NFL Head Coach: 2nd year Overall NFL Experience: 22nd Year Coaching Experience: 37th Year Overall NFL Record: 13-11 (.541) Regular Season: 13-11 (.541) Postseason: 0-0 Record with MIN: 13-11 (.541)

Mike Zimmer held true to his football principles in his 1st season as the Vikings Head Coach in 2014. The Vikings defense made vast improvements over the previous season, highlighted by jumping from #32 in the NFL in offensive points allowed to #13 and going from #31 in pass defense to #7. The improved defesense, combined with the emergence of rookie QB Teddy Briddewater in the final month of the season, gives the Vikings a strong starting point for the 2015 campaign.

Zimmer was hired as the 9th Head Coach in Vikings history on January 15, 2014. A veteran defensive coordinator, Zimmer enters his 22nd season on an NFL sideline in 2015.

The 2014 Vikings turned to Bridgewater to start 12 games of his rookie season and he responded with a 6-6 record, going 3-2 in his final 5 starts and set virtually every frachise record for a rookie QB. Bridgewater ranked among the NFL leaders in completion percentage and passer rating in the month of December and gained confidence with each start.

The Vikings offense battled through injuries that forced the offensive line to use 8 different starters and turn to their 3rd-team RB as the primary ball carrier.

Defensively, the 2014 Vikings had 8 different regular starters compared to the 2013 unit and improved from #31 in total defense to #14 in the NFL with the new lineup. The Vikings #7 ranking in the NFL in passing defense was the highest finish since the 1993 season when the club was #6. The Vikings had a 113-point improvement in offensive points allowed from 2013 to 2014, the biggest improvement in the NFL in that span. The 2014 squad allowed 20.3 points per game, compared with 27.4 the previous season. The Vikings also ranked #5 in the NFL by allowing only 50 plays of 20+ yards, highlighted by ranking tied for #2 in the league by allowing only 6 runs of 20+.

tied for #2 in the league by allowing only 6 runs of 20+.

Zimmer has been a part of 11 playoff teams in his NFL tenure and teams that have won 7 Division titles. He coached the Cowboys DBs when the team won Super Bowl XXX over Pittsburgh after the 1995 season. From 2009-13, Zimmer's Bengals defenses ranked in the NFL's top 10 in total defense 4 times, climbing to #3 in 2013. From 2011-13, the Bengals ranked #2 in the NFL with 139 sacks (46.3 per season) and have allowed 18.8 points per game, ranking #4 in the NFL in points allowed. The 2013 Bengals posted 20 INTs, the 5th-hest mark in the NFL

Zimmer's arrival in Cincinnati for the 2008 season signaled a franchise turnaround on the defensive side of the ball. The Bengals notched top-10 defensive rankings in 2009, '11, '12 and '13 after only cracking the NFL's top 10 once in 18 seasons prior to Zimmer joining the team. During his tenure, Zimmer coached Geno Atkins as he became one of the top DTs in the NFL, earning consensus All-Pro honors in 2012 and Pro Bowl berths in 2011 and 2012. In 2013, LB Vontaze Burfict continued his rise from an undrafted rookie free agent in 2012 to a Pro Bowler in 2013. Atkins became the 1st Bengals defensive lineman since Tim Krumrie in 1988 to earn a Pro Bowl trip and Burfict was the 1st Bengals LB to be honored since Jim LeClair in 1976. Over the 2012 and 2013 seasons, the Bengals had 4 different players earn AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors- Michael Johnson, Carlos Dunlap, Atkins and Burfict

Zimmer led top-10 defenses for Dallas in both a 4-3 and 3-4 scheme. The 2003 Cowboys defense ranked #1 in the NFL with only 253.3 yards per game allowed. During Zimmer's tenure in Dallas as DBs coach (1994-99) and Defensive Coordinator (2000-06) the team ranked in the top 5 of NFL scoring defense a total of 6 times. The 1995 Cowboys hoisted the Lombardi Trophy in Super Bowl XXX with a win over Pittsburgh and one of Zimmer's pupils, CB Larry Brown, won the Super Bowl MVP award with a pair of INTs in the game. Brown is 1 of only 3 DBs to earn Super Bowl MVP honors in the history of the game.

Before moving to the NFL ranks, Zimmer spent 15 seasons coaching at the collegiate level. He spent his final 5 seasons in the college ranks as defensive coordinator at Washington State from 1989-93. Zimmer was at Weber State from 1981-88, serving as defensive coordinator from '83-88. He entered the profession at Missouri as an assistant from 1979-80.

Zimmer played QB and later LB at Illinois State, earning a degree in physical education. He has 3 children-son, Adam, and daughters Corri and Marki. Adam is coaching the Vikings LBs after having spent time with Kansas City, New Orleans and Cincinnati as an assistant LBs and DBs coach. The father-son duo has both earned Super Bowl titles with Adam's coming following the 2009 season when the Saints won Super Bowl XLIV over Indianapolis. Coaching is a family tradition with the Zimmers as Mike's father, Bill, earned Illinois Hall of Fame honors as a prep football and wrestling coach. Zimmer played football, baseball and wrestled at Lockport Township High School in suburban Chicago. Both Bill and Mike Zimmer have been inducted into the Lockport Hall of Fame and Bill is also in the Bradley University (Peoria, IL) Hall of Fame.

The Pro Football Writers of America recognized Zimmer overcoming the tragedy and the Bengals #4 ranked defense playing a key role in winning then AFC North title by voting him the winner of the Halas Award for the season, an annual award presented to the individual in the NFL that overcame the most adversity to succeed.

FROM HEAD COACH MIKE ZIMMER

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 2015 Vikings Head Coach Mike Zimmer

Good afternoon. After watching the tape I thought it was a good, hard fought game. I was really encouraged by the fans, I thought they did a great job yesterday in helping us with their enthusiasm and their crowd noise. I think we did some good things to be able to fight and come back after we let them get up 15-10 I believe. Second half, I think we came out determined. We've still got a lot of things we have to clean up. We've got to do better on third downs on offense. Defensively we play good most of the time; we have these lapses here that don't allow us to be an elite defense. We had a couple situations in the kicking game that I think we can clean up. We're on to Oakland and get ready to start grinding on them. Questions?

Q: What lapses are you talking about when you refer to the defense?

A: Like yesterday, if you ever see one guy running with one guy down the middle of the field, somebody has probably messed up. It's typically not mental errors, it's some kind of physical error. We have mental errors, but it's typically more about guys getting themselves out of position to be able to help, so there was a couple of those. There was a couple where we let our eyes be in the wrong place, which caused us to be in bad positions, things like that. I just think if we can eliminate some of these things, then we can get better.

Q: What update do you have on Teddy Bridgewater?

A: He passed his first test, so should be good to go I think.

Q: Do you think he will start this Sunday?

A: Well he hasn't passed all of his tests yet, but he's passed one.

Q: Have you had a chance to talk to him about the hit and what his thoughts were?

A: I have not, no. I have not talked to him. I gave the players off today, so I haven't talked to any of them. They probably don't want to talk to me either.

Q: Did you talk to the league about it at all?

A: My conversations with the league I think we'll keep between me and the league.

Q: So is that a yes?

A: I didn't say that.

Q: What kind of open dialogue do you have with the league? Can you pick up the phone whenever you want and call them up?
A: Yeah, it's pretty easy, you just call. Usually I can text them too really, so I can text or call. But yeah, they'll call me right back if I have a concern.

Q: Where is Eric Kendricks at in his recovery?

A: I don't know yet. Obviously he was in for treatment today. I think he's feeling better, so we'll just see how his week goes on.

Q: What did you think of Chad Greenway's day?

A: I thought he played well. I told him during the week, "Hey, you might have to play a whole game, so can you handle this or not?" I thought he played well; he did some really good things, he made a lot of tackles which is good. He orchestrated things very well in there as well.

Q: What did you think of the play when William Hayes hit Teddy Bridgewater's legs and no penalty was called?

A: I didn't like it.

Q: Did you think he was trying to take his knees out?

A: I don't know. There was more than one hit that I was upset about, so that might have been another one.

Q: Did they tell you that Teddy Bridgewater was outside the pocket and that's why no flag was called?

A: That's what he said, he doesn't get protection out of the pocket, but I'll leave it at that.

Q: Adrian Peterson has had less negative rushes the last few games, is that a product of the offensive line playing better or Adrian tweaking something?

A: I think it's a little of both. We've worked on some of the things with his footwork a little bit, but I think the offensive line is doing a better job of handling some of these run blitzes that we've been getting and coming off and seeing things better, just something we've been working on. I think that's part of it. It's important as well.

Q: Are the multiple tight end sets something you put in there to get the running game going?

A: A little bit. That was part of the reason to be able to have some physicality in there, but also to widen them out a little bit and I think it helps with some of the play actions as well.

Q: How has that tight end group fared in run blocking situations?

A: They're getting better. Most of the time when we had good runs the other day the tight ends that were in there blocked well and then when we didn't have good runs, they missed. So it's still a work in progress, but I do think we're getting better, I think they're taking a lot more pride in it and it's been an emphasis for us.

Q: Can you offer an evaluation of Derek Carr?

A: It would be really quick but it looks like he's playing really good. I've watched three games on him so far. I think he's playing very well, gets the ball out quick, seems like he has a good understanding of where the ball needs to go and how to get it out quickly, strong arm, accurate. We did a lot of work on him when he came out.

Q: What can you say about your special teams after big punt returns and game-winning field goals in consecutive weeks?

A: Yeah, I think all year long our guys have played well on special teams. We finally got a decent kickoff return this week that we blocked better. The returner ran it in the right place, and then the punt return has been good. But we've been playing good on special teams all along and I think that's helped to change the field position, to create some positive yards for us as well.

Q: Is your confidence evolving in Blair Walsh as he continues to make big field goals?

A: Yeáh, I really didn't think that he wouldn't make this last one either. He's been kicking good in practice – pregame – I watch him all the time in pregame as well. He's just hitting the ball so much better than he was.

FROM HEAD COACH MIKE ZIMMER

Q: Do you know why that is? Did he change something?

A: We all may change a little bit of things.

Q: Is there an update on Terence Newman?

A: He passed his first test as well.

Q: And what about Anthony Barr?

A: He should be fine.

Q: How important was Linval Joseph's stop at the start of overtime and what did you like about it?

A: Well it was obviously extremely big to get them a minus-six on the first play I believe it was. And then they tried to throw the wide receiver screen and Captain [Munnerlyn] made a nice play, and that was either a minus-one or a zero, so we actually backed them up inside the 20 a little bit and they missed the third down to compare the state of the st nice return to get us to about almost the 50-yard line. But yeah, that's kind of what I talk about all the time with the team about creating field position. If we can get stops, when the defense has them backed up, we can create stops and make them punt backed up, we have a chance to flip the field position and give our offense an opportunity to score. And then I don't know if it was two first downs or a first down and nine yards or something, we kicked the field goal.

Q: How has Tom Johnson done now that he's had an increased role?

A: He's handling it well. You'd know how many plays he had, I think it was 62 or something like that. See, I do read some of that stuff, even though I say I don't, sometimes I do. He's playing well. He played a lot in the preseason because the second [string] guys get a lot of reps, but he's doing good. We'd probably like him to play a little less plays, but under the circumstances right now, he's handling it well.

Q: What's been the key for your improved 3rd-down defense?

A: I wish I had an easy answer for you. We try to mix it up and we try to give them different looks, we try to pressure some, we try to play coverage some. I see a lot of teams worried about the pressure so they try the wide receiver screens, I think maybe that was a big thing, we've been pľaying them very well. I think our guys are understanding their responsibilities better and things we're trýing to get done. Í don'ť really have a for sure answer for you on that.

Q: Why do you think your defense is playing the wide receiver screens so well?

A: Well, we're seeing them a lot because that's kind of everybody's answer to our pressures – throw this screen, throw that screen. Honestly, it's kind of discouraging for the offense if they think, 'Hey, we've got a big play here and we can throw this screen, and it ends up being a no-gainer, it's like, 'Should have done something elsé.'

Q: What do you think your team learned from yesterday's game?

