GAME PREVIEW

The Oakland Raiders will begin their regular season slate as they open with the Cincinnati Bengals on Sunday, Sept. 13 at 1:25 p.m. PT at O.co Coliseum. Sunday's game marks the first time since 2012 that the Raiders will open the season at home. It will be the third time that Oakland has opened the season against the Bengals, with both of the previous two contests coming in Cincinnati. Coupled with the Week 2 home game against the Baltimore Ravens, the Silver and Black will open the season with two straight home games for the first time in 46 years (since 1969). This will be the first of three straight games for the Raiders against AFC North opponents, as they host Baltimore next week and then face the Cleveland Browns on the road in Week 3. Oakland finished the preseason with a 1-3 mark, and Cincinnati finished up at 3-1.

Most of Oakland's starters did not play in the final preseason contest against the Seattle Seahawks last Thursday night. QB Derek Carr finished the preseason throwing for 334 yards on 28-of-51 passing. RB Latavius Murray recorded 56 yards on 17 carries and one touchdown on the ground, while WR Seth Roberts paced the receiving corps with 15 receptions for 243 yards (16.2 avg.). WR Amari Cooper also had a strong showing in the preseason, catching eight passes for 124 yards (15.5 avg.) On defense, S Nate Allen led the way with two interceptions. DE Mario Edwards Jr. and DE Khalil Mack led the pass rush with 2.5 and two sacks, respectively.

Following Sunday's contest, the Raiders will host the Ravens in Week 2 at O.co Coliseum, while the Bengals will return home to face another AFC West opponent, the San Diego Chargers.

QUOTING DEL RIO

"We're really excited to open at home. I think it's a great opportunity for us as a football team to get a great start. It's a really good opponent. I know we'll talk more about it as the week goes on. A good opponent, a coach that I worked with in Baltimore and have a long history with. Good coach, good man. Looking forward to the challenge."

-Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio

NOTABLE CONNECTIONS

Pro Connections

• Bengals offensive coordinator Hue Jackson spent a season as the Raiders offensive coordinator in 2010 before being promoted to head coach in 2011.

• Bengals DT Pat Sims played every game in his two seasons (2013-2014) with the Raiders, with 17 starts and 85 tackles.

• Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio was the linebackers coach for the Baltimore Ravens from 1999-2001, where he coached on the staff of Bengals Head Coach Marvin Lewis, who was the defensive coordinator. The two helped the Ravens win Super Bowl XXXV in 2000.

• Raiders assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson played for Bengals Head Coach Marvin Lewis (linebackers coach) as a defensive back for four seasons with the Pittsburgh Steelers (1992-1995) and three seasons with the Baltimore Ravens (1999-2001). Woodson also worked with Bengals head strength and conditioning coach Chip Morton in Baltimore.

• Raiders Head Coach Jack Del Rio (linebacker) and Bengals tight ends coach Jonathan Hayes (tight end) were teammates with the Kansas City Chiefs for two seasons in 1987-1988. Hayes was also teammates with Raiders assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson (defensive back) with the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1994-1996.

• Raiders S Charles Woodson and Bengals LB A.J. Hawk were teammates for seven seasons (2006-2012) with the Green Bay Packers, helping the team win Super Bowl XLV in 2010.

College Connections

• Raiders linebackers coach Sal Sunseri and Bengals Head Coach Marvin Lewis worked together with the linebackers for two seasons (1990-1991) at the University of Pittsburgh.

• Bengals LB Rey Maualuga played with Raiders LB Malcolm Smith at USC for two seasons (2007-2008). Maualuga was coached by Raiders defensive coordinator Ken Norton, Jr. (linebackers coach) from 2005-2008, Raiders defensive assistant Sam Anno (defensive and special teams graduate assistant/football systems analyst) from 2005-2007.

• Bengals QB AJ McCarron was coached by Raiders senior offensive assistant Jake Peetz (offensive analyst/assistant quarterbacks coach) at Alabama in 2013. McCarron also worked with Raiders linebackers coach Sal Sunseri in 2010-2011.

• Bengals QB AJ McCarron played two seasons (2012-2013) with Raiders WR Amari Cooper at Alabama, helping the Crimson Tide win a BCS National Championship.

Hometown Connections

• Bengals QB Josh Johnson is an Oakland, Calif., native who attended Oakland Tech High School before playing at San Diego.

• The Raiders' roster has two Ohio natives in tight ends coach Bobby Johnson (Akron) and S Charles Woodson (Fremont) with both growing up about three-and-a-half hours away from Cincinnati.

BENGALS SNAPSHOT

Overview: The Bengals enter their 13th season under Head Coach Marvin Lewis as they hunt for an AFC North division title. Lewis is the owner of a 100-90-2 record (.526) over the last 12 years. He has led the Bengals to the postseason six times, including the last four seasons and five of the last six campaigns. All of those postseason runs ended in the Wild Card round, as last season concluded with a 10-26 loss at Indianapolis after a 10-5-1 regular season.

Offense: QB Andy Dalton enters his fifth season at the helm of the Bengals' offense, having started all 64 games over the last four seasons. In 2014, Dalton was an efficient 309-for-481 passing (64.2 percent) with 3,398 yards, 19 touchdowns and 17 interceptions for a passer rating of 83.5. He will be throwing to one of the league's top receivers in four-time Pro Bowler WR A.J. Green, who tallied 69 receptions for 1,041 yards and six touchdowns. WR Mohamed Sanu lines up opposite Green and caught 56 passes in 2014 for 790 yards and five touchdowns. RB Jeremy Hill is coming off a productive rookie season in which he rushed for 1,124 yards and nine touchdowns on 222 attempts (5.1 avg.).

Defense: After ranking in the top five in both points and yards allowed in 2013, the Bengals' defense will look to bounce back after allowing 359.3 total yards per game last season, the 22nd most in the NFL. The Bengals did outscore opponents by a 21 point margin, as the 21.5 points allowed per game ranked 12th in the league. S Reggie Nelson led the team in interceptions last year with four picks, while CB Dre Kirkpatrick, CB Adam Jones and S George Iloka each added three interceptions. DE Carlos Dunlap led the unit with eighth sacks last year, while DT Geno Atkins added three sacks. LB Vincent Rey led the team with 121 tackles (61 solo) last season, according to NFL GSIS.

RAIDERS VS. AFC NORTH

Oakland will play all four AFC North teams this season for the first time since 2012. The Raiders will play host to the Cincinnati Bengals and Baltimore Ravens, while traveling to the Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers. Oakland will also open the season with three straight games against AFC North opponents. Here is a look out how the Raiders stacked up against the AFC North in 2012:

RAIDERS VS. BENGALS

WHAT TO WATCH FOR IN WEEK 1

- Head Coach Jack Del Rio making his debut as the 19th head coach in franchise history on the same field on which he once won a high school championship, the NCS 2A title with Hayward High in 1979.
- The Raiders opening with two straight home games for the first time since 1969, John Madden's first season coaching the Raiders. The team began 2-0 that season on the way to a 12-1-1 mark and an AFL Championship appearance.
- The defense holding opponents to fewer than 3.0 yards per rushing attempt for the fourth time over the last two seasons.
- QB Derek Carr throwing for 300 yards to become the first player in franchise history with at least two 300-yard passing games through his first three NFL seasons.
- FB Marcel Reece picking up 24 receiving yards to jump Hewritt Dixon (1,750) and Darren McFadden (1,769) on the all-time list for receiving yards by a Raiders running back.
- TE Mychal Rivera breaking the 1,000-yard, 100-catch and 10-touchdown marks in the same game. Rivera needs just 59 receiving yards, four receptions and two touchdowns to hit those milestones.
- WR Rod Streater reaching the end zone in the regular season for the first time since last year's season opener, Sept. 7, 2014 at NYJ. He currently owns eight career touchdowns.
- DE Justin Tuck coming down with an interception for his third pick since 2013, which would be the most by a defensive lineman in that span.

- WR Amari Cooper catching six passes to pass Jack Larscheid (Sept. 11, 1960 vs. HouO.) for the most receptions by a Raiders rookie in Week 1. Nine catches would give him the franchise rookie record for single-game receptions.
- Cooper totaling 100 yards in the season opener to become the third Raiders rookie to reach the century mark in Week 1, joining Mike Siani (Sept. 17, 1972 at Pit.) and Jack Larscheid (Sept. 11, 1960 vs. HouO.). If Cooper accumulates over 112 yards, he will set the record for receiving yards by a rookie Raider in Week 1.
- WR Michael Crabtree recording his ninth career 100-yard receiving game, with his last coming on Dec. 23, 2013 at Atl.
- Crabtree hauling in three passes to reach the 350-reception mark for his career.
- K Sebastian Janikowski extending his active streak of 193 consecutive extra-point attempts made.
- Janikowski making four field goals of 50-or-more yards to tie Jason Hanson (52) for the all-time record. Two field goals from any distance will tie Janikowski with Norm Johnson (366) for 12th all-time.
- LB Curtis Lofton starting his 100th consecutive game, the second longest active streak among linebackers (New York Jets LB David Harris, 100 entering 2015 season).
- DE Khalil Mack becoming the 10th Raider with more than one multi-sack game in his first two seasons, with his first coming on Dec. 7, 2014 vs. SF (two sacks). The last Raider to do so was Trevor Scott (four multi-sack games, 2008-09).
- S Charles Woodson intercepting a pass for the 18th straight season, the second longest streak in NFL history behind Darrell Green's 19 seasons (1983-2001).
- Woodson scoring his 14th defensive touchdown to pass Darren Sharper and his assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson (13 each) for the all-time record. An interception returned for a touchdown would be Woodson's 12th, tying him with R. Woodson and Sharper.
- Woodson totaling 56 interception return yards to become just the 10th NFL player with 1,000 career return yards. The last player to join the 1,000-return yards club was Ed Reed in 2008.
- Woodson totaling three sacks to pass Mike Davis (11.0) for the most career sacks by a Raiders defensive back.

A WIN WOULD...

...extend the Raiders' 3-game home-winning streak in the regular season, which began with the team's 24-20 win against Kansas City on Nov. 20, 2014.

...improve the Raiders' record to 13-1 in home games against the Bengals, extending the home-winning streak against Cincinnati to six games. The Raiders currently lead the all-time series against Cincinnati 18-9.

...maintain the Raiders' undefeated record in home games in Oakland against the Bengals (9-0)

...make Head Coach Jack Del Rio the 10th head coach to begin his Raiders stint with a victory, and improve Raiders head coaches' records in their debuts to 10-9.

...mark the first Week 1 victory for the Raiders since 2011, when the Raiders went on the road to beat the Denver Broncos 23-20 on Sept. 12.

...be the 24th Raiders win in Week 1 of the regular season, with the team's all-time record in season openers currently standing at 23-30.

- WR Derek Carr and WR Amari Cooper began to get their rhythm down throughout the preseason, with the pair connecting for eight receptions and 124 yards (15.5 avg.).
- In the second preseason game, Aug. 22 at Minnesota, Carr found Cooper for a 40-yard gain down the right sideline.
- In the third game, Aug. 30 vs. Arizona, Cooper was the game's top receiver and doubled his totals entering the game with four catches for 62 yards.

Heeney A Top Tackler

- LB Ben Heeney led the Raiders in tackling in three of four preseason games and tied for the league lead in preseason tackles with 27 (15 solo), according to NFL GSIS. Unofficial press box statistics credited Heeney with 37 stops (15) for the preseason with 1.5 sacks, one quarterback hit and one forced fumble.
- Heeney earned his first NFL sack in the preseason opener vs. St. Louis when he chased Rams QB Case Keenum out of bounds. In the second game at Minnesota, Heeney combined with DE Mario Edwards Jr. for a strip sack of Vikings QB Taylor Heinicke. In the finale at Seattle, Heeney created pressure up the middle, allowing fellow fifth-round draft pick LB Neiron Ball to record the sack.

Mack Harasses Palmer in Game 3

- DE Khalil Mack's ability to disrupt opposing quarterbacks was on full display in the Raiders' third preseason contest, in which he recorded two sacks of Cardinals QB Carson Palmer, four quarterback hits and one forced fumble.
- Mack was credited with three tackles for loss by NFL GSIS, with one of them forcing a fumble when he stripped Cardinals RB David Johnson on a 3-yard loss.

McGloin Dominates Defenses

- QB Matt McGloin finished another prolific preseason campaign with the best passer rating in the AFC, and the third highest rating in the NFL, with a mark of 110.6. That rating is also the highest by a Raider in the preseason since Bruce Gradkowski (125.9) in 2010.
- McGloin also placed seventh in the conference in passing yards (424) this preseason.
- In the first preseason game, McGloin posted a 136.4 passer rating, going 10-for-11 (90.9 percent) with 104 yards and one touchdown.
- McGloin wrapped up the preseason with another strong performance, going 16-for-24 (66.7 percent) with 186 yards and two touchdowns for a rating of 117.7.

Roberts Emerges as Receiving Threat

- WR Seth Roberts had a breakout preseason, leading the team in receiving yards (243) and tying for the team lead with 15 receptions (16.2 avg.) and one touchdown. Roberts' 243 receiving yards were the most in the AFC and the second most in the NFL.
- Roberts excelled in all four preseason games, totaling at least 45 yards of offense in each contest. In the preseason finale at Seattle, Roberts notched a game-high seven receptions and 110 yards (15.7 avg.) with a 6-yard touchdown catch.

Butler a Top Target

- WR Brice Butler made an impact in all four preseason contests and tied for the team lead with 15 receptions for 175 yards (11.7 avg.) and one touchdown.
- In the preseason opener vs. St. Louis, Butler was the game's top receiver with six catches for 57 yards and a 16-yard touchdown. In Week 4 at Seattle, Butler had four catches for 62 yards including a 25-yard long.

Allen Two Picks, Edwards Jr. Two Sacks against Cardinals

- S Nate Allen recorded his first two takeaways as a Raider with interceptions of Cardinals QB Carson Palmer in the third preseason game, the first one coming on the Cardinals' opening drive.
- Rookie DE Mario Edwards Jr. got to Palmer for an 8-yard sack in the first quarter and took down QB Logan Thomas in the fourth, bringing his preseason total to a team-high 2.5 sacks.

Kicking Game Is Solid

- Raiders Ks Sebastian Janikowski and Giorgio Tavecchio were reliable throughout the preseason, with the pair going 9-for-10 through the preseason. The only miss was from Tavecchio on a 52-yard attempt in the preseason finale at Seattle.
- Janikowski had a career outing in the first half of the game against Arizona, connecting on 5-of-5 field goals in the first half. No Raiders kicker has ever hit five field goals in a half in the regular season, though Janikowski has hit at least five in a game on five occasions (career high: six, Nov. 27, 2011 vs. Chicago).

Streater Returns

- WR Rod Streater saw his first action after suffering from a broken foot last season, and he turned in a solid preseason effort with seven receptions and 63 yards, both fourth on the team, with one touchdown.
- Streater found the end zone for the first time since Sept. 7, 2014 against the New York Jets when he hauled in a 28-yard pass from McGloin in the final preseason game.

HEAD COACHING MATCH-UP

JACK DEL RIO

Jack Del Rio was named the 19th head coach in the 55-year history of the Oakland Raiders franchise on Jan. 15, 2015. The appointment marked a homecoming for Del Rio, who was raised in nearby Hayward, Calif.

Now in his 30th year in the NFL and his 19th season in coaching, He recently concluded his second stint as a defensive coordinator under Head Coach John Fox, as the two also spent the 2002 season together in Carolina. In all, he has coached 18 players to a total of 27 Pro Bowl selections.

In his second season with the Broncos in 2013, Del Rio's defense helped Denver to a 12-4 record and an appearance in Super Bowl XLVIII. Del Rio also accepted the additional role of interim head coach (Weeks 10-13) while Fox underwent a heart procedure, and led the Broncos to a 3-1 record against teams with a combined record of 29-9 (.763).

Prior to joining the Broncos in 2012, Del Rio spent nine seasons at the helm in Jacksonville. During his head coaching tenure (2003 to 2011) with the Jaguars, the club ranked sixth in the NFL in yards per game allowed (317.3) and eighth in points per game allowed (20.3).

Under Del Rio, the Jaguars made two playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007, highlighted by the club's first postseason win in eight seasons with a 31-29 road victory against the Pittsburgh Steelers in a 2007 AFC Wild Card Game.

The Jaguars posted an 11-5 record in 2007 to earn a second playoff berth in three years, in addition to claiming the franchise's first playoff win since the 1999 season, while becoming the first team in NFL history to win in Pittsburgh twice in one season.

In 2005, the Jaguars won eight of the last nine regular season games, including four straight on the road, en route to a 12-4 finish and a Wild Card playoff berth.

During his lone season as a defensive coordinator with Carolina in 2002, he inherited the NFL's worst defense statistically (371.4 yards per game allowed) and turned it into the league's second-ranked unit (290.4 yards per game allowed). Additionally, the 2002 Panthers squad led the NFL in rushing average against (3.7 avg.).

As linebackers coach for the Baltimore Ravens from 1999-2001, Del Rio tutored a talented group that included Ray Lewis. Baltimore's 2000 team set the NFL 16-game record by allowing only 165 points while recording four shutouts and forcing a league-best 49 turnovers. Lewis was named the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year and the MVP of Super Bowl XXXV that season.

Del Rio began his coaching career with the New Orleans Saints under Head Coach Mike Ditka, serving as an assistant strength coach in 1997 before moving on to coach the linebackers in 1998.

A veteran of 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker, he was selected in the third round (68th overall) of the 1985 NFL Draft by New Orleans and went on to make the NFL's All-Rookie Team and earn the Saints' Rookie of the Year award. For his career, he played 160 games in the regular season and totaled 1,078 tackles, 12 sacks and 13 interceptions.

Born on April 4, 1963, in Castro Valley, Calif., Del Rio and his wife, Linda, have three daughters, Lauren, Hope and Aubrey, and a son, Luke, who is a collegiate quarterback.

MARVIN LEWIS

Marvin Lewis in 2015 extends his Bengals-record head coaching tenure to 13 seasons. He has led his team to the postseason in five of the last six years, including four straight. The Bengals are one of only four NFL teams to reach the playoffs every year from 2011-14, and they are one of only five teams to have qualified in at least five of the last six seasons. In total, Lewis has coached six Bengals playoff teams, also a franchise record.

Lewis opens the 2015 season with 100 career victories, the most in Bengals history by a margin of 36 over Sam Wyche (64). Lewis' record is 100-90-2 in the regular season and 100-96-2 including postseason. The Bengals' 31 victories over the last three regular seasons rank tied for fifth in the NFL for that span.

Lewis ranks second in the NFL in longest current tenure with one team, trailing only Bill Belichick, who is in his 16th straight season with New England. In the category of most seasons as head coach with one or more teams, Lewis in 2015 ranks sixth among active coaches, behind Belichick (21st season in '15), Jeff Fisher (21), Tom Coughlin (20), Andy Reid (17) and John Fox (14). Lewis got a rare coaching-tree compliment after the 2013 season when his offensive and defensive coordinators, Jay Gruden and Mike Zimmer, both moved on to head coaching jobs. Gruden was hired by Washington and Zimmer by Minnesota.

Lewis was the consensus choice as NFL Coach of the Year in 2009, when the Bengals won the AFC North Division while sweeping all six division games. The Bengals were AFC North champions under Lewis also in 2005 and '13. Named the ninth head coach in Bengals history on Jan. 14, 2003, Lewis started quickly. His '03 club finished 8-8, six games better than the '02 club, good for the biggest improvement in the NFL.

Lewis came to the Bengals with credentials as a record-setting NFL defensive coordinator, having played a huge role in a championship season. His six seasons (1996-2001) as Baltimore Ravens coordinator included a Super Bowl victory in 2000, when his defense set the NFL record for fewest points allowed in a 16-game campaign (165). That team clipped 22 points off the previous mark. The 2000 Ravens are always an entry in discussions regarding the best NFL defensive units of all time.

Lewis began his coaching career as linebackers coach at his alma mater Idaho State from 1981-84. ISU's team (also nicknamed the Bengals) finished 12-1 in Lewis' first season there and won the NCAA Division 1-AA championship.

Lewis played LB at Idaho State, earning All-Big Sky Conference honors for three consecutive years (1978-80). He also saw action at quarterback and free safety during his college career. He received his bachelor's degree in physical education from Idaho State in 1981, and earned his master's in athletic administration in '82. He was inducted into Idaho State's Hall of Fame in 2001.

