CHARGERS (1-4) at RAIDERS (2-3)

The Los Angeles Chargers head north to face the AFC West foe Oakland Raiders at the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum on Sunday, Oct. 15. Kickoff is scheduled for 1:25 p.m. PT with Kevin Harlan and Rich Gannon on the call for CBS.

The Chargers earned their first win of the 2017 campaign when they downed the New York Giants, 27-22, on Sunday at MetLife Stadium. Philip Rivers tossed three touchdowns, two of which were hauled in by Melvin Gordon, while Joey Bosa and Melvin Ingram tallied two sacks each to hand first-year head coach Anthony Lynn his first victory.

The Raiders enter the weekend on a three-game slide after winning the first two contests of the season. Oakland leads the series over the Chargers, 63-50-2 and is 31-25-1 against the Chargers at home. The Raiders hold a four-game winning streak against the Chargers, with the last win coming in 2014 by the score of 13-6.

Offensively Philip Rivers enters the game fifth in the NFL in passing yards with 1,365. He is fifth in attempts (194) and seventh in completions (116). Keenan Allen enters the divisional matchup fourth in the NFL with 401 receiving yards. His 235 yards receiving on third downs leads the league. Melvin Gordon is coming off his first 100-yard rushing performance as he totaled 163 yards from scrimmage in the win at New York. He hauled in two receiving touchdowns on six catches and ran for 105 yards on 20 carries.

Defensively the Chargers sport the most prolific sack duo in the NFL. Melvin Ingram and Joey Bosa both added two sacks this past week to total a league-best 12 combined sacks through the first five games. Ingram is second in the NFL with 7.5 sacks while Bosa is eighth with 4.5. Jatavis Brown still ranks second in the NFL with 46 total tackles and is seventh with 32 solo stops. Casey Hayward enters the weekend sixth in the league with six passes defensed.

The Chargers will return home next weekend for their second straight divisional matchup as they will host the Denver Broncos on Sunday, Oct. 22. The Chargers will then head to the East Coast for their next two games as they face the New England Patriots on Oct. 29 in Foxborough and the Jacksonville Jaguars on Nov. 12 at Everbank Field.

FIGHT FOR LA

BREAKING DOWN THE 2017 SCHEDULE

The Chargers enter the season against opponents that racked up a record of 112-95-1 in 2016. Six of the teams on the 2017 slate made the postseason in 2016, including Super Bowl Champion New England. The Chargers will be making four trips to the East Coast in 2017, with two treks to New York, one to New England and one to Jacksonville.

	SERIES BREAKDOWN	2017 RECORD	NOTES
	ALL-TIME: 50-65-1 HOME: 33-24-0 AWAY: 17-41-1 LAST: L, 24-21 - 2017 at Broncos	OVERALL: 3-1-0 HOME: 3-0 AWAY: 0-1 POSTSEASON: N/A	The Broncos and Bolts split the season series last year with the Chargers winning, 21-13 at home in primetime and falling on the road, 27-19. Von Miller (12.5 sacks) and Joey Bosa (10.5), two of the top pass rushers in the NFL, will square off twice, including on ESPN's Monday Night Football in week one.
	ALL-TIME: 15-18-0 HOME: 11-8-0 AWAY: 4-10-0 LAST: L, 19-17 - 2017 at Chargers	OVERALL: 2-2-0 HOME: 1-1-0 AWAY: 1-1-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	The Dolphins are one of six 2016 playoff teams the Chargers will face. The two teams are familiar with one another as it will be the fifth straight season they've squared off. Tyrell Williams had one of his best games against Miami, catching five passes for 125 yards and a 51-yard TD.
	ALL-TIME: 55-59-1 HOME: 32-25-1 AWAY: 23-34-0 LAST: L, 24-10 - 2017 at Chargers	OVERALL: 4-0-0 HOME: 2-0-0 AWAY: 2-0-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Kansas City captured the AFC West title after beating the Chargers 31-21 to close out the 2016 regular season. Both teams feature shutdown corners as Casey Hayward led the NFL with seven interceptions this past season, followed by Marcus Peters with six.
	ALL-TIME: 7-5-0 HOME: 5-2-0 AWAY: 2-3-0 LAST: L, 26-24 - 2017 at Chargers	OVERALL: 4-1-1 HOME: 2-0-0 AWAY: 2-1-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Last year's second overall pick Carson Wentz leads Philly on a rare visit to face the Chargers. In fact, it'll be only the third time they've played the Bolts in the Golden State since 1989. It will also mark a reunion with former Chargers running backs Ryan Mathews and Darren Sproles.
	ALL-TIME: 7-5-0 HOME: 3-2-0 AWAY: 4-3-0 LAST: W, 27-22 - 2017 at Giants	OVERALL: 0-5-0 HOME: 0-2-0 AWAY: 0-3-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Philip Rivers and Eli Manning will always be linked together as they were traded for one another on draft day. This marks only the fourth time they have played each other with Rivers holding a 2-0 mark against Manning. Rivers helped pull out a last-minute, 21-20 win over the Giants on the road in 2009.
	ALL-TIME: 50-63-2 HOME: 25-32-1 AWAY: 25-31-1 LAST: L, 19-16 - 2016 at Chargers	OVERALL: 2-3-0 HOME: 1-1-0 AWAY: 1-2-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	The Chargers and Raiders played up to the hype of their long-standing bitter rivalry with a pair of thrillers in 2016 that came down to the final snaps. Each team boasts a pair of dynamic receivers in Keenan Allen and Tyrell Williams for the Bolts and Amari Cooper and Michael Crabtree for the Raiders.
	ALL-TIME: 15-23-2 HOME: 7-11-1 AWAY: 8-12-1 LAST: L, 23-14 - 2014 at Chargers	OVERALL: 3-2-0 HOME: 1-2-0 AWAY: 2-0-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	In addition to visiting the NFC regular season champion Dallas Cowboys, the Bolts will also travel cross country to take on the AFC's top seed. The game features two of the top QBs in NFL history, Philip Rivers and Tom Brady, so you can expect some fireworks on offense.
	ALL-TIME: 7-2-0 HOME: 4-0-0 AWAY: 3-2-0 LAST: W, 38-14 - 2016 at Chargers	OVERALL: 3-2-0 HOME: 1-1-0 AWAY: 2-1-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	This will mark the fifth straight season the Chargers and Jaguars face off, with Los Angeles winning the last four meetings. Former Jaguars head coach Gus Bradley begins his first year as the Bolts' defensive coordinator. The Chargers have scored 30-plus points in four of the last five games against the Jags.
	ALL-TIME: 23-12-2 HOME: 13-6-1 AWAY: 10-6-1 LAST: W, 22-10 - 2014 at Bills	OVERALL: 3-2-0 HOME: 2-0-0 AWAY: 1-2-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Head Coach Anthony Lynn's former team pays him a visit as the Bills head west in 2017. Buffalo boasted the number one rushing offense the past two seasons under Lynn, and will again be led by superstar running back LeSean McCoy. The Bolts have won four of the last five games against the Bills.
	ALL-TIME: 4-6-0 HOME: 2-4-0 AWAY: 2-2-0 LAST: W, 30-21 - 2013 at Chargers	OVERALL: 2-3-0 HOME: 1-2-0 AWAY: 1-1-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Four of the most prolific rookies from the 2016 season will take the field. The Chargers boast Joey Bosa and Hunter Henry while Dak Prescott and Ezekiel Elliott lead the Cowboys. Winners of three of the last four in the series, the Chargers head to AT&T Stadium for the first time since 2009.
	ALL-TIME: 15-9-1 HOME: 7-4-0 AWAY: 8-5-1 LAST: L, 20-17 - 2016 at Browns	OVERALL: 0-5-0 HOME: 0-3-0 AWAY: 0-2-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	This will be the third meeting in as many years between the two teams. The Browns downed the Chargers for their lone win of 2016. Cleveland will enter Los Angeles with No. 1 pick Myles Garrett. The last time the Chargers fell at home to the Browns was in 1991.
	ALL-TIME: 3-7-0 HOME: 2-2-0 AWAY: 1-5-0 LAST: L, 30-24 - 2013 at Redskins	OVERALL: 2-2-0 HOME: 1-1-0 AWAY: 1-1-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	Another team that rarely heads west, it's been eight years since the Chargers last hosted the Redskins. The Bolts won a 23-20 thriller in the 2010 season, but fell in overtime, 30-24, the last time they played each other in 2013 at FedEx Field.
	ALL-TIME: 21-14-1 HOME: 13-8-0 AWAY: 8-6-1 LAST: W, 31-0 - 2014 at Chargers	OVERALL: 3-2-0 HOME: 2-0-0 AWAY: 1-2-0 POSTSEASON: N/A	After shutting out the Jets 31-0 the last time these teams met in 2014, the Bolts head to New York for the first time since 2012. It was a day to remember as the Chargers recorded a franchise record 11 sacks on their way to a 21-17 victory in the Big Apple.

THE HEAD COACHES

Anthony Lynn enters his first season as a head coach in the National Football League after serving as Buffalo's interim in Week 17 of the 2016 season. Lynn comes in with 83 games of playing experience under his belt, as well as two world championships on his résumé as a running back for the back-to-back Super Bowl champion Denver Broncos (XXXII and XXXIII). Lynn has always had a passion for teaching the game. Immediately following his last season in 1999, Lynn assumed the role of offensive assistant and assistant to special teams in Denver in 2000. Lynn spent 12 years as a running backs coach for the Jaguars, Cowboys, Browns, Jets and Bills. He then landed his first assistant head coaching position in New York with the Jets, while also coaching the running backs, and assumed the same position the following two seasons in Buffalo. The two seasons Lynn spent in Buffalo, the Bills led the NFL in both rushing yards (2,630 in 2016, and 2,432 in 2015) and rushing touchdowns (29 in 2016, and 19, tie in 2015). During his last two coaching stops (New York and Buffalo), Lynn's offenses combined for a total 18,218 rushing yards during that span (2009-2016), the most combined yards in the NFL over that period. Third-year running back Melvin Gordon will be Lynn's next weapon in the backfield, after coming off a campaign in which he racked up 1,416 yards from scrimmage and 12 touchdowns in 2016.

Jack Del Rio was named the 19th head coach in the history of the Oakland Raiders franchise on Jan. 15, 2015. The appointment marked a homecoming for Del Rio, who was raised in nearby Hayward, Calif. Now entering his 32nd year in the NFL and his 21st season in coaching, Del Rio has played for, coached with, and learned from some of the best coaches in all of football. He was recruited to play at USC by John Robinson, and in the NFL he played under Bum Phillips, Jim Mora, Jimmy Johnson and Dennis Green. As a coach, he honed his skills on the staffs of Pro Football Hall of Famer Mike Ditka, Super Bowl winner Brian Billick and Super Bowl participant John Fox. Last season, Del Rio guided the Raiders to a 12-4 record, marking the franchise's first 12-win season since 2000. The Raiders earned a postseason berth for the first time since 2002 and landed an NFL-high seven players on the AFC Pro Bowl squad. Two Raiders earned spots on the Associated Press All-Pro First Team and DE Khalil Mack was named Defensive Player of the Year. Del Rio was selected as the recipient of the Maxwell Club's Greasy Neale Professional Coach of the Year Award, becoming the sixth Raiders coach to earn NFL Coach of the Year honors. In addition, he was named the AFC Coach of the Year by Kansas City's Committee of 101.

WHO IS NEW ON THE ROSTER

The Chargers have had 20 new players on their roster in 2017, including all seven who were selected in the 2017 NFL Draft. The Chargers also signed two veteran free agents and claimed three off waivers. The team also traded for Bills quarterback Cardale Jones during camp. Five undrafted free agents made the opening weekend roster. The Chargers have had at least one undrafted free agent make the initial roster in 21 straight years.

The veteran free agents the team acquired includes safety Tre Boston from Carolina and tackle Russell Okung from Denver. The waiver acquisitions were Hayes Pullard from Jacksonville and Michael Schofield from Denver. Tyler Marz was signed off the Tennessee practice squad.

Here's a closer look at the new veterans on the roster:

- Boston has logged 93 career-regular season tackles, three interceptions, eight passes defended, eight forced fumbles and he's returned one of those interceptions for a touchdown. Last season was Boston's most productive by making 10 starts at safety, racking up 50 tackles and two interceptions. He contributed to a defense that ranked second in the NFL with 47 sacks and tied for fourth with 17 interceptions. He appeared at safety in Super Bowl 50 against the Denver Broncos.

- Okung originally was the sixth overall pick of the Seattle Seahawks in 2010. He spent six years with the Seahawks before joining the Denver offensive line in 2016. He held down the right side of an offensive line that reached the Super Bowl in back-to-back seasons (2013-2014), including a win in Super Bowl XLVIII over the Denver Broncos. Okung has started every regular season and post season game in his career (88, 12). His Pro Bowl season came after contributing to a rushing attack that ranked third in the league in rushing (161.2 ypg), while only surrendering two sacks.

NOTABLE PERFORMANCES

- On Oct. 22, 1961, the Chargers held Oakland to 58 total yards. It's still the best defensive performance in franchise history. Earlier that same year on Sept. 17, the Bolts held the Raiders to 106 yards, which is the fourth-best defensive performance in franchise history.
- On Sept. 17, 1961, the Chargers posted a 44-0 win over the Raiders. It is the second-greatest margin of victory in a game in team history.
- Jahleel Addae had a 12-yard sack when the Chargers met the Raiders in Oakland on Dec. 24, 2015. In that same game, Jerry Attaochu had a team-high three tackles for loss, while Denzel Perryman led the team with 15 tackles, including a nine-yard sack.
- In 2012, Antonio Gates caught the 83rd touchdown pass of his career during a Dec. 30 game vs. Oakland, tying Lance Alworth for the second-most touchdowns in team history.
- In 2011 at Oakland, Gates had a season-long 38-yard TD on 3rd-and-9 play. He also ignited another scoring drive with a 37-yard catch, and he contributed to a third-quarter touchdown drive with nine-yard catch on a 3rd-and-4, followed by a 16-yarder that put him at a season-high 106 yards for game.
- In 2010, Gates had a 19-yard touchdown catch at Oakland to tie Alworth's team record for consecutive games with a touchdown.
- In 27 career games vs. the Raiders, Gates has 103 catches for 1,325 yards and 13 touchdowns. It's the second-most receptions, yards and touchdown catches against any single opponent (KC) in his career.
- In 2012, Melvin Ingram made his NFL debut at Oakland. That day, he ended the Raiders' first series with a forced fumble and later he played a key role in an aborted play that resulted in a 25-yard loss, leading to a punt and a touchdown on the Chargers' ensuing possession for a 10-3 lead. Late in the fourth quarter, his onside kick recovery sealed the Bolts' 22-14 victory. Ingram then had a team and season-high four special teams tackles in the 2012 season finale vs. Oakland.
- Playing for Kansas City in 2013, Sean McGrath caught his second-career NFL touchdown pass (six yards) for a 49-31 lead in a 56-31 win at Oakland.
- On Oct. 25, 2015, Philip Rivers passed for 336 yards against Oakland to tie a team record with his fourth straight 300-yard game.
- On Oct. 12, 2014, Rivers passed for 313 yards and three touchdowns in a 31-28 win at Oakland.
- In 2013, Philip Rivers passed for 411 yards at Oakland to become the first quarterback in team history with back-to-back 400-yard games. It was his team-record third 400-yard game of the season and the sixth of his career, tying Dan Fouts for most in team history. Rivers threw the 201st and 202nd touchdown passes of his career that same day to pass John Hadl (201) for second in team history. In the team's second meeting of the season at home, Rivers threw a TD pass in his 19th-straight game, tying Hadl (1966-67) for the third-longest streak in team history.
- In 2012, Rivers posted a season-high 142.0 passer rating vs. the Raiders.
- In 2010, Rivers passed for 431 yards at Oakland, which at the time was ninth in team history. It included a career-high 290 in the first half.
- In 2009, Rivers led the game-winning touchdown drive of 89 yards in nine plays over the final 2:30 at Oakland. He went 6-of-7 for 79 yards on the game-winning drive.
- In 2006, Rivers made his first-career start at Oakland on ESPN's Monday Night Football and he led the Chargers to a 27-0 win.
- In 22 career games vs. Oakland, Rivers has completed 447 of 710 (63.0 pct.) for 5,400 yards with 37 touchdowns and 18 interceptions for a 93.0 career rating vs. Oakland. The Chargers are 14-8 in those 22 games.
- Rivers has led the Chargers to four fourth-quarter comeback wins over the Raiders, including 11/26/06 (trailed 14-7 and won 21-14), 9/28/08 (trailed 15-3 and won 28-18), 9/14/09 (trailed 20-17 and won 24-20) and 10/12/14 (trailed 21-28 and won 31-28).
- Joey Bosa made his NFL debut against the Raiders on Oct. 9, 2016. The first-round pick recorded two sacks and had three TFLs in his inaugural pro game.
- Drew Kaser averaged 54.8 yards per punt on five punts on Dec. 18, 2016, including a 69-yarder that was the 10th longest in franchise history.
- Brandon Mebane recorded his first career interception in the Oct. 9, 2016 game.

TEAM NOTES

The team captains for the Chargers were quarterback #17 Philip Rivers, defensive end #54 Melvin Ingram, guard #68 Matt Slauson, tackle #76 Russell Okung, tight end #85 Antonio Gates and nose tackle #92 Brandon Mebane.

PLAYER NOTES

Philip Rivers passed Fran Tarkenton for 10th all-time on the career passing yards list. Rivers now has 47,198 career yards through the air.

Rivers recorded his 50th career game with three or more passing touchdowns.

Hunter Henry caught his 10th career touchdown. He ranks second among tight ends since the start of the 2016 season.

Joey Bosa recorded two sacks on the day, giving him 4.5 for the season. That is his fifth multi-sack game, equaling his single-game career high.

Melvin Ingram tallied two sacks on Sunday. He now has 7.5 sacks on the season. He has recorded three multi-sack games this season.

Melvin Gordon put together a season-high 105 yards on the ground and 163 yards from scrimmage. The 100-yard game was his first since he ran for 196 yards on Nov. 6, 2016, against Tennessee.

Drew Kaser boomed a 68-yard punt. That is his second longest punt of his career. Kaser equaled his career high with six punts. He averaged 55.5 yards per punt.

Darius Philon recorded a sack for the second straight game. The consecutive sack game was a career first for Philon.

Tre Boston sealed the game with an interception late in the fourth quarter. The interception was his first of the season and the fourth of his career.

Nick Novak passed 760 points in his career on a 31-yard field goal in the fourth quarter. It marked the 175th career made field goal in his career. Earlier he made the 60th field goal in his career from less than 30 yards. Novak punched through an extra point in the second quarter to reach 240 successful PATs.

Keenan Allen surpassed 3,000 career receiving yards after recording 67 yards on Sunday.

Brandon Mebane posted the 140th start of his career.

DYNAMIC SACK DUO

Melvin Ingram and Joey Bosa enter the Raiders matchup with 12 combined sacks. That total leads the NFL. Ingram sports 7.5 sacks which ranks second in the NFL and is the most in team history through five games. Bosa has tallied 15 sacks in his first 17 career games.

Rank	Team	Player 1 (Sacks)	Player 2 (Sacks)	Combined
1.	LAC	Melvin Ingram (7.5)	Joey Bosa (4.5)	12.0
2.	DAL	Demarcus Lawrence (8.5)	Maliek Collins (2.5)	11.0
3.	JAX	Calais Campbell (6.0)	Dante Fowler Jr. (4.0)	10.0
4.	K.C.	Justin Houston (5.5)	Chris Jones (3.5)	9.0

INGRAM NAMED PLAYER OF THE MONTH

Melvin Ingram earned Defensive Player of the Month honors for the month of September. The sixth-year pro out of South Carolina recorded a single game career-best three sacks against the Chiefs to move his season total to an AFC-best 5.5 in just three games. The 2012 first-round pick has tallied at least a sack in each of the first three games. Ingram opened the 2017 campaign with 1.5 sacks at Denver, then followed that up with a sack in the home opener against the Dolphins, before the three-sack performance against the Chiefs.

EKELER SCORES ON FIRST CARRY

Austin Ekeler scored a touchdown on his first career NFL carry. The undrafted rookie out of Western State went 35 yards for the score against the Eagles on Oct. 1. He became the first NFL player to score on his first career carry since Jalen Richard went 75 yards for the Raiders on Sept. 11, 2016.

Here is a look at the length of first career rushing touchdowns of notable Chargers since 2000.

NAME	TOUCHDOWN	DATE
Melvin Gordon	1 yard	9/11/16
Ryan Mathews	15 yards	10/3/10
Mike Tolbert	8 yards	11/22/09
Darren Sproles	1 yard	12/16/07
Michael Turner	8 yards	11/20/05
LaDainian Tomlinson	3 yards	9/9/01

2017 SCHEDULE

The Chargers (.568) have the third-toughest schedule in 2017 when looking at opponent's 2016 winning percentage, trailing Denver (.578) and Kansas City (.576). Along with the Broncos and Chiefs, the Bolts will play eight games against teams that finished with at least eight wins in 2016. The Chargers' 11 games against 2016 playoff teams is also tied for a league-high with Cincinnati, Kansas City and Oakland.

