JOHN W. MECOM, JR. — President

In his tenth year as President of the New Orleans Saints, John W. Mecom, Jr., continues striding toward his announced goal to bring a title contending team to the New Orleans area, hiring Hank Stram as his club's fourth head coach and giving his new head coach the added responsibility of a vice presidency in the organization.

Since assuming the club presidency, Mecom has seen his sports empire grow into a mature, dynamic business since that Memorial Day in 1966 when the late Graham Hill drove the Mecom entry to victory in the Indianapolis 500. A task master at dividing his time among his many business interests, Mecom is involved with oil and sulphur, plastics, ranches and hotels — having just purchased a half interest in Le Pavillon in New Orleans in addition to his already posh Warwick Hotel in his native Houston, Tex. — in addition to his ownership of the Saints.

Mecom is also involved in as many local and civic projects as time will permit, including serving on the Board of Regents of Loyola University. Although the Mecom interests are headquartered in Houston, John maintains an apartment atop the Saints' administrative offices on Lee Circle in New Orleans, the building which also houses the Mecom oil interests in Louisiana.

But, there is no doubt that his major interest is the Saints and not even that 1966 Indy victory overshadowed what happened in December of 1966 — the granting of the franchise to the Mecoms, thus beginning the quest for the ultimate in professional football, the National Football League championship.

His decision to bring Stram to New Orleans, is, Mecom feels, a major effort in the realization of that quest. In Stram, Mecom brings a proven winner to lead the Saints, a man who had taken a team to two Super Bowls in his 15 years with Kansas City, upsetting the heralded Minnesota Vikings in the 1970 Super Bowl, played in New Orleans.

A friendship, based on mutual respect, was bonded between the owner and the coach during the festivities surrounding that 1970 Super Bowl and, when the opportunity arose, both owner and coach were eager to turn that friendship into a singular thrust for a championship team in New Orleans.

In addition, Mecom has again secured the Dodgertown facility in Vero Beach, Fla., for training camp to insure a winning tradition in which to begin the Stram era.

A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon while at the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas, Mecom met Katsy Mullendore of Pawhuska, Okla., while at Oklahoma, marrying her in 1962. They have four children: John III, 12; Katsy Kathleen, 9½; Mary Elizabeth, 8½ and Kathleen, 5½.

All of the Mecom family are very much a part of the Saints' scene every Sunday the club is at home in the fall.

HANK STRAM, Head Coach and Vice-President

A winning tradition and a reputation for coaching excellence accompanies Hank Stram in his initial season as Head Coach and Vice President of the New Orleans Saints.

Owner John Mecom Jr.'s selection of the dynamic and innovative Stram as his team's fourth head coach in the Saints ten year history has provided the NFL's Crescent City franchise with the kind of leadership expected of pro football's third winningest active coach.

In his fifteen year tenure with the Dallas Texans/Kansas City Chiefs Stram compiled an illustrious record of 124 wins, 76 losses and 10 ties that included the winning of the 1962 AFL Championship and the 1970 Super Bowl.

Stram's Dallas Texans won their first American Football League crown in 1962 in that league's first sudden death clash with the Houston Oilers. Following that, Stram's Chiefs played in two Super Bowls.

Stram has been the recipient of either AFL or AFC Coach of the Year honors on four separate occasions — 1962, 1966, 1968 and 1970. The man charged with the task of making the Saints a competitive team currently ranks eighth in all-time coaching victories and is third behind Don Shula of Miami and Tom Landry of Dallas among active NFL coaches in all-time victories.

ATHLETIC HISTORY

A native of Gary, Indiana where he was an All-State halfback at Lew Wallace High, Stram entered Purdue University on a football scholarship in 1941.

After his first varsity season, Stram was invited to play in the College All-Star Game. However, he had enlisted in the Army reserve in the spring of 1943, and was called to active duty two months before the game was to be played. He remained in the service for three years, returning to Purdue in 1946. In 1948, he was graduated with a B.S. in Physical Education.

Stram won seven monograms at Purdue, four in baseball and three in football. In his senior year he received the coveted Big Ten Medal which is awarded to the conference athlete who best combines athletics with academics.

COACHING BACKGROUND

Immediately upon graduation, Stram joined Purdue's coaching staff and served the next eight years as backfield coach under head coach Stu Holcomb. In 1956, Stram coached at Southern Methodist University, and then spent the following two seasons at Notre Dame, under Terry Brennan. A one-year stint as an assistant at the University of Miami (Fla.) preceded Hunt's naming him to head his new A.F.L. Dallas Texans.

During his 12 years in the college ranks, Stram gained the reputation as one of the country's most imaginative teachers of offensive football. He is credited with the development of four All-American quarterbacks . . . Dale Samuels and Len Dawson of Purdue, George Izo of Notre Dame and Fran Curci of Miami.

Stram has enlarged upon his reputation as a top offensive tactician and innovator since he joined the pro ranks. His use of the moving quarterback pocket is one of the most talked about developments in pro football. In 1967, he added the Tight-End I to the Chiefs offensive arsenal. This formation has the tight-end shift out of the backfield to either side of the line, thus creating indecision on the opposing team's defensive backfield.

Stram made his mark as a defensive strategist in 1962 when he successfully employed his now famous "stack" defense. In the "stack" Kansas City can present the appearance of being in anything from a three-man to a seven-man front. The various alignments that the "stack" makes possible create a different look to the opposing quarterback, change blocking assignments and open the door for a variety of defensive stunts. Several professional clubs have added versions of the "stack" to their defensive repertoire as a result of Stram's success.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

In 1962, when the Chiefs were the Dallas Texans, they won their first A.F.L. Championship with a thrilling 20-17 six quarter victory over the Houston Oilers in the second longest football game ever played. The game was not decided until Tommy Brooker kicked a 25 yard field goal 77 minutes and 54 seconds after the game had begun.

1966 was the second year a Stram-led team captured the AFL flag. The Chiefs defeated the Buffalo Bills 31-7 to earn a berth opposite the Green Bay Packers in the First World Championship Game of Pro Football—Super Bowl I.

The AFL's ten year history came to a close in 1969. Stram guided the Chiefs to an 11-3 season and the fourth qualifier spot in the League's Inter-divisional Playoffs. The Chiefs outscored the New York Jets 13-6 and went on to defeat the Oakland Raiders 17-7 for their third League crown.

The highlight of Stram's illustrious career came on January 11th, 1970, when the Chiefs defeated the Minnesota Vikings 23-7 for the World Championship of Professional Football.

He has been involved in the two longest games in pro football history—the AFL title battle in 1962 and the famous 1971 Christmas day, six-quarter divisional playoff against Miami.

ALL STAR GAMES

Following his first AFL Championship in 1962 Stram coached the Western Division All Stars to a 21-14 victory.

In 1967, Stram was given the honor of coaching the South All Stars in the Senior Bowl game in Mobile, Alabama. His team was victorious, winning 34-21 over the North.

Following the 1968 season, Stram coached the Western Division to a 38-25 victory over the Eastern Division in the AFL All Star game. Stram's team trailed 19-3 in the first half but scored 25 points after intermission to win the game.

In addition, Stram's Chiefs upheld the honor of pro football's champions with their decisive victory over the College All Star's in the 1970 Chicago classic.

AWARDS

Following Stram's first AFL Championship in 1962, he was named "Pro Football Coach of the Year." Stram received a host of national awards following the 1966 season. He was named the AFL's Coach of the Year by the Associated Press, The Washington Touchdown Club, the Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh and the Helms Athletic Association. The Rockne Club honored him as Pro Football's Coach of the Year.

After the Chiefs posted a 12-2 record in '68, Stram was again voted the AFL's Coach of the Year by Associated Press, United Press International, Pro Football Weekly, the Pittsburgh Dapper Dan Club and the Washington Touchdown Club.

Following the Chiefs Super Bowl victory, Stram repeated as AFL Coach of the Year at the Washington Touchdown Club and the Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh. He was also voted Coach of the Year by 101 Sportswriters and Broadcasters throughout the country, who comprised the selection committee for Kansas City's first annual Salute to Professional Football. The New York Chapter of the Pro Football Writer's Association named Stram their Super Man of the Year. He traveled to New York to receive the B'Nai B'Rith Man of the Year Award and was selected Hoosier Celebrity of the Year at the 13th Annual Celebrities Golf Tournament in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

In June of this year Stram was named Pro Coach of the Year by the National Black Sports Foundation.

BROADCASTING

Throughout the 1975 season, Stram earned considerable critical acclaim for his performance with CBS Television Sports in his role as an analyst commentator.

The dapper mentor brought the same penchant for detail and single-minded preparedness that characterized his coaching to his duties in the broadcast booth. Stram gave his audience an incisive look into the strategy of the contests he covered with the kind of personal touch that made viewing the game a fun thing.

As one of CBS' most valued announcers, Stram played a major role in that network's award winning coverage of Super Bowl X, an event which drew the largest audience in television history.

In so doing, Stram became the first pro football personality to participate in the Super Bowl as both a winning coach and as a broadcaster.

PERSONAL

Stram is in great demand as a speaker and travels countless miles during the off-season spreading the gospel of professional football. His hobbies include golf and paddle ball, both of which he plays exceptionally well.

Stram and his wife (Phyllis) have six children — Hank Jr., 21; Dale, 20; Stu, 18; Julie, 16; Gary, 14 and Mary Nell, 13 — and look forward to making their home in the New Orleans area.

RICHARD F. GORDON, JR.,
Executive Vice-President

Heading into his fifth season as the Executive Vice-President of the New Orleans Saints, Richard F. Gordon, Jr., maintains a rigorous schedule to stay ahead of the ever changing spectrum of professional football and oversees what is fast becoming one of the most stable front office operations in the National Football League.

In addition to supervising front office management, Gordon negotiates the many business contracts the Saints are confronted with each year. Among these in the recent past have been the longterm pact with the Louisiana Superdome and Exposition District.

Since 1972, Gordon has seen the Saints join Galaxy, a scouting co-op, and the addition of a full-time Director of Professional Personnel. In the front office, the Saints' ticket operation as been moved to the Superdome and all season ticket accounts have been placed on the computer system, thereby increasing operational efficiency and providing better service to Saints' customers.

The vacated office space previously occupied by the ticket office at 944 St. Charles Avenue has been renovated and is now an NFL Team Shop, which markets NFL merchandise through NFL Properties, Inc.

Viewed on an overall basis, the entire Saints organization has been upgraded greatly since 1972.

A 46-year-old native of Seattle, Wash., the league's newest franchise city, Gordon received his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from the University of Washington in 1951 and received his wings as a naval aviator in 1953.

With the National Aeronautic Space Administration (NASA) the last eight years of his military career, Gordon logged a total of 315 hours and 53 minutes in space. On Sept. 12, 1966, he and command pilot Charles Conrad set a new altitude record of 850 miles during the three-day Gemini XI mission — his first space venture. It was during this flight that he performed two periods of extra-vehicular activity.

After serving as a backup command module pilot for Apollo IX, Gordon occupied the command module pilot seat on Apollo XII in November of 1969, the 10-day flight during which the first precision lunar landing was made and man walked on the moon for only the second time in history.

He later served as back-up commander for Apollo XV and served as the department head for advanced projects in the Astronaut office prior to his retirement in 1972.

Among the many awards and citations Gordon received during his military career are NASA's Distinguished Service Medal, Exceptional Service Medal, two Navy Distinguished Flying Crosses and numerous awards from countries throughout the world. He retired with the rank of Captain in the U. S. Navy.

Married to the former Barbara J. Field of Seattle, Wash., Gordon has six children: Carleen, 22; Richard, 20; Lawrence, 18; Thomas, 17; James, 16, and Dianne, 15. They live in Metairie, La.