Born Sept. 23, 1958, Lewis attended Fort Cherry High School in McDonald, Pa. (near Pittsburgh), where he was an all-conference quarterback and safety. He also earned high school letters in wrestling and baseball. He and his wife, Peggy, have a daughter, Whitney, and a son, Marcus. Marcus Lewis joined the Bengals' coaching staff for 2014 and remains on the staff for '15.

COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE

The Raiders — who began play in the American Football League in 1960 — enter their 56th year of professional football competition, including the last 45 as a member of the National Football League.

In five memorable decades — the 1960s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the 2000s — the Raiders have been dominant in professional football since Al Davis first pledged in 1963 to build the finest organization in pro sports.

During these decades of dominance, the Raiders have won an AFL championship, four American Football Conference championships, and three world championships of professional football, participated in five Super Bowls, played in 14 championship games, won or tied for 17 division championships, had 21 playoff seasons, finished 34 seasons at .500 or better and played in 40 postseason games.

Pro football's dynamic organization placed first in the AFC West in 2000, 2001 and 2002 despite playing among the toughest schedules in the NFL in each of those seasons. With their appearance in Super Bowl XXXVII, the Raiders became the first NFL team to have had a season end in the Super Bowl in four different decades.

The Raiders are the only team to have been in Super Bowls in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s and the 2000s.

The Silver and Black are the only AFC team — and one of just two NFL teams (Minnesota) — to have a season that advanced to the conference championship game in the '60s, the '70s, the '80s, the '90s and the 2000s.

The Raiders are one of only two original AFL teams to have captured three world championships of professional football with Super Bowl victories. The Raiders are one of only four AFC teams to have won more than one Super Bowl since 1980.

In their five Super Bowl appearances, the Raiders have been led by four head coaches and started four quarterbacks.

With four postseason victories, the Raiders were the first of the AFC West teams to win multiple postseason contests in the new millennium by six years.

Since 1963, when Al Davis first took over the failing Oakland franchise that had struggled to win only nine of 42 league games in the initial three seasons of the new AFL and pledged to build the finest organization in sports, the Raiders have dominated professional football in terms of consistent victory. During those memorable 55 years in Oakland and Los Angeles, the Raiders have won 437 league games, tied 11 and lost 388.

"Commitment to Excellence" has never been an idle phrase to those who have proudly represented the Raiders organization during the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium as shown by their domination of pro football.

More than 20 of the great players who proudly wore the Silver and Black, as well as Owner-Leader Al Davis and legendary Head Coach John Madden, have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The Raiders have also produced five Coaches of the Year.

In addition, 62 Pro Bowl players have made 182 Pro Bowl appearances representing the Silver and Black. In 1970, as the Raiders began their second decade of play, the merger between the AFL and NFL became a reality on the field. In the 1970 through 2012 period of interconference play, the Raiders have compiled a remarkable 92-73-1 record against present National Football Conference rivals.

Another innovation came to professional football in 1970 — "Monday Night Football." The Raiders' domination of this prime-time television series has seen the Silver and Black build an incredible 37-27-1 record in Monday night play. In the 43 years of this series, the Raiders are 15-8-0 in "Monday Night Football" games at home.

Through the decades — the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and now the 2000s — the Raiders have had the greatest players, the greatest coaches, the greatest plays and participated in the greatest games in the annals of professional sports.

Challengers to Raider domination of professional football will arise as they have in the '60s, '70s, '80s, '90s and the new millennium. The Raider organization will continue to meet these challenges.

REGGIE McKENZIE

THE GENERAL MANAGER

Reggie McKenzie, a former draft pick by Raiders Owner Al Davis as a player, enters his 29th season in the National Football League and his fourth as General Manager of the Silver and Black. McKenzie was named to the position by Owner Mark Davis on Jan. 10, 2012, becoming the first General Manager of the franchise since Al Davis was hired as Head Coach and General Manager in 1963.

In his first three years as General Manager, McKenzie has overseen significant changes in the organization's scouting, player personnel and football operations departments, while bringing refined football acumen to the Silver and Black. Adhering to a strategy of building a competitive roster through the draft while making strategic acquisitions via free agency and trades, McKenzie enters his fourth season at the helm having already earned plaudits from some of the most respected voices in football.

UNDRAFTED GEMS

Every preseason, hundreds of undrafted free agents vie for a spot on their team's 53-man roster. Reggie McKenzie has brought in numerous players that were not drafted, developing them into significant contributors for the Silver and Black.

- WR Andre Holmes, originally an undrafted free agent with the Minnesota Vikings in 2011, has two of the Raiders' top four single-game receiving totals over the last two seasons. He set career highs in 2014 with 47 catches for 693 yards and four touchdowns.

- In 2013, P Marquette King posted numbers among the NFL's best in both gross average and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards on the year, King finished sixth in the NFL, and led the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. In 2014, King set Raider franchise records in punts (109) and punting yards (4,930).

- QB Matt McGloin made his mark on the NFL in his rookie season, making his first career start on Nov. 17, 2013 at Houston. In that game, McGloin became the first undrafted rookie to throw for three-or-more touchdown passes in his first NFL start since 1987. He also became just the second quarterback to throw for three touchdowns without an interception in his first NFL start since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970.

- WR Rod Streater led the team in receptions (60) and receiving yards (888) in 2013 and totaled 39 receptions as a rookie in 2012, good for fourth most by a rookie in franchise history.

Below are some of the notable current Raiders who entered the NFL as undrafted free agents:

Player	School	Year	Team
LB R. Armstrong	Miami (Fla.)	2013	St. Louis
LS Jon Condo	Maryland	2005	Dallas
WR Andre Holmes	Hillsdale	2011	Minnesota
G/T Austin Howard	Northern Iowa	2010	Philadelphia
P Marquette King	Fort Valley State	2012	Oakland
DE Benson Mayowa	Idaho	2013	Seattle
QB Matt McGloin	Penn State	2013	Oakland
FB/RB Jamize Olawale	North Texas	2012	Dallas
T Donald Penn	Utah State	2006	Minnesota
FB Marcel Reece	Washington	2008	Miami
WR Rod Streater	Temple	2012	Oakland

2014 DRAFT CLASS

First Round – DE Khalil Mack (No. 5 overall)

- Mack started all 16 games this season and has posted 84 tackles (59 solo), four sacks, four passes defended and one forced fumble, according to official coaches' statistics.

- According to Pro Football Focus, Mack was the highest rated 4-3 outside linebacker in the NFL with a 56.4 overall rating and a 47.4 rating against the run, more than 25 points higher than the next highest rated player (Von Miller, 22.0).

- Mack finished second in the NFL behind J.J. Watt (12) with 11 tackles for loss against the run. He also ranks second behind Watt in stuffs with 11.5 tackles at or behind the line of scrimmage.

Honors: Finished third in Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year voting...Selected to the Pro Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated and NFL.com All-Rookie Team...Was the only rookie named to the USA Football All-Fundamentals Team, which honors 26 NFL players who exhibit exemplary football techniques for young players to emulate.

Second Round – QB Derek Carr (No. 36 overall)

- Carr, the 14th NFL rookie quarterback to start all 16 games, is the owner of every franchise-rookie passing record and ranks first among 2014 rookies with 348 completions (second among all-time rookies), 3,270 passing yards (10th among rookies) and 21 touchdowns (T-5th among rookies).

- Carr boasted a 2.0 interception percentage despite attempting 599 passes, marking the best percentage among 2014 rookies and the seventh best among all NFL quarterbacks. He is one of just four rookies in NFL history with at least 20 touchdowns and 12-or-fewer picks.

Honors: Named to Sports Illustrated's All-Rookie Team.

Third Round – G Gabe Jackson (No. 81 overall)

- Jackson earned the starting left guard job during training camp and went on to play in 13 games with 12 starts. He is the first Raider offensive lineman to start at least 10 games since Stefen Wisniewski started 15 in 2011.

- In 528 passing plays, Jackson allowed just one sack and two pressures, ranking tied for seventh and tied for fifth among NFL guards, respectively, according to Pro Football Focus.

Fourth Round – DT Justin Ellis (No. 107 overall)

- Ellis was a surprise force on the defensive line, appearing in all 16 games with 14 starts after stepping into the starting position in Week 3.

- He finished the season with 39 tackles (21 solo) and one pass broken up.

Honors: Named to Sports Illustrated and Pro Football Writers of America's All-Rookie Team.

Fourth Round – CB Keith McGill (No. 116 overall)

- Despite being plagued by injury through much of the year, McGill contributed on special teams all season long, posting three special teams tackles. He finished the year with 12 tackles (six solo) and four passes defended.

- McGill finally got his opportunity as the starting cornerback in Week 17 at Den., where he made a heads-up play by picking up a fumble on a lateral pass and returning it 18 yards for a touchdown.

Seventh Round – CB TJ Carrie (No. 219 overall)

- Carrie made immediate contributions on both defense and special teams, appearing in 13 games and starting four at cornerback. He finished the year with 48 stops (40 solo), an interception, 12 passes defended, a forced fumble and two fumble recoveries (one special teams).

- As the Raiders' leading punt returner, Carrie brought back 26 punts for 195 yards (7.5 avg.). He also returned kickoffs, totaling 15 kick returns for 362 yards (24.1 avg.) with a long of 42 yards.

JACK DEL RIO

DEL RIO QUICK FACTS

- Jack Del Rio left the Jaguars tied with Tom Coughlin as the franchise's winningest head coach with 68 wins. Del Rio compiled a 68-71 regular season record (1-2 in the postseason) with Jacksonville from 2003 to '11. As the Broncos' interim head coach from Weeks 10-13 in 2013, he posted a 3-1 record, helping the Broncos secure the top seed in the AFC Playoffs.

- As a defensive coordinator and head coach, Del Rio's defenses have finished in the top 10 in total defense in seven times, and four times in the top five. Of the top seven defensive seasons in Jaguars team history, Del Rio was the head coach for five of them.

Year	Team	Position	Rank	Yds./Game
2002	Carolina	Def. Coord.	2	290.4
2003	Jacksonville	Head Coach	6	291.1

COORDINATORS

BILL MUSGRAVE

Bill Musgrave is in his 17th season in the NFL coaching ranks and second stint with the Raiders, having served as the team's quarterbacks coach in 1997.

In his fifth assignment as an NFL offensive coordinator, Musgrave has served in that role with the Philadelphia Eagles, Carolina Panthers, Jacksonville Jaguars and Minnesota Vikings. He also spent two seasons as the offensive coordinator at the University of Virginia.

While at the helm of the Vikings from 2011-13, Musgrave oversaw the best rushing attack in the league over that span. During his three seasons at the helm, Minnesota led the league in rushing, posting 146.5 yards per game, and RB Adrian Peterson paced the NFL with 4,333 rushing yards. He has also mentored numerous of quarterbacks during his time in the league, including Matt Ryan, who won the 2008 Associated Press and Sporting News Offensive Rookie of the Year.

A former NFL quarterback himself, Musgrave played six seasons in the league for the San Francisco 49ers and Denver Broncos.

COACHING STAFF NOTES

FROM PLAYERS TO COACHES

The 2015 Oakland Raiders coaching staff certainly has pedigree. Ten of team's coaches played at the NFL level before getting into coaching. The staff has 102 years of combined playing experience, with 15 Pro Bowl appearances, five All-Pro selections and one induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Raiders S Charles Woodson on having former players on the 2015 coaching staff: "Yeah, I think for any player, when you have a guy that played the game, he knows the scrutiny put on you as a player. He knows the bumps and bruises that you take on a day-in and day-out basis. He knows about being in training camp. He knows about what it takes to win. It's validation for that guy when he played the game. When you're a player, there's almost automatically a respect that you have for a person that's been in it, been in that fight, knows what it's all about. These guys really they do have a wealth of knowledge. I think our teaching level this year has been at an all-time high, as far as guys understanding where they're supposed to be each and every play. I think that'll go well for us."

TEAM NOTES

O.CO WINNING

Dating back to Nov. 20 of last season, the Raiders have now won three consecutive regular season games at O.co Coliseum, ending the 2014 regular season with three straight wins over the Kansas City Chiefs, San Francisco 49ers and Buffalo Bills.

The Raiders will look to their three-game home winning streak (not counting preseason), the team's longest since a three-game streak in 2010. The last time Oakland had a home winning streak longer than three games came in 2002 when the team won six straight – the final four games of the regular season and both AFC Playoff games.

2015 SCHEDULING NOTES

- This season will mark the first time in 46 years (since 1969) that the Raiders will open their season with two consecutive home games. Oakland opened the 1969 season with home games against the Houston Oilers and Miami Dolphins.
- The Silver and Black will open the 2015 campaign with three straight games against AFC North opponents (Cincinnati, Baltimore and Cleveland). This marks the fourth time that the Raiders have opened their season with three straight opponents from the same division. The only time they opened against three straight teams not from the AFC West was in 1999 when the team opened with three straight teams from the NFC Central.
- The schedule includes seven games against playoff teams from 2014 and 11 games against teams with winning records last year.
- The Raiders will not face a divisional opponent until Week 5 when they host the Denver Broncos. Last season, the team did not take on an AFC West foe until Week 6.
- This season, the Raiders will have a Week 6 bye for the first time since 2001.
- The Raiders will close out the campaign with divisional matchups in four of their final five games. Two of those four games will be at O.co Coliseum.

WINNING WAYS

The Raiders are among the elite teams in the NFL, ranking among the top five from 1963-2014 in winning percentage of teams playing at least 500 games. The Raiders rank eighth with a .546 percentage since Al Davis was named head coach and general manager in 1963.

NFL WINNING PERCENTAGE 1963-2014

TEAM NOTES

STANDING GROUND

The Raiders' revamped offensive line excelled in pass protection in 2014, ranking among the best units in the league in that regard. Oakland only allowed 28 sacks on the season, good for tied for sixth in the NFL. Here is how the Raiders stack up against other offensive fronts in 2014:

SACKS ALLOWED IN 2014

Rank	Team	Sacks Allowed	Sack Yards
1.	Denver	17	118
2.	Baltimore	19	167
3.	Cincinnati	23	130
4t.	New England	26	170
4t.	Houston	26	108
6t.	Oakland	28	181
6t.	Arizona	28	182
8.	Indianapolis	29	168

CLEAN QB JERSEYS

In Week 2 (9/14 vs. Hou.) and Week 3 (9/21 at NE) of the 2014 season, the Raiders offensive line recorded clean sheets by not allowing a single sack in either game. That marks the second straight season, and the 10th time since team sacks became an official statistic in 1982, that the Raiders' line kept the quarterback upright in back-to-back games. The Raiders also allowed zero sacks in a contest four times in 2014. Here is a look at those streaks since 1990:

CONSECUTIVE GAMES NOT ALLOWING A SACK (SINCE 1990)

Consec. Games	Beginning	End	W/L
3	12/2/07 vs. Den.	12/16/07 vs. Ind.	1-2
2	9/14/14 vs. Hou.	9/21/14 at NE	0-2
2	11/24/13 vs. Ten.	11/28/13 at Dal.	0-2

2	11/23/08 at Den.	11/30/08 vs. KC	1-1
2	12/16/90 vs. Cin.	12/22/90 at Min.	2-0

FOURTH DOWN SUCCESS

Fourth down in the NFL is a "do or die" situation for offenses, and Oakland's offense was effective in those situations this season. The Raiders finished third in the NFL when facing fourth down, extending drives at a 60.0 percent clip. Here is a look at how the Raiders stack up against the rest of the NFL last season:

FOURTH DOWN PERCENTAGE IN 2014

Rank	Team	Attempts	Conversions	Pct.
1.	Arizona	4	3	75.0
2.	Philadelphia	11	7	63.6
3t.	Oakland	15	9	60.0
3t.	Carolina	10	6	60.0
5.	Houston	17	10	58.8
6.	NY Jets	16	9	56.3

PUNCHING IT IN

When the Raiders get down inside the opponent's 20-yard line, which they did 29 times in 2014, the offense has shown the ability to gain those crucial final yards and cross the goal line. The Raiders scored touchdowns on 21-of-29 red zone possessions, good for first in the league with a 72.4 percent success rate. Here is a look at the top red zone teams from 2014:

RED ZONE TD PERCENTAGE IN 2014

Rank	Team	Possessions	Touchdowns	TD%
1.	Oakland	29	21	72.4
2.	Dallas	51	33	64.7
3.	Chicago	47	30	63.8
4.	Denver	62	39	62.9
5.	Atlanta	44	27	61.4
6.	New Orleans	65	39	60.0
7.	NY Giants	61	36	59.0

STUFFING THE RUN

Since the Raiders returned to Oakland in 1995, the team limited the opposition to less than two yards per carry in a game only 13 times, including three in 2013 and twice in 2014. The 1.0 yards per carry allowed vs. Buffalo was the seventh time since 2012 that the Silver and Black have allowed an average of less than two yards per carry. Here is a look at the games:

Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards	Attempts	Avg.
12/16/12	Kansas City	10	10	1.0
12/21/14	Buffalo	13	13	1.0
10/26/14	at Cleveland	39	25	1.6

SACKS & TURNOVERS

In their Week 1 contest at the New York Jets, the Raiders were able to force two turnovers (one S Charles Woodson interception and one CB TJ Carrie forced fumble/recovery). Oakland also racked up two sacks in the game, one coming when S Tyvon Branch registered a 19-yard sack of Geno Smith on third down, knocking the Jets out of field goal range. When LB Sio Moore caused a sack-fumble, it marked the first time since 2011 that Oakland had forced at least two fumbles and recorded at least two sacks in their season-opener. The Raiders forced three turnovers and posted five sacks in their win over the Broncos on Sept. 12, 2011. In Week 14 vs. San Francisco, the Raiders added five sacks and two more interceptions. Here is a look at the two games:

Date/Opp.	Sacks	Forced Turnovers	Result

MILES AND MILES

Factoring in three trips to the Eastern time zone and two more to the Central time zone, the Raiders will travel the third most miles in the NFL this season. According to Pro Football Reference, Oakland travels 26,336 miles in 2015, with three trips over 2,000 miles. The Raiders trail only the Miami Dolphins (26,452 miles, including a trip to London) and San Francisco 49ers (27,998) Here is a look at the teams that travel the most in 2015:

FRED BILETNIKOFF

Pro Football Hall of Famer Fred Biletnikoff is one of the most beloved Raiders of all-time. He is the second leading receiver in Raiders history, catching 589 passes for 8,974 and 76 touchdowns during his 14-year career as a Raider and the collegiate award given annually to the nation's top wide receiver is named after him. After not having a winner of Biletnikoff Award in more than a decade, the Raiders now have two on the team - WR Amari Cooper (2014 winner) and WR Michael Crabtree (2007 and 2008 winner). Oakland is one of three teams in the league (Detroit Lions and Jacksonville Jaguars) who have two winners of the award on their roster.

Cooper on Biletnikoff and meeting him at training camp this year: "He was a really great receiver and that award was something that I really wanted, that I really sought after my whole career in college. It was nice to finally meet him. It means a lot to just be in the NFL. To play for the team that Fred Biletnikoff played for is just a great feeling to try to continue that legacy."

Biletnikoff on having two winners of the Biletnikoff Award on the Raiders this season: "It's great. I'm excited about it. It means a helluva lot to me to have both of these guys on the team, with both of them winning the award. I have big expectations of those two guys and I'm so happy they're playing together and they're going to be a part of this team. They're going to make a big difference with this team, they really are."

In April 2015, Raiders Owner Mark Davis donated $50,000 to Fred and Angela Biletnikoff and the Biletnikoff Foundation to help increase education in an effort to eradicate this horrible dilemma. In addition to monetary support, the Raiders will execute an extensive platform, including ongoing programs and public service campaigns to assist in preventing domestic violence and sexual assault.

"The Raiders are proud of our continuing commitment to raising awareness of this important issue that is close to the heart of the Raider family," said Davis. "We are excited to have the opportunity to work with this tremendous organization and assist them in reaching the ultimate goal, ending domestic violence and sexual assault."

The Biletnikoff Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to supporting youth, primarily from low to moderate income neighborhoods or backgrounds, who are "at risk," particularly to the realities of drug and alcohol addiction as well as domestic and gender violence. The mission of the Biletnikoff Foundation is to commemorate Tracey Biletnikoff's life and her untimely death and to enable young people to realize their full potential through the support of community and education programs that effectively address the related problems of substance abuse and gender violence.

