

RAVENS IN OUR COMMUNITY

SALUTE TO SERVICE GAME

In conjunction with the NFL's Salute to Service (STS) military appreciation campaign and Veterans Day (11/11), the Baltimore Ravens celebrated the sacrifices and commitment of current and former service members during the Ravens-Titans game on Sunday (11/9) at M&T Bank Stadium. Prior to kickoff, 150 service members from both the United States Naval Academy and Maryland National Guard helped extend a field-length U.S. flag in honor of those who have served our country (left). Other STS initiatives incorporated during the game included a halftime presentation by the U.S. Marine Corps Silent Drill Platoon and a variety of STS gear worn by Ravens players, coaching staff, cheerleaders and official mascot Poe. Specific items worn were collected after the game and will be auctioned off, with proceeds benefitting the Pat Tillman Foundation, the USO and the Wounded Warrior Project.

Navy Lieutenant and Paralympian Brad Snyder

WOUNDED WARRIOR PROJECT WORKOUT

On Thursday (11/6), Baltimore Ravens staff and cheerleaders joined over 50 Wounded Warrior Project (WWP) alumni and current warriors from Walter Reed Medical Center (Washington, D.C.) for a workout at the Under Armour Headquarters (Baltimore City). Participants were divided into six groups, each a mix of warriors, Ravens and Under Armour staff members, and were then guided through a series of circuit exercises. Post-workout, all in attendance were invited to Mission BBQ for lunch, with a portion of the lunch proceeds benefitting WWP.