HARRY HULMES,
Vice-President-Administration

Joining the Saints in February of 1970 as the assistant to the general manager and director of public relations, Hulmes was named vice president of administration in January, 1972, a capacity in which he gets involved in a wide variety of duties, including the signing of veteran and rookie players, and allows him to keep a hand in public relations, a field which has kept him occupied for many of his nineteen years in the National Football League, seven of which have been with the Saints.

Hulmes, 49, spent 12 years with the Baltimore Colts, serving that organization in just about every possible off-the-field capacity, commencing in 1958, when the Colts won their first of two successive world championships.

A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Hulmes graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, where he majored in journalism and got started in sports as the assistant business manager of the Baltimore Orioles in 1954. Two years later he took over as sports information director at Bucknell University, after which it was back to Baltimore and the Colts.

A U. S. Navy veteran, Hulmes and his wife (Barbara) have three children — Linda, a 21-year-old senior at L.S.U., Terry, 17, and Richie, 13 — and live in Metairie, La.

THE COACHING STAFF

JOHN BEAKE, Offensive Backfield Coach

A native of New Jersey, Beake served with Saints head coach and vice-president Hank Stram at Kansas City from 1968 through 1974 as the Chiefs won three division, one conference and the 1970 Super Bowl titles.

In 1975, Beake served as the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University before joining the Saints staff in January, 1976.

A 1957 graduate of Long Branch (N.J.) High School, Beake lettered four years in football and twice in both baseball and track before continuing his athletic and educational endeavors at Trenton (N.J.) State College, where he lettered four times in football as a center-tackle before graduating in 1961.

Beake earned a masters degree from Penn State University and served as a graduate assistant coach under Charles "Rip" Engle. Beake completed his military obligation while at Penn State, having served six years in the Marine Corps Reserve.

He served as assistant football coach and head basketball coach at New York Military Academy (1963-64) in Cornwall-On-Hudson and, prior to joining the Chiefs, served as head coach at Nyack (N.Y.) High School where his four-year (1964-67) of 24 wins, four losses and four ties represents three league championships.

The 37-year-old Beake is married (Marcia) and they have three children — Jerilyn Ann, 12, John Joseph, 6, and Christopher Henry, 3. The Beakes make their home in Covington, La.

BUCK BUCHANAN, Defensive Line Coach

One of the premier defensive tackles in the National Football League for thirteen years, Buchanan retired as an active player following the 1975 season and joined the Saints' staff in January of 1976 to coach under the man he played for twelve

A native of Gainesville, Ala., Buchanan had a brilliant collegiate career at Grambling which led to his being drafted in the first round of the 1963 draft by Oakland, but the rights to the big guy were subsequently transferred to the Chiefs, who had two first round picks that year. He completed his collegiate career by playing on the College All-Star team that upset Green Bay.

As a Chief, Buchanan played in the first AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game in 1970 and was named to the all-AFL teams in 1967-68-69 and all-AFC squad in 1970. In 1965 and 1967 he was voted the Chiefs most valuable player.

Named to the NAIA Hall of Fame in 1968, Buchanan, 35, is married (Elizabeth) and they have three children — Eric, 13, Dwaine, 12, and Nicole, 7. The Buchanans make their home in River Ridge, La.

WHITEY CAMPBELL, Special Teams Coach

A veteran of 25 years in the coaching ranks, Campbell comes to the Saints from the University of Miami (Fla.) where he was in charge of the offensive backfield and special teams.

In 1957, he became a varsity assistant football coach in charge of offensive backs.

Following a brief hiatus from coaching, Campbell became defensive coordinator at the University of Montana, where he served from 1964 through 1965. In 1966-67, he was the offensive receiver coach at the U.S. Naval Academy and, in 1968, he became the Middies' defensive coordinator.

Following a professional playing career which saw him play for the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants of the National Football League (pre-season 1954 and pre-season 1956, respectively) and the British Columbia Lions (1955) and Ottawa Rough Riders (1957) of the Canadian Football League, Garrett began his coaching career at the United States Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., where he also served as assistant Director of Athletics and assisted in football, basketball and baseball coaching from 1957 until June of 1959, when he moved to Lehigh University as assistant football coach.

In July of 1960, Garrett assumed the position of Director of Athletics and head football coach at Susquehanna University, a position he held until 1966 when he became a talent scout for a scouting combine. In 1968, he became head coach of the Orlando Panthers of the Continental Football League.

After stints as Director of Pro Scouting with the American Football League (1969) and as a talent scout with the Dallas Cowboys (1970), Garrett served as an assistant coach with the New York Giants from March of 1970 until December of 1973. In January of 1974, he returned to the Cowboys as an assistant coach.

In April of 1974, he was named vice president and head coach of the Houston entry in the now defunct World Football League, a job he held until the team moved to Shreveport, La. Instead of moving with the club, Garrett chose to return to the Cowboys as a talent scout, a position he held until joining the Saints in February of 1976.

Garrett, 46, and his wife (Jane) have eight children — Jim, 16, Jane, 15, Jennifer, 14, Janine, 13, Jill, 12, John, 10, Jason, 9 and Judd, 8 — and they live in Covington, La.

In 1973, he became the conditioning coach for the Dallas Cowboys and came to the Saints in February of 1976, rejoining Coach Stram.

With Roy guiding the conditioning phase of football, the Chargers played in three AFL championship games, the Chiefs won a Super Bowl and the Cowboys went to the Super Bowl.

High School and Chappaqua (N.Y.) The 43-year-old Rutigliano began his professional coaching career with Denver, tutoring the Bronco receivers from 1967 through 1970. In 1971, he became the offensive coordinator for the New England Patriots, working with rookies such as quarterback Jim Plunkett and receiver Randy Vataha, among others. His tenure with the Patriots ended in 1974 when he became associated with the New York Jets as the defensive backfield coach, a position he has held the past two seasons.

A native of the Bay Area, he graduated from Commerce High School in San Francisco, Cal., and played his college football for the University of San Francisco where he was an All-America guard.

Drafted second by the Detroit Lions in 1951, Stanfel became an All-Pro for the Lions in 1953 and continued this distinction with the Washington Redskins from 1956 until his retirement following the 1958 season. He was voted the NFL's Most Valuable Player while with the Lions in 1954 — the year Detroit won the NFL title.

After two stops in college coaching, at Notre Dame (1959-62) and California (1963), Stanfel joined the staff of the Philadelphia Eagles as offensive line coach in 1964 and served there seven years prior to returning to his hometown in 1971 to coach the 49'er offensive line.

Stanfel, 49, lives in River Ridge, La.

Wood and his wife (Peggy) have two children — Bart, 17, and Rhonda, 15 — and live in Mandeville, La.

ERNIE HEFFERLE, Director of Pro Personnel

Interrupted a year ago by a stint as interim head coach, Ernie Hefferle returned to his duties as Director of Pro Personnel immediately following the season, putting his 36 years of coaching experience to good use in preparing to aid new head coach and vice-president Hank Stram in upgrading the team in any way possible.

Hefferle joined the Saints organization in 1973 following his third tenure at the University of Pittsburgh since 1951. Prior to 1970, Ernie had served on the staffs at Miami (American Football League, 1966-69) and Pittsburgh (National Football League, 1965).

Prior to joining the Steelers, Hefferle was the offensive line coach at Pitt (1962-64), joining the Panthers after two seasons as head coach at Boston College (1960-61). His first professional position was with the Washington Redskins as offensive line coach in 1959 after serving as freshman coach and then as end coach at Pitt since 1951.

A graduate of Duquesne University, Hefferle began his coaching career at South Huntington Township (Pa.) High School in 1937, moving to Tarentum (Pa.) High School in 1941, where he was interrupted by three years in Navy Pre-Flight, training in 1943-44-45, returning to Tarentum in 1946, prior to going to Pitt in 1951.

In September of 1956, he assumed an assistant coach's position at Moss Point (Miss.) High School. The next year he returned to his high school alma mater as head coach and his teams posted a 20-7-3 record in three seasons. From 1960 thru the 1964 season he was the head coach at Opp (Ala.) High School, posting a 30-17-3 record.

His high school coaching success brought him an offer to return to USM in 1965 as an assistant coach, a position he held until joining the Saints scouting staff in September of 1973.

One of two Saints scouts serving with the Galaxy combine of which the Saints are a member, Cook is currently manning an area including western Tennessee and western Kentucky, part of Northern Michigan and all of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

The senior member of the Saints scouting staff (in terms of length of service as a scout), Jenkins joined the staff in 1968 after serving four years with a scouting combine.

A Colorado native with a keen eye for talent, Jenkins graduated from the University of Colorado in 1942 and joined the Navy where he spent 53 months before finally embarking on his coaching career in 1946 at the Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colo., where he was the line coach.

Jenkins returned to his alma mater as an assistant coach in 1948 and then was named head coach at the University of Montana in 1958 where he remained until joining the scouting combine in 1964.

Jenkins and his wife (Bea) live in Boulder, Colo., and have two children — a son, Ray, and a daughter, Mrs. Judith Ann Lowder.

A native of Grand Saline, Texas, White graduated from Texas Tech and began his coaching career at Lubbock, Tex., High School — his alma mater — in 1946. He moved to Denison, Tex., High School in 1948 prior to lending his talent to the college level in 1949 when he became an assistant coach at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, Tex., in 1949. In 1951, White became the head coach at Midwestern, compiling an 11-9-1 record in two seasons.

In 1953, White served as an assistant coach at the University of Idaho and in 1954 he served in a similar capacity at Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches, Tex. From 1955-61, he was an assistant coach at the University of Arkansas and prior to moving to Northeast he served as an assistant coach at L.S.U. from 1962 through 1963. Coming to the Saints in 1971 as the assistant director of public relations, Liddell assumed the directorship in 1972 and continues to act as a catalyst between the players, the media and the fans.

A native of Shreveport, La., Liddell graduated from Delta State University in Cleveland, Miss., in 1964, and was immediately named Sports Editor of the Clarksdale (Miss.) Press Register, a position he held for three years. In 1968, he moved to the University of Mississippi as the Assistant Sports Information Director, a post he held prior to coming with the Saints.

His duties include the handling of news releases and publications, maintenance of a speaker's bureau and advancing out of town games.

Liddell, 34, lives in Kenner, La., with his wife (Martha) and daughter, Stephanie, 9.

HENRY SIMONEAUX, Ticket Manager

Simoneaux began learning the ticket business immediately following his 1950 graduation from Behrman High School in New Orleans and after 26 years — excluding two years in the U. S. Army and two years with an oil company — has earned a reputation of being one of the best ticket men in the business.

An eight-year association with Tulane as ticket manager (and later as assistant athletic business manager) was invaluable to Henry as he has had to tackle many of the most difficult ticket situations in the National Football League, including three Super Bowl and, most recently, the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl ticket allocations.

A charter member of the Saints organization, Simoneaux joined the staff as its first and only ticket manager in January of 1967.

Simoneaux and his wife (Earline) live in New Orleans with their son, Henry III, 16.

PETE SMYTH, Assistant Ticket Manager and Stadium Liason

FRED WILLIAMS, Assistant to the President

Joining the Mecom interests in 1968 as a Security Consultant, Williams was appointed to his current position in 1971, handling the rigorous details of the president's office which come to his attention.

Williams, a native of New Orleans, attended Fortier High School and Tulane University before a four-year tour of duty with the Marines delayed the start of his law enforcement career that would eventually find him heading the District Attorney's Rackets Bureau (Bunco).

A father of five, Williams and his wife (Jessie) live in Slidell, La., with four of their children — Jeffery, 22 in the U. S. Coast Guard, Kevin, 20, Amy, 15, and Christopher, 14. A fifth child — Mrs. Lynn Spence — lives in New Orleans, La., with her family.

ERBY AUCOIN, Director of Photography

A native of Napoleonville, La., Aucoin is a 1957 graduate of L.S.U., and came to the Saints following a career in newspaper and television photography, which netted him more than 40 photo awards.

