GAME PREVIEW

The Oakland Raiders will finish off the second leg of their back-to-back road games this week as they travel to Tennessee to face the Titans on Sunday, Nov. 29 at 10:00 a.m. PT at Nissan Stadium. The Titans are the Raiders' sole AFC South opponent this season, as they will play the entire division next season. Oakland and Tennessee last played each other in 2013 at O.co Coliseum, and the two teams last met in Nashville in the 2010 season opener. The Raiders and Titans have faced each other 10 times since the Titans moved to Tennessee. Last week, the Raiders suffered a road loss at the hands of the Detroit Lions, 13-18, while the Titans lost to the Jacksonville Jaguars, 13-19, on Thursday Night Football.

In Oakland's first trip to Detroit since 2003, the team's defense posted four sacks on the afternoon and limited the Lions to just one touchdown. DE Denico Autry, LB Ben Heeney, DE Benson Mayowa and LB Malcolm Smith all registered sacks on the afternoon, with Heeney getting the first of his career. DE Khalil Mack had a strong game, totaling eight tackles, including two behind the line of scrimmage. CB David Amerson led the way for the secondary, registering four passes defended. On offense, QB Derek Carr threw for 169 yards on 13-of-25 passing. RB Latavius Murray found the end zone for the fourth time this season and rushed for 28 yards. WR Michael Crabtree hauled in six passes for 50 yards and WR Seth Roberts posted a team-high 54 receiving yards. K Sebastian Janikowski connected on two field goals, including a 56-yarder. P Marquette King pinned the Lions inside their own 20-yard line three times, including a 66-yard punt. King also connected on a 76-yard free kick following a safety.

Next week, the Raiders will return home to O.co Coliseum to take on the Kansas City Chiefs for the first time in 2015, and the Titans will host the Jaguars.

QUOTING DEL RIO

"We expect to be better than we were [Sunday against Detroit]. There's no sugarcoating that. I'm disappointed that we weren't better. I'm going to do everything I can within my power to make sure that I'm doing my part and that as a staff, we're doing our part. Then we'll make sure that the demands go right through the organization, through the roster, through the football team, that each man is being held accountable to do his job and perform and help us win." - Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio

NOTABLE CONNECTIONS

Pro Connections

• Raiders defensive backs coach Marcus Robertson was selected in the fourth round (102nd overall) of the 1991 NFL Draft by the Houston Oilers. He played 10 seasons (1991-2000) at safety for the franchise, earning All-Pro honors in 1993. He later served as the Titans' director of player development from 2003-06, assistant secondary coach from 2007-08 and secondary coach from 2009-11.

• Titans offensive coordinator Jason Michael made his NFL coaching debut with the Raiders in 2005 as a quality control coach.

• Titans special teams assistant Steve Hoffman was the special teams coordinator for the Raiders in 2012.

• Titans LB David Bass was originally drafted by the Raiders in the seventh round (233rd overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.

• Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio (linebacker) and Titans defensive coordinator Ray Horton (safety) were teammates with the Dallas Cowboys from 1989-1991.

• Raiders offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave (quarterbacks) was on Titans interim head coach Mike Mularkey's offensive staff with the Atlanta Falcons from 2008-2010 when Mularkey was the offensive coordinator.

College Connections

• Raiders WR Amari Cooper and Titans G Chance Warmack were teammates at Alabama in 2012, helping the team win the BCS National Championship that year. They were both later selected in the first round of the NFL Draft (Cooper in 2015 and Warmack in 2013).

• Titans offensive line coach Bob Bostad worked at San Jose State from 1997-1998 as the co-offensive coordinator/offensive line coach.

• Titans TE Craig Stevens played four years at Cal from 2004-2007.

Tennessee Connections

• Raiders TE Lee Smith (Powell) and DT Dan Williams (Memphis) are both from Tennessee. They both later attended college in the state, with Smith going to Marshall and Williams going to the University of Tennessee.

TITANS SNAPSHOT

Overview: The Tennessee Titans enter Week 12 in the midst of a two-game losing streak, as they have posted a 2-8 record in 2015. The Titans are under the direction of Interim Head Coach Mike Mularkey, who has posted a 1-2 mark since taking over head coaching duties on Nov. 3. Prior to coaching the Titans, Mularkey posted a 16-32 record (.333) with the Buffalo Bills (2004-05) and Jacksonville Jaguars (2012).

Offense: When the Titans selected QB Marcus Mariota with the second-overall pick in the 2015 NFL Draft, they immediately put the offense in his hands. Mariota has been productive to the tune of 2,026 passing yards on 169-of-259 passing (65.3 percent) with 13 touchdowns and six interceptions for a passer rating of 96.1. In the passing game, TE Delanie Walker has been a top target with 53 receptions for 617 yards (11.6 avg.) and three touchdowns. WR Kendall Wright has 28 receptions, most among wide receivers, for 343 yards (12.3 avg.) and three touchdowns. In the running game, Mariota relies on second-year RB Antonio Andrews, who leads the team with 99 carries for 376 yards (3.8 avg.) and two touchdowns.

Defense: Tennessee's defense is led by Assistant Head Coach/Defense Dick LeBeau, a 57-year NFL veteran as a player and coach, who is in his first year with the Titans. The unit allows 23.3 points per game and ranks in the top 10 in the league by allowing just 324.3 yards per game and only 214.2 net passing yards per game. The squad has produced 10 interceptions on the season, including a team-high two each by LB Zach Brown and CB Coty Sensabaugh. Seventh-year OLB Brian Orakpo leads the team with seven sacks, while DT Jurrell Casey and LB Wesley Woodyard each have five sacks. Woodyard also leads the squad in tackles with 60 (42 solo), according to NFL GSIS.

INDIVIDUAL STATS VS. TITANS

Head Coach Jack Del Rio

Career Totals: 7-9 record vs. Tennessee and 4-4 road record against the Titans as a head coach.

- As head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars, his team allowed just 262 total yards and defeated the Titans 37-7 on Nov. 5, 2006.
- In the last game he coached at Tennessee, Del Rio's Jaguars intercepted two passes and stifled the Titans' offense to the tune of 220 total yards in a 17-6 win.

S Nate Allen

Career Totals: 12 tackles (11 solo) and one fumble recovery in two career games (1-1).

- As a rookie with the Philadelphia Eagles, recorded a then-career-high eight tackles (seven solo) in the Eagles' loss on Oct. 24, 2010.
- Last season, notched four solo tackles and recovered a fumble against Tennessee on Nov. 23.

K Sebastian Janikowski

Career Totals: 16-for-22 on field goals and 21-for-21 on extra points for 69 total points in eight career regular season games (3-5); 2-for-2 on field goals and 5-for-5 on extra points in one postseason game (1-0).

- In his last regular season meeting with Tennessee, tied a career high with six field goal attempts and connected on four of them, including a 52-yarder.
- On Jan. 19, 2003, connected on all five extra point attempts and two field goals in the Raiders' postseason win.

FB Marcel Reece

Career Totals: Four receptions for 44 yards (11.0 avg.) with one touchdown and five rushing attempts for 14 yards (2.8 avg.) in two career games (0-2).

- On Nov. 24, 2013, caught a 27-yard touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter in the Raiders' loss.

RAIDERS VS. TITANS

WHAT TO WATCH FOR IN WEEK 12

- The offensive line allowing zero sacks for the fourth time this season, tied with 2014 for the second most clean sheets in team history.
- The offense averaging at least 7.0 yards per play for the fourth time, becoming just the second Raiders team to do so (five in 2011).
- A Raiders rookie catching a touchdown pass for the eighth time this season, marking the most combined receiving touchdowns by rookies in franchise history. Raiders rookies have totaled seven receiving touchdowns three previous times (1970, 1962 and 1961).
- CB David Amerson continuing to lead the team with 12 passes defended on the season. S Charles Woodson and CB TJ Carrie are tied for second on the team with eight passes defended.
- QB Derek Carr completing 20 passes with a touchdown for the ninth time in 2015, tied for the second most in a season in team annals (most: Gannon, 10 in 2001).
- Carr throwing four touchdown passes to tie Daryle Lamonica (14 in Oct. 1969) for the most in a single month in team history.
- Carr accumulating 280 passing yards to eclipse Rich Gannon (1,384 in Oct. 2002) for the most in a single month in team history.
- WR Amari Cooper gaining at least 36 yards through the air to set the franchise record for receiving yards by a rookie, passing James Jett (771 in 1993).
- Cooper totaling 64 receiving yards to become the second rookie in the last 10 seasons with at least 800 yards through 11 games (Mike Evans, 2014).
- WR Michael Crabtree becoming the first Raiders wide receiver with at least four receptions in each of the team's first 11 games. His current stretch of 11 straight games with four catches is the fifth longest active streak in the NFL.
- Crabtree recording at least four receptions and 50 receiving yards in an eighth straight game, which would move him ahead of Tim Brown (1996-97) for the second longest streak in team history. His seven games are already the longest single-season streak in team history.
- Crabtree gaining at least 35 receiving yards for a 12th straight game overall and the 11th time this season, which would be the longest single-season streak by a Raider since Jerry Rice in 2002 (12 straight).
- DE Mario Edwards Jr. notching a third forced fumble, moving him ahead of Charles Woodson (two in 1998) and tying him with Tommy Kelly (three in 2004) for the most ever by a Raiders rookie.
- K Sebastian Janikowski tying Jason Hanson (52) for the NFL's all-time record for most 50-yard field goals made. Janikowski has connected on at least three from 50-plus yards in an NFL-record 10 straight seasons.
- Janikowski attempting two field goals of at least 50 yards to tie Jason Hanson (93) for the most attempts from 50-plus yards out.
- DE Khalil Mack notching two sacks to reach 11 sacks for his career, which would tie him for the sixth most by a Raider through his first two seasons.
- Mack totaling two sacks to record the Raiders' first seven-sack season since Tommy Kelly (7.5) in 2011.
- RB Latavius Murray gaining 94 rushing yards to become the sixth Raider with 800 rushing yards through 11 games and the first since Napoleon Kaufman (1,035 yards) in 1997.
- FB Marcel Reece hauling in four passes to reach 200 career receptions. He would become the fifth Raiders running back or fullback to reach that mark.
- LB Malcolm Smith recording an interception to become the sixth Raider with two picks and four sacks in a season (last: Michael Huff, 2010).
- Smith notching one sack and one interception to become the first Raider since Eric Barton in 2002 with at least five sacks and two interceptions in a season.
- TE Clive Walford scoring his fourth touchdown to tie Rickey Dudley (1996) for the second most by a Raiders rookie tight end.

WATCHING WOODSON

- S Charles Woodson intercepting his 66th career pass to move into sole possession of fifth place on the all-time list, breaking his tie with Ken Riley.
- Woodson passing Ken Riley (65) for the most interceptions of any player not currently in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.
- Woodson notching two interceptions to tie Dave Grayson (29) for seventh on the Raiders' franchise list.
- Woodson setting a new Raiders career high with his sixth interception of the season, surpassing his rookie season total of five (1998).
- Woodson scoring his 14th defensive touchdown to pass Rod Woodson and Darren Sharper for the NFL's all-time record. An interception return for a touchdown would be Woodson's 12th, tying him with R. Woodson for the most in NFL annals.
- Woodson totaling 34 interception return yards to become the 10th NFL player, and the fifth since the 1970 merger, to accumulate 1,000 career interception return yards.
- Woodson notching one sack to tie Lawyer Milloy (21) for the sixth most all-time by a defensive back.

A WIN WOULD...

...improve the team's 2015 overall record to 5-6 and even the team's road mark at 3-3.

...be the Raiders' second ever win in Tennessee, as the team holds a 1-5 record playing on the road against the Titans/Oilers since the team's relocation in 1997.

...give the Raiders' a 24-20 advantage in the all-time series against the Tennessee Titans/Tennessee Oilers/Houston Oilers franchise.

...snap a three-game losing streak against the Titans, with the team's last win coming at Tennessee on Oct. 30, 2005 (34-25).

...even the Raiders' record in the Central time zone since 2010 at 7-7. The Raiders' all-time record in the Central time zone currently stands at 56-65-2 (.459).

RAIDERS VS. TITANS

NOTES FROM LAST WEEK'S GAME AT DETROIT

Oakland Raiders (4-6) vs. Detroit Lions (3-7)
Week 11 | Sunday, Nov. 22, 2015 | 10:00 a.m. PT
Ford Field | Detroit, Michigan

	1	2	3	4	Total
Oakland Raiders	0	0	13	0	13
Detroit Lions	6	3	0	9	18

Defense Notches Four Sacks

- The Raiders defense notched three first-half sacks for a second straight game, tying the season high set last week against Minnesota. The four total sacks ties last week for the team's second highest mark this season.
- For the first time since 1987, three Raiders draft picks have recorded a sack in their rookie seasons. LB Ben Heeney notched a sack Sunday to join DE Mario Edwards Jr. and LB Neiron Ball. In 1987, it was Ron Brown (2.0), Bob Buczkowski (1.0), Joe Cormier (1.0) and Dan McMillen (1.0).

Defense Strong In Red Zone

- The Raiders held strong inside the red zone today, allowing touchdowns on 1-of-4 (25.0 percent) red zone trips by Detroit. The Lions' final trip inside the red zone resulted in the end of the game.
- Oakland also forced a total of four three-and-outs in the game, including consecutive three-and-outs in the second quarter.

Crabtree Eclipses 400 Career Receptions

- WR Michael Crabtree has now totaled at least four receptions and 50 receiving yards in seven straight games, tied with Tim Brown (1997) for the second longest streak in team history (longest: Art Powell, 13, 1964-65).
- Crabtree joins Tim Brown (1996) as the only Raiders to catch at least four passes in 10 straight games to begin a season. Crabtree caught a team-leading six passes in the game, bringing his career total over 404 receptions.
- Crabtree also eclipsed 5,000 receiving yards for his career in the game, finishing with 50 yards to bring his career total to 5,023 yards.

Murray Reaches the End Zone

- RB Latavius Murray rushed into the end zone for a 1-yard touchdown in the third quarter for his fourth score of the season. Murray now has six career rushing touchdowns.

Janikowski Closing In On History

- K Sebastian Janikowski connected on a season-long 56-yard field goal in the third quarter, giving him 51 career field goals from 50-or-more yards. He trails Jason Hanson (52) by one for the NFL's all-time record for 50-yard field goals.
- Janikowski also connected on a 48-yard field goal and his 220th consecutive extra point attempt.

Mack Stifling Against the Run

- DE Khalil Mack led the team with a season-high eight solo tackles with two tackles for loss and one quarterback hit, according to unofficial press box statistics.

Olawale Continues to Produce

- FB/RB Jamize Olawale finished the game with a season-long 15-yard reception and four rushes for 12 yards (3.0 avg.).
- Olawale raised his receiving total to 69 yards on the season, setting a new career high (63 in 2013).

Roberts Contributes on Special Teams

- WR Seth Roberts recorded the first kickoff returns of his career, bringing back two kickoffs for 47 yards (23.5 avg.).
- Roberts added two receptions for 54 yards, including a season-long 43-yard reception on the first play of the second half.

Mayowa Steps Up With A Sack

- DE Benson Mayowa recorded his second career sack and first of the season on a third-and-9 play in the first quarter, forcing a Lions field goal attempt.

Autry Gets to Stafford

- DE Denico Autry got to Stafford on a third down in the third quarter for his second sack of the season and the team's fourth of the game. The sack forced a Lions punt.

Heeney Joins Fellow Rookies With Sack

- LB Ben Heeney recorded the first sack of his NFL career in the second quarter, forcing a 5-yard loss. He finished the game with seven tackles (five solo), one sack and one pass defended, according to unofficial press box statistics.
- Heeney is the third Raiders rookie to record a sack this season, joining DE Mario Edwards Jr. (1.5) and LB Neiron Ball (1.0).

Smith Notches Another Sack

- LB Malcolm Smith was credited with his fourth sack of the season when he forced Lions QB Matthew Stafford out of bounds in the second quarter.

King Booms 66-Yard Punt

- P Marquette King was called into action five times and averaged 43.4 yards per punt, including a 66-yarder in the fourth quarter.
- King placed three punts inside the Lions' 20-yard line and did not record a touchback.

HEAD COACHING MATCH-UP

JACK DEL RIO

Jack Del Rio was named the 19th head coach in the 55-year history of the Oakland Raiders franchise on Jan. 15, 2015. The appointment marked a homecoming for Del Rio, who was raised in nearby Hayward, Calif.

Now in his 30th year in the NFL and his 19th season in coaching, He recently concluded his second stint as a defensive coordinator under Head Coach John Fox, as the two also spent the 2002 season together in Carolina. In all, he has coached 18 players to a total of 27 Pro Bowl selections.

In his second season with the Broncos in 2013, Del Rio's defense helped Denver to a 12-4 record and an appearance in Super Bowl XLVIII. Del Rio also accepted the additional role of interim head coach (Weeks 10-13) while Fox underwent a heart procedure, and led the Broncos to a 3-1 record against teams with a combined record of 29-9 (.763).

Prior to joining the Broncos in 2012, Del Rio spent nine seasons at the helm in Jacksonville. During his head coaching tenure (2003 to 2011) with the Jaguars, the club ranked sixth in the NFL in yards per game allowed (317.3) and eighth in points per game allowed (20.3).

Under Del Rio, the Jaguars made two playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007, highlighted by the club's first postseason win in eight seasons with a 31-29 road victory against the Pittsburgh Steelers in a 2007 AFC Wild Card Game.

The Jaguars posted an 11-5 record in 2007 to earn a second playoff berth in three years, in addition to claiming the franchise's first playoff win since the 1999 season, while becoming the first team in NFL history to win in Pittsburgh twice in one season.

In 2005, the Jaguars won eight of the last nine regular season games, including four straight on the road, en route to a 12-4 finish and a Wild Card playoff berth.

During his lone season as a defensive coordinator with Carolina in 2002, he inherited the NFL's worst defense statistically (371.4 yards per game allowed) and turned it into the league's second-ranked unit (290.4 yards per game allowed). Additionally, the 2002 Panthers squad led the NFL in rushing average against (3.7 avg.).

As linebackers coach for the Baltimore Ravens from 1999-2001, Del Rio tutored a talented group that included Ray Lewis. Baltimore's 2000 team set the NFL 16-game record by allowing only 165 points while recording four shutouts and forcing a league-best 49 turnovers. Lewis was named the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year and the MVP of Super Bowl XXXV that season.

A veteran of 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker, he was selected in the third round (68th overall) of the 1985 NFL Draft by New Orleans and went on to make the NFL's All-Rookie Team and earn the Saints' Rookie of the Year award. For his career, he played 160 games in the regular season and totaled 1,078 tackles, 12 sacks and 13 interceptions.

Born on April 4, 1963, in Castro Valley, Calif., Del Rio and his wife, Linda, have three daughters, Lauren, Hope and Aubrey, and a son, Luke, who is a collegiate quarterback.

MIKE MULARKEY

Mike Mularkey was named head coach of the Titans on Nov. 3, 2015. He joined the Titans in 2014 as tight ends coach and was elevated to assistant head coach prior to the start of the 2015 season.

Mularkey has 20 years of NFL coaching experience, including three seasons as a head coach and eight as an offensive coordinator, with coaching stops in Jacksonville, Atlanta, Miami, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Tampa Bay. In five of the eight seasons he was a coordinator Mularkey's team went to the playoffs.

As a former NFL tight end, Mularkey played a total of 114 games in nine seasons with the Minnesota Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers. His experience as a player has molded his style as a position coach. Including his rookie preseason with the 49ers, Mularkey spent his career playing for three of the NFL's legendary coaches in Bill Walsh, Bud Grant and Chuck Noll. As an assistant coach Mularkey has served on the staffs of Sam Wyche, Bill Cowher, Nick Saban, Cam Cameron, Mike Smith and Ken Whisenhunt.

Mularkey joined the Titans after one season (2012) with the Jacksonville Jaguars as the franchise's fourth head coach, and four seasons (2008- 11) with the Atlanta Falcons as offensive coordinator. Over the four-year time span with the Falcons, the team advanced to the postseason three times, ranked ninth in the NFL in total yards (354.8 per game), seventh in points (24.5), eighth in rushing yards (125.7), third in fewest turnovers (84), fourth in fewest sacks allowed (93), and sixth in third down conversions (44.2).

In three of the four years with the Falcons, Mularkey's offense produced a 3,000-yard passer, a 1,000-yard receiver and a 1,000-yard rusher in the same season. In 2010, Sporting News named Mularkey "Coordinator of the Year."

Prior to his time with the Falcons, Mularkey spent two seasons (2006- 07) with the Miami Dolphins as the offensive coordinator in 2006, and tight ends coach in 2007. He joined the Dolphins after serving as head coach for the Buffalo Bills for two seasons (2004-05). In his first season with the team, the Bills finished 9-7, marking their only winning season over the last decade.

Eight seasons (1996- 2003) with the Pittsburgh Steelers preceded Mularkey's time with the Bills. Mularkey served as the tight ends coach in his first five seasons. His final three seasons were spent as offensive coordinator, during which he directed two top five offenses (3rd, 2001 and 5th, 2002) and earned Assistant Coach of the Year in 2001 from the Pro Football Writers of America.

Selected in the ninth round by the San Francisco 49ers in 1983, Mularkey was waived following his first training camp. He was signed by the Vikings, where he played for six seasons, before finishing his career with three years at Pittsburgh. A graduate of Northeast High School in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Mularkey played quarterback and earned a scholarship to the University of Florida from 1979-82. He and his wife, Betsy, have two sons -- Patrick and Shane.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

The Raiders — who began play in the American Football League in 1960 — enter their 56th year of professional football competition, including the last 45 as a member of the National Football League.

In five memorable decades — the 1960s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the 2000s — the Raiders have been dominant in professional football since Al Davis first pledged in 1963 to build the finest organization in pro sports.

During these decades of dominance, the Raiders have won an AFL championship, four American Football Conference championships, and three world championships of professional football, participated in five Super Bowls, played in 14 championship games, won or tied for 17 division championships, had 21 playoff seasons, finished 34 seasons at .500 or better and played in 40 postseason games.

Pro football's dynamic organization placed first in the AFC West in 2000, 2001 and 2002 despite playing among the toughest schedules in the NFL in each of those seasons. With their appearance in Super Bowl XXXVII, the Raiders became the first NFL team to have had a season end in the Super Bowl in four different decades.

The Raiders are the only team to have been in Super Bowls in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s and the 2000s.

The Silver and Black are the only AFC team — and one of just two NFL teams (Minnesota) — to have a season that advanced to the conference championship game in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s, the '90s and the 2000s.

The Raiders are one of only two original AFL teams to have captured three world championships of professional football with Super Bowl victories. The Raiders are one of only four AFC teams to have won more than one Super Bowl since 1980.

With four postseason victories, the Raiders were the first of the AFC West teams to win multiple postseason contests in the new millennium by six years.

Since 1963, when Al Davis first took over the failing Oakland franchise that had struggled to win only nine of 42 league games in the initial three seasons of the new AFL and pledged to build the finest organization in sports, the Raiders have dominated professional football in terms of consistent victory. During those memorable 55 years in Oakland and Los Angeles, the Raiders have won 437 league games, tied 11 and lost 388.

"Commitment to Excellence" has never been an idle phrase to those who have proudly represented the Raiders organization during the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium as shown by their domination of pro football.

More than 20 of the great players who proudly wore the Silver and Black, as well as Owner-Leader Al Davis and legendary Head Coach John Madden, have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The Raiders have also produced five Coaches of the Year.

In addition, 62 Pro Bowl players have made 182 Pro Bowl appearances representing the Silver and Black. In 1970, as the Raiders began their second decade of play, the merger between the AFL and NFL became a reality on the field. In the 1970 through 2012 period of interconference play, the Raiders have compiled a remarkable 92-73-1 record against present National Football Conference rivals.

Another innovation came to professional football in 1970 — "Monday Night Football." The Raiders' domination of this prime-time television series has seen the Silver and Black build an incredible 37-27-1 record in Monday night play. In the 43 years of this series, the Raiders are 15-8-0 in "Monday Night Football" games at home.

Through the decades — the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and now the 2000s — the Raiders have had the greatest players, the greatest coaches, the greatest plays and participated in the greatest games in the annals of professional sports.

Challengers to Raider domination of professional football will arise as they have in the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium. The Raider organization will continue to meet these challenges.

REGGIE McKENZIE

THE GENERAL MANAGER

Reggie McKenzie, a former draft pick by Raiders Owner Al Davis as a player, is in his 29th season in the National Football League and his fourth as General Manager of the Silver and Black. McKenzie was named to the position by Owner Mark Davis on Jan. 10, 2012, becoming the first General Manager of the franchise since Al Davis was hired as Head Coach and General Manager in 1963.

In his first four years as General Manager, McKenzie has overseen significant changes in the organization's scouting, player personnel and football operations departments, while bringing refined football acumen to the Silver and Black. Adhering to a strategy of building a competitive roster through the draft while making strategic acquisitions via free agency and trades, McKenzie enters his fourth season at the helm having already earned plaudits from some of the most respected voices in football.

UNDRAFTED GEMS

Every preseason, hundreds of undrafted free agents vie for a spot on their team's 53-man roster. Reggie McKenzie has brought in numerous players that were not drafted, developing them into significant contributors for the Silver and Black.

- WR Andre Holmes, originally an undrafted free agent with the Minnesota Vikings in 2011, has two of the Raiders' top four single-game receiving totals from 2013-14. He set career highs in 2014 with 47 catches for 693 yards and four touchdowns.

- In 2013, P Marquette King posted numbers among the NFL's best in both gross average and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards on the year, King finished sixth in the NFL, and led the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. In 2014, King set Raider franchise records in punts (109) and punting yards (4,930).

- QB Matt McGloin made his mark on the NFL in his rookie season, making his first career start on Nov. 17, 2013 at Houston. In that game, McGloin became the first undrafted rookie to throw for three-or-more touchdown passes in his first NFL start since 1987. He also became just the second quarterback to throw for three touchdowns without an interception in his first NFL start since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970.

- WR Seth Roberts has posted two touchdowns so far in 2015, including the game-winning touchdown with just :26 seconds left in Oakland's Week 2 win over the Ravens in 2015.

Below are some of the notable current Raiders who entered the NFL as undrafted free agents:

Player	School	Year	Team
LB R. Armstrong	Miami (Fla.)	2013	St. Louis
LS Jon Condo	Maryland	2005	Dallas
WR Andre Holmes	Hillsdale	2011	Minnesota
G/T Austin Howard	Northern Iowa	2010	Philadelphia
P Marquette King	Fort Valley State	2012	Oakland
DE Benson Mayowa	Idaho	2013	Seattle
QB Matt McGloin	Penn State	2013	Oakland
T Donald Penn	Utah State	2006	Minnesota
FB Marcel Reece	Washington	2008	Miami
WR Seth Roberts	West Alabama	2013	Oakland
WR Rod Streater	Temple	2012	Oakland

LATE-ROUND STEALS

"It definitely helps. When you play on Sunday and a guy goes down and that player that you have running on special teams now can play a position and you're not afraid to put him in, it gives you depth. They may not be the starter. These young guys, you really have to give them a couple of years to figure out what they really are. Some of them, you have to throw them in because of where you are as a team. Let's all hope that not only the guys at the top of the draft but the guys at the bottom, if we can get a couple of those guys to give us some production within the first three years, that would be great." - Raiders GM Reggie McKenzie on getting production from lower-level draft picks

GM Reggie McKenzie's philosophy of building his roster through the draft includes standouts players from the top of the board like LB Khalil Mack, QB Derek Carr and WR Amari Cooper. But a good drafting team will make all of their picks count, and McKenzie has done that of late. Here is a look at some players that McKenzie has drafted in the fourth round or later since 2013 and have provided solid production:

Player	Year	Round
RB Latavius Murray	2013	6
TE Mychal Rivera^	2013	6
DT Stacy McGee^	2013	6
DT Justin Ellis	2014	4
CB TJ Carrie	2014	7
LB Ben Heeney	2015	5
LB Neiron Ball^	2015	5

* - current starter on Oakland's unofficial depth chart

^ - has started multiple games over career

THAT'S WHAT THEY SAID...

"My approach is old school. I'm a roll up the sleeves type of guy that wakes up early in the morning like iron workers, and comes prepared to get the job done." - Reggie McKenzie, introductory press conference, Jan. 10, 2012

"He has the courage of his convictions about players that Ron Wolf had, including blunt assessments of their talent. But Reggie also has the patience of Ted Thompson; he adheres to the draft-and-develop model of team-building. The latter means trusting scouts to constantly fill a pipeline of young talent, empowering coaches to play and develop young players, and identifying core players to secure contractually for the future." - Andrew Brandt, Monday Morning Quarterback (MMQB), March 12, 2014

"He is an exceptional evaluator of talent. Just has a great skill for it, especially for guys already in the NFL who might be flying under the radar. He was my right-hand man for all those years, a big reason why the Packers were good all those years." - Ron Wolf, April 24, 2012

"You can see this foundation starting to build there with the things Reggie [McKenzie] has done. He goes and hires Jack Del Rio, and I think that's a pretty good situation. They have a ton of cap space and an opportunity to build. All of a sudden you look at the AFC West, and they're kind of on the rise and you're very familiar with the AFC West so you know. It's very competitive." - Andy Reid, March 24, 2015

2014 DRAFT CLASS

First Round – DE Khalil Mack (No. 5 overall)

Career: Has started 26 games and totaled 122 tackles (88 solo), nine sacks, two forced fumbles and seven passes defended. His five sacks in 2015 lead the team.

Rookie Year: Mack started all 16 games last season and has posted 84 tackles (59 solo), four sacks, four passes defended and one forced fumble, according to official coaches' statistics.

Honors: Finished third in Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year voting...Selected to the Pro Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated and NFL.com All-Rookie Team...Was the only rookie named to the USA Football All-Fundamentals Team, which honors 26 NFL players who exhibit exemplary football techniques for young players to emulate.

