TITANS HOST BENGALS IN WEEK 4; GAME TELEVISED ON FOX

Tennessee Titans (1-2) vs. Cincinnati Bengals (0-2*)

Sunday, Oct. 1, 2023 • Noon CDT • Nissan Stadium • Nashville, Tenn. • TV: FOX

NASHVILLE — The Tennessee Titans (1-2) open October with a home game this week against the two-time reigning AFC North champion Cincinnati Bengals (0-2*). Kickoff is scheduled for noon CDT on Sunday, Oct. 1.

With the 79th all-time meeting between the franchises, the Titans and Bengals are set to renew a rivalry that began in 1968. The only opponent the Titans/Oilers have faced on more occasions is the Pittsburgh Steelers (80 games).

The Titans lead the series 40-37-1 but have lost the last three times they played, including the last two games at Nissan Stadium: a Bengals win in the 2021 divisional playoffs and another in Week 12 of the 2022 campaign.

This week also marks the Titans' annual Crucial Catch game. Each NFL team designates one game each season to raise awareness for early cancer detection and risk reduction. Sunday at Nissan Stadium will feature on-field and in-stadium Crucial Catch elements and also present opportunities to honor survivors and those currently battling cancer.

THE BROADCAST

The contest will be regionally televised on FOX, including Nashville affiliate WZTV FOX 17. The broadcast team includes play-by-play announcer Adam Amin, analyst Mark Schlereth and reporter Kristina Pink.

Fans in Nashville can stream live Titans games on mobile devices with NFL+, which offers access to local games and all primetime games on phones and tablets. Out of market, fans can watch every Sunday afternoon game with Sunday Ticket. More information on ways to watch NFL games can be found here.

The Titans Radio Network and Nashville flagship 104.5 The Zone carry all Titans games across the Mid-South with the "Voice of the Titans" Mike Keith, analyst Dave McGinnis, sideline reporter Ramon Foster and gameday host Rhett Bryan.

TITANS RETURN HOME FOCUSED ON GETTING TO 2-2

After defeating the Los Angeles Chargers in overtime in Week 2, the Titans looked to keep their momentum going last week at Cleveland. However, the Browns stymied the Titans' hopes with a defense that accumulated five sacks and allowed 94 total yards. The Browns controlled the ball for more than 38 minutes and won by a final score of 27-3.

Running back Derrick Henry enters this week in striking distance of moving up on the franchise's all-time rushing list. With 8,498 career rushing yards, he requires only 77 more to eclipse Earl Campbell's career total (8,574) for second place for the organization behind only Eddie George (10,009).

The Titans defense allowed 78 rushing yards against the Browns to mark the team's ninth consecutive game in which it did not allow an opposing offense to reach 100 rushing yards. It is the longest active streak in the NFL. The defense notched its 19th consecutive game without an opposing player reaching the 100-yard rushing mark.

THE BENGALS

For the second consecutive week, the Titans will face an opponent coming off an appearance on Monday Night Football. The Bengals hosted the Los Angeles Rams on Monday night after dropping games at Cleveland and against the Baltimore Ravens in Weeks 1 and 2, respectively.

Bengals quarterback Joe Burrow, the first overall pick in the 2020 NFL Draft, is in his fourth season. He already owns Bengals single-season records for pass attempts (606 in 2022), completions (414 in 22), passing yards (4,611 in 2021), touchdown passes (35 in 2022) and passer rating (108.3 in 2021). In 2022, he earned his first career Pro Bowl selection.

The Bengals, who are in their fifth season under head coach Zac Taylor, are attempting to win their third consecutive division title. They advanced to Super Bowl LVI following the 2021 season and went to a second consecutive AFC title game at the conclusion of the 2022 campaign.

* Bengals 0-2 prior to their game vs. the L.A. Rams on Monday night, Sept. 25.

SERIES HISTORY

In the 64-year history of the organization, only one other NFL team—the Pittsburgh Steelers—has faced the Titans/Oilers more frequently than the Cincinnati Bengals. There have been 78 all-time meetings with the Bengals, while the Steelers have squared off 80 times against the Titans/Oilers.

The Bengals began play in 1968 as an expansion franchise in the American Football League and that season played the Oilers for the first time, a 27-17 Houston win at Cincinnati's Nippert Stadium.

In 1970, Riverfront Stadium (later named Cinergy Field) opened, where the Bengals would call home until Paycor Stadium opened in 2000. The start of the 1970 season also marked the beginning of the newly-formed AFC Central, giving new life to the Bengals and Oilers rivalry. The two teams met at least twice per season each year from 1970–2001, until realignment split up the division in 2002. The Titans moved to the AFC South, while the Bengals were placed in the AFC North.

During their time as division rivals, the Oilers and Bengals met only once in the playoffs. In 1990, the Wild Card Oilers traveled to face the AFC Central Champion Bengals and were defeated 41-14.

Their second and most recent playoff game was a divisional-round matchup at Nissan Stadium on Jan. 22, 2022. The Bengals defense recorded three interceptions, and Evan McPherson booted a 52-yard field goal at the end of regulation to provide the Bengals a 19-16 win.

The Bengals visited Nissan Stadium during the 2022 regular season (Nov. 27) and once again escaped with a narrow victory, winning 20-16. Joe Burrow's 27-yard touchdown pass to Tee Higgins in the fourth quarter provided the difference in the outcome.

The last time the Bengals hosted the Titans was Nov. 1, 2020. Despite 441 yards of offense by the Titans, including 218 rushing yards, they fell to the Bengals by a final score of 31-20. Bengals rookie quarterback Joe Burrow passed for 249 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Despite the Bengals taking five of the last six meetings, the Titans have won the majority of the games in the rivalry since moving to Tennessee. They are 12-9 in that time period (1997–present), including a seven-game winning streak from 1998-01. The streak included five consecutive road victories for the Titans, three of which occurred at Paycor Stadium.

On Sept. 12, 1999, the Bengals helped the Titans open their new home in the first regular season game at Nissan Stadium. The Titans won dramatically 36-35 on a last-second field goal by Al Del Greco.

MOST RECENT MATCHUPS

2017 Week 10 • Nov. 12, 2017 • Bengals 20 at TITANS 24
 Marcus Mariota caps a 73-yard drive with a seven-yard, game-winning touchdown pass to DeMarco Murray with 36 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter ... Murray scores all three of the team's touchdowns (two rushing, one receiving) ... The Titans never trail until Andy Dalton's 70-yard touchdown pass to A.J. Green (115 receiving yards) with 5:03 remaining in the fourth quarter ... The Titans record a time of possession of 40:09 and go seven-of-15 on third down, while the Bengals are one-of-10 on third down.

2020 Week 8 • Nov. 1, 2020 • Titans 20 at BENGALS 31
 Bengals rookie quarterback Joe Burrow passes for 249 yards and two touchdowns, and the Bengals never trail in the game ... The Titans produce 441 total yards of offense, including 112 rushing yards by Derrick Henry and 128 receiving yards by Corey Davis ... Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill throws a pair of touchdowns, but on consecutive drives in the first quarter, he is intercepted in the end zone and Stephen Gostkowski misses a 53-yard field goal ... Cincinnati converts 10 of 15 attempts on third down and wins the time of possession battle 35:57 to 24:03.

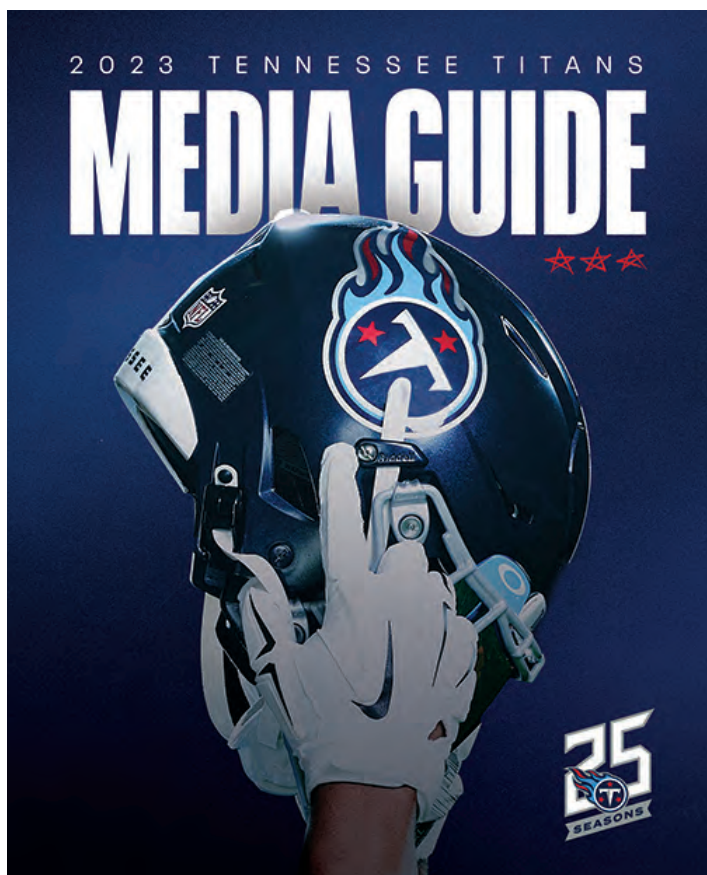

2021 Divisional Round • Jan. 22, 2022 • BENGALS 19 at Titans 16
 Evan McPherson's 52-yard field goal as time expired lifts the Bengals over the Titans in the divisional playoffs ... The game-winner—McPherson's fourth field goal—is set up by linebacker Logan Wilson's interception at Cincinnati's 47-yard line with 28 seconds remaining, followed by a 19-yard completion from Joe Burrow to Ja'Marr Chase ... Chase accounts for 109 of Burrow's 348 passing yards ... The Titans defense ties the NFL postseason record with nine sacks of Burrow, led by Jeffery Simmons' three sacks ... The Bengals defense intercepts three total passes by Ryan Tannehill ... A.J. Brown sets a Titans franchise record with 142 receiving yards on five catches.

2022 Week 12 • Nov. 27, 2022 • BENGALS 20 at Titans 16
 Joe Burrow's 27-yard touchdown pass to Tee Higgins with 13:42 remaining in the fourth quarter provides the game's decisive points ... The Titans cut Cincinnati's lead to 20-16 on a field goal with 6:07 remaining, but the Bengals bleed the remainder of the clock, helped by an unnecessary roughness penalty on a field goal that allowed the Bengals to kneel to end the game ... Burrow passes for 270 yards, including 114 yards on seven completions to Higgins ... Derrick Henry is limited to 38 yards on 17 carries ... Treyton Burks scores the Titans' only touchdown and his first career touchdown on a fumble recovery in the end zone during the second quarter.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR THIS WEEK

TITANS DEFENSE

- Enters the week with a streak of nine consecutive games without allowing the opposing offense to reach 100 rushing yards. The Titans defense also has gone 19 games without allowing an individual 100-yard rushing performance

DL DENICO AUTRY

- Can register his fourth consecutive game with at least one sack. It would tie for the longest such streak of his career (2021).

S KEVIN BYARD

- Needs one interception to break a four-way tie and gain sole possession of fourth place on the team's all-time career interceptions list. With 27 career interceptions, he is tied with Tony Banfield, W.K. Hicks and Darryll Lewis on the franchise chart.

K NICK FOLK

- Enters the game with a streak of 16 consecutive field goals made.
- Enters the game with a streak of 64 consecutive field goals made on attempts from less than 40 yards. Justin Tucker holds the NFL record with a streak of 70 made field goals from under 40 yards.

RB DERRICK HENRY

- Can record his 38th total 100-yard rushing game, including regular season (35) and playoffs (three). He would tie Eddie George (38 total) for the second-most such games in franchise history, trailing only Earl Campbell (40). His 35th such regular-season game would tie Chris Johnson's mark for the third-most in franchise history, behind only Campbell (39) and George (36).
- Needs 77 rushing yards (currently at 8,498 for his career) to pass Earl Campbell (8,574) for second place on the team's all-time rushing list. He would trail only Eddie George (10,009).
- Needs one rushing touchdown to reach 80 for his career. He would become the seventh NFL player in the Super Bowl era (1966–present) to reach 8,000 rushing yards and 80 rushing touchdowns within his first eight seasons. The other players on the list are Eric Dickerson, Barry Sanders, Emmitt Smith, Shaun Alexander, LaDainian Tomlinson and Adrian Peterson.
- With six career 200-yard rushing games, he needs one more to surpass Adrian Peterson (six) and O.J. Simpson (six) for the most such games all-time.
- Needs 156 scrimmage yards (currently at 9,813) to eclipse Chris Johnson's career total (9,968) for second place in franchise history behind only Eddie George (12,153).

WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

- Can extend his active streak to 149 consecutive games with a reception—every game he has played since he entered the NFL. It is the longest active streak in the NFL.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

- Can record his 26th career 300-yard passing game.
- Needs a passer rating of at least 100.0 (minimum 20 attempts) to register his 27th such performance as a member of the Titans. That would place him in a tie with Steve McNair (27) for the second-highest total in franchise history behind only Warren Moon (29).

WR NICK WESTBROOK-IKHINE

- Needs 11 receiving yards to reach 1,000 for his career (989 entering the game).

NOTABLE PERFORMANCES VS. THE BENGALS

LB AZEEZ AL-SHAAIR

- On 12/12/21 at Cincinnati, Al-Shaair recorded 11 total tackles, which is the second-highest total of his career, and a sack while a member of the San Francisco 49ers.

DL DENICO AUTRY

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Autry tallied three tackles and a postseason career-high-tying 1.5 sacks.

WR TREYLON BURKS

- On 11/27/22 against Cincinnati, Burks had four receptions for 70 yards, including a then career-long 51-yard reception.

CB KRISTIAN FULTON

- On 11/27/22 against Cincinnati, Fulton recorded six tackles, tying his then-career high.

RB DERRICK HENRY

- On 11/1/20 at Cincinnati, Henry carried the ball 18 times for 112 yards and one touchdown.

S SAMANI HOOKER

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Hooker posted seven tackles and his first career postseason interception with a 15-yard return.

WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

- On 11/16/15 at Cincinnati, Hopkins recorded five receptions for 57 yards and the game-winning touchdown for the Houston Texans. Hopkins caught a 22-yard pass from QB T.J. Yates at the start of the fourth quarter to take a 10-6 lead that held through the rest of the game.

DT NAQUAN JONES

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Jones posted two tackles and a half sack.

LB HAROLD LANDRY III

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Landry posted six tackles and a postseason career-high 1.5 sacks.

WR CHRIS MOORE

- On 12/31/17 against Cincinnati, Moore had a six-yard touchdown reception while on the Baltimore Ravens. It was only the third touchdown reception of his career.

DT KYLE PEKO

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Peko posted two tackles and a half sack in his only career playoff game.

DT JEFFERY SIMMONS

- On 1/22/22 against Cincinnati in the divisional round, Simmons posted a team-best and franchise single-game postseason record three sacks. He totaled eight tackles.

P RYAN STONEHOUSE

- On 11/27/22 against Cincinnati, Stonehouse boomed five punts for 269 yards (53.8 average), including a 71-yarder, which is the second-longest punt of his career. He placed two kicks inside the 20-yard line with a 44-yard punt that was fair caught at the Bengals' seven-yard line.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

- On 10/31/13 against Cincinnati, Tannehill rushed for a one-yard touchdown, while completing 20 of 28 passes (71.4 percent) for 208 yards in the win for the Miami Dolphins.
- On 11/1/20 at Cincinnati, Tannehill completed 18 of 30 passes for 233 yards and two scores. He added two carries for 20 yards.

LAST GAME VS. THE BENGALS

2022 Week 12: Titans 16, Bengals 20
Sunday, Nov. 27, 2022 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

In Week 12 of the 2022 season, the Titans hosted the Bengals and fell by a score of 20-17. The defense produced its eighth consecutive game in which they did not allow their opponent to score more than 20 points, however the Titans were unable to mount a late-game comeback to earn a victory.

The Titans got on the board first in the second quarter. QB Ryan Tannehill guided the offense on a 10-play scoring drive that was aided by a 25-yard pass to WR Nick Westbrook-Ikhine for a first down at the Cincinnati 26-yard line. However, Tennessee was forced to settle for a field goal as rookie K Caleb Shudak converted a 33-yard attempt, 3-0 Titans.

Cincinnati responded with a field goal of their own as a seven-play scoring possession culminated in a 47-yard field goal by Bengals K Evan McPherson, 3-3. On the ensuing Tennessee possession, the Titans added another score. Tannehill connected with RB Derrick Henry for a 69-yard screen pass, but Henry fumbled the ball at the Cincinnati six-yard line and it was recovered in the end zone by WR Treyton Burks for a go-ahead score, 10-3.

Later in the second stanza, Bengals QB Joe Burrow guided his offense on a game-tying possession. Burrow connected with Bengals RB Samaje Perine for a 32-yard gain, and with Bengals HB Trayveon Williams for a 24-yard pass, before Perine ran a seven-yard score into the end zone. The score was knotted 10-10 heading into halftime.

Each team added a field goal score in the third quarter. First, Cincinnati produced a 14-play possession that included first-down catches by Bengals WRs Tee Higgins and Tyler Boyd. On fourth-and-14, McPherson's 38-yard field goal put the Bengals ahead, 13-10. On the first play of the following Titans possession, Tannehill found Burks for a 51-yard ball to move into Cincinnati territory. Ultimately, Shudak converted a 24-yarder to tie the score at 13-13.

In the fourth quarter, Cincinnati took the lead. Higgins caught two passes for 51 yards with one touchdown on the drive as the Bengals pulled ahead, 20-13. The Titans were able to inch closer with a 38-yard field goal to make it 20-16, but ultimately Tennessee ran out of time to construct a comeback and fell to the Bengals at home.

Garrett Swanson	Assistant Strength and Conditioning
Troy Walters	Wide Receivers

Zac Taylor was named the 10th head coach in Bengals history on Feb. 4, 2019. In 2022, his fourth season as Cincinnati's head coach, Taylor guided the Bengals to team records in regular-season wins (12) and consecutive wins (eight) on the way to capturing their second straight AFC North Division title and a second straight AFC Championship game appearance. The Bengals defense held opposing quarterbacks to a league-low 58.9 completion percentage while also ranking sixth in points allowed (20.1 per game) and seventh in rushing yards allowed (106.6).

In 2021, Taylor and the Bengals reached their first division crown since the 2015 season, en route to their first Super Bowl berth since the 1988 season. Led by second year quarterback Joe Burrow, the Bengals boasted a balanced offense with a strong rushing attack. Running back Joe Mixon finished third in the league in rushing yards (1,205) and fourth in rushing touchdowns (13), while rookie wide receiver Ja'Marr Chase recorded the most receiving yards by a rookie in the Super Bowl era (1,455).

Taylor arrived in Cincinnati after two seasons with the Rams, where he served as assistant wide receivers coach in 2017 and quarterbacks coach in 2018, helping Los Angeles advance to Super Bowl LIII. Prior to joining the Rams, Taylor had a one-year stint in the college ranks, serving as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at the University of Cincinnati in 2016.

Taylor's beginning in NFL coaching was in 2012 with the Dolphins as assistant quarterbacks coach before being elevated to quarterbacks coach from 2013-15. During his time in Miami, Taylor was instrumental in the development of quarterback Ryan Tannehill, the team's first-round pick in 2012.

Taylor's coaching career began at Texas A&M University, where he served as offensive graduate assistant and tight ends coach from 2008-11. The Aggies played in three bowl games while Taylor was there.

As a player, Taylor began his college career at Wake Forest (2002-03) before transferring to Butler County Community College in Kansas (2004) and finishing his career at Nebraska (2005-06). In 2006, he was named Big 12 Offensive Player of the Year and was inducted into the Nebraska Hall of Fame in 2017.

His father, Sherwood Taylor, played defensive back at Oklahoma from 1976-79 and coached at Oklahoma and Kansas State University. His brother, Press Taylor, played quarterback at Marshall University and is currently the offensive coordinator for the Jaguars. Taylor's father in law, Mike Sherman, is a former head coach of the Packers and Texas A&M.

TEAM AND LOCAL CONNECTIONS

FORMER TITANS

- Bengals defensive quality control coach Louie Cioffi was the Titans defensive backs coach from 2014-15. In 2015, the Titans defense allowed the seventh-fewest passing yards per game (229.9) in the NFL.

TITANS WITH CINCINNATI AREA/OHIO CONNECTIONS

- Titans head coach Mike Vrabel is a native of Akron, Ohio, and attended Walsh Jesuit High School. He went on to play four years at Ohio State (1993-96), earning back-to-back All-American honors and became the first two-time winner of the Big Ten Conference Defensive Lineman of the Year Award (1995 and 1996). After his playing career, Vrabel returned to Ohio State and began his coaching career as a linebackers coach in 2011. He then coached the defensive line from 2012–2013.
- Titans tight end Josh Whyle is a native of Cincinnati and attended La Salle High School (Cincinnati), where he helped lead the football program to three Ohio High School Athletic Association Division II titles and earned first-team All-GCL South honors as a senior in 2017. Whyle then attended the University of Cincinnati, where he appeared in 52 games with 20 starts for the Bearcats, totaling 88 receptions for 1,062 yards and 15 touchdowns in five seasons.
- Titans wide receiver Chris Moore attended the University of Cincinnati, where he appeared in 50 games with 34 starts and totaled 119 receptions for 2,301 yards and 26 touchdowns over four seasons (2011-15). He left as the Bearcats' all-time leader in touchdown receptions.
- Titans defensive back Anthony Kendall played collegiately at Baldwin Wallace University (Berea, Ohio). He appeared in 31 games for the Yellow Jackets and recorded 127 tackles, 20 pass breakups, six interceptions, one forced fumble and one sack in five seasons (2018-22).
- Titans defensive back Mike Brown (IR) attended the University of Miami (Ohio) from 2017 to 2021. He appeared in 54 games for the Redhawks and registered 197 total tackles, 10 passes defensed, four interceptions, 3.5 sacks, a forced fumble and two fumble recoveries.
- Titans practice squad offensive lineman Justin Murray is a native of Cincinnati and attended Sycamore (Montgomery, Ohio) High School, where he is currently enshrined in the school's hall of fame. He also played collegiately at the University of Cincinnati from 2011 to 2015.
- Titans outside linebackers coach Ryan Crow is a native of Findlay, Ohio, and played at Bowling Green State University. From 2014-2016, he coached at Baldwin Wallace University before spending a year with Ohio State in 2017 as a graduate assistant.
- Titans special teams coordinator Craig Aukerman has 10 years of coaching experience on the collegiate level, the majority of which occurred in the state of Ohio. He spent time coaching at University of Findlay (Ohio) (2000) and Miami (Ohio) (2001-02, 2005-08). Prior to coaching, Aukerman was a two-time NAIA All-American at the University of Findlay, where he played defensive back and wide receiver from 1995-98.
- Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen is a native of Pickerington, Ohio. He served as a defensive graduate assistant at Ohio State in 2012.
- Titans strength and conditioning coach Frank Piraino is a native of Cleveland, Ohio, and served as an assistant coach at Walsh Jesuit High School in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.
- Titans safeties coach Scott Booker played at Kent State and was a four-year letterwinner for the Golden Flashes (1999-2002). He went on to coach at his alma mater, first as a graduate assistant (2003-04), and then as the defensive backs coach (2005-08).

- Titans director of football administration John Streicher is a native of Cincinnati and from 2012-13 was a defensive student assistant at Ohio State, where he earned his bachelor's and master's degrees.
- Titans assistant director of sports performance Brian Bell played fullback and tight end at Kent State University from 2002-2006.
- Titans safeties coach Scott Booker played collegiately at Kent State University from 1999-2002. He became a graduate assistant in 2003 before serving as defensive backs coach for the Golden Flashes from 2005 to 2008.

BENGALS WITH TENNESSEE CONNECTIONS

- Bengals wide receiver Tee Higgins grew up in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and attended Oak Ridge High School. He won Tennessee's Mr. Football award for the AAAAA level as both a junior and senior. Higgins was also a finalist for Tennessee's Mr. Basketball award.
- Bengals defensive line coach Marion Hobby was an All-SEC defensive end at the University of Tennessee (1986-89). He would return to his alma mater in 1998 as an assistant coach. Hobby would also hold an assistant coach position at the University of Tennessee-Martin (1995).
- Bengals secondary/safeties coach Robert Livingston served as Vanderbilt's defensive quality control coach in 2011.

TANNEHILL, TAYLOR, & TEXAS A&M

- Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill and Bengals head coach Zac Taylor first crossed paths at Texas A&M University in 2008. It was Tannehill's freshman year as a player and Taylor's first year as a graduate assistant for the Aggies. Taylor stayed at Texas A&M until 2012 when he earned an assistant job coaching quarterbacks with the Miami Dolphins. That year, the Dolphins selected Tannehill with the eighth overall pick in the 2012 NFL Draft. Tannehill and Taylor worked closely through 2015, a year that saw Taylor assume offensive coordinator duties in an interim role.
- Along with Taylor, Titans assistant head coach/defensive line coach Terrell Williams (2010-11), Bengals strength and conditioning coach Joey Boese (2008-11) and wide receivers coach Troy Walters (2010-11) were also a part of the Aggies coaching staff while Tannehill played there.
- Also working with Tannehill and Taylor in Miami were Bengals assistant linebackers coach Jordan Kovacs (2013-15), offensive coordinator Lou Anarumo (2012-17), senior defensive assistant Mark Duffner (2014-15) and Titans assistant head coach/defensive line coach Terrell Williams (2015-17).

LAST WEEK VS. THE BROWNS

Week 3: Titans 3, Browns 27 Sunday, Sept. 24, 2023 • 1:00 p.m. ET • Cleveland Browns Stadium

In Week 3 of the 2023 season, the Titans traveled to Cleveland to face the Browns and fell by a score of 27-3.

Cleveland got on the board first on their opening drive with a 48-yard field goal by K Dustin Hopkins.

After both teams traded punts, CB Sean Murphy-Bunting stripped WR Elijah Moore and recovered the fumble at the Cleveland 17-yard line. But the offense was forced to settle for a 44-yard field goal by K Nick Folk to tie the game at 3-3 to open the second quarter.

The Browns reclaimed the lead on the following drive. QB DeShaun Watson found RB Jerome Ford for the 19-yard touchdown. The Titans were called for pass interference twice on the drive which put the Browns at the Tennessee 30-yard line.

Cleveland extended its lead on their next drive with a 52-yard field goal from Hopkins to make it 13-3 with one minute remaining in the first half. QB Ryan Tannehill drove the team down to the Cleveland 11-yard line with the help of two big receptions, a 26-yard completion to WR DeAndre Hopkins and a 33-yard completion to WR Chris Moore. But the scoring drive was thwarted as Tannehill was sacked on third-and-10 as time ran out.

The Browns then moved ahead 20-3 midway through the third quarter with a 11-play, 85-yard drive that culminated in a three-yard rushing touchdown by Ford.

Tennessee was unable to get anything going on offense as they punted on back-to-back possessions. The Browns scored a final time with 6:51 left in the game when Watson found WR Amari Cooper for a 43-yard touchdown.

The deficit proved too large for the Titans to overcome as Tennessee fell on the road to Cleveland.

NOTES FROM LAST WEEK'S GAME

TEAM NOTES

- The Titans did not turn the ball over for the second consecutive game. They recorded one takeaway (fumble recovery by Sean Murphy-Bunting) to finish the game with a plus-one turnover ratio and improve their season turnover ratio to even.
- The Titans defense allowed 78 rushing yards on 31 attempts (2.5 avg.) against the Browns to mark the ninth consecutive game in which the Titans defense did not allow an opposing offense to reach 100 rushing yards. It is the longest active streak in the NFL. The Browns entered the contest with the NFL's top-ranked rushing offense, averaging 202.0 rushing yards per game.
- The defense notched its 19th consecutive game without yielding 100 or more rushing yards to an individual player on the opposing team.

ILB AZEEZ AL-SHAIR

- Tied for third on the defense with nine total tackles, including a sack and two tackles for loss.
- Recorded his first sack of the season early in the first quarter, dropping Deshaun Watson for a two-yard loss. It was his third career sack.

DL DENICO AUTRY

- Totaled two tackles, one sack and a forced fumble.
- Credited with a forced fumble and a 16-yard sack of Deshaun Watson in the second quarter to increase his season total to a team-high 3.5 sacks and his career total to 51 sacks. He notched his sixth career forced fumble (second in 2023).
- Registered his third consecutive game with at least one sack, which tied for the second-longest such streak of his career.

WR TREYLON BURKS

- Caught one pass for five yards.
- Forced a 26-yard pass interference penalty in the second quarter.

LB CHANCE CAMPBELL

- Made his NFL debut.
- Totaled two tackles on defense and one tackle on special teams.

K NICK FOLK

- Made a 44-yard field goal in the second quarter to give him eight field goals in eight attempts in 2023.
- Improved his streak to 16 consecutive field goals made.

LB LUKE GIFFORD

- Recorded his first career start, opening the game at outside linebacker.
- Led the team with two special teams tackles.

CB KRISTIAN FULTON

- Established a career high and tied for third on the defense with nine total tackles, including a tackle for loss.

RB DERRICK HENRY

- Rushed for 20 yards on 11 attempts.
- Needs 77 rushing yards (currently at 8,498 for his career) to pass Earl Campbell (8,574) for second place on the team's all-time rushing list. He trails only Campbell and Eddie George (10,009).
- Needs 156 scrimmage yards (currently at 9,813) to eclipse Chris Johnson's career total (9,968) for second place in franchise history behind only Eddie George (12,153).

S AMANI HOOKER

- Led the team with 11 total tackles.

WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

- Totaled a team-best 48 receiving yards on three receptions.
- Extended his streak to 148 consecutive games with a reception—every game he has played since he entered the NFL. It is the longest active streak in the NFL.
- Caught a 26-yard pass from Ryan Tannehill in the second quarter to convert a third down.
- All three of his receptions resulted in first downs. Since he entered the NFL in 2013, he leads the league with 603 receptions for first downs.

CB ROGER McCREARY

- Finished second on the defense with 10 tackles, including a sack.
- Notched his first career sack by dropping Deshaun Watson for an eight-yard loss in the third quarter.

WR CHRIS MOORE

- Totaled 41 yards on a pair of receptions.
- Caught a 33-yard pass from Ryan Tannehill late in the second quarter to convert a fourth down.

CB SEAN MURPHY-BUNTING

- Totaled six tackles, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery.
- Forced wide receiver Elijah Moore to fumble and then recovered the ball to give the Titans possession at Cleveland's 17-yard line in the first quarter. The takeaway resulted in a field goal. Murphy-Bunting tallied his sixth career forced fumble (second of 2023) and his second career fumble recovery (first of 2023).

RB TYJAE SPEARS

- Recorded a team-high four receptions for three yards and added four rushing attempts for six yards.
- Registered his first career kickoff return for 21 yards.

P RYAN STONEHOUSE

- Punted seven times for a 53.4-yard gross average and a 46.1-yard net average. He tied his career high (three previous games) with four punts placed inside the 20.
- Tied his career long (Nov. 13, 2022 vs. Denver) with a 74-yard punt to flip the field in the fourth quarter.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

- Completed 13 of 25 passes for 104 yards.
- During a two-minute drive near the end of the first half, he completed a 26-yard pass to DeAndre Hopkins to convert a third down and a 33-yard pass to Chris Moore to convert a fourth down.

How much is there credit to the Browns versus the play today?

That's a good football team. I give them credit. They were much much better than we were today. Coaching, playing, the whole bit. We contributed to that. There were some things obviously that we did that affected that, but they beat us today in every area.

What most went wrong, offensively?

We just weren't able to get into the drive. They pressured us and a lot of guys were on the line of scrimmage. It felt like we wanted to try to get into the line of scrimmage and get down hill. We wanted to try to protect and throw some shots and be able to hold up. We just weren't able to get into any kind of rhythm. Especially on the road in a road environment - a fantastic environment much like we talked about in New Orleans. Too many third-and-long opportunities. When we did have a drive and got down there, we didn't take advantage of it. We got the turnover and we weren't able to take advantage of the turnover. Then, to end the half, when we could have done something and got the ball in the second half. It's frustrating all the way around.

Did you consider doubling Browns DE Myles Garrett on the last play of the half?

Yeah, we considered doubling him a lot. When you're trying to score from the 12-yard line, it's hard if you don't get guys out down there at the red zone because of the space. That's a product of trying to score. I don't think the protection hangs up. You got guys in and then you're running the bodies out there in cover. I liked the call, we just need to execute better, which I'm sure we will.

How was what they were able to do upfront limiting to you in terms of play calling?

I think those things change. We just have to get some bodies on them. With the pressure, there is block pressure. I don't think we were able to make adjustments and understand this is how they're going to play us. It wasn't a shock coming in. We'll get back to work and figure out what we need to do and how we need to do it.

You tend to rely on the pass rush...

Again, in every phase - you can start with me and go all the way down. Whether it's coaching, whether it's our pass rush, their pass rush, their O-line, their ability to hit some plays down the field, penalties, every category. It's going to be the same thing for each one. It's important for us to stick together. If you play like that in this league, if you coach like that in this league, you'll get your ass beat. Plain and simple. We'll be back. We'll get back to work. I know that it's disappointing, but that's what happens when you perform and coach like that.

You tend to hit that theme after losses. Does it resonate with the team?

You'd have to ask them that when you walk in there. Go ask there. What resonates is that we're going to compete just like we have for a lot of years. This isn't some kind of motivational speech, this is what happens in this league. We're going to have to come back. We're going to have a great week in practice, figure out who we have available, get back to work and figure out a way to win a game at home. Point out the things that we need to work on, get them fixed right away, and keep going. It's a long season, but we're focused on this week.

When the offense struggles like this, do you worry about it affecting the defense?

I think the defense needs to focus on the defense. We need to feed off each other. Certainly we have to play better on offense. We have to coach better. Our job on defense is to go out and play defense wherever they have the ball. A lot of opportunities to get off the field on third down and we weren't able to. You can make that narrative, but I don't think that of (Titans DT) Jeffrey Simmons or (Titans S) Kevin Byard or (Titans DE) Denico Autry or (Titans S) Amani Hooker. I think they're just going to play defense whenever they have to go out there. That's their job.

When it came to trying to get Titans RB Derrick Henry and Titans RB Tyjae Spears going, you talked about the pressure they were generating. Is that what you expected?

Sure. Absolutely. It was the whole thing. We're trying to get to the line of scrimmage, the snap count, the combination blocks. That was the goal. Whether we blocked them or it was miscommunication or a lot of different reasons. So that wasn't able to get going. Just too many long yard situations forces you into some difficult down and distances.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

How tough was it being under fire today?

It's hard. It's hard to get anything going. They did a good job getting pressure in the pocket pretty much all day.

Was there anything that they showed you that was unexpected or was it the way you guys handled it or did not handle the game today?

We had a game plan coming in and we tried to help where we could. At the end of the day they did a good job executing their game plan.

How is the culture now from the momentum of last week to the current loss this week?

It's frustrating, obviously. Haven't been a part of a whole lot of games here that ended like that. Not the way we wanted to go out and play on any side of the ball. We gotta be better.

What was the thinking behind the play that ended the first half?

We were in a situation where the ball had to be in the end zone or out of bounds. It wasn't the play that we had called, but he got there pretty fast and he made the play.

Are the protection issues that you all have correctable?

We are going to do our best to keep working, keep improving and find a way to make it work. I think that is all you can do at this point. Keep working and keep finding ways that we can protect and get the ball.

How difficult is it when you're not taking advantage of plays on first and second down?

Yeah, it's brutal. You put yourself in third-and-long situations, especially with a front like that, it makes it tough. We knew that going into the game we wanted to be in third-and-shorter situations. You can say that every week, but especially with a team with a front like that, they are able to tee off up front and then sync a bunch of guys into coverage on third-and-long situations. You're in a tough situation.

SELECT TITANS POSTGAME QUOTES

S KEVIN BYARD

How would you evaluate the defense through the first three games?

We say we want to be a good defense, but unless we stop hurting ourselves in these big plays or penalties that eventually turn into a big play, we cannot be a good defense until that happens. We have to continue to watch the tape, keep fighting, and keep battling.

When you guys were walking into the locker room after the game, Mike Vrabel said, 'it is a long season.' Is that the only way you can look at things after a loss like this?

Yeah, I mean, you just have to go back to the drawing board. It is very easy to get buried. Obviously, we know—I do not want to say the media and that, but they are going to say we suck. That is what we have to take on the chin. That is what it is in professional football. We have to continue to chop wood and find ways to get better. That is what we are going to do as leaders. Do not let anyone get too down on themselves. We are 1-2. We have not played any divisional games yet, so we have to keep fighting throughout the year.

After a loss like this, we will ask Vrabel what went wrong and he will say, 'We have to coach better, we have to play better.' How does that message resonate with you guys?

I mean it is true, in a way. As a player, I always look at myself in a way I have to try to find ways to make more plays. We always talk about winning these types of games. Our best players have to play well. Each week in the NFL is going to be different. I do not think anything that happened today should affect us next week against the Bengals.

RB DERRICK HENRY

How tough of a day was this from the start for you guys?

You never want to lose like that. All credit goes to them. They played their tails off and that is why they won. They executed in all three phases. They were the better team today. This is a big loss and we need to play better.

You guys knew what type of defense they had, but how much harder did it make it for you to be able to get into drives when you were constantly battling behind the sticks?

You cannot get anything going, you have edge rushers, guys who are coming fast off the ball to get the quarterback real quick. At the end of the day you have to be able to get into drives, put some plays together. Today, we were not able to do that and they were the better team.

Mike Vrabel talked about the need to coach better and play better, which is often his theme after a bad game. Does that still resonate with you guys?

That is always going to be the focus. That is all you can do. Tough loss, learn from it. You cannot go in the corner and cry about it. You have to be a man. We all have to hold each other accountable, be a team, play like a team and then let it translate on Sundays. It is all about improving and getting better.

S AMANI HOOKER

How much credit do you give to QB Deshaun Watson and how do you guys do a better job of keeping some of those big plays from happening?

Credit to Watson. He made plays. Early in the game, we weren't even letting things go over our heads. It was a little bit of play extension. He was able to break tackles in the backfield and then dump it off to the tight end or the flat player.

This is just one loss, but how do you keep this from being more than it is?

Just have to get back to the basics. Don't separate as a team. We're all a team. It's not that defense is one team and the offense is another team. We're all one and we're going to stick together. We got leaders on this team that have been here the last couple of years and we've been through the ups and downs. We'll regroup and we'll be better next week.

WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

How tough are the third and longs when you're facing a defense like that in such a hostile environment?

Against a defense like that, third and long is not the predicament you want to be in.

How frustrating is it when you can't find that consistency on offense?

We're competitors, so it's always frustrating to lose, especially when you feel like you can help your team win. So, frustration is always something that is at an all-time high when you lose. As it should be for anyone who has ever played a sport.

How important is it to stick together as a team and move on to next week?

Very important. We have a good Cincinnati team coming out here. No matter what their record says, they're still a tough team to beat and we have to put this behind us and go out.

You see 94 yards on offense, how does that make you guys feel?

We have to go back to the drawing boards and see how we can correct that. It's the NFL. You never know what can happen any week.

Do you feel there are any positives you guys can take away and build upon?

Oh, yeah. There's always positives you can build upon. Like I said, it's early in the season. Three games in and we're not where we want to be, but I feel like a lot of things that happened today can be corrected. Just have to build off of that.

2023 SCHEDULE NOTES

SEASON NOTES

- PLAYOFF OPPONENTS: The Titans have eight total games against seven playoff teams from last season. They play three division champions from 2022, including home games against Cincinnati (Oct. 1) and Jacksonville (Jan. 6 or 7) and visits to Tampa Bay (Nov. 12) and Jacksonville (Nov. 19). The four contests against 2022 wild card qualifiers include home dates with the Los Angeles Chargers (Sept. 17) and Seattle Seahawks (Dec. 24), a road game against Miami (Dec. 11), and a game in London against Baltimore (Oct. 15). The eight games against reigning playoff clubs are one more than the number the Titans had in 2022.
- NATIONAL TV APPEARANCES: The Titans are currently scheduled for three nationally-televised games. Their game in London against Baltimore (Oct. 15) will air on NFL Network. In primetime, they play at Pittsburgh on Thursday Night Football (Nov. 2 on Prime Video) and at Miami on Monday Night Football (Dec. 11 on ESPN).
- TV BREAKDOWN: Excluding their Week 18 matchup with the Jaguars, which has not yet been assigned a television broadcasting network, the Titans are currently scheduled for 10 contests on CBS, three games on FOX, and one game each on NFL Network, ESPN and Prime Video. Due to the NFL's flex scheduling, some contests could be moved to a different network from the one appearing on the initial schedule.
- TIME (ZONE) TRAVEL: Outside of their trip to London, the Titans stay in either the central time zone (13 games) or eastern time zone (six) for the duration of 2023, including the preseason. The farthest west they travel is Houston.
- HIGH NOON: During the regular season, 13 of the Titans' games are currently scheduled for Sundays at noon CT, with 11 total contests subject to flex scheduling.
- THREE GAMES BASED UPON 2022 FINISH: Every NFL team has two intraconference games and one interconference matchup based on the previous year's standings. As a result of the Titans' second-place finish in 2022, they host the AFC West's second-place Chargers (Sept. 17) and the NFC West's second-place Seattle Seahawks (Dec. 24). They visit the AFC East's runner-up Dolphins (Dec. 11). Overall, the Titans' strength of schedule is .448 (127-157-4) based upon their opponents' combined 2022 record, which is the 28th most difficult in the NFL.
- FACING TOP OFFENSES AND DEFENSES: The Titans face four of the NFL's top 10 offenses from last season: Cincinnati (Oct. 1, eighth-overall offense), Jacksonville (Nov. 19 and Jan. 6-7, 10th), the Los Angeles Chargers (Sept. 17, ninth) and Miami (Dec. 11, sixth). They also contend with three of the top 10 defenses from 2022: Baltimore (Oct. 15, tied-ninth overall defense), New Orleans (Sept. 10, fifth) and Tampa Bay (Nov. 12, tied-ninth).
- VRABEL LOOKS FOR FIFTH WINNING SEASON: With a winning record in 2023, Mike Vrabel would join Bum Phillips and Jeff Fisher as the only head coaches in franchise history with at least five winning campaigns. Under Vrabel, the Titans finished with winning records each season from 2018 to 2021. Fisher holds the franchise record for head coaches with six winning seasons (1999-00, 2002-03, 2007-08), which broke the previous record of five seasons, established by Phillips (1975, 1977-80).
- VRABEL COULD PASS PHILLIPS: Entering 2023 with a record of 50-37 as head coach, including playoffs, Mike Vrabel needs 10 wins to pass Bum Phillips (59-38) for second place on the franchise's all-time wins list among head coaches. Jeff Fisher (147-126) holds the franchise record for wins.
- HEAD COACHING EXPERIENCE: The Titans will face three of the five NFL head coaches who were hired by their respective clubs in 2023: Indianapolis' Shane Steichen (Oct. 8 and Dec. 3), Carolina's Frank Reich (Nov. 26) and Houston's DeMeco Ryans (Dec. 17 and 31). Titans head coach Mike Vrabel, who joined the Titans in 2018, has the ninth-longest tenure among current head coaches.

WEEK-BY-WEEK NOTES

- WEEK 4 vs. CINCINNATI: The Titans look to snap a three-game skid against the Bengals, who are led by fourth-year quarterback Joe Burrow. The Bengals took the AFC North title in each of the past two seasons and defeated the Titans at Nissan Stadium in the 2021 divisional playoffs. The Titans lead the all-time series 40-37-1, including the postseason.
- WEEKS 5 & 13 vs. INDIANAPOLIS: The Titans enter 2023 with a five-game winning streak over the Colts, who are led by first-year head coach Shane Steichen. Steichen served as the offensive coordinator of the Philadelphia Eagles the last two seasons, and in 2022 he helped the team reach Super Bowl LVII. First-year Titans general manager Ran Carthon spent the majority of his three NFL seasons as a player (2004-06) with the Colts.
- WEEK 6 vs. BALTIMORE (LONDON): The Titans and Ravens square off at London's Tottenham Hotspur Stadium, marking the Titans' second all-time international game in the regular season. Their first such trip occurred in 2018, Mike Vrabel's first year as head coach, when the Titans faced the Chargers at Wembley Stadium. The Titans and Ravens have developed a heated rivalry over the course of 26 all-time meetings since the series originated in 1996, highlighted by five postseason contests—most recently a 20-13 Ravens wild-card victory on Jan. 10, 2021. No team has faced the Titans/Oilers more than the Ravens in postseason history, despite the first such matchup not occurring until January 2001. Including all regular season and postseason games, the series is tied 13-13.

- WEEK 7 (BYE): The Titans follow their trip to London with a bye. Since Mike Vrabel became the team's head coach in 2018, the Titans are 5-0 in games immediately following their bye week.
- WEEK 8 vs. ATLANTA: Falcons head coach Arthur Smith faces the Titans for the first time since leaving the organization in 2021 to claim his current post. Smith was with the Titans from 2011 to 2020, including time as offensive coordinator in his final two campaigns with the club. The trip to Nissan Stadium by the Falcons will be their fourth in the regular season.
- WEEK 9 at PITTSBURGH (THURSDAY NIGHT): The Titans renew the series in the 81st meeting (including playoffs) with their former AFC Central rivals, who are in their 17th season with Mike Tomlin as head coach. In franchise history, the Titans/Oilers have played the Steelers more than any other opponent, including a 2-2 split in four previous Thursday night encounters. Titans head coach Mike Vrabel spent four seasons as a player in Pittsburgh after being selected by the Steelers in the third round of the 1997 NFL Draft.
- WEEK 10 at TAMPA BAY: The Titans carry a three-game winning streak over the Buccaneers into the meeting. With Todd Bowles in his second season as Tampa Bay's head coach, the team moves forward at quarterback in 2023 with veterans Baker Mayfield and Kyle Trask following the offseason retirement of Tom Brady.
- WEEKS 11 & 18 vs. JACKSONVILLE: The Titans look to regain the momentum in the series after they were swept by the Jaguars in 2022 for the first time since 2005. That ended the Titans' five-game winning streak in the rivalry. In Week 18 of last season, the Jaguars defeated the Titans in Jacksonville in a matchup that decided the AFC South champion. The Jaguars are in their second campaign with Doug Pederson as head coach and their third season since selecting quarterback Trevor Lawrence with the first pick in the 2021 NFL Draft.
- WEEK 12 vs. CAROLINA: The Titans will host the Panthers at Nissan Stadium for only the third time in the regular season (2007 and 2015). The Panthers are launching a new era in 2023 with head coach Frank Reich, who previously served as the head coach at the Indianapolis Colts from 2018 to 2022. Former Alabama quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner Bryce Young was selected by the Panthers with the first pick in the 2023 NFL Draft.
- WEEK 14 at MIAMI (MONDAY NIGHT): Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill is scheduled to make his first appearance at Hard Rock Stadium since being traded from the Dolphins to the Titans in 2019. Over his seven seasons in Miami (2012-18), he started 88 games and threw for 20,434 yards and 123 touchdowns. The Titans defense faces a Dolphins offense directed by second-year head coach Mike McDaniels that ranked sixth overall and fourth in passing in 2022. The last time the Titans traveled to Miami was the 2018 season opener, Mike Vrabel's first game as a head coach. With a duration of 7 hours and 8 minutes due to two separate weather interruptions, the 27-20 Dolphins win became the longest game in NFL history. The Titans franchise is 25-19 all-time on Monday Night Football, including a 2-0 mark against the Dolphins. In 1978, the Oilers and the Dolphins were featured in a memorable Monday night clash, a 35-30 Oilers win that included 199 yards and four rushing touchdowns by Earl Campbell.
- WEEKS 15 & 17 vs. HOUSTON: The Titans and Texans play twice in a three-week span. They have split the season series in six of the last seven years. This year the Titans face new Texans head coach DeMeco Ryans, who was hired in 2023 after serving two seasons as defensive coordinator for the San Francisco 49ers. Titans running back Derrick Henry enters the season with five consecutive games against the Texans with at least 126 rushing yards and one touchdown. The Texans drafted former Ohio State quarterback C.J. Stroud with the second overall pick in the 2023 NFL Draft. Prior to training camp, the Titans added veteran wide receiver DeAndre Hopkins, a first-round pick in 2013 who spent his first seven NFL seasons with the Texans.
- WEEK 16 vs. SEATTLE: The Titans have won two consecutive games against the Seahawks and three of the last four meetings. Most recently, Derrick Henry rushed for 182 yards and three touchdowns in a 33-30 overtime victory at Seattle on Sept. 19, 2021. Pete Carroll's 14 seasons as head coach with the Seahawks gives him the fourth-longest tenure in the NFL behind only New England's Bill Belichick, Pittsburgh's Mike Tomlin and Baltimore's John Harbaugh.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN 2023

WHAT TO LOOK FOR – TEAM

- The franchise is in its 25th season since becoming the Titans in 1999.
- The Titans can earn their fifth playoff berth in a seven-year span.
- The Titans can earn their third division title in a four-year span. The only other stretch in franchise annals with three division titles in a four-year span was when the Oilers won the AFL East in 1960, 1961 and 1962.
- After entering 2023 with a record of 110-83 in regular season games at Nissan Stadium, the Titans need four wins at home in 2022 to exceed the 113 wins the franchise had in regular season contests at the Astrodome (113-103-2). With a record of 112-87 in the regular season and postseason combined at Nissan Stadium, the Titans are five total wins from exceeding the 116 total wins the Oilers had at the Astrodome (116-105-2). That would give the franchise more victories at Nissan Stadium than any other single venue.
- The Titans played their 200th combined regular season and postseason game at Nissan Stadium when they faced the L.A. Chargers there on Sept. 17. Their 200th regular season game at Nissan Stadium is slated for Dec. 24 against the Seattle Seahawks.

- Mike Vrabel entered 2023 with a record of 50-37 as head coach of the Titans, including the regular season and playoffs. With 10 more wins in 2023, he will pass Bum Phillips (59) for second place on the franchise's all-time list for wins by a head coach. He would trail only Jeff Fisher (147).
- Can join Jeff Fisher (six) and Jack Pardee (four) as the only head coaches to lead the franchise to at least four playoff appearances.

S KEVIN BYARD

- Needs one interception in 2023 (27 interceptions entering the season) to move into sole possession of fourth place on the all-time franchise interception list. He is tied with Tony Banfield, W.K. Hicks and Darryll Lewis.
- Needs three interceptions to tie Fred Glick (30) for third place all-time for the franchise.
- Needs four interceptions to tie Cris Dishman (31) and five interceptions to pass Dishman for second place all-time for the franchise. He would trail only Jim Norton (45).
- Can set a franchise record by leading the team in interceptions for a sixth time (2017-19, 2021-22). His five such seasons tied Darryll Lewis' franchise record (1994-98).
- Can become the first player to lead the team in tackles for four consecutive seasons since Keith Bulluck (2002-06).
- With a streak of 114 consecutive games played (regular season) entering 2023, Byard can pass Eddie George (128) for the 10th-longest consecutive games streak in franchise history by playing in the first 15 games of 2023.
- With a streak of 114 consecutive games played (regular season) to begin his career, Byard can pass Eddie George (128) for the sixth-longest such streak in franchise history by playing in the first 15 games of 2023. He would trail only Robert Brazile (147), Rob Bironas (144), Beau Brinkley (135), Elvin Bethea (135) and Gregg Bingham (134).

RB DERRICK HENRY

- After entering 2023 with 8,335 career rushing yards, he needs 240 rushing yards in 2023 to eclipse Earl Campbell (8,574) for second place on the franchise's all-time career rushing list.
- Needs 1,675 rushing yards in 2023 to surpass Eddie George (10,009) as the franchise's all-time rushing leader.
- Needs 1,665 rushing yards in 2023 to reach 10,000 for his career. Thirty-one previous NFL players have reached the plateau.
- Needs 2,000 rushing yards to become the first player in NFL history to reach the mark in two different seasons.
- Needs 10 rushing touchdowns in 2023 to become the third player in NFL history to reach the mark in six consecutive seasons, joining LaDainian Tomlinson (nine) and Adrian Peterson (seven).

- With six career 200-yard rushing games, he needs one more to surpass Adrian Peterson (six) and O.J. Simpson (six) for the most such games all-time.
- Needs 1,500 rushing yards to become the fifth player in NFL history to reach the mark in four career seasons, joining Barry Sanders (five), Eric Dickerson (four), Edgerrin James (four) and Walter Payton (four).
- Needs 1,500 rushing yards and 15 rushing touchdowns to become the first player in NFL history to reach both marks in three different seasons.

WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

- Entered 2023 with 853 career receptions for 11,298 yards. He needs 47 receptions in 2023 to reach 900 for his career (853 entering 2023). He would join 24 previous NFL players to accomplish the feat.
- With 47 catches and 702 receiving yards in 2023, he can become the seventh player to reach 900 receptions and 12,000 receiving yards within his first 11 NFL seasons, joining Marvin Harrison, Jerry Rice, Brandon Marshall, Andre Johnson, Torry Holt and Larry Fitzgerald.
- Entered the 2023 season with a streak of 145 consecutive games with a reception—every game since he has played since he entered the NFL. It is the longest active streak in the NFL. With at least one catch in his first 14 appearances of 2023, he will surpass Marshall Faulk (158) to own the third-longest such streak to begin a career in the Super Bowl era (1966–present). He would trail only Marvin Harrison (190) and Keyshawn Johnson (167).

OLB HAROLD LANDRY III

- Needs eight sacks (31.0 career sacks entering 2023) to surpass Kyle Vanden Bosch (38.5) for 11th place on the franchise's all-time career sack list. He also needs nine sacks to become the franchise's 11th player to reach 40 career sacks.

DT JEFFERY SIMMONS

- Can become the team's only player since 2000 to record at least three sacks and five passes defended in four consecutive seasons.

DT JEFFERY SIMMONS & DL DENICO AUTRY

- Can join Jevon Kearse (1999-01) and Brian Orakpo (2015-17) as the franchise's only players since 1999 to produce three consecutive seasons with at least seven sacks.

P RYAN STONEHOUSE

- Can become the first player in history to lead the NFL in punting average in each of his first two NFL seasons.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

- Can produce his seventh career season with at least 3,000 passing yards and his third career season with at least 4,000 passing yards.
- Can join Warren Moon (six) and Steve McNair (four) as the only starting quarterbacks in franchise history to lead the club to the playoffs at least four times.
- Needs 3,500 passing yards to tie Warren Moon (1989–1991) for the most seasons in franchise history with at least 3,500 passing yards. Tannehill reached the mark in 2020 and 2021.
- Entered 2023 with 33,265 NFL passing yards and 212 touchdown passes. With 2,735 passing yards and 18 touchdown passes, he will join 27 previous players to reach 36,000 passing yards and 230 touchdown passes in an NFL career.
- He eclipsed Marcus Mariota (13,207) for fifth place on the franchise's all-time passing yards list. He needs 4,016 yards in 2023 to surpass Dan Pastorini (16,846) for fourth place.
- With 89 touchdown passes with the Titans entering the season, he needs eight touchdown passes in 2023 to surpass Dan Pastorini's total (96) for fourth place all-time for the franchise. With 11 touchdown passes, he will become the fourth passer in team annals to reach 100 with the team, joining Warren Moon (196), George Blanda (165) and Steve McNair (156).

GENERAL MANAGER RAN CARTHON

Ran Carthon was named the 14th general manager in franchise history on Jan. 18, 2023. He joined the Titans after spending six seasons with the San Francisco 49ers, including the last two as the team's director of player personnel.

"We are excited to add Ran to our organization as our new general manager," Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk said upon announcing the hire. "He brings a variety of valuable experiences to our team – as a former player and a successful personnel executive for multiple teams. I was impressed with his natural leadership qualities and his ability to connect with people. With talent evaluation being critical to this role, the roster they have built in San Francisco stands out. He played an important role there constructing one of our league's best teams."

Carthon arrived bringing a range of experience from multiple teams to Tennessee. While in San Francisco, he was the 49ers director of pro personnel for four seasons (2017-20) and then promoted to director of player personnel in 2021, serving in that capacity until joining the Titans. In his role as director of player personnel, Carthon was responsible for evaluating the top college prospects and assisting in the construction of the pro free agent board and evaluations. He joined the 49ers when head coach Kyle Shanahan and general manager John Lynch took over in 2017 and played a part in the team's three playoff appearances, two division titles and an NFC championship in 2019. Additionally, the 49ers had nine players account for 13 total Pro Bowl selections from 2021 (seven selections) to 2022 (six selections)—evidence of the talented roster the personnel staff amassed.

In his first offseason with the Titans, Carthon re-worked the roster adding wide receiver DeAndre Hopkins, tackle Andre Dillard, outside linebacker Arden Key, linebacker Azeez Al-Shaair, cornerback Sean Murphy-Bunting, tight end Trevon Wesco and linebacker Luke Gifford in free agency. In his first draft, offensive lineman Peter Skoronski and quarterback Will Levis were selected in the first two rounds.

Before joining San Francisco, Carthon spent five seasons (2012-16) with the St. Louis/Los Angeles Rams as their director of pro personnel. He entered the NFL scouting world as a pro scout with the Atlanta Falcons for four years (2008-11).

As a player, Carthon spent three seasons in the NFL (2004-06) primarily with the Indianapolis Colts, after entering the league as an undrafted college free agent. At the University of Florida, he tallied 1,353 career rushing yards over four seasons and was part of the Gators 2000 SEC Championship team.

Carthon was raised in an NFL family with his dad, Maurice, having a distinguished playing and coaching career. His father played for the New York Giants and Indianapolis Colts, and he coached for New England, New York Jets, Detroit, Dallas, Cleveland, Arizona and Kansas City.

Following his playing career, Carthon received his bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of Florida in 2008. As a member of the Rams (2013) and 49ers (2018) he was selected to participate in the NFL Career Development Symposium at the Wharton School of Business. And in 2022, he took part in the inaugural NFL coach and front office accelerator program.

Born Arandic Kornell Carthon in February of 1981, in Osceola, Ark., he attended Key West High School in Key West, Florida.

behind only the Green Bay Packers (.658). In the same period, their .855 winning percentage (47-8) in regular season games in which they had a fourth-quarter lead tied for sixth in the NFL. Vrabel's team was 5-2 in overtime games from 2018 through 2022, tying the Kansas City Chiefs (5-0) for the second-most overtime wins behind the Las Vegas Raiders (7-3). On the road, the Titans were 28-18 (.561), tying for the league's sixth-best road record.

From 2018 to 2022, the Titans had the NFL's second-best rushing offense, averaging 139.9 yards per game on the ground. Only the Baltimore Ravens were better (170.8). The offense ranked first in the NFL in the red zone, scoring touchdowns on 66.8 percent of drives inside the opponent's 20-yard line (173 of 259), and the Titans also had the NFL's ninth-best team passer rating at 95.8.

On the other side of the ball, the Titans ranked fourth in rushing defense from 2018 to 2022, allowing 100.2 rushing yards per contest. Also in that five-year stretch, the Titans were seventh in scoring defense (21.8 opponent points per game).

During the 2022 season, the Titans led the NFL in total number players used for the second consecutive season. A total of 86 players took the field for at least one game, partly as a result of 31 players being placed on injured reserve from the time the roster was cut to 53 players through the end of the campaign. The Titans relied heavily upon their youth, as rookies combined for 145 games played (tied for third in the NFL) and 56 starts (sixth).

The 2022 Titans led the NFL in rushing defense for the first time as a team since 2003. They allowed only 1,307 total rushing yards for a league-best average of 76.9 yards per contest—the second-best finish in franchise history (73.4 in 1960). The Titans also ranked third in third-down defense in 2022, allowing a conversion rate of 34.2 percent (77 of 225).

Vrabel Honored as NFL's Top Coach in 2021

Vrabel was named the Associated Press NFL Coach of the Year in 2021 after directing the Titans to a 12-5 record during the regular season. The Titans won the AFC South, and they claimed the top seed in the AFC playoff field for the first time since 2008. They did so despite needing to use 91 total players during the season—the most in NFL history in a non-strike year. After the final preseason roster cuts through the end of the season, the team placed 26 different players on injured reserve and 21 different players on the reserve/COVID-19 list, plus additional practice squad players that received those designations.

The 2021 Titans ranked second in rushing defense (84.6 yards allowed per game), 12th in total defense (329.8), sixth on third down (36.7 percent), sixth in scoring defense (20.8 points per game) and ninth in sacks (43). Offensively, the Titans finished fifth in rushing (141.4 yards per game) despite missing Derrick Henry for nine games due to injury. The offense also ranked eighth on third down (43.6 percent), fifth in the red zone (63.9 percent) and first in goal-to-go efficiency (87.5 percent).

In 2021, Vrabel joined Pardee and Glanville as the only head coaches in team annals to preside over at least three playoff squads in their initial four seasons as head coach, and he tied Pardee (43-26) for the most total wins by a head coach in his first four seasons with the organization.

Titans Take the AFC South in Year 3 Under Vrabel

The Titans won the 2020 AFC South title with an 11-5 record in the regular season, claiming their best record and first division title since going 13-3 in 2008. They finished with a 5-1 record within the division and a 6-2 mark in road games, all while navigating the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Titans led the NFL in 2020 with a plus-11 turnover differential. Their 23 takeaways ranked seventh in the NFL, while their 12 turnovers were the second-fewest in the league in 2020 and tied for the ninth-lowest number since the NFL went to a 16-game schedule in 1978.

In 2020, the Titans tied for second place in total offense (396.4 yards per game) and ranked fourth in scoring offense (30.7 points per game). They became the first team in NFL history to generate at least 2,500 rushing yards (2,690) and 3,500 net passing yards (3,653) while surrendering 25 or fewer sacks (25). Their 6,343 total yards and 381 first downs established franchise records, while their 491 points amounted to the organization's second-best total.

The 2020 Titans joined the 1997 Detroit Lions as the only teams in NFL history to feature a 2,000-yard rusher, a 3,000-yard passer and a 1,000-yard receiver. Henry led the NFL in rushing for the second consecutive season, and his 2,027 rushing yards gave him the fifth-best total in league history. Meanwhile, Ryan Tannehill passed for 3,819 yards, and his 106.5 passer rating was the fifth-best number in the NFL. A.J. Brown was named to the Mike Vrabel was named head coach of the Titans on Jan. 20, 2018, becoming the 19th head coach in franchise history.

Vrabel, who enters 2023 as the NFL's ninth-longest tenured head coach with his current team, is the organization's fourth head coach to serve for at least five complete seasons, joining Wally Lemm (1966–1970), Bum Phillips (1975–1980) and Jeff Fisher (1994–2010). Measured against each member of the group in years one through five of their respective terms, Vrabel's 50 wins from 2018 to 2022 set a new benchmark, and his .575 winning percentage (50-37) ranked second behind only Phillips, who was 48-32 (.600) in his initial five years with the Oilers.

Vrabel finished the 2022 campaign ranked third in Titans/Oilers history in total career wins among head coaches. His 50 wins trailed only franchise Ring of Honor members Fisher (147) and Phillips (59).

With three playoff appearances in his first five years (2019, 2020 and 2021), Vrabel is the sixth head coach in Oilers/Titans history to coach at least three playoff teams. The others are Fisher (six), Jack Pardee (four), Phillips (three), Jerry Glanville (three) and Lemm (three). The Titans won back-to-back AFC South titles in 2020 and 2021, marking the first time the organization accomplished the feat since the Oilers won the first three AFL Eastern division titles from 1960 to 1962.

In each of Vrabel's first five seasons, the Titans had a minimum of a win-and-in scenario to reach the postseason entering the final week of the regular season. The two non-playoff seasons under his leadership came down to such circumstances in 2018 and 2022.

Situationally, Vrabel's teams have fared among the NFL leaders in several categories. From 2018 to 2022, the Titans had a .640 winning percentage in three-point games (16-9), which ranked second in the league

Background as a Player and Coach

Vrabel arrived in Tennessee with 18 years of NFL experience, including four seasons as a coach and 14 seasons as a player. His distinguished playing career included three Super Bowl wins (2001, 2003 and 2004), one Pro Bowl selection (2007) and an All-Pro honor (2007). Vrabel played in 206 NFL games and totaled 57 sacks, 496 tackles, 11 interceptions, 20 forced fumbles, nine fumble recoveries and 10 touchdown receptions. Additionally, his teams advanced to the playoffs eight times (20 postseason games), with Vrabel recording eight postseason sacks and two postseason touchdown receptions.

Vrabel joined the Titans after four seasons with the Houston Texans, spending the first three seasons (2014-16) coaching linebackers and one year (2017) as the team's defensive coordinator. During his time in Houston, the Texans built one of the best defenses in the NFL and experienced tremendous success as a team – earning two division titles (2015, 2016).

Between 2014-16, the Texans defense ranked third in the NFL in yards allowed per game (319.9) and net passing yards (218.4). Houston also ranked first in third-down defense (33.6), fourth in opponent completion percentage (59.5) and sixth in points allowed per game (19.8). The 2016 defense ranked number one in the NFL, for the first time in franchise history, in yards allowed (301.3).

In 2017, his first year as a defensive coordinator, the Texans finished the campaign with 19 players on injured reserve. Despite the injuries, Vrabel led the defense to the fifth-best third-down percentage in the NFL and a franchise-record 3.97 yards per carry by opponents. Houston also had 18 different players record at least half a sack last year and 26 players tally at least one tackle for loss.

Vrabel spent his career playing and coaching with accomplished leaders, including Bill Belichick, Bill Cowher, Romeo Crennel, Urban Meyer, Bill O'Brien and Todd Haley.

As the Texans linebackers coach from 2014-16, Vrabel developed several players into top-notch performers, including Jadeveon Clowney (Pro Bowl, 2016), Whitney Mercilus, Benardrick McKinney (second-team All-Pro, 2016) and Brian Cushing. The 2015 Texans defense had the top third-down defense in the NFL (28.5 percent), which was the lowest percentage in franchise history and the lowest by any NFL team since the 2003 Titans (27.7 percent). The 2015 defense also set a franchise mark for sacks in a season with 45 - 22.5 coming from Vrabel's linebacking corps.

Prior to joining the NFL coaching ranks, Vrabel transitioned immediately from an NFL player to college coach. He started as the linebacker coach at Ohio State in 2011 and coached the defensive line from 2012–2013. The 2012 Buckeyes finished the season undefeated at 12-0. He also was named Big Ten Recruiter of the Year by ESPN.com in 2012.

Vrabel was selected by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the third round (91st overall) of the 1997 NFL Draft, after his playing career at Ohio State, where he earned All-America honors and Big Ten Conference Defensive Lineman of the Year in both 1995 and 1996.

A native of Akron, Ohio, Vrabel attended Walsh Jesuit High School. He and his wife, Jennifer, have two sons: Tyler and Carter.

MOST WINS IN FRANCHISE HISTORY

In 2022, Mike Vrabel passed Jack Pardee for the third-highest win total in franchise history among head coaches. He trails only Jeff Fisher (147) and Bum Phillips (59).

Vrabel is also the sixth head coach in Oilers/Titans history to coach at least three playoff teams. The others are Fisher (six), Pardee (four), Phillips (three), Jerry Glanville (three) and Wally Lemm (three).

Pro Bowl after recording his second consecutive 1,000-yard season (1,075) and tying for fifth place in the NFL with 11 touchdown catches.

Titans to AFC Championship Game in Vrabel's Second Season

In 2019, Vrabel became the first head coach in the organization's history to win multiple playoff games within his first two seasons. The Titans won a pair of road games—at New England in the wild card round and at Baltimore in the divisional round—to advance to the 2019 AFC championship game, falling at Kansas City to the eventual Super Bowl champion Chiefs.

The Titans began the 2019 campaign with two wins in their first six games but rallied to win seven of their final 10 games in the regular season. From the time the NFL went to its current playoff format in 1990 through 2019, 345 teams went 2-4 or worse in their first six games of a season. From that group, the Titans became only the third team to advance to a conference championship game, joining the 2002 Titans (2-4) and the 1996 Jacksonville Jaguars (2-4).

The 2019 Titans ranked in the NFL's top 10 in scoring margin (eighth, +71), turnover margin (sixth, +6), offensive yards per play (fourth, 6.12), rushing offense (third, 138.9 yards per game), red zone efficiency (first, 75.6 percent), total touchdowns (tied for third, 54) and third-down defense (eighth, 36.3 percent).

In his first season as head coach, Vrabel directed the Titans to a 9-7 record. His nine wins tied for the fourth-highest total in franchise history by a first-year head coach.

With only 82 penalties enforced against the Titans in 2018, Vrabel's team led the NFL and set a franchise record (16-game season) for fewest penalties in a season. The 2018 Titans also placed third in points allowed (18.9 per game), eighth in total defense (333.4 yards per game), sixth in passing defense (216.9), second in red zone defense (44.7 percent touchdown rate) and seventh in rushing offense (126.4) in the league rankings.

HEAD COACH CLASS OF 2018

When Mike Vrabel was hired in 2018, he joined six other head coaches who joined (or rejoined) their respective clubs in the same offseason: Jon Gruden (Oakland/Las Vegas Raiders), Matt Nagy (Chicago Bears), Matt Patricia (Detroit Lions), Frank Reich (Indianapolis Colts), Pat Shurmur (New York Giants) and Steve Wilks (Arizona Cardinals). Of those seven coaches, Vrabel was the only one still with his team at the conclusion of 2022 and had the most wins of the group. Vrabel's three playoff appearances also was the highest number among the coaches.

Most total wins from 2018 to 2022 by head coaches hired during the 2018 offseason (through 2022):

Coach	Team	Wins	Losses	Ties	Pct.	Playoff Appearances
1. Mike Vrabel	Tennessee	50	37	0	.575	3
2. Frank Reich	Indianapolis	38	30	0	.559	2
3. Matt Nagy	Chicago	34	33	0	.507	2
4. Jon Gruden	Las Vegas	22	31	0	.415	0
5. Matt Patricia	Detroit	13	29	1	.314	0
6. Pat Shurmur	N.Y. Giants	9	23	0	.281	0
7. Steve Wilks	Arizona	3	13	0	.188	0

MOST WINS IN FIRST FIVE SEASONS

Mike Vrabel won 50 games in his first five seasons after joining the Titans as head coach in 2018. In doing so, he surpassed Bum Phillips for the most total wins by a head coach in his first five seasons with the organization. In Philips' first five seasons as head coach from 1975 through 1979, the Oilers were 48-32, including playoffs.

Most total wins in Titans/Oilers history in a head coach's first five seasons, including playoffs*:

TITANS 2023 ASSISTANT COACHES

SHANE BOWEN DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Click For Complete Online Bio

- Bowen was promoted to defensive coordinator in 2021 after spending his first three seasons with the Titans as outside linebackers coach.
- In 2022, the Titans led the NFL in rushing defense for the first time since 2003, surrendering a league-best average of 76.9 yards per contest for the second-best finish in franchise history (73.4 in 1960). The Titans also ranked third in third-down defense in 2022, allowing a conversion rate of 34.2 percent (77 of 225). The 28 total starters used on defense was the second-highest total in the NFL, and the 40 total players used on defense led the league.
- In 2021, the Titans ranked second in rushing defense (84.6), 12th in total defense (329.8 per game), sixth on third down (36.7 percent) and sixth in scoring defense (20.8 points per game). They tied for ninth in sacks (43), while outside linebacker Harold Landry III (12 sacks) and defensive linemen Denico Autry (nine sacks) and Jeffery Simmons (8.5) made the Titans the only NFL team in 2021 to have three players with at least eight sacks. Landry, Simmons and safety Kevin Byard were all named to the Pro Bowl, with Byard adding first-team All-Pro honors.
- In 2020, he added defensive play-caller to his responsibilities as outside linebackers coach. The Titans defense ranked seventh in the NFL with 23 takeaways, which tied for the most by a Titans defense since 2013 (25). The Titans also tallied 15 interceptions, which ranked seventh in the NFL and the most by the Titans since 2012 (19).
- Bowen joined the Titans in 2018 after spending two seasons (2016-17) as a defensive assistant for the Houston Texans. He arrived with nine years of coaching experience.
- In 2016, Bowen was part of a Texans staff that produced the NFL's number one defense (yards allowed) for the first time in franchise history. In 2017, the defense ranked fifth in third-down defense and set a franchise record for yards per carry by opponents (3.97).
- He also served at Kennesaw State as linebackers coach (2013-15), at Ohio State as a defensive graduate assistant (2012). He began his coaching career as an assistant at Georgia Tech (2009-11).
- A native of Pickerington, Ohio, Bowen was a three-year letter winner at Georgia Tech as an outside linebacker.

NISSAN STADIUM

In 2015, the Titans and Nissan North America announced the formation of a 20-year, exclusive naming-rights partnership that rebranded Nashville's downtown stadium as Nissan Stadium.

Nissan Stadium hosts all Titans home football games, Tennessee State University football games, the Music City Bowl, the CMA Music Festival, major concerts and numerous other events.

The procurement of naming rights to Nissan Stadium fit the automotive company's 'Fewer, Bigger, Better' marketing strategy, which has included ongoing sponsorships of NBC's 'The Voice,' the Heisman House college football program and a major advertising presence in this year's Super Bowl. Nissan is also now the official automotive partner of the Tennessee Titans.

Nissan's ever-growing footprint in Tennessee includes vehicle and powertrain manufacturing facilities in Smyrna and Decherd respectively, along with its North American headquarters in Franklin.

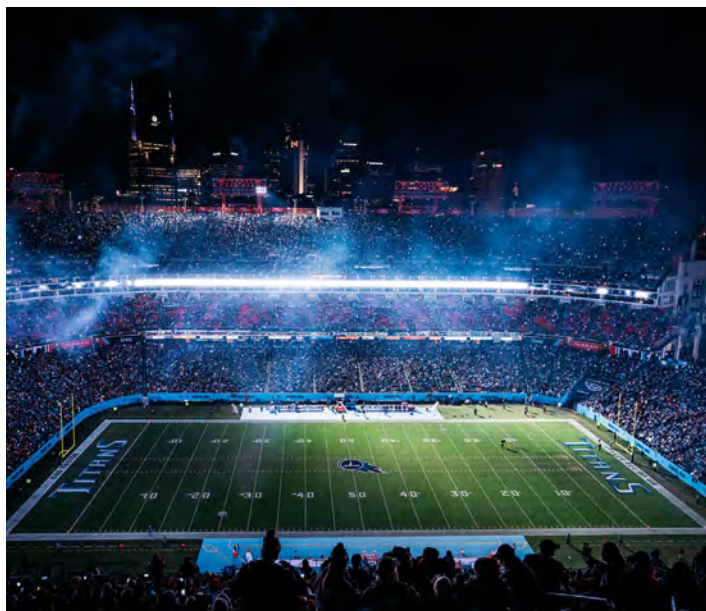

The Nissan Smyrna Plant began operations in 1983 and employs more than 8,400 people. In 2014, the Smyrna plant assembled more than 648,000 vehicles, making it the highest volume automotive assembly plant in North America. Nissan also has a major manufacturing presence in Canton, Miss., along with research and development groups in California, Arizona and Michigan. In total, the company employs more than 22,000 employees in the U.S.

One component of the Titans-Nissan partnership is assisting charitable organizations throughout Middle Tennessee in an array of community outreach programs. A centerpiece of this is the annual "Taste of Titans" charitable event, for which Nissan serves as presenting sponsor. During the course of a 20-year relationship, a total of more than $1 million resulting from these annual events is anticipated to be distributed to local non-profit organizations.

Nissan Stadium is a city-owned venue that has housed the Titans since 1999. The naming rights agreement includes the opportunity for Nissan branding on the exterior of the stadium, as well as stadium signage and other unique displays inside the stadium. LP Building Products held the naming rights to the stadium from 2006 until the Nissan partnership was established in 2015.

LEAST PENALIZED TEAMS FROM 2018-2023

Under head coach Mike Vrabel, who was named to his current post in 2018, the Titans have been one of the NFL's least penalized teams.

In 2018, the Titans were called for only 82 penalties, leading the NFL and setting a team record for the lowest number in a 16-game season (since 1978, excluding strike-shortened 1982 and 1987 seasons). They received no more than four penalties in nine of their 16 games. The previous franchise record for fewest penalties in a 16-game season was 84 by the 1983 Oilers.

RED ZONE SUCCESS SINCE 2019

During the last five seasons, the Titans have fielded one of the NFL's most efficient offenses in the red zone. From 2019 to 2022, they had 148 touchdowns in 212 possessions inside their opponent's 20-yard line.

During the 2019 campaign alone, they scored touchdowns on 75.6 percent (34 of 45) of their drives inside the opponent's 20-yard line to lead the league. That was the third-best figure in the NFL since 1991 and the highest since the 2013 Denver Broncos (76.1 percent).

In 2022, the Titans ranked sixth in the NFL with a red-zone efficiency of 64.3 percent. They scored 27 touchdowns on 42 drives inside the 20.

GOAL-TO-GO SINCE 2019

From 2019 through 2022, the Titans were the most efficient NFL team in scoring in goal-to-go situations. Over that time period, they reached the end zone 97 times in 107 total goal-to-go possessions (90.7 percent).

In 2022, they led the NFL in the category for the fourth consecutive season, crossing the goal line 15 times in 16 opportunities for a rate of 93.8 percent.

Since 2000, the Titans own the best two single-season goal-to-go percentages in the NFL. The 2020 squad established the best mark in that period with a 94.1 percentage (32 of 34), followed by their 2022 effort.

Best goal-to-go touchdown efficiency from 2019–2023:

RUSHING DEFENSE SINCE 2021

Since the beginning of the 2021 season, the Titans have had one of the NFL's stingiest defenses against the run.

In 2022, the Titans led the NFL in rushing defense for the first time since 2003. They allowed only 1,307 total rushing yards in 17 games for a league-best average of 76.9 yards per contest.

In 2021, the Titans placed second in the NFL in rushing defense. Their opponents rushed for an average of 84.6 yards per contest. Only the Baltimore Ravens (84.5) defense allowed fewer yards on the ground.

From 2021 through 2022, the Titans allowed a total of two individual 100-yard rushers—one each season. In 2021, they did not allow a 100-yard individual rushing performance after Jacksonville's James Robinson had 149 rushing yards in Week 5 (Oct. 10). In 2022, the New York Giants' Saquon Barkley opened the campaign with 164 rushing yards against the Titans, marking the first and only 100-yard game of the season by a Titans opponent.

BEST RUSHING DEFENSES IN TEAM HISTORY

Over the past two seasons, the Titans fielded two of the top rushing defenses in team history. In 2022, their average of only 76.9 opponent rushing yards per game not only led the league but also ranked second in Titans/Oilers annals. Only the 1960 inaugural Oilers squad allowed fewer rushing yards per game (73.4).

The 2021 Titans defense allowed 84.6 rushing yards per game, which now stands as the fifth-best number in Titans/Oilers history.

Top rushing defenses in franchise history (opponent rushing yards per game):

Season	Games	Att	Yards	Avg	TD	Rushing Yards Allowed/Game
1. 1960	14	438	1,027	2.34	6	73.4
2. 2022	17	390	1,307	3.35	9	76.9

THIRD-DOWN DEFENSE SINCE 2021

The Titans have fielded one of the NFL's best third-down defenses since the start of the 2021 season.

The Titans placed third in third-down defense in 2022. Opponents converted 77 of 225 attempts for a rate of 34.2 percent. Only the Washington Commanders (31.9) and Denver Broncos (34.1) were better.

They concluded 2021 ranked sixth on third down, allowing opponents to convert on 77 of their 210 chances for a rate of 36.7 percent. Over the final month of the 2021 campaign (Weeks 15-18), the Titans ranked third in the NFL by allowing opponents to convert only 28.6 percent on third down (12 of 42).

Quarterback Ryan Tannehill is in his 12th NFL season and his fifth campaign with the Titans in 2023.

During his first four seasons in Tennessee, Tannehill built a 36-19 record as a starting quarterback and led the team to the postseason three times (2019 to 2021), becoming the franchise's first starting quarterback since Warren Moon (1987 to 1993) to direct his team to the playoffs in at least three consecutive seasons. After appearing in the AFC championship game as a wild card team in 2019, the Titans won consecutive division titles in 2020 and 2021, a first for the franchise since the Oilers took the first three AFL Eastern Division titles from 1960 to 1962.

Tannehill's 36 wins as a starting quarterback at the end of the 2022 season ranked fifth in franchise history and were more than any other player in team annals in his first four years with the club. His win total trailed only that of Steve McNair (76), Moon (70), Dan Pastorini (53) and George Blanda (44).

At the conclusion of 2022, Tannehill ranked among the franchise career leaders in several categories: first in passer rating (100.5), first in completion percentage (66.9), sixth in passing yards (12,831), fifth in passing touchdowns (89), sixth in passing attempts (1,623) and sixth in completions (1,085).

Since the week of Tannehill's first start in a Titans uniform (Oct. 20, 2019) through the conclusion of 2022, Tannehill's 100.7 passer rating ranked fourth in the NFL behind only Aaron Rodgers (106.0), Patrick Mahomes (103.3) and Jimmy Garoppolo (100.8).

Tannehill started every game from Week 7 of the 2019 campaign through the sixth game of 2022. His 49 consecutive starts in the regular season broke McNair's record (2001-03) for the most in franchise history by a starting quarterback.

In 2021, he placed third on the franchise's single-season passing charts in attempts (531), completions (357) and completion percentage (67.2), and he ranked fourth with 3,734 passing yards. He became the only quarterback other than Moon (1989–1991) to record multiple seasons with at least 3,500 passing yards with the franchise. Additionally, he rushed for 270 yards, and his seven rushing touchdowns ranked second among NFL signal callers behind Jalen Hurts' 10. Tannehill was the first quarterback in franchise annals with at least seven rushing touchdowns in back-to-back seasons.

After receiving a multi-year contract extension during the 2020 offseason, Tannehill responded with 16 starts for the first time since 2015 and produced one of the best seasons of any quarterback in franchise history. A Titans team captain for the first time, his statistics finished in the top five of several of the organization's single-season record lists, including 40 total touchdowns (first), a 106.5 passer rating (second), 3,819 passing yards (third), 33 touchdown passes (tied for second), 65.5 completion percentage (fourth) and 7.9 yards per attempt (tied for fifth). Tannehill became the fourth player in NFL history with a passer rating of at least 106.0 in consecutive seasons, joining Drew Brees (2018-20), Russell Wilson (2018-19) and Rodgers (2011-12).

Also in 2020, Tannehill and Buffalo's Josh Allen became the fourth and fifth quarterbacks in NFL history with at least 3,800 passing yards, 33 passing touchdowns and seven rushing touchdowns in the same season. Only Cam Newton (2015), Daunte Culpepper (2000) and Steve Young (1994) had done so previously.

In 2019, Tannehill set single-season franchise records and led the NFL with a 117.5 passer rating and a passing average of 9.6 yards per attempt. His passer rating was the fourth-highest figure in NFL history among qualifiers. Additionally, he set a club record and placed third in the NFL with a 70.3 completion percentage.

Tannehill was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December 2019 and was named to his first career Pro Bowl. He also won the Associated Press Comeback Player of the Year Award.

Originally a first-round selection (eighth overall) by the Miami Dolphins in the 2012 NFL Draft, Tannehill was acquired by the Titans in a trade with the Dolphins on March 15, 2019. The Titans sent a 2019 seventh-round pick and a 2020 fourth-round selection to Miami in exchange for Tannehill and a 2019 sixth-rounder.

Over his seven seasons in Miami, he started 88 games, threw for 20,434 yards and 123 touchdowns, and rushed for 1,210 yards and six scores. When he left Miami, he ranked second in franchise history behind Chad Pennington in both career completion percentage (62.8) and career passer rating (87.0). He authored 13 game-winning drives for the Dolphins.

From 2012 through 2015, Tannehill's passing yardage total—15,460 yards—was the third highest mark in NFL history for a player's first four seasons, behind only Peyton Manning and Dan Marino. Tannehill's two 4,000-yard passing seasons (2015 and 2014) were the only ones recorded by a Dolphins quarterback other than Marino (six times). The Dolphins reached the playoffs in 2016, breaking an eight-year postseason drought.

A native of Big Spring, Texas, Tannehill attended Texas A&M, where he earned honorable mention All-America honors as a senior. He played both quarterback and wide receiver, passing for 5,450 yards and 42 touchdowns and adding 112 receptions for 1,596 yards and 10 scores.

2023 Game Notes:

➤ At New Orleans (9/10), completed 16 of 34 passes for 198 yards with three interceptions and added three rushing attempts for five yards. In the second quarter, he completed a screen pass to Derrick Henry for a 46-yard gain.

➤ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), completed 20 of 24 passes for 246 yards and one touchdown. He set a new career high and ranked fourth in franchise history in single-game completion percentage (minimum 20 attempts) with a rate of 83.3 percent. In leading an overtime win, he was credited with his 27th career game-winning drive (14th with the Titans), including the regular season and postseason. His 123.3 passer rating against the Chargers gave him 23 career games with a passer rating of 120.0 or better (minimum 20 attempts). He registered the 16th game of his career in which he completed at least one touchdown pass and rushed for at least one touchdown. In the second quarter, he completed a 70-yard pass to Treylon Burks for the ninth-longest pass of his career and the team's longest completion since Tannehill and Corey Davis connected for a 75-yard touchdown against Detroit on Dec. 20, 2020. In the third quarter, he rushed for a 12-yard touchdown, his first of the season and the 27th rushing touchdown of his career. He completed a 49-yard pass to Chris Moore in the fourth quarter to help set up his four-yard touchdown pass to Nick Westbrook-Ikhine. During the contest, he surpassed Marcus Mariota (1,110 completions) for fourth place on the franchise's all-time completions list and also eclipsed Mariota (13,207 passing yards) for fifth place on the franchise's all-time passing yards list.

➤ At Cleveland (9/24), completed 13 of 25 passes for 104 yards. During a two-minute drive near the end of the first half, he completed a 26-yard pass to DeAndre Hopkins to convert a third down and a 33-yard pass to Chris Moore to convert a fourth down.

Since the time he took over as the starting quarterback for the Titans in Week 7 of the 2019 season, Ryan Tannehill built one of the NFL's best records. From 2019 through 2022, his .655 winning percentage ranked eighth in the NFL among all signal callers with at least 25 starts during that time.

Highest winning percentage by starting quarterbacks from 2019 to 2023 (minimum 25 starts):

Quarterback	Starts	W	L	T	Win Pct.

QB WINS, FIRST FOUR SEASONS

In 2022, Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill improved to 36-19 as a starter since he was traded from the Dolphins to the Titans in 2019.

Tannehill is off to arguably the best beginning to any quarterback's tenure in franchise history. He has more regular season wins—36—than any other starting signal caller in franchise history over the player's first four years with the club, surpassing George Blanda, who won 34 regular season starts for the Oilers from 1960 to 1963.

Tannehill moved past Vince Young (30 wins) for fifth place on the team's all-time wins list for starting quarterbacks. He trails only Steve McNair (76), Warren Moon (70), Dan Pastorini (53) and Blanda (44).

Most wins by a starting quarterback in his first four regular seasons with the Titans/Oilers franchise:

LEADING VETERAN QBS ON NEW TEAMS

In 2019, Ryan Tannehill set a new standard for veteran quarterbacks in their first year with a new team. Tannehill, who was acquired in a trade after seven years with the Miami Dolphins, had a passer rating of 117.5. No quarterback has ever finished with a passer rating that high in his first season with a new team after playing at least one year with another team.

Brett Favre held the distinction until 2019. In 2009, Favre's 107.2 passer rating with the Minnesota Vikings became the best figure in league annals by a veteran in his first campaign with a new club.

Highest passer rating in a veteran's first season with a new team (through 2019):

GAMES WITH A 130 PASSER RATING

During the 2019 campaign, Ryan Tannehill produced a streak of four consecutive games with a passer rating greater than 130. The run included a 133.9 passer rating against the Kansas City Chiefs (Nov. 10), a 155.8 against the Jacksonville Jaguars (Nov. 24), a 131.2 at the Indianapolis Colts (Dec. 1) and a 140.4 at the Oakland Raiders (Dec. 8).

In franchise history, no quarterback prior to Tannehill had ever produced four consecutive starts with a passer rating of 130 or better (minimum 10 attempts per game). Marcus Mariota (2016) was the most recent of six Titans/Oilers signal callers to do so for three games before Tannehill.

Most consecutive games in a single season with a 130 passer rating, franchise history (minimum 10 attempts each game):

Player	Dates	Games
1. Ryan Tannehill	Nov. 10–Dec. 8, 2019	4
2. Marcus Mariota	Nov. 13–Nov. 27, 2016	3

4. (several tied)			3

Tannehill registered a total of six single-game passer ratings of 130 or greater in only 10 starts during the 2019 regular season. He tied Wilson with the most such performances in 2019 and also tied for the most by any NFL starting quarterback in any season since 1960. Green Bay's Aaron Rodgers (2011) and Dallas' Tony Romo (2014) are the only other quarterbacks to accomplish the feat.

In franchise history, former Oilers quarterback Chris Chandler previously had the most season games with a 130-plus passer rating, with four in 1995.

Most starts by a quarterback with a passer rating of 130.0 or greater, 1960–2019:

Player	Season	Team	Games

BAUGH, MONTANA & TANNEHILL

During the 2019 season, Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill accomplished a statistical feat only reached previously by a pair of Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterbacks.

Tannehill's season statistics included a 70.3 completion percentage and an average of 9.6 yards per passing attempt.

In the history of the NFL, only two previous qualifying passers have enjoyed a season in which they completed at least 70.0 percent of their passes and averaged at least 9.0 yards per attempt: Sammy Baugh and Joe Montana.

Montana led the San Francisco 49ers to a Super Bowl XXIV title and won the NFL MVP award following a 1989 season in which he completed 70.2 percent of his passes (271 of 386) and averaged 9.1 yards per attempt (3,521 yards).

Baugh directed the Washington Redskins to the NFL Championship game in 1945, while completing 70.3 percent of his passes (128 of 182) and averaging 9.2 yards per attempt (1,669 yards).

Players in NFL history (through 2019) with a completion rate of at least 70.0 percent and a passing average of at least 9.0 yards per attempt (qualifiers only):

MORE TITANS QUARTERBACKS

8 - QB WILL LEVIS

6-4, 229, Rookie, Kentucky

➤ Will Levis was selected by the Titans in the second round (33rd overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft. He was the fourth quarterback chosen in the draft after the Titans traded up in the second round to select him.

➤ He spent two seasons at the University of Kentucky after transferring from Penn State. In four combined college seasons, he appeared in 39 games with 26 starts. He completed 479 of his 738 passes (64.9 percent) for 5,876 yards with 46 touchdowns and 25 interceptions. He also rushed for 742 yards and 17 touchdowns.

➤ At Kentucky, Levis went 17-7 as a starter, tying Terry Wilson for the second-most quarterback wins since 1993. The two-time team captain completed 418 of 636 passes for 5,233 yards with 43 passing touchdowns and 11 rushing scores for the Wildcats. His six 300-yard passing games were the fourth-most in school history.

➤ As a senior in 2022, he started 11 games at quarterback and connected on 185 of 283 passes for 2,406 yards with 19 passing scores, while ranking fourth in the SEC in pass efficiency (151.9). He finished fifth in the SEC with 19 passing scores.

➤ As a junior in 2021, he transferred from Penn State to Kentucky and started in all 13 games, helping to lead UK to 10 wins for the fourth time in school history. He totaled 3,203 yards total offense, becoming the seventh player in school history to reach 3,000 yards of total offense in a season. He was 233-of-353 passing for 2,826 yards and 24 touchdowns, and he also registered 107 rushes for 376 yards and a team-high tying nine rushing touchdowns.

➤ He is a native of Madison, Conn.

7 - QB MALIK WILLIS

6-1, 219, 2nd Year, Liberty

➤ Malik Willis was selected by the Titans in the third round (86th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

➤ In 2022, he appeared in eight games with three starts as a rookie. He completed 31 of 61 passes for 276 yards with three interceptions and also rushed for 123 yards and a touchdown.

➤ He was the third quarterback drafted in 2022 after the Titans traded up four spots in the third round to select him.

➤ Willis spent three total years at Liberty, including a 2019 redshirt campaign, after transferring from Auburn. In four total seasons, he registered 38 games played with 23 starts, completing 388 of 618 passes for 5,186 yards and 48 touchdowns with 18 interceptions. He also rushed for 2,131 yards and 29 touchdowns on 366 career rushing attempts.

➤ During his two seasons as Liberty's starting signal caller, he directed the Flames to a 17-6 record in 23 starts, including two bowl victories. During those two seasons he led the FBS with 74 total passing (47) and rushing (27) touchdowns.

➤ In his final season at Liberty in 2021, Willis led the Flames to an 8-5 record and a bowl win. He completed 207 of 339 passes for 2,857 yards and 27 touchdowns to go along with 197 rushing attempts for 878 yards and 13 touchdowns.

➤ Willis was named the 2021 Bobby Bowden Trophy winner. The award is presented annually to "a college football player who epitomizes a student-athlete of faith and conducts himself as an exemplary model in the classroom, on the field, on the campus and in the community."

➤ As a junior in 2020, he started all 10 games in which he played in his first season as Liberty's quarterback after sitting out 2019 due to transfer rules. He won each of his first seven career starts and completed 170 of 265 passes for 2,260 yards, 20 touchdowns and six interceptions during the season. He added 141 rushing attempts for 944 yards and 14 touchdowns, leading all FBS quarterbacks in rushing yards and touchdowns.

➤ He is a native of Atlanta, Ga.

Running back Derrick Henry is in his eighth NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans with the 45th overall pick in the second round of the 2016 NFL Draft.

From the time he entered the NFL in 2016 through 2022, Henry rushed for 8,335 yards and 78 yards on 1,750 attempts. No NFL player rushed for more yards or touchdowns than he did during that timespan.

Henry's 78 career rushing touchdowns and 81 total touchdowns (three receiving) at the conclusion of the 2022 campaign were the most in franchise history. He also finished the season third in career rushing yards behind only Eddie George (10,009) and Earl Campbell (8,574).

Henry tallied 34 100-yard rushing games from 2016 to 2022 (regular season), which ranks fourth in team annals behind Campbell (39), George (36) and Chris Johnson (35). Additionally, Henry has authored three career postseason performances with 100-plus rushing yards. Henry's six career 200-yard rushing games are tied with O.J. Simpson and Adrian Peterson for the most in NFL history, and his six career games with at least 200 rushing yards and at least two rushing touchdowns are the most.

Henry was named to his third Pro Bowl in 2022 after finishing the season with 1,538 yards and 13 touchdowns on 349 rushing attempts (4.4 avg.). He finished second in the NFL in rushing yards behind Las Vegas Raiders tailback Josh Jacobs (1,653). His yardage total was the third-best of his career and ranked sixth in franchise history. With a career-high 398 receiving yards, his 1,936 scrimmage yards ranked fifth in franchise history and was the second-best number of his career (2,141 in 2020). His nine 100-yard rushing games ranked fifth in franchise history.

In 2021, Henry's season was affected by a foot injury that caused him to be placed on injured reserve for the final nine games of the regular season. Prior to the injury, he was leading the NFL with 937 rushing yards and 10 rushing touchdowns, numbers that still ranked ninth and tied for sixth, respectively, at the conclusion of the regular season. He returned to start in the team's divisional playoff contest and rushed for 62 yards and one score.

Henry was honored in 2021 with his first career nomination for the NFL's Walter Payton Man of the Year Award.

In 2020, Henry was named the Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year after an historic campaign in which he totaled 378 rushing attempts for 2,027 yards and 17 touchdowns. His rushing yardage total established a new franchise record and led the NFL. As the eighth player in NFL annals to hit the 2,000-yard mark, his 2,027 yards finished fifth on the all-time single-season rushing charts. He was recognized with his second consecutive Pro Bowl, named first-team Associated Press All-Pro, and won the FedEx Ground Player of the Year Award for the second consecutive year.

Henry was a first-time team captain in 2020. He started all 16 regular season games for the first time and became the first player since Tomlinson (2006-07) to lead the NFL in rushing yards in consecutive years. He was the first player in more than 50 years to lead the league in rushing yards, attempts and rushing touchdowns in consecutive seasons and the fifth player ever to do so. The most recent prior to him was Cleveland's Leroy Kelly from 1967 to 1968.

Henry's 17 rushing touchdowns in 2020 set a career high and finished as the second-best total in franchise history behind Campbell's 19 rushing touchdowns in 1979.

In 2019, Henry was named to his first Pro Bowl and added second-team Associated Press All-Pro honors after leading the NFL in rushing. In 15 games, he totaled 1,540 yards on 303 carries (5.1 avg.), joining Billy Cannon (AFL, 1961), Campbell (1978-80) and Johnson (2009) as the only running backs in franchise history to lead their respective leagues in rushing. At the time, Henry's single-season total ranked fourth in franchise annals behind Johnson's 2009 total (2,006) and Campbell's 1979 (1,697) and 1980 (1,934) performances.

With 16 rushing touchdowns in 2019, Henry tied for the NFL lead (Aaron Jones). Adding his two receiving touchdowns, his 18 total touchdowns were third in the NFL and tied for second in franchise annals (19 by Campbell in 1979; 18 by Bill Groman in 1961).

Henry's performance late in the 2019 season was instrumental in the team's run to the AFC championship game. Over the final six games of the regular season plus three playoff appearances, Henry registered seven 100-yard games. During a three-game stretch (Dec. 29 at Houston, Jan. 4 at New England and Jan. 11 at Baltimore), he became the first player in NFL history to rush for at least 180 yards in three consecutive regular season and/or postseason games.

Henry authored his first career 1,000-yard season in 2018 and the 28th 1,000-yard rushing season in franchise history, totaling 1,059 yards and 12 touchdowns on 215 carries—all then-career highs.

His 2018 rushing yardage ranked second in the AFC to Joe Mixon's 1,168 yards, and he finished seventh in the NFL. Henry's 12 rushing touchdowns tied James Connor for third place in the NFL behind Todd Gurley (17) and Alvin Kamara (14).

Henry was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December 2018. His 625 rushing yards in the month were the most by any NFL player in any month during the season.

Against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 6, 2018, Henry recorded one of the greatest single games in franchise history in front of a national primetime television audience. He broke Johnson's single-game franchise record (228) with 238 rushing yards, including a 99-yard touchdown run—one of his four touchdowns in the contest. He joined Tony Dorsett as the only two players in NFL history to rush for a 99-yard score.

In 2017, Henry shared time in the Titans backfield with DeMarco Murray. Henry led the team with 744 rushing yards on 176 carries, and he added 11 receptions for 136 yards and a touchdown. His five rushing touchdowns tied for second on the club.

As a rookie in 2016, Henry played in 15 games with one start, splitting reps in the backfield with Murray. He carried the ball 110 times for 490 yards and five touchdowns and added 137 yards on 13 receptions. Henry became the third rookie for the franchise in the "Titans era" to score at least five touchdowns in a season, joining Vince Young (seven rushing touchdowns in 2006) and Johnson (nine rushing and one receiving in 2008).

The Heisman Trophy winner played three seasons (2013–2015) at the University of Alabama, where he set numerous school and SEC records while helping his team win a National Championship in 2015. He played in 39 games and totaled 602 carries for 3,591 yards and 42 rushing touchdowns and added 285 yards on 17 career receptions with three receiving scores. During Alabama's victory over Clemson in the 2016 College Football Playoff National Championship, he broke Shaun Alexander's record for most career rushing yards in Alabama history.

In his final collegiate season, Henry rushed for an Alabama and Southeastern Conference record 2,219 yards, which led the nation and ranked fifth in FBS history. He recorded 100-yard rushing games 10 times and had four 200-yard games during the season. His 28 rushing touchdowns were a national best and an SEC record, snapping Tim Tebow and Tre Mason's old mark of 23. In addition to the Heisman, he also won the Doak Walker Award, Walter Camp Award and Maxwell Award, among a multitude of other honors.

2023 Game Notes:

➤ At New Orleans (9/10), led the team with 119 scrimmage yards, including 63 rushing yards on 15 carries and 56 receiving yards on a pair of catches. He registered his 43rd career game with at least 100 scrimmage yards. His 18-yard run in the first quarter helped set up a Titans field goal. In the second quarter, he took a screen pass 46 yards to record the fifth-longest reception of his career.

➤ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), led the team with 95 scrimmage yards, including a team-high 80 rushing yards on 25 attempts and three receptions for 15 yards. It was the 36th regular-season game of his career with a minimum of 80 rushing yards and a rushing touchdown. He scored his first touchdown of the season and the 79th rushing touchdown of his career on a one-yard plunge in the second quarter.

- Led the NFL and set a franchise record with 2,027 rushing yards in 2020, becoming the eighth player in league annals to rush for at least 2,000 yards in a season. His 2,027 rushing yards gave him the fifth-highest total in NFL history behind Eric Dickerson's 2,105 (1984), Adrian Peterson's 2,097 (2012), Jamal Lewis' 2,066 (2003) and Barry Sanders' 2,053 (1997). Henry broke Chris Johnson's franchise mark of 2,006 rushing yards in 2009.
- Named the Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year and was named to his second consecutive Pro Bowl. He won his second consecutive FedEx Ground Player of the Year Award and added first-team AP All-Pro honors. Additionally, he earned first-team All-Pro honors from Pro Football Focus, Pro Football Writers of America and Sporting News and was the 101 Awards AFC Offensive Player of the Year.
- Became the first player since LaDainian Tomlinson (2006-07) to lead the NFL in rushing yards in consecutive seasons. Henry previously led the league in 2019 with 1,540 rushing yards.
- Became the fifth all-time NFL player to lead the NFL in rushing yards, attempts and rushing touchdowns in consecutive seasons. It is a feat that had not been attained since Cleveland's Leroy Kelly did it from 1967 to 1968. The only other players to achieve it are Jim Brown (1958-59), Steve Van Buren (1947-49) and Bill Paschal (1943-44).
- Established a single-game franchise record with 250 rushing yards on Jan. 3 at Houston. He broke his own club record of 238 rushing yards, established against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 6, 2018. Henry's 250 rushing yards tied for the 13th-best single-game total in the NFL since 1948.
- Became the first player in NFL history with five career games with at least 200 rushing yards and two rushing touchdowns.
- Became the fourth player in NFL history with at least five career 200-yard rushing games, joining O.J. Simpson (six), Adrian Peterson (six) and Tiki Barber (five).
- Set a career high with 17 rushing touchdowns in 2020, finishing with the second-best total in franchise history behind Earl Campbell's 19 rushing touchdowns in 1979.
- Finished the 2020 season with 1,221 rushing yards in road games, the most by any NFL running back since 1948. The previous high was held by Eric Dickerson, who had 1,087 rushing yards in road games for the Los Angeles Rams in 1984.
- Dating back to 2019, he had a streak of nine consecutive road games with at least 100 rushing yards, passing Chris Johnson (eight games from 2009-10) for the second-longest such streak in NFL history behind only Barry Sanders' 10-game road streak from 1996-97).
- Became the fifth player in NFL history with three 200-yard rushing games in a season, joining Earl Campbell (four in 1980), O.J. Simpson (1973), Tiki Barber (2005) and Jay Ajayi (2016).
- Became the first NFL player since LaDainian Tomlinson (2002-07) and the ninth player in NFL history to record at least three consecutive seasons in which he rushed for at least 1,000 yards and 12 touchdowns.
- Finished the season with 2,141 scrimmage yards (2,027 rushing and 114 receiving), which ranks second in franchise history behind Chris Johnson's 2,509 scrimmage yards in 2009.
- Registered 10 games in 2020 with at least 100 rushing yards to tie Earl Campbell (1980) for the third-most in franchise history. Only Campbell in 1979 (11) and Chris Johnson in 2009 (12) had more 100-yard rushing games in a Titans/Oilers season than Henry. Henry's 10 100-yard games in 2020 were the most in the NFL since Dallas running back DeMarco Murray had 12 in 2014.
- Became the NFL's first player to rush for at least 175 and two touchdowns four times in a season.
- Joined Terrell Davis (1997-98), Shaun Alexander (2004-05) and Larry Johnson (2005-06) as the only players in NFL history to rush for 1,500 yards and 15 touchdowns in two consecutive seasons.
- Established a streak of 20 consecutive games in the regular season and playoffs with at least 18 rushing attempts, the second-longest streak of its kind in the NFL since 1948. The only player with more consecutive 18-carry games in the regular season and postseason was Emmitt Smith, whose streak was 23 games with the Dallas Cowboys from 1995 to 1996.

- Became the first player in NFL history to produce more than one overtime touchdown run in a season. He joined LaDainian Tomlinson as the NFL's only players with multiple career touchdown runs in overtime. Tomlinson had three during his career.
- Joined Bo Jackson, Ahman Green, Chris Johnson and Lamar Miller as the only NFL players to record two career rushing touchdowns of at least 90 yards. Henry joined Miller (two 97-yard touchdown runs) as the only players to ever record multiple touchdown runs of at least 94 yards.

300 CARRIES/15 TOUCHDOWNS/5.0 AVG

Derrick Henry won the NFL's rushing title with 303 carries for 1,540 yards and 16 touchdowns in 2019. He followed in 2020 with 378 carries for 2,027 yards and 17 touchdowns.

He became the first player in NFL history to produce multiple seasons with a minimum of 300 rushing attempts, a rushing average of at least 5.0 yards per carry and a minimum of 15 rushing touchdowns

The only other players to do so once in their careers are O.J. Simpson (1975), Terrell Davis (1998), Priest Holmes (2002), Ahman Green (2003), Larry Johnson (2005), Shaun Alexander (2005), LaDainian Tomlinson (2016), Ezekiel Elliott (2016) and Dalvin Cook (2020).

WATCH: Highlights from Derrick Henry's performance on 12/6/18

Henry's 238 rushing yards set a new franchise record, breaking Chris Johnson's mark of 228 yards against the Jaguars on Nov. 1, 2009. It was the highest single-game rushing total in the NFL in 2018 and the league's highest total since Doug Martin's 251 rushing yards for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers against the Oakland Raiders on Nov. 4, 2012.

Henry later broke his own record with 250 rushing yard at Houston on Jan. 3, 2021 to take possession of five of the top eight single-game rushing totals in team annals.

Most rushing yards in a game, franchise history:

Player	Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards
1. Derrick Henry	1/3/21	at Houston	250
2. Derrick Henry	12/6/18	Jacksonville	238
3. Chris Johnson	11/1/09	Jacksonville	228
4. Eddie George	8/31/97	Oakland	216
Billy Cannon	12/10/61	at New York	216
6. Derrick Henry	12/13/20	at Jacksonville	215
7. Derrick Henry	10/18/20	Houston	212
8. Derrick Henry	12/29/19	at Houston	211
9. Earl Campbell	11/16/80	at Chicago	203
Earl Campbell	10/19/80	Tampa Bay	203

In the second quarter, Henry took a handoff from Marcus Mariota inside his own one-yard line and raced 99 yards for a touchdown. It was the second 99-yard run in NFL history, tying Tony Dorsett's record-setting touchdown run for the Dallas Cowboys against the Minnesota Vikings on Jan. 3, 1983. It was also the team record, topping Johnson's 94-yard touchdown run against the New York Jets on Dec. 17, 2012. The only other runs in franchise history of at least 90 yards were Johnson's 91-yard rush against the Houston Texans on Sept. 20, 2009 and a 91-yarder by Sid Blanks against the Jets on Dec. 13, 1964.

Henry's 99-yard touchdown run tied for the longest scrimmage play in NFL history. It was the 15th such play, including his and Dorsett's runs and 13 passing plays. The last 99-yard scrimmage play before Henry's was New York Giants wide receiver Victor Cruz's 99-yard reception from Eli Manning against the New York Jets on Dec. 24, 2011.

