THE MATCHUP

With both starting units conducting one of their final tuneups for the regular season, the Saints (1-1) will travel to Los Angeles to face the Chargers (1-1) on Saturday to close out their 2018 preseason road slate. The contest will be played at the StubHub Center in Carson, Calif. at 7 p.m. CT and will be broadcast nationally on CBS. The game will take place after two days of joint practices between the Saints and Chargers.

The two clubs conducted two days of joint practices on the West Coast in 2017 with their last preseason meeting taking place when the Saints beat the Chargers 13-7 on August 20, 2017, as New Orleans broke a ten-game losing streak in the preseason dating back to 2014 and then-rookie running back Alvin Kamara first burst on the scene with a first quarter, 50-yard rushing touchdown, the opening act in a standout season that ended with Associated Press Offensive Rookie of the Year honors.

New Orleans will practice with the Chargers on Wednesday and Thursday in Costa Mesa, Calif. to prepare for Saturday's nationally televised preseason tilt. The Saints are seeking to clean up mistakes from their 20-15 loss to the Arizona Cardinals on Friday night at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome. The Chargers got their first victory of the 2018 preseason when they defeated the Seattle Seahawks, 24-14 on Saturday.

Second-year quarterback Taysom Hill started for the Saints and played the entire first half. He completed 11-of-15 passes for 68 yards and also added a 43-yard rush, but the New Orleans offense was hurt by four turnovers in the first half.

The New Orleans rushing attack carried the load for the Saints offense throughout the contest as they had 28 running attempts for 183 yards (6.5 avg.) and one touchdown by rookie quarterback J.T. Barrett. A quartet of tailbacks, including Mark Ingram II, Boston Scott, Terrence West and Jonathan Williams combined for 23 carries for 127 yards (5.5 avg.).

Quarterback Tom Savage entered the game in the second quarter in relief of Hill and completed six-of-seven passes for 53 yards. In fighting for a spot in New Orleans' receiving rotation, rookie wideout Tre'Quan Smith posted three catches for 60 yards.

The Saints starting defense held the Cardinals to three-and-outs on their first two offensive possessions and limited them to 65 rushing yards on 25 carries in the contest (2.5 avg.). Linebacker Alex Anzalone led New Orleans with five tackles.

On special teams, kicker Wil Lutz was in midseason form, drilling all three field goal attempts, including a 52-yarder. The New Orleans kick return game provided some juice as Scott and Brandon Tate combined to average 31.8 yards per return. Rookie defensive back J.T. Gray led the coverage units with two stops

THE COACHES

New Orleans Saints Head Coach Sean Payton has posted a 112-76 overall record (.596), including a 7-5 post-season mark (.583) after the franchise had won only one playoff game prior to his arrival. Payton holds the club's top win total and winning percentage for a head coach. Payton enters the 2018 campaign and continues to represent the Saints as the model of stability not only within the NFC South, as he is the longest tenured head coach within the division, but also within the National Football League. Only New England's Bill Belichick (2000), Cincinnati's Marvin Lewis (2003) and Green Bay's Mike McCarthy (hired one week prior to Payton in 2006) have been with their teams longer. Payton is also one of just eight active coaches to lead a team to a Super Bowl victory. The others are New England's Bill Belichick, Seattle's Pete Carroll, Oakland's Jon Gruden (Tampa Bay in 2002), Baltimore's John Harbaugh, Packers Mike McCarthy, Philadelphia's Doug Pederson and Pittsburgh's Mike Tomlin. The 2017 Saints yielded an 11-5 regular season record, producing their first playoff berth since 2013, behind a squad led by QB Drew Brees offensively and DE Cameron Jordan defensively, this team featured seven players selected to the Pro Bowl, tied for the most in club history and four draft picks selected to the PFWA All-Rookie Team, two more than any other club. With RB Alvin Kamara and CB Marshon Lattimore, the 2017 Saints were the first team to have both the Associated Press NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year and Defensive Rookie of the Year since 1967. The Saints defense saw improvement in virtually every major statistical category. New Orleans moved up ten spots in total defense, including from 32nd to 15th against the pass. After ranking 31st in opponent points per game in 2016, New Orleans moved up to tenth in 2017, surrendering only 20.4 points per game. Payton earned a bachelor's degree in communications at Eastern Illinois, where as a quarterback he had 10,665 passing yards, at the time the third-highest total in NCAA Division I-AA history. Payton was inducted into the Eastern Illinois Hall of Fame in September of 2000 and had his jersey retired in a ceremony in September of 2010. He received an honorary doctorate from his alma mater in 2013. Payton was born Dec. 29, 1963 in San Mateo, Calif., and raised in Naperville, Ill., Payton has a daughter, Meghan and a son, Connor.

Los Angeles Chargers Head Coach Anthony Lynn is in his second season leading the Bolts, after helping them post a 9-7 record in his first campaign in charge of an NFL team. Prior to his move to the West Coast in 2017, Lynn was the assistant head coach and running backs coach for the Buffalo Bills from 2015 to 2016, gaining offensive coordinator responsibilities last season as well. Prior to the final game of 2016, Lynn was promoted to interim head coach for a Week 17 matchup against the New York Jets; the Bills fell, 30-10. Before being hired as an assistant in Buffalo, Lynn served as running backs coach for the New York Jets between 2009 and 2014, where he was part of a team that twice went to the AFC Championship game, in both 2009 and 2010. In 2007 and 2008, Lynn tutored running backs for the Cleveland Browns, and in 2005 and 2006, he served in the same role for the Dallas Cowboys. Between 2003 and 2004, Lynn coached the running backs for the Jacksonville Jaguars, before which he acted as a special teams assistant for the Denver Broncos from 2000 to 2002. Before beginning his career as a coach, Lynn enjoyed a six-year career as a player, serving as a running back from 1993 to 1999. After going undrafted in 1992, Lynn was signed by the Denver Broncos, appearing in 13 games in 1993. In 1995, he was picked up by the San Francisco 49ers and recorded his first NFL carry, a five-yard gain against Atlanta on Sept. 10, 1995. In 1996, he recorded his only NFL start and had the longest rush of his career, a 67-yard gain against Atlanta on Sept. 29, 1996. He returned to the Broncos in 1997 and was part of the teams that won Super Bowls XXXII and XXXIII before retiring after the 1999 campaign. Before his career in the NFL, Lynn played running back at Texas Tech from 1988 to 1991.

LAST MEETING

New Orleans Saints 35, San Diego Chargers 34; October 2, 2016 @ Qualcomm Stadium – The Saints' dramatic come-from-behind victory gave New Orleans an all-time 5-7 record against the Chargers with their third straight win in the all-time series, all since quarterback Drew Brees joined the Saints as an unrestricted free agent in 2006 after starting his NFL career with the Chargers from 2001-05. New Orleans completed the comeback when fullback John Kuhn scored on a one-yard touchdown run with 1:57 left in the contest. The win would also put the Saints in the win column after their second consecutive 0-3 start.

New Orleans jumped out to the 14-7 lead early with a pair of touchdown passes by Brees in the return to the home stadium where he represented the Chargers for his first five campaigns as a professional, San Diego responded with 17 consecutive points, capped by a one-yard touchdown run by running back Melvin Gordon with 13 seconds left in the first half to give the chargers a 24-14 halftime lead.

