought his first car and let Walford drive even though he didn't have a license. Any down time was spent together at Jones' house.

And now, any time he plays a video game or sees a picture on his cell phone, Walford thinks of Jones. He says his cousin was "a laidback guy," who was "well-respected" by a lot of people. "A person you want to be around."

"It helped me become the man I am," he said. "You realize that some things aren't going to be there forever. It made me step my game up a little more and realize what I was supposed to do. I actually think about him every day. There hasn't been a day that goes by that I don't think about him."

"He's up there smiling down, watching me progress," he said. "I know if he could be here and actually enjoy these moments with me, I could see the smile on his face. That just motivates me to continue to go."

"You can't measure someone's heart. I feel that I play with my heart every time I'm out there."

Turn on the tape, he says. That'll answer any questions.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Put in the film and you tell me who you like the best,” he said. “If you feel like he’s better, you have to take him.”

Walford does try to study New England’s Rob Gronkowski when possible. Not surprisingly, he admires Gronkowski’s raw heart-on-sleeve playing style above all.

“Of course,” he said. “They have a great quarterback. Aaron Rodgers is very versatile and can get the ball to anybody. With my ability, if you combine it with his ability, you’ve got greatness. So I feel like I’d fit right in.”

Over the phone, Walford chuckles.

DT DAN WILLIAMS

THE PLAYERS' TRIBUNE

My Biggest Fan

By Dan Williams

September 15, 2015

We were in the hotel in New York City the morning of the 2010 NFL Draft, and my phone started ringing. I was projected to be a first-round pick, but with other defensive tackles like N'damukong Suh and Gerald McCoy projected to go in the top five, I knew I probably wasn't going at the very top. But I was still getting calls.

That's the truth about the NFL draft: Unless you're at the very top — and sometimes not even then — you really have no idea who'll draft you. I was rumored to be going to Miami. Buffalo had already called the morning of the draft. And now, a third team was on the line.

"Who's that?" my dad asked. I covered my cell phone mouthpiece and whispered exactly what he wanted to hear.

"The Raiders."

I knew he'd love that. My dad had been a Raiders fanatic his whole life. He grew up in Tennessee when there was no NFL team there, but he watched the Raiders back in the 70s and just loved the way they played. He loved the Black Hole and the whole "Raider Way". He loved the logo, the colors, everything. When I was eight years old, he got me a Raiders Starter jacket for Christmas so we'd have matching jackets. The first NFL game I ever went to was when the Titans first moved to Tennessee. They were still called the Oilers back then, and they played their first season in Memphis, where we lived, before moving to Nashville. When the Raiders came to town that year, my dad made sure we got tickets.

He even wore a silver and black fedora and a matching tie in the Green Room that night.

The call turned out to be nothing big. It was just the D-line coach doing his standard draft day check-in. Sometimes they just give guys one last little feel before the draft, and they always leave it open, like, Be ready ... we might call your name. I got a couple of those calls that day.

When I hung up the phone, my dad said, "You know, son, if you got the chance to go to the silver and black, we'd all be pretty happy."

And by "we all," he definitely meant him. It was his dream to see his son in a Raiders uniform.

The Raiders had the No. 8 overall pick, and they went with Rolando McClain, a linebacker from Alabama. I didn't end up getting drafted until 26th overall, when the Cardinals picked me.

My dad, decked out in his silver and black, gave me a hug, and I think he forgot about the Raiders for just a moment. He coached me when I was a kid, and he always took me to practice — first ones there and last ones to leave — and now I was a first-round NFL draft pick.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Raiders or not, we made it.

My dad would always say, “You know, son, fan is short for fanatic.” And that’s the kind of fan he was. He was a true fanatic.

I remember the first time I played against his beloved Raiders. It was the third game of my rookie season and the Raiders came to Arizona. My dad would always call me on game day and give me a little pep talk and his thoughts on the game. But this time, he was at the game, and when we talked, he didn’t talk about the game, and it wasn’t much of a pep talk.

“Well, son,” he said, all serious, “I want you to know I’m always your biggest fan, and I’m wearing my Cardinals jersey today. But you better believe I have my Raiders t-shirt on underneath!”

He never missed a game when I was growing up, so it always felt good to know my biggest fan was up in the stands watching.

I was like, “C’mon, I’m your son! You can’t turn the Raiders fan off for one day?”

We had a good laugh about it, but I’m pretty sure he was serious, because after the game — after the Raiders missed a last-second field goal and we won the game by one point — he said, still serious, “Congratulations, son. This is bittersweet for me, but you’re my son, and I’ll always support you. I’m glad ya’ll won, but hey, that one still hurt a little bit!”

I only wish I could have seen his face when the Raiders missed that kick...