Longest runs from scrimmage in NFL history:

Player	Team	Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards
1. Derrick Henry	Tennessee	12/6/18	Jacksonville	99t
Tony Dorsett	Dallas	1/3/83	Minnesota	99t
3. Ronald Jones	Tampa Bay	11/15/20	Carolina	98t
Ahman Green	Green Bay	12/28/03	Denver	98t
5. Lamar Miller	Houston	11/26/18	Tennessee	97t
Lamar Miller	Miami	12/28/14	N.Y. Jets	97t
Andy Uram	Green Bay	10/8/39	Chi. Cardinals	97t
Bob Gage	Pittsburgh	12/4/49	Chi. Bears	97t

Henry scored on a three-yard run in the first quarter, a 99-yard run in the second quarter, a 16-yard run in the third quarter, and finally a 54-yard run in the third quarter. He tied the franchise record and became the third player in franchise history to rush for four touchdowns in a game, joining Earl Campbell (against Miami on Nov. 20, 1978) and Lorenzo White (against Cleveland on Dec. 9, 1990).

The only franchise player with more overall touchdowns in a game than Henry was Oilers running back Billy Cannon, who had five total touchdowns (three rushing, two receiving) at the New York Titans on Dec. 10, 1961. Henry became the first NFL player with four rushing touchdowns in a game since New England Patriots running back Jonas Gray at Indianapolis on Nov. 16, 2014.

Most rushing touchdowns in a game, franchise history:

Player	Date	Opponent	Rushing Touchdowns
1. Derrick Henry	12/6/18	Jacksonville	4
Lorenzo White	12/9/90	Cleveland	4
Earl Campbell	11/20/78	Miami	4
4. (several tied)			3

Additionally, Henry's rushing performance against the Jaguars accomplished the following:

- He became the ninth NFL player since 1975 with at least one 90-yard run and at least one 60-yard reception in his career. The others were Tony Dorsett, Garrison Hearst, Tiki Barber, Chris Johnson, Jamaal Charles, Herschel Walker, Warrick Dunn and Adrian Peterson.
- Henry became the seventh NFL player since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger with at least four rushing touchdowns and at least 200 rushing yards in a game, joining Clinton Portis, Barry Sanders, Doug Martin, Jonas Gray, Mike Anderson and Corey Dillon. Henry became the first to accomplish the feat in fewer than 20 carries (17).
- He matched former Titans running back Chris Johnson as the only players in NFL history with a rushing touchdown of at least 90 yards and a rushing touchdown of at least 50 yards in the same game. Johnson accomplished the feat against the Houston Texans on Sept. 20, 2009.
- His 24 points tied for the fourth-highest single-game total in franchise history, trailing only Billy Cannon (30 on Dec. 10, 1961), Rob Bironas (26 on Oct. 21, 2007) and George Blanda (26 on Sept. 18, 1960). Earl Campbell (Nov. 20, 1978) and Lorenzo White (Dec. 9, 1990) also had 24 points on four touchdowns in a single game.
- His 238 rushing yards and four rushing touchdowns were each the most in any Thursday Night Football game in history.

RUSHING YARDS IN A SINGLE POSTSEASON

Derrick Henry accumulated 446 rushing yards during the 2019 playoffs. He had 182 yards on 34 carries in the wild card round at New England, followed by 195 yards on 30 attempts in the divisional round at Baltimore. In the AFC championship game, he had 69 yards on 19 rushing attempts.

Henry's average of 148.7 rushing yards per game ranked fourth in NFL history for players with at least two games played. Only a trio of Pro Football Hall of Fame members—Denver Broncos running back Terrell Davis (156.0 in 1998), Los Angeles Raiders running back Marcus Allen (155.3 in 1983) and Washington Redskins running back John Riggins (152.5 in 1982) have averaged more rushing yards in a single postseason than Henry.

In Titans/Oilers history, Eddie George established the previous record for average rushing yards in a single postseason during the 1999 playoffs. In four games, George carried the ball 108 times for 449 yards, or an average of 112.3 yards per contest.

Most rushing yards per game in a single NFL postseason (minimum two games):

Player	Team	Season	Games	Rush Yards	Per Game
1. Terrell Davis	Denver	1998	3	468	156.0
2. Marcus Allen	L.A. Raiders	1983	3	466	155.3
3. John Riggins	Washington	1982	4	610	152.5
4. Derrick Henry	Tennessee	2019	3	446	148.7
5. Eric Dickerson	L.A. Rams	1985	2	294	147.0
6. Terrell Davis	Denver	1997	4	581	145.3
7. Arian Foster	Houston	2011	2	285	142.5
8. Thurman Thomas	Buffalo	1990	3	390	130.0
9. Brian Westbrook	Philadelphia	2006	2	257	128.5
10. Fred Taylor	Jacksonville	1998	2	248	124.0

George's 449 yards during the team's run to Super Bowl XXXIV also established the franchise benchmark for most total rushing yards in a single postseason. Henry came within three yards of the mark in one fewer game.

Most rushing yards in a single postseason, franchise history:

Player	Season	Games	Rush Yards
1. Eddie George	1999	4	449

#16 • WR TREYLON BURKS

6-2, 225, 2nd Year, Arkansas

Wide receiver Treyton Burks is in his second NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans in the first round (18th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

As a rookie, Burks appeared in 11 games with six starts, totaling 33 receptions for 444 yards and one touchdown. His reception total tied for third place on the team, while his yardage total tied for third on the squad. Among NFL rookies in 2022, Burks' 444 receiving yards ranked ninth.

In three seasons (2019-21) at the University of Arkansas, Burks appeared in 32 career games with 30 starts. He totaled 146 receptions for 2,399 yards and 18 touchdowns to go along with 32 rushing attempts for 222 yards and one score. He returned 13 punts for 134 yards (10.3-yard average) and returned 11 kickoff returns for 226 yards (20.5 avg.).

At the conclusion of his collegiate career, he ranked sixth in Razorbacks history in career receptions and receiving yards, and his touchdown reception total tied for fifth all-time. He set an Arkansas record with 10 career 100-yard receiving games, including a school-record six 100-yard receiving performances in his final year.

Burks earned All-SEC honors in each of his three seasons: in 2019, second-team All-SEC as a returner and All-Freshman as a receiver; second-team All-SEC in 2020; and first-team All-SEC in 2021.

The Warren, Ark., native was drafted with the highest pick of any Arkansas player since Darren McFadden was taken fourth overall in 2008, and Burks was the first Arkansas wide receiver to be selected in the first round since Matt Jones was taken 21st overall by Jacksonville in 2006.

As a junior in 2021, Burks was named first-team All-SEC after totaling 66 receptions (seventh in the SEC) for 1,104 yards (fourth) and 11 touchdowns (fourth). His 92.0 receiving yards per game ranked third in the SEC behind only Jameson Williams (104.8) and Wan'Dale Robinson (102.6).

As a sophomore in 2020, he was named second-team All-SEC after contributing 51 receptions for 820 yards and seven touchdowns. His 91.1 receiving yards per game ranked third in the SEC behind only Elijah Moore (149.1) and DeVonta Smith (142.8).

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), caught two passes for 18 yards and rushed once for nine yards.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), led the offense with 76 receiving yards on three catches. He registered a career-long 70-yard catch in the second quarter, leading to a touchdown two plays later. It was the team's longest reception since a 75-yard touchdown catch by Corey Davis against Detroit on Dec. 20, 2020.
- At Cleveland (9/24), caught one pass for five yards and forced a 26-yard pass interference penalty in the second quarter.

#10 • WR DeANDRE HOPKINS

6-1, 212, 11th Year/1st with Titans, Clemson

Click for complete bio

Wide receiver DeAndre Hopkins is in his 11th NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans in 2023. He was signed by the team prior to training camp.

Hopkins entered the league as the 27th overall pick in the 2013 NFL Draft out of Clemson and spent his first seven seasons with the Houston Texans before being traded to the Arizona Cardinals in 2020.

In his first 10 seasons, Hopkins established himself as one of the premier receivers in NFL history. During that 10-year period, he ranked first in receptions (853), first in first-down receptions (594), second in receiving yards (11,298), fourth in receiving touchdowns (71), and first in receptions of 25-plus yards (102).

From 2013 through 2022, Hopkins surpassed 100 receptions four times, had six seasons reaching 1,000 receiving yards, recorded three seasons with at least 10 touchdowns, and posted 100 or more receiving yards in a game 40 times.

He has been named to five Pro Bowls (2015, 2017-20) and received AP All-Pro honors four times—first-team All-Pro from 2017 to 2019 and second-team All-Pro in 2020.

Through 2022, he had at least one reception in all 145 career games he played during the regular season. That represents the longest active streak in the NFL at the conclusion of 2022 and the fourth-longest streak in the Super Bowl era to begin a career. Hopkins was the only NFL player to have 100-plus receptions every season between 2018-20.

During the 2022 campaign with the Cardinals, Hopkins finished with a team-high 64 receptions for 717 yards (second on the team) and three touchdowns despite being limited to nine contests. His average of 7.1 receptions per game ranked fourth in the NFL among all players. His three games with 10-plus receptions matched the second most in franchise annals behind Larry Fitzgerald's four such performances in 2017.

At the conclusion of his tenure with the Texans (2013-19), Hopkins owned several franchise records, including franchise marks for career receiving average (13.6), receptions in a season (115 in 2018; tied Andre Johnson, 2008), receiving touchdowns in a season (13 in 2017) and receiving first downs in a season (83 in 2015). When he left Houston, he ranked second on the franchise's all-time career charts in receptions (632), receiving yards (8,602) and touchdown catches (54), trailing only Andre Johnson in each category.

The Central, S.C., native appeared in 39 games with 32 starts over three seasons (2010-12) at Clemson and totaled 206 receptions for 3,020 yards and 27 touchdowns. He left Clemson ranked first in school history in receiving yards, first in receiving touchdowns, first in 100-yard receiving games (12) and second in receptions. As a junior (2012), he led the team with 82 receptions for 1,405 yards and 18 touchdowns.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut and led the team with seven receptions for 65 yards, including a 16-yard catch to convert a third-and-10 in the fourth quarter. He was the first Titans player with seven receptions in a contest since Treylon Burks (seven) at Green Bay on Nov. 17, 2022.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), tied for the team lead with four receptions and ranked third on the squad with 40 receiving yards. In the fourth quarter, he helped set up a go-ahead touchdown with a 14-yard catch to convert a third down. In overtime, he helped set up the game-winning field goal with another 14-yard grab.
- At Cleveland (9/24), totaled a team-best 48 receiving yards on three receptions. All three of his receptions resulted in first downs, including a 26-yarder in the second quarter. Hopkins extended his active streak to 148 consecutive games with a reception—every game he has played since he entered the NFL. It is the longest active streak in the NFL.

#15 • WR NICK WESTBROOK-IKHINE

6-2, 211, 4th Year, Indiana
Click for complete bio

Wide receiver Nick Westbrook-Ikhine is in his fourth NFL season in 2023. He was originally signed by the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 7, 2020.

From the beginning of 2021, his second year in the NFL, through his third year, Westbrook-Ikhine led the Titans in receiving yards (873) and touchdown catches (seven), and his 63 receptions in that time tied for first place.

In 2022, Westbrook-Ikhine appeared in all 17 games with a career-high 13 starts. He posted 25 catches for 397 yards and three touchdowns.

In 2021, he played in 16 games with seven starts. He ranked second on the team and set career highs with 38 receptions, 476 receiving yards and four touchdown catches, and he added three tackles on special teams. Westbrook-Ikhine was named the team's 2021 recipient of the Ed Block Courage Award.

As a rookie in 2020, he appeared in 14 games with one start and totaled three receptions for 33 yards, two special teams tackles and one reception for a two-point conversion. In one playoff game, he registered two catches for 17 yards and a special teams tackle.

A native of Lake Mary, Fla., he appeared in 52 games with 36 starts at Indiana University, where he totaled 144 receptions for 2,226 yards with 16 touchdowns over four seasons. He ranked sixth in school history in catches, seventh in yardage and touchdowns, and tied for seventh in 100-yard receiving games (six). 6-4, 313, Rookie, Northwestern

Peter Skoronski was selected by the Titans with the 11th overall pick in the first round of the 2023 NFL Draft.

During a three-year career at Northwestern University, Skoronski started all 33 games at left tackle without missing a game. He earned second-team All-Big Ten honors as a freshman and first-team recognition in each of the next two seasons. He became the first offensive lineman in program history to earn two All-Big Ten first-team awards.

While he was a three-year starter at left tackle, he possesses the versatility to move inside to guard.

As a junior in 2022, he was named the Rimington-Pace Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year—the first ever by a Northwestern lineman—after starting all 12 games at left tackle. He was the first player in school history to become a unanimous first-team All-American and was named first-team All-Big Ten by coaches and media. He finished as a finalist for the 2022 Outland Trophy, recognizing nation's best college interior lineman on both offense and defense.

When the Titans drafted Skoronski, he became Northwestern's highest draft selection since guard Chris Hinton went to Denver with the fourth pick in 1983, and he was the 11th player in program history to be picked in the first round.

His grandfather, Bob Skoronski Sr., was a left tackle for the Green Bay Packers, playing nine total seasons with the franchise. He was a permanent offensive captain for the Packers under Vince Lombardi and played on five NFL championship teams. In 1976, he was inducted into the Packers Hall of Fame. Bob Skoronski Jr., Peter's father, was an All-Ivy League football player at Yale.

Peter Skoronski attended Maine South High School in Park Ridge, Ill.

Defensive lineman Denico Autry is in his 10th NFL season and his third season with the Titans in 2023. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 19, 2021.

During his first two seasons in Tennessee, Autry appeared in 29 games and led the Titans with 17 total sacks. It was the highest sack total of Autry's career in any two-year period.

Although injuries limited him to 12 games in 2022 (eight starts), he led the defense with eight sacks and a career-high 45 quarterback pressures. He also tallied 27 tackles, eight tackles for loss, four passes defended, two forced fumbles and a blocked extra point.

Autry has been one of the NFL's best in blocking opponent kicks and punts. From 2014 to 2022, he recorded a league-high total of 10 blocks, including three field goals, six extra points and one punt. He blocked an extra point in 2022.

In 2021, Autry appeared in all 17 games with 11 starts and finished second on the team with nine sacks. His sack total tied his career high, matching the nine sacks he had in 2018 as a member of the Indianapolis Colts. He added 32 tackles, 44 quarterback pressures, 10 tackles for loss and six passes defended.

After entering the NFL as a rookie free agent with the Oakland Raiders in 2014, Autry played four seasons with the Raiders (2014-17) and then three seasons with the Indianapolis Colts (2018-20). During that time he appeared in 96 games with 56 starts and amassed 200 tackles, 30.5 sacks, 53 quarterback hits, 17 passes defended, three forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

In 2020, Autry collected 33 tackles, 7.5 sacks, 10 quarterback pressures and nine tackles for loss in 14 games with the Colts. His 13 starts were the second-highest total of his career (14 in 2019).

In 2018, Autry led the Colts with a career-best nine sacks in his first season in Indianapolis. He also posted career highs with 13 tackles for loss and two forced fumbles.

The Albemarle, N.C., native played in 26 games (23 starts) in two seasons at Mississippi State University, totaling 73 tackles, 16 tackles for loss, six sacks and three forced fumbles. He spent his first two collegiate seasons at East Mississippi Community College where he was an NJCAA All-American and national champion.

➤ At New Orleans (9/10), totaled 1.5 sacks, five total tackles and six quarterback pressures. He registered his 14th career game with at least 1.5 sacks and his third career game with at least 1.5 sacks and five tackles. He split a seven-yard sack of Derek Carr with Arden Key in the second quarter and added a seven-yard solo sack later in the second quarter.

➤ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), notched five tackles, including a sack, and added two quarterback pressures. He ended the Chargers' first drive with a sack on third down, dropping Justin Herbert for a seven-yard loss. It was the 50th sack of Autry's 10-year NFL career, and it gave him 2.5 sacks in 2023. He became the 33rd NFL player to reach 50 sacks since he entered the NFL in 2014 and the 25th active player to do so.

➤ At Cleveland (9/24), totaled two tackles, one sack, three quarterback pressures and a forced fumble. In the second quarter, he was credited with a forced fumble and a 16-yard sack of Deshaun Watson. He notched his sixth career forced fumble (second in 2023). It was his third consecutive game with at least one sack, which tied for the second-longest such streak of his career.

#98 • DT JEFFERY SIMMONS

6-4, 305, 5th Year, Mississippi State
Click for complete bio

Defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons is in his fifth NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans in the first round (19th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

During his first four seasons, Simmons appeared in 56 games with 54 starts and earned two Pro Bowl berths. The two-time team captain (2021-22) accumulated 196 tackles, 21 sacks, 19 passes defensed, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries. He was second on the defense in sacks during that span behind only Harold Landry III (26.5).

In 2022, Simmons appeared in 15 games and anchored a unit that ranked first in the NFL in rushing defense (76.9 opponent rushing yards per game). En route to his second consecutive Pro Bowl appearance, he totaled 53 tackles, 7.5 sacks, 43 quarterback pressures, nine tackles for loss, one forced fumble and a career-high seven passes defensed, which tied for the fourth-best mark among all NFL defensive linemen. Simmons and Arizona's J.J. Watt were the NFL's only players in 2022 with at least seven sacks and seven passes defensed.

Before the start of the 2021 season, Simmons was named a team captain for the first time in his career, and he went on to become one of six players on the roster to start all 17 games. He was named to his first career Pro Bowl and added Associated Press second-team All-Pro honors after setting career highs in several categories, including sacks (8.5), tackles (54), quarterback pressures (58), tackles for loss (12) and passes defensed (six). He led the squad in pressures and placed third in sacks. Among all defensive tackles in the NFL, his 8.5 sacks ranked sixth. In the divisional playoffs, he set a franchise postseason record with three sacks.

In 2020, Simmons appeared and started in 15 games. With three defensive fumble recoveries, he tied Chase Young for the most in the NFL in 2020 and was the first Titans defender with three fumble recoveries in a season since 2005, when linebacker Brad Kassell accomplished the feat. Simmons ranked second on the team with 19 quarterback pressures and added 49 tackles, three sacks, three tackles for loss, five passes defensed and one forced fumble. In the franchise's "Titans era" (since 1999), he became the first player to post at least three fumble recoveries, three sacks and five passes defensed in the same season. He also had three tackles and a tackle for loss in one playoff contest.

Simmons began his rookie season on the non-football injury list due to a knee injury he suffered during training in February 2019. He missed the first six games of the season before joining the 53-man roster in Week 7.

His rookie totals included 40 tackles, two sacks, two tackles for loss, 14 quarterback pressures and one pass defensed in nine games (seven starts). He added four tackles, three quarterback pressures and a fumble recovery in three playoff contests.

During a three-year career as a defensive tackle at Mississippi State, Simmons appeared in 38 contests with 28 starts. He finished his career ranked sixth in school history with 32.5 tackles for loss. He also tied for sixth in MSU annals with five forced fumbles and tied for fourth with three blocked kicks. His totals also included 163 tackles, seven sacks, seven passes defended and two defensive touchdowns.

He was a first-team All-SEC selection as a sophomore and junior and was one of two players in the nation to be named a Bednarik Award Semifinalist in both 2017 and 2018.

As a junior in 2018, Simmons was named second-team All-American after totaling 63 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and two sacks. His 17 tackles for loss led the team, ranked fourth in the SEC and were the third-most in single-season school history.

During his sophomore season (2017), he set a career high with five sacks and added 12 tackles for loss. With three total blocked kicks and punts, he became the first SEC player since 2004 to lead the nation in the category.

Simmons is a native of Macon, Miss.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), totaled five tackles, one sack, two tackles for loss and three quarterback pressures. He recorded his first sack of the season in the second quarter, dropping Derek Carr for a three-yard loss. It was his third consecutive Week 1 game with at least one sack.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), credited with five tackles, including a sack, and also tied for the team lead with four quarterback pressures. In the third quarter, he ended a Chargers drive with a nine-yard sack on third down. It marked the first time in his career he posted at least one sack in Week 1 and Week 2.
- At Cleveland (9/24), led the team with four quarterback pressures and added a pair of tackles.

Outside linebacker Arden Key is in his sixth NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans in 2023. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 20, 2023.

Key originally entered the NFL as a third-round pick (87th overall) of the Oakland Raiders in 2018 and spent his first three campaigns with the organization. He then spent the 2021 campaign with the San Francisco 49ers and the 2022 season with the Jacksonville Jaguars. His statistical totals during his first five NFL seasons included 98 tackles and 14 sacks in 71 games (13 starts).

In 2022, Key played 17 games with three starts for the Jaguars and totaled 27 tackles, 4.5 sacks, 38 quarterback pressures, five tackles for loss and a fumble recovery. His 38 pressures ranked second for the Jaguars, and over the last five weeks of the season, he posted 25 pressures, which ranked second in the league behind Nick Bosa over that time frame. He was a key figure in helping the Jaguars win the AFC South and advance to the divisional round of the playoffs.

In 2021, Key notched a career-best 6.5 sacks to go along with 22 tackles and 25 quarterback pressures in his lone season with the 49ers.

During a three-year career at Louisiana State University, Key totaled 21 sacks and 26.5 tackles for loss. As a sophomore, he earned all-conference honors, while setting the school record for sacks in a season (12.0).

He is a native of Atlanta, Ga.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut and tied for the team lead with 1.5 sacks. He also led the team with a career-high 11 quarterback pressures, the most by any NFL player in Week 1 through Sunday, Sept. 10. He tied his career high in sacks, equaling his previous high of 1.5 sacks against Dallas as a member of the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 18, 2022. In the second quarter, he tallied his first sack of the season, dropping Derek Carr for a six-yard loss. Later in the second quarter he shared a seven-yard sack with Denico Autry later in the second quarter. His totals also included four total tackles, which tied his career high, and one pass defended.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), tied for the team lead with four quarterback pressures.
- At Cleveland (9/24), tallied three tackles and three quarterback pressures.

#58 • OLB HAROLD LANDRY III

6-2, 252, 6th Year, Boston College
Click for complete bio

Outside linebacker Harold Landry III is in his sixth NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans in the second round (41st overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft after the Titans traded up 16 spots in the second round (57 to 41) in order to take the former Boston College standout.

Landry was placed on injured reserve on Sept. 2, 2022, ending his fifth NFL season before Week 1.

From the start of his rookie campaign through 2021, Landry's 31 total sacks led the Titans. Other than Jevon Kearse (37), Landry produced the highest sack total by a Titans/Oilers player in his first four NFL seasons since individual sacks became an official NFL statistic in 1982.

From 2018 to 2021, Landry joined Pittsburgh's Cameron Heyward as the NFL's only players to be credited with at least 250 tackles (press box statistics), 30 sacks and two interceptions.

In 2021, Landry was named to his first Pro Bowl after starting all 17 games. He registered his third consecutive season to start every contest, extending his streaks to 64 consecutive games played and 52 consecutive starts. At the conclusion of 2021, his starting streak was the sixth-longest active streak in the NFL among all defensive players.

Landry's 12 sacks in 2021 led the Titans, ranked 10th in the NFL and established a career high. He became the first Titans player to record double-digit sacks in a season since Brian Orakpo (10.5) in 2016 and the first Titans player with 12 sacks in a season since Jason Babin (12.5) in 2010. Landry tied for second on the squad with 75 tackles, ranked second with a career-high 49 quarterback pressures, led the team with 14 tackles for loss, and added a forced fumble. He joined Micah Parsons, Aaron Donald and Heyward as the only NFL players in 2021 to post at least 75 tackles and 10 sacks.

Then, in the team's 2021 divisional playoff contest, he recorded 1.5 sacks. He improved his postseason career total to 4.5 sacks, becoming the organization's first player with at least four career postseason sacks since individual sacks became an official statistic in 1982.

In 2020, Landry recorded 16 starts for the second consecutive season. He led the team with 5.5 sacks, a then-career-high 32 quarterback pressures and a then-career-high 10 tackles for loss. He totaled 69 tackles and added one interception and a career-high five passes defended. In one playoff contest, he led the team with 10 tackles and two sacks.

Landry started all 16 games in 2019 and led the Titans with nine sacks. His 28 quarterback pressures ranked second, and he added 81 tackles, four tackles for loss, one pass defended, one forced fumble and two fumble recoveries. He also started all three postseason games and registered a sack and a team-high eight quarterback pressures.

As a rookie in 2018, he played in 15 games with three starts. His 4.5 sacks tied for third place on the team, and he also tied for second on the defense with 18 quarterback pressures.

In 46 career games playing defensive end for Boston College, Landry totaled 160 tackles, 26 sacks, 47.5 tackles for loss, seven passes defended, 10 forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and one interception. His 26 career sacks were exceeded in school history by only Mathias Kiwanuka (37.5 from 2002-05).

As a senior in 2017, Landry played and started eight games before a season-ending ankle injury ended his year. He finished second on the team with five sacks and totaled 38 tackles, 8.5 tackles for loss and two passes defensed.

In 2016, Landry set the school's single-season record with 16.5 sacks, which led the nation. He added seven forced fumbles, which also led the country, while his 22 tackles for loss ranked fifth nationally and ranked second all-time for the Eagles. His numerous honors included Walter Camp second-team All-America, AP second-team All-America and second-team All-ACC by the Atlantic Coast Sports Media Association and the league's head coaches.

He is a native of Spring Lake, N.C.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his first appearance in the regular season since 2021 and recorded one tackle and four quarterback pressures. He missed the entire 2022 campaign due to injury.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), posted three tackles, including a sack. In the final minute of the fourth quarter, he dropped Justin Herbert for an eight-yard sack on third down. It forced the Chargers to attempt a game-tying field goal to extend the game to overtime, when the Titans would win the game. Landry notched his 32nd career sack and his first sack since missing the 2022 campaign due to injury. He added three quarterback pressures against the Chargers.
- At Cleveland (9/24), registered two tackles.

#21 • CB ROGER McCREARY

5-11, 190, 2nd Year, Auburn

Cornerback Roger McCreary is in his second NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans in the second round (35th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

As a rookie, McCreary was one of three players on the team to start all 17 games (Kevin Byard, Aaron Brewer), and he became the first Titans rookie cornerback since Adoree' Jackson in 2017 to start every game. Only two other rookie cornerbacks in the NFL—Seattle's Tariq Woolen and the New York Jets' Sauce Gardner—started all 17 games in 2022. McCreary finished third on the Titans defense with 85 tackles, ranked second on the defense with eight passes defended, and added one interception, two tackles for loss and one quarterback pressure.

During four seasons at Auburn (2018-21), McCreary appeared in 43 games with 23 starts and posted 135 tackles, five interceptions, 35 passes defended, 10 stops for loss, a forced fumble and two fumble recoveries.

As a senior in 2021, McCreary started 12 games at cornerback for the Tigers and collected a career-best 49 tackles, an interception, a sack, two stops for loss and a team-best 16 passes defended. He was a first-team All-America selection by The Athletic, Associated Press, ESPN and Reese's Senior Bowl.

As a junior in 2020, he established career highs with three interceptions and seven tackles for loss.

McCreary is a native of Mobile, Ala.

2023 Game Notes:

- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), posted six tackles, including a tackle for loss.
- At Cleveland (9/24), finished second on the defense with 10 tackles, including a sack. He notched his first career sack by dropping Deshaun Watson for an eight-yard loss in the third quarter. He also totaled two quarterback pressures.

#0 • CB SEAN MURPHY-BUNTING

6-0, 195, 5th Year/1st with Titans, Central Michigan
Click for complete bio

Cornerback Sean Murphy-Bunting is in his fifth NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans in 2023. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 21, 2023.

Murphy-Bunting joined the Titans after spending his first four NFL seasons (2019-22) with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, who selected him in the second round (39th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft. During his four years in Tampa Bay, he played 53 games, including 36 starts, and totaled 188 tackles, six interceptions, 21 passes defended, one sack and one fumble recovery.

In 2022, he accounted for 31 tackles, two interceptions and seven passes defended for a unit that ranked ninth in yards allowed, ninth in pass yards allowed and sixth in third-down defense.

He also appeared in six playoff games with the Buccaneers, including a win in Super Bowl LV. During the Buccaneers' championship run, he tallied three postseason interceptions—one in each of his first three playoff games.

The Macomb, Mich., native played three seasons at Central Michigan University. Over his collegiate career, he tallied 104 tackles, seven interceptions, 15 passes defended, four forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. During his junior season (2018), he earned all-conference honors and was named the Chippewas' Defensive Player of the Year.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), posted six tackles and a forced fumble in his Titans debut. He was credited with a forced fumble on a carry by Jamaal Williams in the fourth quarter, but Williams recovered the ball.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), led the team and set a new career high with three passes defended. He added five tackles.
- At Cleveland (9/24), totaled six tackles, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. In the first quarter, he forced wide receiver Elijah Moore to fumble and then recovered the ball to give the Titans possession at Cleveland's 17-yard line. The takeaway resulted in a field goal. He tallied his sixth career forced fumble (second of 2023) and his second career fumble recovery (first of 2023).

#31 • S KEVIN BYARD

5-11, 212, 8th Year, Middle Tennessee State

Safety Kevin Byard is in his eighth NFL season in 2023. He was selected by the Titans in the third round (64th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

Byard is one of the team's most accomplished defenders and is among the NFL's most successful safeties since he entered the league. He is a four-time team captain, two-time Pro Bowl selection and a two-time Associated Press first-team All-Pro. During his seven-year career, he has been a part of six winning seasons and four playoff berths.

With 27 career interceptions at the end of the 2022 season, Byard tied for the fourth-highest total in franchise history and the most for the franchise in its "Titans era," which began in 1999. Only former Oilers Jim Norton (45), Cris Dishman (31) and Fred Glick (30) have totaled more interceptions than Byard, who tied Tony Banfield, W.K. Hicks and Darryll Lewis with 27.

Over a six-year period from 2017 through 2022, Byard's 27 interceptions led all NFL safeties. The only player with more interceptions in that time was Miami Dolphins cornerback Xavien Howard, who had 28.

Byard did not miss a game from 2016 through 2022, totaling 114 games in the regular season and seven postseason games. At the conclusion of 2022, his 105 consecutive starts in the regular season was the leading current streak among all Titans players and trailed only New England's Devin McCourty (115) among all NFL defenders.

In 2022, Byard led the Titans with four interceptions and 106 tackles. It was his fifth total season (2017-19, 2021-22) and second consecutive season in which he led the squad in interceptions, and it was his third straight campaign (2020-22) leading the defense in tackles. Prior to 2021, no previous Titans/Oilers player had led the team in both interceptions and tackles in a single season, and Byard accomplished the feat in consecutive seasons from 2021 to 2022.

In 2021, Byard was announced as a starter to his second career Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors for the second time in his career. He joined Bruce Matthews (1999-2000) and Albert Haynesworth (2007-2008) as the franchise's only players in its Titans era to earn multiple first-team AP All-Pro honors.

Byard led the Titans in 2021 with five interceptions and 88 tackles, becoming the franchise's first player to lead the team in tackles and interceptions in the same season since the team began tracking individual tackle statistics in 1974. It was his second consecutive season to lead the club in tackles and the fourth time in his career he was the interceptions leader. Additionally, his 13 passes defended ranked second on the team and made up the highest total among NFL safeties. He also was credited with one sack, two quarterback pressures, one tackle for loss, two forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and his first two career touchdowns—one on a fumble return and one on an interception return. He was the first Titans player with two defensive touchdowns in the same season since linebacker Zach Brown in 2012.

In 2020, Byard was a defensive team captain for the second consecutive season and the team's Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year nominee. His 111 tackles led the team and established a career high. Additionally, he registered one interception, seven passes defended, two quarterback pressures, one tackle for loss and one forced fumble. In one playoff game he produced five tackles, one pass defended and a quarterback pressure.

Byard's 2019 totals included a team-leading five interceptions, 10 passes defended, 91 tackles, one quarterback pressure and two tackles for loss. In three postseason games, he added 20 tackles and one interception.

In 2018, Byard finished with a team-leading four interceptions, 10 passes defended, 96 tackles and two sacks. He also completed a touchdown pass on a memorable fake punt to help defeat the Houston Texans (Sept. 16).

Byard experienced a breakthrough second-year season in 2017. He was named to the Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors after tying Detroit's Darius Slay for the NFL lead with eight interceptions. He added a pair of fumble recoveries to pace the league with 10 total takeaways.

As a rookie in 2016, Byard played in every game, starting the final seven contests at free safety. His 63 tackles were the most by a Titans rookie safety since Tank Williams' 69 tackles in 2002. He also ranked second on the squad with 10 special teams tackles.

During a four-year career at Middle Tennessee State University, he appeared in 49 games and notched 46 starts at safety while becoming one of the most prolific defenders in school history. He set school records with 19 career interceptions, 377 interception return yards and four interception returns for touchdowns, and he finished sixth in MTSU history with 312 career tackles. In total, he had a hand in 25 turnovers (19 interceptions, five forced fumbles and one fumble recovery) during his career and added 17 career passes defended and five tackles for loss. He was twice named first-team All-Conference USA.

As a senior in 2015, Byard appeared in 12 games with nine starts as a permanent team captain and was named first-team All-Conference USA for the second consecutive year. He ranked fourth on the team with 66 tackles and led the squad with four interceptions and six additional pass breakups.

The Lithonia, Ga., native set a career high in college with six interceptions as a junior and forced to fumbles the same season.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), tied for the team lead with eight total tackles.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), led the team with 12 total tackles. It marked the second consecutive week that he led the team or tied for the team lead in tackles.
- At Cleveland (9/24), posted two tackles.

#46 • LS MORGAN COX6-4, 233, 14th Year/3rd with Titans, TennesseeClick for complete bio

Long snapper Morgan Cox is in his 14th NFL season and his third campaign with the Titans in 2023. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 19, 2021.

In 2022, Cox handled all of the team's long snapping duties for the second consecutive season and was named to his fifth career Pro Bowl. He has more Pro Bowl appearances than any other player at his position since the league began naming long snappers to the Pro Bowl in 2004.

His steady play in 2022 helped rookie punter Ryan Stonehouse lead the league and set a new NFL record with a 53.1-yard gross punting average. Stonehouse also finished fourth in the NFL and set a rookie record with a 44.0-yard net average. Meanwhile, kicker Randy Bullock made 17 of 20 field goals (85.0 percent) and made all 28 extra point attempts.

In 2021, Cox handled all of the team's long snapping duties in 17 regular season games and one postseason game. He helped Bullock finish ninth in franchise history with 120 points in a single season, including three game-winning field goals (Sept. 19 at Seattle, Oct. 31 at Indianapolis and Dec. 23 against San Francisco). He also snapped for punter Brett Kern, who had the league's third-best ratio of punts inside the 20 to touchbacks (18:1).

In his first 11 seasons, Cox appeared in 165 regular season games for the Baltimore Ravens, serving as the team's primary long snapper after entering the NFL as an undrafted free agent in 2010. He was selected to four Pro Bowls and was a part of five playoff teams in Baltimore, totaling 10 postseason games played.

In 2020, he earned his fourth career Pro Bowl selection. He helped kicker Justin Tucker record his fifth consecutive season with at least 130 points, tying the NFL record of consecutive seasons with 130-plus points. Tucker connected on 26 of 29 field goals (89.7 percent) and was 52 of 53 on extra points (98.1 percent). Cox also snapped on all 51 of Sam Koch's 51 punts, as Koch was the NFL's only punter to place at least 20 punts (22) inside in the 20-yard line and have no more than one touchback.

A native of Collierville, Tenn., Cox played 38 games in three seasons (2007-09) as the primary long snapper at the University of Tennessee.

2023 Game Notes:

➤ At New Orleans (9/10), appeared in his 200th career regular-season game. He became the 11th active NFL player to do so and the third active long snapper to do so, joining Carolina's J.J. Jansen and Houston's Jon Weeks. He snapped for five field goals on five attempts by Nick Folk in the contest.

#6 • K NICK FOLK

6-1, 225, 16th Year/1st with Titans, Arizona

Kicker Nick Folk is in his 16th NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans in 2023. He was acquired by the Titans in a trade with the New England Patriots on Aug. 29, 2023.

In his first 15 NFL seasons, Folk appeared in 211 games during his time with the Dallas Cowboys (2007-09), New York Jets (2010-2016), Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2017) and Patriots (2019-22). During that time, he connected on 82.9 percent (353 of 426) of his field goal attempts and 96.8 percent of his extra point attempts (458 of 473). He had 10 seasons with at least 100 points, including a league-leading 150 points in 2021 with the Patriots. He registered 11 game-winning field goals in the regular season and one in postseason play.

Folk ended the 2022 campaign with an active streak of 60 straight field goals made under 40 yards—every attempt in the regular season since his last miss on Oct. 5, 2017 against New England as a member of the Buccaneers. Through 2022, the NFL record was 70 by Justin Tucker of Baltimore (2016-20).

Over his four years with New England, Folk made 108 of his 121 field goal attempts (89.3 percent) in 57 games. He departed the Patriots in fifth place on the New England all-time field goal list and tied for seventh place on the franchise's all-time scoring list with 440 total points.

In 2022, he played in all 17 games for New England and totaled 128 points on 32-of-37 field goal attempts. He was also 32-of-35 on extra points. Folk became one of six all-time NFL players to have at least five seasons with 30 field goals, joining Justin Tucker (eight), Stephen Gostkowski (five), Robbie Gould (five), John Carney (five) and David Akers (five).

Folk established the NFL record for consecutive field goals made under 50 yards with a streak of 64 such kicks from Oct. 5, 2017 to Oct. 16, 2022. He broke the record (56 consecutive) set by Ryan Succop of the Titans from 2014 to 2017.

While with the Patriots, he also set the franchise mark for consecutive field goals made (36) during a streak that spanned from 2020 to 2021 and posted the third-highest field goal percentage for a season by a Patriot in 2020 (92.9).

Folk entered the NFL as a sixth-round selection by the Dallas in the 2007 NFL Draft. As a rookie for the Cowboys, he earned a Pro Bowl selection and all-rookie honors.

A native of Sherman Oaks, Calif., Folk attended the University of Arizona, where he earned All-PAC 10 accolades in his final season.

2023 Game Notes:

➤ At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut and tied his career high with five field goals. It was his sixth career game with five field goals and the fifth occasion in which he connected on five field goals without a miss. He made a 50-yard field goal to cap the Titans' opening possession and a 27-yarder to end their second drive. In the second quarter, he booted a 31-yard field goal, and he added both a 45-yarder and a 29-yarder in the fourth quarter. He became the first Titans kicker with five field goals in a game since Stephen Gostkowski made six at Minnesota on Sept. 27, 2020. It was his 19th career game with four or more field goals.

➤ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), made both field goal attempts, including a 33-yarder as time expired in the first half and a 41-yard, game-winning field goal in overtime. The latter was the 13th game-winning field goal of his career, including 12 in the regular season and one game-winner in the postseason. It was the organization's 54th all-time game winning field goal and the team's first since Randy Bullock's 44-yarder to beat the San Francisco 49ers on Dec. 23, 2021.

➤ At Cleveland (9/24), made a 44-yard field goal in the second quarter to improve his streak to 16 consecutive field goals made.

#4 • P RYAN STONEHOUSE5-10, 193, 2nd Year, Colorado StateClick for complete bio

Punter Ryan Stonehouse is in his second NFL season in 2023. He was signed by the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 13, 2022.

In 2022, Stonehouse finished the season with a gross average of 53.10 yards per punt on 90 total punts (4,779 total yards). In doing so, he broke Sammy Baugh's single-season NFL record of 51.40 yards per punt, which was established in 1940 and was never matched among qualifiers (2.5 punts per team game) until Stonehouse's rookie campaign. Stonehouse's mark also surpassed Brett Kern's franchise record of 49.7 yards per punt in 2017.

With a net punting average of 44.03 yards per punt in 2022, Stonehouse also established a new NFL record for the highest net average by a rookie punter. He broke the record set by Indianapolis' Rigoberto Sanchez, who averaged 42.64 net yards per punt as a rookie in 2017. Stonehouse finished fourth in the NFL in net punting behind veterans Tommy Townsend (45.6), Michael Dickson (44.5) and Johnny Hekker (44.1). In franchise history, his net average ranked second for a single season, trailing only Kern's 44.6 net average in 2017.

Stonehouse's 90 punts in 2022 made up the NFL's second-highest total. Only Denver's Corliss Waitman (96) had more. The 90 punts by Stonehouse tied Craig Hentrich's 1999 number for the fourth-highest total in team annals behind Rich Camarillo (96 punts in 1994) and Cliff Parsley (93 in 1979; 91 in 1978).

Stonehouse appeared in 53 games over five seasons at Colorado State (2017-21) and set an NCAA career record with a 47.8-yard gross punting average. His career totals included 244 punts for 11,656 yards with 91 punts inside the 20. He totaled 106 punts of 50-plus yards and became the first player in Colorado State history to log 11,000 punting yards in a career.

During his final college season in 2021, Stonehouse appeared in 12 games and averaged 50.9 yards per attempt on 58 punts, including a career-long 81-yard punt. He placed 27 punts inside the 20-yard line and totaled 32 punts of 50-plus yards en route to being named a second-team All-Mountain West selection and a Ray Guy Award semifinalist.

He is a native of La Verne, Calif.

2023 Game Notes:

- At New Orleans (9/10), used a 62-yard punt to pin the Saints on their own 13-yard line to end the first quarter.
- Against Los Angeles Chargers (9/17), established a new franchise single-game record with a gross average of 61.2 yards per punt (minimum four punts to qualify), totaling 306 yards on five punts. It topped Brett Kern's previous franchise record of 60.5 yards, set on Oct. 25, 2020 against Pittsburgh. Since 1960, Stonehouse registered the NFL's second-best gross average in an NFL game (minimum four attempts) behind only Carolina punter Andy Lee's 63.0 yards per punt against Denver on Sept. 8, 2016. Stonehouse recorded punts of 60, 63, 63, 58 and 62 yards and also averaged 44.6 net yards per attempt with one punt placed inside the 20.
- At Cleveland (9/24), punted seven times for a 53.4-yard gross average and a 46.1-yard net average. He tied his career high (three previous games) with four punts placed inside the 20. In the fourth quarter, he tied his career long (Nov. 13, 2022 vs. Denver) with a 74-yard punt to flip the field.

NFL RECORD: SINGLE-SEASON AVERAGE

In 1940, Washington's Sammy Baugh punted 35 times for 1,799 yards, averaging 51.40 yards per punt. Eighty-two seasons later, the mark still stood as the best qualifying single-season punting average in NFL history, until Titans rookie punter Ryan Stonehouse broke the record in 2022.

Stonehouse, an undrafted rookie from Colorado State University, averaged 53.10 yards per attempt on 90 total punts—1.70 yards per punt ahead of Baugh's number.

Prior to Stonehouse's rookie campaign, Baugh's mark was one of the NFL's longest-held records. In the 2022 NFL Record & Fact Book, only three single-season individual records predated Baugh's punting mark, and all three of those were later tied: most safeties in a season (two by Green Bay's Tom Nash in 1932 and subsequently tied 18 times), most fumbles returned for a touchdown in a season (two by Boston's Harold McPhail in 1934 and tied 44 times), and most opponent fumbles returned for a touchdown in a season (two by McPhail in 1934 and tied 41 times).

To qualify for the single-season average record, a punter needs a minimum of 2.5 attempts per team game.

Highest single-season punting average (gross average) in NFL history (minimum 2.5 punts per team game):

Player	Team	Season	Punts	Yards	Punting Average

TITANS RADIO

Titans Radio brings football to fans across the Mid-South in one of the NFL's largest radio networks, including Nashville flagship 104.5 The Zone. Play-by-play announcer Mike Keith connection with pro football across the Mid-South dates back to 1996, a year before the Oilers arrived in Tennessee, and he became the "Voice of the Titans" in 1999. Former Titans assistant coach and NFL head coach Dave McGinnis began serving as Titans Radio's color analyst in 2017, while Titans Radio gameday host Rhett Bryan's involvement with the broadcast dates back to 1997. Amie Wells has been reporting on the sidelines since 2018. Former Tennessee Volunteer and NFL offensive lineman Ramon Foster joins the Titans Radio crew in 2023.

NISSAN STADIUM GAMEDAY MEDIA INFORMATION

MEDIA RELATIONS CONTACTS

Titans Media Relations (Press Box Seats 1-7): (615) 565-4450
 Robbie Bohren, Vice President, Football Communications
 Dwight Spradlin, Director of Football Communications
 Jared Puffer, Associate Director of Football Communications (Field Contact)
 Kaylee Connors, Coordinator of Football Communications
 Travis McDaniel, Football Communications Seasonal Assistant (Media Will Call)
 Visiting Team Media Relations (Press Box Seats 29-32): (615) 565-4452

DIRECTIONS TO NISSAN STADIUM

FROM AIRPORT TO NISSAN STADIUM (APPROXIMATELY 15 MINUTES): Take I-40 West toward Nashville/Memphis to I-24 West (before downtown). Exit at James Robertson Parkway (Exit 48). Turn left at first light (Interstate Drive). Turn right on Woodland Street. Nissan Stadium will be on the left. Follow signs to parking lot ("M" lot on northwest corner/river side of stadium).

NISSAN STADIUM MEDIA WILL CALL/MEDIA ENTRANCE

The media will call window and media entrance are located in the northwest corner of Nissan Stadium near Gate 6. The media will call window opens three hours prior to kickoff.

FIELD MEDIA VESTS

All members of the media with field access during the game must wear a media vest. Still and video photographers will be issued tan vests, while team-affiliated photographers and videographers (scoreboard, social, coaches' shows, etc.) will be issued gray vests. Additionally, media with in-game field access will be issued an armband. All vests and armbands must be obtained prior to each game at the check-in table. Vest check-in is located on the third-floor landing near the press box. All vests must be returned at the conclusion of the game to Titans personnel or to the vest check-in table.

NISSAN STADIUM PRESS BOX INTERNET ACCESS

Wireless internet access is available free of charge in the Nissan Stadium press box. The login information will be available upon arrival in the press box. A limited number of ethernet lines also are available. Accessing the wireless network works the same in the Nissan Stadium press box as it does in most areas with free connectivity. Titans staff may be able to assist in a limited manner, but you should first contact your company's I.T. department with any questions.

FROM NISSAN STADIUM PRESS BOX TO INTERVIEW ROOMS

Take the press box elevator (Level 3) to field level (Level 1). The Titans interview room is immediately on the right. Turn left and continue straight along the concourse to reach the visiting team's interview room (white line).

POSTGAME POLICIES

Reporters with press box credentials will not be allowed on the field during pre-game activities or during the game itself. Press box credentials do NOT provide access to the field at the two-minute warning in the fourth quarter. Media will be allowed to gather in the Titans interview room to watch the end of the game or remain in the press box to make the short walk down to the field level at the conclusion of the game. Interviews with Titans players are not permitted on the field following the game. The press conference will begin approximately 10 minutes following the conclusion of the game and will be held in the interview room across from the Titans locker room. Key players also will be brought to the interview room. Simultaneously, the locker room will open to credentialed media members with a working function. The press conference audio will be played live over the press box speakers.

POSTGAME QUOTES

Quotes from each team's head coach and key players will be transcribed and distributed throughout the Nissan Stadium press box following the game. The quotes also will be available at www.TennesseeTitans.com/media.

POOL REPORTS

Pool reporters are assigned by the Pro Football Writers of America. Requests for pool reports with game officials must be made in advance through the home team's media relations. Interviews will be conducted virtually. Pool reports will be recorded, transcribed and then distributed in the press box.

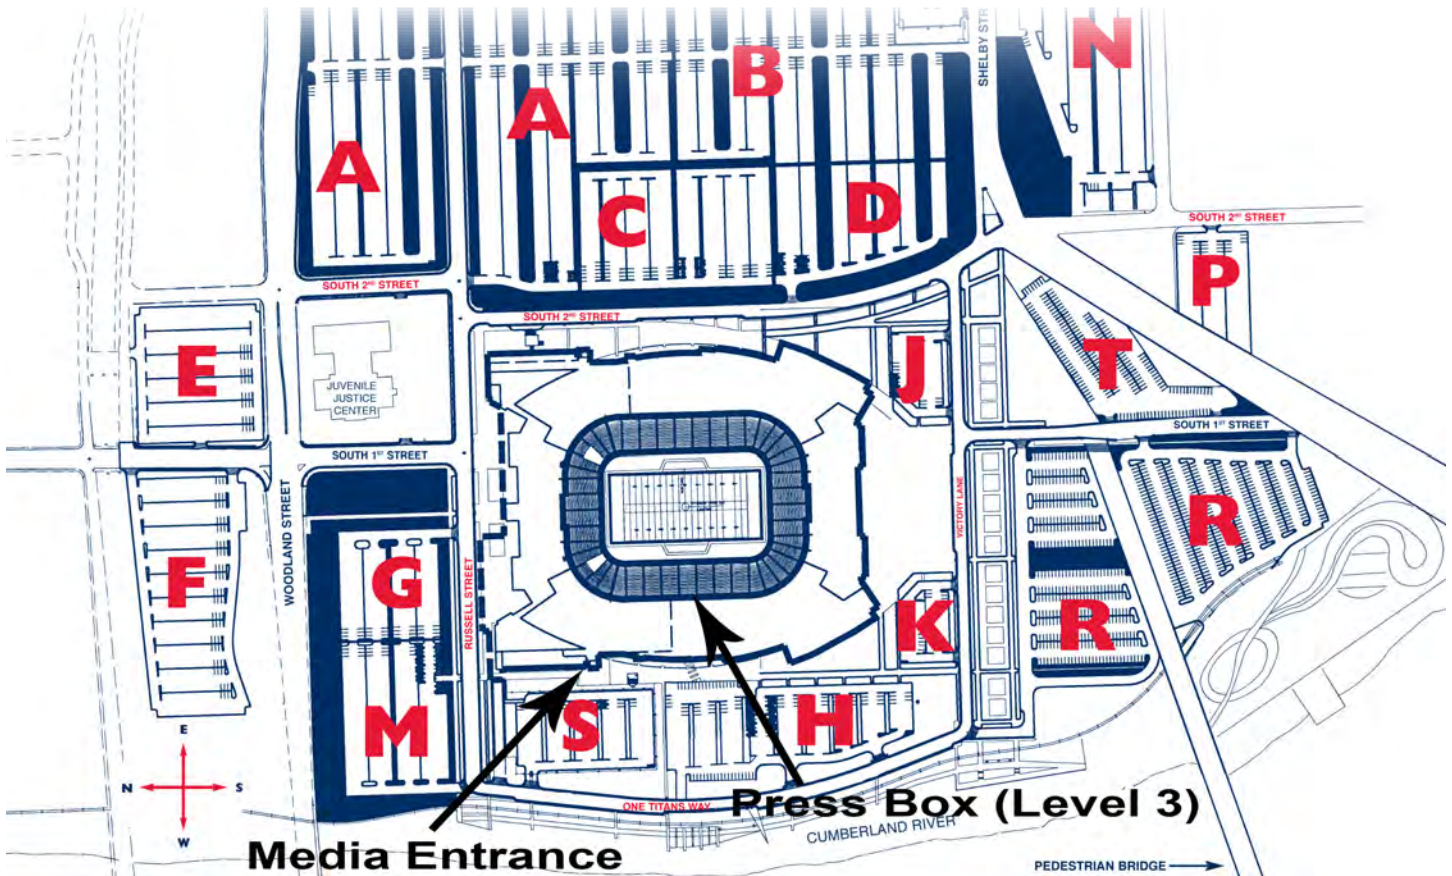

EXITING NISSAN STADIUM

FROM NISSAN STADIUM PRESS BOX TO STADIUM EXIT: Cross the press box catwalk to the third floor lobby. Take the stairs or elevator one floor down to Level 2. Exit through the doors and walk right to get to the "M" lot.

FROM NISSAN STADIUM TO AIRPORT (APPROXIMATELY 15 MINUTES): Take I-24 East toward Chattanooga to I-40 East toward Knoxville. The airport is at Exit 216A.

NISSAN STADIUM PARKING AND MEDIA ENTRANCE

The media will call window and media entrance are located in the northwest corner of Nissan Stadium near Gate 6. The media will call window opens three hours prior to kickoff.

HEAD COACH MIKE VRABEL PRESS CONFERENCE TRANSCRIPT

(on how much from yesterday is fixable versus how much is execution needing to be better)

Well, both. I think there's a lot of things that are fixable. And obviously the execution has to be better, in all three phases. When you lose, that's how it is. Certainly offensively, we have to remain and understand who we are and how we have to stay efficient. The difference in third-and-four and third-and-10 or 11 is critical just to our ability to play the game in that fashion, much like we did against the Chargers. We weren't able to do that consistently enough yesterday. So, our ability to pick up and convert on possession downs of third-and-five or less, is really good. And then the third-and-10 pluses are two-for-25 and that's just too many third-and-longs.

(on how disappointing he is on the lack of physicality)

I'm disappointed that we lost. This isn't a battle of being the most physical or throwing for more yards. Again, it's about winning and losing. I would say that's where the disappointment is. And then why we lost, we can get into those factors. But in the end, none of it was good enough and that's why I'm disappointed is just that we lost.

(on how he feels about a couple of the guys being focused on the officiating after the game)

They're free to speak for themselves. That's what I do.

(on what the primary message was he wanted players to take away after the game)

Well, when you when you play like that, you're going to lose, you're going to get beat. So we have to understand that. We have to realize why it is that we lost. And also realize that you can define your culture by what you look like when things aren't great, when things don't go well. Yesterday they didn't go very well, and we'll find out what kind of football team we have this week and what kind of individuals, what type of people we have here, which I believe in, and who we are. So, that was my message. Didn't have a whole lot to say. Give them (the Browns) all the credit. Get back to work and don't think that anybody did enough to help us win.

(on Jeffery Simmons comments about the run defense's performance not equating to wins)

Again, got a lot of respect for Jeff(ery Simmons) and Jeff's free to say what he wants to and speak for what he thinks. We knew the number one key was to affect the quarterback. Didn't tackle him at least four or five times. So again, we'll stop the run when we need to. And we've talked about this, we have to find ways to affect quarterback and not just on third down, on first and second down and so that that's what we're aiming to do.

(on being careful to not overreact over the one-on-one losses on the edges)

Yeah, there were some one-on-one losses. There were some one-on-one wins. One's a second and-12, probably come back here, I'm sure Ryan (Tannehill) wished he would probably not look the guy off and just thrown it out to Derrick (Henry) down in the red zone, second-and-12. The other one's are third-and-long situations, one was a second-and-two that created the third-and-long. That's a play-action protection that we've done multiple times. So again, if we can stay efficient and be able to not turn it into a dropback passing game, which against the type of players that they have is no small task, then I think we'll all be better.

(on if he is considering doing some shuffling on the offensive line)

We will continue to look and see what's best and where guys go. As it stands here right now today, I don't see something changing until we have some more time to visit on it tomorrow and see who's available, see who's healthy and find a way to beat the Bengals.

(on what is the challenge on staying efficient offensively)

Well, we gain nine yards and then we run. Tyjae (Spears) bounces out a gap-scheme run which, he's hit a couple of those, and I think against a fast team, I think he realized you probably can't bounce that out. But we give him the ball, we give Derrick (Henry) the ball and they make the decisions. Then that created another third-and-long. I think we might've picked it up, it wasn't too long, but it's about just making sure that you're capitalizing on your opportunities, that you're able to get into drives. If you can't get into drives, then some of the plays and formations don't necessarily complement each other. And that's our whole goal is to try to get them all to complement and be balanced and have a run game that helps and gets Derrick (Henry) what he needs, and Tyjae (Spears) can supplement that. The passing game where some of those contested catches like come down with one, we get a DPI and then there's some drops and some misses.

(on how often that was happening with Tyjae Spears where there might've been holes)

There weren't a whole lot. There were some. I meant Tyjae (Spears) has this skillset, throughout the spring and in the first couple of games. You can design a play, but you tell them to run where they're not and try not to overcoach a running back that has vision. So, I just was using that as an example that he may have gotten away with it against a couple other opponents and he realized that yesterday, when he tried to bounce it outside, that they caught up with him.

(on DeAndre Hopkins sliding after a reception)

(DeAndre Hopkins) Made a good catch. Take care of the football. I'm sure he'll have plenty of chances to catch and run and help us.

(on if it was a body maintenance decision)

You'd have to ask DeAndre (Hopkins). I can't speak for him.

(on why the offensive line was chipping on Myles Garrett to start the drive right before halftime but got away from it in the red zone)

Like I talked about last night, some of those red zone concepts, (we're) trying to get guys out to spread the field and it didn't work out for us on that particular play. We'll have to have an answer for that. Something that we know that the ball's got to go in the end zone or it's got to go out of bounds. Those are critical. That's the end of the half and being able to get three points and hopefully come back in the second half, get regrouped, go in there with a little bit of energy and confidence that you went down there and scored. It didn't turn out that way.

(on if there is a chance to get Peter Skoronski to get back)

I'm sure there's a chance. But I don't know what how big or how small the chance is.

(on if the last touchdown was a miscommunication)

It was mis-execution. Kristian (Fulton) was supposed to cover the guy.

(on if Nicholas Petit-Frere is back in the building)

He is in the building, yep. And he's allowed to meet. He's allowed to work out, he's allowed to condition, train by himself. But he can be in meetings. He can't be in practice or attend games.

(on what he imagines the ramp up to his return will be like)

I imagine that he will be working out and he'll be training by himself with the strength and conditioning staff. I imagine that he'll be in meetings. I imagine that he won't be at the games or practice.

(on if Hassan Haskins will be released from the Commissioner Exempt List since his case was dismissed)

It's not my exempt list. I mean, I try to help you out, guys. I would have no idea.

(on if he has spoken to Chris Hubbard about losing a friend to suicide with this being Suicide Prevention Month)

No, but I will. I didn't know. I hadn't been aware of that. And again, mental health is critical. Our ability to take care of ourselves and what we need to be happy and healthy and function. Again, a lot of attacks on the Tennessee Titans and our players and our coaches. And that's just a small example. I mean, we play a game here. So, we're going to try to win and do everything we can and we're going to improve but we're also going to be mindful of our mental health and our physical health. He's been a great addition, by the way. Chris (Hubbard) had been a great addition.

(on how Chris Hubbard has been able to come into the organization)

I think he's just a veteran. He spent time with two good organizations, spent time in Pittsburgh and Cleveland. I've always seen him from afar, but really respect the person that he is and how he's come in and earned a position on this team and continued to work.

(on if Sean Murphy-Bunting is in the protocol or if he was cleared)

He was not placed in the protocol.

(on if the X-plays are due to receivers making big plays or the result of an error)

I think that, unfortunately, that's the categories that we lump them into. Did we just get beat? Were we in close proximity or maybe our technique was poor? Did we have a communication error like what occurred maybe against the Chargers? Or did we just have a mental error like maybe what occurred yesterday at the end of the game? Just playing quarters coverage and thinking that Hook (Amani Hooker) was going to take him. So again, there's no easy answer to that, I apologize. I know that's not what you're looking for. We know that has to stop. We talked about making them earn it. Part of that is affecting the quarterback with the pass rush or getting him off the spot, or when you do get him off the spot, being able to get him on the ground. So, I think it all goes hand-in-hand. It's just not the guys in coverage, it's the guys up front. And that's how we have to look at it and that's how we have to coach it.

(on the offense scoring three touchdowns through three games)

Well, I think we want to make sure that we're as efficient and as confident and as urgent and decisive as we possibly can. So, looking through the first three games, what we've done well, I think that when we look at it, do the players look like they're executing it with confidence? Whether it's a positive play or just a couple-yard gain. But it looks like they know what they're doing. I'm not talking analytics and saying it was a 10-yard gain because of a missed tackle. It was a 10-yard gain because it was well blocked, guys knew what to do, guys were flying, they could adjust to whatever look that the defense gave us. I think the Saints and certainly the Browns are going to be two of the better defenses in the league. The Chargers presented their problems. But on the road, you have to be really good against those two defenses. We were not. So, we're going to get back to work. We're going to make sure that we're doing everything for our players to help them and help us move the ball, whether it's hit an X-plays, get down to the red zone, be locked in, know that they're probably going to pressure after a turnover. For us to win, we have to be able to do that. We had a great turnover from SMB (Sean Murphy-Bunting). Got to turn that into a touchdown on the 18-yard line.

(on if the double moves are affecting the defense more so now than in the past and if anything can be done against them)

Get your eyes on your man. That's one way. Get there a little quicker in the pass rush. But when you look in the backfield, you don't really see the receiver. Covered it well against the Chargers. Got beat against the Saints. Probably ran a couple yesterday.

TITANS-SAINTS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 1: Titans 15, Saints 16
Sunday, Sept. 10, 2023 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Caesars Superdome

In Week 1 of the 2023 season, the Titans traveled to New Orleans to face the Saints and fell by a score of 16-15. It was a game of field goals before the Saints scored the only touchdown of the day to take the lead and the win.

The Titans took a 3-0 lead on the first possession of the game off a 50-yard field goal from K Nick Folk. Titans were able to gain possession to set up the score after S Amani Hooker forced and recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff.

The Saints responded with a field goal of their own from K Balke Grupe after stringing together a nine-play 67-yard drive to tie it at 3-3.

The Titans then turned in an 11-play, 66-yard drive that ended with another field goal by Folk, this one from 27 yards, and it was 6-3 Tennessee at the 3:07 mark of the first quarter.

After another Grupe field goal made it 6-6 midway through the second quarter, Folk added his third field goal of the game, a 31-yard kick, making it 9-6 Titans with 1:40 remaining in the first half. The seven-play 57-yard field goal drive was highlighted by a 46-yard gain by RB Derrick Henry off a screen pass from QB Ryan Tannehill.

Tennessee held a 9-6 lead going into halftime after Hooker came up with his second takeaway of the day after intercepting QB Derek Carr with 37 seconds remaining in the half.

S Marcus Maye intercepted Tannehill on the opening drive of the second half at the New Orleans one-yard line. The Saints drove down and settled for another field goal by Grupe to tie it 9-9.

Later in the third quarter, the Saints made the Titans pay after Tannehill's third interception of the game, as Carr connected with WR Rashid Shaheed for a 19-yard touchdown pass to make it 16-9 with 1:23 left to play in the stanza.

The Titans then strung together a 12-play 48-yard drive highlighted by three first down completions from Tannehill that culminated in a 45-yard field goal by Folk to make it 16-12.

Folk made his fifth field goal of the day with 2:17 left to bring Tennessee within one. But the Titans never got the ball back, as the Saints offense converted two third-down opportunities to run out the clock and seal the victory.

TITANS-BROWNS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 3: Titans 3, Browns 27
Sunday, Sept. 24, 2023 • 1:00 p.m. ET • Cleveland Browns Stadium

In Week 3 of the 2023 season, the Titans traveled to Cleveland to face the Browns and fell by a score of 27-3.

Cleveland got on the board first on their opening drive with a 48-yard field goal by K Dustin Hopkins.

After both teams traded punts, CB Sean Murphy-Bunting stripped WR Elijah Moore and recovered the fumble at the Cleveland 17-yard line. But the offense was forced to settle for a 44-yard field goal by K Nick Folk to tie the game at 3-3 to open the second quarter.

The Browns reclaimed the lead on the following drive. QB DeShaun Watson found RB Jerome Ford for the 19-yard touchdown. The Titans were called for pass interference twice on the drive which put the Browns at the Tennessee 30-yard line.

Cleveland extended its lead on their next drive with a 52-yard field goal from Hopkins to make it 13-3 with one minute remaining in the first half. QB Ryan Tannehill drove the team down to the Cleveland 11-yard line with the help of two big receptions, a 26-yard completion to WR DeAndre Hopkins and a 33-yard completion to WR Chris Moore. But the scoring drive was thwarted as Tannehill was sacked on third-and-10 as time ran out.

The Browns then moved ahead 20-3 midway through the third quarter with a 11-play, 85-yard drive that culminated in a three-yard rushing touchdown by Ford.

Tennessee was unable to get anything going on offense as they punted on back-to-back possessions. The Browns scored a final time with 6:51 left in the game when Watson found WR Amari Cooper for a 43-yard touchdown.

The deficit proved too large for the Titans to overcome as Tennessee fell on the road to Cleveland.

TITANS FALL TO BROWNS 27-3, DROP TO 1-2

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
SEPTEMBER 24, 2023

CLEVELAND – The Titans made too many mistakes by the lake here on Sunday.

Throw in a sluggish day by the offense and a shaky day from the defense and it helped add up to a miserable 27-3 loss to the Cleveland Browns.

In the process, the Titans dropped to 1-2.

It was an ugly day from the start for the Titans, who had trouble getting anything going on offense against a Browns defense that harassed quarterback Ryan Tannehill all game.

Tannehill was sacked five times, including 3.5 times by Browns defensive end Myles Garrett.

Defensively, the Titans gave up too many plays, and committed too many penalties at Cleveland Browns Stadium, located next to Lake Erie.

The Titans fell behind early in this one.

After the Browns took an early 3-0 lead on a 48-yard field goal by kicker Dustin Hopkins, the Titans tied the game at 3-3 early in the second quarter on a 44-yard field goal by kicker Nick Folk.

The score was set up by a tremendous defensively play by Titans cornerback Sean-Murphy Bunting, who forced and recovered a fumble in Cleveland territory, which gave Tennessee the ball at the Cleveland 17-yard line.

Not much else went right on this day, however.

The Browns reclaimed the lead on a 19-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Deshaun Watson to running back Jerome Ford, and that made it 10-3 with 9:39 in the second quarter. The Titans were penalized twice for pass interference on the drive.

The Browns then moved ahead 13-3 on a 52-yard field goal by Hopkins with one minute remaining in the first half.

The Titans got into position for a score at the end of the first half, but that opportunity was botched as time expired when Tannehill was sacked on a 3rd and 10 play that originated with just 13 seconds on the clock. Garrett blew past Titans left tackle Andre Dillard on the play, time ran out, and the Browns led 13-3 at the half.

Midway through the third quarter the Browns stretched their lead to 20-3 on a three-yard touchdown run by Ford.

The Browns made it 27-3 on a 43-yard touchdown pass from Watson to receiver Amari Cooper.

The Titans return to action next Sunday against the Bengals at Nissan Stadium.

TENNESSEE TITANS
MAULED BY CLEVELAND
BROWNS IN EVERY PHASE IN UGLY 27-3 LOSS

BY NICK SUSS
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Browns left the Tennessee Titans black and blue Sunday.

The Browns (2-1) mauled the visiting Titans in nearly every phase, dominating to the tune of a 27-3 win where the Titans' only points came on a drive that generated minus-9 yards. Cleveland's defense swallowed quarterback Ryan Tannehill with an unrelenting pass rush and stymied running back Derrick Henry with stifling pursuit, and the Browns' offense chugged up and down the field with gear-like precision from their passing game.

The Titans (1-2) totaled only 94 net yards, their first time generating fewer than 100 yards of total offense since Dec. 17, 2006.

No answer for No. 95

Browns defensive end Myles Garrett almost singlehandedly knocked the Titans out of their offensive game plan. Garrett harassed left tackle Andre Dillard from the start, logging 2.5 sacks, four quarterback hits and a forced fumble in the first half alone. His most consequential sack came in the waning moments of the second quarter, when he blew past Dillard to bury Tannehill, keeping the clock running to prevent the Titans from sending out the field goal unit for points before halftime.

Garrett finished with 3.5 sacks and five quarterback hits.

Where was the Titans' running game?

It's been a long time since a defense corralled Henry quite like the Browns did. His 20 rushing yards are his fewest since Dec. 17, 2017, his second year in the league. Henry entered the game within striking distance of surpassing Earl Campbell on the Titans/Oilers all-time rushing list, but the Browns ensured Campbell's mark stayed safe another week.

Titans rookie running back Tyjae Spears didn't have all that much more success. He rushed two times for four yards and caught four passes for four yards but struggled to slip tackles and create yardage after the catch.

Titans' secondary a primary problem

Browns quarterback Deshaun Watson didn't need to take many deep shots downfield to pick the Titans' defense apart. Watson was 27-for-33 passing with 289 yards and a touchdown. When targeting receivers Amari Cooper, Elijah Moore and Donovan Peoples-Jones, he was 19-for-21 for 214 yards.

Watson's elusiveness behind the line of scrimmage was an asset; he wiggled out of a couple of pressures that would've ended in sacks for most quarterbacks. But the bigger issue was with the Titans' cornerbacks, who in addition to enabling Watson's efficiency were also flagged for two pass interferences and two defensive holding penalties.

What's next?

The Titans host the Cincinnati Bengals at Nissan Stadium on Oct. 1. Kickoff is scheduled for noon and the game will be televised on FOX.

TITANS CRUSHED BY BROWNS; DOES 'PLAY BETTER, COACH-BETTER' RESONATE ANY MORE?

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
SEPTEMBER 24, 2023

CLEVELAND – When the Titans lose, especially decisively, Mike Vrabel leans on a standard line.

It's an obvious and true element of a quick evaluation that carries a hint of the coach Vrabel played the majority of his 14-year career for, Bill Belichick. His team, he says, has to coach better and has to play better.

Sunday, shortly after a hard-to-watch 27-3 loss at Cleveland Browns Stadium, he hit it again.

"In every phase, you can start it with me and go all the way down," he said. "Whether it's coaching. Whether it's our pass rush, their pass rush, their O-line, their ability to hit some plays down the field, penalties, every category. It's going to be the same thing for each one. It's important for us to stick together. You play like that in this league, you coach like that in this league, you get your ass beat, plain and simple. It's disappointing. But it's what happens when you perform and you coach like that."

I asked if that common theme continues to resonate with his players and coaches.

"You'd have to ask them right when you walk in there," he said. "Go ask them. What resonates is that we're going to compete just like we have for a lot of years and we'll get written off -- this isn't some sort of motivational speech. This is just what happens in this league. We're going to have to come back, we're going to have to have a great week of practice, figure out who we have available and figure out how to win a game at home. Point out the things that we need to work on, get them fixed right away and keep going.

In his fifth season, Jeffery Simmons has heard a lot of coach-better/play-bettors.

"That's getting old, it's time to actually do it," Simmons said. "We've been hearing that message every week, now it's time for us to actually do it. We talk about it some much: We've got to do this, we've got to do that but it's a mindset, it's time to win and time to stop having the same thing over and over again, we've got to play better, whatever it may be. At the end of the day, I'm a winner, I like to win, it's time to just put it together and start winning."

The best player on the field was Myles Garrett, the Browns' 6-foot-4, 272-pound defensive end.

He gave Andre Dillard and his help fits, with five sacks, five QB hits, three tackles for a loss and a forced fumble. After the game, he also offered Dillard constructive criticism about his play, which the Titans' left tackle welcomed.

"I was just talking to (Jeremiah Owusu-Koramoah about) how the moves I felt were really going to work didn't work," Garrett said. "And then some of the moves, I'm just like, 'The hell with it, I'm just going to burn them off the edge.' And those worked. I was like, 'Sometimes you just got to keep on attacking.'"

Given so little time so often, Ryan Tannehill was just 13 for 25 for 104 yards, with no touchdown and no turnovers for a 62.8 passer rating. Fifty-nine of those passing yards came on two plays on the same series, a 26-yard throw to DeAndre Hopkins up the left sideline over Martin Emerson and a 33-yard ball to the other side for Chris Moore who made a pretty catch to snatch the ball away from Cameron Mitchell.

Down just 13-3, Tennessee was positioned to cut into the Browns' lead before intermission. On a third-and-10 from the 11 with 13 seconds left and out of timeouts.

But trying to give Tannehill options in tight quarters, they didn't double or chip on Garrett, who simply charged at the QB leaning hard into Dillard and got home with a sack that ended the half.

"We were in a situation where the ball had to be either in the end zone or out of bounds," Tannehill said. "It wasn't a long-developing play we had called. He got there pretty fast and made the play."

Said Vrabel: "We considered doubling him a lot. You're trying to score from the (11)-yard line, it's hard if you don't get guys out down there in the red zone cause of the space, so that's a product of trying to score and hoping that guys (hold) up. And now you're running and you have a lot of bodies out there in coverage. We like the call. Just need to execute it better which I am sure we will."

The Titans are built around their pass pressure much like the Browns, and they didn't measure up in impact.

Simmons and Key seemed to have trouble coming to terms with that, with Simmons saying the Titans were in the backfield and around Deshaun Watson a lot and pointing to penalty calls he disagreed with and Key saying he needed to see the film.

Even when the Titans rush better, their secondary is suspect on big plays.

In this game, the Browns got a 43-yard touchdown pass from Watson to Amari Cooper on a busted coverage, a 29-yard connection to Donovan Peoples-Jones and a 25-yard link-up with Cooper.

Also add in a terrible 37-yard pass interference against Kristian Fulton, a defensive holding against Sean Murphy-Bunting that questionably converted a fourth down, a defensive holding against Fulton good for a first down, and a 25-yard pass to Cooper where he was judged by an official to have stepped out of bounds but didn't that should have been a 65-yard touchdown.

"I heard the ref apologize," Cooper said.

On the other side, the hopeless offense just couldn't figure anything out against the stout Browns.

Tennessee ran 45 offensive plays. Twenty-four of them were for no gain or negative yardage.

Derrick Henry touched the ball 11 times, for 20 ground yards, a 1.8-yard average. And Tyjae Spears, who played 25 snaps to Henry's 17, fared even worse, with four carries for 6 yards (1.5 average) and four catches for 3 more.

The Titans are 1-2 and both of the losses have to rate as two of the hardest watches of the NFL season.

Henry has always been very good about keeping the faith, and he said Vrabel's message does resonate.

"That's going to be the focus, that's all you can do, it's a tough loss, you have to learn from it, you can't go around the corner and cry about it," he said. "You've got to be a man and get better. We've all got to hold each other accountable, be a team and play like a team and let it translate on Sundays."

BRUTALLY BAD TITANS BATTERED BY BROWNS

BY JOHN GLENNON
NASHVILLE POST
SEPTEMBER 25, 2023

The only real competition involving the Titans on Sunday wound up being which unit — the team's offensive line or its secondary — would perform worst.

One could make a case for either as the Titans were absolutely battered on both sides of the ball, falling 27-3 to the Cleveland Browns and suffering a ninth loss in 10 games.

Trying to find positives out of this one? You'll be searching for a while. Maybe it was the three sacks the Titans recorded.

But the only real relief for Tennessee fans likely came with the final whistle, which marked the second time in the Titans' first three games they were held without a touchdown.

Yikes.

The final numbers for the Titans were grim ones, to say the least.

Offensively, the Titans mustered six first downs, 94 total yards. They surrendered five sacks and went two-for-12 on third downs. The team's only points came courtesy of a Browns fumble that gave the Titans the ball on Cleveland's 17-yard line. Tennessee produced a drive of minus nine yards before kicking a field goal.

Defensively, the Titans allowed Browns quarterback Deshaun Watson — who'd posted a quarterback rating of 69.1 in his first two games — to return to his Pro Bowl days of yesteryear. Watson, who threw two picks and lost two fumbles in those first two contests, torched the Titans, going 27-for-33 for 289 yards and two touchdowns, finishing with a quarterback rating of 123.4.

Should we even mention penalties? Unfortunately, they can't be ignored either.

The Titans were flagged eight times for 80 yards. That total included four costly penalties in the secondary — two each on starting cornerbacks Kristian Fulton and Sean Murphy-Bunting — that helped the Browns to 21 points. One of the secondary penalties — a pass-interference call on Fulton — gave Cleveland a first down on a second-and-26 play.

"In every phase, you can start with me and go all the way down," Titans coach Mike Vrabel told reporters afterward. "Whether it was coaching, whether it's our pass rush, their pass rush, their O-line, their ability to hit some plays down the field, penalties, every category.

"It's going to be the same thing for each one. It's important for us to stick together. You play like that in this league, you coach like that in this league, you get your ass beat. Plain and simple."

Hard as it is to believe now, the Titans were still in this game late in the first half, trailing 13-3.

On the team's most impressive drive of the day — actually the only one that produced more than 15 yards — the Titans had moved 55 yards on 10 plays to Cleveland's 11-yard line. Having used all their timeouts, the Titans faced third-and-10 with 13 seconds remaining.

But when the Titans surrendered one of Myles Garrett's 3.5 sacks, the clock ran out and the Titans trudged to the locker room without even a field goal.

"We were in a situation where the ball had to be either in the end zone or out of bounds," Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill said of the half-ending play. "It wasn't a long-developing play we had called. [Garrett] got there pretty fast and made the play."

The opening two series of the second half sealed the deal. The Titans mustered 15 yards and punted. The Browns marched 80 yards for a touchdown that gave the home team a 20-3 lead. It may as well have been 100-3 given the likelihood the Titans offense would rally on Sunday.

"It's frustrating, obviously," Tannehill said. "Haven't been part of a whole lot of games here [with the Titans] that ended like that. Not the way we want to go out and play, I think on any side of the ball, and we got to be better."

So where do the Titans stand now, looking ahead to next Sunday's home game against Cincinnati?

Offensively, an overmatched offensive line — minus regular starters Peter Skoronski and Nicholas Petit-Frere — has given up 13 sacks in 12 quarters. That's on pace for 74 sacks allowed this season, after changing offensive coordinators and offensive line coaches during the offseason.

Defensively, the Titans have surrendered 12 pass completions of 20 yards or more, an average of four per contest. They've made little progress improving what was the team's biggest weakness in 2022, despite a change in secondary coaches.

We know from experience, of course, that so much can change from week to week in the NFL.

That's probably the best cause for optimism following a real stinker on Sunday.

BROWNS BURY LIFELESS TITANS, 27-3

One week after halting an eight-game losing streak, the Titans were back to the doldrums Sunday, being routed by 27-3 by the host Cleveland Browns.

The Titans, who pride themselves on their toughness and physicality, got punched in the mouth early by the Browns on both sides of the ball and never responded in falling to 1-2.

The Titans offensive line, rebuilt in the off-season, was ransacked by Myles Garrett and the rest of the Cleveland front, not only sacking Ryan Tannehill five times, but stifling Derrick Henry and the running game all day, as he finished with just 20 yards. Tennessee ended the day with an embarrassing 94 yards of total offense. Garrett had three-and-a-half of the Browns' five sacks on the day, working most of the day against beleaguered left tackle Andre Dillard.

The loss leaves the Titans again looking for answers not only everywhere on offense, but also have to be concerned about a defense that Sunday was unable to carry the team and allowed Deshaun Watson to turn back the clock about three years as he shredded the Titans secondary, completing 27 of 33 for 289 yards and two touchdowns.

"In every phase, you can start it with me and go all the way down," Coach Mike Vrabel told reporters after the game. "Whether it's coaching, their pass rush, our pass rush, their o-line, their ability to hit some plays down the field, every category. It's going to be the same thing for each one. It's important for us to stick together. You play like that in this league, and you coach like that, you're gonna get your (expletive) beat. Plain and simple."

The Titans sputtered from the outset in a disastrous first half. Henry was held to minus 7 yards in the first half, and Tannehill was sacked three times and harassed numerous more times as former Titans assistant Jim Schwartz shut down the run on early downs, then put the heat on Tannehill by either sacking him or forcing hurried throws that didn't hit the target. Tannehill was 13 of 25 for just 104 yards.

A case in point of how poorly the day would go for the Titans came in the first quarter when Sean Murphy-Bunting raked the ball out of the arms of Elijah Moore and recovered it, setting the offense up at the Browns' 17 trailing 3-0. Three straight plays lost yards and the Titans wound up settling for Nick Folk's 44-yard field goal, which would be all the scoring they would get on the day.

The offense compounded that by having a two-minute drive at the end of the first half end with a sack and no timeouts left, as Tannehill had Garrett smothering him from the moment he took the snap. With that sack, it prevented the Titans from getting a field goal try that could have kept them in the game at 13-6. Instead, the play was symptomatic of the poor play all over by the Titans.

"We weren't able to take advantage of the turnover, and then we got to the end of the half and we could not do something and gotten the ball in the second half. It was just frustrating all the way around," Vrabel said.

By contrast, Watson, who came in completing just 55 percent of his passes through the first two games, found easy pickings against the Titans defense that managed just two sacks. Watson and the Browns dominated the Tennessee defense on third down, converting 6 of 13 times in third-down situations.

Between a defense that couldn't get off the field and an offense that couldn't make enough plays to stay on it, the Titans were not only dominated on the scoreboard, but also in time of possession. Cleveland held the ball for 38:29, compared to just 21:31 for Tennessee.

"It's frustrating, obviously," Tannehill said. "I haven't been a part of a lot of games that ended like that here. It was not the way we wanted to go out and play on any side of the ball. We've got to be better."

Murphy-Bunting in protocol

Vrabel told reporters after the game that cornerback Sean Murphy-Bunting was taken out of the game due to being in the concussion protocol.

TITANS OFFENSE CRATERS IN CLEVELAND, BUT DON'T LET THIS DEFENSE OFF THE HOOK

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 24, 2023

CLEVELAND — The Tennessee Titans' hopes of winning the AFC South and having a chance to do anything in the playoffs was always about having a great defense.

Dominating defense, improved and respectable offense that can at least get you into the 20s on most Sundays. That had to be the formula. And you know what? I'm not sure which of those I like the least as a possibility after Sunday's embarrassing 27-3 loss at Cleveland Browns Stadium. It's close. For as bad as the Titans were offensively in this game — historically bad, and incapable of keeping Myles Garrett from going all wrecking ball on it — that should not gloss over how disappointing the defense has been.

Let's review. Teams still don't run on the Titans. But most teams don't care. The Saints were overwhelmed by this much-hyped Titans pass rush early in the opener, then kept it at bay and hit several huge passing plays to prevail. There's no shame in giving up 24 points to Justin Herbert and the Chargers, and the Titans got the Harold Landry sack late in regulation and three-and-out in overtime to prevail. But he had too much comfort in the pocket for too much of the day. And enjoyed some wide-open receivers courtesy of Titans communication gaffes.

So now this debacle in Cleveland. Yes, if you're divvying up a "debacle" pie of blame, the offense gets most of it. This was a truly inept afternoon, the most overwhelmed a Titans offense has been since a 16-0 loss at Denver in 2019 that lost Marcus Mariota the starting quarterback job in favor of Ryan Tannehill. The Titans managed 94 yards of total offense, the first time this franchise has been under 100 since 2006.

This offense was that of an FCS team playing at Georgia on Sunday. It badly needs left guard Peter Skoronski (appendix) back. The Titans might need to do something about Andre Dillard at left tackle, though he immediately improved as a player Sunday evening by boarding a plane and getting hundreds of miles away from Garrett.

Most of the talk after the game was about the offense. The offense was atrocious. The offense gets credit for an "ebacle." But as this team moves forward in what has so far been a wild and wacky AFC South, I'm wondering where this hallowed "D" is.

You want to know what a great defense looks like? Check out the Cleveland Browns. They have guys who can't be blocked and defensive backs who don't get beat all over the field and don't commit devastating penalties because they keep getting beat.

The Browns also thought they had a great quarterback when they gave Deshaun Watson a ridiculous $230 million guaranteed contract, but he has not been that so far, not at all. He's been uncertain, ponderous, prone to turnovers and largely ineffective. He's been pretty bad. On Sunday, the Titans helped make him look like the guy who used to play in Houston and do things like this to the Titans.

"You play like that in this league, you coach like this in this league, you get your ass beat," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said after a sour homecoming for him, watching Watson pass for 289 yards and two touchdowns, both to absurdly wide-open receivers. "Plain and simple. We'll be back. We're gonna get back to work, I know that."

There's no doubt that will happen, and there's no doubt Vrabel is right that the Titans will get "written off" after this performance. And safety Kevin Byard is right that people "are gonna say we suck." And the Titans will talk about it and use it and work hard next week and probably play a lot better at home against Cincinnati. Draw conclusions at your own risk in this league and division, which just saw the Colts win at Baltimore to reach 2-1 and grab sole possession of first place, while the mighty Jacksonville Jaguars lost 37-17 at home to the lowly Houston Texans.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel watches during the fourth quarter as his team trails 20-3 against the Browns in Cleveland. (Andrew Nelles / USA Today)

Perspective is good. But what about this Titans defense? It can't just be good. It has to be great. It has not been that. Not at all. I asked Vrabel after the game if he's concerned, with the Titans offense struggling like this, that the Titans defense will be affected adversely.

"I think the defense needs to focus on the defense," he said. "We need to feed off each other. Certainly, we need to play better on offense and coach better, but our job on defense is to go out and play defense wherever they have the ball. We had a lot of opportunities to get off the field on third down and weren't able to. So you can maybe try to start that narrative. I don't think that Jeffery Simmons or Kevin Byard or Denico Autry or Amani Hooker ... I think they're gonna just play defense whenever they have to go out there. That's their job."

For the record, that was not an attempt to "start a narrative," I think it's a legitimate concern because this defense has been carrying this offense for quite a while now. A whole bunch of the folks in that Titans locker room who have lost nine of 10 games dating to last November also experienced the weekly understanding in 2022 that this defense probably needed to keep the opponent under 17 points to have a chance to win. Which is a totally fair thing to ask an NFL defense, in 1974.

And right now this defense is paired up with an offense averaging 15.0 points per game. I would think that would wear on these guys at some point.

“We understand, the way we’re built, the way we’re wired, our defense has got to play better than (the other team’s) defense,” said Byard, who has experienced a wide range of things since he arrived in 2016. “And at the end of the day, their defense played lights out, we didn’t even have 100 yards of total offense. It’s tough to win in the league when you’re not playing great defense. I feel like I’ve been a part of this for a while, as far as the defense having to play better. And then usually a lot of times our offense will put a couple drives together. So I don’t want to get too down on it.”

Titans safety Kevin Byard tackles Browns wide receiver Elijah Moore (8) during the third quarter. (Andrew Nelles / USA Today)

Maybe trying to blame terrible offensive play for middling defensive play is excuse-making on my part. Certainly, putting Sunday’s result on officiating in any way would be exorbitant excuse-making. And yet ...

Simmons was asked about the pass rush not having its usual impact in this game and said: “We were back there. We didn’t get him down. It wasn’t that. I mean they were doing a lot of ... the flags here and there, I don’t know. We all have a job and I guess we all need to do better than that. I just don’t agree with a lot of the stuff they (were) calling.”

He was asked what needs to get better on his side of the ball and said: “I mean, we gave up a couple big plays when we were about to get off the field, but like I said, there was a lot of flags they threw that I don’t agree with.”

He said the Titans didn’t get their “tails beat up and down the field” and was asked what the 27-3 score suggests, and he responded: “Of course you’re gonna say that. I mean, that’s the score. Like I said, we got how many flags? Whatever it may be, miscommunication on the back end. I mean, how many times did they just drive the ball? How many rushing yards did they have? That’s what I’m saying (when I say) they didn’t beat our tail up and down the field.”

To be clear, Simmons wasn’t just spitting out excuses. His first words were: “We got our ass kicked. Simple as that.”

But to even mention officiating in this game without being asked is wild to me. There were a couple of 50/50 calls downfield that were key that went against the Titans. It happens. Amari Cooper wasn’t called for an obvious push-off — but officials also blew the whistle on the play and cost him a touchdown.

And the Kristian Fulton interference on Cooper that sparked the Browns, turning a second-and-26 at the Cleveland 33 into a first down at the Tennessee 30, was the right call. And a terrible play by Fulton. That’s not the first of the season. The Titans got Fulton and Amani Hooker back from injuries Sunday and should have benefited, but instead kept making familiar mistakes. Quarterbacks with time to throw seem to like throwing on this secondary.

The Titans need a great defense this season to win. The Titans need an overpowering pass rush — one that looks like Cleveland’s — to have a great defense. These things aren’t happening right now, and the Titans aren’t happy. As long as they’re just getting testy at media and officials and fans, and not each other, they’ve still got a chance.

TITANS TOTAL 94 YARDS OF OFFENSE, THEIR LOWEST IN 49 YEARS, IN LOSS TO BROWNS

BY TOM WITHERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS
SEPTEMBER 24, 2023

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gifted great field position when their defense forced a turnover, the Tennessee Titans moved the ball — backwards.

Incredibly, that was when they scored their only points in a 27-3 loss to the Cleveland Browns.

Derrick Henry was held to 20 yards rushing, quarterback Ryan Tannehill got sacked five times and harassed many more and the Titans were held to 94 yards, their lowest output since they pulled up stakes in Houston and relocated to Tennessee in 1997.

It was the franchise's worst offensive performance in 49 years — since Nov. 24, 1974, when the Oilers lost to the Dallas Cowboys.

Browns hope to keep moving without Nick Chubb as they start anew against Derrick Henry, Titans running back Derrick Henry calls Nick Chubb's knee injury unfortunate

“They were much much better than we were,” said Titans coach Mike Vrabel. “Coaching, playing, the whole bit.”

Unable to contain Browns All-Pro defensive end Myles Garrett, who finished with 3 1/2 sacks and came close to getting several more, the Titans (1-2) were overwhelmed and overmatched.

“We can't go in the corner and cry about it,” said Henry, who had minus-7 yards at halftime. “We have to get better. You never want to lose like that. They were the better team in all three phases. I'm not happy. Everyone on the offense is not happy. We've just got to find a way.

“We have a lot of room to grow from a lot of adversity early.”

A two-time rushing champion, Henry has 163 yards on 51 carries — a 3.2-yard average — through three games this season.

There has been a common denominator in Tennessee's two losses — bad offense. Tannehill had three interceptions in Week 1 against New Orleans. Against the Browns, he didn't make any big throws and finished 13 of 25 for 104 yards.

This felt like more than a setback for Tannehill, who led his team to a win last week over the Los Angeles Chargers. The veteran QB is in the final season of a four-year, $118 million contract.

“It's frustrating, obviously,” he said. “Haven't been a part of a whole lot of games here that ended like that. Not the way we wanted to go out and play on any side of the ball. We gotta be better.”

A strange sequence in the first quarter summed up Tennessee's troubling day.

After Titans cornerback Sean Murphy-Bunting stripped Elijah Moore and recovered a fumble at the Browns' 17, the Titans became the first team in three games this season to run a play inside the red zone (20-yard line) against Cleveland.

It was a forgettable trip.

On first down, Garrett, who spent the day obliterating Titans left tackle Andre Dillard, grabbed Henry behind the line for a 3-yard loss. On second down, it was Garrett again, this time beating Dillard and tipping the ball away from Tannehill as he tried to throw.

Henry pounced on the fumble on the final play of the first quarter.

Switching ends of the field didn't help the Titans as Tannehill's short pass to tight end Chig Okonkwo on third down turned into a 2-yard loss when it got blown up by Browns cornerback Denzel Ward.

Three plays, minus-9 yards. Nick Folk converted a 44-yard field goal for Tennessee's lone score.

The Titans squandered another scoring chance late in the first half after moving the ball to Cleveland's 11 with 22 seconds left. After two pass plays netted nothing, Garrett burst past Dillard on third down and dropped Tannehill.

Out of timeouts, the Titans couldn't get their field-goal unit on the field and watched helplessly as the final seconds ticked off.

“We were in a situation where the ball had to be in the end zone or out of bounds,” Tannehill said. “It wasn't the play that we had called, but he got there pretty fast and he made the play.”

NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/1 • HOMETOWN: TAMPA, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 59/34 (PLAYOFFS: 6/4)

C Captain: 2023

PRO: The Titans signed Azeez Al-Shaair (uh-ZEEZ al-SHY-er) as an unrestricted free agent early in the 2023 offseason to bring veteran leadership and experience to the inside linebacker position. The 6-foot-2-inch, 228-pound defender possesses grit and toughness with an uncanny knack for finding the ball carrier. The Florida Atlantic product entered the NFL as an undrafted free agent with the San Francisco 49ers in 2019. He spent his first four seasons with the club, appearing in 56 games with 31 starts while amassing 191 tackles, two sacks, two interceptions, 11 stops for loss, nine quarterback pressures, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2021, Al-Shaair enjoyed a breakout campaign with the 49ers by setting career-highs with 102 tackles, two sacks, nine stops for loss and five passes defended. He also started all three postseason games and registered 13 tackles.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Al-Shaair grew up in a family of nine, with his mother, Naadhirah, supporting him and his seven siblings. In 2012, struggling to make ends meet, the family moved into their grandmother's home in Tampa, Fla. One night, Al-Shaair awoke to the smell of smoke encompassing the house. He was able to wake up and lead the rest of his family to safety, as they watched the house burn down. The family moved from place to place before settling in a longstay motel. Al-Shaair chose to sleep on the floor, as the family had to fit into one room. He trekked two hours by bus each day to attend school and football practice, often only eating once a day, making sure any leftover food went to his mom and siblings. According to him his work ethic on and off the field grew in that adversity.
- While at Florida Atlantic, Al-Shaair decided to move his two younger brothers, Abdul-Lateef and Abdur-Rahmaan, into his Boca Raton apartment. Constantly worrying about whether they were eating or getting into trouble, Al-Shaair began to serve as the father figure of the household.
- Al-Shaair was the recipient of the N4A Wilma Rudolph Student-Athlete Achievement Award, which honors any collegiate student-athlete who has overcome great personal, academic, and/or emotional odds to achieve academic success while participating in intercollegiate athletics.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Tampa, Fla., native was originally signed by the San Francisco 49ers as a rookie free agent on May 3, 2019.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 20, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3 - Tennessee): Leads the team with 23 tackles. Has tied for the team lead in sacks once in 2023 (at CLE). Selected as a captain by his teammates.

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut as a starter at linebacker and notched six tackles. Teamed with Jack Gibbens to stuff Jamaal Williams for a one-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the third quarter. Combined with Jeffery Simmons to stop Williams for no gain on a rush late in the final period.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), finished second on the team with eight tackles. Teamed with Roger McCreary to stuff Joshua Kelley for a two-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the opening stanza.
- At Cleveland (9/24), tallied nine tackles, including a sack, two quarterback pressures and another stop for loss. Registered a two-yard sack of Deshaun Watson early in the first quarter. Combined with Roger McCreary to stonewall Jerome Ford for no gain on a rush off left guard in the opening stanza. Teamed with Harold Landry III to stop Jerome Ford for no gain on a rush off right guard in the third quarter. Combined with Amani Hooker to drop Kareem Hunt for a one-yard loss on a rush off left tackle in the fourth quarter.

2022 (12/9, 3/3 - San Francisco): Saw action in 12 games with nine starts at linebacker and recorded 44 tackles, a stop for loss, three quarterback pressures and a fumble recovery. Placed on injured reserve on Oct. 3 and missed five games before being designated to return on Nov. 12. Started all three postseason contests and collected 12 tackles.

- At Denver (9/25), started at linebacker and posted five tackles.
- Against Arizona (1/8), started at linebacker and notched a season-high 11 tackles.

2021 (13/13, 3/1 - San Francisco): Started 13 games and notched career-highs with 102 tackles, two sacks, nine stops for loss and five passes defended. Added two fumble recoveries, an interception and a forced fumble. Was inactive for four contests. Saw action all three postseason games with one start and registered 13 tackles.

- Against Green Bay (9/26), led the team with a then career-high 10 tackles.
- Against Indianapolis (10/24), registered nine tackles and his first career fumble recovery, scooping up a loose ball by Carson Wentz.
- Against Minnesota (11/28), registered a team-high eight tackles while adding a fumble recovery and an interception of Kirk Cousins.
- At Seattle (12/5), combined with Arden Key to sack Russell Wilson, marking the first half sack of his career. Also registered a career-high 15 tackles to go along with a forced fumble of Gerald Everett.
- At Cincinnati (12/12), collected 11 tackles, a sack and a pass defended.
- At Tennessee (12/23), notched six tackles and a half sack.

2020 (16/5 - San Francisco): Saw action in all 16 games with five starts and recorded 34 tackles, an interception, a forced fumble and two passes defended.

- Against Philadelphia (10/4), registered three tackles and picked off a Carson Wentz pass that was tipped by Javon Kinlaw, marking his first career interception.
- At New England (10/25), posted five tackles and forced a Jakob Johnson fumble.
- Against Seattle (1/3), notched a season-high nine tackles with a pass defended.

2019 (15/4, 0/0 - San Francisco): Played in 15 games with four starts as a rookie and registered 11 tackles. Finished tied for third on the team with eight special teams tackles. Was inactive for one regular season contest and all three postseason games.

- Against Green Bay (11/24), made his first career NFL start at linebacker and collected a tackle.
- At Seattle (12/29), started at linebacker and registered three tackles.

COLLEGE:

- During a four-year career at Florida Atlantic, appeared in 43 games with 42 starts and registered 397 tackles, 32.5 tackles for loss, eight passes defended, 7.5 sacks, two forced fumbles and an interception returned for a touchdown.
- As a senior (2018), started all six games in which he appeared and tallied 43 tackles, 2.5 tackles for loss, 1.5 sacks and a pass defended.
- As a junior (2017), earned first-team Conference USA honors after starting 13 games and recording a league-high 147 tackles, to go along with 11 tackles for loss, four passes defended, 2.5 sacks and a forced fumble.

- As a sophomore (2016), was named Conference USA honorable mention after starting 12 games and notching 113 tackles, 12 tackles for loss, two sacks, an interception (returned for a touchdown) and a pass defended.
- As a true freshman (2015), earned Freshman All-America honors from USA Today and was named to Conference USA's All-Freshman team after playing in 12 games with 11 starts and registering 94 tackles, seven tackles for loss, two passes defended, 1.5 sacks and a forced fumble. Was named Florida Atlantic's Co-Newcomer of the Year.
- Majored in public safety administration at Florida Atlantic.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Hillsborough (Tampa, Fla.) High School where he was a two-time all-state, all-county and all-conference selection after finishing his career with 236 tackles, 15 sacks, five forced fumbles and two interceptions. Also blocked eight field goal attempts on special teams.
- As a senior, played in 11 games and registered 126 tackles, 6.5 sacks, six blocked field goals, a blocked punt, two interceptions, three forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.
- As a junior, saw action in 10 games and recorded 110 tackles.

- Son of Naadhirah Lennon.

96 DENICO AUTRY

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'5" • 285 LBS • COLLEGE: MISSISSIPPI STATE
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (IND) - 2021
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 10/3 • HOMETOWN: ALBEMARLE, N.C.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 128/77 (PLAYOFFS: 5/4)

PRO: Seeking a physical and disruptive defensive lineman, the Titans signed Denico Autry as an unrestricted free agent from the rival Indianapolis Colts early in the 2021 offseason. Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, the 6-foot-5-inch, 285-pounder amassed 216 tackles, 30.5 sacks and 50 tackles for loss in his first seven NFL campaigns (2014-20) with the Oakland Raiders and Colts. Autry has made an immediate impact with the Titans during his first two seasons (2021-22) leading the team with 17 sacks and ranking second on the squad with 89 quarterback pressures. Autry, a former rookie free agent, offers an impressive combination of size, athleticism and power on the defensive front and also excels on special teams where he has recorded 10 career blocked kicks.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Autry saw action in 12 games and led the team with eight sacks and a career-best 45 quarterback pressures.
- In 2021, Autry enjoyed a stellar first season with the Titans, playing in all 17 games and ranking second on the team with a career-best tying nine sacks and third on the squad with a then career-high 44 quarterback pressures.
- In 2020, Autry collected 7.5 sacks, nine tackles for loss and 10 quarterback hits in 14 games with the Colts.
- In his first campaign with the Colts in 2018, Autry led the squad with a career-best nine sacks to go along with 13 tackles for loss, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery.
- In 2015, Autry led the NFL with three blocked kicks on special teams, posting the most blocks in a season by a single player since 2011. He has 10 career blocked kicks (six extra point attempts, three field goals and one punt).

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Coming out of Albemarle (N.C.) High School, Autry did not have the collegiate opportunities he initially desired and attended East Mississippi Community College (EMCC). The football program has been featured in a popular Netflix documentary series titled, Last Chance U, which focuses on players' last chance to prove themselves to Division I programs. Autry played for EMCC from 2010-11 and helped the Lions to a 12-0 season and an NJCAA national championship title while being named an NJCAA Football All-America first-team selection his sophomore year. Following his career at EMCC, Autry signed with Mississippi State amid offers from Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Florida State, Ole Miss, Southern California and Texas among others.
- Denico's brother, Lee, played defensive line at EMCC before transferring to Mississippi State as well. He signed with the Chicago Bears as a rookie free agent in 2020 and also spent time with the Los Angeles Chargers and Las Vegas Raiders during his rookie campaign.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Albemarle, N.C., native was originally signed by the Oakland Raiders as a rookie free agent on May 20, 2014.
- Waived by the Raiders on Aug. 30, 2014 and signed to the team's practice squad two days later.
- Signed by the Raiders to their active roster from the team's practice squad on Oct. 25, 2014.
- Signed by the Indianapolis Colts as an unrestricted free agent on March 15, 2018.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 19, 2021.

60 DANIEL BRUNSKILL

OFFENSIVE LINE • 6'5" • 300 LBS • COLLEGE: SAN DIEGO STATE
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (SF) - 2023
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/1 • HOMETOWN: VALLEY CENTER, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 64/45 (PLAYOFFS: 9/3)

PRO: The Titans signed Daniel Brunskill early in the 2023 free agency period to bring toughness, versatility and experience to the offensive front. The 6-foot-5-inch, 300-pounder entered the NFL as an undrafted free agent with the Atlanta Falcons in 2017. After two seasons on Atlanta's practice squad and a stint in the Alliance of American Football, he found a home with the San Francisco 49ers where he appeared in 61 games with 42 starts from 2019-2022. The San Diego State product and former collegiate tight end has shown versatility during his career having started games at all five positions on the offensive front in his first four NFL campaigns.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Brunskill went to San Diego State as a walk-on offensive lineman in 2012. He made the switch to tight end for his first three collegiate seasons and earned a scholarship after the spring semester of 2015. After being named honorable-mention All-Mountain West as a tight end during his junior campaign, Brunskill switched back to offensive line for his final season after depth issues cropped up on the Aztecs' offensive front. He started all 14 games at right tackle as a senior and was named second-team All-Mountain West.
- In February of 2020, Brunskill joined current and former NFL players in Budapest, Hungary, where the group conducted two days of free football camps for men, women and children, while additionally hosting community activities. The camps were organized by American Football Without Barriers, a nonprofit foundation that was co-created by former NFL tight end Gary Barnidge. Its mission is to teach American football to those all around the globe.
- As a member of the Alliance of American Football's (AAF) San Diego Fleet in 2019, Brunskill was coached by former NFL head coach Mike Martz.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Valley Center, Calif., native was originally signed by the Atlanta Falcons as a rookie free agent on May 1, 2017.
- Waived by the Falcons on Sept. 2, 2017 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
- Signed by the Falcons to a future's contract on Jan. 15, 2018.
- Waived by the Falcons on Sept. 1, 2018 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
- Released by the Falcons from their practice squad on Jan. 2, 2019.
- Signed by the San Francisco 49ers as a free agent on April 12, 2019.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 20, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3 - Tennessee):

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at right guard in his Titans debut.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), started at right guard and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for a unit that amassed 341 total yards, including 141 yards on the ground.
- At Cleveland (9/24), started at right guard.

2022 (14/2, 3/0 - San Francisco): Saw action in 14 games with two starts. Started games at right and left guard. Was inactive for the first three games of the season. Appeared as a reserve in all three postseason games.

- Against Miami (12/4), started at right guard and helped open holes for 49ers' rushers to gain 121 rushing yards.
- Against Arizona (1/8), started at left guard in the regular season finale and blocked for a rushing attack that accumulated 169 yards and two scores on the ground.

2021 (17/17, 3/3 - San Francisco): Started all 17 regular season games and all 3 postseason games at right guard.

- Against Atlanta (12/19), started at right guard and was a part of an offensive front that allowed zero sacks and blocked for ball carriers to gain 162 rushing yards.
- At Dallas (1/16), started at right guard and was a member of an offensive line that did not allow a sack and opened holes for 169 rushing yards in an NFL Wild Card matchup, marking the first time since 2003 that the 49ers' offensive line did not allow a sack in a postseason game.
- At L.A. Rams (1/30), part of an offensive unit that did not allow a sack in the NFC Championship Game, marking the second time this postseason and first time a team has allowed zero sacks in two-or-more postseason games in the same postseason since the 2018 New England Patriots.

2020 (16/16 - San Francisco): Started all 16 games for the first time in his career. Made eight starts at right guard and eight starts at center.

- Against L.A. Rams (10/18), blocked for the team to rush for 122 yards and did not allow a sack on 33 pass attempts.
- Against Buffalo (12/7), part of an offensive line that did not allow a sack as Nick Mullens threw for 316 yards.

2019 (14/7, 3/0 - San Francisco): Played in 14 games with seven starts along the offensive line in his first season with the 49ers. Appeared in three postseason games.

- Against Cleveland (10/7), helped the 49ers rush for 275 yards and two touchdowns on 40 carries, the most rushing yards by the team in a single game since 2014.
- Against Carolina (10/27), helped the 49ers rush for 232 yards and five touchdowns on 38 carries. The five rushing touchdowns were the most by the 49ers in a single-game since 1992.
- Against Minnesota (1/11), helped the 49ers offense rush for 186 yards and two touchdowns on 47 carries in the NFC Divisional round. The 47 rushing attempts are the most in a postseason game in franchise history and the 186 rushing yards are the fifth-most in a postseason game in franchise history.

2019 (San Diego Fleet - AAF): Signed with San Diego of the Alliance of American Football and started eight games at tackle for the Fleet.

2018 (0/0 - Atlanta): Spent the entire season on the team's practice squad.

2017 (0/0 - Atlanta): Spent the entire season on the team's practice squad.

COLLEGE:

- Appeared in 54 games with 32 starts at San Diego State. Switched from tight end to offensive line prior to his senior season. Finished his career with 15 receptions for 143 yards and three touchdowns.
- At San Diego State, Brunskill was on the Wuerffel Trophy watch list which goes to the athlete who does the most community service, among other attributes. He was also chosen as a Burlsworth nominee which is given to the best college walk-on.
- As a senior (2016), earned second-team All-Mountain West honors after starting all 14 games at right tackle. Was named the team's offensive lineman of the year and was one of two players to win the team's President's Award (highest standard of athletic and academic excellence).
- As a junior (2015), started all 14 games at tight end and recorded 10 receptions for 112 yds with two receiving scores. Was selected honorable-mention All-Mountain West by the league's media and head coaches.

- As a sophomore (2014), saw action in all 13 games with four starts and posted five catches for 31 yards with a touchdown.

16 TREYTON BURKS

WIDE RECEIVER • 6'2" • 225 LBS • COLLEGE: ARKANSAS
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2022
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2 • HOMETOWN: WARREN, ARK.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 14/9 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Treyton Burks in the first round (18th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft. As a rookie, he totaled 33 receptions for 444 yards and one touchdown in 11 games. The 6-foot-2-inch, 225-pounder brings a rare combination of size, speed and sure hands. The Arkansas product is a powerful runner with the ball in his hands, and he can be used all over the offensive formation as well as in the return game. In three college seasons (2019-21), he became the sixth all-time leading receiver in Razorbacks history (146 receptions for 2,399 yards) and tied for the fifth-most touchdown catches in school annals (18). He was drafted with the highest pick of any Arkansas player since Darren McFadden was taken fourth overall in 2008, and he was the first Arkansas wide receiver to be selected in the first round since Matt Jones was taken 21st overall by Jacksonville in 2006.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Burks' 444 receiving yards placed ninth among all NFL rookies. He totaled 33 catches in 11 games.
- As a junior at Arkansas in 2021, Burks was named first-team All-SEC after totaling 66 receptions (seventh in the SEC) for 1,104 yards (fourth) and 11 touchdowns (fourth). His 92.0 receiving yards per game ranked third in the SEC behind only Jameson Williams (104.8) and Wan'Dale Robinson (102.6).
- As a sophomore in 2020, he was named second-team All-SEC after contributing 51 receptions for 820 yards and seven touchdowns. His 91.1 receiving yards per game ranked third in the SEC behind only Elijah Moore (149.1) and DeVonta Smith (142.8).

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Burks is a hunting and fishing enthusiast. He is an experienced wild boar hunter, which involves hunting the animals with only his dogs and a knife.
- He lists "The Sandlot" and "Home Alone" among his favorite movies.
- Some of Burks' work ethic was developed on the farm of his great-grandfather, Joe Burks, as he would do everything from bailing hay to working in the chicken house.
- Burks has two dogs, a pair of American bullies named Zara and Zazu.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Warren, Ark., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (18th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3): Ranks second on the team with 99 receiving yards. Has led the team in receiving yards once in 2023 (vs. LAC).