ANTONIO GATES TDS BY PASSER

Philip Rivers	85
Drew Brees	23
Doug Flutie	2
LaDainian Tomlinson	2

Gates became the 22nd player in NFL history to haul in 900 passes. His 906 receptions rank No. 21 all-time and No. 3 among tight ends, putting him 15 receptions away from passing WR Torry Holt (920) for 20th all-time. Gates has posted 10-plus receptions in four games, one of 11 tight ends in NFL history with at least four 10-catch games.

in the third quarter on a seven-yard seam route for Gates' 112th career TD reception, breaking a tie with Hall of Fame TE Tony Gonzalez for the most receiving TDs by a tight end in NFL history...The score marked the 85th thrown to Gates, which ranks as the most all-time by a quarterback-tight end combination and ranks tied with Hall of Famers Steve Young and Jerry Rice for No. 2 between any quarterback and receiver combination...Earlier in the game, completed a four-yard pass to Gates for career reception No. 900...vs. Kansas City (Sept. 24): Completed 20-of-40 attempts (50.0 pct.) with three INTs (37.2 passer rating)...Tied a then-season high by completing passes to seven different receivers...vs. Philadelphia (Oct. 1): Registered his 180th start (all consecutive), the most in team annals...Posted a 105.9 passer rating, the second of 105-plus on the season, on 22-of-38 passing (57.9 pct.) for 347 yards and two TDs...Completed passes to a season-high nine different receivers...The 347 passing yards were good for his 53rd career game with 300-plus yards...Opened the scoring for Los Angeles on the first play of the team's fourth drive by hitting WR Tyrell Williams in stride on a deep post pattern for a 75-yard TD...It marked the fourth-longest pass of his career, with each of them going for scores...Tossed his second TD to bring the Chargers within two in the fourth quarter, hitting TE Hunter Henry on a four-yard score in the back of the end zone...The score was the 320th TD pass of his career...It marked his 106th game played with multiple TD passes...at New York Giants (Oct. 8): Posted his 50th game with three-plus TD passes, throwing three TDs and 258 yards on 21-of-44 passing (47.7 pct.) with an INT (79.5 rating)...With an 11-yard pass to Gates, surpassed 47,000 career yards, the 10th player in league annals to do so...The play also moved him into 10th in career passing yards, passing Hall of Fame QB Fran Tarkenton (47,003), ending the game with 47,198...Hit Gordon for two passing TDs and Henry for another...Found Gordon early in the second quarter in the right flat for a six-yard score on second-and-goal...With less than a minute in the third quarter, threw a 25-yard strike to Henry in the left corner of the end zone over the top of three Giants defenders to give the Chargers the lead...Trailing by two with just over three minutes remaining to play, motioned Gordon next to him in the shotgun, hitting the running back in the right flat again for a 10-yard score on third-and-nine to take the lead for good...It was his 23rd fourth-quarter comeback victory of his career and the first since an overtime victory over Atlanta (Oct. 23, 2016)...It also marked his first come-from-behind victory with three-plus TD passes since an overtime win against San Francisco (Dec. 20, 2014).

HEAD COACH ANTHONY LYNN

On Jan. 13, 2017, the Los Angeles Chargers made their first official transaction, naming Anthony Lynn the 16th head coach in franchise history and the first African-American head coach in team annals. The 48-year-old Lynn joined the Chargers after spending the last two seasons (2015-16) as the assistant head coach and running backs coach for the Buffalo Bills.

A native of Celina, Texas, some 40 miles north of Dallas, Lynn was an All-Southwest Conference running back as a collegian at Texas Tech, where he rushed for 1,911 yards and 17 touchdowns on 481 carries. That helped him earn a ticket to the NFL where he signed with the New York Giants as an undrafted free agent in 1992. After being released by the Giants, Lynn signed with Denver in 1993 and appeared in 13 games for the Broncos. In 1994, he suffered a broken leg and spent the year on injured reserve. Lynn moved on to the Bay Area in 1995, spending two seasons with the San Francisco 49ers (1995-96) before concluding his career in Denver (1997-99) where he won back-to-back Super Bowl championships (XXXII and XXXIII) with the Broncos. Lynn hung up his cleats after the '99 season, having played in 83 career games.

Lynn jumped right into the coaching ranks in 2000, spending three seasons (2000-02) with the Broncos as an offensive assistant and assistant to special teams. In 2003, he landed his first full-time position gig as the running backs coach for the Jacksonville Jaguars (2003-04). That was followed by similar positions with the Dallas Cowboys (2005-06), Cleveland Browns (2007-08), New York Jets (2009-14) and Bills (2015-16). Lynn carried the additional title of assistant head coach in New York in 2014 and with the Bills for his two seasons there.

Lynn spent the last two seasons (2015-16) with the Bills, including the final 14 games of the 2016 season as their offensive coordinator and the final game of the year as their interim head coach. The Bills led the NFL in both of Lynn's seasons in both rushing yards (2,630 in 2016 and 2,432 in 2015) and rushing touchdowns (29 in 2016 and 19, tie in 2015). The Bills also led the League in average yards per carry (5.3 in 2016 and 4.8, tie in 2015) in each of his two seasons in Upstate New York. More impressively, at his last two coaching stops (New York and Buffalo), his teams combined to rush for 18,218 yards during that span (2009-16), the most combined yards in the NFL over that time period. In Los Angeles, Lynn will take over a team with a workhorse running back in Melvin

Gordon, who broke out with 1,416 yards from scrimmage and 12 touchdowns in 2016.

The fact that Lynn is coaching today is a miracle in and of itself. Back in 2005, early in Lynn's first season with the Cowboys, he was hit by a drunk driver while crossing a street. The impact was so violent that it's a miracle he survived. The accident happened as Lynn was leaving a restaurant following dinner with several Cowboys coaches. The impact threw him an estimated 40-50 feet and he landed on top of a parked Volkswagen. The force of the impact totaled the car. Pittsburgh Steelers Offensive Coordinator Todd Haley was with Lynn at the time. He narrowly avoided being hit himself and was the first to render aid to Lynn. The damage tally was extensive – two collapsed lungs, three broken ribs, major facial and shoulder damage that required four surgeries and temporary paralysis – yet despite it all, Lynn walked out of the hospital in less than two weeks.

Lynn was raised in Texas by a single mom, Betty Jackson, a former all-state basketball player who had coaching aspirations herself. Lynn's maternal grandfather, Tommy Lynn, a farmer and former baseball catcher, helped raise Anthony. Mother and grandfather helped instill a tireless work ethic in Lynn at an early age. By 13, he was working 40-60 hour weeks doing construction in the summertime. He worked his way up the construction ladder and had become a foreman by the time he was in high school. One of his responsibilities was driving his crew to job sites for a company that built shopping malls and custom homes. It spurned an interest in interior design and Lynn initially studied interior fashion design in college.

Lynn has since reconnected with his father, Donald Wilson, a Los Angeles native who once tried out for the Dodgers as a left-handed pitcher. Wilson now resides in Corona.

Lynn is married to Stacey Bell Lynn. He has two children, son, D'Anton, and daughter, Danielle. Stacey is a news anchor at WNBC in New York City. D'Anton played football collegiately at Penn State and professionally with the New York Jets and the Canadian Football League's Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Danielle studied at the University of Oklahoma and is currently in graduate school at the University of North Texas.

GENERAL MANAGER TOM TELESKO

With a keen eye for acquiring talented players, Tom Telesco serves his fifth season as General Manager of the Chargers in 2017.

Telesco has infused the Chargers' roster with young players, building primarily through the draft. As the calendar turned to 2016, Telesco brought some of the NFL's top veteran free agents to the Chargers. They included wide receiver and kick returner Travis Benjamin, nose tackle Brandon Mebane, safety Dwight Lowery and cornerback Casey Hayward. Telesco added even more star power to the roster in April with another heralded draft class headlined by two-time Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year Joey Bosa from Ohio State.

Hayward went on to earn his first Pro Bowl selection after leading the league in interceptions while Bosa garnered numerous accolades, including Defensive Rookie of the Year, after leading all NFL rookies with 10.5 sacks. 2015 Mackey Award winner Hunter Henry also put together a stellar rookie campaign by leading the Chargers in touchdowns with eight - tied for the most in the NFL by a tight end. With the selection of Melvin Gordon to the 2016 Pro Bowl, Telesco's last three first round draft picks have either made the Pro Bowl or earned league honors.

In 2015, all five of the Chargers draft picks made the team's opening-day roster and contributed throughout the season. First-round draft choice Melvin Gordon became the team's leading rusher and second-round pick Denzel Perryman came within five tackles of the first 100-tackle season by a rookie in team history.

Telesco also uncovered several gems in rookie free agency, including Nick Dzubnar, who became the team's leading special teams tackler, and Josh Lambo, who was the NFL's top rookie kicker.

Telesco was hired by the Chargers in January 2013. Forty-years-old at the time of his hiring, he became the youngest general manager in team history. Immediately following his hire, Telesco was part of the search committee responsible for hiring Mike McCoy as the team's head coach. Telesco then helped the Chargers return to the playoffs in 2013 with a roster that featured 25 players who joined the team prior to or during the season.

Telesco made several notable free agent acquisitions in 2013, including running back Danny Woodhead and tackle King Dunlap. His first draft with the Chargers yielded three prominent starters, including guard D.J. Fluker, linebacker Manti Te'o and wide receiver and 2013 Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year Keenan Allen.

Telesco's second draft class in 2014 was equally impressive. The team's first four picks all made the opening-day roster and 2014 first-round pick Jason Verrett made his first Pro Bowl after leading the team in interceptions and passes defended in 2015.

A native of Buffalo, N.Y., Telesco prepped at St. Francis High School in Athol Springs, N.Y. Days prior to Super Bowl XLVIII in January 2014, which was co-hosted by New York and New Jersey, Telesco was recognized for their accomplishments on the floor of the New York State Senate by Senator Timothy Kennedy.

After graduating from St. Francis, Telesco played wide receiver at John Carroll University in Ohio. He was a starter on the Blue Streaks' 1994 Ohio Athletic Conference Championship team, and two of his teammates at John Carroll were Chris and Brian Polian, sons of Bill Polian, a 2015 inductee into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

While attending John Carroll, Telesco spent four summers (1991-94) as a training camp intern with the Buffalo Bills. At that time, the elder Polian was the Bills' general manager. Polian left Buffalo for Carolina in 1994 and after Telesco graduated from John Carroll with a degree in business management in 1995, Polian hired him to work in the Panthers' scouting department. In 1998, Telesco and Polian moved on to Indianapolis, where Telesco would spend his next 15 NFL seasons as a college scout, pro scout, director of pro scouting, director of player personnel and vice president of football operations. He worked in Indianapolis during Peyton Manning's entire career with the Colts and later part of the team that brought Andrew Luck to the Colts with the first pick of the 2012 NFL Draft. Telesco also was involved in Colts drafts that featured four-time Pro Bowl running back Edgerrin James, five-time Pro Bowl wide receiver Reggie Wayne, and Dwight Freeney, a seven-time Pro Bowler as a Colt.

Telesco's tenure in Indianapolis was one of the most successful eras in Colts history. They played in two Super Bowls, including a victory over Chicago in Super Bowl XLI. From 1998-2012, the Colts won 154 regular-season games, eight division titles and they appeared in the playoffs 12 times. Indianapolis set an NFL record with 12 or more wins in seven consecutive seasons and they won an NFL-record 23 straight regular-season games during the 2008-09 seasons. Their 115 regular-season wins from 2000-09 set an NFL record for wins in a decade.

In March 2015, Telesco was invited to be a speaker at the NFL's Career Development Symposium in Arizona. The program, attended by nearly 70 coaches and front office executives, was designed to engage aspiring head coach and general manager candidates. Telesco was one of only two active general managers invited to address participants at the symposium.

Telesco and his wife, Larah, have a daughter, Elena, and two sons, Thomas and Nicholas.

WEEK 1 RECAP - BRONCOS 24, CHARGERS 21

An electric fourth-quarter rally fell short as Younghoe Koo's field goal was blocked with one second remaining in the Chargers' 24-21 opening-night loss to the Broncos Monday night in Denver.

Broncos quarterback Trevor Siemian scored three total touchdowns, the first stemmed from a 13-play, 70-yard drive to wide receiver Bennie Fowler.

On the next possession, the Chargers used a 40-yard defensive pass interference penalty and a heavy dose of running back Melvin Gordon to score their first points of 2017. Gordon touched the ball six times on a nine-play drive, including an 11-yard touchdown reception from quarterback Philip Rivers to open the second quarter.

The Broncos responded with their second scoring drive of the game, this time a one-yard touchdown rush from Siemian. Denver took a 14-7 lead into halftime.

On the Chargers' first possession of the second half, Philip Rivers was intercepted by cornerback Bradley Roby at Los Angeles' 43-yard line. Six plays later, Siemian hooked up with Fowler for a six-yard touchdown — his second of the game — to make it 21-7 Broncos after a Brandon McManus extra point.

The Chargers' furious comeback attempt started in the fourth quarter. After an Adrian Phillips interception, Philip Rivers found wide receiver Keenan Allen for a five-yard touchdown.

On the next possession, linebacker Korey Toomer stripped running back Jamaal Charles of the football, which was recovered by cornerback Casey Hayward. One play later, Rivers connected with wide receiver Travis Benjamin for a 38-yard touchdown. A Younghoe Koo extra point cut the Broncos lead to 24-21.

Gordon finished the game with 18 carries for 54 yards, and five receptions for 25 yards and a touchdown. Allen caught five passes for 35 yards and a touchdown. Rivers went 22-of-33 for 192 yards and three touchdowns, with one interception. Defensive ends Joey Bosa and Melvin Ingram each had 1.5 sacks.

WEEK 2 RECAP - DOLPHINS 19, CHARGERS 17

On a day when the Chargers played their first home game in Los Angeles in nearly 57 years, one of the franchise's all-time greats decided to make some history of his own.

Chargers tight end Antonio Gates caught a seven-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Philip Rivers in the third quarter — the 112th of Gates' career — that broke a tie with Tony Gonzalez for all-time touchdowns among tight ends. But kicker Younghoe Koo missed what would have been a game-winning 44-yard field goal with nine seconds remaining and the Miami Dolphins beat the Chargers 19-17 Sunday at StubHub Center.

Eighty-five of Gates' career touchdown receptions have come from Rivers, who finished the game 31-of-39 for 331 yards and the one historic touchdown.

Miami's first offensive possession of the game was a 13-play, 70-yard drive that ended in a 30-yard Cody Parkey field goal to make the score 3-0 Miami.

The Chargers' first scoring drive was set up by a 23-yard punt return by wide receiver Travis Benjamin. Six plays later, Koo connected on a 41-yard field goal — the first of his NFL career — to tie the game at 3-3.

The first-ever regular season touchdown at StubHub Center was a one-yard rush by running back Melvin Gordon with 5:01 remaining in the second quarter to make it 10-3

Bolts after a Koo extra point. The score was set up by two big plays: a 26-yard rush by running back Branden Oliver, and a 24-yard reception from Rivers to wide receiver Keenan Allen that got the ball to the Dolphins' four-yard line.

The Chargers took a 10-3 lead into halftime, but Miami swiftly responded. Dolphins quarterback Jay Cutler found wide receiver Kenny Stills for a 29-yard touchdown on the seventh play of a 75-yard drive to open the second half.

The next Chargers drive resulted in Gates' historic touchdown to make the score 17-10 Los Angeles after another Koo extra point.

Miami responded with nine unanswered points, including a 54-yard field goal by Parkey with 1:10 remaining in the game to put the Dolphins up 19-17.

Allen finished the game with nine catches for 100 yards. Gordon was held to 13 yards on nine rushes, but chipped in with seven catches for 65 yards. After being shut out Monday night, tight end Hunter Henry caught seven passes for 80 yards.

Dolphins running back Jay Ajayi had 122 yards on 28 carries and wide receiver Jarvis Landry hauled in 13 receptions for 78 yards. Cutler finished the game 24-of-33 for 230 yards and a touchdown.

WEEK 3 RECAP - CHIEFS 24, CHARGERS 10

The Los Angeles Chargers lost to the Kansas City Chiefs 24-10 Sunday at StubHub Center, falling to 0-3 on the season.

Quarterback Philip Rivers threw three first-half interceptions, which led to 17 of Kansas City's 24 points. Chiefs rookie running back Kareem Hunt finished the game with 172 rushing yards on 17 carries (10.1 yards per carry) and a touchdown.

Rivers was intercepted on the game's first possession by Chiefs cornerback Terrance Mitchell at the Chargers' 43-yard line. Four plays later, Chiefs quarterback Alex Smith connected with speedy wide receiver Tyreek Hill on a 30-yard touchdown strike to make it 7-0 after a Cairo Santos extra point.

Los Angeles' second possession looked much like the first. Rivers threw his second interception in as many drives, this time to Pro Bowl cornerback Marcus Peters. Four plays later, Smith tossed a six-yard shovel pass to wide receiver Albert Wilson for a touchdown to make it 14-0 after another Santos extra point.

Down two scores, the Chargers responded with a nine-play, 89-yard drive capped off by an 11-yard touchdown run by running back Melvin Gordon. Los Angeles trailed 14-7 after the first quarter. Gordon rushed for 78 yards on 15 carries (5.2 yards per carry) in the first half.

Rivers threw his third interception early in the second quarter to Mitchell -- his second of the game. The Chiefs converted on a 34-yard Santos field goal to increase their lead to 17-7. A 29-yard field goal by Younghoe Koo cut the Chiefs' lead to 17-10 at the half. After a scoreless third quarter, Kansas City iced the game in the fourth quarter with a 69-yard touchdown rush by Hunt.

Defensive end Melvin Ingram led the Chargers with three sacks. Wide receiver Travis Benjamin caught five passes for 105 yards. Rivers finished the game 20-of-39 for 237 yards.

Sunday's win gave the Chiefs their 12th straight in the AFC West, and seventh straight over the Chargers.

In a moment of solidarity before the game, Chargers Owner and Chairman of the Board Dean Spanos locked arms with the players during the singing of the National Anthem. Read the entire statement on Chargers team unity.

WEEK 4 RECAP - EAGLES 26, CHARGERS 24

The Los Angeles Chargers fell to 0-4 on Sunday, losing to the Philadelphia Eagles 26-24 at StubHub Center.

Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers went 22-of-38 for 347 yards and two touchdowns, but Philadelphia rushed for 214 yards and possessed the ball for over 39 minutes. Their final drive chewed up the last 6:44 of the game.

On the first possession of the game, Eagles defensive end Chris Long strip-sacked Rivers and the ball was recovered by rookie defensive end Derek Barnett. Philadelphia capitalized with an eight-yard touchdown from quarterback Carson Wentz to wide receiver Alshon Jeffery for the game's first score. A 45-yard Jake Elliott field goal on the Eagles' next possession made it 10-0 after the first quarter.

After another Elliott field goal, the Chargers offense connected on their biggest play of the season. Rivers found wide receiver Tyrell Williams for a 75-yard touchdown. Younghoe Koo's extra-point cut Philadelphia's lead to 13-7.

Late in the second quarter, Rivers and wide receiver Keenan Allen connected on a 49-yard reception — the team's second-longest play of 2017 — to set up a 28-yard Koo field goal that made the score 16-10 Eagles at the half.

With Philadelphia leading 19-10 in the fourth quarter, Chargers undrafted rookie running back Austin Ekeler rushed for a 35-yard touchdown that sliced the deficit to 19-17 after a Koo extra point.

The Eagles responded with a drive that included momentum-shifting 68-yard rush by LeGarrette Blount. Five plays later, Wendell Smallwood rushed for a two-yard touchdown.

Allen caught five balls for 138 yards. Williams finished the game with five catches for 115 yards and a touchdown. Chargers tight end Hunter Henry scored his first touchdown of the season.

WEEK 5 RECAP - CHARGERS 27, GIANTS 22

The Los Angeles Chargers weren't seeking style points on Sunday.

In a game that included a combined 14 punts and 21 penalties, running back Melvin Gordon rose above the ugliness with 163 total yards from scrimmage and two touchdowns in a 27-22 victory over the New York Giants at MetLife Stadium — the Bolts' first win of the season.

The game's turning point occurred with four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter when defensive end Melvin Ingram sacked Giants quarterback Eli Manning, who fumbled. Ingram recovered the football at the Giants' 11-yard line and three plays later, quarterback Philip Rivers found Gordon for a ten-yard touchdown reception, which ended up being the game-winning score.

It was a game plagued with penalties, unforced errors and missed connections. On a third-and-seven in the first quarter, miscommunication lead to a botched snap by center Spencer Pulley that Rivers batted out of the end zone for a safety to make it 2-0 Giants. Chargers opponents have now scored first in every game this season.

Later in the first quarter, Orleans Darkwa dashed 23 yards for a touchdown — the first rushing score from a Giants running back this season. New York led 9-0 after the opening quarter.

The Chargers answered with a six-yard touchdown reception from Rivers to running back Gordon that cut the lead to 9-7 after the newly acquired Nick Novak connected on the extra point. Novak added a 20-yard field goal to give Los Angeles the lead at halftime.

With Giants wide receivers Sterling Shepard and Brandon Marshall out of the game with injuries, Eli Manning found Roger Lewis on New York's next possession for a 29-yard touchdown catch to regain the lead.

Rivers responded on the next Chargers' possession by connecting with tight end Hunter Henry for a 25-yard touchdown. Los Angeles took a 17-16 lead into the fourth quarter after the 12-play, 90-yard drive.

The back-and-forth continued as Manning hooked up with Odell Beckham Jr. for a 48-yard touchdown strike on the third play of the fourth quarter. The failed two-point conversion put New York up 22-17 before the Chargers scored the last ten points of the game.

Chargers defensive end Joey Bosa registered two sacks, both in the first quarter. Bosa now has 4.5 sacks on the season. Ingram also notched two sacks. Tre Boston intercepted Manning late in the fourth quarter to seal the victory.

Note: Average team drive start DOES NOT include inside kicks or kickoffs at the end of a half unless either kickoff is returned for a touchdown. All other kickoffs (returned kickoffs, fair catches, touchback and kickoffs out of bounds) are included. Kickoffs resulting in the kicking team retaining possession are not included.

ADJ KO: Adjusted kickoffs are used to compute the Avg. Team Drive Start.

I20: The number of drives that start inside (not including) the 20 yd line.

Dean Spanos' decision to move the Chargers to L.A. is the biggest he'll ever make and one he won't escape

The fortune Alex Spanos amassed over six decades began with bologna.

The year was 1951, and the son of a Greek immigrant was unemployed and broke, searching for a way to provide for his wife and two young children. He convinced a Stockton bank to loan him $800 to buy a panel truck and supplies to make bologna sandwiches to sell to migrant farm workers.

The humble beginning grew into a multi-billion dollar collection of businesses, now overseen by his son, Dean, and centered around the family's most valuable asset: the National Football League's Chargers.

Dean Spanos took a drastic step with his father's legacy in January, moving the Chargers to Los Angeles after 56 seasons in San Diego and leaving fans seething in a place he called home.

The key to understanding the younger Spanos' decision is the man himself — and his family. A large photograph of the Spanos clan dominates the wall behind his desk in an office that overlooks two practice fields at Chargers Park in San Diego. On a credenza, between an NFL record book and a golf club, a copy of his father's autobiography leans against the wall.