CRAIG LONG AWARD

Last season, the Raiders introduced the Craig Long Award, presented to the player who best exemplifies professionalism and collaboration with the media at large. The award, chosen by a select group of local media and facilitated by the Oakland Raiders' media relations department, was won by DL Antonio Smith.

Craig Long, who passed away in 2007 at age 36, was a valuable member of the Oakland Raiders' public relations staff from 1997-2004. An Iowa native, Long fulfilled his childhood dream of working in the front office for his favorite team.

RAIDERS

RAIDERS EXCELLENCE

Each season, Raiders players vote on which teammate should receive the prestigious Commitment to Excellence Award, given to the Raider who best exemplifies hard work, leadership, and excellence on and off the field throughout the season. In 2014, S Charles Woodson was presented with the award following another standout season on the field, as well as impressive list of off-the-field work. It started as the Gorman Award in 1967 and was later renamed the Commitment to Excellence Award in 1983. Here is a look at the winners of the award since 1967:

PERFORMANCE CENTER

Upon the team's return from training camp in Napa this summer, the Raiders opened their Performance Center. The new Oakland Raiders Performance Center was custom built from the ground up, and will provide the training, nutrition and recovery needs of the entire organization. The new addition to the Raiders' Alameda headquarters will enable the team's strength and conditioning staff to maximize player performance and efficiently manage their time.

Performance Center Facts

- The Performance Center building slab was poured on June 11 and opened for team workouts on the morning of Aug. 25.
- The building is approximately 18,500 square feet. It is 25 feet tall at the ridge, 160 feet long and 100 feet wide.
- The building is heated and air conditioned. To assist with air flow there are six fans, produced by Big Ass Fans, and two louvered vented windows on the back of the building. There are also six 20-foot garage style glass doors that open up to the practice field.
- The building's walls are clad in 10-foot diamond plate inside with a four-foot diamond plate wainscoting on the exterior. The interior flooring is 18mm athletic flooring.
- The Raiders partnered with Gatorade to create and install a state-of-the-art Fuel Bar to assist with performance and recovery for players.
- The Performance Center includes an interior artificial turf field for use in walk-throughs and floor exercises. The field can also be used during inclement weather.
- The building is fully equipped with high-performance workout equipment from Sorinex, Keiser and Power Plate.
- Two new multidirectional football fields (178,000 square feet of sod) were installed immediately outside of the Performance Center.
- A bio retention field was installed to handle drain water as it comes off of the roof, ensuring that clean water is flowing into the Bay.

CHARLES WOODSON

A LEADER IN PICKS

S Charles Woodson, who posted nine interceptions when he won the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year award in 2009, is the NFL's active leader in interceptions. Woodson, who is in his 18th NFL campaign, has 60 interceptions, 17 more than DeAngelo Hall's 43. Woodson has five seasons with at least five picks in his Hall of Fame career.

ACTIVE INTERCEPTION LEADERS

2.	CB DeAngelo Hall (Was.)	43
3.	CB Terence Newman (Cin.)	37
4.	CB Charles Tillman (Chi.)	36

LONG-TERM HAWK

Remarkably, S Charles Woodson has intercepted at least one pass in each of his first 17 NFL seasons. Woodson has joined an elite company of just one other player to intercept a pass in at least 17 consecutive seasons. He is now in sole possession of second place on this list, trailing only Hall of Famer Darrell Green. Woodson has four seasons of at least seven interceptions in his career.

- Hall of Famer

FIRST TO 50/20 AND 60/20

In Week 12 against Kansas City, S Charles Woodson achieved some history. With a third quarter sack of Chiefs QB Alex Smith, Woodson became the first player since sacks became an official statistic in 1982 to record 50 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career. Woodson is the only active player with at least 60 career picks and one of just 11 players in NFL history. His 20 sacks are tops among current defensive backs and make him just one of eight defensive backs to record at least 20 sacks for their career.

WOODSON QUICK HITS

- Only two players in football history have ever won a Heisman Trophy, Associated Press Rookie of the Year, Associated Press Player of the Year and a Super Bowl in their career. Charles Woodson is one of them. The other? Former Raiders RB Marcus Allen.
- Since 1995, only four players have won both the Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year and Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year awards in their career - Raiders S Charles Woodson (1998 & 2009), Ravens OLB Terrell Suggs (2003 & 2011), former Bears LB Brian Urlacher (2000 & 2005) and Panthers LB Luke Kuechly (2012 & 2013).
- Woodson posted an interception touchdown in six straight seasons (2006-11), becoming the first player in NFL history to do so. No other NFL player has accomplished the feat in more than four consecutive seasons.
- In 2009, Woodson became the fourth player in NFL history (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record at least nine interceptions and two sacks in a single season.
- Is the only player in NFL history to post at least seven interceptions and two sacks in back-to-back seasons.
- Became the first NFL player (since sacks became an official statistic in 1982) to record two interceptions, an interception touchdown, a sack and a fumble recovery in the same game when he posted all of those statistics on 11/26/09 at Det.
- Became the first player in NFL history to record 60 interceptions and 20 sacks for his career on Dec. 21, 2014.

TAKING IT TO THE HOUSE

The only thing better than forcing a turnover is turning it into a touchdown, and S Charles Woodson has done that just as well as anybody in the history of the NFL. Woodson is one interception-touchdown away from tying assistant defensive backs coach Rod Woodson's all-time mark, and just one defensive touchdown away from setting the all-time mark. With every touchdown going forward, Woodson will be adding a new note to the NFL record books.

KHALIL MACK

SILVER AND MACK

As the Raiders' first-round pick in the 2014 NFL Draft, DE Khalil Mack had lofty expectations in his rookie season and he met them all and more. Mack finished third in Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year voting, falling to St. Louis' DT Aaron Donald. Proving to be one of the NFL's best run defenders and generating pressure on quarterbacks that didn't always show up on the stat sheet, Mack was selected to the Pro Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated and NFL.com All-Rookie Teams.

Mack was the only rookie named to the 2014 USA Football All-Fundamentals Team, on December 10, 2014, an honor awarded to 26 NFL players who exhibit exemplary football techniques for young players to emulate. The USA Football All-Fundamentals Team was assembled with guidance from a five-person selection committee: Charles Davis, Herm Edwards, Merrill Hoge, Carl Peterson, Bill Polian.

Last season, became the third Raider linebacker to start all 16 games in his rookie season, and the first to do so since General Manager Reggie McKenzie in 1985. Matt Millen also started all 16 games as a rookie in 1980.

While most of Mack's success last year didn't always show up on the stat sheet, he'll look to improve on the below numbers from last year, seeing a lot of time as a defensive end.

According to unofficial press box statistics, Mack totaled 75 tackles (59 solo) in 2014. Of those 75 tackles, 52 (69.3 percent) of them were made for a loss or within three yards of the line of scrimmage. Of his 59 solo tackles, 37 (62.7 percent) of those have been for a loss or within three yards of the line of scrimmage.

He finished second among defensive players in "stuffs" with 11.5 tackles at or behind the line of scrimmage, according to STATS, INC.

S"MACK" TALK

DE Khalil Mack's NFL career is still in its initial stages, but opposing coaches and players are already taking notice. Mack has made an impact on games as a run defender and pass rusher. Here are a few things players and coaches around the NFL have had to say about Mack:

"If I needed a yard, I would run anywhere on planet Earth other than at Khalil Mack. That guy is the biggest hammer that I've seen for a while now playing that defensive end/outside linebacker kind of position." - NBC Sunday Night Football Analyst Cris Collinsworth, Aug. 30, 2015

"Khalil was definitely a guy that we thought was an instinctive player, an explosive player, a guy that we felt like his best football was ahead of him, because we felt like this is a guy that can really rush the passer and also probably drop into pass coverage, be a second-level defender." - Texans Head Coach Bill O'Brien, Sept. 10, 2014

"No. 52 [Khalil Mack] is a phenomenal player. He's a great pass rusher, but he's really good in the run game. We knew it was going to be a challenge." - Cardinals QB Carson Palmer, Oct. 19, 2014

"He was a guy that was definitely highly rated on our board. We thought a lot of him coming out. And sometimes you don't necessarily get the sack production and people can be fooled by that. We look at the effectiveness of a rusher - how much they're affecting the quarterback. They might not be getting the finish, they might be causing production for somebody else." - Browns Head Coach Mike Pettine, Oct. 22, 2014

"Talking to the guys in the locker room, he gained the respect of everybody on our team. That guy 52, Khalil Mack, is one of the best players we've gone against this year and that's a unanimous decision in that locker room. He gained all of our respect, and we knew coming in he was going to be a tough player." - Browns QB Brian Hoyer, Oct. 26, 2014

"I think he's really good. He jumps off the film. Every one of our coaches, when they break up and start looking at the Raiders and taking seriously what they're doing well, everybody comes back talking about him. He's almost unblockable and he's got a great motor. He's fast, he's tough, he's instinctive. We think he's an obvious factor." - Seahawks Head Coach Pete Carroll, Oct. 29, 2014

"Every week, one of the teams I watch early on is the Raider defense, and the reason I want to watch is Khalil Mack. He's not just one of the best rookies to come out, he's the best linebacker in the National Football League, and he is the best against the run." - Former NFL RB and current ESPN analyst Merrill Hoge

DEREK CARR

CARR AT THE HELM

QB Derek Carr was named the Raiders' starting quarterback heading into Week 1 last year, becoming the first rookie quarterback in franchise history to start in Week 1. Oakland's second-round pick of the 2014 NFL Draft was solid in his NFL debut, finishing the game 20-for-32 passing for 151 yards, two TDs and a passer rating of 94.7. Carr became the ninth Raider QB and second rookie to throw at least two TD passes in his debut. His 94.7 passer rating is the third highest for a Raider rookie in his first start. Carr began his career nearly perfect, going 7-for-7 for 53 yards and one TD before throwing his first incompletion in the second quarter.

Carr began his career with a completion percentage of at least 60.0 in his first four games. In NFL history, only two other quarterbacks have accomplished the feat: Robert Griffin III (Was.) in 2012 and Rick Mirer (Sea.) in 1993.

Carr's 300-yard passing performance (328) on Oct. 26 at Cleveland was the first 300-yard passing game of his career and first ever by a Raider rookie.

Carr engineered his first game-winning drive in Week 12 against Kansas City, producing a 17-play, 80-yard touchdown drive that took 7:21, ending with a touchdown pass with 1:42 remaining.

Carr set a career high with a passer rating of 140.2 on Dec. 7 vs. San Francisco, and it is the seventh highest single-game passer rating in franchise history (min. 20 attempts). It is also the sixth-best passer rating by a rookie quarterback since 1960 (min. 20 attempts).

HISTORICAL FEAT

QB Derek Carr vaulted himself into rare company following his 4 TD performance in Week 6 vs. San Diego last year. Carr posted eight TD passes in his first five games, which is the most ever by a rookie quarterback in the first five games of his career. Here is a look at where Carr's historical start to his career stacks up:

TD PASSES BY ROOKIE QBs (FIRST FIVE GAMES)

Rank	Player	Season	TD Passes
1.	Derek Carr	2014	8
2t.	Andrew Luck	2012	7
2t.	Cam Newton	2011	7
2t.	Geno Smith	2013	7

QB Derek Carr completed passes with the kind of pinpoint accuracy only seen a handful of times previously in league history. In his first four games, Carr completed 84-of-133 passes for a completion rate of 63.2 percent. Since 1960, that places Carr second among rookie quarterbacks with at least 100 passing attempts through their first four games. Here is a look:

HIGHEST COMP. % BY ROOKIE QB IN FIRST 4 GAMES (MIN. 100 ATT.)

Rank	Player	Year	Cmp. %
1	Robert Griffin III (Was.)	2012	69.35
2	Derek Carr (Oak.)	2014	63.16
3	Chris Weinke (Car.)	2001	62.14
4	Jim Kelly (Buf.)	1986	61.17
5	Russell Wilson (Sea.)	2012	60.00

ELITE EFFICIENCY

Carr attempted 599 passes last season, second all-time among rookies. Despite the heavy workload, Carr completed his passes at a 58.1 percent clip, fourth best all-time among rookies (min. 500 attempts).

Of the eight rookie QBs ever to attempt 500 passes in a season, Carr owns the fourth highest completion percentage (Sam Bradford - 60.0 percent in 2010; Cam Newton - 60.0 percent in 2011; Andy Dalton - 58.1 percent in 2011).

Carr also ranks first among rookies since 1960 with four games of at least 40 attempts and 25 completions.

Carr owns the fewest interceptions of any rookie in NFL history with at least 500 attempts. Carr's 2.0 interception percentage also ranked first among 2014 rookies and seventh among NFL QBs.

On six occasions, Carr threw at least 30 times without an interception, tied with Andy Dalton for the most such games by any rookie since 1960. Lastly, Carr was one of four rookies with at least 20 TDs and fewer than 12 INTs (R. Griffin III, D. Marino and R. Wilson).

Carr was just the 14th quarterback since the 16-game season was adopted in 1978 to start every game in his rookie campaign. He and his brother, David Carr (fourth quarterback, 2002), comprise the only pair of siblings to have accomplished the feat.

LEADING THE CLASS

With his rookie campaign behind him, Derek Carr was in elite company, as he ranks in or near the top 10 in multiple rookie passing categories. Here is a look at how Carr stacked up against 2014 rookie quarterbacks and all-time rookie passers.

Category	Carr	2014 Rookie Rank	All-Time Rookies
Completions	348	1	2
Passing Yards	3,270	1	10
Passing TDs	21	1	5t
QB Rating	76.6	2	14

PUTTING UP POINTS

The owner of 21 career TD passes, Carr quickly jumped into the history books as one of the most prolific rookie scorers in NFL history.

Carr's 21 touchdowns tied with Cam Newton for fifth all-time among NFL rookies.

Carr tied for sixth among rookies since 1960 with six multi-TD performances, including two three-TD outings (Week 6 vs. SD and Week 14 vs. SF).

In Week 6, Carr lit up the Chargers defense for 282 yards and four TDs, a career high and tied for the second-most TDs ever thrown by a rookie in a single game. It was also the most touchdowns ever thrown by a rookie against San Diego.

Carr's four-TD day also marked the first time an NFL rookie threw four in a game since Russell Wilson and Andrew Luck each did it in 2012, and just the eighth four-TD game by a rookie since 2000.

AMARI COOPER

FIRST-ROUNDER

WR Amari Cooper was tabbed as the Raiders' first-round draft pick in the 2015 NFL Draft and the fourth-overall selection. He was the highest wide receiver taken in the draft and the first receiver taken by Oakland in the first round since 2009. Despite the hype, the even-keeled Cooper has garnered rave reviews from his college playing days and so far in his young NFL career. While enjoying one of the most dominant careers a wide receiver has ever had at the college level, Cooper looks for that success to translate to the NFL.

COLLEGIATE CAREER

In three years at Alabama, Cooper emerged as one of the nation's most explosive and polished receivers. Below is a look at his offensive totals at Alabama.

- BCS National Champion (2013)

COOPER QUICK HITS

Here is a brief look at where Cooper's offensive exploits ranked among his peers in the SEC and NCAA, along with some other notables from his Alabama career:

Receiving Touchdowns

- Ranks first in SEC annals (since 1956) with 31 career TDs
- Finished first in the SEC, and second in the NCAA, with 16 TDs in 2014
- Second in the SEC with 11 TDs as a freshman in 2012, an Alabama-freshman record

Receptions

- Ranks third in SEC history (since '56) with 228 career receptions
- Topped the SEC and NCAA in 2014 with 124 receptions, setting the SEC record
- In 2012, finished with 59 catches, second all-time among Alabama freshmen

Receiving Yards

- Second all-time in SEC history (since '56) with 3,463 yards
- Led the SEC, finishing second in the NCAA, with 1,727 yards in 2014
- His 1,000-yard season in 2012 was good for fifth in the SEC that season, and the third-best yardage total among Alabama freshman

QUOTES ON COOPER

"He is a pro. He is a legit pro and he's been a pro even when he wasn't a pro. He is gym rat who just only wants to play football. On the field, he's just polished. ... He is smart enough and savvy enough to do a lot of things, and that's great. If he's the kind of player that the Raiders think and a lot of other people around the NFL think, then you're going to have to find ways to get him out of double coverage, and moving him around will help." - NFL Network reporter Ian Rapoport

"They have their new Tim Brown. He's very much like Tim Brown, very explosive, got speed to burn, really going to strike fear into the opposing team." - Pro Football Hall of Fame and former Raiders WR Jerry Rice

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

SACK ARTIST

In an effort to bolster the pass rush, Oakland signed proven pass rusher DE Justin Tuck before the 2014 campaign. Tuck, who owns 65.5 career sacks, joined the Raiders after nine seasons with the New York Giants. He helped the Giants win two Super Bowls during his tenure, while earning two trips to the Pro Bowl and two Associated Press All-Pro selections (one first team and one second team).

DOUBLE DIGIT SACKS

With 11.0 sacks in 2013, DE Justin Tuck recorded the fourth double-digit sack season of his career. The 11.0 sacks (9.5 of which came over the final six games) were the third highest total of his career. Here is a look at Tuck's season-by-season sack numbers, with the double-digit campaigns bolded:

MAN IN THE MIDDLE

LB Curtis Lofton was signed as a free agent this offseason, bolstering the Raiders defense up the middle. Lofton, who has made stops with the Atlanta Falcons and New Orleans Saints, is a tackling machine, recording at least 100 tackles in each of his first seven NFL seasons. He also set a career high and Saints franchise record with 185 tackles last season. Below is a look at his career numbers:

CURTIS LOFTON YEAR-BY-YEAR TACKLES

SUPER BOWL XLVIII MVP

Coming over from the Seattle Seahawks in the offseason, LB Malcolm Smith has big-game pedigree. Appearing in eight postseason games over the last three years, Smith has totaled 27 tackles (16 solo), two interceptions, two passes defended and one fumble recovery. In Seattle's win over the Denver Broncos in Super Bowl XLVIII, Smith earned Super Bowl MVP honors after posting nine tackles (five solo), one fumble recovery and one interception returned 69 yards for a touchdown. Smith also intercepted 49ers QB Colin Kaepernick in the final seconds of the 2014 NFC Championship Game, clinching a victory over San Francisco and a Super Bowl berth.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

DJ AT CORNER

The Raiders' first-round selection (No. 12 overall) in the 2013 NFL Draft, CB DJ Hayden has come a long way. After suffering a life-threatening injury to his heart in November 2012, Hayden played a major role in Oakland's defensive makeover. In his rookie year, Hayden recorded 29 tackles and two PD. In the Week 5 win vs. San Diego, Hayden hauled in his first NFL interception, picking off Philip Rivers in the end zone to stop a potential Chargers scoring drive. His season was cut short due to a groin injury on Nov. 20, 2013.

After spending the first seven weeks on the PUP list to start the 2014 season after rehabbing from an offseason foot injury, Hayden returned to game action on Oct. 26, 2014 at Cleveland. In his first significant action of 2014, Hayden had four passes defended in the Raiders' match-up with the defending champion Seattle Seahawks. He also added his first interception of the season in Week 10 against the Broncos. Here is a look at his numbers last season:

MEAT AND POTATOES

Over the last two offseasons, the Raiders' interior defensive line got a sizeable upgrade. Oakland drafted DT Justin Ellis (6-foot-2, 335 pounds) in the fourth round of the 2014 NFL Draft and signed DT Dan Williams (6-foot-2, 330 pounds) as an unrestricted free agent this past offseason.

Tasked with fortifying the Raiders' run defense, "meat and potatoes" are among the biggest interior defensive linemen in the league. The Raiders have held their opponent to less than two yards per rush in a game seven times since 2012, and they will look to add to that number in 2015 with Ellis and Williams clogging the middle.

"We call them 'meat and potatoes.' They eat up that middle and they send that running back to the high side and create that gap and create that push-back that we need in the middle to make it bounce. It's going to be fun, it's going to be fun, and we like to play football like that." - Raiders DE Khalil Mack

"So to be able to have [Williams and Ellis] and those guys in the front, we feel like you shouldn't be able to run the ball on us. Really, if you put those guys up there, we should be a pretty stout defense. That's what we're counting on." - Raiders S Charles Woodson

ADDING ALLEN

The Raiders added a reliable member of the secondary in free agency this past offseason, signing S Nate Allen in March. Allen joins Oakland following five seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles, where he played in 74 games and made 69 starts. Originally a second-round pick in 2010, Allen has totaled 10 career interceptions and 28 passes defended.