A: I think our guys understand how I want to play, how we want to play as a football team – we want to play clean and smart and tough and all of the things I've mentioned many times. In the offseason we had, in this same room, in every OTA and even in some of the mini-camps and stuff, we had a presentation on why you win and why you lose games. I think they're starting to understand a lot of these critical areas in the game and how important some of these situations are that we go through. I know some of it's confidence and some of it's believing that we can get it done. I just think we have a lot of resiliency to fight through a lot of these things. I got a text last night from a friend of mine and he said, 'You continue to win these games and this is kind of who you are right now, you're going to be in a lot of them.' He said, 'but you can still win them.' That's kind of who we are right now. The last three or four ballgames this kind of shows what kind of team we are as far as how we are on offense, how we are defensively and how we are on special teams. We're probably not going to go up and down the field like the Greatest Show on Turf. This is how we're built to win right now.

Q: Was it your expectation to be in close games like this?

A: No, I'd much rather have some big wins, but hey, a win is a win. I think the more you win, the more you learn how to win. It's important, it does a lot of things for not only the team and the franchise but for the fans and everything else. We've still got a long, long way to go before anybody tells us anything. We're still kind of the guys in the low-rent district, we've just got to keep fighting.

Q: Did that friend of yours win a couple of Super Bowls with the Giants?

A: I don't know.

Q: At the midpoint of the season you're tied for the divisional lead, what else do you have to build on the second half of the season?

A: Honestly, it's great for everybody to see where the standings are, but the only thing I concentrate on right now is the Oakland Raiders. I don't think about where we are or what we have to do. We don't have time, we're not good enough to do that, we're not good enough to think about, 'Oh, wow, we did this or we did that.' It's not who we are. Like I've said many, many times, I tell our football team this too, one thing that I admire about New England is whether they win by 40 or they lose by 40, the next week it's a completely different week. They concentrate on what they have to get done and that's what we have to do. We can't sit and think about the future and we can't sit and think about the past, we've just got to think about how we can get better this week.

Q: What does being able to win yesterday despite being down several starters in crunch time say about the depth of this football team? A: I do think that it's a deep football team, I've said that all along. I think we have a lot of talent. I think Rick [Spielman] and George [Paton] and Scott [Studwell] and those guys upstairs, they've done a good job of evaluating players and getting them in here. There's a large percentage of the football team that has changed over and we continue to get bigger and faster and smarter in a lot of different ways. It's good, but you know, that's a little bit of our mentality, too. It doesn't matter who it is, it's time for you to go, it's time for you to go in there and get to work. I told that to a few guys yesterday in the locker room after the game, 'hey, it's time for you to get to work, let's go.'

Q: Did Anthony Barr undergo X-rays on his arm?

A: He did.

Q: Did the results come back negative?

A: I don't know.

Q: What does Teddy Bridgewater need to do to practice Wednesday?

A: He's got to be able to workout and not have a headache and pass the final test.

IACK DEL RIO

NFL Head Coach: 12th Year Overall NFL Experience: 30th Year Coaching Experience: 19th Year Overall NFL Record: 76-78 (.493) Regular Season: 75-76 (.496) Postseason: 1-2 (.333) Record with OAK: 4-4 (.500) Record vs. MIN: 0-2 (.000) College: Southern California ('85)

Jack Del Rio was named the 19th head coach in the 55-year history of the Oakland Raiders franchise on Jan. 15, 2015. The appointment by Owner Mark Davis and General Manager Reggie McKenzie marked a homecoming for Del Rio, who was raised in nearby Hayward, Calif.

Now in his 30th year in the NFL and his 19th season in coaching, Del Rio has played for, coached with and learned from some of the best coaches in all of football. He was recruited to play at USC by John Robinson, and in the NFL he played under Bum Phillips, Jim Mora, Frank Gansz, Jimmy Johnson and Dennis Green. As a coach, he honed his skills on the staffs of Pro Football Hall of Famer Mike Ditka, Super Bowl-winner Brian Billick and Super Bowl participant John Fox.

The assignment as Oakland's head coach begins Del Rio's second tenure at the helm of an NFL team, as he served in that role with the Jacksonville Jaguars for nine seasons from 2003-2011. He spent the past three seasons as defensive coordinator of the Denver Broncos.

A coaching veteran of 18 seasons, Del Rio recently concluded his second stint as a defensive coordinator under Head Coach John Fox, as the two spent the 2002 season together in Carolina. Del Rio was part of three-straight AFC West titles with the Broncos and helped lead Denver to an AFC Championship and appearance in Super Bowl XLVIII following the 2013 campaign.

Del Rio's defenses have ranked in the top six in the NFL in yards per game allowed in 10 of his 17 seasons as a position coach, coordinator or head coach. During that time, he has coached 18 players to a total of 27 Pro Bowl selections.

In 2014, Del Rio's defensive unit boasted five Pro Bowl selections, ranked third in the NFL in overall defense (305.2 yards per game), and second in the league against the run, allowing 79.8 yards per game. With 25 takeaways and a plus-five turnover ratio, Del Rio's defense was instrumental in leading the Broncos to a third-straight 12-win season.

In his second season with the Broncos in 2013, Del Rio's defense persevered through injuries and managed to improve drastically entering the playoffs. Over the last four weeks of the regular season, Denver ranked fourth in the NFL in total defense (271.5 ypg.) — an improvement of 112.7 yards per game from its previous 12 contests.

Del Rio also accepted the additional role of interim head coach (Weeks 10-13) while John Fox underwent a heart procedure and led the Broncos to a 3-1 record against teams with a combined record of 29-9 (.763).

In 2012, Denver's defense finished as the NFL's second-ranked unit (290.8 ypg.), ranking third against the pass (199.6 ypg.) and the rush (91.1 ypg.). The group also tied for the league lead with 52 sacks and allowed the lowest opponent third-down percentage (30.6), while tying for the largest scoring improvement (6.3 ppg.) from the previous season.

The Broncos produced Pro Bowl selections at each level of the defense in 2012, as CB Champ Bailey, LB Von Miller and DE Elvis Dumervil represented Denver on the AFC squad. LB Wesley Woodyard, CB Chris Harris, Jr. and S Rahim Moore became productive starters for the group, and DE Derek Wolfe became just the second defensive lineman in team history to open every game as a rookie.

Miller, the runner-up for NFL Defensive Player of the Year, set a team record with 18.5 sacks in 2012 and combined with Dumervil (11 sacks) to represent the league's top pass-rushing duo. Additionally, Woodyard became just the second Bronco in 30 years to record at least 100 tackles, five sacks and three interceptions in a season.

Prior to joining the Broncos in 2012, Del Rio spent nine seasons at the helm in Jacksonville. During his head coaching tenure (2003-2011) with the Jaguars, the club ranked sixth in the NFL in yards per game allowed (317.3) and eighth in points per game allowed (20.3). A staple of Del Rio's defensive units was their ability to stop the run, surrendering just 105.6 yards per contest on the ground throughout his tenure to rank sixth in the league.

Under Del Rio, the Jaguars made two playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007, highlighted by the club's first postseason win in eight seasons with a 31-29 road victory against the Pittsburgh Steelers in a 2007 AFC Wild Card Game.

Del Rio was a four-year starter at USC, where he earned consensus All-American honors as a senior and was runner-up for the Lombardi Award, given to the nation's best lineman or linebacker. Named co-MVP of the 1985 Rose Bowl, Del Rio helped the Trojans to a 30-15-1 record while posting 340 career defensive stops, including 58 tackles for a loss.

Teammates with Randy Johnson and Mark McGwire on USC's baseball team from 1983-84, he was drafted by Major League Baseball's Toronto Blue Jays in 1981. He was selected for induction into the USC Hall of Fame for 2015.

Del Rio was a three-sport star in football, baseball and basketball at Hayward High School in Hayward, Calif. He earned a degree in political science from the University of Kansas while playing for the Chiefs. Born on April 4, 1963, in Castro Valley, Calif., Del Rio and his wife, Linda, have three daughters, Lauren, Hope and Aubrey, and a son, Luke.

NORV TURNER Offensive Coordinator

and his 2nd as Offensive Coordinator of the Vikings. A veteran head coach and coordinator, Turner has 15 seasons as an NFL head coach under his belt and as an offensive coordinator for Dallas he helped the Cowboys win Super Bowl XXVII (vs. Buffalo, 1992) and XXVIII (vs. Buffalo, 1993).

Norv Turner enters his 31st season of NFL coaching in 2015 and his 2nd as Offensive Coordinator of the Vikings. A veteran head coach and coordinator, Turner has 15 seasons as a head coach under his belt and as offensive coordinator for Dallas he helped the Cowboys win Super Bowl XXVII (vs. Buffalo, 1993).

In his 1st season with the Vikings Turner's offense hit its stride during the sec-

Bowl XXVII (vs. Buffalo, 1992) and XXVIII (vs. Buffalo, 1993). In his 1st season with the Vikings, Turner's offense hit its stride during the second half of the season after a myriad of circumstances led to early struggles. Turner led rookie QB Teddy Bridgewater to the best season for a rookie QB in team history. Bridgewater was thrust into the starting lineup after starting QB Matt Cassel suffered a season-ending foot injury in the 3rd game of the season. In Bridgewater's 1st career start vs. Atlanta (9/28/14), Turner's game plan guided Bridgewater to a season high 317 passing yards, helping the offense pile up 558 net yards, the 4th most in team history, in a 34-6 win. Bridgewater set virtually every franchise rookie passing record and had the 3rd best completion percentage (64.6%) and the 7th-highest passer rating (85.2) in a season in NFL history by a rookie. Bridgewater finished 259-of-402 for 2,919 passing yards, 14 TDs and 12 INTs as well 47 rushes for 209 yards and a TD, becoming the 1st QB under Turner to rush for over 200 yards in a season.

a rookie. Bridgewater missed 299-or-402 for 2,919 passing yards, 14 IDs and 12 INTs as well 47 rushes for 209 yards and a TD, becoming the 1st QB under Turner to rush for over 200 yards in a season.

With Adrian Peterson missing all but 1 game in 2014, Turner had to rely on inexperienced RBs Matt Asiata and rookie 3rd-rounder Jerick McKinnon. Asiata powered his way to 9 rushing TDs in 2014, tied for 3rd in the NFL, after having only 3 in his opening 3 seasons in the League. On 2 separate occasions in 2014, Asiata tied the team record rushing with 3 TDs in a game (vs. Atlanta, 9/21 & vs. Washington, 11/2). McKinnon, who was an option QB at FCS Georgia Southern, had a productive rookie campaign rushing for 538 on 113 carries (4.8 avg.) in 11 games before missing the final 5 games of the season due to injury. For only the 3rd time since becoming an Offensive Coordinator in 1991 (24 seasons), Turner had multiple 500+ yard rushers – 2014 Minnesota Vikings (Asiata-570 & McKinnon-538), 2010 San Diego Chargers (Tolbert-735 & Mathews-678) and 1997 Washington Redskins (Allen-724 & Davis-567).

Despite never seeing the field in a NFL game prior to 2014, Turner helped WR Charles Johnson, a midseason signing from Cleveland's practice squad, record 31 receptions for 475 yards and 2 TDs in 12 games for the Vikings. Johnson, a NCAA Division II product from Grand Valley State, progressed immensely throughout the season earning the starting nod in 6 contests. Veteran WRs Greg Jennings and Jarius Wright also had productive seasons in 2014, Wright set career highs with 42 catches for 588 yards.

and Jarius wright also had productive seasons in 2014, wright set career riighs with 42 catches for 588 yards.

Turner was raised in the Bay Area suburb of Martinez, CA and attended Alhambra High. As a standout QB and DB, Turner earned a scholarship to Oregon where he was a 3-year letterman for the Ducks (1972-74), Turner and wife, Nancy, have 3 children. The eldest, Scott, serves on the Vikings coaching staff working with the QBs after working as an assistant coach with Carolina (2011-12) and Cleveland (2013).

GEORGE EDWARDS Defensive Coordinator

George Edwards returns as the Vikings Defensive Coordinator in 2015 after making significant strides in changing the defense in his first season in 2014. In his second season with the club, Edwards will look to continue to build on the NFL's most improved defense. Edwards' stint with the Vikings marks his third as an NFL Defensive Coordinator after working in Washington (2003) and Buffalo (2010-2011) in the same capacity. The 2015 season will be Edwards' 18th season in the NFL and 25th season as a coach, all spent on the defensive side of the ball.