JACK DEL RIO

DEL RIO QUICK FACTS

- Jack Del Rio left the Jaguars tied with Tom Coughlin as the franchise's winningest head coach with 68 wins. Del Rio compiled a 68-71 regular season record (1-2 in the postseason) with Jacksonville from 2003 to '11. As the Broncos' interim head coach from Weeks 10-13 in 2013, he posted a 3-1 record, helping the Broncos secure the top seed in the AFC Playoffs.

- As a defensive coordinator and head coach, Del Rio's defenses have finished in the top 10 in total defense in seven times, and four times in the top five. Of the top seven defensive seasons in Jaguars team history, Del Rio was the head coach for five of them.

Year	Team	Position	Rank	Yds./Game
2002	Carolina	Def. Coord.	2	290.4
2003	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	291.1
2005	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	290.9
2006	Jacksonville	Head Coach	2	283.6
2011	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	313.0
2012	Denver	Def. Coord.	2	290.8
2014	Denver	Def. Coord.	3	305.2

- Del Rio has coached 18 different players to a total of 27 total Pro Bowls during his 18 seasons as a position coach, coordinator or head coach.
- As Jacksonville's head coach from 2003 to '11, Del Rio helped the Jaguars rank seventh in total defense over that time period, allowing opponents to just 318.7 yards per game. They also ranked sixth in the NFL over that same time period, allowing opponents to just 105.1 yards per game on the ground.
- During his tenure as Denver's defensive coordinator (2012-14), the Broncos compiled 134 sacks in three seasons, the fourth most over that time span.
- With the Carolina Panthers in 2002, Del Rio inherited the NFL's worst defense from the season before (371.4 yards per game) and turned it into the league's No. 2-ranked unit (290.4). His Panthers also led the NFL in rushing average (3.7), and ranked second in sacks (52).
- In 2000, Del Rio coached the linebackers on a Baltimore Ravens unit that is considered by many as the best defensive unit in NFL history. Baltimore's defense set the NFL record for 16-game season with only 165 points allowed, including four shutouts and 49 turnovers.

COACHING STAFF NOTES

FROM PLAYERS TO COACHES

The 2015 Oakland Raiders coaching staff certainly has pedigree. Ten of the team's coaches played at the NFL level before getting into coaching. The staff has 102 years of combined playing experience, with 15 Pro Bowl appearances, five All-Pro selections and one induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Raiders S Charles Woodson on having former players on the 2015 coaching staff: "Yeah, I think for any player, when you have a guy that played the game, he knows the scrutiny put on you as a player. He knows the bumps and bruises that you take on a day-in and day-out basis. He knows about being in training camp. He knows about what it takes to win. It's validation for that guy when he played the game. When you're a player, there's almost automatically a respect that you have for a person that's been in it, been in that fight, knows what it's all about. These guys really they do have a wealth of knowledge. I think our teaching level this year has been at an all-time high, as far as guys understanding where they're supposed to be each and every play. I think that'll go well for us."

'COOP' AND 'CRAB'

In the Raiders' Week 2 win against the Baltimore Ravens, WR Amari Cooper (seven receptions, 109 yards and one touchdown) and WR Michael Crabtree (nine receptions, 111 yards and one touchdown) paced an offense that totaled 448 total yards. The duo became the first pair of Raiders receivers to each post 100 receiving yards in a game since Jan. 1, 2012. This also marks the first time since Dec. 31, 2005 that the Raiders had two receivers with 100 receiving yards and one touchdown each.

Together, "Coop" and "Crab" are averaging 10.8 receptions per game and have combined for nine touchdowns through 10 games. Here is a look at their combined 2015 statistics:

Season Notes

- Between the two of them, they have six 100-yard receiving games (Cooper and Crabtree each have three).
- At the current pace, both Cooper and Crabtree are on pace to catch over 80 passes and record over 1,000 receiving yards.
- Both players have caught at least four passes in nine of the team's first 10 games. The Raiders are 4-2 when they combine for at least 10 receptions in a game.
- For the first time since 1997 (Tim Brown, Ricky Dudley and James Jett), three Raiders (Cooper, Crabtree and Andre Holmes) had at least four receiving touchdowns through the team's first nine games.
- Both receivers rank in the top 20 in the NFL in receiving yards and in the top 17 in receptions.

TEAM NOTES

300/100/100 CLUB

In Week 3's victory over the Cleveland Browns, QB Derek Carr (314 passing yards), WR Amari Cooper (134 receiving yards) and RB Latavius Murray (139 rushing yards) made some history. According to the NFL, no trio of players 25 years old or younger have produced more passing/rushing/receiving yards, respectively, as Carr, Murray and Cooper did in Week 3. Additionally, they are also just the 11th trio of teammates age 25 or younger to join the 300/100/100 club. Since neither player will turn 26 this season, they could become the first trio of teammates to accomplish the feat twice. Here is the list of teammates 25-years old or younger in the 300/100/100 club:

TEAM HONORS

So far this season, the Raiders have accumulated five different weekly and monthly awards.

QB Derek Carr

- Named the Castrol Edge Clutch Performer of the Week for his Week 2 game-winning drive against the Baltimore Ravens to lift the Raiders to a 37-33 win. Carr led Oakland on a 9-play, 80-yard drive in 1:44 drive culminating with a 12-yard TD pass to WR Seth Roberts with :26 left to take the lead for good.

WR Amari Cooper

- Named the Pepsi NFL Rookie of the Week for his Week 7 performance against the San Diego Chargers. He totaled 133 receiving yards on five receptions (26.6 avg.) and one touchdown.

- Named the Pepsi NFL Rookie of the Week for his Week 9 performance against the Pittsburgh Steelers after recording seven receptions for 88 yards and one touchdown.

DE Mario Edwards Jr.

- Named the Pepsi NFL Rookie of the Week for his Week 11 performance against the Minnesota Vikings. He posted 11 tackles (eight solo), one sack and one forced fumble.

S Charles Woodson

- Named the AFC Defensive Player of the Month for October when he posted three interceptions, which tied for the most in the NFL, 12 tackles and four passes defended in three October games. His five career Defensive Player of the Week Awards are tied for the second-most of any player since the award's inception in 1986.

CHUNK YARDS

The Raiders are fielding one the team's most productive offense in over a decade, as Oakland is piling up yards with potentially record-breaking efficiency. The Raiders are averaging 5.83 yards per play on offense this season, fifth best in franchise history through 10 games.

YARDS PER PLAY AVG. THROUGH 10 GAMES - TEAM HISTORY

TEAM NOTES

KEEPING CARR CLEAN

So far in 2015, the Raiders have kept QB Derek Carr relatively up-right, as he has only been sacked 11 times. Carr was not sacked in the team's opening game against Cincinnati, Week 3's win against Cleveland, Week 8's victory over the New York Jets and the Week 9 match-up against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Through 10 games, Oakland has only given up 13 sacks on the year, good for tied for first in the league. Last season, the Silver and Black gave up only 28 sacks on the entire year, good for tied for sixth in the NFL.

The Raiders' offensive line has held opponents to less than two sacks or less in nine of the team's 10 games. The only time the team gave up more than two sacks in a game was in Week 5's game against the Denver Broncos, the NFL leader in sacks.

Carr has thrown for 300 yards in a game five times so far this year, and has not been sacked in three of those games.

Oakland has benefited from continuity in the trenches as they have had two different starting offensive line combinations.

In Week 8 (11/1 vs. NYJ) and Week 9 (11/8 at Pit.) of the 2015 season, the Raiders offensive line recorded clean sheets by not allowing a single sack in either game. That marks the third straight season, and the 11th time since team sacks became an official statistic in 1982, that the Raiders' line kept the quarterback up-right in back-to-back games. The Raiders have allowed zero sacks in a contest three times so far in 2015. Here is a look at those streaks since 1990:

CONSECUTIVE GAMES NOT ALLOWING A SACK (SINCE 1990)

SPECIAL TEAMS SUCCESS

Under new special teams coordinator Brad Seely, the Raiders' special teams units have helped Oakland win the field position battle.

- On kickoffs returns, Oakland's average starting position is the 22.5-yard line, good for eighth in the NFL and first in the AFC. RB Taiwan Jones is averaging 24.8 yards per kickoff return.
- On kickoffs, the Raiders have forced their opponents to start their drives inside the 20-yard line 11 times, good for tied for fifth in the league. K Sebastian Janikowski has 31 touchbacks on the year.

STUFFING THE RUN

Since the Raiders returned to Oakland in 1995, the team limited the opposition to less than two yards per carry in a game only 13 times, including three in 2013 and twice in 2014. The 1.0 yards per carry allowed vs. Buffalo was the seventh time since 2012 that the Silver and Black have allowed an average of less than two yards per carry. Here is a look at the games:

Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards	Attempts	Avg.
12/16/12	Kansas City	10	10	1.0

TEAM NOTES

VICTORY IN CLEVELAND

Week 3's road win against the Cleveland Browns came with a few notes:

- The win snapped an 11-game road losing streak and a 16-game losing stretch in the Eastern Time Zone, marking the Raiders' first win in the east since Dec. 6, 2009 at Pittsburgh.
- Coupled with the team's win in Week 2, the Raiders won back-to-back games for the first time since Weeks 7-8 of the 2012 season (Oct. 21 vs. Jac. and Oct. 28 at KC).
- QB Derek Carr (314 passing yards), RB Latavius Murray (139 rushing yards) and WR Amari Cooper (134 receiving yards) on Sunday helped mark the first time since Oct. 31, 2010 vs. Seattle that the Raiders had a 300-yard passer, 100-yard rusher and 100-yard receiver.

DIVISIONAL WIN IN SD

Below are some notes from Oakland's Week 7 victory against the AFC West-rival San Diego Chargers:

- The Raiders improved to 2-1 on the road this season and 3-3 overall, marking the Raiders' best start through six games since a 4-2 beginning in 2011.
- The Raiders earned their first divisional win on the road since Oct. 28, 2012, a 26-16 win at Kansas City.
- The Raiders never trailed in the game, opening up a 37-6 lead in the third quarter before going on to win 37-29. The 37 points are the most by the Raiders since a 39-point outing on Dec. 19, 2010.
- The team took a 31-point lead into the fourth quarter, marking the franchise's fourth largest scoring margin after three quarters on the road.
- The Raiders offense averaged 7.1 yards per play in the game, marking the team's fourth best average on the road against the Chargers.
- The Raiders scored 30 points in the first half of an away game for the seventh time in franchise history and the first time since Oct. 24, 2010 at Denver.

SPREADING IT AROUND

So far this season, 14 different receivers have caught a pass from either QBs Derek Carr or Matt McGloin. Oakland has had at least eight different receivers in eight of 10 games, nine different receivers five times and 10 different receivers three times. Those who have caught passes for the Silver and Black this year include WR Amari Cooper, WR Michael Crabtree, RB Roy Helu, Jr., WR Andre Holmes, RB Taiwan Jones, RB Latavius Murray, FB/RB Jamize Olawale, T Donald Penn, FB Marcel Reece, TE Mychal Rivera, WR Seth Roberts, TE Lee Smith, WR Rod Streater and TE Clive Walford.

MILES AND MILES

Factoring in three trips to the Eastern Time Zone and two more to the Central Time Zone, the Raiders will travel the third most miles in the NFL this season. According to Pro Football Reference, Oakland travels 26,336 miles in 2015, with three trips over 2,000 miles. The Raiders trail only the Miami Dolphins (26,452 miles, including a trip to London) and San Francisco 49ers (27,998) Here is a look at the teams that travel the most in 2015:

FRED BILETNIKOFF

Pro Football Hall of Famer Fred Biletnikoff is one of the most beloved Raiders of all-time. He is the second leading receiver in Raiders history, catching 589 passes for 8,974 and 76 touchdowns during his 14-year career as a Raider and the collegiate award given annually to the nation's top wide receiver is named after him. After not having a winner of Biletnikoff Award in more than a decade, the Raiders now have two on the team - WR Amari Cooper (2014 winner) and WR Michael Crabtree (2007 and 2008 winner). Oakland is one of three teams in the league (Detroit Lions and Jacksonville Jaguars) who have two winners of the award on their roster.

Cooper on Biletnikoff and meeting him at training camp this year: "He was a really great receiver and that award was something that I really wanted, that I really sought after my whole career in college. It was nice to finally meet him. It means a lot to just be in the NFL. To play for the team that Fred Biletnikoff played for is just a great feeling to try to continue that legacy."

Biletnikoff on having two winners of the Biletnikoff Award on the Raiders this season: "It's great. I'm excited about it. It means a helluva lot to me to have both of these guys on the team, with both of them winning the award. I have big expectations of those two guys and I'm so happy they're playing together and they're going to be a part of this team. They're going to make a big difference with this team, they really are."

In April 2015, Raiders Owner Mark Davis donated $50,000 to Fred and Angela Biletnikoff and the Biletnikoff Foundation to help increase education in an effort to eradicate a horrible dilemma. In addition to monetary support, the Raiders will execute an extensive platform, including ongoing programs and public service campaigns to assist in preventing domestic violence and sexual assault.

"The Raiders are proud of our continuing commitment to raising awareness of this important issue that is close to the heart of the Raider family," said Davis. "We are excited to have the opportunity to work with this tremendous organization and assist them in reaching the ultimate goal, ending domestic violence and sexual assault."

The Biletnikoff Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to supporting youth, primarily from low to moderate income neighborhoods or backgrounds, who are "at risk," particularly to the realities of drug and alcohol addiction as well as domestic and gender violence. The mission of the Biletnikoff Foundation is to commemorate Tracey Biletnikoff's life and her untimely death and to enable young people to realize their full potential through the support of community and education programs that effectively address the related problems of substance abuse and gender violence.

TEAM NOTES

RAIDERS OFF THE FIELD/INTERESTING FACTS

- General Manager Reggie McKenzie has an identical twin brother, Raleigh, who is a college scout for the team. He also has a son, Kahlil, who is a freshman defensive lineman at Tennessee, his father's alma mater.
- Head Coach Jack Del Rio, who grew up in nearby Hayward, Calif., was a standout catcher on USC's baseball team, where he was teammates with Mark McGwire and Randy Johnson, and was drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in 1981.
- Assistant linebackers coach Brent Vieselmeyer coached Jack Del Rio's son, Luke, when he was the head coach at Valor Christian High School in Highlands Ranch, Colo., when Luke was the team's starting quarterback.
- LB Ray-Ray Armstrong and WR Andre Debose were high school teammates at Seminole High School in Sanford, Fla., and helped the team to a Class 6A title. Armstrong, playing quarterback, connected with Debose in the final seconds of the championship game to secure the victory.
- QB Derek Carr is the brother of former No. 1 overall pick of the Houston Texans, David. The two brothers started a training facility for all athletes in Southern California called Carr Elite.
- DE Mario Edwards Jr.'s father played in the NFL for five seasons from 2000-04. He also currently works at Florida State, where Mario Jr. went to school.
- RB Roy Helu, Jr.'s father was a captain on the U.S. national rugby team in the 1980's.
- WR Andre Holmes' brother, Jason, is a member of St. Kilda Football Club of the Australian Football League.
- T Austin Howard played basketball in college at Northern Iowa.
- K Sebastian Janikowski is a former member of the Polish national under-17 soccer team and turned down various pro soccer offers to enroll at Florida State.
- T Donald Penn was a Raider fan growing up in Inglewood, Calif., going to Raiders games as a kid in Los Angeles.
- TE Mychal Rivera's sister, Naya, was an actress on the hit TV show "Glee."
- DE Justin Tuck founded his R.U.S.H. for Literacy foundation in 2008 to bring the same opportunities that made him successful to low-income youth in New York, New Jersey, and Alabama. Focused on literacy, the program began with a simple book distribution, then grew to include an essay contest and supporting materials, as well as grantmaking.
- T Menelik Watson was born in Manchester, England and was raised there before attending Marist College to play basketball.
- S Charles Woodson is a wine entrepreneur, owning the wine label TwentyFour by Charles Woodson, leasing acres of vineyards in Napa Valley, Calif., a short distance from the Raiders' training-camp home.

RAIDERS MEDIA WEBSITE

Last season, the Oakland Raiders introduced a media website, open to all members of the media, updated with content and publications from the Raiders media relations staff, including media guides, weekly releases, transcripts, post-game notes, flip cards and other information. In an effort to help media members with their coverage of the Raiders, the content will be updated on a daily basis. For any further questions, please contact a member of the Raiders media relations staff.

CRAIG LONG AWARD

Last season, the Raiders introduced the Craig Long Award, presented to the player who best exemplifies professionalism and collaboration with the media at large. The award, chosen by a select group of local media and facilitated by the Oakland Raiders' media relations department, was won by DL Antonio Smith.

Craig Long, who passed away in 2007 at age 36, was a valuable member of the Oakland Raiders' public relations staff from 1997-2004. An Iowa native, Long fulfilled his childhood dream of working in the front office for his favorite team.

PERFORMANCE CENTER

Upon the team's return from training camp in Napa this summer, the Raiders opened their Performance Center. The new Oakland Raiders Performance Center was custom built from the ground up, and will provide the training, nutrition and recovery needs of the entire organization. The new addition to the Raiders' Alameda headquarters will enable the team's strength and conditioning staff to maximize player performance and efficiently manage their time.

Performance Center Facts

- The Performance Center building slab was poured on June 11 and opened for team workouts on the morning of Aug. 25.
- The building is approximately 18,500 square feet. It is 25 feet tall at the ridge, 160 feet long and 100 feet wide.
- The building is heated and air conditioned. To assist with air flow there are six fans, produced by Big Ass Fans, and two louvered vented windows on the back of the building. There are also six 20-foot garage style glass doors that open up to the practice field.
- The building's walls are clad in 10-foot diamond plate inside with a four-foot diamond plate wainscoting on the exterior. The interior flooring is 18mm athletic flooring.
- The Raiders partnered with Gatorade to create and install a state-of-the-art Fuel Bar to assist with performance and recovery for players.
- The Performance Center includes an interior artificial turf field for use in walk-throughs and floor exercises. The field can also be used during inclement weather.
- The building is fully equipped with high-performance workout equipment from Sorinex, Keiser and Power Plate.
- Two new multidirectional football fields (178,000 square feet of sod) were installed immediately outside of the Performance Center.
- A bio retention field was installed to handle drain water as it comes off of the roof, ensuring that clean water is flowing into the Bay.

CHARLES WOODSON

A LEADER IN PICKS

S Charles Woodson, who posted nine interceptions when he won the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year award in 2009, is the NFL's active leader in interceptions. Woodson, who is in his 18th NFL campaign, has 65 interceptions, 22 more than DeAngelo Hall's 43. Woodson has six seasons with at least five picks in his Hall of Fame career.

Woodson also moved into fifth on the all-time interceptions list in 2015. Here is who is ahead of him:

ALL-TIME INTERCEPTION LEADERS

Rank	Player	INTs
1.	Paul Krause	89
2.	Emlen Tunnell	79
3.	Rod Woodson	71
4.	Night Train Lane	68
5t.	Charles Woodson	65
5t.	Ken Riley	65
6.	Ed Reed	64

LONG-TERM HAWK

Remarkably, S Charles Woodson has intercepted at least one pass in each of his first 18 NFL seasons. Woodson has joined an elite company of just one other player to intercept a pass in at least 18 consecutive seasons. He is now in sole possession of second place on this list, trailing only Hall of Famer Darrell Green. Woodson has four seasons of at least seven interceptions in his career.

Player	Consec. Seasons w/INT	Years
Darrell Green#	19	1983-2001
Charles Woodson*	18	1998-2015
Eugene Robinson	16	1985-2000
Willie Brown#	16	1963-78

* - Still Active
- Hall of Famer

FIRST TO 50/20 AND 60/20

In Week 12 last season against Kansas City, S Charles Woodson achieved some history. With a third quarter sack of Chiefs QB Alex Smith, Woodson became the first player since sacks became an official statistic in 1982 to record 50 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career. Woodson is the only active player with at least 60 career picks and one of just 11 players in NFL history. His 20 sacks are tops among current defensive backs and make him just one of eight defensive backs to record at least 20 sacks for their career.

WOODSON QUICK HITS

- Only two players in football history have ever won a Heisman Trophy, Associated Press Rookie of the Year, Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year and a Super Bowl in their career. Charles Woodson is one of them. The other? Former Raiders RB Marcus Allen.
- Since 1995, only four players have won both the Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year and Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year awards in their career - Raiders S Charles Woodson (1998 & 2009), Ravens OLB Terrell Suggs (2003 & 2011), former Bears LB Brian Urlacher (2000 & 2005) and Panthers LB Luke Kuechly (2012 & 2013).
- Woodson posted an interception touchdown in six straight seasons (2006-11), becoming the first player in NFL history to do so. No other NFL player has accomplished the feat in more than four consecutive seasons.
- In 2009, Woodson became the fourth player in NFL history (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record at least nine interceptions and two sacks in a single season.
- Is the only player in NFL history to post at least seven interceptions and two sacks in back-to-back seasons.
- Became the first NFL player (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record two interceptions, an interception touchdown, a sack and a fumble recovery in the same game when he posted all of those statistics on 11/26/09 at Det.
- Became the first player in NFL history to record 60 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career on Dec. 21, 2014.
- Had two interceptions against Denver on Oct. 11, 2015. Woodson is the only player in NFL history with two interceptions in a game at age 39 or older. He is one of three players in NFL history with an interception at age 39 or older, joining Hall of Famer Darrell Green and Clay Matthews, Jr.

TAKING IT TO THE HOUSE

The only thing better than forcing a turnover is turning it into a touchdown, and S Charles Woodson has done that just as well as anybody in the history of the NFL. Woodson is one interception-touchdown away from tying assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson's all-time mark, and just one defensive touchdown away from setting the all-time mark. With every touchdown going forward, Woodson will be adding a new note to the NFL record books.

KHALIL MACK

SILVER AND MACK

As the Raiders' first-round pick in the 2014 NFL Draft, DE Khalil Mack had lofty expectations in his rookie season and he met them all and more. Mack finished third in Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year voting, falling to St. Louis' DT Aaron Donald. Proving to be one of the NFL's best run defenders and generating pressure on quarterbacks that didn't always show up on the stat sheet, Mack was selected to the Pro Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated and NFL.com All-Rookie Teams.

Mack was the only rookie named to the 2014 USA Football All-Fundamentals Team, on December 10, 2014, an honor awarded to 26 NFL players who exhibit exemplary football techniques for young players to emulate. The USA Football All-Fundamentals Team was assembled with guidance from a five-person selection committee: Charles Davis, Herm Edwards, Merrill Hoge, Carl Peterson, Bill Polian.

Last season, became the third Raider linebacker to start all 16 games in his rookie season, and the first to do so since General Manager Reggie McKenzie in 1985. Matt Millen also started all 16 games as a rookie in 1980. While most of Mack's success last year didn't always show up on the stat sheet, he'll look to improve on the below numbers, seeing a lot of time as a defensive end.

KHALIL MACK CAREER STATS

Year	GP	GS	Total	Solo	Asst.	Sacks	Yds.	INTs	PD	FF
2014	16	16	84	59	25	4.0	29.0	0	4	1

MACK ATTACK

In Week 10 vs. Minnesota, Mack set a new career high with his fifth sack of the season. He now has nine sacks in his career. Mack ranks third among his 2014 draft class in career sacks. Here's how his numbers stack up amongst second-year players:

Player	Sacks
Aaron Donald (StL.)	16.0
Aaron Lynch (SF)	12.5
Khalil Mack (Oak.)	9.0
Kony Ealy (Car.)	8.0
Jonathan Newsome (Ind.)	7.5

S'MACK" TALK

DE Khalil Mack's NFL career is still in its initial stages, but opposing coaches and players are already taking notice. Mack has made an impact on games as a run defender and pass rusher. Here are a few things players and coaches around the NFL have had to say about Mack:

"I loved him coming out of college. He's everything as advertised. He plays hard – run and pass equally well. He is just a hard-playing, dominate-type guy, a very physical-type player. He's one of those guys you have to account for at all times." - Ravens Head Coach John Harbaugh, Sept. 16, 2015

"If I needed a yard, I would run anywhere on planet Earth other than at Khalil Mack. That guy is the biggest hammer that I've seen for a while now playing that defensive end/outside linebacker kind of position." - NBC Sunday Night Football Analyst Cris Collinsworth, Aug. 30, 2015

"Khalil was definitely a guy that we thought was an instinctive player, an explosive player, a guy that we felt like his best football was ahead of him, because we felt like this is a guy that can really rush the passer and also probably drop into pass coverage, be a second-level defender." - Texans Head Coach Bill O'Brien, Sept. 10, 2014

"He was a guy that was definitely highly rated on our board. We thought a lot of him coming out. And sometimes you don't necessarily get the sack production and people can be fooled by that. We look at the effectiveness of a rusher – how much they're affecting the quarterback. They might not be getting the finish, they might be causing production for somebody else." - Browns Head Coach Mike Pettine, Oct. 22, 2014

"Every week, one of the teams I watch early on is the Raider defense, and the reason I want to watch is Khalil Mack. He's not just one of the best rookies to come out, he's the best linebacker in the National Football League, and he is the best against the run." - Former NFL RB and current ESPN analyst Merrill Hoge

NO GUARANTEED GAINS

So far in his career, Mack has totaled 89 tackles (69 solo) against the run. Of those 89, 33 of them were made for a loss or no gain. Since entering the league in 2014, Mack ranks third in the NFL for the most tackles for no gain or a loss against the run with his 33 stops.

Player	Tackles
J.J. Watt (Hou.)	43
Lavonte David (TB)	34
Khalil Mack (Oak.)	33
Bennie Logan	32
Aaron Donald	32

Mack's 33 tackles for no gain or a loss against the run ties the most by any other Raider through his first two seasons since 2001.

Player	Tackles	Years
Khalil Mack	33	2014-2015
Kirk Morrison	33	2005-2006
Napoleon Harris	32	2002-2003
Lamarr Houston	28	2010-2011
Matt Shaughnessy	27	2009-2010

DEREK CARR

CARR AT THE HELM

QB Derek Carr was named the Raiders' starting quarterback heading into the 2014 season, becoming the first rookie QB in team history to start in Week 1. Praised for his poise and maturity as a young signal caller, Carr has already shown growth in a number of key areas. He currently ranks seventh in the NFL in passer rating (99.4) and tied for fourth in passing touchdowns (21).

DEREK CARR CAREER STATISTICS

Year	GP/GS	W-L	Cmp.	Att.	%	Yards	TDs	INTs	Passer Rtg.
2014	16/16	3-13	348	599	58.1	3,270	21	12	76.6
2015	10/10	4-6	216	341	63.3	2,565	21	6	99.4

In 2014, Carr became the 14th quarterback since the 16-game season was adopted in 1978 to start every game in his rookie campaign. He and his brother, David Carr (2002), comprise the only pair of siblings to have accomplished the feat.

Carr has orchestrated two fourth-quarter comebacks and game-winning drives in his career:

- 17-play, 80-yard TD drive (7:21) vs. Kansas City to seal his first NFL win on Nov. 20, 2014.
- 9-play, 80-yard TD drive (1:44) vs. Baltimore on Sept. 20, 2015.

SIX 300-YARD GAMES

Carr has eclipsed the 300-yard mark six times, more than any other Raider through his first two seasons. The Raiders are 3-2 this season when Carr reaches the 300-yard milestone.

- Carr's five 300-yard games in 2015 are tied for third most in a season in team history, and tied for fifth most in the NFL in 2015.
- From Weeks 8-10, threw for 300 yards in three straight games, tying the second longest streak in team history. He became the third Raiders QB with 300 yards and two TDs in three straight games.
- Carr became the only Raiders rookie to throw for 300 yards in a game on Oct. 26, 2014 at Cleveland (328 yards).

LEADING THE CLASS

As a rookie in 2014, Carr led his draft class in completions (348), passing yards (3,270) and touchdowns (21). His prolific rookie campaign ranks among the best in NFL annals. Now in his second season, he continues to excel compared to both the 2014 draft class and the NFL in general.

TDs, NOT TURNOVERS

Carr has consistently been able to find the end zone in his career, as his 42 TDs are tied for 10th in the NFL since 2014. Carr is the sixth QB with 20 TD passes in back-to-back seasons to begin a career, joining Andy Dalton, Andrew Luck, Peyton Manning, Dan Marino and Russell Wilson.

- Carr's 42 career TD passes are tied with Otto Graham and Jeff Garcia for seventh most through a player's first two NFL seasons.
- Carr owns 13 multi-TD games, six three-TD games and three four-TD games, all the most by a Raider through his first two seasons.

Carr has thrown only 18 INTs in 940 career pass attempts for the fifth best INT rate (1.91 percent) in the NFL since 2014. Additionally, his 2.33 TD-INT ratio ranks ninth in the NFL since 2014.

- Carr (940 att.) has thrown the fewest INTs of any player with at least 900 pass attempts in his first two NFL seasons. Sam Bradford (947 att.) has thrown the next fewest with 21 INTs.
- Of those 12 players with 900 pass attempts through their first two seasons, Carr owns the highest TD:INT ratio (2.33). Jeff Garcia ranks second (2.00).
- Carr has thrown at least 30 attempts without an INT in nine games, tied for the second most through two seasons in NFL annals (leader: Jeff Garcia, 10, 1999-2000).

KEEPING IT 100

Carr has posted passer ratings of at least 100 points in six games (5-1 record; 4-0 in 2015). He has posted ratings of at least 130 points in three games, the most of any Raider through two seasons.

BIG PLAY ABILITY

Carr has thrown 10 TD passes of 25-or-more yards this season, the most in the NFL. His 21 completions of 25-plus yards rank tied for ninth in the league this year. Two of Carr's receivers, WR Michael Crabtree (four TDs, T-1st) and WR Amari Cooper (three TDs, T-4th) rank near the top of the league in 25-yard TDs.

AMARI COOPER

FIRST-ROUNDER

WR Amari Cooper was tabbed as the Raiders' first-round draft pick in the 2015 NFL Draft and the fourth-overall selection. He was the highest wide receiver taken in the draft and the first receiver taken by Oakland in the first round since 2009. Despite the hype, the even-keeled Cooper has garnered rave reviews from his college playing days and so far in his young NFL career. While enjoying one of the most dominant careers a wide receiver has ever had at the college level, Cooper is already seeing that success translate to the NFL.

