

RAVENS IN OUR COMMUNITY

RAY RICE PLAY 60 SUPER SCHOOL VISIT

As RB Ray Rice (right) arrived at the Immaculate Heart of Mary School on Tuesday (12/6), he was greeted by the same energy and enthusiasm that he receives from fans on gameday.

In addition to Ravens cheerleaders and official mascot Poe, WRs Lee Evans and Torrey Smith, G/C Andre Gurode (right) and RB Ricky Williams joined Rice for the NFL Play 60 Super School visit.

As the winner of the NFL Play 60 Super School sweepstakes in Baltimore, Immaculate Heart received a $10,000 NFL Play 60 grant for health and wellness programming and a visit from Ravens players. The school also received two Xbox 360 consoles with Kinect as part of Kinect for Xbox 360's collaboration with the Ravens and Play 60.

During the assembly, Rice and his teammates spoke about the importance of good health and nutrition.

Evans' wife, Miranda, also spoke to the group about the Play 60 program and why it is important to her as a mother. She also presented Joanne McShalley, the winner of the Super Parent award, with a $1,000 donation from the NFL and Head & Shoulders to support Immaculate Heart's athletic program.

After the assembly, players helped students get 60 minutes of exercise during the Ultimate NFL Physical Education Class.

JOS. A. BANK

On Tuesday (12/6), the Baltimore Ravens and Jos. A. Bank teamed up to distribute business apparel items to men at the Helping Up Mission men's shelter in Baltimore.

LS Morgan Cox (far right), K Sam Koch (top center) and T Jah Reid (back row, second from left) helped distribute the apparel to the men in need.

Jos. A. Bank, a participating sponsor of Purple Fridays, donated slacks, suit jackets, ties and other suit apparel to homeless men as they work to re-establish themselves in the community and pursue employment opportunities.

DREAM DRIVE

On Thursday (12/8), Ravens players' wives were at Sam's Club to shop for food and gifts to give to 20 families in need through The Salvation Army.

After receiving a wish list from the families, the wives made sure to find something special for each person in the family. They also spent some time ringing The Salvation Army bell in front of the store's entrance.

Once the wives finished shopping, they helped wrap the presents and distributed them to families at The Salvation Army Hampden Corps.