He was able to come see me play that weekend, but he couldn’t make it to every game. If he could have, he would have. Instead, he came to some games in Arizona, and if we were playing on the road anywhere near Memphis, he’d pack up whatever family members he could and make the drive to the game. He never missed a game when I was growing up, so it always felt good to know my biggest fan was up in the stands watching.

It was 2013, my fourth year in the league. We were coming off a 5-11 season the year before, and we had a new head coach in Bruce Arians. I went through a coaching change when I was at Tennessee, so I know that when a new coach comes in, everyone’s job is usually up for grabs. My dad and I talked a lot during training camp that year. He wanted to know everything that was going on.

In Week 3, we were getting ready to fly to New Orleans to play the Saints. I was excited, because New Orleans is only about five-and-a-half hours down I-55 from Memphis, and my dad, my mom and my sister were making the drive down.

The Friday evening before the game, I was at home packing and getting ready to head to the airport to catch the team plane when I got a phone call from a police officer. I could tell in his voice that something serious had happened. He told me that just outside of Jackson, Mississippi, about halfway between Memphis and New Orleans, my family had been in a car accident. My mom and my sister were in the hospital.

I asked the officer if my father was okay, but he kind of deflected, only talked about my mother and my sister.

You try not to be frantic in situations like that, but it’s hard to think clearly. I actually got off the phone without hearing from the officer whether or not my father was okay. I just turned my focus to my mom and my sister, and I wanted to be there for them.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

I thought, He didn't tell me anything about my dad because there was nothing to tell. He's fine.

Then I thought, Wait, if my dad was fine, he would've been the one to call me and tell me about my mom and my sister and he'd want to reassure me that everything was gonna be okay.

I hoped for the best, but in the back of my mind, I kind of knew the truth.

I have two sisters. One was in the car with my parents on their way to New Orleans and the other was back in Memphis. When my sister in Memphis got the call about the accident, she went straight to Jackson. I guess the officer didn't tell her anything about my father either, because when she got to the hospital, she got the news, and she broke it to me over the phone.

My father — my biggest fan — was killed in the accident while he was on his way to see his son play.

I didn't get on the plane to New Orleans. I didn't play that weekend. I went to Jackson, Mississippi to identify my dad's body so my sister didn't have to do it. Coach Arians told me to take as much time as I needed, and I just tried to focus on my mom and my sister. They weren't severely injured, so it could have been much worse.

Even when we were sitting in the hospital together watching the Saints game, my mom was telling me to go play. She's a strong woman, and I know she just wanted me to take my mind off what happened, but in the same way that I'd just lost a father, she'd lost a husband. I needed to be there for her. My dad's funeral was the following Saturday, the day before my Cardinals played a road game in Tampa Bay. I didn't play in that game, either.

My dad believed that when you face tragedy, you mourn and you let it out. He also would say that the reason you create memories is so you can remember people and the good times, so you can carry on when they're gone. So two days after his funeral and the day after I missed my second straight game, I went back to Arizona and rejoined my team. The following week, we played the Panthers at home.

That's when it all became real for me. It really sunk in that my dad was gone when I didn't get that pregame phone call and pep talk. It was just weird not getting that call.

Mom and my sister were okay, and they were surrounded by family back in Memphis. So when I didn't get that pregame phone call, I did the only thing I could do: I took my dad's advice. I thought of all the great memories I had of him from over the years: The Raiders jacket he gave me. The youth football practices. The Raiders game against Tennessee. Draft night.

It really sunk in that my dad was gone when I didn't get that pregame phone call and pep talk. It was just weird not getting that call.

And I went out and played.

It's been almost two years to the day since I lost my dad in that car accident, and I still think about him all the time. The time when I miss him most is usually on game day, when I don't get that phone call or when they play the National Anthem before the game. My dad was a retired veteran, so he always saluted during the National Anthem, and when we were kids, it didn't matter what the sport was, he was always that parent who yelled out, "Let's play ball!" He always said it with so much enthusiasm because he was always so excited for the game to start.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

That was him. He was just a happy-go-lucky sports fanatic who always went crazy over the littlest things. When he'd go to games, he'd always spend the extra $2 on the bigger drink to get the souvenir cup. They always had different players on them, and he collected them all.

One time during my second season, I was featured on the souvenir cup for a preseason game, and he almost cried. He was like, "Wow, son. You earned the cup." I think he was more excited about that cup than the fact that I was actually playing in the NFL. He even had me get him extra cups so he could give them away to everybody. He definitely found joy in the little things.

In the two years he's been gone, there's one moment I really wish he was here for. The moment I made his dream come true.

This last offseason, I hit free agency. I had a few teams I was looking at and that were considering signing me, but there was one that turned out to be the perfect fit.

My dad's Raiders.