A lone page is dog-eared for quick reference: "A solid family foundation: This is the basis of everything. ... Without family, you will be left emotionally empty, no matter how fabulous your accomplishments."

Friends say Spanos, 66, felt burdened by a "sacred duty" and "solemn responsibility" to resolve the family's long-running search for a new stadium in San Diego or elsewhere.

Although known for his deliberate approach to business, the Chargers chairman gambled on the 120-mile drive north into an unforgiving market. It meant leaving San Diego, a place the team owned, for L.A., a sprawling metropolis crowded with college and professional sports. But Spanos didn't see an alternative.

The decision could add a billion dollars to the franchise value — Forbes estimates the Chargers and the family's other businesses are already worth $2.4 billion — and boost annual revenue by tens of millions of dollars.

The cost to Spanos, however, extends beyond the NFL's $650-million relocation fee. In San Diego, fans burned Chargers jerseys and attacked him on social media. A columnist called him a villain and the city's "most hated man."

The biggest decision Spanos will make in his career is one he'll never escape.

"He has suffered so much through this and people can believe it or not, but he's been tortured by what to do," said Bertrand Hug, a

San Diego restaurateur who considers Spanos his best friend. "At the end, he says, 'I have no choice. I have to protect my family.'"

The bologna sandwich business took off and, by late 1951, Alex Spanos had leased space at the San Joaquin County Fairgrounds to house 350 workers. He furnished it with surplus bedding, according to the autobiography, and served boiled beans and the sandwiches for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Spanos made $35,000 in the first three months, then expanded the business by moving to an old barracks at the Stockton Metropolitan Airport. He adjusted the menu to include tortillas, rice and beans.

By 1956, the A.G. Spanos Agricultural Catering Service provided 7,000 meals a day and made $700,000 that year — the equivalent of more than $6 million today.

"If I hadn't made provisions, they would have slept in the fields instead of the beds provided and they would have eaten whatever the farmers could scrounge instead of the three meals I served each day," Spanos wrote.

At the suggestion of an accountant, Spanos invested some of the windfall in real estate. He founded a construction company that built its first apartment complex in 1961. The Bali Hai in Stockton included a luau pit as part of a South Seas theme. Headquartered in Stockton, the company opened offices in six other states.

Spanos still made time for his favorite hobby: golf. He met Bob Hope in 1969 during a round at Eldorado Country Club in Indian Wells. They played for $100 a hole, according to the autobiography. The entertainer became one of his closest friends. They later performed a song-and-dance routine together at Carnegie Hall in New York.

"When Alex was born," Hope said in a Times story in 1985, "the doctor slapped him and Alex said, 'Like to rent an apartment?'"

Dean Spanos started working in his father's burgeoning empire before he was old enough to drive. The son swept out apartments, dug ditches — he once ruptured a sewage line at the bottom of a 10-foot deep trench — and framed buildings.

The father told the son he had to be the first one at a job site and the last to leave. Everyone watched him. If the owner's son didn't care, then why should they?

"It was the greatest experience of my life," said the younger Spanos, who graduated from the University of the Pacific in 1972 with a degree in business administration.

After a failed bid for the San Francisco 49ers in 1977, Alex Spanos bought majority interest in the San Diego Chargers seven years later for $40 million. The transition from entrepreneur to professional sports owner wasn't smooth. San Diego fans booed Spanos in 1988 during an on-field ceremony to retire the number of Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts, frustrated by the team's losing ways. He called it the worst moment of his life.

Spanos rarely took time off; he grew uncomfortable if away from work for more than a few days. He had a hands-on management style, a quick temper and an outsized personality that could intimidate any room. Gary Plummer, a standout linebacker for the Chargers from 1986 to 1993, remembered how a phone call would warn staff and players at the team's headquarters that the owner was on his way.

"It was panic," Plummer said. "It was like cockroaches scattering when you turn on the light. No one wants to be seen by Alex Spanos. All he did was scream and yell at everything." Dean Spanos, the oldest of four children, took over the team's day-to-day operations in 1994. Friends see him as, in many ways, the opposite of his father: shy in public and content to operate behind the scenes, far outside the professional sports spotlight other owners enjoy.

The father began detaching himself from the business and in 2008, revealed he suffers from dementia. Friends and family say he still owns an iron handshake and plays gin rummy for a few hours each day at his Stockton home. But the disease has taken a toll.

"I can't have the in-depth conversation, which is what I really miss the most," Dean Spanos said.

Several people close to Spanos believe he is more conciliatory in business dealings than his father. That includes the long, fruitless search for a stadium in San Diego.

"I think he felt this emotional and almost moral compulsion to do everything he possibly could to stay in San Diego and, in my opinion, I think it hurt him," said Carmen Policy, a friend of the Spanos family and former executive for the 49ers and Cleveland Browns. "He could have moved earlier had he just recognized the reality of the situation there and, in some ways, been better situated in L.A."

Spanos is sensitive to criticism, more than expected from someone in a business where every transaction, every setback is scrutinized.

"Everything that's said against him hurts him deeply and he won't forget it," Hug said.

With family and close friends — they call him Deno — he is engaging, loyal and usually the first to pick up the check when dining out.

When the son of longtime friend Ross Clark — he works out with Spanos at 6 a.m. most days — wasn't getting much attention from college football coaches, Spanos stepped in. Without Clark's knowledge, he arranged for the creation of a highlight tape, sent it to dozens of schools and had a former Chargers player follow up with phone calls. It led to a scholarship for Clark's son.

When NFL owners and executives met in December at the Four Seasons in Irving, Texas, Spanos updated the group on his last-ditch effort to stay in San Diego.

He could have moved the Chargers to L.A. in January 2016 after NFL owners gave the franchise a one-year option to join Stan Kroenke's Rams at the $2.6-billion stadium he's building in Inglewood. Instead, the Chargers remained in San Diego.

The team spent $10 million on a ballot measure to raise hotel taxes to help fund a combined stadium and convention center downtown. It needed two-thirds of the vote in November to pass. Spanos planned to stay in San Diego and ask the NFL to extend the option for a year if at least 50% of voters approved the measure — enough support to justify continued pursuit of the project. It mustered just 43%.

Spanos told the closed-door meeting that he did everything he could in San Diego and that more time would not result in a new stadium, according to a person familiar with the remarks.

“This is a decision that I think every one of us would have made,” Arizona Cardinals owner Michael Bidwell said.

In addition to exploring a series of stadium plans in the San Diego region during the last decade and a half, the Chargers flirted with out-of-town options including Las Vegas, the Farmers Field project in downtown L.A. and a stadium in Carson they would have shared with the Oakland Raiders. Nothing came together.

“A whole lot of people screwed up [in San Diego], including the political leadership and the Chargers,” said George Mitrovich, president of The City Club of San Diego and a longtime civic leader. “No one was going to take a bullet for Dean Spanos.”

Spanos and his siblings — Alexis, Dea and Michael — each control 15% of the team, while their father and his wife Faye own 36%, according to two people familiar with the arrangement. Alex Spanos left the responsibility to guide the team and the family's other holdings to his oldest son.

There wasn't a family vote or climatic meeting about Los Angeles. Dean Spanos didn't want to saddle the family's next generation — his sons John and A.G. run the day-to-day operations for the Chargers — with the search for a new home.

“We don't always agree. We fight on issues,” said Spanos, who is also chairman and CEO of the family's non-football companies. “But when it comes time to make these types of decision, we always come together as a group and we do everything in the best interest of the family.”

The day after the move was announced in January, Jeanie Buss hosted a dinner for Spanos at Craig's in West Hollywood. The Lakers president told him not to hide from the challenge of entering the market, and not to let criticism get him down.

The next day, fans at Staples Center for the Clippers-Lakers game booed when the arena video screen mentioned the Chargers. During a welcome event at the Forum five days later, NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell heaped praise on Kroenke before briefly mentioning Spanos, which some saw as a public sign of the league's unease over the decision. Some owners and executives regarded the move as hasty and questioned the wisdom of two teams relocating to L.A. in the space of a year.

When Spanos started speaking, one of the 150 fans in attendance, Joseph MacRae, heckled the chairman, thrust his middle fingers in the air and threw a Chargers jersey toward the stage. MacRae said he felt Spanos had betrayed San Diego, that he had opted for money over loyalty.

“His approach has been to show back nothing but appreciation and love, because that's what he feels for all the San Diego fans,” said John Spanos, president of football operations for the Chargers. “No human being would naturally want those things directed at you, but those are the consequences of a decision like this.”

Dean Spanos sometimes talks about giving it all up to run a hamburger stand in Aspen, Colo. He'd flip burgers in the back. His wife Susie would wait tables. They could shut down at 1 or 2 p.m. and go skiing. Life would be simple.

But he's only joking. When close friends like San Diego lawyer Craig McClellan talk to Spanos, they can sense his excitement, his anticipation about the challenge of restarting in L.A.

There's a franchise to move, a temporary training facility in Costa Mesa to complete and unending meetings with L.A. business leaders and politicians among a thousand other details in his new life.

“We're more low-profile than other people, but I know it's different now,” Spanos said. “I love it. I love the challenge. When people say you can't do it, the greatest thing in the world is to prove them wrong.”

American Hellenic Council Honors LA Chargers Owner Dean Spanos

LOS ANGELES, CA – The American Hellenic Council's (AHC) Annual Awards Gala has been established as the premier award event of the Greek-American community in Southern California, featuring honorees who showcase excellence in various fields including business, philanthropy, entertainment, and public service.

This year's honorees were exceptional as well. Dean Spanos, Owner and Chairman of the Los Angeles Chargers and two Philhellenes, Congresswoman Karen Bass and Archaeologist Stephen Miller.

Emcee Demetrios Boutris had a distinguished career in public service and business, having served as a Commissioner of the Department of Corporations and as Legal Affairs Secretary & Counsel to the governor of California. Boutris said that “I am happy to be back to AHC among the people who always loved me and supported me.”

AHC President Dr. Menas Kafatos thanked the attendees and said that “the Council enters a new era with the addition of new Executive Director Ioannis Fidanakis, two new board members, and extending cooperation with new organizations such as the American Jewish Council and the Armenian National Committee of America in order to promote common interests.”

SPANOS FAMILY

Spanos' appearance was highly anticipated given the recent decision to move the team from San Diego to Los Angeles. Dean's father, Alex, owner of the real estate development company A.G. Spanos Companies bought the team in 1984. Alex, born in Stockton to immigrant parents from Messinia, started working in his father's bakery when he was very young. He married to Faye Papafaklis, whose family originates from Sympi, and started a family. He soon realized that he could not raise his family on the salary he was making at the bakery and he borrowed $800 to buy a used catering truck. He invested his earnings in real estate and by 1997 his company had become one of the largest builders in the country. When he bought the Chargers in 1984, he said that “I always believed in the pursuit of one's dreams. In buying the Chargers, I've been able to realize a dream.”

PASSING THE TORCH

Alex wanted the Chargers to remain in the family forever and in 1994 his son took over the presidency of the team. “My father was an authoritative figure, he was strict but he was fair. He loves his family and he instilled in us the value of hard work and community service,” Spanos said. When the younger Spanos became president, he often called his father often for advice. One day his father told him “Dean stop calling me. You are capable in making your own decisions, and when you make mistakes like we all do, you can learn from them. You will be fine.” That advice served Spanos well. During the 11 years he served as president, the Chargers won 113 games; five of which were AFC West Championships. The highlight was the Chargers' 1994 Super Bowl appearance, his first year in charge.

In 2015, Spanos handed the fortunes of the team to his two sons, A.G., who serves as President of Business Operations and John, who is President of Football Operations. Spanos afforded his sons the same liberty in operating the team as his father did with him. “I have complete confidence in my sons, they have grown up with the team and know the business. As a family we always talk but they need to be making their own decisions.”

MOVING UP THE COAST

The most significant decision was to move the team to Los Angeles, a move received with bitterness by San Diego fans who supported the team for 56 years. The decision came after efforts for over a decade to find a viable solution for a new stadium were unsuccessful. Since then, another California team, the Oakland Raiders have been approved to move to Las Vegas. The common denominator has been the refusal of the two cities to offer public financing to build new stadiums and the end result was that both left.

Disappointed fans are wondering how much loyalty is valued by the NFL. Spanos was very candid about the situation, “I understand the fans' disappointment because we are disappointed as well. In our case we believe that we offered a proposal that would have been beneficial to the team and the city of San Diego by creating a joint use facility. Extending and renovating the convention center and building a new stadium that the city would use most of the time. And the whole project would have been financed by a hotel tax with no additional cost to the residents. But it was not approved and we were running out of options. Nevertheless, San Diego will always be part of the Chargers identity” he told TNH.

Spanos' brother Michael, who is President of the A.G. Spanos Companies and who oversees real estate development and construction nationwide, said "we felt that the proposal was a win-win situation for everyone and we worked hard to send out the message. When it failed, it became apparent that the option to move to LA that the NFL offered us should be exercised." Despite the bitter ending, the fact is that via the Chargers Community Foundation, the Spanos family has contributed greatly to the San Diego community. Over the years they have contributed more than $13 million to youth and families in San Diego. "We will continue to contribute to the charities we have established relations with all these years. We will be present in the San Diego community even if the team is not there anymore," Spanos told TNH.

A.G and John were recently seen at the landmark eatery Pink's, shaking hands with fans. "The Chargers have a fan base here. Twenty five percent of our fans in our San Diego games came from the LA and Orange county. And we hope that our San Diego fans will make the trip and watch the team play," Dean Spanos said. "We will be involved with the LA community the same way we were in San Diego. At this time we are in the process of evaluating different proposals." The outreach efforts seem to have turned perceptions around. Last week it was announced that the season tickets for the new season have been sold out, a very positive development in a long process. Winning is of paramount importance with the fans and this year's team has high hopes. "Our new coach Anthony Lynn has the leadership ingredients we were looking for in a head coach. He commands respect and he will hold the players accountable to perform in a high level," Spanos added.

REP. BASS

Rep. Bass received the Pericles Award for distinction in public service. In her acceptance speech, she spoke about Pericles' legacy as an Athenian leader and the greatness of the Athenian democratic system. She has collaborated on many issues over the years with Aris Anagnos, a founding member of AHC. Bass recently joined the Congressional Hellenic Caucus. She said that "Turkish Prime Minister Erdogan's aggression is very worrisome not just for Greece but also for the other countries in the region." When asked about the Syrian refugees and the limited contribution of the United States to alleviate the burden that has been placed upon Greece and other Mediterranean countries she acknowledged that "we have not done as much as we should have on that issue. The Obama Administration would have liked to accept more refugees, but they received enormous pressure from conservative Republicans who worried about terrorism. My opinion is that it was more about racism."

In her view, "our vetting process is very long and very effective. It takes close to two years for anyone to come in the country," she told TNH.

In assessing the prospects of the Trump Administration she simply said "Chaotic. I suspect that the White House's involvement with Russia would be very damaging to the Administration."

PROF. MILLER

of Ancient Nemea in 1973, there was very little there. The excavations were carried out very cautiously and frequently with bare hands. He spent the next 20 years overseeing excavations, and the result was to unearth the ancient stadium. In 1994 he founded the Society for the Revival of the Nemean Games. Dr. Miller insisted that participants to the Games wear similar attire as with those in antiquity. Miller, who lives in Nemea and was unable to travel due to his health, sent a very inspirational video message chronicling his effort to bring the ancient city to life. He recalled that of all the initial contributors, only two were Greeks. One of them was Alex Spanos. He also said that his work in Nemea made him feel part of the magnificent Greek history.

George Kolovos, a real estate developer and philanthropist who has special affection for the project since his wife, Tina, originates from Nemea, received the award on Miller's behalf.

With stadium security in hand, Dean Spanos is focused on new future in Los Angeles

COSTA MESA — Dean Spanos offered a handshake and an empathetic smile.

"Sorry for all the inconvenience," the Chargers owner said, nodding to the nearby construction workers scurrying about wearing bright vests and hardhats.

The sound of buzzsaws and hammers crashing into nails created a steady hum throughout the Chargers temporary new headquarters in Costa Mesa in late June.

Moving boxes were stacked outside empty offices. A nearby conference room was being soundproofed. Outside, workers were paving the parking lot.

"Where should I drop these off?" a delivery man asked a Chargers receptionist, his dolly stacked proud and high.

"Down that hall, take your second left," she told him. "It'll be the third office to your right."

"Appreciate it," he said, zigzagging away like LaDainian Tomlinson after pulling in a screen pass.

"As you can see," Spanos continued. "We're still getting settled in."

And will be for some time as the Chargers get acclimated to their new surroundings and ingratiate themselves to Los Angeles.

"On a positive note, I am using my navigation system less and less as I make my way around," said A.G Spanos, the oldest son of Dean and Susie Spanos and the Chargers' president of Business Operations. "So that's good."

It's been six months since Dean Spanos exercised the option fellow NFL owners granted him to relocate his Chargers to Los Angeles, thus ending the team's 55-year love affair with

San Diego and the 32 years the Spanos family spent there as owners. Spanos has overseen the day-to-day operations of the team since 1994, exactly 10 years after his father Alex, the son of Greek immigrants and a self-made billionaire, purchased the franchise in 1984 from Gene Klein.

The whirlwind that ensued has been breathtaking.

It's quite the undertaking, moving an NFL franchise from one city to another, and it leaves little time for reflection or regret or nostalgia.

For every goodbye, there are 10 new hellos. For each severed business connection, a handful of others emerge. For every strained political relationship, the seeds for 20 others are planted.

A new home office and practice facility needed to be identified, purchased and built. More than 200 employees had to be relocated. A football team needs to be improved, tended to and extended every necessary advantage to succeed. Tickets need to be sold. A new fan base has to be cultivated.

"It's not a process that will happen overnight or in one or even two years," Spanos said. "This is a long-range process that we'll keep chipping away at each and every day."

And there isn't one minute to spare. Not on dwelling about what might have been, anyway.

"When I look back, I don't have a second thought about my decision to make the move," he said. "We worked hard to make something happen in San Diego. It didn't work out. But I'm looking forward."

"This is an incredible opportunity, moving to Los Angeles. And 100 percent of our energy and attention is on seizing that opportunity and conquering it. We aren't looking behind."

That might seem callous considering the storied history and loyal fans the Chargers left behind in San Diego.

But with so much at stake while operating in a crowded sports market that demands winning, excitement and star power, it's a necessary mindset.

"That has to be the singular focus," said Fred Maas, a longtime Spanos family friend who most recently served as an adviser in the Chargers stadium pursuit in San Diego. "And for Dean and his family, it's absolutely full-bore ahead."

In fact, upon spending time with Spanos, it's almost shocking how firmly he has braced himself for the challenges of constructing the Chargers' new world in Los Angeles and how confidently and assuredly he's marching toward it.

Whatever regret over the failure to forge a workable stadium partnership in San Diego has been replaced by enthusiasm for the new future. Whatever anxiety he felt in 2016 upon being offered a spot with the Rams — only to spend the rest of that year pursuing one last stadium plan in San Diego — has transformed into determination to acclimate himself and his franchise to their new home.

"There's no question he is fired up about this and that he's determined to make the most of this opportunity," said Tomlinson, a Hall of Fame running back for the Chargers who recently took a job in their front office. "And I think that bodes well not only for the team, but the fans of Los Angeles. Dean understands the challenges ahead, he knows nothing will be given and (the Chargers) have to earn everything they get. There's no freebies. It has to be worked for and earned. And he's ready to fight to make that happen."

It will be left to the historians ultimately to determine whose fault it was that a stadium partnership never came to be in spite of more than two decades trying. But a frustrated Spanos finally decided enough is enough after San Diego voters rejected the stadium measure last November. Two months later, he informed the NFL he would exercise his Los Angeles option.

Multiple San Diego business and political leaders contacted by the Southern California News Group in an attempt to paint a more complete picture of Spanos declined interview requests.

"I know there are a lot of people angry at the move," Spanos concedes. "But I also know there are a lot of people excited about it, too. Our focus is on the future ahead of us in Los Angeles."

His new home provides the long-range stadium certainty he spent the last two decades trying to secure. And in the process, addressed a family obligation that's weighed heavily on Spanos for years. With semi-retirement looming and official hand off of control of the Chargers to sons John and A.G. imminent, Dean Spanos wanted to secure the Chargers future once and for all rather than hand an unresolved stadium issue to his sons.

"We were able to set this franchise up for the next generation," Spanos said. "I'm proud of that."

It's also an opportunity to hoist the Chargers onto a bigger stage and reap the rewards offered by the second-biggest market in the country. And that starts with connecting with sports fans who have 10 professional teams to choose from and two major college programs.

"We want to earn the respect of the people, whether you are a fan or not," Spanos said. "We want fans to know we want to be here. That we're excited to be here. We don't expect anything for nothing. That part will take time. But ultimately, over the years, we want to create enough good will that people respect us. That's on us. That's our goal."

So what can Los Angeles expect from a Spanos-led sports franchise?

To understand that, it's important to remember his father Alex, who was jobless and penniless when he walked into a Stockton bank to ask for an $800 loan in 1951.

The plan was to invest the money in a truck, a slicing machine, a meat cleaver, bread and bologna, and then drive around the San Joaquin Valley to serve lunch to migrant farm workers.

The bank relented, and over the next few decades Alex Spanos parlayed that $800 loan into a construction and real estate company that stretches across four states and, ultimately, ownership of the Chargers.

As of last year, the Spanos family's worth was $2.4 billion.

"An extremely driven man," Dean Spanos remembers. "I can vividly remember our meetings beginning at 5:30 a.m. even before we got to the office. He was that kind of guy. That hard of a worker. And he remained that way until he retired."

More than work ethic, Dean Spanos learned from his father the importance of keeping your word.

"My dad's whole mantra was: Earn the respect of people and everything will fall into place. But if your word isn't good with whoever you're working with or dealing with, you'll never be successful. His word was always his bond."

The younger Spanos began working with his father in his early teens digging ditches and sweeping out apartments, and envisioned a career overseeing the family real estate and construction companies.

In fact, upon graduating from the University of Pacific in 1972, Dean Spanos spent the next several years in Tampa, Nevada and Texas as the family business continued to expand.