New Orleans got on the scoreboard first in the second half when Kuhn scored on a one yard run as New Orleans entered the fourth quarter trailing 24-21. San Diego extended their lead back to 34-21 in the fourth quarter on another one-yard touchdown for by Gordon and a 47-yard field goal by kicker Josh Lambo. Saints rookie safety Vonn Bell forced a fumble, recovered by defensive end Darryl Tapp at the San Diego 13-yard line. Following three straight run plays, Brees completed a five-yard touchdown to rookie wide receiver Michael Thomas in the end zone to move New Orleans within six. On San Diego's next play from scrimmage, wide receiver Travis Benjamin fumbled a ball that was picked up by linebacker Nate Stupar at the Chargers 31-yard line. Brees then engineered the seven-play, 31-yard drive that set up Kuhn's game-winning run. Cornerback B.W. Webb recorded an interception with 1:18 remaining to secure the win.

With Brees returning to play at San Diego for the first time since he was a member of the Chargers, he completed 23-of-36 passes for 207 yards, engineering his 38th career fourth quarter/overtime comeback.

Defensively, Bell started and added nine tackles to his fumble recovery, while defensive end Cameron Jordan (one), defensive tackle Nick Fairley (1.5) and defensive end Paul Kruger each collected sacks. Jordan also added a forced fumble.

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS-LA CHARGERS SERIES HISTORY

The Chargers have a slight edge in the regular season series between the two clubs, leading it 7-5. However, six of the Chargers' wins came in the first seven matchups between 1973 and 1997. Since 2000, the Saints lead the series, 4-1, including victories in 2008 at Wembley Stadium in London, England, 2012 at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome, and 2016 at Qualcomm Stadium in San Diego since former Chargers signal-caller Drew Brees signed with the Black and Gold as an unrestricted free agent in 2006.

In New Orleans' first regular season contest overseas on October 26, 2008, Brees completed 30-of-41 passes for 339 yards, three touchdowns, zero interceptions and a 121.9 passer rating to lead the Saints to a 37-35 win, while linebacker Jonathan Vilma had nine solo tackles and one fourth quarter interception

New Orleans entered the 2012 contest with an 0-4 record on the year, yet they emerged with a 31-24 victory as Brees surpassed Johnny Unitas' record for consecutive games with a touchdown pass, hitting wide receiver Devery Henderson on a 40-yard strike to notch Brees' 48th straight game with a touchdown through the air. Wide receiver Marques Colston was the recipient of Brees' other three touchdown passes as both he and Henderson surpassed the 100-yard receiving mark. Brees completed 29-of-45 throws for 370 yards and a 110.4 passer rating on his record-breaking night.

Brees also rallied the Saints from an 0-3 start in San Diego in the 2016 contest at Qualcomm Stadium, engineering a fourth quarter comeback to put the Saints in the win column for the first time that season.

The Saints trail the Chargers in preseason play as well, having won only three of their seven meetings, but the last two contests, as they will look to tie the exhibition series on Saturday night.

The last time the two teams met in exhibition play was 2017, when the Saints traveled to Southern California early and practiced with the Chargers for two days prior to posting a 13-7 win at the Stubhub Center on August 20. The Black and Gold broke a ten-game losing streak in the pre-season in the process. Saints rookie running back Alvin Kamara showed the first signs of his potential brilliance as a professional in the contest when he had a spectacular 50-yard rushing touchdown just over two minutes into the contest. He also added a 22-yard reception and 11 -yard punt return in his limited action on the evening. Kicker Wil Lutz also booted two field goals as New Orleans' offense and special teams were backed by a defensive performance that surrendered only 158 total net yards and zero offensive points. Linebacker Manti Te'o in facing his former team for the first time, led the Saints with eight tackles and a sack, while Craig Robertson posted six stops and a quarterback takedown and A.J. Klein split a sack, as the club's 2017 linebacking trio provided a preview of things to come. In addition to Lutz's two field goals, punter Thomas Morstead had a 46.7 net punting average as he booted five of his nine kicks inside-the-20-yard line to help New Orleans win the field position battle.

PRESEASON SUMMARIES

Week 1: Saints 24, Jacksonville Jaguars 20; August 9, 2018 @ TIAA BANK FIELD

The New Orleans Saints won their preseason opener against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Thursday night - a 24-20 comeback victory - but more importantly the coaching staff got long looks at the two players competing to be Drew Brees' backup at quarterback, Tom Savage and Taysom Hill.

Savage started the game and played every offensive snap in the first half except for the final one and completed 10 of 14 passes for 70 yards while leading the Saints to their first touchdown, a 2-yard run by Mark Ingram.

Hill played most of the second half and almost did more damage with his legs than his right arm as he ran seven times for 52 yards while completing 8 of 9 passes for 72 yards. Hill played with the reserve offensive line and several times was forced to quickly scramble rather than go through his reads. He scored on a 3-yard run midway through the fourth quarter, a called run for the quarterback out of BYU.

Rookie J.T. Barrett IV came on late and following linebacker Jayrone Elliott's forced fumble that was recovered by Taylor Stallworth led the Saints on a short game-winning drive. Running back Jonathan Williams scored the winning points with a 4-yard run with 2:55 to play.

Brees was just one of several high-profile Saints players who sat out the preseason contest, with Cameron Jordan and first-round pick Marcus Davenport being two other prominent DNPs. But the Saints played starting tailbacks Ingram and Alvin Kamara, star wide receiver Michael Thomas and star cornerback Marshon Lattimore among other first-string players.

Receiver Brandon Tate had a 37-yard return in the first half, defensive end Mitch Loewen was active on the second-team defense and defensive tackle Devaroe Lawrence had two sacks. Elliott also had another second strip-sack in the final minutes, finishing with 2.5 sacks. Third-round pick Tre'Quan Smith had a nice debut with four receptions for 48 yards.

Week 2: Arizona Cardinals 20, Saints 15; August 17, 2018 @ Mercedes-Benz Superdome

The 2018 preseason home opener was a tough one for the New Orleans Saints offense. Taysom Hill started at quarterback and committed four turnovers. Tom Savage got the nod to start the second half and promptly was sacked and almost lost a fumble in the end zone. The Saints recovered on that play but couldn't rally in the game as the Arizona Cardinals won 20-15 at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome.

Hill, a second-year player out of Brigham Young, competing with Savage to be Drew Brees' backup, had two interceptions and two lost fumbles and couldn't get the Saints' offense on track. The first interception bounced off the hands of receiver Cameron Meredith but the second was an overthrown pass intended for Ted Ginn Jr. The first lost fumble came on a mixup in the backfield. The second fumble ended his best drive of the night as Hill had completed five consecutive passes before a strip-sack ended the possession.

Hill did lead the Saints on a drive that ended with a 52-yard Wil Lutz field goal. The key play was a 43-yard scramble by Hill. He was 11 of 15 passing for 68 yards.

Savage was six of seven for 53 yards. He also led the Saints on a drive that ended in a Lutz field goal, this one from 31 yards in the fourth quarter. Rookie J.T. Barrett played the final six minutes and scored the Saints' lone touchdown on a 12-yard scramble with 12 seconds to play. The two-point conversion attempt failed. Barrett also engineered a drive that ended in a Lutz field goal, this one from 37 yards.

Brees didn't play for the second consecutive preseason game. He was joined on the bench by star defensive end Cam Jordan and star running back Alvin Kamara.

The Saints starting offensive line opened the game - including left guard Andrus Peat - and it looked dominant for the brief action the group saw as Mark Ingram ran seven times for 36 yards and Jonathan Williams added 37 yards on eight carries. Rookie receiver Tre'Quan Smith also flashed, catching two passes for 41 yards.