Inheriting the defense that allowed the most points per game and secondinneriting the defense that allowed the most points per game and second-most yards per game in 2013, Edwards helped turn the Vikings defense around in his first year as defensive coordinator in 2014. With the help of rookie LB An-thony Barr, first-year starter DE Everson Griffen and S Harrison Smith, the Vikings had the NFL's most improved defense in 2014, allowing 7.1 fewer offensive points per game in 2014 than in 2013. With a revamped defense that included 8 new starters, Edwards helped numerous Vikings have breakout seasons. Griffen, in his first year starting, recorded a career-best 12.0 sacks. Griffen was named the NFC Defensive Player of the Month in October 2014 after recording 6.0 sacks and a forced fumble in a 4-game span. Smith led the Vikings defense with 5 interceptions and was the only player in the NFL with 3+ interceptions and 3.0+ sacks. Edwards played an instrumental role in the development of Barr, a rookie 1stround pick (#9 overall). Before missing the final 4 games with a knee injury, Barr recorded 99 tackles, 3.0 sacks, 2 FR and 3 FFs. Barr was named the NFC Defensive Player of the Week in Week 8 after forcing and recovering a fumble in OT and returning it for a TD. Free agent pickup DT Tom Johnson notched a career-high 6.5 sacks as he found a home on the Vikings line after a journeyman career.

Edwards entered the NFL with the Dallas Cowboys and remained there from 1998-2001. Serving as the LBs coach, Edwards worked under Defensive Coordinator Mike Zimmer who led the Cowboys' defensive attack. Under Edwards' guidance, Dexter Coakley, a 3rd-round draft choice in 1997, was selected to the Pro Bowl twice over the 4-year span (1999, 2001), as he was Dallas' 2nd-leading tackler all 4 years.

Before making the leap to the NFL ranks, Edwards held collegiate assistant posts at Florida (1991), Appalachian State (1992-95), Duke (1996) and Georgia (1997).

A 4-year letterman at Duke University, Edwards was twice named the special teams captain and an honorable mention All-ACC selection at linebacker in 1989.

A native of Siler City, N.C., Edwards and his wife, Jami, have a son, B.J.

MIKE PRIEFER Special Teams Coordinator

Mike Priefer enters his 5th year with the Vikings organization as the Special Teams Coordinator in 2015. The 14-year NFL coaching veteran has held the same title with the Denver Broncos and Kansas City Chiefs in years past.

Priefer's special teams units are known for creating big-play opportunities. Since entering the NFL, Priefer has seen his units account for 20 TDs (9 KOR, 6 PR, 3 blocked punts, 1 botched fake FG and 1 safety). He has also seen his squads block 22 kicks (9 punts, 8 FGs, 5 PATs) since 2002. Since Priefer joined the Vikings in 2011, Minnesota is tied with the Ravens and Eagles for the most special teams TDs with 8 (4 KOR, 2 PR and 2 blocked punts) over the 4-year span.

Since joining the NFL, Priefer has helped David Tyree (ST), Chris Hanson (P), Blair Walsh (K) and Cordarrelle Patterson (RS) earn Pro Bowl nods. Both Walsh and Patterson were named 1st-Team Associated Press All-Pro as rookies, 2 of only 3 Vikings rookies to earn 1st-Team honors in team history. Priefer went to the playoffs with the Giants in 2005 (NFC East Champions), 2006 with Kansas City (Wild Card) and 2012 with the Vikings (Wild Card). In 2012, Priefer was named Special Teams Coach of the Year as voted on by his NFL counterparts and his units ranked #1 in the NFL by the acclaimed Dallas Morning News' special teams rankings. In 2013, the Vikings showcased the #1 KR man in the NFL, Cordarrelle Patterson, and the #2 PR man in Marcus Sherels. Patterson was named 1st-Team All-Pro and selected to the Pro Bowl after his record-breaking season. Patterson was also named NFC Special Teams Player of the Month for September and NFC Special Teams Player of the Week for his Week 8 performance vs. Green Bay. The rookie broke the Vikings' single-season kick return record with 1,393 kick return yards, on 43 returns, and a 32.4 return average with 2 KR TDs, leading the NFL in all categories. The 32.4 KR average is 4th-highest in the NFL since the 1970 merger and highest since 1985. Patterson tied the single-season team-record with 2 KR TDs (105t, 109t), also leading the NFL. Patterson's 109-yard KRTD (10/27/13 vs. GB) was the longest kick return in NFL history. The Vikings average starting position was the 27.2 yard line in 2013. That is the best starting position in the NFL since the NFL moved kickoffs to the 35-yard line in 2010. Not to be outdone, PR Marcus Sherels set the team-record with a 15.2 PR average, good for 2nd in the NFL in 2013.

The 2012 season saw the Vikings' special teams units reach new heights. Priefer's KOR unit ranked 2nd in the NFL with a 24.6 average start following kickoffs. Rookie kicker Blair Walsh made NFL history going 10-10 on FGs of 50+ yards while being selected to his first Pro Bowl along with being named 1st-Team All-Pro by the AP.

Prior to joining the Vikings in 2011, Priefer had served as an NFL special teams coach for 9 seasons – Jacksonville (2002), New York Giants (2003-05), Kansas City (2006-08) and Denver (2009-10). From 1994-2001, Priefer coached special teams at the collegiate level, working for Navy (1994-96), Youngstown State (1997-98), VMI (1999) and Northern Illinois (2000-01).

Priefer owns a bachelor's degree from Navy and received a master's degree from the University of Maryland in 1997. His father, Chuck, was a long-time coach who worked in the NFL (Detroit, Green Bay and San Diego) for 17 seasons and coached at the collegiate level for 12 years.

Priefer was born in Cleveland and moved frequently as a coach's son, graduating from high school in Green Bay. He is married to Debbie, and the couple has four children: Samantha, Michael Jr., Wilson and Katie.

MICK TINGELHOFF - 2015 HOF INDUCTEE

MICK TINGELHOFF
MINNESOTA VIKINGS, C, 1962-78
6-2/237/DOB 5-22-40/ROOKIE FA 1962
COLLEGE: Nebraska
HIGH SCHOOL: Lexington, NE

One of the Vikings leaders by example was a truly self-made player that toiled on the interior of the offensive line for a remarkable 17 seasons and never missed a game- 240 straight regular season starts. Mick Tingelhoff's durability, accountability and humility made him a respected and integral part of the Vikings great teams of the 1960s and 1970s.

Overlooked coming out of college, Tingelhoff came to Vikings camp as a rookie free agent in 1962 for the year-old franchise and stepped into the starting lineup by the 2nd preseason game. He didn't turn over the job until his retirement after the 1978 season. Over that 17-season span he started all 4 Super Bowls the Vikings played in, snapped to Hall of Famer Fran Tarkenton, blocked for 4 RBs who earned 13 trips to the Pro Bowl, paved the way for a 100-yard rushing peformance 40 times, won the Division title 10 of his final 11 seasons and played in 19 post-season games. The Vikings did not have a losing record in his final 11 seasons and posted an overall regular season mark of 112-42-2, winning 10+ games 7 times in that 11-year span.

Tingelhoff also handled all the long-snapping chores for the Vikings, setting up Fred Cox to become the club's all-time leading scorer with 1,365 points and 282 FGs. An aggressive player on special teams, Tingelhoff notched 15 tackles on punt coverage after snapping the ball and recovered 13 career fumbles, 12 of those were Vikings miscues- the most fumble recoveries by an offensive lineman.

The Vikings offense thrived during Tingelhoff's career, ranking in the top 10 of the NFL in rushing offense 10 times and in the top 10 in total offense 8 times. Tingelhoff is 1 of 6 Vikings that have had their jersey number retired and was inducted into the club's Ring of Honor in 2001.

HOMES OF THE VIKINGS

The Vikings bid farewell to Mall of America Field at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in the 2013 season finale, a win over Detroit. In the 53-year Vikings history the club has called Met Stadium and MOA Field their homes. For the 2014 and 2015 seasons the Vikings will play at TCF Bank Stadium on the campus of the University of Minnesota.

From 1961-81 the Vikings played outdoors at Met Stadium, amassing a 97-59-4 record in 160 all-time regular season and playoff games. The 1st game played at the Met was the preseason finale of the 1961 inaugural season vs. the LA Rams on 9/10/61, a 21-17 Vikings loss. The 1961 regular season opener was a week later when the Vikings upset Chicago 37-13 at the Met. The capacity of the Met was 48,446 during the 1981 season.

For the 1982 season, the Vikings moved downtown and indoors to the Metrodome and went on to play 260 all-time regular season and playoff games, amassing a 168-92 mark. The Vikings played 11 seasons longer at the Metrodome than at Met Stadium- 32 seasons to 21.

HOME IS WHERE YOU MAKE IT

HOME FIELD ADVANTAGE

The Vikings began a 2-year stint at TCF Bank Stadium in 2014 hoping to continue the strong home record they have held throughout their history. The Vikings are currently 9-4 (9-3 in 2014-15) in their 13 regular season games at TCF Bank Stadium. The Vikings have amassed the 3rd-most home wins by an NFL team since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. The club moved from Metropolitan Stadium following the 1981 season, playing at Mall of America Field at HHH Metrodome starting in 1982. The Vikings played 260 regular season and playoff games indoors, notching a 168-92 record. In 2010 the team endured the loss of the final 2 home games of the season following the collapse of the Dome roof due to heavy snows and blizzard conditions. The Vikings played "host" to the NY Giants at Detroit's Ford Field and played the regular season home finale at TCF Bank Stadium on the University of Minnesota campus when Chicago visited for a Monday Night Football matchup on 12/20/10. Ironically, the game was 29 years to the day since the last outdoor Vikings game in Minnesota, the finale at Met Stadium on 12/20/81 against Kansas City.

CAN-DO KENDRICKS

The Vikings defense vs. Kansas City (10/18/15) featured a pair of rookies in the starting lineup- LB Eric Kendricks and RDE Danielle Hunter. Kendricks matched a Vikings rookie record by posting 13 tackles in the game, the most ever in a game by a rookie LB. Kendricks had recorded 20 tackles throught the opening 4 games of the season and the Kansas City game was his 2nd straight start on the season. If Kendricks started all remaining 11 games and ended the season with 13 starts he would tie for 2nd-most starts by a Vikings rookie LB with Chris Doleman (13 in 1985), just shy of the team record of 14 held by Rip Hawkins in 1961, the Vikings inaugural season.

AYE, AYE CAPTAIN

Vikings free agent CB Captain Munnerlyn was signed to give the Vikings some veteran experience in the defensive backfield and because of his nose for the ball. Munnerlyn's small stature doesn't diminish his ability to make big plays on the field. He has returned 5 of his 9 career INTs for TDs.

RAISING THE BARR

Vikings 1st-round pick LB Anthony Barr is the 2nd-highest drafed LB in team history, selected #9 overall. Only Hall of Famer Chris Doleman, the #4 pick in the 1985 Draft, was taken higher and he transitioned to play DE early in his career. Barr had one of the top plays of 2014 when he forced, recovered and returned a fumble for a TD on the 1st play of OT at Tampa Bay (10/26/14) to give the Vikings a 19-13 win. The play marked the 1st time in team history an OT game was won on a denfensive TD and only the 4th time in NFL history an OT game was won on a fumble recovery.

VOICES OF THE VIKINGS

Entering his 14th season in 2015 as the Vikings radio play-by-play voice is KFAN radio mid-day personality Paul Allen. Joining Allen as the color commentator is former Vikings LB and coach Pete Bercich.

Allen served as the Vikings Internet web cast play-byplay voice during the 2000 season and called one Vikings game during the 2001 season.

Bercich returns for his 10th season with the broadcasts in 2015 and brings a decade of NFL experience from the field and sideline. A 7th-round draft pick by the Vikings in 1994, Bercich overcame the odds and played for the team from 1995-2000. A standout special teamer, Bercich parlayed his knowledge of the game into a job coaching with the team from 2002-05.

Joining Allen and Bercich from the sidelines and co-hosting the pre-game show will be former Vikings punter Greg Coleman. Coleman punted for the Vikings from 1978-87 and is the team's all-time leader in punts (721), punting yards (29,391) and ranks 2nd in punts inside the 20-yard line (154).

U.S. Bank Partners For Stadium Naming Rights

On June 15, 2015, U.S. Bank, the fifth-largest commercial bank in the United States, and the Minnesota Vikings announced a 20-year partnership and introduced "U.S. Bank Stadium". The announcement highlighted two prominent and storied Minnesota institutions coming together with a focus on strengthening the economic and social well-being of the state and surrounding communities.