"At that point I figured that's where my life was headed," Spanos said. "And I was fine with that. I enjoyed it."

It wasn't until his father pulled him aside to tell him about his interest in getting into professional sports in the mid 1970s that a life in the NFL even jumped onto the Spanos radar.

Alex Spanos first threw his hat into the ownership ring of the expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers, a bid that ultimately fell short. A few years later, upon forging a friendship with Oakland Raiders owner Al Davis, the elder Spanos made a run at the San Francisco 49ers but ultimately lost out to Eddie DeBartolo Sr. in 1977.

"By that point, it became pretty clear to me it was a passion of my father's," Spanos said.

Not long after, Spanos purchased a majority share of the Chargers from Gene Klein for $40 million and he dispatched Dean to San Diego to be the day-to-day family presence. Over the next decade, the younger Spanos' life was split between the Chargers and the families construction companies.

"I was happy to be in San Diego, but it was an adjustment," Spanos said. "All of a sudden there's media scrutiny, which we weren't used to. You were ultimately dependent on the fans and the media. So there's a learning curve."

Like the Sunday afternoon the Chargers retired the number of Hall of Fame quarterback Dan Fouts and fans lustily booed Alex Spanos, their anger stemming from his firing of popular coach Don Coryell. It was a harsh wake-up call about the realities and passion of pro sports.

"It was like, 'Welcome to the party,'" Fouts said. "I'm sure Alex didn't like getting booed, but it's part of sports. There were many times I was booed. You don't like it, but you deal with it. I think he handled it OK."

Fouts played the final four years of his career under the Spanos family ownership, having played his first 11 with Klein as the owner. And by that point of his career he was more focused on winning games on Sunday then who was running the team. But like a lot of Chargers players from those years, he remembers Alex Spanos as a demanding boss.

"He was blunt, no question about it," Fouts said. "It was his team and he was trying to mold it the way he thought it should be."

By 1994, Alex Spanos was ready to hand the daily operations to Dean Spanos as CEO and president. That same year, the Chargers reached their only Super Bowl. In Dean's 23 years in charge, the Chargers have reached the playoffs eight times — most recently in 2013 — and won the AFC West five times.

While his father was known for his demanding disposition, temper tantrums and directing choice words at players, Dean Spanos forged a completely different persona.

"A guy who cared just as much about you and your family away from the field as he did what was going on the field," is how Tomlinson described it.

Friends describe Spanos as attentive, deeply caring, open-minded and operating with an obligation to preserve and enhance the Chargers — now the family's largest asset — for his three siblings and their children.

Current and former employees paint a picture of a firm but flexible leader willing to listen to all sides of an argument and build a consensus before drilling down to a decision. And while he has final say, he relies heavily on the people he's put in place — most notably his two sons, who he is grooming to take over full-time operations of the Chargers — before reaching a verdict.

"He hires good people and he lets them do their jobs," Maas said.

Winning consumes him, but not as the expense of the the personal connection he forges with employees. Most notably his beloved players.

"He was always around, always present and always approachable at practices," Tomlinson said. "And you always got the feeling he cared more about just the football part of the relationship he made with players. It was always: 'Hey how are you doing? How's the family? It went beyond just an owner-player connection. He cares about players off the field too. And he cares what they have to say.'"

Tomlinson experienced that over the years as his role with the Chargers grew into an unofficial liaison between players and ownership. Part of which meant family dinners with the Spanos' in which Tomlinson was given a no-holds barred forum to express himself. The comfort level Tomlinson was provided to offer frank assessments didn't occur overnight, but it eventually evolved to the point he felt he could open up without fear of repercussions. And it ran the gamut from opinions of the direction of the team right on down to the food being served at the team facility.

"More importantly, it wasn't just a voice I was given but the willingness on his part to actually listen and act," Tomlinson said.

Spanos has created the same environment on the football and business side of the franchise.

"I try to surround myself with as good as people as I can and let them do their jobs," he said. "Look, no one is so smart they can do it all on their own. I want to hire the best coach. The best general manager. And I have my two sons that run football and business.

"Don't get me wrong. I'll challenge them. I always do," Spanos said. "I want to know why they're leaning a certain way. Or the reasoning behind their decisions or positions."

Like a few weeks ago when John and A.G. presented their father with elements of a marketing plan they wished to implement. Truth be told, Dean Spanos was in favor of the idea from the get-go.

"But I didn't tell them that," he said, laughing.

Instead, he played devil's advocate while challenging them with alternative ideas and peppering them with questions.

"And that's good for me when it gets to the point where they provide all the necessary answers to the point I can no longer challenge them," said Spanos, who said he can count only a few times he's overruled his sons and key advisers on a major decision.

As time goes on, John and A.G. will emerge more and more as the leadership face of the franchise with their father easing into more of a patriarch role. But the elder Spanos says he'll play an integral part of the sales and marketing effort leading up to the move from their Chargers' temporary home at StubHub Center to the new stadium in Inglewood.

"We want to make sure this thing is successful when we get up there," Spanos said. "And I believe it will be."

Simultaneously, he'll put his real estate and construction hat back on in the planning and construction of the Chargers' permanent headquarters, envisioning a large campus facility that captures the identity of Los Angeles Chargers.

"More than anything I'm just looking forward to doing what we set out to do," Spanos said. "And that's to get into Inglewood, get ourselves a home long-term and put a great product on the field and earn the respect of the people of Los Angeles. If we do that — and I can't make something happen, it's going to go its own way — but if I do those three things I think there's a good chance people are going to say 'He did the right thing. He did a good thing.' And so be it."

Chargers Coach Anthony Lynn is enjoying the brotherhood of NFL coaches, even if that means skipping breakfast

By Dan Woike

Anthony Lynn, the Chargers' new head coach, has been surrounded by well-wishers all over the grounds of the Arizona Biltmore. From the coaches he's worked for to the reporters who covered him to the owners with who he'd interviewed, everyone — to use Lynn's word — has been "cool."

But breakfast Tuesday morning? That was just plain cold.

His scrambled eggs were pushed around the plate, and the breakfast potatoes, a slice of bacon and oatmeal were all untouched after speaking with reporters for an hour during the AFC's coaches breakfast.

"Next year," he said, laughing, "I'm getting here earlier."

Maybe the biggest lesson Lynn has learned in his first months as an NFL head coach is that you never know when you're going to learn a big lesson.

None of the words shared by his colleagues stuck out as profound, job-changing ideas. But Lynn said he knows that when situations arise, the things he's learned during the league's annual meeting will surge to the surface.

"It's always been a huge brotherhood, but it's even tighter when you get here with these other 31 coaches," he said. "All they want to do is help you, give you advice and [help you] learn from their mistakes and success." It's not a feeling he's getting too used to because the goodwill has very defined limits.

"Game day is a friendly handshake, and then, it's all about kicking somebody's", he said, knowing the 31 other coaches feel the same. "Right now, we're shaking hands, giving advice and mentoring one another."

It's a job full of perks not limited to the paycheck. Head coaches, team execs and league owners spent Monday night at a cocktail reception with a fully stocked raw seafood station and free beer, wine and cocktails being served behind a giant bar made entirely of ice.

Oh, and there were fireworks too.

But the journey to top coach, one that took Lynn to six franchises as an assistant over a 16-year span, comes with a cost.

"I think I'm further away from football than I ever have been with all the day-to-day operations of a head coach," he said. "I think I expected that. It's still different."

The brotherhood that Lynn has enjoyed so much in Arizona this week? There are elements you don't get inside your own building when you're the top guy, he said.

Defensive coordinator Gus Bradley has his guys. Offensive coordinator Ken Whisenhun has his guys, and special teams coordinator George Stewart has his.

"There are some days I come into the office, and Ken has his group, Gus has his group, George Stewart has his group, and I'm kind of twiddling my thumbs," Lynn said. "No one wants you to come into their meetings because you come in and start changing too many things. I used to be a guy who hated when a coach would come in. I try to stay out and let them do their things because they're great coaches."

Instead of getting in the "room with his guys," which he said he misses most, Lynn is immersed in everything, including the upcoming draft.

On Tuesday, he was asked about selecting a quarterback, and Lynn didn't shy away from speaking his mind.

"I think we do have to get a young quarterback on campus. We have to start developing someone because we have two veteran quarterbacks," Lynn said, referring to Philip Rivers, 35, and Kellen Clemens, 33. "Both of them are long in the tooth. I think they have some good years left in them — don't get me wrong — but you have to start thinking about down the line too."

Lynn's been thinking down the line for years, planning and working for his shot at running his own football team.

"I did think I'd get a chance. I thought it would be a lot sooner, but I did think it'd eventually come," he said. "It was a passion. It was something that was on my heart and something I worked a lot of hours trying to accomplish. Usually it works out. If you do the right things and work your ... off, usually it works out."

And when it doesn't work out? You walk away from the table, belly empty, with a plate of cold food left behind.

Chargers head coach Anthony Lynn and the currency of truth

By Eric Williams

Friday, June 2, 2017

SAN DIEGO -- One noticeable change at Chargers Park with the addition of Anthony Lynn is that the new Los Angeles Chargers head coach does not deal in "coachspeak."

Lynn says what he means, sometimes to his detriment. However, it's been refreshing to deal with a coach who's comfortable enough in his skin to not mince words in his dealings with both the players and the media.

In a story by Albert Breer of The MMQB, Lynn talked about eliminating distractions during offseason work and making sure the team's relocation to Los Angeles and injury history are not used as a reasons for poor performance in 2017.

"To me, that's just excuses," Lynn said. "It's the National Football League, and we're all talented. I mean, this is an elite group of men. I don't think there's a non-talented team in the National Football League. The facts are, and I deal in the currency of the truth, we won nine games the past two years. We're below average. So we have to change some things that we're doing. We have to approach it better. We have to play better."

It's interesting to note that during the time he was interviewing for his job, Lynn still believed the team was staying in San Diego. The Chargers announced the move to Los Angeles on Jan. 12. A day later, the team announced Lynn's hiring.

"I have to be honest with you: I didn't think we were going to be leaving San Diego, I really didn't," said Lynn. "It wouldn't have mattered much. I was looking at the organization and I felt like the organization was a fit for me. But I did have to start thinking about things differently, once we decided we were moving."

Tom Krasovic of the San Diego Union-Tribune writes that it's a shame Lynn did not take over the team years ago because he believes San Diegans would have enjoyed his honesty.

Krasovic: "I don't think any NFL coach has or will deal entirely in the 'currency of truth,' but Lynn is a refreshing presence for an organization that far too often came off as tone deaf, timid, foggy, cocooned, even paranoid, from ownership down."

As Chargers receiver Travis Benjamin expressed in an interview with the NFL Network, players have appreciated Lynn's nonsense approach.

"He's laid-back, calm, cool and collected," Benjamin said. "And he means what he says. And he's a players' coach, which everyone respects. He'll call you out when he needs to, and when things need to get done, he's willing to go out there and do it."

I'm not sure I agree with the players' coach part, but I understand Benjamin's sentiment. Lynn is not worried about whether players like him or not, only that they respect him.

Lynn's job is to coax, prod and cajole players into playing to their potential, by any means necessary. It's the reason he brought on a new training staff led by John Lott and implemented track workouts to improve endurance, with the hope that better conditioning will reduce soft-tissue injuries when players are fatigued late in games.

Lynn's mantra has been competition in camp. He's focused on taking care of the football and improving a special teams unit that finished last in the NFL last season.

While Lynn's emphasis on telling the truth is refreshing, the new approach will lose effectiveness if the Chargers don't win games. So we'll reassess Lynn's approach midway through the regular season to see if it's really working.

Chargers' Anthony Lynn trying to buck a trend: former running backs don't make it as head coaches

*By Dan Woike
LA Times
Friday, September 8, 2017 at 6:25 pm*

Anthony Lynn wants to make something that should be obvious very clear.

"Don't ever get me wrong," he said. "I don't compare myself to Vince Lombardi."

No one would mistake a coach without an NFL victory, one entering a season as the top man for the first time, for professional football's most iconic coach — the man for whom the Super Bowl trophy is named.

But as Lynn devoured Lombardi biography after Lombardi biography, trying to study the game's best, the Chargers' new head man found himself relating. He, like Lombardi, loved coaching the nuances of the running game. He, like Lombardi, had struggled to find a head coaching job. He, like Lombardi, thought that maybe it was related to prejudice.

"In reading those books, I was like, 'Dang, there are some similarities,'" Lynn said.

The Chargers don't need Lynn to be Lombardi. They do, however, want him to get that trophy into the building for the first time. It's a lofty goal for someone with a pedigree that hasn't often transformed into a successful NFL head coach.

Lynn is trying to buck a pair of trends that have existed since long before Lombardi — running backs don't make it as head coaches and guys who coach them usually don't make good ones, either.

Lynn spent six seasons as a back in the NFL, four with Denver, after going undrafted. Upon retiring, he immediately joined the Broncos coaching staff, beginning a 17-year odyssey to getting a head-coaching job.

"Running backs, for whatever reason, become pigeonholed," Lynn's longtime colleague Rex Ryan acknowledged.

It's a conception that's existed seemingly forever. As far as modern NFL running backs go, only former Denver coach Dan Reeves transitioned into a coach good enough to win 20 or more games.

After retiring as a player and spending two years as a special teams assistant, Lynn spent the next 14 years coaching running backs in the NFL, becoming a coordinator only after Ryan fired his offensive coordinator, Greg Roman, last season in Buffalo.

After the Bills fired Ryan, Lynn served as the head coach for the final game of the season, a loss, before being hired by the Chargers.

Ryan, who coached with Lynn for eight years in New York and Buffalo, said he knew Lynn someday would be running his own team.

"He's a star. There's no doubt he's a star. And, he's going to be a star," Ryan said. "Everything he did, man, holy [expletive], I knew I had the best coach in the league. That's how I felt."

But that's not how everyone felt, evidenced by Lynn's slow rise from positional coach.

Along the way, Lynn's frustration almost pushed him onto a more traditional path to getting a top job — coaching other positional groups in an effort to seem more diversified to NFL owners and general managers.

"I was impatient. I probably should've been more patient, but I was seeing some of my counterparts move up faster than me. At one point, I wanted to switch positions. I thought that would help me move up faster," Lynn said. "But when I looked at the running back position and the receiver position, I thought the running back position would get me more prepared.

"I'm an expert in run-game scheme. I'm an expert in protection. Protecting the quarterback is the hardest thing to do in the National Football League right now. And not only that, I'm involved in the passing game. I just felt like I was learning more at that position than if I was just coaching wideouts or coaching quarterbacks."

And, Lynn thought, if coaching running backs helped prepare Lombardi, it certainly could work for him.

Prior to becoming an icon of excellence, Lombardi — an undersized guard on the football field — orchestrated the ground game at Fordham and Army before finally being hired as the Giants' offensive coordinator.

He was 45 years old when he was hired to run the Green Bay Packers. Lynn was 48 when the Chargers hired him.

As Lynn read books like "When Pride Still Mattered" by Davis Maraniss — the one Lynn likes to recommend — he started to notice parallels that inspired him.

"I didn't know he (Lombardi) coached running backs forever. I didn't know he felt discriminated against because he was Italian — everyone was passing him up. Then he becomes an OC for a year and becomes the best coach ever," Lynn said. "I just identified with him. I loved his concepts and his philosophies. Those things you can still coach today. Those things don't get outdated."

"He was always himself," Lynn added. "He didn't try to be like his mentors. He didn't try to be like this other guy. He was always true to Vince."

While Lynn's list of mentors is deep — Texas Tech's Spike Dykes, 49ers legend Bill Walsh, Bill Parcells and Romeo Crennel — Lombardi influenced the thing about Lynn that's impressed his new players most. Be yourself.

In Maraniss' book, he notes that a pair of laminated cards served as Lombardi's bookmarks, including one that read, "Be in peace with many but let one in a thousand be thy counselor" — a verse from the book of Ecclesiastes in the Bible.

Lynn has taken that approach to his first true head-coaching job.

Learn from Walsh, Lombardi, Parcells, Crennel and Ryan — but don't try to be them.

"He knows the importance of being real," Chargers offensive lineman Matt Slauson said. "If players see that fakeness out of you, they're going to jump all over it. I've seen a lot of coaches try to emulate, say the Bill Belichick style, and it's just not them. When you see it, it's not real and it's obvious.

"You want to be who you are."

And in a short amount of time, Lynn's players have learned who he is.

They know he's competitive. They know he's compassionate to their needs as players because he was one. They know he trusts the leaders on the team to play a big role in the direction the group goes. They know he'll tell the truth.

"Don't ask him where you stand unless you can handle the answer because A. Lynn is going to tell you," Ryan warned.

And, Lynn knows to keep the "filler" to a minimum.

"If he has to say something and can do it in seven words, he's not going to use eight," Chargers safety Tre Boston said. "He doesn't like wasted movement, wasted energy. That's not him."

And, he believes he can reach anyone.

Ryan, who fittingly will be in the television booth as an analyst for Lynn's Chargers debut Monday night, remembers a running back that teams had quit trying to teach pass protection. Lynn, Ryan said, cracked that code.

"He can touch the right buttons on every single player. He's unique this way. I knew that about Anthony almost right away," Ryan said, and added, "He's very creative in the ways he'll teach."

There's a determination that Lynn possesses. It's what allowed him to keep working with running backs even if it pushed his coaching timetable back. It's how he's impacted Pro Bowlers and practice squad members. And, the Chargers hope, it's how he'll help the organization break through in Los Angeles.

Inside his office at the team's new facility in Costa Mesa, in the corner of a window that faces out to manicured green grass, there's a reminder of the formula Lynn wants to use.

On the right, there's a picture of the Lombardi that people most commonly remember — fedora, spectacles and a toothy grin. And next to the image are these words, one of Lombardi's most famous quotes: "The difference between a successful person and others is not a lack of strength, not a lack of knowledge, but rather in a lack of will."

Lynn knows his work is just beginning.

"Now is when it really starts for me," he said. "This is when you grow, when you evolve. You haven't done anything yet because if you get this and fail, it can make it worse. It starts now.

"Now, it's real."

Inside Brandon Mebane's Plant-Based Diet

By Hayley Elwood

Entering his 11th season in the NFL, Brandon Mebane decided to make a change.

After watching a series of food-documentaries that according to Mebane "all had something special" about them, Mebane decided to make the switch to a more plant-based diet. Although he said it's been harder to maintain during camp, he chose to implement the change to take control of his health and also put that new education to work.

"I wanted to look at education on the body, foods and for my kids, also," Mebane said. "The other thing is that after football, (my health) is very important (to get this weight off). During football, I wanted to try something to help my stamina so I can play longer on the field, not fatigue as quick and try to make more plays."

One of those documentaries that was the impetus for the change was What the Health? As Mebane explained on his blog last month, when he watched it, he was stunned.

"I used to think that big football players like ya boy needed meat to play effectively. However, the documentary has a number of vegan world class athletes who were at the top of their game. It was surprising to learn that we can get all the protein we need from vegetables. I haven't completely given up meat, but eating less of it has given me a new found energy. I even weigh less than I did last season. I feel explosive!"

Mebane eats three meals a day and considers his snacks "off and on." Out of those three meals, only one will contain meat. For him, it doesn't matter which meal is the meat one as he chooses it based on his mood that day and how he's feeling.

He does have a current weakness though — cookies at the training camp hotel.

"(During) lunch and dinner, I'm always putting salad on my plate along with some fruit. Then it's going around and freestyling and seeing what is around and try to figure it out."

Although the switch may seem hard, Mebane mentioned that it was actually the opposite. If it keeps him healthy and helps his game, then he's all for it.

Casey Hayward Continuing Mother's Legacy of Philanthropy

By Hayley Elwood

Mother's Day for Casey Hayward is bittersweet this year. This will be the first without his mother, Tish, after she lost her battle with breast cancer last July.

But for the cornerback, he's commemorating the holiday in a big way; continuing his mother's legacy of giving back through the family's Hayward's Hands foundation.

"Doing something in her name was nice because she was such a good person," Hayward explained. "I feel like that's the type of thing she would have done if roles were reversed. I was trying to keep this in my mom's name and do some good. We committed to giving out scholarships for the next nine years, so it's something our team decided to do."

Just over a week ago, Hayward gave away scholarships to two young women at his alma mater, Perry High School. Each was worth $5,000.

"We decided to give a couple scholarships this year to two young women who are well-deserving of the awards. They can use the scholarships for whatever they want towards school as long as they keep their grades up. It can go for books or tuition."

Hayward's Hands is a 501(c)3 non-profit which serves Perry through community and outreach programs. Along with providing scholarships, the organization hosts an annual holiday toy drive, provides free Thanksgiving dinners and runs cheer and football camps

Giving back to his hometown is an experience Hayward never gets enough of.

"It's awesome to give back. That's what it's about. Since I've been in the NFL, I always wanted to give back as much as I could. We do so much back home in Perry. It's easy to give back and show support."

Hayward and his family have heavily been involved in the foundation since its inception. But since his mother's passing, he said they are giving it a "team effort" by collectively pitching in to help as much as they can. For Hayward, honoring his mother is the least he can do after everything she did for him and those in need of help.

"It shows the type of person she was. She would always give. She would give the shirt off her back to anybody. To start the foundation, Hayward's Hands, is symbolic. It's our name and with hands, we like to touch the lives of people. Any time we can touch people and the community, we'd love to do that."

Derek Watt Scouts Younger Brother T.J. Heading into the Combine

By Hayley Elwood

It's a rare occurrence, but come the end of April, the Watt family will have three brothers playing in the NFL.

All eyes are on the youngest, T.J., this week in Indianapolis at the NFL Scouting Combine.

Although T.J. announced at the beginning of the year that he was declaring for the 2017 NFL Draft, the concept of having three brothers play in the league hadn't fully donned on Derek Watt until the Super Bowl.

"We just took a minute. Our whole family was there, and we just kind of appreciated that our hard work has paid off. In a short period of time here, that dream will come true for all three of us. It's a pretty cool feeling, that's for sure."

While he admitted he and his family never fully anticipated having three Watts in the league, Derek said the way they grew up and the work ethic that was instilled in J.J., T.J. and him doesn't make it surprising.