Veteran Sam Bradford started at quarterback for Arizona and led the Cardinals to their first touchdown, a 9-yard run by David Johnson. Rookie Josh Rosen came in during the second quarterback and fired a bullet 13-yard scoring pass to Christian Kirk. The Cardinals added two field goals to round out their scoring.

RUN GAME RESURGENCE

After rushing for 100 yards as a team only once in their first four games in 2017, the Saints went for over 100 yards in each of their next eight contests in which they went 7-1.

After averaging 108.9 yards per game rushing in 2016, the Saints averaged 129.4 yards rushing per game in 2017, ranked fifth in the NFL.

The emergence of the Saints running attack over the final three months of the season was largely aided by the ability and performance of Mark Ingram II and Alvin Kamara. The tailback duo combined for 250 carries for 1852 yards (7.4 avg.) and 20 touchdowns. With Ingram leading the team in rushing (career-high 1,124) and rushing touchdowns (career-high 12) for the fourth straight season, and Kamara (6.1) leading the National Football League in yards per carry. The Saints finished the 2017 season with an NFL-best 23 rushing touchdowns, the second-highest team total behind 28 in 1979.

OFFENSIVE NOTES

HOLDING THE LINE

Ahead is a synopsis of several returning players and newcomers through the draft, free agency and trade to the 2018 Saints offensive line:

LT Terron Armstead - The club's first third round draft choice in 2013 out of Arkansas-Pine Bluff, Armstead impressed scouts by running the fastest 40-yard dash time (4.71) by an offensive lineman in the history of the NFL Scouting Combine. He has opened 46 regular season games for New Orleans, returning to action in week six in 2017 after missing the first four contests with a shoulder. Armstead has also opened four postseason contests.

T/G Andrus Peat - A first round selection (13th overall) in the 2015 NFL Draft out of Stanford, Peat was considered one of the top college offensive linemen in 2014. In his final season in Palo Alto as a junior, Peat started all 13 games at left tackle for the Cardinal, anchoring the left side of an offensive line ranked 18th nationally in fewest tackles for loss allowed (4.62/game) and 42nd in fewest sacks allowed (1.77/game), blocking for an offense that averaged 158.8 yards per game on the ground. Peat was named a first-team All-American by ESPN.com, The Sporting News and SI.com and received second-team honors from the Associated Press. In his rookie campaign, Peat saw action in 12 contests with eight starts, being inserted into several offensive packages, including two starts at left tackle in place of an injured Armstead. In 2016, Peat took a massive step forward, starting 15 contests at left guard, left tackles and as an extra tight end and blocking for the most productive offense in the NFL (426.0 ypg.), also opening the NFC Divisional Playoff at left guard. Headed into his fourth season, Peat now possesses both a veteran's experience and youthful athleticism, making him key to the Saints' future success.

T Ryan Ramczyk - The Black and Gold used their second first round selection in the 2017 NFL Draft to snag Ramczyk, viewed by many as one of the best offensive linemen in the entire draft. The 6-6, 314 lb. tackle moved from Division III Wisconsin-Stevens Point to the University of Wisconsin, and in just one season with the Badgers, he flourished. Ramczyk started all 14 games in 2016 and was a consensus All-American, blocking for an offense that gained 203.1 rushing yards per game and allowing just a single sack. Ramczyk figures to make an immediate impact in year two in holding down the right side following the retirement of RT Zach Strief after opening all 16 games and both postseason contests in 2017 and being selected as a PFWA All-Rookie.

C Max Unger - After being acquired by the Saints via trade in the 2015 offseason, Max Unger has anchored the middle of the New Orleans line for the past three seasons, starting all 47 contests he's appeared in at center and serving as a team captain in 2016 and 2017. Originally a second round draft pick of the Seattle Seahawks in 2009, Unger has been named a first-team All-Pro by the Associated Press in 2012 and is a two-time Pro Bowler. The Hawaii native has opened all 114 games he has played in since 2009.

G Larry Warford - Originally selected by the Detroit Lions in the third round of the 2013 NFL Draft (65th overall) out of Kentucky, this sixth-year guard brought size, strength and foot quickness to the Saints' offensive line in 2017, as he started all 14 regular season games and both postseason contests at right guard. New Orleans' rush offense responded to his addition, as the ground game finished ranked fifth in the NFL as he was named to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career.

G Josh LeRibeus - A third-round pick by Washington in 2012, LeRibeus had played in 28 games with 12 starts as well as two additional postseason appearances. In signing with the Saints in the offseason, LeRibeus appeared in all 16 regular season games and both postseason contests as a valuable backup at left guard and also contributing as a lead blocker.

G Andrew Tiller - This fourth-year offensive lineman returns to New Orleans after originally entering the NFL as a sixth-round selection (179th overall) by the Saints in the 2012 NFL Draft. After his first stop with the Saints, he had practice squad stints with the Chargers, Packers and Chiefs. He has appeared in 28 games with 14 starts for the San Francisco 49ers. Tiller has the experience and versatility to play both guard positions along the offensive line.

T Rick Leonard - A two-year starter at right tackle at Florida State after transitioning from defensive end, Leonard excelled in both pass protection and run-blocking as he opened 19 games out of 37 games played. Leonard, who can play both tackle and guard, will compete for a roster spot in training camp.

C/G Will Clapp - A technically proficient player, who through the combination of size, strength and intelligence, was a three-year starter on the LSU offensive line, starting all 36 games that he appeared in (13 at center, 12 at left guard, 11 at right guard), earning first-team All-SEC honors at both guard and center. Blocking for 1,000-yard rushers in each of his three-seasons in Baton Rouge, Clapp settled in at center in 2017, where he was a first-team All-Southeastern Conference selection and a Rimington Trophy finalist, the position where the New Orleans native will start to see work, while also contributing at guard.

DEFENSIVE NOTES

DEFENSIVE DRAFT

Over the NFL Drafts from 2015-17, New Orleans has shown a commitment to improving the defense, spending 14-of-21 picks on that side of the ball. With nine picks in the 2015 NFL Draft, the Saints picked six defensive players, the most taken since New Orleans chose nine defensive players in a 12-round selection meeting in 1990. Below is an overview of the players selected by New Orleans from 2015-17 on the 53-man roster:

Linebacker Alex Anzalone, Florida (D3b-17) - A 6-3, 241 lb. linebacker, Anzalone showcased plenty of potential at Florida. As a senior, he started the first eight games for the Gators until a broken forearm ended his campaign. Despite the shortened season, Anzalone still ranked third on the team with 53 tackles and racked up three sacks and one fumble recovery. The three-time SEC Academic Honor Roll recipient plays with both physicality and intelligence and has made an immediate impact as a starter on the outside from day one where he recorded 14 tackles, one sack and one pass defended for being placed on Injured Reserve in Week Five.

Safety Vonn Bell, Ohio State (D2b-16) - Selected by New Orleans in the second round (61st overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft, Bell was a consensus All-American and one of the top rated defensive backs in the NFL Draft. As a senior, the Rossville, Ga. native was a Jim Thorpe Award semifinalist after recording 65 tackles and adding two interceptions, one brought back for a touchdown, one fumble recovery and 11 passes defended. During his 2016 rookie season, Bell translated that collegiate success to the NFL with ease, starting 14 games and finishing second on the team with 98 tackles (59 solo) and first on the team with two forced fumbles. In 2017, Bell played in all 16 games with ten starts and had a team-high 78 tackles (57 solo), 4.5 sacks, to tie for second on the team, two passes defended, two forced fumbles and five special teams tackles. In the postseason, he led the team with 17 tackles and one sack.