Career Highlights

- Posted a career-high four interceptions, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries in 2014.
- Tallied a career-high 94 tackles in 2013 as he started all 16 games for the first time in his career.
- As a rookie, earned NFL Defensive Rookie of the Month honors for September 2010 after recording 19 tackles (13 solo), two interceptions and one sack in three games.
- Became the only rookie in Eagles history to record at least three interceptions and two sacks in his rookie campaign.

DYNAMIC TJ

Bay Area-native CB TJ Carrie was drafted by the Raiders in the seventh round of the 2014 NFL Draft and immediately showed he belongs. Carrie proved to be one of Oakland's most versatile players last season, contributing on defense and special teams. Not only did he handle his assignment as one of the team's top cornerbacks, he also served as the team's primary punt returner and took over returning kickoffs midway through the season.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

MURRAY MAKES HISTORY

RB Latavius Murray emerged onto the scene late in 2014, totaling 424 rushing yards on 82 carries (5.2 avg.) in six games since Week 11. Murray, who spent the 2013 season on the reserve/injured list, made a name for himself in his sophomore campaign, getting the majority of the carries down the stretch last season.

In Week 12 against Kansas City, Murray burst onto the scene on national television, producing 112 rushing yards on just four carries (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns before leaving the game due to injury. Here are a few notes from Murray's breakthrough performance:

Murray scored his first career touchdown on an 11-yard run around the left end in the first quarter and added a 90-yard rushing touchdown in the second quarter. Murray finished with four carries for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, making him the Raiders' first 100-yard rusher since Marcel Reece ran for 123 yards at NYJ on 12/8/13.

Murray is the first player in NFL history to gain at least 110 rushing yards on five or fewer carries in a game, posting four rushes for 112 yards (28.0 avg.) and two touchdowns, all in the first half.

Murray's 11-yard touchdown run in the first quarter was the first rushing touchdown allowed by the Kansas City Chiefs in their last 12 games (12/22/13 vs. Ind.). It was also the Raiders' third rushing touchdown of the season and the first since 10/19 vs. Arizona.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown run was the Raiders' second rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards since 1998 and the longest by a Raider since Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score against the Steelers on Oct. 27, 2013.

Murray's 90-yard touchdown was the longest offensive scoring play in the NFL in 2014 and the fourth rushing touchdown of 90-plus yards in Raiders history (last: Terrelle Pryor's 93-yard score vs. Pit., 10/27/13).

THE LEAD BACK

Since 2009, FB Marcel Reece has been lethal out of the backfield when it comes to picking up big yards through the air. Reece, who is second in the NFL during this time in average yards per reception among active RBs and FBs, averages 10.0 yards per catch.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

RIVERA STEPS UP

TE Mychal Rivera proved to be one of QB Derek Carr's favorite targets last season, as he finished second on the team with 58 receptions and third with 534 receiving yards. Since being drafted in the sixth round of the 2013 NFL Draft, Rivera has emerged as the Raiders' primary tight end, providing a security blanket for quarterbacks. In

Week 14 vs. San Francisco in 2014, Rivera posted a career high with 109 receiving yards on seven catches and one touchdown, becoming the first Raiders tight end since 2012 to eclipse 100 yards. Here is a look at his 2014 season:

DURABLE PENN

T Donald Penn joined the Raiders prior to the 2014 season after he was released from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Last season, Penn was widely considered one of the better left tackles in the league and helped Oakland yield only 28 sacks on the year, good for sixth in the NFL.

Since 2007, Penn has been one of the most durable players in the NFL. He has played in 128 consecutive games and started 124 consecutive games. Both of the totals are fourth in the NFL during that time frame among offensive lineman. His streak will carry into its ninth season in 2015.

Originally signed by the Minnesota Vikings as an undrafted free agent in 2006 out of Utah State - where he started 44 consecutive games - Penn earned Pro Bowl honors after the 2010 season, when he helped the Buccaneers to one of the best offensive seasons in franchise history.

CRAB CROSSES THE BAY

When the Raiders signed WR Michael Crabtree in April, they immediately upgraded their offense with a proven performer. After being selected by the San Francisco 49ers in the first round (10th overall) of the 2009 NFL Draft, Crabtree has caught at least one pass in each of his 79 games played. Before joining the NFL ranks, "Crab" turned in one of the most prolific receiving careers in college football history, winning the Biletnikoff Award - given to the nation's most outstanding wide receiver - in each of his two seasons at Texas Tech. He was the first and only player to win the coveted award twice.

Career Highlights

- Became the first 49ers player since WR Terrell Owens in 2003 to post a 1,000-yard receiving season, tallying a career year in 2012 with 85 receptions for 1,105 yards and nine touchdowns.
- Registered two 100-yard receiving games in the 2012 postseason with three touchdown receptions.
- Has registered at least three receptions in 66 of his 79 career games.
- Scored the first touchdown in Levi's Stadium history on Sept. 14, 2014.

Awards and Honors

- Named to USA Today's All-Joe Team in 2012

ALL-TIME RAIDER

Moving up the all-time games played list for a franchise as historic as the Raiders takes longevity, and K Sebastian Janikowski has it. In 2013, Janikowski moved into second place on the all-time list, and will eventually pass Tim Brown for sole possession of first place this year. Here is where Janikowski ranks on the Raiders' all-time games played list:

PUNTING KING

In his first season as the Raiders' punter in 2013, P Marquette King put up numbers among the NFL's best in both gross and punting yards. With 4,107 punting yards, King finished sixth in the league and led the NFL in gross punting with an average of 48.9. Here's how the second-year player from Fort Valley State finished the year:

NFL GROSS PUNTING AVERAGE (2013)

2.	Brandon Fields (Mia.)	48.8	66	7
3.	Andy Lee (SF)	48.2	62	9
4.	Brad Nortman (Car.)	47.8	72	5

King continued his punting success into his second season in 2014, ranking at the top of the league in punts, punting yards and punts inside the opponents' 20-yard line. In 2014, he set Raider franchise records for punts (109) and punting yards (4,930). He led the league in both categories.

HISTORICAL PUNTER

In 2013, P Marquette King became the third punter in franchise history to lead the league in gross punting with an average of 48.9. It was the eighth time since 1974 that a Raiders punter has led the league in the category. Shance Lechler accomplished the feat four times, and newly-inducted Hall of Famer Ray Guy did it three times. Below is a look at the seasons a Raiders punter has led the league in gross average:

HEAD COACH JACK DEL RIO

BAY AREA NEWS GROUP

Del Rio to Raiders: Pride of Hayward comes home

By Daniel Brown

January 14, 2015

Hayward High sits 10.1 miles from the Oakland Coliseum. If all is clear on I-880 North, the commute should take less than 15 minutes.

It took Jack Del Rio almost 34 years. But at long last, the East Bay native, whose father worshipped Raiders stars like Ken Stabler and John Matuszak, will be working for his home team.

The Raiders hired Del Rio, 51, on Wednesday to serve as their next head coach. Among the first to hear the news were Del Rio's old pals from Hayward High. Andy Miller, a friend since the fifth grade, said he got a text from Del Rio early Wednesday morning.

Miller declined to read the exact contents of the exchange but said the message was, essentially: I'm coming home and I'm proud to be leading the Silver & Black.

"It's almost impossible to believe. It's something I've been dreaming about since he got into coaching," Miller said. "To have him come home to the Raiders just boggles the mind."

Del Rio, who graduated in '81, was a three-sport star at Hayward High -- football, baseball and basketball -- and remains closely connected to the school. His former teammates include Don Wakamatsu, the Kansas City Royals bench coach and former Seattle Mariners manager, who said Wednesday that he was "thrilled for him. I think it's the perfect place."

Del Rio, previously a head coach with the Jacksonville Jaguars, is the second Hayward High graduate to coach in the NFL. Bill Walsh, a Hall of Famer with the 49ers, played running back at the school.

Wakamatsu, like others who knew Del Rio growing up, recall a player who was good at whatever sport he tried. But they stressed that Raiders fans should know their new coach has brains, too.

Miller, now an attorney in Pleasant Hill, remembered playing alongside the linebacker on the freshman football team. The coach had a "very simple defense," he said, so Del Rio sometimes shrugged off one of the three blitz packages being signaled from the sideline.

"Jack would look over at the coach and get the call and then he would ignore what the coach said and then call his own defense," Miller said. "That was as a freshman."

Around that same time, Miller said Del Rio would come over to his house sometimes and sit there drawing up X's and O's on binder paper. He's hoping he still has a few of those schemes in his boxes of childhood souvenirs.

Wakamatsu, who also grew up to coach at the Coliseum -- as the A's bench coach in 2008 -- said Del Rio "had a great feel for whatever game he played. That leads to where he is now. I think he understood defenses. He understood the bigger picture in whatever he did. It's no shock to me that he's doing all this now."

'WE CAN BEAT ANYBODY'

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, played 11 seasons as an NFL linebacker and made the Pro Bowl in 1994 while with the Minnesota Vikings. In his previous stint as a head coach, he went 68-71 (.489) for the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003-11.

Along the way, friends say, he's demonstrated an attitude his father taught him in Little League. Jack Sr. -- even the other boys called him "Pops" -- was a Raiders fan who admired the way John Madden's teams embraced the underdog role.

"That's really where that mindset of, 'We can beat anybody' came from," said Jim Gurule, who was two years behind Del Rio at Hayward High and grew up to become a distinguished rugby coach. "That's very much from the Raiders days and the Super Bowls that they were winning at that time."

Del Rio remains so grateful to his Hayward High mentors that when he coached against the 49ers at Candlestick Park in 2009, he invited former coaches to the game. That included Jim Bisenius (baseball), Charley Kendall (basketball), Joe Fuccy (basketball) and Jeff Rankin (football).

"There's no question the man I am today, the type of coach I am, they all have shaped who I am," Del Rio said at the time. "I definitely appreciate that. I'm talking about Little League coaches, youth coaches, high school coaches, all the way through."

Del Rio had a lot of coaches because he played a lot of sports. He was a sensational shooter in basketball who once hit a turnaround jumper at the buzzer to beat powerhouse Berkeley High. Wakamatsu said he thinks his friend once topped 50 points in a game. ("He was the prototypical 6-foot-4, 240 guard," he joked.)

Del Rio was also a power-hitting catcher/pitcher/first baseman who went on to spend some time behind the plate at USC. His teammates included a wild-armed left-hander named Randy Johnson, who was recently elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

"Randy had wicked movement. He crossed me up once and got me right in the cup," Del Rio once told The Denver Post. "At UCLA's baseball stadium. And, of course, they all delighted in that."

The Toronto Blue Jays liked him enough to draft him in the 22nd round out of Hayward High in 1981, but his high school teammates knew all along that his future was in football. Del Rio proved that on the same field where he'll soon be coaching.

In the NCS 2A championship at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979, the Hayward High Farmers were being tormented by the brilliant short passing game of Miramonte High quarterback Bryan McKeen.

The Miramonte game plan was smart enough to keep rolling away from Del Rio's side of the field. But early in the third quarter, Del Rio solved the riddle, blasted through the line and delivered a clean but potent hit that left McKeen with a broken collarbone.

Hayward went on to beat the Matadors 12-10 for the title.

Miller, who also played in that game, can't believe Del Rio will now be calling NFL plays from the same sideline.

"It's such a Hollywood story," said Miller, a Raiders season-ticket holder since 1995. "I've been imploring him to come save this franchise for a long time. Now, it's a remarkable day today. And my phone has just been blowing up."

Raiders' choice of Del Rio ushers in new era

By Jerry McDonald

January 14, 2015

The Raiders decided on a head coach from their own backyard rather than one from their own building Wednesday.

Jack Del Rio, 51, grew up a Raiders fan with East Bay roots as a three-sport star athlete at Hayward High, which makes for an interesting story even if it has little to do with why he was hired over interim coach Tony Sparano.

An announcement isn't expected until Thursday. According to CSN-Bay Area, the press conference will be Friday.

Del Rio, the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator the past two seasons, was busy lining up possibilities for a coaching staff even before details of a reported four-year contract were being worked out. The Associated Press reported Sparano was told Wednesday morning he was out of the running.

The Raiders interviewed seven candidates for the job, five of them with NFL head coaching experience, before zeroing in on Del Rio and Sparano. Del Rio got the job the morning after a four-hour off-site interview that included owner Mark Davis, general manager Reggie McKenzie and Hall of Fame coach John Madden.

Sparano, who still has a year left on his contract, will be freed to explore other options after posting a 3-9 record and making an impassioned pitch for the job at his postseason press conference.

While Sparano cited a need for continuity, Davis ultimately decided he wanted change given the direction of a franchise which hasn't had a winning season since 2002 and is 11-37 over the past three seasons with 24 of those losses coming by 10 points or more.

The Broncos had the NFL's third-ranked defense in 2014 and were second in 2013. Pro Bowl defensive tackle Terrance Knighton, a pending free agent, said in a tweet, "The Raiders are getting a great damn coach. He will revive that locker room and that organization."

In 2013, Del Rio was interim head coach for four games when coach John Fox was out following heart surgery, going 3-1.

The head coach of the Jacksonville Jaguars from 2003 through 2011, Del Rio had playoff appearances in 2005 and 2007 with a regular-season record of 68-71. He was fired with a 3-8 record in 2011 and hired the next season as the defensive coordinator for the Broncos.

Former Raiders quarterback and CBS analyst Rich Gannon was a teammate of Del Rio's with the Minnesota Vikings in 1992 and believes the move was a good one.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

"I think he felt like he had some unfinished business after the way things ended in Jacksonville," Gannon said. "They made some personnel decisions that weren't the best, he was looking to land in a better place, and I think he thinks he found that in Oakland."

Del Rio is targeting Mike Smith, the former Falcons head coach, as defensive coordinator. Smith was the defensive coordinator under Del Rio in Jacksonville from 2003 through 2007. According to Fox Sports, Del Rio is interested in Marc Trestman as a possible offensive coordinator.

Trestman, who is under consideration for that post in Cleveland, was the Chicago Bears head coach the past two seasons and the Raiders offensive coordinator under Bill Callahan in 2002 and 2003. He also is rumored to be in the mix with the 49ers, where he was offensive coordinator in 1995-96.

In Jacksonville, Del Rio stressed defense and the running game. A defensive coordinator in Carolina for a season before taking over in Jacksonville, Del Rio's teams were considered fundamentally sound but were not known for blitzing heavily.

Gannon thinks Del Rio has the right mindset to deal with a team that has gone a long time without winning.

"He's not going to be a class clown or a comedian," Gannon said. "He's honest, and players won't feel they're having the wool pulled over their eyes. He'll dig in, find out what the issues are and go to work."

A third-round draft pick out of USC, Del Rio played 11 seasons in the NFL for the Rams, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He played in 160 games, starting 128, with 13 sacks, 13 interceptions and 12 forced fumbles.

Del Rio worked his way up through the coaching ranks, starting as a strength and conditioning coach under Mike Ditka in New Orleans in 1997. He became linebackers coach with the Baltimore Ravens in 1999 and was there when the Ravens beat the Raiders 16-3 in the AFC championship game en route to a Super Bowl victory.

The Carolina Panthers made Del Rio their defensive coordinator in 2002 and he was hired by Jacksonville to be head coach the following season.

Other Raiders coaches under contract include offensive coordinator Greg Olson and special teams coordinator Bobby April. Olson is not expected to return and reportedly will interview with Jacksonville to be offensive coordinator.

Raiders' Jack Del Rio creates sound approach

By Ann Killion

August 6, 2015

The music blasts out of the loudspeakers over the practice field behind the Napa Valley Marriott. Rap, some hip-hop, a bit of country and occasionally a classic rock hit.

If it's the last, you know that's the head coach's contribution to the playlist.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

“Blue Oyster Cult, Ted Nugent, AC/DC,” said Jack Del Rio, who saw many of the bands at the Day on the Green concerts at the Oakland Coliseum when he was growing up in Hayward. “Journey, Foreigner. When you hear classic rock, that’s coming from me.”

The Raiders’ summer soundtrack is significant in a couple of ways. First, it’s part of the high-energy, upbeat mood around the team.

“We want them to get used to playing with noise and we also want to connect with guys,” Del Rio said. “It keeps the mood light and fresh.”

That’s a big emphasis with the Raiders this training camp. Del Rio is working — on virtually every level — at changing attitudes, energy levels and mind-sets.

“Everything we’re doing is with an eye on creating and sustaining a high-performance environment,” he said.

To that end, he also has hired a high-performance coach — Scott Peltin of the firm Tignum — to work with coaches and players on positive energy and mind-set.

“He came in and talked to us about ways to communicate with each other in a positive way,” Del Rio. “How you eat, sleep. Everything that has to do with performance.”

Del Rio uses phrases like “being mindful” and “bringing positive energy.” He’s not exactly new-agey but he is employing whatever tactics are available to get his team moving in the right direction. The Raiders have been mired in negativity for too long.

“I’m definitely making a concentrated effort to turn the page on all that and look to the future,” said Del Rio, who went as far as asking the alumni who visited camp not to discuss past failures. “This is one of the many ways that we’re going to invest in ourselves, in creating the best environment possible for players and staff.”

Del Rio has collected ideas and strategies for years. From his playing days, his days as the head coach in Jacksonville, his time as Denver’s defensive coordinator.

“I definitely am far more prepared now,” he said. “You’re able to spend some time and think through how you’d do it if you got another opportunity. And apply some of those lessons.”

So you’ll see a little Denny Green, some Jimmy Johnson, a dash of Pete Carroll (who plays music at his practices). Some Bum Phillips, who taught Del Rio that players respond better if they feel like their coaches truly care about them.

And some John Wooden, a legend Del Rio admires. In Jacksonville, Del Rio had Wooden’s Pyramid of Success on the locker room wall and he might introduce it to the Raiders.

“I believe in building a team that way,” Del Rio said of the pyramid, which has a foundation of strong character traits. “It’s simple. It’s wisdom.”

Del Rio is also pleased with the current $8 million investment to improve the team’s Alameda training facility, something he convinced owner Mark Davis was mandatory.

“We want to create an environment where coaches are excited and players are excited about coming to work every day,” he said.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Del Rio speaks and carries himself with more authority and swagger than any other head coach in the Raiders' recent history. He seems comfortable in his own skin, comfortable enough for a little sartorial splendor, like the cool white Stetson — complete with black Raiders hatband — he wears to deal with the Napa sun. (Del Rio was the only head coach besides the 49ers' Mike Nolan to wear that black Reebok suit on the sideline a decade ago).

Of course, Del Rio played at USC and had a long NFL career as a linebacker. His exterior confidence is similar to Jim Harbaugh's, though he has a much more extensive NFL coaching resume and doesn't seem to have the manic Harbaugh tendencies. But the swagger is similar.

What's the other reason a little shot of Aerosmith's "Dream On" coming over the Napa loudspeakers is relevant?

Because it's a nod to Del Rio's roots, planted deep in the East Bay, including at those Bill Graham productions on the same field where his team will play this season. Del Rio also has roots in Napa, where his grandfather had a farm not too far from the Raiders' training grounds, before the valley's wine boom. He has had old friends stop by training camp to say hello.

Sometimes, Del Rio finds himself overwhelmed at his new position, coaching his childhood team, wearing the colors he loves, surrounded by the familiar.

"Yes, I get sentimental at times," he said, "because it's so cool to be home."

Raiders head coach Jack Del Rio still hero in Hayward

By Vic Tafur

January 21, 2015

It's been a week since Jack Del Rio was named head coach of the Raiders. He's been busy doing all the things required of an NFL coach, which hasn't given the East Bay native much of an opportunity to relive his glory days in Hayward or reach out to all the people who helped him along the way. But he will.

"Overwhelming," Del Rio, 51, said of the reaction in his hometown. "It's been great. They've all reached out. I haven't had the time or chance to really sit and take it all in because it's a whirlwind. ... Just a text response saying, 'Thank you, appreciate that.'"

While Del Rio has been too busy to recount his story of becoming a Bay Area high school sports legend, his former coaches have been more than happy to do so.

Del Rio, who was born in Castro Valley, graduated from Hayward High School in 1981 after a trophy- and accolade-filled career that saw the Farmers take home seven consecutive Hayward Area Athletic League titles in three sports: football, basketball and baseball.

