TITANS VISIT NO. 1 SEED RAVENS IN DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME

Tennessee Titans (10-7) at Baltimore Ravens (14-2)

Saturday, Jan. 11, 2020 • 8:15 p.m. EST/7:15 p.m. CST • M&T Bank Stadium • Baltimore, Md. • TV: CBS

NASHVILLE — The Tennessee Titans (10-7) travel to Baltimore this week to face the AFC North champion Ravens (14-2) in an AFC divisional playoff game. Kickoff at M&T Bank Stadium (capacity 71,008) is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. EST/7:15 p.m. CST on Saturday, Jan. 11.

The winner will advance to the AFC championship game to play either the Kansas City Chiefs or the Houston Texans, who meet Sunday in Kansas City.

The Titans and Ravens have met on three previous occasions in the postseason, with the Ravens holding a 2-1 advantage. The Ravens won at Nissan Stadium following the 2000 and 2008 seasons, while the Titans won in Baltimore during the 2003 playoffs.

THE BROADCAST

This week's game will be nationally televised on CBS, including Nashville affiliate WTVF NewsChannel 5. The broadcast team includes play-by-play announcer Ian Eagle, analyst Dan Fouts and sideline reporter Evan Washburn.

Fans can livestream the game on their mobile devices from the Titans app (iOS only), the NFL app and the Yahoo! Sports app. Restrictions apply. For more information visit TitansOnline.com.

The Titans Radio Network, including Nashville flagship 104.5 The Zone, will carry the game across the Mid-South with the "Voice of the Titans" Mike Keith, analyst Dave McGinnis, sideline reporter Amie Wells and gameday hosts Rhett Bryan and Jonathan Hutton.

Additionally, Westwood One Sports will broadcast the game to a national radio audience. Play-by-play announcer Brandon Gaudin, analyst Ross Tucker and field reporter Laura Okmin will have the call.

TITANS ADVANCE AFTER WIN AT NEW ENGLAND

The Titans earned the opportunity to play the Ravens in the divisional round after defeating the AFC East champion Patriots 20-13 last week at New England. Second-year head coach Mike Vrabel led the team to victory in his first career postseason game with the Titans.

Since the NFL went to its current playoff format in 1990, Vrabel's squad is the eighth team to advance to the divisional round of the postseason after beginning the regular season with two wins or less in its first six regular season games.

In the win, running back Derrick Henry set new franchise single-game postseason records with 182 rushing yards and 204 scrimmage yards. He tallied the most rushing yards in an NFL playoff game since Green Bay's Ryan Grant ran for 201 yards against Seattle on Jan. 12, 2008. His scrimmage yards total was the league's highest in the playoffs since Indianapolis wide receiver T.Y. Hilton had 224 yards against Kansas City on Jan. 4, 2014.

Quarterback Ryan Tannehill notched a win in his first career postseason game, passing for 72 yards and a touchdown. Since Tannehill took over the starting duties in Week 7 of the regular season, the Titans are 8-3.

Meanwhile, the Titans defense limited the Patriots to 13 points, which tied for the lowest amount by the Patriots in 41 playoff games since 2001 under head coach Bill Belichick. The Titans shut out the Patriots in the second half.

THE RAVENS

The Ravens had a first-round playoff bye after clinching the AFC North and the AFC's No. 1 seed with a franchise-best 14-2 record in the regular season. They closed out the season with 12 consecutive victories, setting another team record.

Head coach John Harbaugh has led the Ravens to a playoff berth in eight of his 12 seasons at the helm, including four division titles.

Harbaugh's 2019 squad ranked first in the NFL in scoring (33.2 points per game), second in total offense (407.6 yards per game), first in rushing offense (206.0) and fourth in total defense (300.6) during the regular season.

Second-year quarterback Lamar Jackson is an NFL MVP candidate after becoming the only quarterback in NFL history to reach 3,000 passing yards (3,127) and 1,000 rushing yards (1,206) in a single season. His 36 passing touchdowns led the NFL, and he reached the end zone seven times on rushing attempts to give him a league-leading 43 combined touchdowns.