Defensive Tackle Tyeler Davison, Fresno State (D5b-15) - This run-stopping widebody defensive lineman played in 53 career games at Fresno State from 2011-14 and made 28.5 stops for a loss and 14.5 sacks. After moving into the starting lineup in 2016, Davison has continued to improve, with his 31 tackles (21 solo), one pass defended and two forced fumbles not showing his true value as a run-stopper. In the postseason, he added nine tackles and one sack.

Defensive End Trey Hendrickson, Florida Atlantic (D3c-17) - This former third round draft choice in the 2017 NFL Draft (103rd overall) out of Florida Atlantic brought his raw talent, size, strength and speed to a youthful Saints defensive line that saw vast statistical improvements as a unit in 2017. In his first season as a pro the rotational pass rusher appeared in 12 regular season games posting 13 tackles (seven solo), two sacks for 15 yards lost, two passes defended and one forced fumble. The Central Florida native missed the final three regular season games due to an ankle injury, but was able to play in both postseason contests gaining valuable playoff experience.

Linebacker Hau'oli Kikaha, Washington (D2-15) - New Orleans' second round pick (44th overall) of the 2015 NFL Draft, Kikaha made an immediate impact on the Saints defense, starting the first six games of his rookie campaign and 10 overall, while playing in 15 games. He recorded 56 tackles (41 solo), four sacks, one pass defended, four forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and three special teams stops. His four takedowns tied for the sixth-most in the NFL among rookies, while he finished tied for second in the league in forced fumbles, the lone rookie with four. Suffering a knee injury in the Saints offseason program in 2016 that would sideline him the whole season, the former University of Washington standout returned to form in 2017 and finished fourth on the team with four takedowns.

Cornerback Marshon Lattimore, Ohio State (D1a-17) - The 11th overall selection in the 2017 NFL draft and the first cornerback taken, Lattimore possesses all the traits of a lockdown defender. In 2016 at Ohio State, he was named first team All-Big Ten after recording four interceptions during the year. With his agile, fluid style of play, Lattimore has the ability to shut down even the best wide receivers. He played a critical role in the Black and Gold pass defense unit as a rookie in 2017, as he moved into the starting lineup in Week One. In October, he became the first Saints rookie since 2000 to capture the NFL Defensive Rookie of the Month award, when he had 16 tackles, two interceptions, one returned for a touchdown, five passes defended and one fumble recovery and also captured the award for his performance in December. For the regular season, he finished with 53 stops, five picks, to lead all NFL rookies and lead the Saints, tying a team rookie record, a club-best 18 passes defended, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. Lattimore was the first New Orleans cornerback selected to the Pro Bowl since 1995 and was selected as a consensus Defensive Rookie of the Year.

Defensive End Al-Quadin Muhammad, Miami (Fla.) (D6-17) - Muhammad joined the Saints in 2017 after showing potential as a pass rusher during his college career at the University of Miami. In 2015 he notched 54 tackles, third on the squad, while leading the team in tackles for loss and sacks with 8.5 and five, respectively. He also forced a fumble and broke up one pass. Muhammad's strength on the line should be a valuable asset for the Saints front in the future, competing for a spot in the defensive line rotation in 2018 after leading the team in quarterback takedowns in the 2017 preseason.

Defensive Tackle David Onyemata, Manitoba (D4-16) - Possessing a unique combination of size and speed, this Lagos, Nigeria native had an impressive rookie year after becoming the first player from the University of Manitoba to be drafted into the NFL. Despite being extraordinarily new to football, the fourth round pick appeared in all 16 games in 2016, notching 32 tackles on the year. Now with experience under his belt, Onyemata became a critical member on the interior of the Saints defensive front as an important member of its defensive tackle rotation, playing in all 16 games for the second consecutive season with six starts, making 40 tackles and two sacks, while adding three more stops in the postseason.

Defensive Tackle Sheldon Rankins, Louisville (D1-16) - Selected by New Orleans 12th overall in the first round of the 2016 NFL Draft, the Covington, Ga. native played in 46 games along the defensive line at Louisville from 2012-15, producing 133 total tackles (72 solo), 31.5 tackles for loss and 18 sacks during his collegiate career. A broken leg delayed his National Football League debut last season until Week Nine, but he made the most of his limited action, still finishing tied for third on the club with four sacks. On Nov. 12, 2017, Rankins recorded his first career interception. In the week 15 win vs. Atlanta, he closed out the contest with a sack. In the NFC Divisional Playoff at Minnesota, Rankins added his first career postseason quarterback takedown.

Safety Marcus Williams, Utah (D2-17) - A three-year starter at the University of Utah, Williams was twice named an All-Pac 12 selection and earned second-team All-American honors as a junior before declaring for the NFL Draft. In 2016, he tied for second in the conference with five interceptions, even after missing two games due to injury. The defender boasts a dangerous mix of speed, fluidity, and instinct that allows him to read the offense and make breaks on the ball. His athleticism was on display as he made 70 tackles, four interceptions and six passes defended in the regular season, adding ten more stops (seven solo) and another quarterback takedown in two postseason contests.

Cornerback P.J. Williams, Florida State (D3b-15) - One of the most gifted athletes among the Black and Gold, Williams' career was limited in the beginning by missing all but two games in his first two seasons with various injuries, but rebounded from the adversity early in his career to come on strong in 2017, when he played in all 16 regular season games and both postseason contests. An experienced starter from Florida State, who developed into one of the nation's top cover corners as a junior in 2014, Williams finished his college career with 123 tackles (82 solo), four interceptions and 18 passes defended. Williams finished with 47 tackles, his first two career interceptions and nine passes defended in the 2017 regular season in 16 games with six starts, while adding five more stops and two passes defended in the playoffs.

SACK ATTACK

In 2017, while the improvement in the New Orleans defense can be credited to the defensive line, linebackers and secondary as a group, the Saints finished the regular season tied for seventh in the National Football League with 42 sacks. They continued with their successful, relentless pass rush by recording six takedowns in only two postseason contests.

SPECIAL TEAMS NOTES

JUST KICKING IT

Between deep passes for touchdowns and athletic interceptions, players often use their hands to produce the game's flashiest plays. However, the players who use their feet often make the difference between winning and losing, between drilling clutch field goals or flipping the field with a well-executed punt.

K Wil Lutz went undrafted in 2016, joining the Baltimore Ravens for training camp. Prior to the start of the regular season, Lutz joined the Black and Gold and immediately took on the role of starting kicker. Lutz enters 2018 having previously kicked in 32 games, converting 59-of-70 field goal attempts (84.3 percent) and 96-of-100 PATS (96.0 percent). He has also recorded 107 touchbacks on 180 career kickoffs through the conclusion of the 2017 season. Entering the 2018 campaign, his 84.3 percent field goal percentage was best among kickers with at least 50 made field goals in team history.