"The Minnesota Vikings are a treasure for all citizens of Minnesota and our surrounding states to embrace, enjoy and enthusiastically support," said Richard Davis, chairman, president and CEO, U.S. Bank. "As Minnesota's hometown bank, U.S. Bank has been investing in the financial futures of individuals, families, small businesses and large enterprises for more than 150 years. Today, it is our privilege to make this new investment in the Vikings and the entire state of Minnesota. We look forward to U.S. Bank Stadium being a place that will drive economic vitality in Minneapolis-St. Paul, as well as a place where friends and families will create lasting memories celebrating civic pride and the competitive accomplishments of the Minnesota Vikings."

"On behalf of the entire Minnesota Vikings organization, we would like to thank Richard and the 67,000 U.S. Bank employees for their belief in, and support of, the Vikings and this new stadium and for the commitment they make in the economic and social well-being of Minnesota and its citizens every day," said Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf. "We are proud to partner with a storied and respected Minnesota institution to introduce both U.S. Bank Stadium and the Places to Play program, both of which will serve as assets for the entire Minnesota community."

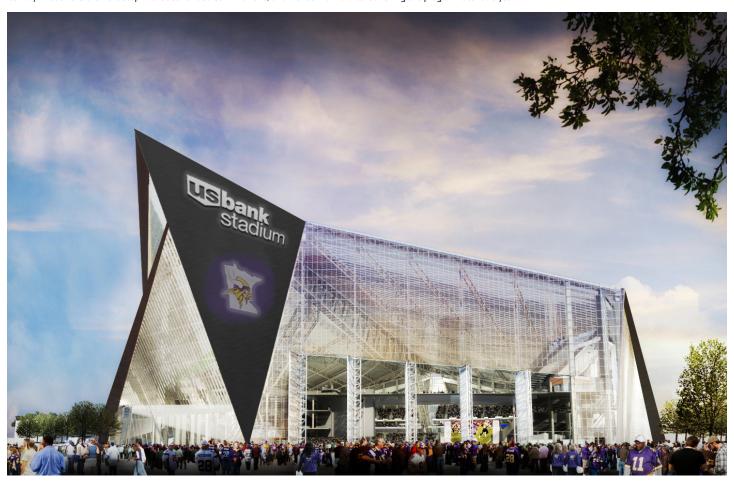

"Securing a prominent Minnesota company with a long history in the state as the naming rights partner for this stadium continues the effort of promoting and supporting Minnesota businesses and individuals with this project," said Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority Chair Michele Kelm Helgen. "With its hundreds of events annually, U.S. Bank Stadium will be an asset to Minneapolis-St. Paul and the entire state."

Reinforcing both U.S. Bank's and the Vikings commitment to youth and the community, the partners also announced a $1,000,000 investment into locations across the state where Minnesota children will play through the "Places to Play" program. The Places to Play program is a state-wide, grant-making initiative focused on investments in community facilities that contribute to the quality of life including parks, playgrounds, trails and athletic facilities. For the next several years, U.S. Bank and the Vikings will make grants totaling $250,000 annually to improve and enhance public venues across the state of Minnesota. Communities can apply for the grants beginning in September 2015 and winners will be selected by the Places to Play advisory committee.

Davis added: "At U.S. Bank, we believe that we are only as strong and vibrant as the communities we serve and we are deeply committed to helping Minnesotans reach their full potential financially and in their quality of life. The recreational and play spaces across the 87 counties in Minnesota are simply one example of catalysts for turning potential into promise and promise into exceptional achievement. Joining forces with the Vikings as the naming partner for U.S. Bank Stadium gives us the platform and the responsibility to make great things happen for the youth of Minnesota. We are excited for the kickoff of the Places to Play initiative, as well as the kickoff of the Vikings 2016 season. Skol, Vikings!"

Wilf added: "The Vikings have never wavered in our commitment to the physical well-being of Minnesota's children. The partnership with U.S. Bank is a natural fit as both the Vikings and U.S. Bank are strong community advocates who care about similar charitable causes throughout the state of Minnesota, particularly as it relates to children. The Places to Play initiative is the next step in that continued commitment, and we look forward to launching the program later this year."

U.S. Bank Stadium Offers Outdoor Experience In Climate-Controlled Enviornment

Following the passage of stadium legislation in both the Minnesota House and Senate on May 10, 2012, the Vikings and the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority (MSFA) immediately began the design and construction process in order to achieve a 2016 stadium opening. Through a public RFP process, the two parties jointly selected HKS Sports & Entertainment as the stadium architect and Minnesotabased Mortenson Construction as the construction manager. Both have extensive experience in their respective areas with professional sports facilities, with HKS having designed Cowboys Stadium and Lucas Oil Stadium, and Mortenson having built Target Field, TCF Bank Stadium, Xcel Energy Center and Target Center.

With the architect and builder on board, the Vikings and the MSFA unveiled the new stadium design on May 13, 2013, a fitting celebration almost exactly one year after Governor Mark Dayton signed the stadium bill into law on May 14, 2012. The bold, iconic design received high marks from the general public and state leaders for its progressive look and its openness to the surrounding neighborhoods.

Vikings fans also raved about the new design and the stadium's unique features, including the largest transparent ethylene tetraflouroethylene (ETFE) roof in the nation and five of the largest glass pivoting doors in the world that will open to the downtown skyline. With the stadium's openness, fans will experience an outdoor feel in a climate-controlled environment. Vikings fans will also be closer to the action than any NFL stadium in the country, with the closest fans sitting just 41.5 feet from the sideline. Seven levels, including two general admission concourses with 360-degree circulation and various views into the bowl, will be connected with escalators, elevators, stairs and a continuous ramp. Two of the largest and highest-quality HD video boards in the NFL will be located in both the east and west end zones, and approximately 2,000 HD flat screen televisions will be distributed throughout the concourses.

Groundbreaking for the new 66,000+-seat stadium took place on December 3, 2013, followed by the demolition of Mall of America Field in the spring of 2014.

Since stadium legislation passed, the Vikings/Wilfs have increased the team/ private investment by nearly $100 million and are now closing in on $600 million committed to the project.

U.S. Bank Stadium Set To Open In July 2016

ETFE Q&A

What is ETFE?

ETFE is a co-polymer resin that is extruded into a thin film. Originally created by the space industry, the plastic-like material is transparent but can be treated to be translucent, is extremely light-weight, very durable and resistant to corrosion.

What is the life/longevity of ETFE?

ETFE does not degrade with exposure to UV light, atmospheric pollution, harsh chemicals or extreme temperatures. The material has withstood extensive testing within extreme environments and is expected to have a 30-50 year life expectancy while requiring minimal maintenance.

How does ETFE handle weight/pressure?

Despite its weight (1/100 the weight of glass), ETFE handles snow/wind loads very well. In sheet form, it can stretch three times its length without losing elasticity.

How do you clean ETFE?

ETFE systems are extremely low maintenance. The surface of the foil is nonstick and non-porous, which allows the natural action of rain to clean the surface. Deposits of dirt, dust and debris remain unattached and are washed away with moisture, meaning ETFE effectively self-cleans with virtually no need to clean externally.

NEW STADIUM ETFE FACTS

- * Largest translucent ETFE roof in North America, spanning more than 240,000 square feet.
- * Only stadium in the nation with clear ETFE roof.
- * ETFE will comprise 60% of the entire roof.
- * ETFE material will cover 60% of the field but angle of roof will allow sunlight over entire field.

U.S. Bank Stadium Awarded Major Events

Prior to opening its doors, U.S. Bank Stadium has already been awarded two major events - Super Bowl LII in 2018 and the 2019 NCAA Men's Final Four - and is strongly in the running for a third, the College Football Playoff in 2020.

After being selected as one of three finalists to host Super Bowl LII In February 2018, the Minnesota Super Bowl Bid Committee delivered a successful presentation to all 32 NFL owners during the NFL's Spring League Meetings in Atlanta and was awarded the game on May 20, 2014. Centered on the theme, "Built for the Bold," the presentation highlighted the new, iconic and bold stadium as a centerpiece and included the many bold moves Minnesotans have made in creating a destination that is ready to host the world's biggest game.

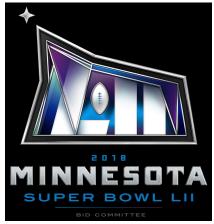

"We are thrilled to bring the Super Bowl back to Minnesota," said Richard Davis, chief executive officer of U.S. Bank and bid committee co-chair. "We succeeded in making the best case to the NFL owners by pointing out the many strengths our region offers – a tremendous entertainment and hospitality industry, 19 Fortune 500 companies, great airport and strong connectivity with both our light rail and skyway systems, and perhaps most important, a new, iconic stadium that will be among the best in the country."

"We appreciate the collaborative effort from Minnesota's business and community leadership in putting together this winning bid," said Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf. "It was evident to me and my brother Zygi that the other NFL owners were extremely impressed with everything Minnesota has to offer, and we have no doubt they will be even more excited with what the community will deliver in February 2018."

"The Super Bowl is the most-watched annual event in the world," said Doug Baker, chief executive officer of Ecolab and bid committee co-chair. "This unprecedented audience, along with the 100,000 people who come to experience it in person, will see this vibrant, engaged community that celebrates all that winter can be when we showcase everything from outdoor activities on Nicollet Mall's Super Bowl Boulevard to an ice palace at the St. Paul Winter Carnival. We plan to set the bar high for all northern destinations that host the Super Bowl."

"I'm most excited by the opportunity to show the world our community's remarkable legacy project that will enhance the lives of Minnesota's children and set a precedent for the future of the game with a $2 million commitment," said Marilyn Carlson-Nelson, former chair and chief executive officer of Carlson Companies and bid committee co-chair. "It's also a joy to know that the 29,000 hospitality workers in Minneapolis and many more throughout the region will be able to welcome the world to our state once again in 2018. The innovation, hospitality and boldness that are Minnesota will leave a mark on the NFL and the Super Bowl for many years to come."

In addition to Super Bowl LII, the NCAA awarded the new stadium the 2019 Men's Final Four on November 14, 2015. This will mark the third time that the NCAA Final Four has taken place in the state of Minnesota with the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome hosting the event in 1992 and 2001.

"Strong public-private collaboration, along with an outstanding stadium design, has allowed Minnesota to already secure two of the world's largest sporting events, both of which will offer unique opportunities to showcase this region on a national and international stage," said Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf.

Minnesota has submitted a bid to host the College Football Playoff in 2020. A decision on that game's location will be made in November 2015.

Innovative Roof Makes Minnesota Stadium Lighten Up - Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS - Ethylene-tetra-fluoro-ethylene.

It's not one of quarterback Teddy Bridgewater's audible calls, nor is it a term for a three-wide receiver set in the Vikings offense.

Look higher for the clues to this tongue-twister, all the way up to the roof of Minnesota's new stadium.

Sixty percent of the colossal venue, some 248,000 square feet of it, will be covered solely by this transparent material called ETFE. The space-age product, scientifically categorized as a copolymer plastic, lets in light like glass would. It's just lighter, cheaper and cleaner.

Public financial support for the project was never going to prevail unless the facility was usable year-round for a variety of events, so an open-air stadium wasn't a viable option. The retractable roof would've cost more, but the Vikings realized through researching other NFL venues that roofs are rarely retracted enough to make them worth the extra expense.

So the Vikings entered a new era of transparency: The $1.076 billion US Bank Stadium will open next season, boasting the only ETFE roof on a sports facility in the United States.

"Clear is the new retractable," said Vikings executive vice president for stadium development Lester Bagley, repeating a slogan coined as the design was revealed more than two years ago.

The transparent roof on the south side will be complemented by five 95-foot tall pivoting glass doors on the front of the building, letting actual fresh air in on warm days. With high-definition televisions at home serving as stiff competition for ticket sales in a northern climate where sunny autumn afternoons are savored, natural light was a high priority. The memory of the Teflon-covered Metrodome, cozy and quirky but dingy, was still fresh.

"The easy way out would have been a simple roof," said Kevin Taylor, the senior vice president at HKS Architects who's managing the project for the Dallas-based firm. "This'll be one of those well-recognized buildings in the industry. We think the perception of sitting in a facility enjoying a game when it's either raining or snowing outside and still feeling like you're experiencing an outdoor stadium is going to be phenomenal."