Age Not a Factor

- In Week 2, Cooper became the youngest Raiders wide receiver and second youngest player in franchise history to catch a TD pass.
- In Week 3, Cooper also became the youngest player in franchise history to return a punt at 21-years and 102-days old.

EXPLOSIVE AFTER CATCH

In 2015, Cooper ranks sixth among NFL WRs in yards after catch (YAC) with 333 and ranks 10th among WRs in yards after contact with 97, according to TruMedia.

Cooper has the most yards after catch (333) and second most yards after contact (97) of any rookie WR through his team's first 10 games since 2001, according to TruMedia.

THREE 100-YARD GAMES

In his first six games, Cooper had three 100-yard outings, including a career-high 134 yards in Week 3 against Cleveland (9/27).

Cooper is the first NFL rookie since 1961 (Mike Ditka) with three 100-yard receiving games in his team's first six games.

Cooper joins DeSean Jackson (2008) as the only NFL rookies in the past 30 years with two 100-yard receiving games in their team's first three games.

In Week 3 at Cleveland (8 rec., 134 yds), Cooper became the first Raiders rookie with 100 receiving yards in back-to-back games since James Jett (Nov. 21-28, 1993).

Cooper is tied with Mike Evans (TB, 2014) for the fourth most 100-yard games by an NFL player 21-or-younger. Keenan Allen (SD, 2013) leads the pack with five 100-yard games before he turned 22.

RECORD RECEPTION PACE

Cooper needed just eight games to set the franchise record for receptions by a rookie, passing Zach Miller's mark of 44 in 2007 (16 games). Cooper's 51 receptions through his team's first 10 games rank 10th among NFL rookies since 1960:

RECEPTIONS BY ROOKIE THROUGH 10 GAMES (SINCE 1960)

Rank	Player	Team	Year	Receptions

T-6	Terry Glenn	NE	1996	53
9	Michael Clayton	TB	2004	52
10	Amari Cooper	Oak.	2015	51

- Cooper is the only NFL rookie WR to catch at least four passes in each of his team's first nine games. Only two other receivers did so in their first five games (James Jones in 2007 and Charles Rogers in 2003).
- Cooper's streak of nine straight games with four receptions is tied for the third longest by a rookie since 2001.
- Cooper is the fourth rookie WR since 1960 with seven five-reception games through his team's first 10 contests.
- Cooper has three seven-reception games, tied for fifth most by a rookie through 10 games since 1960.

ALL-TIME PRODUCTION

Cooper has been picking up yards in big chunks, as he already has 10 receptions of 20-plus yards, second most among 2015 rookies. His receiving yardage total through the team's first 10 games is the sixth most by an NFL rookie since the 1970 merger:

5.	Sammy White	Buf.	2014	742	38
6.	Amari Cooper	Oak.	2015	736	51

- Cooper currently ranks second in receiving yards by a rookie in Raiders annals, trailing James Jett (771 in 1993) by 35 yards.
- Cooper has totaled at least 75 yards five times, tied for the second most by a rookie through 10 games since the 1970 merger.
- Cooper's three TDs of 20-or-more yards leads all 2015 rookies and is tied for sixth in the NFL this season.

16-GAME PROJECTION

Projecting Cooper's 2015 statistics over a full 16-game season shows that he is on pace for approximately 82 receptions (81.6), 1,178 yards (1,177.6) and five touchdowns (4.8). Here's how those numbers would rank among the top rookie seasons in NFL history:

Category	Proj. 2015 Total	Proj. Rookie Rank	Record

SEBASTIAN JANIKOWSKI

ALL-TIME RAIDER

In Week 5 vs. Denver, K Sebastian Janikowski passed Hall of Famer and former Raiders WR Tim Brown and moved into first place on the Raiders' all-time games played list. Janikowski, who has played in 246 games, was originally drafted by the team in the first round (17th overall) of the 2000 NFL Draft. Since 2000, Janikowski has missed only four games over his career (two in 2000, one in 2001 and one in 2011). Including postseason play, Janikowski has played in 253 games in Silver and Black for his career.

Moving up the all-time games played list for a franchise as historic as the Raiders takes longevity, and Janikowski has it. Here is the top four Raiders on the all-time games played list heading into this week's game:

GAME-WINNERS

K Sebastian Janikowski kicked two game-winning field goals in 2012. His 43-yard field goal as time expired against the Steelers on Sept. 23, 2012 marked his 12th career game-winning field goal, and his overtime game-winner against Jacksonville came from 40 yards out and marked the 13th of his career. HITTING FROM A DISTANCE

Known for his booming leg, K Sebastian Janikowski is in historic company when it comes to long-distance field goals. With two more field goals over 50 yards, Janikowski will pass Jason Hanson's mark of 52 for the NFL's all-time record.

In Week 11 at Detroit, Janikowski connected on a 56-yard field goal for his third 50-yarder of the season. He has now connected on at least three field goals of 50-plus yards in 10 straight seasons (2006-15), an NFL record.

In his 16 NFL seasons, Janikowski has made at least two field goals of 50-or-more yards 12 times. His career percentage from 50-plus yards is 56.0 percent (51-of-91), including connecting on 7-of-10 from distance in 2011.

Rank	Player	NFL Seasons	50+ FGs
1.	Jason Hanson	21	52
2.	Sebastian Janikowski	16	51
3.	John Kasay	20	42
4.	Morten Andersen	25	40
5.	Jason Elam	17	39

RACKING UP THE POINTS

K Sebastian Janikowski is the Raiders' all-time scoring leader with 1,646 career points, which ranks 15th on the NFL's all-time scoring list.

Janikowski has posted eight seasons of 100-or-more points in his career, including a personal- and franchise-high 142 in 2010. He has never totaled less than 70 points in any full campaign.

He has scored in at least 80 consecutive games twice in his career, tallying at least one point in 93 straight games from 2000-05 and 83 straight games from 2009-14.

As a rookie in 2000, Janikowski set the franchise's rookie scoring record with 112 points.

PINPOINT ACCURACY

K Sebastian Janikowski has been nearly automatic throughout his career, connecting on 80.3 percent of his field goal attempts, which is the 12th best percentage of any kicker with at least 400 career field goal attempts.

Including 2015 (83.3 percent), Janikowski's career boasts 10 seasons with at least an 80 percent field goal conversion rate, including a high of 91.2 percent in 2012, when he was named a first alternate for the Pro Bowl.

Janikowski has connected on 220 straight extra point attempts, including all 27 this season at the new extra point attempt distance.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

MEAT AND POTATOES

Over the last two offseasons, the Raiders' interior defensive line got a sizeable upgrade. Oakland drafted DT Justin Ellis (6-foot-2, 335 pounds) in the fourth round of the 2014 NFL Draft and signed DT Dan Williams (6-foot-2, 330 pounds) as an unrestricted free agent this past offseason.

Tasked with fortifying the Raiders' run defense, "meat and potatoes" are among the biggest interior defensive linemen in the league. The Raiders have held their opponent to less than two yards per rush in a game seven times since 2012, and they will look to add to that number in 2015 with Ellis and Williams clogging the middle.

"We call them 'meat and potatoes.' They eat up that middle and they send that running back to the high side and create that gap and create that push-back that we need in the middle to make it bounce. It's going to be fun, it's going to be fun, and we like to play football like that." - Raiders DE Khalil Mack

"So to be able to have [Williams and Ellis] and those guys in the front, we feel like you shouldn't be able to run the ball on us. Really, if you put those guys up there, we should be a pretty stout defense. That's what we're counting on." - Raiders S Charles Woodson

MAN IN THE MIDDLE

LB Curtis Lofton was signed as a free agent this offseason, solidifying the Raiders defense up the middle. Lofton, who has made stops with the Atlanta Falcons and New Orleans Saints, is a tackling machine, recording at least 100 tackles in each of his first seven NFL seasons. He also set a career high and Saints franchise record with 185 tackles last season. Below is a look at his career numbers:

CURTIS LOFTON YEAR-BY-YEAR TACKLES

In just three seasons with the Saints (2012-14), Lofton had a big impact. Two of his tackle totals from those seasons ranked in the franchise's top three tackle seasons.

SUPER BOWL XLVIII MVP

Coming over from the Seattle Seahawks in the offseason, LB Malcolm Smith has big-game pedigree. Appearing in eight postseason games over the last three years, Smith has totaled 27 tackles (16 solo), two interceptions, two passes defended and one fumble recovery. In Seattle's win over the Denver Broncos in Super Bowl XLVIII, Smith earned Super Bowl MVP honors after posting nine tackles (five solo), one fumble recovery and one interception returned 69 yards for a touchdown. Smith also intercepted 49ers QB Colin Kaepernick in the final seconds of the 2014 NFC Championship Game, clinching a victory over San Francisco and a Super Bowl berth.

This season, Smith has helped solidify the Raiders' linebacking corps. Playing at both outside and middle linebacker, Smith is the team's leading tackler with 87 and second on the team with four sacks. He has also recorded one interception, nearly returning it for a touchdown.

SAFETY NET

The Raiders added a reliable member of the secondary in free agency this past offseason, signing S Nate Allen in March. Allen joins Oakland following five seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles, where he played in 74 games and made 69 starts. Originally a second-round pick in 2010, Allen has totaled 10 career interceptions and 20 passes defended.

Allen was placed on the reserve/injured - designated for return list after suffering an injury in Week 1 and returned in the team's Week 10 match-up vs. Minnesota.

Career Highlights

- Posted a career-high four interceptions, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries in 2014.
- Tallied a career-high 94 tackles in 2013 as he started all 16 games for the first time in his career.
- As a rookie, earned NFL Defensive Rookie of the Month honors for September 2010 after recording 19 tackles (13 solo), two interceptions and one sack in three games.
- Became the only rookie in Eagles history to record at least three interceptions and two sacks in his rookie campaign.

DJ AT CORNER

The Raiders' first-round selection (No. 12 overall) in the 2013 NFL Draft, CB DJ Hayden has come a long way. After suffering a life-threatening injury to his heart in November 2012, Hayden played a major role in Oakland's defensive makeover. In his rookie year, Hayden recorded 29 tackles and two PD. In the Week 7 victory over San Diego this season, Hayden recorded his first interception of the season, as well as recording a career-high 10 tackles.

DYNAMIC TJ

Bay Area-native CB TJ Carrie was drafted by the Raiders in the seventh round of the 2014 NFL Draft and immediately showed he belongs. Carrie proved to be one of Oakland's most versatile players last season, contributing on defense and special teams. Not only did he handle his assignment as one of the team's top cornerbacks, he also served as the team's primary punt returner and took over returning kickoffs midway through the season.

MURRAY MAKES HISTORY

RB Latavius Murray emerged onto the scene late in 2014, totaling 424 rushing yards on 82 carries (5.2 avg.) in six games to close out the 2014 campaign. Murray, who spent the 2013 season on the reserve/injured list, made a name for himself in his sophomore campaign, getting the majority of the carries down the stretch last season.

So far in 2015, Murray has 706 rushing yards on 157 carries (4.5 avg.) with a long of 54 and four touchdowns. Here are some notes on Murray's start:

- Murray is on pace to be the first Raiders to rush for 1,000 yards since Darren McFadden did it in 2010.
- His 706 rushing yards are first in the AFC and seventh in the NFL.
- His 734 yards from scrimmage are 10th among NFL running backs.

-----2014 VS. KANSAS CITY-----

In Week 12 of last season against Kansas City, Murray burst onto the scene on national television, producing 112 rushing yards on just four carries (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns before leaving the game due to injury. Here are a few notes from Murray's breakthrough performance:

Murray scored his first career touchdown on an 11-yard run around the left end in the first quarter and added a 90-yard rushing touchdown in the second quarter. Murray finished with four carries for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, making him the Raiders' first 100-yard rusher since Marcel Reece ran for 123 yards at NYJ on 12/8/13.

Murray is the first player in NFL history to gain at least 110 rushing yards on five or fewer carries in a game, posting four rushes for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, all in the first half.

Murray's 11-yard touchdown run in the first quarter was the first rushing touchdown allowed by the Kansas City Chiefs in their last 12 games (12/22/13 vs. Ind.). It was also the Raiders' third rushing touchdown of the season and the first since 10/19 vs. Arizona.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown run was the Raiders' second rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards since 1998 and the longest by a Raider since Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score against the Steelers on Oct. 27, 2013.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown was the longest offensive scoring play in the NFL in 2014 and the fourth rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards in Raiders history (last: Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score vs. Pit., 10/27/13).

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

THE LEAD BACK

Since 2009, FB Marcel Reece has been lethal out of the backfield when it comes to picking up big yards through the air. Reece, who is second in the NFL during this time in average yards per reception among active RBs and FBs, averages 9.9 yards per catch.

REC. AVG. LEADERS AMONG RBs/FBs (SINCE 2009, MIN. 100 REC.)

TIGHT ENDS

TE Mychal Rivera proved to be one of QB Derek Carr's favorite targets last season, as he finished second on the team with 58 receptions and third with 534 receiving yards. Since being drafted in the sixth round of the 2013 NFL Draft, Rivera has emerged as a reliable tight end, providing a security blanket for quarterbacks.

TE Lee Smith came to the Raiders as a free agent this offseason with a reputation as a tough run blocker. Smith has 29 career receptions for 190 yards and three touchdowns. He has already set a career-high with nine receptions this year.

TE Clive Walford was drafted by Oakland in the third round of the 2015 NFL Draft out of Miami (Fla.). Walford has seen his action increase as of late after recovering from an injury he suffered in the preseason. Walford, who was one of Miami's most productive tight ends in school history, has 12 receptions on the season.

DURABLE PENN

T Donald Penn joined the Raiders prior to the 2014 season after he was released from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Last season, Penn was widely considered one of the better left tackles in the league and helped Oakland yield only 28 sacks on the year, good for sixth in the NFL.

Since 2007, Penn has been one of the most durable players in the NFL. He has played in 138 consecutive games and started 134 consecutive games. Both of the totals are second in the NFL during that time frame among offensive lineman. His streak is now in its ninth season in 2015.

Originally signed by the Minnesota Vikings as an undrafted free agent in 2006 out of Utah State - where he started 44 consecutive games - Penn earned Pro Bowl honors after the 2010 season, when he helped the Buccaneers to one of the best offensive seasons in franchise history.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

'CRAB' CROSSES THE BAY

When the Raiders signed WR Michael Crabtree in April, they immediately upgraded their offense with a proven performer. After being selected by the San Francisco 49ers in the first round (10th overall) of the 2009 NFL Draft, Crabtree has caught at least one pass in each of his 89 games played. Before joining the NFL ranks, "Crab" turned in one of the most prolific receiving careers in college football history, winning the Biletnikoff Award - given to the nation's most outstanding wide receiver - in each of his two seasons at Texas Tech. He was the first and only player to win the coveted award twice.

Career Highlights

- Became the first 49ers player since WR Terrell Owens in 2003 to post a 1,000-yard receiving season, tallying a career year in 2012 with 85 receptions for 1,105 yards and nine touchdowns.
- Registered two 100-yard receiving games in the 2012 postseason with three touchdown receptions.
- Has registered at least three receptions in 76 of his 89 career games.

Awards and Honors

- Named to USA Today's All-Joe Team in 2012

'CRAB' IN 2015

2015 Highlights

- In Week 2, Crabtree (nine rec., 111 yards) and WR Amari Cooper (seven rec., 109 yards) became the first pair of Raiders receivers to each post 100 receiving yards and a touchdown in a game since 2005.

4 Receptions in Every Game

- 1-of-4 NFL players entering Week 12 with 4 rec. and 35 yards in all 10 games this season.
- The three others are Odell Beckham Jr. (NYG), DeAndre Hopkins (Hou.) and James Jones.
- Is just the second Raiders wide receiver in franchise history with at least four receptions in 10 straight games to begin a season.
- Tim Brown, who accomplished the feat in 1996, is the other.

4 Receptions and 50 Yards in 7 Straight

- Crabtree has posted four receptions and 50 receiving yards in seven straight games, dating back to the team's Week 4 contest at Chicago.
- The streak is the fifth longest active streak entering Week 12 and second longest in team history (Tim Brown).
- Brown did his over two seasons, making Crabtree's streak the longest within a season in team history.

4 Receptions in 12 Straight

- Crabtree, whose streak dates back to 2014, holds the fifth longest active streak in the NFL entering Week 12.

50 Yards in 7 Straight

- Is the eighth Raider to do so and first since Jerry Rice (nine straight) from 2001-02.
- His streak is the most by a Raider within a single season since 1985 (Dokie Williams, eight).

35 Yards in 12 Straight

- His 35 receiving yards in 12 straight games are tied for the seventh longest active streak entering Week 12.

Moving the Chains

- Crabtree has 36 first downs this season, tied for 12th in the NFL.
- He has produced 12 third-down conversions resulting in first downs, tied for 14th in the league.

25-Plus-Yard TDs

- Crabtree is tied for first in the NFL with four 25-plus-yard touchdown receptions.

PUNTING KING

In his first season as the Raiders' punter in 2013, P Marquette King put up numbers among the NFL's best in both gross average and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards, King finished sixth in the league and led the NFL in gross punting with an average of 48.9.

King continued his punting success into his second season in 2014, ranking at the top of the league in punts, punting yards and punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. In 2014, he set Raider franchise records for punts (109) and punting yards (4,930). He led the league in both categories.

Rank	Player	Punts
1.	Marquette King	109*
2.	Bryan Anger	94
3.	Spencer Lanning	93

HISTORICAL PUNTER

In 2013, P Marquette King became the third punter in franchise history to lead the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. It was the eighth time since 1974 that a Raiders punter has led the league in the category. Shance Lechler accomplished the feat four times, and newly-inducted Hall of Famer Ray Guy did it three times. Below is a look at the seasons a Raiders punter has led the league in gross average:

Season	Player	Avg.
2013	Marquette King	48.9
2009	Shane Lechler	51.1
2007	Shane Lechler	49.1
2004	Shane Lechler	46.7
2003	Shane Lechler	46.9

1975	Ray Guy	43.8

STEADY SNAPPER

LS Jon Condo has been a constant for the Raiders' special teams for many years. Condo has appeared in 138 consecutive games for the Silver and Black, snapping on field goal attempts and punts. He also has 39 career special teams tackles.

- He has earned two trips to the Pro Bowl, in 2009 and 2011.
- Has two fumble recoveries on special teams.
- Hasn't missed a game since taking over the team's long-snap-ping duties in 2007.

LIMITING RETURNS

P Marquette King is one of the best in the game at putting air under his punts, evidenced by the eight fair catches opponents have made on 46 punts this season. In 2015, opposing punt returners have been limited to only 18 return attempts for 102 yards (5.7 avg.). As a result, King's net punting average continues to rank near the top of the NFL.

Raiders playoff hopes dealt blow with 18-13 loss to Detroit Lions

By Jimmy Durkin

November 22, 2015

DETROIT -- The Raiders were sleepy and stagnant at the start Sunday, with their offense failing to score in the first half of a game for the first time since the season opener.

But the Raiders turned it on in the third quarter against the Detroit Lions to take the lead. They couldn't hang on though and lost 18-13 to drop their third straight game and deliver a crushing blow to any remaining playoff hopes.

KEY MOMENTS

The Raiders trailed 16-13 when they forced a Lions punt and nothing went right. Neiko Thorpe was flagged for a block in the back on the punt to force the Raiders to start from their own 8-yard line. On first down, Clive Walford was called for holding, with it just barely being ruled to have occurred in the field of play and not in the end zone. On the next stop, Amari Cooper dropped his second pass of the game and finally on third down, the Raiders were flagged for another holding. This time it was on Donald Penn and was certainly in the end zone. It resulted in a safety and the 18-13 Lions lead with 5:30 to play. The Raiders never got the ball back.

The Raiders' touchdown drive to open the second half nearly was negated. On third-and-8 from the Detroit 35, Carr tried to hit Michael Crabtree and Quandre Diggs undercut the underthrown pass for an interception. But Nevin Lawson was called for defensive holding to negate the turnover and the Raiders scored seven plays later on Latavius Murray's 1-yard touchdown run.

The Raiders second drive of the game stalled when Carr tried to hit Crabtree on the sidelines on third-and-9 (a delay of game penalty stretched out what was going to be a third-and-4). Crabtree caught the pass and got his feet down as one official ruled it a catch. But another came in to overrule it when Crabtree lost control of the ball a step or two out of bounds. The Raiders chose not to challenge the play and had to punt, one of four punts in as many possessions in the first half.

KEY PLAYERS

Matthew Stafford: The Lions quarterback was effective through the air, but two plays with his legs were huge. He eluded a pass rush and scrambled 18 yards and then on the next play went five yards on a quarterback draw for a touchdown.

Golden Tate: So much attention goes to fellow Lions' receiver Calvin Johnson, and he had five catches for 88 yards. But Tate caught eight balls for 73 yards and was a tough player to tackle.

Ben Heeney: The Raiders' rookie linebacker received his most extensive playing time of the season and, while he wasn't perfect, he had his moments. That includes recording his first NFL sack and finishing with seven tackles.

Raiders drop 3rd straight

By Vic Tafur

November 22, 2015

DETROIT — Well, that was painful to watch.

The Raiders and Lions spent most of the game Sunday trying to persuade the other team to win. Oakland won the argument and lost the game 18-13 at Ford Field largely because its high-powered offense had nothing to offer.

Rookie receiver Amari Cooper had more drops (two) than catches (one) and after the second football went through his hands, pounded the turf in frustration.

“We were all frustrated that we weren’t having the execution that we wanted,” quarterback Derek Carr said.

Carr, who had thrown for at least 300 yards in three straight games and had two or more touchdown passes in the past four, finished with 169 and 0 against a 25th-ranked defense. The playoff talk, after three straight losses, is being shoveled like Saturday’s snow here.

The Raiders (4-6) are too good for this to happen, Carr said.

“Too much talent on both sides of the ball,” he said. “We just hurt ourselves and we’ve got to go back to look at the tape.”

Raiders’ stats and facts

Offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave’s game plan will be questioned on a second look, as Oakland looked like as if it was more intent on getting fullback Jamize Olawale involved than Cooper. Olawale had four touches to Cooper’s zero in the first half.

Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio said the Lions (3-7) rolled their pass coverage to Cooper. But still ...

“He dropped a couple,” Del Rio said. “Obviously, he’s a good player for us. We need to find ways for him to get more involved. For him to come out of the game with one catch, we’ve got to do a better job there.”

Oakland eventually did spark something offensively. It didn’t last long,

Down 9-0 at halftime, the Raiders scored on their first three possessions of the third quarter and led 13-9. Then the lights went out.

“We had all the confidence in the world at that point that we were going to win,” running back Latavius Murray said. “But then our offense started struggling again.”

And the defense forgot how to tackle again. A 21-yard bubble screen to Golden Tate on the last play of the third quarter perked up the Lions’ offense and their fans. They would hit five more short passes for 63 yards the rest of the way.

Quarterback Matthew Stafford scored on a 5-yard draw with 11:04 left to give Detroit a 16-13 lead. Then, Raiders tackle Donald Penn was called for a hold in the end zone, the safety making it 18-13 with 7:31 left.

Oakland had barely avoided a safety two plays earlier on a Clive Walford hold. Besides the two penalties, the Raiders gained 1 yard on five plays in the fourth quarter.

“Not operating the way we expect to operate,” Del Rio said. “Whether we missed the throw or whether we dropped the ball, just not firing on all cylinders right now.”

The defense did hold the Lions’ offense to 16 points, but seven came in the fourth quarter and Detroit took a knee at the Raiders’ 1 on the last two plays of the game. Safety Nate Allen had a chance to get the Oakland offense back on the field, but missed a tackle on 3rd-and-3 with 2:53 left.

Defensive end Khalil Mack, who had eight tackles and a quarterback hit, held his head in his hands at his locker for a long time after the game.

“We’ve gotta win the games we’re supposed to win,” he said.

The Raiders did have four sacks in their first game without suspended linebacker Aldon Smith, and had to be happy Detroit kept trying to run the ball instead of attacking their suspect secondary.

The Lions, meanwhile, were able to hold Oakland to 50 yards rushing and give up only one big play, a 43-yarder to Seth Roberts, in the passing game.

Though the Raiders came out flat the previous Sunday against Minnesota, they were simply out of sync against the Lions.

Carr missed some throws and had two delay-of-game penalties that he said were his fault. He said that he didn’t know the reasons for the offense’s sputtering and will have to watch the game video to see.

“Whatever that is, it just can’t happen,” Carr said. “So we’ll go back to practice and do whatever it takes because that just can’t happen.”

3 notables

TE Brandon Pettigrew — Detroit’s backup tight end had 4 more yards receiving than Oakland’s No. 1 wideout, Amari Cooper (8-4).

QB Matthew Stafford — Detroit’s quarterback had 3 more yards rushing than Oakland running back Latavius Murray (31-28).

Instant Replay: Raiders out of sync, fall to 4-6 in Detroit

By Scott Bair

November 22, 2015

DETROIT — The Raiders entered Sunday's game against Detroit looking to start fast and finish strong. That was a popular phrase following a second straight loss, a somewhat obvious goal that has rarely been realized by this inconsistent bunch.

That point of emphasis never materialized. The Raiders didn't start fast or finish strong, wasting a mid-game surge that produced a second-half lead eventually blown.

The Silver and Black dropped two games below .500 to 4-6. They have now lost three straight and the ability to consider the playoffs a realistic possibility.

This a game the Raiders had to get, one they let slip away. The Raiders weren't fearsome early on. The offense was sluggish, and was shut out in the first half for the first time all year. The defense conceded yards by the bushel, but kept Detroit out of the end zone despite a pair of productive drives.

Things picked up for both units in the second half, as the Raiders dictated tempo with solid rushing and a productive pass rush that sacked quarterback Matt Stafford four times in this game.

It wasn't execution alone that fueled the Raiders first score in five quarters. Derek Carr underthrew an ill-advised pass that was intercepted, for a few seconds at least. The effort was negated by a defensive holding call that kept the Raiders drive alive.

They reached pay dirt on that extended drive, as Latavius Murray followed pulling guard Gabe Jackson into the end zone from a yard out.

He tacked on another one from 56 yards out to take a 13-9 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The Lions responded with a touchdown drive punctuated on a 5-yard keeper by quarterback Matthew Stafford. Ziggy Ansah — who dominated left tackle Donald Penn down the stretch, a rarity of the highest order - added to that total by prompting a hold from left tackle Donald Penn in the end zone that, by rule, became a safety and the final margin of victory.

Carr was unspectacular in this one, completing 13-of-25 passes for 169 yards. Rookie receiver Amari Cooper had the worst game of his young career, with two drops outweighing his one catch for four yards.

Michael Crabtree led the Raiders' receiving corps with six catches for 50 yards. He had one sideline catch negated by a questionable call.

New roles for some Raiders: The Raiders have struggled to find a coverage linebacker to pair with Malcolm Smith. They went in a new direction Sunday, putting rookie Ben Heeney into a role where no one save injured Neiron Ball has thrived.

The Raiders also used Mario Edwards Jr. and Benson Mayowa as stand-up, pass-rushing linebackers for the now-suspended Aldon Smith.

Smith has surgery: Raiders tight end Lee Smith did not play in Detroit with a wrist injury that had to be surgically repaired. He had a procedure on Tuesday. It remains uncertain how long Smith will be out.

He is an important cog as a blocking tight end, so the Raiders hope he returns quickly to help a suddenly sputtering offense.

Injury update: The Raiders announced a few injuries during Sunday's game.

Running back Taiwan Jones suffered a knee injury in the first half and did not return.

Cornerback Keith McGill suffered an ankle injury in the first half and was ruled out in the second.

Head coach Jack Del Rio could update injuries after the game or in the coming week.

Hudson plays: Center Rodney Hudson was questionable to play the Lions with an ankle sprain but suited up and started on Sunday. He isn't 100 percent, but found a way to play and contribute to a team that needs his services.

Smith's surgery means more snaps for rookie Clive Walford, who is coming into his own as a blocker and receiver.

Other Raiders inactives: CB Dexter McDonald, WR Rod Streater, OL Matt McCants, RB Roy Helu, LB Neiron Ball and TE Gabe Holmes.

What's next: The team's two-game road trip continues with a contest against the Tennessee Titans, who lost to the Jacksonville Jaguars on Thursday night and fell to 2-8 on the season.

Punchless Raiders drop 3rd straight, 18-13 to Lions

By Noah Trister

November 22, 2015

DETROIT (AP) — Derek Carr and the Oakland Raiders are falling behind in a forgiving race for an AFC playoff spot.

Carr was held to 169 yards passing and Amari Cooper managed only one reception as the Raiders lost 18-13 to Detroit on Sunday. Oakland remains within striking distance of a wild card, but the Raiders have dropped three in a row and looked inept offensively during a scoreless first half against the Lions.

"That just can't happen," Carr said. "We can't do that to our defense."

The Raiders (4-6) finished with 214 yards and 13 first downs, both season lows. Their only touchdown came after an interception by Carr was negated by a defensive holding penalty. Oakland led 13-9 before Detroit's Matthew Stafford ran for a 5-yard touchdown early in the fourth quarter.

The Raiders gave up a safety with 7:31 remaining when Donald Penn was called for holding in the end zone. The Lions took the ensuing free kick and ran out the remaining time.

Oakland hasn't made the playoffs since the 2002 season, when the Raiders went to the Super Bowl. They now trail Buffalo (5-4) by 1 1/2 games for the last wild card in the AFC, with the Bills playing Monday night. Oakland can certainly remain in the mix for a postseason spot with a strong finish, but the Raiders dropped a winnable road game Sunday.

"Just not in sync, not operating the way we expect to operate. We had two delay of games, just not showing awareness of the clock," coach Jack Del Rio said. "Just a little off in some of those situations."

Oakland had only 91 yards of offense in the first half and trailed 9-0 after two quarters. The Raiders scored early in the third on a 1-yard run by Latavius Murray. That 80-yard drive nearly ended when Carr was intercepted, but a holding call on defensive back Nevin Lawson allowed the Raiders to keep possession.