P Thomas Morstead was the first punter drafted by the Saints since 1984. The club's fifth round draft choice (164th overall) in 2009 from Southern Methodist University, Morstead has been a weapon in the field position game with his strong leg, outstanding placement abilities and booming kickoffs. In nine years, he has a gross average of 47.0 on 527 punts with a 41.3 net and 184 punts inside the 20-yard line, while also booming 259 kickoffs in the end zone for touchbacks. During the 2017 season, Morstead tied Joel Hilgenberg for 17th on the Saints all-time games played list and ranked sixth in the NFL in net punting average (42.2)

RETURN TO SENDER

WR Tommy Lee Lewis has found an important role on special teams, returning the majority of punts for the Black and Gold in 2016. He averaged 11.4 yards per return that season and brought back 14 punts for an 8.2 average in 2017 as he competes for the role in 2018 training camp. Last year, RB Alvin Kamara recorded a 106-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in Week 17 at Tampa Bay was the longest play in team history. Below are the three-longest kickoff returns in club records:

LONGEST KICKOFF RETURNS IN SAINTS HISTORY

Rk.	Player	Yards	Year

QUARTERBACKS

DREW BREES

- Since signing with the Saints as an unrestricted free agent in 2006 from the San Diego Chargers, QB Drew Brees has thrown for 4,000 or more yards each season, became the only NFL signal-caller to throw for 5,000 yards five different times and ranked at or near the top in every passing category, both in single-seasons and over the 12-year period, breaking virtually every club passing record.

- Brees once again kept up the pace in 2017, leading New Orleans to an 11-5 record, the NFC South title and the NFC Divisional Playoff round, completing 386-of-536 passes (72.0%) for 4,334 yards with 23 touchdown passes, eight interceptions and a 103.9 passer rating, adding two rushing touchdowns. He set an NFL record in completion percentage, ranked first in completions, second in passer rating, third in fourth quarter passer rating (117.6) and fourth in passing yardage.

- Brees has been selected to play in a team-record ten Pro Bowls as a Saint, with 11 overall berths in the National Football League's all-star game, twice as a starter, including a selection in 2017. His seven consecutive selections (2008-14) as a Saint is tied for first in club history with Pro Football Hall of Fame T William Roaf.

Including his seven playoff victories, his 119 total wins as a member of the Saints make him the winningest quarterback in team history and the NFL's second-winningest signal-caller since 2006.
- In his 17-year National Football League career during which he has appeared in 249 regular season games, ranked sixth in National Football League record books for signal-callers, with 248 starts, Brees has completed 6,222-of-9,294 passes (66.9%) for 70,445 yards, 488 touchdown passes and a 96.7 passer rating. He's stands as the National Football League's all-time most accurate passer, is ranked second in completions, third in passing yardage, tied with Tom Brady for third in touchdowns and ranked sixth in rating.
- The Saints are led in the postseason behind the arm of Brees, who in the playoffs, has started all 13 games he has appeared in, 12 as a member of the Saints. He has completed 354-of-537 passes (65.9 pct.) for 4,209 yards, 29 touchdowns, nine interceptions and a 101.6 passer rating, while posting a 7-6 mark, 7-5 as starting signal-caller for the Saints from 2006-present..

• After being selected in the second round of the 2017 NFL Draft (42nd overall) out of the University of Utah, this ball-hawking safety had an excellent rookie campaign starting all 15 games he appeared in posting 70 tackles (56 solo), four interceptions and 6 passes defensed. Williams led all rookie safeties in interceptions and was second for a rookie safety in total tackles and passes defensed, including two picks in the regular season finale. The talented safety posted his first career postseason interception, which was the only interception made by a rookie in the 2017 postseason. Williams looks to build on a great rookie season and continue to grow with one of the NFL’s best young defensive backfields heading into the 2018 season.

DEFENSIVE ROOKIE DUO

With five and four interceptions respectively as rookies in 2017, Marshon Lattimore and Marcus Williams finished ranked first and tied for second respectively in picks among first-year players, setting the stage for a promising Saints secondary in the future.

ARIZONA CARDINALS VS. NEW ORLEANS SAINTS
FRIDAY, AUGUST 17, 2018 • MERCEDES-BENZ SUPERDOME
SAINTS HEAD COACH SEAN PAYTON

(Opening Statement) "I thought obviously when you turn the ball over as much as we did offensively, you're going to have trouble playing well or even getting a sense of how you do as a team. We put our defense on the field in some tough field positions. I thought we ran the ball fairly efficiently. I thought defensively we handled the run for the most part. I thought we struggled throwing the ball offensively. I thought we struggled covering the pass defensively."

(On initial impressions of Taysom (Hill) tonight) "I think it was a tough night for him. He can't get stuck holding on to the ball and take the sack/fumbles like that. I think he will rebound and be better."

(On what he saw out of Jonathan Williams) "He didn't have as many opportunities, but I saw some good runs. I thought that second group of guys all had some productive runs and even when Mark (Ingram II) was in there, we did a pretty good job. So we will look at the tape and I thought the tape was solid."

(On if he was trying to give Ingram more work than he typically would in a preseason game because of his upcoming suspension) "No."

(On Andrus Peat receiving some quality reps) "It is good to see him back on the field and that was important for us. It is good (for our team) to stay healthy for the most part. It was good to see him receiving some work."

(On if it was good for Cameron Meredith to see some action) "Yes, he was ready. (It) Wasn't all good, but it was good to see him out there."

(On how he'd assess the starting defense this game versus how they did in the first) "We will see. We'll look at the tape and probably have a better feel (for it) tomorrow. I thought there were some good things. I did not think we protected the pass very well. We are still playing bunched and some of the tight releases poorly, just fundamentally not well. We have to do a better job collectively not just the players, but coaches and myself and correct some of the mistakes that took place. Not just defensively, but offensively. Our tempo needs to be better."

(On receiver play being off from last week) "It's in the details. And listen, we have to ask ourselves if we are asking the right guys to do it or are we asking them to do too much. But I think it is really sloppy, honestly."

(On Brandon Tate and his big return) "It was good to see. I think our special teams played pretty well. I thought we were physical and I thought they played pretty well."

(On evaluating sloppy play without Drew Brees playing in the game) "Let's not kid ourselves here. And I say this with all due respect, but there are a number of guys that are not playing snaps but at some point we still have to evaluate the individual players. Next week we are playing guys. At some point we need to see where we are as a team but there is that fine line of trying to get the work in, trying to get the reps in, trying to get the evaluation in. We're trying to come up with what we think's the best 53. That's what weighs on our minds, that's what weighs on my mind right now, trying to find the right 53 for this team. Look, every time we go out here and play one of these preseason games we get a little more exposure to not just the good, but also get exposure to some of the things we're hoping not to see. But we have to pay attention to that."

(On the young defensive lineman following up last week's performance) "I think pretty well. Look, I thought in the second half, defensively, we did really well."

(On whether Boston Scott showed anything) "Yes, he did a good job. He had a good punt return and he had some good jukes in the running game. We wanted to give him more carries tonight than he had received last week. One of the things we are working with him as a returner but the thing that caught our eye was him with the ball in his hands as a runner. I thought he did some good things. Terrence West had a really good run. Those guys are all competing and working out."

(on the kick return unit providing good blocks) "It is. Considering we are two weeks into this adjustment with Mike (Westhoff), with Brad (Banta) and Kevin (O'dea), those guys have done a good job of kind of working through some of the spacing and then trying to find the right guys so hopefully that can continue."

SAINTS PLAYER QUOTES

QB Taysom Hill

(On his performance tonight) "I've got to be better. It was frustrating tonight. It's tough to win a football game when you have four turnovers. I thought there were some good things, but it is hard to attack when you have four turnovers."

(On moving the ball tonight down the field) "I thought there were some really good things that happened tonight. We ran the ball well. You get down into the red zone and you need to get points. You have to take care of the ball. That's frustrating."

WR Cameron Meredith

(On tonight) "It felt good getting out there and getting into the groove of things. I still need to get my wheels together to get the speed of the game. It felt great to be out there with my team and trying to make plays."

(On his knee) "It feels good. I went out there and made some cuts. That's all it takes to get your groove back. It's about going out there, getting your reps and getting your timing down."