"It's crazy and not common at all, but we pushed each other growing up. Our dad was our coach in a lot of our sports and he pushed us hard. We wouldn't be here where we all are today without him, and our trainers and coaches who helped us throughout the way. We all have a tremendous work ethic and with (that) and pushing each other in our workouts and striving to be our best is how we got here."

Another product of Wisconsin, T.J. played linebacker from 2013-2016. After redshirting and battling through injuries, he and Derek were finally able to play on the same team again, which was something they had done many times growing up.

"We're closer in age than J.J. and I, and we lived together in college for a year and played together both in high school and college. We have that relationship of being on the same team. J.J. was always kind of envious that we had that opportunity and he never had that. It was definitely special."

Derek added that while none of them played on the same team last season, their brotherly bond was kept tight by a group chat. The three Watts would text each other after each game and provide positive feedback. As Derek put it, "We all care about each other and want to see each other do our best so we're extremely supportive."

So what will a team get in drafting T.J.?

"He's a tremendous athlete and has a lot to offer," Derek said. "His size is one of his strengths and he has a lot to bring to the table. He only has a couple years under his belt at outside linebacker, but he's taken that (position) and run with it already. I can't wait to see how he continues to develop because it will be special."

T.J. made his presence known for the Badgers this past season notching 63 tackles, 15.5 tackles for loss and 11.5 sacks. In addition, he had two forced fumbles and an interception, which he returned for a touchdown.

As Derek put it, his brother's success was not a surprise.

"I've had a front row seat to how he's developed. He played with me when I was young, and I was obviously the older guy on the teams, but he was playing. It wasn't like he was just on the team. In college, he had a couple hiccups where his injuries held him back a little bit, but really he's going to be special. In high school, he was a great player but in college he only got better."

While both Derek and J.J. have gone through the draft process, Derek said they are providing any advice they can, but are mainly eager for T.J.'s next chapter.

"We'll be extremely excited for him and will be either with him, or in extremely close contact when he has the big day and is able to get that phone call. I don't think he'll have to wait quite as long as I did, but it's going to be a special day for our entire family. It'll be emotional and it'll be that next step. We'll obviously be very proud of him, grateful and excited for the future."

J.J. Watt Proud of Younger Brother Derek

For National Sibling Day, check out this article from November of 2016 in which Houston Texans' star J.J. Watt weighed in on his younger brother, Derek.

Sunday's Week 12 match against the Houston Texan is a game fullback Derek Watt circled on his calendar the moment he was drafted. After all, it would provide a rare chance to face off against his older brother, J.J..

Unfortunately, Houston's star defensive end won't suit up as he is out for the year with a back injury. While he'll miss the game, the elder Watt couldn't be prouder of how Derek has performed over his first 10 games as he's kept a close eye on his younger brother.

The more J.J. talks, the clearer it becomes he's a fan of Derek's game not because of his name on the back of the jersey, but for how he performs on the field.

"Derek is a very versatile player who can clear out a linebacker up the middle or catch passes out on the edge. He is very smart, works extremely hard and is always willing to do whatever is best for the team. He does a great job on special teams, and it has been fun to see him and Melvin (Gordon) on the same team this year and some of the things that they have been able to accomplish together."

He then laughs, adding, "You also have to watch out for the occasional 53-yard reception."

It's an unfortunate fact that fullbacks often go unnoticed as their dirty work in the trenches gets overshadowed by the end result it produces. However, the revitalized Chargers ground attack wouldn't be as effective without Watt, as the rookie has been a key factor helping Gordon author one of the top seasons for a Chargers running back through 10 games.

At the same time, as the 53-yard catch and run against the Broncos J.J. references proved, Derek has the ability to make the splashy play when called upon. After all, it was the longest reception by a fullback in Chargers history.

Watt joined the Bolts as the 198th overall pick in the sixth round out of Wisconsin. He enjoyed a solid career in Madison, rushing 13 times for 60 yards while catching 30 passes for 309 yards and one TD. The Waukesha, Wisconsin native particularly thrived blocking, as the Badgers routinely ranked among the best rushing teams in the country over his tenure, including a pair of seasons paving the way for Melvin Gordon.

However, when he was drafted, most headlines throughout the country focused on the Bolts adding J.J.'s younger brother instead of focusing on the merits of Derek's play. It's the same issue facing the youngest brother, T.J., who has followed in the Watt family footsteps by staring at Wisconsin.

Nonetheless, Derek has established a legacy of his own as a rookie, and J.J. couldn't be prouder.

"This is one area where I am unbelievably proud of my brothers," J.J. said. "It would be very easy for them to be bitter about always being labeled 'J.J.'s brother' or always having someone bring my name up when talking about them. But the way that they have handled themselves, the way they have embraced our brotherhood while at the same time, working to create legacies of their own, is truly special. Everything that they have accomplished, they have earned. They have worked, sacrificed and given everything that they have to put themselves in the position that they are in. Nobody should ever take that away from them. We will always be brothers and we will always be proud of each other, but they deserve full credit for their successes because they earned that."

J.J. and Derek grew up extremely close as they are only three years apart in age. In fact, asked to share memories of his younger brother, the first thing that comes to mind is something many siblings can relate to.

"He loved chicken nuggets! One of the main things that I remember about growing up with Derek is that no matter where we went, no matter what restaurant we went to, he always ordered chicken nuggets. Every time."

He then pauses and gets more serious.

"The other thing that I know about Derek is how service-oriented he is. He was always extremely tough and violent on the field, but off of the field he has always done an incredible job of giving back, whether it be volunteering or hospital visits, he has always gone the extra mile to give back to those in need."

Family and football are two pillars of the Watt family. So, J.J. made sure he was able to catch Derek's last game as a high school senior as he was on a break at Wisconsin. It turned out to have a heartbreaking ending, but was a moment that bonded the two brothers.

"It's easy to talk about the good times and everyone expects a brotherhood to be strong in the good times, but one of my strongest memories between us was during his senior year of high school when I got a chance to be at his last game. Unfortunately, they lost in the playoffs. Anyone who's played high school football before knows how tough that last loss to end your senior season can be. After the game, I met him out on the field and just gave him a hug. (I) told him I'd been there before and I knew the emotions that he was feeling. I kind of let him have that moment because I knew how much work he put in and how important it was to him at the time. It's very cool to be able to share moments that we have both lived through and discuss them from a similar perspective."

Derek arrived in Madison as a freshman the same year his older brother made his debut in the NFL as the number 11 overall pick. While their college careers never overlapped, J.J. kept close tabs on how Derek was performing. It was during this time he realized his brother was also destined for a future in the NFL.

"As his career went on at Wisconsin, it became clear that he had what it takes to make it to the next level. When he picked up the fullback position so quickly after switching from defense, I knew that the playbook would never be a problem. Then as he continued to play and grow within one of the best rushing offenses in the country, you could tell that he was beginning to develop into someone who could play in the NFL."

What once seemed to be a pipedream to both play in the NFL is now a reality. J.J. is overcome with emotion each time he sees the kid who loved chicken nuggets make a big play and unleash a crushing block.

So what's it like to know his younger brother is now in the NFL?

"I have tried to come up with some elegant way to put it, but to be honest, all I can say is that it is very cool. It is one of those things that was a complete fantasy as a kid. Every young football player dreams of playing in the NFL, but to be able to play in the NFL yourself, have your brother play in the NFL and have your youngest brother playing for the #7 team in the country? That's just crazy. So it is very surreal, it is very cool and it is a testament to what hard work and dedication can accomplish."

From cruises to Zac Brown Band concerts, the Watt family album reveals tight bonds

By Jeremy Fowler

Wednesday, June 7, 2017

The NFL has an unlikely pipeline in Pewaukee, Wisconsin, home of three draft picks bearing the same last name.

But football is only part of the Watt family blueprint.

Brothers J.J., T.J. and Derek Watt have bonded over European vacations and country concerts. They've shared packed rental cars on family trips to Florida. They drive one another to improve on the field and support one another off it.

J.J. Watt, the three-time defensive player of the year, appreciated that reality on an April conference call with Pittsburgh media after T.J. was drafted by the Steelers in the first round.

"It's just a blast to watch each other have success," J.J. said.

T.J., 22, and Derek, 24 -- selected by the Los Angeles Chargers in the sixth round in 2016 -- aren't just the younger brothers of J.J., 28. They're promising NFL players in their own right. But they always have J.J.'s back, including as his fake "security team" when fans swarm the megastar on family cruises.

The Watts agreed to share a few photos of moments that helped shape them. ESPN got the story behind each one.

A goalpost and a proud grandpa

J.J. Watt came back to Pewaukee for a few days in 2011, the year he was drafted by the Houston Texans, so the family decided to take to the local field for a photo op. The brothers savor the memories from that day because of their special guest in the picture, their grandpa Jim, who died in February 2014.

T.J. Watt, Pittsburgh Steelers outside linebacker: "We actually took my grandpa up there when my grandpa was still alive. He was our biggest fan. He was at every single practice, every single game. We thought it would be cool to get a photo shoot with everyone in the family and grandpa in his No. 1 Pewaukee jersey to match what we had. It was just really special. We're always so busy, we never have the time to take pictures."

Derek Watt, Los Angeles Chargers fullback: "Everyone [in town] knew who he was, and he always had on the Pirates gear. I know how much he meant to us all. There's also a photo from that day of my mom taking a snap, and we're in the Wing-T formation."

*J.J. Watt, Houston Texans defensive end: "How proud [Jim] was of what my brothers and I were able to do for our family name ... that's why we go out there and try to live our life the right way and work hard and do things the way we do things: because we want to make our family proud."

T.J. Watt: "Very, very ugly mohawks."

A very public water excursion

The Watt family loves cruises. They take one every year. This 2014 trip happened as Wisconsin basketball was playing Kentucky in the Final Four. J.J.'s star status presented a few roadblocks, but the three brothers eventually found a quiet spot to watch the game in their fresh Badgers gear (UK won 74-73). They also found time to appreciate their prospective football paths: Derek was entering the season as Wisconsin's starting fullback, and T.J. had signed with Wisconsin a year earlier.

T.J. Watt: "We can't do cruises anymore, because J.J.'s too dang famous. You get trapped on the boat. We had to find our secret hideouts. We always make the best of each moment. My parents have been on so many cruises that they have lounges they have access to."

Derek Watt: "When we were younger, T.J. and I would act like we were [J.J.'s] security team. Once he's noticed by a bunch of people, it gets crazy. He loves the fans and handles it great. Sometimes we like to eat dinner in private, but fans are usually really good about it."

'Modern-day gladiators'

Last summer, J.J. took his brothers to Europe for a 15-day excursion to Dublin, Paris, London and Rome. The goal? "See the world," J.J. said. For three football players, checking out the Colosseum was high on the agenda.

J.J. Watt: "We'd be awake in the middle of the night, and we'd be sleeping in the middle of the day, but we'd always find time to train. We went on a jog down the Champs-Élysées [in Paris] by the Arc de Triomphe. We did a workout in this awesome weight room in London that overlooked Big Ben. It was really cool just kind of finding these gyms and being able to experience these incredible things and see all these landmarks and sights all over the world and realize how far we've come but at the same time not forget why we get to do all these cool things."

Derek Watt: "That was the highlight of the trip: learning about the gladiators and what they did in the Colosseum. I guess we called ourselves modern-day gladiators. This was their arena where they performed."

J.J. Watt: "I'm hoping now that [T.J.'s] been drafted, he can take me and Derek on a trip sometime."

Always room for one more vacation

The Watts did not have an extravagant upbringing, but the family prioritized killer family vacations and weekend getaways. John Watt, a firefighter lieutenant, sometimes logged overtime hours to make sure the trips were top-shelf. In this picture, the Watts are enjoying a slow weekend at a Devil's Lake cabin outside Madison, Wisconsin.

T.J. Watt: "Those family trips are really important. I think we will remember them forever. Our parents were extremely hard workers."

Derek Watt: "Those trips were normal to us, but now that we're older, we know not everyone gets those things. That's why we're so close as a family."

Country music and playground games

The Watts have similar interests. Football and country music are high priorities for the three brothers. A few summers ago, J.J. blended those two worlds by taking his brothers to a Zac Brown Band concert at the Alpine Valley Music Theatre in East Troy, Wisconsin. Things got weird backstage.

Derek Watt: "We played four square with the band until 3 a.m. Things got pretty intense. We really wanted to win. There was supposed to be a whiffle ball game, but the band started putting the lines out, and next thing you know, we're playing four square."

T.J. Watt: "J.J. is really good friends with Zac. To hang out as a group in a relaxed setting and not talk football was special. Zac Brown is always lights-out."

Island perspective

Derek believes this picture took place at SeaWorld Orlando, which reminded him of driving around central Florida in an undersized rental car with luggage on his lap. The Watts were making a pit stop on the way to the coast for another cruise, which got T.J. thinking years later.

T.J. Watt: "You go to new beaches every day, and it's a lot of fun, but it allowed us to not take things for granted. You go to all these cities and these islands and you see what people are living in and going through, and it really puts things in perspective when you get back on a billion-dollar cruise ship and eat whatever you want to eat. You'd go to these villages and bargain for a wooden sculpture, and it reminds you: This guy works for hours, and he only gets $5 for this sculpture."

Chargers rookies Forrest Lamp and Dan Feeney are roommates and study buddies

By Eric Williams

SAN DIEGO -- During the pre-draft process at the Senior Bowl and the NFL scouting combine, offensive linemen Forrest Lamp and Dan Feeney developed into fast friends.

Lamp said the easygoing Feeney reminded him of teammates back at Western Kentucky. The two exchanged numbers and kept in touch, never really expecting they would become teammates.

But that's what happened on Day 2 of the draft, with the Los Angeles Chargers selecting Lamp in the second round and Feeney in the third round.

"It makes it a lot easier when you know somebody," Lamp said. "I got drafted in the second and I saw Dan get drafted right after me. And as soon as I saw that I texted him and said, 'It's great to be teammates.'"

Not only are the two teammates, they're now roommates in a hotel near the team's practice facility in Chargers Park, as the team spends one final month in San Diego before moving operations to Costa Mesa, California.

"He's a pretty good roommate, so it's been pretty solid so far," Feeney said about Lamp. "He's pretty clean -- there's been no issues with that."

The additions of Lamp and Feeney are part of a revamped offensive line for the Chargers. General manager Tom Telesco stood pat at offensive line in 2016. With a combined salary of $20.3 million last season, the front five did not play to that potential in terms of production.

The Chargers nearly had a 1,000-yard rusher, with Melvin Gordon finishing 3 yards away from that milestone. And quarterback Philip Rivers managed to make the Pro Bowl, throwing for 4,386 yards and 33 touchdowns.

However, the Chargers had trouble consistently controlling the line of scrimmage last season. They averaged just 3.8 rushing yards per carry, No. 26 in the NFL. And Rivers was under siege at times, getting sacked 36 times (tied for 19th in the NFL).

Telesco released three offensive line starters in left tackle King Dunlap, right guard D.J. Fluker and left guard Orlando Franklin during the offseason. Meanwhile, the Chargers signed Russell Okung to a lucrative four-year, $53 million deal as the team's new left tackle. New head coach Anthony Lynn said he will have an open competition at left guard, center and right guard.

For now, Okung and Joe Barksdale are penciled in as the Chargers' left and right tackles. Last season's center, Matt Slauson, has worked at left guard during offseason workouts -- the same place he played for the New York Jets when Lynn served as their running backs coach.

Spencer Pulley, an undrafted rookie out of Vanderbilt last season, has worked at center during offseason workouts and Lamp spent time at right guard during rookie minicamp.

Last year's third-round pick, Max Tuerk, is expected to compete for the starting center job, while players like Kenny Wiggins, Donovan Clark and Feeney should also be in the mix to compete for time.

Lynn said the work Lamp and Feeney put in together on the field over the weekend in preparation for the first time the two will practice with the veterans on Tuesday served them well.

"With all of our communication and protection schemes we run, as rookies it's important for those guys to get into the huddle, break the huddle, get to the line, go up against those fronts and make their line calls," Lynn said. "Because things change at the line of scrimmage, so that's important for us."

"We think [Feeney] can play center for us. We've got two guards and a center position where we're kind of looking at different combinations, and he's definitely in the mix."

Lamp and Feeney were both four-year starters at their respective schools and are familiar with zone and power-run schemes, so that should ease the transition to offensive coordinator Ken Whisenhunt's scheme.

Lamp played three games at guard his freshman year before moving out to left tackle, where he spent the rest of his time at Western Kentucky. Feeney played right guard and right tackle at Indiana.

The two started a combined 97 games in college, so their durability -- something that has been a problem for the team's offensive line the last two seasons -- should not be a major concern for the Chargers.

Lamp and Feeney have used their time together as roommates to help get down the playbook.

"Absolutely," Feeney said. "I think that's one of the best ways to study -- saying it out loud and talking in your own language, and then you're like, 'Oh yeah, that makes more sense.' When you say it yourself, it just clicks differently."

Feeney understands that he and Lamp have been brought in to compete for starting jobs.

"We're football players, and we want to get out on the field and play -- that's out biggest thing," Feeney said. "But we've got to do whatever the team needs. And if they want us to get a little stronger and work on our technique instead of playing every game, so be it. But you've got to keep that competitive edge and want to play every time."

Former Notre Dame Co-Captains Reunite as Chargers Rookies

By Ricky Henne

Nearly 30 minutes have passed since practice ended, and Notre Dame's defensive captains Isaac Rochell and James Onwualu remain tucked away in the corner of the locker room, actively rehashing the day's work.

Only they aren't in South Bend, nor part of the team's veteran leadership.

Instead, the former Golden Domers are rehashing Saturday's early morning practice during the Chargers' rookie mini camp. The Bolts drafted Rochell, a 6-4, 280-pound defensive end, in the seventh round while Onwualu, a 6-1, 242-pound outside linebacker, signed as an undrafted free agent.

"I tell people (having him here) is a game changer," Rochell said. "Just the comfortability of having somebody I'm close with here to decompress after practice and learn the defense with makes it easier."

"He's somebody I can rely on just to be honest," Onwualu added. "We hold each other accountable. We've built that (trust) through four years. Having him on the field with me every single snap, I can look at him and he'll push me to keep on going. We have that bond together we built in college. And like he mentioned, learning the defense could be a steep learning curve. Being able to help each other take that step, which is a difficult thing for a lot of the rookies, definitely helps."

The pair first met over five years ago during the recruiting process to Notre Dame.

"When I was being recruited they told me, 'You are going to be great friends with Isaac Rochell,'" Onwualu recalled. "I had just finished up a mission trip, and so did he. We were doing similar things in high school and had similar interests. We became friends early on and got closer throughout college."

Their relationship grew tighter each season, especially last year as the two served as the team's only defensive captains during a rocky season in South Bend. After going through those trials and tribulations side-by-side, they trust one another to lean on when times get tough.

As fate would have it, both players were in Manhattan on the final day of the draft. It was only fitting that they celebrated their NFL future together over a home cooked meal Onwualu's mother cooked at his brother's apartment.

"I was drafted and left to get something to eat," Rochell said. "Then he texted me something like, 'See you in Cali!' I got super hyped! I called him and he told me he was coming out here, so I was super excited. We were in the same city, so we celebrated together. That's what's crazy. We worked out together from our Pro Day until the draft. Every day we were getting together stressed over where we were going to go. Then we end up on the same team. It's just crazy."

While Rochell learned his future in the seventh round, Onwualu had a decision to make once the draft ended.

The linebacker didn't lack for suitors.

In fact, 17 teams contacted him when the draft ended offering him a contract, but there was no doubt in his mind he had to don the lightning bolt. Not only does he believe Defensive Coordinator Gus Bradley's system suits him to a tee, but he also grew up a fan of the team.

"I still have LaDainian Tomlinson's poster above my bed," he laughed. "I've been a Chargers fan since I was younger. I was a running back growing up, and he was my favorite player. Then I made a visit earlier in the process with the Chargers, and met the coaches. They explained to me where they saw me fit, and I saw an opportunity to help the team. I'm excited to be part of the organization, and help the team as they make the transition to L.A."

Chargers rookie Isaac Rochell has come a long way since 'hating' football

The bright beams of sunlight were making it hard to be outside for long stretches without sweating through a shirt.

In 2006, Isaac Rochell stood on a football field outside of Atlanta. He looked around at his peers, worshippers of one of the South's favorite religions, and thought, "This might not be for me."

The bright beams of sunlight were making it hard to be outside for long stretches without sweating through a shirt.

In 2006, Isaac Rochell stood on a football field outside of Atlanta. He looked around at his peers, worshippers of one of the South's favorite religions, and thought, "This might not be for me."

"I hated it," he said.

Then Rochell became a Charger — at Eagles Landing Christian Academy — right as he was learning to love a game his body would be built for.

Sunday, the 6-foot-4, 280-pound Rochell will take the field as a Charger again, this time as a professional, a seventh-round defensive lineman from Notre Dame with no guarantees of a spot on the final 53-man roster.

It's an extended job interview for one of around 50 guys competing for the 10 or so available roster spots.

"Half of us won't have a job (at the end of camp), essentially. I definitely think about that," Rochell said. "If someone tells you they're not, they're either making way more money than I am or they're lying. That's just the truth of it."

Rochell is part of a Chargers rookie class consisting of seven drafted players and a handful more of undrafted ones, including his teammate at Notre Dame, James Onwualu.

Training camp will cap a process that Rochell called "super-duper stressful" — a transition from someone playing football to someone earning a living from football. It has included the Senior Bowl, the NFL Scouting Combine, pro days, private workouts, interviews and finally a seven-round stomach-torturing event, the NFL draft.

From there, rookies almost immediately get thrust into minicamp and then offseason practices as they start to try and prove why they should be one of 53.

"It doesn't consume my thoughts. At the end of the day, I have to play well. I have to get better. And, I have to set up myself up for success," Rochell said. "Thinking about that stuff doesn't help anything — but inevitably, you think about it."

The Chargers' evaluators don't mind their players thinking about their professional futures because they're thinking about their professional futures, too.

"For all of these guys, you're not on scholarship anymore," Chargers general manager Tom Telesco said. "This is what you do for a living. Everybody that comes here is coming to take someone else's job. That's just the way it is."