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at wide receiver and caught two passes for 18 yards. Rushed once for nine yards.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), started at wide receiver and led the team with 76 receiving yards on three receptions. Kickstarted the Titans' opening touchdown drive with a career-long 70-yard grab down the left sideline to the Chargers' five-yard line in the second quarter.
- At Cleveland (9/24), started at wide receiver and caught one pass for five yards. Forced a 26-yard pass interference penalty in the second quarter.

2022 (11/6): Saw action in 11 games with six starts as a rookie and tied for third on the squad with 33 receptions and 444 receiving yards with a receiving score. Rushed four times for 47 yards. Placed on injured reserve on Oct. 8, 2022 and missed four games before being designated to return on Nov. 12, 2022. Was inactive for two contests. Had one 100-yard receiving performance (at GB). Led the team in receiving yards three times

(at BUF, at GB, vs. DAL). Led or tied for the team lead in receptions four times (at BUF, at GB, vs. CIN, at JAX).

- Against N.Y. Giants (9/11), made his NFL debut as a reserve at wide receiver and snared three receptions for 55 yards. Since 1970, his 55 receiving yards ranked sixth among Titans/Oilers rookies and first-year players in a Week 1 game. Snared his first career reception for 20 yards to set up the Titans' first touchdown of the season in the opening stanza. Set up the Titans' second touchdown with a 27-yard reception in the third quarter.
- At Buffalo (9/19), registered his first career start at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four receptions for a team-best 47 receiving yards.
- Against Las Vegas (9/25), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and caught one pass for 13 yards to go along with an eight-yard rush. Posted a 13-yard reception down to the Raiders' one-yard line setting up Derrick Henry's touchdown on the next play early in the second quarter.
- At Indianapolis (10/2), started at wide receiver and collected two receptions for 14 yards to go along with a four-yard rush for a first down before leaving the game early in the fourth quarter with an injury. Extended a Titans' scoring drive with a four-yard rush on third-and-one in the second quarter.
- At Green Bay (11/17), started at wide receiver and collected his first career 100-yard receiving performance, amassing a team-high 111 yards on a team-best seven catches. Kickstarted the Titans' opening touchdown drive with a 43-yard grab on third-and-seven in the first quarter. Sealed the victory with a 51-yard catch along the left sideline allowing the Titans to kneel out the clock in the fourth quarter.
- Against Cincinnati (11/27), played as a reserve at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four catches for 70 yards. Collected his first career touchdown by recovering a fumble in the end zone. Scored his first touchdown after recovering a Derrick Henry fumble in the end zone during the second quarter. Set up the Titans' second field goal with a leaping 51-yard grab down to the Bengals' 24-yard line in the third quarter.
- At Philadelphia (12/4), started at wide receiver and hauled in his first career touchdown before leaving the contest late in the first quarter with an injury. Snared a 25-yard touchdown strike in the end zone to even the score at 7-7 in the opening stanza.
- Against Houston (12/24), set up the Titans' second touchdown with a 15-yard run on a reverse in the third quarter.
- Against Dallas (12/29), started at wide receiver and led the team with 66 receiving yards on four catches. Rushed once for 20 yards. Set up the Titans' second field goal with a 30-yard tightrope catch-and-run along the right sideline in the second quarter. Extended the Titans' touchdown drive with a 21-yard grab on third-and-six in the third quarter.

COLLEGE:

- One of the most accomplished wide receivers in Arkansas history, Burks appeared in 32 career games with 30 starts in three seasons with the Razorbacks. He totaled 146 receptions for 2,399 yards and 18 touchdowns to go along with 32 rushing attempts for 222 yards and one score. He returned 13 punts for 134 yards (10.3-yard average) and returned 11 kickoff returns for 226 yards (20.5 avg.). At the conclusion of his collegiate career, he ranked sixth in Razorbacks history in career receptions and receiving yards, and his touchdown reception total tied for fifth all-time. He set an Arkansas record with 10 career 100-yard receiving games, including a school-record six 100-yard receiving performances in his final year. He earned All-SEC honors in each of his three seasons: in 2019, second-team All-SEC as a returner and All-Freshman as a receiver; second-team All-SEC in 2020; and first-team All-SEC in 2021.

- As a junior (2021), started 12 games, totaling 66 catches for 1,104 yards and 11 touchdowns to earn first-team All-SEC honors. He became the fourth pass catcher in Arkansas history to post a 1,000-yard receiving season and the first since 2012.
- As a sophomore (2020), played and started in nine games. Earned second-team All-SEC honors and named to the 2020 Fall SEC Academic Honor Roll. Led the team with 51 catches, 820 yards (16.1 avg.) and seven touchdowns. Also returned one punt for four yards. Finished third in the SEC with an average of 91.1 receiving yards per game and ranked fifth in total receiving yards, despite missing one game. Was one of only two FBS receivers, joining Florida's Kadarius Toney, to log 800-plus receiving yards and 70-plus rushing yards. Accrued six games with at least 90 receiving yards and four games of 100-plus receiving yards. Became the first Arkansas receiver to record four 100-yard receiving games in the same season since Cobi Hamilton in 2012. Totaled four catches of 50-plus yards, which tied for sixth-most in FBS.
- As a freshman (2019), played in 11 games with nine starts. Named second-team All-SEC as a returner and added SEC All-Freshman honors as a receiver. Hauled in 29 passes for a team-high 475 yards. Averaged 16.4 yards per catch and 43.2 yards per game, both ranking second among conference freshmen. As the team's main punt returner, fielded 12 punts for 130 yards, averaging 10.8 yards per return. Also returned 10 kickoffs for 226 yards. Finished second on the team in all-purpose yards with 866, averaging 78.7 per game.
- Majored in communications at Arkansas.

PERSONAL:

- Married Shelby Pearlman in 2023.
- Attended Warren (Ark.) High School, where he closed his high school career with 151 receptions for 3,403 yards and 43 touchdowns for the Lumberjacks. Rated a four-star prospect by Rivals, 247Sports and ESPN, and billed as the top player in the state of Arkansas by 247Sports. Slotted as the No. 11 wide receiver in the nation by ESPN.

- Also lettered in basketball, baseball and track.
- As a high school senior, hauled in eight catches for 244 yards, scoring four times before a season-ending injury. Also passed for three touchdowns. Played on both sides of the ball, tallying 17 tackles with one sack, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery.
- As a high school junior, totaled 1,090 receiving yards and 12 touchdowns on 45 catches in 2017. Also rushed for 936 yards on 114 carries, scoring 27 touchdowns and helping the team to a 13-2 mark and a berth in the Arkansas 4A state championship game.
- Son of Shafreda Strickland and has one brother and two sisters.

31 KEVIN BYARD

SAFETY • 5'11" • 212 LBS • COLLEGE: MIDDLE TENNESSEE STATE
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2016
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/8 • HOMETOWN: LITHONIA, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 117/108 (PLAYOFFS: 7/7)

Captain: 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023

Community Man of the Year: 2020

PRO: Since the Titans selected Kevin Byard with the first pick of the third round in the 2016 NFL Draft, he has established himself as one of the premier safeties in the NFL and one of the best at his position in franchise history. During his first seven seasons, he did not miss a single game and was a key contributor to six winning campaigns. He finished the 2022 season as a four-time team captain, two-time Pro Bowl selection and a two-time Associated Press first-team All-Pro. His 27 career interceptions through 2022 tied for fourth place on the franchise's all-time list, ranked first for the organization during its "Titans era" (1999–present) and ranked third among all Titans/Oilers safeties. Only former Oilers Jim Norton (45), Cris Dishman (31) and Fred Glick (30) totaled more interceptions than Byard, whose 27 thefts tied Tony Banfield, W.K. Hicks and Darryll Lewis. From 2017 through 2022, Byard's 27 interceptions led all NFL safeties and ranked second among all players. The 5-foot-11-inch, 212-pound defender is a product of Middle Tennessee State University, where he earned a reputation as a sideline-to-sideline, ball-hawking safety who plays with tremendous intelligence and effort.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Byard led the Titans with four interceptions and 106 tackles. He notched his fifth total season (2017-19, 2021-22) and second consecutive season in which he led the squad in interceptions, and it was his third straight campaign (2020-22) leading the defense in tackles. Prior to 2021, no previous Titans/Oilers player had led the team in both interceptions and tackles in a single season, and Byard accomplished the feat in consecutive years.
- At the conclusion of 2022, Byard's 105 consecutive starts in the regular season trailed only New England's Devin McCourty (115) among NFL defenders.
- In 2021, Byard was announced as a starter to his second career Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors for the second time in his career. He joined Bruce Matthews (1999–2000) and Albert Haynesworth (2007–2008) as the franchise's only players in its "Titans era" (since 1999) to earn multiple first-team AP All-Pro honors.
- Byard led the Titans in 2021 with five interceptions and 88 tackles, becoming the franchise's first player to lead the team in tackles and interceptions in the same season since the team began tracking individual tackle statistics in 1974. It was his second consecutive season to lead the club in tackles and the fourth time in his career he was the interceptions leader. Additionally, his 13 passes defended made up the highest total among NFL safeties.
- He scored his first two career touchdowns in 2021—one on a fumble return and one on an interception return—to become the first Titans player with two defensive touchdowns in the same season since linebacker Zach Brown in 2012.
- In 2020, Byard was named the team's Walter Payton Man of the Year for his work in the community.
- Byard led the team and set a career-high in 2020 with 111 tackles.
- From 2017 through 2019, Byard led the NFL with 17 interceptions.
- In 2019, Byard led the team in interceptions (five) for the third consecutive season, while starting every contest for the third consecutive season.
- In 2018, Byard led the team with four interceptions and ranked third on the team with 96 tackles and 10 passes defended.
- In 2017, Byard was named to the Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors after tying Detroit's Darius Slay for the NFL lead with eight interceptions. He added a pair of fumble recoveries to pace the league with 10 total takeaways.
- His eight interceptions in 2017 tied for seventh in franchise history and made up the highest total by any franchise player since Oilers cornerback Richard Johnson picked off eight passes in 1990.

- In 2016, Byard saw action in all 16 games with seven starts and compiled 63 tackles, a sack, five tackles for loss, three quarterback pressures, four passes defended and 10 special teams tackles. His seven starts were the most by a Titans rookie safety since Michael Griffin (10) in 2007.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- In 2022, Byard was voted by the Nashville chapter of the Pro Football Writers of America as the first recipient of the Eddie George Good Guy Award.
- In May 2022, Martin Luther King Jr. High School in Lithonia, Ga., renamed its updated athletic facilities in Byard's honor. Byard graduated from the school in 2011.
- Along with his wife, Clarke, Byard has made a profound impact in the Nashville community through the Byard Family Legacy Fund. With the mission to "provide ALL families and individuals in our community with hope, making sure everyone who needs it gets a second chance," the organization annually holds a back-to-school program, Thanksgiving dinner, Christmas fundraiser and football camp. It also changes lives through the "Grace Grant," which provides funds to individuals or organizations who need a second chance.
- In 2021, the Byard Family Legacy Fund used its "Grace Grant" to renovate the Davidson County Department of Children's Services' Safe Room. The room is designed to help reduce trauma for children who come into custody for child abuse and/or child neglect.
- In April 2022, Byard served as the honorary chair for the Rally Foundation for Childhood Cancer Research's annual event called "Rally On the Runway," which helped raise more than $556,000 to fund research and aid families with children fighting cancer.
- In July 2020, Byard was named the official spokesperson for the United Way of Greater Nashville. His first order of business was to participate in the organization's virtual Stuff the Bus school supply drive.
- In August 2020, Byard assisted his wife, Clarke, in the unintentional home birth of their son, Kevin Leon Byard IV. After realizing they were not going to be able to make it to the hospital and their doula needing 30 minutes to get to their home, Byard sprung into action with instructions from the doula. The first: "Let's try and get her in the bathtub." But by this time, his son's head was already visible. The doula told him, "Tell her to start pushing. The baby is coming." Byard recalled: "His face was pointing upward, so I could see his face was real purple. I was nervous about that, so she told me to support his head." In less than 15 minutes, he was holding Kevin IV in his arms. "Once he got his head out, his shoulders and everything just kind of slipped out, and I kind of caught him in my arms. He waited about five seconds, coughed about two or three times, and started crying."
- Byard credits his mother, the late Artina Stanley, for much of his success. Following a divorce when Byard was in ninth grade, his mother moved with the children from Philadelphia to Atlanta. Although it was a financial struggle, Stanley worked long hours to make sure her children received what they needed. Byard claims he and his older brother "had to grow up really fast" as they helped their mother with taking care of the younger kids in the family. In May 2020, Byard was able to accomplish a goal of helping to purchase his mother a new home. She passed away in June 2022.
- Byard's nickname "Mayor of Murfreesboro," popularized by Titans play-by-play announcer and vice president of broadcasting Mike Keith, is due to his success in the region, beginning at Middle Tennessee State University, which is located in the city of Murfreesboro.
- The Titans had an inside track in their scouting of Byard. Then-general manager Jon Robinson received glowing reports on Byard from his friend and MTSU recruiting coordinator Steve Ellis. When Robinson was a linebackers coach at Nicholls State, Ellis was one of his pupils, and the two remained close through the years. Additionally, Patrick Callaway, college scout for the Titans, was Byard's high school teammate.

- Byard says his football role models are Ed Reed, Brian Dawkins and Troy Polamalu.
- Byard has aspirations to travel the world, and his bucket list includes setting foot on every continent.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Lithonia, Ga., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (64th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3): Ranks second on the team with 22 tackles. Ranks first among NFL safeties with 27 interceptions since the beginning of the 2017 season. Has led or tied for the team lead in tackles twice in 2023 (at NO, vs. LAC). Selected as a captain by his teammates.

LINEBACKER • 6'2" • 232 LBS • COLLEGE: MISSISSIPPI
ACQUIRED: 6TH ROUND - 2022 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: ELLICOTT CITY, MD.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 1/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Chance Campbell in the sixth round (219th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-2-inch, 232-pound defender possesses the aggressive instincts required to compete at the NFL level. The Ellicott City, Md., native played his final college season at Ole Miss (2021) where he started all 13 games and led the team with 109 tackles. He added six sacks, 11 quarterback pressures, 12.5 tackles for loss, two passes defended, three forced fumbles and led the SEC with three fumble recoveries while with the Rebels. Campbell transferred to Ole Miss from Maryland where he played three seasons (2018-20) and amassed 107 tackles, 1.5 sacks, 10 tackles for loss, one interception, four passes defended, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery in 25 games.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2021, Campbell led Mississippi with 109 tackles on the season, led the SEC and ranked third nationally with three fumble recoveries, and ranked second in the SEC with three forced fumbles.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Prior to transferring to Mississippi, Campbell played three seasons at Maryland and was teammates with fellow 2022 draft pick Chig Okonkwo.
- Participated in Uplifting Athletes and Reps for Rare Diseases at the Combine, raising over $9,000 on the broad jump (10 feet, 7 inches). It was the most money raised of any participating player.
- During the COVID-19 pandemic, Campbell tried to learn how to play the guitar, but is "awful at it."
- Despite only being in Mississippi for six months, Campbell said the transfer was "fantastic" for him to get familiarized with uprooting and moving somewhere new. "I lived in Maryland my entire life, so going away to a new town and living off by yourself and being around new people and having to kind of re-establish yourself, those are all things that I'm going to have to do at the next level. I got a pretty good test run at it and I think that set me up pretty well."
- Campbell excelled at lacrosse in high school and initially visited Maryland for lacrosse prior to committing to football. He even entertained being a dual-sport athlete at Maryland.
- His younger brother, Trace, is a quarterback at the University of Alabama-Birmingham.
- He is close friends with former Maryland teammate and current Colts running back Jake Funk.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Ellicott City, Md., native was selected by the Titans in the sixth round (219th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.
- Waived by the Titans on Aug. 29, 2023 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
- Signed by the Titans to their active roster from the practice squad on Sept. 22, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (1/0): Made his NFL debut at Cleveland (9/24/23).
• At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at linebacker and tallied two tackles in his first career NFL contest. Registered a special teams stop on coverage units. Halted a Browns' drive by combining with Kyle Peko to stuff Pierre Strong Jr. for no gain on a third-and-one rush late in the final stanza.

2022 (0/0): Placed on injured reserve on Sept. 9, 2022 and missed his entire rookie season.

COLLEGE:

- In one season at Mississippi (2021), Campbell started all 13 games and led the team with 109 tackles. He added six sacks, 11 quarterback pressures, 12.5 tackles for loss, two passes defended, three forced fumbles and led the SEC with three fumble recoveries while with the Rebels. PRO: The Titans signed Julius Chestnut as an undrafted free agent following the 2022 NFL Draft to provide depth to the running back rotation. The 5-foot-11-inch, 228-pounder possesses excellent play strength as a bigger-bodied running back and also adds value on special teams. He appeared in six games as a rookie in 2022, recording nine rushing attempts for 12 yards, three receptions for 41 yards while returning 10 kickoffs for 215 yards. The Bowie, Md., native logged 593 carries for 3,467 yards (5.8-yard avg.) and 29 touchdowns over four seasons at Sacred Heart (2018-21).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- As a rookie in 2022, Chestnut saw action in six contests and rushed nine times for 12 yards, caught three passes for 41 yards and returned 10 kickoffs for 215 yards.
- In 2021, Chestnut averaged 205.2 all-purpose yards per contest, which ranked first in the FCS.
- As a sophomore in 2019, Chestnut set career-highs with 293 carries for 1,495 yards and 11 touchdowns. His 1,495 rushing yards were the second-most in program history and third-most in the nation.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- While at Sacred Heart, Chestnut interned for the school's athletic department and assisted with statistical analysis, marketing, and ticket sales.
- His father, Keith, owns a landscaping company. Throughout high school and college summer breaks, Chestnut would wake up at 5 a.m. to help load trucks and lay mulch.
- Despite having the opportunity enter the transfer portal and play for a larger program, Chestnut chose to remain at FCS-level Sacred Heart because of his relationships at the school and within the program. "Everybody thinks about it," Chestnut said. "But I was like, why would I leave a place where people love me and care about me? If I left, would I get the same love that I get here? I don't think so. The coaches care about me — and I care about them, as well. I've made a lot of good friends here, met a lot of good people, and there are a lot of connections I can make in the outside world from here. So I was like, no — no way I can do that."

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Bowie, Md., native was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 13, 2022.
- Waived by the Titans on Oct. 1, 2022 and signed to the team's practice squad two days later.

OFFENSIVE LINE • 6'6" • 306 LBS • COLLEGE: MARYLAND
ACQUIRED: 6TH ROUND - 2023 NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE HOMETOWN: NEW CARROLLTON, MD.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 1/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Jaelyn Duncan in the sixth round (186th overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-6-inch, 306-pounder brings quick feet and patient hands to the trenches of the offensive line. The New Carrollton, Md., native appeared in 42 games with 39 starts at left tackle over five seasons at Maryland.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Growing up, Duncan didn't play organized sports and wasn't introduced to football until he was a freshman at Northern High School. As a freshman, Duncan played travel football for the Patuxent Rhinos 15-U team. He then joined the varsity team at Northern as a sophomore where he played until transferring for his senior year to St. Frances Academy, a Catholic high school in Baltimore with many high-profile recruits.
- Duncan said he relied on his sheer physical advantages until his redshirt freshman year of college when he really began to understand and implement different techniques into his game.
- Duncan and Titans first-round draft pick Peter Skoronski faced off in the Big Ten, worked out together and share the same trainer. Duncan will also be reuniting with Maryland alums Chig Okonkwo and Sam Okuayinonu.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The New Carrollton, Md., native was selected by the Tennessee Titans in the sixth round (186th overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (1/0): Made his NFL debut against the L.A. Chargers (9/17/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), was inactive.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), saw action as a reserve on special teams in his first career NFL contest.
- At Cleveland (9/24), was inactive.

COLLEGE:

In five seasons at Maryland (2018-22), Duncan appeared in 42 games with 39 starts. A four-year starter on the offensive line, Duncan won the starting left tackle position one game into his redshirt freshman campaign. Was named Honorable Mention All-Big Ten three times during his career (2020-22).

AS A SENIOR (2022), started all 12 games he appeared in. Blocked for a Maryland passing offense that ranked third in the Big Ten in 2022 by averaging 259.8 yards per game in the air. Participated in the Reese's Senior Bowl and was chosen to participate in the NFL Combine. Named Honorable Mention All-Big Ten.

AS A JUNIOR (2021), appeared in all 13 games with 11 starts at left tackle. Part of Pro Football Focus Offensive Line of the Week for efforts against Kent State (9/25). Blocked for the record-setting pass offense, which set a program record for most passing yards in a season with 3,960. Protected Taulia Tagovailoa, who broke program records in passing yards (3,860), passing touchdowns (26), completions (328), completion percentage (69.2%) and 300-yard passing games (seven). Named Honorable Mention All-Big Ten.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2020), started all five games, one of only six Terps to play in all five contests. Helped block for Big Ten's second-highest ranked passing offense, averaging 264 yards per game. Opened holes for Jake Funk, who averaged 8.60 yards per carry, the second-highest average in the FBS. Protected for Taulia Tagovailoa, who threw for 1,011 yards in just four games, including the 10th highest passing total in a single game in program history with 394 in win over Minnesota (10/30). Named Honorable Mention All-Big Ten.

AS A REDSHIRT FRESHMAN (2019), appeared in all 12 games, starting in the final 11 at left tackle. Blocked for a running back tandem in Javon Leake and Anthony McFarland Jr., who were one of only two duos on power five teams in the country to both have seven rushing touchdowns. Blocked for Javon Leake, who averaged 7.2 yards per carry, the fourth-highest total of the country. Contributed to an offense that had three games scoring over 45 points. Blocked for the second-most points in Maryland history with 79 vs Howard (8/31).

- Redshirted in 2018.
- Graduated in December of 2022 with a degree in family science from Maryland.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Northern (Md.) High School for his first three years of high school before transferring to St. Francis for his senior year.
- Earned Baltimore Sun first-team All-Metro honors at left tackle after helping the Panthers to a 13-0 record against local and national opponents. and the MIAA A Conference Championship.
- Was a 4-star recruit and ranked third overall in the state of Maryland according to ESPN. A 2017 Under Armour All-American.
- Chose the University of Maryland over many other schools so that he could stay close to friends and family.
- Son of Tamika Duncan.
- Has one daughter named Ava.
- Follow Duncan on Twitter at @king_jay70 and Instagram at @_bigdawgjay_

6 NICK FOLK

KICKER • 6'1" • 225 LBS • COLLEGE: ARIZONA
ACQUIRED: TRADE (NE) - 2023 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 16/1
HOMETOWN: SHERMAN OAKS, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 214/0 (PLAYOFFS: 6/0)

Pro Bowl: 2007

PRO: The Titans acquired Nick Folk prior to the start of the 2023 regular season to add stability and veteran experience to the kicking game. Prior to arriving in Tennessee, the 6-foot-1-inch, 225-pounder appeared in 211 games over 15 seasons with the Dallas Cowboys (2007-09), N.Y. Jets (2010-16), Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2017) and New England Patriots (2019-22). The University of Arizona product became the 35th NFL player to reach 300 career field goals and he holds the NFL record with 64 consecutive regular season field goals made under 50 yards.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Enters the 2023 season tied with Eddie Money for 23rd in NFL history with 353 career field goals and ranks fifth among active kickers.
- Is one of six NFL players to have at least five seasons with 30 field goals.
- Enters the 2023 season with a streak to 60 straight field goals made under 40 yards. The NFL record for most consecutive field goals made under 40 yards is 70 by Baltimore's Justin Tucker (2016-20).
- Holds the NFL record with 64 consecutive regular season field goals made under 50 yards.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Folk is a dual citizen of both the United States and Germany.
- Folk's mother is a direct descendant of William Bradford, an original Mayflower passenger and governor of Plymouth Colony.
- The Children's Tumor Foundation has a special place in Folk's heart. His cousin, Blake, has neurofibromatosis (NF), a genetic disorder that causes tumors to grow on nerves throughout the body. The term NF represents three distinct disorders: NF1, NF2 and schwannomatosis. For Blake, his NF impacts him most where his optic nerves cross in his brain. He currently has five brain tumors. Though NF affects over 2.5 million people worldwide, it is still relatively unknown in the general public. The Children's Tumor Foundation's MAKE NF VISIBLE campaign brings awareness and inclusion to all NF patients. Those with visible signs of NF struggle to be seen as more than just their NF, while patients whose NF is invisible struggle to make others understand. MAKE NF VISIBLE is about seeing NF, and seeing the person living with it. Learn more at makenfvisible.org.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/0 - Tennessee): Named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week after nailing the game-winning field goal against the L.A. Chargers (9/17/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut and connected on all five of his field goals (50, 27, 31, 45, 29) which tied his career-high mark. Gave the Titans an early 3-0 lead with a 50-yard field goal in the opening quarter. Increased the Titans lead to 6-3 with a 27-yard field goal in the opening stanza. Nailed a 31-yard field goal to give the Titans a 9-6 halftime advantage. Cut the Saints' lead to 16-12 with a 45-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter. Connected on a 29-yard field goal to pull the Titans to within one at 16-15 with 2:20 remaining in the game.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week after making good on both of his field goals (33, 41) and all three extra point chances. Connected on his 13th career game-winning field goal. Cut the Chargers' lead to 14-10 with a 33-yard field goal as time expired in the first half. Nailed the game-winning, 41-yard field goal midway through the overtime session.
- At Cleveland (9/24), connected on his lone field goal attempt (44). Evened the score at 3-3 with a 44-yard field early in the second quarter.

2022 (17/0 - New England): Played in all 17 games and made 32 of 37 field goal attempts and 32 of 35 extra point attempts for 128 total points. Kicked five field goals in two games: against Detroit (10/9) and at the N.Y. Jets (10/30). Was AFC Special Teams Player of the Week for his performance against the Jets.

- At Cleveland (10/16), extended his NFL record to 64 straight field goals made under 50 yards with a 19-yard field goal in the first quarter, but the streak ended in the fourth quarter with a 45-yard field goal that was wide right. It was Folk's first miss from inside the 50-yard line since a 45-yard field goal attempt in the 2020 season-opener against Miami on Sept. 13.
- At Buffalo (1/8), made a 24-yard field goal in the third quarter to extend his streak to 60 straight field goals made under 40 yards. His last miss under 40 yards was a 31-yard field goal attempt on Oct. 12, 2017 against New England when he played for Tampa Bay.

2021 (17/0, 1/0 - New England): Began the season on the practice squad. Was elevated to the active roster for the first two games before being signed to the 53-man roster on Sept. 21. Played in all 17 regular season games and recorded an NFL-leading 150 points (tied with Daniel Carlson of the Raiders). Finished the season 36 of 39 on field goals and 42 of 47 on extra points. His 92.3 conversion rate was the second-highest of his career, behind the 92.9 mark he set in 2020. Had a career-high 36 field goals, which was second in the NFL. Tied the team record for most 50-yard field goals in a season with five 50-yard field goals. Had four or more field goals in a game five times. Became the 35th NFL player to reach 300 career field goals.

- Against Tampa Bay (10/3), set the Patriots team-record with 36 consecutive field goals with a 27-yarder before missing a 56-yarder with under a minute to go in the game, ending his streak. The 36 straight field goals are tied for the sixth-longest streak in NFL history.

- At Houston (10/10), connected on all four field goals in the victory (52, 52, 32 and 21) and earned AFC Special Teams Player of the Week for his performance.
- Against Tennessee (11/28), connected on five of six field goals (22, 37, 44, 28 and 52) and set a career-high with 18 total points.

2020 (16/0 - New England): Initially began the season on the practice squad before being added to the 53-man roster prior to the season opener. Played in all 16 games and finished the season 26 of 28 on field goals and 30 of 33 on extra points. The 92.9 field goal conversion rate marked the highest percentage of his career and the third-highest in team history. Finished the season with 26 consecutive made field goals. After missing his first two field goals of the season, Folk did not miss, marking the second-longest field goal streak in team history and the longest streak in his career. Became the first kicker in NFL history to kick two game-winning field goals as time expired in a single season in NFL history. Kicked a 51-yarder at N.Y. Jets (11/9) and a 50-yarder vs. Arizona (11/29) with no time left to win both contests.

- At N.Y. Jets (11/9), lifted the Patriots to a 30-27 win with a 51-yard field as time expired, the longest game-winning field goal as time expired in team history. Went three for three on field goals overall and made all three extra point attempts. Was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week.
- Against Arizona (11/29), successfully made both extra point attempts and went two for two on field goals, including a game-winning, walk-off 50-yard field goal as time expired in the win. Was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week.

2019 (7/0, 1/0 - New England): Appeared in seven regular season games with the Patriots and successfully converted 14 of 17 field goal attempts and all 12 extra point tries. Was released on Nov. 29 and re-signed on Dec. 7. Saw action in the playoff contest and connected on both field goals and an extra point.

- At Baltimore (11/3), made his Patriots debut and booted both field goals (22, 19) and made both extra points he attempted in the loss.
- At Philadelphia (11/17), made all three field goals he attempted (35, 22, 39) in the win.
- Against Buffalo (12/21), connected on all four kicks he attempted with three field goals (36, 51, 20) and one extra point in the win. The 51-yard field goal in the third quarter was his season-long.
- Against Tennessee (1/4), made both field goals (36, 21) he attempted and an extra point in the AFC Wild Card loss.

2018 (0/0): Was out of the National Football League. Spent the 2019 NFL offseason with the Arizona Hotshots of the Alliance of American Football.

2017 (4/0 - Tampa Bay): Played in four games for the Buccaneers and converted six of 11 field-goals and seven of nine extra points before suffering a season-ending injury. Placed on injured reserve on Oct. 9 and missed the final 12 contests.

2016 (16/0 - N.Y. Jets): Played in all 16 games and made 27 of 31 field goals and 24 of 26 extra points. Posted five games of three or more made field goals.

- At Buffalo (9/15), registered a season-high 13 points, including tying a season-high with four extra points.
- Against New England (11/27), connected on a season-long 51-yard field goal.

2015 (8/0 - N.Y. Jets): Appeared in eight games for the Jets and converted 13 of 16 field goals and all 19 extra points. Was placed on season-ending injured reserve on Nov. 10.

- At New England (10/25), connected on all three field-goal attempts and both extra-point attempts for a season-high 11 points, including a season-long 55-yard field goal.

26 KRISTIAN FULTON

CORNERBACK • 5'11" • 197 LBS • COLLEGE: LOUISIANA STATE
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2020 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: NEW ORLEANS, LA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 32/28 (PLAYOFFS: 2/1)

PRO: The Titans selected Kristian Fulton with the 61st overall pick in the second round of the 2020 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11 inch, 197-pound defender displays excellent speed when defending vertical routes and has the versatility to play both outside and in the slot. In his first three NFL seasons, Fulton appeared in 30 games with 26 starts and tallied 104 tackles, one sack, four interceptions and 20 passes defended. The New Orleans, La., native helped guide Louisiana State to a CFP National Championship title as a senior in 2019.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Fulton saw action in 11 games and posted a career-high 48 tackles to go along with an interception, three stops for loss, five passes defended, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery.
- In 2021, Fulton recorded career-highs in games played (13), games started (13), interceptions (2), and led the team in passes defended (14), which also tied for 11th place in the NFL.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Fulton and his older brother, Keith, opened an urban-wear boutique in Nashville called "The Trenches," in March 2021. The store, which is located on Buchanan Street, features a unique blend of fashion, footwear and art. None of the clothing brands in The Trenches are mainstream names. Instead, the store features rising designers from New Orleans and other cities across the country. A large variety of sneakers make up another part of the boutique's unique formula.
- During the 2023 offseason, Fulton visited the Nike World Headquarters in Beaverton, Ore., as a part of the NFL Career Tours initiative. The group of 15 players learned about the company's product development, marketing and branding, while touring Nike's state-of-the-art campus.
- Fulton's older brother, Keith, played wide receiver at Louisiana State. Kristian and Keith were teammates in 2018.
- Fulton wears jersey No. 26 to fuel his competitive fire. "It just reminds me every day that I had eight corners selected before me," Fulton told the Official Titans Podcast. Two plus six equals eight, "So, if you add it up, it's a reminder for me every day."
- His grandfather, Louis Fulton, passed away from coronavirus complications on April 6, 2020, just 18 days before Fulton was drafted.
- Fulton was college roommates with current Titans wide receiver Racey McMath while they were at Louisiana State.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The New Orleans, La., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (61st overall) of the 2020 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

57 LUKE GIFFORD

LINEBACKER • 6'3" • 243 LBS • COLLEGE: NEBRASKA
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT - 2023 (DAL)
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/1 • HOMETOWN: LINCOLN, NEB.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 49/1 (PLAYOFFS: 3/0)

PRO: Luke Gifford is a rangy linebacker that has excelled on special teams coverage units during his NFL career. The 6-foot-3-inch, 243-pounder joined the Titans as an unrestricted free agent in 2023 after spending his first four seasons with the Dallas Cowboys. Gifford, a former rookie free agent, will look to make his biggest impact as a core member of the Titans' special teams units having collected 30 special teams stops in 46 career games, as well as provide veteran depth in the linebacking corps.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Gifford has either led or finished second on his team in special teams tackles in three of his first four NFL campaigns. He ranked first on the Cowboys with a career-best 12 special teams stops in 2022.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Gifford was the recipient of Nebraska's prestigious Sam Foltz Hero 27 Award in 2018 for exceptional leadership, consistent and dedicated community service, and positive influence on the team.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Lincoln, Neb., native was originally signed by the Dallas Cowboys as a rookie free agent on May 1, 2019.
- Signed by the Cowboys as an unrestricted free agent on March 21, 2022.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 20, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/1 - Tennessee): Tied for second on the squad with three special teams stops. Has led the team in special teams tackles once in 2023 (at CLE).

- At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut as a reserve on special teams.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), registered a special teams tackle on coverage units.
- At Cleveland (9/24), recorded his first career start, opening the game at outside linebacker. Led the team with two special teams tackles on coverage units.

2022 (16/0, 2/0 - Dallas): Appeared in 16 games as a reserve and led the team with a career-high 12 special teams stops and a forced fumble. Posted five tackles on defense. Was inactive for one contest.

- At Green Bay (11/13), posted a career-best five special teams tackles on coverage units.
- At Minnesota (11/20), notched two special team stops and a forced fumble on coverage units.
- At Washington (1/8), registered two tackles as a reserve linebacker.

2021 (16/0, 1/0 - Dallas): Saw action in 16 games as a reserve linebacker and posted six tackles, including a stop for loss. Tied for second on the team with five special teams tackles with a blocked punt. Was inactive for the regular season opener. Played as a reserve in the postseason contest and notched a pair of special teams stops.

- At New England (10/17), blocked his first career punt on a Jake Bailey attempt, recovered it and returned it to the Patriots' 17-yard line.
- At Philadelphia (1/8), posted a career-best three defensive tackles in the regular season finale.

- Against San Francisco (1/16), posted two special teams stops in his playoff debut.

2020 (8/0 - Dallas): Played in eight games and finished second on the team with seven special teams tackles. Was inactive for six contests and missed two games because of a league-mandated suspension.

- Against Cleveland (10/4), tallied two special teams stops.
- Against Philadelphia (12/27), registered two special teams tackles on coverage units.

2019 (6/0 - Dallas): Played as a reserve in six games as a rookie and tied for fourth on the team with six special teams tackles. Was inactive for eight contests, including the first five games of the season. Placed on injured reserve on Dec. 17 and missed the final two games.

- At N.Y. Jets (10/13), made his NFL debut as a reserve on special teams.
- At N.Y. Giants (11/4), saw action as a reserve and posted three special teams stops on coverage units.

COLLEGE:

- During a four-year career at Nebraska, played in 29 games with 19 starts and totaled 109 tackles, seven sacks, 19 tackles for loss and three interceptions. Earned honorable-mention All-Big Ten recognition as a senior.

- Received in the Pat Clare Award in 2018 as he best exemplified the commitment and courage to overcome injury.

- As a senior (2018), started all 12 games while serving as a team captain for the Cornhuskers. Set career-highs in tackles (62), sacks (5.5), tackles for loss (13), interceptions (two) and forced a fumble. His 5.5 sacks were the most by a Nebraska linebacker since 2005.

- As a junior (2017), started each of the first seven games at outside linebacker before missing the final five contests because of injury. Totaled 39 tackles with five stops for loss and 1.5 sacks, while recording his first pass breakup and interception.

- As a sophomore (2016), saw limited action as a reserve linebacker in four games, recording an assisted tackle.
- As a redshirt freshman (2015), played in each of the first six games and had seven tackles, including a tackle for a loss before being sidelined for the second half of the season with an injury.

- Redshirted as a freshman in 2014.
- Earned his degree in business management from Nebraska.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Southeast (Lincoln, Neb.) High School, playing linebacker while also seeing action on offense.

- As a senior, passed for 970 yards and five touchdowns, while rushing for an additional 742 yards and eight touchdowns, leading Southeast to the Class A state playoffs. Also starred in the secondary, making 50 tackles with two interceptions and five pass breakups.

- Was a first-team All-Nebraska defensive back selection by the Omaha World-Herald as a senior and also earned Super State accolades from the Lincoln Journal Star.

- As a junior, helped Southeast to a 9-2 record and a trip to the state quarterfinals. Caught seven passes for 125 yards, while also starring in the secondary.

- Was a first-team Super State selection as a junior, and earned second-team All-Nebraska honors in 2012. Gifford was also a member of the Knights' 2011 state championship team
- Was a multi-sport athlete, competing on the Southeast basketball team.
- Son of Sam and Shannon Gifford.

51 TREVIS GIPSON

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'4" • 263 LBS • COLLEGE: TULSA

ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2023

NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/1 • HOMETOWN: CEDAR HILL, TEXAS

GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 41/19 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Trevis Gipson as a free agent at the start of the 2023 season. Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, the 6-foot-5-inch, 263-pounder spent three seasons with the Chicago Bears where he amassed 72 tackles, 10 sacks, five forced fumbles and a fumble recovery in 40 games with 19 starts.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2021, Gipson collected 37 tackles and ranked second on the team with a career-best seven sacks. He led the team with five forced fumbles to go along with one fumble recovery and two passes defended.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Coming out of Cedar Hills (Texas) High School, Gipson only had one Division I offer from Tulsa. He made the most of the opportunity, adding 50 pounds of muscle during his redshirt season and becoming a starting defensive end by his junior year. Gipson is the highest-ever draft pick from Cedar Hills High School and along with Tulsa teammate Reggie Robinson, they became the first players to be drafted since 2011 and the first duo to be drafted in the same year since 1994.
- During the 2023 preseason while Gipson was a member of the Chicago Bears, he was able to put up one sack and eight pressures against the Titans, catching the eye of General Manager Ran Carthon. "I think Trevis (Gipson) had two sacks. One of them kind of pissed me off. I won't go into it, but it pissed me off. So when the opportunity came we saw him as someone that fit our scheme, which was a cool thing."

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Cedar Hills, Texas, native was selected by the Chicago Bears in the fifth round (155th overall) of the 2020 NFL Draft.
- Released by the Bears on Aug. 29, 2023.
- Signed by the Titans as a free agent on Aug. 31, 2023.

- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), was inactive.
- At Cleveland (9/24), was inactive.

2022 (17/10 - Chicago): Played in all 17 games with 10 starts and posted 31 tackles, three sacks, a career-high 27 quarterback pressures, four tackles for loss and three passes defended.

- Against San Francisco (9/11), played on both defense and special teams in the victory, finishing with three tackles and a pass defended.
- Against Green Bay (9/18), matched a game-high with two sacks while also logging four total tackles. It marked his second-career multi-sack performance.
- At Minnesota (10/9), finished with a pair of combined tackles, one of which was for a loss. Also had a pass defended.
- At Dallas (10/30), earned his first start of the season and recorded two tackles.
- At Detroit (1/1), recorded his 10th sack of his career for a loss of nine yards.

2021 (16/9 - Chicago): Played in 16 games with nine starts and tallied career-highs with 37 tackles, seven sacks and five forced fumbles. Also notched 24 quarterback pressures, seven tackles for loss, a fumble recovery and two passes defended.

- Against Detroit (10/3), had three tackles, two tackles for loss, a pass defended and a forced fumble. Recorded his first career sack dropping Jared Goff for a loss of 10 yards in the fourth quarter.
- At Las Vegas (10/10), logged a sack for the second straight week when he dropped Derek Carr for a loss of eight yards. Also had two tackles.
- At Tampa Bay (10/24), recorded his first career start and recorded a tackle.
- Against Baltimore (11/21), recorded a career-high five tackles, including two tackles for loss and one sack for a loss of 12 yards.
- At Detroit (11/25), forced and recovered a fumble, knocking a loose ball from Jared Goff's hands late in the second quarter. Also tallied two tackles.
- At Green Bay (12/12), recorded his fourth sack of the season late in the third quarter dropping Aaron Rodgers for a one-yard loss.
- At Seattle (12/26), logged half a sack on Russell Wilson and three tackles.
- Against N.Y. Giants (1/2), had two strip-sacks on Mike Glennon, marking the first multi-sack game of his career. Recorded three tackles.
- At Minnesota (1/9), tallied four tackles, a stop for loss, half a sack and his fifth forced fumble of the season.

2020 (7/0, 0/0 - Chicago): Saw action in seven games his rookie season, recording four tackles and two quarterback pressures. Was inactive for nine regular season games and the Wild Card playoff game.

- At Detroit (9/13), made his NFL debut in the season opener seeing limited snaps on defense.
- At Minnesota (12/20), posted two tackles.

COLLEGE:

- As a senior (2019), played in 12 games with 11 starts. Earned first-team all-conference honors. Registered 49 tackles, 15 tackles for loss, eight sacks, six quarterback hurries and two forced fumbles.
- As a junior (2018), started all 12 games. Ranked second in the nation with five forced fumbles. Also tallied 46 tackles, nine tackles for loss, four sacks, three quarterback hurries and a pass break-up.
- As a sophomore (2017), played in 12 games with one start. Recorded 11 tackles, a pass break-up and a forced fumble.
- As a freshman (2016), played in all 13 games and recorded eight tackles.
- Graduated with a degree in organizational studies with minors in business management and coaching from Tulsa in December 2019.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Cedar Hill (Texas) High School for his senior season and Richardson Berkner High School his junior and sophomore seasons. Was a three-year defensive starter.
- Helped lead his prep team to the Class 6A state title.
- Named to the Dallas Morning News top-100 for the Dallas-area, coming in rated No. 91, as a senior.
- Coached by Joey McGuire at Cedar Hill.
- Has three siblings and his brother, Thomas, plays professional basketball in Finland.
- Son of Thomas and Cassundra Gipson. Mother ran track at North Texas and father played basketball at Texas.

- Follow Gipson on Instagram and on Twitter at @trevisgipson.
- Born Trevis Gipson on June 13, 1997 in Cedar Hill, Texas.

RUNNING BACK • 6'3" • 247 LBS • COLLEGE: ALABAMA
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/8
HOMETOWN: YULEE, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 105/74 (PLAYOFFS: 7/7)

Pro Bowl: 2019, 2020, 2022

Community Man of the Year: 2021, 2022

PRO: The Titans selected Heisman Trophy winner Derrick Henry in the second round of the 2016 NFL Draft out of the University of Alabama. The 6-foot-3-inch, 247-pounder is a powerful, downhill runner who displays tremendous speed and balance. The Yulee, Fla., native led the NFL from 2017 to 2022 in rushing yards (7,845), rushing touchdowns (73), rushing yards per game (90.2) and rushing attempts of 10-plus yards (197). Following a foot injury that sidelined him for half the 2021 season, Henry returned to form in 2022, ranking second in the NFL with 1,538 rushing yards and tied for fourth in the league with 13 total touchdowns. In 2021, he led the NFL with 937 rushing yards and 10 rushing touchdowns in the first eight weeks of the season before missing the final nine games of the regular season. In 2020, Henry secured the NFL's rushing title for the second consecutive year after recording 2,027 rushing yards and 17 rushing touchdowns, becoming the eighth player in NFL history to eclipse 2,000 rushing yards in a season. In 2019, Henry was the NFL's leading rusher with 1,540 yards and 16 rushing scores. He racked up 5,860 rushing yards and scored 55 rushing touchdowns during his first five NFL seasons, including consecutive 1,000-yard seasons each year from 2018-20. At Alabama, the Heisman Trophy winner set numerous school and SEC records while leading his team to a National Championship in 2015.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Henry was selected to his third career Pro Bowl after finishing second in the NFL with a team-best 1,538 rushing yards and 1,936 yards from scrimmage. He tied for fourth in the NFL with 13 total touchdowns.
- Henry recorded the sixth 200-yard rushing performance of his career during the 2022 campaign tying O.J. Simpson and Adrian Peterson for the most in NFL history.
- With his 13 rushing touchdowns in 2022, he joined LaDainian Tomlinson (nine), Adrian Peterson (seven), Shaun Alexander (five) and Michael Turner (five) as the only players in NFL history to rush for at least 10 touchdowns in five consecutive seasons.
- Henry holds the franchise records for most career touchdowns and most career rushing scores.
- He became the franchise's second player (Earl Campbell) and the 16th NFL player to reach 70 total touchdowns and 7,000 rushing yards within his first seven NFL seasons.
- From 2017-2022, Henry led the NFL in rushing yards (7,845), rushing touchdowns (73), rushing yards per game (90.2) and rushing attempts of 10-plus yards (197).
- Entering 2023, his 8,335 career rushing yards ranked third in franchise annals behind Eddie George (10,009) and Earl Campbell (8,574).
- Henry ranks second in franchise postseason history for career rushing attempts (156), rushing yards (732), and tied for third in rushing touchdowns (four).
- In 2021, Henry led the NFL with 937 rushing yards and 10 rushing touchdowns in the first eight weeks of the season before missing the final nine games of the regular season with a foot injury. He returned to start in the team's divisional playoff contest and rushed for 62 yards and one score.
- In 2020, Henry was named the NFL Offensive Player of the Year, Associated Press first-team All-Pro, and FedEx Ground Player of the Year for the second consecutive season after leading the NFL with a franchise-record 2,027 rushing yards, becoming the eighth player in NFL history to eclipse 2,000 rushing yards in a season. His 2,027 rushing yards gave him the fifth-highest total in NFL history behind Eric Dickerson's 2,105 (1984), Adrian Peterson's 2,097 (2012), Jamal Lewis' 2,066 (2003) and Barry Sanders' 2,053 (1997). Henry broke Chris Johnson's franchise mark of 2,006 rushing yards in 2009.

- Additionally, in 2020 he earned first-team All-Pro honors from Pro Football Focus, Pro Football Writers of America and Sporting News and was the 101 Awards AFC Offensive Player of the Year.
- Henry became the first player to lead the NFL in rushing yards in consecutive seasons (2019-20) since LaDainian Tomlinson (2006-07).
- In 2020, Henry became the fifth all-time NFL player to lead the NFL in rushing yards, attempts and rushing touchdowns in consecutive seasons. The last to do so prior to Henry was Cleveland's Leroy Kelly from 1967 to 1968. The only other players to achieve it are Jim Brown (1958-59), Steve Van Buren (1947-49) and Bill Paschal (1943-44).
- In 2020, Henry recorded three 200-yard rushing games in a season, becoming the fifth player in NFL history to do so, joining Earl Campbell (four in 1980), O.J. Simpson (1973), Tiki Barber (2005) and Jay Ajayi (2016). He became the first player in NFL history with five career games with at least 200 rushing yards and two rushing touchdowns.
- In the 2020 regular season finale at Houston (1/3/21), set the franchise record with 250 rushing yards, breaking his own club record of 238 rushing yards (12/6/18 vs. Jacksonville). Henry's 250 rushing yards tied for the 13th-best single-game total in the NFL since 1948.
- Henry set a career high with 17 rushing touchdowns in 2020, finishing with the second-best total in franchise history behind Earl Campbell's 19 rushing touchdowns in 1979.
- In 2020, Henry totaled 1,221 rushing yards in road games, the most by any NFL running back since 1948. The previous high was held by Eric Dickerson (1,087 in 1984). Dating back to 2019, he had a streak of nine consecutive road games with at least 100 rushing yards, passing Chris Johnson (eight games from 2009-10) for the second-longest such streak in NFL history behind only Barry Sanders' 10-game road streak (from 1996-97).
- Henry totaled 2,141 scrimmage yards (2,027 rushing and 114 receiving) in 2020 to finish second in franchise history behind Chris Johnson's 2,509 scrimmage yards in 2009.
- Recorded 10 total 100-yard rushing games in 2020 to tie Earl Campbell (1980) for the third-most in franchise history. Only Campbell in 1979 (11) and Chris Johnson in 2009 (12) had more.
- Henry became the NFL's first player to rush for at least 175 and two touchdowns four times in a season in 2020.
- In 2020, Henry joined Terrell Davis (1997-98), Shaun Alexander (2004-05) and Larry Johnson (2005-06) as the only players in NFL history to rush for 1,500 yards and 15 touchdowns in two consecutive seasons.
- From 2019-20, Henry established a streak of 20 consecutive games in the regular season and playoffs with at least 18 rushing attempts, the second-longest streak of its kind in the NFL since 1948. The only player with more consecutive 18-carry games in the regular season and postseason was Emmitt Smith, whose streak was 23 games with the Dallas Cowboys from 1995 to 1996.
- In 2020, he became the first player in NFL history to produce more than one overtime touchdown run in a season. He joined LaDainian Tomlinson as the NFL's only players with multiple career touchdown runs in overtime. Tomlinson had three during his career.
- In 2020, Henry joined Bo Jackson, Ahman Green, Chris Johnson and Lamar Miller as the only NFL players to record two career rushing touchdowns of at least 90 yards. Henry joined Miller (two 97-yard touchdown runs) as the only players to ever record multiple touchdown runs of at least 94 yards.
- In 2019, Henry was the NFL's leading rusher with a then career-best 1,540 rushing yards on a career-high 303 carries for a career-high 16 rushing touchdowns.

- In 2019, Henry recorded eight 100-yard rushing performances including the postseason.
- In 2019, moved into fifth place on the franchise's all-time rushing touchdowns list after passing Lorenzo White (29) against Kansas City (11/10/19). In the same game, Henry also became the ninth player in franchise history to reach 3,000 career rushing yards.
- In Week 17 of the 2019 season, he was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week after his performance at Houston (12/29/19), where he rushed a season-high 32 times for a season-best 211 yards with three touchdowns to secure the NFL's rushing title.
- In 2019, became the sixth player in franchise history with at least 12 touchdowns in two or more consecutive seasons.
- In 2019, joined Napoleon Kaufman (1997-99) and Robert Smith (1997-2000) as the only players in NFL history to record a rushing touchdown of at least 70 yards in three consecutive seasons.
- Passed Steve McNair (3,439 career rushing yards) for sixth place on the team's all-time rushing list, and later passed Hoyle Granger (3,514) for fifth place on the team's all-time rushing list in 2019.
- In 2019, Henry started all three of the team's playoff games and finished the postseason with 83 carries for a league-best 446 yards and two touchdowns, all of which set career-highs. His 446 rushing yards in the postseason ranked second in franchise playoff history behind Eddie George's 449 rushing yards during the 1999 playoffs.
- In 2019, during Wild Card Weekend at New England (1/4/20), Henry set a then-franchise playoff record with 182 rushing yards on 34 carries and a touchdown, which marked the second-most yards on the road in an NFL playoff game since 1950. The following week during the Divisional Round at Baltimore (1/11/20), set a franchise playoff record with 195 rushing yards on 30 carries.
- In 2018, Henry was named to the PFWA All-AFC team after setting then single-season career highs in carries (215), rushing yards (1,059), rushing long (99t), and touchdowns (12).
- 2018 marked Henry's first career 1,000-yard season. He finished sixth in the NFL in rushing yards.
- In 2018, named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for Week 13 after collecting a franchise-best 238 rushing yards with a franchise-tying four rushing touchdowns against Jacksonville on Thursday Night Football (12/6). In the same game, he scored four rushing touchdowns to tie the franchise's single-game record (Earl Campbell, Lorenzo White).
- In Week 13 of the 2018 season, recorded the second 99-yard touchdown run in NFL history (Tony Dorsett). The run also set the mark for the longest touchdown run in franchise history and tied for the longest scrimmage play in NFL history. He also became the second player in NFL history with a rushing touchdown of at least 90 yards and a rushing touchdown of at least 50 yards in the same game (Chris Johnson).
- In 2018, named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December after registering 97 carries for 625 yards and eight touchdowns.
- In 2018, became the seventh NFL player since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger with at least four rushing touchdowns and at least 200 rushing yards in a game (Clinton Portis, Barry Sanders, Doug Martin, Jonas Gray, Mike Anderson and Corey Dillon). Henry became the first to accomplish the feat in fewer than 20 carries (17).
- In 2017, Henry led the Titans with 744 rushing yards on 176 carries, and he rushed for five touchdowns for the second consecutive season.
- In the team's Wild Card playoff victory at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018, Henry recorded a franchise postseason record of 191 scrimmage yards (156 rushing, 35 receiving), breaking a 57-year-old postseason record set on Jan. 1, 1961, when Billy Cannon had 178 scrimmage yards against the Los Angeles Chargers. Henry's 156 rushing yards ranked second in franchise postseason history (162 by Eddie George on Jan. 16, 2000).
- In 2016, Henry rushed for 490 yards and five touchdowns to become the third rookie for the franchise in the "Titans era" to score at least five touchdowns in a season, joining Vince Young (seven rushing touchdowns in 2006) and Chris Johnson (nine rushing and one receiving in 2008).

- Despite playing just three seasons and not seeing extensive action in his first campaign at Alabama, Henry finished his career as the school's all-time rushing leader with 3,591 yards.
- As a senior in 2015, Henry claimed the Heisman Trophy and led his team to the College Football Playoff National Championship. He also won the Doak Walker and Maxwell Award and was selected as the Walter Camp Player of the Year after rushing for an Alabama and Southeastern Conference record 2,219 yards.

TITANS TIDBITS:

37 AMANI HOOKER

DEFENSIVE BACK • 5'11" • 210 LBS • COLLEGE: IOWA
ACQUIRED: 4TH ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/5
HOMETOWN: MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 55/26 (PLAYOFFS: 5/1)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select Amani Hooker with the 116th overall pick in the fourth round of the 2019 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11-inch, 210-pound defender was coveted for his versatility, having played safety, and a hybrid linebacker/cornerback position at Iowa. Hooker made a huge impact for the Titans secondary in his second pro campaign in 2020, appearing in all 16 games and tying for the team lead with four interceptions. In his third pro season, he ranked fourth on the team with a career-high 62 tackles.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, appeared in nine games and collected 46 tackles, an interception, four quarterback pressures, a stop for loss, three passes defended, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery.
- In 2021, Hooker collected a career-best 62 tackles.
- In 2020, Hooker tied for the team lead with four interceptions while posting 44 tackles and eight passes defended.
- In 2019, Hooker played as a reserve safety in all 16 games as a rookie and collected 13 tackles while ranking third on the team with eight special teams tackles.
- As a junior in 2018, Hooker received the Tatum-Woodson award given to the best defensive back in the Big Ten.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Hooker was named a finalist for Minnesota's Mr. Football in 2015. Yet he had just two FBS scholarship offers. When the in-state university showed hesitancy after multiple workouts, Hooker knew he belonged at Iowa saying, "love who loves me."
- In February 2019, Hooker helped crowdfund about $1,200 for the Park Center high school football program through a Pledge-It campaign raising a dollar amount for every inch of his vertical jump at the NFL Scouting Combine. His 37-inch jump ranked fifth among safeties and equaled money for better equipment at his alma mater.
- Amani's brother, Quinton, played basketball for North Dakota and helped take the team to the NCAA tournament his senior year. Quinton was Minnesota's Mr. Basketball in high school and currently plays basketball professionally in France.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Minneapolis, Minn., native was selected by the Titans in the fourth round (116th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (2/2): Has led the team in tackles once in 2023 (at CLE). Has led the team in passes defended once in 2023 (at NO).

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at safety and notched four tackles, an interception, another pass defended and a stop for loss. Registered a special teams tackle, forced fumble and fumble recovery on coverage units. Gave the Titans ideal field position by forcing a Rashid Shaheed fumble and recovering the loose ball at the Saints' 24-yard line on the opening kickoff of the contest. Stuffed Shaheed for a one-yard loss on a short pass late in the first quarter. Intercepted a Derek Carr pass intended for Juwan Johnson on third-and-eight late in the opening stanza. Broke up a third-and-seven pass intended for Johnson in the third quarter.

PRO: The Titans signed DeAndre Hopkins as a free agent in the 2023 offseason. The 6-foot-1-inch, 212 pounder brings a veteran presence to a young receiving room and possesses an impressive combination of size, catch radius, a talent to win contested catches and an ability to read defenses. Entering 2023, the four-time All-Pro (first-team 2017-19, second team 2020) and five-time Pro Bowl selection ranks first in receptions (853), first in first down receptions (594), second in receiving yards (11,298) and fourth in receiving touchdowns (71) since entering the league in 2013. Hopkins entered the league as the 27th overall pick in the 2013 NFL Draft out of Clemson and spent his first seven seasons with the Houston Texans before being traded to the Arizona Cardinals in 2020.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In his first 10 seasons, Hopkins established himself as one of the premier receivers in NFL history with 853 receptions for 11,298 yards and 71 touchdowns while starting in 145 games.
- Hopkins is a five-time Pro Bowl selection (2015, 2017-20) and four-time All-Pro selection. Named first team All-Pro in three straight seasons (2017-19) and second team All-Pro in 2020.
- Has surpassed 100 receptions four times in his career, has six seasons of 1,000+ receiving yards, three seasons with 10+ touchdowns and has posted 100+ receiving yards in a game 40 times.
- From 2013 to 2022, ranked first in receptions (853), first in first down receptions (594), second in receiving yards (11,298) and fourth in receiving touchdowns (71) during the regular season.
- Enters 2023 with at least one reception in all 145 career games played during the regular season. That represents the longest active streak in the NFL and is the fourth-longest in the Super Bowl era to begin a career.
- Was the only NFL player to have 100+ receptions every season between 2018-20.
- Hopkins (two) joins Devante Adams (two) as the only active NFL players with at least 100 receptions, 1,500 receiving yards and 11 touchdown receptions in multiple seasons (2015, 2018).
- In Week 10 of the 2020 season Hopkins hauled in a 43-yard pass from Kyle Murray over three Buffalo Bills defenders in the end zone with two seconds remaining for the game-winning touchdown. The play was dubbed "Hail Murray" and won the 2021 ESPY for "Best Play."
- In 2019, finished the season with 104 receptions for 1,165 yards and seven touchdowns and was named first-team AP NFL All-Pro for the third consecutive year.
- In 2018, named to his second consecutive AP NFL All-Pro first team and Pro Bowl after posting 115 receptions for 1,572 yards and 11 touchdowns.
- In 2017, Hopkins posted 96 receptions for 1,378 yards and 13 touchdowns earning him first-team AP NFL All-Pro and Pro Bowl honors. His 13 receiving touchdowns led the league. Became one of two players in 2017 to score a receiving touchdown in five consecutive games.
- In 2015, named to his first Pro Bowl and selected second-team AP NFL All-Pro after finishing the year with 111 receptions for 1,521 yards and 11 touchdowns. Became the first player in NFL history with at least nine catches and 145 receiving yards in three consecutive games (Weeks 4-6).
- In 2014, recorded 76 receptions for 1,210 yards and six touchdowns. He became the 25th player in NFL history to amass 2,000 yards receiving through his first two seasons. Recorded a career-high 238 receiving yards on nine receptions in Week 13 against the Titans.
- In 2013, Hopkins started all 16 games and finished the season with 52 receptions for 802 yards. Earned a spot on the PFWA All-Rookie Team and was voted the Texans Rookie of the Year by teammates. Was named NFL Offensive Rookie of the Month in September after recording 20 receptions for 270 yards and a touchdown.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Hopkins reunites with head coach Mike Vrabel, offensive coordinator Tim Kelly, pass game coordinator and quarterbacks coach Charles London and passing game analyst Pat O'Hara after spending time with all three coaches in Houston during their time as Texans.
- Started his annual NFL FLAG Football League in 2021, a program that teaches the fundamentals of football through a no-contact rule and team-oriented environment.
- Hopkins' mother, Sabrina Greenlee, established the SMOOTH Foundation to assist survivors of domestic violence. In addition to providing financial assistance to the foundation, Hopkins also spends time meeting with women his mother mentors and speaking to high school students about his past experiences.
- Following his freshman season at Clemson, Hopkins briefly joined the basketball team. He appeared in seven games for the Tigers, recording a rebound, steal, block and an assist.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Central, S.C., native was selected by the Houston Texans in the first round (27th overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.
- Traded by the Texans to the Arizona Cardinals on March 13, 2020.
- Released by the Cardinals on May 26, 2023.
- Signed by the Titans as a free agent on July 24, 2023.

ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2023 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 10/1
HOMETOWN: COLUMBUS, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 88/52 (PLAYOFFS: 6/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Chris Hubbard early in training camp in 2023 to bring veteran experience and competition to the offensive line group. The 6-foot-4-inch, 295-pounder was originally signed as a rookie free agent by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 2013 and has played the last five seasons with the Cleveland Browns. The Columbus, Ga., native has started games at right tackle, right guard and as an extra offensive lineman/tight end.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2018, Hubbard started all 16 games at right tackle for the Cleveland Browns, playing every single offensive snap. Was a key part of the Browns offensive line unit to not allow a sack in five of the last seven games of the season. He protected Baker Mayfield who set an NFL rookie record with 27 touchdown passes.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Advocate for mental health resources and awareness, particularly after receiving personal assistance. Prominently supports the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), representing the organization during My Cause, My Cleats in 2021.
- Founded the Overcoming Together Foundation, whose vision has been to inspire others to push beyond any limitation – creating a path toward a promising and healthy future.
- His uncle, Brentson Buckner, is a former defensive lineman for the Steelers (1994-96), Cincinnati Bengals (1997), San Francisco 49ers (1998-2000) and Carolina Panthers (2001-05) and is the current defensive line coach for the Jacksonville Jaguars.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Columbus, Ga., native was originally signed by the Pittsburgh Steelers as a rookie free agent on April 27, 2013.
- Waived by the Steelers on Aug. 31, 2013 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
- Signed by the Steelers on Dec. 31, 2013.
- Signed by the Cleveland Browns as an unrestricted free agent on March 15, 2018
- Signed by the Titans as a free agent on July 28, 2023.

CORNERBACK • 5'10" • 177 LBS • COLLEGE: BALDWIN WALLACE
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2023 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE HOMETOWN: PORT RICHEY, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 3/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Anthony Kendall as a rookie free agent after the 2023 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-10-inch, 177-pounder made the 53-man roster out of training camp after a stellar career at Division III Baldwin Wallace. The Port Richey, Fla., native played five seasons for the Yellow Jackets (2018-22) where he saw action in 31 games and recorded 127 tackles, 20 pass breakups, six interceptions, a forced fumble and a sack.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Kendall had zero Division I offers coming out of high school so he decided to go to Baldwin Wallace, a Division III school in the Ohio Athletic Conference. He went to multiple regional tryouts after not getting an invite to the NFL Combine.
- Kendall was the first Baldwin Wallace alum to sign with an NFL team since linebacker Keith Darbut in 2011.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Port Richey, Fla., native was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 12, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/0): Tied for second on the squad with three special teams tackles. Has led the team in special teams tackles once in 2023 (at NO). Made his NFL debut at New Orleans (9/10/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), saw action as a reserve on special teams and led the team with three special teams tackles in his first career NFL contest. Stuffed Rashid Shaheed at the Saints' 13-yard line on a kickoff return in the fourth quarter.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), played as a reserve on special teams.
- At Cleveland (9/24), saw action as a reserve on special teams.

COLLEGE:

- During five seasons at Baldwin Wallace, Kendall appeared in 31 games and recorded 127 tackles, 20 pass breakups, six interceptions, a forced fumble and a sack.
- As a graduate (2022), started in 10 games and recorded a career-high 56 tackles, four tackles for loss, his first career forced fumble and first career sack. Led the Yellow Jackets and the OAC with a career-high 12 pass breakups. Also had a career-high three interceptions. Named the 2022 Lee J. Tressel Ohio Athletic Conference Defensive Back of the Year and was selected as an American Football Coaches Association, Associated Press, D3football.com second-team All-American and an All-OAC first-team selection.
- As a senior (2021), appeared in seven games and recorded 11 tackles, two tackles for loss and a pass breakup.
- As a junior (2020), appeared in two games. Was third on the team with 13 tackles, added one pass breakup and one blocked kick. Tallied one tackle for loss. Was named All-Ohio Athletic Conference honorable mention.
- As a sophomore (2019), appeared in five games. Recorded 23 tackles, including two stops for loss, a pass breakup and two interceptions.
- As a redshirt freshman (2018), appeared in seven games and recorded 23 tackles, including a stop for loss, five pass breakups and one interception.
- Graduated with a degree in business in healthcare from Baldwin Wallace in December 2022.

PERSONAL:

- Played three years of football at Aclote (Fla.) High School before transferring to River Ridge High School for his senior season.
- Was the recipient of the Knights Award in football and participated in the All-Star Football game.

- Competed two years in basketball and three years of weightlifting and track and field. Placed fifth in the 300-meter hurdles at the Florida High School Athletic Association State Championships.
- Graduated with a 4.1 cumulative grade point average and was the recipient of the Alumni Award as well as a member of the Chi Alpha Sigma Honor Society.
- Son of Andre and Cerstin Marshall.

49 ARDEN KEY

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'5" • 240 LBS • COLLEGE: LOUISIANA STATE
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT - 2023 (JAX)
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 6/1 • HOMETOWN: ATLANTA, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 74/14 (PLAYOFFS: 5/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Arden Key early in the 2023 offseason to add experience and bolster the defensive front. The Louisiana State product possesses a unique ability to come off the edge as a pass rusher and use his speed, athleticism and long arms to get to the quarterback. The 6-foot-5-inch, 240-pound defender originally entered the NFL as a third-round pick of the Oakland Raiders in 2018 and spent his first three campaigns with the organization. Over the next two seasons with the San Francisco 49ers (2021) and Jacksonville Jaguars (2022), Key saw action in all 34 contests and amassed 49 tackles, 11 sacks, 10 stops for loss and 63 quarterback pressures.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Key recorded 27 tackles, 4.5 sacks, five stops for loss and a career-high 38 quarterback pressures in his first season with the Jaguars.
- In 2021, Key notched a career-best 6.5 sacks to go along with 22 tackles and 25 quarterback pressures in his lone season with the 49ers.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- While preparing for the 2018 NFL Draft, Key decided to capitalize on his opportunities in the spotlight to help others. Key utilized his long jump at the Louisiana State Pro Day to support the organization "No Kid Hungry" to raise money for food insecure children and their families, raising more funds with each inch he jumped.
- His father, Arden Key Sr., played point guard and shooting guard at Jacksonville State and also coached Arden Jr. in football.
- Key comes from a large family that includes four sets of twins, all who share in his athleticism on the basketball court. Arden's twin, Angel, was a cheerleader for her brother's football team.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Atlanta, Ga., native was selected by the Oakland Raiders in the third round (87th overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft.
- Released by the Raiders on April 15, 2021.
- Signed by the San Francisco 49ers as a free agent on April 23, 2021.
- Signed by the Jacksonville Jaguars as an unrestricted free agent on March 30, 2022.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 20, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/1 - Tennessee): Leads the team with 18 quarterback pressures. Has led or tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures twice in 2023 (at NO, vs. LAC). Has tied for the team lead in sacks once in 2023 (at NO). Posted a career-best 11 quarterback pressures at New Orleans (9/10/23).
• At New Orleans (9/10), made his Titans debut and notched four tackles, 1.5 sacks and a pass defended to go along with a team-best and career-high 11 quarterback pressures. Dropped Derek Carr for a six-yard sack early in the second quarter. Deflected a ball intended for Michael Thomas on third-and-10 in the second stanza. Teamed with Denico Autry to sack Derek Carr for a seven-yard sack in the second quarter.
• Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and tied for the team lead with four quarterback pressures.
• At Cleveland (9/24), started at outside linebacker and tallied three tackles and three quarterback pressures.

2022 (17/3, 2/0 - Jacksonville): Played in all 17 games with three starts and compiled 27 tackles, 4.5 sacks, five stops for loss, a fumble recovery and two passes defended. Saw action as a reserve in both postseason contests and posted two tackles and a pass defended.

- Against Denver (10/30), registered two tackles, including a sack. Dropped Russell Wilson for a seven-yard sack on third-and-six.
- At Tennessee (12/11), tied a career-high with four tackles to go along with a sack and a fumble recovery. Dropped Ryan Tannehill for a six-yard sack in the third quarter. Recovered a fumble by Derrick Henry early in the final stanza.
- Against Dallas (12/18), posted three tackles and a career-best 1.5 sacks. Teamed with Foley Fatukasi to sack Dak Prescott for a three-yard loss in the opening stanza. Dropped Prescott for an eight-yard loss in the third quarter.
- Against Tennessee (1/7), notched three tackles and a career-best nine quarterback pressures.

2021 (17/0, 3/0 - San Francisco): Saw action as a reserve in all 17 games and totaled 22 tackles, a career-best 6.5 sacks and one pass defended. Played in his first three postseason games and collected two tackles.

- Against L.A. Rams (11/15), registered two tackles and a sack. Sacked Matthew Stafford for an eight-yard loss in the final stanza.
- Against Atlanta (12/19), posted an 11-yard sack of Matt Ryan on third-and-eight in the second quarter.
- Against Houston (1/2), notched a nine-yard sack of Davis Mills in the fourth quarter.

2020 (14/0 - Las Vegas): Appeared as a reserve in 14 games and registered 15 tackles, two tackles for loss and two passes defended. Was inactive for two contests.

- Against Kansas City (11/22), notched two tackles, including a stop for loss.

2019 (7/0 - Oakland): Appeared in seven games and recorded a career-high two sacks. Placed on injured reserve on Nov. 7 and missed the final eight games of the season. Was inactive for one contest.

- At Houston (10/27), totaled two tackles and one sack. Dropped Deshaun Watson for a 10-yard sack on third-and-11 in the third quarter.
- Against Detroit (11/3), registered a sack by taking down Matthew Stafford for a loss of 13 yards in his final game of the season because of injury.

2018 (16/10 - Oakland): Appeared in all 16 games as rookie with 10 starts at defensive end. Posted 30 tackles, a sack and a blocked extra point on special teams.

- Against L.A. Rams (9/10), totaled three tackles in his NFL debut.
- Against Seattle (10/14), made his first career start and registered his first career sack when he took down Russell Wilson for an eight-yard loss. Also recorded a career-high four tackles.
- Against Kansas City (12/2), collected the team's first blocked kick of the season on Harrison Butker's extra-point attempt in the second quarter.

COLLEGE:

- Played three seasons at Louisiana State (2015-17), appearing in 31 games with 28 starts and posting 130 tackles, 21 sacks and 26.5 tackles for loss.
- Was named Associated Press All-SEC first team in both 2017 and 2016. Earned second-team All-SEC honors from coaches in 2016.
- When he left LSU, his 21 career sacks were tied for third-most in school history with Gabe Northern.
- As a junior (2017), started eight contests and racked up 33 tackles, 5.5 for loss, four sacks and one forced fumble en route to first-team All-SEC honors.
- As a sophomore (2016), named first-team All-SEC after setting the school

58 HAROLD LANDRY III

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'2" • 252 LBS • COLLEGE: BOSTON COLLEGE
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2018 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 6/6
HOMETOWN: SPRING LAKE, N.C.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 67/54 (PLAYOFFS: 5/5)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select outside linebacker Harold Landry III with the 41st overall pick in the second round of the 2018 NFL Draft. From the start of his rookie season through 2022, Landry's 31 total sacks led the Titans. He participated in 64 consecutive contests before missing the entire 2022 campaign due to injury. Other than Jevon Kearse (38.0), Landry produced the highest sack total (31.0) by a Titans/Oilers player in his first four NFL seasons since individual sacks became an official NFL statistic in 1982. The Boston College product possesses a unique ability to bend the edge as a pass rusher and use his speed, athleticism and long arms to get to the quarterback. The 6-foot-2-inch, 252-pound defender signed a multi-year contract extension during the 2022 offseason and will be a key contributor to the Titans defense for years to come.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2021, Landry was named to his first career Pro Bowl after ranking 10th in the NFL and leading the team with career-high 12 sacks. He also led the team with 14 tackles for loss and ranked second on the squad with a career-best 49 quarterback pressures.
- In 2021, Landry posted eight consecutive game with at least a half sack, the longest such streak of his career, joining Jevon Kearse (12 consecutive games from 1999 to 2000) as the franchise's only players to accomplish the feat since individual sacks became an official statistic in 1982.
- In 2020, Landry recorded 16 starts for the second consecutive season. He led the team with 5.5 sacks, a career-high 32 quarterback pressures and a career-high 10 tackles for loss.

COLLEGE:

- In four seasons at Chattanooga (2013-16), Levin appeared in 52 career games with 51 starts, 45 of which were consecutive. A three-year starter on the offensive line, Levin proved his versatility making starts at left guard and at both left and right tackle. Three of Chattanooga's top five rushing totals in school history came with Levin starting on the offensive line, and he is one of only five three-time All-Americans in school history.
- As a senior (2016), started all 13 games with 12 coming at left guard and one at right tackle. Named first-team All-American by the American Football Coaches Association and earned second-team All-American honors from the Associated Press. Also named first team All-SoCon by the league's coaches and media for the second consecutive year.
- As a junior (2015), started all 13 games with seven starts at left tackle and six at left guard. Named first-team All-American by the AFCA and second-team All-American by the Associated Press. Earned the Jacobs Blocking Award for the second consecutive year and became the first player in Chattanooga history to win that honor twice.

- As a sophomore (2014), started all 14 games with three starts at left tackle and 11 at left guard. Earned the Jacobs Blocking Award given to the top offensive lineman in the Southern Conference and was the first Moc to win the award since 1983. Named first-team All-SoCon by the league's coaches and media and earned third-team All-American honors by Sports Network.
- As a redshirt freshman (2013), appeared in all 12 games with 11 starts at left tackle. Named to the Southern Conference All-Freshman Team as well as the College Sports Journal FCS National All-Freshman Second Team.
- As a freshman (2012), redshirted.
- Graduated from Chattanooga in December 2016 with a degree in exercise science.

8 WILL LEVIS

QUARTERBACK • 6'4" • 229 LBS • COLLEGE: KENTUCKY

ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2023

NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE • HOMETOWN: MADISON, CONN.

GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 1/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Will Levis in the second round (33rd overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4-inch, 229-pounder is a strong-armed signal caller that displays leadership under center, accuracy from the pocket and grit as a runner. A native of Madison, Conn., he spent two seasons at Kentucky, after transferring from Penn State. During his two seasons as the Wildcats' starting signal caller, he directed the program to 17 victories and a pair of bowl appearances. He was the fourth quarterback drafted in 2023 after the Titans traded up in the second round to select him.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Levis finished his career with a 17-7 record as a starter at Kentucky, tying Terry Wilson for the second-most quarterback wins since 1993.
- In two seasons at Kentucky, Levis completed 418 of 636 passes for 5,233 yards with 43 passing touchdowns and 11 rushing scores.
- Levis, a two-time team captain for the Wildcats, notched six 300-yard passing games at Kentucky, the fourth-most in school history.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Levis comes from a family of athletes. His great grandfather, Alva Kelley, was an All-America football player at Cornell University and won a National Championship in 1939. His mother, Beth Kelley Levis, was two-time All-America soccer player at Yale and has been inducted into the Connecticut Girls' Soccer Association Hall of Fame. His father, Mike, was a tight end at Denison University. His uncle, David Kelley, also was an Academic All-America football player at Yale.
- Levis has used his platform to make a difference in the community. He set up a Cameo campaign to raise money for flood victims in eastern Kentucky in 2022 and organized an autograph signing with fellow teammates to gather funds for tornado victims in western Kentucky in 2021. He has also volunteered with Amachi, an organization that aims to assist children affected by incarceration.
- The best advice Levis has ever received is "never give up." His grandfather used to end every sentence he ever had with him with those words and it took him a while to realize how meaningful they are, but he now uses it as his personal mantra. It is the impetus behind the tattoo on his arm "2nd Chronicles 15:7." The verse says, "But as for you, stay strong and do not give up, for your effort will be rewarded."
- Levis grew up a fan of all the Boston-area sports teams and considers himself a diehard Red Sox supporter. As a Patriots fan growing up, he went to training camp and got an autograph from his current head coach and Patriots Hall of Famer Mike Vrabel.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Madison, Conn., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (33rd overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (1/0):

- At New Orleans (9/10), was inactive as the third quarterback.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), was inactive as the third quarterback.
- At Cleveland (9/24), was inactive as the third quarterback.

COLLEGE:

- Played two seasons at Kentucky after spending his first three collegiate seasons at Penn State. In four total seasons on the field, he appeared in 39 games with 26 starts, completing 479 of 738 passes for 5,876 yards with 46 passing touchdowns. Totaled 312 rushes for 742 yards with 17 rushing scores. Levis finished his career with a 17-7 record as a starter at Kentucky, tying Terry Wilson for the second-most quarterback wins since 1993. Accounted for 54 total touchdowns at Kentucky (43 passing and 11 rushing) and tallied 5,233 passing yards for the Wildcats, finishing sixth on the program's all-time list.

AS A SENIOR (2022), started 11 games at quarterback and connected on 185 of 283 passes for 2,406 yards with 19 passing scores, while ranking fourth in the SEC in pass efficiency (151.9). Finished fifth in the SEC with 19 passing scores.

- Against Miami (Ohio) (9/3), completed 21 of 32 passes for 303 yards and three touchdowns in the season opener. Became the second quarterback in UK history with 300-yard passing games in consecutive season openers.
- At Florida (9/10), helped lead a come-from-behind 26-16 victory after completing 13 of 24 passes for 202 yards and one touchdown, while also rushing for a score.
- Against Youngstown State (9/17), completed 27 of 35 passes for a season-high 377 yards with two touchdowns and a rushing score.
- Against Northern Illinois (9/24), connected on 18 of 26 passes for 303 yards and four touchdowns. Became the first Kentucky quarterback with at least three passing touchdowns of 40 or more yards in the same game since 2016.
- At Missouri (11/5), completed 13 of 19 passes for 170 yards and all three Kentucky touchdowns in the Wildcats' 21-17 come-from-behind win. Trailing 17-14 with 8:04 to go, he led Kentucky on a 58-yard game-winning touchdown drive. Completed all three passes for 51 yards on the winning march, including the 22-yard touchdown on a 3rd-and-11 play.
- Against Louisville (11/26), completed 11 of his 19 passes for 188 yards and two touchdowns in the win, becoming the third UK starting quarterback to defeat Louisville in back-to-back games.

AS A JUNIOR (2021), transferred from Penn State to Kentucky and was elected a team captain for his initial campaign with the Wildcats. Started in all 13 games and helped lead UK to 10 wins for the fourth time in school history. Totaled 3,203 yards total offense, the seventh player in school history to reach 3,000 yards of total offense in a season. Completed 233 of 353 passes for 2,826 yards and 24 passing scores. Registered 107 rushes for 376 yards and a team-high tying nine rushing touchdowns. Ranked in the top 10 in several statistical categories in the SEC, including fourth in offense touchdowns (33), fifth in pass completions (233) and sixth in total offensive yards (3,203), total passing yards (2,827), pass attempts (353) and passing touchdowns (24).

- Registered two games (against Louisiana State and Tennessee) with three passing touchdowns and two rushing touchdowns in the same game, the only Wildcat ever to do so.
- Against Louisiana-Monroe (9/4), completed 18 of 26 passes for 367 yards and four touchdowns in the season opener, notching career-highs for completions, yards and touchdowns, in his first career start at Kentucky. Marked the most passing yards for a Kentucky player in his first game as a Wildcat.
- Against Louisiana State (10/9), named the FBS National Offensive Player of the Week by the Walter Camp Football Foundation, selected to the Davey O'Brien Award's Great 8 list and earned College Football Performance Awards National Performer of the Week honorable mention after accounting for Kentucky's first five touchdowns in the Wildcats' 42-21 win over the Tigers. Connected on 14 of 17 passes (82.4 percent) for 145 yards with three touchdowns. Rushed 11 times for a net 75 yards and two scores.
- Against Tennessee (11/6), accounted for 419 yards total offense and five touchdowns. Completed 31 of 49 passes for a then career-high 372 yards and three touchdowns. Rushed 15 times for a net 47 yards and two scores.

- Against New Mexico State (11/20), completed 21 of 31 passes for a career-high 419 yards and a career-high-tying four passing touchdowns. His 79-yard pass to Wan'Dale Robinson marked the longest completion of his career and longest for UK since 2014.
- At Louisville (11/27), received The Manning Award Quarterback of the Week, the Howard Schnellenberger Award as the Most Valuable Player of the Governor's Cup game and was named College Football Performance Awards National Performer of the Week honorable mention for the second time after completing 14 of 18 passes for 149 yards and rushing 14 times for a career-high 113 yards with a career-best four rushing scores.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2020), played in eight games with one start at quarterback for Penn State and connected on 33 of 55 passes for 421 yards with a score. Rushed 82 times for 260 yards with three touchdowns.

21 ROGER McCREARY

CORNERBACK • 5'11" • 190 LBS • COLLEGE: AUBURN
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2022 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: MOBILE, ALA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 20/18 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Roger McCreary in the second round (35th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11-inch, 190-pounder is a physical, athletic cornerback that is known for always being around the ball. As a rookie in 2022, McCreary was one of three players on the team to start all 17 games, and he became the first Titans rookie cornerback since 2017 to start every game. He finished third on the Titans defense with 85 tackles, ranked second with eight passes defended, and added one interception, two tackles for loss and one quarterback pressure. The Mobile, Ala., native was a two-year starter at Auburn and notched an impressive 22 passes defended, including four interceptions, during his final two collegiate campaigns.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, McCreary was one of only three rookie cornerbacks in the NFL to start all 17 games. He finished third on the team with 85 tackles, and ranked second on the squad with eight passes defended, which included an interception.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- McCreary's pregame ritual in college was eating two plates of baked beans with sugar the night before a game. The tradition started when he got to Auburn and he says Bush's baked beans are his favorite.
- His uncle, Angelo James, was a defensive back for the Philadelphia Eagles.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Mobile, Ala., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (35th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/1): Has tied for the team lead in sacks once in 2023 (at CLE).

- At New Orleans (9/10), saw significant action as a reserve at cornerback.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), started at cornerback and collected six tackles, including a stop for loss. Teamed with Azeez Al-Shaair to stuff Joshua Kelley for a two-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the opening stanza.
- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at cornerback and finished second on the team with 10 tackles, including his first career sack and two quarterback pressures. Combined with Azeez Al-Shaair to stonewall Jerome Ford for no gain on a rush off left guard in the opening stanza. Posted his first career sack by dropping Deshaun Watson for an eight-yard loss in the third stanza.

2022 (17/17): Started all 17 games at cornerback as a rookie and ranked third on the team with 85 tackles. Finished second on the squad with eight passes defended. Registered an interception, two stops for loss and a quarterback pressure. Was one of three players on the team to start all 17 games, and he became the first Titans rookie cornerback since 2017 to start every game. Led or tied for the team lead in tackles three times in 2022 (at BUF, vs. LV, at IND). Led or tied for the team lead in passes defended three times in 2022 (vs. LV, at LAC, at JAX).

- Against N.Y. Giants (9/11), made his NFL debut as a starter at cornerback and posted two tackles.
- At Buffalo (9/19), started at cornerback and led the team with a career-best 11 tackles. Stuffed Zach Moss for no gain on a rush off right end in the opening stanza.

- Against Las Vegas (9/25), started at cornerback and led the team with 10 tackles to go along with his first career pass defended. Defended a pass intended for Keelan Cole in the end zone on third-and-10 late in the fourth quarter.
- At Indianapolis (10/2), tied for the team lead with seven tackles, including a stop for loss. Teamed with Kevin Byard to stop Parris Campbell for a two-yard loss on a short pass in the third quarter. Stuffed Nyheim Hines for a three-yard loss on a short pass in the final stanza.
- At Kansas City (11/6), produced eight tackles and collected his first career interception. Teamed with Jeffery Simmons to stuff Clyde Edwards-Helaire for no gain on a rush off right tackle late in the first quarter. Notched his first career interception by picking off a Patrick Mahomes pass intended for Travis Kelce in the third quarter.
- At Green Bay (11/17), registered six tackles, including a stop for loss. Combined with Sam Okuyinonu to stuff Aaron Jones for a four-yard loss on a rush off right end in the third quarter.
- Against Cincinnati (11/27), collected two tackles with a pass defended. Halted a Bengals' drive by breaking up a third-and-six pass intended for Hayden Hurst in the second stanza.
- At L.A. Chargers (12/18), recorded three tackles and a team-high two passes defended. Ended a potential Chargers' scoring drive by catching a Justin Herbert pass and lateraling it to Joshua Kalu before landing out of bounds which resulted in an interception in the end zone right before halftime. Forced a Chargers' punt by breaking up a third-and-eight pass intended for Mike Williams in the third quarter.
- At Jacksonville (1/7), totaled a tackle and a pass defended. Forced the Jaguars to settle for a field goal by breaking up a third-and-three pass intended for Christian Kirk in the end zone on the first play of the fourth quarter.

24 ELIJAH MOLDEN

CORNERBACK • 5'10" • 192 LBS • COLLEGE: WASHINGTON
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2021
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3 • HOMETOWN: WEST LINN, ORE.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 21/9 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans selected Elijah Molden in the third round (100th overall) of the 2021 NFL Draft. As a rookie, he appeared in 16 games with seven starts in the nickel defense. He was limited to two games because of injury in 2022. The 5-foot-10 inch, 192-pounder is a savvy and physical defender capable of playing multiple spots on defense. An instinctive player with a nose for the football, he totaled 153 tackles, five interceptions, 25 passes defended, four forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries in 44 games at the University of Washington.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- As a rookie in 2021, Molden ranked fifth on the team and first among Titans rookies with 60 tackles and registered one interception for a touchdown. He was one of six NFL rookie defensive backs with at least 60 tackles and one interception.
- In 2020, Washington's football season was limited to four games due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Molden started all four contests and finished third on the squad with 26 tackles to go with one interception and two passes defended.
- In June 2021, Molden was named by the Pac-12 as a Tom Hansen Conference Medal recipient. The prestigious honor is awarded annually to each Pac-12 member institution's outstanding senior male and female student-athlete based on the combination of performance and achievement in scholarship, athletics and leadership. This followed Molden winning the Washington football team's Guy Flaherty Award, which is given to the team's most inspirational player as voted by the players.
- In 2019, Molden set career highs with a team-high 79 tackles, four interceptions and three forced fumbles.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Molden comes from a football family. His father, Alex Molden, was inducted to the University of Oregon Hall of Fame and was an eight-year NFL cornerback with the Saints, Chargers and Lions after being selected by the Saints with the 11th overall draft pick in 1996. Elijah's older brother, Isaiah, played defensive line at Western Oregon.
- Molden is the second-oldest of eight children in his family. He has four brothers and three sisters.
- He is an avid reader and lists "Shoe Dog" by Phil Knight, "Tattoos on the Heart" by Greg Boyle, and "The Alchemist" by Paulo Coelho as three of his favorite books. He prefers hard copies of books as opposed to digital versions so that he can make notes and keep them in the books.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The West Linn, Ore., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (100th overall) of the 2021 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/1):

- At New Orleans (9/10), played as a reserve at defensive back and tied for the team lead with eight tackles to go along with a pass defended. Defended a deep pass intended for Chris Olave on third-and-nine in the fourth quarter.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), made his first career start as a safety and collected four tackles. Registered a special teams tackle on coverage units.
- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at safety and tallied four tackles, including a stop for loss. Teamed with Kristian Fulton to stuff Deshaun Watson for no gain on a rush off left end in the first quarter.

2022 (2/1): Saw action in two games with a start at cornerback and registered five tackles, a quarterback pressure and a stop for loss. Was inactive for two contests. Placed on injured reserve on Sept. 9, 2022 and missed the first eight games before being designated to return on Nov. 12, 2022. Placed on injured reserve on Dec. 7 and missed the final five contests.

- Against Denver (11/13), made his season debut as a starter at cornerback and posted three tackles, including a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure.
- Against Cincinnati (11/27), played as a reserve at cornerback and collected two tackles.

2021 (16/7, 1/1): Saw action in 16 games with seven starts at cornerback and registered 60 tackles, including three stops for loss, six quarterback pressures, an interception returned for a touchdown, four passes defended, a forced fumble, a fumble recovery and two special teams tackles. Missed one contest on the reserve/COVID-19 list. Started the postseason contest and collected two tackles. Tied for the team lead in tackles once in 2021 (vs. KC). Led the team in quarterback pressures twice (vs. HOU, at PIT). Tied for the team lead in passes defended once (vs. HOU). Tied for the team lead in special teams tackles once (vs. BUF). Made his NFL debut against Arizona (9/12/21). Made his first career start against Buffalo (10/18/21).

- Against Arizona (9/12), saw action in his first NFL contest as a reserve at nickelback and collected two tackles.
- At Seattle (9/19), played as a reserve at cornerback and posted two tackles. Teamed with Rashaan Evans to stuff Chris Carson for no gain on a rush off right end in the first quarter.
- At Jacksonville (10/10), saw action as a reserve at cornerback and compiled three tackles and a forced fumble. Forced a Dan Arnold fumble that was recovered by Kevin Byard and returned 30 yards for a touchdown early in the first quarter.
- Against Buffalo (10/18), made his first career start at cornerback and notched eight tackles, including a stop for loss. Registered a special teams tackle on coverage units. Stuffed Zack Moss for a three-yard loss on a rush off left end in the first quarter.
- Against Kansas City (10/24), started at cornerback and tied for the team lead with eight tackles.
- At Indianapolis (10/31), started at cornerback and posted two tackles and two passes defended, including an interception return for a touchdown. Broke up a pass intended for Nyheim Hines in the fourth quarter. Gave the Titans a 31-24 lead with two-yard interception return for a touchdown off of Carson Wentz late in the fourth quarter.
- Against Houston (11/21), saw action as a reserve at cornerback and totaled six tackles, a team-best two quarterback pressures and a pass defended. Ended a Texans' drive by breaking up a third-and-nine pass intended for Brevin Jordan along the sideline in the third quarter. Combined with Jayon Brown to stop Rex Burkhead for a two-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the third stanza.
- At Pittsburgh (12/19), saw significant action as a reserve at cornerback and notched four tackles, including a stop for loss and a team-high three quarterback pressures. Stonewalled Najee Harris for a five-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the final stanza.
- Against San Francisco (12/23), missed the game on the reserve/COVID-19 list.
- Against Miami (1/2), started at cornerback and notched a tackle, a pass defended and his first career fumble recovery. Recovered a Tua Tagovailoa fumble at the Dolphins' 14-yard line in the first quarter. Deflected a pass intended for DeVante Parker in the second quarter.
- Against Cincinnati (1/22), started at nickelback in his postseason debut and registered two tackles.

COLLEGE:

- In four seasons at the University of Washington, Molden appeared in 44 games with 20 starts. His totals included 153 tackles, seven tackles for loss, five interceptions, 25 passes defended, four forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. He earned first team All-Pac-12 honors on defense as a junior and senior and was named second team All-Pac-12 as an all-purpose/special teams player as a sophomore.
- As a senior (2020), started all four of the team's games in a shortened season due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Ranked third on the squad with 26 tackles and added one interception and two passes defended. Earned first team All-Pac-12 honors for the second consecutive season. Named the university's male recipient of the Pac-12's Tom Hansen Conference Medal as well as the football team's defensive MVP and Guy Flaherty Award recipient as the team's most inspirational player. 11 CHRIS MOORE

WIDE RECEIVER • 6'1" • 200 LBS • COLLEGE: CINCINNATI
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT - 2023 (HOU)
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/1 • HOMETOWN: TAMPA, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 92/13 (PLAYOFFS: 3/0)

PRO: The Titans signed free agent Chris Moore during the 2023 offseason to add experience and depth to the wide receiving corps. The 6-foot-1-inch, 200-pounder entered the NFL as a fourth-round draft pick of the Baltimore Ravens in 2016 and spent his first five seasons with the club amassing 47 receptions for 511 yards with four touchdowns. The University of Cincinnati product joined the Houston Texans as a free agent in 2021 and notched 69 catches for 775 yards with four receiving scores in two campaigns (2021-22). The Tampa, Fla., native has also excelled on special teams during his career having posted 21 career tackles and returned 46 kickoffs for 1,080 yards.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Moore enjoyed one of his most successful seasons tallying career highs with 48 receptions and 548 receiving yards to go along with two receiving scores for the Texans.
- In his first season with the Texans in 2021, Moore registered a then career-high 21 catches for 227 receiving yards with two touchdowns.
- In 2018, Moore served as a key contributor on the Ravens' special teams, registering 22 kickoff returns for 491 yards. He also recorded a then career-high 19 catches for 196 yards and a score, helping Baltimore produce a then-single-season team-record 5,999 total net yards.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Moore has eight career receiving touchdowns during his NFL career, but he has also found the end zone in some unique ways. He has scored two touchdowns on the punt coverage unit, returning a blocked punt for a score and recovering a muffed punt snap in the end zone for a touchdown, both in 2016. He also recovered a teammate's fumble in the end zone for a touchdown in 2017.
- Moore owns an impressive sneaker collection. His favorites are the Jordan Playoff 12s. He has three pairs - a golfing pair, a lawn work pair and a pair to go out in.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Tampa, Fla., native was originally selected by the Baltimore Ravens in the fourth round (107th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.
- Signed by the Ravens as an unrestricted free agent on March 24, 2020.
- Signed by the Houston Texans as an unrestricted free agent on March 24, 2021.
- Released by the Texans on Aug. 31, 2021 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
- Activated from the Texans' practice squad to the active roster standard elevation on Sept. 23, 2021.
- Activated from the Texans' practice squad to the active roster standard elevation on Oct. 9, 2021.
- Signed by the Texans to their active roster from the practice squad on Oct. 12, 2021.
- Signed by the Texans as an unrestricted free agent on March 24, 2022.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on April 19, 2023.

HOMETOWN: DOWAGIAC, MICH.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 0/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Caleb Murphy as a rookie free agent after the 2023 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-3-inch, 254-pounder made the 53-man roster out of training camp and possesses a strong pass-rushing ability, setting the NCAA single-season record with 25.5 sacks his senior season. The Dowagiac, Mich., native played three seasons (2020-22) at Ferris State and tallied 156 tackles, 40 sacks, 60.5 tackles for loss and eight forced fumbles. Following the 2019 season, he transferred to Ferris State from Grand Valley State where he played in eight games, recording 13 tackles and one sack.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Murphy set an NCAA single-season record with 25.5 sacks his senior year. He also tied the NCAA record with 39 tackles for loss.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Murphy became the first DII player ever to win the Ted Hendricks Award, given to the nation's top defensive end.
- Murphy was a two-time National Champion with the Ferris State Bulldogs.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Dowagiac, Mich., native was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 12, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

- At Cleveland (9/24), was inactive.

COLLEGE:

- Murphy played in 29 games over three seasons at Ferris State and tallied 156 tackles, 40 sacks, 60.5 tackles for loss and eight forced fumbles. Following the 2019 season, he transferred to Ferris State from Grand Valley State where he played in eight games, recording 13 tackles and one sack.
- As a senior (2022), started in 15 games at Ferris State and recorded 93 tackles, 25.5 sacks, 39 tackles for loss and three forced fumbles. His 25.5 sacks set an NCAA single-season record. He also tied the NCAA record with 39 tackles for loss while helping Ferris State to repeat as DII national champions. He became the first DII player ever to win the Ted Hendricks Award, given to the nation's top defensive end. Murphy was named GLIAC Player of the Year, won the Gene Upshaw Award, given to the best DII lineman and received the Cliff Harris award as the nation's small college defensive player of the year.
- As a junior (2021), appeared in 14 games and recorded 63 tackles, 14.5 sacks, 21.5 tackles for loss, five forced fumbles and one interception while helping lead his team to the DII championship. He was named the GLIAC Defensive Lineman of the Year.
- As a sophomore (2020), his season was cancelled due to COVID-19. Transferred to Ferris State from Grand Valley State following the 2019 season.
- As a redshirt freshman (2019), appeared in eight games recording 13 tackles and one sack for Grand Valley State.
- Redshirted in 2018.
- Graduated with a degree in criminal justice from Ferris State in December of 2022.

O SEAN MURPHY-BUNTING

CORNERBACK • 6'0" • 195 LBS • COLLEGE: CENTRAL MICHIGAN ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT - 2023 (TB)
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/1 • HOMETOWN: MACOMB, MICH.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 56/39 (PLAYOFFS: 6/5)

Super Bowl: 2020

PRO: The Titans entered the 2023 offseason looking to add an experienced piece to their secondary. The club found just that when it signed Super Bowl Champion Sean Murphy-Bunting as an unrestricted free agent on March 21, 2023. The 6-foot, 195-pounder arrived in Tennessee having collected nine total interceptions, including three in the postseason, and 21 passes defended in four seasons (2019-22) with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Murphy-Bunting originally entered the league as a second-round pick of the Buccaneers out of Central Michigan.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2020, Murphy-Bunting won Super Bowl LV after starting all four postseason contests and collecting 19 tackles and a team-high three interceptions. He also set a career-high with 66 tackles in the regular season.
- Murphy-Bunting recorded an interception in each of his first three career playoff contests, joining Hall of Famers Aeneas Williams (four-consecutive games) and Ed Reed, as well as Jason Sehorn as the only four players in the Super Bowl era with an interception in each of their first three career postseason games.
- In 2019, Murphy-Bunting was selected to the PFWA All-Rookie team after tying for the lead among NFL rookies with three interceptions.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- In 2022, Murphy-Bunting hosted his SMB Champ Camp back home at Chippewa Valley High School. When greeting campers at midfield, Scott Merchant, the head coach at Chippewa Valley, surprised him by retiring his No. 1 jersey. It was the first number to be retired in the school's history.
- Murphy-Bunting attended Central Michigan on a grayshirt offer after receiving zero Division I offers. He made that offer pay off by shining on the field and being named All-Mid-American Conference first team and Central Michigan's Defensive Player of the Year in 2018.
- Murphy-Bunting teamed up with his mother, Kim Murphy, to found Successful Jocks, a non-profit organization dedicated to making a difference in the lives of student-athletes. In 2020, the organization donated $20,000 in scholarships to two recipients in Michigan and two in the Tampa area. Murphy-Bunting also pledged to donate money back to Successful Jocks for every interception and pass deflection during the 2020 season, and the Buccaneers matched his donation.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Macomb, Mich., native was selected by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the second round (39th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.
- Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 21, 2023.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3 - Tennessee): Leads the team with three passes defended. Has led the team in passes defended once in 2023 (vs. LAC). Posted a career-high three passes defended against the L.A. Chargers (9/17/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at cornerback and notched six tackles and a forced fumble in his Titans debut. Forced a Jamaal Williams fumble that was recovered by the running back late in the fourth quarter.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), started at cornerback and collected five tackles. Led the team with a career-best three passes defended. Broke up a pass intended for Keenan Allen in the end zone in the first quarter. Defended a pass intended for Mike Williams in the fourth stanza. Batted down a pass intended for Mike Williams on the first play of overtime.
- At Cleveland (9/24), tallied six tackles, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery. Forced an Elijah Moore fumble, recovered it and returned it five yards to the Browns' 17-yard line late in the first quarter.

2022 (12/5, 1/1 - Tampa Bay): Saw action in 12 games with five starts at cornerback and posted 27 tackles, two interceptions, a forced fumble and seven passes defended. Was inactive for five contests. Started the postseason contest and recorded six tackles.

- Against Kansas City (10/2), intercepted a Patrick Mahomes pass intended for JuJu Smith-Schuster and returned it 33 yards in the fourth quarter.
- Against L.A. Rams (11/6), produced a season-high six tackles, including a stop for loss.
- Against Carolina (1/1), posted three tackles and intercepted a Sam Darnold pass in the third stanza.
- Against Dallas (1/16), tied a career-best with six tackles in the Wild Card matchup.

2021 (9/8, 1/0 - Tampa Bay): Played in nine games with eight starts at cornerback and notched 42 tackles, three passes defended and a forced fumble. Placed on injured reserve on Sept. 13 and missed eight games before being designated to return on Nov. 22. Played as a reserve in a Divisional postseason contest and posted four tackles and a fumble recovery. Was inactive for the Wild Card round.

- Against N.Y. Giants (11/22), returned to the lineup and registered seven tackles and a forced fumble.
- At Indianapolis (11/28), notched five tackles and two passes defended.
- Against Buffalo (12/12), tallied eight tackles in overtime win.
- Against L.A. Rams (1/23), returned to action in Divisional Round matchup, notching four tackles and recovering a fumble to help set up a Buccaneers' touchdown.

2020 (16/13, 4/4 - Tampa Bay): Saw action in all 16 games with 13 starts at cornerback and recorded 66 tackles, three passes defended, an interception, three stops for loss, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery. Started his first four postseason contests and notched 19 tackles, a team-best three interceptions, a stop for loss and five passes defended.

- Against Green Bay (10/18), recorded four tackles and a quarterback hit. Was a part of a defense that limited the Packers to just 201 net yards, the fewest allowed by a Buccaneers defense since 2010. Aaron Rodgers posted a quarterback rating of 35.4, the third-lowest single-game mark of his career.
- At N.Y. Giants (11/2), posted his first interception of the season, intercepting a pass from Daniel Jones to help set up a Buccaneers' scoring drive. Also had four tackles and two special teams tackles on Monday Night Football.
- Against L.A. Rams (11/23), tallied a career-high 10 tackles, including a career-best two for loss.
- Against Atlanta (1/3), in the fourth quarter, forced a Calvin Ridley fumble and recovered it, helping set up a Buccaneers' touchdown. Also added six tackles and a pass defended.
- At Washington (1/9), recorded two tackles and intercepted a pass that was deflected by Kevin Minter, helping set up a Buccaneers' touchdown drive in the Wild Card matchup.
- At New Orleans (1/17), intercepted a pass from Drew Brees in the second quarter, returning it to the New Orleans' three-yard line, helping set up Tampa Bay's first touchdown of the day. Finished Divisional playoff game with five tackles, including a stop for loss and two passes defended. Joined Ronde Barber as the only players in Bucs franchise history to record postseason interceptions in consecutive contests.
- At Green Bay (1/24/21), intercepted a pass from Aaron Rodgers with 34 seconds remaining in the first half, helping set up Tom Brady's touchdown pass to Scotty Miller. Finished the NFC Championship Game with six tackles.

- Against Kansas City in Super Bowl LV (2/7), recorded six tackles and one pass defended. Part of a defense that forced Patrick Mahomes into a 52.3 passer rating - the lowest of any game in his career (regular season or postseason) - while holding the Chiefs to just nine points.

2019 (16/10 - Tampa Bay): Named to the Pro Football Writers of America All-Rookie team. Played in all 16 games with 10 starts as a rookie and recorded 43 tackles, including a stop for loss, a sack, a team-leading three interceptions (one returned for touchdown), eight passes defended and a forced fumble. Also added a tackle on special teams. His three interceptions tied for the most among NFL rookies.

67 XAVIER NEWMAN

CENTER/GUARD • 6'2" • 297 LBS • COLLEGE: BAYLOR
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2022 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 1/1
HOMETOWN: DESOTO, TEXAS
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 3/1 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed offensive lineman Xavier Newman as an undrafted free agent following the 2022 NFL Draft. He spent the majority of his rookie campaign on the practice squad and appeared in one game as a reserve. The 6-foot-2-inch, 297-pounder appeared in 47 games with 37 starts over five seasons at Baylor (2017-21). The Desoto, Texas, native possesses versatility, having made 28 starts at left guard, eight at right guard, and one contest at center. Newman earned Big 12 honorable mention recognition as a senior.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- While at Baylor, Newman served on mission trips to Puerto Rico (May 2018), and South Africa (May 2019). "Those two mission trips to Puerto Rico and South Africa changed my life," Newman said. "Those were the first times for me to be out of the country. Knowing we have it real good here compared to other people in other countries, it doesn't faze them that they don't have as much. We take for granted what we have, so that was a real big eye opener for me."
- A versatile lineman, Newman played left guard, center, and right guard while in college. "Honestly for me, it's really not that hard," Newman said. "I just take the approach to learn all three positions from the beginning, no matter what spot I'm at. Once the coaches tell me 'Hey I need you to go there,' I'm like 'I got you coach, it's cool.' I've already taken the time out to learn all three different positions."
- In the future, Newman wants to coach high school football in his home state of Texas and impact younger players the way past coaches have impacted him.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Desoto, Texas, native originally signed with the Titans as a rookie free agent following the 2022 NFL Draft.
- Waived by the Titans on Aug. 30, 2022 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.

- At New Orleans (9/10), dressed but did not see action.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), made his first career start at left guard.
- At Cleveland (9/24), saw limited action as a reserve on special teams.

2022 (1/0): Saw action as a reserve in one contest as a rookie. Did not play in two games. Spent the first 14 games on the Titans' practice squad.

- Against Houston (12/24), dressed but did not play.
- Against Dallas (12/29), made his NFL debut as a reserve at guard late in the fourth quarter.
- At Jacksonville (1/7), dressed but did not play.

COLLEGE:

- Appeared in 47 games with 37 starts over five seasons at Baylor (2017-21) and made 28 starts at left guard, eight at right guard, and started one contest at center.
- As a graduate (2021), started all 14 games at left guard and helped pave the way for Baylor to average 219.3 rushing yards per game, ranking 10th nationally. Earned Big 12 honorable mention recognition.
- As a senior (2020), played in five games with four starts. Made three starts at left guard and one start at center.

- As a junior (2019), saw action in 10 games and made eight starts at right guard.
- As a sophomore (2018), appeared in seven games with three starts at left guard.
- As a freshman (2017), played in 11 games with eight starts at left guard.
- Graduated from Baylor in May 2021 with a degree in health, kinesiology and leisure studies.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Desoto (Texas) High School where he earned first team Class 6A all-state recognition as a senior after leading his team to a 16-0 record and a DII state championship.
- Ranked as the No. 37 prospect by ESPN, No. 49 by 247Sports, and No. 64 by Scout prospect in the state of Texas.
- Son of Michelle and Leon Brigham and the late Roderick Newman.
- Follow Newman on Twitter at @xaviernewman55 and on Instagram at @xaviernewman_.

85 CHIG OKONKWO

TIGHT END • 6'3" • 238 LBS • COLLEGE: MARYLAND
ACQUIRED: 4TH ROUND - 2022 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: POWDER SPRINGS, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 20/11 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Chig Okonkwo ("CHIGG oh-KAHN-kwoh") in the fourth round (143rd overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft to bring both receiving athleticism and blocking ability to the tight ends unit. During his rookie season, the 6-foot-3-inch, 238-pounder appeared in all 17 games with eight starts and totaled 32 receptions for 450 yards and three touchdowns. His yardage total ranked second on the team and established a new record for franchise rookie tight ends. He was named to the Pro Football Writers of America All-Rookie team. The Powder Springs, Ga., native appeared in 37 games with 20 starts over four seasons (2018-21) at Maryland and caught 77 passes for 717 yards and eight touchdowns. Okonkwo also added three carries for 72 yards and three touchdowns, including a career-long rush of 54 yards.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- As a rookie in 2022, Okonkwo was named to the Pro Football Writers of America All-Rookie team. He saw action in all 17 games and totaled 32 receptions for 450 yards with three touchdowns. His yardage total ranked second on the team and established a new record for franchise rookie tight ends.
- In 2021, Okonkwo's 52 receptions ranked second-most by a tight end in a single season in Maryland history, behind only Frank Wycheck (58; 1990). Okonkwo's 447 receiving yards were the most by a Terps tight end since Vernon Davis (871; 2005).