Sebastian Janikowski made field goals of 48 and 56 yards in the third, but Stafford's touchdown put the Lions (3-7) back ahead.

After a penalty on a punt forced the Raiders to start at their, Penn was flagged for holding Ziggy Ansah in the end zone, and the safety made the score 18-13.

"We did a lot of soul searching, because we were one of the best defenses in the NFL last year and we weren't close to that this season," Detroit defensive lineman Jason Jones said. "We knew we needed to get ourselves back to that level, and I think we've done that in the last couple weeks."

After a free kick, the Lions drive into Oakland territory, and Joique Bell ran for a key conversion on third-and-3 from the 19. After the 2-minute warning, Bell broke free for an 11-yard run that allowed Detroit to kneel out the rest of the clock.

Cooper was targeted four times and caught only one pass.

"I think they tried to roll up on him a little bit. He ended up having just one ball. He dropped a couple," Del Rio said. "Obviously, he's a good player for us. We need to find ways to get him more involved. For him to come out of a game with one catch, we've got to do a better job there."

Matt Prater made field goals of 29, 41 and 51 yards for the Lions. The last kick came in the final seconds of the second quarter. Stafford completed a 36-yard pass to Calvin Johnson on third-and-15 to put the Lions in range.

Detroit made it to the Oakland 1 on its first possession of the game before being pushed back by a holding penalty and settling for a field goal.

NOTES: Detroit's Golden Tate had eight receptions for 73 yards and Johnson made five catches for 88 yards. ... Raiders C Rodney Hudson (ankle), RB Taiwan Jones (knee) and CB Keith McGill (ankle) were injured during the game.

Looking into Jack Del Rio's past for clues about the future

By Jerry McDonald

September 13, 2015

From the time he was a kid growing up in Hayward until his early 30s, Jack Del Rio was too busy playing football to think much about coaching it.

But it's telling that his coaches, from youth sports to Hayward High to John Robinson at USC, remain close friends and mentors. As his career as an NFL linebacker progressed, Del Rio began to see himself as a budding NFL head coach.

He learned about enthusiasm and dedication from Jimmy Johnson while a member of the Dallas Cowboys from 1989 to 1991. Then he moved on to the Minnesota Vikings, where head coach Dennis Green, defensive coordinator Tony Dungy and offensive coordinator Brian Billick provided a triple shot of coaching philosophy and wisdom.

Yet upon retirement, after Johnson had cut him from the Miami Dolphins in 1996, Del Rio was all set to begin his second career as a financial consultant. He'd even spent the previous four offseasons with Merrill Lynch.

But football wouldn't let him go. At Dungy's urging, Del Rio decided to see what the football coaching market had to bear. It was yet another coaching giant, Mike Ditka, who hired him as an assistant with the New Orleans Saints in 1997. (An eight-year stint as head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars would begin in 2003.)

So how will Del Rio, hired by the Raiders in January, fare in his second head coaching stint? We posed that question to the list of top-shelf NFL coaches who helped shape the football leader he is today.

JIMMY JOHNSON

Del Rio signed with the Cowboys in 1989 after two years with the Kansas City Chiefs, the same season Johnson was hired from the University of Miami.

Johnson ran a brutally tough camp and turned over most of the roster within three seasons, during which time the Cowboys went from 1-15 to 7-9 to 11-5. Del Rio, a starting linebacker all three seasons, had a role in turning around a failing NFL franchise.

"Jack was smart, tough, very much a leader," Johnson said. "We didn't talk about it at the time, but I could certainly tell he had all the qualities he would need to be a head coach. Later, when he had a chance to be the head coach in Jacksonville, I recommended him highly."

Del Rio recalled Johnson's physical, two-a-day practices in the sweltering heat of Austin, Texas. Regardless of the conditions, Johnson demanded to see a fire from his team every day.

"Jimmy Johnson reminded me of the passion necessary to play at a high level, the commitment necessary," Del Rio said.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio departed as an unrestricted free agent just as the Cowboys were headed to their first Super Bowl championship under Johnson. But he signed on for a second dose of Johnson when the coach joined Miami in 1996.

With the Dolphins, Del Rio learned firsthand that a head coach must make tough decisions. Johnson cut Del Rio because of the presence of Zach Thomas, a fifth-round draft pick out of Texas Tech.

"Releasing Jack was one of the most difficult things I ever had to do in coaching," Johnson said. "I told him I didn't bring him in to be a second-string player, and I had a young player who was ready to start."

Johnson, a Fox Sports analyst, believes Del Rio and defensive coordinator Ken Norton Jr., a Cowboys linebacker alongside Del Rio, will change the way the Raiders play defense.

"At Dallas, we always tried to be aggressive, and if you look at what Ken did in Seattle, I'm sure that's what they have in mind," Johnson said.

DENNIS GREEN

Green was already a Jack Del Rio fan after watching him play at USC, so it was no surprise that he scooped up the linebacker when a contract agreement couldn't be reached with the Cowboys. Like Johnson had been, Green was in his first year as an NFL head coach.

"We knew we were starting a new program, and when you're trying to rebuild, you want guys who are natural leaders," Green said. "That's what Jack brought us. I think maybe there was a perception his career was over, but we didn't feel that way."

The Vikings went from 8-8 to 11-5 in Green's first year. Del Rio's four-season stretch in Minnesota was his longest with an NFL team.

Green, having worked for the 49ers and Bill Walsh, believed in keeping players fresh with less contact during practices and more work in the classroom. Del Rio responded with his only Pro Bowl season in 1994 at age 31.

"If you're going to run around and be a speed team, you have to be fresh to do that," Green said. "Jack not only helped us, but established his own name as a player."

Green, who was close with Al Davis and whose name came up periodically in Raiders coaching searches, likes Del Rio's chances of turning things around in Oakland.

"He's got to come in and be very insistent. If you want to have the least number of penalties, be insistent on it," Green said. "You want to rely on the tradition of what has been established. I don't care if it was 20 years ago, it's there."

"It's what Al always wanted, and it's a shame he's not here right now because Jack is the kind of guy he's always respected, and he's going to do a great job."

TONY DUNGY

Dungy, Green's defensive coordinator in Minnesota from 1992 through 1995, was the first person to put the bug in Del Rio's ear about coaching when he took over the head job in Tampa Bay.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I told him it's something I thought he'd be good at," Dungy said. "He was intrigued but wanted to play another year. Then Jimmy signed him in Miami, and I was never able to coach with him."

As middle linebacker of the Vikings, Del Rio did more than simply digest Dungy's weekly game plan.

"He was one of those guys who was always wondering not only what we were going to call, but why we were going to call it," Dungy said. "He had a lot of suggestions, and it was a lot of fun coaching him."

Dungy, who led the Bucs to an NFC championship game but didn't win a Super Bowl until he had moved on to the Indianapolis Colts, believes Del Rio's first go-round as a head coach will help him with the Raiders.

"You definitely learn things," Dungy said. "I think the second time you have a little more credibility when you go into training camp and into that first game. He is coming to Oakland with a track record, has coached playoff teams. He's seen what does work, what might not work. And a chance to start over again can be invigorating."

While Del Rio may not have known he was going into coaching, Dungy said he was always looking at the Vikings from the perspective of the entire team and not just his own unit.

"Jack wasn't a guy who was there to play his position and nothing else," Dungy said. "He talked to everybody. He built relationships with the entire team."

BRIAN BILLICK

"I wasn't on the defensive side of the ball, but was around him and you knew he was a very smart player. You knew if he was one of those guys who wanted to get into coaching, he could."

Many former players simply aren't aware of the time demands of an assistant coach, with a fraction of the salary they were getting as players.

"A lot of guys say, 'Yeah, I think I'll coach,' " Billick said. "Then they say, 'You mean I don't get Tuesdays off? I have to be here until how late? And you're going to pay me how much?' "

Billick described Del Rio as a "good player who played beyond his ability," and like Dungy, took notice of how he interacted with teammates and coaches.

When Billick became coach of the Baltimore Ravens, he hired Del Rio to coach a group of linebackers that included Ray Lewis, Jamie Sharper and Peter Boulware.

Billick said Del Rio's reputation as a former player carried some weight initially, but that it was his ability to coach and teach that made him a success.

"You have credibility and players respond to it. But then, it's 'What can you do for me?' " Billick said. "I thought Jack would be a perfect fit for Ray Lewis. Jack was such a well-prepared mental player, and I think Ray tapped into that with Jack more than anything else."

Billick said the timing is right for Del Rio in Oakland.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"They've got a quarterback, they've rectified issues with the checkbook, so to speak," Billick said. "There was a price to pay for a few years, and no question Dennis Allen paid for that. But I think now they've got the potential to go forward with a playoff-caliber team."

MIKE DITKA

Ditka never had Del Rio as a player, but had admired his game from afar. Once Del Rio determined the financial consulting business wasn't for him, Ditka was happy to help him stay in the game.

Del Rio's title was "assistant strength and conditioning coach," but mostly it was a way to get him in the building and get started on his career.

"I reached out because he had a good football mind, I knew he was looking for a job, and it was one of the best decisions we made," Ditka said. "We didn't win a lot of games there, but I take the blame for that. We had good coaches, and Jack was one of them."

Del Rio began working with linebackers in his second season in New Orleans, and Ditka said by the end of the season "he was calling the plays," although not listed as the coordinator.

Mindful of his experience in New Orleans, Ditka thinks Del Rio has a chance to do well in Oakland, but realizes it's a tough job.

"Listen, it hasn't been a bed of roses out there," Ditka said. "I don't think somebody is going to come in and wave the magic wand and change it overnight. The trick is to put the pieces into the puzzle. I think that's what they're trying to do right now, and Jack is a good man to start with."

Del Rio to Raiders: Pride of Hayward comes home

By Daniel Brown

January 14, 2015

Hayward High sits 10.1 miles from the Oakland Coliseum. If all is clear on I-880 North, the commute should take less than 15 minutes.

It took Jack Del Rio almost 34 years. But at long last, the East Bay native, whose father worshipped Raiders stars like Ken Stabler and John Matuszak, will be working for his home team.

The Raiders hired Del Rio, 51, on Wednesday to serve as their next head coach. Among the first to hear the news were Del Rio's old pals from Hayward High. Andy Miller, a friend since the fifth grade, said he got a text from Del Rio early Wednesday morning.

Miller declined to read the exact contents of the exchange but said the message was, essentially: I'm coming home and I'm proud to be leading the Silver & Black.

"It's almost impossible to believe. It's something I've been dreaming about since he got into coaching," Miller said. "To have him come home to the Raiders just boggles the mind."

Del Rio, who graduated in '81, was a three-sport star at Hayward High -- football, baseball and basketball -- and remains closely connected to the school. His former teammates include Don Wakamatsu, the Kansas City

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Royals bench coach and former Seattle Mariners manager, who said Wednesday that he was "thrilled for him. I think it's the perfect place."

Del Rio, previously a head coach with the Jacksonville Jaguars, is the second Hayward High graduate to coach in the NFL. Bill Walsh, a Hall of Famer with the 49ers, played running back at the school.

Wakamatsu, like others who knew Del Rio growing up, recall a player who was good at whatever sport he tried. But they stressed that Raiders fans should know their new coach has brains, too.

Miller, now an attorney in Pleasant Hill, remembered playing alongside the linebacker on the freshman football team. The coach had a "very simple defense," he said, so Del Rio sometimes shrugged off one of the three blitz packages being signaled from the sideline.

"Jack would look over at the coach and get the call and then he would ignore what the coach said and then call his own defense," Miller said. "That was as a freshman."

Around that same time, Miller said Del Rio would come over to his house sometimes and sit there drawing up X's and O's on binder paper. He's hoping he still has a few of those schemes in his boxes of childhood souvenirs.

Wakamatsu, who also grew up to coach at the Coliseum -- as the A's bench coach in 2008 -- said Del Rio "had a great feel for whatever game he played. That leads to where he is now. I think he understood defenses. He understood the bigger picture in whatever he did. It's no shock to me that he's doing all this now."

'WE CAN BEAT ANYBODY'

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, played 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker and made the Pro Bowl in 1994 while with the Minnesota Vikings. In his previous stint as a head coach, he went 68-71 (.489) for the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003-11.

Along the way, friends say, he's demonstrated an attitude his father taught him in Little League. Jack Sr. -- even the other boys called him "Pops" -- was a Raiders fan who admired the way John Madden's teams embraced the underdog role.

"That's really where that mindset of, 'We can beat anybody' came from," said Jim Gurule, who was two years behind Del Rio at Hayward High and grew up to become a distinguished rugby coach. "That's very much from the Raiders days and the Super Bowls that they were winning at that time."

Del Rio remains so grateful to his Hayward High mentors that when he coached against the 49ers at Candlestick Park in 2009, he invited former coaches to the game. That included Jim Bisenius (baseball), Charley Kendall (basketball), Joe Fuccy (basketball) and Jeff Rankin (football).

"There's no question the man I am today, the type of coach I am, they all have shaped who I am," Del Rio said at the time. "I definitely appreciate that. I'm talking about Little League coaches, youth coaches, high school coaches, all the way through."

Del Rio had a lot of coaches because he played a lot of sports. He was a sensational shooter in basketball who once hit a turnaround jumper at the buzzer to beat powerhouse Berkeley High. Wakamatsu said he thinks his friend once topped 50 points in a game. ("He was the prototypical 6-foot-4, 240 guard," he joked.)

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio was also a power-hitting catcher/pitcher/first baseman who went on to spend some time behind the plate at USC. His teammates included a wild-armed left-hander named Randy Johnson, who was recently elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

"Randy had wicked movement. He crossed me up once and got me right in the cup," Del Rio once told The Denver Post. "At UCLA's baseball stadium. And, of course, they all delighted in that."

The Toronto Blue Jays liked him enough to draft him in the 22nd round out of Hayward High in 1981, but his high school teammates knew all along that his future was in football. Del Rio proved that on the same field where he'll soon be coaching.

In the NCS 2A championship at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979, the Hayward High Farmers were being tormented by the brilliant short passing game of Miramonte High quarterback Bryan McKeen.

The Miramonte game plan was smart enough to keep rolling away from Del Rio's side of the field. But early in the third quarter, Del Rio solved the riddle, blasted through the line and delivered a clean but potent hit that left McKeen with a broken collarbone.

Hayward went on to beat the Matadors 12-10 for the title.

Miller, who also played in that game, can't believe Del Rio will now be calling NFL plays from the same sideline.

"It's such a Hollywood story," said Miller, a Raiders season-ticket holder since 1995. "I've been imploring him to come save this franchise for a long time. Now, it's a remarkable day today. And my phone has just been blowing up."

Raiders' choice of Del Rio ushers in new era

By Jerry McDonald

January 14, 2015

The Raiders decided on a head coach from their own backyard rather than one from their own building Wednesday.

Jack Del Rio, 51, grew up a Raiders fan with East Bay roots as a three-sport star athlete at Hayward High, which makes for an interesting story even if it has little to do with why he was hired over interim coach Tony Sparano.

An announcement isn't expected until Thursday. According to CSN-Bay Area, the press conference will be Friday.

Del Rio, the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator the past two seasons, was busy lining up possibilities for a coaching staff even before details of a reported four-year contract were being worked out. The Associated Press reported Sparano was told Wednesday morning he was out of the running.

The Raiders interviewed seven candidates for the job, five of them with NFL head coaching experience, before zeroing in on Del Rio and Sparano. Del Rio got the job the morning after a four-hour off-site interview that included owner Mark Davis, general manager Reggie McKenzie and Hall of Fame coach John Madden.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Sparano, who still has a year left on his contract, will be freed to explore other options after posting a 3-9 record and making an impassioned pitch for the job at his postseason press conference.

While Sparano cited a need for continuity, Davis ultimately decided he wanted change given the direction of a franchise which hasn't had a winning season since 2002 and is 11-37 over the past three seasons with 24 of those losses coming by 10 points or more.

The Broncos had the NFL's third-ranked defense in 2014 and were second in 2013. Pro Bowl defensive tackle Terrance Knighton, a pending free agent, said in a tweet, "The Raiders are getting a great damn coach. He will revive that locker room and that organization."

The head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003 through 2011, Del Rio had playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007 with a regular-season record of 68-71. He was fired with a 3-8 record in 2011 and hired the next season as the defensive coordinator for the Broncos.

Former Raiders quarterback and CBS analyst Rich Gannon was a teammate of Del Rio's with the Minnesota Vikings in 1992 and believes the move was a good one.

"I think he felt like he had some unfinished business after the way things ended in Jacksonville," Gannon said. "They made some personnel decisions that weren't the best, he was looking to land in a better place, and I think he thinks he found that in Oakland."

Del Rio is targeting Mike Smith, the former Falcons head coach, as defensive coordinator. Smith was the defensive coordinator under Del Rio in Jacksonville from 2003 through 2007. According to Fox Sports, Del Rio is interested in Marc Trestman as a possible offensive coordinator.

Trestman, who is under consideration for that post in Cleveland, was the Chicago Bears head coach the past two seasons and the Raiders offensive coordinator under Bill Callahan in 2002 and 2003. He also is rumored to be in the mix with the 49ers, where he was offensive coordinator in 1995-96.

In Jacksonville, Del Rio stressed defense and the running game. A defensive coordinator in Carolina for a season before taking over in Jacksonville, Del Rio's teams were considered fundamentally sound but were not known for blitzing heavily.

Gannon thinks Del Rio has the right mindset to deal with a team that has gone a long time without winning.

"He's not going to be a class clown or a comedian," Gannon said. "He's honest, and players won't feel they're having the wool pulled over their eyes. He'll dig in, find out what the issues are and go to work."

A third-round draft pick out of USC, Del Rio played 11 seasons in the NFL for the Rams, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He played in 160 games, starting 128, with 13 sacks, 13 interceptions and 12 forced fumbles.

Del Rio worked his way up through the coaching ranks, starting as a strength and conditioning coach under Mike Ditka in New Orleans in 1997. He became linebackers coach with the Baltimore Ravens in 1999 and was there when the Ravens beat the Raiders 16-3 in the AFC championship game en route to a Super Bowl victory.

The Carolina Panthers made Del Rio their defensive coordinator in 2002 and he was hired by Jacksonville to be head coach the following season.

Other Raiders coaches under contract include offensive coordinator Greg Olson and special teams coordinator Bobby April. Olson is not expected to return and reportedly will interview with Jacksonville to be offensive coordinator.

Raiders' Jack Del Rio creates sound approach

By Ann Killion

August 6, 2015

The music blasts out of the loudspeakers over the practice field behind the Napa Valley Marriott. Rap, some hip-hop, a bit of country and occasionally a classic rock hit.

If it's the last, you know that's the head coach's contribution to the playlist.

"Blue Oyster Cult, Ted Nugent, AC/DC," said Jack Del Rio, who saw many of the bands at the Day on the Green concerts at the Oakland Coliseum when he was growing up in Hayward. "Journey, Foreigner. When you hear classic rock, that's coming from me."

The Raiders' summer soundtrack is significant in a couple of ways. First, it's part of the high-energy, upbeat mood around the team.

"We want them to get used to playing with noise and we also want to connect with guys," Del Rio said. "It keeps the mood light and fresh."

That's a big emphasis with the Raiders this training camp. Del Rio is working — on virtually every level — at changing attitudes, energy levels and mind-sets.

"Everything we're doing is with an eye on creating and sustaining a high-performance environment," he said.

To that end, he also has hired a high-performance coach — Scott Peltin of the firm Tignum — to work with coaches and players on positive energy and mind-set.

"He came in and talked to us about ways to communicate with each other in a positive way," Del Rio. "How you eat, sleep. Everything that has to do with performance."

Del Rio uses phrases like "being mindful" and "bringing positive energy." He's not exactly new-agey but he is employing whatever tactics are available to get his team moving in the right direction. The Raiders have been mired in negativity for too long.

"I'm definitely making a concentrated effort to turn the page on all that and look to the future," said Del Rio, who went as far as asking the alumni who visited camp not to discuss past failures. "This is one of the many ways that we're going to invest in ourselves, in creating the best environment possible for players and staff."

Del Rio has collected ideas and strategies for years. From his playing days, his days as the head coach in Jacksonville, his time as Denver's defensive coordinator.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I definitely am far more prepared now," he said. "You're able to spend some time and think through how you'd do it if you got another opportunity. And apply some of those lessons."

So you'll see a little Denny Green, some Jimmy Johnson, a dash of Pete Carroll (who plays music at his practices). Some Bum Phillips, who taught Del Rio that players respond better if they feel like their coaches truly care about them.

And some John Wooden, a legend Del Rio admires. In Jacksonville, Del Rio had Wooden's Pyramid of Success on the locker room wall and he might introduce it to the Raiders.

"I believe in building a team that way," Del Rio said of the pyramid, which has a foundation of strong character traits. "It's simple. It's wisdom."

Del Rio is also pleased with the current $8 million investment to improve the team's Alameda training facility, something he convinced owner Mark Davis was mandatory.

"We want to create an environment where coaches are excited and players are excited about coming to work every day," he said.

Del Rio speaks and carries himself with more authority and swagger than any other head coach in the Raiders' recent history. He seems comfortable in his own skin, comfortable enough for a little sartorial splendor, like the cool white Stetson — complete with black Raiders hatband — he wears to deal with the Napa sun. (Del Rio was the only head coach besides the 49ers' Mike Nolan to wear that black Reebok suit on the sideline a decade ago).

Of course, Del Rio played at USC and had a long NFL career as a linebacker. His exterior confidence is similar to Jim Harbaugh's, though he has a much more extensive NFL coaching resume and doesn't seem to have the manic Harbaugh tendencies. But the swagger is similar.

What's the other reason a little shot of Aerosmith's "Dream On" coming over the Napa loudspeakers is relevant?

Because it's a nod to Del Rio's roots, planted deep in the East Bay, including at those Bill Graham productions on the same field where his team will play this season. Del Rio also has roots in Napa, where his grandfather had a farm not too far from the Raiders' training grounds, before the valley's wine boom. He has had old friends stop by training camp to say hello.

Sometimes, Del Rio finds himself overwhelmed at his new position, coaching his childhood team, wearing the colors he loves, surrounded by the familiar.

"Yes, I get sentimental at times," he said, "because it's so cool to be home."

Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio still hero in Hayward

By Vic Tafur

January 21, 2015

It's been a week since Jack Del Rio was named head coach of the Raiders. He's been busy doing all the things required of an NFL coach, which hasn't given the East Bay native much of an opportunity to relive his glory days in Hayward or reach out to all the people who helped him along the way.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

But he will.

“Overwhelming,” Del Rio, 51, said of the reaction in his hometown. “It’s been great. They’ve all reached out. I haven’t had the time or chance to really sit and take it all in because it’s a whirlwind. ... Just a text response saying, ‘Thank you, appreciate that.’”

While Del Rio has been too busy to recount his story of becoming a Bay Area high school sports legend, his former coaches have been more than happy to do so.

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, graduated from Hayward High School in 1981 after a trophy- and accolade-filled career that saw the Farmers take home seven consecutive Hayward Area Athletic League titles in three sports: football, basketball and baseball.

The greatest ever?

Charley Kendall, the basketball coach at Hayward High in Del Rio’s junior and senior seasons, thinks tales of Del Rio should be told throughout the region.

“There is a real argument that Jack was the greatest athlete in the history of NorCal high school sports,” Kendall said. “Nobody was as good in all three sports.”

Former Farmers defensive coordinator Jeff Rankin agrees.

“He is the guy,” Rankin said.

Rankin said it was borderline cruel for opposing players to go against the muscular 6-foot-3 Del Rio at linebacker.

“Right from the beginning, it was amazing how much better he was than the people he was going against,” Rankin said. “It really was a man going against boys. Jack was too strong, too fast, too smart.”

“People like to say John Elway was the greatest all-around Bay Area athlete, but he couldn’t play basketball like Jack did,” said Joe Fuccy, Del Rio’s basketball coach his sophomore season. “Jack had great body control and could knock down 17-foot jumpers all day.”

A born leader

Fuccy, who said Del Rio could have started as a freshman, made Del Rio a co-captain.

“Some of the seniors on the team didn’t like that, but it was clear he was a leader and I wanted him to be in that role,” Fuccy said. “It was a nonissue. He was great.”

“He wasn’t afraid of it,” Rankin said.

Kendall said Del Rio made his job easier as coach.

“He was the first one to kick his teammates in the butt if they didn’t play hard,” Kendall said. “I never had to.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Del Rio primarily knocked down jumpers but also dunked during a game in which Hayward High reportedly became the first school to score 100 points against perennial power McClymonds-Oakland.

All the coaches interviewed said basketball was clearly Del Rio's favorite sport, but "there are no 6-foot-4 power forwards in the NBA," Rankin said.

Del Rio saw that his future was in football, even though he also might have cracked the major leagues as a power-hitting catcher. He was even called on to pitch to bail out an injured staff. He struck out 16 in a playoff game against Mission San Jose-Fremont.

"No question he would have made the major leagues if he stuck to baseball," former Farmers baseball coach Jim Bisenius said. "He was so smart that I could tell, whichever sport he chose, one day he was going to be a coach."

That's the same career path blazed by another Hayward graduate, onetime Farmers running back and 49ers Hall of Fame coach Bill Walsh.

Besides dominating in three sports, Del Rio also found time to work at the student newspaper and was sports editor his senior year.

"All the kids in school looked up to him," said Kendall, who supervised students on the newspaper. "But he was never arrogant and was good to everybody around him."

And there were plenty of chances to get a big head: buzzer-beating jump shots; tackles that led to a North Coast Section 2A Championship defeat of Miramonte at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979; two home runs in the HAAL playoffs at Chabot College (which has major-league dimensions); being drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in the 22nd round of the 1981 draft.

Del Rio instead chose a football scholarship to the University of Southern California, where he also played baseball and caught for Hall of Fame pitcher Randy Johnson.

Del Rio went on to play 11 years at linebacker in the NFL for the Saints, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He had three stops as an assistant coach before being the head coach in Jacksonville from 2003 to 2011.

Staying true to his school

But Del Rio also kept a foothold in Hayward.

"I'm still close with all my high school coaches from Hayward High," Del Rio said. "They all had an impact on me."

Del Rio has had former coaches and teammates as his guests at Jaguars games, in Jacksonville and on the road.

"He appreciates loyalty," Fuccy said. "And he is extremely loyal himself."

Del Rio has hosted golf tournaments and luaus to raise money for the Hayward High football program in the past 10 years, and current Farmers coach Justin Redemer said Del Rio often makes donations "out of his own pocket."

"The name Del Rio means something in Hayward," Rankin said. "And hopefully it will for the Raiders as well."

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR BILL MUSGRAVE

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Raiders' Bill Musgrave has offense clicking

By Ann Killion

November 5, 2015

A quarter century ago, a solid quarterback from Oregon was drafted by the Dallas Cowboys but was cut in training camp.

Turned out to be the greatest thing that ever happened to Bill Musgrave.

The Raiders' first-year offensive coordinator ended up in offense nirvana. Because someone named Joe Montana was placed on injured reserve in late August 1991, the 49ers needed an extra quarterback.

That quarterback was Musgrave, who was signed to the practice roster and ended up spending four years with the 49ers. He was quiet; the beat writers privately called him "Muskrat" with a dry sense of humor.

But he was soaking it all in, learning offense from first Mike Holmgren and then Mike Shanahan, sharing a quarterback room with Montana and Steve Young and Steve Bono, even playing tennis in Atherton with Bill Walsh and Montana a few times.

"Definitely the right place at the right time," Musgrave said. "It was just a tremendous experience for me to witness all of that."

There have been moments in the past two weeks when the Raiders' offense has clicked, dare we say it, like a well-oiled West Coast machine, with Derek Carr directing traffic, moving the ball down the field, short passes, long passes, runs. The Raiders are eighth in points per game and 10th in passing yards per game.

Musgrave, who followed Shanahan to Denver in 1995 and who coached for Ray Rhodes and George Seifert, among others, considers himself a West Coast disciple.

"We have quite a bit of that language," Musgrave said. "We're a hybrid."

He even runs a play named for his old teammate, John Taylor. And some plays straight out of the Walsh archives. Musgrave has evolved and a huge influence came last season when he was the quarterbacks coach in Philadelphia.

"The majority of what we're doing is Chip Kelly stuff," Musgrave said. "Shotgun runs. Shotgun play actions. Derek's really good at that."

Carr was a huge attraction for Musgrave when he was interviewing for the job. Musgrave was looking to become an offensive coordinator again. Jack Del Rio already had hired Mike Tice as offensive line coach before he hired Musgrave.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

It was an intriguing hire because Del Rio had fired Musgrave after two seasons in Jacksonville. Their current working relationship shows that, despite evidence to the contrary, football men can put aside egos and past feelings to work together.

“I was excited for the original opportunity in Jacksonville and enjoyed those two years and wish I’d done a better job to make it last longer,” Musgrave said. “When we did lose games, it was when the offense fell short. It was an objective decision made by Jack that I completely understand. I wanted to win as much as him. Over the years, we moved on. Both of us.”

Over the years, Musgrave was tagged as a run-first coordinator. He traces that to his three years with the Minnesota Vikings.

“Anyone would be when you have Adrian Peterson,” he said. “One thing I’ve learned is that we need to think of players first and then plays. You need to know your roster and where your strong suit lies.”

“Definitely a strong suit,” he said with a smile.

“He’s an amazing kid,” Musgrave said. “There are guys that are able to come off the field and not be surprised by anything, who see the game better on the field than the coaches on the sideline or in the press box.

“John Elway used to come off the field and say, ‘The O linebacker came through the B gap,’ and all of us on the sideline hadn’t seen that detail. Derek’s like that.”

Musgrave was Elway’s backup in Denver. Musgrave was hurt at the end of 1996 season, when Junior Seau sacked him, basically ending his playing career. Rhodes called him and asked him to come to Philadelphia, launching his coaching career.

Now he’s back in the Bay Area, and being here has brought up plenty of memories of his early years, trying to toss rolls of tape into the top of the goalpost (a favorite game of the 49ers’ quarterbacks) or hiding teammates’ bikes in the trees in training camp at Rocklin.

And most of all, sitting in a quarterbacks room with some of the greatest quarterbacks and coaches of all time and soaking up the lessons.