The scheme was right. I liked the coaches — who wouldn't want to play for Ken Norton and Jack Del Rio? It really was the best fit for me. But I'd be lying if I said I didn't think about my dad when I was making the decision. Maybe he was the tiebreaker that put the Raiders over the top.

When I went out to Oakland to meet with the team and sign my contract, I wish my dad could have been in that room with me. I wish I could have told him the news when we agreed on the deal: "Dad, I'm going to be a Raider!" I wish he could have come to the facility with me, walked through the halls and seen all the history. I probably wouldn't have been able to get him to leave. He'd probably still be staying with me out here now if I brought him out. I'd have a new roommate.

There have been some tough moments since my dad passed. Moments I really wished I could've shared with him. But the toughest one yet was probably when I took the field on Sunday for my first regular season game as a Raider in Oakland. It would have been his dream come true to see his son on the Raiders' home sideline in the silver and black, looking down to the end zone and into the Black Hole. I definitely cried a little when I heard the National Anthem, because when it was over, there was only thing missing.

My dad saluting from the stands, yelling, "Let's play ball!"

S CHARLES WOODSON

BAY AREA NEWS GROUP

What's in a name? For Woodsons, Charles and Rod, a Hall of Fame pedigree

By Jerry McDonald

October 31, 2015

OAKLAND -- There are times when Charles Woodson and Rod Woodson communicate with little more than a look and a nod.

It's a world known to precious few, one that includes early athletic superiority, explosive play-making ability, a crowning achievement within a team setting and, finally, inexplicable success at a relatively advanced age.

"We've been in the same position, and I think we played the game in similar ways," Charles Woodson said. "As a player, it's a natural thing. It's not like anyone has to tell you, 'When you get this, this is going to happen.' You just kind of know it. I'm pretty sure he was the same way.

"There isn't a whole lot that needs to be said."

Charles and Rod Woodson were teammates with the Raiders in 2002 and 2003, with Charles injured through most of 2002, Rod out for most of 2003 and the organization going from AFC champions to a run of losing seasons that continues to this day.

Charles will be at free safety and Rod on the sideline coaching the defensive secondary when the Raiders host the New York Jets on Sunday (1:05 p.m.).

They're not related but may as well be brothers, given the way their careers took shape.

"We both played outside corner, we played nickel, dime, we played safety," Rod Woodson said.

Rod Woodson, 50, was a first-round draft pick by the Pittsburgh Steelers out of Purdue in 1986. He quickly established himself as a star player, at which time Charles, while growing up in Fremont, Ohio, was idolizing Walter Payton, Deion Sanders and, yes, a young Rod Woodson.

Rod is third all-time in interceptions with 71, Charles is tied for sixth with 64 -- including four this season at age 39. They are tied for first all-time with Darren Sharper with 13 defensive touchdowns.

Each was a fixture in the Pro Bowl -- Rod 11 times and Charles with eight. Rod was the NFL's defensive player of the year in 1993, Charles won the award in 2009 with Green Bay.

When the Woodsons won a Super Bowl, it came with an organization other than the team that drafted them. With Rod at free safety, the 2000 Baltimore Ravens won the championship (including an AFC title game win over Charles' Raiders). With Charles as a jack-of-all-trades corner, the Green Bay Packers became world champions in 2009.

With Charles battling through a broken shoulder and then a broken ankle in 2002, and Rod going down with a knee injury that would end his career in 2003, they never excelled on the same team at the same time as players.

"Obviously, he's a future Hall of Famer, a first-ballot, gold-jacket guy. We all know that," Rod said. "But what I didn't know about him was how tough he is mentally. I mean, he's been banged up and beat up out there. He could shut it down in practice or games and nobody would blame him. But he's been out there every play."

When Rod was 37, he had eight interceptions for the Raiders and his 98-yard interception return against Denver on a Monday night helped turn a 4-4 season into an AFC championship.

"I think what separates Wood is that he's aggressive toward the ball," Rod said. "Most DBs are trying to get knockdowns and tackles. I don't know how many fumbles he's caused (27), but it's a lot. You've got 11 players on offense and 11 on defense. They're all playing for one ball and Charles knows how to get it, and that makes him valuable."

Rod acknowledges that Charles doesn't need much coaching. Their conversations have more to do with what Charles is seeing and how that can be related to other players.

"He can self-correct and he knows when he's wrong, knows when he's right," Rod said. "What we really want is for him to speak to the young guys, for him to teach them what he knows."

When Rod had a big year at 37, he was relying on experience as much as skill. Same goes for Charles at 39.

"Your skills diminish. Wood's skill set, comparable to when he came from Michigan, is completely different," Rod said. "But he's way smarter than he's ever been. He knows angles and he anticipates. He's seen every formation. He sees it, believes it, and he goes.