WR Tre'Quan Smith

(On his performance tonight) "I feel like I played well, but I could have done things better. I had some missed assignments. If I didn't have that then I would probably be happier."

(On playing against a higher level of competition the past two weeks than in college in terms of defensive backs) "I got a little bit of it. The real veterans are not playing to their full potential (yet). They are saving it for the regular season. It's kind of half and half. I kind of know what to expect and at the same time I don't"

RB Boston Scott

(On first game in the Mercedes-Benz Superdome) "It was a real experience. We have some of the best fans in the nation. It really was a dream come true. It was amazing. It's awesome"

(On his performance tonight) "I have a lot to work on. Coach Payton said we're not looking to be a winning football team. We want to be the best. We want to be champions when it's all said and done. We didn't start off as fast as we'd have liked tonight. We had some mistakes on offense and defense. Overall, I don't need to focus much on individual performance. I want to win. I want to be a champion. That's what we are focusing on."

(On the speed of the game) "The more that you learn, the more that it slows down. I still have to continue to work on my fundamentals. We are a long way off to where I want to be, but I keep trying to get better every day."

CARDINALS HEAD COACH STEVE WILKS

(Opening comments) “I always say, ‘It’s hard to win in the National Football League, particularly on the road.’ Great job tonight. It was a good performance overall as a team. If you look at some of the things that we’ve done tonight, you look at #9, (Sam) Bradford. He was six for six, six different receivers. We did a great job protecting the quarterback tonight. Defensively, we did a heck of a job getting the takeaways when we needed it. Improvement-wise, we did a good job stopping the run. That was a way to start right there. We must clean up these penalties. It was another week right here with too many penalties. At some point in time it’s going to end up hurting us.”

(On the run defense) “We talk about gap integrity. We’ve got guys getting out of the gaps. Guys have to trust in the calls, trust in the defense, and just do their job. That is something that we are going to make sure that we correct and it starts this week.”

(On the wide receivers) “I thought that those guys did a great job. I thought Christian (Kirk) stepped up. Again, I thought that everything started with protection. The quarterbacks had time to go through their progressions and step up. Josh (Rosen) did a tremendous job when he was in there. He was 10 of 16 with one touchdown. As I said before, Christian did a great job pulling it in (for the score).”

(On if he feels they have two good quarterbacks) “We’ve thought that way all along. Sam (Bradford) does a tremendous job of really trying to help Josh out and really showing him the way. Josh has embraced it. He’s doing (a good job) of really trying to absorb all of that information and knowledge. Mike McCoy does a really good job of putting these guys in position.”

(On Sam Bradford) “The best thing was just really for him to get in there and get into a rhythm, play a little longer. You see the confidence that he had tonight. You see the command that he has when he takes over the offense and really getting the guys in the right position by reading the defense. He is very quick about getting the ball out. His accuracy is phenomenal.”

(On the solid blocking on David Johnson’s touchdown run) “It was another great play down on the inside of the five-yard line as we had last week. Again this week, we had guys really working together and pushing it in. I love that. Again, everything that we do starts up front. Those guys are doing a good job.”

CARDINALS PLAYER QUOTES

WR Christian Kirk

(On how he felt after scoring in tonight's game against the Saints) "It felt amazing. That was the goal this week, especially after last week coming up short and to get in the end zone was just awesome. Obviously, to come on the road and have a part of a big win here in New Orleans, (I'm) just super-excited about it. We were putting together a good drive and just had to go down there and finish in the red zone. I had a man on me, and it was just great communication between me and Josh (Rosen), we were kind of feeling each other out and he put the ball right where it needed to be, right for me to get it and all I had to do was make the catch. It turned out great."

(On his relationship with Josh Rosen) "It's great. Just being able to be roommates on the road this whole week, we have just been talking about different looks and what not. Just being able to have that communication when we are both out there on the field, we both kind of read each other's minds, know what each other's thinking, so it helps a lot."

(On his thoughts about the rest of the preseason) "I am feeling great. I am just ready to get back on the road and go to Dallas and get another win. The goal is to go 4-0 this preseason and just get better every week."

QB Sam Bradford

(On what he needs this preseason to get comfortable enough for week one and if it's different with a different team) "I think that is the question that gets asked every preseason. It's like, what do you need and how much do you need, I don't know if there is really an answer to that because I feel like the preseason is so much different than the season. I think tonight was good, the mechanics, the silent count, obviously being on the road and being able to use that against the play clock, I think it was good for us. Obviously, we had a couple false starts, a couple pre-snap penalties, which is something we need to work on and eliminate, but I thought the operation on the road tonight was pretty good and that was really what we were looking to do tonight."

(On his performance, tonight compared to the last game against the Chargers) "We did some good things tonight. I just said, I think early obviously, some of those pre-snap penalties just hurt us and got us behind the chains down and distance wise. Other than that, it was pretty sharp tonight. I am sure we will look at the tape and there will be things that we need to improve and do better, but I think there a lot of good things that were done tonight and things that we can really build on."

(On the Cardinals defensive performance tonight) "I don't know if I have ever seen anything like that, but that is something Coach Wilks, has preached a lot, we hear him talking about it to the defense in our team meetings and on the practice field. To see those guys go out and play the way they have these past two weeks is really encouraging as an offense when you know what is going on, on the other side of the football."

QB Josh Rosen

(On his performance, tonight against the Saints) "Yes, I was very happy with tonight. I think I still have things to work on, a lot of procedural stuff, just keeping my eye on play clocks, my second delay of game (penalty). A lot of good has come from practice."

(On his touchdown pass to Christian Kirk tonight) "I actually had a lot of time in the pocket on that one, I stepped up and held onto the ball a little longer, but it allowed Christian (Kirk) to kind of wiggle around. I think he was covered by Manti (Te'o) or someone like that. I kind of fit it right in front of him, I had to put it kind of high and away. It was kind of a him or no one ball and he managed to snag it.”

(On his thoughts on Christian Kirk and the other wide receivers) “I think he is doing well. I think all the receivers are doing really well. Jaylen (Tolliver) made some awesome plays tonight. Christian (Kirk) made some great plays. I think the whole group is doing really well and as an offense we are getting better every day, every week and I am looking forward to keep pushing.”

New Orleans Saints Head Coach Sean Payton
2018 Training Camp Presented by Verizon
Sunday, August 19, 2018

Opening Statement:

“We had a couple different periods with different points of emphasis. Obviously we got two-minute in (the) red zone, a lot of third down work but overall a pretty good practice. These guys will be off tomorrow and then we will come back and get started on the Chargers.”

What do you want to see when they meet with the Chargers?

“Well look when you get a chance to practice with another team you get different formations offensively, different type of schemes defensively, different system and our experience last year with them was really good. It was competitive, and those guys do a good job, our guys practiced hard on both teams. I think it's a good workweek.”

How important is that to make sure you get good work in and that tempers do not flare during joint practices?

“I think it's important. Both teams have the same interest, you know? In other words, we're trying to improve, we're also trying to make the right decisions relative to our rosters and be healthy coming away from the practices and the games. It's just being smart and understanding what the common goal is. I think we can compete, play hard and I felt like a year ago that happened. Anthony [Lynn] and I of course worked together before (in Dallas) and so we're looking forward to it.”

Has anyone surprised you so far?

“No, I think each day there's been some good things and then periodically maybe a protection that we need to clean up but that still is ongoing.”

When you look at their bookend defensive ends and you're practicing against them, seems like it would be good measure for the tackles?