It was a hell of a laboratory in which to work at age 23. Now Musgrave is running his own lab.

Raiders rookie LB Neiron Ball has persevered through crisis after crisis

By Bill Williamson

June 9, 2015

Tuesday marks the first day of what Neiron Ball hopes will be many minicamps in his NFL career.

Four years ago, the idea of practicing football suddenly became insignificant in Ball's world.

"Football wasn't on my mind much, I was just trying to live," Ball said in a telephone interview Monday after working out at the Oakland Raiders' facility. "I just wanted to live."

After dealing with unspeakable tragedy as a child, Ball, a high-energy outside linebacker, was preparing for his sophomore season at the University of Florida when he had to stop a workout.

"I developed a headache and was feeling off balance," Ball recalled. "I was sent home to rest and I never felt any better. I was taken to the emergency room and then everything was discovered and it all got kind of fuzzy after that."

Ball underwent emergency brain surgery after physicians discovered that he was bleeding on his brain. Ball was diagnosed with a rare condition called an arteriovenous malformation (AVM). It's a congenital condition in which the brain's blood vessels get tangled and rupture.

It was another in a series of shocking, life-altering events for Ball, then 18-years old.

When he was 6, Ball's mother, Johanna, who was fighting cancer, died on Mother's Day after suffering a heart attack.

Three years later, Ball's father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer. Soon after, Ball watched his father have a sudden seizure. He died that night.

"When Neiron had his brain surgery, it was so tough to see," said Dary Myricks, Ball's brother-in-law. Myricks, who entered Ball's life when Ball was a toddler, was a high school football coach in the Atlanta area. Myricks also became a father figure to Ball after his dad died.

"This is a kid who has gone through a lot in life -- a lot," Myricks said. "He's seen so much death. ... For him to be dealing with an uncertain future, it was just so hard to watch."

However, the surgery was a success and physicians assured Ball and his family he eventually would be able to resume a normal life. Ball sat out the 2011 season. Physically, he focused on regaining his balance and dealing with some sensitivity to light. Myricks credits the Florida coaching staff for sticking with Ball and helping him focus on his academics while he recovered. A year later, he was cleared to resume playing football.

"I will never forget the day I was cleared," Ball said. "It was one of the greatest moments of my life. I will always cherish it."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Doctors told Ball and his family that while there is a small chance of a recurrence of his AVM, it's highly unlikely. Myricks said physicians assured the family that football presents no specific danger because of Ball's condition, and if he were to have a complication, it would be just as likely to occur if he were mowing the lawn as if he were running on a football field.

Once he resumed football, Ball continued to excel for the Gators. Even though his 2014 season was cut short with a knee injury that required microfracture surgery, Ball was closely scouted. He had an excellent showing at the Florida pro day and he visited about a dozen NFL teams prior to the Raiders taking Ball in the fifth round on May 2.

"NFL teams did their homework on him medically," Myricks said. "It was an emotional day when the Raiders took him. It was such a long road.

"But to me, what I think the Raiders are getting in Neiron as much as a good football player, is a great kid. He's a great kid. The Raider Nation should feel good that he is going to represent them and the people who drafted him well."

Myricks said Ball's ability to get through the hard times of his life has made him a stronger, more mature person. Perhaps that's one of the reasons Ball continues to make strides after having microfracture surgery, which can come with big complications.

Ball has his sights set on contributing on special teams early in his Oakland career. He is thankful for getting this far.

"I try to get stronger every day in life," Ball said. "I thank God every day for getting me this far and allowing me to function through all of this."

Neiron Ball Is Beating the Odds to Become an NFL Draft Prospect

By Bo Marchionte

March 18, 2015

Former Florida Gators linebacker Neiron Ball spent five years in Gainesville, Florida. The fifth-year senior is now doing NFL Draft Prep (training) at Bommarito Performance Systems as he readies himself for his Pro Day which is slated for April 7th. What Ball is doing is similar to basically every other top prospect across the country making their path towards the NFL Draft.

That is where the similarities stop.

"I didn't want to die," said Ball.

It first began with pain in his neck during practice. The throbbing discomfort continued to persist in the morning session and led Florida head trainer Anthony Pass to send Ball home for some rest.

Ball left practice on Valentines Day (2011). The unbearable aching did not cease for Ball. It only worsened as the day continued on.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Excruciating,” said Ball referring to the pain he felt. “I could not even look down. My initial thought was I just want this pain to go away. I was hoping it wasn’t life threatening.”

It was the last thing Ball expected to encounter after leaving Jackson High School (Georgia) as a four-star recruit who the Gators envisioned as their future defensive end.

“Football wasn’t even a thought when I was going through that,” said Ball. I wasn’t just trying to survive.”

Ball woke up the next day and doctors determined he had a rare medical condition known as arteriovenous malformation (AVM), where the brain’s blood vessels get knotted and rupture. The bleeding on Ball’s brain could have cost him his life.

Fortunately, Ball recovered and was given another chance at life. He is taking on the next challenge in his path and looking to earn his keep on a 53-man NFL roster.

“It is like a dream come true,” Ball said as he is readying himself for the NFL Draft.

He originally played quarterback growing up and spent some time as a defensive back before moving to linebacker. Former Gators head coach Urban Meyer wanted him to be up front playing defensive end, but that changed once they got him to Gainesville.

“They wanted me to play defensive end,” said Ball. “They saw my athletic ability and that I could drop in coverage and they moved me to linebacker.”

Ball appeared in all 13 games as a true freshman before missing the next year due to his illness. He returned to full strength one year later (2012) and started two games. He continued to work his way back to form and Ball made his first career sack in 2013 against Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston.

In his final season with the Gators, Ball played in nine games, making seven starts. He finished with a career high 49 tackles, three tackles-for-loss, two sacks, two fumble recoveries, and one forced fumble. He missed the last three games of the year after hurting his meniscus that required surgery. Ball was tied for second on the Gators defense in tackles at the time of the injury.

Only a couple short months ago Ball said he “was walking with a limp” and now he is pushing on all cylinders when attacking his 40-yard dash in practice. He arrived at Bommarito Performance System at 217 pounds and added nearly 20 pounds (19) of muscle to his lean frame.

“My rehab went well,” stated Ball. “I’m training for my drills. I feel good. Injuries come and go.”

With a clean bill of health, Ball can now focus on his Pro Day and the chance to impress the teams that attend.

“I’m able to play in the box,” says Ball referring to some of the qualities scouts will revel in when breaking down Ball as a player. “I can drop in coverage and plus I can rush the passer.”

Ball’s versatility is his ticket to the next level as a three-down linebacker. In a league that emphasizes the passing game the talent Ball brings to the table plays well in his favor. He can be stout against the run and use his size (6-foot-3, 236 pounds) to show his fluid smooth hips and quick feet to drop in coverage. Those intangibles few possess at his position, but Ball is not a one-trick pony. He can do it all.

“I really like Von Miller (Denver Broncos) and Jamie Collins (New England Patriots),” said Ball. “I really like to watch those guys. I kind of remind myself of them and Justin Brown (Kansas City Chiefs) too.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Each one of those linebackers he mentions are able to stay on the field and provide their respective teams with three-down play at an extremely high level.

In limited action throughout his career at Florida and rehabbing his injury, Ball was still an invitee to the NFL Scouting Combine. It validates the potential NFL teams see in Ball. Projected to be a fourth to sixth round pick, his Pro Day will be paramount in determining his value on draft day.

Ball anxiously awaits the opportunity to display his array of talents to NFL Scouts, and conquer another obstacle in his path.

Raiders' Neiron Ball has Already Overcome Insurmountable Odds

By Sean Bialaszek

May 5, 2015

With the 161st pick in the NFL Draft, the Oakland Raiders selected Neiron Ball, an outside linebacker from Florida. The pick wasn't the most highly regarded, but after everything he's gone through, finding a role on an NFL team seems like child's play.

Ball stands 6'2", and tips the scales around 235 pounds. In his college career, he totaled 5.5 tackles for loss, three sacks, an interception, and three pass deflections.

He has NFL size, and is versatile. He played outside linebacker in both 3-4 and 4-3 schemes, and has played inside linebacker as well. Ball possess good speed, and the non-stop motor that coaches love.

The numbers are not all that impressive, and they won't make your eyes pop. But his story is incredible. He underwent knee surgery last November. Microfracture surgery to be exact, the same procedure that Jadeveon Clowney underwent during the 2014 season. But after everything that Ball went through before that, that surgery seems almost trivial.

The term "lucky to be alive" is used quite a lot, and when it's used, it doesn't always mean exactly what it says. However, when you say Ball is lucky to be alive, you mean it.

Ball lost both parents when he was a child. His mother, Johanna, died when he was six, on Mother's Day in 1998, from a heart attack.

A few years later, his father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer, and underwent surgery on his throat. The nine-year-old Ball had to help his father eat through a tube, and one night during this ritual, Ronnie suffered a seizure, and passed away later that night. He watched his father die.

Ball stuck with football, and eventually became a Florida Gator. He played all 13 games in 2010, his freshman year, in his familiar linebacker spot. But after his inaugural college campaign, he experienced something that nearly cost him his own life.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In a February practice in 2011, Ball was forced to leave practice with a migraine that caused him horrible pain. When the aching persisted, he found himself in the hospital, and had to sit in a dark room, because the pain was just too much to handle.

It turned out that Ball had bleeding in his brain. The diagnosis came back as Arteriovenous Malformation (AVM), which is defined as “a tangle of abnormal blood vessels connecting arteries and veins in the brain.” In other words, the blood vessels in the brain get tangled up, and eventually rupture, causing bleeding.

AVM is a congenital condition, meaning if a person has it, they were born with it. Less than one percent of the population, one in approximately 200-500 people, have the condition. Once the brain starts to bleed for the first time, 10 to 15 percent of people don’t survive. If another hemorrhage were to occur, that percentage vastly increases. Another 30 percent suffer permanent brain damage.

If he hadn’t gone to the hospital, if he had continued on with practice like normal and the bleeding continued and eventually worsened, he might have ended up with irreparable brain damage, or worse.

Surgery occurred a little later for Ball, with surgeons basically untangling the vessels, stopping the bleeding, and putting them back where they’re supposed to be. Ball was essentially fixed, but his journey, another journey, was just starting.

He worked hard in recovery, the same way he worked hard on the field, putting his non-stop motor to use in a different area. Little by little, Ball regained strength, but he missed the 2011 season, and his football future remained in doubt. Even though Ball’s brain condition had been fixed, he had still gone through brain surgery, and there is always that nagging thought that maybe his head can’t take another blow.

He continued his trek back, and in June of 2012, 16 months after his brain operation, he was cleared to play again. Another two months passed before he strapped on the pads again. But one and a half years after a dangerous condition nearly took his life, he suited up and practiced with his team. In 2012, Ball ended up playing 11 games for the Gators, and totaled 10 tackles with his only career interception.

The knee surgery is likely to cost Ball his rookie year, as the recovery for a microfracture procedure can take anywhere from nine to 15 months. NBA players have returned in six months, but that’s a completely different game. It usually takes football players longer to get back. If Ball approaches this recovery with the same vigor and gusto he’s become known for, his return could fall on the lower end of the scale.

Ball may never become an impact player in the NFL. He may never change a game single-handedly. Quite honestly, he may never play a down in the league. But he will work harder than anyone else who steps on the practice field. He has no choice. You never know when it all is going to go away.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Raiders rookie Neiron Ball loving life after nearly losing his

By Vic Tafur

October 17, 2015

Neiron Ball came out of nowhere, which is to say he has overcome many obstacles that would have stopped most people. On this particular day, in a game three weeks ago against the Browns in Cleveland, the seldom-used Raiders rookie linebacker burst through the line to sack Josh McCown.

"It felt really good," Ball said. "My eyes got really big when I saw it coming, And then when it happened, I knew I had to celebrate, gotta make it cool."

So Ball proceeded to dab, a dance move in which he swings his arms up while taking small steps forward and what looks like sneezing into the inside of each arm.

"That's what you do when you are dripping in sauce," Ball said.

Ah yes, dripping in sauce. UrbanDictionary.com defines that as "when one walks around with such an abundance of flavor, swag, style, and extravagance, that they are literally dripping sauce."

Ball, 22, is soaked in sauce now, after shutting down Denver tight end Owen Daniels in a larger role last Sunday. And for him, he is also walking around with an abundance of perseverance, heart and a feeling of raw thrill just to be on the football field. Or walking around at all.

"At one point, I remember thinking that I didn't want to die," Ball said. "I was very scared."

Ball started getting headaches four years ago, during his sophomore season at the University of Florida. Then he felt a pain in his neck. And a loss of balance.

Coaches sent him home from the spring practice, and before the day was out, Ball was in an emergency room at the hospital. A CT scan showed that he had a rare medical condition known as arteriovenous malformation (AVM), where the brain's blood vessels get knotted and rupture.

Ball could have died from the bleeding on his brain, and underwent surgery involving radiation.

He sat out the 2011 season, which wasn't a big concession considering playing football again wasn't high on his list when he was in the hospital.

"Football wasn't even a thought in my mind then," Ball said. "I just wanted to live, and enjoy my life."

When he first got out of the hospital, Ball still had some balance issues as well as being very sensitive to light. He focused on academics the year that he sat out, and the Florida trainers slowly brought him back.

"I know it was tough for him to watch the games he missed," Florida trainer Anthony Pass said, "but Neiron is a guy who you always see smiling. He doesn't stay down for long ... if at all."

Ball credits his sister, Natalie, and the rest of his family for being there for him. They helped him stay patient.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Ball was cleared for the 2012 season.

“One of the greatest days of my life,” Ball said. “To go from the emergency room wondering if you are going to live, to working hard to try to get football back, to being cleared. ... It’s something I think back on often.”

Unfortunately, Ball had a lot of perspective to draw from as even at 18, he had long been hardened to life’s unexpected attacks.

When he was 6 years old, Ball’s mother, Johanna, died of a heart attack on Mother’s Day. She had been dealing with cancer.

When he was 9, Ball’s father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer and had surgery on his throat. He died one night, hours after Neiron, feeding his father through a tube, saw him have a sudden seizure.

“She made sure I never gave up, worked hard and gave me all the values to help me get where I am today,” Ball said. “What happened to my parents was a terrible thing that I had no control of, but I had control of a lot still.”

Ball pushed to get back on the football field after his surgery (doctors say there is a very slim chance of a recurrence) and his senior year, he had 49 tackles and two sacks in the first nine games. That’s when he tore up his knee.

“That was nothing compared to what I had been through,” Ball said.

The 6-foot-2, 230-pounder came back once again and turned some heads at the NFL combine this year with a 4.50 40-yard dash and 34.5-inch vertical leap.

Florida teammate Dante Fowler Jr., who was picked third in the first round, wanted to yell at scouts and coaches to draft Ball.

“Neiron is freakishly athletic,” Fowler told reporters at the combine. “Any coach would love to get him. I know he’s going to be a surprise.”

The Raiders agreed and drafted him in the fifth round — “great character kid, with a lot of speed and upside,” general manager Reggie McKenzie said — and Ball has been brought on slowly but surely at all the linebacker spots. After playing only a handful of snaps in that win over the Browns, Ball played 36 snaps, 14 more than starting middle linebacker Curtis Lofton, against the Broncos as he took over tight-end-coverage duties.

Oakland had allowed career highs in receptions to tight ends in each of the first four games. Daniels had zero catches on five attempts last Sunday.

“We see the skills that he brings and the work ethic that he has every day and the way that he prepares, so we increased his role,” Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio said. “He did a nice job in his first extended activity.

Ball weighed 215 pounds last season and has added 15. He plans to get up to 240 pounds after a full offseason in the weight room.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"Until then, I am just playing with what I got," Ball said. "Speed."

And one other thing.

"Playing every play like it's your last," Ball said.

A 10-year-old kid, a Raiders rookie and a rare blood vessel disorder

By Jerry McDonald

October 23, 2015

The heart of Angela Ramirez Holmes was already full.

She and her husband, Garrett, had seen the eyes of their 10-year-old son, Andrew, beam upon meeting a professional football player who had successfully beaten the same, rare blood vessel affliction he was now battling himself.

But as Neiron Ball, the Raiders' rookie linebacker, walked toward an awaiting car in the aftermath of that preseason game against the Arizona Cardinals in August, something made him turn back around.

"I want to hang out with you guys. Do you want to have dinner?" he asked the Pleasanton family.

It was Valentine's Day, 2011, when Ball felt a pain in his neck following practice at the University of Florida. That pain morphed into an "excruciating" headache, immediately sending Ball to the doctor.

He was eventually diagnosed with arteriovenous malformation, a congenital defect that leads to blood vessels in the brain becoming knotted and prone to rupturing. The condition can occur in different portions of the brain and varies wildly in terms of severity.

Ball's AVM was alleviated with a radiation procedure called "gamma knife," which targets the affected area. Miraculously, Ball returned to full strength a year later from a condition that can leave its victims disabled -- if they survive at all.

In March 2013 -- a few months before Ball made his first career sack, against Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston -- 8-year-old Andrew went on a family bike ride with his parents and was planning on playing in an afternoon baseball game.

But after Andrew complained of feeling ill and took an unscheduled nap, he woke up complaining of pain in the head and neck. Angela and Garrett raced him to the emergency room. There, his parents were told Andrew's brain was bleeding, and a critical care ambulance transported him to Children's Hospital Oakland.

Brain surgery stopped the bleeding, and doctors diagnosed an AVM. After recovering from the initial rupture, Andrew underwent the same gamma knife radiation procedure that Ball had undergone. But Andrew would be faced with a far more difficult recovery.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

A side effect from the procedure caused Andrew's brain to swell, resulting in paralysis on his right side. Intense sessions of physical therapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy followed. He emerged from the hospital in a wheelchair and braces on his legs.

Angela stumbled upon Ball's story while researching AVMs and contacted the Raiders in hopes of setting up a meeting. The Raiders obliged with a day at training camp. Andrew met with quarterback Derek Carr and other players. He connected instantly with Ball.

"It was like a dream, just amazing. Cool," Andrew said. "I was excited, definitely, to meet someone who is like me."

Ball, 23, had a football autographed by as many Raiders as he could muster for Andrew, even stopping teammates in mid-workout or during medical treatment to sign.

"There was definitely a bond, and it just got stronger as I got to know him," Ball said. "I know how it feels, and I'm on the other end of it. He's just so young, he gives me more inspiration than I could ever give him. I have never seen him when he's not smiling. To see that natural joy is incredible."

The two text each other regularly, with Andrew congratulating Ball for his first NFL sack at Cleveland and again for a strong performance against Denver. His parents presented Andrew with a No. 58 jersey, which he immediately wore for a photo to send to his friend and favorite player.

"I was blown away -- the first person I'd ever seen with a jersey with my name on it," Ball said.

Ball has twice been to the Holmes house for dinner, and he is taking note of Andrew's progress.

Angela said she initially "managed Andrew's expectations" regarding dinner invitations and the like.

"When a 10-year-old hears, 'Call me any time,' he's going to call," Angela said. "But we certainly were not anticipating developing the kind of relationship that has happened."

Ball, who lost both his parents at a young age and had never been to California before being drafted by the Raiders, is partial to Angela's "corn casserole" and grateful for new relationships outside the team setting.

"It's nice to step away, and nice to get a home-cooked meal, too," Ball said. "It's so nice to have their support. ... It feels like family."

The radiation procedure, in Andrew's case, is working slowly. He still has an AVM, but it is diminishing in size and the family hopes he will be AVM-free in 2016. In the meantime, Andrew works on regaining the use of the right side of his body through electrical stimulation and rehabilitation.

In a fall youth baseball league, Andrew is throwing and catching with his left hand. He read a book on former major league player Jim Abbott, who was born without a right hand, and is taking Ball's pep talks to heart.

"He's so positive," Andrew said, "that it makes me want to work harder."

Working hard comes naturally to Ball, who needed a little more than five months to recover from microfracture knee surgery and put himself in line to be drafted by the Raiders.

"I'd heard a lot of bad stories about microfracture surgery and that most people don't come back from it," Ball said. "But I went through a head injury that was life-threatening. It was definitely a smaller bump in the road."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Ball, whose play against Denver may have put him in line to start Sunday against the San Diego Chargers, finds that Andrew's situation helps put things in perspective.

"When he told me he was learning how to catch and throw with the same hand, I was overwhelmed," Ball said.

Ball has recently become popular on the Aneurysm and AVM Foundation Twitter page and is just beginning to realize the impact he has with more people than just Andrew. October is the foundation's Aneurysm and AVM Awareness Month.

At an AVM benefit walk in San Francisco two years ago, the family saw firsthand how destructive the condition can be

"You see a lot of people that are really struggling, people in wheelchairs, people carrying signs for their loved ones that passed away," Garrett said. "It was really, really tough."

Dina Chon, community engagement manager for the Aneurysm and AVM Foundation, said Ball is an inspiration for victims of the condition.

"So few people come out of something like this, like Neiron has, without having to relearn how to walk or talk," Chon said. "It's huge for people like Andrew to see someone who is living his dream, doing what he always wanted to do."

At a visit Wednesday to the Raiders facility, Andrew was starry-eyed at a chance to meet Justin Tuck but went up to Ball like an old friend.

Andrew and his father were invited to a taping of the "Silver and Black Show," with Ball as a guest. Andrew sat alongside Ball at the interview table, and producer Vittorio DeBartolo asked off-camera if he had any tough questions for his friend.

Andrew giggled and said, "When are we going to see an interception, man?"

"You've just got to keep working hard," Andrew said.

"Keep working hard," repeated Ball. "That's what we do."

Why Derek Carr shows maturity beyond his years

By Jerry McDonald

September 13, 2015

Rodger Carr will never forget the sight of his oldest son being greeted by Commissioner Paul Tagliabue at Madison Square Garden on NFL Draft day.

Or the follow-up sight, that of his precocious youngest son, Derek, then 11, making his own Tagliabue moment.

It was April 20, 2002, when the Houston Texans made David Carr the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft. Derek, already brimming with enthusiasm and good at working a room, wasn't about to let the bright lights of the NFL's biggest offseason stage unnerve him.

"He walked up, shook the commissioner's hand and said, 'I'll be back,' " Rodger Carr said.

Rodger let that sink in for a moment then repeated, "I'll be back," shaking his head in amazement before continuing his story.

"When Dave got drafted, Derek was determined to become an NFL quarterback, too," Rodger said. "He was already that focused."

Thirteen years later, Derek goes into his second season as the unquestioned leader of the Raiders. The leaguewide feeling is that he has given the franchise stability at football's most important position for the first time since Rich Gannon retired in 2005 due to a neck injury.

Carr is charged with leading the Raiders out of the wilderness of 12 consecutive nonwinning seasons, 10 of them with double-digit losses, and halting the never-ending conga line of starting quarterbacks.

The Carr family knows all about bad football teams. Taking over as the would-be savior for the first-year Texans, David was 22-53 as a starter in five seasons and absorbed 249 sacks

The way it works with the Carr family is that if you draft one, you draft them all. So every time David hit the deck, there was a collective wince from Rodger, mother Sheryl and brothers Darren and Derek.

Derek, by contrast, was sacked only 24 times in 16 games as a rookie starter, taking more lumps in the win-loss column (3-13) than on the field.

While David's experiences provided the black-and-blueprint, Derek's journey to the NFL has been just as much a family affair. In a world where kids are lucky to have two parents around even some of the time, the Carrs are a tight-knit, deeply religious bunch who are unafraid to keep each other in line.

And back before he was staring NFL stardom in the eye, Derek Carr needed to check himself.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The only reason a second-round pick out of Fresno State could be so polished, and act as if he'd seen it all before, is because he had. David Carr had some successes, but he mostly took a beating. Derek had a front-row seat and unlimited access to information.

The Houston Texans were a first-year expansion team, and it wasn't pretty.

"You hear people saying, 'The Raiders are terrible,' but you don't know what terrible is," Darren said. "I went through the inaugural season with David, and it was bad. Really bad. The Raiders, by comparison, had some talented guys."

David, 34, remains philosophical, without a trace of bitterness. After Houston let him go and signed Matt Schaub, he played for three other teams -- the 49ers, Carolina Panthers and New York Giants. David has a Super Bowl ring and passed for 14,452 yards with 65 touchdowns and 71 interceptions.

"When you get picked first, your team is usually pretty bad," David said. "Some teams climb out of it, some don't. It wasn't until I got to New York until I saw how a team was supposed to be run."

With the Carr family following David to Houston, Derek immersed himself in the life of his older brother. Derek learned the NFL routine, hung out with the Texans and had all the pass codes to the club's facility. Star wide receiver Andre Johnson came to his youth football games.

"I was preparing to play Peyton Manning 14 years ago, and now he's playing Peyton," David said. "He had experience going through all those years before he ever set foot on a field."

The age difference, if anything, made the brothers even closer.

"It makes it OK to be the little brother," Derek said. "If you're three, four years apart, you don't want to be the little brother. You want to beat 'em. I wasn't going to beat David at anything. I loved being around him, and he said, 'I'm going to take you under my wing and show you the way.' "

David remains a go-to for Derek in matters of football and life, and it's a relationship that wouldn't have been possible had it not been for the years between them.

"If we were closer in age, maybe we wouldn't be like this," David said. "I played with Eli Manning and was around him for five years. Eli and Peyton have a great relationship, but it's not like ours. Because they're closer in age, they were kind of doing their own thing, while Derek was jumping in the boat with me, and we were riding together."

Derek maintains that some of the biggest lessons imparted from David came from observation. Sometimes he didn't understand the significance of what he saw until years later. Derek remains flabbergasted that during the NFL scouting process, unattributed reports suggested being David's brother was a negative trait rather than a positive.

"I couldn't believe people were saying this stuff," Derek said. "How could that possibly be a bad thing? What I realized was David was a man of character. I mean, there would be times where he'd be ready to throw the game-winning touchdown, and he'd get hit. Or he'd get sacked eight times in a game."

"I remember going to family dinners after those games, and he never once said, I can't believe he didn't block that guy, or I can't believe he didn't finish that route or tipped the ball to a defender. It finally hit me later, and it blew my mind. Those are characteristics I want to have."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Derek threw the letter away, but he remembers its contents as clearly as he does the Bible scripture he reads regularly.

It arrived in 2010 from Heather Neel, a friend and fellow student with whom Derek had a budding relationship. She was instantly drawn in by Derek's gregarious, outgoing personality, as well as the fact that he espoused the same Christian values.

Yet she'd begun to hear the stories circulating around Fresno State. Derek, quarterback and big man on a campus where his brother was still revered, was getting around. Derek has since opened up to church youth groups in general terms about experiences with parties, women, alcohol and marijuana.

The way they tell it, Derek might have been well on his way to becoming the next Johnny Manziel.

The message of Heather's letter was succinct: "Derek, you're not the man I thought you were."

Sitting on a bench following a training camp practice, Carr shakes his head at the memory of being exposed -- and the anger and regret that followed.

"She caught me," Carr said of the woman who eventually would forgive him and accept his marriage proposal. "I was such a hypocrite. I was the biggest one. I'm glad I'm not anymore."

Derek wasn't only being called out by Heather. His parents and brothers were making their voices heard, even if Derek wasn't ready to listen.

"We had a big altercation about a week or so before that all went down," Sheryl said. "I told him, 'This is not the son I raised, you are not the person I know, and I won't accept it. You're either going to straighten up, or we're going to have problems.' "

"We won't get into details, but we sat down and talked to him ... yelled at him, screamed at him, threatened him," Darren said. "Eventually, only God can take care of him."

David acknowledged that Derek's behavior wasn't out of the norm in terms of the college experience. It wasn't the rebellion and experimentation that was an issue as much as Derek living a different life than the one he professed to lead.

"It would be one thing if he had said, 'I'm a college kid. This is the life I want to live. I'm having fun,' " David said. "But if you're saying one thing and doing another, that's a different story."

Sheryl Joyner didn't have brothers. She grew up with a sister and her father. There were aunts around but no uncles.

"I thought when I had kids, I would have girls," Sheryl said.

Then she met and married Rodger, and life became a parade of sports activities with three sons. First came David then Darren three years later. Nine years after Darren was born, Derek arrived.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The boys remember their dad coming home from long days at work then working them out for various sports under the parking lot lights of a local high school.

"They're all hard workers, like their dad," Sheryl said.

Not surprisingly, Rodger is proud of the football work his boys put in, David at Fresno State and in the NFL, Darren as an offensive lineman at the University of Houston, and now Derek with Fresno State and the Raiders.

"Derek is like his brothers -- he thinks he is going to outwork everybody," Rodger said. "He thinks, 'You might have more talent, but I'm going to outwork you.' "

Sheryl grew up the daughter of a preacher, her life rooted in her Christian faith as well as people in general, and that is reflected in her sons.

"All of them have a spiritual side and a gentle spirit," Sheryl said. "They have a tough, hard-core side on the field -- they'll fight a bear if they have to -- but also a soft, gentle side that can confuse people who don't know them."

Derek, like his mother, is comfortable striking up a conversation with anyone willing to listen and has been like that since a young age.

When the family went to Los Angeles Dodgers games when Derek was barely old enough to talk, he would stand on his stadium seat and recite the names and numbers of Eric Karros, Raúl Mondesí and Mike Piazza to the amusement of fans sitting in the vicinity.

"You'd turn around in the grocery store, and he'd be talking to people he didn't know," Sheryl said. "I'd tell him, 'Honey, you don't know them. You can't talk to strangers like that.' He just loved talking to people -- and he's still that way."

When David was a star at Fresno State, Sheryl became panicked when she lost sight of Derek following a game against Louisiana Tech. Frantic, she finally saw her grade school son walking alone from the visiting team's locker room.

Derek had gone to console Luke McCown, the Louisiana Tech quarterback, whose team had lost to David's Fresno State team.

Derek's explanation, as recalled by his mother?

"I went to the other team's buses. I found the quarterback and told him he did a good job. I didn't want him to be sad."

Derek doesn't think what he did was unusual.

"I just wanted to go up and say, 'Hey, great game, I appreciate what you do,' " Derek said. "I guess I just wanted to tell him I looked up to him."