Manning a trailer headquarters at the Saints' David Drive facility, Aucoin's duties include filming footage of each game and practice, duplicating footage from other NFL clubs and maintaining his trailer-laboratory which contains all the necessary equipment for top-quality processing, a testimony to Aucoin's expertise gained from experience.

Coming to the Saints in 1968, Aucoin has proven to be a jack of all trades (and master of many), including an excellent command of the culinary arts. He has also assumed the role of carpenter, helping in the renovation of the club's David Drive facility.

Aucoin and his wife (Rosalie) have five children — Cynthia Ann, 19; Albert Anthony, 15; Deidra Ann, 12; Michelle Rose, 8, and Douglas Leon, 6 — living at home in New Orleans, and three more — Erby III, 21, Jayne Marie, 20, and Mrs. John L. Ward — have established homes of their own.

BARRA BIRRCHEER, Entertainment Director

Associated with CBS Public Relations and Advertising, Inc., of Metairie, La., Birrcher has brought to the Saints' games some of the best pre-game and halftime entertainment in the National Football League during his five years as Entertainment Director. And this — his sixth season — promises to be another prime example of why the Saints are noted for their halftime extravaganzas.

A native of New Orleans, Birrcher is a graduate of the University of New Orleans and, after two years of U. S. Army duty, his first position was as Publicity Director for the Fairgrounds, a post he held from 1965 through 1970.

C., and did graduate work in industrial relations at Loyola University in New Orleans, Xavier of New Orleans, and Southern University.

Currently the assistant to the published of the Louisiana Weekly, Stephens, 54, began his career as a clothing salesman and migrated into the broadcasting field as a disc-jockey and newsman and is currently affiliated with WXEL-FM and the Mutual Black Network. He also has worked as a Marketing and Public Relations Specialist for Ebony Magazine.

Stephens and his wife (Marion) live in New Orleans and have a son and a daughter.

SAINTS TRAIN AT VERO BEACH, FLA.

The New Orleans Saints will return to Vero Beach, Fla., in 1976, to hold training camp at the outstanding Dodgertown facility owned by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Saints first utilized Dodgertown in 1974.

Located 135 miles north of Miami, Dodgertown consists of three practice fields and Holman Stadium, which this year will be lighted for the first time. Also on the premises are an administration building, dormitory, a nine-hole and an 18-hole golf courses, a swimming pool, tennis courts and theatre. The administration building includes a major league clubhouse, a minor league clubhouse, medical department, dining hall and kitchen, main lobby, canteen, recording studio, photo dark room, Western Union office, interview room, staff social room, press working room, trainers room, equipment room and two laundry rooms.

Located in the picturesque city of Vero Beach, Fla., on the Indian River, Dodgertown is 738 miles southeast of New Orleans and is only two miles from the beach fronting the Atlantic Ocean. Although the Saints' charters will depart from the Vero Beach Municipal Airport, which is adjacent to the facility, Vero Beach is served by the larger airport at Melbourne, Fla., only 33 miles away.

SAINTS IN PRO BOWL

In the team's nine-year history, six players have been tapped for action in the Pro Bowl: 1967—safety Dave Whitsell; 1968—defensive tackle Dave Rowe; 1969—kicker Tom Dempsey, guard Jake Kupp, and running backs Tony Baker and Andy Livingston. In addition, Tom Fears coached the East squad in the 1969 game, and Saints assistants Jack Faulkner, Don Heinrich, Ed Khayat and Brad Ecklund along with trainer Warren Ariail served with Fears.

THE 1976 SAINTS VETERANS

BAUMGARTNER, STEVE, 6-7, 260, Defensive Tackle, 4th Year, Purdue

Born: March 26, 1951 at Chicago, Illinois

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 2a, 1973

PRO: A fulltime starter at left end last fall, Steve made steady progress and could yet develop into the destructive force the Saints were hoping for when they plucked him off the Purdue campus three years ago after he'd established his reputation as a "stand-up" lineman with varying responsibilities. Now he'll be in the position of attempting to preserve his newly-won job against some impressive challengers. The Bomber advanced from 150 plays in 1974 to 605 last season, when he got in on 43 tackles and recovered a pair of enemy fumbles.

COLLEGE: An All-Big Ten selection in 1972, he started all but one 1971 game during his junior and senior seasons, accounting for 140 tackles — 18 of them for losses, broke up four passes and recovered four fumbles. Holds a degree in economics.

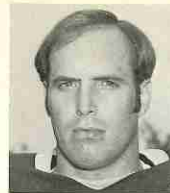

PERSONAL: Attended Benet Academy in Lisle, Illinois . . . Married (Mary) . . . one daughter (Amy, one). Employed as carpenter for Schaff Bros., Inc. in Metairie, La. Collects beer cans as hobby.

BLANCHARD, TOM, 6-0, 180, Punter, 6th Year, Oregon

Born: May 28, 1949 at Grants Pass, Oregon

Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1974

PRO: Despite having three punts blocked in 1975 redoubtable Tom still emerged with the fifth best punting average in the NFC, only one yard off the leader's pace. It was a title that the ex-Giant had captured in his initial Saints season in 1974. Last year, too, he punted the opposition into a hole inside its ten yard line on five occasions, after turning the trick ten times the previous season. He was also getting a better hang-time on his boots last fall, as evidenced by the fact that the opponents' returns were trimmed 4.3 yards per runback. Additionally, he served as the team's third quarterback after Bobby Scott was injured and was a sure-handed holder for place-kickers . . . During three years with New York, which had selected him twelfth in 1971, Blanchard averaged 41.7 yards on 169 kicks. His 92 punts last autumn constituted a new Saints standard.

BAUMGARTNER

CHAMBERS

COLLEGE: A three-year quarterback-punter at Oregon, where one of his favorite passing targets was current Saints receiver Bob Newland. He maintained a college career punting average of 41.7 yards and also threw for four touchdowns in one game and in another, vs. Army in 1969, he completed 22 of 32 aerials for 262 yards. While serving as team captain in his senior year he was sidelined by a knee injury.

PERSONAL: A former standout at Grants Pass (Oregon) High School, he now teaches junior high school science and health in that city . . . Married (Pam); son (Tommy, 3); daughter (Kelley, one).

BURTON, LARRY, 6-1, 190, Wide Receiver, 2nd Year, Purdue

Born: December 15, 1951 in Northampton, Va.

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 1, 1975

PRO: The first receiver selected in the 1975 player draft, Larry was expected to break into the NFL by scorching secondaries immediately. A pulled hamstring muscle in the College All-Stars camp, however, ruined those prospects. He suffered through a few false starts in the Saints' pre-season camp, re-pulling the muscle, and didn't play a down until the opening league game in Washington. With the exception of the win over Atlanta, when he caught four balls for 159 yards, including a 71-yard TD strike, there was no joy in the season for the 4.2 sprinter as he continued to be plagued by a succession of leg cramps and other muscular problems. With all of his troubles he still played in 13 games, hauling in 16 aerials for 305 yards (19.1 avg.) and two touchdowns. With more practice time and freedom from injuries there should be nothing to deter the blazing Burton from achieving the predicted pro stardom.

COLLEGE: A record-setting Olympic dashman in the Munich games in 1972, he went back to Purdue and football in 1973, developing into a first team All-American — named by the Sporting News, the Football Writers and the Time Pro Scouts Poll. He was also chosen to the All-Big Ten first team by the AP, UPI and Chicago Tribune. As a senior in 1974 he caught 38 passes for 702 yards and was voted Purdue's MVP. He played in the East — West Shrine Game and the Hula Bowl Game as well as the College All-Star game.

PERSONAL: Larry earned a degree in sociology at Purdue and was named to the National Honor Society. He was president of his senior class at Smith High School in Melfa, Virginia . . . Married (Ida), daughter (Shanaeya, one), son (Lawrence, Jr., 5) . . . He now makes his home in New Orleans.

CHAMBERS, RUSTY, 6-1, 220, Linebacker, 2nd Year, Tulane
Born: November 10, 1953 at Amite, Louisiana
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

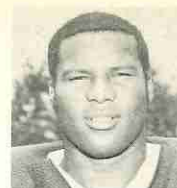

PRO: After being released once last September Rusty was resigned in time to get into the Saints' last 12 games as a reserve linebacker and all-out special teams performer. He acquitted himself well in these roles and included a TD jaunt with a San Francisco fumble among his accomplishments. The coaches expect that he will improve enough to make a serious bid for a regular outside job in 1976.

COLLEGE: As a senior he was voted Tulane's MVP and was also named to the All-South Independent Team. In his junior year he played in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

PERSONAL: Chambers attended Loranger (La.) High School and has been employed as a farrier in that city.

COLEMAN

CHAPMAN, GIL, 5-9, 180, Wide Receiver, 2nd Year, Michigan
Born: August 23, 1953, at Elizabeth, New Jersey
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

PRO: Until a knee injury finished him for the campaign in the tenth game last fall, this versatile rookie was making encouraging progress as a run-back specialist with the Saints. Originally drafted in the seventh round by Buffalo in 1975, he was released just before the start of the season and was salvaged by the Saints in time to get into the second game. In his nine contests he led the team and finished second in the NFC with 17 punt returns for a 12.2-yard average. He also hauled 28 kickoffs back for a 21.9-yard average and caught one pass for seven yards while being used sparingly as a receiver. While he could see much more action as a receiver in 1976 his primary value will continue to be as a return man, where he utilizes a quick initial burst and good breakaway speed to get the job done.

COLLEGE: During his three years at Michigan Gil averaged 24.6 yards on 26 kickoff returns and 10.4 yards on 46 punt runbacks. He also pulled down 34 passes for 517 yards and rushed for 895 yards (five-yard average), while accumulating 18 touchdowns by all methods. An appearance in the All-American Bowl in Tampa, Fla. topped off his collegiate career.

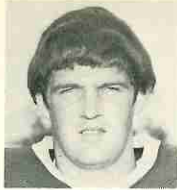

PERSONAL: Still a resident of Elizabeth, New Jersey, he worked with the Comprehensive Employment Training Agency there last winter .

CHILDS, HENRY, 6-2, 223, Tight End, 3rd Year, Kansas State
Born: April 16, 1951 at Thomasville, Georgia
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1974

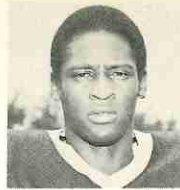

PRO: A late season acquisition as a free agent in 1974, Henry drove off a bevy of tight end aspirants last season to win the back-up job behind Paul Seal. A siege of injuries at the outside receiver post resulted in Childs toiling as a starting wideout at the season's finish — catching a pro career high four passes, for 67 yards, in the wind-up against Chicago. While his blocking ability is an asset at wide receiver, he's scheduled to return to his tight end assignment and perhaps now be better equipped to challenge Seal . . . Atlanta had drafted him fifth in 1974 and released him during the season. He was active in all 14 games for the Saints last fall.

COLLEGE: In a three-year career at Kansas State Childs caught 94 passes for 1,349 yards and 10 touchdowns, establishing a school record with five TD receptions in 1972.

PERSONAL: Henry resides in Wichita, Kansas and is engaged in a field study program at Kansas State.

Born: January 11, 1952 at Toledo, Ohio

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 16, 1974

PRO: With the season-long injury to Wayne Colman, Don saw some starting action last fall as an outside linebacker and should be in the thick of a vigorous squabble for the position in 1976. In 13 games the former Michigan defensive end became further adjusted to a position that he encountered for the first time as a 1974 rookie when most of his play was logged on the special teams. He has worked hard on the transformation, particularly pass responsibility, and he has the intelligence and determination to successfully complete the project. In 1975 combat he managed to deflect a couple of enemy aerals while also becoming involved in 33 tackles. His 4.9 speed continues to rate as a plus factor.

