

RAVENS IN OUR COMMUNITY

HISPANIC HERITAGE FOOTBALL CLINIC

For the past six years, the Baltimore Ravens have made an extra effort to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month through their annual Hispanic Heritage football clinic. On 9/22, in conjunction with the NFL's Play60 movement, Ravens players, cheerleaders and official mascot Poe provided a free football clinic for close to 150 children, ages 5 to 11, from the Maryland Hispanic youth organizations EBLO and Centro de la Comunidad. WR Kamar Aiken, S Terrence Brooks, WR Michael Campanaro, S Anthony Levine and LB C.J. Mosley joined the celebration by helping run several different stations throughout the afternoon.

HISPANIC HERITAGE LEADERSHIP AWARD

At their home game against the Carolina Panthers (9/28), the Ravens honored Professor Ana Maria Schwartz Caballero (right) with the NFL's 2014 Hispanic Heritage Leadership Award for her dedication to and work within the Hispanic communities of Baltimore. A native of Cuba, Schwartz Caballero moved to the United States as a teenager and has been a professor of Spanish and Second Language Education and Affiliate Faculty in the Language, Literacy and Culture Program at UMBC since 1984. She is the Chair of Baltimore City Mayor's Hispanic Commission and member of the Legislative Task Force on the Preservation of Heritage Language Skills in Maryland. Schwartz Caballero has chosen UMBC's Esperanza Scholarship Fund to receive a $2,000 grant to support its continued work in Baltimore's Hispanic community.