The greatest ever?

Charley Kendall, the basketball coach at Hayward High in Del Rio's junior and senior seasons, thinks tales of Del Rio should be told throughout the region.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

"There is a real argument that Jack was the greatest athlete in the history of NorCal high school sports," Kendall said. "Nobody was as good in all three sports."

Former Farmers defensive coordinator Jeff Rankin agrees.

"He is the guy," Rankin said.

Rankin said it was borderline cruel for opposing players to go against the muscular 6-foot-3 Del Rio at linebacker.

"Right from the beginning, it was amazing how much better he was than the people he was going against," Rankin said. "It really was a man going against boys. Jack was too strong, too fast, too smart."

Just like his old man, Jack Sr., who was a star running back for the Farmers in 1954.

"People like to say John Elway was the greatest all-around Bay Area athlete, but he couldn't play basketball like Jack did," said Joe Fuccy, Del Rio's basketball coach his sophomore season. "Jack had great body control and could knock down 17-foot jumpers all day."

A born leader

Fuccy, who said Del Rio could have started as a freshman, made Del Rio a co-captain.

"Some of the seniors on the team didn't like that, but it was clear he was a leader and I wanted him to be in that role," Fuccy said. "It was a nonissue. He was great."

Del Rio was also the defensive captain of the football team as a sophomore.

"He wasn't afraid of it," Rankin said.

Kendall said Del Rio made his job easier as coach.

"He was the first one to kick his teammates in the butt if they didn't play hard," Kendall said. "I never had to."

Del Rio primarily knocked down jumpers but also dunked during a game in which Hayward High reportedly became the first school to score 100 points against perennial power McClymonds-Oakland.

All the coaches interviewed said basketball was clearly Del Rio's favorite sport, but "there are no 6-foot-4 power forwards in the NBA," Rankin said.

Del Rio saw that his future was in football, even though he also might have cracked the major leagues as a power-hitting catcher. He was even called on to pitch to bail out an injured staff. He struck out 16 in a playoff game against Mission San Jose-Fremont.

"No question he would have made the major leagues if he stuck to baseball," former Farmers baseball coach Jim Bisenius said. "He was so smart that I could tell, whichever sport he chose, one day he was going to be a coach."

That's the same career path blazed by another Hayward graduate, onetime Farmers running back and 49ers Hall of Fame coach Bill Walsh.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Besides dominating in three sports, Del Rio also found time to work at the student newspaper and was sports editor his senior year.

“All the kids in school looked up to him,” said Kendall, who supervised students on the newspaper. “But he was never arrogant and was good to everybody around him.”

And there were plenty of chances to get a big head: buzzer-beating jump shots; tackles that led to a North Coast Section 2A Championship defeat of Miramonte at the Oakland Coliseum in 1979; two home runs in the HAAL playoffs at Chabot College (which has major-league dimensions); being drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays in the 22nd round of the 1981 draft.

Del Rio instead chose a football scholarship to the University of Southern California, where he also played baseball and caught for Hall of Fame pitcher Randy Johnson.

Del Rio went on to play 11 years at linebacker in the NFL for the Saints, Chiefs, Cowboys and Vikings. He had three stops as an assistant coach before being the head coach in Jacksonville from 2003 to 2011.

Staying true to his school

But Del Rio also kept a foothold in Hayward.

“I’m still close with all my high school coaches from Hayward High,” Del Rio said. “They all had an impact on me.”

Del Rio has had former coaches and teammates as his guests at Jaguars games, in Jacksonville and on the road.

“He appreciates loyalty,” Fuccy said. “And he is extremely loyal himself.”

Del Rio has hosted golf tournaments and luaus to raise money for the Hayward High football program in the past 10 years, and current Farmers coach Justin Redemer said Del Rio often makes donations “out of his own pocket.”

“The name Del Rio means something in Hayward,” Rankin said. “And hopefully it will for the Raiders as well.”

Raiders rookie LB Neiron Ball has persevered through crisis after crisis

By Bill Williamson

June 9, 2015

Tuesday marks the first day of what Neiron Ball hopes will be many minicamps in his NFL career.

Four years ago, the idea of practicing football suddenly became insignificant in Ball's world.

"Football wasn't on my mind much, I was just trying to live," Ball said in a telephone interview Monday after working out at the Oakland Raiders' facility. "I just wanted to live."

After dealing with unspeakable tragedy as a child, Ball, a high-energy outside linebacker, was preparing for his sophomore season at the University of Florida when he had to stop a workout.

"I developed a headache and was feeling off balance," Ball recalled. "I was sent home to rest and I never felt any better. I was taken to the emergency room and then everything was discovered and it all got kind of fuzzy after that."

Ball underwent emergency brain surgery after physicians discovered that he was bleeding on his brain. Ball was diagnosed with a rare condition called an arteriovenous malformation (AVM). It's a congenital condition in which the brain's blood vessels get tangled and rupture.

It was another in a series of shocking, life-altering events for Ball, then 18-years old.

When he was 6, Ball's mother, Johanna, who was fighting cancer, died on Mother's Day after suffering a heart attack.

Three years later, Ball's father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer. Soon after, Ball watched his father have a sudden seizure. He died that night.

"When Neiron had his brain surgery, it was so tough to see," said Dary Myricks, Ball's brother-in-law. Myricks, who entered Ball's life when Ball was a toddler, was a high school football coach in the Atlanta area. Myricks also became a father figure to Ball after his dad died.

"This is a kid who has gone through a lot in life -- a lot," Myricks said. "He's seen so much death. ... For him to be dealing with an uncertain future, it was just so hard to watch."

However, the surgery was a success and physicians assured Ball and his family he eventually would be able to resume a normal life. Ball sat out the 2011 season. Physically, he focused on regaining his balance and dealing with some sensitivity to light. Myricks credits the Florida coaching staff for sticking with Ball and helping him focus on his academics while he recovered. A year later, he was cleared to resume playing football.

"I will never forget the day I was cleared," Ball said. "It was one of the greatest moments of my life. I will always cherish it."

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Doctors told Ball and his family that while there is a small chance of a recurrence of his AVM, it's highly unlikely. Myricks said physicians assured the family that football presents no specific danger because of Ball's condition, and if he were to have a complication, it would be just as likely to occur if he were mowing the lawn as if he were running on a football field.

Once he resumed football, Ball continued to excel for the Gators. Even though his 2014 season was cut short with a knee injury that required microfracture surgery, Ball was closely scouted. He had an excellent showing at the Florida pro day and he visited about a dozen NFL teams prior to the Raiders taking Ball in the fifth round on May 2.

"NFL teams did their homework on him medically," Myricks said. "It was an emotional day when the Raiders took him. It was such a long road.

"But to me, what I think the Raiders are getting in Neiron as much as a good football player, is a great kid. He's a great kid. The Raider Nation should feel good that he is going to represent them and the people who drafted him well."

Myricks said Ball's ability to get through the hard times of his life has made him a stronger, more mature person. Perhaps that's one of the reasons Ball continues to make strides after having microfracture surgery, which can come with big complications.

Ball has his sights set on contributing on special teams early in his Oakland career. He is thankful for getting this far.

"I try to get stronger every day in life," Ball said. "I thank God every day for getting me this far and allowing me to function through all of this."

Neiron Ball Is Beating the Odds to Become an NFL Draft Prospect

By Bo Marchionte

March 18, 2015

Former Florida Gators linebacker Neiron Ball spent five years in Gainesville, Florida. The fifth-year senior is now doing NFL Draft Prep (training) at Bommarito Performance Systems as he readies himself for his Pro Day which is slated for April 7th. What Ball is doing is similar to basically every other top prospect across the country making their path towards the NFL Draft.

That is where the similarities stop.

"I didn't want to die," said Ball.

It first began with pain in his neck during practice. The throbbing discomfort continued to persist in the morning session and led Florida head trainer Anthony Pass to send Ball home for some rest.

Ball left practice on Valentines Day (2011). The unbearable aching did not cease for Ball. It only worsened as the day continued on.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

“Excruciating,” said Ball referring to the pain he felt. “I could not even look down. My initial thought was I just want this pain to go away. I was hoping it wasn’t life threatening.”

It was the last thing Ball expected to encounter after leaving Jackson High School (Georgia) as a four-star recruit who the Gators envisioned as their future defensive end.

“Football wasn’t even a thought when I was going through that,” said Ball. I wasn’t just trying to survive.”

Ball woke up the next day and doctors determined he had a rare medical condition known as arteriovenous malformation (AVM), where the brain’s blood vessels get knotted and rupture. The bleeding on Ball’s brain could have cost him his life.

Fortunately, Ball recovered and was given another chance at life. He is taking on the next challenge in his path and looking to earn his keep on a 53-man NFL roster.

“It is like a dream come true,” Ball said as he is readying himself for the NFL Draft.

He originally played quarterback growing up and spent some time as a defensive back before moving to linebacker. Former Gators head coach Urban Meyer wanted him to be up front playing defensive end, but that changed once they got him to Gainesville.

“They wanted me to play defensive end,” said Ball. “They saw my athletic ability and that I could drop in coverage and they moved me to linebacker.”

Ball appeared in all 13 games as a true freshman before missing the next year due to his illness. He returned to full strength one year later (2012) and started two games. He continued to work his way back to form and Ball made his first career sack in 2013 against Florida State quarterback Jameis Winston.

In his final season with the Gators, Ball played in nine games, making seven starts. He finished with a career high 49 tackles, three tackles-for-loss, two sacks, two fumble recoveries, and one forced fumble. He missed the last three games of the year after hurting his meniscus that required surgery. Ball was tied for second on the Gators defense in tackles at the time of the injury.

Only a couple short months ago Ball said he “was walking with a limp” and now he is pushing on all cylinders when attacking his 40-yard dash in practice. He arrived at Bommarito Performance System at 217 pounds and added nearly 20 pounds (19) of muscle to his lean frame.

“My rehab went well,” stated Ball. “I’m training for my drills. I feel good. Injuries come and go.”

With a clean bill of health, Ball can now focus on his Pro Day and the chance to impress the teams that attend.

“I’m able to play in the box,” says Ball referring to some of the qualities scouts will revel in when breaking down Ball as a player. “I can drop in coverage and plus I can rush the passer.”

Ball’s versatility is his ticket to the next level as a three-down linebacker. In a league that emphasizes the passing game the talent Ball brings to the table plays well in his favor. He can be stout against the run and use his size (6-foot-3, 236 pounds) to show his fluid smooth hips and quick feet to drop in coverage. Those intangibles few possess at his position, but Ball is not a one-trick pony. He can do it all.

“I really like Von Miller (Denver Broncos) and Jamie Collins (New England Patriots),” said Ball. “I really like to watch those guys. I kind of remind myself of them and Justin Brown (Kansas City Chiefs) too.”

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Each one of those linebackers he mentions are able to stay on the field and provide their respective teams with three-down play at an extremely high level.

In limited action throughout his career at Florida and rehabbing his injury, Ball was still an invitee to the NFL Scouting Combine. It validates the potential NFL teams see in Ball. Projected to be a fourth to sixth round pick, his Pro Day will be paramount in determining his value on draft day.

Ball anxiously awaits the opportunity to display his array of talents to NFL Scouts, and conquer another obstacle in his path.

Raiders' Neiron Ball has Already Overcome Insurmountable Odds

By Sean Bialaszek

May 5, 2015

With the 161st pick in the NFL Draft, the Oakland Raiders selected Neiron Ball, an outside linebacker from Florida. The pick wasn't the most highly regarded, but after everything he's gone through, finding a role on an NFL team seems like child's play.

Ball stands 6'2", and tips the scales around 235 pounds. In his college career, he totaled 5.5 tackles for loss, three sacks, an interception, and three pass deflections.

He has NFL size, and is versatile. He played outside linebacker in both 3-4 and 4-3 schemes, and has played inside linebacker as well. Ball possess good speed, and the non-stop motor that coaches love.

The numbers are not all that impressive, and they won't make your eyes pop. But his story is incredible. He underwent knee surgery last November. Microfracture surgery to be exact, the same procedure that Jadeveon Clowney underwent during the 2014 season. But after everything that Ball went through before that, that surgery seems almost trivial.

The term "lucky to be alive" is used quite a lot, and when it's used, it doesn't always mean exactly what it says. However, when you say Ball is lucky to be alive, you mean it.

Ball lost both parents when he was a child. His mother, Johanna, died when he was six, on Mother's Day in 1998, from a heart attack.

A few years later, his father, Ronnie, was diagnosed with lung cancer, and underwent surgery on his throat. The nine-year-old Ball had to help his father eat through a tube, and one night during this ritual, Ronnie suffered a seizure, and passed away later that night. He watched his father die.

Ball stuck with football, and eventually became a Florida Gator. He played all 13 games in 2010, his freshman year, in his familiar linebacker spot. But after his inaugural college campaign, he experienced something that nearly cost him his own life.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

In a February practice in 2011, Ball was forced to leave practice with a migraine that caused him horrible pain. When the aching persisted, he found himself in the hospital, and had to sit in a dark room, because the pain was just too much to handle.

It turned out that Ball had bleeding in his brain. The diagnosis came back as Arteriovenous Malformation (AVM), which is defined as “a tangle of abnormal blood vessels connecting arteries and veins in the brain.” In other words, the blood vessels in the brain get tangled up, and eventually rupture, causing bleeding.

AVM is a congenital condition, meaning if a person has it, they were born with it. Less than one percent of the population, one in approximately 200-500 people, have the condition. Once the brain starts to bleed for the first time, 10 to 15 percent of people don’t survive. If another hemorrhage were to occur, that percentage vastly increases. Another 30 percent suffer permanent brain damage.

If he hadn’t gone to the hospital, if he had continued on with practice like normal and the bleeding continued and eventually worsened, he might have ended up with irreparable brain damage, or worse.

Surgery occurred a little later for Ball, with surgeons basically untangling the vessels, stopping the bleeding, and putting them back where they’re supposed to be. Ball was essentially fixed, but his journey, another journey, was just starting.

He worked hard in recovery, the same way he worked hard on the field, putting his non-stop motor to use in a different area. Little by little, Ball regained strength, but he missed the 2011 season, and his football future remained in doubt. Even though Ball’s brain condition had been fixed, he had still gone through brain surgery, and there is always that nagging thought that maybe his head can’t take another blow.

He continued his trek back, and in June of 2012, 16 months after his brain operation, he was cleared to play again. Another two months passed before he strapped on the pads again. But one and a half years after a dangerous condition nearly took his life, he suited up and practiced with his team. In 2012, Ball ended up playing 11 games for the Gators, and totaled 10 tackles with his only career interception.

The knee surgery is likely to cost Ball his rookie year, as the recovery for a microfracture procedure can take anywhere from nine to 15 months. NBA players have returned in six months, but that’s a completely different game. It usually takes football players longer to get back. If Ball approaches this recovery with the same vigor and gusto he’s become known for, his return could fall on the lower end of the scale.

Ball may never become an impact player in the NFL. He may never change a game single-handedly. Quite honestly, he may never play a down in the league. But he will work harder than anyone else who steps on the practice field. He has no choice. You never know when it all is going to go away.

'Faith, family, football' puts Raiders QB Carr on brink of stardom

By Scott Bair

August 24, 2015

BAKERSFIELD – Derek Carr was born to play quarterback, equipped with a perfect combination of nature and nurture to hone a difficult craft. He was athletically predisposed with size, speed, smarts and a cannon right arm accented with the right amount of touch.

He had guidance worthy of a crown prince, with a father to mentor him early on and an older brother who had already been king. Rodger Carr taught his son about fundamentals and work ethic. David Carr, an excellent quarterback in his own right, bestowed football knowledge and life lessons he experienced as a Fresno State star and an NFL signal-caller to a brother 12 years younger.

Thanks to David's labor of love, little Derek had a blueprint for success. Work hard, stay focused, maximize talent and follow a pre-travelled path to the pros. Do that Derek, and you'll get there. Stumble along the way? Pops and big brother will pick you back up.

Support certainly helped Derek Carr become a Fresno State legend and a Raider with the No. 36 overall pick in last year's NFL draft.

Assuming that made everything easy is oversimplification. Hard times made Derek Carr the man he is today, someone able to weather adversity without crumbling under its weight. That's a trait only discovered by doing.

There was no instruction manual detailing how to handle 10 straight losses to start a pro career or stay above water in tidal waves of change, with three head coaches and two offensive schemes in 12 months. Yet here he stands, on the verge of a second season as Raiders quarterback, confident as ever that this is the start of something great.

There was no instruction manual for how to act with a son at death's door just days after taking his first breath. Yet there he stood at 22 years old, a pillar of strength while baby Dallas spent his first 23 days clinging to life.

While he's learned from his mentors, individual experiences like these make Derek unique and properly equipped to handle the pressure of his current position. He's a person with fixed priorities and overflowing optimism in difficult situations, even when frustration might play better to the crowd.

"People wonder if bad times impact me because I have a smile on my face," Carr said last month in an extended interview with CSNBayArea.com at one of his family's Carr Elite football camps. "Of course they do. They rip my heart out, but I'm going to fight harder than anyone because I lean on my faith in tough times. That's where I find my strength. When a doctor says, 'Dallas might not make it,' all I can do is lean on my faith to keep from crumbling. That's all I know how to do. And I trust it's right because I've seen it come through time and time again."

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

The Carr family mantra is a priority list: Faith. Family. Football. In that order.

You've certainly heard that cadence before. It was a common refrain during Derek's rookie press conferences, often combating questions about the wear and tear of a Raiders season quickly circling the drain. The point: Losses ruin Derek's evening, not his entire week.

Football isn't life. It's a game, a job he loves dearly. He's grateful for every moment in a jersey, but it doesn't compare to the time spent with his wife and son.

Derek the quarterback is an incredibly early riser, someone who arrives at the Raiders' Alameda facility with the sun and returns to his Dublin home after it sets behind him.

Carr has the unique ability to leave No. 4 in the car, turning himself over to his wife Heather and son Dallas upon walking through the door.

"It's good to be able to get away from it all," Heather Carr said. "Derek will tell you that football is his job, it's not who he is. That's so true. When he comes home, he isn't NFL quarterback. He's dad. He's husband. We don't really talk about football at home unless he wants to. He doesn't let bad days bleed into his home life. We just get to be family."

Those times are never, ever taken for granted. Whether it's an extra 90 seconds engaged with Dallas or a friendly game of Nerf basketball between husband and wife (please, watch this video), the Carrs try to maximize each minute together.

Through simple pleasantries and grand gestures, Derek and Heather walk an extra mile to honor this dynamic and the three weeks when it was nearly ripped apart.

"I always think about those times," Heather said. "You can still see the scar on Dallas' belly and when you do, you just thank God that he's alive. It could have all been taken from us. That's why we cherish every moment we have as a family. We know that, no matter what happens, family will always be our top priority."

Dallas' scar symbolizes a young life saved. The boy was born on Aug. 5, 2013, just before Derek started his senior season at Fresno State. Derek was a Heisman hopeful and the San Joaquin Valley's favorite son, with an NFL gig ahead on a career path paved in gold.

Early, frequent vomiting was the first sign of trouble. It led to panic and eventually a life-threatening diagnosis. Dallas Mason Carr had intestinal malrotation, meaning his intestines weren't properly aligned and cutting off the flow of his digestive tract. Dallas needed surgery, and was taken by ambulance from a Clovis hospital to Children's Hospital Central California in Madera.

He underwent one procedure, then another during a touch-and-go 23-day period that coincided with Bulldogs training camp. Derek rarely missed a practice, and spent most every other minute at the hospital with his wife and son.

The schedule was emotionally and physically draining. It wore on Derek, who broke down several times over the phone with his parents and coaches.

In front of his wife, Derek held strong. He would read Bible verses aloud well into the night, and remained a source of positivity as the couple prayed for a happy ending that was not guaranteed.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

"I always had my faith, but that was a real test of it," Derek Carr said. "Everyone knew who we were in Fresno. It was my senior year and everything was going great. Life was good, and we didn't worry about much. Then Dallas' ordeal comes up and it ripped my heart out. At that point, I thought, 'am I still going to be the man I say that I am? Am I going to be strong and be there for my wife and child?' Saying those things is easy. Living and doing can be extremely difficult."

This was, and always will be, Derek's defining moment.