COLLEGE: A second-team All-Big Ten selection as a Michigan senior, he was credited with two fumble recoveries, two pass interceptions and 61 tackles in his wind-up campaign with the PERSONAL: Attended St. John High School in Toledo, Ohio . . . As a high school tailback he led his city league in rushing as a senior . . . At Michigan he earned a BA in speech — radio and television. He spent last off-season as a counselor at a Youth Guidance center in San Francisco.

COLMAN, WAYNE C., 6-1, 220, Linebacker, 8th Year, Temple

Born: April 13, 1946 at Ventnor, N. J.

Joined Saints: Waivers (from Philadelphia), 1969

PRO: An easy-going, get-it-done guy, Wayne suffered the second break of his pro career during the 1975 pre-season activity, adding a fractured arm to an injury file that also include a broken leg that wiped him out of the last ten games of 1969, his initial campaign with the Saints. While last summer's mishap shelved him for the entire season, he now figures to step back into contention for his former outside linebacker berth. The durable Colman is usually an all-the-way performer who's been undaunted by ailments that would keep the less hardy on the bench . . . Signed originally as a free agent by Philadelphia, he now reigns as the Saint with the longest hitch with the club. What he lacks in size he compensates for in his knowledge of defense and the opposition and an intense desire to jam up the enemy one way or another.

COLLEGE: A defensive end at Temple where he earned All Mid-Atlantic Conference and All-Pennsylvania honors . . . Also participated in track and baseball.

PERSONAL: Attended Atlantic City, N. J., High School. Resides in Ventnor, N. J. . . . Holds BS in Education degree . . . Married (Tonagee); two sons (Wayne Jr., 6, Douglas, 3) . . . Hobbies include surfing, rowing and fishing. Driver education teacher at Atlantic City High School during off-season.

CRIST, CHUCK, 6-2, 205, Safetyman, 5th Year, Penn State

Born: January 16, 1951 at Salamanca, New York

Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

PRO: Signed by the Saints with eight games to play last fall, Chuck proceeded to rank second on the team with three interceptions, which he returned for 69 yards. He was also credited with five pass deflections and participation in 27 tackles, while playing at both strong and free safety. It's probable that in 1976 he'll concentrate on the strong safety post he held down through his first three NFL campaigns with the New York Giants.

As a Giant he'd stolen six aeriels and recovered five fumbles. New York had signed him originally in 1972 as a free agent who'd never played college football.

COLLEGE: A three-letter winner on the basketball court at Penn State, he was recommended to the Giants by his basketball coach Johnny Bach. He was team MVP as a junior and captain as a senior.

PERSONAL: At Salamanca (N. Y.) High School he earned 14 letters in basketball, baseball, football and track. Chuck still resides in the same city where he's employed as high school basketball coach and a substitute teacher . . . Married (Patti), one son (Scott, 5), one daughter (Nicole, 2).

DAVIS, DAVE, 6-0, 175, Wide Receiver, 5th Year, Tennessee State

Born: July 5, 1948 at Alcoa, Tennessee

Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1974

PRO: Before sustaining a severely sprained ankle during the 1975 pre-season period Dave had flashed the form that just might have earned him a regular job as an outside receiver. He was running his patterns up to specifications and holding onto the football. The injury then rendered him inactive for the entire campaign—and now he returns, hoping to pick up where he left off last August . . . A seventh round selection by Green Bay in 1971, he was released two years later and signed by Pittsburgh as a free agent. The Saints also contracted him as a free agent in 1974, in time for him to get into six games, primarily as a special teams man.

COLLEGE: A four-year letterman at Tennessee State, he was named to the Pittsburgh Courier All-America team as a senior.

PERSONAL: Dave still lives in Alcoa, Tennessee, where he's doing graduate work in guidance and counseling . . . Married (Lynne).

DORRIS, ANDY, 6-4, 240, Defensive End, 4th Year, New Mexico State

Born: August 11, 1951 at Bellaire, Ohio
Joined Saints: Trade with St. Louis, 1973

PRO: A regular in the NFL for the first time last season, Andy was particularly effective against the run from his right end post. He was frequently lifted in anticipated passing situations, yet still managed to participate in 601 plays in 13 games and gain credit for a fumble recovery and a pass deflection. Eleven of his 62 tackle involvements occurred in the Minnesota contest. A tireless worker and constant hustler, he's been going hard at his pass rush in an effort to become an accomplished every-play performer in 1976. . . Drafted fourth by Cleveland in 1973, he was traded that summer to St. Louis, then from the Cardinals to New Orleans that same season for an eight round draft pick. He played in one game for the Saints in 1973 and in 14 the following year before earning starting status last season.

COLLEGE: The only Aggie named to the All-Missouri Valley first team in 1972. Dorris was also voted New Mexico State's MVP for that season. He'd set a mark with four quarterback sacks in one game that fall.

PERSONAL: Attended Bellaire (Ohio) High School . . . Married (Mary Louis), daughter (Meredith Renee, four); son (Zach, one) . . . Now resides in Metairie, La. and is employed in the New Orleans Police Department — public school program.

DOUGLASS, BOBBY, 6-4, 228, Quarterback, 8th Year, Kansas
Born: June 22, 1947 at Manhattan, Kansas
Joined Saints: Trade with San Diego Chargers, 1976

PRO: The highlight thus far of Bobby's seven years in the NFL was furnished by his record-shattering output of 968 rushing yards for Chicago in 1972 when he averaged 6.9 yards per carry and tallied eight touchdowns. For his pro career, including the second half of last season with San Diego, he's picked up 6.6 yards per haul and is generally recognized as the league's strongest running quarterback. It was his ballcarrying ability and his knack for firing the ball on the run that attracted him to Hank Stram and the Saints. He should afford the club the same pass-run threat moving to his left that Archie Manning does to his right . . . The southpaw slinger was drafted second by the Bears in 1969 and remained in Chicago, mostly as the number one signal-caller, until 1975 when he was claimed on waivers by the Chargers. He was traded to New Orleans this past March, along with San Diego's third round draft choice in 1976, for Saints linebacker Rick Middleton. He continues to work hard to rehabilitate a left knee that underwent surgery in January, 1974.

COLLEGE: Named Big Eight Back-of-the Year as a junior, he gained All-American honors in his senior year, when he broke the conference total offense record with 1,811 yards. Through his Kansas career he passed for 2,817 yards and 20 touchdowns and ran for another 1,015 yards and 19 scores.

PERSONAL: A resident of Lake Forest, Ill., he's part owner of Great Gritzbe's and Jonathan Livingston Seafood Restaurants. Bobby's also active in the Veterans Administration Research Hospital, Better Boys Foundation and other charitable organizations . . . He played in the 1969 College All-Star Game . . . At Kansas he earned a BS in Business Education . . . Married (Carol), with three children . . . At El Dorado (Kansas) High School he excelled in four sports.

GROSS

FEDERSPIEL, JOE, 6-1, 235, Middle Linebacker, 5th Year, Kentucky
Born: May 6, 1950 at Louisville, Kentucky
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4a, 1972

PRO: In 1975 Joe unquestionably was more effective in more games than in any of his previous three years in the NFL. Once again he was a 14-game starter in the middle, a job he's held since early in his freshman campaign when he was selected to UPI's All-Rookie Team. Despite a sprained ankle that year and a slight shoulder separation in 1973 he's been a durable performer who's played through the hurts. As he's developed as a linebacker so have his leadership qualities increased. Always the solid and dependable hitter, he led his mates by participating in 115 tackles last season, 79 of them being solo efforts. The Jolter also cracked a Saints' standard by recovering five enemy fumbles. Additionally, he was credited with ten deflected passes and a couple of sacks. . . New Orleans had traded running back Tony Baker to Philadelphia for the fourth round choice that netted Federspiel.

COLLEGE: An All-SEC linebacker selection, he was honored as the South's best player vs. the North in the Miami Shrine Game — and he also participated in the Tampa All-American Bowl.

PERSONAL: Attended DeSales High School in Louisville, Kentucky. He's now living in Lexington, Kentucky. . . Married (Caroline), one daughter (Lee Anne, infant).

GROOMS, ELOIS, 6-4, 240, Defensive End, 2nd Year,
Tennessee Tech
Born: May 20, 1953 in Tompkinsville, Ky.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 3a, 1975 (Choice from Detroit through Minnesota for Andy Maurer)

PRO: The muscular rookie was making fine progress as a defensive end when it became necessary to operate on a wrist that had been cracked earlier in the campaign. Elois did get into the first ten games as a spot performer — usually in pass-rush situations. His outstanding speed enables him to track down ball-carrier skirting the opposite flank. As soon as he acquires more experience and polish he should develop into a first-rate quarterback-chaser. Back in peak physical condition he figures to boost his playing time considerably in 1976.

COLLEGE: In each of his last two years at Tennessee Tech he was named to the All-Ohio Valley Conference first team, while in his senior campaign he gained Kodak All-American and UPI (Small College) first team status. He also finished up as Tech's co-captain and MVP.

PERSONAL: Grooms attended Tompkinsville (Ky.) High School. . . He returned to college last winter and earned his B.S. degree in health and physical education.

GROSS, LEE, 6-3, 245, Center — Guard, 2nd Year, Auburn
Born: July 29, 1953 in Montgomery, Alabama
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 2, 1975

PRO: Just before the start of 1975 training camp Lee had a cyst removed from behind his knee and his chances for rookie action faded. He did return from the "physically unable to perform" list in time to get into nine of the last ten games, devoting all of his energy to special teams activities. Starting from scratch this season he should make a strong pitch for the center assignment, being a strong blocker, with good quickness and the ability to make the long snaps for punts and placekicks. There would also be a possibility that he could be utilized as a guard or tackle on the offensive wall.

COLLEGE: An AP All-SEC selection as a senior, he also served as Auburn's captain. Gross participated in the 1972 Gator Bowl, the 1973 Sun Bowl and the 1974 Gator Bowl prior to winding up his college career in the 1975 Senior Bowl contest.

PERSONAL: He received All-City, All-State and State MVP acclaim at Robert E. Lee High School in Montgomery, Alabama. . . His home is now in Kenner, La. and is working with the New Orleans Police Department — public school program. . . Married (Betty).

HERRMANN, DON, 6-2, 205, Wide Receiver, 8th Year,
Waynesburg
Born: June 5, 1947, at Newark, New Jersey
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

PRO: When the Saints encountered a rash of injuries to their receivers last year they tapped Don for the final three games and he caught a pass in each contest for a total of 47 yards. He had been idle since pre-season when he was released by the New York Giants. In six previous campaigns with the Giants he hauled in 165 aerials for 2,049 yards and 15 touchdowns. He had been an unheralded 15th round draft pick and he quickly developed into a slick, sure-handed, possession-type receiver who was most adept at clutching the key third down tosses. A knee injury early in 1974 limited his activity that year and reduced his receptions to ten.

COLLEGE: A nonscholarship athlete at Waynesburg (Pa.) College, he went on to nab 143 throws for 2,175 yards and 30 touchdowns. He established school records with 76 receptions and 20 touchdowns in a season and 18 catches and seven scores in a single game.

PERSONAL: A former standout at Chatham (N. J.) High School, he now lives in Brookside, New Jersey . . . Married (Ann), one son (Timothy, 3).

HILL, JOHN, 6-2, 245, Center-Tackle, 5th Year, Lehigh
Born: April 16, 1950, at East Orange, New Jersey
Joined Saints: Waivers (from New York Giants), 1975

PRO: One of the Saints' most productive acquisitions last fall, John joined the club just before the opening of the regular campaign and started the final 13 games at center, working just about all of the plays. During the season's fourth contest he also assumed the snapping duties for punts and placekicks. Someone will have to beat him out of both jobs if he's to be returned to the part-time role he held in New York. In three years with the Giants he toiled as a reserve at both center and tackle and performed well on the special teams. The Giants had drafted him on the sixth round of the 1972 draft.