Added Heather: "He can walk into a room and be friends with everyone. He just has that mentality, and it's genuine. He's a kind, loving personality that cares about everyone."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

At Derek and Heather's wedding, following David's toast as best man, Darren took the microphone and announced, "I'm the other Carr -- I'm Darren!"

As Sheryl said, "He takes it really well."

While David and Darren have the athletic build of quarterbacks, Darren, a former college linebacker, has a thick beard and the body of a man who enjoys dirty work in the trenches.

"I guess he ate all the food growing up, because he took all the size," Derek said. "From the outside looking in, people don't see it, but it's the three of us, all together."

Darren is the head coach at Bakersfield Christian High, where Derek starred at quarterback. David, who was the star quarterback across town at Stockdale High, will serve as Darren's offensive coordinator this fall.

"We'll all sit down, and I'm a sponge, man," Darren said. "It's an absolute blessing to have two brothers that played in the NFL. I think only a couple of other people can say that."

Darren, in fact, once met Cooper Manning, brother of Peyton and Eli, and the two jokingly commiserated on what it's like to be a third wheel.

During a session of the Carr Elite camp in late July in Bakersfield, as Derek, David, Darren and Rodger were instructing players on football and good sportsmanship, Dallas Carr was in constant motion, wearing a T-shirt that said "Never stop moving."

As a newborn, Dallas began throwing up and was diagnosed with intestinal malrotation, a serious condition that is sometimes fatal. Derek called Sheryl in tears, but when doctors came in to inform the Carrs a second surgery was necessary, a calm came over him.

"Heather was sitting in a wheelchair, kind of in shock, and Derek took her by the shoulders and said, 'We're going to go in there, talk to the doctors, figure out what's wrong, and we're going to fix it. Don't cry,' " Sheryl said. "I asked him if he needed his dad and I at the meeting. He said, 'No, mom. This is my family. I'm going to be all right.' "

Derek concedes to being initially terrified, but said, "I had faith everything would be OK. ... Something like that happens, it changes your perspective. Nothing that ever happens in a football game can compare. I'm always going to be the same person."

Dallas eventually made a complete recovery, and the circumstance, according to Darren, "toughened him up."

Heather agreed.

"You just saw this man, this father," she said. "It was incredible to watch how he became our leader, our rock, through the hard times."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In the East Bay neighborhood where Derek lives during the season, it isn't unusual to see him in a local park playing with the neighborhood kids.

"We were visiting him once -- they've got this soccer field and a basketball court -- and Derek knows all these kids, and they all want him to come out," Darren said.

One young friend would come to his door, asking, "Can Derek come out and play?"

At the same time, David knows the cutthroat, competitive side to his brother all too well.

"He'll be at the end of a workout, play a game of H-O-R-S-E with my two boys, and he'll reach this point where, 'There is no way I'm going to lose this game,' " he said.

David calls it Derek's "default mechanism" to push through a difficult situation. Derek said something just comes over him, much as it does on Sunday afternoons in a Raiders uniform.

"There are times when you can mess around and just play catch or something like that, but if I'm competing -- really competing -- I don't know what it is," Carr said. "All of a sudden, I'm dunking on my nephews. It just switches."

Raiders fans have taken notice and are anxious to hitch their hopes to that Carr intensity. No one in the Carr household is surprised at the path the youngest, most precocious Carr brother finds himself on. Even if it took a few wrong turns to get there.

"He enjoys the game and his life so much," his mom said. "The more time that goes by, the more comfortable he gets, the environment will flourish around him because he's at peace."

'Faith, family, football' puts Raiders QB Carr on brink of stardom

By Scott Bair

August 24, 2015

BAKERSFIELD – Derek Carr was born to play quarterback, equipped with a perfect combination of nature and nurture to hone a difficult craft. He was athletically predisposed with size, speed, smarts and a cannon right arm accented with the right amount of touch.

He had guidance worthy of a crown prince, with a father to mentor him early on and an older brother who had already been king. Rodger Carr taught his son about fundamentals and work ethic. David Carr, an excellent quarterback in his own right, bestowed football knowledge and life lessons he experienced as a Fresno State star and an NFL signal-caller to a brother 12 years younger.

Thanks to David's labor of love, little Derek had a blueprint for success. Work hard, stay focused, maximize talent and follow a pre-travelled path to the pros. Do that Derek, and you'll get there. Stumble along the way? Pops and big brother will pick you back up.

Support certainly helped Derek Carr become a Fresno State legend and a Raider with the No. 36 overall pick in last year's NFL draft.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Assuming that made everything easy is oversimplification. Hard times made Derek Carr the man he is today, someone able to weather adversity without crumbling under its weight. That's a trait only discovered by doing.

There was no instruction manual detailing how to handle 10 straight losses to start a pro career or stay above water in tidal waves of change, with three head coaches and two offensive schemes in 12 months. Yet here he stands, on the verge of a second season as Raiders quarterback, confident as ever that this is the start of something great.

There was no instruction manual for how to act with a son at death's door just days after taking his first breath. Yet there he stood at 22 years old, a pillar of strength while baby Dallas spent his first 23 days clinging to life.

While he's learned from his mentors, individual experiences like these make Derek unique and properly equipped to handle the pressure of his current position. He's a person with fixed priorities and overflowing optimism in difficult situations, even when frustration might play better to the crowd.

"People wonder if bad times impact me because I have a smile on my face," Carr said last month in an extended interview with CSNBayArea.com at one of his family's Carr Elite football camps. "Of course they do. They rip my heart out, but I'm going to fight harder than anyone because I lean on my faith in tough times. That's where I find my strength. When a doctor says, 'Dallas might not make it,' all I can do is lean on my faith to keep from crumbling. That's all I know how to do. And I trust it's right because I've seen it come through time and time again."

You've certainly heard that cadence before. It was a common refrain during Derek's rookie press conferences, often combating questions about the wear and tear of a Raiders season quickly circling the drain. The point: Losses ruin Derek's evening, not his entire week.

Football isn't life. It's a game, a job he loves dearly. He's grateful for every moment in a jersey, but it doesn't compare to the time spent with his wife and son.

Derek the quarterback is an incredibly early riser, someone who arrives at the Raiders' Alameda facility with the sun and returns to his Dublin home after it sets behind him.

Carr has the unique ability to leave No. 4 in the car, turning himself over to his wife Heather and son Dallas upon walking through the door.

"It's good to be able to get away from it all," Heather Carr said. "Derek will tell you that football is his job, it's not who he is. That's so true. When he comes home, he isn't NFL quarterback. He's dad. He's husband. We don't really talk about football at home unless he wants to. He doesn't let bad days bleed into his home life. We just get to be family."

Those times are never, ever taken for granted. Whether it's an extra 90 seconds engaged with Dallas or a friendly game of Nerf basketball between husband and wife (please, watch this video), the Carrs try to maximize each minute together.

Through simple pleasantries and grand gestures, Derek and Heather walk an extra mile to honor this dynamic and the three weeks when it was nearly ripped apart.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I always think about those times," Heather said. "You can still see the scar on Dallas' belly and when you do, you just thank God that he's alive. It could have all been taken from us. That's why we cherish every moment we have as a family. We know that, no matter what happens, family will always be our top priority."

Dallas' scar symbolizes a young life saved. The boy was born on Aug. 5, 2013, just before Derek started his senior season at Fresno State. Derek was a Heisman hopeful and the San Joaquin Valley's favorite son, with an NFL gig ahead on a career path paved in gold.

Early, frequent vomiting was the first sign of trouble. It led to panic and eventually a life-threatening diagnosis. Dallas Mason Carr had intestinal malrotation, meaning his intestines weren't properly aligned and cutting off the flow of his digestive tract. Dallas needed surgery, and was taken by ambulance from a Clovis hospital to Children's Hospital Central California in Madera.

He underwent one procedure, then another during a touch-and-go 23-day period that coincided with Bulldogs training camp. Derek rarely missed a practice, and spent most every other minute at the hospital with his wife and son.

The schedule was emotionally and physically draining. It wore on Derek, who broke down several times over the phone with his parents and coaches.

In front of his wife, Derek held strong. He would read Bible verses aloud well into the night, and remained a source of positivity as the couple prayed for a happy ending that was not guaranteed.

"I always had my faith, but that was a real test of it," Derek Carr said. "Everyone knew who we were in Fresno. It was my senior year and everything was going great. Life was good, and we didn't worry about much. Then Dallas' ordeal comes up and it ripped my heart out. At that point, I thought, 'am I still going to be the man I say that I am? Am I going to be strong and be there for my wife and child?' Saying those things is easy. Living and doing can be extremely difficult."

This was, and always will be, Derek's defining moment.

"There was no way to tell him how to get through it," said Rodger Carr, Derek's father. "Derek had to be the man of the house, and he stepped up in a big way. He had things under control and believed God would help him and his family through it. You won't find anyone in the family who didn't have faith Dallas was going to make it.

"That's how we looked at it. We knew Derek and Heather would do their part and that God would do the rest."

Dallas underwent a third procedure in September 2013, but was eventually given a clean bill of health. He recently celebrated his second birthday and carries on with the exuberance of a young child unaware of a scary period that put life in proper perspective.

Faith. Family. Football. In that order. That was something Rodger Carr often told his three young sons.

Before Heather, before Dallas, that mantra didn't belong to Derek. It was something he heard, not advice he heeded. He was a teenager interested in teenager things, especially after enrolling at Fresno State in the footsteps of his famous older brother. He was a rock star before throwing a college pass, especially as a big fish in a small pond.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

After Heather, after Dallas, Derek's priorities came into focus. They all stem from faith. He has faith his family will offer unconditional support. He has faith in his own character and work ethic. Dallas' ordeal taught Derek that his faith in God is a sturdy crutch, one that won't let him buckle under stresses he can't control.

"I knew faith, family and football was my foundation, but I wasn't living by it until I grew up and figured it out on my own," Derek Carr said. "It wasn't people saying things to me. I found the path through experience. I've lived both ways, and I like the path I'm on a whole lot more."

Derek Carr is mature beyond his 24 years, overqualified to survive 0-10 and eventually 3-13 without permanent damage.

Talented quarterbacks have been beaten down by losses, but Derek weathered a trying rookie season with aplomb because he knows that football isn't life. It's just a game, one with problems he can work through.

His optimism and determination never waned, even late in a chaotic season where the Raiders hit rock bottom.

"I am human, and I feel each loss as much as anyone," Carr said. "I hate to lose. There were moments where I took time to be disappointed and admit just how hard winning is at this level. There were times when I'd talk to my brother or my wife about just how difficult all the losing was, but they never lasted long. It does me no good to feel sorry for myself or wallow in disappointment. I didn't worry or stress out because I knew I would keep working and I had faith there were better days ahead."

David Carr experienced his youngest brother's trying rookie season from the couch. He didn't travel to road games and stayed away from Raiders home dates on purpose, to avoid the inevitable comparisons between them. David didn't want cameras searching for a reaction every time Derek did something on the field, so he chose to babysit nephew Dallas while momma and family watched games in person.

It wasn't just games experienced from afar. David Carr has stayed away from Raiders training camps and in-season practices. He was loathe to go on the record last season, while Derek was getting used to life in the league.

"The comparisons between us always come, from his rookie year through each stage of his progress," David Carr said. "I just want him to have his own career and let him do his own thing. I can take a step back, but he knows I'll always be there for him no matter what."

The two still have an open dialogue, and Derek would be crazy not to use David's intelligent football mind. David knows a phone call is coming after road games, when brothers freely discuss what went right and wrong. David typically stays in Dublin after home games, ready to break down tape after baby brother returns from a long, hard Sunday.

They used to do something similar a decade ago, when David quarterbacked the expansion Houston Texans and young Derek was an aspiring signal-caller obsessed with football scheme and strategy. Derek became proficient at X's and O's working with David – Derek even called his own plays in high school -- who also helped him refine form, technique and his life around the game.

David "put extra tools in the toolbox," but Derek now has to build his own house.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“My hands are off,” David Carr said. “If he specifically asks me a question or something comes up in conversation about a coverage or a play, we’ll discuss. He’s pretty savvy chalkboard-wise, but there’s no equal to experience. I’m trying to let his NFL development happen naturally over time ... Hopefully I give him enough information to help him grow, but Derek has to take ownership of himself. He’s done a great job of that since getting drafted.”

Derek Carr’s better for the 16 games played his rookie year, and many believe he’s on the path to stardom with an upgraded supporting cast heading into the 2015 season.

He was far from perfect as a rookie, with plenty to work on as his career advances. Unlike last year at this time, Carr is not the quarterback of the future. He’s the quarterback right now, someone counted on to produce each week.

Teammates and coaches believe in his brand of leadership and have faith he can make strides necessary to spark a Raiders renaissance.

A resurgence won’t happen without quality quarterbacking, but that doesn’t add pressure to this fall’s proceedings.

Outside expectations will never match his own benchmarks, which are sky high because Carr has been to the puppet show and seen the strings. There are no illusions about NFL life and what it takes to succeed.

“It was such a blessing to be able to play all 16 games and gain that experience because now, coming into it, I don’t just have a film point of view,” Carr said. “I have a ‘from where I stood’ point of view. I know what works. I know what I can and can’t get away with. The experience is just a huge factor.”

No matter what he experiences this year, Carr knows he can handle it. He is supremely comfortable in his own skin and the knowledge that faith, family and football will carry him through.

WR AMARI COOPER

BAY AREA NEWS GROUP

With Amari Cooper, Raiders are in good hands

By Daniel Brown

May 7, 2015

ALAMEDA -- Amari Cooper reports for duty Friday with the opening of Raiders rookie minicamp. Fred Biletnikoff, who is already a Cooper expert, expects the No. 4 overall draft pick to get off on a better foot than he himself did back in 1965.

"Oh, I was horrible," Biletnikoff said. "I had a hell of a time making the adjustments. Lots of dropped balls."

Cooper, in contrast, appears ready to make an immediate impact. On draft day, general manager Reggie McKenzie and coach Jack Del Rio described the Alabama star, who officially signed his deal Thursday, as "polished" so often you started to think the Raiders drafted a pair of Oxford wingtips.

Biletnikoff, who recovered from his shaky early Raiders days to earn a place in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, agreed. And he ought to know: Cooper won the honor that bears his name, the Biletnikoff Award, as the top receiver in college football.

"If you know nothing about football, you might not see that he's mature beyond his years," Biletnikoff, 72, said in a phone interview. "But he's a step ahead when it comes to the things required to be a receiver. The way he runs his routes, catches balls, gets open. He can do it against man-to-man coverage or press or zone. This guy is not one-dimensional.

"He can line up inside, outside, right or left and do a good job wherever he is. Jack and Reggie and the staff were dead on when they talked about him."

TOP IN HIS CLASS

The numbers support the case. Pro Football Focus, which analyzed every play and player on the college schedule last season, evaluated 1,800 receivers. They ranked Cooper No. 1, in part because of his complete game.

Playing against top competition while at Alabama, Cooper led the country in targets and receptions and finished second in receiving yards and touchdowns. PFF found a few hidden measures of success, noting Cooper tied for the most missed tackles forced (26) and finished third in total yards after the catch (878).

Del Rio praised Cooper on draft day for his ability to run the entire route tree. PFF determined that Cooper logged 30 catches on screens, 57 on stops, slants, crosses or outs and 16 on posts or go-routes. Half of his catches on post/gos resulted in touchdowns.

As it turns out, Cooper was running those patterns as early as 5 years old. He just didn't know what they were called. In a constant search of ways to juke his friends during backyard games in Miami, Cooper learned the science of planting, cutting, turning and blasting his way out of a break.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"So when I had to run a slant route or a comeback route, which the coach called it, I was already familiar with running and getting open," he says now. "It came easy."

Teddy Bridgewater was among the first beneficiaries. Before he grew up to be the quarterback of the Minnesota Vikings, Bridgewater was a star at Miami Northwestern Senior High, a local football powerhouse.

Cooper was one of his top targets. "He was always in the right place at the right time," Bridgewater recalled.

Bridgewater, in a phone interview, said that the football team's tradition called for the best receiver on the team to wear jersey No. 2. This was hallowed territory. Miami Northwestern receivers over the years have included Antonio Bryant, Brett Perriman and Tony Martin -- all of whom went on to produce 1,000-yard seasons in the NFL.

Bridgewater said that Cooper, well aware of the lineage, set his sights on the jersey early.

"He wound up wearing No. 2 for two years," the quarterback said. "He took pride in running the best routes. And he didn't want to just be the best on the team. He wanted to be the best in the state of Florida."

Cooper's seriousness about his craft can make for stilted conversation. At his first news conference with the Raiders, the 6-foot-1, 211-pounder looked as happy as the last guy in line at the DMV. He barely smiled for photos and answered questions in a quiet monotone.

Reporter: "The team hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver in 10 years. Do you think you can end the drought?"

Cooper: "Hopefully."

Reporter: "You mentioned running routes as a kid. Was the NFL the main dream you had growing up?"

Cooper: "Yes."

And so on.

It was a jarring introduction, but Bridgewater recognized the look. He said Cooper was intensely serious-minded even as a teenager. The two were so determined to follow in the footsteps of the college-bound players from their high school that they treated schoolwork and practice as a job.

The duo proved so influential on campus that they wound up changing the culture of the school. Principal Wallace Aristide credits Cooper and Bridgewater for setting a new academic tone at what had been a sports-focused campus.

Aristide said Miami Northwestern went from annually getting "F" and "D" grades in the state's annual evaluation to becoming the first inner-city school in Miami to receive a "B" grade in 2011.

"People like Amari and Teddy were instrumental in helping us really change the climate," Aristide said. "When you're on campus -- especially one like ours -- the people with the most influence are the football players. Everybody looks up to them."

"And when they carry themselves the right way, they help you sell the importance of academic success. And I think Amari helped us do that here. ... He carried himself around campus like he was all about business. He was a tremendous student when he was here at this institution."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

IN NEED OF A BOOST

Now, the Raiders hope Cooper can transform another moribund institution. Oakland hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver since Randy Moss in 2005 and is coming off a season in which it finished last in overall offense.

The Raiders had only 30 connections of 20 yards or more. The Indianapolis Colts, in contrast, had 78.

Cooper offers some big-play potential. Over three years with the Crimson Tide, he averaged 15.2 yards on his 228 receptions.

He also shown a knack for the end zone: His 31 career touchdowns catches are the most by an SEC player since 1956.

At the scouting combine -- where he ran a 4.42 in the 40-yard dash -- Cooper credited Alabama offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin for making the most of his talents. Cooper said the former Raiders head coach "moves me around a lot, so a team can't really prepare for me. He'll line me up at the H, Z to X, he'll even put me in the backfield to create some mismatches."

Wherever he was, Cooper caught passes -- and attention. As soon as the Raiders called his name, some key voices cheered the selection on Twitter.

Rich Gannon, the former Raiders quarterback and NFL MVP, posted: "(Derek) Carr and Cooper ... Match made in heaven for the Oakland Raiders!"

Another former Raider, Hall of Fame receiver Tim Brown, wrote: "Young brother! Welcome to the dark side! If you need me I'm here for you!"

Chad Johnson, the six-time All-Pro receiver wrote: "Who's the offensive coordinator in Oakland? It's a blessing to have a receiver you don't have to move around to get open."

Biletnikoff isn't of the social media generation, but he, too, was enthusiastic in his review. With Cooper and fellow Biletnikoff Award winner Michael Crabtree added to the mix, the former Raider expects Carr to enjoy a breakthrough season.

"Derek's confidence has to be going sky high," Biletnikoff said. "You know how pitchers can get by as long as guys are making plays behind them? It's the same way with quarterbacks.

"You catch the ball for him, he's going to win some games. And Amari can catch the football as well as anybody."

SANTA ROSA PRESS DEMOCRAT

Raiders expect an elite wide receiver with Amari Cooper draft pick

By Phil Barber

April 30, 2015

OAKLAND — Derek Carr made great strides during his rookie season, cementing his place as the Raiders' quarterback for years to come. Carr may have taken another leap Thursday, without even stepping on the field.

With their young passer in mind, the Raiders used the No. 4 overall selection in the NFL Draft to acquire something they haven't had since the days of Rich Gannon flinging the football to Jerry Rice and Tim Brown: an elite wide receiver.

In Alabama's Amari Cooper, the Raiders got a guy whose epic college production is matched only by his NFL-quality route-running and reading of coverages, according to the scouts.

"He can run a route," Oakland general manager Reggie McKenzie said after making the pick. "Seems like he can do that with his eyes closed. He's exceptionally quick, he's fast and he understands the game. You can tell the guy's been playing football and playing that position all his life."

A fact quickly confirmed by Cooper, who explained on a conference call that he started to take his routes and cuts seriously when he was 5 or 6 years old, even before he had played organized football; by the time he joined a youth team in Miami in third grade, he had only to learn the names of the routes.

That team happened to have a couple of good running backs, including the coach's son, so Cooper tried his hands at wide receiver. He's never wandered from the position. The Raiders, in essence, are getting an athlete whose entire life has prepared him to catch passes in the NFL.

"It's unusual when words like polished are thrown out," Oakland head coach Jack Del Rio said. "But that's what you see. He's been lined up all across the board: outside, both sides, inside in the slot, moved around, even lined up in the backfield some. He's been exposed to a lot and utilized a lot of different ways. He's run the entire route tree."

Cooper is fast (4.42 seconds in the 40-yard dash at the scouting combine), but there are other receivers in this draft who can outrace him. He has good size (6-foot-1, 211 pounds), but won't tower over most NFL cornerbacks.

What set Cooper apart were his technique, his "football IQ" (if you can pardon the cliché) and his college production, the latter being light years ahead of the Raiders' previous top-10 pick at wide receiver, Darrius Heyward-Bey in 2009.

Alabama has been known as a run-first team for ages, but head coach Nick Saban and offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin – remember him, Raiders fans? – changed the philosophy with Cooper in the arsenal. The Crimson Tide targeted the junior an astounding 178 times in 2014. Cooper caught 124 of those passes (best in the nation) for 1,727 yards (tops among draft-eligible players) and 16 touchdowns (ditto).

Sometimes the college receivers with the biggest numbers are products of their offenses. That doesn't seem to be the case with Cooper, who is beloved by most NFL analysts.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

College Football Focus, which breaks down film of every FBS game, had this to say about Cooper: “He can use his hands at the line to defeat the jam and contact from defensive backs like it’s already instinct. This is something most college receivers struggle with and it takes them a while to learn it in the NFL. Cooper is already a master.”

CFF added this appraisal of Cooper’s mental game: “He also shows a fantastic understanding of defenses and zone coverage, knowing exactly what he’s looking at and when to throttle down to sit in an open space.”

“I’m a wide receiver,” Cooper said. “There are only two ways you can get open at wide receiver, your releases and the top of your route. The whole route-running process is really important. I just focus on it and try to be the best that I can at it so I can create as much separation as I can for my quarterback.”

In other words, Cooper is NFL-ready, maybe the most NFL-ready player on the entire board.

That’s great news to new Raiders offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave, who is charged with adding some zip to an offense that ranked 26th in the NFL with 204.7 passing yards per game last season, 31st in scoring with 253 points and dead last with 30 completions of 20-plus yards.

Carr already had a stable of decent young receivers like Rod Streater, Andre Holmes, Brice Butler and tight end Mychal Rivera, and a proven newcomer in Michael Crabtree. But none of them is a clear No. 1 receiver. The Raiders hope they have found their top dog in Cooper.

The void he seeks to fill goes back for more than a decade. Oakland hasn’t had a 1,000-yard receiver since Rice totaled 1,211 in 2002. That also happens to be the last time the Raiders made the playoffs.

The first two picks of this draft offered no surprises, with a pair of quarterbacks, Florida State’s Jameis Winston and Oregon’s Marcus Mariota, going to Tampa Bay and Tennessee, respectively. When the Jaguars took outside linebacker Dante Fowler at No. 3, the Raiders had at least a couple of strong possibilities: Cooper and Leonard Williams, the USC defensive lineman that some touted as the top talent in the draft.

Surprisingly, trading down might not have been much of an option. McKenzie said he got plenty of calls leading up to the draft, but none when the Raiders were on the clock.

To hear the general manager tell it, Williams wasn’t strongly debated either. The Raiders had targeted Amari Cooper, just as his quarterbacks did 178 times last year.

Raiders' Michael Crabtree 'blessed' to have a fresh start

By Vic Tafur

September 13, 2015

It was time for a new beginning, so Michael Crabtree packed his belongings this spring and moved. About 40 miles.

The former 49ers receiver relocated from San Jose to San Francisco, to be closer to his new team, the Oakland Raiders. It has seemed like a much longer journey, considering how well Crabtree has fit in with his new team heading into Sunday's season opener against the Bengals.

At training camp and in the preseason, he is looking again like the sure-handed threat who had 85 catches for 1,105 yards in 2012.

"It's been a great move, for both parties," Crabtree said, in a one-on-one interview with The Chronicle. "I feel really good about it. ... Blessed, really."

For the first time in years, Crabtree is healthy in body and healthy in spirit, done with what he thought was a lot of negativity on his old team.

"A lot of people don't know that the Niners offered me a contract, I just didn't take it," Crabtree said. "I wanted a fresh start. It was more money too — the Niners offered me more money than anybody did — but business is business and I wanted to come to a team that really wanted and needed me."

He is excited about how the Raiders have come together the last few months.

"I like the guys around me and I would do anything for them, on or off the field," Crabtree said. "We're going to have fun."

Crabtree might have been misunderstood with the 49ers, at times labeled a diva or a malcontent. And he can be hard to read at times, as Rodney Baker, the executive director of Crabtree's charitable foundation, will attest.

"If you know him, he is going to show you love," Baker said. "But if he doesn't know you, he doesn't know you. As Mike likes to say, he is an authentic guy. He is not going to pretend, or try to pretend."

With the Raiders, Crabtree immediately hit it off with quarterback Derek Carr. Crabtree knew Derek's brother, David, when they were teammates in San Francisco, and immediately liked Derek's competitive nature.

"Little brother has a chip on his shoulder," Crabtree said, laughing.

Crabtree and Carr always seem to be in the other's ear on the practice field.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“He’s awesome, one of the coolest people I’ve ever been around,” Carr said. “He makes catching look really boring and easy. It’s like catching the ball is something he has to do so he can have it. I can’t say enough good things about him.”

Crabtree doesn’t want to take shots at any of his former teammates but sometimes he can’t help it.

“I needed new scenery. It wasn’t for me,” Crabtree said. “I needed a quarterback that can deliver the ball, and that was hungry like I was.”

“With all the stuff going on on the other side, it just feels so good to be on this side,” Crabtree said. “Just play ball and don’t worry about too much. Just play ball.”

Crabtree insists he doesn’t pay much attention to all of the 49ers’ defections, retirements and arrests. He is not very convincing.

“All I can do is just focus on me, I don’t really get into all that stuff,” he said. “They said all types of stuff about me that was false. They said I was this type of guy or that type of guy. I’m the same dude, man. I don’t bother nobody. ... I play ball, that’s what I do.”

And Crabtree is playing well again, the team’s most impressive player at training camp. He finally is all the way back from a nagging foot injury and a torn Achilles tendon from a couple of years ago.

“With an Achilles injury, you might feel like you’re healthy but the burst is not there,” said Crabtree, who turns 28 on Monday. “I came back in six months, usually it takes a year, but I came back really fast to do what I could to help the team make the playoffs.”

“Now, I look forward to see what I can contribute to this team. Injuries slow you down, man. You aren’t the same person.”

Carr echoes former 49ers coach Jim Harbaugh’s sentiment that Crabtree has the best hands he’s ever seen. And he makes up for a lack of elite speed with know-how.

“He knows coverage,” Carr said. “He knows how to set up his routes so that he can win. He plays that chess match with the corner throughout the game. If there’s a certain coverage and he knows the read’s not coming to him, he’ll make it look like something to set something else up down the line.”

Crabtree also has been a mentor to first-round pick Amari Cooper, giving him tips and urging Carr to throw more passes to the rookie in the preseason.

“Coop is nice,” Crabtree said. “He’s like my little brother, and watching him do work is going to be exciting. It’s important to get a feel for the game in the preseason.”

Crabtree has a lot of little brothers and sisters, thanks to his Crab5 Foundation back in his hometown Dallas area. The foundation has annual free football camps as well as opportunities for inner city kids to explore and develop their interests in the arts, music, other sports and academics.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“We’ll send the whole band to the Grambling-Prairie View game, fashion kids to New York, actors to Los Angeles,” Crabtree said. “They get that exposure. I was really big on that because I never had that. Open the doors a little bit for these guys.”

Crabtree never went to a football camp as a kid. But he found a way to get the swag that he now gives out to kids at his camps.

His mom, Bessie Turner, sold concessions at Texas Stadium, and Crabtree would help to raise money for his little league team. After the games, he would run down to the field to get gloves and towels from players that he would wear in his games.

Crabtree grew up in the same Oak Cliff area of Dallas that former Raiders great Tim Brown did.

“He was from my neighborhood,” Crabtree said. “He made it possible. ‘I can make it, man.’ ... I used to sneak in and watch him work out. He didn’t know that.

“He used to work out at a middle school and I would sneak in, and watch him run all the different routes. Then, I finally met him about eight years ago. That’s my dude.”

Which made it even cooler when Crabtree decided to sign a one-year, incentive-heavy deal with the Raiders.

Not that anybody back home could figure out why he would sign with a team that was 11-37 the last three years.

“If everybody goes left, Mike is going to go right,” Baker said. “People were like, ‘Why would you go to the Raiders?’ But he had a real connection with Derek Carr and he just knew that was going to be his home.”

Home, 40 miles north, is where the heart is for Crabtree.

Mario Edwards, a likely first-rounder you're not seeing in many mock drafts

By Jason La Canfora

April 13, 2015

It is inevitable, come the start of the NFL Draft on April 30, there will be a player or two selected in the first round who virtually no one was chattering about leading up to the event. There will be first-round picks who showed up on nary a mock draft, generated precious little buzz, who teams were loathe to speak about lest they give away a secret or two, and who many in the media overlooked.