"There was no way to tell him how to get through it," said Rodger Carr, Derek's father. "Derek had to be the man of the house, and he stepped up in a big way. He had things under control and believed God would help him and his family through it. You won't find anyone in the family who didn't have faith Dallas was going to make it."

"That's how we looked at it. We knew Derek and Heather would do their part and that God would do the rest."

Dallas underwent a third procedure in September 2013, but was eventually given a clean bill of health. He recently celebrated his second birthday and carries on with the exuberance of a young child unaware of a scary period that put life in proper perspective.

Faith. Family. Football. In that order. That was something Rodger Carr often told his three young sons.

Before Heather, before Dallas, that mantra didn't belong to Derek. It was something he heard, not advice he heeded. He was a teenager interested in teenager things, especially after enrolling at Fresno State in the footsteps of his famous older brother. He was a rock star before throwing a college pass, especially as a big fish in a small pond.

After Heather, after Dallas, Derek's priorities came into focus. They all stem from faith. He has faith his family will offer unconditional support. He has faith in his own character and work ethic. Dallas' ordeal taught Derek that his faith in God is a sturdy crutch, one that won't let him buckle under stresses he can't control.

"I knew faith, family and football was my foundation, but I wasn't living by it until I grew up and figured it out on my own," Derek Carr said. "It wasn't people saying things to me. I found the path through experience. I've lived both ways, and I like the path I'm on a whole lot more."

Derek Carr is mature beyond his 24 years, overqualified to survive 0-10 and eventually 3-13 without permanent damage.

Talented quarterbacks have been beaten down by losses, but Derek weathered a trying rookie season with aplomb because he knows that football isn't life. It's just a game, one with problems he can work through.

His optimism and determination never waned, even late in a chaotic season where the Raiders hit rock bottom.

"I am human, and I feel each loss as much as anyone," Carr said. "I hate to lose. There were moments where I took time to be disappointed and admit just how hard winning is at this level. There were times when I'd talk to my brother or my wife about just how difficult all the losing was, but they never lasted long. It does me no good to feel sorry for myself or wallow in disappointment. I didn't worry or stress out because I knew I would keep working and I had faith there were better days ahead."

David Carr experienced his youngest brother's trying rookie season from the couch. He didn't travel to road games and stayed away from Raiders home dates on purpose, to avoid the inevitable comparisons between them. David didn't want cameras searching for a reaction every time Derek did something on the field, so he chose to babysit nephew Dallas while momma and family watched games in person.

It wasn't just games experienced from afar. David Carr has stayed away from Raiders training camps and in-season practices. He was loathe to go on the record last season, while Derek was getting used to life in the league.

"The comparisons between us always come, from his rookie year through each stage of his progress," David Carr said. "I just want him to have his own career and let him do his own thing. I can take a step back, but he knows I'll always be there for him no matter what."

The two still have an open dialogue, and Derek would be crazy not to use David's intelligent football mind. David knows a phone call is coming after road games, when brothers freely discuss what went right and wrong. David typically stays in Dublin after home games, ready to break down tape after baby brother returns from a long, hard Sunday.

They used to do something similar a decade ago, when David quarterbacked the expansion Houston Texans and young Derek was an aspiring signal-caller obsessed with football scheme and strategy. Derek became proficient at X's and O's working with David – Derek even called his own plays in high school -- who also helped him refine form, technique and his life around the game.

David "put extra tools in the toolbox," but Derek now has to build his own house.

"My hands are off," David Carr said. "If he specifically asks me a question or something comes up in conversation about a coverage or a play, we'll discuss. He's pretty savvy chalkboard-wise, but there's no equal to experience. I'm trying to let his NFL development happen naturally over time ... Hopefully I give him enough information to help him grow, but Derek has to take ownership of himself. He's done a great job of that since getting drafted."

Derek Carr's better for the 16 games played his rookie year, and many believe he's on the path to stardom with an upgraded supporting cast heading into the 2015 season.

He was far from perfect as a rookie, with plenty to work on as his career advances. Unlike last year at this time, Carr is not the quarterback of the future. He's the quarterback right now, someone counted on to produce each week.

Teammates and coaches believe in his brand of leadership and have faith he can make strides necessary to spark a Raiders renaissance.

A resurgence won't happen without quality quarterbacking, but that doesn't add pressure to this fall's proceedings.

Outside expectations will never match his own benchmarks, which are sky high because Carr has been to the puppet show and seen the strings. There are no illusions about NFL life and what it takes to succeed.

“It was such a blessing to be able to play all 16 games and gain that experience because now, coming into it, I don’t just have a film point of view,” Carr said. “I have a ‘from where I stood’ point of view. I know what works. I know what I can and can’t get away with. The experience is just a huge factor.”

No matter what he experiences this year, Carr knows he can handle it. He is supremely comfortable in his own skin and the knowledge that faith, family and football will carry him through.

WR AMARI COOPER

With Amari Cooper, Raiders are in good hands

By Daniel Brown

May 7, 2015

ALAMEDA -- Amari Cooper reports for duty Friday with the opening of Raiders rookie minicamp. Fred Biletnikoff, who is already a Cooper expert, expects the No. 4 overall draft pick to get off on a better foot than he himself did back in 1965.

"Oh, I was horrible," Biletnikoff said. "I had a hell of a time making the adjustments. Lots of dropped balls."

Cooper, in contrast, appears ready to make an immediate impact. On draft day, general manager Reggie McKenzie and coach Jack Del Rio described the Alabama star, who officially signed his deal Thursday, as "polished" so often you started to think the Raiders drafted a pair of Oxford wingtips.

Biletnikoff, who recovered from his shaky early Raiders days to earn a place in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, agreed. And he ought to know: Cooper won the honor that bears his name, the Biletnikoff Award, as the top receiver in college football.

"If you know nothing about football, you might not see that he's mature beyond his years," Biletnikoff, 72, said in a phone interview. "But he's a step ahead when it comes to the things required to be a receiver. The way he runs his routes, catches balls, gets open. He can do it against man-to-man coverage or press or zone. This guy is not one-dimensional.

"He can line up inside, outside, right or left and do a good job wherever he is. Jack and Reggie and the staff were dead on when they talked about him."

TOP IN HIS CLASS

The numbers support the case. Pro Football Focus, which analyzed every play and player on the college schedule last season, evaluated 1,800 receivers. They ranked Cooper No. 1, in part because of his complete game.

Playing against top competition while at Alabama, Cooper led the country in targets and receptions and finished second in receiving yards and touchdowns. PFF found a few hidden measures of success, noting Cooper tied for the most missed tackles forced (26) and finished third in total yards after the catch (878).

Del Rio praised Cooper on draft day for his ability to run the entire route tree. PFF determined that Cooper logged 30 catches on screens, 57 on stops, slants, crosses or outs and 16 on posts or go-routes. Half of his catches on post/gos resulted in touchdowns.

As it turns out, Cooper was running those patterns as early as 5 years old. He just didn't know what they were called. In a constant search of ways to juke his friends during backyard games in Miami, Cooper learned the science of planting, cutting, turning and blasting his way out of a break.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

"So when I had to run a slant route or a comeback route, which the coach called it, I was already familiar with running and getting open," he says now. "It came easy."

Teddy Bridgewater was among the first beneficiaries. Before he grew up to be the quarterback of the Minnesota Vikings, Bridgewater was a star at Miami Northwestern Senior High, a local football powerhouse.

Cooper was one of his top targets. "He was always in the right place at the right time," Bridgewater recalled.

Bridgewater, in a phone interview, said that the football team's tradition called for the best receiver on the team to wear jersey No. 2. This was hallowed territory. Miami Northwestern receivers over the years have included Antonio Bryant, Brett Perriman and Tony Martin -- all of whom went on to produce 1,000-yard seasons in the NFL.

Bridgewater said that Cooper, well aware of the lineage, set his sights on the jersey early.

"He wound up wearing No. 2 for two years," the quarterback said. "He took pride in running the best routes. And he didn't want to just be the best on the team. He wanted to be the best in the state of Florida."

Cooper's seriousness about his craft can make for stilted conversation. At his first news conference with the Raiders, the 6-foot-1, 211-pounder looked as happy as the last guy in line at the DMV. He barely smiled for photos and answered questions in a quiet monotone.

Reporter: "The team hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver in 10 years. Do you think you can end the drought?"

Cooper: "Hopefully."

Reporter: "You mentioned running routes as a kid. Was the NFL the main dream you had growing up?"

Cooper: "Yes."

And so on.

It was a jarring introduction, but Bridgewater recognized the look. He said Cooper was intensely serious-minded even as a teenager. The two were so determined to follow in the footsteps of the college-bound players from their high school that they treated schoolwork and practice as a job.

The duo proved so influential on campus that they wound up changing the culture of the school. Principal Wallace Aristide credits Cooper and Bridgewater for setting a new academic tone at what had been a sports-focused campus.

Aristide said Miami Northwestern went from annually getting "F" and "D" grades in the state's annual evaluation to becoming the first inner-city school in Miami to receive a "B" grade in 2011.

"People like Amari and Teddy were instrumental in helping us really change the climate," Aristide said. "When you're on campus -- especially one like ours -- the people with the most influence are the football players. Everybody looks up to them."

"And when they carry themselves the right way, they help you sell the importance of academic success. And I think Amari helped us do that here. ... He carried himself around campus like he was all about business. He was a tremendous student when he was here at this institution."

IN NEED OF A BOOST

Now, the Raiders hope Cooper can transform another moribund institution. Oakland hasn't had a 1,000-yard receiver since Randy Moss in 2005 and is coming off a season in which it finished last in overall offense.

The Raiders had only 30 connections of 20 yards or more. The Indianapolis Colts, in contrast, had 78.

Cooper offers some big-play potential. Over three years with the Crimson Tide, he averaged 15.2 yards on his 228 receptions.

He also shown a knack for the end zone: His 31 career touchdowns catches are the most by an SEC player since 1956.

At the scouting combine -- where he ran a 4.42 in the 40-yard dash -- Cooper credited Alabama offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin for making the most of his talents. Cooper said the former Raiders head coach "moves me around a lot, so a team can't really prepare for me. He'll line me up at the H, Z to X, he'll even put me in the backfield to create some mismatches."

Wherever he was, Cooper caught passes -- and attention. As soon as the Raiders called his name, some key voices cheered the selection on Twitter.

Rich Gannon, the former Raiders quarterback and NFL MVP, posted: "(Derek) Carr and Cooper ... Match made in heaven for the Oakland Raiders!"

Another former Raider, Hall of Fame receiver Tim Brown, wrote: "Young brother! Welcome to the dark side! If you need me I'm here for you!"

Chad Johnson, the six-time All-Pro receiver wrote: "Who's the offensive coordinator in Oakland? It's a blessing to have a receiver you don't have to move around to get open."

Biletnikoff isn't of the social media generation, but he, too, was enthusiastic in his review. With Cooper and fellow Biletnikoff Award winner Michael Crabtree added to the mix, the former Raider expects Carr to enjoy a breakthrough season.

"Derek's confidence has to be going sky high," Biletnikoff said. "You know how pitchers can get by as long as guys are making plays behind them? It's the same way with quarterbacks.

"You catch the ball for him, he's going to win some games. And Amari can catch the football as well as anybody."

SANTA ROSA PRESS DEMOCRAT

Raiders expect an elite wide receiver with Amari Cooper draft pick

By Phil Barber

April 30, 2015

OAKLAND — Derek Carr made great strides during his rookie season, cementing his place as the Raiders' quarterback for years to come. Carr may have taken another leap Thursday, without even stepping on the field.

With their young passer in mind, the Raiders used the No. 4 overall selection in the NFL Draft to acquire something they haven't had since the days of Rich Gannon flinging the football to Jerry Rice and Tim Brown: an elite wide receiver.

In Alabama's Amari Cooper, the Raiders got a guy whose epic college production is matched only by his NFL-quality route-running and reading of coverages, according to the scouts.

"He can run a route," Oakland general manager Reggie McKenzie said after making the pick. "Seems like he can do that with his eyes closed. He's exceptionally quick, he's fast and he understands the game. You can tell the guy's been playing football and playing that position all his life."

A fact quickly confirmed by Cooper, who explained on a conference call that he started to take his routes and cuts seriously when he was 5 or 6 years old, even before he had played organized football; by the time he joined a youth team in Miami in third grade, he had only to learn the names of the routes.

That team happened to have a couple of good running backs, including the coach's son, so Cooper tried his hands at wide receiver. He's never wandered from the position. The Raiders, in essence, are getting an athlete whose entire life has prepared him to catch passes in the NFL.

"It's unusual when words like polished are thrown out," Oakland head coach Jack Del Rio said. "But that's what you see. He's been lined up all across the board: outside, both sides, inside in the slot, moved around, even lined up in the backfield some. He's been exposed to a lot and utilized a lot of different ways. He's run the entire route tree."

Cooper is fast (4.42 seconds in the 40-yard dash at the scouting combine), but there are other receivers in this draft who can outrace him. He has good size (6-foot-1, 211 pounds), but won't tower over most NFL cornerbacks.

What set Cooper apart were his technique, his "football IQ" (if you can pardon the cliché) and his college production, the latter being light years ahead of the Raiders' previous top-10 pick at wide receiver, Darrius Heyward-Bey in 2009.

Alabama has been known as a run-first team for ages, but head coach Nick Saban and offensive coordinator Lane Kiffin – remember him, Raiders fans? – changed the philosophy with Cooper in the arsenal. The Crimson Tide targeted the junior an astounding 178 times in 2014. Cooper caught 124 of those passes (best in the nation) for 1,727 yards (tops among draft-eligible players) and 16 touchdowns (ditto).

Sometimes the college receivers with the biggest numbers are products of their offenses. That doesn't seem to be the case with Cooper, who is beloved by most NFL analysts.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

College Football Focus, which breaks down film of every FBS game, had this to say about Cooper: “He can use his hands at the line to defeat the jam and contact from defensive backs like it’s already instinct. This is something most college receivers struggle with and it takes them a while to learn it in the NFL. Cooper is already a master.”

CFF added this appraisal of Cooper’s mental game: “He also shows a fantastic understanding of defenses and zone coverage, knowing exactly what he’s looking at and when to throttle down to sit in an open space.”

“I’m a wide receiver,” Cooper said. “There are only two ways you can get open at wide receiver, your releases and the top of your route. The whole route-running process is really important. I just focus on it and try to be the best that I can at it so I can create as much separation as I can for my quarterback.”

In other words, Cooper is NFL-ready, maybe the most NFL-ready player on the entire board.

That’s great news to new Raiders offensive coordinator Bill Musgrave, who is charged with adding some zip to an offense that ranked 26th in the NFL with 204.7 passing yards per game last season, 31st in scoring with 253 points and dead last with 30 completions of 20-plus yards.

Carr already had a stable of decent young receivers like Rod Streater, Andre Holmes, Brice Butler and tight end Mychal Rivera, and a proven newcomer in Michael Crabtree. But none of them is a clear No. 1 receiver. The Raiders hope they have found their top dog in Cooper.

The void he seeks to fill goes back for more than a decade. Oakland hasn’t had a 1,000-yard receiver since Rice totaled 1,211 in 2002. That also happens to be the last time the Raiders made the playoffs.

The first two picks of this draft offered no surprises, with a pair of quarterbacks, Florida State’s Jameis Winston and Oregon’s Marcus Mariota, going to Tampa Bay and Tennessee, respectively. When the Jaguars took outside linebacker Dante Fowler at No. 3, the Raiders had at least a couple of strong possibilities: Cooper and Leonard Williams, the USC defensive lineman that some touted as the top talent in the draft.

Surprisingly, trading down might not have been much of an option. McKenzie said he got plenty of calls leading up to the draft, but none when the Raiders were on the clock.

To hear the general manager tell it, Williams wasn’t strongly debated either. The Raiders had targeted Amari Cooper, just as his quarterbacks did 178 times last year.

DE MARIO EDWARDS JR.

CBS SPORTS

Mario Edwards, a likely first-rounder you're not seeing in many mock drafts

By Jason La Canfora

April 13, 2015

It is inevitable, come the start of the NFL Draft on April 30, there will be a player or two selected in the first round who virtually no one was chattering about leading up to the event. There will be first-round picks who showed up on nary a mock draft, generated precious little buzz, who teams were loathe to speak about lest they give away a secret or two, and who many in the media overlooked.

In 2015, one such player could be Florida State junior defensive lineman Mario Edwards Jr. You won't find him projected high and he might have mediocre grades from some draft sites, but plenty of evaluators I trust believe he's a legit first-round talent. In fact, I wouldn't be shocked if this kid ends up going somewhere in the teens, depending on the first 10 picks.

Execs I know who've studied Edwards are very impressed with his athleticism. They project a pass rush at the next level, making him potentially much more impactful as a pro than in college, where he was first-team All-ACC in 2014. And in 2012 he was the only true freshman to start on the Seminoles' vaunted defense.

"Why aren't any of you guys writing about Mario Edwards?" one evaluator asked. "I look around the Internet at these mock drafts and I don't think I've seen him in the first round in one of them. He's not showing up in any of them. I think you're missing on him. He's going to surprise some people. I think he goes in the first round. In this [not overly talented] draft, he's definitely a first-rounder for me."

For what it's worth, in my years of dealing with this particular scout, he has been overwhelmingly right. He's a big reason why I called for Deone Buchannon going in the first round before last year's draft. The hard-hitting safety largely was considered a mid-round guy who ended up going 27th overall. And this phenomenon occurs seemingly every year, be it Bruce Irvin or Tyson Alualu or Kyle Long. It's part of the process, and reactions I got from some evaluators regarding Edwards was pretty telling.

Some were loathe to talk about him because, well, they would prefer I not write this column. They would prefer no one shine a light on Edwards. When the same names of defensive linemen show up over and over in mock drafts, you get a lot of smiles in the scouting community. They're perfectly fine with it. They don't want a lot of hype about a kid who they think may be falling through the cracks.

"Everybody [doing a mock draft] pretty much ends up with the same names, but in a different order," said another evaluator who doesn't believe his team is a great fit for Edwards but expects he goes high. "That's usually how it works. So why should I give you a name [outside that group]? Why would a team want to let you in on that? But, since you're asking me, do I think Edwards could be that kind of guy? You could be on to something there."

Edwards is raw, and had he stayed in school we might have heard a lot about him before the 2016 draft. But there is no denying the talent, some still untapped (that is the very nature of the draft -- projecting, projecting, projecting). His father was a star at FSU and played corner in the NFL. Edwards was considered perhaps the nation's best defender coming out of high school. He is strong and powerful at 6-feet-3, 279 pounds, and can play with burst and explosiveness. He could be a fit in a 3-4 or a 4-3 scheme, though the scouts I talked to saw him more projected as a 4-3 tackle and believe he will be more of a pass-rushing factor as he develops.

One evaluator who did extensive work on him thought Edwards should be one of the first three defensive linemen off the board, and attributed some overall dropoff in FSU's defense in 2014 to the loss of defensive coordinator Jeremy Pruitt (who left after their national title in 2013 to go to Georgia).

"There was a dropoff across the board from that defense, and a lot of it I think was from losing their coordinator," he said. "He was the man. But if you look at some of those kids over the last two or three years, man, there are a lot of players there. I think Edwards and [Seminoles defensive tackle Eddie] Goldman are first-rounders."

Within the Florida State program, Edwards was viewed as a difference maker still coming into his own. He picked up valuable scheme diversity having to work with three coordinators in three years -- all three coordinators speak very highly of Edwards, I'm told -- and someone who performed often selfless tasks in that defense at a very high level.

"There were some very high expectations on him coming as the No. 1 recruit in the nation, so I guess maybe to some on the outside it might seem like his numbers aren't huge or something like that," said someone who worked closely with him while at Florida State. "But if you evaluate his entire Florida State career, he played a very major role on a team that went 39-3 with him here, and that was just 9-4 the season before he and Jameis [Winston] got here.

"He has great leadership qualities. He was one of the most coachable kids you could work with. You could always count on him on the field and off the field. He did everything that was asked of him and expected of him. He was incredibly well-liked within the program. He's very comfortable with the professional game because of his legacy with his father playing in the NFL. He's built for the league and he will keep getting better."

Certain teams definitely seem to like Edwards more than others, including the Vikings, who pick No. 11 overall. That might be high for Edwards -- plenty of mocks have nose tackle Danny Shelton going there -- though I wouldn't rule it out. And if perhaps you see the Vikings trade down out of that spot, definitely keep an eye on Edwards as a target. It wouldn't shock me at all if the Bengals, 49ers, Cowboys, Lions, Seahawks or Browns invested a top pick in him.