COLLEGE: In addition to earning All-East and College Division All-American football honors at Lehigh, he also excelled as a shot-putter and discus thrower on the track team. The Engineers' grid captain capped his career by participating in the East-West Shrine Game.

PERSONAL: Hill was an all-around sports standout at Franklin High School in Somerset, New Jersey. His father is Business Manager of Athletics at Rutgers, one of Lehigh's keenest rivals.

JACKSON, ERNIE, 5-10, 175, Cornerback, 5th Year, Duke
Born: April 11, 1950 at Hopkins, South Carolina
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 7, 1972

PRO: A one-time UPI All-Rookie Team selection, Ernie was the starting right cornerback in 1975 and covering as much ground as he did in his first three years in the NFL. In 13 games last autumn he set a fast pace for his secondary teammates by notching 40 solo tackles and knocking down 19 passes. He also recovered a fumble and intercepted a pair of aerials. A tough, determined competitor, the swift and sticky Jackson would be an asset to any defensive backfield. If needed he could also be called upon to return kickoffs, a chore he handled skillfully in college. Among his more memorable feats as a pro was an 85-yard TD dash with a recovered fumble in his rookie season.

COLLEGE: The only player in Atlantic Coast Conference history to be honored as both offensive and defensive player of the week in the same season — as he went both ways through the second half of the 1971 campaign, playing 75% of each game . . . As a senior Ernie intercepted four passes — returning two for touchdowns, ran back punts and kickoffs and averaged 7.6 yards for each of his 31 carries from scrimmage . . . He also specialized in blocking extra point and field goal attempts.

PERSONAL: Attended Lower Richland (South Carolina) High School . . . He received his degree from Duke in electrical engineering . . . Married (Ora) . . . He's living in Metairie, La., where he's employed as a liquor salesman.

JONES, ANDREW, 6-2, 213, Running Back, 2nd Year, Washington State

Born: October 23, 1952 in Jackson, Miss.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 3, 1975

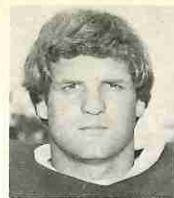

PRO: Although under wraps most of last fall, Andrew remains a most promising big back in the Saints' attack. In addition to size, he possesses the speed and drive required of a pro fullback. He also has excellent balance and a knack for finding the crack in the defense. While playing in 13 games as a rookie, he served primarily as a back-up for Alvin Maxson and on the special teams, lugging the ball 42 times for 108 yards (2.6 average) and a touchdown. A dependable receiver, he also caught ten passes for 52 yards. More on-the-field labor for Jones could produce a top-notch power-runner for the Saints.

COLLEGE: Shelved for much of his senior campaign, while team captain by a shoulder separation, he still played in the East-West Shrine Game and the Senior Bowl Game. He was most productive as a junior when he carried the ball 207 times for 1,059 yards and nine touchdowns — and led the Pac Eight Conference in rushing. His top effort was 155 yards vs. California.

PERSONAL: At East Tech High School in Cleveland, Ohio, he was an All-State linebacker, being switched to fullback as a college sophomore. He also participated in basketball, baseball, track and golf . . . Andrew was a secondary education major and has ambitions to work with education in major city and urban areas . . . Married (Marlene); daughter (Carolyn Lian, infant) . . .

KEARNEY, JIM, 6-2, 206, Safety, 12th Year, Prairie View A&M
Born: January 21, 1943 at Wharton, Texas
Joined Saints: Trade with Tampa, 1976

PRO: In eleven pro campaigns Jim has intercepted 23 passes and returned them 462 yards (20.1-yard average), five for touchdowns. In 1972 four of his five steals were legged back into the endzone, two of them in a game vs. Denver. Both feats tied league records . . . Drafted eleventh by Detroit in 1965, he spent two seasons with the Lions before being sold to Philadelphia in 1967. That same year he was released by the Eagles and signed as a free agent by the Kansas City Chiefs. He was a Chiefs starter at safety commencing in 1968 and remained with that club until being acquired by Tampa Bay in the 1976 expansion draft. The Buccaneers traded him to New Orleans for Saints safetyman Johnny Fuller just before the start of this summer's training camp. His former K. C. mentor, Hank Stram, intends to employ the veteran at strong safety.

COLLEGE: An All-Swac choice and NAIA All-American quarterback at Prairie View, Jim's favorite target was All-Pro receiver Otis Taylor — throwing him 12 scoring passes in a single season.

PERSONAL: During the off-season he works as a salesman for a liquor concern and operates his own maintenance firm in Kansas City . . . He owns a B. S. degree from Prairie View . . . Married (Eva), four children.

KINGREA, RICK, 6-1, 230, Middle Linebacker, 6th Year, Tulane
Born: July 18, 1949 at Pearisburg, Virginia
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1973

PRO: Normally the number one relief man at the middle linebacker post, Rick opened two games last year on the left side and acquitted himself well. In action in all 14 games, he was called upon as an extra linebacker when the defense demanded and overall got involved in 39 tackles. He also recovered three of the opposition's fumbles and performed admirably on the special teams. Away from the playing field he continued to serve as the club's player representative . . . Cleveland drafted him 14th in 1971 and a year later underwent surgery on his foot. In 1973 the Browns traded him to Buffalo but the Bills released him after four games that season. The Saints then signed him as a free agent and he played in the last nine contests that season.

COLLEGE: A two-year team captain at Tulane, he was the Green Wave's leading tackler each of those years and gained many post-season honors.

PERSONAL: Attended Baton Rouge (La.) High School . . . Married (Joni), one son (Rock, 6) . . . He lives in Metairie, La. . . . Studying Law at Loyola University and working in the New Orleans Police Department — public school program.

LA PORTA, PHIL, 6-4, 256, Tackle, 3rd Year, Penn State
Born: May 1, 1952 at Valley Stream, New York
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 9, 1974

PRO: After being used sparingly as a rookie in 1974 Phil came on strong last fall to play in all 14 games, including the last six as a starter at left tackle following a disabling shoulder injury to Dave Thompson. Despite a shortage of experience on the job, he was able to hold his own against some of the circuit's better pass-rushers. Providing protection for the passer will continue to rate extra attention during the drills as he turned in some fine work on ground plays. Although hobbled by an ankle sprain as a freshman he proceeded through the '75 campaign, undamaged and with the encouragement to become the Saints' number one left tackle. He ranks high in both intelligence and strength.

COLLEGE: At Penn State he was a number one offensive tackle and played in the Cotton, Sugar and Orange Bowl games before concluding his college career in the Senior Bowl contest.

PERSONAL: Attended Central High School in Valley Stream, New York, where he was awarded eleven letters in football, wrestling and baseball. An All-American selection in the latter sport, he was also a two-time county wrestling champion . . . He's studying for his degree in therapeutic recreation . . . Married (Nancy); son (Matthew, one).

LEE, BIVIAN, 6-3, 200, Cornerback, 6th Year, Prairie View
Born: August 3, 1948 at Austin, Texas
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 3, 1971

PRO: Last season is unquestionably one that this veteran cornerback would prefer to forget. It actually began auspiciously in training camp when he checked in a bit heavy at 222 pounds but proceeded to furnish the best pass coverage of his pro career. With the start of the regular season he encountered a series of problems, including some minor injuries and illness that sidelined him for three games and slowed him down in others. He wound up in a reserve role, intercepting two passes breaking up eight more and getting involved in 28 tackles. With increased knowledge and savvy, Bivian should, if he can remain free of injury, be ready to take his place among the league's most accomplished pass defenders.

COLLEGE: After being converted from quarterback to defensive back he led the SWAC with six interceptions as a sophomore . . . He gained All-SWAC acclaim each of his last three seasons and was a Little All-American pick while serving as team captain each of his last two years . . . In 1969 he shattered a Cotton Bowl record by racing 105 yards with an interception vs. Bishop . . . He was named Prairie View's MVP in 1970 and concluded that campaign by playing in the North-South Shrine Game in Miami.

PERSONAL: Attended Emile High School in Bastrop, Texas and holds a college degree in physical education and biology . . . Resides in New Orleans and works for the N. O. Police Department . . . Married (Cynthia).

MANNING, ARCHIE, 6-3, 215, Quarterback, 6th Year, Mississippi

Born: May 19, 1949 at Cleveland, Miss.

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 1, 1971

PRO: Plagued by a shoulder ailment, dropped balls and a generally inconsistent offense, Archie labored through 13 games before finally yielding to his sore wing and sitting out the final contest of 1975. A February operation should have cleared up that particular problem and a Hank Stram-plotted offense could step up the former All-American's efficiency beyond all previous levels. With all of the defeats, disabilities (a knee operation followed the 1974 campaign) and disappointments, the redoubtable redhead remains the same stalwart athlete who lashed the Saints to a 24-20 victory over Los Angeles in the first game he ever played in NFL competition. It's likely that his ballcarrying ability will be utilized to greater effect in the Stram set-up, with more of his passing also to be attempted on the move rather than from the pocket. In his most effective overall performance last autumn he fired his mates a final-second 20-19 conquest of Green Bay, completing 17 of 39 throws for 191 yards and a touchdown. A steady stream of injuries to his receivers resulted in his pitching to a wide variety of battery mates. And he was decked 49 times by enemy rushers for losses totaling 390 yards. He owns virtually all of the team's passing records and should bolster those figures in 1976.

COLLEGE: During his three seasons as the Ole Miss signal-caller Archie connected on 412 of 761 aerials (.541) for 4,753 yards and 31 touchdowns — all school records . . . His three-year total offense of 5,576 yards represented a new SEC mark . . . An All-SEC pick in 1969-70, he was also an All-American selection in 1969, when he set an Ole Miss single game standard by accounting for 540 yards total offense — 436 via 33 pass completions — vs. Alabama . . . At the conclusion of his last two seasons he earned MVP recognition in the Sugar Bowl and Gator Bowl.

PERSONAL: Attended Drew (Miss.) High School . . . Married (Olivia), sons (Cooper, two) and (Peyton, infant) . . . He toured the Far East with other NFL representatives in February, 1973 . . . Currently handling public relations duties for several companies in Louisiana and Mississippi.

MAXSON, ALVIN, 5-11, 205, Running Back, 3rd Year, S.M.U.

Born: November 12, 1951 at Beaumont, Texas

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 8, 1974

PRO: Suffering with the rest of the squad throughout the dismal 1975 season, Alvin could churn for only 371 yards and a 2.7-yard average after blazing brightly as a rookie with 714 yards and a 4.3-yard average. Starting at fullback in all but the final game, he could flash his freshman running form in only the Green Bay contest, netting 89 yards on 17 carries. While his rushing output dipped, his blocking held up well and he led the Saints in receiving for the second straight year with 41 catches. After reeling off a 66-yard TD run vs. St. Louis in 1974, the sturdy Maxson could break nothing longer than 14 yards last fall. A resurgence is likely this season as the unheralded S.M.U. product resumes slashing away at enemy defenses, being particularly effective on the inside action. He's demonstrated the power necessary to break tackles.

COLLEGE: A switch in offensive formations contributed to Alvin's netting "only" 744 yards rushing (6.2 average) as an S.M.U. senior after he'd piled up 1,012 and 1,005 yards as a sophomore and junior, respectively. He also led the Southwest Conference with 13 touchdowns in 1973, boosting his three-year career total to 25.

PERSONAL: Attended the famed Hebert High School in Beaumont, Texas, lettering in both track and football. He resides in Dallas, Texas.

McNEILL, ROD, 6-2, 219, Running Back, 3rd Year, U.S.C.