Rochell said he understands that mentality — it's a must for him if he's going to succeed in the NFL.

"When you're getting recruited, those teams owe you something," he said. "Here, it's now your responsibility to prove your worth. You're not owed anything."

That's how a seventh-round pick should think. For a first-round pick, like Mike Williams, things are a little different.

Slowed by a lower-back injury, Williams doesn't have to worry about earning a spot on the team. He'll have one — and loads of guaranteed cash — since the Chargers invested the No. 7 overall pick on him.

The team is hopeful he can avoid surgery on the back, steps that can be aided if Williams can make the smooth transition from Clemson Tiger to pro. And, with Williams placed on the active/physically unable to perform list Saturday, he's going to have to find other ways to stay involved.

"One thing I talked to him about ... mentally, if you're out here and not practicing, it's going to be hard on you," Telesco said. "But, he's young and I think he can handle it. He's said all the right things. We'll have a plan together as far as his rehab is concerned and he's got to stay on top of the details."

"This is his job now."

Williams has already been hired. Rochell's just trying to secure his spot.

He's got other skills — he used to build fences all around the family's farm. He helped raise cows and goats. He's fed the pigs.

But since falling hard for football, the dreams have changed. He'd rather use his quickness to get around an offensive guard to get to the quarterback, or his strength to beat a tight end and blow up a rushing play on the outside. He'd rather be immersed in a locker room and play in front of the Los Angeles Chargers' first crowds.

Wanting that job, though, and getting it are two very different things.

"You know there's a potential of guys getting fired," Rochell said. "That might intensify things."

Chargers linebacker Jatavis Brown focuses on proving doubters wrong and believers right

By Dan Woike
LA Times
September 22, 2017 at 3:50 pm

The ride to the game is a calm, peaceful, spiritual one.

Jatavis Brown, the Chargers' second-year linebacker, will tune into gospel music — a fitting start to a Sunday that has him playing in some of football's holiest cathedrals. It relaxes Brown, he says.

Described by teammates as a "laid-back dude," Brown speaks with a soft voice and wears a polite, kind smile — until he walks out onto the field for Sunday's first sweat.

The gospel is nowhere to be found. The headphones, they blare Lil' Boosie, a Southern rapper with lyrics that probably need to come with a nonstop ticket to confession. From "Mind of a Maniac" to "Loose as a Goose," a song that's not about zoology, it's what Brown uses while he gets his mind right.

He's not the only person in the NFL to undergo this transformation — it's a necessary duality that allows rational people to fling their bodies against one another at top speeds. And, it's a necessary transformation to get Brown to the place he needs to be to accomplish his lone mission.

"Sunday is game day. I'm all focused about business and my one goal is to win," he said. "Once you go out there, you just flip."

Whether Boosie or the Bible, whatever Brown's been doing, it's working. Through two weeks, he's the NFL's leading tackler, using his speed and toughness to make up for a 5-foot-11, 212-pound frame that might be considered "undersized."

But players such as Brown are not concerned with prototypes.

From the football-crazy state of Florida, Brown desperately wanted to play football at Miami — the Harvard Law of linebacking. Trouble was, they didn't want him. In fact, no one in Florida wanted Brown. He didn't receive a single scholarship offer from a state school.

Akron, though, saw something in the two-star recruit, and it didn't take long for him to pay back their investment. After he adjusted to winter ("A Florida kid up in the cold? It wasn't a match," he said), Brown became one of the best players in the Mid-American Conference. He had more than 100 tackles as a sophomore and after his senior season, he was named the MAC's top defender.

But when it came time for the NFL draft, executives called 174 names before the Chargers selected Brown in the fifth round. He was happy to have a new home and upset it took so long.

"I'm always going to have that," Brown said. "Of course, everyone felt like they should go in the first round. I'm one of those guys that feel like that. I should've gone higher. But, it is what it is."

He won't be the only player Sunday who feels that way when the Chargers host Kansas City. Chiefs rookie running back Kareem Hunt, the NFL's leading rusher through two weeks, lasted until the 86th overall pick, after starring in the MAC at Toledo. Chargers starting safety Jahleel Addae didn't even hear his name called in the draft after playing at Central Michigan. Only Kansas City offensive lineman Eric Fisher — the MAC's only No. 1 overall pick ever — can't claim he was overlooked because of his road to the NFL.

"You get a chip on your shoulder," Addae said. "As a competitor, no matter who you are, you think you deserve to be drafted or to go to a big school. When it comes down to it and decisions are made and you're not one of the guys you thought you were going to be, I think it drives you. I think it fuels you.

"And, I think you can see that in how Jatavis goes about his business."

Brown's nowhere near being a finished product. Last Sunday against Miami, Brown was beaten by wide receiver Kenny Stills for Miami's lone touchdown. Still, he was in the play athletically, one of the reasons defensive coordinator Gus Bradley is so high on him.

Bradley said the Jaguars, where he previously worked, were very high on Brown's potential and thought he'd be a great fit in his defense. And, when he had the chance to coach the Chargers, seeing Brown helped make the decision easier.

"We thought he was a great fit for this system," Bradley said.

Like Addae, Bradley sees the chip on Brown's shoulder — the Boosie side — and he knows it can't be helped.

"It's in him," Bradley said. "That's why he's made it. That's the only way he knows."

But there's another side of that the Chargers are hoping Brown sees.

"Some coaches would say, 'I want players that have a chip on their shoulder because they're always trying to prove people wrong.' My thing with Jatavis was — how about proving people right?" Bradley said. "We believe in you. Your teammates believe in you. Prove us right."

Sunday, after the musical prayers are sent to the heavens in his black Range Rover on the ride to StubHub Center, Brown will put the headphones on, focusing on proving the doubters wrong and the believers right.

"Welcome to the mind of a maniac," the lyrics will say.

Brown will get to where he needs to be — from Florida to Ohio, from the MAC to the NFL, from gospel to Boosie.

"The whole experience," he said, "the whole route getting here — when I look back on it, I know everything happened for a reason."

From GoT to GOAT: Joey Bosa's Impending Stardom Has No Limits

By Dan Pompei
Bleacher Report

COSTA MESA, California — Picture Joey Bosa as a Dothraki warrior—shirtless, hair pulled back in a tight bun, leather wraps around his forearms, straps around his chest. Visualize him swinging an arakh in the shadow of dragons, charging toward an army of White Walkers and wights.

It could happen.

Bosa, the Chargers defensive end and reigning Defensive Rookie of the Year, loves him some Game of Thrones. He has watched the entire series in sequence twice and has seen many of the episodes more times than that. He currently is reading the first volume of A Song of Ice and Fire, the book series that Game of Thrones is based on.

Of course, being famous and connected and right around the corner from Hollywood, Bosa could take his interest beyond observation. His agency also represents the wildly popular HBO show. So he and his agent, Brian Ayrault of Creative Artists Agency, have talked about having Bosa make a cameo appearance on Thrones, as fellow CAA client and Mets pitcher Noah Syndergaard has.

At 6'5", 280 pounds, with a warrior's nose and chin, Bosa has the look of a character conjured from a glorious imagination. It is as easy to envision him on a battlefield outside King's Landing as it is on a battlefield in the StubHub Center.

"Having an opportunity to meet the actors and be a part of my favorite show would be awesome," he says.

Just don't give him any lines.

"Maybe one day. But as of now, no chance. I'm just not good at [acting]," he says. "I'll either start laughing at myself if I'm trying to be serious, or I think I look super corny and won't take myself seriously. I've tried all the time when we do video shoots. When they tell me to show some personality, I never like doing any of that. I'm awkward out there."

Bosa may have star written all over him, but you wouldn't know to hear him tell it. He is a little shy and most comfortable around his family.

He may be living and playing in the shadows of Hollywood now, but he is a football player, and really, except for a cameo, that's all he wants to be.

His best friend is his brother, Nick Bosa, the Ohio State sophomore defensive end who is likely to be a high first-round pick in the 2019 draft. Joey and Nick play the same position as their father, John, who also was a first-round pick. Joey went third overall last year; John went 16th overall to the Dolphins in 1987.

Mom Cheryl passed along football genes too. Her brother Eric Kumerow also was a first-round defensive end—the Dolphins chose him 16th overall in 1988. Cheryl's biological father was Palmer Pyle, a sixth-round pick of the Baltimore Colts in 1959 who played guard.

So Joey was born for this.

Legend has it that in the 1920s three mobsters ran afoul of Al Capone's gang. As street justice would have it, they came across a man with a baseball bat, and they paid for their indiscretions with their lives. The man wielding the bat allegedly was Tony Accardo, aka "Joe Batters."

Accardo, who rose to become boss of the Chicago mafia in the 1940s and '50s, is Bosa's great-grandfather on his mom's side.

You think Bosa is tough? "You block him once, it won't happen again," says Larry Johnson, Bosa's position coach at Ohio State. "He will come twice as hard. That's the kind of guy he is, a fierce competitor."

Johnson says when Bosa is finished playing, his name will be among the best pass-rushers ever. Ohio State coach Urban Meyer has seen 62 of his players drafted and once told The Audible podcast that Bosa may be the best player he's ever coached. Chargers coach Anthony Lynn told John Clayton that Bosa wants to be the best to ever play the game, and he has a chance to be.

Since Bosa's first game in Week 5 of last season, the only player in the NFL with more sacks is Vic Beasley of the Falcons. Bosa and Calais Campbell of the Jaguars each have 12.5, while Beasley has 16.5.

Bosa is the Chargers' hope for the future. If they are going to claim a city that is ambivalent to them and if they are going to reverse the standings in the AFC West, Bosa almost certainly will have to lead the charge.

But he won't be doing it on Hollywood Boulevard. He lives on a quiet street in a suburb populated mostly by families, and he's in his element there.

Mom taught him how to cook, so now a typical night may include grocery shopping and cooking skirt steak, pasta and broccoli for one while watching Food Network or South Park. Bosa has not met a single celeb since moving to the City of Angels. And that's cool with him.

His focus is on being the best player he can be and making his team the best it can be.

"We are trying to win football games and win the division," Bosa says. "Along with that, we'll win fans and win the city of L.A."

He knows he can't take seven kingdoms at once, however. It's one battle at a time for Bosa.

There have been comparisons to the great J.J. Watt.

Derek Watt, Bosa's teammate, will tell you Bosa reminds him a little of his brother. "Both are dominant players," the fullback says. "They both use their hands very well. They both are relentless and do whatever they can to get to the quarterback."

Bosa also has been compared to Jeff Spicoli, the stoner surfer played by Sean Penn in the 1982 movie Fast Times at Ridgemont High.

Prior to the 2016 draft, Bruce Feldman of Foxsports.com quoted an unnamed scout who said Bosa reminded him of Spicoli.

Bosa talks in a deep-pitched, slow-cadenced, singsongy, surfer-dude kind of way.

"I don't see the [facial] resemblance, but I get the resemblance in the voice," Bosa says. "I'll take it. People have been called worse."

And then, as if on cue, Chargers safety Jahleel Addae walks by. He is one of Bosa's many friends who does a Bosa imitation.

Addae (with Spicolian inflection): "What's up, Joe?"

Bosa (more Spicoli-ish than usual), imitating the imitators: "Hey, Joey."

Bosa, who also has been called "Joey Bro-sa," is in on the joke.

"He's a meathead, but he's a football meathead," the scout told Feldman.

But really, he is no meathead at all. Unless, that is, meatheads score 37 on the Wonderlic (the average is 20). Of course, Bosa had taken a practice test before taking the Wonderlic at the combine, as any well prepared prospect would. On the practice test, he scored a 39.

At Ohio State, Bosa majored in business finance and had a 3.0 grade-point average.

Like Spicoli, Bosa enjoys the beach. But he's not a surfer dude. Bosa would rather lie on the sand than ride a wave.

He does not have Spicoli's stoner eyes. However, his eyes are very interesting. The right is blue; the left is green—a benign genetic condition called heterochromia.

The longer you look into those eyes, the more you see.

Backflips have come easy to Bosa since he was in high school. He started doing them in the ocean at the point where the water drops and then on a trampoline. He hasn't tried one in a while but is certain he could nail it.

His offseason mission was to become even more athletic. Bosa hired former Chargers assistant Todd Rice to be his full-time trainer. Rice focuses on pliability and has helped Bosa improve his flexibility, speed, explosiveness and lean muscle mass. In the process, Bosa also has eliminated what had become chronic back and knee pain.

He often works out with his trainer in the gym in his garage, about a 15-minute drive from the Chargers' Costa Mesa training facility. His gym is done up right, with dumbbells up to 120 pounds, a half rack with weights, a squat trainer, a back extension machine, a bench-press bench, a lat pulldown apparatus and a seated row machine.

"It was an investment," he says.

While his teammates were sweating and learning and bonding during the first five weeks of OTAs and minicamp under their new coaching staff, Bosa was in Florida working with his trainer.

"Let's just say the guy I'm working with, I like being able to do my work with him," he says. "When it's not mandatory, I'd like to continue doing what I know is working really well."

Most young players wouldn't be so bold. Bosa, however, has shown he is not timid about standing apart if he feels it's best.

After Bosa and three teammates were suspended for the first game of the 2015 season at Ohio State for a rules violation, Bosa moved out of the apartment he shared with running back Ezekiel Elliott to live by himself. Elliott had been his roommate since he walked on campus, but Bosa needed to be away from noise, away from temptation.

When he and his agent didn't like the contract the Chargers were offering (it included a partial deferral of his signing bonus), Bosa sat out minicamp, training camp and the preseason.

Bosa will be his own man.

"I think first of all, it has to do with the great support I've always had from my family in anything I do," he says. "Then I think it has to do with me having confidence in what I'm doing so I can feel comfortable standing up for what I am doing and who I am."

But when Bosa is with his teammates, he is all-in. A few of Bosa's teammates, including linebacker Kyle Emanuel, often follow him in his stretching routines.

"A really good teammate" is what Chargers defensive tackle Brandon Mebane calls him.

Every week, Johnson gathers his defensive linemen in a meeting room in Columbus and shows them tape of how Bosa performed for the Chargers the previous weekend. This, he tells them, is how to do it.

"It reminds them you have a tool box, and if you can use all your tools and be consistent with them, you can have success," Johnson says.

Of all the things that make Bosa special, his technique and hand use are the most significant. It was Johnson who flipped the switch for Bosa. The 21-year college coaching veteran taught Bosa the same techniques he taught Courtney Brown, Jimmy Kennedy, Tamba Hali and many others.

When Johnson became the Buckeyes defensive line coach after Bosa's freshman year in 2013, the two of them watched about 750 plays of Bosa from the previous season. Then Johnson told Bosa he needed a narrower stance, more hip flexibility and greater hand speed. He taught Bosa drills to achieve the goals, and Bosa worked them over and over and over.

He still does.

During one practice in camp this summer, Bosa watched Mebane's rush from the sideline. He thought he saw a way for him to be more effective.

"He told me to swing my hips more," Mebane says.

It speaks to Bosa's self-assuredness that he is giving a tip to Mebane, a 32-year-old and 11-year veteran. And it also speaks to his understanding.

"I have not seen anyone with his feel for the game at such a young age," Mebane says. "It was almost like he had some kind of advanced placement classes for football."

His go-to moves are a power rush, an inside counter and swipes on the outside. And then he has an array of hand moves and reactions with those pass rushes. He is a stickler about being able to rush the same way from the left or right, which is important because new Chargers defensive coordinator Gus Bradley is deploying Bosa in multiple positions.

"Not only does he have a variety of pass-rush moves, but he's good at them," Bradley says. "You usually see guys with just speed. He can use speed to power, jump cut and come inside. He has a good, instinctive feel for it."

Instinct and dedication are a powerful combination.

Bradley says Bosa is "24 hours" in his approach and that he works as if every day is Sunday.

"He's very regimented," he says. "Everything is a routine. If something works for him, he doesn't want to get away from it."

Doing the same thing over and over is the essence of Bosa. It's why he was able to have a two-sack performance in his NFL debut after missing so much time. It's why he didn't have any performance valleys last season. And it's why he is the last player anyone suspects will have a sophomore slump.

"From a mental aspect, he's really good at not letting outside factors affect him," Emanuel says. "That was evident last year with the contract thing, coming in late and what he was able to do throughout the season. It was really impressive."

Bosa shares personality traits with a number of the characters on Game of Thrones. The focus and honor of Jon Snow is evident in Bosa. You can see Davos Seaworth, loyal and wise, in him. He could even be compared to the cunning and ruthless Tywin Lannister.

But he not exactly like any of them. "Really, I'd like to think I don't relate to any of these crazy characters," Bosa says. "It's hard to put one personality on one of them because it changes so rapidly on the show. You love somebody, and then the next episode, you despise them."

The character he relates most to, he says, is Gregor Clegane, The Mountain. The massive Clegane is an intimidating, domineering force for which foes have no answer.

The Mountain doesn't have much to say. It's just the type of role Bosa might want on the show.

And just the type of force he is becoming in the NFL.

Chargers' Slauson wants to pay it forward

By Dan Woike
LA Times

Following one of the Chargers' final minicamp practices of the summer, Matt Slauson found some shade and started to work through all the tape holding his gear in place. His ankles, wrists, fingers were more Scotch than skin, and the process looked tedious.

But asked about the players who have influenced him most, Slauson ran through a list of former teammates with ease.

"Branden Moore, Nick Mangold, Alan Faneca, Damien Woody ..."

One by one, he named the players more experienced than he was when he walked into the New York Jets' offensive line meeting room after being picked in the sixth round of the 2009 draft.

"Every day I think about those guys and what they taught me," Slauson said. "It's why I'm still in the game today — because of them."

Now entering his eighth professional season, Slauson is in a position to pay all of that forward.

The Chargers will enter this season with an overhauled offensive line. Three starters from last year — tackle King Dunlap and guards Orlando Franklin and D.J. Fluker — have been released. Three of the team's seven draft picks were used on offensive lineman. Their biggest offseason acquisition, Russell Okung, plays left tackle.

The shakeup was in the works nearly all offseason, with coach Anthony Lynn talking about it during the NFL Scouting Combine and at the league's annual meetings a month later.

"We're going to play around with that puzzle," he said of the line.

The puzzle, it turns out, gets easier to solve when you have a player such as Slauson.

While playing for Nebraska in college, Slauson moved all over the offensive line. His role with the Jets was on the interior, where he played left guard. That remained his primary position until he started a handful of games at center for the Bears.

After being released by Chicago, Slauson signed with the Chargers and took to his new position, snapping the ball to Philip Rivers on nearly every down during the 2016 season. This offseason, he has slid back to left guard, with Spencer Pulley and rookie Dan Feeney taking the bulk of the first-team reps at center.

"Every young guy is taught when you come into the league, if you're not the solidified starter in one spot, you've got to be able to play them all," Slauson said. "Even now, that's what we're telling guys. ... You have to play all over the board. And I believe it helps a lot. Then you get to learn the offense and what we're trying to accomplish as a group instead of just learning that one spot."

Though Lynn said it's difficult to evaluate offensive line play before the team puts on pads and starts hitting, the new group of linemen is laying a foundation for some necessary continuity and cohesion.

"Everything we're doing now is building towards that. Now, when the pads come on, the timing is going to be a little bit different," Slauson said. "But, right now, I'm getting to learn how Russell works, how he wants to step. He's getting to learn my timing of getting into a fit and how we communicate together. All that stuff is really important at this time. Now when the pads come on, everything is going to get notched up a little bit."

Versatility on the line was something the Chargers clearly wanted in their young offseason acquisitions. Second-round pick Forrest Lamp starred at tackle before moving inside to guard this summer. Feeney, a third-round pick, played all three positions in college, and sixth-round selection Sam Tevi can work at either right or left tackle.

Lamp and Feeney, in particular, have impressed Slauson with their instincts and aggression — two of the most important qualities in an offensive lineman.

"They play great with their hands, and that's really hard for young guys to do — to have the confidence to throw your hands out there and really try to get all over a guy," he said.

Young linemen are often more reactive to the defense, trying to figure out where their assignment is going instead of simply knocking them off course right away.

"These young guys are all about taking the fight to them. It's really impressive that they already have that demeanor," Slauson said. "As far as how they move and react, when things start really going and they're throwing exotic blitzes, they react in the correct ways. That just doesn't really happen."

In some part, their long-term success will be contingent on Slauson's ability to convey the lessons he learned from the vets in New York, lessons he has used to make his job on the offensive line a career.

"I think a lot of it is just the 'want to' of the younger guys, looking at the older guys and asking, 'What did they do that got them here?'" he said. "It's trying to emulate those kinds of guys. And, obviously, versatility is huge, but it's also how they approach the game, how they approach every day, how are they a pro, what does being a pro mean and what does that look like. It's just doing that."

"... Ten years down the line when I'm done, when I'm watching them play from the couch, I'm going to be like, 'I was a part of it.'"

Melvin Gordon is happy that his father, and biggest supporter, is out of prison

By Mike DiGiovanna

There is not a hint of anger in Melvin Gordon's voice or condemnation in his words, only gratitude for a father who "kept food on the table for me and my mom and kept a roof over our heads," the Chargers running back says.

That his father provided for the family by selling cocaine, which led to a drug-trafficking charge and a five-year stint in federal prison, has remarkably left Gordon neither conflicted nor confused.

"You know what? Everyone makes mistakes; no one in this world is perfect," Gordon, 24, said. "The quicker you understand that, the faster you forgive."

"Some people are put in positions of making decisions they need to make for their family to survive. As a kid, you understand that. But I'm in a position now where he doesn't have to make bad decisions anymore."

Gordon — a 6-foot-1, 215-pound bundle of brute strength, breakaway speed and long, flowing dreadlocks — was a 2014 Heisman Trophy finalist at Wisconsin, racking up 4,915 yards rushing and 49 touchdowns in four seasons and setting a then-NCAA record with 408 yards rushing against Nebraska.

A first-round pick of the Chargers in 2015, Gordon struggled as a rookie, rushing for 641 yards with no touchdowns and six fumbles before emerging as one of the NFL's most promising young backs in 2016, rushing 254 times for 997 yards and 10 touchdowns and catching 41 passes for 419 yards and two touchdowns.

Gordon's father, who is also named Melvin but goes by "Big Bo," was instrumental in Gordon's development as a football player.

