Baltimore Ravens Leadership Institute

On Wednesday, Sept. 17, over 100 high school students from the Baltimore area began their journey in the seventh-annual Baltimore Ravens High School Leadership Institute (BRLI), a program designed to develop student leaders in their schools and communities. Sponsored by T. Rowe Price and the Baltimore Ravens, this year's initiative partners with Business Volunteers Maryland and UMBC's Center for Leadership and Innovation.

Students, nominated for their leadership potential, attended a kickoff event featuring Heather Darney (Vice President of Community Relations/Executive Director of Ravens Foundation) and Raymone Jackson (President of T. Rowe Foundation). Throughout the 2025–26 program, participants will engage in leadership development sessions with community, civic and business experts.