He would fill a need with plenty of 3-4 teams as well, though some have said they aren't sure he would fit at defensive end and doubt he could move to outside linebacker. Others believe he could play inside in a 3-4 in certain packages. Regardless, he has people talking, or perhaps whispering. His 4.74 time in the 40 and video of him doing a standing backflip -- at 300 pounds! -- and his athletic prowess are very difficult to ignore.

Personally, I won't consider it a surprise if he ends up going somewhere between 11th and 19th. After reading this, I suppose neither should you. I assure you in some draft meetings and war rooms, it won't be looked at as a stunner, either, if things play out that way.

Can slimmer, motivated Mario Edwards Jr. convince NFL he's first-round material?

By Jared Shanker

April 27, 2015

The morning of the NFL draft, Mario Edwards Jr. will look at himself in the mirror, just as he's done every morning since declaring for the draft. He'll pose a question to his reflection, knowing he doesn't have a satisfying answer.

"Why did I take so long?"

The former Florida State defensive lineman, who entered the draft after his junior season, is 6-foot-3 and weighs 279 pounds and is in such good shape he spent pro day wearing the football equivalent of spandex. It's a stark contrast to where he was less than a year ago.

The last draft-eligible No. 1 high school prospect was Jadeveon Clowney, who was drafted first overall in 2014. Edwards, who succeeded Clowney as ESPN RecruitingNation's No. 1 recruit, isn't following the same trajectory. Instead, Edwards' name draws varying opinions. There's talk of him sneaking into the second half of the first round or falling all the way to the end of the second day.

NFL front offices have to ask why it took so long for Edwards, who ballooned to 310 pounds at FSU, to turn himself into the player people expected -- and whether the change is permanent.

"In order for me to be great, I've got to take care of my body," Edwards said. "The 310, it's a closed chapter."

Edwards' reputation preceded him when he arrived at Florida State in 2012. He was described as a pass-rusher with first-step quickness who also possessed the power to play defensive tackle. The Seminoles had aspirations of competing for a national championship, and the decorated recruit was expected to contribute. Unprepared and overweight, though, he would have redshirted if not for an injury to a starter.

Part of the problem was he always ate until he felt full. It might take a bucket of hot wings or a burrito bowl with quadruple meat and three tacos to do that. That would be lunch, and he'd reorder it in the evening for dinner.

Teammates cracked fat jokes, but it didn't faze Edwards. Even at 300 pounds, he could still do standing back flips. The problem, he said, was he couldn't sustain his performance all four quarters. His weight caused him to wilt.

"I couldn't blame anybody but myself," he said.

The other problem was the hype and publicity, said Edwards' father, Mario Sr., who has coached his son the last six years -- the last three as Florida State's director of development.

"I think he had the big head, because all his life he's been more talented than most guys he faced. Like a lot of kids, he felt like he already arrived," Mario Sr. said. "Being humbled and not realizing I'm not the big dog on the block anymore, it was the wake-up call he needed."

"The seed needed to be watered and nourished, and it blossomed into something beautiful."

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

As a sophomore, Edwards showed flashes of brilliance and dominated in the 2013 national championship. This past season, Edwards was voted a team captain. His numbers aren't staggering when compared to those of other linemen, but his role as a 3-4 defensive end differed play to play, a team-oriented role he learned to relish.

"I was an all-about-me player and not about the team," Edwards said, "and I had to learn it wasn't about me and support my teammates. I'm the guy that does my job that you don't have to worry about."

Still, NFL teams will worry. In pre-draft workouts, Edwards outperformed most other linemen and was one of the biggest risers to come from the combine. But central to the pre-draft process is convincing teams the weight will stay off. Edwards weighed 276 pounds at the Rose Bowl and 272 at pro day. He's at 279 now. That question is put to bed, he said.

Training with EXOS, a health and performance consulting company, Edwards worked with dietician and performance nutritionist Bob Calvin. Calvin said Edwards was motivated to change his eating habits, which consisted of about 80 percent of his calories coming from poor food choices.

Calvin heard all the right things from Edwards, but he still had to see whether Edwards was applying it. One of the ways Calvin gauges a player's level of sincerity is if they're eating vegetables at breakfast and eschewing sugary drinks for water. That's exactly what Edwards was doing on a daily basis, and he was ending nights with Caesar salads and sweet potatoes.

"He made upgrades in his habits and saw the rewards and benefits," Calvin said.

Weekdays at EXOS before the draft have also consisted of four workouts. Edwards was in the top linemen group, joined by potential first-round picks Dante Fowler Jr., Cam Erving and D.J. Humphries. Edwards said he wasn't the quintessential teammate early in his Florida State career, but EXOS performance specialist Stefan Underwood said he has been a valuable asset in group settings during training.

"He elevated the people around him," Underwood said. "He was there to work and brought a business mentality."

Because of his size, Edwards is being looked at as a 4-3 defensive end -- he said he'll play end in either scheme or even stand up as a linebacker -- which means he'll have to improve his pass rush. For the past month, Edwards has worked with three-time Pro Bowl left tackle Tra Thomas.

Edwards and Thomas worked on the rookie's stance and spin moves. The two watched film and Thomas offered insight into the tricks that annoy offenses most. There was no lack of motivation, Thomas said.

"He'll give a lot of O-linemen fits," Thomas said. "He's going to be a huge success."

On draft morning, Edwards might not have an answer for himself when he looks in the mirror, but he knows the person staring back is here to stay.

How does he know?

"I love what I see in the morning now."

Miami OL Feliciano has found his way home

By Andrea Adelson

October 13, 2014

He had no home. Scratch that. Technically, he had a home, but it was condemned. So he bounced around here and there, staying with his best friend or his girlfriend. On days he felt too proud to ask for another favor, he went back to the condemned house, with no water or power. He just needed a place to fall asleep.

All those nights he had nothing, Jon Feliciano thought about football. He thought about the University of Miami, the only place he ever wanted to go to college. Somehow, he thought, I have to get there. Football will get me there.

Never mind that Miami had never shown any interest in him, even though he went to high school in Davie, Florida, 40 minutes north of the campus. If Feliciano wanted to change his fate, he would have to do it himself.

So he and his high school football coach, Rashad West, arrived at Lockhart Stadium in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, for the 2008 Miami spring game with a plan.

A junior offensive lineman at the time, the 6-foot-4, 280-pound Feliciano put together a highlight tape to hand-deliver to the coach recruiting his area, Tommie Robinson. Feliciano and West initially wanted to sneak down to the field when the game ended, but there were too many people to make it far. Feliciano was crushed.

West, familiar with the stadium layout, knew where the Miami buses would be parked. He drove Feliciano to the back of the stadium, where they waited for the team to emerge. When Robinson came out, Feliciano gave him the tape.

"You pass the eyeball test," Robinson told him. "I'll watch your highlight tape, and we'll see how it goes."

The fact that Feliciano could run, let alone play football, should be regarded as a minor miracle. He was born breech and with a foot deformity that required braces, or "magic shoes," as his mother called them. For two years, he wore the braces. Doctors told Alicia Feliciano that her son would never play sports. She told the doctors they would be wrong. She spent hours pulling on his legs, willing them to work, massaging his feet until her hands hurt.

Her youngest son, Christopher, had even more health problems. He was born deaf and requiring a feeding tube and heart monitors. Her marriage deteriorated, and she got divorced when her three sons were still young. She wanted to move far away, so she left her family and home in New York with $300 in her pocket and a car worth $200 and headed to Florida.

She never had a steady job but made ends meet, always making sure her children were clean and fed. When she worked nights, Jon would take care of his little brother, cooking him dinner or helping with homework. His older brother was not always around, so it was up to Jon to be the man of the house.

When Jon was in eighth grade, Alicia developed breast cancer. She kept her diagnosis a secret because she did not want her sons to worry. She went to treatments alone and would come home with a smile, tuck her kids into bed and then scream in pain through the night. When Jon asked what was wrong, she claimed she was watching a scary movie.

When she lost her hair, Jon asked why she wore a wig. She told him her hairdresser was at fault. But after a few months, Alicia finally broke down.

"She told me, 'I've had breast cancer the last few months, but I'm OK,'" Jon said. "I was like, 'Thanks, Mom. I would have liked to know that a few months ago. I could have helped you.' She just didn't want me to worry about her."

Jon wanted to quit school to take care of her. His mother was outraged.

"Never say that again," she told him.

Jon always loved football, but he could not afford to play in the local Optimist league. Even if he had the money, he had no way to get there. Instead, he grew up idolizing Ray Lewis and Sean Taylor and dreamed about playing tight end for the Canes.

The summer before his freshman year of high school, a friend asked him to go check out football practice. They rode their bikes over to the field. The coaches took one look at Jon and told him, "You're going to play football."

He began to excel on the field and on the basketball court -- his first love -- but at home his mother was struggling to pay the bills. Sometimes the water and electricity would be turned off. She had a generator for food and one light. They would sometimes sleep at a cousin's house or in their car.

Jon was too proud to tell his coaches what was happening at home; his mother was too proud to ask anybody for help. She wanted to provide for her children, but she no longer could when Jon was a junior and their house was condemned.

She took Jon to lunch and delivered the news.

"I was really upset about it, but I didn't want to let my mother or younger brother know how much it was bothering me," Jon said. "My mom was very upset, crying. She would always say, 'I don't want to be a bad mother,' and I'd tell her, 'Mom, you're not a bad mother. It's not your fault.' I didn't want to put more pressure on my mother with me being upset or letting her know I was upset. I tried to stay strong for my family."

She wanted him to move back to New York with her and Christopher. Jon thought it would be best if he stayed in Florida and kept playing football, hoping to get a scholarship. Alicia reluctantly agreed.

"Promise me you'll go to school and become somebody," she told him.

He promised.

When she left, Jon spent as much time at school as possible, arriving first thing in the morning and staying until the last person left.

"I would just focus on school and playing football and playing basketball. Those things kept me away from everything. But there were times I didn't know what house I'd be able to stay at," he said. "It was challenging looking back at it, but I really just try to think about the positives. If I can get through this, I don't think there will be anything in my life harder to get through."

Jon freely admits he gets his pride from his mother. Pride kept him from giving West or his basketball coach, Steve Todd, any indication that something was wrong at home. He wanted to try to manage on his own.

"He never let on how bad it may have been," West said. "There are some things I'm finding out now that you had a clue about but you didn't know to what extreme."

Shortly after Feliciano delivered his highlight tape to Robinson, Miami called and invited him on an unofficial visit.

Feliciano and his mother, in town from New York at the time, went down to Coral Gables. Everything was how he envisioned, from the coaching staff to the facilities to the campus and community. They left, not knowing what to expect as they drove to a friend's house.

Then the phone rang. It was Miami offensive line coach Jeff Stoutland.

"Jon, we want to offer you a scholarship to the University of Miami," he said.

"OK," Feliciano said. "I'm going to commit right now."

"Are you sure?" Stoutland asked. "Do you want to talk to your mom about it?"

Feliciano turned to his mother.

"Mom," he said. "I'm committing to Miami."

She cried.

"Since he was 6 years old, all he ever said was, 'I want to go to that team, Mom!'" she recalled. "He doesn't even remember being in braces, but I always said to him, 'You're going to do it, Jon!' And he did it."

Shortly after, Alicia moved back to Florida with her parents, who bought a house for them to live in. A year later, Jon arrived at Miami, but he started doubting whether he belonged. The plan was to redshirt, so he played on the scout team every day, facing stronger guys like Sean Spence, Colin McCarthy and Marcus Forston -- all in the NFL now.

Then Randy Shannon and his staff were fired. Al Golden came in with a new offensive line coach. Feliciano had no idea what to expect. After the first spring, he went in for his exit interview with Golden.

"Jon, you have four more years. Do you know how good a player you're going to be?" Golden said.

Feliciano looked at him and thought, "Do you see what I see?"

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Golden saw much more. "He's tough, he's durable, and he's versatile, and that's a great combination to have," Golden said. "You could see early on that he was a very humble kid from a humble background, lunch-pail ethic, and [he was] grateful for the opportunity to be here."

Feliciano worked harder than he ever had that summer and used Christopher as inspiration. He had no reason to be down, not when he was playing the game his brother never could.

When fall camp opened, Feliciano competed for a starting job. He made his first career start at left guard, as a redshirt freshman, against Ohio State in 2011.

Feliciano has started 38 games since then while facing even more difficulty at home. Alicia was diagnosed with cancer again several years ago and had her uterus removed. She asked the coaches not to tell Jon, but they thought he already knew.

Jon wanted to go back home to help her, but Alicia refused, adamant that he finish college.

"I've been through a lot," she told him. "What I deserve is for you to stay in school."

In May, Feliciano became the first person in his family to graduate from college. His father, who has maintained a presence in Jon's life, flew down from New York for the ceremony, attending with his brothers, grandparents and, of course, Alicia, grateful to be alive to see Jon walk across the stage.

"Of all the kids who had a reason to go the other way, he is one of them," said West, his high school football coach. "But he didn't. We always say it's a great story. It could be made into a movie."

Jon and Alicia struggle to reveal all the details of their past, but it has shaped them both.

"It just taught me to be strong," Jon says. "No matter what you're going through, you'll get through it if you keep a positive attitude and work hard. Everything will be all right."

Turns out everything is more than all right. Feliciano has a football career, a college degree and a future. He has his family.

He has a home.

DE KHALIL MACK

Khalil Mack is busy paving a path to stardom

By Jeffri Chadiha

June 5, 2015

Khalil Mack's eyes narrowed as he crouched into a two-point stance in early September. Standing across from the Oakland Raiders outside linebacker was Houston Texans Pro Bowl left tackle Duane Brown, a 6-foot-4, 320-pound mammoth of a blocker eager to test a first-year player in a game that was quickly turning into a Houston blowout. But as soon as Brown fired across the line of scrimmage after the snap, the 6-3, 252-pound Mack deftly slid away from the oncoming lineman, then easily tackled Texans running back Alfred Blue for no gain.

A few plays later, Mack was even more determined, as he noticed Texans backup tight end Ryan Griffin lining up across from him. I played against this guy in college, Mack thought to himself. If he's out here, I know I can play this game at a high level. Mack easily tossed Griffin aside on a couple more runs to remind the former UConn star that little had changed now that they were competing on football's biggest stage.

In fact, the longer Mack played in that 30-14 Week 2 loss, the more he felt as though he was making a statement with every play. The Raiders may not have been winning, but the rookie was telling the world something about a player who had been selected fifth overall in the 2014 draft. "I learned early on that it's hard to win games in this league," Mack said. "You have to pay attention to detail. You have to always have the right technique. And you really do have to play every down like it's your last."

The lessons Mack learned during his rookie season undoubtedly will come in handy this fall. There are still many questions surrounding a Raiders team that hasn't enjoyed a winning campaign since 2002 -- including the mysterious hand injury that has hampered second-year quarterback Derek Carr throughout organized team activities -- but one spot the franchise shouldn't worry about is strongside outside linebacker. At 24 years old, Mack already has flashed so much potential that Raiders safety Charles Woodson told the San Jose Mercury News last season the "dude is going to be special."

In his first season, Mack finished with 75 tackles, four sacks and a forced fumble, numbers that helped him finish third in voting for the league's defensive rookie of the year award (behind St. Louis' Aaron Donald and Baltimore's C.J. Mosley). This year the Raiders have much bigger expectations for Mack, especially with new head coach Jack Del Rio starting his first season and defensive coordinator Ken Norton installing new schemes. Del Rio wouldn't give many specifics on how Mack's role would change but he did make it apparent that Mack won't spend nearly as much time in pass coverage as he did in 2014. This time around, Mack will be chasing quarterbacks as much as possible, which is something he did quite well when given the chance, even if the sack totals don't look significant. Mack had 40 QB hurries last season to go with his exceptional run defending.

Since Del Rio coached Pro Bowl outside linebacker Von Miller as the Denver Broncos defensive coordinator from 2012-14, he'd like to see Mack have a similar impact on opposing passing attacks. "I think Khalil is way more physical than Von," Del Rio said. "Von got up to somewhere around 250 pounds when I had him but he's naturally closer to 240. Khalil can be up around 260 or 265 and they both play that strongside linebacker position and sub-pass-rusher role. Since most teams use their sub packages for two-thirds of the game, there will be some opportunities there. They're different but they're both special."

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

"I definitely want to get after the quarterback more this year," Mack said. "I got some hits [in 2014], but people didn't really see what I can do. Those sack numbers I had really weren't me. At the end of the day, you want people to see you at your best."

That explains why Mack didn't spend his offseason in trendy hot spots such as South Florida or Scottsdale, Arizona, the typical areas where many young NFL players prefer to train. Despite being a Florida native -- Mack grew up in Fort Pierce -- he returned to the University of Buffalo to work out with trainer John Opfer. When Mack wasn't running steep hills or lifting weights with his former college teammates, he was focusing on areas that could fine-tune his physique for a strong second year. Some of the most vital elements of Mack's conditioning program involved strengthening his hands (so he can shed blockers far more easily) and building his core muscles (to increase his overall explosiveness).

Why train in upstate New York? "It's very easy to focus in Buffalo," Mack said. The decision speaks volumes about his approach to his career in general. Mack's road to the NFL was filled with several setbacks and plenty of people who questioned if he'd ever be a difference-maker in college. The last thing he wants to do now is forget the same ideals that brought him this far in the first place.

As Mack recently leaned against a wall outside the team's training facility following an organized training activity session, it wasn't hard to see the appreciation he has for his current standing. He laughed when thinking about this time of year last season, when he walked into the locker room for his first minicamp and bumped into defensive end Justin Tuck, a veteran of 11 NFL seasons. Tuck told Mack that he was impressed with his game, then offered a bit of invaluable advice. "Whatever you do this year, just shut up and listen," Tuck said. "You're a great player but you don't have any idea of what you're doing yet."

That suggestion helped Mack understand that his road to success in pro football would come down to how well he did the little things -- such as studying film and refining his techniques -- instead of overwhelming opponents with jaw-dropping athleticism. It was a lesson quite similar to the one he learned while growing up in a deeply religious, two-parent household, with a father who worked as both a program specialist and a deacon. Sandy Mack Sr. had long ago counseled his son to spend more time listening to his elders than speaking his mind. In his father's eyes, that was the best approach for young Khalil to find his way through the hurdles that eventually would challenge him.

That combination of humility and faith helped Mack when a torn patella tendon ended his hopes of earning a basketball scholarship when he was only a sophomore at Fort Pierce Westwood high. It also meant plenty when he was a lightly regarded football recruit who wound up at Buffalo only because the coach who was previously recruiting him to Liberty University decided to take a job at that program. Of course, there's also the story of why Mack wore number 46 in college. He donned it because the video game "EA Sports College Football 10" had given him a rating of 46 (an extremely low mark) before he started his redshirt freshman season in 2010.

Mack ultimately became an All-American by his senior year and left Buffalo as the NCAA's career leader in forced fumbles and tied for career tackles for loss. "I don't know if Khalil really understood all his talents when he was in high school," said Opfer, who also has become a mentor to Mack. "He didn't go to the big [exposure] camps in the summer and he didn't play competitively until his junior and senior years. So to have that little experience and end up blowing up college football says a lot. When he started to believe he could be great, that's when he took off."

Still, all that success in college had some repercussions once Mack arrived in Oakland. When his first NFL season began, he found himself pressing to make the same splash plays that had defined him in college. "I knew the only way to make a strong impression was to make the big plays," Mack said. "But I wasn't making the same plays I was making in college when I first got here. Eventually I had to understand that this is a group effort. We all have to be involved in order to make the plays we need to make."

Just as difficult for Mack was grinding through a season during which the Raiders won only three games. He leaned on the wisdom of veterans like Tuck and Woodson but Opfer also saw a player who learned how to play the longer the season went on. "Khalil is a smart guy but he got away with being a read-and-react player in college," Opfer said. "He had so much God-given ability that he could miss a read and still react fast enough to make a play. But as last season went on, you saw his football IQ grow. He became a lot more proficient at putting himself in the best possible positions to make plays."

Mack drew plenty of praise in the process. Seattle Seahawks coach Pete Carroll told reporters last season that Mack "jumped off the film" when his staff studied the Raiders. Former Cleveland Browns quarterback Brian Hoyer, now with Houston, said Mack was one of the best players that team faced in 2014 and added that "he gained the respect of everybody on our team." Del Rio said the Broncos had similar impressions. "Our offensive guys always wanted to know where he was," Del Rio. "That tells you a lot about what he can do."