There are a handful of ETFE buildings around the country, like a train station in Anaheim, California, an amphitheater in Kansas City, Missouri, and a waterpark in Wisconsin Dells, Wisconsin, but this will be the biggest. ETFE was originally developed by chemical company DuPont in the early 1970s as aeronautics insulation. Tested to withstand weather from hail to hurricanes, ETFE began to be used in the 1980s for structures like shopping malls, zoos and schools, primarily in Europe. One of the ETFE pioneers was the founder of the German company Vector Foiltec, which was selected as the manufacturer for the US Bank Stadium roof.

The Water Cube in Beijing, used for swimming at the 2008 Olympics, became the largest building to incorporate ETFE. There's Allianz Arena in Munich as well as a couple of soccer stadiums in New Zealand, where Taylor visited shortly after HKS got the Minnesota project. Taylor was joined on that trip by Edward Peck, a vice president and facade specialist for Thornton Tomasetti, the Chicago structural engineering firm for the stadium.

The panels being used on US Bank Stadium average 10 feet by 300 feet, so only 75 will be needed to maximize transparency. The ETFE material is in thin foil sheets just a tiny fraction of an inch thick. There are three foil layers in each panel, with low-pressurized air in between for a total width around 25 inches.

"You think about that actually resisting all of the climate conditions of Minneapolis, and it's quite impressive. It's due to its physical strength but also its ability to kind of elastically respond to things," Peck said.

The upper layer of foil is fritted to limit the greenhouse effect, and the air helps maintain the desired thermal performance. Light studies of the site conducted by HKS concluded that 60 percent usage on the south side of the ship-shaped building would provide as much sunshine for the seats as if the whole top was covered with ETFE.

So about that weather.

The Metrodome, remember, collapsed under the weight of a 17-inch snowstorm in 2010.

With an asymmetrical design and a catch-basin gutter system around it, this roof will be far better equipped for heavy snow. There's also a system of thin cables to help support the ETFE panels.

"You won't see them sitting in the stands," said Brendan Moore, the senior project manager of the building's enclosures for Mortensen Construction, the general contractor of the project. "While this is very unique to Minnesota and North America, this is not the first time that ETFE has been used in a cold-weather environment by any means."

ETFE is considered more acoustically reflective than Teflon, so this place could be even louder than the Metrodome.

"We may not know ultimately until our first game, but we believe and have been advised that this building will be loud and bring that home-field advantage we want," Bagley said.

Even in defeat, though, the sun will shine.

A Viking Ship in Minneapolis? No, It's Just the U.S. Bank Stadium - CURBED

The new U.S. Bank Stadium in Minneapolis has been compared to a lot of things, and considering the city's Nordic heritage—their football team is called the Vikings—you'd be forgiven for getting excited over its supposed resemblance to a boat, with its "bow" facing downtown. After all, what better source of intimidation (not to mention branding exercise) is there than surrounding your home turf with a warship? Not to get your hopes up, but that's not what the architects from HKS, the Dallas-based firm that designed the $1.076 billion multi-use stadium, were going for. But with a signature steep, angular roof and numerous technical innovations, the venue is made to bring a new level of sustainability and site-specific design to the NFL when it opens next August for the 2016 season. And unlike many of its peers, it'll bring the outdoors inside without the use of a retractable roof, which HKS talked the client out of in favor of a huge, translucent ceiling.

"It has a huge sustainability story," says Bryan Trubey, Principal and Director of Sports & Entertainment at HKS. "The roof is asymmetrical, with a single beam and super truss that isn't located in the center, but pushed to the north side of the roof. The steep pitched roof allows the snow to slip off the building, and provides maximum sun exposure to the southern two-thirds of the roof. It feels like daylight underneath."

The unique design was part of a calculus to make a stadium located in a relatively frigid climate get the most out of limited sunlight and warm weather. Maximizing usage—whether it's concerts, conventions, or Twins's baseball games—is a key aspect of what HKS calls "authentic sustainability," which goes beyond the LEED rating the firm is aiming for, according to architect Kevin Taylor, a senior vice president managing the project. As opposed to a standard retractable roof, the use of which would be limited by climate and wind, this new roof will be made from EFTE, an incredibly insulating, glass-like plastic which allows sunlight to heat the interior and warm air to mass in the unusually high roof, cutting energy costs (the amount of money saved from not having to turn on the energy-efficient LED overhead lights during days games will also be substantial).

In addition, a series of massive, swinging doors being assembled on site, the largest of which is 95 feet tall and 50 feet wide and weighs more than 57,000 pounds, will pivot open towards downtown Minneapolis, letting in the cool breeze. When completed, they'll be the world's largest pivoting doors, creating a visual draw for dans. It offers a different way of moderating the temperature inside. Along with special luxury suites on ground level that open up to patios covered in the same turf that on the playing field, it one of many features hoping to provide a different game-day experience.

Unlike Minneapolis's previous stadium, the Metrodome, which was an air-supported structure, U.S. Bank Stadium will have a solid roof, steep enough for winter snow to slide off. (Taylor compared the Metrodome, which famously burst holes in its roof, to "putting air in a beach ball"). It'll soon get a chance to show how resilient it is to a Minnesota winter. The stadium, which is employing 1,400 workers a day on site during peak construction periods, is still on track for next season, with crews are currently erecting one million dollars worth of material daily.

So what is the stadium actually shaped like? HKS, which specializes in stadiums and civic buildings, and recently designed pro football stadiums for Indianapolis (HKS Stadium) and Dallas (AT&T Stadium), does its homework when designing a structure that fits in with its surroundings. They have an anthropologist on staff to help research the local culture, and the resulting jagged edges of the building are supposed to reflect modern Minneapolis architecture, like Jean Nouvel's Guthrie Theatre. The design teams hopes it's a very massive, and very site-specific addition to the city skyline.

"We like it when people refer to the building looking like any number of different things—ice shard, a rock formation in the Missis-sippi, and yes a Viking ship," says Taylor, also noting that the real design was based off this steep roofs of structures from Northern Europe, a nod to the area's Scandinavian heritage. "If you're able to do those things in a way that's abstract, not literal, the way that people look at it skews positive. We thought people would feel an attachment and just feel right."

Medtronic buys U.S. Bank Stadium plaza naming rights - MSP Business Journal

Medtronic will put its name on the plaza in front of U.S. Bank Stadium as part of a 10-year sponsorship deal with the Minnesota Vikings.

Medtronic Plaza will give the medical device maker exposure in the three-acre plaza that is expected to be the entrance for 85 percent of Vikings fans.

Situated between the downtown-facing side of the new $1.1 billion Minneapolis football stadium and a planned two-block public park, the plaza has a Metro Transit light rail station serving Blue Line and Green Line trains.

Medtronic Plaza will also be used for events, concerts and as the likely starting point for the Twin Cities Marathon, which is also sponsored by Medtronic.

The partnership also includes Medtronic Club, a space inside the stadium showcasing medical technology that was invented in Minnesota.

Medtronic (NYSE: MDT) has its legal headquarters in Ireland and its executive offices in Fridley.

"Our sponsorship is a symbol of our continued commitment and presence in the state," Medtronic Vice President of Corporate Communications and Corporate Marketing Rob Clark said in a news release. "Medtronic Plaza will be a gathering place available to the community 365 days a year."

The Vikings have announced three other founding partners for U.S. Bank Stadium: Land O'Lakes, Hy-Vee Inc. and MillerCoors. The team will likely announce three of four more founding partners before the stadium opens next summer.

Beyond the Dome - Sports Business Journal

It's late summer in the Twin Cities – or what some locals call construction season, because in a place where harsh weather can rule winters, this is when builders make progress on big projects.

The Nicollet Mall, an outdoor section of downtown Minneapolis, is torn up, going through a $50 million renovation to develop more green space and better connections to the city's sports destinations. Those include U.S. Bank Stadium, the Minnesota Vikings' $1.1 billion facility, set to open a few blocks away in July.

Across the street from the stadium, two new 17-story towers, a $300 million project expected to house 5,000 Wells Fargo Bank employees, will open for business in the next seven months.

All told, $1 billion in development surrounds stadium construction, "outstripping anything anyone had ever talked about," said Michele Kelm-Helgen, chair of the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority, the Vikings' landlord.

Heading into September, the stadium was 70 percent complete with $590 million worth of work in place, said officials with Mortenson, the stadium's general contractor.

The final piece of structural steel should be in place this week, six weeks ahead of schedule. For the roof, Mortenson aims to enclose the building by Nov. 1. Extreme cold hinders the installation of the ETFE panels, a clear plastic material providing fans with the feeling of being outdoors.

Despite the challenges of winter construction in the upper Midwest, the project is on track to become the fastest-enclosed NFL stadium built, a period spanning 32 months, Mortenson officials said.

Getting to this point, though, has at times been difficult, and recently was marred by tragedy. On Aug. 26, two days after Sports-Business Journal toured the construction site, the project shut down temporarily when 35-year-old roof worker Jeramie Gruber fell to his death and a co-worker was injured. The state's Occupational Safety and Health Division is investigating the incident.

To that point, the difficulties centered largely on funding. Mortenson and the authority have a public disagreement over who should pay subcontractors $15.4 million in fees related to electrical, drywall and other work, a result of adjustments to the project that led to increased costs. It has yet to be resolved, Mortenson officials said.

The overall project cost has escalated from the original budget of $975 million approved by the state Legislature a few years ago to its current total of $1.1 billion, a figure covering hard construction plus infrastructure costs and fees paid to designers and builders.

To pay those extra expenses, the Vikings and the authority have, to date, kicked in an additional $107 million for upgrades. Those include the roof deck overlooking the city skyline at Club Purple, a premium space in the northwest corner of the upper deck created late in the design process; black anthra panels, with a dark zinc coating that will lighten over time to match the original design, for the stadium's exterior walls on the east side; and a platform in the northwest corner to blow the gjallarhorn, a giant instrument trumpeting the Vikings' entrance to the field.

Owner's representative Don Becker has kept track of all costs. Becker, whose title is stadium project executive, works for the New Jersey real estate firm held by the Wilf family, the Vikings' owner. He maintains an alternate list of design features, pending budget restrictions.

"As is typical in a real estate project, there are the things you want and the things you can afford," Becker said. "As we've been working through it, we're seeing where we can add some things back. Some were original ideas we couldn't afford at the time. Some have come up since then."

Throughout the process, the focus has been on fan experience. That's why, for example, the Vikings increased the number of television screens from 816 to 2,000 to keep fans connected to the game. U.S. Bank Stadium will showcase 4K technology, one step above traditional high-definition.

The five giant pivoting glass doors forming the main entrance on the west side, a signature design element, also speak to fan experience. The sheer size and motion of those structures will provide a "wow factor" as fans walk through them from the outdoor plaza to the main concourse.

Beyond the Dome - Continued

Each door is 55 feet wide, and the sloping design starts with the tallest door, standing 95 feet tall. The doors rose in price by $6 million over original estimates, in part because of the decision to use hydraulics to open them simultaneously, said Kevin Dalager, Mortenson's construction executive.

"The doors have never been done at this scale," said Bryan Trubey, a principal with HKS, the stadium's architect. "The key thing at this building is the animation factor when those doors open like that. It's far more dramatic than sliding doors, and you can't make proportional mistakes."

Inside the 66,200-seat stadium, the first suite level is 16 rows from the field, closest to the action in the NFL, said Lester Bagley, the Vikings' executive vice president of public affairs and stadium development.

Some suites will be on the field behind the home bench, giving those premium patrons a "backstage pass" feeling, said Jon Barthelme, director of sales for Van Wagner Sports & Entertainment, the Vikings' sales agency.

Those turf suites, the next generation of event-level seating in the NFL, come with an indoor lounge and a patio on the field with movable furniture. Those patrons don't get seats in the bowl to watch the game, a point of separation from AT&T Stadium, the Dallas Cowboys' home. But to those buyers, it's more about exclusivity than the game, Van Wagner officials said.

"If you're bringing people from out of state and entertaining those clients once a year, the turf suites are perfect," Barthelme said. "Those people aren't coming to watch every play of the game. They've all been to suites. But if you're bringing the same clients two to three times a year, I don't think it's the right fit. They want to watch the game a little bit more."