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Okonkwo's father, Charlton, passed away of a heart attack when Okonkwo was 15. According to his mother, Isioma, who emigrated from Nigeria, "In our culture, the boys, even if they're young or not, they're always considered more important. When my husband passed, the people who came let him know that he's the man and now he has the responsibility to take care of his mom and his sisters." According to Okonkwo, "In our culture, [being] the man in the house is a really big deal. As the only male, I was the one giving my mom support."
- Okonkwo sat out the 2020 season with myocarditis due to COVID.
- Okonkwo is a cat lover and has a feline named Sage.
- Okonkwo and his two sisters played tennis growing up at the encouragement of their father. Okonkwo played from the time he was five or six until he was 12.
- He was a member of the Big Ten's Anti-Hate and Anti-Racism Coalition.
- In his free time, Okonkwo enjoys watching anime.

75 DILLON RADUNZ

OFFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'6" • 301 LBS • COLLEGE: NORTH DAKOTA STATE
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2021 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3
HOMETOWN: BECKER, MINN.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 25/6 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans used their second-round selection in the 2021 NFL Draft on offensive lineman Dillon Radunz (pronounced "RAY-dinz"), who brings athleticism and versatility to the position group. During his first two seasons, the 6-foot-6-inch, 301-pounder appeared in 23 games with five starts. A native of Becker, Minn., Radunz declared for the NFL Draft after North Dakota State's lone fall game his senior season, choosing to forego the Bisons' spring football schedule. He started 32 collegiate games at NDSU and was a member of four Missouri Valley Football Conference championship teams and three NCAA Division I football national championships.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Radunz set a career high with four starts, including two starts at right guard and two starts at left guard.
- In 2021, Radunz logged his first career NFL start at left tackle on Thursday Night Football against San Francisco (12/23).

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Radunz has a long history with the jersey number 75. At Becker (Minn.) High School, No. 75 was passed down from the previous player of the year to him. After he won the player of the year award, he passed it on to the next winner. Then he was issued the number at North Dakota State and later passed it on to his younger brother, Nick.
- The community fellowship program Alcoholics Anonymous has a special place in Radunz's life due to his father's struggles with alcoholism. His father, Jeff, passed away at the age of 45 in an alcohol-related incident when Dillon was 12.
- During the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020-21, Radunz took up golfing and went hog hunting for the first time in Oklahoma. He is also trying to learn how to play the guitar.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Becker, Minn., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (53rd overall) of the 2021 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (2/1):

- At New Orleans (9/10), was inactive.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), returned to the lineup and saw significant action as a reserve at left guard and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for a unit that amassed 341 total yards, including 141 yards on the ground.
- At Cleveland (9/24), started at left guard.

2022 (11/4): Saw action in 11 games with four starts, two at left guard and two at right guard. Also saw action as a reserve at left tackle. Did not play in three games. Placed on injured reserve on Dec. 21 and missed the final three contests.

- At Washington (10/9), made his first start of the season at right guard and helped create running lanes for Derrick Henry to post 102 yards on the ground with two rushing scores.
- Against Indianapolis (10/23), started at right guard and blocked for Derrick Henry to collect 128 yards on the ground.
- At Green Bay (11/17), made his first career start at left guard and blocked for an offense that amassed 408 total yards with four touchdowns.
- Against Cincinnati (11/27), started at left guard.
- At Philadelphia (12/4), played as a reserve at right guard late in the fourth quarter.

- At L.A. Chargers (12/18), played as a reserve at left tackle before leaving the game in the second quarter with an injury.

2021 (12/1, 0/0): Played in 12 games with one start at left tackle during his rookie campaign. Was inactive for five regular season games and the postseason contest. Made his NFL debut at Seattle (9/19/21). Made his first career NFL start against San Francisco (12/23/21).

- At Seattle (9/19), saw action in his first NFL contest on special teams.
- Against Kansas City (10/24), saw significant action at left guard after Rodger Saffold III left the game with an injury. Played limited snaps at right guard after Nate Davis left the game briefly with an injury. Helped block for an offense that registered 369 total yards while only allowing one sack on 28 pass attempts.
- At Indianapolis (10/31), entered the game at right guard late in the third quarter after Nate Davis left with an injury.
- At L.A. Rams (11/7), saw action on special teams and as an extra tight end in jumbo sets.
- At New England (11/28), played as a reserve at left guard for the final series.
- Against San Francisco (12/23), made his first career NFL start at left tackle. Helped the Titans convert a season-high nine third downs on 16 attempts in the game, while scoring on four of its five possessions in the second half.
- Against Miami (1/2), played as a reserve at left guard late in the fourth quarter.

COLLEGE:

- Played parts of four seasons at North Dakota State and saw action in 33 career games with 32 starts. Was a member of four Missouri Valley Football Conference championship teams and three NCAA Division I football national championships. Selected as a two-time FCS All-American and 2019 consensus first-team pick.
- As a senior (2020), made his 32nd consecutive and final start at left tackle for the Bison in the Oct. 3 season opener. Participated in the 2021 Reese's Senior Bowl.
- As a junior (2019), was a consensus first team All-American by the Associated Press, AFCA, STATS, HERO Sports, FCS Athletic Directors Association, Walter Camp Football Foundation, Phil Steele and Athlon Sports. Named All-Missouri Valley Football Conference first team after starting all 16 games at left tackle. NDSU rushed for a school-record 4,601 yards and ranked fourth in the FCS with 287.6 rushing yards per game.
- As a sophomore (2018), named All-Missouri Valley Football Conference second team after starting all 15 games at left tackle. Selected HERO Sports FCS sophomore All-American.
- As a redshirt freshman (2017), suffered a season-ending injury in the season opener.
- As a true freshman (2016), redshirted.
- Graduated in December 2020 with a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering and management from North Dakota State.

PERSONAL:

- Married to Abbi.
- Attended Becker (Minn.) High School and was a two-year starting left tackle for the back-to-back Minnesota Class 4A state champions in 2014 and 2015. His team went 25-1 over the two title-winning seasons.
- As a senior (2015), was a Top 10 finalist for Mr. Football in Minnesota while helping pave the way for a team that rushed for 3,091 yards and passed for 2,251 yards with 77 touchdowns.

- In 2015, was a team captain and district MVP who earned all-state recognition from the Associated Press, KARE-11 TV and Minnesota Vikings along with all-conference and all-metro honors.
- As a defensive lineman, finished his high school career with 99 solo tackles and 64 assisted tackles, including 14 quarterback sacks.
- Was named all-conference in basketball, where he was a three-year starter.
- Also competed in track and field and was a sixth-place finisher in the shot put at the 2015 Class 2A state meet.
- Has an older sister, Danielle, and a younger brother, Nick, who is an offensive lineman who joined the North Dakota State football program in spring 2020.
- Last name is pronounced RAY-dinz.
- Follow Radunz on Twitter at @DillonRadunz.

56 MONTY RICE

LINEBACKER • 6'0" • 233 LBS • COLLEGE: GEORGIA

ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2021

NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3 • HOMETOWN: HUNTSVILLE, ALA.

GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 26/10 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Monty Rice in the third round of the 2021 NFL Draft. In his first two NFL seasons, he saw action in 23 games with 10 starts at inside linebacker. The 6-foot, 233-pound defender possesses excellent speed, physicality and the instincts required to run and cover successfully at the linebacking position. The Huntsville, Ala., native appeared in 47 games with 28 starts during a four-year career (2017-20) at Georgia, where he tallied 219 tackles, 10.5 tackles for loss, two sacks, 21 quarterback pressures, five passes defended, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery returned for a touchdown. As a senior in 2020, Rice was a finalist for the Butkus Award and earned Associated Press All-SEC first-team honors.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Rice returned from an injury that ended his rookie campaign and played in 13 games with six starts. He ranked fourth on the team with 63 total tackles.
- Rice appeared in 10 games with four starts as a rookie in 2021, registering 30 tackles, one pass defended and six tackles on special teams.
- In his final season at Georgia in 2020, he was named a finalist for the Butkus Award, which recognizes the nation's best linebacker, after amassing 49 tackles, four tackles for loss, one sack, one pass defended, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery returned for a score.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- A Huntsville, Ala., native, Rice grew up about two hours outside of Nashville. As a child, Rice attended about 10 Titans games, including the memorable Titans-Cardinals game on Nov. 29, 2009 (Titans 20, Cardinals 17). His favorite Titans players were Chris Johnson, Keith Bulluck and Kyle Vanden Bosch.
- Rice has a tattoo on his right forearm of his cousin's name, Haraesheo Rice. Haraesheo, who suffered from mental illness, was shot and killed by police in Huntsville in September 2017. 'I think about my cousin a lot. I know he's looking down on me smiling, watching what I'm doing,' Rice said. 'We used to live together. We were real close.'
- He has a black lab named Shadow.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Huntsville, Ala., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (92nd overall) of the 2021 NFL Draft.

DEFENSIVE TACKLE • 6'4" • 305 LBS

COLLEGE: MISSISSIPPI STATE • ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2019

NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/5 • HOMETOWN: MACON, MISS.

GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 59/57 (PLAYOFFS: 5/2)

Captain: 2021, 2022, 2023

Pro Bowl: 2021, 2022

PRO: The Titans selected Jeffery Simmons with the 19th overall pick in the 2019 NFL Draft. By the end of his fourth season, he was a two-time team captain, a two-time Pro Bowl selection and a two-time second-team All-Pro honoree. From 2019 to 2022, he appeared in 56 total games with 54 starts, and his 21 sacks ranked second on the Titans defense behind only Harold Landry III (26.5). He was rewarded with a multi-year contract extension during the 2023 offseason. The 6-foot-4, 305-pound defensive lineman provides a rare blend of size, power and quickness, making him a disruptive force in the middle of the defense. He was a first-team All-SEC selection as a sophomore and junior at Mississippi State, adding second-team All-American honors as a junior. Following his junior season, he declared for the NFL Draft.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, he earned Pro Bowl and second-team All-Pro honors for the second consecutive campaign, anchoring a unit that ranked first in the NFL in rushing defense (76.9 opponent rushing yards per game). Simmons posted 7.5 sacks and 43 quarterback pressures and added a career-high seven passes defended, which tied for the fourth-best mark among all NFL defensive linemen. Simmons and Arizona's J.J. Watt were the NFL's only players in 2022 with at least seven sacks and seven passes defended.
- In 2021, Simmons was named a team captain for the first time in his career, and he went on to become one of six players on the roster to start all 17 games. He was named to his first career Pro Bowl and added Associated Press second-team All-Pro honors after setting career highs in several categories, including sacks (8.5), tackles (54), quarterback pressures (58), tackles for loss (12) and passes defended (six). Among all defensive tackles in the NFL, his 8.5 sacks ranked sixth.
- Simmons was one of only five NFL players to produce at least 50 tackles, eight sacks and six passes defended in 2021, joining Maxx Crosby, Cameron Jordan, Cameron Heyward and T.J. Watt. Simmons and Heyward were the only interior defensive linemen in the league to accomplish the feat.
- In a divisional playoff game against Cincinnati on Jan. 22, 2022, he set a franchise postseason record with three sacks.
- In 2020, Simmons started 15 games at defensive tackle for the Titans and tied for the NFL lead with three defensive fumble recoveries. He also ranked second on the team with three sacks and 20 quarterback pressures.
- As a rookie in 2019, Simmons totaled 40 tackles, two sacks, two tackles for loss, 14 quarterback pressures and one pass defended in nine games (seven starts). He added four tackles, three quarterback pressures and a fumble recovery in three playoff contests.
- As a junior in 2018, Simmons was named first team All-SEC and second team All-American after totaling 63 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and two sacks. His 17 tackles for loss led the team, ranked fourth in the SEC and were the third-most in single-season school history.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- In July 2023, Simmons paid homage to his hometown of Macon, Miss., with his first 'Community Fun Day,' which included local food vendors, games, inflatables and fireworks. He was then honored by city officials with a key to the city.
- In July 2022, the official ribbon cutting was held at the Jeffery B. Simmons Field House at Noxubee County High School in Macon, Miss. Simmons donated more than $50,000 to upgrade his former high school's athletic facilities. During the same week, he donated $75,000 to Starkville (Miss.) Parks and Recreation to be used for a new turf field at the Starkville Sportsplex. The field was also named in his honor.

- During college, Simmons was a two-time member of the SEC Academic Honor Roll.
- Simmons' brother, Dylan Bradley, played football at Southern Miss and then spent time with the Minnesota Vikings. His uncle, Jason Hatcher, played 10 total seasons with the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Commanders.
- Away from football, Simmons enjoys fishing and spending time outdoors.
- Simmons holds an annual youth football camp in Mississippi.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Macon, Miss., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (19th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

77 PETER SKORONSKI

OFFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'4" • 313 LBS • COLLEGE: NORTHWESTERN
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2023 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE HOMETOWN: PARK RIDGE, ILL.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 1/1 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Northwestern's Peter Skoronski with the 11th overall pick in the 2023 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4-inch, 313-pound offensive lineman brings outstanding technique, athleticism and physicality to his position. While he was a three-year starter at left tackle, he possesses the versatility to move inside to guard. A native of Park Ridge, Ill., Skoronski did not miss a game or a start in his three seasons at Northwestern, appearing in 33 contests at left tackle. Among all offensive linemen at the 2023 NFL Scouting Combine, he placed second in the vertical jump (34.50 inches), second in the broad jump (9 feet 7 inches), fifth in the bench press (30 reps) and ninth in the 10-yard split (1.75 seconds). He became Northwestern's highest draft selection since guard Chris Hinton went to Denver with the fourth pick in 1983, and he was the 11th player in program history to be picked in the first round.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Skoronski's third and final season at Northwestern, he became the first unanimous first-team All-American in program history after starting all 12 games at left tackle.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- His grandfather, Bob Skoronski, was a left tackle for the Green Bay Packers, playing nine total seasons with the franchise. He missed two seasons while serving in the U.S. Air Force. He was a permanent offensive captain for the Packers under Vince Lombardi from 1964 to 1968 and played on five NFL championship teams. In 1976, he was inducted into the Packers Hall of Fame.
- Has a black lab named Slim.
- Minored in history in college and considers himself a "history nerd."
- Enjoys country music and names Luke Combs, Tim McGraw and Darius Rucker among his favorites.
- Fan of the TV show "The Office."

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Park Ridge, Ill., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (11th overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (1/1): Made his NFL debut and his first career start at New Orleans (9/10/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at left guard in his first career NFL contest.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), was inactive.
- At Cleveland (9/24), was inactive.

COLLEGE:

- Skoronski started all 33 games at left tackle during his career at Northwestern without missing a game. He earned second-team All-Big Ten honors as a freshman and first-team recognition in each of the next two seasons. He became the first offensive lineman in program history to earn two All-Big Ten first-team awards.

AS A JUNIOR (2022), named the Rimington-Pace Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year—the first ever by a Northwestern lineman—after starting all 12 games at left tackle. He was the first player in school history to become a unanimous first-team All-American and was named first-team All-Big Ten by coaches and media. He finished as a finalist for the 2022 Outland Trophy, recognizing nation's best college interior lineman on both offense and defense. He finished the season with PFF's highest pass-blocking grade in the country at 93.0 after allowing six pressures on 480 pass-blocking snaps. His 79.1 PFF run-blocking grade placed fifth among all qualifying Power 5 tackles.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2021), started all 12 games at left tackle and helped pave the way for Evan Hull's 1,000-yard rushing season. He was named first-team All-Big Ten by the league's coaches and second-team All-Big Ten by the media.

AS A TRUE FRESHMAN (2020), started all nine contests during a COVID-19 shortened campaign and anchored the left side of a line that helped the Wildcats make a 2020 Big Ten Championship Game appearance. He was named second-team All-Big Ten. Additionally, he earned True Freshman All-American recognition by 247Sports as the highest-graded true first-year performer in the Big Ten among all positions. He helped pave the way for 16 rushing touchdowns and a 162.8 rushing yards per game average and helped the offensive line allow only 1.29 sacks per game in the Big Ten regular season, the third fewest in the conference.

- Majored in economics at Northwestern.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Maine South (Park Ridge, Ill.) High School, where he was a four-star prospect, the No. 4 center nationally and the No. 2 player in Illinois, according to 247Sports. He was a three-year letter winner and 2019 team captain who recorded 173 pancakes in three seasons with the Hawks.
- Earned All-State honors in 2018 and 2019 and was a three-time All-Conference and All-Area selection.
- Led Maine South to back-to-back-to-back CSL conference championships and was a member of the 2016 state champion team.
- Lettered three times in basketball and three times in track and field (shot put and discus) and was a National Honor Society member.
- Parents are Anne and Bob.
- Siblings are Elizabeth and Robbie.
- Follow Skoronski on Twitter at @pskoronski.
- Follow Skoronski on Instagram at @peterskoronski.
- Born Peter Joseph Skoronski on July 31, 2001 in Chicago, Ill.

RUNNING BACK • 5'11" • 195 LBS • COLLEGE: TULANE
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2023 • NFL EXPERIENCE: ROOKIE HOMETOWN: PONCHATOULA, LA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 3/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Tyjae Spears in the third round of the 2023 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11-inch, 195-pounder is a dynamic and explosive running back with superb instincts and the ability to play on all downs on offense and contribute in the return game. The Ponchatoula, La., native spent four years at Tulane (2019-22) prior to entering the NFL. His collegiate rushing totals included 2,910 yards and 31 touchdowns, and his 6.8 yards per carry from 2019 to 2022 ranked second in the nation behind only Alabama-Birmingham's DeWayne McBride (minimum 400 attempts). Chosen by the Titans with the 81st overall draft pick, Spears became the highest pick from Tulane since running back Matt Forte in 2008 (44th overall by Chicago).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Spears ranked fifth in the FBS with 1,581 rushing yards, and his 21 total touchdowns (19 rushing, two receiving) tied for the most in the nation. His 19 rushing touchdowns tied for third in the country. He was named the American Athletic Conference Offensive Player of the Year.
- In Tulane's Cotton Bowl victory over Southern California on Jan. 2, 2023, Spears rushed for 205 yards and a career-high four touchdowns, winning Most Outstanding Offensive Player honors.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Spears has worked with a non-profit organization in New Orleans called Son of a Saint, which provides "mentorship, education, recreation, camaraderie, cultural enrichment, emotional support and helping to fill the void for dozens of fatherless young men."
- Growing up on the New Orleans area, his favorite player was former Saints running back Reggie Bush.
- Spears is one of nine children in his family (five brothers and three sisters).
- His first job as a teenager was working at Walmart.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Ponchatoula, La., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (81st overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/0): Has led the team in receptions once in 2023 (at CLE). Made his NFL debut at New Orleans (9/10/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), played as a reserve and carried the ball three times for 27 yards in his first career NFL contest. Caught one pass for one yard.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), saw action as a reserve at running back and rushed eight times for 49 yards. Caught two passes for six yards. Extended the Titans' second scoring drive with an eight-yard run on third-and-two late in the second quarter.
- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at running back and led the team with four receptions for three yards. Rushed four times for six yards. Returned his first career kickoff for 21 yards.

COLLEGE:

- Spears appeared in 33 games with 20 starts at running back during his career at Tulane. He totaled 2,910 yards and 31 touchdowns on 427 carries and added 48 receptions for 564 yards and three scores. He ended his career as the school's all-time leader in yards per carry (6.8), tied for second in 100-yard rushing games (15), tied for third in rushing touchdowns (31), fourth in rushing yards per game (85.6) and sixth in rushing yards (2,910) and total touchdowns (34). His 6.8 yards per carry from 2019 to 2022 ranked second in the FBS behind only Alabama-Birmingham running back DeWayne McBride's 7.3-yard average (minimum 400 attempts).

AS A JUNIOR (2022), started all 14 games for the Green Wave, totaling 1,581 yards and 19 touchdowns on 229 rushing attempts and adding 22 receptions for 256 yards and two touchdowns. Named Honorable Mention All-American by Phil Steele, American Athletic Conference Offensive Player of the Year and First-Team All-AAC. Tied for the national lead with 21 total touchdowns and tied for third in the country with 19 rushing touchdowns, a total that ranked second in Tulane single-season history. His 1,581 rushing yards led the conference and made up the Green Wave's all-time second-highest single-season total. Tallied nine 100-yard rushing games, including eight consecutive such efforts to finish the season. Helped the Olive and Blue earn a 12-2 record and win an American Athletic Conference title. The team's ninth-overall ranking was the second-best finish in program history.

- Against Massachusetts (9/3), opened the season with 12 carries for 57 yards and three touchdowns and added two receptions for 32 yards.
- At South Florida (10/15), rushed for 151 yards and two touchdowns, including a career-long 75-yarder.
- At Cincinnati (11/25), set a career mark with 35 carries, rushing for 181 yards and a pair of touchdowns.
- Against Central Florida (12/3), helped deliver a 45-28 AAC Championship victory with a Yulman Stadium-record 199 rushing yards and a touchdown.
- Against Southern California in the Cotton Bowl (1/2/23), rushed 17 times for 205 yards and a career-high four touchdowns, winning Most Outstanding Offensive Player in Tulane's 46-45 victory.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2021), appeared in 12 games with three starts. Led the team in rushing with 129 carries for 863 yards and nine touchdowns in addition to 19 catches for 145 yards. Rushed for over 100 yards in four of the last five games of the season.

- At Memphis (11/27), closed out the season with a career-high 264 rushing yards with two touchdowns. His 264 rushing yards tied for the fifth-highest total by a player in the nation in 2021. It was the fourth most in school history and the most by any player other than Matt Forte.

AS A REDSHIRT FRESHMAN (2020), saw action in three games (three starts) before he suffered a season-ending injury. Finished fourth on the team in rushing with 274 yards and averaged 7.4 yards per carry.

- Against South Alabama (9/12), opened the year with 105 yards on only 11 carries.
- Against Southern Miss (9/26), rushed for 50 yards on eight carries and had two touchdowns before exiting with a season-ending injury.

AS A TRUE FRESHMAN (2019), totaled 192 yards rushing, 133 yards receiving and finished with a pair of touchdowns in four games. Used a redshirt to retain eligibility.

- Against Missouri State (9/14), had a career-best 88-yard touchdown reception to go along with eight rushes for 89 yards and a score.
- Graduated from Tulane in December 2022 with a degree in health and wellness.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Ponchatoula (La.) High School, where he earned three-star ratings from 247Sports.com and Rivals.com.
- As a senior at Ponchatoula, recorded 920 rushing yards and 880 receiving yards with 18 total touchdowns.

- Also participated on the track and field team in high school.
- Follow Spears on Twitter at @tyjae22, on Instagram at @twotwo4six and on TikTok at @tyjaespears.

4 RYAN STONEHOUSE

PUNTER • 5'10" • 193 LBS • COLLEGE: COLORADO STATE
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2022 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: LA VERNE, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 20/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Ryan Stonehouse as an undrafted free agent following the 2022 NFL Draft to add competition to the punting position. The 5-foot-10-inch, 193-pounder put together an impressive training camp performance, unseating the incumbent Brett Kern, who had been the club's punter since 2009. Stonehouse enjoyed a record-breaking rookie campaign in 2022. He finished the season with a gross average of 53.10 yards per punt on 90 total punts (4,779 total yards). In doing so, he broke Sammy Baugh's single-season NFL record of 51.40 yards per punt, which was established in 1940 and was never matched among qualifiers (2.5 punts per team game). With a net punting average of 44.03 yards per punt in 2022, Stonehouse also established a new NFL record for the highest net average by a rookie punter.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- As a rookie in 2022, Stonehouse was selected second-team Associated Press All-Pro and set numerous NFL records. He finished the season with a gross average of 53.10 yards per punt on 90 total punts, which broke Sammy Baugh's single-season NFL record of 51.40 yards per punt that was established in 1940. Stonehouse's mark also surpassed Brett Kern's franchise record of 49.7 yards per punt in 2017. With a net punting average of 44.03 yards per punt in 2022, he also established a new NFL record for the highest net average by a rookie punter.
- Named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week after punting eight times for 432 yards (54.0 avg.) with three kicks placed inside the 20-yard line against Denver (11/13/22).
- In 2021, Stonehouse set the NCAA career punt average record by concluding his career at 47.8 average yards per attempt.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Stonehouse comes from a lineage of punters. His father, Paul, was an All-American punter for Stanford. His uncle, John Stonehouse was an All-American punter at Southern California and was signed by the New York Giants as a rookie free agent in 1996. His uncle, Jeff Banks, was a punter at Washington State. His younger cousin, Jack, is a punter at Missouri.
- Stonehouse's father, Paul, and uncle, John, used to teach punting at their camp, The Kicking Game, and through private lessons. The camp's website houses testimonials from coaches Bill Walsh, John Robinson, Paul Pasqualoni and Mike Price.
- Uncle, Jeff Banks, is the assistant head coach/tight ends coach/special teams coordinator at Texas.
- As a craftsman, Stonehouse built an outdoor kitchen in his home, that is owned by his grandmother, and it is complete with two different cooking areas, a sink, granite countertops, it is made out of wood and brick and is even wired for lighting.
- During COVID, Stonehouse purchased an old Ford van for $750 and is converting it into a vehicle that could potentially serve as a home, expecting to flip it and sell it for profit.
- Stonehouse is passionate about fostering dogs. Prior to the start of COVID, he had organized a camp at Colorado state with all profits intended to benefit "The Good Dog Rescue," an organization that aims to save dogs from high kill shelters and place them in foster homes.
- A native Californian, Stonehouse can surf.

Captain: 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023

PRO: The Titans traded for Ryan Tannehill in the 2019 offseason, bringing an experienced, veteran leader to the team. He took control as the team's starting quarterback by midseason and subsequently led the Titans to the playoffs and an AFC championship game appearance. In the process, he set single-season franchise records and led the NFL with a 117.5 passer rating and a passing average of 9.6 yards per attempt. His play led to his first career Pro Bowl appearance. He was rewarded with a multi-year contract extension in March 2020. Tannehill excelled again in his second season with the club, registering a career-best 33 touchdown passes while leading the Titans to a second consecutive postseason appearance. In 2021, he passed for 3,734 yards while leading the club to the best record in the AFC and a third straight playoff berth. Tannehill spent his first seven seasons as a member of the Miami Dolphins after being selected in the first round of the 2012 NFL Draft. He started 88 games over six seasons in South Florida and accumulated 20,434 passing yards and 123 touchdown passes. The Texas A&M product has also shown mobility as a signal caller, having rushed for 1,931 career yards and 24 touchdowns through 2021.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Entering the 2023 campaign, Tannehill ranked among the franchise career leaders in several categories: first in passer rating (100.5), first in completion percentage (66.9), sixth in passing yards (12,831), fifth in passing touchdowns (89), sixth in passing attempts (1,623) and sixth in completions (1,085).
- In 2022, Tannehill started 12 games and ranked sixth in the AFC with a 94.6 passer rating. He completed 212 of 325 passes for 2,536 yards with 13 touchdowns and six interceptions.
- In 2021, Tannehill notched 3,734 passing yards, 21 passing touchdowns and seven rushing scores while leading the Titans to their second consecutive AFC South division title.
- In 2020, Tannehill finished fifth in the NFL with a 106.5 passer rating and tied for seventh in the NFL with a career-high 33 touchdown tosses. He passed for 3,819 yards and rushed for 266 yards with a career-high seven rushing touchdowns. In the process, he set a franchise record with 40 combined touchdowns in a season.
- In his first season in Tennessee, Tannehill led the Titans to a 9-4 combined record as a starter in the regular season and playoffs and won the NFL Comeback Player of the Year Award. He earned his first Pro Bowl invitation after leading the NFL in passer rating (117.5) and passing average (9.6 yards per attempt) and ranking third in completion percentage (70.3). He set club records in all three categories.
- He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December 2019 after completing 90 of 132 passes for 1,322 yards with 12 touchdowns and two interceptions. His passer rating for the calendar month was 124.6, which led the AFC.
- Tannehill made his first career playoff appearance at the conclusion of the 2019 campaign and helped lead the Titans to a wild card win at New England and a divisional round victory at Baltimore.
- During his seven seasons (2012-18) in Miami, Tannehill passed for at least 3,000 yards four times and more than 4,000 yards twice. He totaled 16 career 300-yard passing games, which is the second-most in Dolphins history.
- Tannehill engineered 17 career fourth-quarter comebacks during the first eight seasons of his career.
- In 2015, Tannehill posted 4,208 passing yards with 24 touchdowns and set a then-NFL record with 25 consecutive completions. His 4,208 passing yards was the fifth-highest single-season total in Dolphins history and most by a Dolphins quarterback other than Dan Marino.
- In 2014, Tannehill passed for 4,045 yards with 27 touchdowns for a 92.8 passer rating. He registered a career-best 311 rushing yards with a touchdown. His 392 completions were the most in Dolphins history.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- During the 2023 offseason, Tannehill received his pilot's license. He says, "it's something I have to be totally focused on, be present in the moment, but at the same time it's an escape for me. A lot of hard work went into it, but I'm thankful I was able to get that and excited to be a pilot."
- Ryan founded the Tannehill's A.C.E.S. (Achieving Community Educations Success) program with wife, Lauren, which consisted of 17 sophomores from American Senior High School and is focused on awarding scholarships to the participating students who strive for good grades and took on an active role in their community by hosting monthly events to reward the students and help them give back to the community.
- Ryan enjoys deep-sea fishing off the coast of South Florida in his free time.
- Ryan's father, Tim, played wide receiver at Texas Tech from 1985-87.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Big Spring, Texas, native was originally selected by the Miami Dolphins in the first round (eighth overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft.
- Traded by the Dolphins to the Titans along with a 2019 sixth-round pick for a 2019 seventh-round draft pick and a 2020 fourth-round draft choice on March 15, 2019.

- At N.Y. Jets (12/1), completed 25 of 35 passes for 235 yards. Engineered a game-winning drive that led to a 26-yard field goal with 1:57 left to give Miami the 16-13 victory.
- Against Minnesota (12/21), connected on 35 of 47 passes for 396 yards with four touchdowns for a 118.8 passer rating. His 396 passing yards marked the eighth 300-yard game of his career, moving him into second place in team history in the category.

2013 (16/16 - Miami): Started all 16 games and completed 355 of 588 passes for 3,913 yards with 24 touchdowns for an 81.7 passer rating. Tallied 40 carries for 238 yards with a touchdown.

- At Atlanta (9/22), completed 24 of 35 passes for 236 yards with two touchdowns. Led the team on a 13-play, 75-yard drive that culminated in a one-yard touchdown pass to Dion Sims with 38 seconds left to win the game. Completed nine of 12 passes for 69 yards with a touchdown on the game-winning drive.
- At N.Y. Jets (12/1), connected on 28 of 43 passes for 331 yards with two touchdowns. Marked his second consecutive 300-yard passing game, the first back-to-back 300-yard games of his career.
- Against New England (12/15), completed 25 of 37 passes for 312 yards with three touchdowns for a 120.6 passer rating. It was his second straight three plus touchdown performance as he became the first Dolphins quarterback since Dan Marino in 1994 to accomplish the feat. Led the team on a nine-play, 60-yard drive capped off by a 14-yard touchdown pass to Marcus Thigpen with 1:15 left to win the game.

2012 (16/16 - Miami): Started all 16 games as a rookie and completed 282 of 484 passes for 3,294 yards with 12 touchdowns for a 76.1 passer rating. Carried the ball 49 times for 211 yards and two touchdowns. Set franchise rookie records in completions (282), attempts (484) and passing yards (3,294). His 58.3 completion percentage was second-best among rookies in team history.

- At Houston (9/9), made his NFL debut and his first NFL start and completed 20 of 36 passes for 219 yards. Became the first rookie quarterback in team history to start a season opener.
- Against Oakland (9/16), collected his first win by completing 18 of 30 passes for 200 yards and a touchdown. Scored his first NFL rushing touchdown with a two-yard run in the first quarter. Threw his first NFL touchdown with a 14-yard pass to Anthony Fasano in the fourth quarter.

- At Arizona (9/30), connected on 26 of 41 passes for 431 yards with a touchdown. His 26 completions were the most in team history by a rookie and his 431 passing yards was the third-highest single-game total by a rookie in NFL history, the most by a rookie in Dolphins history and tied for the sixth-most in any game in team history.

93 TEAIR TART

DEFENSIVE TACKLE • 6'2" • 304 LBS

COLLEGE: FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL • ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2020
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4 • HOMETOWN: PHILADELPHIA, PA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 37/30 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Teair Tart (first name pronounced "tee-AIR") as a rookie free agent following the 2020 NFL Draft. In his first three NFL seasons, he participated in 34 games with 27 starts, including a career-high 16 starts in 2022. Prior to entering the NFL, the 6-foot-2-inch, 304-pounder appeared in 23 games with 10 starts over two seasons at Florida International (2018-19), where he totaled 51 tackles, 19.0 tackles for loss, six sacks, one pass defended, five quarterback pressures and two forced fumbles.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Tart recorded a career-high 16 starts and also established career-best totals with 34 tackles, 1.5 sacks, 22 quarterback pressures, five tackles for loss, one interception, six passes defended and one fumble recovery.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Tart traveled an unlikely road to the NFL. He played two years of high school basketball in his hometown of Philadelphia, Pa., at Palmer Leadership Learning Partners Charter School—a school that did not have a football program. Prior to his junior year, West Philadelphia High School's defensive coordinator, Karl Patrick, saw Tart playing in a basketball tournament and eventually convinced him to transfer and begin playing football for the first time in his life. Two years later, Tart continued his football career at ASA College in New York but left six games into his first season after an older brother, Rasheed Spencer, was tragically killed in a motorcycle accident. Time passed, and Tart headed to Valley Forge (Pa.) Military Academy, followed by stops at East Mississippi Community College and Ellsworth (Iowa) Community College before finding a home for his final two collegiate campaigns at Florida International.
- Tart is the second youngest of 11 children in his family.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Philadelphia, Pa., native was signed by the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 7, 2020.
- Waived by the Titans on Sept. 5, 2020 and signed to the practice squad a day later.
- Signed by the Titans to their active roster from the practice squad on Nov. 7, 2020.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/3):

- At New Orleans (9/10), started at nose tackle and notched five tackles, including a stop for loss. Shot through the line and stonewalled Jamaal Williams for a three-yard loss on a rush off left guard in the third quarter.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), collected two tackles, including a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Teamed with Kyle Peko to stonewall Joshua Kelley for no gain on a rush up the middle late in the third quarter. Shot through the line and stuffed Kelley for a two-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the fourth stanza.
- At Cleveland (9/24), tallied three tackles, a stop for loss and two quarterback pressures. Burst through the line and stuffed Jerome Ford for a five-yard loss on a rush in the fourth quarter.

2022 (16/16): Started a career-high 16 games at nose tackle and registered 34 tackles, 1.5 sacks, 22 quarterback pressures, five stops for loss, an interception, six passes defended and a fumble recovery. Was inactive for one contest. Led the team in quarterback pressures once (vs. DAL). Led or tied for the team lead in passes defended three times (vs. LV, at IND, at WAS). Led or tied for the team lead in sacks twice (vs. DAL, at JAX).

- Against N.Y. Giants (9/11), started at nose tackle and posted two tackles with two quarterback pressures.
- At Buffalo (9/19), started at nose tackle and collected a tackle for loss and a quarterback pressure. Stonewalled Devin Singletary for a five-yard loss on a rush off left guard in the second quarter.
- At Indianapolis (10/2), started at nose tackle and tied a then career-high with three tackles, including his first career interception, another pass defended and a quarterback pressure. Helped limit Jonathan Taylor to just 42 rushing yards on 20 carries in the victory. Batted down a pass intended for Taylor early in the first quarter. Tipped a Matt Ryan pass and caught his own deflection for his first career interception midway through the second quarter. Became the first Titans defensive lineman with an interception since 2010. Stuffed Taylor for no gain on a rush off right tackle in the final stanza.
- At Washington (10/9), started at nose tackle and recorded three tackles, a quarterback pressure and a team-best two passes defended. Batted down a pass intended for Cole Turner late in the first quarter. Stuffed Brian Robinson for no gain on a rush off right guard in the third quarter. Helped preserve the victory by breaking up a pass intended for J.D. McKissic at the goal-line late in the fourth quarter.
- Against Indianapolis (10/23), started at nose tackle and registered a career-best three quarterback pressures.
- At Houston (10/30), notched a then career-high four tackles, with a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Chased down O.J. Howard for no gain on a tight end screen in the opening stanza. Halted a Texans' drive by stuffing Dameon Pierce for a three-yard loss on a third-and-one rush in the second quarter.
- Against Houston (12/24), notched four tackles, including a stop for loss, a pass defended and a quarterback pressure. Batted down a pass at the line of scrimmage that was intended for Brandin Cooks in the first quarter. Teamed with Jeffery Simmons to stuff Royce Freeman for a one-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the fourth quarter.
- Against Dallas (12/29), collected a career-high six tackles, including his first career half sack, a team-best four quarterback pressures and his first career fumble recovery. Teamed with Jack Gibbens to stuff Ezekiel Elliott for no gain on a rush off left guard in the opening stanza. Recovered a Dak Prescott botched snap in the second quarter. Teamed with DeMarcus Walker to drop Dak Prescott for an eight-yard sack in the fourth quarter.
- At Jacksonville (1/7), totaled three tackles, including his first career full sack, another stop for loss and two quarterback pressures. Stuffed JaMychal Hasty for a one-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the second quarter. Dropped Trevor Lawrence for a nine-yard sack in the final stanza.

2021 (11/10, 0/0): Saw action in 11 games with 10 starts at nose tackle and registered 16 tackles, including three quarterback pressures and two stops for loss. Was inactive for six regular season games and the postseason contest.

- At Seattle (9/19), started at nose tackle and posted two tackles. Teamed with David Long Jr. to stonewall Chris Carson for a one-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the third quarter.
- Against Indianapolis (9/26), started at nose tackle and tallied a tackle with a quarterback pressure.
- At N.Y. Jets (10/3), started at nose tackle and notched two tackles, including a stop for loss. Stuffed Tevin Coleman for a one-yard loss on a rush off left tackle late in the second quarter.
- At Jacksonville (10/10), started at nose tackle. Shot through the line and disrupted Carlos Hyde resulting in a three-yard loss on a fourth-and-goal rush from the one-yard line in the fourth quarter.

99 RASHAD WEAVER

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'4" • 259 LBS • COLLEGE: PITTSBURGH
ACQUIRED: 4TH ROUND - 2021 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3
HOMETOWN: FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 21/4 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Rashad Weaver in the fourth round of the 2021 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4-inch, 259-pound defender missed the majority of his rookie campaign after suffering a season-ending injury in the third game of the season. He bounced back in 2022, playing in 16 games and ranking third on the squad with 39 quarterback pressures and fourth on the club with 5.5 sacks. The University of Pittsburgh product is capable of causing disruption in both the run and pass game, and displays a high motor and good length at the position. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native was a consensus All-American, a Bednarik Award semifinalist, and earned first-team All-ACC honors as a senior with the Panthers in 2020 after totaling 35 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, 12 quarterback pressures, three forced fumbles and a fumble recovery in nine games.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Weaver appeared in 16 games with four starts. His 5.5 sacks ranked fourth on the team, while his 39 quarterback pressures ranked third.
- In 2020, Weaver was named a consensus All-American after garnering first-team All-America honors from four of the NCAA's recognized selectors: Associated Press, American Football Coaches Association, Football Writers Association of America and Walter Camp Football Foundation. He was the 52nd consensus All-American in school history and the first Pitt defensive player to earn that distinction since Aaron Donald in 2013.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Weaver lists rehabbing a torn ACL during the pandemic as the biggest challenge he has had to overcome in his football career. He worked on 'staying focused even not knowing if there was going to be a season and even just finding locations to do my rehab work when everything shut down.'
- He was a member of Pitt's prestigious Blue & Gold Society, an undergraduate organization composed of top students who serve as ambassadors for the university and Pitt Alumni Association.
- Prior to the NFL Draft, Weaver trained in the martial art of Krav Maga.
- Weaver's grandmother has battled multiple sclerosis since he was in a middle school.
- While at Pitt, Weaver participated in the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's Race to Anyplace Fundraiser with the same girl, Lili, for three consecutive years. Weaver and Lili struck up a friendship and are frequently in touch.
- Weaver and his best friend started a clothing line called Dreams to Reality which can be found on Instagram @d2r.shop.
- Weaver grew up in Indiana but moved to Florida prior to his sophomore year of high school. He wore No. 17 because he played quarterback and wanted a number right before Peyton Manning's No. 18. Weaver circled back to No. 17 in college, and 'I thought it was a cool number for an edge rusher.'

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native was selected by the Titans in the fourth round (135th overall) of the 2021 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/0):

- At New Orleans (9/10), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and notched a quarterback pressure.

- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and tallied two tackles.

2022 (16/4): Saw action in 16 games with four starts at outside linebacker. Ranked third on the squad with 39 quarterback pressures and fourth on the club with 5.5 sacks. Registered 27 tackles, including seven stops for loss, six passes defended, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. Was inactive for one contest. Led or tied for the team lead in sacks three times in 2022 (vs. NYG, vs. LV, vs. DEN). Led or tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures four times in 2022 (at KC, vs. DEN, at GB, at LAC). Tied for the team lead in passes defended twice in 2022 (vs. JAX, at JAX).

- Against N.Y. Giants (9/11), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and posted four tackles, including two sacks and three quarterback pressures. Registered his first career sack by dropping Daniel Jones for a five-yard loss in the opening stanza. Ended a Giants' drive by sacking Jones for a two-yard loss on third-and-five in the third quarter.
- Against Las Vegas (9/25), made his first career start at outside linebacker and notched two tackles, including a sack and a then career-best four quarterback pressures. Dipped around the edge and dropped Derek Carr for a seven-yard sack on third-and-four late in the second quarter.
- At Indianapolis (10/2), saw action as a reserve at outside linebacker and tallied two tackles, including a sack, another tackle for loss, a forced fumble and three quarterback pressures. Helped limit Jonathan Taylor to just 42 rushing yards on 20 carries in the victory. Pounced on Matt Ryan for a six-yard loss after a bobbled snap in the second quarter. Strip-sacked Ryan for a six-yard loss but the loose ball was recovered by the Colts late in the third quarter.
- At Kansas City (11/6), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and tied for the team lead with five quarterback pressures.
- Against Denver (11/13), saw action as a reserve at outside linebacker and posted two tackles, including 1.5 sacks and a team-best eight quarterback pressures. Batted down a pass intended for Chase Edmonds late in the third quarter. Combined with DeMarcus Walker to sack Russell Wilson for a two-yard loss late in the final stanza. Came off the edge and strip-sacked Wilson on third-and-four late in the fourth quarter.
- At Green Bay (11/17), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and led the team with three quarterback pressures.
- At Philadelphia (12/4), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and produced three tackles, including a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Stonewalled Miles Sanders for a two-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the third quarter.
- At L.A. Chargers (12/18), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and recorded two tackles with a team-high five quarterback pressures.
- At Jacksonville (1/7), started at outside linebacker and totaled a quarterback pressure, a pass defended and a fumble recovery. Pounced on a Trevor Lawrence fumble at the Titans' 33-yard line in the second quarter. Ended a Jaguars' drive by batting down a third-and-seven pass at the line of scrimmage in the final stanza.

2021 (2/0): Played in two games as a reserve as a rookie and collected two tackles. Placed on injured reserve on Sept. 28 and missed the final 14 regular season games and the postseason contest. Was inactive for the season opener. Made his NFL debut at Seattle (9/19/21).

- Against Arizona (9/12), was inactive.
- At Seattle (9/19), saw action in his first NFL contest as a reserve on special teams and limited snaps at outside linebacker.
- Against Indianapolis (9/26), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and tallied two tackles before leaving the game late in the third quarter with an injury. Combined with Rashaan Evans to stonewall Jonathan Taylor for a one-yard loss on a rush off left guard late in the first quarter.

COLLEGE:

- In four seasons at Pittsburgh (2017-20), Weaver appeared in 35 games with 28 starts. He tallied 110 tackles, 34.5 tackles for loss, 17.0 sacks, nine passes defended, 28 quarterback pressures, five forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries.
- As a senior (2020), started nine games and totaled 35 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, 12 quarterback pressures, two passes defended, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. Named a consensus All-American after garnering first-team All-America honors from four of the NCAA's recognized selectors: Associated Press, American Football Coaches Association, Football Writers Association of America and Walter Camp Football Foundation. Also earned first-team All-America recognition by CBS Sports, ESPN, Phil Steele and Pro Football Focus. Awarded first team All-ACC honors and was a semifinalist for the Bednarik Award.
- As a junior (2019), suffered a season-ending injury during training camp.
- As a sophomore (2018), started all 14 games at defensive end and amassed 47 tackles, 14.0 tackles for loss, 6.5 sacks, 10 quarterback pressures, four passes defended, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries. Led the team in tackles for loss, sacks, and fumble recoveries. Tied for the ACC lead and ranked sixth nationally in fumble recoveries.
- As a redshirt freshman (2017), saw action in all 12 games and made five starts. Tallied 28 tackles, six tackles for loss, three sacks, six quarterback pressures and three passes defended.

PRO: The Titans signed unrestricted free agent Trevon Wesco during the 2023 offseason to add depth and a strong blocking ability to the tight end room. Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, Wesco spent the 2022 season with the Chicago Bears. The 6-foot-3-inch, 267-pounder was originally selected by the New York Jets in the fourth round (121st overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft and spent his first three seasons with the club.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Wesco earned a pair of awards as a senior at West Virginia. He was named by the team's coaches as the recipient of the Ed Pastilong Captain's Award, which recognizes two players who excel on the field, in the classroom and as men. He was also selected as the team's Curtis Jones Jr. Achievement Award recipient. The award is presented annually to a student-athlete that performs admirably on the field and in the classroom.
- Wesco will reunite with Titans tight ends coach Tony Dews, who coached at West Virginia for a season while Wesco was a Mountaineer.

15 NICK WESTBROOK-IKHINE

WIDE RECEIVER • 6'2" • 211 LBS • COLLEGE: INDIANA
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2020 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: LAKE MARY, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 50/22 (PLAYOFFS: 2/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Nick Westbrook-Ikhine as a rookie free agent following the 2020 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-2-inch, 211-pounder provides versatility to the passing game with his ability to line up in multiple positions, while also contributing on special teams. After a rookie season in which he participated in 14 contests primarily on special teams and as a reserve at wide receiver, he totaled 33 games and 20 starts from 2021 to 2022. During those two seasons, he led the Titans in receiving yards (873) and touchdown catches (seven), and his 63 receptions in that time tied for first place. The Lake Mary, Fla., native appeared in 52 games with 36 starts and totaled 144 receptions for 2,226 yards with 16 touchdowns over four seasons at Indiana.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2022, Westbrook-Ikhine recorded a career-high 13 starts, posting 25 catches for 397 yards and three touchdowns.
- In 2021, he set career marks in receptions (38), receiving yards (476) and touchdowns (four). His receptions, receiving yards and receiving touchdowns ranked second on the team.
- In 2021, Westbrook-Ikhine registered his first career 100-yard receiving game with seven catches for 107 yards against Houston (11/21/21).
- As a rookie in 2020, Westbrook-Ikhine saw action in 14 games with one start and collected three receptions for 33 yards.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- As an avid dog lover, Westbrook-Ikhine took care of dogs while in college through the popular app "Rover." Westbrook-Ikhine joined Rover the summer before his senior year at Indiana, and he would set his rate $10-15 lower than the average price to ensure he was selected as a dog-sitter. Westbrook-Ikhine would bring the dogs everywhere with him, even to Indiana's indoor field, and would let the dogs run around on the turf. He has his own rescue dog now named Winston.
- In 2021, Westbrook-Ikhine was named the team's Ed Block Courage Award recipient.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Lake Mary, Fla., native was signed by the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 7, 2020.
- Waived by the Titans on Sept. 5, 2020 and signed to the practice squad a day later.
- Activated from the practice squad to the active roster standard elevation on Sept. 14, 2020.
- Signed by the Titans from the practice squad to the active roster on Sept. 16, 2020.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/1):

- At New Orleans (9/10), played as a reserve at wide receiver and finished second on the team with four catches and 58 receiving yards. Extended the Titans' final scoring drive with a 21-yard grab on third-and-two in the fourth quarter.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), started at wide receiver and caught three passes for 25 yards with a touchdown. Got open in the end zone for a four-yard touchdown reception and a 24-21 lead with 2:25 remaining in regulation.
- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at wide receiver in his 50th career regular season game.

2022 (17/13): Played in all 17 games with 13 starts at wide receiver and registered 25 receptions for 397 yards with three touchdowns. Led the team in receiving yards twice in 2022 (at WAS, vs. DEN). Tied for the team lead in receptions twice in 2022 (vs. DEN, vs. CIN). Has two career 100-yard receiving performances, including one in 2022 (vs. DEN). Registered a career-high two receiving touchdowns against Denver (11/13/22).

- At Buffalo (9/19), started at wide receiver and helped set up the Titans' touchdown with a 13-yard, toe-drag grab down to the Bills' two-yard line during the opening drive.
- Against Las Vegas (9/25), started at wide receiver and hauled in three passes for 40 yards. Kept the Titans' third touchdown drive alive with a 10-yard catch on third-and-three in the second quarter.
- At Washington (10/9), started at wide receiver and snared two receptions for a team-best 72 receiving yards. Set up the Titans' game-winning touchdown with a career-long 61-yard grab to the Washington 12-yard line in the third quarter.
- Against Denver (11/13), started at wide receiver and set career-highs with 119 receiving yards and two receiving touchdowns on five total catches. Cut the Broncos' lead to 10-7 with a nine-yard, toe-drag touchdown grab in the corner of the end zone on third-and-goal with 12 seconds remaining in the first half. Gave the Titans a 14-10 advantage with a 63-yard touchdown catch on a flea flicker in the third quarter.
- Against Cincinnati (11/27), started at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four catches for 58 yards. Extended the Titans' initial scoring drive with a 25-yard grab on third-and-10 late in the first quarter.
- Against Jacksonville (12/11), started at wide receiver and caught three passes for 23 yards with a touchdown. Extended the Titans' opening touchdown drive with a 13-yard grab on third-and-five in the opening quarter. Snared a two-yard touchdown pass in the corner of the end zone in the fourth quarter.

2021 (16/7, 1/0): Saw action in 16 games with seven starts at wide receiver and ranked second on the team with 38 receptions, 476 receiving yards and four receiving touchdowns, establishing career highs in each category. Collected three special teams tackles on coverage units. Was inactive for one game. Played as a reserve in the postseason contest. Led or tied for the team lead in receptions three times in 2021 (vPs. IND, at NE, at PIT). Led the team in receiving yards five times in 2021 (vs. IND, vs. HOU, at NE, at PIT, at HOU). Tied for the team lead in special teams tackles once in 2021 (vs. BUF). Named the team's Ed Block Courage Award recipient.

- Against Arizona (9/12), played as a reserve at wide receiver and on special teams. Set up the Titans' first touchdown with a 10-yard catch down to the Cardinals' one-yard line on third-and-10 in the second quarter.
- Against Indianapolis (9/26), started at wide receiver and led the team with a then-career-high four catches and a then-career-best 53 receiving yards with his first career touchdown. Corralled his first career touchdown reception on an 18-yard slant to give the Titans a 14-7 lead in the second quarter. Drew a 30-yard pass interference penalty during the Titans' third touchdown drive early in the fourth quarter.
- Against Buffalo (10/18), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and caught three passes for 27 yards. Registered a special teams stop on coverage units. Hauled in all three receptions for 27 yards, including an eight-yard grab on third-and-six during the Titans' game-winning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter.
- At Indianapolis (10/31), played as a reserve at wide receiver and caught two passes for 16 yards with a touchdown. Posted a special teams tackle on coverage units. Gave the Titans a 21-17 lead with a five-yard touchdown catch on third-and-four in the third stanza.
- At L.A. Rams (11/7), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and caught one pass for 14 yards. Extended the Titans' second touchdown drive with a 14-yard grab on third-and-four in the second quarter.

- Against New Orleans (11/14), started at wide receiver and hauled in one reception for 10 yards. Recovered the Saints' onside kick late in the fourth quarter which sealed the victory.
- Against Houston (11/21), led the team with a career-high 107 receiving yards on a career-best seven receptions. Kept the Titans' touchdown drive alive in the third quarter with an 16-yard reception on third-and-nine.
- At New England (11/28), started at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with two receptions for a team-high 25 yards with a touchdown. Cut the Patriots lead to 7-6 with a one-yard touchdown catch from Ryan Tannehill on third-and-one early in the second quarter.
- At Pittsburgh (12/19), started at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four catches for a team-best 32 receiving yards.
- Against San Francisco (12/23), played as a reserve at wide receiver and snared two receptions for 38 yards. Extended the Titans' first scoring drive with a 24-yard reception on third-and-15 in the third quarter.
- At Houston (1/9), played as a reserve at wide receiver and led the team with 78 receiving yards on four catches with a touchdown. Hauled in a 29-yard reception over the middle and between two defenders in the opening quarter. Snared a four-yard touchdown pass with 11 seconds remaining in the first half. Got open after Tannehill somehow eluded a sack and snagged a 36-yard completion on third-and-five in the fourth quarter.
- Against Cincinnati (1/22), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver in the divisional playoff match.

2020 (14/1, 1/0): Appeared in 14 games with one start at wide receiver as a rookie and caught three passes for 33 yards. Collected two special teams tackles on coverage units. Was inactive for two games. Saw action as a reserve in the postseason contest and caught two passes for 17 yards and led the team with a special teams tackle. Led or tied for the team lead in special teams tackles twice in 2020 (at HOU, vs. BAL). Made his NFL debut against Jacksonville (9/20/20). Made his first career start against Houston (10/18/20).

- Against Jacksonville (9/20), played as a reserve on special teams and at wide receiver in his first NFL contest.

PRO: The Titans selected Josh Whyle in the fifth round (147th overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft to bring youth and receiving ability to the tight end corps. The 6-foot-7-inch, 248-pounder appeared in 52 games with 20 starts over five seasons (2018-22) at Cincinnati and caught 88 passes for 1,062 yards with 15 touchdowns. In his final campaign with the Bearcats, Whyle earned first-team All-ACC honors after registering 32 receptions for 326 yards and three touchdowns.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Whyle was a three-time All-AAC selection who set the Bearcats' school record for most career receiving touchdowns by a tight end with 15 scoring grabs.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Whyle had the chance to meet Titans great Delanie Walker at the 2023 NFL Combine and the two tight ends enjoyed dinner together one evening.
- Whyle loves country music and his all-time favorite artists are Johnny Cash, Luke Combs and Kenny Chesney.
- In his free time, Whyle enjoys being outdoors and likes to golf and fish.
- Whyle is a cat lover and has two named Boots and Georgie.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Cincinnati, Ohio, native was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (147th overall) of the 2023 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (3/0): Made his NFL debut at New Orleans (9/10/23).

- At New Orleans (9/10), played as a reserve on special teams and saw limited snaps at tight end in his first career NFL contest.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), saw action as a reserve at tight end and on special teams.
- At Cleveland (9/24), played as a reserve at tight end and on special teams.

COLLEGE:

- In five seasons at Cincinnati (2018-22), Whyle appeared in 52 games with 20 starts and tallied 88 receptions for 1,062 yards with 15 touchdowns with all but two catches coming in his final three seasons. Collected All-AAC first-team accolades as a senior in 2022, solidifying himself as one of the nation's top all-around tight ends. Set the Cincinnati school record for career touchdown receptions by a tight end (15), breaking Brent Celek's mark.

AS A SENIOR (2022), Appeared in 12 games with 10 starts and collected All-AAC first-team honors. Selected as a team captain and hauled in 32 receptions for 326 yards with three touchdowns.

- At Arkansas (9/3), caught five passes for 38 yards.
- At Southern Methodist (10/22), brought in four receptions for 53 yards in a 29-27 victory.
- At Temple (11/19), tallied a career-high seven receptions for 70 in a 23-3 victory.

AS A JUNIOR (2021), played in 14 games with eight starts and earned All-AAC honorable mention accolades. Ranked second on the squad with six touchdowns to go along with his 332 receiving yards on 26 catches. Scored five touchdowns in four weeks from Oct. 23 to Nov. 12.

- Against Miami (Ohio) (9/4), opened the season with two catches for 32 yards with a touchdown in the win.
- Against Central Florida (10/16), named the Bearcats' Special Teams

Player of the Week after blocking his first career punt.

- At Navy (10/23), notched four catches for 60 yards and two touchdowns.
- At Tulane (10/30), named Cincinnati's Offensive Player of the Week after registering four catches for 79 yards and another two touchdowns.
- At South Florida (11/12), tied his then career-high with five catches for 61 yards in the win.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2020), played in 10 games with two starts at tight end and led the team with 353 receiving yards on 28 catches with six touchdowns. Earned third-team All-America honors from Pro Football Focus and second-team All-AAC accolades. According to Pro Football Focus, he generated a 92.9 receiving grade and 2.94 yards per route run avg., both of which trailed only Kyle Pitts for the best among NCAA FBS tight ends.

- Against Austin Peay (9/19), posted three receptions for 61 yards and his first career touchdown in the season opener.
- Against Houston (11/7), snared a season-high five catches for 38 yards with a four-yard touchdown grab.

7 MALIK WILLIS

QUARTERBACK • 6'1" • 219 LBS • COLLEGE: LIBERTY
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2022
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2 • HOMETOWN: ATLANTA, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 8/3 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Malik Willis in the third round (86th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft. During his first NFL season, he appeared in eight games with three starts at quarterback, totaling 276 passing yards, 123 rushing yards and one rushing score. The 6-foot-1-inch, 219-pound signal caller possesses a dynamic skill set that includes a strong, accurate arm and elusiveness as a runner. A native of Atlanta, Ga., he spent three total years at Liberty, including a 2019 redshirt campaign, after transferring from Auburn. During his two seasons as Liberty's starting signal caller, he directed the Flames to two bowl victories and led the FBS with 74 total passing (47) and rushing (27) touchdowns. He was the third quarterback drafted in 2022 after the Titans traded up four spots in the third round to select him.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- As a rookie in 2022, Willis saw action in eight games and recorded three starts. He won his first NFL start on Oct. 30, 2022 at Houston.
- In his final season at Liberty in 2021, Willis led the Flames to an 8-5 record and a bowl win. He completed 207 of 339 passes for 2,857 yards and 27 touchdowns to go along with 197 rushing attempts for 878 yards and 13 touchdowns.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- In recognition of his stellar play on the field and outstanding character off the gridiron, Willis was named the 2021 Bobby Bowden Trophy winner. The award is presented annually to "a college football player who epitomizes a student-athlete of faith and conducts himself as an exemplary model in the classroom, on the field, on the campus and in the community." The other two finalists for the 2021 award were Georgia kicker/punter Jake Camarda and Michigan defensive end Aidan Hutchinson.
- Willis' uncle James Anderson was a linebacker who played 10 seasons in the NFL, including time in 2014 with the Titans. Anderson also played with the Panthers (2006-12), Bears (2013) and Saints (2015). Willis' cousin Nigel Warrior was a defensive back at the University of Tennessee (2016-19) before playing in the NFL for the Ravens (2020) and Seahawks (2021).
- Willis says that one of his bucket list goals is to one day win the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award.
- Off the field, Willis enjoys playing video games and lists Call of Duty, Madden NFL, NBA2K and FIFA as his favorites.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Atlanta, Ga., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (86th overall) of the 2022 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2023 (0/0):

- At New Orleans (9/10), did not play as the backup quarterback.
- Against L.A. Chargers (9/17), did not play as the backup quarterback.
- At Cleveland (9/24), did not play as the backup quarterback.

2022 (8/3): Saw action in eight games with three starts at quarterback during his rookie campaign. Completed 31 of 61 passes for 276 yards with three interceptions. Carried the ball 27 times for 123 yards with a rushing score. Did not play as the backup quarterback in nine contests.

- At Buffalo (9/19), entered the game at quarterback late in the third quarter and completed one of four passes for six yards. Rushed four times for 16 yards.
- Against Indianapolis (10/23), saw limited action as a reserve at quarterback.

- At Houston (10/30), made his first career start and earned his first career victory. Completed six of 10 passes for 55 yards with an interception. Rushed five times for 12 yards. Became the sixth rookie quarterback in franchise history and the first since Marcus Mariota in 2015 to win his first NFL start.

- At Kansas City (11/6), started at quarterback and completed five of 16 passes for 80 yards. Rushed eight times for 40 yards. Kickstarted the Titans' first touchdown drive with a 16-yard pass to Austin Hooper along the sideline in the second quarter. Set up the Titans' second touchdown with an 18-yard, back-shoulder throw to Hooper to the Chiefs' two-yard line in the second stanza.

- At Philadelphia (12/4), played as a reserve late in the fourth quarter and completed two of four passes for 16 yards. Rushed once for eight yards.

- At L.A. Chargers (12/18), played a series as a reserve in the second quarter after Ryan Tannehill left the game with an injury. Completed three of four passes for 20 yards. Rushed once for eight yards.

- Against Houston (12/24), started at quarterback and completed 14 of 23 passes for 99 yards with two interceptions. Rushed seven times for 43 yards with his first career rushing touchdown. Extended the Titans' first touchdown drive with a three-yard sneak on fourth-and-one in the first quarter. Gave the Titans a 14-10 lead with a 14-yard touchdown run off left tackle in the third quarter.

COLLEGE:

- Played two seasons at Liberty after spending his first two collegiate seasons at Auburn. In four total seasons, he appeared in 38 games with 23 starts, completing 388 of 618 passes for 5,186 yards and 48 touchdowns with 18 interceptions. He also rushed for 2,131 yards and 29 touchdowns on 366 career rushing attempts. His 74 total passing and rushing touchdowns from 2020 to 2021 ranked first among all FBS players. His record in 23 career starts was 17-6, all with Liberty, including two bowl victories.

- As a senior at Liberty in 2021, started all 13 games at quarterback. Completed 207 of 339 passing attempts for 2,857 yards and 27 touchdowns, and he also led Liberty in rushing with 878 yards and 13 touchdowns on 197 carries. Honors included Bobby Bowden Trophy, Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award semifinalist, Maxwell Award semifinalist, Phil Steele Postseason All-Independent first team and 2022 Reese's Senior Bowl invitation. His 3,736 total offensive yards ranked second in program history for a single season. Broke his own single-season school record with 40 total touchdowns. Ranked eighth in the country in points responsible for (242/18.6 per game), 18th in passing touchdowns, 20th in total offense (287.7 yards per game) and 20th in passing yards per completion (13.83).

- As a junior at Liberty in 2020, started all 10 games in which he played in his first season as Liberty's quarterback after sitting out 2019 due to transfer rules. Won each of his first seven career starts. Completed 170 of 265 passes for 2,260 yards, 20 touchdowns and six interceptions. Added 141 rushing attempts for 944 yards and 14 touchdowns. Had at least one rushing touchdown in eight of his 10 games. Led all FBS quarterbacks in rushing yards and touchdowns. Other national rankings included eighth in points responsible for (204) and points responsible for per game (20.4); ninth in total offense (320.4 yards per game); 11th in total touchdowns (14); 17th in passing efficiency (156.2); and 16th in passing touchdowns.

- Redshirted under transfer rules during his first year at Liberty in 2019.

- As a sophomore in 2018, appeared in eight games at Auburn, completing five of his seven pass attempts for 24 yards. Added 12 rushing attempts for 88 yards and one touchdown.

- As a freshman in 2017, saw action in seven games at Auburn, completing six of his seven pass attempts for 45 yards and one touchdown. Added 16 rushing attempts for 221 yards and a score.

- Graduated from Liberty in December 2020 with a degree in interdisciplinary studies with a focus in business and sports management. He entered the NFL in 2022 three classes from receiving an MBA.

PERSONAL:

- Attended Roswell (Atlanta, Ga.) High School as a senior after transferring from Westlake (Atlanta, Ga.) High School.
- Led the Roswell Hornets to the Class 7A state title game as a senior. Passed for 2,562 yards, rushed for 1,033 yards, and accounted for 37 total touchdowns. Named Class 7A AJC offensive player of the year and first-team All-State.

THE DEAL BEHIND THE DOME: AMY ADAMS STRUNK AND HER STADIUM-WINNING DRIVE

*BY JULIA MASTERS
NASHVILLE BUSINESS JOURNAL
AUGUST 24, 2023*

According to those who know her, Amy Adams Strunk takes a small-business leader's approach to her role as controlling owner of the Tennessee Titans. She asks questions, identifies strong leaders and loves hanging out with fans enjoying a hot dog at a tailgate.

Since becoming controlling owner in 2015, her leadership style has seen six winning seasons, an AFC Championship appearance and contributed to Nashville playing host to the 2019 NFL Draft. In what may be the biggest accomplishment of her tenure, state and city leaders, after protracted debate, this year approved a $2.1 billion domed stadium for the team, which is expected to be completed in 2027.

Set to anchor Nashville's reimaged East Bank, the stadium is poised to become one of Music City's most transformative projects — prospects that are as concerning to some residents as they are exciting to others.

Adams Strunk made few public remarks throughout the approval process, allowing Titans president and CEO Burke Nihill to be the primary face of the project. Now, she shares her behind the scenes view of the deal in an email interview with the Business Journal. The following has been edited for length and clarity.

When the deal got approved, what was that feeling like, and where were you? Who was the first person you called? I was with my family, and Burke was keeping me updated throughout the evening. My first feeling when the stadium was approved was overwhelming gratitude. We moved here in the mid-1990s, and we're so humbled by the support this city and state has showed our team since day one. It's such a great feeling to know the Titans will be a part of this incredible community for another generation.

What excites you the most about bringing this deal to Nashville and Titans fans? What does it mean to the city? I'm thrilled that Titans fans will have a new home with the great fan experience they deserve. I'm also excited to see the biggest events in the world pass through Nashville's new stadium. But it has always been hard for me to think about this project without being most excited about what it means for Nashville as a whole. We've been a part of the conversations about the future of the East Bank for the past several years. While it won't be without its challenges, I've always supported the city's vision to transform the stadium property into something truly special for the city. Having seen the planning work, I truly believe the East Bank will be a celebrated area of Nashville for generations to come. To think the city's beautiful stadium building will be a part of that neighborhood ... it's all so exciting.

How will you evaluate the success of the new stadium? How should the public evaluate its success? There will be things we will track that I'm excited to see, like the success of our events and how many new jobs and opportunities the stadium will bring. But I'm also the kind of person who likes to go directly to the fans and hear what they think. I like visiting with them before our events and listening to their real, direct feedback. We've engaged a lot with fans during this process and are continuing to do that now, and their feedback has been really helpful in shaping our vision for the new stadium.

What do you hope the East Bank looks like in five years? The future of the East Bank makes me so excited for Nashville. I love that we'll have large, beautiful parks, especially on the riverfront. I love the idea that the former stadium site will be used for transportation. From everything I've seen, I think the East Bank will be a place where everyone in Nashville will want to spend time. We've said before that we want the area around the stadium to feel like a neighborhood with a stadium in it, and not a stadium with a neighborhood built around it, and we look forward to being partners in that vision.

Initial renderings for a proposed Tennessee Titans stadium show outdoor terraces.

What was the most important thing to you during this process? The most important thing to me during the process was finding a long-term answer, and not dedicate resources to a short-term one that we'd just have to address again in a few years.

Was there something you did compromise on? All of the groups involved — the mayor's office, the state of Tennessee and so many others — were such great partners through this whole process. Negotiating a 30-year agreement takes a lot of time, and there was compromise during negotiation from everyone. I'm so glad we landed on a solution that resulted in a win for all involved.

How do you see your job differently now? Did the process reveal anything or teach you anything new about the Titans' business? I'm focused on helping our football team and organization perform at our best, and that will never change. That's the great thing about our mission statement, "Win, Serve, Entertain," because it's our North Star regardless of what's right in front of us at the time. Stadium construction is new to most of us in the organization, but we have a great team of people with a lot of experience working to make sure we get it right.

What lesson from your dad [Bud Adams, the team's late founder] stuck with you throughout this process? My dad loved this city, and I thought about him often throughout this process. I know he would be proud to know the team he founded so many years ago will be a part of this community for decades to come. I want to honor his legacy and make this city proud.

What does it mean to you to be a female owner in the NFL, and how have you navigated that space? I talk with other female owners about how it would be amazing one day to have two female NFL owners playing against each other in the Super Bowl. At the end of the day, it's the same for any team owner, male or female — we just want to beat each other. It's important to me to support other women who are interested in getting involved in the NFL. We started the Amy Adams Strunk Women in Football internship a few years back, which is a program aimed at recruiting more women in sports operations roles. Our first two interns were so outstanding that we extended their time with us, then we eventually hired Mical Johnson full-time as a scouting assistant. We've also grown girls flag football here in several counties around Middle Tennessee, and this year the athletes from [Metro Nashville Public Schools] participated in a panel where they got to talk directly with some of our female leaders about different career paths in sports. We have nine women in vice president roles in our organization across a variety of departments, and I'm very proud of our progress in that area.

At what point did you feel the most confident in the deal? When were you most worried? Getting to a final agreement was a long, diligent process, but it needed to be to make sure we came to the right solution. We certainly encountered challenges along the way, but everyone involved recognized that old deal didn't make sense anymore and that we needed a new, long-term deal that made sense for all parties.

If you encounter a skeptic of the stadium, what is your message to them? I'm looking forward to making them proud of how we serve this community over the next 30 years and beyond. Again, this has always been bigger than just building a stadium. The new agreement secures our home in Nashville for the next several decades, and we take that commitment very seriously. We understand we have a platform here, and we're going to use it to make our community a better place and we're all partners in that.

THE STORY BEHIND THE TITANS UNVEILING OILERS THROWBACK UNIFORMS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 23, 2023

NASHVILLE – "Oilers history is Titans history."

Those are the words of Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk from a year ago, when the organization was exploring the possibility of wearing Oilers throwback uniforms, with the classic oil derrick logo on the helmets.

The possibility has turned into reality, and now fans of the organization can see them for themselves.

The Titans will wear the same uniforms the Houston Oilers wore for nearly two decades in Houston, until 1998, when the franchise also wore them as the Tennessee Oilers. The uniforms represent the longest span of Oilers uniforms in franchise history, and arguably the most beloved uniform.

The uniforms will pay homage to the Luv Ya' Blue era.

"It allows us to honor as many players as we can, because it covers so much time," said Surf Melendez, Vice President and Executive Creative Director for the Titans. "It also represented our transition to Tennessee, because we wore these uniforms in Tennessee as well."

The Titans will wear the uniforms in two games this fall, both at home. The organization inquired about wearing them for a road game in Miami as well, but it doesn't appear that will come to fruition.

The light blue Oilers throwbacks will replace the light blue "Titans" jerseys as the third jersey, joining the navy and the white uniforms.

Amy Adams Strunk said last year the team wanted to continue paying homage to the franchise's history. The organization has honored Houston Oilers players at alumni events in years past, and a number of Oilers are in the franchise's Ring of Honor.

The Oilers left Houston for Tennessee after the 1996 season and played a year in Memphis, in 1997, before playing in Nashville at Vanderbilt Stadium in 1998. The Tennessee Oilers became the Tennessee Titans in time for the 1999 season.

"Oilers history is Titans history," Strunk said last year. "We know our fans feel passionately about showcasing that legacy on game day, and we're actively working on making throwback jerseys possible in the near future. Stay tuned!"

Those who stay tuned will see this:

- "Columbia Blue" jerseys with red around white on the numbers, and names on the back, with a red, white and light blue band on the sleeves.

- White helmets, with the famed oil derrick, with red facemasks and red stripes outside of a thicker light blue stripe on the top.

- White pants, or britches, with red stripes on each side of a thicker light blue stripe down the side.

- Red and white stripes on light blue and white socks.

The words 'Luv Ya Blue' will be on the back neckline of the jerseys.

Players will have the option of wearing red sleeves, red gloves, and red cleats to add to the look.

Current Titans Derrick Henry, safety Kevin Byard, defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons and quarterback Ryan Tannehill have already worn them – they took part in a photo shoot earlier this offseason.

"They loved them," Melendez said of the current Titans. "They really loved them."

Former Oilers have also seen them – Warren Moon, Robert Brazile and Elvin Bethea were given a sneak peek when they were in Nashville for an alumni event last year.

"They looooooved them, and it took them back," Melendez said of the former Oilers. "The guys who wore the uniform, it took them back. And they were able to speak to the significance of wearing that uniform. This was an original AFL team, so there's a rich tradition there and now people are going to see this, and they are going to be reminded of this rich history."

Melendez knows fans are excited. The team has had Oilers merchandise available for two seasons and there has been an increased demand over the years.

Oilers jerseys are now on sale, and new merchandise will be available in the team store at Nissan Stadium.

"Amy is passionate about this, and we are lucky," Melendez said. "She loves Nashville, she loves Houston, and she loves those people. She lived it, and she's passionate about the Oilers history."

'EVERY DETAIL MATTERS': HOW AMY ADAMS STRUNK REINVENTED THE TENNESSEE TITANS

BY DENNIS FERRIER
FOX 17
FEBRUARY 1, 2022

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (WZTV) — When we think of what makes a pro football team great, we always talk about star players and coaches. But when it comes to the Tennessee Titans and their remarkable six-year streak of excellence, you have to leave the field to understand what has happened here.

It's 2015. The Tennessee Titans are the worst team in football. Their organization is small and, let's be nice here, not admired.

In walks Amy Adams Strunk—a woman with no experience in the NFL. The daughter of an eccentric billionaire. What are the chances she would be anything but more of the same old, same old?

"She took the first six months that she was in charge and just stayed in the back," said Titans announcer Mike Keith. "She wouldn't do interviews. She didn't get out in front with anything. She wanted to learn as much as she possibly could."

When she was ready, it was nothing short of a reinvention of the entire organization.

"Strip it down, challenge everything we value that just overhauled the culture both on the football team and on the business side of the organization," said Titans president Burke Nihill.

Nihill was one of her outside-of-the-box hires. A lawyer in retail and tech with no NFL background.

"I do think that professional sports lends itself to a wash, rinse, repeat cycle," said Nihill. "Every season you can kind of do the same things for a while and get away with it.

And her mentality is 'Let's act like a start up, let's challenge everything, let's expect our best in every category of the business.'"

Although he won't take credit, Nihill was the one who decided to let Waverly High School play at Nissan Stadium after devastated floods gripped the community. That was a decision beyond inconvenient—a bold, impulsive act of service.

"When do we do it, it's the weekend after the first game," Keith said. "We played the home opener, we are going to Seattle the next weekend so everybody is going to travel. You've got the home opener and then you are going to the west coast and the organization does this on that Thursday night, Waverly is playing at Nissan stadium and we are going to make it happen. And I don't know anybody in the organization that just didn't pitch it. It was just one of the proudest moments that I've ever had of this entire organization."

Keep in mind this would have been unthinkable in the old days, you would have been laughed right out of the meeting.

"The service piece is really what has increasingly defined the people who work in this organization," said Nihill. "It's our heartbeat. It may sound cheesy, but the people who have come to our doors for whatever reason, it matters to them on a deeper level. We have paid a lot more attention to how we can leverage our platform, our resources to make Nashville a better place to live," said Nihill.

There's a famous story told around here. At a big staff meeting, Amy Adams Strunk said, "We have ugly tickets, and we will never go to the Super Bowl with ugly tickets." It was dead quiet in the room, maybe some skepticism. But now they believe everything matters.

Of course, none of it matters if you don't win football games. If you lose, you are viewed as a failure whatever you do for the community.

That might not be fair, but it is an ugly truth.

Adams' first big hire was General Manager John Robinson. You know the winning streak started the same day as that hire.

And while it's pretty obvious he is a good judge of football players, their potential, what they have left in the tank, their value as a piece of the puzzle. What you don't know is his complete buy-in to the Titans culture.

"Everything matters, it's one of our mantras: everything matters," said Nihill. "Every bit of design around the stadium, our tickets, every detail matters. It also carries over to the football team. I have watched him walk around our practice field and pick up little pieces of athletic tape to make it so everything about everything we do is first class."

Even with the crushing loss to the Bengals. Even with a Super Bowl goal defeated for another year. The Titans will be back. Because it's just what they do.

"I tell people all the time, these are the good old days," added Keith. "Enjoy this because what you are seeing on and off the field from our organization, this is the best we have ever been in 23 years."

MEET TENNESSEE TITANS
OWNER AMY ADAMS
STRUNK—AND NINE OTHER WOMEN
CHANGING THE GAME IN THE NFL

BY AMY FELDMAN FORBES
SEPTEMBER 23, 2022

Most female owners inherit a team from a father, husband or brother. Now some are buying their way into football. The Titans' titan goes deep on what it all means for the league.

Before the Tennessee Titans kicked off their NFL season with a home game against the New York Giants on September 11, team owner Amy Adams Strunk spent nearly two hours with tailgaters outside Nashville's Nissan Stadium. "Omigod, it's her," one young woman shouted, before asking for the requisite photos.

The fans, Adams Strunk says, are her favorite part of owning the team, which her late father Bud Adams founded (as the Houston Oilers in 1960) and of which she has been the controlling shareholder since 2015. "Our fans, to me, are not a statistic," she says. "I'm going to be the owner that comes up to you and thanks you."

At 66, Adams Strunk is worth $1.6 billion from her 50% stake in the Titans and is one of a growing number of women who own NFL teams: 18 of the league's 32 franchises are at least partially female-owned, with 10 listing women as majority owners or co-owners. Most inherited teams from their fathers, brothers or husbands—or, like the Buffalo Bills' Kim Pegula and the Cleveland Browns' Dee Haslam, bought into them with their husbands.

But there are signs of change—this summer, Ariel Investments' Melody Hobson bought a 5.5% stake in the Denver Broncos for $245 million as part of the Waltons' ownership group that also brought in Carrie Walton Penner, granddaughter of Walmart founder Sam Walton, with a 30% stake.

"Fifty percent of our fans are women," says Adams Strunk, who is known as "Mom" to the Titans' faithful. "Even though we've never played the game, that doesn't mean we don't know the game. And we have some unique perspectives on reaching women that we can bring to the table."

While some female owners who inherited NFL teams are hands-off, Adams Strunk not only runs the Titans but has also delivered a stunning turnaround. Since 2016, the squad has had six winning seasons. More important, she helped bring the NFL draft to Nashville three years ago and has high hopes for the city to host a Super Bowl.

It's a vision her father could not have foreseen. Bud Adams, who died in 2013 at age 90, was a legend in professional football. A member of the Cherokee nation who made his fortune in oil, he was instrumental in founding the American Football League and started the Oilers for just $25,000. In 1997, when Houston wouldn't pony up cash to replace the aging Astrodome, he relocated the team to Nashville and its new 69,000-seat stadium.

"It was a game-changing moment for this city," recalls Butch Spyridon, CEO of the Nashville Convention & Visitors Corp. "It shocked the entire sports world, and Nashville started to believe in itself a little more."

But Bud Adams' death also led to a leadership struggle for the Titans as the team's losses piled up. Its ownership was split between his two daughters, Adams Strunk and Susie Adams Smith, and the wife and children of their brother, Kenneth Adams III, who died of suicide at 29 in 1987.

After a family scrum—which saw the ousting of her brother-in-law as CEO—Adams Strunk and her nephews wrested control of the team in 2015. "It was a hard decision," she says, "but my dad's legacy was very important to me and the boys."

Adams Strunk had grown up in football, but her father had never wanted his daughters working for the team. She had spent time as owner of a few of the family's car dealerships and oil interests, and raising horses (she still has a few dozen on the family ranch in Texas, along with plenty of rescue dogs). "I never thought—ever—that I would be running the football team," she says.

After she took over the Titans, she worked closely with her nephew, Kenneth Adams IV, who had worked for the team under her father since 2007, as well as with Steve Underwood, who she brought back from retirement as the team's top executive. Kenneth Adams, who is 38 and a Titans board member, says that having his aunt and other female owners running NFL teams makes a difference: "I think it's good for the NFL and we need it. It was a long time coming."

Adams Strunk brought in a new general manager, Jon Robinson, who was blunt about the team's problems on the field, and spent money on new facilities (including a new indoor training center) and new uniforms. "When you know you need to fix something you want someone telling you the brutal honest truth," Adams Strunk says. "Nothing is going to get solved if you don't know what needs to be done."

The willingness to spend money differentiated Adams Strunk from her frugal father. And while she could be tough when fixing problems, Jevon Kearse, the Titans' former defensive end, says it is her warmth that makes her a different kind of owner. "She's one of the first people to come up and give me a hug," he says. "Some of the owners come around for the money. She gives it a little bit more love.”

And all of that love has paid off. The value of the Titans’ has more than doubled since 2015, to $3.5 billion from $1.5 billion, as revenue reached $481 million, according to Forbes’ estimates. Even so, with the average NFL team now worth $4.5 billion and the Dallas Cowboys reaching a record $8 billion this year, the Titans remain No. 27 (of 32) on the list of most valuable NFL franchises.

Adams Strunk credits her success to having no preconceived notions about how to run a team. “Just because something has been done a certain way forever doesn’t make it the right way anymore,” she says, adding that it’s often easier to come in with big ideas as an outsider. “We talk a lot about being a 60-year-old startup,” says the team’s CEO, Burke Nihill, who took over two years ago. “Amy has encouraged us to challenge everything.”

Next up is the issue that vexed her father: a new stadium. While it is expected to cost more than $2 billion and the city has yet to sign off amid questions over taxpayer funding, Forbes has estimated that it could increase the Titans’ value by $300 million. To pay for their share of the new stadium—the team ownership and an NFL loan are expected to cover at least $700 million—the family will sell some of its other assets. Adams Strunk believes a new stadium, which would be fully enclosed, could host not only the Titans but also concerts and, yes, that big game with the $7 million commercials.

Super Bowl aside, Adams Strunk thinks her father would be a fan of the job she’s done. “I think if he was looking down now,” she says, “he’d be super proud.”

TITANS LINED UP FOR

AZEEZ AL-SHAAIR

BY PAUL KUHARSKY

MARCH 15, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – David Long was replaced within 24 hours as the Titans agreed to terms with their first Ran Carthon connection, Azeez Al-Shaair, the inside linebacker who's been a piece of the 49ers' strong defense.

Dianna Russini reported the agreement.

Al-Shaair will bring excellent speed to Nashville – something Mike Vrabel has emphasized he wants upgraded throughout the roster. The new inside linebacker will be 26 this season. The 6-foot-2, 228-pounder was undrafted out of Florida Atlantic in 2019.

He should help the team cover tight ends and running backs. He could be paired with Monty Rice or the two could be mixed and matched with a player deemed more of a run-down player. Others on the roster now are Chance Campbell, Jack Gibbens and Luke Gifford another played they agreed to terms with Tuesday.

Pro Football Focus rated Long 14th among inside backers last season with Al-Shaair 18th. They were both weakest in coverage where Long graded out at 62.9 and Al-Shaair at 61.

In his final year with the 49ers, he only played 143 coverage snaps (compared to 446 for Long) but per Sports Info Solutions he allowed two completions on four targets for 18 yards.

Al-Shaair missed five games in 2022 with an MCL injury. Over four seasons he's played in 56 games and started 31.

"He has some upside to his game because of his limited starts," Blake Beddingfield said.

Al-Shaair overcame quite a bit to make it to the NFL and earn a second contract, the financial details of which remain unreported.

He's got seven siblings, and they all moved in with their grandmother in Tampa, Fla. in 2012 because of financial struggles. He led his family to safety one night after smelling smoke and they watched the house burn down. After shuffling around they wound up housed in a long-term motel, and he spent two hours a day on a bus to get to school and football practice, often eating just once a day.

The Titans are also in line to add Gifford, another inside linebacker who's got great athleticism.

TITANS DL DENICO
AUTRY PLANS TO ATTACK WITH A
"BULLDOG MENTALITY"

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
AUGUST 10, 2021

NASHVILLE – Kevin Byard has noticed teammate Denico Autry's hands, the same hands responsible for blocking eight kicks in his NFL career.

"The guy's hands are huge," Byard said on Tuesday while discussing the big defensive lineman, who spent four years with the Raiders and three with the Colts before signing with the Titans back in March.

"He was in Indy, always being disruptive, always in the backfield making plays," Byard continued. "Obviously watching a guy like him, a guy who has so much length. ... He is just a big guy, and I think he is going to be really disruptive up front with Jeff (Simmons) and those guys. I am excited to see him come out here and make some plays for us."

The 6-foot-5, 285-pound Autry has played in 96 games, with 56 starts, since entering the league as an undrafted free agent with the Raiders in 2014. In seven seasons, he's recorded 182 tackles and 30.5 sacks.

In 2020, while lining up primarily at defensive end, Autry tallied 33 tackles (20 solo), 9 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, and 35 total QB pressures during 14 games, with 13 starts, with the Colts.

Now, he's ready to create havoc with the Titans.

And he's fired up about the opportunity in Tennessee.

"If you come after me," Autry said of the Titans signing him, "I'm going to give you all I've got. I appreciate those guys for that, and I want to prove them right."

Autry plans to do it using a "Bulldog mentality," which he didn't hesitate to describe when asked what that meant after Tuesdays' practice.

Like Simmons, Autry played in college at Mississippi State.

As a senior for the Bulldogs in 2013, Autry started in all 13 games and collected 31 tackles (14 solo), 6.5 tackles for loss, 2.0 sacks, three passes defended and one forced fumble

"With Jeff, that Bulldog mentality goes a long way," Autry said. "Rugged, tough, hard-nosed, going to get after you every play, relentless. (It's) just a way of life."

Autry was a force all over the defensive line for the Colts, where he registered 20 sacks in 40 games over the past three seasons. Autry posted nine sacks in 2018, 3.5 sacks in 2019 and 7.5 sacks in 2020.

Autry's 20 sacks during the last three seasons ranks in the top 15 in the NFL for defensive linemen. Autry has also appeared in four career playoff games with three starts and collected 12 tackles, 2.5 sacks, five quarterback hits and a forced fumble in the postseason.

Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen is excited about the possibilities with Autry.

"He has a lot of versatility for us," Bowen said. "He can play inside or outside, and he is able to go in there on third down and do some things, he is able to go outside on third down and do some things. His multiplicity and his alignments – obviously being a bigger guy, which we really haven't had in there on third down at times. A bigger, longer, more powerful dude that will be able to just push the pocket a little bit, too, and keep those edges a little bit shorter for our guys."

Autry said he's felt good in camp, and he attributes it to his training this offseason.

Leading up to camp, Autry said he focused on building endurance and strength while doing more CrossFit training.

In Tennessee, he's already enjoying his time – and he's ready to make an impact on the field.

"I like everything about it here," Autry said. "(When I was in Indy), I saw where (the Titans) had good parts and pieces, and I wanted to be a part of it."

AS TENNESSEE TITANS' DENICO AUTRY RETURNS TO INDY, DON'T FORGET THE SMALL TOWN THAT MADE HIM

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
OCTOBER 29, 2021

Denico Autry made Patrick Mahomes feel him.

Facing a third-and-long deep in Tennessee Titans territory late in the third quarter last Sunday, and looking at a 24-point deficit, the Chiefs needed a touchdown to keep any hope of a comeback alive. But Autry ruined the chance. Mahomes dropped back and Autry, beating rookie right guard Trey Smith on the inside, wrapped him up for a sack before he could step up in the pocket.

Autry wasn't done, either.

In the fourth quarter, Kansas City was again deep in Tennessee territory, facing a third-and-long. And Autry again sacked Mahomes, wrapping him by the legs.

It was the punctuation to a thorough beating of the 2018 MVP by the Titans' pass rush.

At the heart of it was Autry.

"That was the number one key (against Kansas City), put pressure on the quarterback," Autry said postgame.

The 6-foot-5, 285-pound Autry, one of the Titans' marquee free-agent signings to fix a defense had been one of the league's worst, has been as advertised for Tennessee (5-2) entering its Week 8 showdown Sunday (noon CT, CBS) against Autry's former team: the rival Indianapolis Colts (3-4).

Autry leads the Titans in quarterback knockdowns (7) and ranks second in sacks (3.5), tackles for loss (5), hurries (8) and pressures (19).

He had his best game of the season in the signature victory over the Chiefs, with a team-leading two sacks and four quarterback hits.

"We're asking him to do some things and learn terminology and now you can see him kind of hit his comfort zone," said Titans defensive line coach Terrell Williams.

Autry's early years

Autry grew up an hour east of Charlotte in Albemarle, North Carolina, a small town of about 16,000 people. He lived in the neighborhood of Amhurst on the southeast part of town, a violent area during Autry's youth. There were drugs and gang violence. Gunshots were common at night.

Autry's mother, LaSonya, kept him off the streets. His football coaches at Albemarle High School and volunteer policemen who worked with the program kept an eye on him, too.

Anytime Autry – and his teammates – did anything outside of the house, they knew about it within 15 minutes. If Autry was hanging out on the corner at night, they'd pick him up and take him to get a burger. Whatever it took to keep him out of trouble.

"He probably had every opportunity in the world to go down the wrong road. And he ended up making right turns all the time," recalled Baxter Morris, Autry's football coach in high school. "You had to keep an eye because there was a lot of influence out there that they could fall victim to. He never did. He was always pretty much in the straight and narrow. He was never in trouble in school.

"He pulled back away from even some people that he always considered his friends in elementary school, middle school and stuff. He just didn't run with them in high school because some of them didn't make it. Some of them went the other way."

Sports kept Autry busy.

In addition to football, he played basketball and ran track all four years of high school. At 6-foot-5 and around 220 pounds, Autry did the 300-meter hurdles and 400-meter races in track. He had hands so big he could palm a basketball in both hands and wave them around. On the gridiron, he played defensive end, tight end, receiver and played on special teams.

"He could fly," recalled Morris. "He was a rocket ship."

Autry drew inspiration to commit to football from the Albemarle community.

"It's a big football town," said Autry. "Watching the guys before me coming up and seeing how they were doing things, where they were going to school. It made me want to be like those guys and go farther."

Versatility helps Autry

Autry's versatility translated as he climbed the football ranks.

Autry is officially listed as a defensive lineman for the Titans, but he plays outside linebacker too. He rushes inside and out. He can win with "multiple different moves," according to coach Mike Vrabel.

The 31-year-old veteran has averaged half a sack per game since 2018.

"It wasn't a hard decision for us to find a way for him to fit into our game," said outside linebackers coach Ryan Crow. "He showed up and we knew kind of knew what he was."

The Titans produced a stinker in their Week 4 loss to the Jets, but Autry gave them a chance to win in overtime, when he pushed Zach Wilson out of bounds on third-and-goal, forcing a field goal and giving the offense the ball back. In the Week 6 thriller against the Bills, it was Autry's hit on Josh Allen in the second quarter that led to a momentum-changing interception by safety Kevin Byard.

The Titans' four-man front of Autry, Jeffery Simmons, Harold Landry and a healthier Bud Dupree has flashed brilliance the last couple weeks.

"I think he's a big, long body in there who's able to get some push in the middle of the pocket," said defensive coordinator Shane Bowen. "You're not seeing quarterbacks being able to step up a lot. A lot of the sacks are happening pretty deep, right? So guys aren't really able to step up, which kind of bodes well for us.

"Then he's athletic for a big dude. He's quick, he's able to get on edges. He's got some quick twitch to him, where he's able to work side to side and find ways off of blockers late in the down to get to the quarterback."

Facing the Colts, his old team

Autry won't forget the Colts let him walk.

That's what he made clear at his Titans introductory press conference in March. The soft-spoken Autry recorded 20 sacks in three seasons with Indianapolis (2018-20), including a team-high nine in 2018.

"That makes it real personal," Autry said at the time. "They knew what they had. It is what it is."

Autry on Sunday will face the Colts for the second time this season, but for the first time Indianapolis, a critical game for the Titans to gain separation in the AFC South standings.

Vrabel acknowledged that players going up against their former team can be emotional games, but expressed confidence in Autry's ability to deliver.

"I trust that Denico and everybody else for that matter, I think everybody is going to be pretty tuned up whether they played for the Colts previously or not," said

Vrabel. "Denico has done everything we have asked him to do, and I am excited to watch him prepare this week and ultimately play on Sunday."

Perform is what he's always done.

Autry had poor grades coming out of high school, but he attended East Mississippi Community College, where he was an NJCAA All-American and helped lead the school to a state and national title at the JUCO level.

He went undrafted out of Mississippi State, but he's had a productive NFL career, with 34 sacks and 55 tackles for loss across seven seasons and counting with the Raiders, Colts and Titans.

Tennessee appreciates Autry's approach to the game.

"He's a business guy," said Crow. "He brings his lunch pail. Goes really, really hard. If he needs to lead, he'll lead.

"That's what guys look up to: guys who've done it and can lead by example, but also speak up when they have to."

A DAY TRE AVERY WON'T FORGET

BY JOHN GLENNON
SI.COM
AUGUST 31, 2022

NASHVILLE – In the midst of spending time with his one-day-old son on Tuesday, Tre Avery got a phone call that made him a little nervous.

Tennessee Titans general manager Jon Robinson and coach Mike Vrabel were on the other end of the line, and this was the day NFL teams were cutting rosters from 80 to 53 players.

Who could blame Avery, an undrafted free-agent cornerback out of Rutgers, for thinking his time with the team might be up?

“When they called me, I was kind of shook,” Avery said Wednesday. “But then they said, ‘Congratulations.’”

It was actually a double dose of congratulations. Robinson and Vrabel first acknowledged the birth of Avery’s baby boy – Riley – and then delivered the news he’d made the team’s 53-man roster.

In so doing, he beat out a pair of more experienced cornerbacks, Chris Jackson and Greg Mabin, among other competitors. A seventh-round draft pick of the Titans in 2020, Jackson had played 23 games for the team and made six starts. Mabin had played 39 NFL games and started seven, including two for the Titans last season.

Who would have guessed Avery would eventually emerge the winner in that group?

“As far as my odds coming into camp, I didn’t really think about it,” Avery said. “I just wanted a chance. I was grateful for the opportunity.

“Every time I got to step on the field, I just (thought) it could be my last game. So I just wanted to play, have fun. I love playing football, so I just wanted to enjoy it. That’s all.”

Avery first piqued the interest of NFL teams at Rutgers’ Pro Day last March, when he put up some impressive numbers. The 5-foot-11, 181-pounder ran a 4.43 40-yard dash, posted a 38-inch vertical jump and ran the 20-yard shuttle in a swift 3.95 seconds.

Just over a month later, the Titans signed Avery.

He was more steady than spectacular during training camp, but Avery took advantage of the growing opportunity. In the Titans’ preseason finale against Arizona, he played all 71 defensive snaps, recording five tackles. Avery finished the preseason with eight tackles (one for loss) and one pass defended.

“He was kind of seventh or eighth in the race (at cornerback) about midway through camp,” Titans general manager Jon Robinson said. “(But) it seemed like once he got to turn four, he just hitched up and kept running, kept passing guys up.

“He’s competitive at the line of scrimmage. He’s really sticky in coverage. He’s got play speed. He’s got good instincts. He doesn’t play the position like a rookie. He’s not intimidated. He gets up there and lines up on his guy, and he’s reactive. He’s really done a nice job.”

The birth of his first child one day. A berth on the 53-man roster the next.

It’s been a pretty good week for Avery.

“I just tried to do whatever they asked of me, the best I could,” Avery said. “I just tried to have fun, fly around, go as hard as I could. I guess it worked.”

BOWEN SEES MANY BENEFITS TO BEING COORDINATOR

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
AUGUST 4, 2021

NASHVILLE – The questions were raised often throughout the 2020 season.

Who is in charge of the Tennessee Titans defense? Was it coach Mike Vrabel? Was it outside linebackers coach Shane Bowen, who was designated the in-game play caller? Was anyone actually in command?

That is not problem in 2021. Bowen was promoted to defensive coordinator early in the offseason, and despite the many denials about any confusion that came in response to those questions last year, he now says clarity has made things better.

“I think it has helped with everybody, with the coaching staff, the players,” Bowen, a 34-year-old, first-time coordinator said Tuesday. “I think that it has been good up to this point. (The players) kind of understand where the bus stops and it is what it is.

“I am excited for the opportunity, I really am. I am excited for the ways these guys are going about working right now and kind of what we are trying to get accomplished on defense.”

The issues began a day after the Titans lost to the Kansas City Chiefs in the AFC Championship game ahead of Super Bowl LIV. That is when Dean Pees, a long-time defensive coordinator who directed Tennessee’s unit for two seasons retired.

Head coach Mike Vrabel ultimately chose not to hire a replacement. Instead, he said he planned to be more involved with the defense (he has one season of experience as a coordinator) and said Bowen, a position coach, would call the plays.

Over the course of 16 games in the regular season that defense struggled to find any consistency or productivity. It allowed opponents to convert more third-down opportunities (113) than it stopped (111). Seven teams scored 30 or more points against the Titans, who ranked near the bottom of the league in sacks, first downs allowed and yards allowed.

With the title of defensive coordinator, Bowen says he has more freedom to choose where he wants to be when, whether it is during meetings or during practice. That ability to move around apparently has created a greater focus among the various entities that make up the defense.

“Now, if the (defensive backs) see something one way, I can immediately walk into the linebacker room and say, ‘Hey man, this is what we are thinking, this is how they see it,’” Bowen said. “That way everybody sees things the same way, we are communicating things the same way. I think that has been a tremendous asset, being able to bounce room to room.”

It also has allowed all of the players on that side of the ball to get to know him in a way only the outside linebackers did previously. No longer is he just one of the coaches who happens to call the plays. He is the guy in the front of the room during defense meetings. He is the guy in an office who is available to safeties and linemen and cornerbacks, if they want to talk. And he is the one who will get the blame or the credit this season, based on how things go.

“I have enjoyed it and I think it goes back to building relationships too,” Bowen said. “Making sure they see me, see me watching them, seeing me out there and it is not just me in a meeting room telling them, ‘Hey, on this play you do this.’ There is a lot more that goes into it.

“... I think building the relationships with the guys, that is a big part of it. That last year I don’t think was there, whereas this year it is growing, and it is becoming a bigger piece for me.”

SHANE BOWEN WITH 'FINAL VOICE' OF
TENNESSEE TITANS'
DEFENSE AS DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
JUNE 2, 2021

Tennessee Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen said there's definitely change that has come with his offseason promotion from outside linebackers.

"Having control of the whole unit," Bowen explained to reporters. "My perspective on everything. Making sure we're all on the same page, seeing things the same way. Ultimately, being a final voice, right? So (my responsibility) has changed in that regard."

Bowen spoke to local media Wednesday for the first time since being given the title of defensive coordinator in January, after serving in that role in a de facto capacity last season.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel didn't name a defensive coordinator for 2020 after Dean Pees' retirement following the 2019 season. As the outside linebackers coach last season, Bowen led the defensive meetings during the week and was the play caller on game days.

But Bowen's formal promotion this offseason symbolized a vote of confidence from Vrabel, even after the Titans' defensive struggles last season. Tennessee allowed a league-worst 51.9% conversion rate of third down last season and ranked third-worst in sacks (19) and red zone conversion rate allowed (69.2%). It's why Vrabel's decision to elevate Bowen didn't resonate well with some fans.

"I think he's kind of coached me in this deal," Bowen said of Vrabel. "He's brought me up through this profession in some regard. I think just looking back at the position groups, when I had them, what I realized is that some of the things we've done in the past here – last year, some of the good and some of the bad stuff – there's stuff obviously we've got to get corrected. But I appreciate (Vrabel's) confidence in me.

Bowen enters the 2021 season with clarity on his role, new personnel and a traditional offseason program – OTAs and minicamp – to install his defense after a season rattled by COVID-19 and the departures of free-agent busts Jadeveon Clowney and Vic Beasley.

"We're all in this together to do whatever we see fit and whatever is needed to find ways to win games in whatever fashion we got to do it," he said. "We've got to play better defensively. We do. I'm excited. I'm encouraged about where this thing is going right now."

To improve the defense in 2021, Bowen said the Titans are looking to put their personnel in better positions to be successful.

Tennessee will have many of the same schematic principles, but he stressed there's "a lot of ways to skin the cat" with their players, many of whom are new after the defensive overhaul this offseason.

"We're trying new things," Bowen said. "Like a lot of the same scheme stuff, don't get me wrong. But there's a lot of ways to skin a cat. You can do things a lot of different ways. Just trying to find what fits with these players and what they most relate to. That's the beauty of bringing guys in from other teams."

Despite the defensive woes, the Titans last season ranked eighth in the NFL with 23 takeaways. Bowen said that's something to build upon as they put their 2020 struggles behind them.

"I think that's a foundation piece for us," Bowen said. "Finding ways to turn the ball over and give the ball back to our offense has got to continue. We can't let that waver with any of the other stuff. It's still going to be a core belief that we have."

As far as that abysmal pass rush from a year ago, Bowen is confident it will improve. He is excited about the additions of outside linebacker Bud Dupree and defensive lineman Denico Autry, to pair with returning starters Jeffery Simmons and Harold Landry. The Titans are banking on developing a few more players, too.

Bowen is eager for the pass rush – like the rest of the defense – to show its worth when the season starts.

"I can't speak for anybody outside of this building, but I got confidence in them," Bowen said. "I do. I can't wait until we get to the fall and get to kind of put this thing together and see what it looks like."

was a daily sight. Folks in the organization who paid close attention were impressed by Brewer's ability to hang. Including Simmons.

"Their mindset is the same," Simmons said of Brewer and Saffold. "And when I say that, I really mean it. He has that mindset like a bigger guy, no matter how small he is. We had some great battles this camp. He got me some days, especially one-on-one blocking. And I got him some days. That's just props to him. He came each and every day to want to get better. I'd beat him and he'd say, 'Jeff, I want another rep.' That's what we look for from guys on our team, guys who want to compete."

He'll get his chance now, each week in this league, after encountering no serious threat to his starting position in camp. Brewer has done mostly good things with the Titans, but he has not yet been through a full-season rotation of dominant defensive tackles in this league nor worked to keep his weight up and his health strong amid that weekly grind. If he is what the Titans think he is, a brighter outlook for this offense line can at least be argued.

Rookie and third-round pick Nicholas Petit-Frere will still be a question at starting right tackle, but David Quessenberry gave up 11 sacks at that spot last season, per Pro Football Focus, the most among offensive tackles. Right guard Nate Davis has declared better health and expectations of a return to his 2020 form. Ben Jones keeps on trucking and leading the offense. Lewan is coming off a healthy offseason of work, not an offseason of ACL rehabilitation like a year ago, and he and Brewer can both move like few offensive linemen.

"We both have a lot of the same skill traits — both athletic, both twitchy — so us working together and putting it together, it's poetry," Brewer said. "It's gonna work every time. This whole camp, getting together and getting on the same page, when it's on all cylinders, it's teach tape."

It may not be must-see TV for Titans fans. But it's important. And if the Titans happen to score a touchdown or two Sunday, that's when fans should find No. 55. He said he is still completing the trick that got him noticed, with ease, in full pads.

"You might see something," Brewer said. "And you might be a little surprised."

AARON BREWER PREPARING TO ANCHOR
THE TITANS OFFENSIVE LINE IN 2023

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 5, 2023

NASHVILLE – Since 2016 – Marcus Mariota's second year in the NFL – one man has been a fixture in the middle of the Titans offensive line.

The gritty and durable Ben Jones anchored the line at center the last seven years, rarely missing a game.

Jones, however, is no longer with the team.

Aaron Brewer knows what that means for him.

"I have been working at center right now," Brewer said this week. "And I would say that is the goal for the team right now – for me to move into the center spot and take over that role."

Brewer, who started 17 games for the Titans in 2023, said he's up for the challenge after playing guard last season.

"Center fits me well, because I'm in the middle and I'm facing those big noses, and I'm quick and I'm athletic and have natural leverage, so that's a good spot for me.

"Since I've been here, I've been in that guard/center role. In my second year, I came in a couple of games at center. Ben has just been that certified center, but I've been for sure next up at that spot."

Brewer said he learned a lot from watching Jones, a Pro Bowler in 2022 who was waived earlier this offseason.

From 2016 through 2021 with the Titans, Jones was one of one of only eight offensive linemen to start at least 96 of a possible 97 games. Jones missed five games a year ago because of a pair of concussions.

"I learned a lot from Ben," Brewer said. "Ben, he's been in the league 10-plus years, so his knowledge of the game is on another level, just going into practice, going into games. He sees defenses, and defensive coordinator's schemes – everything from pre-snap to the snap. His whole mentality about everything, how he goes about things, how he prepares, I took all that in."

Brewer, who initially joined the Titans as an undrafted free agent in 2020, has plenty of experience. Over the past three seasons, Brewer has played in 41 games, with 23 starts. In 2022, Brewer started 15 games at left guard and two at center in place of Jones.

Since 2020, Brewer has started 18 games at left guard, three games at right guard, and two games at center.

Brewer believes he's sturdy enough to anchor the line.

"I am pretty sure I'll be playing around the same weight I've been – I'm now really too light," Brewer said with a smile. "I know the media would probably say I'm about 240, 250. But I've been this weight for a minute now – 290."

The Titans will have a new-look offensive line in 2023.

Not only is Jones gone, but tackle Taylor Lewan and guard Nate Davis are no longer with the team either.

The Titans signed tackle Andre Dillard and guard Daniel Brunskill in free agency, and then drafted offensive linemen Peter Skoronski and Jaelyn Duncan last weekend.

Brewer said he's ready to do his part on the field, and as a leader.

"I was a leader coming out of college," Brewer said. "I, myself, I lead by example. So, I am going to work hard, I am going to put in the work, and if something needs to be said I'm going to be saying it."

"The culture is going to be the culture – we are built on effort and finish. That's us, and that's not going to change."

THE TITANS NEW NOT AWFUL OFFENSIVE LINE AND THE BACK FLIP THAT HELPED REBUILD
IT

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 8, 2022

Just five teams gave up fewer than the 25 sacks the Titans allowed in 2020. Just six teams gave up more than the 47 they allowed in 2021. And just about everyone who thinks this team won't make the postseason in 2022 points to that troubled group up front.

The Titans were sacked 8.79 percent of the time they dropped back last season, which also ranked 26th in the NFL, and that's right around where you'll find them in your favorite football site's preseason offensive line rankings for 2022. Pick an advanced stat, any advanced stat — how about an average of 2.59 seconds to throw in 2021, per TruMedia, which ranked 30th in the NFL? — and the conclusion is the same. The Titans addressed this issue by swapping out a veteran for a rookie at right tackle and one of the best run blockers in the game for an undersized, undrafted 2020 free agent out of Texas State at left guard.

That last point is the external assessment of Aaron Brewer, anyway. Internally, he's part of the case for a better offensive line in 2022, a surprisingly effective offense, the avoidance of the plummet most of the NFL seems to expect from the Titans after they earned the AFC's No. 1 seed last season. Left guard play may not be top of mind for fans when Tennessee hosts the Giants in Sunday's season opener, but it's a big deal. And this is the first opportunity for Brewer to really start validating the murmurs that have been coming out of Titans headquarters for a while.

As tough as anyone we've got ...

Incredible quickness ...

He and Taylor Lewan are going to be lethal together ...

This guy's our center of the future ...

I don't care how big he is ...

For as long as Brewer starts in the NFL, be it a fraction of this season or the next 10 with some Pro Bowls sprinkled in, that's going to come up. He's listed at 6-foot-1, 295, or 21 pounds more than when the Titans signed him after the 2020 draft. It almost kept him out of the NFL. It made him consider trying to be a tight end in the NFL. It almost cost him an opportunity to play in the FBS. It kept Power 5 programs from paying any mind to him amid all the superstars at Dallas Skyline High. And if it wasn't for an eye-popping stunt he performed as a high school senior shortly before signing day in 2016, he probably wouldn't be a Tennessee Titan today.

Brewer was committed to Sam Houston State, an FCS program that will transition to FBS starting in 2023. He was known for his athletic feats, including the ability to pull off a standing back flip — impressive for anyone that size, let alone someone that size in full pads. One of Brewer's teammates took a video of him doing a flip. Brewer shared it on social media.

"I wasn't even thinking about doing anything like that, but I did it, I posted it and it just blew up," Brewer said. "Like 30 minutes later, Texas State called."