“Yes, absolutely. It's a good pass-rush team, both of those guys, [Joey] Bosa and [Mark] Ingram played last night. We saw some of that game on TV, but those guys played really good football especially as the season went on last year. I think it'll be good work for us.”

It's a team with a lot of talent across the board, right?

“Without studying the roster yet, I know Anthony and those guys have high expectations in their division, rightfully so. They've got a quarterback that's been successful throughout the course of his career. Their defense played extremely well last year and offensively, I think they were the top passing team in the league. So yes, I think there are two similar teams with the same aspirations and we have a chance to work with each other for a few days and then play again.”

Now that we're in camp, what is the challenge of determining how much you want Mark prepared knowing the suspension is looming compared to the other guys?

“Last week we gave Mark a little bit more work than Alvin [Kamara]. We're deep, we have a number of healthy running backs that we're trying to evaluate, and we keep kind of just rotating who's up with the first group. We'll do the same during the course of this week and for the game. We haven't really sat and laid out the playing time numbers yet, but we'll try to get more snaps in with the first group on both sides of the ball.”

Those wide receiver details you mentioned, how quickly can those guys get that cleaned up?

"I think daily. A lot of things are little things, and some come from inexperience, some of them were things that we just have to pay attention to. But they're working hard, and I think the most important thing is those guys have to paint a perfect picture for the quarterback and they'll make the right decisions. When the picture gets lost a little bit with a split or a depth, then process gets a little bit flawed."

Is there more leniency when it's a younger, new guy coming to the system than a veteran guy?

"Yes, there's a sense of urgency, but absolutely. There are some formations that are new to it. We have a few guys that just got here a week and a half ago. It's important we get up to speed and it's the first step in the evaluation, 'does the player know what to do?' and I think we have to help get them there."

You've been doing joint practices for years, has it been hard to find the right team?

"For years we practiced with Houston, and those were all I think experiences that were good work, then I think New England. Am I missing anybody? The Chargers, there's probably one other team in there. A lot of it's a schedule that generally comes with a preseason game, it's usually week two or week three. Some years you don't have that but generally it is in our second or third week and it's been someone that we're getting ready to play."

Was that second play by Marshon [Lattimore], was that an interception or did Mike [Thomas] take that to the ground?

"I think that's a down by contact. I didn't see it well, but he had a good day, Marshon got his hands on the ball quite a bit."

How about [Benjamin] Watson since he's come back?

"He's working and he's getting back into playing shape. It was good to get him some work last week because he didn't play in the first game. But I think he's progressing."

New Orleans Saints Tight End Benjamin Watson
2018 Training Camp Presented by Verizon
August 19, 2018*What's your experience over years with joint practices?

"I have only done it once believe it or not and that was in 2015 at the Greenbrier with the (New England) Patriots. No other team I've been on has done it. The great thing I think is that it breaks up some of the monotony of camp and you get a chance to go against some other guys, some different looks. I think for a team also, whether you're going on the road or having someone come to you, it kind of builds some sort of team camaraderie, team chemistry, you are going on the field against another opponent. There is that aspect of it as well."

How much better do you feel this offseason?

"It's had its own challenges. While it may not be one thing, there's always something else at this point in my career. There is always some issue that you are fighting through, but this is football. Honestly, I think two years removed from the Achilles, I do feel better from that aspect. It was a very very tough injury, a tough rehab. There's imbalances that you are having to correct simply because you've had that injury."

Was it an easy choice for you to decide to keep playing?

“No, it wasn't. I would say that at the end of last year I was very unsure if I was going to continue playing. I knew that if I did play there only a very small number of places that I'd consider going. Talking with my wife and family, we were okay with not playing. That was going to be it, we're in a good place. I've said it before, this was one of maybe two places that I would even consider coming back. Obviously, a program that I'm familiar with, one that's winning, one that has a commitment to that excellence. It's tough moving. You factor in do I want to move my family somewhere if it was going to be one year (at a time) at this point in my career. You factor all those things, but we felt like this is an opportunity that the Lord presented to us.”

If not anything else could you not let Brady and Brees play longer than you?

“I am not trying to compete with them. Those guys playing quarterback, I am not trying to compete with them, but I do want to have my last years to be with a guy like Drew definitely. It's great being in the huddle with him.”

How long do you think you can play?

“I'm day to day right now during training camp. Honestly, it really is. I say that jokingly, but it is a one day at a time thing. Right now my focus is on making this team, it's on making a role (for) myself on this team, it's on competing every day when I come out, prepare myself in the meeting room, it's doing what's asked of me to the best of my ability. That's how you approach this game for me at least. I've never the one to say hey I want to play ten years, I want to play five years, I want to play fifteen years. No, it's I've got to make it through this day and this day has enough challenges. I've got to make it through this game, through this week, through this training camp. When you have that sort of focus then the years start to add on. So right now, I'm really on I guess you could say a very narrow focus.”

Your last season here, did they just tap into your skill set or did you discover something like they figured out a way to use you like you hadn't been used before that's been carried on?

“I think I think it is a combination of different things. Everybody out there you see on the field and a lot of guys at home have skills. It's about opportunity. It's about coaching staffs. It's about an offense. It's about developing a certain confidence. It's about people allowing you to do things that you could do or you're needed to do something that you could do as opposed to something else. There's a combination of different factors. For me, that last year was the combination of those factors. There was a need there. We had one of the best tight ends to ever play a game (Jimmy Graham) left. The offense was catered to him in a lot of ways. They needed somebody to make some of those plays. I had the opportunity to do so. I was (relied on by) Coach Payton and Coach Drew Brees on how to do certain things and I did them. The year before that, that wasn't my role. It was a different role. Every year, at least in my career, it's been different. What's been asked of me in the passing game, the run game, special teams game or how much I've had to play. I do think that over the course of anybody's career there's going to be growth in all areas. That's how you stay in the game got to be able to evolve into what the need is and continue to perfect your skills.”

When you start connecting on stuff with Drew (Brees) is there more confidence in that relationship between you two and does that lead to more and more?

“It's like that with any relationship. You take it out of the football realm, into the sports room, into the business realm, into what you do as professional. As you do things more collectively and have success together on the practice field as well as in a game situation there is going to be confidence built there. Not just trust but muscle memory. The reason why you see us do the same thing over and over again is because we're teaching our muscles how to run a certain route over and over again when we're tired, when it's hot, when it's cold. You just do it. It's the same thing for the quarterback throwing the ball and going through his progressions. There is that I guess synergy that that becomes built over time and that's why we go through this process of training camp."

A couple young guys are also at your position. Do you feel like a mentor to them, in terms of providing leadership, a guy that they can lean on? How do you kind of approach that relationship?

"I automatically feel that simply because they remind me that my rookie year in the league, they were in elementary school stuff like that. We have those times where we joke 'hey man, you've played longer than all of us combined.' We have you know this was kind of fun times. I do relish that role and not just on the field. I feel that the way I try to live my life imperfectly but striving to be a husband a father those sorts of things. I want that to rub off on them too and I want them to be better than me in that area because to me that's even more important was happening on the field. This is very very important, but when I'm gone, and I tell them when I'm 50 years old watching them playing their 13th, 14th, 15th years, I want them to be men in their communities that people look up to. I want to have had a small part in training them to do that. Coming on the practice field, and showing up every day, and working hard at the reps I get, and encouraging them because we've got a lot of talent in that room. A lot of talent. Josh (Hill) is kind of the older guy now. He's got a lot of talent, but all the way down to Dan (Arnold) and Deon (Yelder) and Griff (Garrett Griffin) all those guys have a whole lot of out of talent."