A few weeks before the 2015 regular season, Van Wagner had sold 90 percent of all premium inventory at U.S. Bank Stadium, covering suites, club seats and Club Purple's couches and drink rail seats. The club and its fantasy football lounge is designed to cater to a younger crowd.

In addition, Van Wagner had sold 40,000 stadium builders licenses tied to both club seats and regular seats. To date, those deals represent $105 million in revenue. SBLs cost $500 to $10,000 and the high-end licenses have sold out, said Chris Allphin, Van Wagner's senior vice president of team and venue services.

"There's going to be a lot of purple in there," Barthelme said.

The stadium includes 9,300 club seats, 8,000 of which come with a license.

"Coming in, I would have thought [club seats] would be more of a corporate buy, but the real fans have bought into this, people with a history of having Vikings tickets in their family since the '60s," Barthelme said.

Ninety-seven of the 108 suites available for sale are sold or pending signed contracts. The suites range in price from $100,000 to $500,000 annually, staggered over four-, seven- and 10-year terms.

Suite revenue stands at $180 million overall and could surpass $200 million over the next 10 years, pending future sales, Barthelme said.

Those numbers could go even higher after the stadium opens. The Vikings have space to build an additional 18 suites to meet the demand for the Super Bowl. Those units would be situated one level below the upper deck on the northeast side, joining the 131 suites now under construction.

"HKS designed a building that's intelligently scaled and allowed us to add inventory as we go along and soft-sell things like Club Purple," said Allphin. "Then we can turn the spigot on and move those really quickly."

Minnesota Vikings creating technology infrastructure to match scope of big stadium - Star Tribune

As the concrete-and-steel behemoth that is the new stadium overtakes the eastern end of the downtown Minneapolis skyline, a similarly ambitious Minnesota Vikings executive team is building a technological marvel of programming that aims to thrill ticket holders on game days.

"We've been talking a lot about the venue," director of new stadium partnerships John Penhollow said of the Vikings' $1 billion new house. "One of the things we learned early on is that's not where the fan experience starts."

For fans, game day begins when they pull out of their driveways. The Vikings will meet them there – at least in cyberspace. An app will provide traffic conditions, parking availability and directions to the least-congested stadium entrances. Then, as the fan's feet hit the plaza, the pregame warm-up will end and a splashy gameday experience will begin.

All pro sports teams – especially the Vikings, as they build a pricey new stadium – want to give fans more than they can get at home. They want fans to abandon their comfy couches, stocked home refrigerators and high-tech home entertainment systems for the stadium experience.

At the heart of the Vikings' gameday fan plan is the concept of connectivity – to the Vikings' brand, the players, each other. Team executives are deep into the work that experts say must be carefully tailored to the brand and the region, or risk leaving fans cold – or worse, bored.

Last week, workers at the stadium site laid pipe and hoisted screens that are part of that effort. And on Friday, the Minnesota Sports Facilities Administration approved an additional team contribution of $14 million, nearly all of which will go to add 1,200 screens at the stadium to the original 800.

J.P. Paul, Vikings director for new stadium corporate development, pointed out where some of the 2,000 flat-screen monitors will be positioned.

J.P. Paul, Vikings director for new stadium corporate development, pointed out where some of the 2,000 flat-screen monitors will be positioned.

More

A Vikings executive crew is also working on the new apps, social media engagement, charging-station locations, concessions options and programming aimed at beguiling fans — and getting them to fork over more money than ever.

"At the end of the day when people leave the stadium, you want them to go, 'That was an amazing time,' " said Brian Cheek, business development director at Postano, a Portland, Ore., company that designs social media platforms for sporting events and teams, including the recently run Kentucky Derby, the Wells Fargo golf championship and the National Hockey League's Los Angeles Kings.

'We've built the pipe'

The backbone of the modern game day begins with a "powerful, robust neutral host" to serve all electronic devices brought in by fans, regardless of their phone service carriers.

Penhollow said the stadium will have enough Wi-Fi capacity to accommodate all 65,000 fans on their devices at one time, although the expectation is that actual use will hover at about half of the crowd.

"We've built the pipe; there's no excuse for us not to deliver the content," he said.

Providing the unique in-house content will be a huge stable of high-tech cameras able to capture any angle on the field and zoom into a player's toes or a blade of grass.

One lesson learned from the 49ers' first year in their high-tech stadium: Fans want more than replays, and they want to know more about the players and the plays, Penhollow said.

Minnesota Vikings creating technology infrastructure to match scope of big stadium - Continued

"We're now going to finally be able to show a different kind of content," he said.

While couch cowboys at home watch commercials, Penhollow said the in-house stadium broadcasts can spend more time breaking down replays from different angles. The Vikings will be able to interact with and pump up ticket-holders and advertise like never before.

Cheek said fan interaction is critical, especially with social media. "There's no doubt that a more engaged fan is going to spend more money and go to more games," he said.

Fantasy football heaven

In the stadium technological arms race, there's always the question of who has the biggest screen. In the NFL, that would be the Dallas Cowboys at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas.

The Vikings' screens won't be as big as Dallas', nor will they be as a high – a strategic decision to keep the boards closer to the field so fans have to move only their eyes, not their bodies, to see the displays.

Big as they are, those are but two of 2,000 screens that will include a massive fantasy football board above the field.

That's over a designated ticketholder-only fantasy seating area for those who want a more intensive experience, with a live host highlighting action around the league. "The time we commit, the resources we commit to fantasy, just hasn't been done yet," Penhollow said.

Then there's the fan's smartphone screen, with the potential to do everything from carrying a game ticket to ordering chicken wings so they're waiting at the window, steering a fan away from a crowded restroom and providing directions to the closest beer vendor selling an autumn ale.

"You can hit order, hit purchase, go up, pick up your food and sit down," Penhollow said. "Or we can push a notification to you of a coupon for nachos and soft drinks."

The team isn't ready to go to e-tickets yet, although they would allow more personalization, including seat upgrades for dedicated fans

Smartphones will also help the team track fan movement so adjustments can be made. "Of course it's going to be for the fan experience, but it's also going to help us operationally," Penhollow said.

A smooth operation translates into more revenue, Cheek said. "Anytime you can make anything easier, the propensity to spend increases," he said, giving the example of L.A. Kings fans being able to order a customized team jersey and have it delivered to their seat.

Live play or app play?

All the special effects come with a caveat.

Andrew Zimbalist, a sports economist at Smith College in Massachusetts, said sports teams are "walking a fine line" with their apps and technology, because they also want fans to watch the game and participate in the "exhilarating" ritual of being part of a public event.

"At a game, you have multiple opportunities where you're turning around and high-fiving people you don't even know. That's a kind of enjoyment people don't often get in our society," he said. "It's problematic if you have all these apps people are playing."

Said Penhollow: "We definitely don't want you staring at your phone during the game, but when you do look at your phone, we want to make sure you get what you need."

U.S. Bank Stadium Celebrates Construction Crew's 'Topping Out'

MINNEAPOLIS – Mortenson Construction, the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority (MSFA), and the Minnesota Vikings celebrated the "topping out" of U.S. Bank Stadium at an event held today on the downtown Minneapolis construction site. Topping out is a major milestone celebrated when the highest or last steel beam is placed in a building under construction.

More than 11,000 tons of steel help make up the new U.S. Bank Stadium roof, including the 989 foot-long, 1,700 ton ridge truss, which stands 214 feet above the playing field. One-hundred forty ironworkers from LeJeune Steel Company, Danny's Construction, and Iron Workers Local 512 worked 240,000 hours on the roof steel of the building. Today's milestone comes 21 months from groundbreaking and on the date it was scheduled more than 2 years ago. The project is nearly 75 percent complete and will be finished in July 2016.

Speakers at today's event included John Wood, senior vice president of Mortenson, Mark Wilf, owner/president of the Minnesota Vikings, Michele Kelm-Helgen, chair of the MSFA, and Minnesota Lt. Governor Tina Smith. Attendees of today's event were invited to sign the steel beam before it was lifted and installed in the stadium's roof.

"The progress to date on the construction of the new stadium has been nothing short of amazing," said Michele Kelm-Helgen, chair of the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority. "This progress has been made possible by our construction partner Mortenson, and all the Minnesota workers and businesses involved."

"Today's milestone is truly a celebration of the tireless work so many Minnesota companies and individuals have put into U.S. Bank Stadium thus far," said Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf. "With less than 11 months to go, it is becoming very clear the positive impact this stadium will have on the community, the state, Vikings fans and all users. We appreciate everyone involved in making this vision become reality."

"Today's milestone has been reached thanks to the men and women of the Minnesota building trades and the many subcontractors of all trades who helped build the structure of the stadium," said John Wood, senior vice president, Mortenson Construction. "Special recognition is due to LeJeune Steel Company and Danny's Construction, two great local companies that fabricated and erected, with precision, the complex long-span steel structure."

Construction of the 65,000 seat, 1.7 million square-foot U.S. Bank Stadium is being managed by Mortenson Construction and project associate Thor Construction. It will be owned and operated by the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority and home to the Minnesota Vikings.

Vikings Become 1st NFL Team To Partner With Mamava, Install Lactation Suites For Breastfeeding Moms

Eden Prairie, MN (September 22, 2015) – The Minnesota Vikings will be the first NFL franchise to instal! Mamava lactation suites for nursing mothers in an NFL stadium. The team will also install pods at the Winter Park training facility and headquarters in Eden Prairie and the downtown Minneapolis office location.

"Creating a family-friendly environment and a positive experience for all fans at our football games is paramount to the Minnesota Vikings," said Vikings Chief Operating Officer Kevin Warren. "While we certainly encourage breastfeeding mothers to nurse where they feel comfortable, we have become increasingly aware of the need many moms have for the privacy and comfort that these Mamava lactation suites provide. In addition, we are always striving to create the most positive workplace environment within our organizations and the pods at our two headquarters will benefit many of our female employees."

The Vikings will install four Mamava suites; two will reside in the Vikings corporate offices and two will be located at TCF Bank Stadium in 2015. The pods are expected to arrive and be installed in time for the Vikings-Chiefs game on October 18. The Vikings plan to further create a family-friendly environment within U.S. Bank Stadium with the continuation of the lactation suites and are exploring a nursing area that will allow moms to stay connected to the game.

Created by Mamava, a company dedicated to transforming the culture of breastfeeding by making it easier for more women to achieve their breastfeeding goals, the unit is a self-contained, mobile pod with comfortable benches, an electrical outlet for plugging in a breast pump and a door that can be locked for privacy. The 4-foot by 8-foot suite is meant for individual use but can fit mothers with babies and other children in tow.

"Until now female NFL fans who have wanted privacy for feeding have had to nurse or pump in a bathroom, or worse yet, stay home due to the lack of amenities for nursing" said Sascha Mayer, co-founder of Mamava. "We believe that all mamas deserve a safe, clean and comfortable place to use a breast pump or breastfeed – anywhere, anytime. Mamava pods provide flexibility for facilities and easy access for moms."

The suites will provide support not just to NFL employees and fans but also for attendees of other events, including Gophers football and Super Bowl LII in 2018.

Why Vikings Fans Will Love U.S. Bank Stadium's LED Lights

MINNEAPOLIS – Game action inside U.S. Bank Stadium is less than a year away, but installation of a high-tech lighting system that will benefit broadcast cameras and spectators has begun.

Ephesus Lighting has developed a patented system of LED lights that will be the first of its kind in a new NFL venue.

"Minnesota really is going to be the first one to really take advantage of this technology in a large-scale environment like this," said Ephesus Chief Technology Officer Joe Casper. "They've done it in smaller venues, but not an NFL stadium, especially a brand new stadium like this. We just released this technology we're putting in Minnesota this year, so it's the most-advanced technology you can get on the market."

The upgraded lighting, which the Vikings agreed to cover with a $1.3 million commitment earlier this year, will have the capability to enhance fan experiences during games, in the lead up to kickoff and during breaks like halftime.

"We are excited about this state-of-the-art lighting system because of the impact it will have on the fans inside U.S. Bank Stadium and those watching on broadcast television," Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf said. "The versatility and responsiveness of the lighting will positively impact all events at U.S. Bank Stadium, including Super Bowl LII."

Crews have begun installing the system's LEDs at the upper interior ring of the stadium. They use a computer-generated model and simulator to coordinate alignment to provide balanced lighting to help player performance and fan experience because of increased visibility and the prevention of glare.

