

Baltimore Ravens Champion Education

The Ravens believe that giving back is key to building a stronger, more vibrant community, and are all in when it comes to supporting education! Throughout the school year, the organization works to get involved with schools across Baltimore and Maryland. Whether by showing their appreciation for the teachers, visiting classrooms or awarding scholarships, the Ravens are dedicated to making sure students, schools and teachers have the resources they need to thrive!

The students (pictured above) are four of the five 2024 recipients of the Ravens Scholarship!

The Ravens hosted the 2024 recipients of the Ravens Foundation and Ozzie Newsome scholarships at the first preseason game on Aug. 9.

Executive Vice President Ozzie Newsome took the field with the 2024 Ozzie Newsome Scholarship recipients prior to kickoff!

2024 marked the 10th year of the Ravens and M&T Bank Touchdown For Teachers program! Teachers all across the state received a certificate acknowledging their commitment, but one lucky teacher got an extra-special recognition!

Students, fellow teachers, faculty and mascot Poe all gathered in the gymnasium to surprise and celebrate Ms. Jamie Harpster!

LB Odafe Oweh surprised Jamie Harpster with a custom jersey!

March is National Reading Month, with the first week being Dr. Seuss Read Across America Week! The Ravens hope their involvement can inspire a love and enthusiasm for reading!

On March 8, General Manager Eric DeCosta surprised students at Gwynns Falls Elementary school. DeCosta read "The Lorax," a Dr. Seuss favorite!

By focusing on education, the Ravens continue to help build a bright future, all while having a blast with the next generation of leaders!