In 2015, one such player could be Florida State junior defensive lineman Mario Edwards Jr. You won't find him projected high and he might have mediocre grades from some draft sites, but plenty of evaluators I trust believe he's a legit first-round talent. In fact, I wouldn't be shocked if this kid ends up going somewhere in the teens, depending on the first 10 picks.

Execs I know who've studied Edwards are very impressed with his athleticism. They project a pass rush at the next level, making him potentially much more impactful as a pro than in college, where he was first-team All-ACC in 2014. And in 2012 he was the only true freshman to start on the Seminoles' vaunted defense.

"Why aren't any of you guys writing about Mario Edwards?" one evaluator asked. "I look around the Internet at these mock drafts and I don't think I've seen him in the first round in one of them. He's not showing up in any of them. I think you're missing on him. He's going to surprise some people. I think he goes in the first round. In this [not overly talented] draft, he's definitely a first-rounder for me."

For what it's worth, in my years of dealing with this particular scout, he has been overwhelmingly right. He's a big reason why I called for Deone Buchannon going in the first round before last year's draft. The hard-hitting safety largely was considered a mid-round guy who ended up going 27th overall. And this phenomenon occurs seemingly every year, be it Bruce Irvin or Tyson Alualu or Kyle Long. It's part of the process, and reactions I got from some evaluators regarding Edwards was pretty telling.

Some were loathe to talk about him because, well, they would prefer I not write this column. They would prefer no one shine a light on Edwards. When the same names of defensive linemen show up over and over in mock drafts, you get a lot of smiles in the scouting community. They're perfectly fine with it. They don't want a lot of hype about a kid who they think may be falling through the cracks.

"Everybody [doing a mock draft] pretty much ends up with the same names, but in a different order," said another evaluator who doesn't believe his team is a great fit for Edwards but expects he goes high. "That's usually how it works. So why should I give you a name [outside that group]? Why would a team want to let you in on that? But, since you're asking me, do I think Edwards could be that kind of guy? You could be on to something there."

Edwards is raw, and had he stayed in school we might have heard a lot about him before the 2016 draft. But there is no denying the talent, some still untapped (that is the very nature of the draft -- projecting, projecting, projecting). His father was a star at FSU and played corner in the NFL. Edwards was considered perhaps the nation's best defender coming out of high school. He is strong and powerful at 6-feet-3, 279 pounds, and can play with burst and explosiveness. He could be a fit in a 3-4 or a 4-3 scheme, though the scouts I talked to saw him more projected as a 4-3 tackle and believe he will be more of a pass-rushing factor as he develops.

One evaluator who did extensive work on him thought Edwards should be one of the first three defensive linemen off the board, and attributed some overall dropoff in FSU's defense in 2014 to the loss of defensive coordinator Jeremy Pruitt (who left after their national title in 2013 to go to Georgia).

"There was a dropoff across the board from that defense, and a lot of it I think was from losing their coordinator," he said. "He was the man. But if you look at some of those kids over the last two or three years, man, there are a lot of players there. I think Edwards and [Seminoles defensive tackle Eddie] Goldman are first-rounders."

Within the Florida State program, Edwards was viewed as a difference maker still coming into his own. He picked up valuable scheme diversity having to work with three coordinators in three years -- all three coordinators speak very highly of Edwards, I'm told -- and someone who performed often selfless tasks in that defense at a very high level.

"There were some very high expectations on him coming as the No. 1 recruit in the nation, so I guess maybe to some on the outside it might seem like his numbers aren't huge or something like that," said someone who worked closely with him while at Florida State. "But if you evaluate his entire Florida State career, he played a very major role on a team that went 39-3 with him here, and that was just 9-4 the season before he and Jameis [Winston] got here.

"He has great leadership qualities. He was one of the most coachable kids you could work with. You could always count on him on the field and off the field. He did everything that was asked of him and expected of him. He was incredibly well-liked within the program. He's very comfortable with the professional game because of his legacy with his father playing in the NFL. He's built for the league and he will keep getting better."

Certain teams definitely seem to like Edwards more than others, including the Vikings, who pick No. 11 overall. That might be high for Edwards -- plenty of mocks have nose tackle Danny Shelton going there -- though I wouldn't rule it out. And if perhaps you see the Vikings trade down out of that spot, definitely keep an eye on Edwards as a target. It wouldn't shock me at all if the Bengals, 49ers, Cowboys, Lions, Seahawks or Browns invested a top pick in him.

He would fill a need with plenty of 3-4 teams as well, though some have said they aren't sure he would fit at defensive end and doubt he could move to outside linebacker. Others believe he could play inside in a 3-4 in certain packages. Regardless, he has people talking, or perhaps whispering. His 4.74 time in the 40 and video of him doing a standing backflip -- at 300 pounds! -- and his athletic prowess are very difficult to ignore.

Personally, I won't consider it a surprise if he ends up going somewhere between 11th and 19th. After reading this, I suppose neither should you. I assure you in some draft meetings and war rooms, it won't be looked at as a stunner, either, if things play out that way.

By Jared Shanker

April 27, 2015

The morning of the NFL draft, Mario Edwards Jr. will look at himself in the mirror, just as he's done every morning since declaring for the draft. He'll pose a question to his reflection, knowing he doesn't have a satisfying answer.

"Why did I take so long?"

The former Florida State defensive lineman, who entered the draft after his junior season, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 279 pounds and is in such good shape he spent pro day wearing the football equivalent of spandex. It's a stark contrast to where he was less than a year ago.

The last draft-eligible No. 1 high school prospect was Jadeveon Clowney, who was drafted first overall in 2014. Edwards, who succeeded Clowney as ESPN RecruitingNation's No. 1 recruit, isn't following the same trajectory. Instead, Edwards' name draws varying opinions. There's talk of him sneaking into the second half of the first round or falling all the way to the end of the second day.

NFL front offices have to ask why it took so long for Edwards, who ballooned to 310 pounds at FSU, to turn himself into the player people expected -- and whether the change is permanent.

"In order for me to be great, I've got to take care of my body," Edwards said. "The 310, it's a closed chapter."

Edwards' reputation preceded him when he arrived at Florida State in 2012. He was described as a pass-rusher with first-step quickness who also possessed the power to play defensive tackle. The Seminoles had aspirations of competing for a national championship, and the decorated recruit was expected to contribute. Unprepared and overweight, though, he would have redshirted if not for an injury to a starter.

Part of the problem was he always ate until he felt full. It might take a bucket of hot wings or a burrito bowl with quadruple meat and three tacos to do that. That would be lunch, and he'd reorder it in the evening for dinner.

Teammates cracked fat jokes, but it didn't faze Edwards. Even at 300 pounds, he could still do standing back flips. The problem, he said, was he couldn't sustain his performance all four quarters. His weight caused him to wilt.

"I couldn't blame anybody but myself," he said.

The other problem was the hype and publicity, said Edwards' father, Mario Sr., who has coached his son the last six years -- the last three as Florida State's director of development.

"I think he had the big head, because all his life he's been more talented than most guys he faced. Like a lot of kids, he felt like he already arrived," Mario Sr. said. "Being humbled and not realizing I'm not the big dog on the block anymore, it was the wake-up call he needed."

"The seed needed to be watered and nourished, and it blossomed into something beautiful."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

As a sophomore, Edwards showed flashes of brilliance and dominated in the 2013 national championship. This past season, Edwards was voted a team captain. His numbers aren't staggering when compared to those of other linemen, but his role as a 3-4 defensive end differed play to play, a team-oriented role he learned to relish.

"I was an all-about-me player and not about the team," Edwards said, "and I had to learn it wasn't about me and support my teammates. I'm the guy that does my job that you don't have to worry about."

Still, NFL teams will worry. In pre-draft workouts, Edwards outperformed most other linemen and was one of the biggest risers to come from the combine. But central to the pre-draft process is convincing teams the weight will stay off. Edwards weighed 276 pounds at the Rose Bowl and 272 at pro day. He's at 279 now. That question is put to bed, he said.

Training with EXOS, a health and performance consulting company, Edwards worked with dietician and performance nutritionist Bob Calvin. Calvin said Edwards was motivated to change his eating habits, which consisted of about 80 percent of his calories coming from poor food choices.

Calvin heard all the right things from Edwards, but he still had to see whether Edwards was applying it. One of the ways Calvin gauges a player's level of sincerity is if they're eating vegetables at breakfast and eschewing sugary drinks for water. That's exactly what Edwards was doing on a daily basis, and he was ending nights with Caesar salads and sweet potatoes.

"He made upgrades in his habits and saw the rewards and benefits," Calvin said.

Weekdays at EXOS before the draft have also consisted of four workouts. Edwards was in the top linemen group, joined by potential first-round picks Dante Fowler Jr., Cam Erving and D.J. Humphries. Edwards said he wasn't the quintessential teammate early in his Florida State career, but EXOS performance specialist Stefan Underwood said he has been a valuable asset in group settings during training.

"He elevated the people around him," Underwood said. "He was there to work and brought a business mentality."

Because of his size, Edwards is being looked at as a 4-3 defensive end -- he said he'll play end in either scheme or even stand up as a linebacker -- which means he'll have to improve his pass rush. For the past month, Edwards has worked with three-time Pro Bowl left tackle Tra Thomas.

Edwards and Thomas worked on the rookie's stance and spin moves. The two watched film and Thomas offered insight into the tricks that annoy offenses most. There was no lack of motivation, Thomas said.

"He'll give a lot of O-linemen fits," Thomas said. "He's going to be a huge success."

On draft morning, Edwards might not have an answer for himself when he looks in the mirror, but he knows the person staring back is here to stay.

Miami OL Feliciano has found his way home

By Andrea Adelson

October 13, 2014

He had no home. Scratch that. Technically, he had a home, but it was condemned. So he bounced around here and there, staying with his best friend or his girlfriend. On days he felt too proud to ask for another favor, he went back to the condemned house, with no water or power. He just needed a place to fall asleep.

All those nights he had nothing, Jon Feliciano thought about football. He thought about the University of Miami, the only place he ever wanted to go to college. Somehow, he thought, I have to get there. Football will get me there.

Never mind that Miami had never shown any interest in him, even though he went to high school in Davie, Florida, 40 minutes north of the campus. If Feliciano wanted to change his fate, he would have to do it himself.

A junior offensive lineman at the time, the 6-foot-4, 280-pound Feliciano put together a highlight tape to hand-deliver to the coach recruiting his area, Tommie Robinson. Feliciano and West initially wanted to sneak down to the field when the game ended, but there were too many people to make it far. Feliciano was crushed.

West, familiar with the stadium layout, knew where the Miami buses would be parked. He drove Feliciano to the back of the stadium, where they waited for the team to emerge. When Robinson came out, Feliciano gave him the tape.

The fact that Feliciano could run, let alone play football, should be regarded as a minor miracle. He was born breech and with a foot deformity that required braces, or "magic shoes," as his mother called them. For two years, he wore the braces. Doctors told Alicia Feliciano that her son would never play sports. She told the doctors they would be wrong. She spent hours pulling on his legs, willing them to work, massaging his feet until her hands hurt.

Her youngest son, Christopher, had even more health problems. He was born deaf and requiring a feeding tube and heart monitors. Her marriage deteriorated, and she got divorced when her three sons were still young. She wanted to move far away, so she left her family and home in New York with $300 in her pocket and a car worth $200 and headed to Florida.

She never had a steady job but made ends meet, always making sure her children were clean and fed. When she worked nights, Jon would take care of his little brother, cooking him dinner or helping with homework. His older brother was not always around, so it was up to Jon to be the man of the house.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

When Jon was in eighth grade, Alicia developed breast cancer. She kept her diagnosis a secret because she did not want her sons to worry. She went to treatments alone and would come home with a smile, tuck her kids into bed and then scream in pain through the night. When Jon asked what was wrong, she claimed she was watching a scary movie.

When she lost her hair, Jon asked why she wore a wig. She told him her hairdresser was at fault. But after a few months, Alicia finally broke down.

"She told me, 'I've had breast cancer the last few months, but I'm OK,'" Jon said. "I was like, 'Thanks, Mom. I would have liked to know that a few months ago. I could have helped you.' She just didn't want me to worry about her."

"Never say that again," she told him.

Jon always loved football, but he could not afford to play in the local Optimist league. Even if he had the money, he had no way to get there. Instead, he grew up idolizing Ray Lewis and Sean Taylor and dreamed about playing tight end for the Canes.

The summer before his freshman year of high school, a friend asked him to go check out football practice. They rode their bikes over to the field. The coaches took one look at Jon and told him, "You're going to play football."

He began to excel on the field and on the basketball court -- his first love -- but at home his mother was struggling to pay the bills. Sometimes the water and electricity would be turned off. She had a generator for food and one light. They would sometimes sleep at a cousin's house or in their car.

Jon was too proud to tell his coaches what was happening at home; his mother was too proud to ask anybody for help. She wanted to provide for her children, but she no longer could when Jon was a junior and their house was condemned.

"I was really upset about it, but I didn't want to let my mother or younger brother know how much it was bothering me," Jon said. "My mom was very upset, crying. She would always say, 'I don't want to be a bad mother,' and I'd tell her, 'Mom, you're not a bad mother. It's not your fault.' I didn't want to put more pressure on my mother with me being upset or letting her know I was upset. I tried to stay strong for my family."

She wanted him to move back to New York with her and Christopher. Jon thought it would be best if he stayed in Florida and kept playing football, hoping to get a scholarship. Alicia reluctantly agreed.

"Promise me you'll go to school and become somebody," she told him.

He promised.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I would just focus on school and playing football and playing basketball. Those things kept me away from everything. But there were times I didn't know what house I'd be able to stay at," he said. "It was challenging looking back at it, but I really just try to think about the positives. If I can get through this, I don't think there will be anything in my life harder to get through."

Jon freely admits he gets his pride from his mother. Pride kept him from giving West or his basketball coach, Steve Todd, any indication that something was wrong at home. He wanted to try to manage on his own.

"He never let on how bad it may have been," West said. "There are some things I'm finding out now that you had a clue about but you didn't know to what extreme."

Feliciano and his mother, in town from New York at the time, went down to Coral Gables. Everything was how he envisioned, from the coaching staff to the facilities to the campus and community. They left, not knowing what to expect as they drove to a friend's house.

Then the phone rang. It was Miami offensive line coach Jeff Stoutland.

"Jon, we want to offer you a scholarship to the University of Miami," he said.

"OK," Feliciano said. "I'm going to commit right now."

"Are you sure?" Stoutland asked. "Do you want to talk to your mom about it?"

Feliciano turned to his mother.

"Mom," he said. "I'm committing to Miami."

She cried.

"Since he was 6 years old, all he ever said was, 'I want to go to that team, Mom!'" she recalled. "He doesn't even remember being in braces, but I always said to him, 'You're going to do it, Jon!' And he did it."

Shortly after, Alicia moved back to Florida with her parents, who bought a house for them to live in. A year later, Jon arrived at Miami, but he started doubting whether he belonged. The plan was to redshirt, so he played on the scout team every day, facing stronger guys like Sean Spence, Colin McCarthy and Marcus Forston -- all in the NFL now.

Then Randy Shannon and his staff were fired. Al Golden came in with a new offensive line coach. Feliciano had no idea what to expect. After the first spring, he went in for his exit interview with Golden.

"Jon, you have four more years. Do you know how good a player you're going to be?" Golden said.

Feliciano looked at him and thought, "Do you see what I see?"

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Golden saw much more. "He's tough, he's durable, and he's versatile, and that's a great combination to have," Golden said. "You could see early on that he was a very humble kid from a humble background, lunch-pail ethic, and [he was] grateful for the opportunity to be here."

Feliciano worked harder than he ever had that summer and used Christopher as inspiration. He had no reason to be down, not when he was playing the game his brother never could.

Feliciano has started 38 games since then while facing even more difficulty at home. Alicia was diagnosed with cancer again several years ago and had her uterus removed. She asked the coaches not to tell Jon, but they thought he already knew.

"I've been through a lot," she told him. "What I deserve is for you to stay in school."

In May, Feliciano became the first person in his family to graduate from college. His father, who has maintained a presence in Jon's life, flew down from New York for the ceremony, attending with his brothers, grandparents and, of course, Alicia, grateful to be alive to see Jon walk across the stage.

"Of all the kids who had a reason to go the other way, he is one of them," said West, his high school football coach. "But he didn't. We always say it's a great story. It could be made into a movie."

Jon and Alicia struggle to reveal all the details of their past, but it has shaped them both.

"It just taught me to be strong," Jon says. "No matter what you're going through, you'll get through it if you keep a positive attitude and work hard. Everything will be all right."

Turns out everything is more than all right. Feliciano has a football career, a college degree and a future. He has his family.

He has a home.

Khalil Mack is busy paving a path to stardom

By Jeffri Chadiha

June 5, 2015

Khalil Mack's eyes narrowed as he crouched into a two-point stance in early September. Standing across from the Oakland Raiders outside linebacker was Houston Texans Pro Bowl left tackle Duane Brown, a 6-foot-4, 320-pound mammoth of a blocker eager to test a first-year player in a game that was quickly turning into a Houston blowout. But as soon as Brown fired across the line of scrimmage after the snap, the 6-3, 252-pound Mack deftly slid away from the oncoming lineman, then easily tackled Texans running back Alfred Blue for no gain.

A few plays later, Mack was even more determined, as he noticed Texans backup tight end Ryan Griffin lining up across from him. I played against this guy in college, Mack thought to himself. If he's out here, I know I can play this game at a high level. Mack easily tossed Griffin aside on a couple more runs to remind the former UConn star that little had changed now that they were competing on football's biggest stage.

In fact, the longer Mack played in that 30-14 Week 2 loss, the more he felt as though he was making a statement with every play. The Raiders may not have been winning, but the rookie was telling the world something about a player who had been selected fifth overall in the 2014 draft. "I learned early on that it's hard to win games in this league," Mack said. "You have to pay attention to detail. You have to always have the right technique. And you really do have to play every down like it's your last."

The lessons Mack learned during his rookie season undoubtedly will come in handy this fall. There are still many questions surrounding a Raiders team that hasn't enjoyed a winning campaign since 2002 -- including the mysterious hand injury that has hampered second-year quarterback Derek Carr throughout organized team activities -- but one spot the franchise shouldn't worry about is strongside outside linebacker. At 24 years old, Mack already has flashed so much potential that Raiders safety Charles Woodson told the San Jose Mercury News last season the "dude is going to be special."

In his first season, Mack finished with 75 tackles, four sacks and a forced fumble, numbers that helped him finish third in voting for the league's defensive rookie of the year award (behind St. Louis' Aaron Donald and Baltimore's C.J. Mosley). This year the Raiders have much bigger expectations for Mack, especially with new head coach Jack Del Rio starting his first season and defensive coordinator Ken Norton installing new schemes. Del Rio wouldn't give many specifics on how Mack's role would change but he did make it apparent that Mack won't spend nearly as much time in pass coverage as he did in 2014. This time around, Mack will be chasing quarterbacks as much as possible, which is something he did quite well when given the chance, even if the sack totals don't look significant. Mack had 40 QB hurries last season to go with his exceptional run defending.

Since Del Rio coached Pro Bowl outside linebacker Von Miller as the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator from 2012-14, he'd like to see Mack have a similar impact on opposing passing attacks. "I think Khalil is way more physical than Von," Del Rio said. "Von got up to somewhere around 250 pounds when I had him but he's naturally closer to 240. Khalil can be up around 260 or 265 and they both play that strongside linebacker position and sub-pass-rusher role. Since most teams use their sub packages for two-thirds of the game, there will be some opportunities there. They're different but they're both special."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I definitely want to get after the quarterback more this year," Mack said. "I got some hits [in 2014], but people didn't really see what I can do. Those sack numbers I had really weren't me. At the end of the day, you want people to see you at your best."

That explains why Mack didn't spend his offseason in trendy hot spots such as South Florida or Scottsdale, Arizona, the typical areas where many young NFL players prefer to train. Despite being a Florida native -- Mack grew up in Fort Pierce -- he returned to the University of Buffalo to work out with trainer John Opfer. When Mack wasn't running steep hills or lifting weights with his former college teammates, he was focusing on areas that could fine-tune his physique for a strong second year. Some of the most vital elements of Mack's conditioning program involved strengthening his hands (so he can shed blockers far more easily) and building his core muscles (to increase his overall explosiveness).

Why train in upstate New York? "It's very easy to focus in Buffalo," Mack said. The decision speaks volumes about his approach to his career in general. Mack's road to the NFL was filled with several setbacks and plenty of people who questioned if he'd ever be a difference-maker in college. The last thing he wants to do now is forget the same ideals that brought him this far in the first place.

As Mack recently leaned against a wall outside the team's training facility following an organized training activity session, it wasn't hard to see the appreciation he has for his current standing. He laughed when thinking about this time of year last season, when he walked into the locker room for his first minicamp and bumped into defensive end Justin Tuck, a veteran of 11 NFL seasons. Tuck told Mack that he was impressed with his game, then offered a bit of invaluable advice. "Whatever you do this year, just shut up and listen," Tuck said. "You're a great player but you don't have any idea of what you're doing yet."

That suggestion helped Mack understand that his road to success in pro football would come down to how well he did the little things -- such as studying film and refining his techniques -- instead of overwhelming opponents with jaw-dropping athleticism. It was a lesson quite similar to the one he learned while growing up in a deeply religious, two-parent household, with a father who worked as both a program specialist and a deacon. Sandy Mack Sr. had long ago counseled his son to spend more time listening to his elders than speaking his mind. In his father's eyes, that was the best approach for young Khalil to find his way through the hurdles that eventually would challenge him.

That combination of humility and faith helped Mack when a torn patella tendon ended his hopes of earning a basketball scholarship when he was only a sophomore at Fort Pierce Westwood high. It also meant plenty when he was a lightly regarded football recruit who wound up at Buffalo only because the coach who was previously recruiting him to Liberty University decided to take a job at that program. Of course, there's also the story of why Mack wore number 46 in college. He donned it because the video game "EA Sports College Football 10" had given him a rating of 46 (an extremely low mark) before he started his redshirt freshman season in 2010.

Mack ultimately became an All-American by his senior year and left Buffalo as the NCAA's career leader in forced fumbles and tied for career tackles for loss. "I don't know if Khalil really understood all his talents when he was in high school," said Opfer, who also has become a mentor to Mack. "He didn't go to the big [exposure] camps in the summer and he didn't play competitively until his junior and senior years. So to have that little experience and end up blowing up college football says a lot. When he started to believe he could be great, that's when he took off."

Still, all that success in college had some repercussions once Mack arrived in Oakland. When his first NFL season began, he found himself pressing to make the same splash plays that had defined him in college. "I knew the only way to make a strong impression was to make the big plays," Mack said. "But I wasn't making the same plays I was making in college when I first got here. Eventually I had to understand that this is a group effort. We all have to be involved in order to make the plays we need to make."

Just as difficult for Mack was grinding through a season during which the Raiders won only three games. He leaned on the wisdom of veterans like Tuck and Woodson but Opfer also saw a player who learned how to play the longer the season went on. "Khalil is a smart guy but he got away with being a read-and-react player in college," Opfer said. "He had so much God-given ability that he could miss a read and still react fast enough to make a play. But as last season went on, you saw his football IQ grow. He became a lot more proficient at putting himself in the best possible positions to make plays."

Mack drew plenty of praise in the process. Seattle Seahawks coach Pete Carroll told reporters last season that Mack "jumped off the film" when his staff studied the Raiders. Former Cleveland Browns quarterback Brian Hoyer, now with Houston, said Mack was one of the best players that team faced in 2014 and added that "he gained the respect of everybody on our team." Del Rio said the Broncos had similar impressions. "Our offensive guys always wanted to know where he was," Del Rio. "That tells you a lot about what he can do."

Now the Raiders need to see even more growth as Mack heads into this coming season. The popular belief in the NFL is that players show the greatest improvement between their first and second years in the league, which means Mack should be poised for a huge leap in productivity. That goal weighed heavily on his mind whenever he strapped on a weighted vest in Buffalo this offseason and trudged toward a steep hill near the facility where he trained. Joined there by former Buffalo players such as San Diego Chargers running back Branden Oliver, Mack charged up that incline at least three times a week, all with the hopes of chiseling his thick legs and testing his willpower.

Mack had followed a similar routine in college, when he helped the Bulls grow from a program that won two games during his freshman season to one that finished second in the MAC during his senior year. A similar challenge now awaits him in Oakland. The Raiders know they still have plenty of changes to make in order to become a playoff contender. But if Mack can become the foundation of a young defense, that task will prove to be much easier.

"I can definitely say we will be relentless on defense this year," Mack said. "We're going to be dominant and physical and we're going to fly to the football. That's what this game comes down -- playing with that kind of effort. And we want to be the kind of defense that takes the ball away and gives it back to our offense as much as we possibly can."

Raiders LB Mack looks to build on big rookie season

By Josh Dubow

August 5, 2015

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Despite being a top five draft pick, a heralded rookie and a selection on the NFL's top 100 players list, Oakland Raiders linebacker Khalil Mack is far from satisfied heading into his second pro season.

That attitude is fueled by the rejection he faced coming out of high school when he got only one scholarship offer to Buffalo rather than the opportunity to play at a higher-profile school.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

It helped Mack pass all those five-star recruits to become the second defensive player drafted in 2014 and become one of the top outside linebackers — not just rookies — in the league last season.

"I had a lot of space between Buffalo and those elite conferences, so I had to do a lot of work in order to get to that level, in my mind," he said. "I'm still the same way. I feel like it's a lot of people on this level that are still great, but there's still a gap, so I'm trying to close it every day."

That work ethic has been evident all offseason as Mack has impressed a new coaching staff that had seen him from the other side of the field and on film but not up close.

So far, only one thing has been missing for Mack, and the Raiders believe that will change this season. Mack had just four sacks as he was unable to turn all that pressure into big plays.

"Everybody is saying how good he is and he got four sacks," new defensive coordinator Ken Norton Jr. said. "I thought to myself, 'How many great players have four sacks?' You have to get in double digits. So he has a lot of growth to make. If they're thinking he's this good and he's done so little, imagine when he actually does what he's supposed to do."

In order to get to the quarterback more often, Mack added some extra pounds of muscle to allow him to use power as well as speed to beat NFL tackles.

Mack also could get more time as a defensive end this season under the new coaching staff after having a close to even split last season as a stand-up linebacker and a rush end with his hand on the ground.

"He's pretty doggone good getting after the quarterback," general manager Reggie McKenzie said. "He's just really good going forward and it's an opportunity really to do a lot of things with him. They're going to use Khalil all kinds of ways and that's the way it should be. He's a dominant defensive player, so let him do what he does best and move him around."

Mack hopes the added strength will help him deal with the longer NFL season and deliver the sacks that he was close to getting a year ago.

"It was a little frustrating," he said. "Even then, I had talks with Justin Tuck. He let me know everybody gets lucky. It's not all just because of technique and being fundamentally sound. Everybody gets lucky and you have to know how teams are scheming against you."

While many outside linebackers make their names by sacking the quarterback, Mack has been at his best against the run where he fights off blocks to make plays in the backfield every week. Mack was second in the NFL to Houston's J.J. Watt with 11 1/2 tackles at or behind the line against the run, according to STATS.

Mack is no slouch rushing the passer despite seeing more than his share of double-teams. In addition to his four sacks, he was tied for sixth among all linebackers with 51 quarterback pressures. Mack ranked third in quarterback pressures among linebackers over the last 11 weeks.

"Khalil is special," Norton said. "There are a lot of players that might be similar. But he's in a class of his own. Bruce Irvin in Seattle was similar. But, at the same time, Khalil is built. He's athletic. He's smart. And he's relentless. ... He's amazing."

Mack has earned comparisons with many of the top pass rushers in the league with former coach Dennis Allen likening him to Von Miller as soon as he was drafted.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Quarterback Derek Carr said Mack was similar to Kansas City's Justin Houston and Tamba Hali and Denver's DeMarcus Ware as well.

"I'm trying to go out there and be the best player I can be," Mack said. "My name is Khalil. I want to be the best Khalil. Whatever he says about me, I appreciate it but I still have a long way to go."

RB LATAVIUS MURRAY

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Latavius Murray looks ready to become Raiders' top back

By Vic Tafur

August 5, 2015

One look at Raiders running back Latavius Murray, and it's hard not to think of Adrian Peterson and DeMarco Murray. Yes, those are two of the best running backs in the NFL, and Latavius Murray has only 82 career carries.

But just look at him. How many running backs are 6-foot-3, with a chiseled 230 pounds and speed to burn?

"Size and speed," said Murray, who was asked to switch to linebacker by his coaches at Central Florida. "Not many guys with that combination. I do watch those two guys, but I know I have to stick to my game."

Murray, who missed his rookie season in 2013 with a foot injury, had some highlight-reel runs last season and started the last three games. But new head coach Jack Del Rio still brought in Trent Richardson to compete with Murray for the starting job.

Well, Richardson has missed the first week of training camp with an injury, and Murray isn't looking back. He is getting all of the first-team reps and has looked powerful, especially in a scrimmage late in Wednesday afternoon's practice in Napa.

"My mentality is to stay where I am at and be that guy," Murray said. "It's big being able to get a series of carries together and getting comfortable back there. Get used to the scheme and the guys I am in there with."

Murray wasn't able to prove that he was a starter to the head coaches last year, Dennis Allen and interim man Tony Sparano. It took 10 losses of Darren McFadden and Maurice Jones-Drew running into tacklers before Sparano finally threw his hands up and gave Murray a shot.

General manager Reggie McKenzie was asked what took so long, what was holding back Murray.

"I think he's holding himself back," McKenzie said. "Being able to practice all the time, not having nitpicking injuries. Last season, leading up to it, he was nicked up. So, if he could stay healthy, nothing is holding him back."

This year the 2013 sixth-round pick is coming off the first offseason in which he was 100 percent healthy, and he was even a little faster, he says, coming into camp.

Is Murray ready to be a 1,000-yard, No. 1 running back in the NFL?

"No question," McKenzie said. "He can do it all."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Murray had the foot injury his rookie year and an ankle injury and concussion last year. He still finished with 75 carries for 413 yards (5.5 average) and two touchdowns, one a 90-yarder against Kansas City, in the final seven games.