"We take the light and purposefully model around obstacles that are on the field, players, the balls, so it's like being in a portrait studio with lighting behind, lighting in front, and you look perfect," Casper said. "We take great care of taking light from various aspects of the catwalk, and it's being aimed to create light from 16 different directions so it gives you the appearance that you're in a studio."

Casper said the LEDs will have controls to allow for adjustments according to the amount of sunlight entering U.S. Bank Stadium, as well as the changing of the light's color temperature for different events. He said football games are generally best-enjoyed with a medium color temperature of lighting, basketball games with a warmer color temp (yellowish white to red), and hockey games cooler (bluish white). A similar smaller system (120 LED fixtures) has been retroactively installed in Bridgestone Arena, the home of the Nashville Predators and host of this season's NHL All-Star Game. The NFL stadium in Arizona also has been retrofitted.

Halftimes for regular season NFL games are limited to 12 minutes, but intermission is expanded for the Super Bowl. There's still a tight window for stage set-up, performance and removal. In most host venues, the performance must end to allow approximately 15 minutes for metal halides to reach full brightness. There's no such waiting period for the LED system.

While Left Shark might have been the biggest talk of the Super Bowl XLIX halftime show, Ephesus Lighting's technological LED system gave Katy Perry more time to perform.

"We lit the Super Bowl this past year at Phoenix, and it gave 12 extra minutes for the halftime show because of the instant-on, instant-off capability," Casper said.

In addition to the multipurpose benefits, Casper said there's an estimated energy savings of more than 75 percent.

The colors of jerseys and the turf will be truer, Casper said, because of the LED lighting system.

"That's going to add not only to the fans in but also for the broadcasting," Casper said. "We built this for broadcasting, so we've spent a lot of time with all of the networks to make this system for the ease of broadcasting. It will be the best-lit broadcasting stadium on the market."

The system is made in America by the company that is based in Syracuse, New York. Pride in the project, Casper said, is giving the area known for orange a purple hue.

"It's the biggest thing in Syracuse," Casper said. "I think everyone is going to switch from orange of the Syracuse Orangemen to purple of the Minnesota Vikings."

U.S. Bank Stadium Update - October 7, 2015

Minneapolis, MN (October 7, 2015) – U.S. Bank Stadium celebrated a significant milestone last month by raising the last piece of steel on the roof. With ten months remaining in the construction of U.S. Bank Stadium, here's an update on construction progress and what to expect in the coming months.

The east side of the stadium is looking like the finished product, with all the glazing, paneling, signage, stairs and entrance finished, landscaping is well underway. Trees, shrubs and perennials planting began late last week, and is on going this week.

The finished east side concrete staircase is located directly over the loading dock. To alleviate heavy loads of soil and to maximize the load put on the concrete structure, Mortenson used 5,000 cubic yards of geofoam. Geofoam is a stable, light weight, waterproof fill that is 1-2% of the weight of regular soil.

The plans of landscape architects, Oslund and Associates, are taking shape on the east and south sides of the stadium. Ten Swamp White Oak and Sienna Glen Maple trees were planted on 6th Street on Friday. Boston Ivy was planted at the base of the fence around the parking lot in the south east corner. Earlier last week, shrubs were planted on 11th Avenue, as were a fraction of the 3,000 perennials.

The landscape plan includes: 153 trees; 902 shrubs; 2,946 perennials; 462 tons of rock mulch; and 135 cubic yards of hardwood mulch. Crimson Spire Oak and Hackberry trees will be planted on 11th Avenue in 2015. Sixty Triumph Elm trees will be planted on the west plaza in the spring/summer of 2016.

The first large, 30 foot high "monument sign," which will be used as directional signage was installed. There will be six 30 feet high signs and seven 12 feet high pedestrian directional signs on the stadium site.

Inside, more than a thousand workers are busy finishing both sides of the roof, installing concession equipment, installing seats and finishing out rooms. The LED lighting is being installed at the top of the stadium bowl. U.S. Bank Stadium is the first NFL stadium being built with LED lighting, which operates much more efficiently than metal halide lighting: they turn on and off instantly; they use less electricity; and are warrantied for 10 years.

Later this fall the roof will be enclosed, ribbon board installation and video boards will begin installation this winter. At the end of March, the retractable seating will be installed. In April the locker rooms will be finished, and in May the field turf will be installed. U.S. Bank Stadium will open in July of 2016.

Vikes Stadium Builders Cross Goal Line On Minority Hiring

MINNEAPOLIS – There are a lot of superlatives about the US Bank stadium under construction in Minneapolis. It's the biggest public works project in state history. It is twice as big as the Metrodome. It cost more than the NASA probe to Pluto.

But no stadium statistic may have initially seemed more implausible than this one: 32. That's the percentage of the construction workforce the state wanted to be minorities.

"We thought it was a very ambitious goal. And we frankly were concerned about just how achievable it was," said John Wood, vice president at Mortenson Construction, the company building the stadium.

The test of that goal has come this summer with as many as 1,400 workers on site some days. Back when the work started, no one was even sure there were enough minority construction workers in the state to make up a work force like that.

The Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority even hired a north Minneapolis trade school, Summit Academy, to help build the workforce from scratch if necessary, with the most basic skills training.

But 22 months after breaking ground, nearly two in five workers on the project are minorities. Nearly 1 in 10 are women. That's even higher than the goal set three years ago.

"Against a 32 percent goal, we're sitting at 37 percent minority," said Alex Tittle, equity director for the Minnesota Stadium Facilities Authority. "Women, we are at 9 percent, against a 6 percent goal."

Tittle says the project is meeting its goals through recruiting and targeted training programs. Tittle tracks the workforce on practically a daily basis to give feedback to Mortenson and its subcontractors. The effort has removed "all and every potential obstacle and excuse from anybody who has created an obstacle for minorities, veterans, women alike to get into the construction industry."

Critics of the company's previous projects, like Target Field, claimed that contractors were padding their payrolls with black and other minority workers, in non-essential jobs, just to make the hiring goals set out in their construction contracts, which Mortenson says isn't true.

That isn't even possible now, when so many of the construction crew are minority workers, said Lynn Littlejohn, director of community affairs for Mortenson.

"There's nobody sitting on a bucket," Littlejohn said. "There's nobody just out here holding a sign or whatever. They're all doing the work that needs to be done, in every discipline and every trade, to build this stadium."

State Human Rights Commissioner Kevin Lindsey says the goals are not just about being inclusive. He says tapping into all the state's workers is the only way to hire enough workers to keep Minnesota's construction industry going as Minnesota's demographics shift.

"When we take a look at the sheer number of average working adults, just the sheer number of folks that are available are going to be coming from African-American communities, Latino communities, Native American communities, Asian-American communities," said Lindsey, whose office set the 32 percent goal for state contracts for the Vikings stadium back in 2012.

The construction industry agrees. Mortenson's Wood says Mortenson simply has to factor diversity into its work to get the projects done.

"What has been the pipeline of traditional construction workers in this business – whether its second and third generation tradespeople, or here in Minnesota, young men and women that were coming off the farms, particularly young men – that traditional source of workers isn't the same as it was 30 years ago," Wood said.

The supply side of the labor market is feeling the change, too.

Ironworkers Local 512 represents heavy construction workers in parts of three states including Minnesota and had members working on the stadium. The local has a training center in St. Paul and just spent $4 million to expand it.

Vikes Stadium Builders Cross Goal Line On Minority Hiring (continued)

In the last five years, the apprentice classes there have regularly topped 25 percent for minorities, according to Barry Davies, the union's business manager. He says the local has had to adapt to changing demographics to fill its ranks, including looking for iron workers at church.

"We just kind of changed the way we were recruiting," Davies said. "We used to do schools and different job fairs and stuff. We reached out to different groups, like the Progressive Baptist Church in St. Paul. We had a couple job fairs there. We worked with the Urban League."

Advocates hope the equity goals will make the stadium will be more than just a job for many.

Records from the stadium authority and Mortenson show the stadium had pumped more than $1.5 million in payroll into north Minneapolis alone, an area with some of the state's highest unemployment.

Construction workers are already leveraging their stadium experience to get work on other projects, like the new Wells Fargo offices in Minneapolis and Amazon's new Minnesota distribution center in Shakopee.

Robert Johnson lives in Crystal and says he's a living example of the phenomenon. He started out years ago as a low-level laborer and worked on projects like water treatment plants. Now he's 53, a carpenter, and among the hundreds of African-Americans and other minorities clocking into work on U.S. Bank Stadium.

And proud of it.

"I did footings, I did walls. Right now, I'm up in the snow catch," he said during a visit to the site. "See all these big gray beams that holds the precast? I had to enclose all that with poly. It was a very challenging job."

But it's getting done, and with help from people like him, so is a change to Minnesota and the way stadiums are being built.

Vikings And MSFA Select Nearly Three Dozen Local Artists For U.S. Bank Stadium Art Collection

Eden Prairie, MN (October 6, 2015) – After launching a partnership in January 2015 with Sports & The Arts (SATA) to create a one-of-a-kind, museum-quality art collection within U.S. Bank Stadium, the Minnesota Vikings and the Minnesota Sports Facilities Authority (MSFA) announced today the names of 34 local artists who have been commissioned for the project.

Selected from nearly 1,100 submissions, the artists range in expertise from Minneapolis College of Art & Design (MCAD) students to professionals with past works acquired by the Walker Art Center and Getty Museum. "The team is always focused on ways to celebrate the community and our fans," said Vikings Owner/President Mark Wilf. "Soliciting and funding this collection of art from Minnesotans is another way to connect with the community in a very unique way that not only Vikings fans, but all stadium users, can enjoy. The partnership also continues the theme of utilizing Minnesota companies and individuals throughout the design and construction of U.S. Bank Stadium."

"This partnership provides another avenue to connect Minnesotans with the stadium project," said MSFA Chair Michele Kelm-Helgen. "This is a great opportunity to showcase Minnesota artists. #### Final Queens Post Truss Installed at U.S. Bank Stadium

Earlier this week, the final of 11 queens post trusses was installed at U.S. Bank Stadium. The trusses, which run north and south off of the main ridge truss, will help support the stadium's ETFE roof on the south side and the metal hard deck materials on the north side. In the coming weeks, the green shoring towers will be disassembled and removed from the site, allowing the roof of the nearly 70-percent complete stadium to be self-standing. The stadium will be fully enclosed in November, when work will ramp up on the interior allowing for a July 2016 opening.

Vikings Way Could Be Coming to Street Signs Near U.S. Bank Stadium

In the coming months, Chicago Avenue located just west of U.S. Bank Stadium could have a new name to help reflect the new stadium. Vikings Executive Vice President of Public Affairs and Stadium Development Lester Bagley told Star Tribune columnist Sid Hartman that the Vikings are working with Minneapolis City Council on changing the name to Vikings Way. The street – just one block from Bud Grant Way – would serve as the dividing point between U.S. Bank Stadium and the light rail station and the city's two-block park.

Mick Tingelhoff to be Inducted Into Pro Football Hall of Fame This Weekend, Will be Honored in Vikings Ring of Honor in U.S. Bank Stadium in 2016

Former Vikings center Mick Tingeloff will be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame this weekend in Canton, Ohio. Tingelhoff, who played for the Vikings from 1962-1978, appeared in 240 consecutive games and played in all four Vikings Super Bowls. #### Section 224 Takes Shape as U.S. Bank Stadium Seat Installation Begins

Earlier this week, the first seats at U.S. Bank Stadium were installed in section 224 along the east end zone looking towards the glass wall and the Minneapolis skyline on the stadium's west side. Seats throughout the general seating area will be 19' wide and will include a 33-inch tread between rows, giving fans more leg room and a better viewing experience. Each row will also contain a smaller number of seats than the rows in Mall of America Field, meaning fans will have an easier time accessing their seats.

To celebrate the milestone, a select group of fans with seats in the section were randomly chosen to come out to the construction site and get a feel for their future view. With over 40,000 of the stadium's seats already claimed for the 2016 season, don't wait until it's too late to join the fun at U.S. Bank Stadium.