Has the Ben Watson hotline started up again?

"Yes. Its starts and then you hear from guys you haven't heard in a while which is always great hearing back from those guys. It's part of the game that you mentioned about coming back and playing. I think that part of playing again has to do with legacy and impact outside of football."

Maybe you've already answered this, but you've been around for a while. What are the benefits of having a joint practice when you are going against another team and it is important trying to get work in to kind of temper the anger that probably gets out there?

"Obviously, you always see some of the fights and those sorts of things and that happens sometimes. That's not the goal, but at the same time you're going against another team. You are going against an opponent. It is an opportunity for us to go on the road and be the visitors. You build that sort of camaraderie as a team. You're trying to win everything like we are here, but now it's Saints versus. We're cheering for each other in that manner. It's an opportunity to get some different looks. You're used to going into the same guys and one on ones, pass rush drills, and team drills. You're used to those things and it's an opportunity for us to kind of mimic going and scouting an opponent and seeing what those guys' strength and weaknesses are and trying to exploit them."

Would you want to have it that way versus probably going to through long, grueling training camp?

"It is grueling anyway. However you look at it, it is going to be grueling. I was just thinking training camp is so long. We're halfway there at this point, but it does break it up a little bit."

What exactly is being discussed during those melees during practice?

"I don't know. I honestly have not been in a fight with another team. When we practiced against the Patriots, I do not think we had any fights. Usually it is the usual. The same stuff's going on when you're fighting against someone in a bar somewhere or in the stands when you see the stands and people are fighting in the stands during a game, yelling at each other. Probably some of those same things being passed back and forth. I'm the one trying not to get hurt because those guys are big, and strong, and fast, and young. I am not (young), so I'm trying not to get hurt."

Have you ever been in a practice fight in the NFL?

Yes, I have. It was a while ago. I've almost been in some recently, but I haven't quite stepped over the line. We do have a rule. There is a rule about fighting, if someone in your room gets in a fight with us in practice or on the road or whatever you always come out there to their defense."

If a player is dumb enough to punch someone in the helmet, do they immediately get cut from the team just because of judgement?

"It depends on who the player is just like everything else. It's like everything else. Everything depends on who the player is."

Players and coaches say they don't want fights to happen, but is there this undertone of well it happens?

How many of y'all played football? Football is a very emotional sport. To be good at this game, you have to get yourself on the edge. Sometimes you see a different person out before a game. No matter what it is you have to think about. Your kids, your livelihood, the journey that you took to make it there. All that has to go through you to come out here and run up full speed against another human being. So that is a good thing to be able to play football with that type of intensity and emotion. Now what happens in practice, you do not want to go over that. That is why you train yourself to be able to have that emotion, have that energy, and do it within the confines of the rules, and be productive. Fighting is usually not productive because it can cost the team five, ten, 15 yards, whatever it is. The practice you mentioned getting an injury from breaking your hand and those sorts of things. Sometimes it just happens, but the goal and where the maturity comes in is when you can play at that fever pitch, but not go past that because then you're not being productive. It is football and stuff like that happens."

When you look at the top edge players in the NFL, have you seen much film on Joey Bosa and Melvin Ingram?

I have not seen a lot of film on them honestly at this point. I think when we get back maybe Tuesday we're going to really start on them. I haven't played them in the past, so I don't know much other than watching them during games, but obviously from the highlight films that I have seen, especially from (Joey) Bosa and (Melvin) Ingram, they are at the top of the game. I wouldn't put them past our guy so I'm glad we have Cam (Jordan) to get us ready for next week."

What are the benefits of doing joint practices with another team and what can you gage from that?

"I think the greatest thing is, almost, I do not want to say complacency when you go against your own team, but it kind of ramps up the competition. I think if you look at what has happened over these last couple of weeks when teams have been practicing, there has been several fights because it's very intense. But I think the one thing that you want to be able to come out of it is going against a different opponent, different people, and pushing yourself. You want to be able to grow. Obviously, fights will happen, but that is not what you want. You want to have good, hard competing practices and hopefully both teams can come away with saying, 'We learned this'. Or maybe you are going against a certain wide receiver. Keenan Allen is a really good wide receiver. Hopefully, whether it be (Ken) Crawley, Marshon (Lattimore). Whoever it is, you can learn some things from great wide receivers."

Do joint practices break up the monotony of training camp?

"Oh absolutely. And that's what I'm saying because it increases your focus a little bit. It's a whole new setting. And like I said, we want to come out of this trip from out west and we want to be able to say that we got better. We want to take some steps forward because I think the Chargers are really good team. You're going against a great quarterback with an offense that's very experienced when they're run in it. So I think defensively, we've got a challenge and I want us to be able to rise to the challenge every single day that we're going against them."

How much game work do you need in the preseason?

"I think I'm not immune. I want reps just like anybody else just to get a familiarity because there is a difference between practice speed. Even if you're saying full-live, you still are still trying to take care of your teammates versus game against another opponent. I still want those reps, but at the end of the day it's all about what is best for this team. And I think this next upcoming game, I'm assuming that I'll be out there. Be able to get some good reps in. But it's all about fine tuning. This preseason is just about shaving off the rough edges so when it comes regular season, this defense and this team is ready to fire on all cylinders."

Could a joint practice be as valuable as a preseason game?

"I am of the one believer (in the value of joint practices). I think sometimes the practices are very, very intense. Almost game like at times. I have even talked to some people say if you just had a couple of these joint practices, you really do not need a game because they are very intense. You have teams that are fighting because it is mano a mano. You don't know this guy and you want to win. You want to show off for your coaches. You want to perform for your team. So it is like a game-like atmosphere going against those guys."

What do you think the first string defense showed from preseason Week One to Week Two?

"First off, I'd say we had two straight three and outs. I think what you learn about your defense and you can look across the board from the first preseason game, there's a lot of missed tackles. I'm talking about across the board in the NFL. The tackling's a lot better in game two, three, four etc. But I thought for us in particular, I thought we did a great job on rundowns. I always say it starts up front. If your run defense is stout and you are just making them pass the ball, that is what you want. You want to be able to make offenses one dimensional and then you can play them to your hand. I think we challenge guys a lot more. And I think even so, we can still become better. We can still make some more plays on the ball. I like the growth from week one to week two. We've got to take another step though this next week."

What have you seen from Marshon Lattimore?

"He has to be himself. And you do not want to change who he is as a person, because that's whose made him. You just want to try to give him the tips, the motivation, the experience and really just help push him and raise his level. I tell him all the time greatness is upon him, but you have to be able to step upon it and really take on ownership of it. I do not know if you were watching practice today, he had a great practice today. Great practice today. And that's what we need out of him every single day because a lot is required of him because of the player he is. I think offenses are going to continue to challenge him because he is a great corner. I'm excited to see what is going to be able to do this year. I really am. And moving forward for the next coming years. He's going to be a special player."

Do you believe Lattimore is a 'gamer'?

"You would hope that everybody raises their level of play during games. So in essence, everybody is a gamer but you want to be able to have great practice habits. Because your great practice habits translate on the field. Obviously, you can go out here and practice and just be very talented and make some plays. But then when it comes to a game, maybe if your technique's not right, your fundamentals, or you're just not locked in because you didn't do it in practice. It can get you beat even if you're very talented. And I think that's the growth that we're seeing. That's the growth that we're having with our guys. Yes, we are talented but do you know what? There's more to the game than just talent. And when you put all the pieces together that's when you have a great individual person. That's when you have a great defense and a great team."
