

RAVENS IN OUR COMMUNITY

GOVERNOR'S VISIT

Maryland Governor Larry Hogan and Lt. Governor Boyd Rutherford made a visit to the Ravens' practice on Monday, Aug. 24 at the Under Armour Performance Center in Owings Mills. Governor Hogan, who is currently undergoing chemotherapy for non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma discovered earlier this summer, was given a tour of the facility by president Dick Cass (pictured bottom left) and presented with a commemorative jersey. After practice, the Governor addressed the team and delivered a message on staying strong during difficult times.

SPECIAL GUESTS

On Monday, Aug. 24, the Ravens hosted 23-year-old Rakeem Bowdry, a special guest from the Ronald McDonald House of Baltimore, at practice. Bowdry was rendered paralyzed from the neck down in a tragic car accident involving a drunk driver in 2011. Despite his disability and an extensive amount of physical therapy, Bowdry still visits local area schools to spread awareness to youth about the dangers of drinking and driving. After practice, Rakeem had the opportunity to meet the players, including OLB Elvis Dumervil, QB Joe Flacco, and TE Dennis Pitta (pictured left).

SERVICE DAY

On Friday, Aug. 28, Ravens staff participated in a service day at Charles Carroll Barrister Elementary School located in the Washington Village neighborhood of Baltimore City. In anticipation of the students' return to school, staff members teamed up to accomplish various tasks, such as assembling the school's library, assisting with setup in the computer lab, painting projects around the school and general classroom organization.