Now the Raiders need to see even more growth as Mack heads into this coming season. The popular belief in the NFL is that players show the greatest improvement between their first and second years in the league, which means Mack should be poised for a huge leap in productivity. That goal weighed heavily on his mind whenever he strapped on a weighted vest in Buffalo this offseason and trudged toward a steep hill near the facility where he trained. Joined there by former Buffalo players such as San Diego Chargers running back Branden Oliver, Mack charged up that incline at least three times a week, all with the hopes of chiseling his thick legs and testing his willpower.

Mack had followed a similar routine in college, when he helped the Bulls grow from a program that won two games during his freshman season to one that finished second in the MAC during his senior year. A similar challenge now awaits him in Oakland. The Raiders know they still have plenty of changes to make in order to become a playoff contender. But if Mack can become the foundation of a young defense, that task will prove to be much easier.

"I can definitely say we will be relentless on defense this year," Mack said. "We're going to be dominant and physical and we're going to fly to the football. That's what this game comes down -- playing with that kind of effort. And we want to be the kind of defense that takes the ball away and gives it back to our offense as much as we possibly can."

Raiders LB Mack looks to build on big rookie season

By Josh Dubow

August 5, 2015

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Despite being a top five draft pick, a heralded rookie and a selection on the NFL's top 100 players list, Oakland Raiders linebacker Khalil Mack is far from satisfied heading into his second pro season.

That attitude is fueled by the rejection he faced coming out of high school when he got only one scholarship offer to Buffalo rather than the opportunity to play at a higher-profile school.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

It helped Mack pass all those five-star recruits to become the second defensive player drafted in 2014 and become one of the top outside linebackers — not just rookies — in the league last season.

"I had a lot of space between Buffalo and those elite conferences, so I had to do a lot of work in order to get to that level, in my mind," he said. "I'm still the same way. I feel like it's a lot of people on this level that are still great, but there's still a gap, so I'm trying to close it every day."

That work ethic has been evident all offseason as Mack has impressed a new coaching staff that had seen him from the other side of the field and on film but not up close.

So far, only one thing has been missing for Mack, and the Raiders believe that will change this season. Mack had just four sacks as he was unable to turn all that pressure into big plays.

"Everybody is saying how good he is and he got four sacks," new defensive coordinator Ken Norton Jr. said. "I thought to myself, 'How many great players have four sacks?' You have to get in double digits. So he has a lot of growth to make. If they're thinking he's this good and he's done so little, imagine when he actually does what he's supposed to do."

In order to get to the quarterback more often, Mack added some extra pounds of muscle to allow him to use power as well as speed to beat NFL tackles.

Mack also could get more time as a defensive end this season under the new coaching staff after having a close to even split last season as a stand-up linebacker and a rush end with his hand on the ground.

"He's pretty doggone good getting after the quarterback," general manager Reggie McKenzie said. "He's just really good going forward and it's an opportunity really to do a lot of things with him. They're going to use Khalil all kinds of ways and that's the way it should be. He's a dominant defensive player, so let him do what he does best and move him around."

Mack hopes the added strength will help him deal with the longer NFL season and deliver the sacks that he was close to getting a year ago.

"It was a little frustrating," he said. "Even then, I had talks with Justin Tuck. He let me know everybody gets lucky. It's not all just because of technique and being fundamentally sound. Everybody gets lucky and you have to know how teams are scheming against you."

While many outside linebackers make their names by sacking the quarterback, Mack has been at his best against the run where he fights off blocks to make plays in the backfield every week. Mack was second in the NFL to Houston's J.J. Watt with 11 1/2 tackles at or behind the line against the run, according to STATS.

Mack is no slouch rushing the passer despite seeing more than his share of double-teams. In addition to his four sacks, he was tied for sixth among all linebackers with 51 quarterback pressures. Mack ranked third in quarterback pressures among linebackers over the last 11 weeks.

"Khalil is special," Norton said. "There are a lot of players that might be similar. But he's in a class of his own. Bruce Irvin in Seattle was similar. But, at the same time, Khalil is built. He's athletic. He's smart. And he's relentless. ... He's amazing."

Mack has earned comparisons with many of the top pass rushers in the league with former coach Dennis Allen likening him to Von Miller as soon as he was drafted.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Quarterback Derek Carr said Mack was similar to Kansas City's Justin Houston and Tamba Hali and Denver's DeMarcus Ware as well.

"I'm trying to go out there and be the best player I can be," Mack said. "My name is Khalil. I want to be the best Khalil. Whatever he says about me, I appreciate it but I still have a long way to go."

RB LATAVIUS MURRAY

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Latavius Murray looks ready to become Raiders' top back

By Vic Tafur

August 5, 2015

One look at Raiders running back Latavius Murray, and it's hard not to think of Adrian Peterson and DeMarco Murray. Yes, those are two of the best running backs in the NFL, and Latavius Murray has only 82 career carries.

But just look at him. How many running backs are 6-foot-3, with a chiseled 230 pounds and speed to burn?

"Size and speed," said Murray, who was asked to switch to linebacker by his coaches at Central Florida. "Not many guys with that combination. I do watch those two guys, but I know I have to stick to my game."

And — not putting the cart before the bell cow — he has to win a starting job.

Murray, who missed his rookie season in 2013 with a foot injury, had some highlight-reel runs last season and started the last three games. But new head coach Jack Del Rio still brought in Trent Richardson to compete with Murray for the starting job.

Well, Richardson has missed the first week of training camp with an injury, and Murray isn't looking back. He is getting all of the first-team reps and has looked powerful, especially in a scrimmage late in Wednesday afternoon's practice in Napa.

"My mentality is to stay where I am at and be that guy," Murray said. "It's big being able to get a series of carries together and getting comfortable back there. Get used to the scheme and the guys I am in there with."

Murray wasn't able to prove that he was a starter to the head coaches last year, Dennis Allen and interim man Tony Sparano. It took 10 losses of Darren McFadden and Maurice Jones-Drew running into tacklers before Sparano finally threw his hands up and gave Murray a shot.

General manager Reggie McKenzie was asked what took so long, what was holding back Murray.

"I think he's holding himself back," McKenzie said. "Being able to practice all the time, not having nitpicking injuries. Last season, leading up to it, he was nicked up. So, if he could stay healthy, nothing is holding him back."

This year the 2013 sixth-round pick is coming off the first offseason in which he was 100 percent healthy, and he was even a little faster, he says, coming into camp.

Is Murray ready to be a 1,000-yard, No. 1 running back in the NFL?

"No question," McKenzie said. "He can do it all."

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Murray had the foot injury his rookie year and an ankle injury and concussion last year. He still finished with 75 carries for 413 yards (5.5 average) and two touchdowns, one a 90-yarder against Kansas City, in the final seven games.

"I had a great offseason, and I want that to carry over," he said.

It started with renting a house in Newport Beach (Orange County) and working out with former Central Florida teammate and current Jacksonville quarterback Blake Bortles. From there, he went back home to New York and did whatever friend and trainer Vinny Scollo told him. Murray hit the weights, ran hills with a flak jacket and played dodge ball — with large, four-square balls being flung at him.

"The biggest improvement has been in his explosiveness and his conditioning," Scollo told Syracuse.com. "Last year, we really had to taper the workouts and work around his injury. This year, his conditioning, his wind, is 100 percent there."

Raiders offensive line coach Mike Tice had heard Murray was a hard worker. Tice, back in the day, played for longtime coach George O'Leary, who coached Murray at Central Florida.

"We talk about it a lot, like 'That's something O'Leary would do or say,'" Murray said. "It's pretty cool. The O'Leary mentality is tough, physical. We still talk, and he knows I am in good hands with Coach Tice, and I know that as well."

O'Leary said Murray had to learn to run between the tackles in college instead of trying to bounce everything outside. Instead of reading the defensive linemen, Murray learned to read the linebackers.

"George (said) he is a hard worker and a tough kid," Tice said. "So I know Latavius was raised the right way, and I know he got yelled at a lot."

Tice likes Murray's jump-cut move and how he can change direction. But the main thing, again, is the combination of speed and power.

"For a big guy, Latavius has extremely good quickness," Tice said. "And when he gets behind his pads, he is hard to tackle. Smaller linebackers might be in serious trouble."

T DONALD PENN

DAILY BREEZE

St. Bernard High product Donald Penn of Raiders is sort of a big deal

By Dave Thorpe

August 10, 2015

On the small campus of St. Bernard High, the hulking Donald Penn, who transferred from Manual Arts, was easy to spot.

St. Bernard football coach Greg Dixon saw him coming a mile away.

"He was one of the bigger guys on campus, if not the biggest," Dixon said. "I had to try."

Penn was a basketball player, not a football player, so Dixon had work to do.

"He was a basketball guy, and he was good," Dixon said. "I had to convince him to come out to football."

The 6-foot-4, 340-pound Penn, who is embarking upon his ninth year in the National Football League and second with the Oakland Raiders, didn't start playing football at St. Bernard until his junior year.

"I grew up playing basketball, but everybody kept telling me I'm a big guy, I should play football," Penn said. "Coach Greg Dixon asked me to tryout, and things picked up fast."

Basketball was Penn's first love, but it soon became clear football was his future.

"I had basketball dreams, but letters were coming in from colleges for football, not basketball," Penn said.

Penn was a junior on St. Bernard's 1999-2000 basketball team that reached the CIF Southern Section Division 4-AA final and the CIF Division 4 State championship game.

Serra High boys assistant basketball coach Bernard McCrumby was a senior on that team with Penn.

"It's one of my fondest memories, just playing with him," McCrumby said. "He was a light-hearted dude who kept everyone laughing."

Everyone except opposing post players.

"He was the big clog in the middle, he took up a lot of space inside," McCrumby said. "He had soft hands. Even though he was a big boy, he had the most nimble feet of anyone his size I ever played with, just excellent footwork."

Penn's nimble feet helped him adjust to being a lineman.

"For a big guy he is so athletic, great footwork, strong and big," Dixon said.

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

“Donald was a team leader, one of the more popular guys on campus, all the kids loved him,” Dixon said.

Penn was only lightly recruited out of high school.

“Being at a small school like St. Bernard, he flew under the radar,” McCrumby said. “In this day in age of social media, he would have been a big-time lineman getting tons of offers.”

There were a few Pac-10 schools interested in Penn, but nothing worked out.

“The Oregon schools were interested, but they were hesitant, I’m not quite sure why,” Dixon said. “It was unfortunate, we felt he could play at that level by his senior year.”

Penn actually committed to Arizona at one point, but at the end of the college season, Arizona coach Dick Tomey was replaced by John Mackovic, and the offer went to someone else.

Penn said Oregon presented a gray-shirt situation, but that his family could not get a loan to pay for the first semester.

“I still had a couple of offers hanging around,” Penn said.

Penn ended up signing with Utah State, where he redshirted his first year before becoming a four-year standout starter. Despite his success at Utah State, he went undrafted in 2006 before signing with the Minnesota Vikings as a free agent. The Vikings released Penn, then he signed with Tampa Bay. Penn started the last 12 games of the season for the Buccaneers in 2007, and hasn’t missed a start since. He’s started 124 consecutive NFL games, showing amazing durability.

Penn credits Hall of Fame linebacker Derrick Brooks with helping him gain traction in the NFL.

“He really took me under his wing, he saw a lot of potential in me that I didn’t really even see in myself,” Penn said. “I started shutting guys down and stirring things up.”

After eight years with Tampa Bay, including one Pro Bowl year, Penn was released and the Raiders picked him up before last season.

“It hurt when Tampa Bay released me, but I look at it like everything happens for a reason,” Penn said.

It helped that Penn grew up rooting for the Raiders.

“It brought me closer to home, and I’m ecstatic to play for the team I grew up cheering for,” Penn said.

“Playing for the Raiders is like a dream come true, and hopefully I can help turn things around here, the goal is to win a Super Bowl and retire a Raider.”

And what if the Raiders end up coming to Los Angeles after this season with Penn as the starting left tackle?

“Deep down in my heart, how would I not want to play at home?” Penn said. “Of course it would be amazing. But we have some of the best fans in the country, Raider Nation is everywhere, I love playing here in Oakland, but I’m happy wherever we play.”

Oakland Raiders Feature Clips

Penn immediately helped shore up Oakland's offensive line, locking down the left tackle position and allowing rookie quarterback Derek Carr to blossom.

Now he's a veteran leader on the left side of Oakland's offensive line, mentoring younger players like Gabe Jackson and Matt McCants.

"It's crazy, when I was younger I'd joke around about how old the other guys were, it seems like just yesterday I was that young," Penn said. "It's kind of funny, but I embrace it, I make sure I do everything right, take notes heavily, come early, stay late, work hard, the younger guys see that and follow your lead."

The likability factor with Penn makes him easy to follow; it's on display every June at St. Bernard High when Penn and his foundation, which is designed to help low-income youth, host a free football camp.

"I hung out with him a couple of years ago, he's down to earth, very humble, approachable, qualities a lot of guys don't have that have his stature," McCrumby said.

TE CLIVE WALFORD

MIAMI HERALD

For UM tight end Clive Walford, football is now a family matter

By Susan Miller Degnan

September 18, 2013

Clive Walford has a sleek new haircut, precious new son and proud new attitude.

Now all the Miami tight end needs is some old-school Hurricanes production.

"My overall favorite tight end is Kellen Winslow," Walford said of the former Cane, recalling Winslow's famous "It's about this U!" rant after Miami's 2003 loss to Tennessee. "I always looked up to him when I was younger."

Walford, UM's third-leading receiver as a sophomore last season with 451 yards and four touchdowns on 25 catches, said baby Clive III — born Aug. 2 — has afforded him a fresh perspective and burning desire to do right by his namesake.

His closely cropped haircut, which he gave himself after 6 1/2 years of growing dreadlocks, has added to Walford's new, more serious image. He said he and his late cousin grew dreads together. The two made a pact that when the cousin's hair "caught up" to Walford's length, Walford would get shorn.

Tragically, his cousin died in a car accident Walford's freshman year.

"I felt like this was probably the time he would have caught me," noted Walford, 21, who said he decided on the haircut in August but needed more time to muster the courage.

"It took almost an hour to cut my first dread — my fiancée cut that one. Then it took not even six minutes to cut the rest. Once I snipped my first one, I was snipping away."

He pulled out a purple brush and began to repeatedly run it over his hair.

"With dreads it was kind of tough, having to tie them up all the time and at night sleeping. Now I feel free. I feel the breeze. My scalp can actually feel the air. I sleep more comfortably at home."

And straight home to little Clive (8 pounds, 3 ounces and 22 inches at birth) and his fiancée Aneliz — a UM senior who took the semester off to care for the baby — is where Walford goes after each day of classes, football and meetings.

"I can't even put in words what it's like being a father," said Walford, who has five catches for 58 yards and a touchdown in two games.

"It's special. You see things differently. Things that used to be fun — all the partying and stuff like that — aren't as fun. I owe it to my son."

A powerful, 6-4, 260-pounder after putting on 15 pounds of muscle in the offseason, Walford plans to graduate in December with a degree in sports administration. The fourth-year junior was a standout basketball player at Belle Glade Glades Central, and didn't play football until his senior year of high school.

He misses “being the guy” in basketball, but is intent on putting all his focus on football.

He is fast (4.6 seconds in the 40-yard dash), has a knack for big plays and said he loves blocking. In his final four games of 2012, he tallied 303 yards and three touchdowns on 11 catches. Against Duke in the season finale, he had four catches for 99 yards and a score. Just 1 more yard would have made him the first UM tight end since 2003 with two consecutive games of at least 100 receiving yards.

The last one to do that? Kellen Winslow II.

Coach Al Golden said he wants Walford to get the ball more, especially on third down, an area in which UM sorely lacks. “He’s been one of the guys we’ve been pushing to get his timing down, run everything full speed so Stephen [Morris] knows exactly where he is.”

UM offensive coordinator James Coley described Walford as “a big guy who’s fast. If you’re fast, you’ve got to learn how to get open. ... Can he get open on that safety? Can he change up his speed and burst and get out of his break? He’s been working really hard at it.”

Walford believes he’s ready to take that next step.

“I still have a long way to go, but I’m more focused than I’ve ever been,” he said. “I have a major responsibility to my family and myself.

“This is my time.”

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL SENTINEL

Prospect Watch: Miami (Fla.) TE Clive Walford Driven by Late Cousin

By Tyler Dunne

April 10, 2015

Green Bay — Injuries are bound to happen. Hardship. Pain to some degree. Clive Walford battled through a knee injury at the Senior Bowl and knows more dings are inevitable.

And whenever he does sprain an ankle — whatever the ailment — he’ll think about his cousin.

“If I’m hurt or have a small injury,” Walford said, pausing, “his life is gone. So there isn’t any injury worse than having your life taken away from you.”

Alonzo Jones was a virtual big brother to Walford. Blood. The one he looked up to as a kid.

And in 2010, Jones lost his life in a tragic car accident. As Walford re-tells it, Jones crashed into a canal, was knocked unconscious and drowned. A freshman at Miami (Fla.) at the time, Walford has thought about his cousin “every day” since. Heading into the NFL draft as one of the top tight end prospects, he’ll keep thinking about him, too.

“I was very close to him,” Walford said. “He was like my oldest brother, even though he actually wasn’t my brother. I saw him that way.”

The Packers' tight end duo of Andrew Quarless and Richard Rodgers did yeoman's work in 2014, combining for 58 catches, 627 yards and seven touchdowns.

If the team does decide to gamble at tight end early in the draft, the choice may be between Minnesota's athletic, highlight-waiting-to-happen Maxx Williams and the 6-foot-4, 251-pound Walford, who brands himself as a complete tight end. Last season, Walford had 44 receptions, 676 yards and seven touchdowns — and he was asked to block plenty.

Walford didn't back down from his NFL scouting combine statement that he is the best tight end in this year's draft.

"Because I'm a dual-threat tight end," he said. "I don't only catch the ball. I get down and dirty and I block. I do everything that a tight end is expected to do. ... It's very rare. A lot of guys don't take pride in their blocking or don't take pride in catching the ball. I take pride in both of them, so that's what helps me excel at both positions."

And experiences — often the tragic ones — shape us all.

Walford's most traumatic, the one that stuck with him his entire collegiate career struck when he was leaving a class that freshman year. His younger cousin called him with the news.

Alonzo was dead.

"Your heart drops," he said. "You don't know how to deal with that situation. You've got to let God handle it. Just pray about it. Memories pop in your head. The good times you had. And you just cherish those moments."

Like all the times the two played video games together. Like the time Jones bought his first car and let Walford drive even though he didn't have a license. Any down time was spent together at Jones' house.

And now, any time he plays a video game or sees a picture on his cell phone, Walford thinks of Jones. He says his cousin was "a laidback guy," who was "well-respected" by a lot of people. "A person you want to be around."

Losing this presence in life, abruptly, shaped Walford into who he is today.

"It helped me become the man I am," he said. "You realize that some things aren't going to be there forever. It made me step my game up a little more and realize what I was supposed to do. I actually think about him every day. There hasn't been a day that goes by that I don't think about him."

No wonder Walford says he'll play in his cousin's honor at the next level.

"He's up there smiling down, watching me progress," he said. "I know if he could be here and actually enjoy these moments with me, I could see the smile on his face. That just motivates me to continue to go."

"You can't measure someone's heart. I feel that I play with my heart every time I'm out there."

Walford won't get into comparisons with Williams, the one hurdling defenders and making 1-handed catches.

Turn on the tape, he says. That'll answer any questions.

“Put in the film and you tell me who you like the best,” he said. “If you feel like he’s better, you have to take him.”

Walford does try to study New England’s Rob Gronkowski when possible. Not surprisingly, he admires Gronkowski’s raw heart-on-sleeve playing style above all.

He did meet with the Packers at the combine and sees a fit here, too.

“Of course,” he said. “They have a great quarterback. Aaron Rodgers is very versatile and can get the ball to anybody. With my ability, if you combine it with his ability, you’ve got greatness. So I feel like I’d fit right in.”

Wherever he goes, he has an idea what his cousin would be thinking.

Over the phone, Walford chuckles.

“Oh man, honestly I can’t even tell you,” he said. “I can just see the smile on his face.”
