

What is Weekend Backpacks?

Weekend Backpacks is dedicated to enhancing the well-being of students in Baltimore who face food insecurity, providing them with essential nourishment and support.

Baltimore Ravens X Weekend Backpacks

On Monday, Sept. 16, the Baltimore Ravens proudly unveiled a new van, donated to the non-profit organization Weekend Backpacks. This vehicle will play a crucial role in supporting the organization's mission. The Ravens Foundation is honored to contribute to the impactful work Weekend Backpacks is doing and further grow their ability to serve the Baltimore community.

It was an exciting day at Arlington Elementary School as Ravens C Tyler Linderbaum, LB Trenton Simpson, LB Roquan Smith and S Marcus Williams surprised the students with a backpack filled with schools supplies and food!

The fourth graders of Arlington Elementary School were excited to see Poe jump out of the new van!

The van will play a vital role in the daily operations of Weekend Backpacks! The non-profit organization serves over 1,800 students each month across 50 schools in Baltimore City.

LB Roquan Smith and S Marcus Williams helped hand out backpacks full of essentials!

Ravens players C Tyler Linderbaum, LB Roquan Smith, LB Trenton Simpson and S Marcus Williams, Ravens Cheerleaders and Poe (above) with the fifth graders of Arlington Elementary School!