"I had a great offseason, and I want that to carry over," he said.

It started with renting a house in Newport Beach (Orange County) and working out with former Central Florida teammate and current Jacksonville quarterback Blake Bortles. From there, he went back home to New York and did whatever friend and trainer Vinny Scollo told him. Murray hit the weights, ran hills with a flak jacket and played dodge ball — with large, four-square balls being flung at him.

"The biggest improvement has been in his explosiveness and his conditioning," Scollo told Syracuse.com. "Last year, we really had to taper the workouts and work around his injury. This year, his conditioning, his wind, is 100 percent there."

Raiders offensive line coach Mike Tice had heard Murray was a hard worker. Tice, back in the day, played for longtime coach George O'Leary, who coached Murray at Central Florida.

"We talk about it a lot, like 'That's something O'Leary would do or say,'" Murray said. "It's pretty cool. The O'Leary mentality is tough, physical. We still talk, and he knows I am in good hands with Coach Tice, and I know that as well."

O'Leary said Murray had to learn to run between the tackles in college instead of trying to bounce everything outside. Instead of reading the defensive linemen, Murray learned to read the linebackers.

"George (said) he is a hard worker and a tough kid," Tice said. "So I know Latavius was raised the right way, and I know he got yelled at a lot."

Tice likes Murray's jump-cut move and how he can change direction. But the main thing, again, is the combination of speed and power.

"For a big guy, Latavius has extremely good quickness," Tice said. "And when he gets behind his pads, he is hard to tackle. Smaller linebackers might be in serious trouble."

T DONALD PENN

DAILY BREEZE

St. Bernard High product Donald Penn of Raiders is sort of a big deal

By Dave Thorpe

August 10, 2015

On the small campus of St. Bernard High, the hulking Donald Penn, who transferred from Manual Arts, was easy to spot.

St. Bernard football coach Greg Dixon saw him coming a mile away.

"He was one of the bigger guys on campus, if not the biggest," Dixon said. "I had to try."

Penn was a basketball player, not a football player, so Dixon had work to do.

"He was a basketball guy, and he was good," Dixon said. "I had to convince him to come out to football."

The 6-foot-4, 340-pound Penn, who is embarking upon his ninth year in the National Football League and second with the Oakland Raiders, didn't start playing football at St. Bernard until his junior year.

"I grew up playing basketball, but everybody kept telling me I'm a big guy, I should play football," Penn said. "Coach Greg Dixon asked me to tryout, and things picked up fast."

Basketball was Penn's first love, but it soon became clear football was his future.

"I had basketball dreams, but letters were coming in from colleges for football, not basketball," Penn said.

Penn was a junior on St. Bernard's 1999-2000 basketball team that reached the CIF Southern Section Division 4-AA final and the CIF Division 4 State championship game.

"It's one of my fondest memories, just playing with him," McCrumby said. "He was a light-hearted dude who kept everyone laughing."

Everyone except opposing post players.

"He was the big clog in the middle, he took up a lot of space inside," McCrumby said. "He had soft hands. Even though he was a big boy, he had the most nimble feet of anyone his size I ever played with, just excellent footwork."

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Being at a small school like St. Bernard, he flew under the radar,” McCrumby said. “In this day in age of social media, he would have been a big-time lineman getting tons of offers.”

There were a few Pac-10 schools interested in Penn, but nothing worked out.

“The Oregon schools were interested, but they were hesitant, I’m not quite sure why,” Dixon said. “It was unfortunate, we felt he could play at that level by his senior year.”

Penn actually committed to Arizona at one point, but at the end of the college season, Arizona coach Dick Tomey was replaced by John Mackovic, and the offer went to someone else.

“I still had a couple of offers hanging around,” Penn said.

Penn ended up signing with Utah State, where he redshirted his first year before becoming a four-year standout starter. Despite his success at Utah State, he went undrafted in 2006 before signing with the Minnesota Vikings as a free agent. The Vikings released Penn, then he signed with Tampa Bay. Penn started the last 12 games of the season for the Buccaneers in 2007, and hasn’t missed a start since. He’s started 124 consecutive NFL games, showing amazing durability.

“He really took me under his wing, he saw a lot of potential in me that I didn’t really even see in myself,” Penn said. “I started shutting guys down and stirring things up.”

After eight years with Tampa Bay, including one Pro Bowl year, Penn was released and the Raiders picked him up before last season.

“It hurt when Tampa Bay released me, but I look at it like everything happens for a reason,” Penn said.

“It brought me closer to home, and I’m ecstatic to play for the team I grew up cheering for,” Penn said.

“Playing for the Raiders is like a dream come true, and hopefully I can help turn things around here, the goal is to win a Super Bowl and retire a Raider.”

“Deep down in my heart, how would I not want to play at home?” Penn said. “Of course it would be amazing. But we have some of the best fans in the country, Raider Nation is everywhere, I love playing here in Oakland, but I’m happy wherever we play.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Now he's a veteran leader on the left side of Oakland's offensive line, mentoring younger players like Gabe Jackson and Matt McCants.

"It's crazy, when I was younger I'd joke around about how old the other guys were, it seems like just yesterday I was that young," Penn said. "It's kind of funny, but I embrace it, I make sure I do everything right, take notes heavily, come early, stay late, work hard, the younger guys see that and follow your lead."

The likability factor with Penn makes him easy to follow; it's on display every June at St. Bernard High when Penn and his foundation, which is designed to help low-income youth, host a free football camp.

"I hung out with him a couple of years ago, he's down to earth, very humble, approachable, qualities a lot of guys don't have that have his stature," McCrumby said.

WR SETH ROBERTS

TALLAHASSEE DEMOCRAT

Maclay alum Seth Roberts goes reaches NFL with Oakland Raiders

By Brian Miller

September 11, 2015

When Seth Roberts got the highly anticipated yet nerve-wracking phone call he was standing in his bathroom.

The words from the Oakland Raiders' director of player personnel took him to his knees, where he offered up a prayer of thankfulness.

Roberts, a class of 2010 Maclay School alum, had made the Raiders' 53-man roster. He was an NFL player despite a non-traditional route and dreams that centered on another sport entirely.

"I just thanked the Lord, because without him I couldn't have made it," said Roberts via phone exclusively to the Tallahassee Democrat. "It was a struggle out here in California, but I told myself there'd be better days to come.

"That's where I'm at right now, but I'm still not satisfied. I have more work to do."

Not there yet

Roberts was watching the 2014 NFL Draft when his father joined him after work. Round by round teams passed him by.

Scouts from the Seattle Seahawks and Green Bay Packers were most interested in him following pro days and visits to each team's headquarters. But their draft slots slipped by in the final rounds and Roberts went undrafted.

Immediately after the Raiders called.

"His phone was ringing off the hook and the Raiders' scout was trying to tie the line up so he wouldn't get any more calls," Ronnie Roberts said. "Finally, he hangs up, Seattle calls, Green Bay calls, and Seattle wants him to start on practice squad. But Seth wanted to compete to be on a roster."

Roberts asked his father what to do, and Oakland, which hadn't drafted any receivers, became his choice.

He ultimately wound up on Oakland's practice squad, where he came to work every day preparing for the next opportunity.

He knew he'd come a long way since picking up football later than most. He was bigger, faster and stronger.

It hit Roberts how much had changed when former Florida State wide receiver Kenny Shaw also wound up on the Raiders' practice squad with him.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

"I used to sit at home at the desktop and look at Rivals, all these kids with five stars, four stars, and I didn't have any stars," Roberts said. "I saw Kenny on practice squad and thought, 'Wow, he played at Florida State and they bypassed me.' I felt like I was so much farther along, faster and stronger and had separated myself on the practice squad.

"It's crazy, but it was all about my work ethic. It's not going to happen overnight."

Shaw is now in the Canadian Football League with the Toronto Argonauts.

This preseason, Roberts led the AFC in receiving and turned in a seven-catch, 110-yard game with a touchdown against the Seahawks to earn a spot on the coveted 53-man roster and become an NFL player.

"I learn something new every day, every year," Roberts said. "I try to get better. I tell the reporters out here when they ask me the difference between practice squad last year and this year that I understand the scheme of what's going on. I watch everything. I always have my ears open. I don't think I know everything."

Starting at the bottom

Roberts was born in Moultrie, Georgia, but his family moved to Tallahassee when he was 1. As he grew up, he caught passes from his dad in the front yard at their house.

It's been over 15 years since those beginning days with football, and along the way Roberts thought he'd become a basketball player.

He played his freshman and sophomore years of high school at North Florida Christian, and was nearly talked into staying to play football by former Florida State quarterback and NFC alum Casey Weldon, who had become head coach for the Eagles.

Wanting to prepare him for college, however, Ronnie and Jill Roberts enrolled their son a few miles north at college preparatory Maclay.

He could play basketball there, which he did and quite well as the Marauders' point guard, for the next two years.

He became a wide receiver and soon used his natural athleticism and silky-smooth running to turn everything he touched into gold.

"I didn't really love it at first," Roberts said. "My high school coaches just told me I had a better chance of getting a scholarship through football than basketball because there were more guys on the field than on the court.

"I took that to heart going into offseason before senior year. I tried to get stronger and faster. It didn't happen overnight. I just stayed at it."

The next level

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

In signing, he became the first Maclay player to sign a college scholarship in only the program's third year of existence.

"Maclay really drilled it in me that you can be anything you want to be in life," Roberts said. "It was probably the best years of school in my life, because I was well-known and the teachers loved me. I'd love for my jersey to go up there."

As a college freshman for the Wildcats, Roberts posted a team-leading 49 receptions for 733 yards. He scored six touchdowns, then as a sophomore became a preseason All-American.

He validated the accolade by nearly doubling his previous year's numbers with 105 catches for 1,290 yards and 12 touchdowns.

"It's easy to see it now, but he looked like a football player when I first saw him," said former FSU Hall of Fame wide receiver Kez McCorvey, who was Roberts' head coach his senior year. "He was 6-2, had great ball skills, all the things you want in a receiver. I just didn't know if he wanted to love football. In college, I think he fell in love with football."

Roberts was getting interest from Division I schools, but ultimately never received an offer.

"The D-1 schools were always saying I was too small," Roberts said. "I needed to gain weight, eat more."

He signed with Division II West Alabama, and in his senior season caught 40 balls for 857 yards and 12 touchdowns to be named to the All-Gulf South Conference second team.

"My father had a big role in my success, because he kept me training in the offseason," Roberts said. "When no one was watching, I was working out."

Playing on Sundays

He's surrounded now by veterans such as Michael Crabtree or 2015 No. 4 pick Amari Cooper that are teaching him even more about his craft.

Roberts plays his first regular-season NFL game on Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals at 4:25 eastern time.

"I'm just going to stay humble," Roberts said. "I can't get too hyped because we have work to do."

Ronnie Roberts never missed a game when his son was in college. He's making the trek to the west coast to watch that little boy he once threw passes to run out of the tunnel and catch passes for a living.

"It will be very emotional, because we've been through a lot as a family," Ronnie Roberts said. "That's the only son and only kid I have. It will be a dream come true."

TE CLIVE WALFORD

MIAMI HERALD

For UM tight end Clive Walford, football is now a family matter

By Susan Miller Degnan

September 18, 2013

Clive Walford has a sleek new haircut, precious new son and proud new attitude.

“My overall favorite tight end is Kellen Winslow,” Walford said of the former Cane, recalling Winslow’s famous “It’s about this U!” rant after Miami’s 2003 loss to Tennessee. “I always looked up to him when I was younger.”

Walford, UM’s third-leading receiver as a sophomore last season with 451 yards and four touchdowns on 25 catches, said baby Clive III — born Aug. 2 — has afforded him a fresh perspective and burning desire to do right by his namesake.

His closely cropped haircut, which he gave himself after 6 1/2 years of growing dreadlocks, has added to Walford’s new, more serious image. He said he and his late cousin grew dreads together. The two made a pact that when the cousin’s hair “caught up” to Walford’s length, Walford would get shorn.

“I felt like this was probably the time he would have caught me,” noted Walford, 21, who said he decided on the haircut in August but needed more time to muster the courage.

“It took almost an hour to cut my first dread — my fiancée cut that one. Then it took not even six minutes to cut the rest. Once I snipped my first one, I was snipping away.”

He pulled out a purple brush and began to repeatedly run it over his hair.

“With dreads it was kind of tough, having to tie them up all the time and at night sleeping. Now I feel free. I feel the breeze. My scalp can actually feel the air. I sleep more comfortably at home.”

And straight home to little Clive (8 pounds, 3 ounces and 22 inches at birth) and his fiancée Aneliz — a UM senior who took the semester off to care for the baby — is where Walford goes after each day of classes, football and meetings.

“I can’t even put in words what it’s like being a father,” said Walford, who has five catches for 58 yards and a touchdown in two games.

“It’s special. You see things differently. Things that used to be fun — all the partying and stuff like that — aren’t as fun. I owe it to my son.”

A powerful, 6-4, 260-pounder after putting on 15 pounds of muscle in the offseason, Walford plans to graduate in December with a degree in sports administration. The fourth-year junior was a standout basketball player at Belle Glade Glades Central, and didn’t play football until his senior year of high school.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

He misses “being the guy” in basketball, but is intent on putting all his focus on football.

He is fast (4.6 seconds in the 40-yard dash), has a knack for big plays and said he loves blocking. In his final four games of 2012, he tallied 303 yards and three touchdowns on 11 catches. Against Duke in the season finale, he had four catches for 99 yards and a score. Just 1 more yard would have made him the first UM tight end since 2003 with two consecutive games of at least 100 receiving yards.

The last one to do that? Kellen Winslow II.

Coach Al Golden said he wants Walford to get the ball more, especially on third down, an area in which UM sorely lacks. “He’s been one of the guys we’ve been pushing to get his timing down, run everything full speed so Stephen [Morris] knows exactly where he is.”

UM offensive coordinator James Coley described Walford as “a big guy who’s fast. If you’re fast, you’ve got to learn how to get open. ... Can he get open on that safety? Can he change up his speed and burst and get out of his break? He’s been working really hard at it.”

“I still have a long way to go, but I’m more focused than I’ve ever been,” he said. “I have a major responsibility to my family and myself.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL SENTINEL

Prospect Watch: Miami (Fla.) TE Clive Walford Driven by Late Cousin

By Tyler Dunne

April 10, 2015

Green Bay — Injuries are bound to happen. Hardship. Pain to some degree. Clive Walford battled through a knee injury at the Senior Bowl and knows more dings are inevitable.

“If I’m hurt or have a small injury,” Walford said, pausing, “his life is gone. So there isn’t any injury worse than having your life taken away from you.”

Alonzo Jones was a virtual big brother to Walford. Blood. The one he looked up to as a kid.

And in 2010, Jones lost his life in a tragic car accident. As Walford re-tells it, Jones crashed into a canal, was knocked unconscious and drowned. A freshman at Miami (Fla.) at the time, Walford has thought about his cousin “every day” since. Heading into the NFL draft as one of the top tight end prospects, he’ll keep thinking about him, too.

“I was very close to him,” Walford said. “He was like my oldest brother, even though he actually wasn’t my brother. I saw him that way.”

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

The Packers' tight end duo of Andrew Quarless and Richard Rodgers did yeoman's work in 2014, combining for 58 catches, 627 yards and seven touchdowns.

If the team does decide to gamble at tight end early in the draft, the choice may be between Minnesota's athletic, highlight-waiting-to-happen Maxx Williams and the 6-foot-4, 251-pound Walford, who brands himself as a complete tight end. Last season, Walford had 44 receptions, 676 yards and seven touchdowns — and he was asked to block plenty.

Walford didn't back down from his NFL scouting combine statement that he is the best tight end in this year's draft.

"Because I'm a dual-threat tight end," he said. "I don't only catch the ball. I get down and dirty and I block. I do everything that a tight end is expected to do. ... It's very rare. A lot of guys don't take pride in their blocking or don't take pride in catching the ball. I take pride in both of them, so that's what helps me excel at both positions."

And experiences — often the tragic ones — shape us all.

Walford's most traumatic, the one that stuck with him his entire collegiate career struck when he was leaving a class that freshman year. His younger cousin called him with the news.

Alonzo was dead.

"Your heart drops," he said. "You don't know how to deal with that situation. You've got to let God handle it. Just pray about it. Memories pop in your head. The good times you had. And you just cherish those moments."

Like all the times the two played video games together. Like the time Jones bought his first car and let Walford drive even though he didn't have a license. Any down time was spent together at Jones' house.

And now, any time he plays a video game or sees a picture on his cell phone, Walford thinks of Jones. He says his cousin was "a laidback guy," who was "well-respected" by a lot of people. "A person you want to be around."

"It helped me become the man I am," he said. "You realize that some things aren't going to be there forever. It made me step my game up a little more and realize what I was supposed to do. I actually think about him every day. There hasn't been a day that goes by that I don't think about him."

"He's up there smiling down, watching me progress," he said. "I know if he could be here and actually enjoy these moments with me, I could see the smile on his face. That just motivates me to continue to go."

"You can't measure someone's heart. I feel that I play with my heart every time I'm out there."

Turn on the tape, he says. That'll answer any questions.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

“Put in the film and you tell me who you like the best,” he said. “If you feel like he’s better, you have to take him.”

Walford does try to study New England’s Rob Gronkowski when possible. Not surprisingly, he admires Gronkowski’s raw heart-on-sleeve playing style above all.

“Of course,” he said. “They have a great quarterback. Aaron Rodgers is very versatile and can get the ball to anybody. With my ability, if you combine it with his ability, you’ve got greatness. So I feel like I’d fit right in.”

Over the phone, Walford chuckles.

DT DAN WILLIAMS

THE PLAYERS' TRIBUNE

My Biggest Fan

By Dan Williams

September 15, 2015

We were in the hotel in New York City the morning of the 2010 NFL Draft, and my phone started ringing. I was projected to be a first-round pick, but with other defensive tackles like N'damukong Suh and Gerald McCoy projected to go in the top five, I knew I probably wasn't going at the very top. But I was still getting calls.

That's the truth about the NFL draft: Unless you're at the very top — and sometimes not even then — you really have no idea who'll draft you. I was rumored to be going to Miami. Buffalo had already called the morning of the draft. And now, a third team was on the line.

"Who's that?" my dad asked. I covered my cell phone mouthpiece and whispered exactly what he wanted to hear.

"The Raiders."

I knew he'd love that. My dad had been a Raiders fanatic his whole life. He grew up in Tennessee when there was no NFL team there, but he watched the Raiders back in the 70s and just loved the way they played. He loved the Black Hole and the whole "Raider Way". He loved the logo, the colors, everything. When I was eight years old, he got me a Raiders Starter jacket for Christmas so we'd have matching jackets. The first NFL game I ever went to was when the Titans first moved to Tennessee. They were still called the Oilers back then, and they played their first season in Memphis, where we lived, before moving to Nashville. When the Raiders came to town that year, my dad made sure we got tickets.

He even wore a silver and black fedora and a matching tie in the Green Room that night.

The call turned out to be nothing big. It was just the D-line coach doing his standard draft day check-in. Sometimes they just give guys one last little feel before the draft, and they always leave it open, like, Be ready ... we might call your name. I got a couple of those calls that day.

When I hung up the phone, my dad said, "You know, son, if you got the chance to go to the silver and black, we'd all be pretty happy."

And by "we all," he definitely meant him. It was his dream to see his son in a Raiders uniform.

The Raiders had the No. 8 overall pick, and they went with Rolando McClain, a linebacker from Alabama. I didn't end up getting drafted until 26th overall, when the Cardinals picked me.

My dad, decked out in his silver and black, gave me a hug, and I think he forgot about the Raiders for just a moment. He coached me when I was a kid, and he always took me to practice — first ones there and last ones to leave — and now I was a first-round NFL draft pick.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

Raiders or not, we made it.

My dad would always say, “You know, son, fan is short for fanatic.” And that’s the kind of fan he was. He was a true fanatic.

I remember the first time I played against his beloved Raiders. It was the third game of my rookie season and the Raiders came to Arizona. My dad would always call me on game day and give me a little pep talk and his thoughts on the game. But this time, he was at the game, and when we talked, he didn’t talk about the game, and it wasn’t much of a pep talk.

“Well, son,” he said, all serious, “I want you to know I’m always your biggest fan, and I’m wearing my Cardinals jersey today. But you better believe I have my Raiders t-shirt on underneath!”

He never missed a game when I was growing up, so it always felt good to know my biggest fan was up in the stands watching.

I was like, “C’mon, I’m your son! You can’t turn the Raiders fan off for one day?”

We had a good laugh about it, but I’m pretty sure he was serious, because after the game — after the Raiders missed a last-second field goal and we won the game by one point — he said, still serious, “Congratulations, son. This is bittersweet for me, but you’re my son, and I’ll always support you. I’m glad ya’ll won, but hey, that one still hurt a little bit!”

I only wish I could have seen his face when the Raiders missed that kick...

He was able to come see me play that weekend, but he couldn’t make it to every game. If he could have, he would have. Instead, he came to some games in Arizona, and if we were playing on the road anywhere near Memphis, he’d pack up whatever family members he could and make the drive to the game. He never missed a game when I was growing up, so it always felt good to know my biggest fan was up in the stands watching.

It was 2013, my fourth year in the league. We were coming off a 5-11 season the year before, and we had a new head coach in Bruce Arians. I went through a coaching change when I was at Tennessee, so I know that when a new coach comes in, everyone’s job is usually up for grabs. My dad and I talked a lot during training camp that year. He wanted to know everything that was going on.

In Week 3, we were getting ready to fly to New Orleans to play the Saints. I was excited, because New Orleans is only about five-and-a-half hours down I-55 from Memphis, and my dad, my mom and my sister were making the drive down.

The Friday evening before the game, I was at home packing and getting ready to head to the airport to catch the team plane when I got a phone call from a police officer. I could tell in his voice that something serious had happened. He told me that just outside of Jackson, Mississippi, about halfway between Memphis and New Orleans, my family had been in a car accident. My mom and my sister were in the hospital.

I asked the officer if my father was okay, but he kind of deflected, only talked about my mother and my sister.

You try not to be frantic in situations like that, but it’s hard to think clearly. I actually got off the phone without hearing from the officer whether or not my father was okay. I just turned my focus to my mom and my sister, and I wanted to be there for them.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

I thought, He didn't tell me anything about my dad because there was nothing to tell. He's fine.

Then I thought, Wait, if my dad was fine, he would've been the one to call me and tell me about my mom and my sister and he'd want to reassure me that everything was gonna be okay.

I hoped for the best, but in the back of my mind, I kind of knew the truth.

I have two sisters. One was in the car with my parents on their way to New Orleans and the other was back in Memphis. When my sister in Memphis got the call about the accident, she went straight to Jackson. I guess the officer didn't tell her anything about my father either, because when she got to the hospital, she got the news, and she broke it to me over the phone.

My father — my biggest fan — was killed in the accident while he was on his way to see his son play.

I didn't get on the plane to New Orleans. I didn't play that weekend. I went to Jackson, Mississippi to identify my dad's body so my sister didn't have to do it. Coach Arians told me to take as much time as I needed, and I just tried to focus on my mom and my sister. They weren't severely injured, so it could have been much worse.

Even when we were sitting in the hospital together watching the Saints game, my mom was telling me to go play. She's a strong woman, and I know she just wanted me to take my mind off what happened, but in the same way that I'd just lost a father, she'd lost a husband. I needed to be there for her. My dad's funeral was the following Saturday, the day before my Cardinals played a road game in Tampa Bay. I didn't play in that game, either.

My dad believed that when you face tragedy, you mourn and you let it out. He also would say that the reason you create memories is so you can remember people and the good times, so you can carry on when they're gone. So two days after his funeral and the day after I missed my second straight game, I went back to Arizona and rejoined my team. The following week, we played the Panthers at home.

That's when it all became real for me. It really sunk in that my dad was gone when I didn't get that pregame phone call and pep talk. It was just weird not getting that call.

Mom and my sister were okay, and they were surrounded by family back in Memphis. So when I didn't get that pregame phone call, I did the only thing I could do: I took my dad's advice. I thought of all the great memories I had of him from over the years: The Raiders jacket he gave me. The youth football practices. The Raiders game against Tennessee. Draft night.

It really sunk in that my dad was gone when I didn't get that pregame phone call and pep talk. It was just weird not getting that call.

And I went out and played.

It's been almost two years to the day since I lost my dad in that car accident, and I still think about him all the time. The time when I miss him most is usually on game day, when I don't get that phone call or when they play the National Anthem before the game. My dad was a retired veteran, so he always saluted during the National Anthem, and when we were kids, it didn't matter what the sport was, he was always that parent who yelled out, "Let's play ball!" He always said it with so much enthusiasm because he was always so excited for the game to start.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

That was him. He was just a happy-go-lucky sports fanatic who always went crazy over the littlest things. When he'd go to games, he'd always spend the extra $2 on the bigger drink to get the souvenir cup. They always had different players on them, and he collected them all.

One time during my second season, I was featured on the souvenir cup for a preseason game, and he almost cried. He was like, "Wow, son. You earned the cup." I think he was more excited about that cup than the fact that I was actually playing in the NFL. He even had me get him extra cups so he could give them away to everybody. He definitely found joy in the little things.

In the two years he's been gone, there's one moment I really wish he was here for. The moment I made his dream come true.

This last offseason, I hit free agency. I had a few teams I was looking at and that were considering signing me, but there was one that turned out to be the perfect fit.

My dad's Raiders.

The scheme was right. I liked the coaches — who wouldn't want to play for Ken Norton and Jack Del Rio? It really was the best fit for me. But I'd be lying if I said I didn't think about my dad when I was making the decision. Maybe he was the tiebreaker that put the Raiders over the top.

When I went out to Oakland to meet with the team and sign my contract, I wish my dad could have been in that room with me. I wish I could have told him the news when we agreed on the deal: "Dad, I'm going to be a Raider!" I wish he could have come to the facility with me, walked through the halls and seen all the history. I probably wouldn't have been able to get him to leave. He'd probably still be staying with me out here now if I brought him out. I'd have a new roommate.

There have been some tough moments since my dad passed. Moments I really wished I could've shared with him. But the toughest one yet was probably when I took the field on Sunday for my first regular season game as a Raider in Oakland. It would have been his dream come true to see his son on the Raiders' home sideline in the silver and black, looking down to the end zone and into the Black Hole. I definitely cried a little when I heard the National Anthem, because when it was over, there was only thing missing.

My dad saluting from the stands, yelling, "Let's play ball!"

S CHARLES WOODSON

BAY AREA NEWS GROUP

What's in a name? For Woodsons, Charles and Rod, a Hall of Fame pedigree

By Jerry McDonald

October 31, 2015

OAKLAND -- There are times when Charles Woodson and Rod Woodson communicate with little more than a look and a nod.

It's a world known to precious few, one that includes early athletic superiority, explosive play-making ability, a crowning achievement within a team setting and, finally, inexplicable success at a relatively advanced age.

"We've been in the same position, and I think we played the game in similar ways," Charles Woodson said. "As a player, it's a natural thing. It's not like anyone has to tell you, 'When you get this, this is going to happen.' You just kind of know it. I'm pretty sure he was the same way.

"There isn't a whole lot that needs to be said."

Charles and Rod Woodson were teammates with the Raiders in 2002 and 2003, with Charles injured through most of 2002, Rod out for most of 2003 and the organization going from AFC champions to a run of losing seasons that continues to this day.

Charles will be at free safety and Rod on the sideline coaching the defensive secondary when the Raiders host the New York Jets on Sunday (1:05 p.m.).

They're not related but may as well be brothers, given the way their careers took shape.

"We both played outside corner, we played nickel, dime, we played safety," Rod Woodson said.

Rod Woodson, 50, was a first-round draft pick by the Pittsburgh Steelers out of Purdue in 1986. He quickly established himself as a star player, at which time Charles, while growing up in Fremont, Ohio, was idolizing Walter Payton, Deion Sanders and, yes, a young Rod Woodson.

Rod is third all-time in interceptions with 71, Charles is tied for sixth with 64 -- including four this season at age 39. They are tied for first all-time with Darren Sharper with 13 defensive touchdowns.

Each was a fixture in the Pro Bowl -- Rod 11 times and Charles with eight. Rod was the NFL's defensive player of the year in 1993, Charles won the award in 2009 with Green Bay.

When the Woodsons won a Super Bowl, it came with an organization other than the team that drafted them. With Rod at free safety, the 2000 Baltimore Ravens won the championship (including an AFC title game win over Charles' Raiders). With Charles as a jack-of-all-trades corner, the Green Bay Packers became world champions in 2009.

OAKLAND RAIDERS FEATURE CLIPS

With Charles battling through a broken shoulder and then a broken ankle in 2002, and Rod going down with a knee injury that would end his career in 2003, they never excelled on the same team at the same time as players.

"Obviously, he's a future Hall of Famer, a first-ballot, gold-jacket guy. We all know that," Rod said. "But what I didn't know about him was how tough he is mentally. I mean, he's been banged up and beat up out there. He could shut it down in practice or games and nobody would blame him. But he's been out there every play."

When Rod was 37, he had eight interceptions for the Raiders and his 98-yard interception return against Denver on a Monday night helped turn a 4-4 season into an AFC championship.

"I think what separates Wood is that he's aggressive toward the ball," Rod said. "Most DBs are trying to get knockdowns and tackles. I don't know how many fumbles he's caused (27), but it's a lot. You've got 11 players on offense and 11 on defense. They're all playing for one ball and Charles knows how to get it, and that makes him valuable."

Rod acknowledges that Charles doesn't need much coaching. Their conversations have more to do with what Charles is seeing and how that can be related to other players.

"He can self-correct and he knows when he's wrong, knows when he's right," Rod said. "What we really want is for him to speak to the young guys, for him to teach them what he knows."

When Rod had a big year at 37, he was relying on experience as much as skill. Same goes for Charles at 39.

"Your skills diminish. Wood's skill set, comparable to when he came from Michigan, is completely different," Rod said. "But he's way smarter than he's ever been. He knows angles and he anticipates. He's seen every formation. He sees it, believes it, and he goes.