Born: March 26, 1951 at Durham, North Carolina

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4, 1974

PRO: After starting each of the Saints' six pre-season games last year Rod gave way to rookie Mike Strachan at the beginning of the regular campaign and didn't get another start until the twelfth game, when he checked in with his most productive effort, denting the defense for 56 yards on 13 carries. He followed up with 44 yards in the opening quarter of the next outing, vs. the New York Giants, then carried only four more times the rest of the game. In all he rushed for 206 yards, caught 18 passes for 140 yards and returned 10 kickoffs for 268 yards, including an 88-yard jaunt. He definitely has breakaway potential and he can catch and block — it would just seem to be a matter of hitting his stride. The development could now be sudden.

COLLEGE: After recovering from a fractured hip in 1971 he went on to rush for 1,330 yards in his last two years at U.S.C., increasing his three-season output to 1,718 yards (5.1 avg.) and 14 touchdowns — to rank seventh on the Trojans' all-time list of ground-gainers, despite playing in a back-up capacity as a junior and senior.

PERSONAL: Attended Baldwin Park (California) High School . . . He earned a B.S. in business management at U.S.C. and is seeking a law degree.

MERLO, JIM, 6-1, 225, Linebacker, 3rd Year, Stanford

Born: October 3, 1951 at Sanger, California

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4, 1971

PRO: In last summer's final pre-season contest Jim had ligaments in his knee torn in a freak on-the-field accident. The ensuing operation put him in drydock for all of the regular campaign. Completely rehabilitated he should resume where he left off in 1974 as one of the NFL's most promising outside linebackers. During his two years of pro combat the former Stanford stick-out had established himself as a tough defender against both the run and the pass, being a particularly intelligent operator in the Saints' secondary. He's not the biggest linebacker around but he's tough and a persevering workman. His return at full strength could help the club come back to its defensive form of 1974.

COLLEGE: A junior college All-American at Fresno (Calif.) City College, he went on to earn All-West Coast honors and be voted Stanford's MVP as a senior, after which he played in the East-West Shrine Game and the Hula Bowl Game — being named the most valuable defensive player in the latter contest. He'd also seen action in the 1972 Rose Bowl Game.

PERSONAL: Attended Sanger (Calif.) High School . . . In the off-season he attended California State University at Fresno to earn his master's degree in sociology.

MOORE, DERLAND, 6-4, 260, Defensive Tackle, 4th Year, Oklahoma

Born: October 7, 1951 at Malden, Missouri

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 2, 1973

PRO: A reliever in 13 games as a rookie in 1973, Derland has now started 28 straight games at a defensive tackle berth for the Saints. He was shifted to the outside for a few games last season and handled the chores skillfully but it's most likely that he'll remain on the inside, making maximum use of his size and strength. He was credited with three sacks and participation in 69 tackles (49 solo efforts) last autumn, despite early injuries which slightly handicapped his play during the first few weeks of the campaign. Quick off the ball and with sound football savvy, Moore could rise rapidly to become one of the league's top defensive tackles.

COLLEGE: An All-American and All-Big Eight choice at Oklahoma, where he played both defensive end and tackle, Derland participated in two Sugar Bowl Games and also received the Gomer Jones Award as the Sooners' outstanding lineman.

PERSONAL: Attended Poplar Bluff (Mo.) High School . . . A business education major, he now lives in Metairie, La. and is employed by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

MORRISON, DON, 6-5, 260, Offensive Tackle, 6th Year, Texas-Arlington. Born: December 16, 1949 at Ft. Worth, Texas
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4D, 1971

PRO: For the second year in a row a sprained ankle cramped Don's blocking style. He did hang in there, though, and battled through 13 of the 14 games. With a dislocated elbow also contributing to his troubles, he'd been sidelined for three contests in 1974 after starting and going most of the way in his first 42 NFL games. Last season was his third at right tackle after working the left side through his first two campaigns. An impressive performer from his first day in the Saints' training camp, he's never been less than a solid, dependable blocker who never stops giving the game his very best effort. If he can regain the physical edge he held previously he could have a banner campaign in 1975.

COLLEGE: While beefing up from 210 to 255 pounds during his college career, the UTA co-captain gained All-Southland Conference and All-Texas honors . . . He also excelled as a shot-putter, javelin-thrower and discus-tosser and was an honor roll engineering major.

PERSONAL: Attended Forney (Texas) High School . . . Married (Marsha) . . . He's farming 225 acres in Forney, Texas.

MYERS, TOM, 5-11, 184, Safetyman, 5th Year, Syracuse
Born: October 24, 1950 at Cohoes, New York
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 3a, 1972

PRO: Twice during the last season Tommy was victimized by sprained ankles and was inactive for five games and sub-par in several others. At that, he was able to lead the team with five interceptions — giving him 14 for his four-year career — while also recovering two enemy fumbles and swatting away eight aeriels. And there remained those head-on tackles with the 220-pound ballcarriers barreling downfield at full speed. He stopped 'em and kept getting up. In all, he accounted for 30 tackles — 19 of them by himself. He'll also call defensive signals and has held the ball for placekicks. An intelligent, spirited workman, the agile Irishman roams a wide range in the secondary from his free safety post and should continue to progress and an all-around defender.

COLLEGE: Syracuse's captain and an All-American selection in 1971, he participated in both the East-West Shrine and Hula Bowl Games . . . With 436 yards via punt returns in 1970 he smashed an Orange record previously held by Floyd Little . . . Tommy was also an outstanding lacrosse player.

PERSONAL: Attended Pulaski High School in New Britain, Connecticut . . . Married (Vicki) . . . Now lives in Los Altos, Calif. and has been doing graduate work at Foothill College.

PARKER, JOEL, 6-5, 212, Wide Receiver, 3rd Year, Florida
Born: April 23, 1952 at Clearwater, Florida
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 5, 1974

PRO: An auspicious freshman campaign in 1974 was followed up last autumn by injuries and disappointment. His receptions dropped from 41 to nine and his effectiveness was reduced considerably as he encountered difficulty in hanging onto passes that he normally would have put away. He actually caught passes in only four of the seven games in which he appeared and was finally erased for the season in game number ten, suffering from a sprained knee. It will be necessary for him to fully recover from May knee surgery in order for him to regain his rookie form and resume as an imposing target ranging short and deep in the opposition's secondary. He's demonstrated that he's got the speed to effectively run the long ball patterns, being a particular threat to shag the alley-oop flips in the end zone.

COLLEGE: In his last two seasons at Florida, laboring for a team that preferred to run the football, Parker grabbed 33 passes for 512 yards and four scores after pulling down ten tosses for 132 yards in his first varsity outing vs. Duke.

PERSONAL: Attended Clearwater (Florida) High School, where he was selected to prep All-America teams in both football and basketball. He was also one of the state's outstanding 440 runners . . . Received degree in banking and finance . . . Married (Mary Kay), one daughter (Joy, 4) . . . He played in the All-American Bowl in Tampa, Florida . . . POLLARD, BOB, 6-3, 250, Defensive Tackle, 6th Year, Weber State
Born: December 30, 1948 at Beaumont, Texas
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 11, 1971

PRO: Simply another fine season for the durable and hard-working Pollard in 1975. He extended to 70 the number of consecutive games that he's started for the Saints, participating in 97% of his team's defensive plays and leading his mates with seven sacks and 80 individual tackles. He was also credited with 22 assists and recovered a pair of enemy fumbles. In the final-game loss to Chicago it was typical of Bob that he would hang tough and produce his season-high of 12 solo tackles. An All-Rookie team pick in 1971, he's now the Saints' defensive captain and well respected by all who play with him or against him. Normally a tackle, he could also do the job at end, as he did frequently in 1974. He's far from being the biggest lineman in the league but he is among the quickest and most knowledgeable, with outstanding ability to pursue and overhaul run-away ballcarriers.

COLLEGE: After starting out at Texas Southern, he transferred to

PRICE, ELEX, 6-3, 260, Defensive Tackle, 4th Year, Alcorn State
Born: August 11, 1950 at Yazoo City, Mississippi
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1973

PRO: A solid obstacle confronting the opposition's running game, Elex is generally regarded as a dependable tackler with increasing prowess as a pass-rusher. Last fall was his best of three as a quarterback pursuer, as he nailed the would-be thrower six times. He also was credited with knocking down an enemy aerial and accounted for 42 solo tackles, fourth highest on the squad. In 1975, too, he extended to 42 the number of NFL games in which he's played without a miss. He's tough and durable with a desire to improve on every play . . . Price was a walk-into-training camp free agent in 1973 after having been overlooked in the NFL player draft.

COLLEGE: Elected to the Little All-American team as a junior and senior, he was rated by many observers as the best lineman ever developed at Alcorn.

PERSONAL: Attended N.D. Taylor High School in Yazoo City, Mississippi.

ROGERS, STEVE, 6-2, 200, Running Back, 2nd Year,
Louisiana State University
Born: August 26, 1953 in Jonesboro, La.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 7, 1975

PRO: After being waived the first week of last season, Steve was promptly resigned and saw action in 13 games as a special teams regular and part-time running back. In his initial pro campaign he gained 62 yards via 17 hauls (3.6 average) and his 22-yard carry represented the Saints' longest run from scrimmage last autumn. He also caught a pass for two yards and returned six kickoffs for 98 yards (16.3 average). An all-around solid offensive player, he's effective as both an inside and outside runner and as a blocker and receiver. With a year's work behind him he should be set for a strong pitch for a number one job. He could also have punting added to his assignments.

COLLEGE: Over a three-season period at L.S.U. Rogers lugged the ball 280 times for 1,311 yards (4.7 average). He accounted for 600 yards as a senior.

PERSONAL: In a single game at Ruston (La.) High School the prep All-American rushed for 192 yards. He was also a nationally ranked schoolboy hurdler . . . He makes his home in Ruston, La., where he attended Louisiana Tech in the off-season.

SCHMIDT, TERRY, 6-0, 177, Cornerback, 3rd Year, Ball State
Born: May 28, 1952 at Columbus, Indiana
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 5a, 1974

PRO: In his initial pro campaign Terry intercepted four passes in his first five games and wound up as a cornerback on the All-Rookie team despite suffering a foot injury in the ninth contest that shelved him for the rest of the season. In 1975 he was all over the secondary, on the corners and at safety, both as a starter and reliever, and participating in 13 games. He got in on 27 tackles, broke up eleven passes and returned one interception for 37 yards. As a special teams hand he garnered 78 yards on 11 punt runbacks and lugged a kickoff 34 yards. He's demonstrated that he can stay with the football when he's on the defense, although not an overpowering tackler. Where he'll ultimately wind up — cornerback or free safety — hasn't been determined yet but he might be more apt to regain his freshman form if he can concentrate on one post.

COLLEGE: The first Ball State athlete ever to participate in the East-West Shrine Game, Schmidt swiped an aerial in the 1973 contest after setting a school mark with 13 interceptions over three years, including five as a senior when he was voted MVP of his team. He was a first team College Division All-American choice by Kodak and the Football News. In high school and as a college freshman he'd been employed as a wide receiver.

PERSONAL: Attended Columbus (Indiana) High School, where he

KURT SCHUMACHER, 6-3, 260, Guard, 2nd Year, Ohio State
Born: December 26, 1952 in Cleveland, Ohio
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 1a, 1975 (Choice from New York Jets for Billy Newsome)

PRO: For Kurt the 1975 season provided more than its share of disappointment, as illness immediately followed his appearance in the College All-Star Game and further delayed his pro practice debut. Upon checking into the Saints' training camp he was channeled into a tackle slot due to front line injuries. It wasn't until two weeks before the start of the regular season that he received any work at his guard post. Most of his activity was confined to special teams duty until late in the campaign when he was installed as the number one left guard, a job that he'll be defending from challenges in 1976. With impressive strength, speed and intelligence, the ex-Buckeye would seem to be well equipped for a long and illustrious NFL career.

