2015 DRAFT RELEASE

NO. 4 PICK

The Raiders will select fourth overall in 2015 for the third time since the National Football League and American Football League adopted a common draft in 1967. With their two previous fourth-overall selections, the Silver and Black selected Charles Woodson in 1998 and Darren McFadden in 2008.

Since 2000, the fourth-overall pick has returned six Pro Bowl players and many high-impact contributors. The Cincinnati Bengals have had three selections with the fourth-overall pick since 2000, selecting two Pro Bowlers. The Buffalo Bills and New York Jets have each selected fourth twice, with New York picking one Pro Bowler. The pick has been used to take a tackle five times since 2000, by far the most of any position. Wide receiver (three) and running back (two) are the only other positions to have been picked more than once. Last season, the Bills traded up to the fourth-overall pick with the Cleveland Browns, landing WR Sammy Watkins.

"Reggie mirrors some elements of the two general managers we had in Green Bay. He has the courage of his convictions about players that Ron Wolf had, including blunt assessments of their talent. But Reggie also has the patience of Ted Thompson; he adheres to the draft-and-develop model of team-building. The latter means trusting scouts to constantly fill a pipeline of young talent, empowering coaches to play and develop young players, and identifying core players to secure contractually for the future." - Andrew Brandt, The Monday Morning Quarterback, on Reggie McKenzie

"He is an exceptional evaluator of talent. Just has a great skill for it, especially for guys already in the NFL who might be flying under the radar. He was my right-hand man for all those years, a big reason why the Packers were good all those years." - Ron Wolf, former Raiders personnel executive, on Reggie McKenzie

"I think Reggie does a great job of bringing the guys together. All the scouts spend a lot of time putting the information together, coaches, getting their opinion and gathering all that information so we can make good decisions for the Raiders." - Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio, on Reggie McKenzie