Texas State offensive line coach Adrian Mayes, in particular. He had been on the job a few days, hired by new head coach Everett Withers. Withers was brought in after a successful head coaching tenure at James Madison, which followed up his stint as Urban Meyer's co-defensive coordinator at Ohio State — sharing that title with Luke Fickell, working closely with defensive line coach Mike Vrabel.

Withers' staff had missed some official visit weekends and was scrambling to put together any kind of 2016 recruiting class. The flip wasn't the only endorsement of Brewer. Withers interviewed a student intern at Sam Houston State named Clayton Barnes for an offensive intern position with the Bobcats and asked if any of the committed Sam Houston State players might be worth a look. Barnes mentioned Brewer right away — very athletic, undersized, but also under-recruited because an injury caused him to miss the camp circuit in the summer before his senior season. Texas State got Brewer in on the last weekend for official visits before signing day.

"He did a back flip for us in the end zone," said John "Stretch" Streicher, then Withers' director of football operations and now the Titans' football development coordinator.

And pretty much from the start, Brewer was one of Texas State's best players. He started at all five offensive line positions in his four-year career — he was far better-suited to work on the interior, but he also happened to be the Bobcats' best tackle.

"Nasty disposition, phenomenal athlete, can bend, can move, can run, it was really shocking he was available to us at Texas State," said Withers, who is now chief of staff for Temple head coach Stan Drayton, another member of that Ohio State staff under Meyer. "His explosive power is as good as any big man I've ever been around. And he was just one of those guys — there wasn't a defensive lineman in the country he thought could whup his ass. Playing Arkansas, Houston, didn't matter, his competitive spirit was unquestionable. I'm trying to remember how many times I watched the tape and he actually just got beat."

Withers was fired after three seasons with a 7-28 record, though

Brewer credited him in those three years with doing exactly what a coach is supposed to do from an individual development standpoint.

“His mentality and his foundation on everything he had done and been through, it was really good for me as a young man,” Brewer said of Withers. “He helped me grow as a man and as a player in every aspect of the game. That respect, that discipline he taught me, that has taken me very far.”

When it was time to find out how far that might be in football, Brewer knew he probably wouldn’t be chosen in the 2020 NFL Draft. He had three opportunities as an undrafted free agent. The Titans, Patriots and Falcons had done homework on him and wanted to sign him.

“Stretch having been there with Everett and those coaches that we knew, it was a no-brainer really for us, to try to add him to our roster after the draft,” Vrabel said of Brewer.

The Titans and Patriots were interested in Brewer as an interior offensive lineman. The Falcons told him they wanted to look at him as a tight end after he ran a 4.79 at the Texas State pro day. And this admittedly intrigued him.

“I was real close to going there,” Brewer said of the Falcons, whose new tight end coach at the time, Ben Steele, told Brewer he thought he could make the transition to that position.

And this is where Streicher — whom Vrabel had hired away from Texas State when he got the Titans job in 2018 — gave the Titans an edge.

“Stretch’s relationship with Aaron was key,” Titans GM Jon Robinson told The Athletic. “That always helps when the draft is over and you’re in the recruiting process of trying to get guys to come here. In this case, it was advantageous to us.”

Streicher talked up the organization, the opportunity at hand and Vrabel — whom Brewer now says reminds him a lot of Withers as a head coach. Streicher also told Brewer he believed offensive line was his best bet in the NFL and that perhaps he could be a starting center in the league someday.

So the Titans got him. Withers texted Vrabel this message: “You’ve got yourself a tough son of a bitch.”

“Yeah, we think he’s our kind of guy,” Vrabel texted back.

Now the Titans will find out how much that means.

“In terms of the projection of where we thought he could be, I will say that when he first got here his actual play strength was better than I gave him credit for,” Robinson said. “Once he grips a guy, he has the ability to control him. You never know what trajectory, what path a player will take. But he was a guy who really took to heart all the things we thought were important from a technique standpoint. He’s worked on them. He’s a good teammate. He’s smart, all of that.”

Brewer, 24, has seen action in 24 games in his first two seasons, including six starts — three at left guard and three at right guard. He has acquitted himself well as a quality backup. That alone makes the finding and landing of him in the spring of 2020 a success. And the possibility that he could eventually succeed Ben Jones at center, whenever the 33-year-old Jones decides to hang it up, means this could be one of the memorable recruitments of Robinson’s tenure.

“When he lines up at center, you get a different look,” Titans defensive tackle Naquan Jones said of Brewer. “He’s able to put a lot of different things into his game, add a new speed aspect. He’s very quick off the ball, very good leverage, and he just makes sure everything is polished as far as technique and fundamentals. Being so quick off the ball, being so powerful with it, he’s not one of those guys you can just bull rush, just because he has a very strong lower body. It forces you to come off the ball and think quick, because he’s gonna get on you pretty fast.”

But the question right now is what Brewer can be to the 2022 team, trying for its third straight AFC South title, at left guard. He’s replacing an elite NFL run blocker, the 6-5, 325-pound Rodger Saffold, which is like a scatback replacing Derrick Henry. For as bad as the Titans were at pass blocking last season, they continued to mash in the run-blocking department, even when Henry wasn’t running the ball.

The preseason is a time for accolades, especially for new players or new starters whose play can’t yet contradict such accolades. Brewer has received plenty, including from the compliment-stingy Vrabel, who called him “tougher than a $2 steak.”

“That’s exactly what he is,” Lewan said of the new guy to his right, after three strong seasons of partnering with Saffold. “The guy comes to practice every single day, gives 100 percent effort and goes. He and Rodger have a lot of similarities in their game. Obviously their sizes are different, but Brew does a lot of great things, and I’m excited to play next to him.”

Brewer is also bendy like one would assume a steak at that price would be, Ben Jones saying of him: “He’s by far our most athletic guy. He’s special.”

“He’s a dog,” said Titans inside linebacker David Long Jr., another undersized find who has ascended to starting status for the Titans. “He has that mentality.”

Perhaps the strongest endorsement comes from the star player who battled Brewer all through camp. Jeffery Simmons and Saffold had some legendary encounters in preseasons past, some of them resulting in lost tempers. That wasn’t the dynamic with Simmons and Brewer, but heated competition

TITANS BECOMING 49ERS SOUTHEAST? ARDEN KEY,
DANIEL BRUNSKILL
CONTINUE RAN'S RUN

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
MARCH 16, 2023

The Titans are going for it in 2023. "It" can only realistically be considered the AFC South, but if you win that you get a home playoff game and then who knows?

You don't have to beat all the teams in the AFC with better quarterbacks than you. You have to be good enough around your good quarterback to beat three of them. Based on how the Titans have approached free agency this week, that's what they're thinking. Based on their actions in the first offseason for new GM Ran Carthon, that good quarterback, Ryan Tannehill, will be back playing out the final year of his deal. Same thing for the great running back, Derrick Henry.

(Unless the Titans trade Tannehill and move up from No. 11 to grab Kentucky's Will Levis, though it's hard anymore to find Tannehill trade partners who make sense).

Speaking of the AFC South, I doubt Duval County is fretting that edge Arden Key has moved on from the defending champion Jaguars to the Titans. But there was another Titans signing a few years ago from a divisional rival, of a guy who could play outside linebacker and defensive end, that didn't get a ton of attention at the time but has had a not insignificant impact on the Titans' handling of the Indianapolis Colts since then. Key is not Denico Autry. But Key with Autry, Harold Landry and Jeffery Simmons? It's intriguing.

Agreements with Key — who was with the 49ers in 2021 — and 49ers offensive guard Daniel Brunskill, both confirmed by a team source to The Athletic, continue the run on guys who have history with Carthon. And bolster the Titans in their area of biggest need (offensive line) and potential area of biggest strength (pass rush).

How they fit: Key is a situational pass rusher and should be the same with the Titans unless he can carve out a bigger role than that. But that's his value and that is what Bud Dupree was supposed to be for the Titans — and was at times, especially in 2021, when Dupree, Landry, Simmons and Autry overwhelmed quarterbacks for stretches like few groups in the league. The Titans needed an add like this after losing DeMarcus Walker, who signed with the Bears. The 6-5, 240-pound Key had 4 1/2 sacks in his season with the Jaguars, but he also had a pressure rate of 14.4 percent, 20th in the NFL among players with 200 or more snaps. That rate was 15 percent in 2021 with the 49ers.

Brunskill has played all over the offensive line but is a right guard by trade and figures to step in there and replace Nate Davis, who also signed with the Bears. He was the 49ers' backup center, though, and the Titans cut longtime center Ben Jones, so that's also a possibility.

2023 impact: Landry is coming off a torn ACL. Rashad Weaver will be a third-year pro and is a solid player, but the Titans need more across from Landry. Autry is in the final year of his deal and Simmons should be getting a massive extension before the season. If Key can mesh with that group and be a force in the Titans' sub package — and those other guys can maintain or elevate their impact — this could be a terrific signing. Brunskill, meanwhile, is going to have an opportunity to start somewhere for the Titans on their rebuilt offensive line.

If he does work out at right guard and Nicholas Petit-Frere can take a step in his second season at right tackle, and if Aaron Brewer is ready to take over at center (his ideal position), and Andre Dillard is up to his potential opportunity as the starting left tackle ... well, things are starting to look less grim. But that's a lot of uncertainty. And the Titans would still need to draft another tackle, possibly at No. 11, and a left guard.

History: A key part of the history of both players, of course, is that Carthon knows them well. The new GM is putting his stamp on this team immediately with players he believes can add to the Titans' talent and chemistry. A bigger part of the history of both players is that they've been relatively healthy. Key, a 2018 third-round pick of the Raiders out of LSU, played in all 17 games the past two seasons. Brunskill, an undrafted player out of San Diego State who originally signed with the Falcons in 2017, did miss the first three games last season with a hamstring injury but played in all 17 in 2021.

Cap update: Key signed a three-year, $21 million deal with $13 million guaranteed, according to NFL Network. That's a significant investment in a player who has bounced around, but if he works out as hoped, that's strong value, especially relative to the contract former GM Jon Robinson gave Dupree. Brunskill's contract details are not yet available.

Outlook: Will the Titans significantly revamp the offensive line after a terrible 2022? That remains a huge question. But the vision is coming into focus. The Niners and Eagles were loaded, and now some of their depth guys are getting bigger opportunities. The Titans have bolstered what could be another salty defense in 2023 without spending a ton. Now, the next question: What are they going to do at receiver?

TITANS' TREYLON BURKS STARTING 2023 WITH NEWFOUND CONFIDENCE AND JOYFUL APPROACH.
HERE'S WHY

BY JULIAN BASENA
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
JUNE 8, 2023

Treyton Burks is having fun playing football again. Growing into his role in year two with the Tennessee Titans, Burks is focusing more on enjoying himself and playing confidently after an up-and-down rookie season.

"I'm out there just having fun, playing with my teammates, just doing my job," Burks said after Wednesday's minicamp practice.

According to Burks, Rob Moore, the Titans wide receiver coach, has been key to his shift in attitude. Out of everything he's learned from the former All-Pro wideout, Burks said Moore has improved his confidence most.

Playing fast, having fun and worrying less about mistakes are areas Burks has seen significant growth. In his rookie year, Burks said he never truly grasped the approach until the end of the season.

"I was just like, 'if it happens, it happens — just move on,'" Burks said.

To start 2023, Burks has recaptured a more aggressive style of play, hunting for contested passes under duress. He's shown some of his ability during minicamp this week.

"That's just stuff that I've grown up (doing) before getting here," Burks said. "It just took time for me to relax and get back to myself and now I'm able to do that."

"It comes from confidence," Burks said, " ... me having confidence going up making those balls and not thinking too much during the route. Just running the route, having fun, going up and making a play for the team."

His early improvements in 2023 are in contrast to his struggles throughout his rookie season.

Burks, a first-round draft selection in 2022, was thrust into a major receiving role at the start of his career and endured several setbacks. Billed as the replacement for A.J. Brown, Burks missed the majority of his first minicamp and OTAs because of asthma-induced breathing issues.

Due to other ailments, Burks appeared in 11 games (six starts) and recorded 33 catches for 444 yards. He suffered a toe injury that sidelined him for multiple weeks and was also subject to the Titans' quarterback turnover after Ryan Tannehill went down with injury.

Burks' best performances came when quarterback play and attitude were at their best. With Tannehill healthy in Week 11, Burks caught seven balls for 111 yards.

Burks believes Tannehill and additional veteran guidance can build his confidence further.

"That helps out a lot just because (Tannehill) knows what he's talking about so I listen," Burks said. "I haven't been in the league as long as he has just hearing from him and hearing from all the older guys has helped me."

TITANS WR TREYLON
BURKS ARRIVES TO OTAS
AFTER 'CRAZY' FLIGHT,
IMPRESSES QB RYAN
TANNEHILL WITH IMPROVEMENT

BY GRANT GORDON

JUNE 1, 2023

Whether it was by land, air or sea, Treylon Burks was going to arrive on time for Tennessee Titans organized team activities earlier this week.

Due to the domino effect of a delayed flight, Burks was forced to make alternate arrangements in the form of flying into Tennessee via a small Cessna.

It was an example of Burks' dedication, but an uneasy journey nonetheless for the 2022 first-round pick who has arrived at OTAs ahead of a season in which he aims to arrive as a viable No. 1 WR for Tennessee.

"That was kind of crazy though," Burks said, via PaulKuharsky.com. "It was real crazy. But I mean, you got to do what you got to do."

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound Burks had his flight from Dallas to Arkansas delayed, thereby meaning his connection to Nashville would be missed, Kuharsky reported. So, after much ado attempting to find a private pilot, Burks landed with Zach Davis. However, it was a tight squeeze of a flight for the big-bodied wideout.

"It was actually the day before where my agent called the guy, but I didn't know the plane was that little," Burks said. "I just thought it was maybe like a little jet or something. Then when we get there, it's just crazy, you know? Everything was alright."

All's well that lands safely, though, and Burks has hit the OTA practice field running ahead of a pivotal season.

Tennessee has a dearth of talent in the WR corps and Burks will need to make some strides in Year 2 after a disappointing rookie campaign.

Though it's merely the spring, so far so optimistic for Burks in the eyes of his quarterback Ryan Tannehill.

"Treylon's grown a lot," Tannehill said this week. "I'm really excited about what I've seen from him. He's flying around."

There was no pun intended by Tannehill, but flying around has been a theme for Burks so far, and that's promising for the Titans.

Burks was selected by the Titans after they traded A.J. Brown to the Philadelphia Eagles.

Following a trade that was largely panned and hoisted undo pressure upon Burks' shoulders, the Arkansas product struggled along with the rest of the 2022 Titans offense. Burks, who deals with asthma and was sidelined with a concussion last year, played in 11 games as a rookie and finished with just one touchdown off 33 catches for 444 yards.

With a year under his belt, though, Burks is impressing early in the offseason.

"He's moving fast," Tannehill said. "He's moving efficiently. He's coming out and he's working. He's in shape. All great things obviously. He's been able to catch the ball and get open his whole time here, but all the little things that go along with playing the position, being able to see the field, understand the full concept, as opposed to just a route. How he fits in the whole picture. All those things."

"I think he's playing with a lot of confidence right now. So, just want to keep him going, keep him growing. He's doing a lot of really, really good things right now. I'm really happy with his growth and want to keep pushing forward."

Burks is flying high so far in 2023, but just how high won't be seen until the season kicks off in September.

NEW TITANS WR TREYLON BURKS PUTS HIS BOOTS ON THE GROUND IN NASHVILLE, READY TO WORK

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
APRIL 29, 2022

NASHVILLE – Decked out in cowboy boots, jeans and a dapper white sports coat, new Titans receiver Treyton Burks stepped off the team's private jet on Friday looking – and sounding – the part.

The boots, by the way, weren't just for show for his trip to Music City. Burks, in fact, has several pairs, including ostrich, lizard and snake skin boots.

"I'm just a boots guy," a smiling Burks, who likes to hunt hogs as a hobby, said as he walked through the Titans locker room. "I like my boots."

After being drafted 18th overall by the Titans in Thursday night's NFL Draft, the former Arkansas receiver arrived in town today and said ready to get to work.

"Honestly, words can't explain the feeling I have right now," Burks said. "I am thankful to be here, and for having the chance to live my dream. I just want to do everything God has put in front of me, and attack it like I am."

"I'm happy to be here. I knew that (the Titans) liked me, just from the one-on-one visit that I had with them. But I just played it as: I am just going to let God take care of everything and wherever I go, I am going to be blessed to go there. Now, I feel like I'm blessed to be here, and I'm ready to get to work."

A 6-foot-3, 225-pounder, Burks caught 66 passes for 1,104 yards and 11 touchdowns for the Razorbacks in 2021 to earn first-team All-SEC honors – and get the attention of NFL teams.

During the pre-draft process, Burks said he visited 14 different teams, including the Titans.

"I went three weeks straight flying," Burks said. "I was all over the place, going from one place to the next. I racked up a lot of flying hours."

Burks felt like there was something special in Tennessee, who traded up from the 26th pick – while dealing receiver A.J. Brown to the Eagles in the process – to get him.

As Burks walked the hallways at Saint Thomas Sports Park on Friday, he said he felt comfortable. He was on his way to Nissan Stadium, set to return to the facility for a press conference later today.

"Just how Coach (Mike) Vrabel runs things, and everybody else in the organization, the mentality in the locker room and on the field and practices, I like it," Burks said. "It's about business, going about your business the right way and everything else will take care of itself."

"Just walking around the facility today, being a part of it now, it is a lot different. I am not uptight, all of that. I am comfortable that I am finally here, and I'm ready to get to work."

Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk sent the team's private jet – complete with a Titans logo – to Searcy, Arkansas, this morning to pick up Burks at 11 a.m.

He landed in Nashville around 11:45.

"Just being on that jet, and coming here, that was pretty cool," Burks said. "I am so thankful."

"I am going to go to work every day and take care of my business. I am going to be that team player that is going to motivate everyone around me, that's just who've I've always been. As a young boy playing pee-wee ball, I feel like I tried to establish myself as a hard worker."

Before heading to Nissan Stadium, Burks tackled one more topic during a quick interview on Friday: Hog hunting, as mentioned previously.

Yes, it's true.

"My favorite hobby is hog hunting," Burks said with a smile. "When I was like six years old, we would go out and hunt hogs with my uncle's friends and I just fell in love with it and have been doing it ever since."

"We use dogs, and a knife," Burks continued. "The dogs go out there and bait them, and we come in behind them and catch the hog – and depending on how big it is – we decide whether we kill it or not."

Burks smiled when asked the size of the biggest hog he's ever battled.

"450 (pounds)," he said.

"There was one time when (a hog came after us), but we got up the tree, so it couldn't get us," Burks said, smiling bigger. "It was an adrenaline rush for sure."

Kind of like landing in the NFL.

MTSU TO RETIRE TITANS SAFETY KEVIN BYARD'S JERSEY

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
AUGUST 4, 2022

NASHVILLE – Titans safety Kevin Byard had a good day in Thursday's practice – he knocked away three balls in an early 1-on-1 period before later intercepting quarterback Ryan Tannehill.

Things got even better after practice.

After Byard wrapped up a press conference, MTSU officials surprised him by walking out of Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park and announcing the team's plans to retire his No. 20 jersey at the school.

"Honestly, this jersey is fire," Byard said with a smile. "What an honor. Just going back to those days at MTSU. ... I played with a lot of great players at MTSU, a lot of great coaches. I couldn't have done it on my own. A lot of people I want to thank – all the coaches, players, staff, trainers, people in our student enhancement center that helped me. I am just honored, and I am so grateful. I'm really at a loss for words.

"I know my mother would be very proud of me in this moment right now."

Byard's jersey will be retired on Sept. 30 during a ceremony at the Blue Raiders' home game versus UTSA, President Sidney A. McPhee and Director of Athletics Chris Massaro announced on Thursday. MTSU coach Rick Stockstill gave Byard a big hug at the ceremony.

Byard will join Teddy Morris as the only other player in MTSU football history to have his number retired. Morris' No. 14 was retired in 1965.

"I want you to know that we are all very, very proud of you," McPhee told Byard. "You represent us well, and you represent this state well. Congratulations."

A four-year starter for the Blue Raiders from 2012-15, Byard ended his career as the program's all-time leader in interceptions (19), interception return yards (377), interception return touchdowns (4) and is one of just nine players in school history with 300 or more tackles. A team captain, Byard forced or gained 25 turnovers (19 INT, 5 FF, 1 FR) in 49 career games played.

Byard was selected in the third round in the 2016 NFL Draft by the Titans. He's coming off his second Pro Bowl season with the team. Byard was named the team's Walter Payton Man of the Year winner in 2020 for his work in the community.

"I remember I told Jon Robinson when they were evaluating Kevin before the draft," said Stockstill, referring to the Titans General Manager. "I told him: Kevin came in as a professional, and he did everything right off the field, and he had an incredible work ethic. He was extremely focused on his goals, what he wanted to accomplish not only as a student, not only as a football player, but as a man. He came in as a professional and he worked hard. ... I always appreciated how hard he worked."

AFTER LOSS OF HIS MOTHER TITANS SAFETY
KEVIN BYARD BUOYED
BY HER LIFE LESSONS, STRENGTH AND PRIDE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 27, 2022

NASHVILLE – Kevin Byard looked like he was having the time of his life at Day 1 of Titans camp on Wednesday.

Football is back, and the seventh-year pro was flying around during the 90-minute practice.

After taking off his helmet when the session wrapped up, Byard was swarmed by his two kids – daughter Eliana and son Kevin Byard IV – as he greeted his wife, Clarke.

"It's a beautiful thing," Byard said. "It's a big blessing to have my kids out here, two beautiful children."

Byard said he appreciates every moment even more now after losing his mother a month ago.

What makes him smile is knowing how proud his mother was of him. Byard said he appreciates the love and support from those around him following his mother's unexpected death.

"At times, I feel like I'm still in shock a little bit, it hasn't set all the way in," Byard said after practice. "Some days are good, and some days are tough. But at the end of the day, I think what I have learned throughout this process is you really never know. This thing came out of left field, so (I'm) just trying to wake up every morning with gratitude. Gratitude that I have another day to come into this building, be around the guys.

"I try to come in here every day being grateful that I have another day, and that's what I try to express to the guys. It's the same thing in this building: You never know when it is going to be your day, and you never know when an injury may end everything or just your life, period. I feel like people that have been through this situation will tell you: Love on your loved ones, and make sure you are calling people every day to let them know that you love them."

Byard, a two-time Pro Bowler, has talked glowingly about his mother, Artina Stanley, in the past.

Following a divorce when Byard was in the ninth grade, Byard's mother moved the family from Philadelphia to Atlanta. She worked long hours to make sure her children received what they needed.

In May 2020, the former MTSU star bought his mother a new house.

On June 24 of this year, Byard posted a tribute message to his mom on Instagram, crediting her for his success.

"My mom was everything to me," Byard said on Wednesday. "Her work ethic, every single day. Raising seven kids, (mainly) on her own, is tough on anybody. And she took it in stride and handled it with the utmost character and everything. ... Who I am today is because of her, and I owe everything to her.

"One thing I understand, too, thinking spiritually, my mom is with me every single day. It might sound weird, but I talk to my mom a lot and I can hear her voice saying: "Just keep your foot on the gas." And that's what I am going to keep doing every single day."

DAD LIFE – A SPECIAL DELIVERY

BY MIKE HOGAN

SEPTEMBER 16, 2020

Kevin Byard and his wife, Clarke, recently experienced something that many couples who have newborns would consider non-traditional.

It was not according to the game plan, but the Byards delivered Kevin Leon Byard IV at their home on August 23. It will not count to his interception total, but the Tennessee Titans Pro Bowl safety made what he can consider the biggest catch of his life, when his hands brought the child into this world.

Byard told the exhilarating story during a virtual press conference with media on Wednesday.

“It’s one of those deals where we couldn’t make it to the hospital,” he said. “My wife was having pretty bad contractions. I actually feel asleep because they ended up subsiding and I thought the baby was going to come the next day.”

But then things changed.

“She woke me up at about 10:30 having contractions. She was on the bathroom floor, so I kind of got up ... not really panicking but scrambling to get some clothes on, helping her trying to get dressed. Her mom was downstairs so I called her upstairs to help us out. I went downstairs to get the car ready and then went back upstairs. She was on her feet moving around but she was having pretty bad contractions.

“I called the doula [healthcare professional] and quickly called her back to tell her to meet us at the house. Now I am really starting to scramble a little bit. I went back downstairs for something and when I went back upstairs, she was back on the floor ... she was on her hands and knees still having contractions.

“I got the doula on the speaker phone and she asked my wife how she was feeling. She said, ‘I can’t really move, I feel like the baby is about to come.’ The doula said, “Let’s try to get her in the bathtub.’

“So I am like, ‘OK, well let’s try to get her on her feet.’ So I tried to check back there ... I kind of pulled her pants down a little bit to see what’s going on and the head was already poking out. So, at this point I am back there, “Oh man the head the head is poking out.’ The doula told her to start breathing, relax and to start pushing.

“She’s on her hands and knees so the baby, when the head started to come out, his face was pulling upward so I could see it was real purple. I was kind of nervous about that. The doula told me to support his head and check for the umbilical cord to see if it was wrapped around his neck. Thank god it wasn’t.

“She started pushing and about 10-15 minutes later, once she got his head out and his shoulders, everything kind of slipped out. I caught him in my arms and waited about five seconds. He coughed about two times and started crying. I laid my wife down on her back. We did skin-to-skin. We waited for the ambulance and the doula to arrive .. we got the placenta out, cut the umbilical cord and went to the hospital.”

The son is the couple’s second child and his birthday is one day after his older sister’s. Byard will be able to tell both of his children many stories about his successes as a football player.

A third-round selection by the Titans in 2016 out of Middle Tennessee State, Byard made the Pro Bowl and took home All-Pro honors in just his second NFL season (2017). He has been a team captain twice (2019, present) and leads all NFL safeties with 17 interceptions since the 2017 season.

But no success story will be more compelling than this one.

“That was probably the most memorable thing me and my wife have ever been through in our relationship other than obviously getting married,” he said. “That’s a story I will be able to tell my son for the rest of our days.”

3 THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT CHANCE
CAMPBELL, TITANS'
SIXTH-ROUND NFL DRAFT
PICK AT NO. 219 OVERALL

BY MAXWELL DONALDSON
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 30, 2022

The Tennessee Titans selected former Ole Miss linebacker Chance Campbell with the No. 219 pick in the sixth round Saturday during the 2022 NFL Draft.

Campbell had 109 tackles, 12.5 tackles for loss and six sacks during his senior season.

Here's what to know about Campbell.

Transfer from Maryland

Originally enrolling at Maryland, the prospect from Ellicott City, Md., had 107 tackles with 10 for loss and 1.5 sacks across three seasons with the Terrapins. He earned honorable mention All-Big Ten honors his junior season.

He appeared in four games during that season, tallying 42 tackles with 5.5 for loss and 1.5 sacks in the shortened season. He came to Maryland as a three-star recruit and ranked as the 20th-best prospect in Maryland.

Helped turn around Ole Miss defense

After transferring to Ole Miss, he helped lead the turnaround of a Rebels defense that allowed 38.3 points per game in 2020, reducing that to 24.7 points on average last season. It was the best mark since 2015 for Ole Miss. He helped to anchor the inside of the Rebels' linebacking corps.

He was the first SEC player to have 100-plus tackles, 12-plus tackles for loss and 6-plus sacks since linebacker Roquan Smith's 2017 season at Georgia. Smith is now with the Chicago Bears.

High school lacrosse success

Campbell played both football and lacrosse at Calvert Hall in Baltimore. He helped lead the Cardinals to a MIAA Conference title as a junior.

That season he scored 21 goals in 13 games, according to MaxPreps.

During an interview with NFL Network's "Good Morning Football," he discussed how lacrosse helped him improve at football.

"Lacrosse is a sport that is just fast," Campbell said. "You're on your feet the whole time; there's a physical aspect of it which is really fun. It's kind of like being a safety all over the field. ... You get to be agile and make moves, go score and go play some defense. It's kind of like football but on skates all the time so you're rolling."

HOW TITANS GM RAN CARTHON GOT HIS DREAM JOB

*BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN
SEPTEMBER 4, 2023*

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- As Ran Carthon was being introduced as Tennessee Titans general manager in January, his mind flashed back to 2003.

The thought brought a smile to his face. Carthon was a senior at Florida when his then-girlfriend, Heaven, asked him what he wanted to do for a living.

"I told her, 'One day I want to be a GM of an NFL football team,'" Carthon said. "She later told me that she almost stopped dating me because she never met somebody that lived in la-la land."

Carthon thanked myriad people during his speech before he smiled at Heaven, who's now his wife, and said "Honey, today that dream comes true."

Carthon became the fifth GM of the Titans since the franchise moved to Nashville in 1997, achieving a goal dating back to childhood. It was an arduous process. He employed unconventional methods to get his foot in the door after spending 2004 to 2006 as a running back with the Indianapolis Colts before finishing the second half of his third and final season with the Detroit Lions.

"He can connect with anyone," Houston Texans coach DeMeco Ryans said of Carthon, whom he worked with in San Francisco. "Everybody is Ran's best friend. He's ... very relatable, very personable."

CARTHON'S PASSION FOR scouting started in 1995, when he was 14 years old and studying draft previews. When draft day came, he and his younger brother would record the all-day event on their VCR. Carthon watched each selection, rewinding and scribbling the picks on his "little legal pad."

That passion only grew in Indianapolis.

Future Hall of Famers like quarterback Peyton Manning and running back Edgerrin James were pivotal for his development on and off the field. He had to be ready for Manning's famous "Omaha" calls at the line of scrimmage, constant audibling and knowing everyone's job on any given play.

"You can't just know your spot when playing with a guy like that," Carthon said. "You have to know what everybody is doing."

"It opens up your eyes from the vantage point of being a talent evaluator, being able to understand who is making the mistake, who is right, who is wrong."

Even as a player, he scoured advanced scouting reports. James was impressed with the way Carthon read every report and evaluated film, calling his former teammate "a student of the game."

"Ran, he was going a little bit deeper," James said. "He's studying the sheets and really knew everything when he didn't have to."

Carthon was first exposed to the NFL personnel world when he was in college. The New York Jets staff visited Florida for pro days, and his father, Maurice -- a former NFL fullback -- was a member of the Jets' coaching staff. They ended up putting Ran to work as he timed the 40-yard dash and tabulated results. He also would meet with the coaches and watch film.

"That was my introduction to the business side of it and not just be a fan of the draft," Carthon said.

As Carthon's playing career was ending, he knew he had to create connections that would help him take steps toward becoming a GM -- including taking workouts to network to set -- but little did he know, it would be the key to his future.

THE WORKOUT CARTHON took with the Atlanta Falcons might have been the most valuable. He was able to establish a relationship with then-general manager Thomas Dimitroff, and that led to a scouting job in 2008.

He spent four seasons attending games, practice sessions and studying prospects' tapes.

Carthon's next job was director of player personnel with the Rams from 2012 to 2016. He was still a scout, but he was also in charge of pulling together reports from other scouts and coaches to present to the general manager and head coach.

The most pivotal move came in 2017 after he joined the San Francisco 49ers as director of pro personnel. Carthon was required to have extensive knowledge of all 32 NFL rosters.

"I came from a good situation in San Francisco," Carthon said. "It was a really great building with a lot of strong relationships there."

Carthon went on to become the director of player personnel in 2021, a move that put him on track to become a GM.

"Ran's had a tremendous amount of experience in a variety of roles," 49ers general manager John Lynch said. "He did a tremendous job in our pro department. Then we wanted him involved in more than just the pro department because he was worthy of that. So Ran got involved in our college process."

The 49ers selected former Louisiana running back Elijah Mitchell in the sixth round of the 2021 draft, in part, because Carthon pushed for it. The football research and development manager, Demetrius Washington, came to Carthon saying his numbers were telling him Mitchell was the best outside zone running back in the draft, but he wanted Carthon to watch the game film.

Carthon agreed with Washington, and they took their findings to 49ers coach Kyle Shanahan. DeMeco Ryans, who was the defensive coordinator at the time, agreed as well, and the 49ers selected Mitchell instead of a linebacker they originally focused on selecting.

Injuries to running backs Raheem Mostert and Jeff Wilson Jr. thrust Mitchell into duty in 2021, where he rushed for 963 yards and five touchdowns as a rookie in 11 games and helped push the 49ers to the NFC Championship Game.

San Francisco's success in the draft and free agency led to a Super Bowl appearance in 2019 and back-to-back NFC Championship Game appearances in 2021 and 2022. The 49ers' winning ways landed Carthon in the conversation for multiple general manager roles.

CARTHON INTERVIEWED FOR the general manager position with the Chicago Bears, New York Giants and Pittsburgh Steelers in 2022.

The opportunity to become the Titans' general manager may not have been possible if Carthon didn't attend The NFL Front Office Accelerator program in December. The program is designed to enhance opportunities for diverse front office prospects to strengthen relationships with club ownership and executives.

"The goal of our accelerator program is to foster relationships between owners and potential candidates for front office positions," said Steelers president Art Rooney II, chairman of the NFL Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee. "Both the clubs and the accelerator participants understand the importance of the exposure, professional development and networking opportunities."

The accelerator program put candidates like Carthon in a meetand-greet setting with NFL team leadership groups.

"I am extremely appreciative to commissioner [Roger] Goodell, [NFL chief diversity and inclusion officer] Jonathan Beane and all those beautiful people at the league office there that spearheaded the program," Carthon said.

"It works. I'm here in part because of it, so it works."

During the program, Carthon was encouraged to meet with the Titans leadership panel that included controlling owner Amy Adams-Strunk, president/CEO Burk Nihill and chief external and league affairs officer Adolpho Birch III.

"What impressed me the most was his growth mindset and clear vision," Adams-Strunk said of Carthon.

Adams-Strunk was also struck by Carthon's "ability to connect" with the Titans' leadership group.

Developing relationships has always been one of Carthon's strengths, going all the way back to his time in Gainesville, Florida, where he was nicknamed, "The Mayor."

"He gets to know people in a really authentic way," Lynch said. "I can't tell you how many times I was like, 'Ran, I need you to go find this out.' He'd always deliver because people connect with Ran."

When Carthon landed his first scouting job, there were three Black general managers (Ozzie Newsome, Baltimore Ravens; Rick Smith, Texans; Jerry Reese, Giants) in NFL history.

Now he's one of eight in the NFL.

"There have been plenty of men that have come before me that have laid this foundation," Carthon said. "It is paramount in my mind to do the work and be successful in order to leave the door open for other young Black men that are coming behind me."

Titans general manager Ran Carthon has made several key additions in Tennessee since taking over the role in January. George Walker IV/USA TODAY Network

CARTHON WAS TESTED immediately in his new role. The Titans entered the offseason with multiple holes to fill -- including retooling the offensive line, adding playmakers to an anemic offense and replacing free agents that went on to other teams -- with limited cap space.

Under Carthon's leadership, the Titans added low-cost starters for a franchise with approximately $14.4 million left of a possible $224.8 million salary cap for 2023.

"He's a guy that's motivated for the right reasons to do what he does best, evaluate football players," Miami Dolphins coach Mike McDaniel said of Carthon, who he knows from his days as 49ers offensive coordinator. "He has a great scope of what it takes for a team to win and all the different variables that are encompassed in that."

Carthon opened the line of communication with defensive tackle Jeffery Simmons' agent, Paul DeRousselle, about a contract extension soon after he got the job. Simmons had already made it clear after the 2022 season finale that he wanted a new deal to stay with the Titans and didn't want to play on the franchise tag.

"When I first met Ran, he told me I would be here in Tennessee," Simmons said. "I would say Ran kept his word."

The two parties kept the communication going through free agency and brokered a deal that made Simmons the highest-paid player at his position at the time with a four-year, $96 million extension through the 2027 season.

"[Negotiations were] collaborative and never combative," DeRousselle said. "We never got away from the purpose. We didn't negotiate through the media. We just did good, clean business."

Then the focus turned to the draft in April where the Titans held the No. 11 pick. Carthon said he woke up at 3 a.m. and struggled to go back to sleep one of the nights leading up to the draft because he wondered who would be there when the Titans were on the clock.

That No. 11 pick ended up being Northwestern offensive lineman Peter Skoronski, a player they thought would be gone.

Carthon was excited when they were put on the clock. He likened the moment to when a player scores their first touchdown and does a dance to celebrate before the coach tells him to act like he's been there before.

"I told Ran, you never forget your first [pick]," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said.

The Titans still needed to address the wide receiver position after finishing 30th in receiving yards last season. Carthon decided to play the long game, trusting his belief an option would open as teams continued to churn their rosters.

Then the Arizona Cardinals released two-time All-Pro receiver DeAndre Hopkins in late May. Tennessee moved in quickly by hosting Hopkins on his first free agent visit in June. As Hopkins waited to make his decision, Carthon had to free up cash.

Five-time captain Kevin Byard was asked to take a pay cut earlier in the offseason but he refused. Carthon and the Titans went back to Byard in July about restructuring his deal.

This time it was a success.

The Titans were able to sign Hopkins to a two-year deal worth $26 million a little over a month after they first brought him to Nashville.

Carthon breathed a sigh of relief before speaking to the media on Day 1 of training camp. He called the process of signing Hopkins "a long date."

The ever evolving roster construction process came to an end as the Titans released their initial 53-man roster. There's still more work to be done but after seven months into the job, Carthon is comfortable with the group he has in place.

"I'm in a lucky spot to come into a place that's pretty much established and has a culture." Carthon said. "Myself, [assistant general managers] Chad [Brinker] and [Anthony Robinson], we get to come in and add our flavor, bring it all together. It's a collaborative effort."

RAN CARTHON SHARES WHAT HE'S THINKING ABOUT FUTURE FOOTBALL PLANS AND THE MUSIC CITY

BY JULIE BROWN PATTON CITY LIFESTYLE
MAY 30, 2023

Ran Carthon became the Tennessee Titan franchise's 14th general manager in January.

Previously, he served for two seasons as director of player personnel with the 49ers after handling five seasons as the director of pro personnel in San Francisco.

Ran, 42, was one of seven candidates to interview for the position with the Titans. "I want us to build the best team possible – a competitive, sound football team that Nashville and other surrounding areas are proud of," he says.

"We're excited to add Ran to our organization," Titans Controlling Owner Amy Adams Strunk states. "He brings a variety of valuable experiences to our team. I was impressed with his natural leadership qualities and ability to connect with people. With talent evaluation being critical to this role, the roster they've built in San Francisco stands out. He played an important role there constructing one of our league's best teams."

Ran's father, Maurice, also played in the NFL with the New York Giants and Indianapolis Colts.

Ran himself played running back for University of Florida and signed as an undrafted free agent with the Indianapolis Colts in 2004. He played for three NFL seasons with the Colts and Detroit Lions.

This new Titans' leader says he doesn't miss playing as much as he misses locker room camaraderie. "In my new role, I have to leave the locker room more to the guys and let it be their personal space."

So far, he says one of the toughest parts of his new job is being away from his family. "In terms of the job, I've been doing this for a while, but I knew things would come up that I had no experience with. In those cases, you lean on your mentors and people who've been there."

Football executives and former players Martin Mayhew and John Lynch Jr. are a couple of the advisers with whom Ran says he's fortunately collaborated.

Regarding Ran's main considerations heading into the NFL draft as a first-year general manager, he says, "The cool thing about this experience was having a partner in Mike Vrabel. He's done it all before. Of course, there was pressure because this was my first time facilitating an NFL Draft as a general manager, but I had a lot of experience around me to lean on and bounce ideas off of."

We also had to just trust our board, and not allow outside circumstances dictate our plan. I think we did that well."

Ran says he's looking forward to exploring Nashville. "I've found a few places I already frequent, so I'm excited to keep growing that list."

Regarding hobbies, Ran quips, "If you ask my wife, she'll tell you I have no hobbies. I have no life outside of my family and football. I do like music, though. I'm not musically inclined myself, but I appreciate it."

He says he relishes being around creators, so when he goes to Miami in the summers, he joins studio artists to just watch them create their music. "I'm looking for a studio in Nashville to engage with and spend time drawing inspiration from artists and musicians," he announces.

Ran's charitable interests lie in taking action on things that touch his heart. "I always want to lend a hand and show up for things that make an impact," he adds.

A good example of Ran's idea of support is the "Fatherhood Ticket Program" he created in Atlanta, which gives two tickets and two sideline passes to a deserving father.

"Usually kids write-in and tell us why their dad deserves it. We hear those stories about single parent households where dad wasn't really involved, but you rarely hear the stories about where dad was involved and played a big role. It's a great way to celebrate the men who are stepping up to fill such an important role in a kid's life. I definitely want to bring the Fatherhood Ticket Program to Nashville. I think the community will love it," he says.

Regarding how his family's brood is getting acclimated, he says, "Our daughter is going off to college this year. I also have an assistant general manager in my house. My oldest son, at 6 years old, critiques every signing we do and every draft pick. My kids are amazing. I love spending time with them. Our house is always busy, and no one is short on opinions."

He shares that he met his wife, Heaven, during college in a Haitian-Creole class.

Ran's Father's Day tradition? "It's the best. I like to just chill out for the day. The kids will bring me breakfast and then I just have a relaxing day for myself."

FROM THE SENIOR BOWL: TITANS GM RAN CARTHON LIVING HIS CHILDHOOD DREAM WHILE KEEPING HIS FOCUS ON THE "MAIN THING"

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JANUARY 31, 2023

MOBILE, Ala. – Way back in middle school, Ran Carthon did his homework leading up to NFL drafts.

The son of an NFL player, Carthon used to go to the local convenience stores and buy all the magazines – Athlon Sports, Street & Smith, etc. He researched the prospects, and the teams.

And then on draft nights, he'd get out a legal pad and try to predict the NFL landing spots for players.

"I didn't know what I was doing at the time," a smiling Carthon said from the Senior Bowl on Tuesday. "I didn't realize there was a career based on this when I was doing it. Back then, it was just something I liked doing. I think I recorded every draft from '95 or '96 up until the year I came out in '04."

Later, after his own college and NFL playing career, Carthon began taking things even more seriously. When he went back to the University of Florida to get his degree, he got his big break.

He credits former Gators coach Urban Meyer for giving him a chance to help out with the staff, and after one Florida Pro Day, he met with some NFL scouts, and he began to make connections.

All of that helped lead Carthon to where he is today – general manager of the Tennessee Titans.

On Tuesday, Carthon was on hand for his first Senior Bowl as a GM.

The Titans hire Carthon, who spent the previous six seasons with the 49ers and prior to that worked with the Rams and Falcons, two weeks ago.

His world has been a whirlwind since.

Here at the Mobile Convention Center and at Hancock Whitney Stadium on the campus at the University of South Alabama, it's included a lot of handshakes and hugs from those wishing him congratulations.

"I think it goes back to the moment the news broke," Carthon said. "From the moment the news broke to the time I boarded my flight back to San Jose – a matter of maybe an hour-and-a-half – when I got on the plane, I had 600 text messages. It's just a testament to the relationships I've build around the league. Everyone knows my nature is to be low-key, off the grid. One of my buddies from another team told me: Those days are over. But I know it's coming from a good place. People are generally happy for me and happy for me to get this opportunity and it's been coming from guys I look up to in the industry to guys I have mentored.

"It has been great, but you'll hear me say constantly: I just want to keep the main thing the main thing. So being out here on the football field, being around talent, being around the staff, that is getting back to the main thing for me."

Carthon, who spent the previous two seasons as Director of Player Personnel for the 49ers, had traveled to Mobile in the past to scout players.

On Tuesday, Carthon said he feels like he's made great progress in getting more familiar and comfortable, and on the same page, with those he's now working with, from head coach Mike Vrabel and members of the team's scouting staff, who also made the trip here from Nashville.

He's also learning the prospects better as well.

So, what's Carthon looking for in future Titans?

"From a physical attributes standpoint, you want guys that are tough and physical," Carthon said. "But more than anything you want guys that love football. You want guys who are passionate about it, that football is life, and that is what they live for – they live to play this game.

"I'll give you an example: Fred Warner, who is one of the elite players in our league, he is never not in the building. And even after he got paid, he is never not in the (49ers) building. We have guys like that who are currently on our team. We just want to add more guys like that."

Carthon, who has spent time with prospects in interviews, is quick to point out he's just part of the team, despite his big title.

He's made that clear at Saint Thomas Sports Park from the day controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk hired him to replace Jon Robinson.

"One of the young guys in the office said to me: I'm excited to work for you," Carthon said. "And I stopped him and said, 'No, work with.' We are in this together. I am in this position, yes, and I embrace it. But this is a collective thing. I don't have all the answers and I am not going to always be right just because of the title I have. It is going to be collaborative – I want to hear what the scouts have to say. They have the most exposure to (the players), so I want these guys to feel very much a part of it. We're going to be a partnership."

After this week's Senior Bowl, the Titans will continue the work leading up to April's NFL Draft. The NFL Combine in Indianapolis is a month away, and Pro Days are on the horizon.

The team has some tough decisions to make regarding current players, and new additions, in free agency.

Carthon wants to do his part to help take the Titans to the next level.

"It has been a good team here, a competitive team, a winning team," Carthon said. "I have been brought in to help elevate that and bring another component to it. So, I am here to partner with Mike and partner with Ms. Amy and work with these scouts and do our part in taking the Tennessee Titans to the next step."

TITANS' 1ST BLACK GM SAYS HE STANDS ON 'SHOULDERS OF GIANTS'

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS
JANUARY 20, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ran Carthon looked up, pausing before answering a question his aunt warned would come.

He is the first Black general manager in the history of the Tennessee Titans, a franchise founded in 1960 as the then-Houston Oilers in the original American Football League.

“I understand I’m standing on the shoulders of giants, and there have been plenty of men that have come before me that have laid this foundation that allowed me to be in this spot,” Carthon said Friday at his introductory news conference.

Carthon, who turns 42 in February, has been too busy putting himself in this position and hadn’t had time to contemplate the history of the moment. Not after a whirlwind week of interviews, a wild-card playoff victory with the San Francisco 49ers and accepting his new job.

Becoming an NFL GM had been Carthon's only goal after he went from undrafted rookie running back out of Florida to a brief playing career before front-office jobs in Atlanta and with the Rams and the 49ers.

“It’s paramount in my mind to do the work and be successful to leave the door open for other Black men that are coming behind me because there are a lot of talented young Black men who can do the job,” Carthon said. “They just need the opportunity.”

The Titans made Carthon the sixth person of color among the past eight GMs hired, and he now is the NFL's eighth Black general manager and ninth person of color overall.

The NFL has held two accelerator programs since late May to promote more minority candidates for front-office jobs. Carthon said he met Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk and Burke Nihill, the team's president and CEO, during the owners' winter meetings in December.

For Strunk, the hiring moved quickly starting Jan. 12. The Titans interviewed two internal candidates, and Arizona hired their director of player personnel, Monti Ossenfort, on Monday.

Carthon interviewed with the Titans on Jan. 13 in Nashville, flew back for the 49ers' wild-card win over Seattle, then returned to Nashville for a second interview Tuesday. He learned he was being offered the job while at the airport.

He replaces Jon Robinson, fired Dec. 6 in his seventh season in the midst of what wound up a seven-game skid as Tennessee finished 7-10. The Titans missed a third straight AFC South title with a loss in the regular season finale in Jacksonville.

Strunk said Carthon stood out as the clear choice with his background as a former player who grew up around the game. Carthon's father, Maurice, not only played in the NFL but also coached with seven different teams.

The Titans also liked Carthon's record of success evaluating talent as a pro scout for the Atlanta Falcons starting in 2008, as director of pro personnel for the Rams between 2012 and 2016 and his last six seasons with the 49ers, the last two as director of player personnel.

“We called as many potential references as we could find to learn more about Ran as a person, talent evaluator and leader,” Strunk said. “Whether current and former colleagues, the scouting community, the former teammates, the feedback was unanimous. Ran is exceptional.”

Carthon, who also interviewed last year for general manager jobs with Chicago and the New York Giants, said his vision for the franchise includes lifting trophies and holding parades in Nashville. Strunk said she has those same high expectations despite how this last season ended.

“We have some big questions to answer offseason, but I’m excited for what the future brings,” she said.

The Titans are projected to be $23.3 million over the 2023 salary cap by Spotrac.com. Both quarterback Ryan Tannehill and two-time NFL rushing champ Derrick Henry, who finished second in the league in rushing in 2022, are going into the final seasons of their current contracts.

Two-time Pro Bowl defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons has made clear he wants an extension. The Titans also hold the No. 11 overall pick in the April draft.

Carthon and coach Mike Vrabel, 48-34 in his five seasons in Tennessee, both emphasized their plans to collaborate on roster building down to position coaches working with scouts to identify talent.

“We got a lot of work to do,” Vrabel said. “We’re excited to get to work on that.”

AFTER A GRAND ENTRANCE, NEW TITANS
GM RAN CARTHON
READY TO GET TO WORK

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JANUARY 19, 2023

NASHVILLE — Ran Carthon made a memorable entrance on his first day on the job.

After being named general manager of the Titans earlier in the week, Carthon received a rousing, celebratory welcome to Saint Thomas Sports Park when he walked through the doors on Thursday afternoon.

"I've never had a party this big," Carthon said as he flashed a big smile.

Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk then officially introduced Carthon, formerly director of player personnel with the San Francisco 49ers, to employees of the team.

Carthon, accompanied by his wife and children, seemed to be taken by surprise by the gathering, as members of the organization filled the lobby and lined the staircases of the recently renovated MetroCenter facility.

Carthon then addressed the crowd, and said he's ready to get to work.

"We are all here, rowing in the same direction," Carthon said, "and we all want to hoist the Lombardi (Trophy) one day. All of us play a part in that. So, I am here to do the work. I am willing to do the work. And I look forward to working with everybody."

Strunk, who led interviews with seven candidates since the end of the 2022 season, informed Carthon earlier this week he'd been chosen as the team's next GM.

"How do you feel about being the Titans general manager?," Strunk asked Carthon when delivering the news. "Well, we'd love to have you."

Carlton flew to California after his second interview in Nashville, and he returned with his family on Thursday.

After making a grand entrance, Carthon made the rounds in the building, going from the locker room to the team's indoor practice facility to the C.O. Brocato Draft room to his new office.

"The welcome, walking in," Carthon said. "It just makes everything that I thought when I met (for the interview) real, and it confirms this is a great place, and we're going to do some great things together here. I am excited."

Carthon will be introduced to Nashville media at his introductory press conference at noon Friday at STSP.

FROM THE PRO BOWL: LONG SNAPPER MORGAN
COX REFLECTS ON LIFE'S BLESSINGS, AND HIS JOURNEY TO THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT

TENNESSEETITANS.COM

FEBRUARY 2, 2023

LAS VEGAS – Morgan Cox has experienced a lot during his 13-year playing career.

The Titans long snapper has played in a Super Bowl and been named to five Pro Bowls. He's played in over 200 career games, in stadiums all over the country. He's made lifelong friends, and countless memories.

As Cox took a helicopter ride on Thursday morning into the Grand Canyon, over Lake Mead and the Hoover Dam, and then over the Las Vegas strip, Cox reflected on his journey, and the blessings that have come with it.

"I've seen God's hands on a lot of things as I kind of reflect on my career," Cox said. "I am grateful for the opportunities I have been given, and the unique experiences I have gotten to have because of this game."

Cox is in Las Vegas for the 2023 Pro Bowl Games. It's his first trip as a Titan after being named a Pro Bowler on four earlier occasions during his playing days with the Ravens, where he won a Super Bowl ring during the 2012 season.

Cox, who just finished his second season in Tennessee, admits this one is special. A Collierville native who played at the University of Tennessee, Cox is representing his home state – and the team he grew up cheering for as a youngster.

While overlooking the Las Vegas Strip on Thursday, Cox told a story about the time he traveled to a Titans game his senior year in high school with his buddies.

They took his mom's Suburban, and they painted "Titans" on it. They also painted letters on their chests, spelling out T-I-T-A-N-S.

"It was a memorable trip," Cox said with a smile.

Long before that, Cox remembers watching the Titans play in Super Bowl XXXIV, at his aunt and uncle's house in Memphis. The Titans-Rams game was projected on a bed sheet.

"I remember (Kevin) Dyson stretching out the ball," Cox said, "and being heartbroken."

Cox never dreamed he'd end up playing in the NFL himself.

It started with a childhood competition, and it's continued because of a lot of hard work.

As an 11-year-old, Cox went out for a football team called the 'Buccaneers' in the Collierville Youth Athletic Association. The coach was his dentist, Bill Burriss.

On the first day of practice, Burriss brought all the players up and said they needed to fill the position of 'long snapper'. Everyone got in line, and they all got a chance to snap.

"My first shot at it was really pretty bad," Cox recalled. "So, they moved onto the next person."

But Cox said his father, who happened to be at practice that day, encouraged him to try it again, so he went to the side and practiced. He started to get the hang of it, and he got back in line.

The following year he was back in the mix, as a seventh grader, for the long snapping position at Evangelical Christian School.

"Over time," Cox said, "I got better and better."

Cox played in high school at ECS, got recruited by the University of Tennessee, and after paying his dues for a few years at the school – and learning from FG snapper Adam Miles and punt snapper Ryan West – he got his chance.

Cox ended up playing in 38 games in three seasons at Tennessee, and was then signed by the Ravens as an undrafted free agent in 2010.

As they say, the rest is history.

Cox is humbled to be at the Pro Bowl again.

"It's an honor for me to be here, being a part of the Titans now," Cox said. "To be in my 13th year and to be able to experience the Pro Bowl again, it is truly an amazing honor and tough to put into words what it means to me."

Along the way, Cox said the backing from family and friends has made it even more special.

"The support from my home state has been amazing," he said. "No shortage of ticket requests, but that's been great as well. It's awesome to be able to play in front of people I've been around my whole life. I grew up in Memphis, went to school in Knoxville and everybody converging in Nashville is pretty cool."

Cox plans to enjoy the events surrounding the Pro Bowl Games this week.

He's scheduled to take part in a "Kick-Tac-Toe" event, and has other things planned as well.

"This isn't my kind of town to be honest," he said. "I'm a big saver, not much of a spender."

As he looks ahead, Cox plans to keep working to sharpen his craft.

Even after 13 years, he believes there's always room for improvement.

"I've put in a lot of time and work in kind of honing the craft," he said. "I can never say I have perfected it. I don't think there is such a thing. You're constantly want to chase perfection and find ways to improve your game, whether it be snapping, blocking, covering. I can always improve."

Cox is already looking forward to Year 14.

He's hoping it will be with the Titans.

"God has a plan, and I certainly hope to be back with the Titans next year," he said. "I am going to play as long as I possibly can. I love what I get to do, and I am grateful. I feel like I am still playing at a high level, and I am going to keep playing as long as I can."

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH FORMER EAGLES TACKLE ANDRE DILLARD

BY JIM WYATT

MARCH 20, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have officially agreed to terms with former Eagles tackle Andre Dillard.

Dillard, selected with the 22nd overall pick in the 2019 NFL Draft, joins an offensive line in Tennessee that's currently under construction.

Dillard (6-5, 315) has played in 43 games over four seasons with the Eagles, with nine starts. Dillard started four games in 2019 and five games in 2021, but he was sidelined for all of the 2020 season because of a biceps tear.

In college, Dillard appeared in 42 career games at Washington State, including starts at left tackle in each of his last 39 contests. He was a two-time All-Pac-12 honoree who started all 13 games as a senior in 2018, when he allowed just one sack and 13 pressures in 722 pass-blocking snaps while receiving All-America honors as well as first-team All-Pac-12 recognition.

The Titans recently released left tackle Taylor Lewan and center Ben Jones, and guard Nate Davis reached a deal with the Chicago Bears.

LEBANON'S COLTON DOWELL ALL SMILES AS HE BEGINS HIS NFL JOURNEY WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM

MAY 16, 2023

NASHVILLE – Colton Dowell took his rookie mishap in stride.

While working on a footwork drill over the weekend, the Titans receiver stumbled and fell to the ground during the team's rookie minicamp.

It happened right in front of a big group of reporters on hand to cover the debut of the team's first-year players – and also, directly in front of Titans coach Mike Vrabel.

"My body was moving faster than my mind," Dowell said with a smile. "I had a lot of adrenalin going. ... I'd be lying if I said that was the first time I've ever done that, and I'm sure that's not going to be the last time.

"But it's a great thing I can look at it and know I'm not where I need to be at yet. And I can just keep getting better."

So, what did his new head coach say?

"Coach Vrabel, he just kind of looked at me and just moved on," Dowell said, smiling even bigger. "He knows it happens – I am a rookie. So, it is what it is."

Dowell, a seventh-round draft pick of the team, settled in and made some plays – including some nice catches – over the weekend.

The 6-foot-3, 212-pounder sure looked the part as he lined up across from defenders, and in a group of other receivers added by the team since the draft. Two others in his position group over the weekend were undrafted free agents, while two others were in town for a tryout.

The Titans saw something in Dowell that led the team to pick him in the draft, and on Monday he'll join the veterans on the field for the first time in the offseason program. Organized team activities start next week.

This start of this experience is special for Dowell, who grew up in Lebanon, Tennessee, attended Wilson Central High School, and played at Tennessee-Martin.

Growing up, Dowell attended training camp practices at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park, and he went to Titans games at Nissan Stadium.

Over the weekend he put in a Titans helmet for the first time.

"I'd like to say he'd be happy," Dowell responded when asked what a younger version of himself would be thinking right now. "And he'd realize this is a dream come true. This is just the start, and I want to continue to make that younger self happy as I keep going."

Dowell said the support from those back home has been great.

"It's been awesome," he said. "I've said it a couple of times, but when you are wanted and you are supported by people you don't even know, it is really great, and I cherish that. It is really a blessing to have that in my life right now because I know as quick as it came it can leave, so I am thankful for that and really enjoying it."

Dowell smiled when asked if he was able to commute from home.

He's actually staying at a nearby hotel with the team's other rookies, rooming with quarterback Will Levis.

Dowell is beginning his new life, as a pro.

"It's been awesome," Dowell said. "I've had a really good time being able to dive completely into football, and not have to worry about classes or anything else coming up. I don't even have to worry about where I am going to eat at – we eat right in there (pointing inside), so it is really awesome to see the level of professionalism that can come with playing this game. I've had a great time."

UNPACKING THE 'UPSIDE' TENNESSEE TITANS HOPE TO FIND IN DRAFT PICK JAELYN DUNCAN

BY PAUL SKRBINA
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 30, 2023

The weight of the wait didn't weigh Jaelyn Duncan down.

Duncan, the Tennessee Titans' sixth-round pick in the 2023 NFL Draft, has a history of waiting.

Duncan didn't start playing football until he was 14 years old.

For the next four of five years, the 6-foot-6, 306-pound tackle who played at the University of Maryland, had little idea about what he was doing.

"It probably took me until my redshirt freshman year, maybe even a year after that," Duncan said. "Throughout high school I was just out there moving people and just being a bigger body, not really using a lot of techniques. So when I got to college, that was one of the main focuses.

"It probably took me until my redshirt freshman year, maybe even a year after that."

Duncan was a three-time All-Big Ten honorable mention selection in five seasons with Maryland, where he allowed 58 quarterback hurries, 15 quarterback hits and 19 sacks in 2,551 snaps spanning 43 games, including 39 starts. He also was selected to play in the East-West Shrine Bowl.

He knows the learning will be accelerated come training camp.

"Just technique things, hand timing, punch timing, hand placement, just keeping great balance, stuff like that," Duncan said of areas where he needs to improve. "You don't want to lean and stuff. Just being more consistent and finishing, just continuing to drive and get it done every play."

Duncan's relationship with football began late, he said, because "some life stuff was going on. It wasn't the right circumstances at a young age."

Duncan won't be walking into completely unfamiliar company when he joins the Titans. He and Titans first-round pick Peter Skoronski, who faced off in the Big Ten, worked out together and shared the same trainer. He also will reconnect with Titans tight end Chigoziem Okonkwo and defensive tackle Sam Okuayinonu, with whom he played at Maryland.

"He's a guy we envision having a ton of upside," Titans general manager Ran Carthon said. "He's really, really athletic. He has some high-end traits we'd love to work with and develop. We look forward to working with him."

The weight of the wait of being picked didn't discourage Duncan, even though he said he thought he would have been picked Friday during the second or third round.

"You just sit around the house, wait for your phone to ring," he said. "I've been a little bit anxious and a little bit nervous, but God has a plan, so I've just been waiting."

He had three meetings with the Titans before the draft, including one at the combine and one at the Senior Bowl.

His next stop will be rookie minicamp, which for Duncan, can't come soon enough.

DOUBT TENNESSEE TITANS' CALEB FARLEY
AT YOUR OWN RISK. HIS MOTIVATION COMES FROM LATE MOTHER

BY GEORGE ROBINSON
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 30, 2021

It doesn't take long to realize the kind of player the Tennessee Titans selected with the 22nd pick in the 2021 NFL Draft on Thursday.

Caleb Farley isn't interested in talking about the injuries he has suffered, including his two back surgeries and a knee injury before college. His recent positive COVID-19 test result is of no mind, and his decision to opt out of the 2020 college football season at Virginia Tech has already been discussed ad nauseam.

Farley is a Titan. And that's enough for him.

Would have been enough for his late mother, too.

"I was telling my mother I was going to be a first-round draft pick when I was like 7 years old," he said. "I hope she's smiling down on me from the sky."

Any physical obstacles Farley has faced through football pale in comparison to the loss of his mother, Robin, to breast cancer in 2018.

The memories of conversations he had with her as a child are still fresh, and his thoughts drifted to her when the Hickory, North Carolina, native heard his name called Thursday.

"She always believed in me," he said.

Robin was diagnosed with cancer in 2009 and endured two years of chemotherapy and radiation. For a while it looked like she had beaten the disease. But the cancer returned aggressively and invaded her bones.

"After some time it started to wear on her," Caleb's father, Robert Farley, told The Tennessean. "I think Caleb accepted what happened because he knew that his mother had faithfully lived the life she wanted to live. She didn't die in regret."

Robin died without seeing her son play college football.

She attended every game from the time he began playing little league at 7 through his high school career at Maiden High School in North Carolina, where he starred as a quarterback.

Caleb tore the ACL and MCL ligaments in one of his knees prior to arriving at Virginia Tech in 2017. He took a redshirt his first year on campus, and was moved to wide receiver. Months later, in January 2018, Robin died with her family, including Caleb, by her side.

"He never once thought about not playing football after his mother's death," Robert said. "He's always been committed to it. His mom encouraged that commitment. I mean it was difficult on all of us and it took some time to adjust but Caleb pours himself into football. He loves it that much."

Football is Caleb's love, but family has been the foundation. It's the reason why he decided to opt out last fall despite coming off a 2019 year in which he led the ACC in passes defended (16) and finished with four interceptions as a converted cornerback.

It was a risky move. He was the first high-profile college football player to make that decision, and some questioned whether it would hurt his rising draft stock.

"Yeah, it's just frustrating," Farley said about having to answer questions about his health. "It gets to the point where you want a team to draft you, that believes in you, and if you don't believe in me, then play against me."

"Caleb opted out because of his concern with COVID," Robert said. "It was as simple as that. It had nothing to do with his injuries. He wasn't hurt. You have to understand, we were still learning about the short- and long-term effects of this virus. He didn't want to risk his health or possibly the health of his family members."

Caleb maintained a strength and conditioning schedule last fall. Despite not seeing the field in 2020, his instincts and ability in man coverage were enough to convince NFL scouts. The Titans felt his 6-foot-2, 207-pound frame and athletic skillset at cornerback — a position of need — were too good to pass up.

"He's long and I think (man coverage) is something they did a lot of at Virginia Tech," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "Those guys were manned up outside without a whole lot of help. He's coming from a very aggressive scheme that puts a lot of pressure on those guys on the outside."

Farley was invited to attend the draft in Cleveland on Thursday, but a positive COVID-19 test result earlier in the week prevented him from attending.

Farley was tested again Thursday and that result came back negative, he said. But the questions about his health remain. And so will the memories of his late mother, and the motivation she gave him to overcome any obstacles en route to the NFL.

"When coach called me to tell me I was going to be a Tennessee Titans, the first thing out of my mouth was 'When can I get the playbook?'," Caleb said. "I'm extremely excited to get back on the field and rep these colors."

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT TENNESSEE TITANS KICKER NICK FOLK

BY NICK GRAY
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
SEPTEMBER 17, 2023

Nick Folk began Year 16 of his NFL career on Sept. 10 when the Tennessee Titans faced the New Orleans Saints in Week 1.

Folk, 38, was acquired by the Titans from the New England Patriots for a 2025 seventh-round pick after the team ran through three kickers in the preseason and was looking for stability.

The ex-Arizona Wildcats player has stayed in the NFL with his dependability and consistency inside 50 yards.

Here's what to know about the Titans' new kicker:

Nick Folk goes from Dallas to the New York Jets

The Dallas Cowboys took Folk in the sixth round of the 2007 NFL Draft. He earned a Pro Bowl nod after a good rookie season (26 of 31 field goals made) that included the winning 53-yard field goal against the Buffalo Bills on Oct. 8 on "Monday Night Football."

Folk was even better the next season, making 20-of-22 field goals, including both attempts from more than 50 yards., but he missed 10 attempts in 2009. He was released before the end of the season, and signed with the Jets in 2010.

During the next seven seasons, Folk was good enough (making 82.2% of his field goal tries) to entrench himself as the Jets kicker. He is second on the Jets' all-time points scored list and is the most accurate kicker in team history (minimum 100 field goal attempts). He was released in a salary-cap move after the 2016 season.

Tampa Bay struggles

The lowest point of Folk's career came with Tampa Bay in 2017 — specifically, in a 19-14 loss to New England on "Thursday Night Football" on Oct. 5.

Folk replaced the struggling Roberto Aguayo to start the season but missed five field goals and two extra points in the first four games. Against the Patriots, Folk missed from 56, 49 and 31 yards in the five-point loss. He was placed on injured reserve shortly after the game, ending his season. The Bucs released Folk in the offseason.

Nick Folk's revival with the New England Patriots

Folk did not kick in the 2018 NFL season, spending time in the Alliance of American Football league in spring 2019.

He was not on any NFL team to start the 2019 season until October, when the Patriots signed him to replace the injured Stephen Gostkowski.

Folk kicked well enough: 14 of 17 on field goals and 12-for-12 on extra points, even after missing a week because of an appendectomy. The Patriots attempted to replace him with a younger option in Justin Rohwasser, but re-signed Folk before the 2020 season.

He was a consistent and accurate kicker for the Patriots during the next three seasons, making 89.3% of his field goal attempts and 91.3% of his extra point tries.

Nick Folk off to good start with Tennessee Titans

Folk was 5-for-5 on field goals, accounting for all of the Titans' points, in the 16-15 loss to the Saints. He already has gained the trust of the Titans coaching staff, as evidenced by a decision to attempt a 29-yard field goal with 2:20 left and Tennessee down by four points.

"Find a way to get (the ball) inside the 40 and kick a field goal to win the game, that's what I believed," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said about the decision to kick at that point.

Not the biggest leg at this stage of his career

Folk made a 50-yard field goal in Week 1, which may be toward the edge of his range at this point of his career.

He career long is 55 yards, made with the Jets in 2015. As accurate as he has been from inside 50 yards, don't expect the Titans to try many 60 yarders in 2023.

Folk also had one touchback in six kickoffs against the Saints, which is in line with his recent history. Last season with New England, he had three touchbacks on 33 kickoffs. He was never the full-time kickoff player for the Patriots, with 49 in four seasons.

STARTING ILB JACK GIBBENS MAKING THE MOST OF HIS SECOND CHANCE WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
SEPTEMBER 21, 2023

NASHVILLE – Jack Gibbens put in the work last offseason, doing everything he could to make the Titans roster out of training camp.

Yet when the Titans made their cuts at the end of last August, the Titans rookie linebacker was informed he was being waived by the team.

"After training camp, I got sent home," Gibbens, who initially joined the team as an undrafted free agent in May 2022, recalled earlier this week. "So, I drove back to Texas."

A week later, however, Gibbens got another call from the Titans.

The team wanted to sign him back to the practice squad, and that's where he spent most of the 2022 season, before ending the year on the team's 53-man roster.

"When I got back out here, I just kind of said: I am going to make the most of this opportunity," Gibbens said. "They gave me a second chance and I just kind of took the mindset of: 'I have to get better every day. I have to fight to earn every day.' And that's the same mindset I am trying to have right now."

"Everybody is trying to earn their job every day; nothing is guaranteed in this league. So, just make the most of every opportunity you get every time you get to step on the field."

A year later, things are much different for Gibbens.

Gibbens isn't just on the team – he's one of the team's starters, at inside linebacker, next to Azeez Al-Shaair.

Gibbens has recorded 11 tackles in the first two games, including a tackle for a loss. Gibbens played in 45 of the team's 68 defensive snaps (66%) against the Chargers, along with 12 snaps on special teams.

Titans Coach Mike Vrabel, who nicknamed Gibbens "Dr. Gibby" last year because of his smarts, said the inside backer has improved over the past year.

"I just think he's a tall, linear, lengthy player," Vrabel said of Gibbens. "And I think he worked extremely hard to improve his lower body strength. (Gibbens) was running just as well (this year), was running better than he ran last year. Just from a tracking standpoint. Not that that's the end all, be all. But, he knows what to do. He communicates. He's a good communicator and he's where he's supposed to be."

The 6-foot-3, 242-pound Gibbens didn't take the easy path to the NFL.

Gibbens played four seasons at Abilene Christian (2017-2020) before transferring to Minnesota, where he played his final college season in 2021. Gibbens spent time working as a financial analysis intern while also serving as a teaching and research assistant in college.

But he never stopped chasing his NFL dream, even after going undrafted.

Gibbens ended up appearing in five games with two starts a year ago for the Titans, registering 27 tackles, an interception, and a special teams stop. He spent 11 games on the team's practice squad in 2022.

Now, he wants to keep doing his part on the Titans.

"Coach Vrabel always preaches: It doesn't matter how you got here, it's just what you do when you get here," Gibbens said. "It's been a journey, obviously last year getting cut, being on the practice squad and then finally getting an opportunity to play, and this year in a completely different role.

"I'm just trying to keep the same process that I've had since I got here: Just get better every day, keep my head down and keep working."

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH VETERAN OL CHRIS HUBBARD

BY JIM WYATT

JULY 28, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with veteran offensive lineman Chris Hubbard.

Also, the Titans have waived offensive lineman James Empey.

Hubbard adds to the competition at right tackle, where the team is looking for depth and a starter to at least begin the season following Nicholas Petit-Frere's six-game suspension. Petit-Frere started 16 games for the Titans at right tackle in 2022.

A nine-year veteran, Hubbard has played in 85 career games, with 49 starts, while playing for the Steelers and Browns.

A 6-foot-4, 295-pounder, Hubbard has played the past five seasons in Cleveland. He played in four games in 2022, with one start. Hubbard played in college at Alabama-Birmingham, and he was signed as an undrafted free agent by the Steelers in 2014. Hubbard started 16 games at right tackle for the Browns in 2018, and he started 13 games at right tackle in 2019.

During the course of his career, Hubbard has started games at guard and tackle.

The Titans are back on the field Friday morning at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park for another training camp practice.

DL NAQUAN JONES MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 6, 2022

NASHVILLE – Naquan Jones arrived in Nashville a year ago known for his somewhat familiar name.

The defensive lineman smiled when first reminded of DaQuan Jones, who was a big part of the team's d-line in the years prior to his arrival.

But as Naquan Jones found his way as a rookie last season, he began to make a name for himself in Tennessee.

Now in Year 2, he's looking to do even more.

"Last year when I came in, I was a little overwhelmed, just like any rookie coming in here, transitioning," Jones said. "I was overthinking (last year) and not playing as fast as I could because of that. But the more reps you get and the more you step on the field, you get more comfortable.

"This year I feel more comfortable, with a year under my belt, and I'm not the youngest guy in the room any more. I came in with the mindset of every day I want to get better."

Jones, signed by the team as an undrafted free agent after the 2021 NFL Draft out of Michigan State, went through training camp and preseason with the team a year before starting the season on the team's practice squad.

But just a few weeks into the season the Titans promoted Jones to the active roster, and he ended up playing in 13 games, with five starts.

The 6-foot-3, 313-pound Jones finished the year with 29 tackles and 2.5 sacks, along with four quarterback pressures and four tackles for a loss.

This offseason, Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen praised Jones for his improvement.

"I think he has done a great job," Bowen said of Jones. "He took a lot of great strides last season. He got thrown into the fire there a little bit, but I thought he showed tremendous growth throughout the season last year and he is becoming more of a pro. He is maturing, and he is kind of figuring out what it takes to be a pro.

"There's a little more seriousness to him right now. So I am excited about the direction he is on right now."

A four-year letterman with the Spartans who was credited with 78 tackles, including 12.5 for losses (44 yards) and 3.0 sacks (20 yards) in 46 career games in college, Jones knows he has more upside.

"Just technique, you can improve on something every day," Jones said. "Coach (Mike) Vrabel tells us that, (d-line coach) Terrell (Williams) tells us that. Just the mindset to get better every day is key.

"I always play with high effort, and I'm always going to play hard, especially playing next to Jeff (Simmons), next to (Teair) Tart. But one thing I feel like I need to improve on the most are things like fundamentals and technique. I feel like I can always get better."

Williams, who is overseeing a talented group of young players, said Jones has been a good for the team.

"We look for guys that fit our system," Williams said, "and (Naquan) fits perfectly."

Jones said he wants to do more in 2022.

"I want to develop more of a role with the team, to help out and do anything I can," Jones said. "If they need me on field goal, field goal block, or to contribute in any way, I'll do it. I just want to keep solidifying a role on this team."

TITANS' FULTON HOPES CHANGE IN TRAINING MAKES SIGNIFICANT DIFFERENCE

BY JOHN GLENNON
NASHVILLE POST

AUGUST 8, 2023

Not long after suffering a major groin injury in last season's loss to Philadelphia, Titans cornerback Kristian Fulton made a decision: It was time to make a training change.

Instead of spending the 2023 offseason in Nashville, going through workouts and voluntary OTAs with many of his teammates, Fulton would follow a more solitary path, grinding through individual workouts with a hand-picked personal trainer in Miami.

It was a move that came with some risk: Titans coaches typically want as many players as possible — especially younger players — to train with the team during the offseason. Second, Fulton was heading into a contract year in 2023, meaning every decision made would impact his future finances.

The full results of Fulton's decision won't be evident until later this season, when we see how many games that Fulton — who's missed 20 of a possible 50 regular-season games over his three-year career — is able to play in 2023, not to mention how well he performs.

But the early returns in training camp are promising for Fulton, a second-round pick in the 2020 NFL Draft and a starter when healthy.

"I think he came back [for training camp] ready to go," Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen said. "I think this is probably the best shape he's been in since he's been here. He looks stronger, looks more physical, looks in condition.

"He's off to a great start right now. It's a big year for him. He knows that. We know that. So hopefully it continues."

The groin injury Fulton suffered last year, on a play that wound up being a touchdown pass to former Titans wide receiver A.J. Brown, kept him out of the team's next four games. He'd already missed two contests in 2022 with a hamstring injury. It was also a hamstring injury that sidelined him for four games in 2021, a knee injury that knocked him out of all but six games during his rookie season of 2020.

Throw in a shoulder surgery following the 2022 season and it's easy to see why Fulton figured it couldn't hurt to change his offseason approach heading into 2023. He added some muscle weight in the offseason — he's now up to 195 pounds — and said he began this year's camp feeling far better than he had heading into the 2022 camp.

"Yeah, I mean it was a lot, a big difference," Fulton, 24, said. "I came off surgery for my shoulder last year, so I wasn't really able to do anything physically on the field. I was able to do a little footwork, but I was still limited. Even when I was at OTAs, I was getting my weight back up from being sick last offseason.

"So that was the difference from last year to this year. Once you [find] the right trainer, you feel great. You come into confident and knowing your body, and the work you put in from your reps."

A healthy, confident Fulton could be a significant difference maker for the Titans.

The former LSU standout showed some signs of being a shutdown corner in 2021, when he made two interceptions, posted 11 pass break-ups and held opposing quarterbacks to a rating of 67.8 when throwing in his direction, per Pro Football Focus.

But Fulton took a step back in 2022, when he surrendered five touchdown passes and allowed opposing quarterbacks to post a 102.4 rating when throwing in his direction.

Bowen said one of the keys to Fulton regaining his previous level is maintaining more consistency — keeping his focus, execution and competitive level high on every play.

"I can't skip days," Fulton said. "I can't take a week off. I gotta do what I gotta do day to day to make sure I'm ready. That's just my mentality, focusing on the day I'm in. Being present ... just so I can be as detailed as I can."

The Titans' offseason addition of wide receiver DeAndre Hopkins should help Fulton maintain that focus, as Fulton hasn't faced a player with such a decorated pass-catching resume in the past at practice.

"He has so much experience, and I know he's playing the game within the game — pre-snap, during the snap," Fulton said. "We have some of those conversations where [he'll tell me] what he's seeing from me, and I get to ask him what he's seeing. He's an All Pro veteran, so he knows what he's doing out there. It's good to get those looks day in and day out."

Those are just the kind of on-field challenges Fulton hopes to embrace this season, in a year so critical to his future.

TITANS RB DERRICK HENRY COUNTING HIS BLESSINGS AT THE START OF HIS EIGHTH NFL SEASON

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
SEPTEMBER 7, 2023

NASHVILLE – Titans running back Derrick Henry is fired up about the start of a new season.

Again.

"I love football – I have been playing since I was five years old," Henry said. "Any time you are getting ready for a game, it's always exciting.

"It's game week – football is back. I'm looking forward to it."

Henry, heading into his eighth NFL season, ranked 2nd in NFL with 1,936 scrimmage yards and 1,538 rush yards in 2022. He also ranked tied-2nd with 13 rushing touchdowns, becoming 5th player all-time with 10-plus rushing touchdowns in five straight seasons.

Henry had 125-plus scrimmage yards in each of final four games of season.

On Sunday, he'll be facing the Saints for the first time in his career.

"The big thing is about watching film on (the Saints), seeing the things they like to do," said Henry, who leads active players with 8,335 rush yards and 78 rushing touchdowns. "But it is Week One – they are going to run stuff we haven't seen, and that's how it goes in the league. But they are a great defense – they have great experience over there, they're disruptive, they have guys that fly around and get to the ball."

Henry, who is headed into the final year of his contract, was asked if this could be his "last hurrah" with the Titans.

Henry playfully laughed at the topic, before turning more serious.

"I am just taking it one day at a time, and not getting too caught up in it," Henry said. "I'm thankful that I am able to make it to Year 8, and be playing for this organization as long as I have. I'm just trying to be the best player I can be each and every week, and come out here and be a great leader for this team, and try and help everybody get better in any way possible.

"I am just taking it one game at a time. Fortunately, I am living my dream playing in the NFL. I am not trying to get too caught up in that – I'm just being thankful for what I have right now."

DERRICK HENRY'S
'TRAVELING ROAD SHOW' AND THE GREATEST HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL SEASON EVER

BY CHAD GRAFF

THE ATHLETIC

JUNE 15, 2023

Bobby Ramsey was 28 when he was hired as the high school football coach in Yulee, Fla., a town of 36,000 people that sits 25 miles north of Jacksonville and 15 miles south of the Georgia state line. Yulee High wanted a young, energetic guy. They knew how tough the job would be.

The Hornets were upstarts, a new school with just one year as a varsity team in a state that churns out some of the nation's top players. They were ill-prepared. The facilities were tiny. The players were, too.

"I'll never forget meeting the team at the time and walking into the room and looking at the kids like, 'Where are the real players?'" Ramsey said. "After a couple weeks, I was like, 'I want to call my old school and see if they still have my old teaching job. I don't know if I want to do this.'

"There was not an area of the program that didn't need work. It was just ... a lot."

In spring 2008, as Ramsey scrambled to field enough players, build a playbook and instill a culture in his team, he was visited by Pat Dunlap, one of the town's middle school football coaches. Dunlap was an institution in Yulee, had been there for decades. He saw an overwhelmed Ramsey and told him to relax.

"You know, Coach, in a year we'll get Derrick Henry up here and we'll be fine," Ramsey recalled Dunlap telling him in his deep, gruff voice.

"Sure, there's some seventh-grader who you think is pretty good,"

Ramsey thought. "Look at this team right now. We're going to go 0-10 next year."

A few days later, Ramsey was leading one of his first spring practices at the high school, which borders the middle school field. "We looked horrible," Ramsey recalled. "We were soft. I'm just really down." As he walked off the field, he looked over at the middle school football practice. Players were lined up at the 25-yard line, standing shoulder to shoulder. The kids mostly looked the same: 5-foot-5, 5-foot-7, 5-foot-6, all in a row.

"Then it was, boom, 6-foot-2," Ramsey said. "I was like, Ohhhh, that's Derrick. Yeah, let's get through Year 1, then we've got a shot."

"He was about the same size in middle school as he is now," said assistant Charles Richards.

Prior to winning a Heisman Trophy and a national championship, two NFL rushing titles and the league's Offensive Player of the Year award in 2020, the legend of Derrick Henry began even before he played his first high school game. But it was what he did as a Yulee High School Hornet that still has locals sharing stories.

The high school coaches knew all about Henry well before their first preseason together — the 14-year-old Henry was so dominant the county instituted a new policy: "When it got to a 28-point lead, they had to take him out," Ramsey said — but it's still a big jump from middle school to high school, from towering over opponents to facing five-star linebacker recruits.

At Henry's first practice with varsity, he ran an iso — "and we didn't block a soul on this play," Ramsey said. Henry was crushed at the line of scrimmage. "I always remember it looked like Optimus Prime falling down."

Coaches looked at each other nervously. Henry never got hit like that in middle school. How would he react? Would he yell at the offensive line? Storm off and transfer to a school with a more established football program?

"He went back to the huddle, and I took a deep breath," Ramsey said. "And then we ran the same play again, and this time he busted right through the middle for a 75-yard touchdown. ... So it took two plays until we were like, 'Yep, he's gonna start.'"

As a freshman, Henry ran for 2,465 yards (224.1 per game) and 26 touchdowns. The next year, coaches started using him sporadically on defense as a pass rusher. He was only allowed to do it if the game was close late, but if they needed a sack, Henry went in as a blitzing outside linebacker.

In Henry's sophomore season, Yulee had a chance to clinch its first-ever playoff berth in a late-October game against University Christian. But the Hornets played their worst first half of the season and trailed 21-3 at the break. "Coach Ramsey came into halftime and chewed us out," said Zac Camp, a wide receiver and defensive back.

The coach changed the plan. Henry was to barely leave the field. He carried the ball 33 times. He played defense. And for the first time, he played special teams, too.

In the 38-34 come-from-behind win that sent the Hornets into the playoffs, Henry ran for 288 yards and three touchdowns, sacked the opposing quarterback and blocked a punt. "I'm not sure that he ever practiced it," assistant Scott Jones said of Henry's punt block. "Before that or since."

"The second half of that game was the closest you'd see to a basketball player taking a game over," Ramsey said.

It didn't matter that teams knew Henry was the star. They still couldn't stop him.

Henry's defensive prowess had college scouts fascinated. Many thought Henry projected better on that side of the ball, or maybe at tight end. “They said at the college level he was going to be an easy target as a running back since he’s so big,” said Larry Blustein, a recruiting expert in Florida for the last five decades.

Ramsey met with Henry after his sophomore year to discuss his recruitment. Henry was adamant that he was a running back. He told Ramsey he didn’t want to talk to any colleges that were considering moving him to a different position.

“Some schools would giggle when I would say he wanted to play running back,” Ramsey said. They would tell Ramsey that players who look like Henry needed to rush the passer. “And I get all that,” Ramsey said. “But there are always outliers. I would always compare it to Magic Johnson. Magic was 6-foot-9 and played point guard.”

After that season, Ramsey put assistant Bryan Libby in charge of putting together the team’s schedule for the next season, but when Libby called coaches to set up games, their only question was about Henry.

“They were like, ‘Yeah, man, that’s great, when’s your running back graduate?’ I was like, ‘In two years,’” Libby said. “They said, ‘Great, call us back once he leaves.’”

“You try to schedule games with Derrick Henry on your team,” Ramsey said. “It was like we were selling cancer.”

Yulee had to schedule games against far superior teams, and Henry’s junior season was a gauntlet. Gainesville, a powerhouse with several Division I recruits on its roster, beat Yulee in the season opener. But afterward, the discussion was about how Henry ran for 181 yards and two touchdowns against arguably the best defense in the state with an undermanned offensive line and few rushing lanes. “Coming off the field, everyone was like, ‘This dude is for real,’” Ramsey said. “It was weird because we lost this game by 15, but everyone was just caught up in him.”

Over the team’s final 10 games, Henry averaged 231 rushing yards and three touchdowns per game. “At that point, it became a traveling road show,” Libby said. “The circus was coming to town.”

In some ways, Henry made play calling difficult. You can’t give him the ball every play. Or can you?

“It was kind of a joke being the offensive coordinator,” Jones said. “Like, ‘Gee, what play am I going to call now? Oh, give it to Derrick.’”

In Henry’s junior year, Jones learned the hard way what happens when you didn’t give him the ball. On a second-and-long, he called for a play-action pass, hoping to take a shot down the field. Instead, it ended with a sack. Yulee now faced third-and-39.

“Ramsey is chewing me out after that. He’s yelling at me like, ‘Don’t overcoach it!’” Jones said. “And I was like, ‘Damn it, Ramsey. Fine, here you go. Blast left, Derrick. Go ahead, see if you can get us 39.’”

“And sure enough, he gets us 40 yards.”

Henry ran for 2,610 rushing yards and 34 touchdowns his junior year, prompting what felt like daily offseason visits from college coaches. No school, Yulee coaches said, recruited Henry harder than Tennessee. One day in the spring before Henry’s senior season, Vols running backs coach Jay Graham came to visit Henry at 9 a.m. — even though Henry wouldn’t get out of classes until 3. So he sat in the coaches’ office for six hours waiting.

Graham told Ramsey about working with Jim Harbaugh at the University of San Diego in 2007, using the power offense that Harbaugh loved and running the same play out of dozens of formations. They started watching film of Harbaugh’s games at Stanford. Before Andrew Luck arrived, the Cardinal had a good offensive line, a great running back and a struggling quarterback. They used a lot of power running and wildcat formations.

“And I was like, this is us!” Ramsey said. “This was what we have.”

Ramsey had his assistants study Harbaugh’s offense. They loved that Harbaugh ran the same plays and didn’t care if the opponent knew what was coming. Make them stop it. “We were like, hey let’s adopt that philosophy,” said Libby, who had become the offensive coordinator that season. The change in offensive scheme set the stage for arguably the greatest individual high school football season of all time.

In the fourth game of that 2012 season, Henry broke the national single-game rushing record, piling up 510 yards and six touchdowns. He carried the ball 45 times that night, one of six games that season where he touched it at least 40 times.

“I remember the first time he had more than 40. I was like, oh man, I’m gonna get arrested for child endangerment or something,” Ramsey said. “I always tell people who get so caught up in his carries, well, when we were in the middle of it, we were just trying to win games. And that’s how we were going to win. And he didn’t really get fatigued. And he never got hurt.”

Yulee coaches heard some opponents knock their system for leaning on Henry so much.

“A lot of people were like, ‘The offense is dependent on Derrick,’” Libby said. “Well, duh. We’ve got a kid in the backfield that you’re never going to see again.”

The Henry experience peaked after that record-breaking game. ESPN came to town the following week to broadcast a matchup against Glades Day — with Fred Taylor’s son, Kelvin at running back — in what had been billed as a showdown between the best backs in the nation. Scouts were split on who was the better prospect. The younger Taylor had already broken Emmitt Smith's Florida rushing record, and ESPN ranked Taylor higher than Henry.

Henry announced his commitment to Alabama the day of the game. The stadium was full two hours before kickoff. Fred Taylor stood in a roped-off section behind one of the end zones with some players from the Jacksonville Jaguars. Kelvin had 34 carries, while Henry had 35. Kelvin finished with 222 yards and a touchdown.

Henry finished with 362 yards and six touchdowns.

"That was a good situation for him because it pitted him up against another guy," said Camp, his teammate. "They always talk about how Michael Jordan played better whenever someone talked trash to him. Derrick did that, too."

After that game, Henry set his sights on chasing down Taylor's state rushing record, even with Taylor still playing. Kelvin had played varsity since eighth grade, so Henry figured he needed about 2,000 yards in the final six games to break the record. He totaled 455 yards and five touchdowns against West Nassau, then 404 yards and six touchdowns (on 21 carries) two weeks later.

"People thought we were running the score up, but when you have the ball on your own 13-yard line and he breaks into the open field on a run play, what do you expect him to do?" Ramsey asked.

Henry had at least three touchdowns in all but one game his senior season, including six games with five touchdowns. He ran for 200 yards or more in 12 of 13 games. Before the regular-season finale, with Henry averaging 33 carries a game, Ramsey told him to get some rest. Henry initially pushed back, but Ramsey said it wasn't an option. Henry would only watch at practice that Monday.

"So he's out there in street clothes," Ramsey said. "We split up into offense-defense. I ran the defense, so I'm down on the other end of the field. About 45 minutes later, I look over and he's in shells taking reps.

"I run over and I'm like, 'What are you doing?' And he's like, 'Man, I got bored.'"

Yulee entered the first-round playoff matchup against the Taylor County Bulldogs with Henry roughly 180 yards from the all-time national rushing record. Ryan Smith, then the head coach at Taylor County, called a friend who had already coached against Yulee for a scouting report. Smith was determined that one player wasn't going to beat him — "and (my friend) was like, 'Yeah, this one man is,'" Smith said.

Yulee knew Taylor County was going to sell out to stop the run, so Libby walked his young quarterback through a play-action pass in that week's game plan. During the game, the Bulldogs' defense showed the perfect look for the play, but the Hornets' quarterback held onto the ball too long and threw an interception. Taylor County scored on the next play.

"(Ramsey) wasn't happy about the play call," Libby said. "We went back and forth on that deal. And I said, 'Fine, we're not going to throw it the rest of the night, I promise you that.'"

"We get the ball back after that, put Derrick in the wildcat, and said, 'This is you now. Go. You better be ready to carry the load.' He said, 'OK.'"

There was no limit to Henry's workload. He broke the all-time national high school rushing record in the first half. Ramsey even put him back as the team's kick and punt returner. When Smith saw that, he sprinted down the field to get his kicker's attention.

"Don't even think about kicking it to him," Smith told him. "And he looked at me like, 'Yeah, no sh—, Coach.'"

Yulee threw two passes that night. Both were interceptions. Henry carried the ball 57 times, finishing with 485 yards and six touchdowns in the 41-26 victory. "And the crazy thing about that was we didn't have the ball for most of the fourth quarter," Libby said. "He could've gotten 600 yards that night."

"He was the greatest high school player I've ever seen," Smith said. "My D-coordinator was all upset. And I was like, 'What are you mad about? There wasn't anything you could do about that.' We knew when he walked out to warm up pregame."

"We watched it the whole next day over and over and over on 'SportsCenter,'" Smith said. "And I wasn't even mad about it. He was pretty unbelievable."

Smith later coached at Alabama when Henry was there, and the two joked about that game and how Henry never seemed to tire. After Henry won the Heisman in 2015, Smith said he realized why. "The day after he won the Heisman," Smith said, "he was back in the weight room doing squats."

In the next round of the playoffs, the Yulee coaches knew they were going to be outmanned. Their opponent, Gadsden County, was bigger, faster and stronger, one of the few teams capable of slowing Henry. So Yulee installed a running back pass. Henry faked a sweep to the outside, then pulled up and threw it 30 yards for a touchdown. Henry's total of 189 rushing yards was his lowest in a full calendar year and he still did enough to help Yulee notch the upset, 16-13.

"The newspaper had a headline the next day that Derrick was slowed down," Libby said. "And he still almost had 200 yards."

Yulee's dream run ended the next week, but not before Henry added another 317 rushing yards and four touchdowns. He finished his career with 12,124 yards and 153 touchdowns. He never had a game with fewer than 100 yards. In his senior season alone, Henry ran for 4,261 yards — averaging 9.2 yards per carry — and 55 touchdowns in 13 games.

“You’ll never see a season like that again,” Libby said. “I mean, who does that?”

DERRICK HENRY HELPS SEND VETERAN TO SUPER BOWL LVII

BY DAVID BOCLAIR

JANUARY 26, 2023

Derrick Henry is sending a military veteran to the Super Bowl.

The Tennessee Titans running back is one of several NFL players who teamed up with USAA and the Veterans of Foreign Wars to honor those who have served across the globe.

John Lambert, a native and resident of Fairview, Tenn., and his wife Patricia will be in Glendale, Ariz. On Feb. 12. The two are long-time Titans fans, and Lambert's military career was recognized by Henry via Twitter on Thursday.

"Men and women who bravely serve our country at sea like Navy veteran and Titans fan John Lambert allow Americans like me to keep my feet on solid ground," Henry said in a release. "Working with USAA and the VFW to send John Lambert to the Super Bowl is just a small way say thank you for his service and I look forward to meeting him in Phoenix."

Lambert spent six years in active duty (2006-08) with the United States Navy and three more in the Naval Reserves (2006-08). During that time, he earned three Navy Achievement Medals, a National Defense Medal, a Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, a Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, two Sea Service Deployment Ribbons, and an Expert Pistol Medal. He was twice deployed to the Persian Gulf, where he was involved in counterterrorism, piracy and drug operations, as an Aegis Fire Controlman aboard the USS Philippine Sea.

He currently works as a technical sales manager.

Super Bowl LVII will take place at State Farm Stadium, home of the Arizona Cardinals. Participating teams will be determined Sunday when the Philadelphia Eagles host the San Francisco 49ers, and the Kansas City Chiefs host the Cincinnati Bengals in the conference championship games.

TITANS' DERRICK HENRY TIES RECORD WITH 6TH 200-YARD RUSHING GAME

TURRON DAVENPORT

OCTOBER 31, 2022

HOUSTON -- Tennessee Titans running back Derrick Henry continued his dominance against the Houston Texans in a 17-10 win Sunday and in doing so tied a record held by O.J. Simpson and Adrian Peterson.

Henry carried the ball 32 times for 219 yards and two touchdowns. He has now rushed for 200 or more yards in six games, tying him with Simpson and Peterson for the most career 200-yard rushing performances.

It was also Henry's fourth consecutive 200-yard rushing game against the Texans, setting a record for the most such games against a single team in NFL history.

Henry's second score of the day gave him 75 touchdowns for his career, breaking a tie with Eddie George for the most TDs scored in Titans/Oilers franchise history. Henry reached that mark in 93 games, with George doing so in 128.

Henry was the one toting the football, but he was sure to point to the offensive line as the reason for his success.

"I give all the credit to them," Henry said. "They were the ones that made it happen. Without them, I wouldn't have half the success that I've had."

Henry has now posted four consecutive 100-yard rushing performances for Tennessee this season. The Titans have leaned heavily on Henry during their five-game win streak, with Henry leading the league in carries (132) and rushing yards (654) while tying for the most rushing touchdowns (6) over that span.

FUELED BY HIGH SCHOOL HATERS, TITANS' DERRICK HENRY BACK AMONG RUSHING LEADERS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN
NOVEMBER 16, 2022

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- A quick search can yield viral footage of Tennessee Titans running back Derrick Henry from his Yulee High School days, running through defenders like the Incredible Hulk plowing through bad guys.

Despite rushing for more yards (12,124) than any other high school football player to that point, Henry remembers something most people would want to forget.

"I still get motivated from stuff back in high school," Henry said. "They said I wouldn't make it this far at this position. Usually, guys who are big and play running back in high school turn into edge rushers or get put on defense."

But not the 6-foot-3, 247 pound Henry.

That's what makes 28-year-old so great. He's always looking for something to give him that extra motivation.

It's also a big reason he has made a tremendous comeback from a Jones fracture in his right foot that caused him to miss the final nine regular-season games last year.

Henry was leading the NFL with 937 rushing yards when he suffered the injury in a Week 8 road win over the Indianapolis Colts. He made it back for the divisional playoff loss to the Cincinnati Bengals -- when he rushed for 62 yards on 20 carries.

Entering the season, there were doubts that Henry could return to his league-leading form. And Henry, who won the rushing title in 2019 (1,540 yards) and 2020 (2,027 yards), normally doesn't bother with outside noise.

But this time it was different, as Henry reported to training camp with a chip on his shoulder.

"Someone could motivate me and wouldn't even know it," Henry said at the start of camp. "The doubters, whatever they want to be, I am definitely motivated. I'm ready to go. So we going to see."

Henry and the Titans (6-3) will get their next test on the road against the Green Bay Packers (4-6) on Thursday (8:15 p.m. ET, Prime Video) at Lambeau Field.

If Henry can have the rushing success others have against the Packers' defense, whose 140.6 yards allowed per game on the ground ranks 27th, it could help the AFC South-leading Titans win their seventh out of the past eight games.

"You just don't find guys that are that big and that fast, and if he gets going, it's going to be a long day," said Packers coach Matt LaFleur, who worked with Henry as the Titans offensive coordinator in 2018 before taking over in Green Bay in 2019. "Derrick is one of a kind. He is a guy that can wear you down, and a lot of times, he gets stronger as the game goes on."

Given the results Henry has generated this season, he should have old-school hip-hop artist Kool Moe Dee's "How Ya Like Me Now" playing whenever he takes the field.

Despite a slow start, where Henry rushed for 107 yards in the Titans' 0-2 start to open the season, Henry's 923 total rushing yards are second to New York Giants running back Saquon Barkley's 931 heading into Week 11, and his nine rushing touchdowns are tied for second with Jamaal Williams behind Nick Chubb's 11.

Henry turned back the clock in Week 8 when he rushed for 219 yards against the Houston Texans. It was the fourth consecutive game in which he rushed for 200 or more yards against Houston, setting an NFL record for most 200-yard rushing games by one player against a single team.

The Houston game was a classic heavy-workload performance by Henry. Veteran quarterback Ryan Tannehill injured his ankle the week before, so rookie backup Malik Willis was thrust into the starting role. Willis attempted 10 passes while Henry carried the ball a season-high 32 times.

Henry already has 202 carries and is on pace for his third 300-plus carry season in the last four years.

"His physical stature probably helps," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "He works extremely hard. He trains hard and prepares. Mentally he is ready for it as well. He wants it. [Running backs coach] Tony [Dews] does a good job of trying to manage him and where he is at. He is an important part of what we do. He knows that going in. He gets himself ready to go."

Granted, Henry got caught from behind by Texans cornerback Steven Nelson on a 41-yard run, and Kansas City Chiefs defensive backs L'Jarius Sneed and Trent McDuffie tracked him down on a 56-yard run two weeks ago.

"In Houston I got caught because he tapped my foot and that broke my stride," Henry explained. "In Kansas City, I had to re-catch my balance. Me getting caught, don't worry about that. I'm fine."

It should be noted that Henry reached 20.6 mph, according to NFL Next Gen Stats, on the 56-yard run and 20.1 mph on the 41-yarder.

Last week saw a different formula in a 17-10 win over the Denver

Broncos, as Tannehill had a season high in passing attempts (36), while Henry's eight carries in the first half marked the second time he had eight or fewer carries in a half this season.

"The first-down production wasn't [there like it had been] in the previous weeks -- which caused us to be in more throwing situations," offensive coordinator Todd Downing said. "Not converting some of those early third downs took away from getting into a rhythm in those drives.

"The more carries you give him in a drive, the stronger he gets. So that's why it's more important to pick up those third downs to get him more opportunities within those drives."

Although Henry was fueled by the doubters in the offseason, he is not concerned with personal statistics. His 53 yards rushing against the Broncos were the fewest he's gained in a win in the last four seasons.

"Me playing at a high level and having efficiency affecting the game the way I play -- [whether] I have the ball or I don't have the ball -- [it's about] being the best teammate I can be," Henry said last week. "It's about us being just tied together, having the will and wanting to dominate in each game."

That team mindset is one of the things that Vrabel loves about Henry.

"The difference between this league and our team is we got Derrick Henry," Vrabel said in his postgame locker speech after beating the Texans.

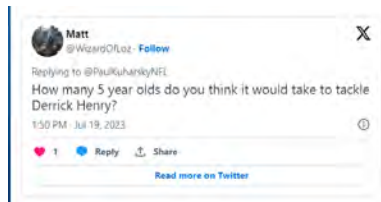

Every team isn't lucky enough to have a team player in Year 7 still motivating himself in a Marvel superhero-like fashion with hate from high school.

HOW MANY 5-YEAR-OLDS WOULD IT TAKE TO TACKLE THE TITANS' DERRICK HENRY?

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
JULY 31, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – The premise began with a recent mailbag question and sent me on an early training camp quest.

There are many variables at play here, of course.

Is Henry at full speed? Is he angry or is he worried about hurting 5-year-olds? How eager are the 5-year-olds?

But as I asked around, I left these constraints to the people answering the question.

How many Mike Vrabel?

"A shit ton," he said.

"I don't even know if they could. How many kids would die in the process? Do I need to give you a number, like a legitimate number?"

I said it would be good if he did.

"What's the area? Is it confined space?"

Maybe standing, starting to move, you create the parameters.

"Ok, so let's say he's got a 10-yard wide space. It would probably take 35. You want to try it? Test it out."

He said we could as long as I was one of the 5-year-olds.

The trouble is, I weigh about 185 and according to CDC growth charts, 5-year-olds should weigh between 34 and 52 pounds.

(Also I'm unavailable.)

I called on another high-ranking Titans official, Ran Carthon, but he pointed me to his wife, Heaven Carthon who was visiting training camp with her kids, one of whom happened to be 5-year-old Reese. Heaven Carthon has first-hand, daily insight into what sort of damage a 5-year-old can do.

She looked at Ran, who's listed as 6 feet tall and 208 pounds on the Pro Football Reference page connected to his 2005-06 seasons as a running back with the Colts, and then converted him up to Henry's 6-3, 247 in her head.

"He can fling 10 5-year-olds," she said of Henry. "If 32 worked together, they could probably take him down.

Rhea Carthon, 15, said that it would take 55 Reeses.

Roman, Reese's older brother said he could coach up Reese on the proper technique.

"Go for his legs!" he said.

Azeez Al-Shaair, the inside linebacker the Titans imported from the 49ers, set aside the specific age requirement but said he'd bet on his 14 little rug-rat nieces and nephews to get the job done.

"They do it to me, so they'll get him down," he said.

Arden Key went even lower than that.

"I mean if two of them get the ankles, then he's going down," he said, laughing. "He can't move without his legs."

I really liked guard Jordan Roos' thinking as he considered the equation.

"I think the problem is, Derrick's going to make an example of the first one and just deter all the rest of them," Roos said. "I think he makes a real example of the first one and it's just over after that. There is not a number.

Said Elijah Molden: "I saw some number in the thousands, I saw 75. Realistically, I'll probably say 60. Wait, hold on. Yeah, I'm going to stick with 60. I think they build a wall and then go after his legs."

I found an online, clickbait quiz titled "How many five year olds can you fight?"

It's not tackling Derrick Henry, but it's not too far off.

I answered for Henry, saying he had long arms, was gigantic, had the balance of a slackliner, had won 100 percent of his fights and is highly skilled in self-defense.

Asked if he'd stay calm and let them attack him first or be aggressive and terminate them one by one, I said it'd be a mix of both.

Given a choice between fighting clean or doing anything in his power to win, I said he'd fight a little bit dirty.

And the quiz said 44 5-year-olds would beat him in a fight.

Tackling him is less than beating him in a fight and I think Heaven Carthon is in the suitable range. I go a bit higher than she did and say 36.

"I don't know if there is enough," Daniel Brunskill said. "I mean they might get lucky, he trips over one. But it'd take a lot. I'd say at least a few hundred."

TITANS WR DEANDRE
HOPKINS VOWS TO KEEP COLLEGE GRADUATION PROMISE TO HIS MOM

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
SEPTEMBER 22, 2023

NASHVILLE – Receiver DeAndre Hopkins is committed to winning, and doing his part to help the Titans win in any way possible.

But the 11-year pro also made a commitment to his mother years ago, and he plans to follow through on that promise as well.

Hopkins is attending online, and virtual, classes at Clemson University after he recently re-enrolled in school as a student.

"It's important because I come from a family where not a lot of people graduated," Hopkins said on Friday. "My father died when I was six months (old), and when I went to school that is something I promised my mom. ... I vowed that I'd make both of them proud, and graduate, and that's something I promised my mom that I would do, knowing that my father would want me to graduate college."

Hopkins left Clemson after the 2012 season to enter the NFL, and he was a first-round pick of the Houston Texans in the 2013 NFL Draft.

Recently, Hopkins decided to pick up where he left off.

Hopkins is working toward a degree in parks, recreation and tourism management.

"I always was interested in managing facilities," Hopkins said. "Before I came to Nashville, I always wanted to put on music festivals and country music festivals, growing up on country music. That was my interest, going into that degree."

Hopkins said his teacher is very understanding of his NFL schedule, so that helps.

A five-time Pro Bowler, Hopkins also has a pretty understanding NFL coach in Mike Vrabel.

Titans coaches and trainers are working with Hopkins as he does his best to recover from the ankle injury he suffered in the season opener at New Orleans.

Hopkins didn't practice on Friday after being limited in Thursday's practice. Hopkins was a full participant in Wednesday's practice.

Hopkins didn't practice at all last week, but he ended up playing against the Chargers.

The Titans face the Browns in Cleveland on Sunday.

"I feel good," Hopkins said. "I feel good about everything going into this week. ... Me being, as you guys say, an old veteran player, I am just taking some time to kind of get healthy all the way. I wouldn't say it's the same as last week. I would just say Vrabel, (I'm) just trusting in Vrabel's plan."

Hopkins said the plan is for him to make the trip to Cleveland.

His status for Sunday is to be determined. Hopkins is officially listed as QUESTIONABLE for Sunday's game.

In two games this season, Hopkins has 11 catches for 105 yards.

"I've played a lot of ball, and missed very few games," Hopkins said. "I'm just trusting the plan, and just be ready to go out when my number is called."

DEANDRE HOPKINS WILL LET HIS HANDS DO THE TALKING

BY CLAY SKIPPER
GQ.COM
SEPTEMBER 7, 2023

It's just past 8:00 AM on a Sunday in August when DeAndre Hopkins glides into a meeting room at the Tennessee Titans' practice facility. He's cheerful, if a bit tired: the star wide receiver and his new teammates were in Minnesota last night for a preseason game, and didn't get back to Nashville until 2:30 AM. Coffee is summoned, along with cinnamon and honey. The honey comes in one of those adorable bear-shaped bottles, and all but disappears into the 10-inch vacuums that are Hopkins's hands. Once caffeinated, he ties his dreadlocks back behind his head, and begins to talk about the last several months. "This is probably one of the more exciting offseasons I've had," he says.

It has certainly been eventful, and for good reason: Entering his 11th season, Hopkins finds himself at perhaps the most critical point in his career. In May, the Arizona Cardinals, his former team, released him. He hit the NFL job market with one of the league's most dazzling LinkedIn pages: first among all active receivers in yards and receptions, and third in touchdowns. And there are those hands, hovering up anything that gets even remotely close. Over the last three seasons, he has dropped just three of the 315 balls fired his way.

And yet, finding his next team was a protracted process. Hopkins is 31 now, entering his second decade in a league where the average career lasts about three years. On top of that, he's spent a good chunk of the last two seasons on the sideline, for injuries and for a suspension after failing a test for performance enhancing drugs. That left some teams a bit lukewarm on the idea of signing a free agent that, just a couple years ago, was one of the hottest receivers in the NFL. "There were some teams that I had on my list that I gave them calls and they didn't give a call back," he says.

Don't get him wrong, he's happy to be in Tennessee—he just landed with a bit of extra motivation. "I'm very grateful for where I am, I think I made the best decision," he says. "But when you're a player and some people feel like they're great without you, and then you see what they have on paper, or you see what they do, you mark those games down, as a competitor. I can't wait to play 'em and, honestly, try my best to crush they ass."