When Gordon was barely old enough to snap chinstrap to helmet, Big Bo would rummage through garbage cans for empty water bottles and set them up as cones in a park near their house. Gordon zigzagged through the agility course, working on cuts and bursts.

Bo set up a weight room in the basement of their Kenosha, Wis., home and monitored Gordon's strength and conditioning program through high school. Bo dissected video of NFL greats with Gordon, stressing the elusiveness of Barry Sanders and toughness of Walter Payton.

Bo attended every one of Gordon's prep games, sprinting down the sideline with his son on many of the 38 touchdowns Gordon scored as a senior at Kenosha's Bradford High.

"He was a huge influence on my football career, my mom too," Gordon said, referring to Carmen Gordon, who remains married to Bo. "They never missed a game, man. They were very supportive. My dad was like my workout partner. He definitely taught me a lot of stuff. He's been there every step of the way."

Until he wasn't.

In March 2012, when Gordon was a 19-year-old redshirt freshman at Wisconsin, Bo was sentenced to 10 years in prison for his role in a northern Illinois cocaine-dealing ring and a concurrent three-year sentence for drug dealing in Kenosha County.

The longer sentence was reduced twice, and Bo — who served time in federal correctional institutions in Pekin, Ill., Duluth, Minn., and Elkton, Ohio — was released last December.

Gordon asked that his parents, who attended most of the Chargers' training-camp workouts in Costa Mesa in August, not be interviewed for this story.

Speaking to Bleacher Report last fall, Carmen Gordon, 49, said federal authorities began investigating Bo when Melvin was in junior high school and that Bo was a "manager" in the drug ring.

"He wasn't a typical drug dealer," Carmen told the website. "He moved big, big weight."

Gordon, the only child of Bo and Carmen, didn't know the particulars of Bo's business but was aware of his involvement, no matter how well Bo separated drug-dealing from fatherhood.

"It was not a secret," Gordon said. "You kind of know everything that's going on. But he was a good father. He did what he needed to do. He made me breakfast every morning. He made sure I never went to sleep hungry."

Any anger or resentment Gordon felt about his father's prison sentence was channeled into the weight room, film room and onto the field. Gordon developed a reputation as a workout fiend at Wisconsin.

"It just gave me motivation," said Gordon, who stayed in contact with Bo through regular emails and occasional prison visits. "It was hard to run the household and take care of my mom when I was in college, but I wanted to be in a position to be able to take care of them when I got done with school."

The four-year, $10.7-million rookie contract Gordon signed with the Chargers eased the financial burden on his family, and Bo's release from prison restored the household.

For the first time since Gordon's first season at Wisconsin in 2011, Bo watched his son play in person when the Chargers faced Seattle in the Aug. 13 preseason opener at StubHub Center. Bo plans to attend every home game this season.

"It means a lot to have him back here watching practice, watching me play on game day," Gordon said. "I know it's something he missed for a while. To have him back is a beautiful thing."

Bo always encouraged his son "to be the best running back ever." The first step toward greatness would be a 1,000-yard season, a threshold Gordon — who missed the final three games of 2016 because of knee and hip injuries — fell three yards short of last season.

"That was a big goal of mine," Gordon said. "To be that close and to fall short, you think about so many runs where you got tripped up on ... honestly, three yards? I'm gonna look back when I'm done and be highly upset."

Gordon caught only 22 passes for 228 yards in four college seasons, which wasn't necessarily an indictment of his pass-catching skills.

"We had pass plays at Wisconsin," Gordon said, "but when you're busting off 60-yard touchdowns rushing, why pass the ball?"

Any concerns the Chargers had about Gordon's hands coming out of college were quickly put to rest.

"He's had some big gains in the passing game, whether it was a check-down or a design screen to him or moving across the middle and catching the ball," offensive coordinator Ken Whisenhunt said. "He has talent in that area ... and that's a great asset for Melvin."

Alfredo Roberts, the Chargers' first-year running backs coach, is a former tight end who was a Dallas Cowboys teammate of Emmitt Smith, the NFL's all-time leading rusher, in 1991-92.

Roberts said Gordon is bigger and faster than Smith, and catches the ball as well as Smith. He has been especially impressed with Gordon's speed and athleticism and said he's "in awe" of how well Gordon moves in space.

"Emmitt is in the Hall of Fame, and the cement is still wet on Melvin," said Roberts, a former Jacksonville, Cleveland, Tampa Bay and Indianapolis assistant. "We'll see what his body of work is, but I think he's gonna have a great season."

If not, it won't be for lack of effort. After his subpar rookie year, Gordon sought out star running back Adrian Peterson — whom he did not know — for advice, because "he's one of the best to do it, and I need to learn from someone like that while I can," Gordon said.

Gordon has spent several weeks during the last two offseasons training in Houston with Peterson, who ranks 16th on the NFL's all-time rushing list.

"From the outside looking in, you're never sure about a guy's temperament, his work ethic, his habits, how good he really wants to be," Roberts said. "From day one, Melvin looked me in the eye and said, 'I want to be the best — not just good, but great — and I want to work on it.'"

"He has all the tools. He can run, catch, he's big enough to protect, and he has the want-to. He's conscientious, he's a great teammate, and he's still growing."

Davis tries to prove he's more than speed

*By Andrew Campa

COSTA MESA — In many ways, it's been speed that has always put Michael Davis on the map.

While the Glendale High football team won a total of six games during Davis' three seasons and missed the postseason each year, the Jewel City native still lined up against some of the country's greatest youth athletes during the track and field season due to his elite sprinting.

That speed turned into a scholarship to Brigham Young University and a four-year career in which Davis participated in four consecutive bowl games.

Yet, a disappointing senior season in which Davis ceded playing time and his starting position as a defensive back to a freshman seemed to spell doom.

Again, however, it was speed that saved the day, as Davis ran a blistering 4.34 second 40-yard dash at BYU's Pro Day in Provo, Utah on March 24.

From flash in the pan to flash again, Davis garnered interest from NFL teams.

That interest didn't immediately pay dividends as Davis went unselected during this year's NFL Draft, which concluded April 29.

Fortune turned quickly for Davis as that same night he became one of 15 players to sign a free-agent contract with the hometown Los Angeles Chargers.

Since that evening, Davis has been determined to make the cut and the final 53-man roster.

As the team moved its practices to Costa Mesa High on July 30, Davis was out to prove he can put up impressive numbers outside of a stopwatch.

"I would say yes, in certain scenarios, yes," Davis said when asked if people think he's just a speed guy. "Obviously, people just say, 'Hey Michael, your speed' and they try to get me off the line. They know I have the speed to catch up. But more, I prefer [using] my technique and it's easier and better not to use my speed then technique, but my technique and then speed."

Davis played in 48 games with the BYU Cougars and made 30 starts with 110 tackles, 17 pass break-ups and one interception.

While the pick came against Michigan and resulted in a return for a score, the one career interception has become a sore subject.

The 6-foot-2, 195-pound defensive back has tried to change the perception that he can't create turnovers.

His first notable action came May 23 when Davis tipped a pass by starting quarterback Phillip Rivers that was intercepted by teammate Tre Boston.

For Boston, taking young players like Davis under his wing has been a privilege.

"I just come in and try to be a veteran and try to teach the things I know and everything I've learned over the years," Boston said. "I try to install a whole new culture for these guys."

The turnover drew the praise of Chargers defensive coordinator Gus Bradley and the eyebrows of coaches and teammates.

Perhaps Davis' biggest play this summer took place Monday during drills when star running back Melvin Gordon broke free and had an open path to the end zone.

At the last minute, Davis came from across the field and ripped the ball from Gordon's grip, which elicited the cheers from an overflow crowd.

"Melvin said, 'You know what, I hate ya'll.' He said, 'I hate ya'll,'" Davis said through a laugh of his interaction with Gordon immediately after the play. "He smiled and it was all fun and games, but we're all working here grinding to get a spot."

For Davis, the play served as vindication of his ability, though he still felt the need to explain his lack of takeways in college.

"I wasn't really always around the ball in college," Davis said.

Though grateful for the opportunity to be practicing with the Chargers, Davis isn't just happy to be at camp. With injuries to Chargers defensive backs Casey Hayward and Jason Verrett, Davis sees an opportunity to grab a roster spot.

"Casey Hayward is a good cornerback, but when he got hurt in practice with his ankle, that gave me an opportunity to go and start something with the [starters]," Davis said. "I just seized the opportunity because, you know, not too many undrafted rookies get that opportunity to start right away. To be honest, I tried to seize it."

Davis has seen action with the first-team defense, which puts him against Los Angeles' talented receiving corps and Pro Bowl quarterback Rivers.

"When I'm in the moment, I don't think about going against him," Davis said of Rivers, "but afterward when I'm on the sideline, I can't believe I'm going up against one of the greats."

On Wednesday, Davis primarily saw action against back-up quarterbacks Mike Bercovici, Kellen Clemens and Cardale Jones.

That changed in one series of three plays as Rivers completed a 40-yard pass down the sideline, which led to wholesale changes on defense. Davis and second-year cornerback Trovon Reed were inserted.

Rivers completed only one pass in the three-play series and twice looked off the left side of the field where Davis was patrolling. In the second of those instances, Rivers had a pass deflected and intercepted by Reed, who totaled two picks on the day.

Though Davis won't likely get any recognition for turnovers, he's content in knowing he's doing his job.

"I want [to get] in the receiver's face up on the line," Davis said. "If I can shut him down early, then I shut down his whole route and make the quarterback go to the other side of the field. [That would make me] a shutdown corner."

Outside of playing in the secondary, Davis has also taken snaps on punt coverage. Though special teams action might not be all that sexy, Chargers four-year veteran Kenjon Barner believes excellent play on special teams may provide a way onto the roster.

"The biggest advice I can give is put your head down and grind," Barner said. "Don't look at where you are now, but where you are at the end of the day. You know it's going to be hard and a grind, an uphill battle. If you're resilient and determined, you can accomplish anything."

"And special teams. That's where I made my mark the past couple of years and that's how I've made it. Don't take special teams for granted."

The Chargers kick off the season Monday, Sept. 11 in Denver. If Davis were to make the 53-man roster, he's acknowledged he would be ecstatic.

"It would mean a lot. I came from a small school, especially in sports," Davis said. "Not too many people make it out of Glendale High School in sports.

"I've switched position from receiver to corner in college and to be able to come out here for the Chargers. I know they like me because I'm fast, but I'm trying to prove that I can do more and it would be a huge accomplishment."

Coming into the league as a rookie can be a challenge. But for a number Chargers, they're getting to do it with a college teammate.

The Bolts' roster houses former teammates from Notre Dame in Isaac Rochell and James Onwualu as well as Dan Feeney and Mitchell Paige from Indiana.

But, there's a third pair. While Mike Williams was selected seventh overall, his former Clemson teammate and fellow wideout Artavis Scott had to wait until the draft was over to find out where he was going to play. When the Chargers came calling, the decision was a no brainer.

"When I found out that (the team) was thinking about having me, I was like of course!" Scott explained. "I mean, they had one of my teammates I played with already who is someone who can go through this process with me. It was fun for me to know that and it was very encouraging."

Scott joins Williams in L.A. as Clemson's all-time leading receiver. His 245 catches in three years puts him above Sammy Watkins (240) and even Williams (177).

Both players admitted having each other has made their transition to NFL life a bit easier.

"Having a friend here and someone you could talk to every day, and someone you can have fun with also is helpful," Williams said. "We played three years together so to know that you have someone making that transition with you is exciting. Someone you can just talk to every night about the plays. We both play offense. We're both wide receivers. The transition has been pretty smooth for both of us."

Since rookie mini camp, the pair has been inseparable both on the field and off. Although Williams said they forged a tight bond at Clemson, the receivers are rooming together for the first time.

"We had good chemistry with one another," Scott explained. "We always had our handshakes and the biggest thing was having fun. We wanted to feed off one another, always compete (and) enjoy each other's company because he could be the best man at my wedding. You never know!"

Being roommates is an advantage for Williams and Scott. They are using the extra time together to get the ins and outs of Chargers football down.

"We'll be laying on our beds and I'll say, 'Hey, call out a play,' Williams said. "I'll (answer), he'll look and I'll do the same for him. We'll call out plays to each other to make sure everyone is on point."

"Some of the plays were similar to how we ran them (in college)," Scott added. "With some of the route combinations, I'll go 'Oh, that's what we ran (in college), but we called it this or that.' Just that different terminology can help us learn it faster because you have to catch on."

As they try to navigate through the final few weeks before mini camp, they're excited for what each player brings to the Chargers roster. Scott is slightly more excited than an Uber driver of theirs a couple months ago.

"Mike's a freak athlete," Scott professed. "(He's) tall, long and can go get the deep ball. If I was looking at him, I would have taken him! (Before the draft,) Mike and I were in an Uber, and we were talking to the driver about him and Corey Davis. The driver said he would take Davis but didn't say why he would take him. I told him why I would take Mike! He's a playmaker who can change the game."

"Artavis is an all-around player," Williams said. "He's a great receiver, great special teams player and makes a really big impact on offense and special teams. Size doesn't really tell you how you play, but he plays big. He can go up and make the competitive plays. At Clemson, he's the all-time leading receiver so that speaks for itself."

Philip Rivers Makes Special Airport Trip to Greet this New Chargers Coach

It's common practice for someone from a team's front office to pick up players or coaches from the airport when they land.

However, it's not often that a player, let alone your Pro Bowl, superstar quarterback offers to make the trip. Yet that's what happened when the Chargers hired Pat Meyer.

Philip Rivers boasts a personal relationship with the new offensive line coach that spans nearly two decades. It dates back to the first moments the quarterback stepped foot on NC State's campus as a true freshman.

"I met Pat when I was 18 years old at NC State going down the stairs at our facility there for the first time," Rivers recalled. "He was our strength coach there, and we hit it off. He's been a line coach now at a couple different places. He's just a heck of a coach! It's all about family and football with him, and he'll fit in just fine with us."

Meyer vividly recalls their first meeting as well.

"I remember meeting him the first time walking down the stairs coming into the weight room," he said. "He was a 6-5, 200-pound true freshman coming in and I was thinking, 'This is the guy that is going to lead us? This little skinny guy?'"

It didn't take long for Rivers to win him, and the rest of the Wolfpack, over.

"He is what you think of as a true pro. He is what you want in a quarterback. I knew he was special from his first game as a freshman right when he started taking over. His dad is a longtime coach and coached him up. Guys like Philip are very few and far between. There are only a select few who are like that. You only come across those once in a great while that do everything he can. Who can perform on the field and have the knowledge of everything (of) not only what he does, but what the running back is supposed to do, what that wide receiver has for his alignment, what the left guard is supposed to do and so on. He was special."

The pair has kept in close contact for the past 18 years. Number 17 spent time with Meyer and his family in Colorado a few years ago, and they've shared other visits across the country since he left campus.

However, they never could have imagined they'd wind up together in Los Angeles.

Meyer joins the Bolts after spending the last two seasons in Buffalo. He served as a Football Operations Consultant in 2015, focusing on the offensive line as they led the NFL in rushing yards (2,432) and yards per carry (4.78). In 2016 he was the team's offensive assistant, and the Bills once again thrived pounding the rock, leading the NFL in rushing yards (2,630), yards per game (164.4) and yards per carry (5.3).

It was during Meyer's time in Buffalo that he grew close with the Chargers new head coach. It didn't take long for him to realize Anthony Lynn had the makings to be in the top spot, and he strongly believes he'll bring those same qualities to Los Angeles.

"Anthony is a great leader," Meyer said. "He knows how to relate to the players, so he is going to have good control over the room in a positive way. He will be disciplined in what he does, he will be structured and he will be organized. And he's great to work with. It's a good environment. I have seen both sides of Anthony, where we have been peers as position coaches, then he became the coordinator and then became the boss (as Interim Head Coach). Obviously, he is the head coach now. Anthony is a good guy. He is tough, but he is fair. He is an ex-player too so he knows both sides of it, which is important."

Meyer joined Buffalo after spending the 2013-14 seasons in Chicago coaching the Bears' offensive line. He made the jump to the NFL after one year in the Canadian Football League as the Montreal Alouettes' Offensive Coordinator and Offensive Line Coach. Prior to that, he spent 14 years in the college ranks, including his stint at NC State as Director of Strength and Conditioning.

Although he's spent time in various fields over his 20 years of coaching, Meyer has always been an offensive line guy at heart. Nonetheless, his time working in other areas helped mold his O-Line philosophies into what they are today. That's especially the case for his decade working in strength and conditioning.

"My background is in strength and conditioning for 10 seasons collegiately, but I have always been involved in offensive line play. I was an offensive line player since

I was six years old, and have always been involved and the strength and conditioning background part of it helped me learn how to handle players, push the right buttons on certain players and how to handle different situations, that type of stuff. As a coach I believe in fundamentals and technique is what wins, it really does. I will learn these guys, they will learn me and there will be a time when we learn to trust each other and do the right stuff in the room and learn the different techniques because it is going to be a little different."

While Meyer has a close relationship with Rivers, the other players on the roster are mainly strangers to him. From the moment he's arrived, he's locked himself in his office, pouring over film to best learn his new offensive linemen.

"I've just been watching film and getting to know what (each guy's) strengths and weaknesses are off the film. Obviously I haven't gotten to meet any of them yet, but just watching them and seeing how they react to things (is helpful). Not only, how does the game go but does he play the same in the fourth quarter as he does the first quarter? Does he play the same when we are down 20 points vs. when we are up 20. Just seeing their strengths and deficiencies and how we can work to strengthen both of them."

As for number 17, while they may be close friends, he will be strictly business when they are on field.

"It'll be neat to watch him again," Meyer said. "Obviously I have a prior relationship with him, but I am coaching the line. He is the quarterback and we will have to get on the same page on a lot of things. It'll be fun. The quarterback, he drives everything. Anytime you have a quarterback like Philip you have a chance to have a successful team."

For Philip Rivers, going with the flow comes easy

*By Sam Farmer

The most impressive drive of Philip Rivers' NFL career was far longer than a football field.

It happened during the offseason several years ago on a stormy weekend in San Diego. Rivers, All-Pro quarterback of the Chargers, had promised to speak at a Catholic retreat in Phoenix. The weather was nasty, though, and he worried his flight might be canceled.

So without flinching, Rivers hopped in the car, drove to Arizona, gave the talk, then drove home the same day.

He's galaxies removed from the stereotype of a sports prima donna.

"I told them I was going to be there," said Rivers, 35. "I was going to get there."

Rivers is nothing if not honor-bound. He was that way when he got married as a freshman at North Carolina State, not only asking for the permission of Tiffany's dad but of his football coach. He was that way in 2008, when he played through the pain of a torn ACL in the conference championship game at New England. And he's that way today, as the father of eight who will live in San Diego and make the daily commute to Costa Mesa and Carson for practices and games.

Just as he is true to his word, this country boy is true to his roots. He grew up in Decatur, Ala., then played at North Carolina State before coming to San Diego in 2004.

"It was tough at first," he said of adjusting to a West Coast lifestyle. "It took time, being from Alabama and then spending those four years in Raleigh. It took time to really dig into San Diego as a family. It was like, 'We'll be out here a little while, and then we're going back.'

"Then after a while, it's like, 'Gosh, this is home.' We have more and more children born here, then with your church and community, you get more entrenched that way."

In a roiling San Diego market bitterly angry and disappointed about their franchise bolting after 56 years, Rivers still could be elected mayor in a landslide. It's clear that he's disappointed he had to leave — as evidenced by the decision to not uproot his family — yet he has been unwaveringly loyal to the team.

"He's very pure, pure of thought, pure of intention," said former Chargers Pro Bowl center Nick Hardwick, who came in as a rookie with Rivers in 2004 and played with him for a decade. "He's very comfortable with himself. Everything you see is sincerity and honesty. There's no pretense about him at all. It's very endearing, maintaining that humble nature while also being a superstar."

Both of the NFL teams in Los Angeles have players who are well known in football circles. The Rams have Todd Gurley, Aaron Donald, No. 1 pick Jared Goff. The Chargers have Joey Bosa, Keenan Allen, Melvin Gordon and Jason Verrett. But Rivers and tight end Antonio Gates are the only ones who have been household names longer than a few years, players even casual fans are sure to recognize.

In that sense, no NFL quarterback is more important to his team than Rivers. He is essential on and off the field to a franchise looking to build an L.A. fan base from scratch. And the paradox of that is, Rivers is the last guy to go looking for the spotlight.

"I'll never forget when I was first drafted here and they had the rookie premier at the Coliseum," Rivers said, referring to the annual event during which the first-round picks are photographed for trading cards.

"I remember driving up and seeing the signs to Los Angeles and feeling like, 'Where am I? This is crazy!' I remember calling my dad and saying, 'Dad, I'm on 5 North and it says Los Angeles.'

"My dad has never been to Los Angeles, California. Ever. He'll be 70 in two years. To me it's like, that's a faraway land. Now, I'm playing there. So in a lot of ways I feel like, 'You don't fit up there.' But it's just about being myself. That's the only thing I've known.

"I remember when we came up for that first thing in Inglewood and I was like, 'Hope y'all are OK with cowboy boots and blue jeans.' That's just all I know."

Well, he knows cleats and pads too. He needs 4,167 yards passing to become the seventh player in NFL history to reach 50,000. He has 3,811 completions and needs 189 more to become the eighth player with at least 4,000.

What's more, Gates needs one receiving touchdown to set the NFL record for the most by a tight end. He's currently tied with the retired Tony Gonzalez with 111.

Gates and Rivers, whose careers are inexorably linked, almost think with one mind on the field.

"It's like a marriage," Gates said. "I just know certain looks, certain things that we've talked about for a decade. When we get in those situations again, he may look at me and say, 'Stay skinny!' or, 'Keep your width!' Whatever it is, it's verbal sometimes, it's non-verbal sometimes. It's like we're thinking for each other."

One of the aspects of Rivers' game that's so rare, offensive coordinator Ken Whisenhunt said, is his pinpoint accuracy when on the move.