COLLEGE: A first team All-America pick by NEA in 1974, he also earned All-Big Ten honors via the Chicago Tribune as he started his last two years at left tackle for Ohio State. He participated in three Rose Bowl games, the 1975 Hula Bowl and the College All-Star Game.

PERSONAL: At Lorain (Ohio) High School Schumacher was an All-American fullback and linebacker — as well as a wrestler and discuss thrower . . . During the past winter he returned to Lorain to gain student teaching credit . . . Married (Jackie), son (Timothy, infant).

SCOTT, BOBBY, 6-1, Quarterback, 5th Year, Tennessee

Born: April 2, 1949 at Chattanooga, Tennessee

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 14, 1971

PRO: Last season isn't one that rollicking Robert will want to remember for too long. He'd seen action in only one game, completing eight of 17 passes for 96 yards vs. Cincinnati in the second 1975 contest before sustaining a sprained ankle two weeks later and sitting out the remainder on the campaign. It was a particularly unfortunate calamity since he'd closed 1974 on a high and encouraging note — but then that's the way things have gone for blond Bobby. He'd thrown for two touchdowns in the final quarter of a frantic but futile comeback effort at San Francisco in the '74 finale — for his finest showing in four years as an understudy to Archie Manning. Blessed with a strong arm and sound leadership ability — but a reluctant runner who'll remain in the pocket — Scotty should be able to get the job done on a fulltime basis.

COLLEGE: During his three-year stint at Tennessee he threw for 32 touchdowns and a school record 3,461 yards . . . His 385 yards passing vs. Florida in 1970 represented a Vols single game mark . . . He was named the MVP in the 1971 Sugar Bowl Game.

PERSONAL: Attended Rossville (Georgia) High School . . . Lives in Knoxville, Tennessee and serves as a supervisor for the Tipton Distributing Company of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. . . . Married (Patricia).

SEAL, PAUL, 6-4, 222, Tight End, 3rd Year, Michigan

Born: February 27, 1952 at Detroit, Michigan

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 2, 1974

PRO: During a season when all of the Saints' attackers suffered, Paul dropped a notch in production, nabbing 28 passes for 414 yards and a touchdown, slightly under his freshman output of 1974. But he did play in every game at his tight end post and was reducing his miscues as the campaign closed. He's still on the skinny side for a guy with all of his blocking responsibility but he continued to battle hard to improve his performance in that area. Added weight and strength would be welcomed and probably not jeopardize his excellent go-deep speed. A multi-pattern threat, he may require only keener concentration to develop into a sure-handed terror in the opposition's secondary. Not to be dismissed is his deftness at running the reverse from his tight end slot. He can be an elusive ballcarrier as well as a swift one.

COLLEGE: In a three-year college career Paul pulled down 33 passes for 510 yards and six touchdowns — on a Michigan team that seldom put the ball in the air. As a senior he served as co-captain and was voted his team's MVP. He was also an All-Big Ten choice and a second team All-American, and concluded his college efforts with appearances in the East-West Shrine Game and the Hula Bowl Game.

PERSONAL: Attended Pershing High School in Detroit, Michigan, claiming All-State distinction in football, basketball and golf, with All-City awards added for track and cross-country . . . He resides in Detroit.

performing on special teams and as the fifth defensive back in passing situations — Maurice broke through as a Saints starter last fall, on the corner for the second half of the season. Someone will have to beat him out for the job this year. His quickness enables him to get a good jump on passes and if he does make a mistake he can recover in a hurry, being particularly effective in deep coverage. There's also a definite willingness to come up and crack the ballcarrier on ground plays. In 1975 he notched 44 tackles — 27 solos — and shattered 15 of the opponents' air strikes with well-timed hits or deflections. Very confident of his own ability, he's not adverse to engaging in conversation those enemy receivers who would invade his territory . . . He also returned five kickoffs for 68 yards last year . . . Drafted third by Atlanta in 1974, he was first claimed on waivers by Los Angeles, then by New Orleans in rapid order.

COLLEGE: At North Carolina Central he intercepted 29 passes over four seasons and also ranked tenth nationally as a sophomore punt returner — averaging 18.7 yards for 15 runbacks.

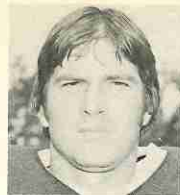

PERSONAL: The holder of a B.S. degree in biology, he now attends the Emory University School of Dentistry in Greensboro, North Carolina . . . He excelled athletically at the Walter H. Page High School in Greensboro.

STARKEBAUM, JOHN, 6-1, 213, Safety, 1st Year, Nebraska
Born: February 4, 1952 in Haxtun, Colorado.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4, 1975 (Choice from Philadelphia for Dick Absher)

PRO: Disaster struck early in the Saints' 1975 training camp for John. He was around for only a few days before suffering torn knee ligaments in a workout. An operation followed immediately and he was finished for the season. At the time of his departure he was striving to complete the transition from linebacker to strong safety. A tough, aggressive tackler, he'll likely resume his activities at safety this year, with the possibility always there that he could be relocated at the linebacker post he held down in college.

COLLEGE: A steady, dependable defender at Nebraska, he'd been red-shirted in 1971 and was a reserve monster man as a sophomore. In three consecutive years he played in the Orange Bowl, Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl.

PERSONAL: At Haxtun (Colorado) High School he was a two-time

STRACHAN, MIKE, 6-0, 195, Running Back, 2nd Year, Iowa State
Born: May 24, 1953 in Miami, Florida
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 9, 1975

PRO: A sparkling rookie season came to an abrupt halt for the slashing Strachan last November 30, when he fractured an ankle while blocking on an Alvin Maxson touchdown run in the rain and mud at Cleveland. At the time of the injury he'd piled up 99 ground yards in the first half to increase his year's final total to 668 yards (41.1 average). With three-and-a-half games to go he was a cinch to eclipse the Saints' one-season rushing record of 761 yards. In New Orleans' two 1975 victories Mike netted 105 yards on 24 hauls vs. Green Bay and 109 yards via 27 trips vs. Atlanta. As an every game starter he labored through a variety of minor hurts without missing any time. The quick-hitting freshman demonstrated that he can generate offense both inside and outside on the turf — while also snaring 30 passes for 224 yards. He enters the current campaign as the number one halfback.

COLLEGE: In three seasons at Iowa State Mike hammered out an all-time school record 3,011 yards on the ground. In a 1973 contest vs. Colorado he rushed for 198 yards on 40 carries. For three straight years he was named to the All-Big Eight team, despite struggling with banged-up legs as a senior and team captain. His final collegiate appearance was in the All-American Bowl in Tampa.

PERSONAL: At Jackson High School in Miami, Florida he was a standout running back . . . He earned a college degree in Industrial Education . . . Strachan spent the past off-season in New Orleans rehabilitating his ankle and working with the Police Department's community relations program in the public schools.

SZARO, RICH, 5-11, 205, Kicker, 2nd Year, Harvard
Born: March 7, 1948, at Brooklyn, New York
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

PRO: Appearing on the scene in an hour of desperate need last fall, Rich booted a pair of field goals in his initial NFL contest, one of which came on the game's final play to beat Green Bay, 20-19. He went on to provide the Saints with consistently effective placekicking, hitting on ten of 16 field goal attempts and 16 of 17 extra points. Additionally, seven of his kickoffs weren't returned beyond the opponents' 20 yard line. Ever-improving with his accuracy, he left-footed eight of his last eleven three-point efforts through the uprights and misfired on only one of nine shots from within 40 yards. A solid athlete, he's a tough-tackling safetyman on kickoffs . . . Prior to joining the Saints he'd had trials with Oakland and Philadelphia of the NFL and also kicked for the New England Colonials of the Atlantic Coast League and the WFL's Philadelphia Bell.

COLLEGE: An economics major at Harvard, Szaro also excelled in both soccer and football, where he was a hard-running half-back.

PERSONAL: Attended St. Francis Prep in Brooklyn . . . He was employed in the export business, utilizing his multi-lingual talents, when the Saints beckoned last autumn. Still a resident of Brooklyn, he was engaged in public relations and sales work for U. S. Air Freight, Inc. at J. F. Kennedy Airport last off-season.

WESTBROOKS, GREG, 6-2, 215, Linebacker, 2nd Year, Colorado
Born: February 27, 1953 in Chicago, Ill.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 17, 1975

PRO: By the end of last season Greg was the Saints' starting left side linebacker, a position he had earned through diligent efforts to develop into a NFL defender. He wound up participating in 48 tackles — including 15 solo jobs — 33 of which were produced over the last four games. Additionally, he was credited with two sacks and four pass deflections. For the underrated but very confident Westbrook it was necessary to successfully make the conversion from a college safetyman and monster-man to pro linebacker, undoubtedly the reason he was tapped late in the draft. He figures to be a prime contender for a starting outside linebacker berth in 1976 — as well as once again making a valuable contribution to the special teams.

ZANDERS

COLLEGE: A sprained ankle handicapped him during his senior season when he served as team captain and chipped in 54 tackles.

PERSONAL: After excelling at Lincoln (Neb.) High School he attended Mesa (Colo.) Junior College prior to transferring to Colorado in 1973 . . . He now resides in Kansas City, Mo., and was earning credits at Colorado during the past off-season.

WICKERT, TOM, 6-4, 246, Guard-Tackle, 3rd Year, Washington State
Born: April 5, 1952, at Astoria, Oregon
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1975

PRO: Signed by the Saints at the beginning of last season following his release by Miami, Tom got into one game, than sprained an ankle in practice and spent the remainder of the campaign on the reserve-injured list. He's expected to compete for a first string guard berth in 1976. The Dolphins had drafted him on the ninth round in 1974 and he was able to break into the offensive line on several occasions that season as well as seeing considerable special teams service through 13 games. His quickness could enable him to make a serious challenge for regular line work.

COLLEGE: A defensive lineman when he began his college career, he was shifted to offensive tackle as a junior.

PERSONAL: Wickert attended Redwood High School in Larkspur, California . . . Now a resident of Greenbrae, California, he's assisting as an offensive line coach at college, while also learning how to work in his father's marine machinery business.

ZANDERS, EMANUEL, 6-1, 263, Guard, 3rd Year, Jackson State
Born: July 31, 1951 at Demopolis, Alabama
Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1974

PRO: The Saints' regular right guard for all 14 games last season, the chunky "Z-man" will be striving to maintain that ranking in his third pro campaign. Overlooked in the 1974 player draft due to his lack of height, he signed with Miami as a free agent that summer and handled a guard assignment for six pre-season games before being released at the season's start. Emanuel joined the Saints as a free agent in time to get into the last ten contests, the final three as a starter at right guard. Although size is a problem, he has natural blocking ability and is a sturdy pass protector — with much yet to learn about techniques. He certainly has the desire to excel and is a nonstop worker on the field.

COLLEGE: As a guard at Jackson State Emanuel progressed from most outstanding freshman to team captain in his senior season, when he also earned All-Conference and All-NAIA honors.

PERSONAL: Holds a B.S. degree in health and education . . . Attended U. S. Jones High School in Demopolis, Alabama, where he excelled in football and basketball and made the academic honor roll . . . He now resides in New Orleans where he is employed as a counselor in the public school system.