I ask if he'd like to be a bit more specific which teams he's talking about. He takes a long pause and a sip of his honeyed coffee, before repeating the question—as if he doesn't have the list memorized, or perhaps weighing whether or not he wants to stir things up.

"Detroit Lions, they didn't want me," he says, finally. "Dallas Cowboys didn't want me. Giants didn't want me. Shit. Who else ain't want me? San Fran ain't want me."

He relays this with a chuckle that carries more equanimity than bitterness. His words come low and slow in a slightly Southern lilt from his days growing up in the South Carolina country. Maybe it's because he's dressed down—white T-shirt, bright Titan-blue shorts, black socks, and navy blue slides—and a bit underslept, but Hopkins exudes calm. It's been hard-earned. His father died in a car accident when Hopkins was a baby. About ten years later, his mom was attacked by a woman who threw acid on her, an assault that put her in a coma and ultimately left her blind. That's always provided him a measure of perspective. Now he's rounding it out with experience. He has the benefit of having already played with something to prove after years spent already proving it. In 2020, he was traded by the Houston Texans, the team that drafted him in 2013. He was one of the best receivers in the NFL, and still seemed to be on his way up. The Texans sent him to the Cardinals anyway, in exchange for a running back most considered to be on his way down. "It didn't hurt me, as much as it hurt them," Hopkins says, when I ask if that stung. (He's not wrong: the Texans have failed to win more than four games in any of the three seasons since they've traded Hopkins away.)

So today, he comes off as a guy not easily bothered, even in the midst of what was an uncertain—or, as he says, exciting—offseason. "I've never really been a person who got up or down too much about what's going on around me, like with football, because I know once I get on the field, my play is going to speak for itself," he says.

Be that as it may, sitting here, before the season, he has some things he'd like to say anyway: about what went wrong in Arizona, why he decided to join the Titans, and a message for the teams that he can't seem to reach by phone.

"I don't look at age, but it's some of the reason some teams might've passed up on me. Their #1 DB would have a hard time against me on the island," he says. What teams might've seen as age, Hopkins sees as experience, a backlog of routes run and balls caught that has him feeling pretty good about what he still has left in the tank: "It ain't too many people out there that can say honestly that they can lock me down, guard me for a full four quarters."

DeAndre Hopkins's hands have always stood out. As a kid, when people would shake his hand, they would comment on how big it was. In fifth or sixth grade, his aunt had to explain to him that he needed to be a bit gentler with the passes he was throwing to his rec basketball teammates—he had such a strong grip on the ball that his teammates couldn't catch the frozen ropes he was whipping their way. Eventually, of course, he turned to catching instead of throwing. Rob Moore, his new wide receivers coach at the Titans, said the first thing he noticed about him was how those hands "attack the football," giving

Hopkins a much larger range of reception than is available to most other people. “You see why he’s a security blanket for a lot of quarterbacks,” says Moore. “Because he has that knack for getting his hands on the football and completing the catch. Some guys can get to it but can’t finish it.”

That Hopkins does finish it is not just because of the whirlpools on the end of his arms. It’s knowing how to properly deploy them, combining deft timing, elite body control, and fearless competitiveness. “We always felt like the tighter the coverage, the more open he was,” says Mike Vrabel, who, in addition to being Hopkins’s new coach at the Tennessee Titans, was defensive coordinator for the Houston Texans in 2017 and 2018, and so faced Hopkins in practice. “That didn’t bother him. Guys on body, just hanging on him or close to him, is something that he would almost rather have. He would rather feel and know where they were, it felt like.” Ryan Tannehill, the Titans quarterback, says the first pass he threw to his new teammate was a go-ball down the sideline in tight coverage. “I put the ball kind of high so he can go up and get it, and sure enough, he goes up and makes the play,” he says. “He’s a guy who can always create a little bit of space.”

One of the other major attributes that helped separate Hopkins from more mortal receivers was his durability: he played in 132 of his first 134 career games. But in 2021, his second year in Arizona, that changed. First, an aggravated hamstring forced him to sit out three games in the middle of the season. In his second game back, he tore his MCL and missed the rest of the year. They were the first significant injuries of Hopkins’s career. Then, ahead of last season, the league announced that Hopkins failed a test for performance enhancing drugs, which resulted in him being suspended for the first six games of 2022. (Hopkins maintains that he has no idea how ostarine, the substance he says he tested positive for, got into his system. “I didn’t take the shit,” he tells me.)

When he returned in the middle of last year, he played the remainder of the year and averaged nearly 80 yards per game, making him, once again, one of the top 10 receivers, production-wise. But all the time missed had done damage to Hopkins’s reputation. Was his body breaking down? In 2021’s annual NFL Top 100 preseason poll, a ranking of the top 100 players as voted on by fellow players, Hopkins was number eight, and the second receiver on the list. Ahead of this season, he had fallen to number ninety.

Hopkins has heard this talk, particularly with regard to his torn MCL. He points out that the tear happened not because his knee gave out, but because two guys landed on his leg. A “freakish accident,” he calls it. “Of course you hear all the rumors, like, Oh, he’s getting old, and stuff like that, but those injuries happen to people who are 20 or 21.” Of course, it’s easier to bounce back when you’re 21 than when you’re 31. Which is why Hopkins has grown newly obsessed with taking care of his body. In fact, he goes as far as calling his injuries a blessing. “I don’t look at anything as a mistake,” he says. “Obviously, God is telling me I need to do something different. That’s just how I look at stuff, on a spiritual level.” In this case, what God was telling him was that he needed to supplement what was partially God-given—his hands, his durability—with a better fitness and nutrition plan. For instance, he says it wasn’t until Arizona that he got a chef, who started helping him rethink a pregame meal routine that, back when he was with the Texans, was not always as stellar as his play.

“Being in Houston, there’s so much food and it’s so accessible,” he says. “If you don’t really have a strong will, or a chef, how would you know not to go to Mastro’s and get you whatever steak you wanted?” He remembers one game day morning in particular when, feeling like shit after taking down a Texas-sized serving of red meat the night before, he went to stadium early to try and sweat it out in the steam room. All that did was give him cramps when the game started. “I didn’t understand you can’t just drink water when you get out of the steam, you gotta drink salt and potassium,” he says. Though he laughs at the memory, his point is a powerful one: Hopkins has always been elite because of his in-game ability to control his body in tight spaces, but he’s learning more and more about how to take care of it before he even puts on his pads.

So he applied the same logic to his training. After his MCL surgery, he looked for the best trainer he could find, and got connected to Nicholas Hill at Exos, a strength and speed coach who has worked closely with other NFL stars like Odell Beckham, Jr., and Saquon Barkley. Up until then, Hopkins says he relied mostly on his natural athleticism. “I’m from the country, so I go run some hills and lift some weights, and I’m good, you know?” he says. Hill introduced him to track-based work, incorporating exercises that taught Hopkins new things about acceleration, mechanics, and body positions and angles. Think about that for a second: Hopkins racked up more than 11,000 receiving yards before he knew how to train for speed. “He’s building strength that he didn’t have before,” says Hill. “He’s getting better at 31 years old, which is a scary thought.”

Hopkins agrees. “This is probably the best shape I’ve been in physically since I’ve been playing, since I came into the NFL from college,” he says, before acknowledging that most older players tend to say that. “But I feel like my training and my body has—not changed, but adjusted to my training routine and my eating habits. I feel healthier after practice.” On top of that, he has the type of veteran savvy that only comes through experience. Last year, he performed well in a rather disappointing situation in Arizona, playing for a team that cycled through four quarterbacks, and finished the season on a serious losing skid. “I still thrived in the offense with a lot going on outside the game of football,” he says. “That’s not just being smart or good. That’s being mentally strong as well.”

A testament to this mental strength: Hopkins’s NFL-topping 11,298 career receiving yards have come while playing for thirteen different starting quarterbacks. The fact that he has thrived in an 11-year game of quarterback musical chairs speaks to Hopkins’s mindset, a balance of acceptance and positivity, and an ability to find opportunity no matter the external circumstance. It’s something Hill saw early on during his work with Hopkins, when the PED suspension came down. “He was like, I want to use this time, I don’t want to waste it,” he remembers. “He was very positive about it: It is what it is, there’s nothing we can do about it, let’s take advantage of this additional time.” It’s that type of ease that anchored Hopkins during a chaotic offseason, and that has him feeling confident in learning yet another offensive system. “I didn’t mind not knowing where I would land up,” he says. “To me, I was like, that’s longer I can be in the gym. That’s longer I can go work and craft. I don’t mind at all, cause I know the work I put in the offseason, it’ll show anywhere I go.”

When Hopkins was released by the Cardinals, he immediately became one of the more intriguing stories of the NFL offseason. Because he had been stuck on those mostly underperforming teams with that carousel of mediocre quarterbacks, people couldn’t help but wonder: Would we see an all-time receiver land at a place where he might run down a Super Bowl ring before his career is over?

Hopkins believes that the 2021 Cardinals team he was on, during the season he got injured, had a shot, referring to that year as “our Super Bowl year in Arizona.” They were 7-1 when the hamstring first sidelined him. They lost five of their next nine games, and then lost in the first round of the playoffs. Then came the 4-13 finish last year and Hopkins’s release from the team. I ask him what went wrong. He takes a long pause, considering. “I feel like we stopped having faith in each other, as a team,” he says. “I feel like if the trust isn’t there, it’s hard to win games.”

Hopkins says that as soon as he saw the Titans practice, he recognized a different kind of work ethic, one he hadn’t seen on past teams. “I wouldn’t say it’s because of Arizona, the reason I came here, to have that 360 switch, but I would say it was definitely part of my decision to be somewhere that did have a winning culture, or a fighting culture.”

One of the big reasons for that type of culture is head coach Mike Vrabel, who spent eight of his 14 NFL seasons playing linebacker at the New England Patriots for the ultimate culture-builder Bill Belichick (the two won three Super Bowls together).

“What I love about Vrabel is that he keeps it real with you,” Hopkins says. “He doesn’t care who you are.”

Case in point: After Vrabel left his defensive coordinator position at the Texans to take the Titans head coaching job after the 2018 season, he saw a clip of Hopkins dropping a pass against the Colts. Hopkins received a postgame text from his former coach. Why didn’t you catch that? That ain’t you, Hopkins remembers it saying. Or take a more recent example. “From the second day I got here, he called me out in a team meeting about a play that I fucked up on,” says Hopkins. “I was like, damn, it’s only been one day. I’m over here thinking I’m good, I made a couple plays. We get in the team meeting, and he called me out.” Hopkins can’t remember that happening since the very beginning of his career. “I was like, okay, this is a different standard of football, and I like this,” he says. “This is how you win.”

Except, last year, the Titans struggled to win, losing their last seven games to finish 7-10. If his motivation was only about winning, it might’ve made more sense for Hopkins to sign with the Kansas City Chiefs or the Buffalo Bills, two of the other three teams (along with the New England Patriots) that he says did call him. The Chiefs won the Super Bowl last year, the Bills are a serious threat to make it there this year, and both teams have generationally good quarterbacks.

But those teams wouldn’t pay Hopkins what he thought he was worth. “You have to know your value and have some level of respect for who you are as a human being,” he says. “Is the possibility of you going somewhere who is a Super Bowl-caliber team, on paper, is that worth you being paid minimum? It doesn’t add up.”

So he signed a two-year, $26 million deal with a team that he feels is, like him, being overlooked. He points to the fact that the Titans, reduced to using their third-string quarterback, were still one game away from making the playoffs last year. Plus, every other year during Vrabel’s five-year tenure has been a winning one, and includes two division titles and one AFC championship appearance. “I feel like the Titans have a chance to win the Super Bowl, and they’ve shown that, over the past couple years,” he says. “There’s not many teams that can say that they just ran over the Titans.” Though, as Hopkins has learned, NFL fans tend to have a short memory, particularly when recent struggles cloud past success. “A lot of people have written them off, like they’ve written me off,” he says.

If Hopkins has played long enough to know his worth, he’s also played long enough to know not to tie all of it up in football. “You cannot just try to be a football player,” says Hopkins. “You can’t let that consume who you are, because you’ll get lost.”

Look no further than the ink on his body to spot the symbols for some of the other things he cares about deeply: a peace symbol on the back of his left hand; a Buddha on the inside of his right forearm; the hieroglyphic symbols for “family” on the side of his head; a portrait of his mom and dad on the inside of his biceps. His family and his spirituality have managed to give him a measure of peace: “I do understand that life is like a cycle, and you choose your happiness,” he says. “Even as a kid, I always took a positive aspect to certain negative things.”

He points to his father’s death and his mom’s assault.

“Was I mad before? As a kid? Yeah, I used to be very angry, because I used to be very confused about not having a father,” he says. He used to struggle with the fact that other kids would have their mom and dad at their games, and Hopkins might only have an aunt. “As I got older, I just realized my mom is working two jobs, trying to take care of four kids. What happened to my dad, it’s like, shit, I can’t do nothing about it. I can only try to, as I got older, be the man in the household that he’d want me to be.”

This is the mentality that allows Hopkins to see his injuries as a blessing, his suspension as an opportunity, and, this offseason, to let go of any grudges. “My mom forgave the woman who threw acid on her and left her blind. Me seeing that and having someone like that in my life, it’s hard for me to sit there and be mad about a football team trading me, or someone not wanting me for my abilities. It’s like, do I care? Yeah. But, shit is that like the end-all, be-all? No, life goes on.”

The next big chapter of that life officially starts this weekend, in New Orleans, when Hopkins will first take the field as a Titan and answer the questions that have been following him the last couple of years. The league will be paying close attention, especially, perhaps, those teams that weren’t sure if he still has the juice. I ask Hopkins what the teams that passed on him should know. What did the Titans get that they all missed out on?

“Man, shit, you ask the people around this building, since I been here, what they got?” he says. “That’s a wolf. Not a dog. Wolves eat dogs. You feel me? They got a wolf.”

DEANDRE HOPKINS IS HAPPY TO MAKE THE SPECTACULAR FEEL NORMAL FOR TENNESSEE TITANS FOOTBALL

BY NICK SUSS

NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN

JULY 29, 2023

Just because it's new for the Tennessee Titans doesn't mean it's new for DeAndre Hopkins.

Hopkins generated headlines and fanfare with a highlight catch over cornerback Kristian Fulton at Titans training camp Friday, picking a contested ball out of the air and muscling his way to the ground through Fulton. To Titans fans, it's the kind of play that energizes an offense that desperately needed a top-tier pass catching threat.

To Hopkins, it's a weekday.

"I've been doing that since I've been at Clemson, so obviously now you guys get to see it," Hopkins said Saturday. "It's what I've been doing since I've been playing football. Obviously Ryan (Tannehill) trusts me to just put the ball up in the air and for me to come down with it. Hopefully we can keep doing that to build that rapport."

Hopkins said he hasn't had a problem feeling like himself through three days of practice, even after a bizarre offseason that saw him released by the Arizona Cardinals in May and unsigned into July. He didn't officially sign with the Titans until two days before training camp opened, but that didn't stop him from staying in shape and honing his skills; Titans coach Mike Vrabel said he has been pleased with Hopkins' conditioning.

Heading into his 11th year as a pro, Hopkins is once again adjusting to life with a new quarterback. He said he and Tannehill still have things to work on but they have been able to "put a lot together" in their quest to build chemistry. That manifested early, with Tannehill completing passes to Hopkins in team periods on both of the first two practice days.

Hopkins has been impressed with second-year receiver Treylon Burks, complimenting him for his willingness to seek out and even demand extra practice reps to work specific routes. And he said he thinks backup quarterbacks Malik Willis and Will Levis are getting better and putting the work in to be NFL passers.

But mostly, Hopkins is just sliding into his new role. He's wearing No. 10, just as he did in Houston and Arizona. Not that there was any conflict about that. He said he didn't have to petition or give any huge payout to get the number, which he says he has always worn in honor of an unlikely idol of his.

"(Lionel) Messi was one of my favorite athletes," Hopkins said. "Just being a soccer fan, I always felt like if I had a chance, I wanted to put some respect to Messi."

HOPKINS SAYS HENRY PLAYED BIG FACTOR IN CHOOSING TITANS

BY JOHN GLENNON
NASHVILLE POST

JULY 25, 2023

The value of an NFL running back may be falling these days.

But Titans wide receiver DeAndre Hopkins said the team's prized back, Derrick Henry, proved quite a draw in Hopkins' decision to sign with Tennessee.

Hopkins envisions his role in the passing game, combined with the threat of Henry on the ground, as playing complementary roles in helping to improve a Titans offense that finished 30th in average yards per game and 28th in average points per game last season.

"Derrick played a big factor in me coming here," said Hopkins, who signed a two-year, $26 million deal with the team. "I always wanted to be part of an offense that had a great run game. I know that helps my job, and I know it's going to help his job having someone like me out there, I think. We'll see."

Arizona had a top-10 run offense in each of Hopkins' first two seasons there, but the Cardinals tailed off in 2022, finishing 22nd at just 110.2 yards per contest.

The Titans, of course, have been one of the NFL's most run-heavy teams under Titans coach Mike Vrabel, who has made extensive use of Henry. The three-time Pro Bowl back has totaled 4,657 yards and 56 touchdowns over the past four seasons.

Henry's topped 1,000 yards in four of his last five seasons, falling just 63 yards short of the mark in 2021 when he played only eight games.

Hopkins has played on the same team as three runners, all in Houston, who've topped 1,000 yards in the past — Carlos Hyde (1,070 yards in 2019), Lamar Miller (1,073 yards in 2016) and Arian Foster (1,246 in 2014).

He spoke of Henry in a different light.

"I've played with Arian Foster," Hopkins said. "I've played with some great running backs, but Derrick Henry is definitely by far one of the best running backs that I will be able to have a chance to play with. I think that won't just help us, but the team as well. So Derrick Henry being here played a very big part in me coming here."

The value of an NFL running back is a hot topic these days.

One of the league's top backs, Dalvin Cook, was cut by Minnesota during the offseason. Another, Cincinnati's Joe Mixon, took a pay cut. Three other high-quality backs — the New York Giants' Saquon Barkley, Dallas' Tony Pollard and Las Vegas' Josh Jacobs — were stymied in their efforts to get long-term deals.

Hopkins doesn't agree with the trend, which could affect Henry, who is going into the final year of his contract.

"Without a great running back, or without a good running back, the pass game is very hard to establish," Hopkins said. "I've played a lot of football. You've got to establish the run first. I think those guys are very important to the game of football."

"Obviously I see what's going on, not a fan of it. But you know, that's not my decision. Only thing I can do is go out there and do my job. But having a good running back on the team, it definitely helps win games, for sure."

“That’s one of the guys that I’m excited to work with and to see and know how he plays.”

As he prepares for his fourth NFL season, Adoreé Jackson remains connected to track and field. He said he is disappointed that he won’t get to see some of his former teammates compete at the Olympics this summer (in March, the 2020 Games were postponed a year due to the COVID-19 pandemic).

But he knows he has at least one new teammate with whom he can commiserate, and about whom he already has drawn conclusions.

“I know it’s not easy to run track,” Adoreé Jackson said. “So, for him to do that and play football, I understand what type of player and where he is.”

AMANI HOOKER

TITANS SAFETY AMANI HOOKER THANKFUL FOR CONTRACT EXTENSION WITH THE TEAM

BY JIM WYATT

SEPTEMBER 9, 2022

NASHVILLE – The Titans on Friday agreed to terms on a multi-year contract extension with safety Amani Hooker.

After practice on Friday, Hooker said he's thankful for several reasons.

"It means a lot," Hooker said. "It shows how much the Titans believe in me and trust me, and I have that same trust and confidence in them. I am just going to do my job to make sure I can help this team win and help them win a Super Bowl."

Hooker said he called his parents when the deal became official.

Growing up, Hooker recalled cutting grass, walking dogs, and working a construction job to make money. Hooker said he knew after two days the construction job wasn't for him.

The NFL has worked out well for Hooker and his family.

"My parents, they were with me when I was in little league and they knew my dream when I was in kindergarten," Hooker said. "For them to see where I am at today, I know they are very proud of me, and I wouldn't be here without them."

"Growing up, the dream was for me to get to the NFL, and it was also my dream to stay in the NFL and be able to provide for my family. Being able to do that is a blessing from God."

Hooker, heading into his fourth season, has played in 44 games, with 15 starts, for the Titans since being picked in the fourth round of the 2019 NFL Draft.

Over the years, Hooker has developed into a key player on the team's defense.

In 2021, Hooker started 12 games and finished the year with 62 tackles, and an interception. Hooker also added an interception on the team's playoff contest against the Bengals.

Hooker had a team-high four interceptions in 2020.

In three seasons, Hooker has recorded 119 tackles, five interceptions, 12 passes defended and a forced fumble.

With five career interceptions, Hooker is tied with Juan Thornhill for the third-most among safeties from the 2019 draft class, behind only Darnell Savage Jr. (eight) and Taylor Rapp (seven). From 2020 to 2021, only 11 NFL safeties had more interceptions than Hooker.

Hooker, whose contract was set to expire after the 2022 season before the extension, said the thought of playing alongside veteran safety Kevin Byard long-term is key.

"It is definitely a blessing," Hooker said of Byard. "Watching KB and how he is around the building, I wanted to mimic that because I've seen the success that he had off the field, and on the field as well."

"We have been together for four years, and we're about to be together for another four right now. So we're going to be able to be on the same page and be able to make plays and we'll be the best we can be."

The Titans kick off the 2022 season against the New York Giants on Sunday at Nissan Stadium.

BYARD SAYS HOOKER HAS FOLLOWED PROPER PATH TO LEADERSHIP

BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
JUNE 3, 2021

Amani Hooker figures to make a bigger impact in more than one way this season.

First, the Tennessee Titans safety figures to be a full-time starter for the first time in his career after the team released veteran Kenny Vaccaro as part of a secondary overhaul in March.

He also hopes to be more of a leader for the defensive unit.

And nobody knows how to properly establish leadership than the man he will be playing beside in the defensive backfield this season, Kevin Byard, who has been a team captain in each of the past two seasons.

In order to become a good leader, Byard said, one must first be a good follower. And Hooker has done that well over his first two NFL seasons.

“I think Amani has been a great follower since he’s been here,” Byard said. “Watching me and (Vaccaro), or just watching any of the veteran guys and learning from them, learning how to be a pro.”

A third-round pick out of Middle Tennessee State in 2016, that’s exactly how Byard became one of the Titans’ most prominent voices in the locker room, for both on and off-field matters.

The Pro Bowler and All-Pro observed and learned from the likes of defensive back Jason McCourty and linebacker Brian Orapko.

Not only would Byard listen to what veterans had to say on a daily basis, but he paid close attention to the smallest of details. In the NFL, of course, doing the “little things” matters most.

“One thing that I did when I first got into the league was I looked at the parking lot,” Byard said. “When I got there in the morning, I was looking at cars ... what car is here early in the morning? Okay, this guy here. I was asking Jason, ‘Hey, what time are you getting here in the morning? Why are you coming here so early?’ They were getting rehab or doing the little things.”

A fourth-round pick out of Iowa in 2019, Hooker’s ascension to a more significant role on the defense started last season. His snaps with the defense increased, and when Vaccaro missed three games due to a lingering concussion, Hooker was called upon to start.

He finished tied for the team lead in interceptions with four and second in passes defended eight while also making 51 total tackles. All of those marks are career-highs.

Entering the 2021 season, Hooker is in a position to evolve as a leader for many reasons. Many younger players will fill the secondary after numerous moves in free agency and the NFL Draft.

But most importantly, he’s taken after many veterans over his first two seasons, including Byard.

“He’s into that role where he’s out there playing, he’s out there being more vocal, making calls and checks. That’s the start of it,” Byard said. “Going out there being sure of yourself, knowing what you need to do. When you assure yourself and know what you need to do, you can coach another guy up. I think he’s been doing pretty great at that.

“I think we’re going to be pretty good running mates this year.”

TIM KELLY IS TITANS’
HOPE FOR A BETTER 2023,
BUT IT’S KATIE KELLY WHO IS ‘TOUGH AS HELL’

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 7, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tim Kelly’s office at Tennessee Titans headquarters is one big dry-erase board, a multi-wall collection of scribbled plays in various colors of marker, as expected as telescopes in the office of an astronomer.

Most of those doodles will come and go, but one will remain untouched. It’s to the far left, by the window that looks onto the practice fields at St. Thomas Sports Park. “One In Take A Win” is the name of this play, and the squiggly lines indicate an inside run. The key to success, though, is rooted in something any offensive coordinator will tell you: This is a numbers game.

Aspiring OC Norah Kelly, age 8, made a salient point to her father as she was putting it on the board. If you can smuggle one extra player onto the field than your opponent has, how can you be stopped? When Norah watches the sport, as she does voraciously, and a team gets a penalty for too many men on the field ...

“She says, ‘They’re trying my play but they aren’t sneaky enough,’” said Kelly, whose family includes wife Katie and 6-year-old daughter Quinn.

Quinn is the art enthusiast, an intricate Titans helmet among her contributions to Dad’s dry-erase board. The Kelly girls are all over this workspace. And a big part of why it’s in Nashville.

The Titans are counting on the 37-year-old Kelly to revive what was one of the worst offenses in the NFL in 2022. If he does, this could be a surprise team in 2023. He might have taken the controls much earlier, but the Houston Texans blocked Mike Vrabel’s attempt to interview Kelly for the OC job in January of 2021 after Arthur Smith left Tennessee to become head coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

The Texans wanted to keep Kelly even though they were between head coaches. They fired the next head coach, David Culley, Kelly and the rest of the staff after the 4-13 season of 2021. Kelly soon had job offers, including one to be the Titans’ pass game coordinator under OC Todd Downing. And this is where family dictated a football decision.

“Two other teams were on the table and I was like, ‘No, I want to go be with Vrabel,’” Katie said. “This was very intentional, to be around people you trust and care about year-round. This is a bottom-line business, but at the end of the day, it’s about who you’re battling with. And these people, they know our story. They know my issues.”

The Vrabels were right there with the Kellys in 2017 in Houston.

“The year I almost died,” Katie said.

‘This offense gives you the answers’

Shane McGregor had seen Bill O’Brien once, on TV, engaged in a screaming match with Tom Brady. That was a few weeks before Penn State announced O’Brien as its head football coach in January of 2012, replacing Joe Paterno, who was fired amid the Jerry Sandusky child sex abuse scandal. McGregor and his Penn State teammates who remained with the program were about to transition from months of unrest to an immersive football education.

The Patriots offense, even the scaled-down version O’Brien was installing, was a revelation.

“I mean, that spring we learned an offense by watching Tom Brady and the Pats,” said McGregor, a senior walk-on and third-string quarterback for those Nittany Lions. “Football had been a game I played, but that made it more like an art or science to study. It was almost, like, liberating. It was fascinating, especially for a quarterback. Realizing how you can use your mind to control a game.”

O’Brien liked to tell his players that he was “addicted to football” — that while they were home playing video games or out with their friends or girlfriends, he was home thinking about what to dial up on a third-and-8.

“That happened for me,” said McGregor, to the point that he was hired as head football coach of his high school alma mater, Central Cambria High in Ebensburg, Pa., at age 27.

It happened for Charles London, who had worked with O’Brien at Duke, coached running backs for him at Penn State and with the Houston Texans, and is now Titans pass game coordinator/quarterbacks coach.

“This offense gives you the answers,” London said.

It happened for Kelly, too. His arrival in State College in 2012 as a 25-year-old grad assistant for the defensive line transformed his career.

“A football addict? Yeah,” Kelly said. “That would be accurate. It’s a gift and a curse.”

He grew up in Chicago Heights, Ill., about 30 miles south of Chicago. Younger brother Dennis, an 11-year NFL offensive tackle — including a stint with the Titans from 2016 to 2020 — recalled Tim’s initiative (cold-calling a travel baseball coach to get a tryout at age 10) and extreme competitiveness (turning off video games and running upstairs if he was losing).

Mike and Geri Kelly had four kids, one girl and three boys, with Tim and Dennis in the middle. This was a football family with big gatherings on Sundays for Bears games. Mike painted the field — he once tried the Vols checkerboard look in the end zones — and worked the chains for the boys' little league games. All excelled in high school.

Tim Kelly did not have NFL talent, but he was a four-year starter at defensive tackle, two-time academic all-district honoree and senior captain for the Eastern Illinois Panthers. He volunteered as a coach during the spring of his senior year, loved it and went from there to a GA post at Illinois Wesleyan. Then he got a paying gig, in 2010 as defensive coordinator at Division II Minnesota State Moorhead.

It did not go well.

“We were awful,” Kelly said, but that’s where he met Katie Anderson.

A nursing student at the University of North Dakota, Katie had played volleyball at Minnesota State Moorhead. Her brother was the football team’s strength coach and her mother was an assistant athletic director. Katie had also worked as a nanny for one of the coaches and wondered how his wife tolerated the hours of a football coach.

She would soon know that life. She dated Kelly long distance after the staff was let go — he still likes to joke that his mother-in-law fired him — and he moved on to be a GA at Ball State. Ball State’s offensive line coach was John Strollo. He had worked with O’Brien years earlier at Duke, was hired by O’Brien to be Penn State’s tight ends coach after the 2011 season, and recommended Kelly to O’Brien as a GA candidate.

ADVERTISEMENT

Ball State offensive coordinator Joey Lynch, now Vanderbilt’s offensive coordinator, did an all-night cram session with Kelly on offensive line and tight end techniques before his interview at Penn State, because Kelly thought he was going to be on the offensive side of the ball. When he found out he’d be a GA for defensive line coach Larry Johnson, he sighed in relief.

But after two seasons of those crazy GA hours and a small stipend in return — living with Katie, who was supporting the couple with her nursing job — Kelly got his break, on the other side of the ball. He had become fascinated with an offense that was dictated by the skills of the players running it and gave those players more control on the field than any other he had seen.

O’Brien was leaving for the Houston Texans. He was putting together a staff that would include Vrabel as linebackers coach. He wanted Kelly to come along as an offensive quality control coach. O’Brien told Kelly that, the way he saw the game, he had a future on offense. This meant a salary of six figures. And crazier hours.

“I walked in and there was a playbook and it was about this big,” Kelly said, holding his hands apart to suggest a publication right around a foot thick. “And it was like, ‘Good luck.’ It sucked. It was the hardest thing I’ve ever done. But it kind of Mr. Miyagi’d you. You’re sitting there and have to go back and see what that run concept is, see what that run is, that protection. By the end of the season, you’re like, ‘Oh. I know this entire offense.’”

He and Katie also were married in 2014, though the new gig did not leave him much time to help with that.

As Kelly sat in his office Friday afternoon, reflecting on those times, Vrabel walked in and said: “Let’s wrap it up.”

He was talking about the workday for Titans coaches, and in Vrabel’s terms, Kelly is the head coach of the offense. Kelly sent texts to the offensive coaches telling them to head home to their families.

Football coaching is an enemy of work/life balance — McGregor resigned after last season, he said, because he still wants to travel and have time for other things in his life — but Vrabel tries to find some. His offensive coordinator’s family helps illustrate why.

A turn for the worse

The inherent absence of balance in this world explains why so many people were downplaying the way Katie was feeling in 2017. Of course, she was exhausted. She had baby Quinn and 2-year-old Norah at home.

Quinn had been born prematurely and had underdeveloped lungs, so she was in intensive care for a week after birth. O’Brien sent Kelly — who had moved up to Texans tight ends coach by then — away from work and to the hospital until she was able to come home. Mike and Jen Vrabel watched Norah. That meant a lot to the family.

Quinn got stronger quickly. Katie kept feeling worse. This was a college athlete, a runner — London recalled running a half-marathon with Katie and Tim in Beaumont, Texas, and Katie “kicking our butts” — who had no energy.

But that can be the life of a coach’s spouse with young kids. Even the bloody stools could be explained away by post-partum hemorrhoids.

“Everyone had an answer of why this was normal,” she said. “So I just kept going. You tell yourself, ‘This is just what we do, keep going, keep going.’”

The exhaustion, headaches and weight loss were concerning. The bloody stools got thicker while the family was in Fargo, N.D., visiting her parents. Tim insisted they go to an urgent care facility. She was told she had “something major going on,” and colon cancer was feared initially.

Weeks later, in August back in Houston, she finally got a diagnosis of severe ulcerative colitis, a bowel disease that causes inflammation and ulcers in the digestive tract. There was no telling if it was newly developed or had just been dormant in Katie. There's no cure, but it can be managed with treatment.

That got started in tandem with the 2017 football season. Katie would need to remove gluten and alcohol from her diet. She would need a regular concoction of medicine. There was comfort in a diagnosis and plan as the grind of fall got going.

But Katie wasn't feeling better. She was so visibly miserable one day that two of her friends insisted on taking her to an urgent care in Houston. She resisted at first, then relented. Moments after arriving, she was being rushed by ambulance to the hospital. Tim raced from the Texans facility to join her.

"They couldn't break her fever," he said.

"I had no blood pressure," Katie said. "I was given epinephrine in the ambulance to keep me alive."

She had experienced a "cytokine storm," doctors would tell her later, the result of her immune system responding too aggressively to her condition. Weeks in the hospital and a stool transplant would follow. One medication gave her drug-induced Lupus and had to be discontinued. The trial and error perpetuated the exhaustion.

"She's tough as hell," Kelly said of his wife.

"It was all very scary," Geri Kelly said. "But Katie, she dealt with it like a champ."

Infusions of Entyvio, an antibody medication, started to restore Katie's health. That's a permanent solution, every six weeks, with a couple of days of fatigue after each infusion as the primary drawback. The Kellys got through the crisis OK, with help from their football family. Then came another.

In August of 2018, Mike Kelly went in for a knee replacement and was given a clean bill of health otherwise. In October, he wasn't feeling well and went in. A scan showed cancer spreading aggressively in his bones, liver and lungs. He had weeks to live. He was 68.

Those were the years of the boys opposing each other as AFC South rivals. Mike and Gerry just rooted for each team's offense when the Texans and Titans played. Tim had his usual postgame FaceTime call with his dad after a Dec. 9 loss to the Colts, knowing his father wasn't doing well.

He got a call around 11 p.m. that an ambulance had taken Mike to the hospital. He got a call around 3 a.m. that he had passed away. He walked into the Texans facility at 5 a.m., as usual on a Monday.

"If you're here this afternoon," O'Brien said to Kelly, "I'm going to fire you."

Vrabel dispatched Dennis to Chicago as well, and the brothers and their families were on hand for Mike's wake and funeral. Then it was back to Houston and Nashville to prepare for the Jets and Giants, respectively. Both teams played in New Jersey that weekend. Both won.

"Right back to work for both of them," Geri said. "That's exactly what Mike would have wanted."

A few weeks later, O'Brien promoted Kelly to offensive coordinator, making him one of the youngest in the league at 33. O'Brien told reporters of the move: "Timmy's had a lot of input into what we do. He's had a big part of the process and he's ready for the challenge."

Family time

Grandpa Mike's spaghetti is the favorite dish in the Kelly household these days, and it has undergone changes since Mike Kelly used to make it for his kids — amid jokes about an Irish family going with spaghetti as a staple. Tim weaved in mushrooms to the recipe at some point, despite complaints from his father about "adding a fungus." And it is, of course, gluten-free now.

"Take some yellow onions and dice them, chop the mushrooms, add butter, olive oil, tomato paste, tomato puree," Kelly said. "Salt, pepper, fresh green peppers. Simmer that. Then the meatballs. Then the Italian sausage. And then we're rolling."

It's a tribute to a man Norah has some very early memories of, and it's far from the only play in Kelly's playbook. Cooking is something he loves and has embraced as a family duty, especially because he likes to find new things that Katie can eat and actually likes. He won't be making any of Norah's softball games this fall. But it's about being "totally present" when he is home, a common refrain among coaches.

"I know coaches work," he said, "but ... what about how much she works? When does she get to turn it off?"

Starting Sunday at New Orleans, Kelly will try to fry up some offense for a team that finished 28th in scoring and 30th in total offense last season, firing Downing when it was over. That led to the promotion of Kelly, with Vrabel calling him "the perfect fit" and saying of an offense that was fourth in scoring and second in total offense in 2020 under Smith: "I don't think everything is broken."

It's different now, though. This is the Erhardt-Perkins offense, named after Ron Erhardt and Ray Perkins from when they were offensive assistants with the Patriots in the 1970s. But the only thing that's passed down from that time is the nomenclature. Kelly pointed to the Bill Belichick era, transitioning to a three-wide offense with Air Raid concepts and Randy Moss at receiver, then to a two-tight end base when Rob Gronkowski and Aaron Hernandez were added. That's the point.

One of the most impactful football meetings of Kelly's career was early in his time at Penn State when O'Brien said it's not about plugging players into specific plays, it's about figuring out what your specific guys do well and designing to that.

"That was the first time it was like, 'Oh,'" Kelly said.

More than the modern West Coast offense that was in place in Vrabel's first five seasons, this offense is "totally quarterback-driven," London said. The quarterback, not the center, calls protections. The quarterback doesn't just have one alternative play he can check into, he has a large menu.

"Some new concepts, new protections, new ideas we haven't had in the past," Tannehill said Wednesday.

"It's more players' decisions, we're getting to react to defenses and make high-speed decisions on the field," said receiver Chris Moore, who was with Kelly in Houston in 2021. "Whereas some offenses I've been in, like, you just run the route, run it the way it is on paper. This is much more reacting to what you see."

Kelly said he has changed, too. His largely successful tenure in Houston saw O'Brien give him play-calling duties in 2020, and he said a 42-36 overtime loss at Tennessee — with Jeff Simmons batting away a two-point pass that would have sealed the game — gave him confidence. He's better at not letting bad plays fester, he said. And at delegating.

"Hands down the biggest change I've made over the past couple years is, like, it's OK to let guys do their jobs," Kelly said. "They don't need me in front of the room every single day, talking about every single subject. I presented everything in '21, and I'm not doing that this year."

London has third downs. Tight ends coach Tony Dews has the red zone. Run game coordinator/running backs coach Justin Outten — Denver's OC last season — has added run concepts to Kelly's scheme. Between that and last season working in the previous offense, Kelly said it's fair to call this a "hybrid offense." He wanted to retain the physical, Derrick Henry-led identity that he saw beat the Texans so many times.

Titans center Aaron Brewer said Kelly is "like a guru back there" calling plays. Right guard Daniel Brunskill called him "Kyle-esque" — as in, Kyle Shanahan, play-calling whiz and coach of the 49ers teams that included Brunskill from 2019-22. By that, he meant Kelly's ability to explain plays to the Titans from a global perspective. And his work ethic.

"That's what makes Kyle a genius," Brunskill said. "The hard work."

That eats at the time in a day. But Kelly finds it when he can. The whole family attended the preseason game at Minnesota, and Vrabel came to the sideline and found Norah and Quinn.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel has a big hug for Quinn Kelly at the Aug. 19 preseason game in Minnesota. (Courtesy of the Kelly family)

"He made Norah feel like she's seen, like she's a part of it," Katie said. "I can't tell you how much of a difference that makes."

It doesn't mean Vrabel will be approving "One In Take A Win" anytime soon. But there's a comfort, a history, that made Nashville the right choice for the Kellys. That matters. As does the first thing Norah told Grandma Geri about Vrabel when she found out she'd be rejoining him: "Coach Mike, he gives out the big candy bars on Halloween."

TITANS ELEVATE TIM KELLY TO OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR WHILE MAKING SEVERAL NEW ADDITIONS, AND CHANGES

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 8, 2023

Titans head coach Mike Vrabel has made a number of moves on his coaching staff, including promotions and new hires.

Among them: Tim Kelly has been elevated to Offensive Coordinator, a year after joining the staff as the team's Passing Game Coordinator.

Also on Tuesday, the team announced these additions to the coaching staff:

-Charles London has been hired as Pass Game Coordinator/Quarterbacks.

-Chris Harris has been hired as Defensive Pass Game Coordinator/Cornerbacks.

-Lori Locust has been hired as Defensive Quality Control.

-Justin Hamilton has been hired as Defensive Quality Control.

The following coaches remain on the staff with new responsibilities:

-Jason Houghtaling is now the team's new offensive line coach. He replaces Keith Carter, who was not retained.

-Luke Steckel is now the team's Run Game Analyst. Steckel previously served as tight ends coach.

-Pat O'Hara is now the team's Pass Game Analyst. O'Hara previously served as quarterbacks coach.

-Tony Dews is now the team's Tight Ends coach. Dews served previously as Running Backs coach, and that position still needs to be filled.

Vrabel is expected to be available via zoom later today to discuss the new additions/changes on his staff.

The most notable one is Vrabel's decision to promote Kelly to offensive coordinator, where he replaces Todd Downing, who was not retained after last season.

Prior to joining the Titans as Passing Game Coordinator last year, Kelly spent eight seasons (2014-21) with the Houston Texans in a variety of roles, including Offensive Coordinator (2019-21), Tight Ends (2017-18), Assistant Offensive Line (2016) and Offensive Quality Control (2014-16).

As the Texans Offensive Coordinator in 2021, Kelly guided quarterback Davis Mills to a franchise rookie record for passing yards, ranked second among NFL rookies in passer rating and led all NFL quarterbacks in red zone passer rating (116.8). Wide receiver Brandon Cooks also set a career high with 90 receptions. In 2020, quarterback Deshaun Watson led the NFL in passing yards (4,823) and yards per attempt (8.9), while ranking second in passer rating (112.4) and third in completion percentage (70.2%). While with the Texans, the team captured four AFC South division titles.

London joins the Titans after two seasons (2021-22) with the Falcons as their Quarterback coach. Last year, London worked with rookie quarterback Desmond Ridder, who started the final four games of the season and posted a quarterback rating of 86.4 with each game seeing a higher rating than the previous game. As an offense, the Falcons ranked 10th on third down and 14th in the red zone.

Prior to joining the Falcons, London spent three seasons (2018-20) as the Running Backs Coach for Chicago. During his time with the Bears, he worked with a trio of running backs who reached 1,000 scrimmage yards in at least one season – Jordan Howard (2018), Tarik Cohen (2018) and David Montgomery (2019 and 2020). Cohen and Montgomery posted career-high rushing totals under his tutelage. London spent four seasons (2014-17) with Houston as their Running Backs Coach.

London spent two seasons (2012-13) as the Running Back coach/Recruiting Coordinator at Penn State under Head Coach Bill O'Brien. In 2011, London served as an Offensive Assistant/Quality Control coach for the Titans in Mike Munchak's first season as head coach. He was a pro scout for Philadelphia in 2010 and was a Quality Control coach on offense for Chicago from 2007-09. He entered the coaching profession as a graduate assistant (2004-05) and then running back coach (2006) at his alma mater, Duke.

Harris brings 17 years of NFL experience, nine as a coach and eight as a player, to the Titans. He joins the team after spending three seasons (2020-22) as the Defensive Backs coach for the Washington Commanders. Anthony Midget previously served as secondary coach with the Titans, but he was not retained after last season.

At Washington, Harris contributed to one of the best defenses in the NFL over the last three seasons. The Commanders ended the 2022 season in the top ten in a number of categories, including total defense (third), passing yards allowed (fourth), points allowed (seventh), 3rd down defense (first) and red zone defense (eighth). From 2020-22, the Commanders defense ranked eighth in the NFL in passing yards allowed (213.1 yards per game) and fourth in total yards allowed (323.4 yards per game).

Prior to joining Washington, Harris spent four seasons (2016-19) with the Los Angeles Chargers as the assistant defensive backs coach. In his final season with the Chargers, the defense ranked fifth in the NFL in passing yards allowed (200.3) and sixth in total yards (313.1). Harris began his coaching career as a quality control coach on defense with Chicago for two seasons 2013-14.

As an NFL player, Harris played eight seasons at safety with Chicago (2005-06, 10-11), Carolina (2007-08), Detroit (2011) and Jacksonville (2012). He earned second-team All-Pro honors by The Associated Press in 2010 with the Bears. Over his NFL career, he totaled 439 tackles, 16 interceptions, 14 forced fumbles, nine fumble recoveries and one sack in 101 games (88 starts).

Locust becomes the first female to join the coaching staff on a full-time basis. Locust served the past four seasons (2019-22) as the Assistant Defensive Line coach for Tampa Bay.

During her tenure with the Bucs, they led the NFL in rushing defense, allowing only 92.3 yards per game. Additionally, the team ranked fifth in sacks (187), third in tackles for loss (348), first in quarterback hits (452) and fifth in takeaways (102). Nose tackle Vita Vea earned his first Pro Bowl selection, while totaling 15 sacks between 2019 and 2022, a total that led all nose tackles. Locust joined fellow Buccaneers assistant Maral Javadifar in becoming the first women on an NFL coaching staff to win a Super Bowl (LV).

Prior to joining Tampa Bay, Locust was the assistant defensive line coach for the Birmingham Iron of the Alliance of American Football and served as a coaching intern with the Baltimore Ravens during their 2018 training camp.

Locust held a variety of coaching roles leading up to her entry into the NFL coaching ranks, including time with the Lehigh Valley Steelhawks (National Arena League), Central Penn Capitals (NAL) and the York Capitals (American Indoor Football). She also served as a coach for the Central Penn Pairanha (semi-professional) and her high school alma mater, Susquehanna Township H.S. She attended Temple University and also played football (2004-08) for the Central Penn Vipers in the Independent Women's Football League.

Hamilton joins the Titans after 11 seasons coaching in the college ranks, including two seasons (2020-21) as the Defensive Coordinator at Virginia Tech. He joined Virginia Tech in 2018, as Director of Player Development - Defense and was promoted to Safeties coach in 2019. Prior to his time in Blacksburg, he coached for four seasons at VMI, first as outside linebackers/co-special teams (2014-16) and one season (2017) as inside linebackers/co-special teams coach. He started his coaching career Virginia – Wise for three seasons (2011-13).

Info on the returning coaches with new roles:

Tony Dews, Tight Ends

Dews joined the Titans coaching staff in 2018, as the running back coach. He guided running back Derrick Henry to four 1,000-yard seasons, including a career-high 2,027 yards in 2020. Over the past five seasons, Henry leads all NFL running backs with 7,101 yards and 68 touchdowns. Prior to joining the Titans, Dews spent 20 seasons coaching in the college ranks, including 10 seasons coaching wide receivers or tight ends.

Jason Houghtaling, Offensive Line

Houghtaling joined the Titans in 2021 as Offensive Line Assistant. Prior to his time in Tennessee, he spent 14 seasons in college coaching, including five years as the Head Coach at Wagner. The majority of coaching experience on the collegiate level was on the offensive line or as offensive coordinator.

Pat O'Hara, Passing Game Analyst

O'Hara joined the Titans coaching staff in 2018 as the Quarterback coach. During his time with the Titans, quarterback Ryan Tannehill has become the franchise's leader in passer rating (100.5), career completion percentage (66.9%) and sixth in passing yards (12,831). He joined the team after three seasons (2015-17) with the Houston Texans.

Prior to Texans, O'Hara spent many years in the Arena Football League as a player, assistant coach and head coach.

Luke Steckel, Run Game Analyst

Steckel has been with the Titans since 2013 in a variety of roles, including tight ends coach for the last two seasons (2021-22). Last season, the Titans tight ends accounted for 85 receptions and rookie Chig Okonkwo led all NFL rookie tight ends with 450 receiving yards. Over the last two years, the Titans have ranked fifth (2021) and 13th (2022) in rushing offense in the NFL.

3 THINGS TO KNOW
ABOUT TENNESSEE
TITANS OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR TIM KELLY

BY DANI MOHR
THE TENNESSEAN
FEBRUARY 8, 2023

The Tennessee Titans officially hired Tim Kelly as the team's new offensive coordinator Tuesday.

Kelly, 36, takes over the position in Nashville after spending 2022 as the Titans' passing game coordinator. He was promoted along with several other coaching changes that the Titans announced Tuesday. He'll replace former offensive coordinator Todd Downing, who was fired after Tennessee missed the playoffs this season.

Here's everything to know about the Titans' new offensive coordinator.

Before spending a year with the Titans as the passing game coordinator, Kelly came to Nashville after spending eight years in Houston.

Kelly previously worked in quality control with the Houston Texans, and assisted with the offensive line and coaching tight ends. After about four seasons, he got promoted as the offensive coordinator in 2019 and was credited with Deshaun Watson's success.

However, he was also credited with the Texans' offensive downfall in 2021 when Tyrod Taylor and Davis Mills took over as quarterbacks. Kelly was fired after leading Houston to a losing record (4-14) with no hope in sight.

Kelly's brother is a former Tennessee Titan

Kelly's brother Dennis, who is currently an offensive tackle for the Indianapolis Colts, played for the Titans from 2016-2020.

College coaching experience

Before following former Texans and Penn State coach Bill O'Brien to Houston, Kelly jumped around the Midwest as a college coaching assistant.

He played in college at Eastern Illinois at defensive tackle and went into coaching as an assistant graduate at Illinois Wesleyan in 2008. He was a graduate assistant in 2010 at Minnesota State-Moorhead and moved on to Ball State in 2011.

Kelly worked under O'Brien from 2012-2013 at Penn State in the same role, and followed him to coach the Texans in 2014. They spent another several years together in Houston before O'Brien was fired in 2020.

ARDEN KEY IS SET TO PLAY CRITICAL ROLE FOR TITANS' DEFENSE, WRITES MIKE HERNDON

BY MIKE HERNDON, COLUMNIST
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
AUGUST 2, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- It has been impossible not to notice Arden Key early in Titans' training camp.

When the free agent addition isn't popping up in the backfield again... and again... and again, he's – loudly – rooting on his defensive teammates and chirping at the offense. His energy level is intense and unrivaled among players on both the current Titans squad and any other version of the team that I've covered over the past six years.

Key brings an easy smile, a big personality, and a loud voice to a team that has sometimes lacked that type of presence. Defensive coordinator Shane Bowen talked on Tuesday about him being able to bring some teammates along, which can be an asset for a team over the grind of a 17-game season.

Of course, being loud and energetic means nothing if there isn't production to go along with it. Practice sacks don't count, but if they did, Key would probably already be ready to renegotiate his contract. His current running total – as estimated by Key and Austin Stanley of AtoZ Sports – is now at 14 through his first five training camp practices in Tennessee, including a seven-sack day last Friday.

Speaking of Key's contract, it's worth noting that he received the most guaranteed money ($13 million) of any of the Titans' veteran additions this offseason, including DeAndre Hopkins ($10.98 million) and the man often tasked with blocking him in camp, Andre Dillard ($10 million). That's a pretty clear indication of how Ran Carthon and Mike Vrabel viewed him as a free agent and it makes him one of a very short list of Titans players who are virtually guaranteed to be on the roster in 2024.

Key was the first name I mentioned back in February when I previewed the market for edge rushers. As I wrote then:

“The best options aren't big names, but could be good investments, starting with Arden Key, who saw his career get revived in San Francisco in 2021 and then provided good value as a rotational rusher for the Jaguars last season.

His 18.1 percent win rate was 15th among 49 edge rushers with at least 325 pass rush snaps last season, sandwiched between Montez Sweat and teammate Josh Allen. He'll be 27 next season and seems to still be ascending as a player at the NFL level after a slow start to his career.”

Key's career has become quite a redemption story. After breaking out with 11 sacks as a sophomore at LSU, he was largely viewed as a future first-round pick. Injuries and off-field issues, which included him checking into rehab for marijuana addiction, dropped his draft stock in 2017, leading to him being selected by the Raiders in the third round with the 87th overall pick.

In Oakland, he was thrown directly into the fire, playing more than 50 percent of snaps in 13 of 16 games as a rookie for the league's worst defense. Key struggled to produce, notching just one sack despite heavy playing time.

He was reduced to a rotational role in 2019 and had his season ended early by a foot fracture, producing no sacks and just 12 total pressures by PFF charting. After getting healthy before the start of the 2020 season, Key remained in a depth role, contributing two sacks in over 14 games. Before the start of the 2021 NFL draft, Key was released by the Raiders.

Key's time with the Raiders was clearly a failure, but there are some advanced numbers that suggested the career rebirth that we've seen over the past two years was coming. His pass rush win rate, again as charted by PFF, went from 9.1 percent in 2018 (60th among 109 qualified edge rushers) to 11.2 percent in 2019 (38th out of 118) to 11.6 percent in 2020 (36th out of 117).

Next came an extremely smart move by Key.

He signed a one-year, $1 million contract to go play under defensive line guru Kris Kocurek in San Francisco, a man widely viewed as the best in the business at developing young pass rushers. Despite playing just 35 percent of defensive snaps on a loaded defensive line that also featured Nick Bosa, Arik Armstead, Samson Ebukam, and D.J. Jones, Key produced career highs in sacks (6.5), total pressures (39), QB hits (14), and pass rush win rate (11.8 percent) while lining up all over the 49ers' defensive front.

That breakout season earned him a pay raise, and he signed a one-year, $4 million contract in Jacksonville, where again, he found himself in a rotational role behind Josh Allen and first overall pick Travon Walker. Like in San Francisco, Jaguars defensive coordinator Mike Caldwell deployed Key all over the defensive line, giving him almost 100 snaps as an interior rusher as well as his rotational spot on the edge. Key's performance continued to improve, setting yet another career-best mark in pass rush win rate at 13.8 percent to go along with 51 total pressures and 13 QB hits.

While in Jacksonville, Key also produced the highest PFF run defense grade that he's earned in his career at 75.1, good for 17th among edge rushers, something that the Titans will want to see expanded as he transitions into more of a full-time role.

There is good reason to believe that Key's best football may be ahead of him as well. He's still just 27 years old, and by his own self-admission, has grown a lot over the course of his five-year NFL career.

While talking to the media – and teammate Azeez Al-Shaair – on Tuesday, Key claimed that he “used to be fat” during his time in San Francisco, something he’s focused on during training over the last two offseasons. His performance in training camp to this point indicates that the increased focus on conditioning has paid off for the talented edge rusher.

What will be fascinating to watch as the season begins is how the Titans choose to deploy their pass rush pieces. Both Denico Autry and Key have inside-outside versatility from a rush standpoint as Key has primarily lined up as a defensive tackle on third downs for both the 49ers and Jaguars the last two seasons. That’s something Autry has done frequently since signing with Tennessee in 2021. In fact, Key mentioned Autry last week as a guy who he’s studied and modeled some of his game after even before joining him with the Titans.

That versatility should allow Bowen to hunt matchups throughout the season and keep defenses from knowing where any of the Titans’ top pass rushers might be lining up consistently.

To get a feel for Key as a player, let’s look at some snaps from last season in Jacksonville, starting with his usage as an interior pass rusher. This first clip features Key lined up in as a three-technique in the gap between the left guard and left tackle. He uses an impressive chop-swim combo to beat Dalton Risner and sack Russell Wilson.

Here is another similar rep.

Key’s positioning is even wider here as he’s lined up outside of Titans’ right tackle Nicholas Petit-Frere, but he quickly jumps inside and uses another swim move to beat Jordan

Roos and flush Josh Dobbs from the pocket. Key was a menace in both matchups against Tennessee last year.

While I think he’s most effective rushing from inside, Key can also create pressure as a traditional edge rusher. Here, he beats Broncos left tackle Calvin Anderson with a nice cross-chop move, forcing a rushed throw from Wilson.

And here, he uses his hands to get inside leverage against Cowboys left tackle Tyler Smith and pushes his way all the way to a sack of Dak Prescott.

As I mentioned above, Key scored highly as a run defender last season and the tape backs it up. He only played limited snaps on early downs, but when he was out there, he was effective at setting the edge as he does here against Tyler Smith. This is textbook from Key here.

I’ll finish with something that was a bit of a surprise for me when I really cut on the Key tape... his motor and instincts are outstanding. Here, he flashes high-level awareness as he notices the back leaking out for a screen during his pass rush, redirects, and breaks up the play, nearly grabbing a one-handed interception in the process.

Key’s motor was non-stop on tape, constantly making plays like the one below where he chases down a screen from the backside of the play and puts a massive hit on Chargers running back Joshua Kelly.

Key’s fit into this defense is excellent, especially from a pass-rush standpoint. No team likes to use games and stunts up front more than the Titans and Key should thrive in that scheme with his athleticism benefitting from playing with two of the best “pickers” in the NFL in Jeffery Simmons and Autry.

I’d describe Key’s game as a mash-up of Landry and Autry, bringing some elements of Landry’s athleticism and Autry’s length and power to the table for a unique blend of skills.

The Titans’ ability to mix and match where Simmons, Autry, Landry, and Key all line up along with the talent level of those four players give Mike Vrabel’s defense one of the best fronts in the NFL heading into 2023, and early returns on Key suggest that we all may be underrating what this group could be.

KINSEY SET TO MAKE NFL DEBUT

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
OCTOBER 23, 2021

NASHVILLE – Mason Kinsey is in line to make his NFL debut Sunday.

The Tennessee Titans designated the groundbreaking wide receiver as a standard elevation to the active roster off their practice squad Saturday, one day before they face the Kansas City Chiefs at Nissan Stadium.

“A lot of early mornings and late nights for this,” he wrote on Twitter. “I trusted his plan. Thank you God.”

The move means he will automatically revert to the practice squad on Monday, but he should get the chance to show what he can do on Sunday.

Cornerback Chris Jones also was named a standard elevation from the practice squad.

It is likely that Kinsey’s primary responsibility will be as punt returner given that Chester Rogers has been ruled out for the game with a groin injury. Rogers is the only player who has returned punts for the Titans this season, and he ranks fourth in the league with an average of 12.0 yards per return.

However, there also should be plenty of opportunity for Kinsey, 23, to play on offense as well. Rogers and Cameron Batson, who was placed on injured reserve Monday with a season-ending knee injury, have been the Titans’ primary slot receivers this season, and that is a position at which Kinsey got plenty of work during the preseason.

Kinsey was the first player from Division III Berry College to sign an NFL contract when he joined the Titans as an undrafted free agent in 2020. He did two stints on New England’s practice squad during that season before he returned to Tennessee during the offseason.

He was the Titans’ leading receiver in the preseason with 14 catches for 131 yards and one touchdown (no one else caught more than six passes). He also returned one punt for 11 yards.

“I never really lost focus. I knew I was at a D-III school and it was going to take a lot,” Kinsey said during the preseason. “I just stayed laser-focused on that. I knew what it was going to take, and I knew kind of how I had to approach it. That was my mindset.

“... I’ve grown a lot. It’s been exciting, man. It’s been everything I’ve dreamed of. I love this place. I love this team.”

HAROLD LANDRY
"ECSTATIC" TO BE BACK ON THE FIELD FOR TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 28, 2023

NASHVILLE – Harold Landry stepped up to the podium on Friday after practice, and the big smile on his face said it all.

"I'm excited to be here for sure," the Titans edge rusher said. "It's been awesome. Being away from the game as long as I have, missing all of last year, obviously you miss making plays in front of fans at the games because, you know, that feeling is euphoric.

"But honestly, being away for that long, you start to appreciate it and miss it even more, just like coming out on the practice field and hearing Jeff (Simmons) talk (trash), or just hearing your guys joking around. But everybody is just out here grinding and having a good time. ... I'm ecstatic to be back."

Landry, who tore his ACL leading up to last season, didn't take part in OTAs or the minicamp during the offseason.

But on the first day of training camp, Landry was on the field with his teammates, without a knee brace.

And, he feels great.

"What happened was I tore it a while ago," Landry said of the knee. "And now it's damn near perfect."

A second-round pick of the Titans in the 2018 NFL Draft out of Boston College, Landry made it to his first Pro Bowl in 2021 after racking up 12 sacks and 49 quarterback pressures.

The sack total ranked 10th in the NFL and led the team, and it finished off a four-year stretch in which Landry accumulated a team-high 31 sacks, the second-highest total by a Titans/Oilers player in his first four NFL seasons since 1982, when individual sacks became an official NFL statistic 1982 (37 by Jevon Kearse).

He was looking forward to picking up where he left off before the injury.

A year later, he's champing at the bit for the 2023 season to begin.

Landry still has time to work, but the worst is behind him.

"It's a long process, and throughout it you're definitely frustrated a little bit because there's times you're doing everything you can and you feel like you're kind of staying the same," Landry said. "Then out of nowhere, you just stick to the plan, trust the people you're working with and you make those jumps.

"Now, being where I'm at, it feels great. I don't even think about it when I'm out on the field. It's awesome, so kudos to all the people I've been working with and all the time and energy because it feels great."

Is there a chance he could come back better than ever?

Landry said he's been motivated by seeing others return in grand fashion after an ACL injury.

"I'm definitely stronger, more explosive for sure, faster," Landry said. "I mean, I would say I'm most definitely just more strict on my diet because I'm into that stuff and I was doing everything possible to make my knee feel better the next day.

"... Expectations are high, you know what I am saying? I worked my ass off to get to this point, and the people here have helped me so much. I feel great."

ON THE DAY HAROLD LANDRY SIGNED HIS LUCRATIVE NEW CONTRACT, THE TITANS
OLB SAID HE'S INDEBTED TO THOSE WHO HELPED HIM REACH SUCCESS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
MARCH 10, 2022

NASHVILLE – Harold Landry III strolled down the hallway at Saint Thomas Sports Park on Thursday, his two young boys on the move in front of him, his wife doing her best to keep them under control, and happy.

Landry, on the day he signed his lucrative contract extension with the Titans, had plenty of reasons to be thankful.

He started with his wife, Danielle, for helping him reach success.

"I wouldn't be here signing this contract today without her," Landry said of his wife. "Everything she does for me, it is incredible, really, how she raises our kids, how she makes sacrifice after sacrifice to make sure I am able to handle my business with football. I am extremely thankful for her, and what she has done for me.

"She deserves so much credit for me being here today."

Landry, a second-round pick of the Titans in the 2018 NFL Draft out of Boston College, inked his new deal on Thursday before holding a press conference at the team's training facility. The outside linebacker earned his new deal with the team after racking up 12 sacks and 49 quarterback pressures in 2021.

The sack total ranked 10th in the NFL and led the team, and it finished off a four-year stretch in which Landry accumulated a team-high 31 sacks, the second-highest total by a Titans/Oilers player in his first four NFL seasons since 1982, when individual sacks became an official NFL statistic 1982 (37 by Jevon Kearse).

On the day he signed his contract, Landry reflected on his path to the NFL, while thanking those around him.

Born and raised in Spring Lake, N.C., just down the road from Fort Bragg U.S. Army military base, Landry said his parents, Doreen and Harold Landry, sacrificed back then just like his wife does now to give him a chance to be successful.

Landry's dad was a FedEx driver, his mother worked in IT support. Landry said his parents sometimes worked multiple jobs so he and his sister had everything they needed.

"I'll be honest: I've never had a job my whole life besides football," Landry said with a smile. "I am so grateful to the parents that I have, because they did everything they had to do to make sure I could just focus on sports and football.

"As a kid growing up, every day, as soon as the sun came up, we were outside playing sports, and we didn't come home until the street lights came on. It was sports, sports, sports."

Landry's goal back then?

"I always wanted to make my parents proud, whether it was football, baseball or basketball," Landry said. "I just always wanted to put smiles on their faces. As I got older and got to high school it was the same thing.

"My motivation, it was simple: I wanted to be the best."

Landry earned All-America and all-state honors at Pine Forest (Fayetteville, N.C.) High School, and he also earned a scholarship to Boston College.

Once there, Landry said he got really serious about putting himself in a position to have an NFL career.

Landry recorded 26 sacks while at Boston College, which put him on the radar of NFL teams. The Titans picked him 41st overall in 2018.

And then, over the past four years with the Titans, Landry has emerged as one of the NFL's best pass rushers. At the same time, his family has grown as well. Harold and Danielle, who met while at Boston College, have two sons – Greyson (4) and Ollie (2).

"I feel like these past four years, they have been amazing, to be honest," Landry said. "Obviously there's ups and downs – you play this game long enough you are going to experience a whole bunch of different things. And I feel like I have experienced a lot in my four years here, and it's done nothing but take me to the next level, and make me a better player for it.

"I feel like I have grown so much as a player, and as a man, the past four years."

From 2018 to 2021, Landry joined Pittsburgh's Cameron Heyward as the NFL's only players to be credited with at least 250 tackles, 30 sacks and two interceptions. His 12-sack season in 2021 was the highest total by a Titans player since Jason Babin reached 12.5 sacks in 2010. Landry also tied for second on the squad with 75 tackles, ranked second with a career-high 49 quarterback pressures, led the team with 14 tackles for loss, and added a forced fumble. He joined Micah Parsons, Aaron Donald and Heyward as the only NFL players in 2021 to post at least 75 tackles and 10 sacks.

Landry said he won't let up now.

Money, he said, won't change him.

He's thrilled to remain in Nashville, because he said it's where his family is happy.

The Titans, of course, are sure happy to have him.

"My motivation," Landry said, "is when I step on the field, I want to be considered the best player on the field. So, that is the motivation. The money, I am extremely blessed and grateful that this organization believes in me, and gave me this contract. But I feel like the money is a byproduct of the work that I put in to achieve the goal of being considered one of the best players in the NFL.

"All of this, I am just feeling so blessed and grateful and thankful for the life that I get to live and experience, with the awesome family that I have. ... And I am so thankful that this organization has the faith and trust they have in me. I am just extremely grateful and thankful for all of this."

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH OL COREY LEVIN
ON A ONE-YEAR DEAL

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
MARCH 31, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with versatile offensive lineman Corey Levin on a one-year deal.

Levin, originally selected by the Titans in the sixth round of the 2017 NFL Draft from Chattanooga, has played in 45 games, with four starts, in his NFL career.

Levin played in all 17 games for the Titans in 2022 while starting the final three contests at center.

Levin, who has also spent time with the Broncos, Bears, Jets and Patriots in the NFL, has also started at game at left guard. He's been a contributor on special teams as well.

Earlier this offseason the team released center Ben Jones, while guard Nate Davis signed with the Bears.

Meanwhile, the Titans tendered center/guard Aaron Brewer, a restricted free agent, while signing former 49ers lineman Daniel Brunskill, who is expected to compete for a starting spot on the team's interior line as well.

Levin's return will add to the competition, and it gives the team more quality depth.

TO UNDERSTAND HOW WILL LEVIS' DRAFT SLIDE COULD TURN INTO ROCKET FUEL, START IN HIGH SCHOOL

BY NICK SUSS
THE TENNESSEAN
MAY 10, 2023

Will Levis has a big mouth.

That's not a figure of speech.

When it comes to food, the Tennessee Titans' second-round pick and potential quarterback of the future is less Julia Child and more a child dipping his hot dog in chocolate milk to test his mom's patience.

Culinary experiments made Levis famous on social media. Long before he was the lightning-rod prospect NFL draft pundits compared to everyone from Josh Allen to Blake Bortles, he was the Kentucky passer who went viral for stirring mayonnaise into his coffee and eating bananas without peeling them.

He doesn't do these things because he likes the taste. He does them because he can. It's audacious. And people react to his audacity.

Like when Levis was at Xavier High School in Middletown, Connecticut. He and some teammates were eating McDonald's. Levis told his friends he could down a Big Mac in five seconds. No one dared him. He just wanted to do it.

So he did.

"A lot of people wouldn't do that because it's weird," said Kyle MacGillis, Levis' high school receiver and close friend. "But he's funny like that. He doesn't really care what a lot of people actually do think about him. He's genuine. I think he's just like 'I bet I can do this.' And then he goes and does it. It's not like he's trying to prove anyone wrong or something."

Now Levis actually does have people to prove wrong. Twenty-six NFL teams passed on Levis before the Titans traded up to pick him 33rd in the 2023 NFL Draft. Levis languished backstage for 31 picks across the four-hour first round, drawing sympathy from some and mockery from others.

Levis has never much cared about being laughed at, though. He's the mayonnaise-in-his-coffee guy. He's the don't-peel-your-bananas guy. He's the guy who doesn't mind swallowing two all-beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onion and three sesame seed buns whole.

A few draft-night memes won't hurt him.

"Regardless of where I got picked I feel like it's not going to change my work ethic," Levis said. "Regardless of if I went first overall or 33rd. You can't let the circumstances dictate your preparation and the level of intensity you bring every day."

Meet Will Levis

The first impression of Levis often elicits the same reaction: That guy looks like a quarterback.

He's 6-foot-4 and 229 pounds with biceps that look like they belong in a 1980s action movie. Every time he throws, he flashes the tattoo on his billboard of a right arm. It reads "2nd Chronicles 15:7" a verse seemingly written for a quarterback: Be strong and do not give up, for your work will be rewarded.

Levis' work wasn't instantly rewarded. Because of injuries, he didn't emerge as a star high school talent until his junior year. He went to Penn State and backed up Trace McSorley and Sean Clifford for three years before transferring to Kentucky. He led the Wildcats to a 10-3 season his first year as a starter but regressed as a senior.

Still, Levis arrived at the NFL Scouting Combine in February a projected top-10 pick. Along with quarterbacks Bryce Young, C.J.

Stroud and Anthony Richardson, Levis was in the conversation to go first overall.

Former Titans quarterback Matt Hasselbeck was one of Levis' league-assigned mentors at the combine and was instantly impressed.

"They said, 'What does Will Levis look like,' and I said 'He looks like a create-a-player on Madden,'" Hasselbeck said. "He's got everything you'd be looking for physically."

But Levis' self-described cannon arm wasn't what stuck with Hasselbeck. The subtle and not-so-subtle quirks of Levis' personality impressed the retired 18-year NFL veteran. Like the way Levis was always the guy who broke down the huddle before and after drills. And how Levis was vocally and emphatically cheering on receivers he'd just met doing their bench presses as if he was, as Hasselbeck puts it, "a tag-team partner at WWE WrestleMania."

The morning of the quarterback and receiver workouts, the NFL tweaked what brand of shoes players were allowed to wear because of a partnership with apparel brand NOBULL. Hours before the biggest workouts of their lives, players were told they couldn't wear the cleats they'd brought.

"Guys freaked out," Hasselbeck remembered. "A lot of guys really freaked out. Will, he didn't even blink. He was like 'Alright, no problem.' He was kind of like 'Can I just put tape on it? Let's find solutions. Let's not gripe.' That was probably the first time I noticed him other than his physical stature."

The joker becomes the butt of the joke

Food-based material isn't the only way Levis knows how to provoke a laugh.

"He does a great Borat imitation. He'll probably kill me for saying that," said Andy Guyon, Levis' coach at Xavier. "That would always make us laugh."

"Me and him actually quote a lot of different comedy movies together," MacGillis added. "Like 'Step Brothers' all the time. Borat I think is honestly his favorite. But he knows a lot of funny movies."

Levis was 7 when Borat hit theaters. He wasn't exactly doing timely material in high school.

But it's obvious something Levis did in high school resonated with his peers, because he wasn't the only one who weathered four hours of NFL draft coverage on what was supposed to be a celebratory night.

MacGillis and some of Levis' teammates watched at a nearby house. Guyon hosted a draft party at Xavier that began with around 150 people in the building. Instead of showcasing celebrations, a local news station ran footage of Guyon sitting by himself, dejectedly watching the draft on his phone.

"If you looked at NFL Memes on Twitter and stuff they were getting him pretty good," Guyon said. "It hurt a little bit. I definitely felt for the family. But they're strong people. They're good people. That which doesn't kill you makes you stronger."

Why Will Levis?

The Titans were cagey on draft night about why they drafted Levis. Coach Mike Vrabel and general manager Ran Carthon labeled Levis the Titans' third-string quarterback behind Ryan Tannehill and Malik Willis. When asked who Levis reminds him of, Carthon said the only player he wants to compare Levis to is Levis.

Discussions about Levis' talent and projectability divide football experts. Some point to Levis' impressive stature, bountiful physical tools and experience in pro-style offenses as a reason why he should've been a top-five pick. Others saw Levis as a Day 2 prospect because his Kentucky tape leaves much to be desired. He's been erratic, inconsistent and turnover-prone, and his play was significantly worse against Power Five competition than it was against softer opponents.

One of the common criticisms hurled Levis' way is he played a lot worse in 2022 than in 2021. The numbers don't exactly bear that out (he averaged more yards per attempt and had a better passer efficiency rating as a senior while his completion percentage, touchdown percentage and interception percentage all essentially stayed the same), but something was different.

His Pro Football Focus grade dipped from 90.6 to 68.6. His passer rating on throws targeted 20 yards downfield or longer fell by nearly 12 points. Adjusting for sacks, he went from averaging 5.98 yards per carry with nine rushing touchdowns to averaging 4.24 yards per carry with two rushing touchdowns while battling a toe injury.

Everyone from Levis to Vrabel to Hasselbeck tells the same story on why Levis regressed. A new offensive coordinator changed the playbook to an offense less suited for Levis' strengths, particularly one that de-emphasized play-action passes, and two of the Wildcats' starting offensive lineman and Levis' favorite receiver turned pro.

"It's kind of tough for all 11 guys to be on that same page," former Kentucky cornerback Keidron Smith said. "Not everybody's maturity level is at the same point and not everybody's able to comprehend the playbook at the same time. It's difficulties when it comes to playing offense, having a new offense and having the expectations of doing well and the season that we had. It was a lot of built-up things that people had on their shoulders."

Smith said Levis wore the pressure well. Levis battled through injuries when he could've packed up and prepared for the draft. He describes Levis as the kind of person who leads without needing a push.

"For him, it comes easy," Smith said. "Him being comfortable up there and speaking in front of a whole bunch of guys and reaching them, that's one thing. And he knows how to speak to people. He's not going to cuss anybody out or anything. He finds a way to reach his players and his teammates and the coaches really like that about him."

Levis and the Titans: A perfect match?

The Titans called Levis to tell him they were picking him as he was walking through the door into his family home in Connecticut. He left Kansas City after his long wait on Day 1, but travel holdups meant the family barely made it home to hear his name called.

Levis couldn't control his tears when Carthon, Vrabel and Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk called with the news.

The next night, Levis' loved ones gathered for a proper party. Friends, family, coaches and teammates celebrated Levis, and he responded with a speech thanking everyone for standing by him.

"His underlying message was his journey wasn't easy," MacGillis said. "A lot of weird stuff happened. So obviously why would the draft be any easier? But he ended up exactly where he knew he needed to be."

Being an NFL quarterback means weaponizing adversity into triumph. Hasselbeck was a sixth-round pick who worked his way up from a practice squad to starting in a Super Bowl. Tom Brady, Levis' childhood hero, also was a sixth-round pick. NFL MVPs Aaron Rodgers and Lamar Jackson had to withstand similar long waits backstage at the draft before hearing their names called.

Hasselbeck brings up another example of a quarterback he feels is analogous to Levis: Donovan McNabb, the Philadelphia Eagles' all-time leader in passing yards, touchdowns and wins, who was booed relentlessly by Eagles fans on draft night.

“The reaction Eagles fans had when he got drafted, they didn’t trust Andy Reid,” Hasselbeck said. “Sorry, I think they were wrong. In this case, if anyone’s not trusting Ran Carthon and Mike Vrabel, you probably know how I feel.”

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH QB WILL LEVIS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 22, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with quarterback Will Levis on his rookie deal.

All of the team's 2023 draft picks are now under contract.

The Titans traded up to get Levis in the second round of the NFL Draft, with the 33rd overall selection.

Levis (6-4, 229) played in 24 games over two seasons at Kentucky, starting all 24 games. In 2022, Levis threw for 2,406 yards and 19 touchdowns, with 10 interceptions, as the Wildcats finished 7-4.

Levis threw for 2,827 yards and 24 touchdowns in 2021 for Kentucky, with 13 interceptions, as the Wildcats finished 10-3.

In four college seasons, Levis threw for 5,877 yards and 46 touchdowns, with 25 interceptions. Levis began his collegiate career at Penn State, and he played in 15 games in two seasons at the school.

With the Titans, Levis worked with the team in offseason workouts along with fellow quarterbacks Ryan Tannehill and Malik Willis.

The Titans kick off training camp with a practice on July 26.

ALIZE MACK NEEDED THE XFL TO MAKE IT BACK TO THE NFL. CAN HE MAKE TENNESSEE TITANS NEXT?

BY NICK SUSS
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 10, 2023

Forget football. NFL great Hines Ward wants Alize Mack to be the kind of person who's pleasant on elevators.

Elevator etiquette isn't usually the best way to play your way on to an NFL roster. But Ward knows it's the next step in Mack's five-year journey to make a pro squad.

"In football all we do each and every day is communicate," Ward told The Tennessean. "The head coach calls the play in to the quarterback or the defense. When you're on the field you've got to communicate with your teammates to try to achieve one goal. But also working on your communication skills is doing the little things off the field, too. I said when you get in the elevator, communicate with people in the elevator. Don't just walk in and look up at the number. Communicate. Say 'Good morning. Hey. I love your shoes.' "

Mack is one of seven tight ends competing for a Tennessee Titans roster spot. At times, he's looked like a big, athletic, lock for a job. At others he's fallen into old patterns missing time with injuries that hamper his progress.

But the one thing Mack has that none of the Titans' other tight ends do is extremely recent tape. Mack signed with the Titans in May after playing for Ward last spring in the newly-reestablished XFL, where he caught 28 passes for 238 yards, and the Titans' attention.

"I think when he has a comfort level I see a player that can play fast, has a good skill set and good size," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said of Mack. "We're just making sure now we're able to stay on top of him. So he can play that fullback role. Play on the line of scrimmage. Play off the ball. The more that he can stay on top of some of that stuff and play fast, that's going to help him."

Mack's journey, and his latest chance

From 2019-22, Mack had brief stints with the Saints, Steelers, Chiefs, Lions and Packers but never lasted longer than a few months and never made it past the practice squad. So Mack turned to the XFL.

"When I was in the XFL I just tried to do my job to the best of my ability," Mack said. "Obviously the goal is to get back to the NFL. It was a great opportunity to be able to get 10 games on film and play against some great competition and thankfully it gave me another opportunity."

Ward, the Steeler's all-time leading receiver, raves about Mack's ability. He says he's an ace at creating separation as a route runner. He calls Mack a "plucker" with great hands. He's impressed by Mack's eagerness to play special teams.

But more than that, he's complimentary of Mack's habits. At the beginning of Mack's tenure in San Antonio, he was shy around Ward, barely saying any more than "Yes sir" or "No sir" on the practice field. But as time went on, Mack loosened up and Ward saw the player blossom.

"My motto has always been, 'You can't have NFL dreams with playground habits,'" Ward said. "That hit home with him because the approach to the game, the approach to the details of understanding concepts. He was always a big proponent of asking why. I love players that ask why a lot because they want to know. The better they know what you want, the more chances they're going to have success at what they have to do."

Three weeks into training camp, Mack is showing how those traits manifest themselves. He's taken reps with the first-team offense. He caught a touchdown from second-string quarterback Malik Willis on a deep crossing route. He's played in-line tight end and he's split out wide and he's lined up in the backfield as an H-back and he's played special teams.

But he's also missed every practice since Aug. 4 when he limped off the field, making it tougher for the Titans to evaluate him heading into their first preseason game on Saturday. While he's been hurt, tight ends like rookie Josh Whyte, free agent signee Trevon Wesco and veteran Kevin Rader have been able to take more reps.

The pipeline goes two ways

Mack showed off one of his most distinct habits after practice before his injury. He walked over to the Jugs machine where players practice catching passes, turned around, laid on his back and started catching balls from the ground with his legs hiked up in the air.

Five years into his NFL journey, Mack is doing what it takes to stick. Titans tight ends coach Tony Dews mentioned Mack's NFL experience as a reason why he stands out, but also said the catches he made in the XFL served as a proof-of-concept that he can play. Dews is another guy who says Mack "takes advantage of the opportunities he gets."

But now more than ever, there's a long list of players waiting to take advantage of those opportunities. The XFL and USFL are feeding grounds for the NFL and they know it. Ward said it's his goal for 20% of his roster to leave for NFL opportunities every summer. And when they leave, he never wants them to have to come back not having gotten their chance in the NFL.

Players are going to come back, though. The DC Defenders of the XFL sent a scout to Titans practice on Aug. 1. When NFL cut day comes on Aug. 29, XFL and USFL teams are going to scour the players available to try to build their rosters and find the next round of guys like Mack.

"Right now we're setting up our draft boards," Ward said. "We're looking at the bottom half of every roster just to see who gets cut."

TO UNDERSTAND ROGER MCCREARY'S PATH TO
TENNESSEE TITANS,
START WITH THE STERN WORDS OF A COACH

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
JUNE 12, 2022

In 2017, at a Williamson High School football practice in Mobile, Alabama, Antonio Coleman chewed out Roger McCreary.

The defensive coordinator, Coleman felt his star senior was going through the motions. McCreary's activity level looked lackadaisical, so Coleman reminded him that next for him was Power Five football, where lagging could cost his team a touchdown. Lagging in the NFL could cost him his job.

"Do it right all the time!" Coleman told McCreary. "Do it right every time!"

McCreary didn't talk back or pout.

He cried.

"Coach, I apologize," he said through tears. "I get exactly what you're saying."

As Coleman tells it now, "That really let me know that the game of football and what I was saying to him really meant something to him."

Nearly five years later, McCreary is beginning his NFL career with the Tennessee Titans. A second-round draft pick, he'll compete for starting snaps at cornerback and nickelback during his rookie season.

In the offseason program, McCreary already is impressing his new coaches with his mindset.

"He wants to have the right answers all the time and that's unrealistic as a rookie," defensive coordinator Shane Bowen said.

It's an approach molded by his upbringing.

'We often said he had ice water in his veins'

Felicia James, McCreary's mother, ingrained a routine in her son from the time he was a toddler.

She had delivered him before starting 10th grade. By 2 years old, he accompanied her to her high school basketball practices and games, and they always went outside. A single mother, she taught him how to catch a football and baseball. How to dribble and shoot a basketball. He played soccer, too.

James shuttled him between practices and the park as he grew older. If work kept her from taking him to the next sport or activity, she had somebody waiting to do it for her.

Keeping McCreary busy and his mind focused was a priority for James. Free time increased his chances of drifting into the streets of their Mobile neighborhood, where shootings and stabbings were commonplace. The bad influences landed a nephew who grew up with McCreary in jail.

So she automated her son's schedule. If he wasn't at school or playing sports, he was at home getting ready for bed or waking up getting ready for the day.

"Just trying to keep his head going right instead of going left," James said.

Tennessee Titans cornerback Roger McCreary tracks down wide receiver Kyle Phillips (18) during practice at Saint Thomas Sports Park Tuesday, May 24, 2022, in Nashville, Tenn.

James played football growing up. She was a nose tackle and linebacker, playing on organized teams in Mobile with boys. She built a reputation as hard hitter, according to Coleman.

A strict disciplinarian, a vocal James could speak with authority on football, where her son starred at multiple positions in all three phases for Williamson.

"She was one of those parents who'd cuss me out if I didn't do (well) in the game. She would cuss the coach out," McCreary said. "That's the kind of strong, tough love she would always give."

It fueled his drive.

Since high school, he's made off days work days. At Williamson, McCreary called Coleman to open the weight room on Saturdays and Sundays. On Mondays at Auburn, McCreary came to the football offices eager to find a competitive advantage against the elite receivers the Tigers faced weekly in the SEC.

McCreary could take a piece of information once and be able to absorb and apply it, Auburn defensive backs coach Zac Etheridge said. If there's something he's unsure about, he'll ask about it, preferring to pull the coach off to the side for a one-on-one conversation.

"He understands formations and splits and alignment on the field and what that tells him is coming," said Miami defensive coordinator Kevin Steele, McCreary's defensive coordinator at Auburn from 2018-20. "He's not just out there covering routes and guarding people. He's a smart guy that studies the game, that understands concepts and what people are trying to do to him."

Despite his smaller frame — the Titans list him at 5-foot-11 and 190 pounds — McCreary excelled as an outside cornerback at Auburn, where he led the SEC and tied for seventh in the FBS in passes defended last season. His former coaches point to his strength being a key part of his success in single coverage.

Coleman recalled McCreary benching 355 pounds when he weighed around 170 pounds in high school.

"I wasn't benching that much and I was a defensive lineman," said Coleman, who played two NFL seasons after a career of his own at Auburn. “So you could tell there was something special about him.”

McCreary’s demeanor is unwavering on the field, according to his former coaches. He stays emotionally neutral after good or bad plays.

“We often said he had ice water in his veins,” Steele said. “Nothing bothered him.”

‘I always tell him to stay in the moment’

At the end of every season, on the Friday night before the final game, Etheridge honors his senior defensive backs departing the program. They go bowling. Expectations for the final game are discussed.

For the 2021 rendition, at the team hotel, McCreary got up to speak. The clarity and delivery of his message about the next day’s Iron Bowl against Alabama floored Etheridge. It fired up the entire room, he said. McCreary had never talked like that before.

He proceeded to have perhaps the best game of his career in the quadruple overtime thriller, a loss for Auburn. McCreary posted four of the Tigers’ seven pass breakups. He locked up future first-rounder Jameson Williams and second-rounder John Metchie III.

The performance cemented his status as a top cornerback in the 2022 draft.

“Everything that (we had) worked on since the time I got (to Auburn) to one of the biggest games of his career and facing those top receivers, he was just in a different mode and you could just tell that it paid off in that game,” Etheridge said.

It meant Coleman’s message four years prior – when he ripped into McCreary at practice – had paid off.

He took nothing for granted before and during the game of his life.

“Our relationship will always be great because it’s about Roger succeeding at whatever he wants to do at the highest level and enjoying life and working hard because he earned every moment that he’s having right now,” Coleman said.

“I always tell him to stay in the moment.”

TENNESSEE TITANS'
ROGER MCCREARY
WILLING TO SACRIFICE
BAKED BEANS TO IMPROVE

BY MARK INABINETT AL.COM
MAY 5, 2023

During his rookie season, Tennessee Titans cornerback Roger McCreary played more defensive snaps than any player in the NFL. Despite his ironman status, the former Auburn All-American wants to go into the 2023 campaign even better prepared physically for the rigors of an NFL season.

“You can’t get much faster than what you are now, really,” McCreary said on Wednesday, “so really I was just focusing more on my body – being more professional, being more healthy, and all that stuff because the season is long and I learned that guys are just going down, so I feel like that’s what I need to focus on, just being more healthy and just trying to focus more on my body.”

How serious is McCreary about his preparation? A player whose scouting report said “likes cereal and bologna sandwiches and baked beans” made changes to his diet.

“I’ll admit diet, I still need to work on that,” McCreary said. “That’s something I still need to work on. I’m getting better. ...

“I’ve been trying. I’ve been doing good. I haven’t had baked beans in a while.”

While at Auburn, McCreary ate a bowl of baked beans topped with sugar for his Friday night meal before games.

McCreary is hoping the changes lead to improved performance on the field.

Among the NFL’s cornerbacks in 2022, McCreary ranked fifth in total tackles and second in solo tackles. But only one defensive player was thrown at more by opposing quarterbacks, and he gave up six touchdowns in coverage last season as he spent much of 2022 as the nickel or slot corner for the Titans.

“I spent a lot on just watching over the last games – the bad plays, the good plays,” McCreary said. “First starting out with the bad plays. I pay attention mostly to that. Playing that slot, that was something different for me, so I feel like that was something I needed to focus on and look to see what I need to improve on the most, and I noticed what I needed to work on in the offseason. ...

“I feel like I wasn’t at the top of my game at the nickel, so I feel like it would be great just to get back from Day 1 to how they want me to play the nickel, literally everything from off to press to knowing the plays to better reaction to knowing how the game speed goes and everything, so I felt it was just great seeing myself on tape.”

The Titans have started their offseason program after posting a 7-10 record in 2022. Seven consecutive losses to close the season ended a three-year playoff streak for Tennessee that included the AFC South title the previous two seasons.

McCreary is experiencing his first full NFL offseason.

“It’s been great just to have that little down time just to get your body back right after a long season, after the rookie season and everything,” the former Williamson High School star said. “It was all great, and coming back here, meeting the new people that have come on the team, new coaches and stuff, it’s just great, again, how we’ve started to find a foundation here, and I feel like the stuff we got going on now in the offseason is going to be great. ...

“Last year, I did a lot. I feel like I did a lot. Now I feel like I know a lot. I feel like I know what’s coming at me now, so just coming out there, going over the plays, I just feel confident, I just feel comfortable that I know what I’m doing. I did it before.”

5 THINGS TO KNOW
ABOUT TENNESSEE
TITANS RECEIVER RACEY
MCMATH, INCLUDING
HOW HE GOT HIS NAME

BY WILL BACKUS
THE TENNESSEAN
MAY 1, 2021

Here are five things to know about LSU wide receiver Racey McMath, the Tennessee Titans' first sixth-round pick in the 2021 NFL Draft on Saturday.

How he got his name

McMath has one of the most interesting names in the draft.

He received his first name from his mother, who said it felt like he was "racing in my stomach" prior to his birth.

Racey turned out to be an appropriate name for the future speedy wide receiver.

Injury struggles

It's become somewhat of a theme for Tennessee's draft selections to have dealt with injuries at some point in their career.

McMath is no exception. After three years as a reserve, he finally took over a starting position for the Tigers in 2020, playing in six games before suffering a hamstring injury that kept him out for the rest of the season.

He tallied 33 receptions for 195 yards and one touchdown prior to the injury. McMath was able to participate in the 2021 Senior Bowl, a promising sign for his health.

Special teams

The Titans already drafted one special teams standout in defensive back Elijah Molden, so why not another?

Though McMath didn't make much of an impact as a receiver prior to his senior season, he was a core special teams performer for the Tigers. He was one of the team's aces, using his speed to track down punt returners.

About upside

McMath is one of the most physically enticing receivers taken in the last few rounds.

He has an upper echelon frame, standing at 6-foot-2, 211 pounds. His 35-inch wingspan gives him a good catch radius.

But most importantly, McMath was timed in 4.39 seconds in the 40-yard dash at LSU's pro day, making him one of the fastest players in the draft, regardless of position.

Needs route running work

The one thing McMath needs is to work on the fundamentals at the wide receiver position.

His speed is good for deep routes, but he's lacking on anything that requires complexity. He'll need to get adjusted to the physicality that he'll face with NFL defensive backs, as well.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT RACEY MCMATH

BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
MAY 4, 2021

Racey McMath. What a name.

But it's not just some random moniker. It is one that has meaning and significance.

When his mother was pregnant with him, she decided that would be his name because he consistently moved around.

"It felt like he was just racing in my stomach, so we said, 'Ok, that's going to be his name – let's call him Racey,'" his mother told LSU, where McMath played three collegiate seasons.

A sixth-round pick, McMath is one of two wide receivers the Tennessee Titans selected in the 2021 NFL Draft. And while how he got his name is probably the one thing everyone wondered upon his selection on Saturday, the 6-foot-3, 224-pounder is an interesting prospect for the Titans for many reasons.

Here are five things to know about one of the Titans' newest wide receivers:

He played with some of the best young wide receivers in the NFL. At LSU, McMath did not produce massive numbers on offense. He caught only 33 passes for 522 yards and four touchdowns in three seasons.

A lot of that had to do with the fact that he sat behind Minnesota Vikings star receiver Justin Jefferson, Cincinnati Bengals rookie Ja'Marr Chase and Carolina Panthers rookie Terrace Marshall Jr. Jefferson and Chase were first-round picks in 2020 and 2021, respectively, and Marshall was a second-round pick this year.

"To be honest, those guys, they are just great players," McMath said. "There were just kind of ahead of me and I learned from those guys and we always competed at the end of the day. I can't say that I didn't work hard or anything like that and that I didn't know what I was doing. But it was just something that happened. I know that everything happens for a reason and just waiting for the next step."

He shares a close relationship with Titans cornerback Kristian Fulton. Funny enough, McMath and Fulton, who the Titans selected in the second round of last year's draft, were college roommates. By now, Fulton has presumably welcomed his friend to Nashville.

"I'm pretty sure after things settle down I'm going to call and talk it up with him," McMath said shortly after he was picked. "That was my roommate at LSU, so we are closer than close."

McMath is a capable special teams contributor. While the Titans would like to see McMath develop as a receiver, he first will need to make an impact on special teams to make the roster and see action on game day.

Coach Mike Vrabel said the one thing that stood out about McMath in the pre-draft process was the high degree of "speed and violence" with which he plays.

"I feel like it is how I use my speed. I have the size," McMath said. "I play with a physical edge to the game, but I know my speed is a big thing in my getting up and down the field and making those plays."

He developed as a special teams contributor at LSU under Greg McMahan, who has been coaching that unit for more than a decade for numerous collegiate programs and the New Orleans Saints (2008-2016).

"Coach McMahan gave me the opportunity. He stayed on me. I always asked him questions and he always just gave me pointers on being a great special teamer because he saw the potential I had, and he always pushed me," he said. "He was the hardest on me at practice because he saw the potential. If I made a mistake, he would let me have it. I just know that was him wanting the best out of me because he saw the potential I had."

He's a champion. McMath helped lead his high school, Edna Karr, to a Louisiana state championship in 2016. As a sophomore at LSU in 2019, he contributed to a Tigers team that did not lose a game en route to dominating Clemson in the 2019 National Championship game.

A big-name connection. McMath had four touchdown receptions for LSU. He caught two of them from Heisman Trophy winner and 2020 No. 1 overall pick Joe Burrow, who now plays for the Bengals.

TITANS ROOKIE ELIJAH MOLDEN'S GOAL? PROVE HIS NFL VETERAN DAD'S HARD WORK PAID OFF

TURRON DAVENPORT
JUNE 20, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Elijah Molden was still in high school when then-University of Washington defensive coordinator Jimmy Lake started teaching him the Huskies' scheme. Lake received a call from Molden's mother, Christin, saying the young defensive back had sketched out pictures of the defense he had learned and covered his bedroom wall with them like posters.

"This guy means business," Lake thought to himself.

That's the impression Elijah, who was taken by the Tennessee Titans in the third round of the 2021 NFL draft, often leaves on those when talking about football. After all, playing cornerback is the family business. His father, Alex, was selected by the New Orleans Saints with the 11th pick in the 1996 draft and went on to play eight seasons with the San Diego Chargers and Detroit Lions.

"It wasn't like, 'You're going to get to the NFL or else.' But it was kind of just assumed that I would get here," Elijah said.

Elijah's path to the NFL was created in part by a great understanding of football passed along from his dad, who spent countless hours breaking down film and coaching his son from a young age.

Growing up Molden

Elijah is the second oldest of Alex and Christin's eight children. Each of them was given a development plan. It started with gymnastics to learn balance. Then they transitioned to soccer to work on foot quickness and changing speeds.

After that, the Molden kids were allowed to play whatever they wanted -- not just football.

"Just because Daddy played doesn't mean you have to," Alex told his children. "But if you do, I got the playbook."

Elijah's love for football was sparked early when he was able to go into the Chargers' locker room with his dad. He got to hang out with greats such as running back LaDainian Tomlinson, linebacker Junior Seau and safety Rodney Harrison.

Watching his father run out of the tunnel before games to blaring hype music made Elijah want to follow in Alex's footsteps.

"There wasn't a day where I woke up and didn't want to be a football player," Elijah said.

He started asking detailed questions about football in the fourth grade. Alex wasn't surprised because he could see Elijah's passion and competitive spirit growing.

The next year, Alex and Christin allowed Elijah to play tackle football a year earlier than they had planned because Elijah needed that physical aspect of the game. His speed and strength stood out.

"I would get giddy," Alex said. "[Elijah] was using stiff-arms, blowing kids up. He was having so much fun. When he put on the pads, it was just like me when I played. It gave him so much freedom."

Breaking down film with Dad

Elijah initially wanted to play running back because he loved Adrian Peterson. But Alex encouraged him to play defensive back once he got to the eighth grade, knowing he could begin to share his knowledge and experience.

"I had to approach him," Elijah said of Alex. "He'd never just show me. He was hands-off until I showed him I wanted to know."

Alex wanted his son to think like an eight-year NFL veteran rather than an eighth-grader. Unlike typical fans, the two didn't take in a football game in a few hours. Watching games turned into a four- or five-hour session.

"I would pause it after a big play and ask him if he knew why it happened," Alex said of their film study. "I'd explain to him what the DB's read was. You have to learn the reads and the keys. I would break things down like route patterns.

"When [opposing offenses] get to the 50-yard line, what are you thinking? I'm telling him, 'They're going to take their shot.' When you get 3-on-1, what are you thinking depending on what receiver is on the field side? They're trying to isolate. That really helped with football IQ, having him watch film and break down what the receiver or offensive coordinator was thinking. It's all about tendencies."

This is where the foundation of Elijah's football knowledge was built, which impressed the Titans in pre-draft interviews.

"I think he's been raised well. He was just really intelligent," GM Jon Robinson said after the Titans selected Elijah in the draft. "He knew about our football team. He had prepared for the interview by watching our football team. He spoke highly of how we played and the effort and the finish with which we play."

How Elijah ended up in Lake's hands

Alex got to coach Elijah as his position coach at West Linn High School in Oregon. One of his proudest memories came when Elijah was only 14 and locked down an opposing team's wide receiver who had been offered a scholarship to Arizona. When Elijah was a freshman, he got his own scholarship offer from Oregon, his father's alma mater, after attending one of the school's football camps.

Other offers followed.

When he was a junior, Elijah was offered a chance to visit the University of Washington and watch spring ball on an unofficial visit. Alex didn't think the long drive to the Seattle area was worth it -- especially since the school was a Pac-12 rival of Oregon's. So Elijah and his mother took the three-hour drive without him.

They were blown away by the campus and the program, so they arranged another visit, with Alex this time. Everything changed for Alex after he met Lake. Suddenly, the idea of turning over the keys to Elijah's success to his alma mater's rival wasn't such a bad idea.

"[Lake] broke down film, and the attention to detail was on another level," Alex said. "Also, the success he had with defensive backs made me realize this was the perfect breeding ground. He coached in the NFL. That set off bells with me. Yeah, I would have loved for [Elijah] to be a Duck, but it was a perfect scenario for him to go there."

Lake, who coached defensive backs in the NFL for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2006-07, 2010-11) and Detroit (2008), sold them on Washington's track record with defensive backs, such as NFL first-rounders Kevin King and Desmond Trufant.

"There was already proof in how we developed those guys, how they moved on and were successful in the NFL," Lake said. "Alex knew a lot of the guys that I had coached in the NFL and those guys being All-Pro's, one of which was a future Hall of Famer in Ronde Barber, so he respected the process."

Lake, who's now the head coach at Washington, said Elijah was one of his favorite recruits to watch on film. He loved Elijah's physical ability and leadership, noting how the team would "sway with however Elijah was playing."

Elijah's inquisitive side came out as well. He asked detailed questions about the Huskies' techniques and scheme. Lake was impressed that Elijah wanted to know what everyone around him was doing in addition to what his own duties were.

"He prides himself on learning every detail of the defense," Lake said. "You could see that he was a football junkie. When you got him on the phone, you could tell that he had a passion for playing."

Another Molden's NFL journey begins

Elijah developed into a top NFL prospect, finishing with 153 tackles (seven for a loss), five interceptions, 19 passes defended and four forced fumbles in 36 games at Washington.

"With what I taught him and what Coach Lake taught him at UW, he was seeing things at a totally different rate of speed," Alex said.

NFL scouts saw Elijah as one of the best nickel defenders in the 2021 draft class.

ESPN NFL analyst Louis Riddick jokingly referred to Elijah as the "Jedi of the slot" because of how well he played the nickel position.

"It's Luke Skywalker-type stuff. He can see all of these things, but there's never any panic," Riddick said. "There's a lot of chaos around him, but he's in control. That to me signifies a guy who's really dialed in to the game at another level. He comes from great bloodlines, and that stuff transfers. He'll quickly adapt to the pro game."

Making it to the NFL was always Elijah's goal, but the rookie said he isn't satisfied. For him, it's time to make sure all of the hard work his father poured into him pays off.

Elijah's message to his dad for Father's Day shows how much all of the lessons mean to him.

"Thank you for letting me live out my dreams and always giving me advice, keeping things in perspective," Elijah said. "When I step on the field, I can do what I do because of you, and when I'm off the field too. I appreciate that, and I love you!"

HEADING INTO YEAR THREE, VERSATILE
TITANS DB ELIJAH
MOLDEN READY TO DO MORE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JUNE 22, 2023

NASHVILLE – Elijah Molden first walked in the doors at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park in 2021 as a third-round draft pick of the team.

In a snap, the Titans defensive back is already in year three, and he can hardly believe it.

"It doesn't feel it," said Molden, shaking his head.

With the experience, Molden has a better understanding of what to expect heading into the 2023 season.

But he's hardly comfortable, and he doesn't want to be.

"There is (a comfort level), but at the same time I am trying to elevate my game," Molden said. "I don't ever really want to come in and be lackadaisical or too comfortable. So, what that means to me is learning a new position and testing the limits every day."

The versatile Molden has worked at a number of spots during his first few years with the team on defense and on special teams, and when he's played, he's performed well.

Unfortunately, Molden has also dealt with injuries, including a persistent groin injury that nearly sidelined him for all of the 2022 season. A year ago, Molden played in just two games, with one start, playing in 16 games, with seven starts, in his rookie season in 2021.

Molden said he's feeling better physically, but he admitted it's been tough mentally with the adversity, and setbacks.

"It's been really tough," said Molden, who tallied 60 tackles and an interception as a rookie. "It's hard to explain. I feel like my family and a couple of other people really know what was going in and the deal behind everything. I just want to put it behind me, really. I am feeling a lot better now and I am definitely on the up-and-coming, and the Titans have been really helpful in the transition from rehab to action and now back on the field practicing."

This offseason, Molden has worked some at safety.

It's something Molden's coaches spoke to him about at the end of last season, and head coach Mike Vrabel discussed it with reporters during OTAs.

"We've actually played him in the back part of the field a little bit," Vrabel said of Molden. "I think that will be good for him. It will help him expand that role and expand his versatility. So, he can easily come down and play nickel. He was our [punt protector] on the punt team (in OTAs). So those are three valuable roles for a young defensive player. We need every player we can get out there healthy and being able to use that versatility."

"We talked about it in the offseason and just where we may need some depth," Vrabel continued when discussing giving Molden some experience at safety. "It's more or less to try and give guys another role outside of just a nickel, or maybe we're in a game and we're playing a lot of defense and you need a safety. So instead of having him always just being a corner conversation, [we] figured it would translate from the nickel back to safety."

Molden said he's willing to do whatever is asked of him.

Molden ended the offseason work on a high note, making an interception on the final day of OTAs.

"In this league," Molden said, "it's like the more versatile you are, the more you're able to help out and be able to play anywhere."

The countdown to year three is ticking.

"I'm just really happy to be out here and have some fun again," Molden said. "Starting to feel healthy and all those things ... I'm starting to come back and feel like myself again."

VETERAN WR CHRIS MOORE READY TO DO HIS PART – IN NO. 11 – WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
MAY 24, 2023

NASHVILLE – Chris Moore had a lot on his mind when he signed with the Titans last month.

The veteran receiver was on a new team, with new coaches and teammates around him.

It was time to learn a new playbook, and city.

Picking a jersey number wasn't something he'd thought a lot about.

So, he picked No.11 after previously wearing No.15 with the Texans.

"I'm not going to lie – at first, I didn't even think about that," Moore said with a smile. "Nick Westbrook-Ikhine had No.15, and I (thought), 'I need another number' and 11 looked smooth on me. So, I was like, that's what I am going to pick.

"And then I realized after, what I did..."

What Moore did, of course, was pick the number that was once worn in Tennessee by A.J. Brown, a fan favorite who was traded from the Titans to the Eagles during the 2022 NFL Draft. Others have also worn the number, of course, but Brown has worn in better than anyone with the Titans.

"I still like it," a smiling Moore said. "It is what it is."

Moore wasn't signed to take Brown's place, and he wasn't signed to replace veteran Robert Woods either. In the offseason, Woods was waived – and he's since signed with the Texans, Moore's old club.

Chris Moore knows his role with the Titans is to do his part to help the team win, and that's what he plans to do.

He's coming off the best season of his NFL career.

"I can do whatever they need me to do," Moore said. "First, I am a football player, and then I'm a receiver. Whatever they want me to do, I'm going to do it."

A fourth-round pick of the Baltimore Ravens in 2016, Moore spent the past two seasons with the Texans after spending his first five seasons in Baltimore.

In 2022, the 6-foot-1, 200-pound Moore hauled in 48 catches for 548 yards and two touchdowns while playing in 16 games, with seven starts.

In a Week 14 game at Dallas, Moore caught 10 passes for 124 yards. Moore also had a 100-yard game in 2021 against the Patriots, when he caught five passes for 109 yards, including a 67-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Davis Mills.

In six NFL seasons, Moore has 116 catches for 1,286 yards and eight touchdowns. Moore also has experience on special teams, including work as a kick returner. Moore has returned 46 kickoffs for a 23.5-yard average in his career.

Moore, who spent a year with new Titans OC Tim Kelly in Houston, said he feels comfortable in Tennessee and thinks he's found a good fit.

And, we're not just talking about his uniform.

"I just want my teammates to know that they can rely on me on the field," Moore said. "I'm going to be out there doing whatever they need me to do to help them win. It is always fun going into a new building, learning new faces. This is actually a very welcoming organization, people really get to know you, they are interested in who you are as a person. So, it has been a great time.

"At the end of the day personally, it is not really about the numbers, but it's about being with an organization that (wants) to win games. I just love the game of football and that's what I want to do."

DEANDRE HOPKINS IS NOT THE ONLY NEW SOURCE OF WISDOM FOR YOUNG TITANS' RECEIVERS

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
AUGUST 6, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Young Titans' receivers will undoubtedly learn a lot watching and listening to DeAndre Hopkins, who ranks seventh all-time in yards per game with 77.9.

But they've also got a more relatable veteran resource who's new to the locker room, who's earned rave reviews from Mike Vrabel. Chris Moore came into the league as a fourth-round pick by Baltimore in 2016 and made his way as a special teamer who maxed out with 21 catches through his first six seasons.

Only in Year 7, last year with the Texans, did he post notable numbers on offense, with 48 catches for 548 yards to go with two scores. That receiving yardage would have led the anemic 2022 Titans offense.

Vrabel said Moore carries himself "very, very professionally."

"I haven't been doing this so long, but you always kind of look at guys on other teams or you coach against them, watch them," Vrabel said. "I would have loved to have him a few years ago. I'm glad that we got him now. Professional, knows a bunch of spots. He's always over there on special teams, he runs, doesn't appear to get tired, jumps in there every opportunity and just a real professional and somebody that I've enjoyed coaching and having around here."

Said seventh-rounder Colton Dowell: He's been a tremendous influence to me personally. (In his early years) he's been a special teams guy who helps out on offense and that's how I kind of see myself. His wisdom is invaluable cause he's been there and he's done that and he's stuck around in the league and he's been a great mentor for all of us."

Perhaps the most distinct of the compliments that Vrabel gave Moore was about not getting tired.

I'd imagine that would be an expectation for most receivers. But set one free on a couple long routes in a row and he generally gets a play off. It seems Moore doesn't require such rest.

He ran a 4.53 at his scouting combine – not the 4.4 that is the mark that generally earns a guy a "fast receiver" label, though there have been plenty of wideouts around his number who have played fast and had good success.

He certainly regards himself as having good speed.

"I'm fast, I would say I run every play, I don't get tired, I'm running full speed every play," he said when I asked about strengths and weaknesses. "I'm strong, I'm big (6-foot-1, 200 pounds), I don't know too many weaknesses that I can tell you. I just continue to train every day.

"I love to run, that's one of my favorite things, I ran track growing up. I take great care of my body."

Said Ryan Tannehill: "Chris is the Energizer Bunny, he just keeps going all day."

During the time between OTAs and the start of training camp, he said his workouts included shuttle runs: 5 yards and back, 10 yards and back, 15 yards and back, as many as six at a time. However long that took, he'd never rest for longer than twice that time.

As he's grown up in the game he's become a far better eater. He used to drink a lot of Mountain Dew. Now he doesn't eat sugar and tries to eat clean. He relies on meals – Pasta Bolognese is a favorite – and hardly snacks.

Right now I'd guess that after Hopkins and Treyton Burks, Kyle

Philips will be the primary option in the slot, but Moore is in line as the fourth option and Nick Westbrook-Ikhine the fifth, though he's a lot like Moore.

Racey McMath and Reggie Roberson would be next in a fight for a sixth spot.

