Ravens Team with Under Armour to Support Troops

On Tuesday (9/21), the Ravens lent their support to the Under Armour Freedom Initiative. Ravens WR Anquan Boldin, LS Morgan Cox (at left, bottom right), K Billy Cundiff and LB Paul Kruger joined wounded warriors, Ravens cheerleaders and Under Armour staff in one of Under Armour's local warehouses (Curtis Bay, Md.) to assemble packages for troops overseas.

The group filled more than 200 backpacks as part of the Under Armour Freedom Initiative, where fans can purchase Wounded Warrior Project/Under Armour-branded products to be given to injured soldiers. Each gear pack contains more than $300 worth of Wounded Warrior Project-specific Under Armour products that will be presented to an injured service member recuperating in a military hospital.

In addition to the players' and cheerleaders' service, the Ravens made a charitable grant to purchase some of the backpacks as part of the project.

Team Purple Races for the Cure

On Sunday (10/3), members of the Baltimore Ravens' Team Purple joined thousands of participants in the 18th annual Komen Maryland Race for the Cure (Hunt Valley, Md.).

The Ravens created Team Purple in 2008 to expand their support of Komen Maryland. Named after the Ravens' official women's club Purple, the team is a way for Ravens family, staff and fans to represent the Ravens as they raise funds for Komen Maryland. In 2010, Team Purple eclipsed previous marks for both membership and funds raised, with 269 members raising more than $20,000.

One Winning Blood Drive