"The accuracy on adjusted throws is what sets him apart," Whisenhunt said. "He sees the defense, he makes great throws, he makes throws down the field. When he's throwing it down to the back, and the back's moving left to right, or right to left, even when Philip has to move to avoid the rush, the ball is in a position where the back can keep running." That entails feeling pressure, even when a quarterback can't see it, which Whisenhunt compares to fluidly navigating heavy traffic at high speeds. "If you're driving down the road on the 405, and you've got cars all around you, and there's a tire rolling right at you, you've got to avoid it," the coach said. "He knows where every car is, and then he can make sure that he gets through without hitting that tire. Some guys have that vision."

This season, for the first time, Rivers won't be behind the actual wheel much. He and backup quarterback Kellen Clemens, his close friend, will have a driver take them daily from their nearby homes in San Diego's North County to the Chargers practice facility in Costa Mesa. Although he's not entirely comfortable being chauffeured, Rivers figures that will be like a quarterbacks meeting on wheels.

"It will take some adjusting," he said, "but for me, that was the only way to do it. If I was going to be behind the wheel, I would have felt like I was slighting my preparation. I'll still get home at close to normal time."

A few years ago, the Chargers adopted a team motto, the Latin phrase "Nunc Coepi," which means, "Now, I begin." It's a reminder that a fresh start is always at hand. That resonates with him now more than ever. "No question, this is a new beginning," he said. "To me, it's truly again and again — every practice, every play, every day. It's more and more real to me every year. In the football world, how many more times am I going to get a chance to begin again? I don't know. Definitely on the back nine. I really am excited. It's been about as smooth as it can go. It's kind of a new beginning. Just embrace it three to five years, and let's see."

Still, San Diego is not far from his heart. In his garage are a trio of connected padded seats. It's where he used to sit every day for quarterback meetings at the now-dismantled Chargers Park.

"At some point, it will be kind of cool to set them up in a room somewhere," he said.

But not now. This road warrior still has miles to go.

Philip Rivers' new ride allows him to stay home

*By Kevin Acee

As the 73 toll road turned into Interstate 5 and San Juan Capistrano and then San Clemente sped by unseen, Philip Rivers and Kellen Clemens watched tape of the Denver Broncos defense and then a little of the San Francisco 49ers defense.

It was the last Monday in August, the return leg of the first round trip for the Riversmobile, an SUV that has been gutted and turned into what the Chargers starting quarterback calls the "best QB room I've ever been in."

The season opener against the Broncos was two weeks away, and there is only so much preseason tape can help. Even with the trip going faster than expected.

Soon Camp Pendleton was on either side of them and then Oceanside.

They clicked over to catch up on the news and were watching ESPN when the SUV slowed to take the North County exit that would deliver the Chargers' QB1 and QB2 to the Rivers' driveway just before 5:40 p.m.

"An hour and 18 minutes," Rivers said later. "Which is nothing."

Rivers and Clemens shared a laugh as they neared their destination.

"There may be some days," Rivers said. "where we're hoping to get in a little traffic because we have more work to do."

This is how Rivers, a Charger since 2004, didn't have to relocate even though his team did.

In order to remain a San Diegan, Rivers invested in just about the most L.A. vehicle ever.

Three days a week during the season he will make the commute from his San Diego home to the Chargers' Costa Mesa facility. It's a trek many know too well — and dread.

Rivers will do it in a different, more efficient manner.

Essentially, his mode of transportation is a mobile man cave with the seats like those in a first class airplane set side-by-side in the back facing forward, plenty of room for a 6-foot-5 quarterback to fully recline while watching film on the 40-inch television screen separating the front seat and rear cabin. There is satellite TV, WiFi and a small refrigerator Rivers would rather you call a cooler.

For upwards of $200,000 (plus a driver's salary), anyone can make the freeway melt away.

This is the purview of CEOs and agents and directors and the kind of lawyers who charge $1,000 an hour.

As Tiffany Rivers asked her husband after he reported with glee how well his first trip had gone, "Do you feel like a king?"

The answer, a little bit, was affirmative.

But be sure, this was an investment made only after much investigation and introspection, for the right reasons.

"My two biggest things were my family time and my preparation and what I owe this football team," Rivers said. "I was not going to sacrifice either of them in any big proportion. I can look at all the pluses and minuses and say, 'OK. This does it.' This allows me to get home in the 6 to 7 hour, which is when I got home the last 11 years, and it allows me to watch all or more of the film I watched before."

Just like his new vehicle, which requires close inspection from the outside to notice any modification that makes it different from a standard SUV, this commitment involved grappling with both reality and perception for Rivers.

"I don't want it to be, 'He's stuck in a car all day, maybe that's why he struggled,'" he said. "Come on."

Come on, indeed. This is being done out of necessity, because the large and young Rivers family has roots it did not want to tear. And it can afford not to.

Still, we're talking about a man who likes frills the way he likes interceptions. Rivers lives as about as modestly as one can when his career earnings are bumping up against $200 million.

His primary mode of transportation is a 2008 Ford F250. He wears cowboy boots — real ones, plain brown, nothing made of a swamp creature or rare bird. His dress shirts are Western cut and have shiny buttons.

The Rivers family spent hours searching Orange County, touring schools and homes. They looked at eight of the latter.

"Every time we started driving back home," Rivers said, "it was like, 'Gosh!' We had the feeling of 'Ohhhh.' ... You look around (when house hunting) and you kind of get excited. You know, 'That's a neat neighborhood.' Then we'd be driving home and we'd get to about Carlsbad and say, 'Gosh! I feel like we're going home.' It just felt that way."

The ties to San Diego were almost 13 years in the making. Rivers and his wife got to thinking about doctors and dentists and friends and sports teams and schools and all that would go into changing those things for eight children — the youngest of which will turn 2 in October, the oldest having just started high school.

"It was literally making me go, 'This is crazy,' " Rivers said. "I know at some point, (players) have to move. I know it's life for a lot of people. People have to move all the time."

It's not Rivers' fault he has the means to make a 90-minute commute comfortable and productive. It's actually admirable that he wanted to do so.

"We're just so thankful for what we have," Rivers said. "That's why we didn't want it to change."

With staying in San Diego as the end, the first option considered was carpooling with Clemens, just as they did when the Chargers were in San Diego. This would be 70 extra miles, but maybe if they traded off driving duties it wouldn't be so bad.

"After about a day or two of seeing what that looks like it was, 'No way,'" Rivers said. "No way I'd be behind the wheel for three hours a day and feel like I'm preparing. I'm wasting three hours. It's just different. It takes a different toll on you."

Then he considered maybe a simple conversion of the family's Sprinter van, the one that Tiffany Rivers uses to tote around eight kids.

"She was like, 'You're taking our family's car?'" Rivers recalled his wife saying.

What about a helicopter?

"That was about 15 minutes of me doing an Internet search and five more minutes with me wondering, 'What in the world am I thinking about this for?' I've never been in one in my life. ... Plus, unless it could pick me up in my neighborhood and land on the practice field, it wasn't going to be that much faster."

So Rivers did another Internet search. He typed "mobile offices southern california" into Google. He found a company in Oxnard that caters to Hollywood types and CEOs.

Even then, his thought was to go used.

Convinced he needed something specific to his needs, he still leaned heavily toward basic.

"I really just need a TV screen and HDMI, the ability to plug in my computer to the screen," he told the guy at Becker Automotive Design.

But that's not how the high-end automobile conversion market works. It's more of an "If you're going to do it, do it right" kind of market. And there had to be a thought about resale.

"If this doesn't go as smooth as I think," Rivers said. "I need to be able to sell it."

Someday he will need to unload the vehicle anyway.

"If this was year five for me, we'd move," Rivers said. "We'd want to stay in the same city, but I'd have a long way to go. You don't know. ... This is the home stretch. I could have five years. I'm only signed up for three."

So in the meantime, should it keep going like that Monday test run, Rivers has hopes of being back in San Diego in time to help pick up the kids from school on Fridays the team has a home game.

Home, even with a new home.

Russell Okung's mission to protect the quarterback

By Dennis Freeman
News4usonline.com
September 13, 2017

COSTA MESA, CA-Russell Okung is a big man. At 6-foot-5 and 310 pounds, Okung is big enough to slap down Big Foot. That's why the Los Angeles Chargers made a push to sign the veteran offensive tackle during free agency.

Coach Anthony Lynn and the Chargers got their man, inking the much-hyped Okung to a four-year, $53 million deal back in the spring. But for that agreement to take place, there was mutual admiration of the Chargers on Okung's part to make the deal a reality.

"Even in the past, we just knew they were always a really talented team," Okung said after a Chargers training camp practice during the summer. "Hopefully, I can bring something helpful to the guys here. I saw what coach Lynn was doing, and I was immediately sold on who he was as a person and what he was going to do as a coach. What we're doing now is indicative of what our success will be. I'm all the way in."

Landing Okung is a big deal for the Chargers and Lynn. With an aging quarterback in Philip Rivers, who can still zing it all over the football field, and a promising rushing attack with a young runner in Melvin Gordon, the Chargers needed to not only shore up its offensive line, they needed to put in place dynamic pieces that will push their offensive firepower.

A good start would be with a talented run-blocker and a ferocious pass protector. For the Chargers' sake, they have both attributes in Okung. There are not too many players at his position in the National Football League (NFL) that are as good as Okung. He was the anchor to the Seattle Seahawks' offensive line during the team's back-to-back Super Bowl appearances.

Last season, Okung found himself in a Denver Broncos uniform, dropping pancakes and making space for the likes of quarterbacks Brock Osweiler and Trevor Siemian. With a multi-year pact with the Chargers established, Okung is now firmly entrenched to getting down to the business of pass protection and run-block dominance.

The Chargers can benefit from Okung's method of laying hands on opposing defensive linemen in more ways than one. The last time the Chargers had a running back go over the 1,000-yard rushing mark was in 2013 when Ryan Mathews galloped his way to 1,255 yards.

When it comes to having his backside protected, it's a good bet that Rivers might have a little bit more confidence that he has Okung in front of him as that moving wall keeping him from harm's way. Against Von Miller and the Broncos' quarterback rodeo crew on Monday Night Football to open their 2017 NFL season, the Chargers offensive line surrendered only one sack.

Considering that Miller and the Broncos recorded at least 93 quarterback hurries in 2016, according to SportingCharts.com, that's almost light years better than what Rivers has had to go through in the past few years. Since 2012, Rivers have been sacked (including the Chargers' 2017 season-opener) 242 times. That's a lot of time for a quarterback to be on his backside.

To help cancel out this problem, the Chargers brought in Okung and drafted rookies Dan Feeney and Forrest Lamp in order try to fix this issue. If the head-to-head matchup with the pass-rush happy Broncos is any type of barometer, the Chargers looks like clear winners on this platform. The chemistry jelling of the team's offensive line should not be understated or dismissed.

By hanging out with his O-line buddies and getting more acquainted them and with their families, Okung said the rapport between teammates will carry itself out on the field.

"It comes down to trust," said Okung. "Like any relationship, I trust somebody to do their job, and they trust me to do my job as well, too. When you're dependable, everybody has success."

Don't expect Okung to take all the credit for the offensive line's re-birth. The success of any offensive line is not dependent on individual achievement. It's group success or bust.

"It's always been all of us collectively working together on every single play. There is no one offensive lineman who has a great game," Okung said. "That's not going to happen. Usually, it comes down to a lot of things. It comes down to participation and understanding where your help is."

Okung spent the first six years of his career with the Seahawks, four of them sliding up and down the field trying to shield the scrambling Russell Wilson from taking too many hits. Rivers is a more stationary, throwback-type quarterback who doesn't have a choice but to stand in the pocket.

To Okung, the styles may be different, but keeping defenders off the quarterback is in the same job description.

"Philip (Rivers) is definitely a more pure pocket passer, and his understanding of concepts, in terms of really relying on the throwing game...It's amazing. I've never seen anything like it," Okung said. "Russell is different. He has a different way of playing. The offenses are completely different as well. Also, with (offensive coordinator) Ken (Whisenhunt), you have to know a lot and understand a lot of different things as well."

Part of that understanding is knowing that as offensive linemen, you live in a world of anonymity.

"We don't have as much notoriety," Okung said. "Nobody cares about our stats. We don't have stats. What's more important is that we're more of unsung heroes. Nobody talks about us until we're doing bad. If they're not talking about us, we're doing our jobs."

Sean McGrath's Affinity for Art

By Hayley Elwood
Los Angeles Chargers
Friday, July 21, 2017 4:15 pm

When he's not blocking or catching passes on the field, you can find Sean McGrath practicing one of his favorite hobbies: art.

The tight end has been showcasing his creative side ever since he was he was a kid. Growing up in Chicago, he was used to arts having a front and center role in the city's culture. Being influenced by his grandma, who graduated from the art institute, McGrath got his BFA in studio art from Henderson State University.

What is it about the hobby that McGrath loves so much?

"It keeps your brain active," McGrath said. "Anything you can do to get the wheels turning and have it not (always) be about football I think keeps you fresh and on your toes. Especially with the creative side of your brain. It keeps you balanced."

While he's passionate about football, McGrath is well aware NFL careers can be short lived. Having come into the league as an undrafted free agent in 2012, he bounced around a few teams before finding a home with the Chargers halfway through the 2015 season. Despite appearing in 16 games a season ago for the Bolts, he's cultivating his passion for his second career down the line.

"For a lot of guys, it's football, football, football. A lot of times when it comes down to it, the 'Not for Long' is a different (meaning) for the NFL acronym. It's always good to have something to fall back on whether it's art, finance or whatever you decided to get your degree in. It's important. So, to be able to practice it while I'm at such a young age having this position is good."

Art mediums hold no bounds for McGrath. From sculpture to sketches, he can do it. He even sometimes draws his teammates on the plane.

But, one of his favorite things to do is go to the beach and sketch people on the fly. Who knows? You may just be the next recipient of a McGrath original.

"I usually go to the beach because there are more bodies there. I call it 'sniping' because I sit there and draw people. I'll sketch the whole scene and it's kind of cool. I'll draw the scene and if I see a couple or family enjoying the sunset, I like to capture moments like that. I'll draw, rip it out and give it to them. I always try to get my karma points and do something nice for people! It's all about staying inspired and trying to inspire other people on a daily basis."

How NFLer's gas station 'Jesus' moment led him to Chargers

By Hannah Withiam

For the Chargers' newest safety, the team apparently was predestined to land in Los Angeles, and God wanted him to follow.

Former Panther Tre Boston appears to be a believer in the relocation from San Diego after a stranger he said he met at a North Carolina gas station divinely inspired the free agent to choose Los Angeles over the Bills and Steelers. The so-called supernatural interaction started when the man, with his three children in tow, approached Boston at the gas pump and asked if he could spare some change. The three-year pro handed over a $20 bill.

"So he tells me thank you so much, and that God put me in his life for a reason," Boston told ESPN on Tuesday. "And in my mind I'm saying you're here for a reason, too. So in my mind I'm saying should I ask him, 'L.A. or Buffalo.' And before I could ask him, my man told me, 'Thank you so much. There aren't too many people like you in this world, God's children. My name's Mike Daniels, but people call me L.A.'"

Daniels' nickname, with its Chargers ties, struck Boston to his core. He said he burst into tears on the spot — and then spotted Jesus on a gas station advertisement stand as he reached into his car for a tissue. One of the cards featured on the stand read, "Jesus saves," he recalled.

"I ended up giving him $100 because I knew he changed my life, just like I knew I changed his life," Boston said about the stranger, with whom he said he talked for another half hour before leaving with a contract on the horizon and a sense of belonging. "Honestly, that's the reason why I'm here. It didn't matter how much money was given to me. It didn't matter really who was on the team, it just happened to be a great fit. God told me to come here, and that's my testimony. And that's why I'm here."

Boston, who signed a one-year deal with the Chargers on Monday after playing his first three seasons with the Panthers, expects to compete for significant playing time at free safety.

Once he heard "God" and "L.A." leave Daniels' mouth, Boston knew the prayers he'd said on the drive home had been answered. He had met his own Los Angeles angel.

"At the end of the day God told me to come here," Boston said. "And I'm a man of faith, so I couldn't go against his word."

Encounter with gas station stranger leads Tre Boston to Chargers

SAN DIEGO -- A chance meeting at a gas station served as divine intervention for Tre Boston, guiding his decision to join the Los Angeles Chargers in free agency.

"At the end of the day God told me to come here," Boston said. "And I'm a man of faith, so I couldn't go against his word."

Recently released by the Carolina Panthers in a cost-cutting move, Boston had three suitors in the Chargers, the Buffalo Bills and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

After visiting all three teams, Boston said he prayed for clarity as traveled back home to Charlotte, North Carolina, to make his decision. That's when he stopped by the local gas station, even though he had a half a tank, to take advantage of a price that had dropped from $3.29 to $3.10 a gallon.

"I crossed two lanes to get to the gas station," Boston said. "I pump my gas. After I pump my gas, I put my wallet in my car. After I put my wallet in my car, there's a guy with three kids and he asked me for a little bit of change, or if I had a dollar or two. I gave him a $20."

"So he tells me thank you so much, and that God put me in his life for a reason. And in my mind I'm saying you're here for a reason, too. So in my mind I'm saying should I ask him, 'L.A. or Buffalo.' And before I could ask him, my man told me, 'Thank you so much. There aren't too many people like you in this world, God's children. My name's Mike Daniels, but people call me L.A.'"

Boston said he started crying, taking the nickname of his new friend as a sign from the man upstairs that he should join the Chargers.

And as he reached for a tissue in his car, Boston said he thought he saw Jesus on an advertisement stand selling gas station cards.

Boston said he glanced back and on the stand he saw a card that said, "Jesus saves." The two men talked for another half hour before saying their goodbyes.

"I ended up giving him $100 because I knew he changed my life, just like I knew I changed his life," Boston said. "Honestly, that's the reason why I'm here. It didn't matter how much money was given to me. It didn't matter really who was on the team, it just happened to be a great fit."

"God told me to come here, and that's my testimony. And that's why I'm here."

Boston signed a one-year deal to join the Chargers, where he'll compete with incumbent Dwight Lowery for playing time at free safety.

He spent his first day on the field at Chargers Park during the team's OTAs working with the second unit on defense.

"I'm explosive, I'm a playmaker," Boston said, when asked to describe his skill set. "I'm dynamic. I'm a guy that's going to bring energy, and make sure we're always up and high-spirited. I play with a high tempo, so I want my guys to play with the same thing. Right now I know we have a great group of guys, if we keep working hard this group could be special."

Boston went on to say one of the attractions to the Chargers was assistant defensive backs coach Chris Harris, who was with him in Carolina during a training camp for the Panthers last season.

"He's my guy," Boston said. "He really tried to recruit me to come here, because honestly I had written them off. I saw the depth chart and they had nine safeties, and I could have gone somewhere else that needed me that was a little shorter on safeties.

"But they reassured me that I have a chance to win a position battle, and all I needed was a chance."

NFL's Tyrell Williams returns to Turner Elementary

TURNER – Much has changed for Tyrell Williams since he roamed the halls at Turner Elementary School as a fifth grader.

These days Williams is a standout wide receiver for the Los Angeles Chargers.

On Tuesday he was back at his old school, a guest of principal Dan Petersen, Williams' track and field coach at Cascade High School.

Leafing through a 2002-2003 Turner Elementary School yearbook, Williams smiled when he saw his fifth-grade photo among fellow classmates.

"It's just cool, especially coming back to where I went to school," Williams said. "To be able to see old yearbooks and stuff, to see the kids go through the same cycle I went through, it's cool. It's fun."

Williams was in town to visit family members, but made time to be part of an assembly at Turner Elementary.

Students in grades 1 through 5 learned there was a special guest waiting for them when they walked in the gymnasium.

"As soon as I knew I was like jumping around," said fifth-grader Taylor Swift, a Williams fan. "Everybody was like, 'calm down, Taylor.'"

Swift makes a point of trying to watch Chargers games on television "every Sunday" because her favorite player is on the team.

"I knew that he went to this school, so that was really cool," Swift said. "I know he's famous."

Not all of the students were as familiar with Williams, but you would never have guessed it based on their enthusiastic response watching a video of Williams' NFL highlights as he sat with them on the gym floor.

They provided Williams with engaging banter and it didn't matter to him if they knew who he was.

"One girl was talking about her cat and how it's allergic to fleas. I don't know if she knew," Williams said. "Some of them did. They were talking about their dad's favorite teams and stuff. It's kind of cool just to hang out with them."

After the video, Williams answered a few questions from Petersen about his life, took part in a suggested touchdown celebration dance courtesy of a group of students, gave high-fives

Williams hopes he left a message with students that will resonate.

"No matter where you're from, the size of the school doesn't really matter," he said. "It's just if you get an opportunity make the best of it."

Williams blossomed in his second NFL season after signing with the San Diego Chargers as an undrafted free agent out of Western Oregon University in May of 2015.

Last season he led the Chargers with 69 receptions for 1,059 yards and seven touchdowns and was a finalist for the VIZIO Top Value Performer, an award presented annually to the NFL player whose on-field performance most exceeds the value of their annual salary. Williams is entering the final year of a three-year, $1.575 million contract.

If Williams has another stellar season, he'll likely receive a substantial raise. He would become a restricted free agent after the 2017 campaign.

"The money is obviously nice and it's a big part of it, but I just love playing football," Williams said. "I make plenty of money so I'm not worried about going out and making more. It'll come."

Petersen said Williams remains the same humble young man who was a three-sport athlete (football, basketball and track and field) when he was a sprinter at Cascade.

Williams now stands 6-foot-4 and 205 pounds, but weighed only 160 pounds coming out of high school and was not recruited by major colleges. He went on to become WOU's career leader in receptions.

Despite long odds, Williams made the most of his opportunity in San Diego. He played on special teams early in his rookie season, spent two months on the practice squad, and returned to the active roster for the last seven games. His first NFL reception went for an 80-yard touchdown.

"He's the perfect example for our community kids of what it means to dream big," Petersen said.

In January, the Chargers finalized a move from San Diego to the Los Angeles area after months of speculation. The Los Angeles Chargers will play the next two seasons at the StubHub Center in Carson, California, before moving to a new stadium in Inglewood for the 2019 season.

Williams would have preferred if the Chargers stayed in San Diego, but he's not complaining. As for his NFL future? Well, one excellent season has not made Williams feel like he's arrived.

"It is crazy," Williams said of his breakout season. "(But) I still feel like I have a lot to get better at."