Like NWI, Moore is a devout special teamer. He's been working as a gunner on the punt coverage unit, a position of great value. That can chop into the value of a player like McMath.

"He's been a great influence," Westbrook-Ikhine said. "He's got a lot of speed, people have seen him make plays. He's a veteran who knows how to operate as a pro and I feel like it's been huge for a lot of the young guys and me, just watching him work, take care of his body and come out every day with energy and focus.

"He's always rolling, always running and he's fast. He's a good guy to try to compete with and stay up there with."

TITANS ROOKIE EDGE RUSHER CALEB MURPHY
WORKING TO MAKE A NAME FOR HIMSELF IN THE NFL

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JUNE 26, 2023

NASHVILLE – Caleb Murphy wasn't drafted, but the edge rusher arrived in the NFL after a decorated collegiate career which saw him post some pretty mind-boggling stats.

Murphy, who played at Ferris State, set the single-season sacks record for all NCAA divisions with 25.5 in 2022, one year after tallying 14.5 sacks at the school.

Murphy also led all divisions a year ago with 39 tackles for loss, which matched the all-time, single-season record at any NCAA level.

Yet with the Titans, where he signed as an undrafted free agent after the NFL Draft, Murphy is just another rookie trying to make a name for himself.

Case in point: After offseason practices, Murphy could oftentimes be seen carrying extra helmets and gear of his veteran teammates.

"You have to do rookie duties," Murphy said with a smile. "You have get them things they need in the meeting rooms, making sure we're on top of our jobs and they lead us the right way. Little things like that, carrying helmets, it's not a problem at all."

Murphy, who received interest from a number of teams leading up to the draft, said he's doing everything he can to stick out for teammates and coaches in Tennessee.

"I felt like Tennessee was a good spot for me – they work hard, and I think there's an opportunity for me here," Murphy said. "I have to do my part which is to work hard myself – Coach (Mike) Vrabel prides himself in working hard, so that is what I am going to do.

"It is definitely different coming in as a rookie, and you have to stay in the books."

A 6-foot-3, 254-pounder, Murphy looks the part in practices.

He's also done his part to put in extra work, and his teammates are noticing.

"I love Caleb," veteran Arden Key said. "He's a young guy who is willing to learn. He is always asking questions, coming up to me or Harold (Landry). He is a guy who is seeking knowledge. He is doing what coaches ask of him, and he is taking what he learned off the field and putting it to use on the field."

Titans outside linebackers coach Ryan Crow said Murphy just needs to keep working.

"Like all rookies, the first thing is he has to learn what to do, and be able to do it at a high level, and execute at a high level," Crow said. "I think for Caleb, special teams is important as well – find a way to get on special teams and continue to earn more roles as we continue to develop.

"The thing I love about Caleb is he came from a place where they won two national championships, and regardless of the level that's an awesome thing to have is a winning background. I am excited that he is here, and I'm excited to see him grow."

Murphy said he's working daily to improve his technique so he can add to his craft, and ability.

Murphy, who transferred to Ferris State from Grand Valley State, was an All-America performer in college. Nearly half of Murphy's tackles last season were for negative yards as Ferris State dominated their opponents on the way to their second consecutive NCAA Division II championship.

Murphy said it's too early to even start thinking about what he needs to do to stick on the team's active roster for the 2023 season.

Right now, he focused on one thing.

"For me, myself, I just have to work hard, and worry about myself, and do what I can to help the team," Murphy said. "I've been watching the veterans – Harold Landry, Arden Key, Rashad Weaver, Sam (Okuyinonu), too. Watching those guys work, I'm hoping that makes me better and helps me craft myself into what I need to be to be a Titan.

"I just have to push myself as hard as I can."

SEAN MURPHY-BUNTING EXCITED ABOUT HIS NEW JOURNEY WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 17, 2023

NASHVILLE – Sean Murphy-Bunting is preparing for his fifth NFL season.

He has a Super Bowl ring and 53 games of experience, not counting postseason play.

When the veteran cornerback joined the Titans earlier this offseason, however, he wanted to create a clean slate.

It started by picking a new number – No. 0.

"I wouldn't even say it was as important being No. 0," Murphy-Bunting said. "I think more so for me is just a new opportunity, to have a different journey. I've been through a lot throughout my years, and I've only been in the league for four full seasons.

"It was just a different journey for me, and a different opportunity. So, I just wanted a fresh start."

A second-round pick in the 2019 NFL Draft by Tampa Bay, Murphy-Bunting signed with the Titans back in March.

He's been working with his new teammates during the offseason program, practicing alongside a lot of younger teammates he's looking forward to mentoring while on the team.

Murphy-Bunting has plenty of moxie – he's started 36 of his 53 games in the NFL, all four years with the Buccaneers. He's been credited with 139 tackles, six interceptions, and 21 passes defended in his career, along with four forced fumbles.

He's also proven to be a gamer. In 2020, Murphy-Bunting became the first player with an interception in each of his first three playoff games since Hall of Famer Ed Reed while playing a key role in Tampa Bay's run to winning a Super Bowl trophy.

He thinks his versatility made him attractive to the Titans.

"I'm an athlete," he said. "I feel like I can honestly play any position in the secondary. I know pretty much every position in the secondary, and that's pretty much how I've always been. ... I've never looked at football as just knowing one thing, because at the end of the game you can be put in different situations, different positions and it doesn't really matter how you look at it. And the end of the day you have to do your job, or whatever coach needs of you."

Murphy-Bunting (6-0, 195) played in 12 games in 2022, with five starts, and he intercepted a pair of passes while tallying 27 tackles, one tackle for a loss, seven passes defended and one forced fumble. He was one of eight Tampa Bay defenders to log at least 400 defensive snaps last season. He also played 120 snaps on special teams and made four kick-coverage stops.

His season was cut short in 2021 because of a dislocated elbow.

With the Titans, Murphy-Bunting said he's doing his best to fit in.

He likes the culture he's seen so far.

"I think it's more so being myself," he said. "I show up every day ready to work. If (teammates) have any questions for me, I am free to answer them. If there's anything they want to know from the past, what I have been through, how I have dealt with certain situations, I am always there to lend advice.

"I just want to build relationship with guys."

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH VETERAN
OFFENSIVE LINEMAN JUSTIN MURRAY

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
AUGUST 5, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with veteran offensive lineman Justin Murray.

Murray is expected to provide competition at a right tackle position that's been thinned out of late.

A 6-foot-5, 315-pounder, Murray initially joined the Broncos as an undrafted free agent in 2016. In addition to the Broncos, Murray has also spent time with the Buccaneers, Saints, Bengals, Cardinals, Bills and Raiders. Murray was released by the Raiders on August 1 after spending the offseason with the team.

Murray spent his longest stretch with the Cardinals, from 2019-2021, when played in 30 games, with 20 starts.

Murray, who played in college at Cincinnati, has worked at guard and tackle in his career.

Earlier this week, the Titans released Jamarco Jones. Also, offensive lineman John Ojukwu left practice early on Friday with an injury.

Nicholas Petit-Frere, who started 16 of 17 games for the Titans in 2022 at right tackle, is facing a six-game suspension for violating the NFL's gambling policy.

The Titans signed veteran Chris Hubbard at the beginning of the week, and Jaelyn Duncan, Zack Johnson and Andrew Rucich are in the competition as well.

The Titans open the preseason next Saturday in Chicago against the Bears.

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH VETERAN
LINEBACKER BEN NIEMANN

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 18, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with veteran linebacker Ben Niemann.

Niemann, who played his first four seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs, spent last season with the Arizona Cardinals.

In five NFL seasons, Niemann has tallied 237 tackles, two sacks, three passes defended, six fumble recoveries and one forced fumble while playing in 79 games, with 21 starts.

Niemann, who played in college at Iowa, played in 62 games, with 12 starts, for the Chiefs from 2018-2021 after originally signing with Kansas City as an undrafted free agent.

Niemann (6-2, 235) won a Super Bowl ring with the Chiefs in 2019, when he played in 16 games.

Niemann, 27, played in 17 games last season for the Cardinals, when he made nine starts. He was credited with 70 stops in 2022.

Niemann played four seasons at Iowa, where he tallied 199 tackles, four sacks and two interceptions while starting the final 40 games of his collegiate career.

The Titans have now added eight free agents since free agency began last month.

TITANS ADD TE THOMAS ODUKOYA OF THE NETHERLANDS AS PART OF THE 2022 INTERNATIONAL PLAYER PATHWAY PROGRAM

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
MAY 3, 2022

NASHVILLE – The Titans have added tight end Thomas Odukoya to the team's roster as part of the 2022 International Player Pathway program.

Odukoya, who is from the Netherlands, is one of four players league-wide to join an NFL club through the program, which is part of the league's efforts to strengthen the pipeline of international players while aiming to provide elite international athletes the opportunity to compete at the NFL level, improve their skills, and ultimately earn a spot on an NFL roster.

Titans GM Jon Robinson informed Odukoya of the news during a Zoom call. He's expected to be in Nashville next weekend for the team's rookie minicamp.

Odukoya, who played college football at Eastern Michigan University, started playing football at age 16 in the Netherlands where he was named the Dutch National MVP. He was a team captain for two seasons and received Academic All-MAC.

Odukoya (6-6, 263) played in 40 career games at Eastern Michigan, where he caught 21 passes for 194 yards and four touchdowns. Odukoya played in 13 games in 2021, when he tallied 13 catches for 130 yards and two scores.

In addition to Odukoya, three other players joined AFC South clubs as part of the program.

This year's participants are:

Player/Position/Country/NFL Club

Marcel
Dabo/DB/Germany/Indianapolis
Colts

Adedayo Odeleye/DL/United Kingdom/Houston Texans

Thomas
Odukoya/TE/Netherlands/Tennessee
Titans

Ayo Oyelola/DB/United Kingdom/Jacksonville Jaguars

The four AFC South clubs will carry these players on their roster until the end of training camp. At that time, the players are eligible for an international player practice squad exemption, granting the team an extra practice squad member. Clubs have the opportunity to elevate the player to the active roster during the season.

‘JUST A FINAL SHOVE, MAN.’ A DAY IN THE TRAINING CAMP LIFE OF TITANS TE CHIG
OKONKWO

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
AUGUST 2, 2023

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Chig Okonkwo emerged from the Tennessee Titans locker room at 9:25 a.m. Tuesday, the second day in full pads for a team and player pursuing the same objective — block better.

Okonkwo showed as a rookie fourth-round pick out of Maryland last season that he can run, change speeds, nail routes, win downfield and make plays in the passing game. Fellow second-year pro Treylon Burks has been the early standout of camp, and that in tandem with the addition of DeAndre Hopkins makes the Titans look a lot more dangerous on the outside than anyone would have guessed as of mid-July. Add Okonkwo and healthy second-year slot receiver Kyle Philips to the equation and Ryan Tannehill has intriguing options at hand when he’s not handing to Derrick Henry.

And when he has enough time to throw behind a highly unproven offensive line. One thing that can help this offense is Okonkwo getting to the point where he can more effectively help that front when needed, which will also get him on the field more often. Which will remove his presence as any sort of tell for defenses. The Athletic watched Tuesday’s practice from the perspective of Okonkwo as he continues to work on blocking, special teams and the skills that should allow him to improve on last year’s 32 catches for 450 yards and three touchdowns — 24 of those catches, 278 yards and two touchdowns in the final seven games.

Titans tight end Chig Okonkwo celebrates after scoring against

Indianapolis last season. (Jenna Watson / IndyStar / USA Today)

Okonkwo guzzled a bottled water and started jogging toward Field 3, the most distant of three grass practice fields at St. Thomas Sports Park. He gave a “Shhhh” sign with his right index finger into the filming camera of social media coordinator Katie Moseley, then did some head bobs into the filming camera of social video producer Troy Wisneski. Team stretch ended at 9:40, at which point Vrabel gathered the entire team close for a few words that could not be picked up by observing media or fans.

Then it was time for individual drills. The first two for Okonkwo were special teams drills on Field 2, and Vrabel was front and center for the first, stopping it often to give technique instructions as would-be blockers tried to hold up would-be tacklers. Most of the participants were receivers, but Okonkwo, rookie tight end Josh Whyle and rookie linebacker Thomas Rush took turns engaging each other.

Then it was a kickoff return drill for Okonkwo, with special teams coordinator Craig Aukerman running the show. The point was to “flatten your guy out so he can’t cut across your face and make the tackle,” Okonkwo said later, and he did his best to stay in front of receiver Nick Westbrook-Ikhine and redirect him. Then Rush did the same with Okonkwo sprinting toward him.

At 9:51, it was time for Okonkwo to leave the skill group on Field 2 and get with the big uglies on Field 1. Combination blocks were the order of the day. Okonkwo and Jamarco Jones — who is trying to earn the starting right tackle spot for the first six games while Nicholas Petit-Frere sits out a gambling suspension — lined up next to each other and fired forward when offensive line coach Jason Houghtaling barked, “Turbo!”

Petit-Frere was waiting for them with a blocking pad, and they combined to drive him backward.

Players rotated spots often, Okonkwo holding the pad for a rep and combining on another rep with Chris Hubbard, the primary competitor with Jones to fill Petit-Frere’s spot.

“Pad level! Pad level!” Houghtaling reminded one and all, and it’s leverage and precision that have occupied Okonkwo’s focus in an offseason of trying to become a more well-rounded player.

“And you can feel it too, when you’re going, if you can stick a guy versus not quite getting it right,” he said. “Technique is a lot more important than strength. Strength doesn’t matter. Everybody’s strong.”

At 9:57, Okonkwo got back into skill mode on Field 1. A Titans practice tradition is a gathering of the entire team and Vrabel in the center. An offensive player and defensive player face each other. At Vrabel’s whistle, the offensive player circles back and is flipped the football, the defensive player circles back the other way, and they meet in the middle to see if the ball carrier can elude the defender. There’s no tackling to the ground, but there’s an “Oooooooooohhhhhh!” every time a defender is juiced and left grasping air.

Okonkwo elicited no such reaction, but he made a nice move on linebacker Chance Campbell, getting past him going left with Campbell getting a touch on Okonkwo. The 6-3, 238-pound Okonkwo got a defensive rep too — he may not play as much on special teams this season, but he has to be ready — and that was more impressive. He was all over one of the shiftiest players in camp, 5-11, 196-pound rookie receiver Kearis Jackson.

At 10:04, it was time for a 25-minute team period on Field 3. The closest thing the Titans have to real football in practice. No tackling to the ground. No hitting quarterbacks. But serious hitting all the same. And the first play of the team period illustrated the work Okonkwo is trying to get done.

He lined up as an in-line tight end, on the left side of the line. In front of him was new outside linebacker Arden Key, whose energy, voice and playmaking have been constants throughout camp. Key has been trouble at times for new left tackle Andre Dillard. On this play, it was Okonkwo who engaged him with a big pop on a handoff to Derrick Henry, and Henry cut left off the block to reach the second level.

To the naked eye, it also looked like Okonkwo may have given Key's jersey a tug. Key said later it was not holding, and Okonkwo said of the finish to the block: "A shove. Just a final shove, man."

But the fact that it looked like it might have been speaks to the details Okonkwo and the Titans are pursuing.

"I think the biggest thing for Chig is going to continue to be his hand placement," Vrabel said. "I don't think we're going to make him any bigger, he's not going to be a 260-pound player. But I think we have to just continue to focus on his hands and making sure that they're inside, that they're strong and they're powerful. (He's) not going to be able to sustain against Arden or any player with your hands outside. You just don't have enough power. He's willing. I just think that the technique has to improve."

So ... holding then?

"No, I felt like on the first glance ... like he let go when Arden broke the framework of his body, and tried to give him a shove, as what we coached to," Vrabel said. "I looked at it with a critical eye and I didn't see restriction at the point of attack. But again, I'm not an official. I just try to look and see what they call. I felt like he did let go and he did try to give him a shove. Then we'll see if that guy, in that case, Arden, can tackle Derrick. So again, I think it could have been better. I thought that it was smart not to grab him and tug him. It was smart to give him a shove at the end like we teach. So started off not so well and probably then finished OK."

That's the level of analysis that can go into one rep. For the rest of the team period when the first-team offense was on the field, Okonkwo was in the lineup more often than not. He moved all around, did some more blocking — including a good pass protection rep on a completion to Hopkins — and ran several types of routes downfield. Tannehill targeted him on a short pass over the middle, but Amani Hooker read it perfectly and broke up the pass.

Okonkwo got open with sharp routes against Kristian Fulton, Sean Murphy-Bunting and Kevin Byard, but the ball went elsewhere each time. When the twos and threes hit the field, he mostly stood close to Tony Dews, who has switched this season from running backs coach to tight ends coach. Dews' instruction, for Okonkwo and other tight ends, was frequent.

More special teams drills followed the team period, with Okonkwo and others getting low to bat a large blue ball back toward Dews three times while shuffling from left to right — a drill designed to work on lateral quickness. After that, Okonkwo and Whyte were back at each other, one trying to block and the other trying to slip past. At 10:47, it was time for another long team drill. But this time, as planned before practice, just the twos and threes would go.

Okonkwo and other starters ran 10 sprints on Field 2 while it got started. Then they jogged over and cheered on their teammates. The horn sounded at 11:12 after a series of plays run by Malik Willis and Will Levis. Vrabel gathered the team close in the middle of Field 3. And at 11:16, it was time to break — some players heading to fans to sign autographs, some doing media interviews, some getting in individual work such as catching passes from the Jugs machines.

Okonkwo and Dews stood by those machines for several minutes, Dews grabbing Okonkwo's arms and getting into some technique intricacies. Reporters gathered around Okonkwo a few minutes later and he was asked about playing for Dews.

"It's been fun, it's been interesting," Okonkwo said. "The man's loud. A loud guy, man, he likes to coach you really hard. It's a different coaching style, you just have to understand it, and you just have to get used to it. He just coaches you hard and that's how I wanted to be coached."

And that was after a light day. Heavier ones are on the way.

NASHVILLE – A pair of Titans have been named to the Pro Football Writers Association's All-Rookie team – tight end Chig Okonkwo and punter Ryan Stonehouse.

Okonkwo, a fourth round draft pick of the team from Maryland, finished the 2022 season with 32 catches for 450 yards and three touchdowns.

Stonehouse, signed as an undrafted free agent from Colorado State, finished the 2022 season with a gross average of 53.10 yards per punt (90 punts for 4,779 yards). Stonehouse broke Sammy Baugh's single-season NFL record of 51.40 yards per punt, which was established in 1940 and was never matched among qualifiers (2.5 punts per team game) until Stonehouse's rookie campaign.

The rookie team was chosen in voting conducted by the Professional Football Writers of America (PFWA).

CHIG OKONKWO'S CREW: TITANS REMIND HIM OF HOME, REFLECT NFL'S AFRICA PUSH

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
AUGUST 22, 2022

Titans rookie tight end Chigoziem Okonkwo got the football bug in second grade, his first year of playing and the first year he realized he could make some money off it.

So obsessed was young Okonkwo with the sport that he made sure it was on any TV he was around in his hometown of Powder Springs, Ga. He read whatever he could read, memorized every stat, every player, every bit of analysis he could find. He so impressed his classmates at the lunch table that he started charging them $1 apiece — or an ice cream cup, their choice — for his commentary. They paid it, until the principal found out, halted the operation and called Okonkwo's parents.

"I told (the principal) it would never happen again," Okonkwo's mother, Isioma, recalled of a conversation from 15 years ago. "But I was so proud of that boy. He came home and thought he was in trouble, but I said, 'That's a very, very good thought, that is our culture, and maybe some time in the future you can bring that out. For now, allow your friends to come listen to you talk about the football for free.'"

Entrepreneurship is a staple of the Igbo people of Nigeria, Isioma said, and that's the first thing that came to mind for her and her husband, Charlton, when they heard of their youngest child's exploits. Nigerian culture is something they talked about throughout the raising of Okonkwo and his two older sisters. It is something Okonkwo became more aware of at 15 when his father tragically passed away of a heart attack while out to dinner with his mother. And it is something he celebrates daily now.

Saturday, a night that saw Okonkwo catch a touchdown pass from Malik Willis in a 13-3 preseason win over Tampa Bay at Nissan Stadium, could be the last time a group of Titans who have bonded over their shared heritage are all in uniform together. Tuesday is another roster cut day, to get it down to 80. The Titans waived four players Monday, so one more must go. Okonkwo and four Nigerian teammates have very different stories and football trajectories.

Okonkwo, a promising fourth-round tight end out of Maryland, will be on the team and potentially a handy addition to the passing game. Ola Adeniyi, born in Nigeria, raised mostly in Houston and a Nashville revelation last season, should again provide quality outside linebacker depth. David Anenih, born in Dallas to parents who had recently moved from Nigeria, has been a pass-rushing standout in two preseason games, and the rookie looks like a practice squad candidate at least. Rookie tight end Thomas Odukoya, born in Amsterdam to a Dutch mother and Nigerian father, can occupy that practice squad without costing the Titans a spot — that's the advantage of the NFL's International Player Pathway program, which got Odukoya to Nashville.

"But I feel like I've got to come out every day and prove I deserve that spot," said the 6-foot-6, 253-pound Odukoya, who dominated club football in the Netherlands, sent highlight tapes to coaches all over the United States, played for two junior colleges and finally found success at Eastern Michigan.

The guy to watch Tuesday is defensive tackle Sam Okuayinonu. "Sam O.," as they call him around Titans camp, is a popular figure around the team. He's close with Okonkwo, his Maryland teammate, and that relationship is part of why Okuayinonu signed with the Titans after going undrafted. He was a captain at Maryland and he's doing all he can to add his name to an NFL trend and pursuit — the league is pouring resources into outreach efforts in Africa. Last season it reported more than 100 players on active rosters who were either born in Africa or whose parents were born in Africa.

Okuayinonu also is quite undersized for an NFL defensive tackle at 6-1, 269, and based on his opportunities and play in camp he's an active roster long shot, a practice squad hopeful and a Tuesday cut candidate. Ask Okonkwo about Okuayinonu and he'll tell you he's "an inspiration to me" and someone who shouldn't be underestimated. He's certainly been through more than most, seeing things as a young child that no one should have to see.

Born in Monrovia, Liberia, to a Liberian mother and Nigerian father, Okuayinonu was raised there by his mother, Clara, and was attending her college graduation party as a 5-year-old in 2003 when gunfire turned the celebration into chaos. The Second Liberian Civil War, which had been raging since 1999, had reached the doorstep of Monrovia. He ended up separated from his mother, fleeing with his aunt and cousin.

"The gunfire was so heavy, we couldn't turn around," said Okuayinonu, who ended up south of a primary bridge near the city, hiding in an uncle's house, protected from becoming a child soldier but not from seeing dead bodies floating in the water or starving people resorting to cannibalism.

He found out his mother was still alive when her first shipment of food — delivered by clandestine kayak — arrived. They could not speak or communicate for months, until the August 2003 ceasefire resulted in the reopening of the bridge and thousands of people streaming across to find their loved ones. That's a memory seared into Okuayinonu's brain.

"An incredible moment, a blessing," he said. "My mom's my everything. I got to reunite with her, and a lot of kids didn't get that privilege."

They moved together a few years later to Lowell, Mass., where some of their family members had already relocated. That's where he fell in love with American football. That's how it usually goes for kids from other parts of the world with a sport that dominates American culture but does not have the global pull of sports such as soccer or basketball, and that's what the NFL wants to change. That's how it went for Chic Ejiasi, too.

Ejiasi was born in Houston to parents who had recently emigrated from Nigeria. The family moved a few years later to Iowa, where Ejiasi's parents worked as nurses and he became an Iowa Hawkeyes enthusiast. He eventually walked on to Kirk Ferentz's program, lettering all four seasons as a defensive back and contributing to Big Ten championship teams in 2002 and 2004. He graduated with a health and sports studies degree in 2005, tried coaching briefly but ultimately returned as the program's first director of player development — helping players transition from high school to college, helping them excel in college, helping them find internships and employment.

The Titans hired him away from Iowa in 2016 to be their director of player engagement. He has been with the franchise since and he and his wife, Ellie, have a 2-year-old son named Obi — officially Miles Obioma, Obioma translating to "kind hearted." Ejiasi's job is much the same, helping Titans transition to this life. He loves serving and seeing young professionals benefit from and give to their community. He might be having as much fun during this preseason camp as he's had in this job.

"Taking over the league," Ejiasi said with a smile of the increase of African players in the league and with the Titans, which has meant in recent weeks a lot of sharing of stories, conversations about culture and even discovering others on the team with African heritage — such as receiver Nick Westbrook-Ikhine and safety Josh Kalu.

"It's like we kind of all have that understanding of how we grew up," Ejiasi said, and they all have strong feelings on how that culture led them here.

Ejiasi: "For me it was, we were very academically focused in our family. All about giving our best and trying and being the best we could be, especially academically."

Anenih: "I would say it's a pretty big difference from American culture. In terms of how to live, maturity. Like my parents, they've done a really good job of teaching me how to live and good habits to have. ... Respect. Respect for your elders, that's probably the biggest thing I would say."

Adeniyi: "We see our elderly, we respect them. We respect everybody we come around. Coaches, custodians, cafeteria ladies. That's what it is."

Okuayinonu: "To me it's like there's a little bit more pressure to go harder, knowing the sacrifices my mom made to make this possible for me."

Odukoya: "Obviously there's the genetic component of being big and strong, and I'm proud of that, but I also think Nigerians are known for their hard work and work ethic, which you need in the NFL. That shared culture, we definitely take pride in that."

Okonkwo: "Relentless hard work. That's the only way you're going to get anything in life."

Okonkwo also realized he had misperceptions of Nigeria until he visited for the first time. This was in 2017, three years after the tragic passing of his father, to visit extended family and celebrate the life of his father with them.

"People obviously have a negative perception of Africa. They think it's like dirt, everything is poor. That's not the case. It's literally like anywhere else," Okonkwo said. "If you see my uncles' houses over there, they're bigger than multi-million dollar houses here. That's a big thing I took away, the perception and reality. Everything isn't dirt and poverty."

Okonkwo would like to go back soon to get involved in outreach efforts, NFL-devised or otherwise. Adeniyi is committed to doing so next offseason, as part of NFL Africa. Former Giants star defensive end Osi Umenyiora, who was born in London to Nigerian parents, brought the idea to NFL commissioner Roger Goodell years ago and led in June in Ghana an event called NFL Africa: The Touchdown.

It included a combine-like development camp, a flag football clinic and fan events. The idea is to find and develop talent but also to increase international exposure to the game. The Philadelphia Eagles, for example, are marketing in Ghana as part of an effort to create regional fandom for various teams in different parts of the continent. This had to make business sense for the league to happen. The NFL reports 85 foreign-born players took at least one snap in the 2021 season — compared with 62 in 2014 — and that Nigeria, Canada and Australia are driving the growth.

But for Umenyiora and others with African roots who took part and will continue to take part, it's personal and about providing opportunities. The NFL isn't the only pathway for football to change a life. College football can open many more doors for kids with ability. Foreign-born FBS players more than doubled from 2014 to 2020, from 162 to 325. Roman Oben, the NFL's vice president of football development and the first Cameroon-born player drafted into the NFL, said he got emotional on the trip to Ghana.

"The school kids, the genuine passion and excitement they had, the appreciation, it takes you back," said Oben, a 12-year offensive tackle who won a Super Bowl with the Bucs. "It makes you think about where you came from."

And sometimes that's best explained with a story. Second-grade Okonkwo was surprised that day he came home from school and his parents weren't mad about his entrepreneurial efforts. A couple years later, he came home proudly showing them a 93 he got on a math test.

"A 93?" Isioma Okonkwo said to her son. "Did somebody get 100? Why weren't you the one who got 100?"

MOUNTAIN IRON, Minn.-School’s out which means camp season is in. Today in Mountain Iron, campers got a chance to learn from a pro.

Minnesota North College held its Annual Mesabi Range Pepper Lysaker Football Camp with a special guest appearance from a former Norsemen football alum.

Titans’ defensive tackle, Sam Okuayinonu, returned to the Range to help teach campers the fundamentals of the game, with the aim of inspiring young athletes to chase their dreams.

Okuayinonu got his start at Mesabi Range College back in 2018. After an impressive first year campaign with the Norseman, he took his talents to the University of Maryland before landing a spot with the Tennessee Titans last season.

Okuayinonu says he hasn’t forgotten his roots. Crediting Minnesota North College for kickstarting his journey to the NFL, hoping to be an example for kids with similar dreams.

“Anything is possible. It doesn’t matter where you start or how you start, how late you start. It’s all about your drive, your determination to where you want to get to in life and putting in the work ethic. If they could just learn one thing to help them improve in any way, like life or football, that’s all it’s about,” says Okuayinonu.

The camp hosted over 30 campers who each walked away better football players and some, with a goal to one day reach the League.

NASHVILLE – The second edition of Music City Football takes a look into the NFL journey for second-year Titans teammates Chig Okonkwo and Sam Okuayinonu, two players with African lineage.

The 11-minute feature, titled "Afrobeat", went live on Thursday night on Tennessee Titans YouTube channel.

WATCH IT: HERE.

There are more than 125 African-born or first-generation players in the NFL, including Okonkwo and Okuayinonu.

At the start of the episode, Okonkwo and Okuayinonu sit down with Director of Player Engagement Chic Ejiasi, whose parents are from Nigeria, for a dinner, and it spawns into a deeper dive into the personal lives of the two Titans.

Okonkwo, a tight end, discussed the impact his father's death had on him at a young age. Okonkwo was just 15 when his father died of a heart attack.

"In the Nigerian culture, I became the man of the house right then, at 15," Okonkwo said. "All I wanted to do was make sure my family was straight. ... When my dad died, it opened my eyes to, Man, the world is real."

Okuayinonu, a native of Liberia, lived in the country until he was 12 years old, when he escaped the country's civil war.

"Growing up in Liberia, it was great," Okuayinonu said. "My mom and my grandmom, my grandmom worked really hard to get us into a comfortable place in Liberia. (Then) in 2003, the civil war broke out in my country, and it was a really tough time. A lot of kids didn't get to see their parents again.

"Me and my mom ended up getting separated during the war, and that was a tough time for me, because my mom is my best friend. She's my everything."

Okuayinonu and his mom reunited after the war. Okuayinonu returned to Liberia in 2021.

Music City Football, which will air exclusively on YouTube, will include roughly four to six stories that will air into the fall.

The premier episode, which debuted in May, featured new Titans General Manager Ran Carthon.

"We have incredible access, and we feel like with that access, there's another level to the layer we can tell," said Surf Melendez, Vice President and Executive Creative Director for the Titans. "We're trying to create a closer connection with our fans, with our team, so they see things they don't normally get to see. We want to be close with our fans."

Also in the works:

-A feature on new Titans linebacker Azeez Al-Shaair and his road to the NFL. A crew went to Tampa, Fla., to visit with Al-Shaair and his mother, showing his long journey, which included a time when he was homeless.

-A feature on Titans fan Colin Jones, a drummer in Circa Waves with a Middle Tennessee connection. Jones, who lives in London, is a big Titans fans who even named his son "Tennessee."

All the episodes will be roughly eight to 12 minutes.

"Every episode has its own story," said Michael Fertig, Producer, Video Content with the Titans. "We're trying to humanize our players, coaches, and members of the organization. We're trying to go beyond the podium, beyond what people see on a Sunday. We're trying to show these are real people with real lives, and they struggle with real things just like everybody else, but they're a part of this great organization."

3 THINGS TO KNOW
ABOUT OHIO STATE OL
NICHOLAS PETIT-FRERE,
A TENNESSEE TITANS THIRD-ROUND PICK

BY MIKE ORGAN
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 29, 2022

Ohio State offensive tackle Nicholas Petit-Frere was taken by the Tennessee Titans in the third round with the No. 69 pick of the 2022 NFL Draft on Friday.

Petit-Frere comes from Titans coach Mike Vrabel's alma mater where he got a wealth of experience in his college career.

Here's what to know about Petit-Frere:

As versatile as he is large

Ohio State's Nicholas Petit-Frere addresses media before Maryland game

Petit-Frere is huge at 6-foot-5, 316 pounds and he's also flexible with the ability to play either tackle position on the offensive line.

His wide base gives allows him to cover a lot of space when he moves laterally.

Petit-Frere's footwork is exceptional for his size and the main reason he was used at right and left tackle. He is better at right tackle, which is where he is expected to begin his NFL career.

Lofty expectations

Petit-Frere grew up in grew up in Tampa, Florida, and played football and basketball at Berkeley Preparatory School.

He quickly became a better football player than basketball and developed into one of the nation's top offensive line prospects by the time he was a senior. He was a consensus five-star recruit who also received offers from Alabama, Florida and several other Power

Five programs before choosing Ohio State.

After redshirting his freshman year at Ohio State, Petit-Frere earned the starting right tackle position heading into the 2020 season. He played in 35 games between 2018-21 and started in 20.

Petit-Frere earned All-America first-team honors in 2021 by the Football Writers Association of America and CBS Sports. He was also on the 2021 Outland Trophy Watch List.

Improvement needed

Quarterback Ryan Tannehill was sacked 47 times last season so it's easy to see why the Titans went after an offensive lineman.

The problem, however, is that Petit-Frere was a better run blocker in college than pass protector.

He'll need to work on his pass blocking to become the valuable asset the Titans hope he will become.

PHILIPS EAGER TO RETURN AFTER FRUSTRATING ROOKIE SEASON

BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITANINSIDER.COM
JULY 29, 2023

Kyle Philips' rookie season was derailed by a shoulder injury.
TERRY MCCORMICK

Kyle Philips' rookie season didn't go exactly as planned.

The slot receiver started out strong, catching six passes for 66 yards, including one that set up a last-second field goal (missed by Randy Bullock) in the season opener against the New York Giants.

He even added a 46-yard punt return in that game to provide plenty of excitement and hope for Titans fans for the fifth-round pick from UCLA.

From there, Philips' train derailed. He had just two more catches for 12 yards and even muffed a couple of punts before landing on injured reserve after week five with a AC joint problem in his shoulder.

"It was real frustrating. You want to be a part of the team and help the team out. It sucks," Philips said of missing three-fourths of the season." You see your guys going in every day and putting in a lot of work and not being able to do that with them. It kind of eats at you a little bit."

Like so many others on the 2022 Titans, his season was lost to rehab in the trainers room. Philips kept working each week to get back to finish his rookie year, but it didn't happen.

"I didn't really (know I couldn't get back) until the end of the season. Each week I was coming in, trying to get better, trying to get back and I really didn't know until the last game and season was over at that point," he said..

While Philips didn't actually play much as a rookie, it doesn't mean he still feels like one in this camp.

"I wasn't able to play, but I was still able to meet with the coaches, learn offenses, learn defenses, watch a lot of film and seeing how guys run certain routes, certain stems they make and all that stuff, I was able to learn a lot," he said.

Healthy again, and having added a few pounds, Philips is excited for what could be for him this season. He figures to be the team's slot receiver, serving as a chains mover and complement to DeAndre Hopkins and Treylon Burks..

"It feels night and day. Coming in as a rookie, you never know how things are going to go. Having that year under me, knowing what to expect, what these practices are going to be like, it gives me a lot of confidence going into it," Philips said.

He also figures to be a good fit for Tim Kelly's up-tempo offense that features a lot more shorter, quicker throws..

"I feel like Tim has done a great job implementing this offense, putting it in in very great details, so we know what to do and can go out there and play fast," he said.

Saturday's camp action

Quarterback Malik Willis continues to learn and Saturday was no exception. Willis had a pass picked off in team drills when outside linebacker Rashad Weaver dipped back into the passing lanes and corralled the ball well before it reached its intended target.

But Willis showed his growth on the next play. He dialed up a perfect strike about 50 yards downfield to Chris Moore for a touchdown.

"I think that's the life of any player. As an o-lineman, if you lose a rep to a great defensive lineman, you can't come back the next play and not play as hard as you can," Willis said of his redemption.

Willis later had an even better throw to Colton Dowell deep on the left sideline. The ball hit Dowell in the hands, but safety Mike Brown raked it out for an incomplection before he could put it away.

Play of the day

In one-on-ones, Kristian Fulton was draped all over Treylon Burks on a go route, but Ryan Tannehill put the ball in a perfect spot and Burks made a diving catch in the end zone. Also in contention, was Weaver's interception off Willis. Also, had Dowell been able to hold on to Willis' sideline throw in the bucket, that might have been a winner.

Right tackle revolving door

Jamarco Jones and Chris Hubbard alternated reps at right tackle on Saturday, after Jones was out on Friday. Rookie Jaelyn Duncan, who got the first-team reps on Friday, worked with the second team on Saturday.

Inside linebacker battle

The Titans have a battle at inside linebacker to play opposite Azeez Al-Shaair between Monty Rice and Jack Gibbens. Rice got the first-team work on Wednesday and Saturday, while Gibbens worked with the first unit on Friday.

Out of practice

Tight end Josh Whyle has not done anything much beyond stretch the past two days. He was not on the field at all in Wednesday's work.

HOW TITANS ROOKIE WR EARNED THE NICKNAME 'THE PROFESSOR'

BY MICHAEL GALLAGHER
THE NASHVILLE POST
AUGUST 15, 2022

Thirteen practices into his rookie season, and Tennessee Titans receiver Kyle Philips has already earned a reputation for being deceptively difficult to cover.

But Philips' uncanny ability to seemingly always have the right answer during team meetings has also earned him a nickname from the Titans coaching staff.

"He's a bit of a know-it-all, but that's why I call him 'The Professor' because there's nothing he doesn't know," Titans wide receivers coach Rob Moore said on Monday. "His passion for the game shows up a lot. When you talk to him about it, he really does have a good mind for the game. You can make adjustments [for him] in a quick moment, and he can adjust to it."

Added Philips: "It definitely makes me feel good. But it also puts a little bit of a target on my back. He'll throw some trick questions out there to try and catch me. When he does, he doesn't let me live it down. So, it goes both ways."

From terminology to route running, Philips spends most of his free time breaking down film — of himself, of his teammates and of any receiver who happens to have a highlight reel on YouTube.

"I started [studying receivers] in middle school," Philips admitted, adding he will watch a video on YouTube and say to himself, "I want to try and add that to my game."

Although Tennessee's WR group is relatively young and inexperienced, Robert Woods notwithstanding, Philips disclosed there is plenty to learn from the group of fellow pass catchers.

The Titans have a solid mix of physical, speed and possession receivers. That eclectic mix of size, quickness, strength, route running and elusiveness is what Philips credits for helping him round out his skillset.

"I study every receiver I can," Philips said. "Just being out here, I'd say [I study] a lot of Robert Woods, Mason Kinsey and Nick Westbrook-Ikhine. I like to take an aspect of every little bit of their game — with Robert just how good he is with his hands, Nick his releases, and Mason just how explosive he is in and out of his cuts."

WHO IS DILLON RADUNZ AND WHY DID THE TITANS DRAFT HIM IN ROUND 2?

*BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
MAY 2, 2021*

The right tackle competition for the Tennessee Titans got much more interesting on day two of the NFL Draft.

A few weeks ago, coach Mike Vrabel, when asked about the position, said there was no predetermined depth chart. Those with a chance to end up on top include free agent Kendall Lamm, the recently re-signed Ty Sambrailo and David Quessenberry.

Dillon Radunz, Tennessee's second-round pick, will add some youth to the battle. While the 6-foot-6, 298-pound North Dakota State product knows he will be the least experienced player compared to the three veterans, but he also has every intention of winning the job. Because that's just who he is.

"I'm always going to want to start. I'm not going to speak it into existence that I won't be (the starter), if that for some reason happens," Radunz said. "I'm always going to be competitive. I'm always going to want teams to win. I'm always going to want my team to win, so I'll push the guys in front of me and make sure they're on their P's and Q's about that. It's going to be a competitive atmosphere."

What to know about the newest candidate to be the Titans' right tackle:

He prides himself on versatility. A few days before the NFL Draft, ESPN's Jeremy Fowler reported that Radunz's stock was rising because some people around the league believed he could play all five offensive line spots.

Radunz said he focused on making himself versatile throughout the draft process. That will be important because he primarily played left tackle in college. He will be shuffling over to the other side in the NFL, at least early on, and may also be expected to play other positions.

"I've been working on it in the offseason, doing drills and stuff with the right tackle if that is the position they want me to be at," he said. "So, I've been working on both sides of the ball, switching up my stance like that, so that is probably the biggest challenge and then making sure everything you're dotting your I's and crossing your T's when you switch over."

He has plenty of experience with NFL players and coaches. Leading up to the NFL Draft, Radunz trained with one of the best offensive tackles in recent league history, Joe Staley, the former San Francisco 49er who made six Pro Bowl appearances and made the Pro Football Hall of Fame All-2010s team. He has also worked with former NFL offensive line coach Paul Alexander.

"I flew out to California immediately after that game, went to train with Joe Staley, ex-49er, future Hall of Famer, so he was super good in my development," Radunz said "He was a huge testament to that, so shout out to him. I did that a lot with previous NFL players. I worked out with Paul Alexander. He was a previous NFL coach."

And of course, he has played with some NFL players at NDSU, including the No. 3 overall pick in this year's draft, quarterback Trey Lance, and 2016 No. 1 overall pick, quarterback Carson Wentz.

He feels like his stock rose at Senior Bowl. Radunz played in just two games in the past several months due to COVID-19, and only one of those was for the NDSU Bison due to COVID-19. The other was at the Reese's Senior Bowl, where he was named player of the week after a strong showing throughout.

"You can always lift weights, stuff like that, but there's something different about hitting guys," he said. "So, being able to just hit pads, being able to train with other offensive linemen, they understand the physicality of the game, so having them hold pads for you and stuff. It's been difficult, but at the same time, I think I did a good job at it. Things showed at the Senior Bowl, and we'll continue to do that through OTAs and rookie minicamp."

Titans general manager Jon Robinson agreed.

"Their season was shortened obviously. That Senior Bowl exposure was really good for him to go against some of the best of the best in college football," Robinson said. "Got a chance to spend some time down there with him, get to know him. He's about what we're about, you know, football-wise and makeup and commitment to being a good football player."

He's durable. After redshirting as a freshman, he entered the 2017 season with a much large role. However, he tore his ACL after playing 15 snaps in NDSU's season-opener the following season and went on to miss the entire season.

After that, though, he went on to start 32 consecutive games for the Bison. He enters the NFL about as healthy as could be.

"My body is super fresh," he said. "I literally have no injuries at all, no nicks and bruises. I was able to gain a lot of strength too through that because I wasn't playing in the season, so my body's in tip-top shape. It's just a matter of getting back into or I should say coasting into that football shape that I was talking about since I haven't played football, but I'd say there's a lot of positives about only playing one game."

MADISON, Ala. (WAFF) - Tennessee Titans linebacker and former James Clemens standout Monty Rice was putting kids to work on Saturday for his first youth football camp.

Rice, alongside his peers and James Clemens Head Coach Chad McGehee, ran kids through a workout on the Jets turf field, complete with various football drills and conditioning. This was Rice’s first football camp for his hometown community, but he says it won’t be his last. He wants these kids to understand anything is possible with the right mindset, coupled with hard work.

“I think it’s huge to have people that lived in the same area that you did, grew up in the same area you did, and they doing something that you want to do,” Rice said. “That just let the kids know that, ‘Hey if Monty Rice can do it, I can do it.’ That’s just the example I want to set. I used to have teachers when I was young, they were like, ‘Only the one percent make it,’ and I’m like, ‘Why can’t I be the one percent?’ And that’s the same thing for these kids. Y’all can be the one percent if you choose to.”

Kids of all ages participated in the camp, but Rice didn’t take it easy on any of the campers. He says coaches held him to a certain standard, so he wanted to do the same for all those who participated.

“I’m not going to let them cheat the game because the coaches that I had, Coach [Kirby] Smart, coaches at James Clemens... They didn’t let us cheat it when we was here, so I just want to show them like, ‘Hey, football taught me more than any school or any teacher could teach me.’ It teaches you how to work

NASHVILLE – Monty Rice remembers his first Titans game well.

A native of Huntsville, Alabama, Rice was just 10 years old in 2009, when he traveled to Nashville with a friend. Nissan Stadium was called LP Field back then, and Rice was decked out in a Titans jersey.

"Peyton Manning lit the Titans up on Sunday Night Football," said Rice, who was picked by the Titans in the third round of the 2021 NFL Draft. "That was my first game. ... Was I upset? Nah, I was just happy to be there."

A month later, Rice was back at the stadium for a more memorable game.

This one turned out better for the Titans.

"The game against the Cardinals," Rice said. "When Vince Young threw the touchdown pass (to Kenny Britt to cap a 99-yard drive to win in). I remember the stadium went nuts. I was like, 'Damn, this is crazy.'"

Fast forward to now, and it almost seems surreal.

Rice, an inside linebacker who played in college at the University of Georgia, is now a Titan himself.

He just wrapped up his first full week of practice, which started with the rookie minicamp last weekend. This week he'll take the field with veterans during organized team activities as his NFL career gets under way.

Rice, who said his favorite Titans growing up were Keith Bulluck,

Chris Johnson, Cortland Finnegan and Kyle Vanden Bosch, estimates he attended roughly 8-10 Titans games as a youngster. He used to wear a No.9 Steve McNair jersey, or Vince Young's No.10.

Now, he wants to make a name for himself.

"Keith Bulluck, he just played the right way," Rice said. "He played with a chip on his shoulder on every snap, and that's kind of how I carry myself."

A 6-foot, 233-pounder, Rice was picked by the Titans with the 92nd overall pick.

Rice was one of five finalists for the Butkus Award, which recognizes the nation's best linebacker, in 2020. He was a starter at LB in eight of 10 games, when he was in on 49 tackles, and four tackles for a loss.

Rice started all 14 games for the Bulldogs in 2019, when he racked up 89 tackles, and three tackles for a loss. Rice was second team All-SEC in 2019, when he was the co-winner of the Vince Dooley Defensive MVP. He earned first team All-SEC accolades in 2020.

Rice said he feels fortunate to be in the NFL.

In time, he hopes to make a name for himself.

"It is a blessing to be able to put on an NFL helmet," he said. "Playing in the NFL was my childhood dream since I was nine years old.

"Now that I'm here, I'm going to work, and try to do whatever I can to help the team win. And hopefully I can leave a positive impact on everybody I come across. That's how I was raised."

TITANS TE KEVIN RADER MANAGES DIABETES LIKE A PRO, AND HE HOPES TO INSPIRE

BRINGING ATTENTION TO JDRF AS PART OF 'MY CAUSE, MY CLEATS' CAMPAIGN

BY JIM WYATT

NASHVILLE – Kevin Rader was a freshman in high school when he was first diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes.

It was a shock to the system, leaving him with many unknowns.

Reality hit when doctors checked his blood sugar, and it was 786.

"I lost 30 pounds in 3 or 4 days," said the Titans tight end. "No one in my family ever had diabetes, so no one knew what was wrong with me. It wasn't easy at first – it was definitely a learning curve for me. But you adjust. And now, I think I manage it great."

Rader, in his first season with the Titans after playing the previous two seasons with the Steelers, now wants to do his part to help bring awareness to the disease while encouraging others.

As part of the NFL's 'My Cause, My Cleats' campaign, Rader plans to wear cleats that bring attention to JDRF (Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation). The words "Improving Lives Curing Type 1 Diabetes" also decorate the colorful shoes.

The annual 'My Cause, My Cleats' initiative empowers players to showcase their commitment to the causes they support through creative artwork and custom designs on their game cleats.

Rader is among a group of roughly 16-18 Titans who plan to take part in the initiative, starting on Sunday against the Eagles and then again next week against the Jaguars.

Rader said he plans to auction off the cleats at some point to raise money for JDRF.

"I want to bring awareness," said Rader, who has played in eight of the team's 11 games this season after being promoted from the practice squad in September. "The biggest thing (I tell young people) is: 'Don't take no for an answer. Some people think when you get diabetes you can't do things, but it's like any other adversity, you can overcome it.'"

Type 1 diabetes is often diagnosed in children and young adults but can occur at any age. Since the immune system destroys the body's ability to produce insulin, those with the disease are required to take shots or use an insulin pump, in addition to regularly monitoring their blood sugar.

Rader, who is 27, regularly takes shots to keep his blood sugars in check.

Rader, who has worked at tight end, fullback and on special teams this season, said he takes six to eight injections of insulin a day, depending on his activity. He wears a FreeStyle Libre glucose monitoring system on his upper leg that lets him know his blood sugars, and it helps him deal with the highs and lows.

Rader said he also leans on Titans nutrition coordinator Lauren Silvio to help him with his blood sugars, and his diet is important, he said.

"In games (my blood sugar) goes high because the adrenalin spikes the sugars," Rader said. "(As for my diet), it was a learning curve at first, but once you understand carbs, and what foods make you spike quick vs. late, like pasta versus a normal chicken dish, things like that, it's pretty easy to manage."

Rader said teammates are sometimes curious when they see him checking his blood sugars or taking injections.

"Usually when someone finds out they are shocked I'm a diabetic," he said. "And then I tell them, and they're like, What? And they'll see the sensor on my leg and it will start a conversation."

Rader, a Pittsburgh native who played in college at Youngstown State and initially signed with the Packers as an undrafted free agent back in 2018, is happy to spread the word about how he deals with diabetes because it allows him to encourage others.

When Rader was with the Steelers, he talked with kids through JDRF about his personal experiences with diabetes.

"I was a walk-on in college, and I had to overcome that," Rader said at the time. "Same thing, undrafted going into the NFL. Really diabetes, as long as you manage it, take ownership and make it part of your lifestyle, it won't hold you back at all."

REGGIE ROBERSON TAKING ADVANTAGE OF
SECOND LOOK FROM TITANS

BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITANSIDER.COM
AUGUST 4, 2023

The Tennessee Titans wide receiver corps has the usual players garnering plenty of attention in camp – veteran newcomer DeAndre Hopkins, youngsters like Treyton Burks and Kyle Philips returning from injury and a rookie with local ties in Colton Dowell.

But another lesser heralded receiver, who has been on and off the Titans practice squad the last couple of years has been turning plenty of heads with his production in recent days of training camp. Reggie Roberson has been getting open and making his share of plays – albeit primarily on the third team – but has become a favorite target of rookie Will Levis.

Roberson, who came to the Titans as an undrafted rookie last year coming off a knee injury from college, does not lack for confidence in his ability to get the job done.

“I’ve just been studying my playbook and knowing it and making the most of my opportunities,” Roberson said.

Roberson said he feels faster now than before the knee injury in college, where he was clocked at a 4.42 in the 40-yard dash.

“If they don’t think I’m back to full speed, just go check the tape from when I was full speed. You can put it together. I feel like I’m faster than I was then,” Roberson said..

Coach Mike Vrabel said Roberson has done a good job in camp of making the most of his chances.

“Reggie’s made some plays down the field. We failed to cover him a couple times the other day, but when given the opportunity, he’s showed up,” Vrabel said.

Roberson said that was all a part of a new comfort level having been with the team now in a second training camp .

“I had that one year under my belt and I knew everything that was going on in camp and what they wanted to go on, the route trees, and just honed in on the playbook and made the most of my opportunities and just dialed in on special teams, because I knew that’s where I had to make my mark, and I just made the most of it,” he said.

Who’ll stop the rain

The Titans practiced outside in a steady rain on Friday, and it certainly took a toll on the passing game. The offense already appears behind the defense in terms of development this camp, and adding wet footballs and a slippery playing surface didn’t seem to help matters on Friday.

“We had some footballs, and again, this is good work today, it was probably not our best day offensively because of the rain,” Vrabel said. “That’s obviously an excuse, but I thought the quarterbacks handled it fairly well. We saw a lot of footballs that got through us and got onto our shoulder pads. Those balls are going to be intercepted.”

Out of practice

Three Titans were not on the field for practice on Friday. Those included safety Amani Hooker, defensive tackle Naquan Jones and offensive lineman Corey Levin, who has now missed multiple days due to an injury.

Two other Titans players left practice early. Tight end Alize Mack left practice after grabbing the back of his leg following a play. Mack was visibly upset that he had injured himself.

Also, rookie tackle John Okukwu limped off the field with what appeared to be an ankle issue.

Jamarco Jones’ exit

Vrabel commented in his post practice press conference about Jamarco Jones, who went from being the favorite to start at right tackle to released on Thursday after he was involved in on-field incidents in two straight practices.

“I think I’m going to leave it at this, that we all have a responsibility to the team. I think my job is to protect the team,” the coach said. “I think the players’ job is to find a way onto that team. We always are going to hold the team in high regard and make sure that everything we do and how we carry ourselves is in the best interest of the team.”

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT NEW TENNESSEE TITANS KICKER CALEB SHUDAK

BY NICK GRAY
THE TENNESSEAN
NOVEMBER 27, 2022

Undrafted rookie kicker Caleb Shudak will play in his first NFL game on Sunday for the Tennessee Titans against the Cincinnati Bengals at Nissan Stadium.

Shudak is the second kicker to fill in for Randy Bullock, who is missing his second game after suffering a calf injury earlier this month. Josh Lambo, who missed an extra point, kicked in last Thursday's win at Green Bay.

Shudak, who played collegiately at Iowa, had spent all of the 2022 season plus the majority of training camp on the physically unable to perform list before being called up earlier this week.

Here's what to know about the Titans' new kicker:

Made most of one season as primary kicker at Iowa

Shudak handled kickoffs for the Hawkeyes in 2019 and 2020 before getting his shot as the primary kicker in 2021.

The senior made 24 of 28 field goals, including 4 of 6 from 50-plus yards, with his longest made kick coming from 51 yards out. He made all 36 extra points and had touchbacks on 70% of kickoffs in 2021.

Shudak was named Third Team AP All-America and First Team All-Big Ten after the season. Not too bad for someone who had to wait until his sixth-year senior season to become the team's primary kicker.

It set up Shudak to at least make an NFL training camp roster ahead of the 2022 season.

His father kicked at rival Iowa State

Kicking is in Shudak's gene pool; his father, Jeff, was a four-year kicker for Iowa State from 1987-90.

Jeff Shudak made two game-winning field goals and another game-tying field goal in his four years in Ames, The Gazette in Iowa reported. Jeff's streak of 11 consecutive made field goals was the longest in Iowa State program history at the time and stands now as the second best mark in school history.

It should be noted that Iowa State lost all four games to Iowa while Jeff Shudak was in school.

Injury halted any chance at competition at Titans training camp

Shudak was signed by the Titans following the NFL Draft in the spring as a second leg in the preseason and as possible competition for incumbent Randy Bullock, who signed a two-year deal with the team following a successful stint in 2021.

The rookie was solid enough through the summer, but a leg injury forced Shudak onto the PUP list ahead of training camp. He stayed on that list throughout the preseason and moved to the PUP/reserve list during the regular season. It benefitted both team and player; Shudak could rehab his injury, and the Titans could activate him if healthy and needed or keep him for next season otherwise.

That chance came on Nov. 26, when he was activated from the PUP list after the Titans waived Lambo and an injured Bullock (calf) remained on the injury report.

Sunday, Shudak will kick for the Titans and will make up an all-rookie kicking tandem alongside punter Ryan Stonehouse against the Bengals.

KEY TO CITY PRESENTED

Key to city presented Jeffery Simmons during 'fun day'

Mayor of Macon Buz McGuire hands Tennessee Titans and former Noxubee County High school football player Jeffery Simmons the key to the city Saturday at the Jeffery Simmons Fun Day celebration at the Noxubee County Sportsplex. Since joining the Titans in 2019, Simmons has donated free meals to electrical workers after a severe storm in 2021 and donated $50,000 to renovate athletic facilities at NCHS in 2022. Simmons said he put on the event to continue giving back to his hometown. (Grant McLaughlin/Dispatch Staff)

MACON – When Macon resident William Mitchell was looking for something to do with his daughter, Rachel, this weekend, he wasn't sure what would shake out.

After hearing that Tennessee Titan Defensive End and former Noxubee County High School football player Jeffery Simmons was hosting a community fun day, he knew just what to do.

"I watched (Simmons) play all four years of high school football," Mitchell said. "We were just at home and I really wanted to bring her out to this, and because she loves water games."

William and Rachel Mitchell, 6, eat snow cones Saturday at the Jeffery Simmons Fun Day celebration at the Noxubee County Sportsplex. Mitchell was one of about 3,000 to attend the Tennessee Titan's holiday celebration, featuring local food vendors, music and games for kids. At the event, Macon Mayor Buz McGuire presented Simmons with a key to the city to thank him for his philanthropic efforts in the area since joining the NFL in 2019. (Grant McLaughlin/Dispatch Staff)

Mitchell was one of around 3,000 people who signed up to attend the Jeffery Simmons Fun Day event at the Noxubee County Sportsplex, featuring local food vendors, music and games for children, as well as a firework show that evening, Simmons said.

Simmons told The Dispatch he wanted to come home and host an event to pay homage to his hometown of Macon and bring people out for the Fourth of July holiday.

"(Events like this) motivate me," Simmons said. "This is where I started from. I am going to help people from all over, but right here in Noxubee County is what made me. I wanted to bring something back to where I came from."

Mayor of Macon, Buz McGuire, said the city provided fireworks for the event, and also presented Simmons a key to the city for his philanthropic efforts in Noxubee County.

"For me, the most important thing is he's willing to give back to his community," McGuire said. "I know he's done some work at (Noxubee County High School), and now he's putting on this day. I'm sure there'll be other things in the future too."

In 2021, Simmons provided free meals to Macon Electric workers and 4-County Electric Power Association linemen for their work following a severe winter storm, and funded a $50,000 renovation project for NCHS to revitalize its field house and weight room in 2022.

Simmons also donated $75,000 to the Starkville Parks and Recreation Department that same year to build a turf field at the Starkville Sportsplex.

Simmons said he plans to continue making trips back home to work with local high school students and put on more events, but could not comment on the nature of those future endeavors.

"Everything is not set in stone," he said. "I don't want to speak on anything just yet right now. But we want to grow this city. We don't have a lot here. So, I think that's where it starts."

Another attendee, Johnathan Morris, said he brought his whole family out to the event to support Simmons, but also to see the firework show and enjoy the holiday as a family.

"I'm a big fan of Tennessee Titan Jeffery Simmons, and we came out to support (him)," Morris said. "But it's also pretty nice because it has a lot of stuff for the kids."

FOUR YEARS LATER,
TITANS DT JEFFERY
SIMMONS STILL BUOYED
BY CONTROLLING
OWNER AMY ADAMS
STRUNK'S TRUST IN HIM

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 14, 2023

NASHVILLE – Four years ago, after being selected by the Titans in the first round of the 2019 NFL Draft, an emotional Jeffery Simmons vowed to reward controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk for having faith in him.

Simmons, sitting two seats down from Strunk at his introductory press conference, tucked his head and shed tears when Strunk spoke about her trust in him while welcoming him into the organization.

Simmons, who was recovering from an ACL injury at the time, had faced questions following an off-field incident he was involved in back in high school. The well-publicized incident resulted in heavy scrutiny over the pick, but Strunk spoke about second chances, and her faith in Simmons.

"Coming from a woman," Simmons, fighting back tears, said of Strunk at the time. "I'll tell her in front of you guys that she can trust me. I won't let her down."

Strunk was involved in the process that led to the Titans selecting Simmons.

"We are getting a great football player, that goes without saying, but we are getting a great man," Strunk said in April of 2019. "We are a nation that gives second chances, and this young man, Jeffery Simmons, he deserved that second chance."

On Wednesday, the Titans officially awarded Simmons with a second contract.

The big defensive lineman signed his long-term contract extension before another emotional press conference when he once again thanked Strunk for believing in him.

Simmons said he exchanged texts with Strunk after the two sides agreed to terms.

"From day one I told Miss Amy that I would never let her down," Simmons said. "I texted Miss Amy after we came to an agreement, and I told her how much I appreciated her trusting in me from day one. What she sent back to me, she told me: 'You promised me that you would never let me down and you haven't.' And that right there, it hit something inside.

"To have a female owner, a lady owner, in the NFL to trust in you so much, from the adversity I went through on my journey to get here, it means so much to me. Miss Amy, I appreciate you so much."

Simmons has held up his end of the bargain since the Titans selected him with the 19th overall pick on the 2019 NFL Draft out of Mississippi State.

Simmons has been named to two Pro Bowls in four years, and since joining the Titans he ranks second on the team with 21 sacks, trailing only outside linebacker Harold Landry III (26.5). His career totals also include 196 tackles, 19 passes defended, two forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

After missing the first six games of his rookie season due to a pre-draft injury, Simmons played in 56 of the team's last 60 games (54 starts). He was a team captain in each of the last two campaigns.

Simmons said he's grown on and off the field over the past four years.

"I know for a fact I have grown," Simmons said. "If you don't grow, especially as a player in this league. From year one, I am going into year five now, I don't think I'd be standing at this podium right now.

"As a man, I try to be better than I was. That's been my motto forever: Be better than I was yesterday, on the field and off the field. Of course, I feel like I have grown as a man, and as a player."

###

ON HIS BIG DAY, TITANS DT JEFFERY SIMMONS IS SMILING THROUGH THE TEARS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 13, 2023

NASHVILLE – Jeffery Simmons had a lot of things on his mind when he stepped up to the podium on Wednesday.

Among his thoughts: "I'm going to try not to cry today."

Then the big defensive lineman looked at his mother, and the tears started streaming down his cheeks. At one point he paused for 12 seconds before gathering himself.

"My mom, single parent," Simmons said. "Just to see the journey we have been on as a family. It's crazy," Simmons said. "I think, man, from house to house, apartment to apartment. Sharing a bed with my brother. Now, we're good. ... It's generational wealth, as we call it. It's who I do it for. Every day I wake up, I think about those hard times where I know my mom didn't feel like it. Sometimes I am hurting, but I think about my mom, having raised five kids on her own. For me to say, I don't want to do this. That's my motivation, my family."

Titans General Manager Ran Carthon, Coach Mike Vrabel and a big group of family members were on hand at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park on Wednesday for a press conference celebrating the long-term contract extension Simmons signed earlier in the day.

At the conclusion of the press conference, Simmons talked more about his mother, Brenda Bradley, and his upbringing.

Simmons said his mission since first stepping on the football field as a five-year-old – when he used to put on his shoulder pads and hit a big pear tree in the backyard – has always been to make his family proud.

And give them a better life.

"I didn't want to make too much eye contact with my mom today because I knew she'd be there crying, and then I'd cry, too," Simmons said with a smile. "But to think about that upbringing, and all the adversity we've been through. ... I know she is proud of me."

Simmons said the family moved six or seven times when he was younger, including a move from Louisiana to Mississippi.

At most places, Simmons shared room with brother, and his two sisters also shared room. Simmons said his mom adopted his uncle's daughter, a cousin, who he also calls a sister.

With a household of five kids, Brenda Bradley had to work all kinds of jobs, from working at a convenience store to working at a prison. She did everything she could to make ends meet, Simmons said.

"But she never missed a birthday," Simmons said.

Simmons said he pulled weeds as a kid to make extra money, to keep her from having to pay for his football uniforms.

Not too long after signing his first NFL contract with the Titans in 2019, Simmons bought his mom a house in Spring Hill, Tennessee, so she could be close.

Now, after signing a mammoth deal with the Titans, the two-time Pro Bowler knows his family will be taken care of for years and years and years to come.

He's also now finally ready to reward himself – he plans to buy a new home, perhaps with a pool.

"I never picture myself wearing another color than two-tone blue, other than a gold jacket," Simmons said. "This is a great day. I hope I retire here, and I hope I can make this franchise happy."

IT'S BIGGER THAN FOOTBALL': TITANS' JEFFERY SIMMONS SPENDS WEEK GIVING BACK IN MISSISSIPPI

BY STEFAN KRAJISNIK
THE TENNESSEAN -
MISSISSIPPI CLARION LEDGER
JULY 9, 2022

STARKVILLE – Before he was an All-Pro and All-SEC defensive tackle, Tennessee Titans star Jeffery Simmons was a manager for his high school football team.

Simmons was in middle school but served as a varsity football manager when he walked through the weight room at Noxubee County High School and saw the rusty weights and bent bars.

It's a sight that stuck with him, particularly as he saw opponents such as West Point with better equipment to help build a "winning culture."

So Simmons made a promise. He wasn't a 6-foot-4, 300-pound menace yet, but his potential had always been apparent as a five-star prospect. Once he made it to the NFL, Simmons said, he'd ensure future Noxubee County athletes had access to better equipment.

The former Mississippi State standout fulfilled the promise Thursday as he stood outside newly named and renovated Jeffery B. Simmons Field House. The only thing more eye-popping than the shiny oversized scissors used in the ribbon cutting was his neon yellow shorts suit.

"I cannot really show my appreciation for Noxubee County enough," Simmons said.

Simmons' time in high school wasn't always as successful as his football career. As a senior in 2016, he was found guilty of malicious mischief and pleaded no contest to a simple assault charge. It came after he was helping break up a fight between his sister and another woman. Simmons was shown on video striking the woman before walking away.

Simmons said the donations and work he does for his high school are not an attempt to cover up for what happened.

"I moved on from all that," Simmons said. "I don't even talk about it anymore. I don't live in the past. My thing is, what I'm doing now is to make sure my name, my brand — the Jeffery Simmons brand — will leave a legacy not just for me but for my kids and their future.

"That's my biggest thing. I have nephews, nieces. What can I do to make sure they're good in their future and make sure they don't have to live off that — live off something that happened 20 years ago, 30 years ago."

NCHS athletics director Karen Dixon — who has known Simmons since he was in her fourth-grade class — says once the school was informed of Simmons' plan with the weight room, it was their idea to name the field house after him.

The unveiling in Macon, Mississippi, was only the start of an eventful week back home for Simmons. He made the short trek Friday to Starkville, where he signed a $75,000 check for Starkville Parks and Recreation toward a new turf field at the Starkville Sportsplex.

The field was also named in his honor and was used through the weekend for his third annual youth camp.

"It's bigger than football," Simmons said Saturday. "It's not all about just these young kids seeing us play on Thursdays, Monday nights and Sundays. These kids matter. The town of Starkville matters. The town of Macon matters."

Tennessee Titans defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons reacts after a play in the first half against the Cincinnati Bengals at Nissan Stadium.

Simmons was joined at his camp by NFL players Elgton Jenkins, Tyre Phillips, J.T. Gray and Gerri Green, among others. The group remains tight-knit as their careers have shifted away from Mississippi, and Simmons says there is never hesitation when they ask each other to help with events such as youth camps.

Mississippi State quarterback Will Rogers also received an invitation from Simmons. He remembers the angst of being a kid at a youth camp with successful football players around. Now he notes the commitment that comes with being on the adult side.

"They're pros, for sure," Rogers said. "The way they conduct themselves — not only on the field but also coming back and doing things like this for the community. Helping people that don't have as much ... It's humbling to see and definitely something I'm going to learn from."

TENNESSEE TITANS
DRAFT PICK PETER
SKORONSKI'S
GRANDFATHER PLAYED FOR VINCE LOMBARDI:
WHAT ELSE TO KNOW

BY MIKE ORGAN
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 28, 2023

The Tennessee Titans selected former Northwestern offensive tackle Peter Skoronski with the 11th pick in the first round of the 2023 NFL Draft Thursday.

Skoronski was the third offensive lineman taken in the draft behind Ohio State's Paris Johnson Jr. to Arizona and Tennessee's Darnell Wright to Chicago.

Here are three things to know about Skoronski:

Grandfather played for Vince Lombardi

Skoronski's grandfather Bob Skoronski was an offensive tackle for the Green Bay Packers when Vince Lombardi was building a dynasty. He spent nine seasons with the franchise.

He was a rookie in 1956, spent two years in the U.S. Air Force, and returned to Green Bay from 1959-68.

Bob Skoronski, 84, played in two Super Bowls, was an All-Pro in 1966 and is in the Green Bay Packers Hall of Fame.

Peter Skoronski tweeted earlier Thursday that his grandfather served as his inspiration to make it to the NFL.

Nation's best pass blocker

Skoronski finished the 2022 season with Pro Football Focus' highest pass-blocking grade in the country at 93.0. That also is one of the highest ratings of all time.

The 6-foot-4, 315 pounder allowed only six pressures on 480 pass-blocking snaps.

Skoronski posted a 79.1 run-blocking grade, which was fifth among Power 5 offensive tackles.

Skoronski was Northwestern's first offensive lineman to earn the Rimington-Pace Big Ten Offensive Lineman of the Year. He also became only the third Wildcat offensive lineman to earn two All-Big Ten first team awards under Pat Fitzgerald.

He was a finalist for the 2022 Outland Trophy.

Didn't translate

Even with Skoronski anchoring the line, Northwestern was not among the top offensive teams in the Big 10.

The Wildcats finished 10th in the Big Ten and 94th nationally in passing (210.3 yards) and ninth in the Big Ten and 98th nationally in rushing (125.1 yards).

Northwestern scored only 10 passing touchdowns and 11 rushing.

FOR TENNESSEE TITANS
1ST-ROUNDER PETER
SKORONSKI, CHICAGO
HOMECOMING COMES WITH BIG CHANGE

BY NICK SUSS
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 11, 2023

Peter Skoronski isn't at the position he's used to, and isn't in the position to complain about it.

Skoronski's been starting at left guard for the Tennessee Titans since the day he arrived in Nashville after the Titans made him the No. 11 pick in the 2023 NFL Draft. The only problem? Skoronski isn't a guard. Never has been. He was an All-America left tackle at Northwestern and a five-star recruit as a left tackle before that.

He's always played the most premium position on the offensive line and he's always done it well. But now, in the days before his preseason debut as an NFL guard, Skoronski isn't caught up in where he's playing so long as he is, in fact, playing.

"My real goal is just to be a great NFL player," Skoronski said. "I'd love to just be on the field if at all. Beggars can't be choosers I guess in that sense."

The Titans' preseason opener against the Chicago Bears on Saturday (noon, News Channel 2) represents a big moment for Skoronski for a few reasons. One, it's his first opportunity to play in the NFL. Two, it's his first opportunity to play guard in the NFL. And three, he's playing in friendly confines. Skoronski grew up and played high school and college football in the Chicago area and says he's been coordinating ticket requests with friends and family for months.

It's hard to call this a grand homecoming for Skoronski. He hasn't been in Nashville long enough to miss a Windy City winter. He's only been with the Titans for about as long as a college freshman would spend in the dorms before packing a few loads of laundry in the car and heading home for Thanksgiving dinner.

Instead of laundry, Skoronski's bringing a bus-load of offensive linemen home with him. Skoronski says he's in charge of sating their Thanksgiving-sized appetites by picking the restaurant for the linemen dinner Friday night.

Whether it's picking the perfect eatery or sliding inside to guard for the first time in his life, Skoronski has the same mission.

"I'm trying to be a great teammate," Skoronski said.

Why guard matters

Titans offensive line coach Jason Houghtaling says it wasn't hard to project Skoronski's skills at guard.

"You watch that tape from his college days at Northwestern," Houghtaling said. "When he gets his hands on people he can control them. That's the name of the game there. Just his physicality. Any of their in-the-box runs, he looked really comfortable climbing to second-level defenders, redirecting and all those things."

There's a stigma in football circles that guards are less important than tackles. And it's not hard to see why. Defensive ends and outside linebackers have always been the biggest threats to quarterbacks. So tackles, naturally, are most important for protecting passers. This is especially true of left tackles, since most quarterbacks are right handed and left tackles are tasked with preventing rushers from sneaking up on quarterbacks from behind.

From 2000-20, there were 76 tackles picked in the first round versus 35 guards and centers combined. Six guards and centers make at least $15 million per year compared to 22 tackles. If an offensive lineman wants to be picked higher or paid more, he's better off on the outside.

But times are changing. For nearly a decade, the league's most fearsome pass rusher has been Aaron Donald, a defensive tackle. And as a new generation of interior pass rushers like the Titans' Jeffery Simmons, the New York Jets' Quinnen Williams, the Washington Commanders' Daron Payne and the New York Giants' Dexter Lawrence are approaching their prime and earning big pay days, guards are only going to become more vital.

"Guys like Jeff are some of the best in the league at getting to the quarterback and stopping the pass game," Skoronski said. "That makes your job important. If they're paying the guy across from you, you better be good at it too."

Making the most of the preseason

The Titans' other guard, Daniel Brunskill, knows a thing or two about changing positions. He was a tight end until his senior year of college when he moved to tackle, and he's played center, guard and tackle as a pro. Unlike Skoronski, Brunskill was undrafted. He made his pro debut as an Atlanta Falcon in a preseason game against the Miami Dolphins in 2017, mostly playing as a reserve tackle.

To Brunskill, the challenge of playing your first preseason game is the immediacy of it all.

"They had told us the ones were going to go a certain amount and then all of the sudden the ones went like one drive and it was like 'Hey, go!'" Brunskill remembers. "You've got to go from zero to 100 right now and just kind of go out there and perform."

That type of urgency is what Brunskill is telling Skoronski and the other rookies to be prepared for. Football moves fast. One second you're on the bench. Another there's been a turnover so you're scrambling to find your mouthpiece before running out onto the field. Preseason simulates that at warp speed, with units cycling through and players trying new positions on nearly every drive.

Not that Skoronski's teammates are concerned about the first-rounder acclimating. Titans tackle Nicholas Petit-Frere, who is suspended the first six games of 2023 for violating the NFL's gambling policy, was in Skoronski's position last year: a former five-star recruit from the Big Ten thrust into starting as a rookie Day 1.

But Petit-Frere doesn't consider his situation and Skoronski's equal.

"Peter's in an even better position than me," Petit-Frere said. "He's coming in and he's really come out running."

HOW TYJAE SPEARS, REPAIRED KNEE AND
ALL, IS SPRINTING TO STARDOM WITH
TENNESSEE TITANS |
ESTES

BY GENTRY ESTES
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
SEPTEMBER 7, 2023

When the topic comes up, rookie running back Tyjae Spears extends his right leg instinctively, stretching out across the steps on which he's seated. As he does, a large scar becomes visible.

"Some dark times," he says, thinking back. "... I've been through a lot."

That scar says more than Spears will — or needs to — about his knee.

It's a part of his story that's already well-known. It's why some NFL teams reportedly removed him from their draft boards. It's why Spears felt the need to warn attendees at his event on Day 2 of the draft: "Pump the brakes. I don't want to see long faces at the end of the night if I don't get picked."

The knee is also why Spears once considered giving up football, the sport in which he's so immensely gifted that the Tennessee Titans took him in the third round anyway, turning Spears' draft gathering into a party that the bayou town of Ponchatoula, Louisiana (population just shy of 8,000) won't soon forget.

Now that Spears has made it out, he doesn't plan on going back.

"I guess what people consider their chip (on their shoulder), my chip is where I come from," Spears says. "I just can't go back to it."

He doesn't mean that as a slight on his upbringing or where he's from. He speaks with pride about his family, his eight siblings — five brothers, three sisters — and his parents who worked hard to make ends meet. And also about his hometown. Did you know, for instance, that Ponchatoula is the Strawberry Capital of the World? "We got the best strawberries in the world, man," Spears says.

It's not just the small town or "humble" beginnings (an adjective that can be a cliché, though Spears agrees with it). His ambition runs a lot deeper than that. Through the parts of his story that aren't as well-known, ones that collectively molded him into someone who understands how special the opportunity he has.

But, yeah, it's the knee, too.

"I didn't come from the worst place," Spears says, "but I didn't come from the best place. There's a lot of things that I went without. I just don't want to have those same feelings recycled again. As I get older in my life, I just don't want to go without anymore, and I don't want my kids to go without. ... I'm depending on myself, and I've got a dad and a mom depending on me, too. Also nephews and little cousins and nieces and all looking up to me.

"So if I stop now, if I quit now, I'm quitting not just on myself. I'm quitting on all of them."

Early steps with Tennessee Titans, Derrick Henry

Two ACL surgeries. Arthritis. After the Titans took Spears, NFL Network's Ian Rapoport told viewers that Spears lacked an ACL, leaving questions about whether he'd last past his first NFL contract. Colleague Daniel Jeremiah echoed, "He was not on every draft board, but nobody disputes how talented he is."

You can imagine, of course, how this struck Titans fans. A running back with a bum knee? In the third round? For the Titans? Who already had Derrick Henry? Who badly needed a wide receiver or tight end? And who, above all, had their roster obliterated by injuries for two seasons in a row?

The Titans did draft Spears out of Tulane as a complement to Henry — for now. Long-term, it's not reaching to believe that Spears is earmarked as Henry's replacement.

"Oh, he's a three-down runner," Titans general manager Ran Carthon assured during the draft. "He can run between the tackles. He's elusive. He can make guys miss as well as contribute in the passing game."

It's not unprecedented for a running back to excel with knee trouble. In 1991, the great Peter King documented for Sports Illustrated how most teams were scared of drafting Thurman Thomas before the Buffalo Bills took the risk in the second round, their owner Ralph Wilson telling GM Bill Polian, "Life's a gamble. Go ahead."

Thomas ran for 12,074 yards, caught 472 passes and totaled 88 touchdowns in 13 NFL regular seasons, and he did it — he said years later — with a torn ACL, according to NewYorkUpstate.com.

Obviously, it's way too early to compare Spears with a legend like Thomas. But this preseason showed Carthon's initial assessment to be correct, just as it has replaced concern about Spears' knee with anticipation for the explosiveness he'll add to the Titans' offense.

Spears ran for 117 yards on 22 carries (5.32 average) in three preseason games. That included an impressive 33-yard touchdown against the Vikings in which he leaped over a defender near the line of scrimmage and somehow never broke stride, sprinting untouched into the end zone.

"I know I can't do nothing like that," Henry said. "It's great to have a change-up and have a back that can be explosive. I know when he hit the ground, he took off."

After offseason practices this summer, Spears could often be seen catching passes from a machine.

He proved his toughness, too, with his willingness to pick up blocks in pass protection.

“A lot of times these fast, speed backs don’t want to really stick their face up in there on pass protection,” Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill said, “and he’s proven on multiple occasions that he’s willing and able to step up in there against a linebacker. ... I love Tyjae, man. I’m excited to have him on our team.”

That job at Wal-Mart

Tennessee Titans running back Tyjae Spears (32) chat with teammates during a joint practice with the Minnesota Vikings in Eagan, Minn., Thursday, Aug. 17, 2023.

The first time Spears hurt his knee was in high school. The second time, it was while scoring a touchdown early in the 2020 season for Tulane. And he realized it instantly. NOLA.com wrote that he crawled and tossed “his helmet off in frustration” before trainers made it to him.

Facing another lengthy ACL recovery, Spears started wondering whether he’d make it back to football.

“It was very difficult for him. It was difficult for all of us,” said Nicole Hart, Spears’ mother.

About that time, during the COVID-19 pandemic, he worked at Wal-Mart to make some extra money. The job entailed unloading delivery trucks. An 18-wheeler would arrive with, say, up to 3,000 items and “we had to take off every single piece,” he remembers. “That humbled me so much. I said, ‘Man, I’m going to do whatever I’ve got to do in football, because I do not want to work a real job.’”

“I think that job may have lasted a week, a week-and-a-half,” said Hart with a laugh.

“We don’t really realize that a lot of things really do happen for a reason,” she added. “In the midst of him going to get a job at Wal-Mart, maybe that was during a time when he was battling with, ‘Do I really want to play football? I just want to give up. I want to quit.’ Maybe he had to have that moment to see, ‘Man, this is not what I really want to do.’”

Spears made it back and rushed for 863 yards in 2021. Then in 2022, he had 1,581 rushing yards and 19 touchdowns in his final 14 games for the Green Wave, who went 12-2.

A stellar season for Spears was punctuated by an MVP performance in a Cotton Bowl victory over Southern Cal. He ran for 205 yards against the Trojans, making eight consecutive 100-yard performances for a player who’d jumped well on the radar entering the NFL draft.

There was one team in particular that Spears hoped was interested in him.

Back home for Titans-Saints

As fortune has it, Spears’ first regular-season game for the Titans will be Sunday against the New Orleans Saints.

In the Superdome. About 45 minutes from his hometown.

Yes, Spears grew up a Saints fan.

That made for a punch in the gut when, during the draft’s third round, the Saints had the No. 71 pick and used it to take a running back: Kendre Miller from TCU.

Spears had held up well in public all night. But after that, he went off to collect himself, and “in the middle of that is when he actually got the call” 10 picks later from the Titans, said Hart.

“The whole world could have put two and two together and figured out I wanted to go to the Saints,” Spears says. “I’m here in Tennessee, and I love it. I feel like things happen for a reason.”

Plenty of friends and family from Ponchatoula will be on hand for Sunday’s opener, but it still probably won’t be enough. So many want to be there that Spears jokes,

“I’m putting a limit on it. I’m buying 10 tickets. That’s all I’m buying. If I’m feeling good, I might get 15.”

It’s the first real taste of NFL stardom for Spears. There hasn’t been much to this point. Spears says he’s still able to go around Nashville without being bothered or noticed — and he knows enough to appreciate that. He once went to an event with Henry and saw how many people approached the Titans’ star for pictures and autographs. “Man, how do you do it?” Spears asked him. “That’s just what comes with it,” replied Henry.

“People still don’t know who I am,” Spears says. “So I can go and have fun with my family and friends and whoever else I want to take out, because nobody knows me. But is it going to be the same in six, seven months or a year?”

“I don’t think it’s going to be the same.”

ROOKIE RB TYJAE
SPEARS THANKFUL FOR HIS NFL OPPORTUNITY WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 22, 2023

NASHVILLE – The day after the NFL Draft, Tyjae Spears drove through the streets of New Orleans looking for Titans jerseys.

Spears had been selected by the team less than 24 hours earlier, and he wanted to represent his new squad at a party celebrating the development.

This week, Spears had his own team-issued jersey.

The former Tulane running back took part in rookie minicamp last weekend before joining veterans in the offseason program this week.

The Titans are scheduled to begin OTAs next week.

The 5-foot-11, 195-pound Spears looked good in the open rookie minicamp, catching a number of balls out of the backfield, and then showing off his speed – and moves – in space. He also had some nice runs after taking handoffs.

"It felt good," Spears said. "It's just a blessing to be a part of the team. It feels good, coming from where I came from. I am on an NFL team, and I am super-excited.

"All the guys I've encountered, they've been great. Every coach, they demand a lot out of you. It's a great organization, great people."

Spears, selected in the third round of the NFL Draft, ran for 1,581 yards and 19 touchdowns in 2022 for the Green Wave, averaging 6.9 yards per carry. He also caught 22 passes for 256 yards and two touchdowns. Spears had a big game in the Cotton Bowl against USC, when he ran for 202 yards and four touchdowns. He was named the Cotton Bowl MVP after the team's win.

In four college seasons, Spears ran for 2,910 yards and 31 touchdowns while also catching 48 passes for 564 yards and three scores. Spears was the 2022 American Athletic Conference Offensive Player of the Year, when he tied for the FBS lead with 21 scrimmage touchdowns.

Spears, whose locker is located right next to veteran running back Derrick Henry's locker, brushed off a number of questions about his health, specifically one his knees.

He made one thing clear:

"I feel perfectly fine – there ain't nothing wrong with me," Spears said. "I am healthy.

"I guess (my health) is a question that's always going to pop up, but I am here. And (the Titans) had a lot of faith in me to get me where they got me at. So, I am healthy and they know I am healthy."

Spears, who is from Ponchatoula, La., is fully aware he'll get to head back home to Louisiana when the Titans open the season on September 10 against the Saints.

He also knows a lot of work needs to be done between now and then, and he's just getting started.

"That is so far away," Spears said with a smile. "I am just taking it one day at a time."

Spears also knows he's thankful for the opportunity.

"Lately, I have been praying a lot," Spears added. "And the main thing I try to start and finish with is how thankful I am for being here, being a part of an NFL organization. Because I think back, and only two or three people where I am from got that opportunity. So, I am super blessed, and super appreciative."

TITANS PUNTER RYAN STONEHOUSE'S JERSEY AND CLEATS HEADED TO THE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME AFTER RECORD-BREAKING ROOKIE SEASON

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JANUARY 10, 2023

NASHVILLE – Titans punter Ryan Stonehouse set records during his rookie season.

Now, his jersey and cleats are set to make their way to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

The Titans on Tuesday are in the process of mailing memorabilia to Canton, Ohio, for a display after Stonehouse finished the 2022 season with a gross average of 53.10 yards per punt (90 punts for 4,779 yards). Stonehouse broke Sammy Baugh's single-season NFL record of 51.40 yards per punt, which was established in 1940 and was never matched among qualifiers (2.5 punts per team game) until Stonehouse's rookie campaign.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame contacted the Titans requesting items to commemorate his record-breaking season.

"It's surreal, honestly," Stonehouse said on Tuesday. "It's the last thing I was expecting. But it's such a cool honor. Going undrafted, and kind of having the odds against you, to be able to do something that hasn't been done for 80-something years, it is such a big honor to me. And to break it from a guy like Sammy Baugh, it's special."

Stonehouse, who made the team as an undrafted free agent from Colorado State, finished the 2022 season with a net punting average of 44.03 yards per punt, establishing a new NFL record for the highest net average by a rookie punter. He broke the record set by Indianapolis' Rigoberto Sanchez, who averaged 42.64 net yards per punt as a rookie in 2017.

Stonehouse said he'll work this offseason to be even better in 2023.

"I think this season had some highs, and I think managing those highs and trying to remain consistent was my main goal the whole time," Stonehouse said. "I felt like I did that a lot with my gross. Heading into next year I want to improve on some of the things I need to keep up in those highs, like the inside the 20 or the net average. Similarly, with how the gross went this year, I'd love to build that consistency."

"I think overall it was such a long rookie year for me, with the draft prep, and competing with Brett (Kern) in the preseason games. It flew by so quick, now that you reminisce on it. But it was such a cool way to start my career."

HOW TITANS QB RYAN TANNEHILL CONQUERED THE SKIES, FOUND SERENITY IN SUMMER FLIGHT SCHOOL

BY NICK SUSS
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
SEPTEMBER 6, 2023

Titans QB Ryan Tannehill poses in front of plane in summer 2023, the summer he earned his private pilot's license.

Nick Retterer needed an excuse.

It didn't have to be believable. He could've said he had a charley horse or remembered he left the stove on or had just gotten the shocking news he'd been cast as Marvel's next Spiderman. Whatever it was, he knew Ryan Tannehill was going to see through it.

So Retterer settled on a classic: From 1,000 feet in the sky in a low pattern over Nashville, Retterer told Tannehill he needed a bathroom break. So they descended from the heavens to the boring, old ground.

They landed. Retterer, Tannehill's flight instructor at Harmony Air, got out of the plane. His not-so-subtle ruse was a success.

"I say, 'You know what you're doing,'" Retterer recalled to The Tennessean. "'Watch your crosswind. Watch your traffic. I'm going to be up in the tower with you.'"

Thus began Tennessee Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill's first solo flight.

He sat on the runway for "probably like 20 minutes" before being cleared for takeoff. "You're kind of anxious at that point," Tannehill said. Retterer climbed the control tower, put on his headset and assumed the role of Tannehill's air traffic offensive coordinator. With his instructor in his ear, Tannehill soared.

It was just a couple of laps in a standard flight pattern. But for a veteran NFL quarterback trying to recapture prominence in 2023 — starting with Sunday's season-opener at the New Orleans Saints — Tannehill's first solo flight represented much more than a chance to see the earth from the perspective of the stars.

There, Tannehill found serenity.

How he became Flyin' Ryan Tannehill

Up, up the long, delirious burning blue

I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace

Where never lark or even eagle flew —

And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod

The untrampled sanctity of space

— Put out my hand, and touched the face of God

In those six lines from his 1941 poem "High Flight," Royal Canadian Air Force fighter pilot and poet John Gillespie Magee captured the exhilaration and peace of flying.

"You're enjoying beautiful scenery but at the same time you're kind of locked in on the task at hand," Tannehill explains. "So it's an escape in that regard. And I think an escape is important. Whether it's golf or flying or driving, everybody has something different. Especially if you want to be high-functioning at something, you have to have some sort of an escape to allow you to get away."

Ryan Tannehill poses with flight instructor Nick Retterer, who helped him earn his private pilot's license this summer.

Tannehill says he's always been interested in flight. For practical reasons. He and his wife Lauren like whisking their kids, Steele and Stella, on memorable vacations to remote locations. Flying to isolated Bahamian islands on small, so-called "puddle jumper" planes helped pique Tannehill's interest. So did a long conversation with the pilot who flew him to his surgery last winter.

Getting a private pilot's license became Tannehill's offseason project. Pro Football Hall of Famer and one-time Tennessee Titans offensive lineman Steve Hutchinson connected Tannehill with Retterer, who had handled Hutchinson's instrument training, an aviation certification that goes a step beyond getting a private license.

And in Tannehill, Retterer found the most willing and participative student he's ever taught.

"When this guy came in, he had an iPad with an Apple pencil, probably similar to what he's used to when he's playing, and he's just writing notes," Retterer said.

Retterer, who studied aviation at Middle Tennessee State, estimates it takes four hours of studying per night to zoom through flight school as quickly as Tannehill did.

The way Tannehill tells it, his first few months of 2023 were wall-to-wall booked. He'd go to the Titans facility in the mornings for rehab and physical therapy, followed by a weightlifting session. After that he'd head to John C. Tune Airport in Nashville and fly for a few hours, only to head home and hit the books again.

Coming off offseason ankle surgery — an injury had cut his 2022 season short — Tannehill had to pass a physical before he could start flying. Once he passed and got up in the air with Retterer in his SR22 Turbo Cirrus aircraft, though, he was gobsmacked.

"We get up in the air, a couple thousand feet off the ground, and he looks out the window and he said, 'Man, this is awesome!' " Retterer said. "He just started grinning and laughing like he just had a little kid get a toy or something like that."

The similarities are obvious

If anyone understands the similarities between football and flight, it's Chad Hennings. In the 1990s, Hennings won three Super Bowls as a defensive tackle for the Dallas Cowboys. Before that, he was a fighter pilot in the U.S. Air Force.

"Preparing for a mission, I would sit down with my wingmen," Hennings explained. "We would brief particular areas where we were going to deploy to. We would brief overall communications. We would brief how we were going to execute our specific mission which we were tasked with. What would happen if we were under emergency procedure? What our divert bases were. If the weather was bad. What if we had a mechanical malfunction, how were we going to communicate?"

"We would execute the mission and then when we would get back we would evaluate our bomb film or our film when we would be in the target area when we were executing and we would brief 'Hey, what did we do well, what did we not do well, how can we improve upon the mission?'"

The parallels between mission planning and game planning are so obvious they shouldn't need further explanation. It's teamwork. It's communication. It's being coachable and it's remembering your coaching. It's being so prepared for a pressure-packed situation that when the situation arrives the pressure doesn't even register.

Then there's the control tower aspect of it all. Tannehill likens the experience of talking to air traffic control to communicating with coaches, mixed with the added comfort of getting guidance from a trusted family member.

"I feel like sometimes you get on the tower at airports and it's kind of like the wild, wild west," Tannehill says. "You've got crop-dusters buzzing the tower and cutting the line and all that. But when you have ATC you feel kind of like you have a big brother looking out for you."

Retterer was happy to be Tannehill's play-caller, coach, big brother or whatever Tannehill needed. He's not a big sports fan himself. He knew who Tannehill was before they met but always looked at him like another student. Now he looks up at Tannehill's jerseys hanging in bars around town and casually tells his friends, "I know that guy." And his family.

Retterer was flying with Lauren, Tannehill's wife, recently. She described her husband as a beast. She said people like her husband don't get where they are by "going with the flow." His success is a product of his competitiveness, his drive, his precision. That's why Retterer says he has students who have spent 90% more time in the air than Tannehill who still haven't mastered flying the aircrafts Tannehill has.

And it's why Retterer says he thinks there's more to Tannehill's mastery of the skies than the similarities between flight and football let on.

"Aviation is a really rewarding experience because it's individual," Retterer says. "It's not a team experience. He's got that team experience and success. But (it's) the individual experience of when he gets up in the air he says, 'I can leave all that stuff behind and focus on the task at hand.'"

The quarterback in the skies

Derrick Henry might be Tannehill's wingman in the Titans' backfield. But he'll never be Tannehill's literal wingman.

"Oh no, I'm not going up there," Henry said. "I pray for him. I pray that he's safe. I feel like things are going well. But I won't be up there."

Titans quarterbacks coach Charles London has a little bit more of an open mind.

"He's supposed to be really good at it," London said. "He told me some of the flights that he's made. But I'm more of a ground guy."

Tannehill is decidedly not a ground guy. Not anymore. His longest voyage so far was a flight to Fort Lauderdale, Florida in a single-engine prop plane with an instructor at his side.

When it comes to speed, single-engine planes are more Tom Brady than Lamar Jackson. The flight spanned four-and-a-half hours. That's a long time for Tannehill to shrink his 6-foot-4 frame into a pilot's seat.

And an even longer time for something else.

"Kind of the limit is the bladder at that point," Tannehill said. "It's four-and-a-half hours. You can't stand up. You can't move. And there's no bathroom. So I was glad to finally land."

But what's a little bladder discomfort when Tannehill's achieved his goal? He was able to take Steele and Stella out on a few flights this summer. One trek was all it took for the kids to be as hooked as their old man.

Pilots-in-training are often taught a maneuver called the "steep turn." It goes like it sounds. In order to test how well a pilot can handle his or her plane in an emergency, steep turns involve turning the plane around at a 45-degree angle, often flipping the plane upside down like a loop-de-loop on a roller coaster so passengers can see straight down to the ground.

The Tannehill kids weren't fazed.

"I thought they might be a little scared of that, but they actually loved it," Tannehill said. "They were like, 'Do more steep turns! Do more steep turns!'"

The kids woke up the next morning with a simple request: "Daddy, can we go flying again?"

So the Tannehills kept adventuring. They went back out to The Bahamas this summer, this time with Tannehill able to fly to some of the remote islands himself. Retterer says he expects Tannehill to begin instrument training as soon as he has the time.

Tannehill has the bug. There's no cure for passion.

"He's out there now. He's got his license. He's flying places he probably never would've thought he would've flown in the beginning," Retterer said. "I think it's just as every pilot does. I don't look out and say, 'Man this is awesome,' just like I did the first time, but I'll tell you it never gets old. You're not supposed to be there. Human beings were never meant to fly. So I don't think it ever gets old."

RYAN TANNEHILL IS OLDEST OF FOOTBALL TENNESSEE TITANS, BUT HE 'DOESN'T HAVE A CANE YET'

*BY JULIAN BASENA
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 3, 2023*

In spite of his age and whatever concerns that came with his season-ending ankle injury in 2022, Ryan Tannehill feels great. In fact, he still feels young.

"I'm young at heart, I feel young and I don't have a cane yet," Tannehill said after Thursday's Titans practice — exactly a week after his 35th birthday.

For Tannehill, the Titans' oldest player, a youthful aura can be beneficial. The starting quarterback has reached a critical juncture in his career. Entering the final year of the four-year deal that brought him to Tennessee, he is at a point where his long-term future is in question.

While he is the presumptive starter for 2023, Tannehill is coming off a 2022 season that showed just how finite his time is as a Titan.

In just the second week of regular-season play, he threw two interceptions and was benched in favor of Malik Willis in the third quarter of a blowout against the Bills. Weeks later, he was sidelined again with an ankle injury that forced him to miss two consecutive games and the final three of the season.

When he was available, Tannehill didn't look his best, either, wavering through the season for a second straight year after resounding success in 2019 and 2020.

For the first time, age seemingly caught up to him, and it showed in his first losing season in Tennessee.

Willis and now Will Levis, who the Titans selected in April's draft, are poised to thrive as backups, but surely have their eyes on the starting spot if Tannehill regresses significantly or loses more time to injury.

Still, right now, Tannehill feels good. With a healthy body and a youthful spirit, he also seems self-assured that he will put together a strong contract year that will allow him to play beyond 2023.

"I feel really good," he said. "I'm thankful that I feel really good coming off of surgery last year ... I'm excited where I'm at physically."

DON'T LET THE SMILE FOOL YOU, TANNEHILL A SERIOUS COMPETITOR

THE TITANS QUARTERBACK LED THE NFL IN GAME-WINNING DRIVES AND FOURTH-QUARTER COMEBACKS DURING THE 2020 REGULAR SEASON.

BY IAN KAYANJA

Don't be fooled by quarterback Ryan Tannehill's even-keeled demeanor.

He's one of the fiercest competitors on any football field. Or so says his position coach.

"Make no mistake, he is ultra-competitive," Tennessee Titans quarterback coach Pat O'Hara said Tuesday. "Don't ever excuse his calm demeanor on the outside from being a fierce competitor. That is something about him that is very evident to me and his teammates."

Tannehill's competitive streak was on full display Sunday against the Houston Texans. With a division title at stake, he threw for 216 yards and tallied three touchdowns, two rushing and one passing.

With the game on the line, he connected with wide receiver A.J. Brown on a 51-yard pass that set up Sam Sloman's game-winning field goal as time expired.

"(It's) his calm demeanor on the outside and being a fierce competitor," O'Hara said. "He maintains that even-keel demeanor and that helps him in pressure situations like (Sunday)."

Tannehill is no stranger to the big moment. The events of this season leading up to the matchup with the Texans prepared him for his latest fourth-quarter flurry.

In the just-completed regular season, he led the NFL with five fourth-quarter comebacks and six game-winning drives in the fourth-quarter or overtime. In games decided by one possession, the Titans went 7-2.

The only Tennessee quarterback who has approached that level of late-game production was Vince Young. As a rookie in 2006, he led four fourth-quarter comebacks and five game-winning drives, both of which led the NFL that season.

Dating back to when Tannehill first took over as the starter, the Titans are 11-3 in games decided by one possession.

He's a closer. And much like a star relief pitcher in baseball, Tannehill looks forward to the high stakes moment where he can get his team out of a tight jam.

"I think it's fun," Tannehill said. "I get to do what I dreamed of doing as a kid. I love going out there on a Sunday and competing with guys that I love playing with. I love the competition of it

"... I love the game, all of it."

Tannehill's success can be attributed to his ability to avoid the emotional roller coaster that some ride throughout a game. He remains focused on the current task at hand, staying competitive.

And because of that, the Titans found ways to win in close games, in which the outcomes could have varied drastically.

"At the end of games, it's maintaining that calm demeanor, while also being ultra-competitive," O'Hara said.

With Tannehill under center last year, the Titans offense found a new life.

That unit went from being shut out by the Denver Broncos on Oct. 13, 2019 to scoring at least 20 points in the next 10 games and more than 30 in five of the final seven. That momentum carried over into the 2020 NFL season, which saw Tannehill throw for 3,819 yards and a career-high 33 touchdowns.

Tannehill and the Titans finished second in the NFL in average yards per game (396.4) and fourth in points per game average (30.7).

He's found freedom within Arthur Smith's system, and he's been seen smiling more on the field because of it.

"I've loved playing the game," Tannehill said. "I think about what I went through (with) injury, and then through what I went last year, I think I've grown a bigger appreciation for enjoying the moment."

A quarterback who isn't afraid of the big moments is a tremendous advantage in the NFL playoffs. Tannehill's late-game record proves that he can rise to the occasion, courtesy of an outsized competitive streak.

REXRODE: RYAN
TANNEHILL SHOWS HIMSELF TO BE AN NFL LEADER IN MORE THAN QB RATING

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
JUNE 11, 2020

Ryan Tannehill talks and two notions cross the mind, first that there can't be many quarterbacks in the NFL talking about racism in America like this, and second that Tannehill must be elevating himself as a leader in the Tennessee Titans locker room.

Oh, and a third: Where's this guy when we ask about football?

They're all artificial and miss the point, of course. We don't need to rank NFL quarterback social commentary, though it is nice to hear declarations stronger than "I stand with my teammates" in this time. Leadership is a day-to-day thing that Tannehill demonstrated deftly last season — even with Marcus Mariota still in the room — and yes, reactions from some of his teammates indicate his voice is appreciated. But this dwarfs that. And Tannehill has earned the right to an eyeroll-free press corps every time he utters "control what we can control" or "it's about improving every day in practice" during the 2020 season because of the way he has stepped up to the 2020 story.

This is the white, professional quarterback in Nashville, Tennessee, and he has the ability to reach a lot of people and the conviction to try even though he knows he'll lose some.

"I think the unfortunate thing about it is, if you're a white person you don't have to deal with (racism) on a daily basis and you're not put in those situations," Tannehill said in a Zoom call Wednesday with reporters, the first scheduled interviews with Titans players since the May 25 death of George Floyd at the hands of a Minneapolis Police officer inspired worldwide protests.

"It's easy to just go about your life and not recognize it and not realize how big of a deal it is, how many people it affects on a daily basis. I think with this push, I think more and more people are having an awakening to the reality of the situation and how deep it really is, how many layers of injustice there are to it with the court system, and policing, and just on a day-to-day basis. Like I said, there's so many layers to it. I think that just this push was kind of like the straw that broke the camel's back, right? It's been happening for far too long and finally got to the point where enough is enough."

And as for those who don't like what he has to say: "If there's people that want to push back and go the other direction, that's on them. I'm going to fight for what I believe is right and whatever else happens, happens."

And as for Roger Goodell's improved response to the powerful "Black Lives Matter" video involving several NFL stars and some NFL employees: "I don't know. We'll see where it really goes once this fall starts and things are a little bit different. I hope to think that things are different this time, that guys are going to be heard, that the movement is going to be continued and supported and helped out, but only time will tell."

And as for the league's history on this matter: "Just going back to (2016), the league tried to shut it down because it's trying to protect itself. I think it's to the point where, this time there's so much support that they couldn't do anything from it. The fact that they weren't proactive is disappointing, that they didn't jump on board initially is disappointing, just because, like I said, it's a universal thing that so many guys are affected by. Seems to be there's so much momentum going that millions of people want change and want it now. A little disappointing that it took that, but I guess better late than never, and hopefully that it can continue when games kick off."

OK, so Tannehill's still polite in ripping the league. But how many guys with his job are doing that at all? These aren't "let's stick together while I dodge discomfort as much as possible" responses. These are things Tannehill would not have said a few years ago. He admitted that Wednesday, too.

"I feel like if I would have known now what I knew back then, I probably would have been more vocal and supportive back then," he said. "Do I feel great about that, that I didn't jump fully on board and support initially? No. Do I wish I would have known more and been more supportive back in 2016? Yes, 100 percent, but we all make mistakes. We all have to live and learn and experience to grow, and I feel like I've done a lot of growing over the past four or five years."

So let's go back there, to 2016. Colin Kaepernick is in San Francisco, creating a movement and the backlash that will push him out of the NFL by kneeling during the national anthem to protest social injustice and police brutality. Tannehill is in Miami, throwing to Kenny Stills. Talking to him, too. These are conversations that someone like, say ... let's pick a random NFL quarterback ... Drew Brees may have benefited from having.

Stills, now with the Texans, has been living this, outspoken about it, though he's the son of a retired Marine who asked him not to protest. He told The Undeclared of kneeling in 2016 and through the Donald Trump-inflamed 2017 responses and beyond: "I decided if the league has an issue with us speaking up for our people, it's not a brand I want to be a part of. I had conversations with my agents that said I should wait (to protest). I said if I can't express myself, then I'm OK with not playing."

Here's what should happen before games in 2020: Players who feel compelled to protest should do so, and people should respect it, and the NFL should back off and live with angry fans and consider the possibility of new ones, and the discussion around all of it from media and others should not overshadow the issues that inspired the protests. The only thing we can count on is that Stills will kneel. He's also likely to continue serving extensively in the community, going on police ride-alongs and educating white teammates who seek him. Tannehill said Stills told him of an incident in which Stills and his father were pulled over by police and had "everything stripped out of the car for no reason" and strewn along the road.

"I can't imagine being put in that situation and having to deal with that," Tannehill said. "You hear stories like that and then (Stills) gave me a bunch of resources, books that were written, "(The) New Jim Crow," systematic oppression, systematic injustices. Then I just started digging more and more into it as time went on. You go from kind of being naïve to the situation because of the privilege, and my eyes kind of got opened to it. It was really kind of a shock for me. ... A protest has to be able to get attention, spark conversation and inspire change. I had to get past the fact that it wasn't about the flag, it wasn't about the anthem, it wasn't about our country. It was about the injustice and raising awareness and getting people's attention."

He got there. Maybe he can help get others there. It's good to see more white athletes stepping out on this. It's also worth pointing out, not that it should be necessary, that black athletes don't all relish participation at the same level.

The Titans made Kevin Byard and Rashaan Evans available Wednesday as well, and Byard said he supports the protests; doesn't want the message hijacked by more obsession with kneeling; looks forward to a conversation some day with his daughter and hopes "whether it's police brutality or just growing up being black in America, that conversation is a lot better than what it is right now."

Byard also said he's "not trying to run for office, just playing football" when asked about Goodell's response and future decisions, and when he was asked about Tannehill's willingness to speak out, he said: "I've always respected him since I first met him. That's one thing about me, I don't look at guys as race and all that stuff. ... The fact that he's speaking and using his voice to uplift others, black, white or different, whatever, it speaks volumes for his character."

Byard talked about empathy and education, too, and the melting pot "beauty of sports." At the core of this conversation, there's right and there's wrong, but everyone doesn't have to have the same tone or say the exact same things. Tannehill and Byard shared realness Wednesday, and that's as important as anything when you're trying to lead 50 people or maybe a whole bunch more than that.

AFTER A LONG AND WINDING ROAD TO THE NFL, TITANS DL TEAIR TART IS STILL SCRAPPING, AND HE WON'T STOP NOW

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
OCTOBER 4, 2022

NASHVILLE – Growing up in a big family, Titans defensive lineman Teair Tart had to fight for everything he got.

Tart, you see, is the second youngest of 11 children in his family.

"The oldest right now is 48, and the youngest, which is my little sister, is 23," the 25-year-old Tart said on a Zoom call on Tuesday. "It is a pretty big age-range. ... For the most part it was like a war zone – if you didn't eat first, you wasn't eating. But it was good having a large family, and it brought everybody together. We had to learn how to work, and to negotiate – imagine trying to get the TV remote. ... But it is good, man. I have three older brothers and the rest are sisters. It's a good family – I came from a basketball family."

After making it to the NFL after a long and winding journey, Tart is still scrapping.

He knows he busted his butt to get to the league, and he's not about to let up now.

"The key for me to get to this point is resilience," Tart said. "Just staying resilient and staying focused and knowing: If you just keep fighting, something good is going to come from it. You never have anything good coming from standing in one spot. So, just staying resilient and keeping working, and not giving up."

"This is a dream come true for me, having an opportunity to play in the NFL, playing at this level. I don't want anybody to ever feel like you can take this for granted."

Tart, in his third NFL season, has gotten a lot of attention this week after making one of the biggest plays in Sunday's game in Indianapolis, when he batted a pass by Colts quarterback Matt Ryan into the air before intercepting it, in the team's 24-17 win over the Colts.

Tart's play made the highlights on all the national TV shows, and the 6-foot-2, 304-pounder has been celebrated in the building.

In the locker room at Lucas Oil Stadium after the game, Tart clutched the football with both hands.

"It's been pretty funny – I'm getting some jokes from the DBs, some of my teammates, about me break-dancing on my head," Tart said. "So, it's been fun and cool, finding other ways to impact the game."

Tart's road to the NFL wasn't an easy one.

Growing up in Philadelphia, Tart played two years of high school basketball at Palmer Leadership Learning Partners Charter School — a school that did not have a football program. Then, prior to his junior year, West Philadelphia High School's defensive coordinator, Karl Patrick, saw Tart playing in a basketball tournament and eventually convinced him to transfer and begin playing football for the first time in his life.

Two years later, Tart continued his football career at ASA College in New York, but he left six games into his first season after an older brother, Rasheed Spencer, was tragically killed in a motorcycle accident. Tart then went to Valley Forge (Pa.) Military Academy, followed by stops at East Mississippi Community College and Ellsworth (Iowa) Community College before landing at Florida International, where he played two seasons.

After going undrafted, the Titans signed Tart as an undrafted free agent in 2020.

In his first three NFL seasons, Tart has played in 22 games, with 15 starts. He's been credited with 28 tackles, four tackles for a loss, 10 quarterback pressures and now the interception.