U.S. Bank Stadium Construction Progress Nearing 70% Completion; $550 Million Work Finished

At today's MSFA board meeting, Mortenson Construction provided its monthly construction update, announcing that the end of August will mark 70% stadium completion with $550 million dollars put into the site so far. In the month of July, Mortenson submitted its largest bill to date with $44.4 million worth of work done – close to $1.8 million a day.

Earlier this month, the last queen's post truss was installed and work continues on what Mortenson calls "one of the most complex steel structures in the country." On September 17, the steel structure will complete and will be "topped out."

Roof Installation at U.S. Bank Stadium Ahead of Schedule with 10 Weeks Remaining

Work continues at U.S. Bank Stadium for full enclosure of the structure in time for Minnesota's winter. Currently, the roof is ahead of schedule with just 10 weeks remaining. The roof located on the stadium's north side is 40% complete and work continues on the country's largest ETFE roof on the stadium's south side. The clear roof and the 200,000 square feet of glass will provide an unprecedented outdoor feel in a climate-controlled environment.

Chef Andrew Zimmern Tours New Stadium Site, Promises "Big Stuff for 2016"

Earlier this week, Chef Andrew Zimmern took a tour of the U.S. Bank Stadium construction site, saying the building is a "huge win for Minnesota, the Vikings and all their partners." Zimmern, who is working with the stadium food service provider, Aramark, to develop concepts for food in the stadium, said to expect "big stuff for 2016."

St. Paul Company Fabricates Steel for Concessions at U.S. Bank Stadium

Speaking of stadium food, Albers Commercial Kitchen Services Group, a St. Paul-based company, is working on the fabricated steel structure for concession areas at U.S. Bank Stadium. Earlier this week, The FF Journal featured the company that has devoted over 26,000 man hours towards the completion of the kitchen equipment for the downtown stadium. The work for this project is being aided by the use of a new fiber laser and press break line, the first time the company has used such technology on a project. Albers is one of more than 230 Minnesota companies working on U.S. Bank Stadium.

Hy-Vee, Land O' Lakes Add to List of U.S. Bank Stadium Founding Partners

The list of U.S. Bank Stadium founding partners continue to grow as Hy-Vee and Land O' Lakes were introduced earlier this week. The founding partnerships include prominent signage throughout the stadium and exclusivity in specific categories.

Steel At U.S. Bank Stadium To Be "Topped Out" Next Week

The final steel beam at U.S. Bank Stadium will be put in place on Thursday, September 17, during a "topping out" ceremony. The beam, which will arrive on site on Tuesday, September 15, will mark the next step in the enclosure process. With the steelwork complete, the focus will shift towards the remainder roof and the exterior as the site braces for the Minnesota winter. The stadium is expected to be fully enclosed this November.

Every construction worker that has been involved in the instruction process will have the opportunity to sign the steel beam prior to it being put in place.

Third-Largest Crane In The World Hauled Away From U.S. Bank Stadium Site

Just over a year after it was delivered to the U.S. Bank Stadium construction site, the third-largest crane in the world has been disassembled and hauled out of downtown Minneapolis. Standing at nearly 400 feet tall, the crane was a necessary piece of equipment during the construction process in order to place the steel at the peak of the nearly 300 foot tall state-of-the-art stadium.

Over the coming weeks, the shoring towers will be removed from the site and the roof structure will be standing on its own.

The World's Largest Glass Pivoting Doors Begin Taking Shape

The first of the five glass pivoting doors- the largest in the world - is currently being assembled at U.S. Bank Stadium. Ranging from 75 feet to 95 feet high, the five doors will be a signature piece giving fans a unique experience as they enter the stadium through the west plaza.

Vikings Officials Hold Discussion Regarding Potential Future Practice Facility

With the Vikings' state-of-the-art stadium currently underway, a new project related to the day-to-day home of the team could soon be on the horizon. Earlier this morning, Vikings officials met with the media to discuss the nearly 194 acres of land in in Eagan, MN that could house the Vikings' training facility and team headquarters. The Vikings are currently in a due diligence period after signing a purchase agreement for the property that could feature three practice fields, an indoor practice facility as well as a stadium that could seat 7,000 to 10,000 people.

Stadium News & Notes - September 18, 2015

Final Steel Beam Erected Earlier Today

Although weather delayed the final steel beam being erected during yesterday's topping out ceremony, the structural steel was finalized today with the placement of the beam on the stadium roof's south side. Since work on the structural steel began, over 240,000 hours have gone into placing the 11,000 tons of steel.

More impressive than the weight of the steel has been the planning of the project. The final beam was installed 8 days earlier than Superintendent Dave Mansell planned back in December 2012 –before design plans for the stadium were unveiled and before Mortenson Construction was even awarded the project.

Vikings Additional Contribution Reaches $100 million; Total Team Contribution Stands at $577 million

After the Vikings contributed an additional $2.9 million at today's MSFA board meeting, the total team/private contribution has now reached $577 million. Originally $477 million at the time legislation was signed, the Vikings have contributed an additional $100 million dollars to the state-of-the-art facility.

The largest piece of today's contribution – $1.85 million – will be directed toward exterior roof lighting, meaning the 467-foot U.S. Bank Stadium sign atop the stadium's north roof can remain visible at all times. The remainder of the $2.9 million will go towards enhanced bathroom wall tiles, work to the officials' locker room, among other items.

U.S. Bank Stadium Nears 75 Percent Completion Mark

By the end of September, U.S. Bank Stadium will have reached the 75 percent completion mark with 10 months remaining on the project. Since work began in December 2013, over $650 million and 2.3 million of the 4 million total craft hours have been completed.

In addition to the topping out of the structural steel, work continues on the south ETFE roof with zone 1 already completed and work continuing at a rapid pace on zones 2 and 3. Aside from previously planned temporary walls on the west side of the stadium, the stadium will reach complete enclosure in mid-November.

Hennepin County Parking Lot To Be Leased For U.S. Bank Stadium Events

The green light was given earlier today for the MSFA to execute an agreement with Hennepin County to lease a portion of the county's parking lot adjacent to the County Medical Examiner's Office. The 30-year lease will provide nearly one additional acre of space that can be used for music, large gatherings and other Vikings pregame activities.

Aerial Images Show Progress of U.S. Bank Stadium

Over the last 12 months, significant progress has been made on the construction of U.S. Bank Stadium. In that time, monthly aerial images of the site have been captured to give a unique perspective of the amount of work being completed. At this time last year, the west side of the stadium had not been enclosed and steel work was in the beginning stages. Fast forward to now – a year from when the Vikings will open the regular season at U.S. Bank Stadium – the structural steel has been topped out and stadium construction is nearly 75% complete.

Vikings Alumni to Tour U.S. Bank Stadium

The Vikings annual alumni weekend kicks off today and culminates with the Chargers-Vikings game on Sunday afternoon. This afternoon, nearly 50 alumni, including Robert Griffith and Chris Doleman, will tour the U.S. Bank Stadium site. Players that played in both Metropolitan Stadium and the Metrodome will get a chance to check out the Vikings new digs that will open its doors for the 2016 season. Check out vikings.com next week for highlights of today's tour.

Announcement Coming on Local Artists Selected for U.S. Bank Stadium Work

Earlier this year, the Vikings partnered with Sports and the Arts to source and acquire local artwork for U.S. Bank Stadium. In the coming weeks, dozens of local artists who will be commissioned by the Vikings for the new stadium will be announced and they will begin their artwork. The main goals for this project are to collaborate with Minnesota artists to create a one-of-a-kind, museum-quality artwork that will showcase Vikings history, Minnesota sports history and other regional history throughout the entire stadium.

467-Foot U.S. Bank Stadium Sign Begins Installation on North Roof

Work began earlier today on the 467-foot U.S. Bank Stadium sign that will span a majority of the roof on the stadium's north side. Visible nearly at eye level from I-35W, the sign will be illuminated at night by lights on the exterior of the stadium. Although it will take weeks for the sign to be completely installed, you can keep up with the progress by checking out the construction cameras that provide a multi-angle look at all of the work being done on U.S. Bank Stadium by clicking here.

Vikings Partner With Mamava to Provide Lactation Suites at TCF Bank Stadium, U.S. Bank Stadium

The Minnesota Vikings announced last week that they are the first NFL team to partner with Mamava, a company that helps provide solutions for women to breastfeed in public spaces. Starting with the game against the Kansas City Chiefs on October 18, lactation suites will be available for breastfeeding mothers to use at remaining 2015 Vikings home games. The partnership will continue and the same Vikings-themed suites will be present at U.S. Bank Stadium. The Vikings are also exploring a nursing area in the new stadium that would allow mothers to stay connected to the game.

Nearly Three Dozen Local Artists Selected to Have Work Displayed in U.S. Bank Stadium

Earlier this week, the Minnesota Vikings announced the nearly three dozen local artists that will be commissioned to have their work displayed in U.S. Bank Stadium. Former Viking Carl Eller, 7 current/former Minneapolis College of Art and Design students and a father/daughter combination highlight the selected artists. The biggest goal of U.S. Bank Stadium since the beginning has been to provide the best fan experience possible and the partnership with Sports & The Arts for a gallery of nearly 500 unique pieces of art displayed in all areas of the stadium will serve to do just that.

U.S. Bank Stadium Set to be the First NFL Stadium With Specific LED Lighting Technology

During the ongoing construction at U.S. Bank Stadium, the LED lighting system is starting to take shape inside the state-of-the-art stadium. Ephesus Lighting is taking the lead on lighting the stadium's interior and in doing so, it's using technology that's never been used in an NFL stadium before. This technology, which was released earlier this year, can control the brightness of the lights to help balance the outside light that will be coming in through the stadium's 60% transparent ETFE roof and the glass wall along the stadium's west side. In addition, this energy-efficient system will allow for energy savings of more than 75%.

Construction Reaches 75% Completion at U.S. Bank Stadium

At this morning's MSFA monthly board meeting, Mortenson Construction announced that the stadium's progress has hit the 75% completion mark. Since ground was broken in December 2013, $640 million worth of work has gone into the site. There are currently 1,400 workers on site, the highest number the construction site will see. The crane that was used to place the structural steel on the on the south side of the roof has been disassembled and removed from the site, making way for full enclosure in the immediate future. The U.S. Bank Stadium logo is currently going up on the exterior stadium's north side as well as on the roof on the same side. The retractable seating elements will soon begin installation with the entire retractable seating complete at the end of March.

Equity workforce goals continue to exceed at U.S. Bank Stadium with nearly 50% of the workforce being comprised of minorities and females.

MSFA Updates Exterior Progress

With the Minnesota winter approaching in the near future, the exterior of the stadium is on its way to enclosure. Set to be fully enclosed by mid-November, the stadium's east side is nearly complete with glazing, signage, paneling, stairs and entrance finished with landscaping underway. The first of six 30-foot high monument direction signs has been installed and more than 1,000 workers are completing work on both sides of the stadium's roof. Upon enclosure, work on the video and ribbon boards around the stadium's bowl will begin and in April the locker rooms will be completely finished.

Vikings Alumni Weekend Includes Tour of Preview Center, Stadium Construction Site

As part of the recent Vikings alumni weekend, former players had the opportunity to tour the New Stadium Preview Center as well as getting inside the construction site of U.S. Bank Stadium. The reaction? "Very impressive," said former Viking Doug Sutherland. The players, who played at both Metropolitan Stadium and the Metrodome, had high praise for the Vikings third permanent home in franchise history. "I think we'll put it up against Dallas," Sutherland added. "I don't know what we have that they don't have."

2020 College Football Playoff Championship Announcement on the Horizon

After a formal bid was submitted by Minneapolis this past May, the College Football Playoff Championship will soon announce the host city for the 2020 championship. With U.S. Bank Stadium having already been awarded Super Bowl LII in February 2018 and the 2019 NCAA Men's Basketball Final Four, the early November announcement would give the state-of-the-art stadium in downtown Minneapolis its third major event since ground was broken in December 2013. The inaugural College Football Playoff was played at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas, this past January and will be held in Phoenix, Ariz., in 2016.

U.S. Bank Stadium Signage Continues on the Stadium's North Side as Enclosure Looms

As construction progress continues to wrap around the stadium, the exterior of the north side of U.S. Bank Stadium is starting to finish up. Earlier this week, the U.S. Bank Stadium logo was placed on the exterior and work continues on the 467-foot roof sign on the north side's steel roof. In the coming weeks, the stadium will reach full enclosure, which includes the completed 60% ETFE roof on the stadium's south side.
