THE SAINTS CAME MARCHING IN

In Week 13, Lions Head Coach Dan Campbell and Lions Defensive Coordinator Aaron Glenn will return to New Orleans, where both coached prior to taking the reins in Detroit. Both Campbell and Glenn recognize their time learning under former Saints Head Coach Sean Payton as a vital experience that formed who they are today.

Campbell spent five seasons in New Orleans, serving as the Assistant Head Coach/Tight Ends Coach from 2016-20. During his five-year coaching tenure with New Orleans, the club captured four NFC South division titles and ranked first in the NFL in points scored (2,361), touchdowns (277) and net yardage (31,147) while posting the third-most wins (56) in the League. Campbell also finished his playing career in New Orleans, signing as a free agent under Payton in 2009 before missing the season due to injury.

From 2016-20, Glenn coached the Saints secondary, one of the best units in the League at the time. In 2020, New Orleans' defense was one of the best, finishing fourth in yards allowed per game and fifth in points allowed per game. They led the NFL in interceptions (18), while the defense tied for the third-most (26) total takeaways in the NFL. Similar to Campbell, Glenn spent his final playing season with the Saints in 2008.

Lions RBs David Montgomery (three) and Jahmyr Gibbs (one) have combined for four individual 100-yard rushing games this season. This ties San Francisco for the second-most combined 100-yard rushing games in the NFL this season, trailing only the Dolphins, who have a combined five games from RBs De'Von Achane (three) and Raheem Mostert (two).

Montgomery and Gibbs have both produced 70-plus scrimmage yards in each of the last three games, becoming the first pair of Lions running backs to do so since RBs Billy Sims and Dexter Bussey in 1980.

Montgomery and Gibbs are the first running back duo in franchise history to produce 700 scrimmage yards and five rushing touchdowns through the team's first 11 games of a season. The last set of NFL running backs to do this for a team was Saints RBs Mark Ingram and Alvin Kamara in 2017.

In Weeks 10-11, Montgomery and Gibbs each produced 95-plus scrimmage yards and a rushing touchdown in consecutive games. This was the first time in franchise history that a running back duo has each registered 95-or-more scrimmage yards and a rushing touchdown in consecutive games. The NFL's last running back duo to do so was the N.Y. Giants' Brandon Jacobs and Ahmad Bradshaw in 2010.