Tart has started all four games for the Titans this season on the defensive line and he's been credited with seven tackles, five quarterback pressures and the interception.

He's regained a big spot on the team's defensive line.

"The biggest thing for me this offseason was not taking anything for granted," Tart said. "At one point you can feel like you're at the top of the world, the next minute everything can be gone. Coming into this season I just wanted to improve on every little detail that I could to be a student of the game."

"(Coaches) tell me never to get satisfied, and never to get comfortable. After every game I talk to the coaches, and they tell me what I need to work on. You can never be satisfied or be content."

BLOODY NOSE, BROKEN BACK: MIKE VRABEL BRINGS TOUGHNESS TO HALLS OF FAME,
BROWNS VS. TITANS

BY NATE ULRICH
AKRON BEACON JOURNAL
SEPTEMBER 20, 2023

Mike Vrabel shares memories of a back injury creating a "pretty traumatic" experience and a proverbial fork in the road during his Walsh Jesuit High School football days

What is work like for members of the Tennessee Titans who play for Vrabel? Two guys with Browns connections, Jack Conklin and Joshua Dobbs, share insight about the NFL coach who was born in Akron

Former Walsh coach Gerry Rardin and former NFL defensive coordinator Dean Pees remember Vrabel as a player and how his behavior back then foreshadowed a future in coaching

Mike Vrabel jumped into a scuffle among Tennessee Titans players, pushing and shoving to prove a point as the franchise's new head coach.

"He's yelling at the same time, teaching them, 'You do this in the game, it's a penalty!' And as he's doing it, he's knocking them around. He's right in the middle of it," said Gerry Rardin, Vrabel's former Walsh Jesuit High School football coach.

"I'm thinking, 'Holy cow! He's not only teaching the lesson, but he's teaching them the lesson physically.' That's just the way he does it. He's going to be hands on. He's going to walk the walk."

The scene Rardin recalled from his visit to Titans organized team activities in 2018 wasn't a rare instance of Vrabel mixing it up with players as if he were still a famed New England Patriots defender, special teamer and part-time tight end.

"I remember from the first day of OTAs him coming in and jacking offensive linemen," said Browns right tackle Jack Conklin, a member of the Titans during Vrabel's first two seasons at the helm in Tennessee. "We're doing drills, and he's in there as the defender trying to give looks and in the middle of it all. I remember him getting bloody noses and him getting hit in the face."

Tennessee Titans coach Mike Vrabel tries to punch the ball out the hands of running back Hassan Haskins during the team's OTA practices May 23 in Nashville, Tenn.

It's not like Vrabel borrows a helmet when he does this.

"No, he'd just jump in there, flip his hat backwards and take a shot in the face," Conklin said. "But he didn't care. He'd tell you, 'Good.'"

This fall, Vrabel will bring his intense brand of toughness to two halls of fames and a matchup with the Browns.

The former NFL linebacker who's in his sixth season as Titans coach will be inducted into the Summit County Sports Hall of Fame on Oct. 3 and the Patriots Hall of Fame on Oct. 21.

"A lot of great people from Northeast Ohio, a lot of great athletes, so it's pretty cool," Vrabel told the Beacon Journal by phone last month.

Before Vrabel is honored, his Titans (1-1) will face the Browns (1-1) on Sunday in Cleveland.

Tennessee Titans coach Mike Vrabel attended last Cleveland Browns game before the team moved to Baltimore and became the Ravens

Vrabel's all-time record against the Browns is 9-4, including 4-1 in Cleveland. As a player, he went 6-3, including 2-1 at Cleveland Browns Stadium. As a coach, he's 3-1 versus the Browns, including 1-1 as Titans boss and 2-0 on Cleveland's lakefront.

Unlike some coaches who downplay the personal significance of a homecoming game, Vrabel said clashing with the Browns is indeed special to him.

"Yeah, I grew up a Browns fan," Vrabel said. "My first NFL game with my dad was in the Dawg Pound and was at Municipal Stadium for the last game [in 1995 before the team moved to Baltimore].

"[Fans] were taking the rows of chairs off and throwing them onto the field. ... I grew up wearing the dog bones and all that other stuff, just because football was popular and important where I grew up."

Walsh Jesuit High School graduate Mike Vrabel holds up a name tag as he poses for a portrait on June 3, 1992.

Vrabel, 48, was born at Akron City Hospital and said he lived in Springfield Township until he moved in middle school to Stow with his parents, Chuck and Elaine.

At Walsh, Vrabel became a standout in football, basketball and track and field — he threw shot put and discus — before starring as a two-time All-America defensive end at Ohio State and playing 14 NFL seasons for the Pittsburgh Steelers (1997-2000), Patriots (2001-08) and Kansas City Chiefs (2009-10).

How a back injury Mike Vrabel suffered as a student at Walsh Jesuit High School threatened his football career

The journey wasn't always smooth. Vrabel encountered a proverbial fork in the road the summer before his junior year of high school.

Excruciating back pain sent Vrabel to two doctors who said his football career should have ended.

Determined to exhaust all options, Vrabel went to a third doctor, a back specialist at the Cleveland Clinic, who concluded he could continue to play if he wore a brace and rehabilitated the injury.

"I was like, 'Thank God!' Finally, I went to enough doctors," Vrabel said.

What was the issue? Vrabel said he had suffered "stress fractures in the fourth and fifth lumbar." He conceded the experience was "pretty traumatic" until the back specialist cleared him to play again.

"Then it was like, 'OK. It's not going to be the end of the world. This is what we're going to do — get fitted for a brace, go from there,'" Vrabel said. "The brace was crazy. It was from my upper chest down below my waistline, so they kept me literally straight up and down."

As a Walsh junior, Vrabel played defensive end, linebacker and tight end standing up. As a senior, he shed the brace and returned to a three-point stance.

"It just kind of shows the perseverance this guy has," Rardin said. "I think a lot of people could have given up at that time. But that [third] doctor gave him hope, and he said, 'I'm taking it.' He ran with it."

Vrabel's version of how he initially detected the back problem provides a glimpse into his ruthless sense of humor. The discovery occurred while he ran laps as punishment for arriving late to two-a-day practices with some of his teammates.

"Did Gerry tell you when he made me run around, made me run laps when I was like, 'My back's killing me?'" Vrabel said. "He was like, 'Keep running.'

"Then I found out I had stress fractures, and poor Gerry wanted to, like, you know, kill himself because he felt terrible. I always hold it over his head. I was like, 'Remember when you tried to ruin my career by making me run for 40 minutes around the fields?'"

New England Patriots coach Bill Belichick isn't immune to Mike Vrabel jokes

Vrabel is almost always busting someone's chops. His players are frequent targets, and even Bill Belichick is not safe, according to a tale Rardin said he has heard about Vrabel unveiling an impersonation of Belichick during a Patriots practice and drawing laughter from the stern coaching legend.

"It's like cynical humor," said Arizona Cardinals quarterback Joshua Dobbs, a former member of the Browns who started two games for the Titans last season. "He's going to throw some jabs, but he expects you to throw some jabs back."

With Vrabel, Conklin said "you've got to be on your game" when it comes to trash talk.

"He'll either hit you with something you've got to improve on for practice and be all in your face, or it's a joke," Conklin added. "So you never know what you're going to get, but you've always got to be on guard because he's just full energy."

Conklin can't help but chuckle about Vrabel's wife, Jennifer, catching the youngest of the couple's two sons, Carter, chewing tobacco and then punishing the family patriarch because his habit had set the example.

"Vrabel had to quit chewing tobacco," Conklin said. "So he started smoking cigarettes outside the [Titans] training room every morning — every morning."

Rardin accepted an invitation from Vrabel to hang out at Titans headquarters shortly after the latter had secured his first head coaching job. Rardin observed Vrabel's knack for being personable but simultaneously commanding respect.

"He doesn't have to act like the hard ass every second, but everybody knows he is," Rardin said.

On another serious note, Vrabel revealed the back discomfort caused by the stress fractures he suffered in high school never vanished.

"It bothered me throughout my career," he said.

Mike Vrabel had the traits of a perfect NFL defender, former New England Patriots assistant coach Dean Pees says

Adversity shaping Vrabel as a teenager in Summit County is fitting because of what the area represents to many who hail from it.

"There's an importance on, I think, some toughness and hard work," Vrabel said.

Former Patriots assistant Dean Pees said Vrabel "was a perfect defensive player" because he possessed loads of the four ingredients Pees seeks in defenders: Physical toughness, mental toughness, intelligence and work ethic.

Those traits allowed Vrabel to become a three-time Super Bowl champion (2001, 2003, 2004 seasons) and a Pro Bowl and first-team All-Pro selection (2007) with the Patriots after he spent his first four professional seasons as a backup with the Steelers, who drafted him in the third round (91st overall) out of Ohio State in 1997.

Vrabel started 140 of his 206 career regular-season games and compiled 762 tackles with 57 sacks, 11 interceptions, 19 forced fumbles and nine fumble recoveries. He started 18 of his 20 playoff games, registering 88 tackles with nine sacks, three forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries.

As a tight end in goal-line situations, Vrabel established himself as a go-to target of former Patriots quarterback Tom Brady. In the regular season and postseason combined, Vrabel caught 12 passes — all for touchdowns. Ten were with the Patriots (he had TD receptions in back-to-back Super Bowl victories) and two others with the Chiefs.

“There is nobody that is better than Mike Vrabel,” Pees said. “He was tough — physically tough — and he was mentally tough. And the thing is, he was as hard a worker as I’ve ever seen. He’s in the top shelf of smartest players I have ever, ever coached.”

How Mike Vrabel playing with Ohio State Buckeyes, New England Patriots, Pittsburgh Steelers, Kansas City Chiefs translated to coaching

Pees has a long history with Vrabel. After serving as the head coach at Kent State University for six seasons, Pees entered the NFL in 2004 as a linebackers coach with the Patriots and became their defensive coordinator two years later.

Pees reunited with Vrabel by working for his former pupil as the Titans’ defensive coordinator from 2018-19. In the second of those two seasons, the Titans advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

Former Ohio State defensive end Mike Vrabel hits the sled one last time during the annual Senior Tackle pep rally on the eve of the Buckeye’s game against Michigan.

At the time, Vrabel was a second-year head coach who had ascended from an Ohio State assistant (2011-13) to a Houston Texans linebackers coach (2014-16) to the Texans’ defensive coordinator (2017).

From Pees’ vantage point, increased power and pressure didn’t affect Vrabel. Pees said he’s seen other coaches undergo personality changes with promotions.

“He’s the same guy, and so, to me, that’s what makes head coaches successful,” Pees said. “They are who they are. Belichick, [Steelers coach Mike] Tomlin, those guys are the same guys all the time.”

The leadership abilities Vrabel demonstrated as a player, Pees said, foreshadowed the coach he would become.

Pees explained Vrabel policed New England’s linebacking corps after a highly touted rookie repeatedly ignored a coaching tip and acted as if “he had a little bit of an attitude” during position group meetings.

“I’m ready to go after this guy, and so bottom line is I start in on him,” Pees said. “Vrabel stands up and says, ‘Coach, don’t worry about it. Go on with the meeting. Teach us what you need to teach us. We’ll take care of it.’”

“I don’t know what all the linebackers did, but that kid was a different kid after that day. I know they didn’t do anything physically to him, but I think they told him, ‘This is not how we’re going to do things here.’ But that told you right there about Mike Vrabel’s leadership.”

Rardin was stunned when former Ohio State assistant Fred Pagac visited a Walsh practice before Vrabel’s sophomore season and predicted he would become an NFL player. The declaration didn’t seem as bold by the time Vrabel was named the Beacon Journal Player of the Year after his senior season in 1992.

There was another notable revelation during Vrabel’s high school days. When Vrabel would sit in Rardin’s office with his feet atop a desk and discuss strategy for an upcoming game, everyone knew he was coaching material. Rardin visited Ohio State during Vrabel’s freshman season and saw the same routine unfold in coach John Cooper’s office.

Vrabel’s parents were administrators at several local schools. His father played basketball at Copley and the University of Akron before coaching hoops at Norton.

“I was always around the team,” Vrabel said. “I was an only child. I will always say this: When you’re an only child and your parents both work, you end up being spoiled — you had nice things. But I also was taught what the value of hard work was and also how important it was to be a part of a team.”

This is how Mike Vrabel has fared while coaching the Tennessee Titans against his hometown Cleveland Browns

As coach of the Titans, Vrabel’s record is 51-38, including 2-3 in the playoffs. He was voted the 2021 Associated Press NFL Coach of the Year a season after the Browns’ Kevin Stefanski received the same award. The last time the Titans and Browns met, Cleveland prevailed 41-35 on Dec. 6, 2020, in Nashville.

The previous season, the Titans had wrecked the head coaching debut of Freddie Kitchens by rolling to a 43-13 win on Sept. 8, 2019, in Cleveland. The Browns finished with 18 penalties for 182 yards and could have used a coach who would blast them with the dangers of lacking discipline.

The Titans meet during the season for what they call “mental Thursday,” Dobbs said. Vrabel calls out individuals from every part of the depth chart and quizzes them about their responsibilities on a given play.

Vrabel holds players accountable and dishes out tough love, but he celebrates and encourages them, too.

“He’ll be that guy in the middle of the circle hyping guys up, outside the locker room congratulating guys or picking up guys for support after a tough loss, which is very unique to see,” Dobbs said. “But I think it goes back to he’s been in those moments as a player.”

“Through all of his antics and everything, I think that’s just his way of showing that he does care about you,” Conklin added. “He wants to get the most out of guys, and he’s going to push you. But in his heart, it’s ‘cause he cares about you and he wants you to do well.”

Vrabel also wants his players to talk about being “great” when they are in the Titans’ training facility, no matter how they're feeling in the moment.

“There's something about speaking it into existence,” Conklin said.

Vrabel's greatness has granted him entry this year into two halls of fame, including one in a community where he was steeled for life in the NFL.

Here is ticket information for the Summit County Sports Hall of Fame's upcoming induction ceremony and banquet

The 65th Summit County Sports Hall of Fame induction ceremony and banquet will be held Oct. 3 at the Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church, 129 S. Union Street, in Akron. A social/cocktail hour is scheduled to run from 5:30-6:30 p.m. The program and dinner will start at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets can be bought online at akronroundtable.org. Tickets for adults are $55. Tickets for children 12 and younger are $25. Patron tickets, which include dinner and the purchaser's name listed in the banquet program, are $80.

In addition to Vrabel, Jim Braccio, Andy Daniels, Jessica Jenson Starcher, Mike Morrow, Sean Robbins, Stan Stammen, Mark Steinkerchner and Mary Varga Stupczy will be inducted.

The Rev. Ronald Fowler will receive the Andy Palich Memorial Service Award. Glenda Buchanan will receive the Ed Kalail Volunteer Award.

MIKE VRABEL IS BECOMING A COACHING LEGEND—THROUGH HIS YELLS AND HIS HUGS

BY KEVIN CLARK
THE RINGER
AUGUST 31, 2023

In 2020, Ben Jones, the Tennessee Titans' longtime center, would wake up at 5:30 in the morning with a text already waiting for him. It'd be a screen grab of Peloton cycling stats and a message saying, "Beat that, fat boy."

There are hundreds of little reasons why players buy into Tennessee head coach Mike Vrabel—that's why I went to Nashville this summer to do a story on him. Jones, for instance, told me that Vrabel has long trusted him to be a leader in the locker room, challenging and empowering him to be one; that the veteran coach taught him that a nose tackle playing with more width can be a tell that the defense is in zone coverage. And also that Vrabel occasionally sends texts like "Beat that, fat boy." You can't tell one part of the story without the other. It's all connected. "You always have to make sure you are on top of your game, because he's an asshole," Rodney Harrison, Vrabel's former teammate and now an analyst at NBC, said. "He's a good asshole. I love him. He is one of the best assholes I know."

Vrabel is a 48-year-old former All-Pro defender who's entering his sixth season coaching in Tennessee. He has snagged an NFL Coach of the Year award, won nearly 60 percent of his games, and made the playoffs three times in five seasons—once getting all the way to the AFC championship—despite never having what most would consider an elite roster. He has traversed multiple eras of football—from brutal Steelers and Patriots training camps as a player in the late '90s and early 2000s, to more modern practice setups—and has blended that wide-ranging football education together to create his own style. He is equal parts hardass and empath. He cares deeply about his players, but he also cares deeply about getting his point across.

Longtime Titans tight end Delanie Walker played against Vrabel in 2010, during the then-linebacker's last year in the league, and he noticed something strange. Vrabel was coaching Walker—or some version of coaching. "He'd help you out," Walker said. "He'd say, 'You better change that stance up, I know it's a pass. You're giving away your technique,' or [talk about] the way I was looking at the line." So eight years later, Walker immediately bought in when Vrabel became his head coach on the Titans.

What Walker noticed first was that Vrabel would air him out in a way most coaches wouldn't to an established veteran. Walker dropped a pass in practice early into Vrabel's tenure and the video was replayed during a meeting. "We don't pay you that much money to drop passes, do we?" Vrabel said. This type of biting sarcasm propels most Vrabel meetings. Harrison remembers Vrabel deadpanning things like, "Still didn't know it was Cover 3, Asante? Still messing up that call, Willie?" to bust chops during Patriots defensive meetings, and he has not changed his approach in the two decades since. Walker learned to love this. "If a coach cusses you out, yells at you, that means he likes you. He wants you to be great," Walker said. "If you can't take coaching to be great, we don't need you."

Vrabel's lack of filter when it comes to football, and his habit of jumping into drills himself, creates a physical, intense practice where you can find basically the entire gamut of human emotions. "Mike is the guy manning a .50 caliber on top of a Humvee or a Bradley and still barking out competent orders," Falcons head coach Arthur Smith, a former Titans offensive coordinator, said of those practices. "That's what I love about him. There is no gray area. If you're sensitive, it is not for you."

I'd thought about doing a Vrabel story ever since I saw a clip from a Raw Room podcast in which Walker and former teammate Daren Bates told a story about ex-defensive lineman Kevin Dodd getting kicked out of a team meeting, and eventually off the team altogether, after an exchange with Vrabel. Walker's summary of Vrabel's intense approach to coaching his players was, it appears, spot-on: "Vrabel is the type of dude to be like, 'I'll fight you, I don't care if you play football; let's go. And I'll coach you right after I fight you.'"

Now let's be clear, Vrabel is not literally fighting players. It just seems like it at times because, well, things can get heated in practice. Then things calm down. "There are no fucking grudges," Vrabel told me. "There's a mistake, an argument, a disagreement, whatever happens. In relationships that I have, I'm moving on. We don't have time to sit there and dwell on what happened. I gotta do my job."

Vrabel believes that in order to get through to players, he needs to do two things: teach them correctly, and show them that what he's holding them accountable for is worth it. "Help them become a better player, which in turn is going to help their family make more money," Vrabel told me of his philosophy. "This is professional sports. We can all say we want to do it for the love of the game. But we also do it to support our families. It's a tough road to playing professional sports, especially football, so there's got to be some of that."

Vrabel said he'll get through to some players by reminding them that if they take care of their body, they'll have a better chance to eventually reach free agency and get a payday. The instructions are simple: This will be hard, but lucrative. "Work on your conditioning, which means you can play for snaps, and then make more plays, which in turn is going to mean someone—whether it's us or somebody else—is going to compensate you accordingly," Vrabel said.

Safety Amani Hooker said Vrabel will explain in granular detail how one shift in technique can change a career. “Everyone is athletic and can jump,” Hooker said of one of Vrabel’s lessons. “The difference between making a play and missing a play is, ‘Are you going to stab when the ball is coming, or are you going to swat and miss the ball?’”

Offensive lineman Aaron Brewer said he was struggling with the two-hand punch technique and driving down on opponents as a rookie, and that Vrabel practiced it with him, hand in the dirt, in the trenches, “many, many times. He got after my ass,” Brewer said. That’s his way, Brewer explained, of showing love.

Wide receiver Nick Westbrook-Ikhine said he was surprised the first time Vrabel jumped into a drill—a punt-block drill, to be exact. “He’s still got it,” Westbrook-Ikhine said. Westbrook-Ikhine was rushing off the edge. Vrabel was in protection. “I was not expecting that stout of a figure. I almost slipped,” Westbrook-Ikhine said.

Defensive tackle Teair Tart said that after his first Vrabel practice he felt: “Horrified.” Actually, maybe horrified isn’t the right word. “But it just felt intense. Direct. He knew what he wanted,” Tart said. Eventually Vrabel was in drills with Tart teaching him how to match his hands with the pad level or pushing from the inside out. Vrabel won him over, Tart said, by “being himself. Period.” That seems to be the whole point.

There is a cliché that great players do not become great coaches, that they lack the ability to teach what was innate to them. Vrabel cuts me off before I can even get the question out. “I don’t think I was a great player,” Vrabel said. “I think I was an above-average player that figured it out. I wasn’t a great, great player.” There is some evidence of this. The stories of future Hall of Fame tackle Orlando Pace dominating Vrabel during their Ohio State practices are legendary. “It was a fucking joke. There’s nobody been ever better than that guy. Fucking joke,” Vrabel said of those matchups. “I mean, just crazy.”

But the truth of the matter is Vrabel was an NFL All-Pro selection in 2007 and an anchor of some of the most successful defenses of all time in New England. His friend, Wisconsin head coach Luke Fickell, said he recently talked to his team about a “buddy who was not a great athlete but he was a great player.” Fickell believes there’s a threshold of talent needed for football intellect and preparation to be able to thrive on the biggest stage, and that Vrabel passed it. Then Vrabel took it from there. “I always say, God is fair, and when he gives you one thing he doesn’t give you the other,” Fickell said. “He made the ultimate balance when he gave Mike enough ability but with these unique attributes that will make you incredibly successful in whatever you do.” Vrabel has said that as a coach he doesn’t want to rely on talent, even if his teams have it—he wants to rely on fundamentals and technique to raise the team’s floor, which feels like an on-the-nose assessment of how his career played out.

Fickell said Vrabel has had the same ethos for at least three decades. “He was 18 years old and you’d say, ‘What did you think of that?’ and he’d say, ‘I think it sucks.’” This, Fickell said, was rare at an age when most people just agreed with their friends. “It wasn’t always popular, that’s why he wasn’t elected captain [at Ohio State]. But if you looked at it, he was the leader. If a guy couldn’t make his runs it wasn’t like, ‘Hey are you OK?’ It’s like, ‘No man, we’re counting on you, your ass is going.’”

Fickell believes we’re in an age when a lot of leaders just sort of steal the style of others. For instance, a lot of people watch The Last Dance and might say of Michael Jordan, “Oh, he was a leader and he was a prick and he would call people out and that’s what I’m gonna be,” Fickell says. “But no. You have to be yourself.” That, of course, is what’s happening in Tennessee.

It started with Jadeveon Clowney. Vrabel started coaching under Fickell at Ohio State in 2011. And there Vrabel figured out quickly that he needed to dramatically improve his teaching skills, doing less telling—look at how Tedy Bruschi or Tamba Hali played this, etc.—and doing more actual coaching. Then, when he started as the linebackers coach for the Texans in 2014, working with then-rookie pass rusher Clowney, he figured out that there are multiple ways to connect with players. “My first [camp] in New England, we did 10 straight two-a-days,” Vrabel said. “You didn’t have to have a week off, you didn’t have to have a day off after the fucking fifth or sixth day. Two guys quit. Two starting guards quit on that Super Bowl team. It was different. That’s not a complaint. I’m trying to always adapt and adjust.”

When he started to coach Clowney, he realized Clowney wanted to be coached from home, and that Vrabel could coach from his office. “You wanted him to respond to a text message, send him a video clip and start explaining and coaching him whether it was good or bad or a little detail that needed to get fixed or he did something we had been working on,” Vrabel said. “You’d get an immediate response and it’s, ‘OK, this is what these guys like, they like to see themselves, they like to watch it on their phone or whatever it may be.’” This, along with having two young sons at the time, got the coach to adjust even more.

Vrabel starts his sixth, and perhaps his most interesting, season as a head coach in less than two weeks. So all of these adjustments and adaptations will be crucial. The Titans are working to develop new quarterbacks like 2023 second-round pick Will Levis and 2022 third-round pick Malik Willis. The team also has a younger than normal roster, and a new general manager in Ran Carthon. Vrabel will need every trick he’s ever learned.

Fortunately, one thing that comes up when you talk to players about Vrabel is his command of every position. He does not limit himself to one position of expertise or even one side of the ball. “He knows their checks and our checks,” safety Kevin Byard said of practices. Ben Jones said Vrabel has meetings on Fridays where he teaches football at large, maybe even a little history, instead of one scheme or focus. What Vrabel wants is the ability to have a functional conversation with every player on his team about what that player’s being taught. “So I can go into a receiver room and talk about a release or talk about a coverage from a defensive standpoint, or settling down versus a trap corner,” Vrabel said. “It’s about easy connections. I cannot have a 30-minute conversation with 90 guys in camp right now, right? But I can go into every meeting room, be seen and I can talk in front of the team meeting about all the plays that come up and some of the details that our position coaches are teaching.”

Vrabel’s journey to understand as many schemes as he could started by playing many roles and in many complicated defenses. As a rookie in Pittsburgh, “3-4, blitzing fucking everywhere,” Vrabel said. Defensive coordinator Jim Haslett would introduce a blitz and they’d be out practicing it two hours later. His time with Bill Belichick only accelerated that. Hell, Vrabel caught 10 touchdowns as a spare tight end with the Patriots. In New England, he also learned about preparation, and size and speed requirements at different positions. Because of his varied football education, he does not exclusively subscribe to any particular scheme. Smith said this is one of the major things he loved about working for Vrabel—how flexible his mind is.

Vrabel told me he believes there are a few non-negotiables to winning: You have to protect the football, affect the other team’s quarterback, and be efficient throwing the football. And be great in situational football: Almost 60 percent of games are decided by eight points or less, and a similar number are won in the last two minutes of the fourth quarter or in overtime. Beyond that, he’s up for more or less anything.

He also believes, Jones said, in individually motivating players. “I came to work every single day and being on that field, being in that locker room, being in a meeting meant something to me,” Jones explained. “So he knew all he had to say is, ‘Hey, you’re not in it, what’s going on?’ He’s questioning my all-in, where my mind was, [why] you’re not bringing the juice,’ because he knew how bad I wanted to win that championship.” All Vrabel needed to tell Jones—and he often did—was it was hot and Jones should pack it up as an old man. Jones was locked in from there.

“And once you’re one of his guys, he trusts you and then you can bring other guys along with you,” Jones said. “As a leader you had to earn it every day. We have a unique relationship. We would be in each other’s face because I don’t want to come out for a rep, then I’d hit him with a pie for his birthday.”

Jones told me the story behind a now-viral clip of a tunnel hug between the two last year in which Vrabel can be heard saying, “I’ve never seen anything like it,” while getting emotional. Jones said Vrabel knew how hurt Jones was—in that game alone he was battling a stomach flu, torn MCL, and a high ankle sprain. Jones badly wanted to stay in the game and let Derrick Henry finish things off by running out the clock in a four-minute drill. His reasoning was simple: Jones was in Year 11 and “the next oldest guy was in like Year 4. So I wanted to make sure those guys knew I wasn’t going to leave them out to dry. I’m here for you. So I was just trying to be that guy for him. And Mike knew how bad I was hurting and what I was going through that day. He was just—it’s just one of those moments where everything happened.”

But crying is the exception for Vrabel, not the norm. Normally, he’s talking shit to everyone on the practice field. “Saying, ‘We did this when we won a Super Bowl,’” Jones said to describe Vrabel’s mixture of humble brags and just outright brags. “He’ll say, ‘Oh I used to take all the defensive reps, then turn around and play scout team safety,’” and I’d say, ‘Did you take 100 snaps a day, old man? There’s no way you took all those reps.’”

Unfortunately for Jones and the other players who like to needle Vrabel back, his stories are mostly true. “He loved practicing on the scout team. He loved it. Loved it!” Harrison said. “He didn’t care if he had to be Ed Reed, the free safety, Ray Lewis, middle linebacker, or one of the great defensive ends, he would play that role. I was a great practice player and I’m like, ‘Look at this dude. He’s out running special teams, starting defense, nickel, goal line and he’s playing scout team defense. That is phenomenal.’” This simply didn’t happen in the NFL, Harrison said. “He’s running R3 [position] on kickoff running down and it’s 90 degrees, full speed, juking guys, tagging off on the runner inside the 20, and he’s celebrating like he had three sacks. It was just so important to him.”

It is still important to Vrabel, of course. But this season, he’s once again looking for the thing he’s always looking for. One time, he said, an opposing coach told him after a game that his team played their asses off. “It was the greatest feeling in the world,” Vrabel said. “It’ll be the best compliment I ever get. Not that we had a good play or a cool blitz. That we played our asses off. That’s all I need.” That and some Peloton wins, I guess

VRABEL VOTED INTO PATRIOTS HALL OF FAME

BY JIM WYATT

MAY 4, 2023

NASHVILLE – Titans head coach Mike Vrabel has earned some pretty nice recognition for his playing career – on Wednesday, Vrabel was voted into the Patriots Hall of Fame.

A three-time Super Bowl champion with the Patriots, Vrabel was voted by fans as the franchise's 34th inductee. Vrabel joins Troy Brown (2012), Tedy Bruschi (2013), Kevin Faulk (2016), Ty Law (2014), Matt Light (2018), Willie McGinest (2015) and Richard Seymour (2022) as the eighth player to enter the Patriots Hall of Fame as a three-time Super Bowl Champion with the team.

The date and time for the 2023 Patriots Hall of Fame induction ceremony will be announced at a later date.

"It's my pleasure to announce Mike Vrabel as this year's selection to the Patriots Hall of Fame," Patriots Chairman and CEO Robert Kraft said. "Mike's leadership and versatility were principal to one of the most successful eras in franchise history, propelling the Patriots to three Super Bowl titles in four years and establishing multiple NFL records for consecutive-game win streaks. Many Patriots players have made contributions in all three phases of the game, but none more significantly than Mike. He was an eight-year starter on defense who also regularly contributed on special teams and is the only player in NFL history to score touchdowns on his first 10 career receptions, including touchdowns in back-to-back Super Bowl victories. He was respected for his football intellect and was destined to become a head coach in this league. I look forward to welcoming him back to New England, where his induction will preserve his legacy as one of the greatest players in franchise history."

Vrabel, who took over as head coach of the Titans in 2018, joined the Patriots before the 2001 season, following a four-year career with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

During his eight seasons in New England, Vrabel played a key role on defense on three Super Bowl championship teams (2001, 2003 and 2004). He also caught eight regular season passes and two more in the playoffs. All 10 of his receptions were for touchdowns, including receptions in back-to-back Super Bowl wins over the Carolina Panthers in Super Bowl XXXVIII and Philadelphia Eagles in Super Bowl XXXIX.

Vrabel earned Pro Bowl and first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors following the 2007 season.

Beginning in 2007, the Patriots started a new tradition, inducting one player or head coach into the team's Hall of Fame each year. The process for induction involves a panel of media, alumni and staff who collectively nominate the players or head coaches most deserving of induction. After the nominations are made, the committee votes and the top three tallies become that year's finalists. The Patriots then give fans the opportunity to vote online to select each year's hall of fame inductee. The Patriots are the only team in the NFL that allows their fans to make the final selection for enshrinement into the franchise's highest honor.

THERE'S ANOTHER SIDE OF TENNESSEE TITANS COACH MIKE VRABEL- JUST ASK LUKE FICKELL

BY GENTRY ESTES
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 24, 2022

He was ready to roll. He'd found tickets. He'd be off work for once, and some of his kids could accompany him.

Luke Fickell was excited. So much so that he was set to throw on a little two-toned Tennessee Titans gear and cheer like any other home fan in Nissan Stadium during January's big playoff game against the Cincinnati Bengals.

But then, Fickell said, "It really started to hit me."

How would that look? Would people understand why?

The University of Cincinnati's celebrated football coach, after all, couldn't be like any other fan, and certainly not for that game. "Thank goodness," Fickell said, a basketball tournament with his kids kept him home and away from Nashville that day.

"I didn't want someone to see me and think, 'Whoa now, you're supposed to be a Cincinnati guy,'" Fickell said.

"But the roots are a little bit deeper than that."

Titans coach Mike Vrabel (left) and University of Cincinnati coach Luke Fickell catch up during the Bearcats' pro day in 2022. The two successful coaches have remained close friends since their days as roommates at Ohio State.

The idea that Fickell – who lives across the street, by the way, from the Brown family that owns the Bengals – would root against Cincy's other football team shows how close his friendship is with Titans coach Mike Vrabel.

And for how long it has lasted, two decades and counting.

A famous football friendship

They started as college roommates and teammates at Ohio State, became coaching colleagues three years later and have remained supportive sounding boards for each other – to talk football, family, whatever – as each has neared the pinnacle of a cutthroat profession.

Vrabel was the NFL's coach of the year last season for leading the Titans to a 12-5 record and the AFC's No. 1 seed.

Fickell, meanwhile, won at least eight different national coach of the year awards, taking the 2021 Bearcats to 13 wins and a spot in the College Football Playoff.

In the past four seasons, Fickell has gone 44-7 with a Cincy program that went 4-8 in 2017, his first season. Soon after, Vrabel took over the Titans in 2018, beginning his own run of four consecutive winning seasons.

It's tempting to think these two could become a more contemporary version of Bill Belichick and Nick Saban, football's greatest pro-college coaching friendship, with each having enjoyed historic success after working together previously.

But with Fickell and Vrabel, it's different. They are closer. They were friends first.

Fickell was the best man at Vrabel's wedding.

"I don't even look at us as head coaches," Vrabel said. "Like, I have a conversation with other head coaches and then I have a conversation with Luke, and it's far different."

As I'm witnessing the two coaches catch up on an early morning Zoom call between Nashville and Cincinnati, I quickly realize what Vrabel meant by that.

Cincinnati coach Luke Fickell looks over a play during a spring practice at Nippert Stadium in Cincinnati on March 24, 2022.

I sense that I'm privy to something most won't see. Once together, two famous coaches are oddly at ease. They'd just be normal buddies and dads – talking families, bringing up memories, ribbing each other – if the conversation didn't also delve into red-zone offense and how it differs in college and the pros.

Or how Fickell didn't make it to the start of the Titans' training camp as planned, because his wife showed up in his office with plane tickets to Marco Island, Florida.

"He called from the beach as the waves were crashing," says Vrabel.

"And he said, 'Good decision,'" Fickell adds.

Back at Ohio State

Of the two, Vrabel was the one who always saw himself coaching. Fickell used to want to be an eye doctor after he was done being a defensive lineman.

They met in the mid-1990s on Vrabel's recruiting visit to Ohio State. Fickell – who is a year older – hosted. Vrabel had previously visited Michigan and was leaning toward going there, he said, but ultimately "just felt much more comfortable with the players at Ohio State."

After Vrabel's first year, they ended up sharing an apartment. Fickell did most of the cleaning. Vrabel took care of the cooking, as he knew how.

"I didn't have a choice," Vrabel said. "I was an only child. I was fat and I wanted to eat, so I had to cook."

Fickell's brief try at the NFL was spoiled by a knee injury, leading him into college coaching – rather than optometry. Vrabel became a 14-year NFL veteran, and with each of his new contracts, Fickell would kid him about not needing to coach after all. Vrabel insisted anyway, and Fickell eventually took him up on it.

In May 2011, with Vrabel at the end of his playing career, Ohio State coach Jim Tressel resigned amid an NCAA infractions scandal. Fickell, a long-time Tressel assistant, became the Buckeyes' interim coach for the 2011 season, which was rapidly approaching. He reached out to Vrabel to join his coaching staff.

"If you're going to hire somebody for a unique situation like that," Fickell said, "you want to hire somebody that you trust and believe and is going to have your back. It was a no-brainer. I just didn't know if it was really something that he really, really wanted to do or he just wanted to help out."

The perception was that Fickell talked Vrabel into retiring as a player, but that wasn't necessarily the case, Vrabel said. Given that he wasn't under contract at the time, Vrabel said he had pretty much made up his mind already. He'd stopped training. Then came "a great opportunity" at his old college.

The 2011 season was rough for anyone associated with the Buckeyes, especially Fickell and Vrabel. They lost their final four games, including a bowl – all by one score or less – to finish with a 6-7 record. It remains Ohio State's only sub-.500 season since 1988.

"I remember how awful '11 was and how much Luke wanted to do well for Ohio State, for the kids," Vrabel said. "The program was just kind of in turmoil. I didn't know how to help him. I mean, I tried to listen a lot."

"It was unique," Fickell said. "There was only one guy who was probably there every night, whether it was 10:30, 11, 12 o'clock at night, to be able to sit and just kind of decompress and talk to about it. And it was him."

Ohio State defensive line coach Mike Vrabel and defensive coordinator Luke Fickell discuss strategy during the Big Ten Championship Game between Ohio State and the Michigan State at Lucas Oil Stadium on Dec. 7, 2013.

When Urban Meyer was hired by Ohio State after the season, he ended up retaining Fickell and Vrabel – which is rare in coaching. Fickell coached the Buckeyes' defense up until he took the Cincinnati job before the 2017 season.

Vrabel coached the D-Line for a couple of years before opting to leave for the NFL's Houston Texans.

"It was like, 'OK, I felt like I've learned enough,' and I wanted to move on," Vrabel said.

"After being down there at one OTA," Fickell said. "I kind of looked at him and said, 'I think you are in the right spot. If you want to do this and continue to move forward, I think that you can be a head coach in five years.' That was just my opinion just by watching his presence and how people reacted to him."

Friends first, coaches second

For what it's worth, Fickell believes Vrabel could have "no doubt" been successful in college, too.

Vrabel feels the same about his friend and the NFL.

"Yeah, Luke could coach in this league," Vrabel said. "We've talked about it. But the thing that I always respect about Luke is that whether he had opportunities to go to other places or not, he did what was best for him and his family — and not just chase every job that came up or that somebody called him about. I always respected that."

Fickell, who has six children, has been linked before to pro opportunities. NFL.com reported in December that he had spoken to the Detroit Lions the year before "and the expectation within the league is Fickell will be in the mix for NFL jobs again in the upcoming hiring cycle, if he's interested."

If he's interested.

That could be a big 'if,' sounds like.

"(Vrabel) talked to me when he was down in Houston about, 'Hey, you need to get in the NFL. You need to come do this,'" Fickell said. "I don't know. I don't see myself being able to maybe transition as well as he did. ... The ability to have that presence – because he played 14 years and because he has three Super Bowl rings – I think as an outsider sometimes that becomes a little bit more difficult."

When it comes to Vrabel, Fickell kept going back to that word: "Presence."

Mike Vrabel, the reigning NFL Coach of the Year, has guided the Tennessee Titans to four straight winning seasons, including a 12-5 finish and No. 1 seed in the AFC playoffs in 2021.

He always had that, Fickell said. It's why he says his pal has become one of the most respected coaches in the NFL.

But Vrabel is still his friend. So while he'll tell me those kind words, he's not saying them once Vrabel joins the Zoom call.

I ask, do they brag on each other?

"I try to help Luke recruit. I try to praise that program as much as I can," said Vrabel, joking that he'll listen to interviews and Fickell doesn't do the same.

He's wrong about that, though. I'd just heard it.

"There's not as many tight connections that are going to truly last in a lifetime,” Fickell said. “... I cherish the unique ones that you know won’t change no matter what, whether it’s 15, 20 years down the road.

"For me, he’s one of those guys.”

TITANS HC MIKE VRABEL NAMED AP 2021 NFL
COACH OF THE YEAR AT NFL HONORS BEFORE
SUPER BOWL LVI

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
FEBRUARY 10, 2022

LOS ANGELES – Titans head coach Mike Vrabel on Thursday night was named 2021 NFL Coach of the Year by the Associated Press.

Vrabel was recognized at the NFL Honors here in Los Angeles just three days before Super Bowl LVI.

"It is an honor and a privilege to play and coach in this league," Vrabel said on stage. "And having coached in the Pro Bowl (last week), I know our game is in good hands. My job and every coach's job is to teach, develop and to make a connection, and to make an impact.

"I want to thank our owner, Amy Adams Strunk, and I want to thank my family. I want to thank my wife Jen, I want to thank my sons Tyler and Carter. I want to thank my best friend – I want to thank (John Streicher) 'Stretch' (the team's Coordinator of Football Development). This is a reflection of our 91 players that helped us win 12 games, and our coaching staff. Thank you, and this is a pleasure."

Last month, Vrabel was also named 2021 Coach of the Year by the Professional Football Writers of America (PFWA).

Vrabel guided the Titans to a record of 12-5 during the regular season. Vrabel's Titans captured the AFC's No.1 seed for the first time since the 2008 season. The 12 wins in the regular season were the most for the franchise since 2008, when the Titans finished 13-3.

During a zoom interview after the presentation, Vrabel discussed the strong culture in Tennessee while working alongside General Manager Jon Robinson. The Titans announced on Tuesday they'd agreed to a contract extensions with Vrabel, who was hired before the 2018 season, and Robinson, the team's GM since 2016.

"I think it is about the people that we bring in, and it is also about our leaders," Vrabel said. "Everybody talks about culture, and the thing that I tell our football team is we are going to define our culture by what we look like when we are at our worst. Because it is easy to say everybody has a great culture when you are winning. But when you go through struggles and maybe you lose a couple of games in a row, that is maybe when I take a peek and see what our culture looks like. I am excited about it because we have had adversity and we've been able to persevere through that."

Vrabel said Amy Adams Strunk "demands the best of Jon and myself, but she let's us do our jobs."

"If there's things that she wants, she will tell us, and obviously we do it," Vrabel said. "But she allows Jon and I to do our jobs, she trusts us to work through things, to have conversations about personnel, and about the direction of the team. ... She's given us the resources to continue to build meeting rooms and classrooms (at the facility) to help team our players. I can't say enough about her and her family."

Vrabel's Titans won the AFC South for the second straight season in 2021, and the organization made its third consecutive postseason appearance in his four seasons as head coach.

The Titans used 91 players during the 2021 season, an NFL record for a non-strike season.

Vrabel's overall record since taking over as coach of the Titans is 44-27, including regular season and playoffs. In 2021, Vrabel tied Jack Pardee for the most total wins by a head coach in his first four seasons with the organization. In Pardee's first four seasons as head coach from 1990 through 1993, the Oilers were 43-26, including playoffs. Of all Titans/Oilers head coaches with at least four seasons with the franchise, Vrabel's career winning percentage ranks the highest.

On several occasions Thursday night, Vrabel thanked those around him.

He said coaching – and playing – is a commitment from everyone, so everyone shares in success.

"That goes for the coaching staff, and their families," Vrabel said. "And I always tell our players: Go back and look when we lost to the Jets, the number of people that texted you after that game. Because everybody texts you when you win, but nobody texts you when you lose and says, 'Hey, hang in there. You'll get them next week.' But that's what our families do, and that's what our kids do.

"So, I am always reminding that to our players: Not too many people remember you when you lose, or text you when you lose, and (the families) are in it for the long haul."

BIGGER STRONGER OLB
RASHAD WEAVER
ANXIOUS TO SEE HIS HARD WORK PAY OFF ON FIELD FOR TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
JULY 5, 2023

NASHVILLE – Rashad Weaver chuckled when asked what he sees when he looks at his rookie photos.

"The boy looks a little frail," Weaver said with a smile. "He looks a little slender."

The Titans outside linebacker doesn't look that way now.

With some hard work – he spent a good chunk of his offseason working with a trainer known as "Monster Maker" – Weaver feels bigger and stronger than ever.

But it didn't come easy.

"That entails workouts for three hours in the weight room, where you lay on the ground and say: 'I hate this' every day," Weaver said. "And on the off days you go run hills, 50-yard sprints up the hills that's working your speed and your leg strength and your drive.

"But I know it's working, because I can feel the difference. And, the easiest way to know something is working is when you see the difference or other people see the difference in you and they make remarks about you.

"For someone like me, it just makes me want to keep going."

Weaver, a fourth-round draft pick by the Titans in 2021 who is now heading into his third NFL season, is looking to make a bigger difference for the team in 2023.

He plans to do it by taking advantage of the work he's put in away from the facility, combined with the work during the team's offseason program, including OTAs and minicamp.

A 6-foot-4, 259-pounder, Weaver played in 16 games for the Titans in 2022, and he totaled 5.5 sacks, 39 quarterback pressures, and 27 tackles. It came one season after his rookie year was cut short after just two regular season games because of a broken leg that had him getting around on a scooter for a long stretch.

When last season ended, Weaver said he went into "hibernation mode," sleeping for nearly two weeks to let his exhausted body recover.

He then went to work.

Weaver said most of his focus this offseason has been on his lower body strength, although he'd packed some muscle mass on his upper body as well while working at an old gym in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, before returning to Nashville to work at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park.

And when he watched film of himself this offseason, he took notes.

What he saw was a guy who wasn't always able to finish because of what he felt was a lack of lower body strength. Surgeries in recent years to repair a torn ACL and then the broken leg proved to be big hurdles.

"The biggest thing for me (to focus on) was strength, and that's where I put a lot of work in this offseason," Weaver said. "I'd never been a huge weight room guy, but coming off leg injuries in the past, those are things that knock your leg strength back.

"So now I can go out here and really bully guys and have play strength and play through contact and finish a lot of things that were really just right there last year, and really be better overall. ... These are grown men out there."

Weaver now feels like he's one of those grown men.

Heading into Year 3, he looks and feels more explosive.

He wants to see it play out on the field.

"I made it here for a reason," Weaver said. "So, it's up to me to do what I do with the opportunity."

TITANS AGREE TO TERMS WITH TE TREVON WESCO
ON A ONE-YEAR DEAL

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEETITANS.COM
MARCH 31, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans have agreed to terms with veteran tight end Trevon Wesco on a one-year deal.

Wesco, drafted in the fourth round of the 2019 NFL Draft by the Jets, has played in 54 games over the past four seasons, with 13 starts.

The 6-foot-3, 267-pounder played in 2022 for the Chicago Bears after playing his first three NFL seasons with the Jets.

Wesco, who played college football at Lackawanna College and West Virginia, has caught eight passes for 113 yards in the NFL. He caught two passes for 26 yards while playing in 14 games, with one start, last year with Chicago.

Wesco, regarded as a sturdy blocker, also has experience as a fullback.

During his final season as West Virginia, Wesco was an all-Big 12 first team selection after making 26 catches for 366 yards, averaging 14.1 yards per catch, and one touchdown. He overlapped with Titans assistant Tony Dews at West Virginia for a season. Dews is now tight ends coach with the Titans after previously serving as running backs coach under head coach Mike Vrabel.

THIS RECEIVER TOOK A DIFFERENT ROUTE

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
JANUARY 19, 2022

NASHVILLE – Nick Westbrook-Ikhine readily admits it. He had a Plan B.

His first choice was to play football for a living, but he was not convinced it would happen. It did not help that he was not selected in the 2020 NFL Draft following a productive career at Indiana University.

“There was a time I was interviewing for jobs while finishing up my senior year at IU where [I thought] I just have to have that backup,” he said. “You never know what is going to happen. But I knew I was going to have an opportunity and just figured I would make the best of what I have. That’s really all I could ask for – to have this opportunity.”

To say that he has made the most of it would be an understatement.

There were 35 wide receivers selected in the 2020 NFL Draft, and the Titans did not take any of them. Instead, franchise officials covered their bases with four undrafted players at that spot (they did not sign more than two at any other position). Krisitian Wilkerson (Southeast Missouri State) has appeared in four games with the New England Patriots, and Mason Kinsey (Berry College) made his NFL debut with the Titans this season but has not seen the field since. Kyle Williams (Arizona State) has never played in a game.

Westbrook-Ikhine, on the other hand, has played 30 out of a possible 33 games and has progressed from a special teams performer to a role player on offense to his current role as a significant contributor in the passing game. He was the Titans’ second-leading receiver this season with 38 receptions for 476 yards and four touchdowns. In the three games A.J. Brown spent on injured reserve, it was Westbrook-Ikhine who played more snaps than any of the team’s other wide receivers.

Only 19 of wide receivers drafted in 2020 have caught more passes through their first two seasons than Westbrook-Ikhine, who has 41 for 509 yards and four touchdowns. Just 14 have more touchdown passes.

“There’s definitely times I’m sitting at the house and I kind of realize the position I’m at and the blessing I have to be on this team (and) have a role – a solid role – on this team,” Westbrook-Ikhine said. “Yeah, I’m definitely proud of what I’ve been able to accomplish.”

That road from obscurity to importance makes Westbrook-Ikhine the exception Saturday when the Titans host the Cincinnati Bengals in a matchup that features a handful of sure-things – or as close to it as you can get.

Combined, the offenses include two wide receivers who were top 10 overall picks – Tennessee’s Julio Jones (sixth, 2011) and Cincinnati’s Ja’Marr Chase (fifth, 2021) – and three others who were second-round selections – Tennessee’s A.J. Brown (2019) and Cincinnati’s Tee Higgins (2020) and Tyler Boyd (2016).

All of them have lived up to expectations. Jones, Brown and Boyd have multiple 1,000-yard seasons to their credit, and Jones is one of the NFL’s all-time leading receivers. Higgins topped 1,000 receiving yards for the first time this year, and Chase set an NFL rookie record with 1,455 this season.

Westbrook-Ikhine won’t be mentioned in the same breath as any of them anytime soon, but – in the most literal sense – he absolutely is in their league.

“We have always had confidence in (Westbrook-Ikhine),” coach Mike Vrabel said. “I think he has developed. ... He blocks for us. He plays on special teams. He knows multiple positions. Those types of players are very valuable to a team.”

Even if they are not obvious choices from the outset.

Or, if they question whether they belong every now and then. Westbrook-Ikhine, for example, admits to occasional insecurity about his career choice.

“I feel like that’s just a natural human thing,” he said. “Doubt creeps in at times. I feel like it kind of shows its head when you play poorly because there’s doubt in your mind. I just have to kind of roll with those punches and realize what God put me on this earth to do – this gift and talent he gave me – and try to use it to the best of my ability.”

TITANS SELECT CINCINNATI TE JOSH
WHYLE IN FIFTH ROUND OF SATURDAY'S NFL DRAFT

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 30, 2023

NASHVILLE – The Titans selected Cincinnati tight end Josh Whyle in the fifth round of Saturday's NFL Draft.

Whyle, selected with the 147th overall pick, is an athletic big man who proved in college he can make plays, scoring 15 touchdowns.

Whyle said he met Titans head coach Mike Vrabel several times in the past year, as Whyle's former college coach, Luke Fickell, was roommates with Vrabel at Ohio State.

"It was a good conversation (with Coach Vrabel)," Whyle said of his draft day call. "When that call came, I don't even know if he could understand what I was saying. My heart was pounding. It was a pretty cool moment. ... We're both just excited for me to get down there and contribute any way I can to the team.

"(The Titans) like the idea that I can do a little bit of both – I can be an in-line blocker, and they can spread me out to be able to catch the ball. Not only that, but I think I have good special teams value."

Whyle (6-6 ½, 248), a former receiver who switched to tight end, caught 32 passes for 326 yards and three touchdowns last season for the Bearcats. He caught 88 passes for 1,062 yards for 15 touchdowns in his college career. He was a first-team All-American Athletic Conference performer in 2022, when he played in 12 games, with 10 starts.

Whyle caught six touchdowns in both 2020 and 2021.

Whyle ranked 78th on Bruce Feldman's 2022 Freaks List for The Athletic (4.65 in the 40, 35.5" vertical, 10'3" broad, 20 mph on GPS, 16 reps of 225).

"I'm 6-6, 250 and I think I can move really well," Whyle said. "Growing up I played every sport you can imagine. My parents started me out in gymnastics when I was young, but I played basketball and football throughout high school. Football is something that I've always been good at, and it's something I've always found fun, which I think is really important.

"If you are going to play this game and make a career out of it, you have to have fun with it."

TO UNDERSTAND
TENNESSEE TITANS'
MALIK WILLIS, START WITH HUGH FREEZE'S
'OH MY GOSH' MOMENT

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
MAY 22, 2022

Hugh Freeze wanted to pull his hair out.

The Liberty Flames football coach watched his team go through a red-zone drill during practice. That's when his star quarterback, Malik Willis, threw an interception. A defensive lineman tipped the pass and a defensive back scooped it up.

Freeze, fuming, saw Willis go over to the defense and congratulate the two players responsible for the turnover. He told them how great of a job they just did.

Then Willis came over to his frustrated coach. And like the countless other times Freeze has been angry, his quarterback just placed his arm around him:

We'll make the next one, coach. Well make the next one.

"While it may drive me crazy, it made everybody in that locker room want to follow him and want to be around him," Freeze said. "He has this attractive humility about him to where it was never really about him. It doesn't mean he's not competitive. ... He's just got that rare quality in today's time where he's not seeking others' approval."

Willis' former coaches and trainers who spoke to The Tennessean described the Tennessee Titans third-round rookie as joyful with a magnetic aura.

It offered a glimpse into the personality of the man the Titans drafted as their potential quarterback of the future. Willis will sit behind veteran incumbent Ryan Tannehill for at least a season.

'He sets the temperature for the room'

John Ford recalled the mornings during the 2016 high school football season.

The coach at Roswell High School in Georgia at the time, Ford and his staff would hold meetings, watch film and plan practice at the field house. And every day, no matter what, Willis stuck his head through the door, smiling and grinning ear-to-ear:

Hey, coaches. How are you doing?

"He had such a great demeanor at all times," said Ford. "Always smiling. Always connecting with others. Making others around him feel better.

"He's not a thermometer. He's a thermostat," added Ford. "He sets the temperature for the room and always does it with tremendous joy. ... If you have a bad day around Malik Willis, there's something wrong with you."

In college, Willis went on quarterback retreats during spring break. The group – which featured future first-round draft picks Dwayne Haskins, Justin Fields and Trey Lance – would spend a week in Los Angeles or Miami to train daily.

"Even amongst a group of peer, elite quarterbacks, he was always the one people gravitated to," said Sean McEvoy, a private quarterback coach who has worked with Willis since he was a junior in high school.

Willis is "mild-mannered" until you get him talking about something he's passionate about, McEvoy explained. Football, golf, music and video games are some of those passions.

On those topics, he'll go from just hanging out to leading the conversation.

"Very much likes to think through things," McEvoy said. "He likes to process. I think he's very thoughtful in opinions he expresses. Like he wants to feel he's wrapped his head around (a concept) before he'll give an opinion on a topic.

"I think it's very similar to the way he processes things on the football field."

Developing as a quarterback

When Willis arrived at Liberty in 2019, the NFL was the furthest thing from Freeze's mind when assessing his new quarterback.

The Flames knew he could run. They felt confident they could win games with him. But he attempted just 14 passes in two years before transferring from Auburn. His limited snaps focused on his running skills. The biggest unknown was whether Willis could be a functional passer.

He was on the scout team his first year at Liberty, ineligible to play as a transfer. By spring 2020, Willis was an "average" practice player still learning the offense and honing his mechanics, according to Freeze.

Then came the following season.

"We get to the fall and turn the lights on and five games in you're thinking, 'Oh my gosh,'" Freeze said. "'He's got something to him.'"

Freeze, a college coach for 13 years, including five seasons at Ole Miss in which he beat Alabama twice, said Willis can make "every throw" and has the best arm strength of any player he's ever coached. Coupled with his running ability, he said Willis has a skillset similar to Lamar Jackson and Josh Allen, though he prefaced with, "I'm certainly not saying he's ready to be in a sentence with those guys."

In two seasons at Liberty, Willis completed 62.4% of his passes for 5,117 yards, 47 touchdowns with 18 interceptions. He also had 338 carries for 1,822 yards and 27 TDs for the Flames.

"His arm is dynamic," said Quincy Avery, a top quarterback trainer who works with Willis. "He has an ability to extend plays and do so much with his legs that, as a young quarterback trying to figure things out, he's going to have the ability to do some things that are going to allow him to be successful, even if he doesn't understand every single defense you're throwing at him."

There's the potential that made Willis a potential first-round pick – and there's the concerns that caused him to fall to the Titans in the third round.

He took a lot of sacks at Liberty, finishing No. 1 in the FBS with 51 in 2021. The 18 interceptions came in 23 starts for the Flames.

Freeze said the sacks weren't Willis' fault, proclaiming his team "just didn't protect well" and if not for Willis, the sack numbers would've been "double."

As for the interceptions, Freeze said there were some "bad ones." But there were too many good reads and throws to be overly concerned, Freeze explained.

"You can take a cut-up of his two years (at Liberty) and you can pull those and certainly make your case to be negative with him," said Freeze, "but I guarantee you I can pull 10 times that many where you say, 'Oh, wow. What a throw.'"

Freeze described Willis' growth as a passer at Liberty "transformational." But his journey started at home in the Atlanta area, where he's worked with McEvoy since transferring from Westlake High School – where Cam Newton attended – to Roswell ahead of his senior year. Avery entered the picture early in his college career.

In high school, building consistency in Willis' throwing mechanics took priority. It was tightening up his upper-body arm motion. Tweaking his arm path to make it more efficient and free flowing. Making sure his full cleats were in the ground so he had a good base to generate consistent power.

In the pre-draft process, McEvoy and Avery built on the things he wasn't asked to do at Liberty. They dove into NFL concepts, studying coverages he'd face at the next level.

Avery said the knock on Willis for playing in Freeze's run-pass-option scheme is "overblown."

"There aren't a lot of guys in college who do necessarily the same things that they're going to be doing in the NFL," said Avery. "It's just, 'How quickly are they going to pick up the playbook?' And I think he is really smart and will be fine."

But Freeze said he'll need to speed up his reads, as he'll face faster and more athletic defenders at the NFL level. McEvoy wants to see his consistency as a pocket passer improve; knowing when to use his athleticism versus when to just check the ball down and take the yards he can get.

After operating primarily out of the shotgun at Liberty, Willis will play more under center for the Titans. He had exchange issues on the first day of rookie minicamp earlier this month, though it was clean the following day.

"I just expect myself to come to work every day as long as God wakes me up," Willis said at rookie minicamp. "Just come out here and enjoy myself and try to be the best player I can be. Fight through the mistakes, fight through the successes.

"Either way it goes, you got to stay calm, cool and collected."

'It's a game at the end of the day'

Willis backed up Jarrett Stidham for two seasons at Auburn. Then he was the odd-man out in the competition to replace him in spring 2019, leading him to the transfer portal.

A three-star recruit in the 2017 class, Willis was listed as an "athlete" by major recruiting sites. Virginia Tech, where he initially committed, wouldn't give him a chance to play quarterback, according to Ford. People constantly told him to try receiver and defensive back. He wasn't a quarterback full-time until his senior year of high school.

But Willis always knew he was a quarterback.

"You got somebody who plays receiver or plays safety or plays something (else) that you could put at quarterback and win. But I was the opposite," explained Willis. "I was a quarterback that could play (other positions). ... So it wasn't really a conviction. It's an identity. It's what I am."

What he is, too, is a "kid at heart," Freeze said.

Like how he maneuvered the question about his relationship with Tannehill, who had made headlines saying it's not his job to mentor Willis.

When first asked about Tannehill's comments, Willis said "what comment?" before laughing and saying "everything's cool," diffusing what had become a hot-button narrative in the NFL.

"It's a game at the end of the day," said Willis. "I mean, it's a very important game to a lot of people, but it's a game at the end of the day. You go through way worse stuff in life. You have to understand that and be resilient as a person outside of football. I feel like when it comes to football, you just have to be strong minded and understand it's not your identity.

"I feel like you're supposed to use this platform for something," he continued. "I use it for God."

TREY WOLFF WAS A CONSTRUCTION WORKER. NOW HE'S BATTLING FOR
TENNESSEE TITANS
KICKER JOB.

BY NICK SUSS
NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 8, 2023

It took only three months of grueling physical labor before Trey Wolff realized he preferred life as a kicker.

Wolff stopped thinking about any NFL aspirations before his senior season at Texas Tech. After a big year that included overtime game-winners against Texas and Oklahoma, he still wasn't sure he had a pro future. So he did the safe thing and got a day job.

For as long as he could stand it.

"I was working in construction for three months before this," Wolff said. "After I was doing that, I was like 'Dang, I should kick a football.' "

His days mostly consist of kicking footballs now. Along with second-year player Caleb Shudak, he's competing for the Tennessee Titans' kicking job in training camp, a job that has been up for grabs since the team released veteran Randy Bullock in February.

Wolff, the construction worker

At about the time the Titans were moving on from Bullock, Wolff was just moving. He was living in Houston helping to build an apartment complex, waking up at 3:30 a.m. for his shifts and finding time around 6 p.m. to practice for Texas Tech's pro day.

The 6-foot-4 Wolff showed off his big leg at the pro day. He wasn't convinced he would be drafted based off the showing, but he had enough confidence to say he could push for a job in football.

"Pro day went well and I was like, 'I've got to get off this job site and get on some football fields,' " he said.

The Titans added Wolff as an undrafted free agent shortly after the 2023 NFL Draft ended. He says the Titans were his first choice and the first team that reached out to him, so he and his agent agreed to the offer pretty quickly.

The Titans' kicking competition

He and Shudak haven't separated their performances much three weeks into training camp. Wolff admits that he thinks they've been feeding off one another. A good day for Shudak usually means a good day for Wolff, and if one has a bad day, the other probably will, too.

Wolff and Shudak have alternated practices handling live kicking responsibilities. Tuesday, for example, was Wolff's day to kick in team periods. He went 10-for-11 on all kicks, his lone miss coming from 40 yards. He converted on a 51-yarder, two 47-yarders and a 44-yarder.

His last kick of the day was a 47-yarder at the end of a two-minute drill where he had to race onto the field and convert as the clock was ticking down. He barely squeaked it through the uprights after making his 51-yarder earlier in the day with plenty of room, and after practice said he mis-hit the ball. Though, as Wolff also pointed out, it's not a bad thing when your mis-hit kicks go through.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel said the decision on whether Wolff or Shudak wins the kicking competition will come down to situations like that one. The coaches aren't just counting which kicks go in and which ones don't. They're tracking the paths kicks take in the air, judging how straight they are and how much power is behind them, gauging how likely the kicks are to go through against live rushers and whether the makes are replicable or if they're coming in spite of bad habits.

Wolff will have the first chance to showcase his kicking ability in front of an audience on Saturday when the Titans play their preseason opener against the Bears in Chicago (noon, News Channel 2). Wolff said he doesn't know when he'll kick in the game, but he has a plan for what he's going to do when gifted the opportunity.

"I know there's going to be a snapper, holder and me out there at some point and I'm going to try to put the brown thing through the yellow things," Wolff said.

TITANS/OILERS HALL OF FAME & RING OF HONOR

In recognition of the 40th season of the Houston Oilers/Tennessee Titans organization in 1999, the team's late owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. created an official team Hall of Fame, featuring players and staff from the past, while creating a special place for Titans stars of the future to be recognized.

On Sept. 7, 2008, the same day Titans owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. was added to the Titans/Oilers Hall of Fame, he unveiled the Ring of Honor at Nissan Stadium during the team's season opener. The Ring of Honor would feature the same players inducted into the team Hall of Fame. The initial members of the Ring of Honor included Adams, Elvin Bethea, George Blanda, Earl Campbell, Mike Holovak, Ken Houston, Mike Munchak, Jim Norton, Warren Moon and Bruce Matthews.

Through 2022, 17 individuals were named to the franchise's Hall of Fame and Ring of Honor. Most recently, the franchise added former head coaches Bum Phillips and Jeff Fisher and former general manager Floyd Reese to the Hall of Fame in 2021.

FRANCHISE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAMERS

GEORGE BLANDA

QUARTERBACK/KICKER • 6'2" • 215 lbs • COLLEGE: KENTUCKY
NFL SEASONS: 26 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1960-66)
HOMETOWN: YOUNGWOOD, PA. • BORN: SEPT. 27, 1927
GAMES PLAYED: 340 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1981

George Blanda, who came out of retirement with the emergence of the American Football League in 1960, was the offensive catalyst for the explosive Oiler squads of the early 1960s. He played quarterback and handled the placekicking chores in Columbia blue for seven of his NFL-record 26 seasons in the league. Blanda was the team's leading passer and scorer in each of those seven seasons and still owns franchise records for most extra points (299), most touchdown passes in a season (36) and most touchdown passes in a game (7). He is also third in points scored with 596. The 36 scoring tosses stood as an NFL record for an astounding 23 years. Blanda's NFL career records included most games (340), most points (2,002) and most extra points (943). He also passed for 236 touchdowns. Blanda captained the Oilers to two consecutive AFL titles in 1960 and 1961, earning AFL Player of the Year honors in 1961. Blanda's career was divided into three distinct parts, 10 years with the Chicago Bears, seven seasons with the Houston Oilers and nine years with the Oakland Raiders. In 1970, he became the oldest quarterback to play in a title game. He was just a month shy of his 49th birthday when he retired before the 1976 season. Blanda passed away at age 83 on Sept. 27, 2010.

KEN HOUSTON

SAFETY • 6'3" • 197 lbs • COLLEGE: PRAIRIE VIEW A&M
NFL SEASONS: 14 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 6 (1967-72)
HOMETOWN: LUFKIN, TEXAS • BORN: NOV. 12, 1944
GAMES PLAYED: 196 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1986

Considered one of the best safeties in football history, Ken Houston picked off 49 passes (898 yards), recovered 21 fumbles and scored 12 touchdowns over his 14-season NFL career, earning Pro Bowl honors 12 consecutive times (1968-69 AFL, 1970-79 NFL). Houston returned an NFL-record nine interceptions for a touchdown in his six seasons as an Oiler. Four of those scores came in 1971, tying an NFL record. He returned two in one game against San Diego in the 1971 season finale, which also ties an NFL mark. His other three touchdowns came on a punt return, a fumble return and a blocked field goal return. Houston also holds the Oilers record for most career interception return yards with 650. With a long, fluid stride, Houston had excellent speed and quickness. His 6-3, 197-pound frame made him an ideal pass defender. Yet his lean, muscular body helped him to become a punishing tackler. Originally a ninth-round draft choice out of Prairie View A&M, Houston earned a starter's role by the third game of his rookie season. Two weeks later in a game against the New York Jets, he scored two touchdowns, one on a 71-yard blocked field goal attempt, and the other on a 43-yard interception return. After excelling for six years with the Oilers, Ken was traded to the Redskins for five veteran players in 1973. The Redskins once referred to Houston as "pro football's most underrated superstar," but his capabilities were widely recognized. He won all-league acclaim with the Oilers in 1969 and 1971, and then was either All-Pro or All-NFC with the Redskins every year from 1973 to 1979. He was selected for either the AFL All-Star game or the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl 12 straight seasons from 1968 through 1979. He played in 183 consecutive games before suffering a broken arm against the New York Giants Nov. 25, 1979.

EARL CAMPBELL

RUNNING BACK • 5'11" • 232 lbs • COLLEGE: TEXAS
NFL SEASONS: 8 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1978-84)
HOMETOWN: TYLER, TEXAS • BORN: MARCH 29, 1955
GAMES PLAYED: 115 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1991

Earl Campbell, a 5-11, 232-pound ball-carrying dynamo from the University of Texas, joined the Houston Oilers as the first player taken in the 1978 National Football League Draft. The first player to earn All-Southwest Conference honors four years, Campbell was a consensus All-America and the Heisman Trophy winner in 1977. Campbell took the NFL by storm from the outset. In 1978, he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player, All-Pro, and Rookie of the Year. He won the league rushing championship with a club-record 1,450 yards and was named to the AFC Pro Bowl squad. It was more of the same the next two years with NFL rushing titles, MVP honors, and consensus All-Pro acclaim each season. He followed his rookie campaign with 1,697 yards in 1979, but his finest year came in 1980 when he rushed for 1,934 yards, which at the time was second only to O. J. Simpson's 2,003 yards gained in 1973. That year, Campbell gained over 200 yards in four games. In 1981, he won his fourth straight AFC rushing title with 1,376 yards. A sensational runner, Campbell was picked for the Pro Bowl five of his first six NFL seasons (1978-81, 1983). In his eight-year career, which finished in New Orleans, Campbell rushed 2,187 times for 9,407 yards, and 74 touchdowns, retiring as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher. He also gained 806 yards on 121 receptions to bring his career combined net yards total to 10,213. He set Oilers records for most career yards (8,574), most career attempts (1,979), most touchdown runs (73) and most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5). His most famous performance came in a Monday night game against Miami in his rookie season. That night, he rushed for 199 yards and four touchdowns to lead the Oilers to a spectacular 35-30 victory. In spite of the constant pounding he took from opposing defenders, Earl missed only six games out of 115 because of injuries. Midway into his seventh season, he was traded by the Oilers to the New Orleans Saints for a first-round draft pick. He played a season and a half with the Saints before retiring after the 1985 campaign. Campbell is one of just four people officially designated a Texas Legend by the Texas State Legislature. The others are Davy Crockett, Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin. Campbell was the only designee of the 20th century.

CHARLIE JOINER

WIDE RECEIVER • 5'11" • 188 lbs • COLLEGE: GRAMBLING
NFL SEASONS: 18 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 4 (1969-72)
HOMETOWN: MANY, LA. • BORN: OCT. 14, 1947
GAMES PLAYED: 239 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1996

Charlie Joiner played 18 seasons in the NFL, including his first four with the Houston Oilers. One of the league's most prolific receivers, he amassed 750 career receptions for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns, ranking as the league's leading receiver of all-time when he retired at the age of 39 in 1986. His 18 seasons played were longer than any other wide receiver in history at the time of his retirement. The Oilers originally targeted Joiner for the defensive backfield when they picked the 5-11, 180-pounder from Grambling in the fourth round of the 1969 AFL-NFL Draft. Joiner played briefly on defense and the kickoff return team but soon became established as a premier pass catcher. Joiner caught 82 of his 750 career passes as an Oiler, totaling 1,480 yards and 12 touchdowns. He paced the squad with 681 yards and seven touchdown grabs in 1971. In his fourth season in 1972, Houston sent him to the Cincinnati Bengals in a four-player swap. Four years later in 1976, he was traded to San Diego. With the Chargers, Joiner blossomed into super-stardom. He and quarterback Dan Fouts formed a lethal pass-catch team that accounted for the preponderance of his 586 receptions as a Charger. During his 11 years in San Diego, Joiner caught 50 or more passes seven times and had 70 or more receptions three seasons. Injuries cut into his playing time at the beginning, but in a 193-game span over his final 13 seasons, Joiner missed only one game. He was an All-NFL pick in 1980 and a Pro Bowl choice three times. In the 1980 AFC title game, he led the Chargers with six receptions for 130 yards and two touchdowns. Blessed with excellent speed and tantalizing moves, Joiner averaged 16.2 yards per catch and accounted for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns. When he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1996, Joiner ranked fifth in receptions and sixth in receiving yardage on the NFL's all-time list. Joiner was once described by San Francisco 49ers coaching great Bill Walsh as "the most intelligent, the smartest, the most calculating receiver the game has ever known."

FRANCHISE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAMERS

MIKE MUNCHAK

GUARD • 6'3" • 281 lbs • COLLEGE: PENN STATE
 NFL SEASONS: 12 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 12 (1982-93)
 HOMETOWN: SCRANTON, PA. • BORN: MARCH 5, 1960
 GAMES PLAYED: 159 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2001

Mike Munchak was the eighth player overall and the first offensive lineman chosen in the 1982 National Football League draft. Selected by the Oilers, the former Penn State standout was an immediate success with the Houston club, earning the starting left guard spot in his first training camp. The 6-3, 281-pound lineman wasted little time establishing himself as one of the premier guards in the NFL. In 1984, in just his third year in the league, he was named to the first of seven All-AFC teams. That same year he received the first of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Not coincidentally, the Oilers' on-the-field successes increased as Munchak's development and experience increased. From their dismal 1-8 record in the strike-shortened 1982 season, the Oilers improved nearly every year that Munchak played. Along the way, the team advanced to the playoffs seven consecutive years (1987-1993) and captured the 1991 and 1993 AFC Central Divisional crowns. Munchak was a devastating blocker and considered the key to an offensive line that kept the Oilers at or near the top of the NFL's offensive statistical categories. In 1988 he led the Oilers' offensive line that gave up just 24 quarterback sacks which was third in the NFL. It was also the fewest sacks allowed by the team in 10 seasons. The following season the offensive line held opponents to no sacks in six games. In 1991, the Oilers offensive line finished second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in the fewest quarterback sacks allowed. Behind the Munchak-led line, Houston led the NFL in total offense in 1990 and passing offense in 1990 and 1991. The Oilers finished second in points scored in 1990 and second in total offense in 1991. Equally effective as a run blocker, Munchak led the Oilers offensive charge in 1993 as the team finished fourth in the NFL in both average gain per rushing play (4.4) and average gain per offensive play (5.3). Although he suffered from chronic knee problems, Munchak played in 159 regular season games. His 12 seasons with the Oilers tied him for second longest in the franchise's history at the time of his retirement. He became the first player inducted into the Hall of Fame who played his entire career with the Oilers. Long-time teammate Bruce Matthews presented Munchak for induction.

ELVIN BETHEA

DEFENSIVE END • 6'2" • 260 lbs • COLLEGE: NORTH CAROLINA A&T
 NFL SEASONS: 16 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 16 (1968-83)
 HOMETOWN: TRENTON, N.J. • BORN: MARCH 1, 1946
 GAMES PLAYED: 210 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2003

Defensive end Elvin Bethea, an eight-time Pro Bowl selection during his outstanding career with the Houston Oilers, was named to the five-man class of the 2003 Pro Football Hall of Fame that included running back Marcus Allen, guard Joe DeLamielleure, wide receiver James Lofton, and coach Hank Stram. A third-round draft pick in 1968 (77th player overall) Bethea played in 210 games over 16 seasons, never missing a game until breaking his arm on Nov. 13, 1977. He was considered a "steal" in a draft class that produced three future Hall of Fame players in Larry Csonka, Art Shell, and Ron Yary. When he retired, he held three team records relating to career service: most seasons (16), most career regular season games played (210), and most consecutive regular season games played (135). Having led the team in sacks in six seasons, Bethea's unofficial 105-career sack total still ranks first in franchise history, including his team-best 17 sacks in 1973. He recorded four sacks and a fumble recovery in his best single game performance against San Diego in 1976. He played in eight playoff games and posted 691 career tackles. Bethea also played in eight Pro Bowls (1970, 1972-1976, 1979, 1980) and earned All-Pro second-team honors in 1973, 1975, 1978, and 1979. More than just a pass rusher, Bethea was also effective against the run. Even though 1974 was the first year such statistics were compiled by the Oilers, his 691 career tackles, are still among the best in franchise history, even excluding the first six years of his career. "When people ask me who the best guy I ever played against was I always tell them Elvin Bethea and Lyle Alzado because both of them were complete ballplayers," said Art Shell, Hall of Fame member of the Oakland Raiders. "Elvin was one of the quickest guys I've ever been around. We always had to double-team him. There were times when I was supposed to block him when he would get by me so quick. And then Gene Upshaw was supposed to pick him up and he also got by him so quick that we would get back to the huddle and Upshaw would say, 'Did you see that?' and I'd say, 'Yeah, I saw that. He just beat the heck out of me too!' Elvin was just a great player."

WARREN MOON

QUARTERBACK • 6'3" • 212 lbs • COLLEGE: WASHINGTON
 NFL SEASONS: 17 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 10 (1984-93)
 HOMETOWN: LOS ANGELES, CALIF. • BORN: NOVEMBER 18, 1956
 GAMES PLAYED: 208 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2006

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history, was inducted into the 2006 class of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Moon played 10 years (1984-93) with the Oilers/Titans organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. During a 17-year NFL career, Moon played for the Houston Oilers, Minnesota Vikings, Seattle Seahawks and Kansas City Chiefs and amassed 49,325 passing yards, 291 touchdowns and 102 wins. He earned nine Pro Bowl invitations (tied for the most by a quarterback with John Elway and Dan Marino), posted nine 3,000 yard seasons, 49 300-yard games and led his team to nine playoff appearances. His eight consecutive playoff berths matched a feat accomplished by Terry Bradshaw and Joe Montana. At the time of his retirement, he held the single-season passing yardage record for three different franchises: Oilers (4,367 in 1991), Vikings (4,364 in 1994) and Seahawks (3,678 in 1997). Moon tallied many accomplishments during his Oiler career. His finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363 for 584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Against Kansas City in 1990, Moon threw for 527 yards, which ranks as the second highest single-game total in NFL history (Norm Van Brocklin, 554 yards in 1951). In 1991, he surpassed the previous season's yardage total with 4,690 yards and became just the third player (Marino, Fouts) in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000 yard passing seasons. Moon joined the Oilers and the NFL in 1984, after six seasons in the Canadian Football League, where he led his team to five Grey Cups (League Champions). In the CFL, Moon threw for 21,228 yards and 144 touchdowns. Moon was driven to play in the CFL after drawing little interest from the NFL as a starting quarterback following his senior season at the University of Washington. Moon became the first African-American quarterback to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame and his legacy as a minority quarterback cannot be underestimated. At the time of his arrival in the NFL only two black quarterbacks had been significant starters for their NFL teams (Shack Harris, Rams; Doug Williams, Tampa Bay).

BRUCE MATTHEWS

GUARD/TACKLE/CENTER • 6'5" • 305 lbs • COLLEGE: USC
 NFL SEASONS: 19 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 19 (1983-2001)
 HOMETOWN: ARCADIA, CALIF. • BORN: AUGUST 8, 1961
 GAMES PLAYED: 296 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2007

Arguably one of the best offensive linemen to ever play the game, Bruce Matthews became the first Tennessee Titan to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. At the time of his retirement, Matthews played in more NFL games (296) than any non-kicker in the league's history. Longevity and durability were his hallmarks, but that coupled with his unparalleled play, earning a league record 14 consecutive Pro Bowl (9 at guard and 6 at center) selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and seven times named AP All-Pro, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in starting at every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 C, 99 LG, 67 RG, 22 RT, 17 LT). He becomes the first Hall of Fame offensive lineman to play significant time at all five offensive line positions. A constant for the Oilers/Titans franchise, Matthews started in a team record 229 consecutive games (streak started at Indianapolis, Nov. 29, 1987) and never missed a game because of injury. His 19 seasons also are a team record and he ranks second in NFL history for years with one team behind Jackie Slater, who spent 20 seasons with the Rams. Matthews and G Randall McDaniel (Vikings) were the only two NFL players to play in every game during the decade of the 90's. Matthews was a part of nearly one-half of the franchise's first 42-years of history and helped the team win 146 games, make the playoffs nine times, earn the only three AFC Central titles in team history, earn an AFC Championship and the franchise's only Super Bowl appearance. He blocked for 15 quarterbacks and 27 running backs, including five different 1,000-yard rushers (Earl Campbell, Mike Rozier, Lorenzo White, Gary Brown and Eddie George). During his career, he played in offenses that produced nine 1,000-yard rushing seasons and eight 3,000-yard passers. Additionally, he played in 42 different stadiums during his NFL career. During his career, Matthews blocked on a line that helped produce 65 100-yard rushing performances and 48 300-yard passing performances. Originally drafted by the Houston Oilers in the first round (ninth overall) of the 1983 NFL Draft, Matthews earned All-America honors at the University of Southern California. Matthews and his brother, Clay, each played 19 NFL seasons and the duo set an NFL record for games played by a pair of brothers with 574 games. Clay Matthews played in 278 games during his NFL career. Matthews had his number 74 jersey retired by the team and was inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame during a December, 2002 ceremony. Matthews joined a 2007 Hall of Fame class that included Dallas Cowboys WR Michael Irvin, Buffalo Bills RB Thurman Thomas, Detroit Lions TE Charlie Sanders, Cleveland Browns G Gene Hickerson, and St. Louis CB Roger Wehrli.

FRANCHISE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAMERS

CURLY CULP

DEFENSIVE TACKLE • 6'2" • 265 lbs • COLLEGE: ARIZONA STATE
NFL SEASONS: 14 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1974-1980)
HOMETOWN: YUMA, ARIZ. • BORN: MARCH 10, 1946
GAMES PLAYED: 179 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2013

Curley Culp was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2013. A six-time Pro Bowl selection, Culp played in 179 games during his NFL career with the Kansas City Chiefs (1968-1974), Houston Oilers (1974-1980) and Detroit Lions (1980-81). He was considered the prototypical nose tackle and helped pioneer the 3-4 defense. Hailing from Arizona State, where he was an All-American in both football and wrestling, Culp was selected in the second round of the 1968 NFL Draft by the Denver Broncos, who intended to use him as an offensive guard. However, his brief stint in Denver ended when he was traded to the Chiefs, who inserted him permanently on the defensive side. In 1969, the Chiefs won Super Bowl IV, and Culp was an instrumental member of one of the league's top defenses. He helped the Chiefs defeat the Oakland Raiders in the AFL Championship Game and the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl. In 1974, during his seventh campaign in Kansas City, Culp was traded to the Oilers along with a first-round draft pick (used to select Robert Brazile) in exchange for John Matuszak. The move paid almost immediate dividends for the Oilers, who previously suffered through 1-13 records in both 1972 and 1973. In 1975, Culp's first full season in Houston, he helped the Oilers to a record of 10-4, the first winning mark for the club in eight years. With Culp anchoring the defense, the Oilers finished with the AFC's top-ranked run defense (third in the NFL). Individually, Culp produced arguably the finest season of his career, recording 11.5 sacks and earning NFL Defensive Player honors by the Newspaper Enterprise Association. Culp continued as a leader of the Oilers defense that culminated in back-to-back appearances in the AFC championship games in 1978 and 1979. He was named to one AFL All-Star Game and five Pro Bowls during his career. Culp also was picked as a first-team All-Pro in 1975 and a second-team selection in 1971, 1977, 1978, and 1979. He was selected first- or second-team All-AFC five times. "Curley Culp was perhaps the strongest man I ever lined up against," said Raiders Hall of Fame center Jim Otto. Culp used his strong wrestling background to create havoc for opposing guards and centers. He was the 1968 NCAA heavyweight wrestling champion and was named to the U.S.

Olympic wrestling team that year. Culp joined a 2013 Hall of Fame class that included offensive linemen Larry Allen and Jonathan Ogden, wide receiver Cris Carter, coach Bill Parcells, linebacker Dave Robinson and defensive lineman Warren Sapp.

ROBERT BRAZILE

LINEBACKER • 6'4" • 241 lbs • COLLEGE: JACKSON STATE
NFL SEASONS: 10 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 10 (1975-84)
HOMETOWN: MOBILE, ALA. • BORN: FEB. 7, 1953
GAMES PLAYED: 147 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2018

Robert Brazile was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2018. As a rookie in 1975, he made an instant impact as he helped Houston notch the franchise's first winning season in eight years with a 10-4 record. He went on to win Defensive Rookie of the Year in 1975. With his speed, strength, tackling and coverage ability, Brazile helped revolutionize the outside linebacker position in a 3-4 defense. Nicknamed 'Dr. Doom,' Brazile started all 147 regular season games during his career and made seven postseason starts, including back-to-back AFC Championship Games (1978-79). He recorded nine tackles and one fumble recovery in the 1978 AFC Championship game. He was elected to seven career Pro Bowls and named All-Pro for five consecutive seasons (1976-80). Brazile registered a career-best 185 tackles in 1978 on his way to helping the Oilers secure three consecutive 10-win seasons and three consecutive playoff berths (1987-80). His career statistics include 13 interceptions, 14 fumble recoveries and 6.5 sacks in both 1976 and 1980. Brazile was named to the NFL's All-Decade Team of the 1970s.

KEVIN MAWAE

CENTER • 6'4" • 289 lbs • COLLEGE: LOUISIANA STATE
NFL SEASONS: 16 • YEARS WITH TITANS: 4 (2005-09)
HOMETOWN: LEEVILLE, LA. • BORN: JAN. 23, 1971
GAMES PLAYED: 241 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2019

Kevin Mawae was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame Class of 2019 and became the first established Titan without connections to the Houston Oilers to receive the honor. He played four seasons (2006-09) in Tennessee. Mawae entered the NFL as a second-round pick of the Seattle Seahawks in the 1994 NFL Draft. He began his career at right guard before being moved to center at the start of the 1996 season and remained at that position for the rest of his NFL career. After four seasons (1994-97) in the Northwest, the Louisiana State product signed a free agent deal with the New York Jets in 1998. In his first season in New York, Mawae helped running back Curtis Martin rush for a Jets franchise record eight 100-yard rushing games en route to 1,287-yard season. In 1999, he was named to his first of eight Pro Bowls and paved the way for Martin's then franchise-record 1,464 rushing yards. The 6-foot-4-inch, 289-pounder played in an astounding 177 consecutive games before a serious triceps injury ended his 2005 campaign after six games. Mawae signed a free agent deal with the Titans in 2006. In his first season with Tennessee, he made an immediate impact and was a part of an offense that ranked third in the AFC and fifth in the NFL in rushing with 2,214 yards. Three seasons later, he helped Chris Johnson amass a franchise-best 2,006 rushing yards, becoming just the sixth player all-time to accomplish the feat. In 241 career games over 16 seasons, Mawae was extremely durable and known for his toughness in the trenches. He was a first-team, all-decade center for the 2000s and blocked for a 1,000-yard rusher in 13 of his 16 seasons. Running backs Chris Warren (1,545 yards in 1994), Martin (1,697 in 2004), LenDale White (1,110 in 2007) and Johnson (2,006 in 2009) had the highest season rushing totals of their careers with Mawae on the line. He played 90 games in which there was a 100-yard rusher, the most by any offensive lineman in NFL history.

RETIRED JERSEY NUMBERS

In the history of the Oilers/Titans franchise, only eight players have had the distinction of having their jersey number retired — Jim Norton (No. 43), Elvin Bethea (No. 65), Earl Campbell (No. 34), Mike Munchak (No. 63), Bruce Matthews (No. 74), Warren Moon (No. 1), Eddie George (No. 27) and Steve McNair (No. 9).

Jim Norton played nine seasons for the Oilers (1960-68) as a safety and as a punter, establishing team records at both positions. As a rookie from the University of Idaho, Norton was a member of the Oilers' 1960 AFL Championship team. A four-time league all-star, he holds the club record for most interceptions in a career with 45. Also an accomplished punter, Norton was tops in club history with 519 career punts for a 42.3-yard career average and a long kick of 79 yards (11/22/64 vs. Kansas City).

Elvin Bethea joined the Oilers in 1968 after an outstanding career at North Carolina A&T. He started at defensive end in the 1968 season opener and didn't miss a game until breaking his arm in November 1977. That streak of 135 consecutive games played stands third in team history. An eight-time Pro Bowler (1970, 1972-76, 1978-80), Bethea ranks second for most seasons played (16, 1968-83), while his 210 games played (1968-83) also stands second behind Bruce Matthews. Bethea led the team in sacks six times, including a career-best mark of 17 in 1973. The Oilers honored him with an "Elvin Bethea Appreciation Night" on Aug. 4, 1983. He became the sixth player in franchise history to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Aug. 3, 2003.

Earl Campbell, the franchise's second leading rusher and a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was honored by having his number retired at ceremonies on Aug. 13, 1987. He set a single-season club record with a league-leading 1,450 yards his rookie season. Campbell followed that performance with 1,697 yards in 1979 and an astounding 1,934 yards in 1980. Both those totals led the NFL and the latter was second only to O.J. Simpson's 2,003 yards in 1973. Campbell was selected to five Pro Bowls (1978-81, 1983) and retired as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher (9,407). He ranks second in franchise history in career rushing yards (8,574) and attempts (1,979), first in touchdown runs (73) and first in most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5).

Mike Munchak joined the Oilers as a first-round draft pick in 1982 out of Penn State. He was the first offensive lineman selected in the draft and the eighth overall selection. Munchak won the starting left guard position as a rookie and went on to play in 12 campaigns (1982-93) and 159 games (156 starts) for the Oilers. He is tied for third on the team's all-time list for seasons played and ranks fifth in games played. Munchak became a fixture on an offensive line that helped the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances (1987-93). One of the premier guards in the National Football League, Munchak was selected to NFL's "Team of the Decade" for the 1980s and was chosen in 1989 to Oilers' 30th Anniversary "Dream Team." He ranks second in club annals with nine Pro Bowl selections, seven as a starter. Munchak announced his retirement on July 21, 1994, and on the same day, K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., announced that jersey No. 63 would be retired on "Mike Munchak Appreciation Day" on Nov. 6, 1994.

Bruce Matthews played in more games (296) than any non-kicker in NFL history. Longevity and durability were his hallmark. And that, coupled with his unparalleled play, in which he tied a league record with 14 Pro Bowl selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and earned All-Pro honors six times, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in playing every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 at center, 99 at left guard, 67 at right guard, 22 at right tackle, and 17 at left tackle). His number was retired during a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Dec. 8, 2002.

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history at the time his number was retired, played 10 years (1984-93) with the organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. Moon's finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363-for-584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games and becoming the third player in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000-yard passing seasons. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third Pro Bowl berth. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Oct. 1, 2006.

Eddie George became the organization's all-time leading rusher as well as its all-time scrimmage yards leader in eight seasons with the team. His 10,009 rushing yards from 1996–2003 ranked second in the NFL (Curtis Martin), while his 12,153 scrimmage yards in the same time frame were third (Marshall Faulk, Martin). His accolades included four Pro Bowl selections (1997–2000), AP All-Pro honors (2000) and the AP Rookie of the Year Award (1996). George also set franchise standards for career rushing attempts (2,733), career touchdowns (74), 1,000-yard rushing seasons (seven), seasons as the team's leading rusher (eight) and career playoff rushing yards (776). During his time with the Titans he amassed 36 100-yard rushing performances (second to Earl Campbell's 39), resulting in a 30-6 record in those contests. He established an NFL mark with 130 consecutive starts by a running back to begin a career—a total which ranked second in NFL history for consecutive starts by a running back at any point. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Sept. 15, 2019.

Steve McNair played 11 seasons with the organization (1995–2005), becoming its second all-time leading passer (27,141 yards) and recording the most wins as a starting quarterback (76). At the time his jersey was retired, he trailed only Warren Moon on the franchise's all-time passing yards list and also ranked second for the organization in completions (2,305), completion percentage (59.5) and passer rating (83.3). He ranked third in touchdown passes (156). His 3,439 rushing yards and 36 touchdown runs were the most in team history by a quarterback. McNair earned three of his four career Pro Bowl berths with the Titans (2000, 2003 and 2005), and in 2003, he shared Associated Press NFL Most Valuable Player honors with Peyton Manning after leading the league with a 100.4 rating. He became the first African-American quarterback to win MVP honors. McNair was the third player in the history of the NFL to pass for 30,000 yards and rushed for 3,500 yards, along with Fran Tarkenton and Steve Young. Only Brett Favre and Manning started more combined NFL regular season and postseason games than McNair (134) from the time he became a full-time starter in 1997 through 2005. He was selected with the third overall draft pick in 1995. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Sept. 15, 2019.

OILERS LOGO HISTORY

The original Oilers helmet, circa 1960, was blue with a white stripe down the middle. The oil derrick logo was also white. Although the derrick itself remained, many subtle changes were made to the helmets over the years. In 1964, two red stripes were added to the white striping on top of the helmet. Two years later, the helmet color was changed to silver with red and blue striping. The derrick, meanwhile, was changed to blue with a red outline and white background. In 1972, the helmet color was switched back to blue with red and white striping, while the derrick was changed to white with a red outline. Three years later, the helmet color was changed to its familiar white with red and blue striping. The derrick was then switched to blue with a red outline. The helmets boasted a gray facemask. In 1981, the facemask was switched to red. In 1997, the Oilers added the Tennessee logo to the back of their helmet upon their relocation to Nashville. In 1999, the franchise unveiled a new logo as the team was renamed the Tennessee Titans.

The original Houston Oilers helmet from 1960-65 was blue with a white stripe down the middle.

Record 110-83 (regular season), 2-4 (playoffs)

First Game 9/12/99 — Tennessee 36, Cincinnati 35 (65,272)

Highlights: At Nissan Stadium, the Tennessee Titans have recorded a 112-87 home record (combined regular season and playoffs through 2022), including an undefeated 9-0 home mark in 1999. Adelphia Coliseum, as the stadium was first named, opened its doors in the national spotlight with a preseason victory over the Atlanta Falcons on Aug. 27, 1999. Tennessee opened the regular season with a come-from-behind 36-35 victory over Cincinnati. But the most memorable victory of the season came in a 22-16 Wild Card victory over Buffalo on Jan. 8, 2000. In that game, Kevin Dyson fielded a lateral pass from Frank Wycheck with 16 seconds left and raced 75 yards down the sideline for the winning score. That play, which propelled Tennessee into an AFC Divisional showdown at Indianapolis the following week, was immediately dubbed "The Music City Miracle" and will go down as one of the most memorable moments in NFL history. The Titans won 12 consecutive games to open their new stadium, breaking the NFL record. The Coliseum's name was changed to LP Field in 2006. On June 25, 2015, Nissan and the Titans announced a 20-year stadium naming rights agreement.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

1997

January 1 – The team promotes linebackers coach Gregg Williams to defensive coordinator.

January 3 – After relieving Jerry Rhome of his duties, the Oilers make wide receivers coach Les Steckel the team's offensive coordinator/quarterbacks coach.

February 24 – Oilers trade QB Chris Chandler to the Atlanta Falcons for two 1997 draft choices (4th and 6th).

May 3 – City of Nashville holds ground-breaking ceremonies for the team's downtown stadium.

May 8 – After formulating an agreement earlier with Harris County (Houston), K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. and Astrodome USA owner Drayton McLane, Jr. reach a settlement for the final year of Oilers' lease at the Astrodome. Under appointed mediator Alice Oliver Parrott, the two sides clear the biggest step in the team's ability to play games in Tennessee for the 1997 season.

June 5 – Oilers reach agreement with Memphis Sports Authority, clearing the way for the team to play its games in the Liberty Bowl.

June 12 – Oilers hold press conference in Nashville to formally announce the club's intention to play the 1997 season in Tennessee, and introduce an inaugural patch and logo which merges the Oilers traditional "Oil derrick" with the Tennessee state flag.

July 18 – Oilers players report to Tennessee State University for their first training camp in the state of Tennessee. Also, Oilers sign DE Kenny Holmes, 1997 first-round selection, to a four-year contract.

July 19 – Oilers sign GM Floyd Reese to a four-year extension running through 2001 season.

August 2 – Oilers play first preseason game of 1997 season at Liberty Bowl in Memphis, falling to the New Orleans Saints 21-12.

August 9 – Oilers play their first ever game at Vanderbilt Stadium, an 18-12 preseason loss to Washington.

August 15 – Oilers move into their temporary training facility in Bellevue.

August 23 – Oilers promote Don MacLachlan to Executive Vice President of Marketing, Broadcasting, and Ticketing.

August 27 – Oilers sign free agent SS Blaine Bishop.

August 31 – Oilers open their inaugural season in the state of Tennessee with a 24-21 overtime win over the Oakland Raiders at Liberty Bowl. RB Eddie George ties Billy Cannon's franchise record for rushing yards in a game with 216 yards on 35 carries. With the game-winning field goal in overtime, K Al Del Greco becomes the Oilers all-time points leader, surpassing George Blanda's total of 596 points.

October 27 – In their first-ever trip to Arizona, the Oilers defeat the Cardinals 41-14.

November 27 – Oilers defeat Dallas 27-14 on Thanksgiving Day in front of a national-television audience. It marked the first regular season game in Texas for the Oilers since their move to Tennessee.

December 11 – G Bruce Matthews, RB Eddie George, and SS Blaine Bishop are selected to the Pro Bowl. Matthews extends the mark for consecutive selections (10) and surpasses G Mike Munchak for most overall selections (9).

December 14 – Oilers fall to the Baltimore Ravens 21-19 in the final game at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. It marked the second time the Oilers closed the stadium, because on Dec. 18, 1983, the Oilers played at the Baltimore Colts in what would be their final game in Baltimore.

December 21 – Oilers close their inaugural season in Tennessee with an 8-8 record after a 16-6 win over Pittsburgh in Memphis.

1998

February 14 – Oilers agree to terms with free agent WR Yancey Thigpen from Pittsburgh.

February 19 – Oilers agree to terms with free agent P/K Craig Hentrich from Green Bay.

February 24 – Oilers reach agreement with Shelby County Sports Authority and Memphis Park Commission to be released from the final year of their lease at the Liberty Bowl.

March 4 – Oilers and Vanderbilt University reach tentative agreement for the Oilers to play at Vanderbilt Stadium for the 1998 season.

March 11 – Oilers agree to terms with free agent TE Jackie Harris from Tampa Bay.

HOUSTON OILERS TO TENNESSEE TITANS

After trying unsuccessfully for many years to construct a deal with the city of Houston for a new football or multi-use stadium, Oilers owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. decided that moving his franchise to another city might be the only solution left to keep the team financially competitive. In the spring of 1995, research was completed and several cities were identified as desirable for relocation and at the top of the list was Nashville, Tenn.

In the summer of 1995, Adams contacted Nashville's mayor, Phil Bredesen, to see if the city would be interested in having the team relocate to the region. A 70-day exclusive negotiating period was agreed to and in November the two had signed a relocation agreement that would bring the Oilers to Nashville. In April of 1996, the NFL approved the team's relocation and on May 7th, the voters of Davidson County approved a referendum on using public funding for the new downtown stadium.

Dec. 15, 1996 would mark the Oilers final home game at the Astrodome in Houston – a 21-13 loss to Cincinnati in front of 15,131 fans. In May of 1997, the team reached a settlement with the Astrodome that let them escape the final year of the contract and allowing the team to play the 1997 season in Tennessee.

With the new stadium in Nashville still two years from completion, the team decided to play at Memphis' Liberty Bowl until the stadium was complete. The Tennessee Oilers opened their inaugural season in the state of Tennessee with a 24-21 overtime win over the Oakland Raiders at the Liberty Bowl in front only 30,000 fans.

The Oilers struggled with low attendance throughout the 1997 season and by March of 1998, the Oilers reached an agreement to play the 1998 season at Vanderbilt Stadium in Nashville. Crowds at Vanderbilt Stadium were an improvement from the previous year, but the team could only muster a 3-5 home mark. During the 1998 season, Adams announced the Oilers name would be retired and the team would be renamed the Titans as they entered their new stadium for the 1999 season.

In April of 1999, the team unveiled their new Titans uniforms and in August the team played its first game at Nissan Stadium (named Adelphia Coliseum at the time). The 1999 season ended with the franchise's first Super Bowl berth in the team's 40-year history. A total of 20 players endured the entire odyssey of playing in Houston in 1996, Memphis in 1997, Vanderbilt in 1998 and LP Field in 1999.

HOME SWEET HOME

The newly-named Tennessee Titans opened their new stadium, Adelphia Coliseum (eventually to be named Nissan Stadium) with the regular season opener on Sept. 12, 1999 against the Cincinnati Bengals. The back and forth game would end with the Titans hanging on for a 36-35 win. The win would start a historic streak of 12 consecutive wins to open the new stadium. The 12 consecutive wins were the most in the modern era for a new stadium (Texas Stadium, 9 wins in 1971) and one short of the all-time record by the Buffalo Americans in 1920. The Titans first loss in their new home would come against the Baltimore Ravens on Nov. 12, 2000. The winning streak actually began in the spring of 1998, when a devastating tornado ripped through Nashville, but only gave a glancing blow to the under construction stadium and sparing it from destruction.

August 27 – Titans defeat Atlanta, 17-3, in the first preseason game at Adelphia Coliseum.

September 2 – Owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. and his wife, Nancy, announce the creation of the Tennessee Titans Foundation, an organization established to serve the charitable interests of the state of Tennessee by providing financial support and other resources to non-profit organizations, enriching and strengthening communities throughout the state. Adams donates $500,000 to start the foundation.

September 5 – Cornerback Darryll Lewis, the team leader in interceptions in each of the past five seasons, is released.

September 12 – Al Del Greco kicks a 33-yard field goal to lift the Titans to a 36-35 win over Cincinnati in the first regular season game and victory at Adelphia Coliseum. The win, in front of 65,272 fans, is the team's first as the Titans, and quarterback Steve McNair passes for a career-high 341 yards in the victory.

September 26 – The team wins its first road contest as the Titans, a 20-19 victory at Jacksonville sealed by a Samari Rolle interception in the end zone with under a minute remaining.

October 31 – Steve McNair returns after missing five games because of a back injury to lead the Titans to defeat the previously-unbeaten St. Louis Rams, 24-21 at Adelphia Coliseum. McNair is named Miller Lite NFL Player of the Week for his performance in the victory.

December 19 – Tennessee clinches the franchise's first playoff berth since 1993 with a 30-17 win over Atlanta at Adelphia Coliseum.

December 22 – G Bruce Matthews, RB Eddie George, DE Jevon Kearse and TE Frank Wycheck are named to the AFC team for the Pro Bowl. Matthews extends his franchise records for consecutive and overall selections (12), and Kearse becomes the first rookie defensive end selected to the Pro Bowl in AFC history and the first in the NFL since 1978.

December 26 – Tennessee defeats Jacksonville for the fourth consecutive time, a 41-14 victory in which Steve McNair throws five touchdown passes. McNair earns his first AFC Offensive Player of the Week and his second haven't thought about these issues before to understand the pain, anger and frustration of the black community. Black lives matter. We should all agree on that."

July 25 - The NFL cancels all 2020 preseason contests and modifies all team's training camps because of safety protocols involving the COVID-19 pandemic. However, the 2020 regular season starts as scheduled.

October 13 - The Titans defeat the Buffalo Bills 42-16 at Nissan Stadium in the NFL's second Tuesday game since 1946. Positive COVID-19 test results force the Titans to close their headquarters on Tuesday, Sept. 29, and reschedule their game with the Pittsburgh Steelers. The facility does not reopen until Saturday, Oct. 10. Following just three days of in-person activities, the Titans take the field against the previously unbeaten Bills and win convincingly. At the time of the Bills game, the Titans had eight players on their reserve/COVID-19 lists, including five from their active/inactive roster. At the outbreak's peak, there were a total of 14 players on the reserve/COVID-19 lists.

December 18 - The Titans and the City of Nashville announce that they are engaged in formal discussions regarding the future of Nissan Stadium. The discussions aim to secure the Titans' future in Nashville and facilitate the creation of a new Nashville neighborhood surrounding the facility.

2021

January 3 - The Titans clinch the AFC South division crown with a 41-38 victory over the Houston Texans after practice squad call-up kicker Sam Sloman bounces a 37-yard field goal attempt off the right upright and through as time expires in regulation. It gives the Titans their first AFC South championship since 2008. In the victory, Derrick Henry captures his second consecutive NFL rushing title after posting a franchise-record 250 rushing yards. He accumulates 2,027 rushing yards on the 2020 season, making him just the eighth player in NFL history to reach the 2,000-yard rushing mark.

February 6 - Running back Derrick Henry is named Associated Press NFL Offensive Player of the Year.

June 6 - The Titans acquire wide receiver Julio Jones in a trade with the Atlanta Falcons. The Titans send a 2022 second-round pick and a conditional 2023 fourth-round selection to Atlanta in exchange for Jones and a 2023 sixth-round pick.

September 26 - The Titans induct former Oilers coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips into the franchise's Ring of Honor. Phillips was the personification of the 'Luv Ya Blue Era' as the head coach of the Oilers for six seasons (1975-80). Upon leaving the organization, he owned a .608 winning percentage (59-38), the best at that time by any Oilers head coach with at least two full seasons.

November 21 - The Titans induct former head coach Jeff Fisher and former general manager Floyd Reese into the franchise's Ring of Honor. Fisher is the winningest coach in franchise history, amassing 147 wins from 1994-2010 and the team's only Super Bowl appearance following the 1999 season. Reese had a 21-year run (1986-2006) with the Oilers/Titans as a coach and executive and is the winningest general manager in franchise history.

January 2 - The Titans defeat the Miami Dolphins 34-3 at Nissan Stadium, clinching their second consecutive AFC South division title. It marks the organization's first back-to-back division titles since the Oilers won the AFL Eastern division each season from 1960 to 1962.

January 9 - The Titans finish the 2021 regular season with a 28-25 victory at Houston and in the process earned the No. 1 seed in the AFC playoffs for the first time since 2008. The Titans set an NFL record for a non-strike year by using 91 total players in 2021.

February 10 - Mike Vrabel is named the Associated Press NFL Coach of the Year, becoming the franchise's first head coach to accomplish the feat. He also earned NFL Coach of the Year honors from the Pro Football Writers of America, Sporting News, 101 Awards and the NFL on FOX Awards.

April 28 - During the first round of the 2022 NFL Draft, the Titans trade wide receiver A.J. Brown to the Philadelphia Eagles in exchange for a first-round pick (18th overall) and a third-round pick (101st overall).

October 18 - Former Titans tight end Delanie Walker announces his retirement at Nissan Stadium. He finishes his career as a three-time Pro Bowl selection (2015-17), four-time captain and two-time Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year nominee (2013, 2015).

October 20 - At Tennessee State University, the Titans announce a new community benefits platform with 16 local and regional organizations. The

ONE Community platform includes multi-faceted programs to reach many of Nashville's most underserved communities with a focus on three areas: Opportunity, Neighborhoods and Education.

October 30 - At Houston, running back Derrick Henry rushes for 219 yards and two touchdowns, giving him 75 total career touchdowns to break Eddie George's franchise record (74).

2023

January 18 - Former San Francisco 49ers director of player personnel Ran Carthon is hired as the 14th general manager in franchise history.

January 31 - The Titans announce that a monofilament, synthetic turf playing surface will be installed at Nissan Stadium, citing a review of both injury data and the growth patterns of natural grass in the region leading to the decision.

February 24 - The Titans and Nashville Mayor John Cooper submit an agreement for approval by the Nashville Metro Council to build a new, enclosed stadium on Nashville's East Bank.

April 11 - The Titans announce a multi-year contract extension with defensive tackle Jeffery Simmons.

April 26 - The Titans receive final approval from the Metropolitan Nashville Council with a 26-12 vote to move forward with plans to build a new, enclosed stadium set on Nashville's East Bank. The stadium agreement includes a new 30-year lease and non-relocation pact between the Titans and the Nashville Sports Authority. The terms remove the previous obligation of Nashville's General Fund to maintain and upgrade the stadium and return 66 acres of land to the City of Nashville previously restricted by parking lots through 2039. The team will contribute nearly $48 million over the life of the lease to the Nashville Needs Impact Fund, a fund directed by the Metro Council to support city needs such as public education, public transit, affordable housing, and several other areas. The new stadium, estimated at 1.75 million square feet with a seating capacity of approximately 60,000, is anticipated to bring in year-round major events; will host Tennessee State University home football games, extending the long-standing partnership between TSU and the Titans; and include a 12,000 square foot community space to host classes for local schools, job trainings, and other community events. The Titans are responsible for $840 million of stadium funding and any cost overruns. The State of Tennessee will contribute $500 million, and the remaining $760 million of the $2.1 billion budget will come from revenue bonds issued by the Metro Sports Authority to be repaid through a one-percent increase in Davidson County's hotel occupancy tax, in-stadium sales tax, 50 percent of sales tax from future development of the stadium's campus, rent paid by the team, and a pre-existing ticket tax of three dollars per ticket sold that will carry over to the new building. The stadium budget includes stadium-related infrastructure required to open the building.

June 1 - Titans all-time leading punter Brett Kern announces his NFL retirement at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park. At the time of his retirement, he ranks as the franchise's all-time career leader in punts (923), gross punting average (45.9 yards), net punting average (40.8) and punts placed inside the 20 (373), and his 197 career games played with the team ranks third in club history behind Bruce Matthews (296) and Elvin Bethea (210).

GAME-WINNING FIELD GOALS

The franchise has totaled 54 game-winning field goals since 1960, including three playoff game winners. Rob Bironas leads the franchise with 11 game-winning field goals, followed by the 10 by former Oiler/Titan Al Del Greco (1991-00). Bironas' 60-yard field goal vs. Indianapolis (12/3/06) ranks as the longest game-winning field goal in franchise history. A game-winning field goal is defined as one that was the final score of the game and gave the kicker's team the lead at any time in the fourth quarter or overtime.