GALBREATH, TONY, 6-0, 232, Running Back, Missouri

Born: January 29, 1954, Fulton, Missouri

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 2, 1976

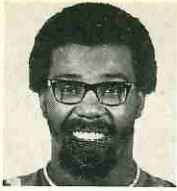

Tony was recommended by the scouts for his power running, blocking, and pass-catching ability. Although a fullback type, he is an elusive ball carrier who can glide or hit as the occasion demands. He is also capable of throwing an accurate pass on the run. He has worked hard to improve his blocking and faking . . . Despite being somewhat handicapped by an ankle injury, he rushed for 777 yards last season, including 120 yards in the upset win over Alabama, while also catching 18 passes for 195 yards. Tony averaged 4.2 yards per carry and scored ten touchdowns. He participated in the Blue-Gray Game, East-West Shrine Game, and Senior Bowl Game. He was named to the All Big 8 second team by UPI . . . In 1974 Tony rushed for 870 yards, third best in the Big 8, with his 194 yards against Kansas State being a single-season high. Additionally, he completed five of five passes, three for touchdowns, and rushed for eight more touchdowns. In 1975, too, he earned first team All Big 8 honors and was elected team captain and MVP . . . Tony has five brothers and six sisters and plays the bass in a band during his non-football moments. After his pro career he might want to coach. He excelled in football and basketball at Fulton (Mo.) High School, before earning J. C. All-America honors at Centerville (Iowa) Community College.

SIMMONS, BOB, 6-4, 254, Offensive Tackle, Texas

Born: July 1, 1954, Temple, Texas

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 3, 1976

After being named to the All Southwest Conference Team in his first two seasons, Bob duplicated the achievement as a senior and added first team All America honors from the AP, UPI, NEA, American Football Coaches, Walter Camp Foundation (for the second year), and Football News. OWENS

All American candidate. He finished his college career by participating in the Japan Bowl last January, after having already performed in two Cotton Bowls, the Gator Bowl, the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl and the Hula Bowl . . . A strong, intelligent athlete, he will bid to win a starting offensive tackle job with the Saints. A solid all-around blocker, he will likely have to devote a great deal of time to sharpening his pass protection efforts, since Texas did not throw with the frequency of an NFL team. He would seem to have all the tools necessary to adjust to pass-blocking and to develop into a top pro tackle . . . The Longhorns' captain in 1975, he was voted to the team's Leadership Award that same season . . . At Temple (Texas) High School he also garnered All-State basketball honors . . . Married (Sherry).

OWENS, TINKER, 5-11, 170, Wide Receiver, Oklahoma
Born: October 3, 1954, Miami, Oklahoma
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 4, 1976

"Tinker might drop one a year," says Galen Hall, Oklahoma's offensive coach, "And those will be in practice. But, I'm not sure he has dropped one every year." . . . According to the scouts, Owens has quick feet, great control, and makes the difficult catch under all conditions. He has exceptional hands and moves and never fails to give 100% effort. He's capable of giving the ultimate in concentration on every play . . . In his final season at Oklahoma, he played in the Orange Bowl and Japan Bowl and gained second team All Big 8 honors. In 1974 he was a first team NEA All America pick and caught 18 passes for 413 yards . . . A Time Magazine All-American choice last fall, he'd captured MVP honors in the 1972 Sugar Bowl . . . Attended Miami (Oklahoma) High School . . . His real first name is Charles . . . Married (Terri); daughter (Brandi, three).

PARRISH, SCOTT, 6-6, 270, Offensive Tackle, Utah State
Born: June 6, 1953, Logan, Utah
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 5, 1976

A two-year starter at Utah State, Scott has demonstrated sound blocking techniques on both ground plays and pass plays. He has the necessary quick feet and strength to get the job done, and additional work in the weight program figures to make him even stronger. He sustains his blocks well and comes off the ball quickly. While he does have more to learn to become a top blocker in the NFL, he has shown that he can get the job done. He suffered his only injury in college in his last varsity game breaking a bone in his hand . . . Participation in the Hula and Japan Bowls topped his senior campaign . . . Scott earned a B. S. in plant science . . . He also played college basketball and also sparkled in track at Logan (Utah) High School.

STIEVE, TERRY, 6-2, 250, Guard, Wisconsin
Born: March 10, 1954, Baraboo, Wisconsin
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 6, 1976

As a senior in 1975, Terry was named to the All Big 10 first team by AP and UPI. Characterized as a tough, hard worker, he has shown considerable improvement throughout his career at Wisconsin. The scouts say that he has good explosion and strength with the ability to jump off the ball quickly and hit on the rise. He has the speed and agility to pull out and lead the blocking on sweeps. On the basis of his past progress, he could develop into a solid NFL guard . . . The Badgers' co-captain in 1975, he wound up his college activity in the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl Games . . . Attended Baraboo (Wisconsin) High School . . . Married (Sandra).

BAUER, ED, 6-2, 249, Guard, Notre Dame
Born: February 25, 1953, Cincinnati, Ohio
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 7, 1976

Shifted from tight end to offensive tackle at Notre Dame, Ed will strive to earn a guard job with the Saints. He was hampered by a sprained ankle during the 1975 season, after having suffered foot and knee damage in previous seasons, but he was still able to give an excellent account of himself as a starting Irish tackle last year. He is an aggressive player who has been constantly improving and should be able to step up his progress while concentrating on one position. He hits and explodes as a pro guard should . . . CASSADY, CRAIG, 5-10, 178, Safety, Ohio State
Born: December 21, 1953, Columbus, Ohio
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 8, 1976

After serving as a reserve defensive back his first two varsity seasons, Craig was employed as the Buckeyes' starting open-side half back last season. The Saints will utilize his fine speed and ability to get to the ball at the free safety position, with the possibility that he will also be called upon to return punts. The scouts praised his good balance and agility and intelligence. He should have the capacity to learn all the necessary points about secondary defense in the NFL. A dedicated worker and hustler, he is the type of player who learns something with every workout . . . The son of former Ohio State All American Howard "Hopalong" Cassady, he played tailback on offense in high school prior to making the switch to defense in college . . . A first team All-Big 10 choice in 1975, he led the conference and ranked second in the nation with nine interceptions (for 105 yards in returns). Craig was also involved in 34 tackles and broke up eight aeri-als. He played in consecutive Rose Bowls in 1974-75-76 . . . An All-State selection in both football and baseball at Whetstone High School in Columbus, he was also voted in to that school's Hall of Fame.

PEIFFER, WARREN, 6-5, 260, Defensive Tackle, Iowa
Born: July 7, 1953, Ottumwa, Iowa
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 9, 1976

In hopes that his injuries are all behind him, the Saints selected Warren to compete for one of the defensive tackle assignments. A knee ligament injury prior to the opening game in 1974 necessitated surgery and kept him on the side lines throughout that season. Last year he was shifted from offensive tackle to defensive tackle and was making excellent progress until he suffered a broken arm in the first quarter of the third game. He was unable to play the rest of the season . . . At Keota (Iowa) High School he captained the football, track, and basketball teams in his senior year and was named All Conference in basketball and track . . . His brother Dan was starting center for the Chicago Bears last season . . . Warren earned his degree in Industrial Relations.

HARDIN, JUNIOR, 6-1, 235, Middle Linebacker, Eastern Kentucky
Born: August 16, 1953, Lexington, Ky.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 10, 1976

Touted as one of the strongest, quickest and toughest men on the Eastern Kentucky squad last season, Junior played consistently good football throughout 1975. An ROTC officer, he is an exceptional leader who was elected co-captain by his teammates last year. A first-team All-Ohio Valley Conference choice in 1974, he went on to earn conference MVP and College Division All American honors while playing middle guard last fall. The Saints will give him a shot at the middle linebacker position . . . He has definite possibilities if he can continue to develop as a pass defender. He is an aggressive, solid hitter with fine balance, quickness and lateral movement . . . A sociology and history major, he aims to continue with graduate work in those subjects. A trumpet player and singer, his long range plans include writing and arranging music . . . He attended Bryan Station High School in Lexington, Kentucky.

KOKAL, GREG, 6-1, 180, Quarterback, Kent State
Born: October 15, 1954, Euclid, Ohio
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 11, 1976

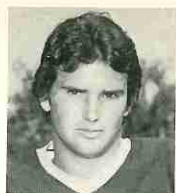

As a freshman Greg broke in impressively by throwing for 310 yards and 2 touchdowns against Tampa in the Tangerine Bowl. As a senior in 1975 he gained 1,754 yards passing and 2,010 yards total offense to rank eighth in the nation in that department . . . According to the scouts, he has a great arm and wrist action with a very quick release. A capable ball carrier, he passes very well on the run. As an all-around, fine athlete, he should be able to make a strong bid for a quarterback assignment with the Saints.

BUTTS, MILTON, 6-4, 244, Offensive Tackle,

Born: September 16, 1953, South Bend, Indiana

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 12, 1976

If hustle and hard work will make it happen then Milton stands a pretty fair chance of earning a job in the NFL. Still to be mastered are effective inline and pass protection blocking techniques. He has the ability to stay on his feet and sustain his block. There is every indication that he will be able to learn his position and show constant improvement as a player. A weight program should be most beneficial . . . Attended John Adams High School in South Bend, Indiana . . . He plans to earn his MA in history at No. Carolina Central, then to eventually teach school.

DOWNING, KENNY, 5-10, 180, Safety, Missouri

Born: May 27, 1954, Amarillo, Texas

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 13, 1976

Continuous improvement throughout his varsity career as he started 34 straight games after breaking in during his sophomore season, culminated in Kenny's playing his best football last November. He concluded his college career participating in the All-American Bowl in Tampa after playing in the Sun Bowl and Blue-Gray Games. At his best he will support effectively against the ground game, being capable of beating the lead blockers on sweeps and containing the advance of the ballcarrier. His tackling has been consistently good, both in secondary and on special teams and was rated the team's surest tackler while leading the Tigers' secondary in that department. He can also be utilized to return punts and kickoffs. His pass coverage has improved steadily . . . In 1975 he was named to the All Big 8 team by AP and UPI and to third team All America by the

HUCKE, RICHARD, 6-5, 260, Defensive End, Western Montana

Born: August 2, 1954, Fallon, Nevada

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 14, 1976

Regarded as the Frontier Conference's number one candidate for pro football, the Western Montana Press Book described Rich as "Blacksmith-strong and double durable." He played both offensive tackle and defensive end in college, but will be tested as a D. E. by the Saints. As a junior he had played some tight end and has also punted, ranking among the NAIA's leading booters with a 42.7 yard average as a senior, and placekicked. The weight program will improve his upper body development and his strength. He has good mobility and would seem to need only work and game experience to step up the quality of his play. Rich was voted to the NAIA District 12 All-Star squad . . . He was an All-State defensive end at Churchill County High School in Fallon, Nevada . . . According to his college coach, George Nelson, "He has displayed School in Fallon, Nevada . . . According to his college coach, George Nelson, "He has displayed all the essentials for pro success - strength, speed, agility, intelligence, and self-discipline."

Born: July 30, 1952, Stillwater, Oklahoma

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 15, 1976

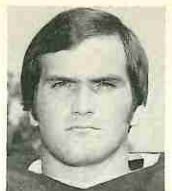

During the course of the 1975 season, Steve made excellent progress, particularly improving his pass rush. His quickness and strength are rated high and lots of hard work could bring him around. Military Academy, he transferred to Wichita State for his last three years of varsity play and gained All-Missouri Valley Conference acclaim, while also being named his team's outstanding defensive player . . . As a freshman he was number two scorer on the basketball team . . . At Wichita Heights (Kansas) High School he was an All-City defensive end and an All-State basketball forward . . . He served in the Army, 1970-72, as a Spec. 4 before entering West Point . . . Married (Sally.)

JONES, GENE, 6-5, 260, Offensive Tackle, Bowling Green

Born: July 27, 1954, Victorville, California

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 16, 1976

If he acquires some meanness and develops his upper body strength, Gene could turn out to be another late-round surprise for the Saints. He has size, agility, and balance in his favor and can deliver a good shot at the line of scrimmage. He has worked hard to improve his footwork . . . He played in the Ohio Shrine Bowl Game after being accorded second team All-Mid-American Conference status in 1974 and 1975 . . . Gene was a basketball and football standout at St. Thomas Aquinas High School in Louisville, Ohio.

The Saints want to wish their fan clubs the best of luck with their activities in 1976, and thank them for their loyal support . . .