A TITANS VICTORY WOULD ...

- Give the Titans their first AFC Championship game appearance since the 2002 playoffs.
- Give the Titans their first two-win postseason since the 1999 campaign.
- Improve the all-time franchise postseason record to 17-20, including an 8-7 record as the Tennessee Titans (1999–present).
- Improve the Titans' all-time record against the Ravens to 12-12, including a 2-2 postseason record.
- Improve Mike Vrabel's career record to 20-14 as a head coach, including playoffs.
- Improve QB Ryan Tannehill's combined starting record in the regular season and playoffs to 51-49, including a 9-3 record with the Titans.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR THIS WEEK

- The Titans are making their second divisional round appearance in four seasons under general manager Jon Robinson. They finished their 2017 campaign with a win in the wild card round and a loss in the divisional round.
- WR A.J. Brown can become the franchise's first rookie to record a 100-yard receiving game in the postseason.
- RB Derrick Henry can notch his eighth 100-yard rushing game of 2019 and his 13th career 100-yard rushing game, including regular season and playoffs.
- RB Derrick Henry (366 career postseason rushing yards) needs 55 rushing yards to pass Earl Campbell (420) for second place in franchise postseason history on the all-time postseason rushing list. Only Eddie George (776) would have more rushing yards than Henry.
- RB Derrick Henry can become the first player since the 1970 NFL-AFL merger with 180 or more rushing yards in three consecutive regular season and/or postseason games.
- RB Derrick Henry can record his third career 100-yard rushing game in the postseason, which would match Eddie George for the most in team annals.
- QB Ryan Tannehill can record his 20th career 300-yard game and his fourth 300-yard game of 2019, including postseason.
- QB Ryan Tannehill can complete at least one touchdown pass for the 12th consecutive game (regular season and playoffs) since taking over as the starting quarterback in Week 7.

SERIES HISTORY

The Titans and the Ravens have developed a fierce rivalry over the course of 23 all-time meetings since the series originated in 1996. The frequency of the encounters has slowed, however, with the clubs playing only four times since the start of the 2009 season.

The Ravens have a 12-11 edge in the highly competitive series. Of the 23 games the teams have played against each other, 12 have been decided by four points or less, with the Titans holding a 7-5 advantage in those meetings.

The Ravens hold the advantage 2-1 in three previous playoff matchups.

The two teams played together in the AFC Central Division for six seasons after the Ravens relocated to Baltimore from Cleveland in 1996. Realignment in the league in 2002 took the Titans to the AFC South and the Ravens to the AFC North, ending their twice-yearly meetings. In the 10 games since realignment, the series is tied 5-5.

This is the third consecutive season/postseason in which the Titans and Ravens have played. They met at Nissan Stadium in Week 9 of the 2017 campaign (Nov. 5), with the Titans prevailing 23-20 on the strength of two Marcus Mariota touchdown passes and two interceptions by safety Kevin Byard.

The Ravens visited Tennessee again on Oct. 14, 2018 and handed the Titans a 21-0 defeat. It marked the first and only time the Titans have been shutout at Nissan Stadium.

The last time the Titans and Ravens met at M&T Bank Stadium was Week 10 of 2014. In that game, Justin Forsett's 112 rushing yards and two touchdowns helped defeat quarterback Zach Mettenberger and the Titans by a final score of 21-7.

The Titans controlled the majority of the outcomes for the first five years of the series, winning six out of their first nine games. Then, in 2000, the Ravens stole the momentum. Despite owning the NFL's best record at 13-3, the Titans lost to the Ravens at home in the regular season—the Titans' first-ever loss at Nissan Stadium—and then again in a divisional playoff game the same year. The playoff win launched the Ravens to their eventual Super Bowl XXXV Championship.

The Ravens went on to win a total of five consecutive games over the Titans until the 2003 playoffs, when the Titans won at Baltimore in a Wild Card playoff game on a 46-yard Gary Anderson field goal in the final minute of play.

Five years later at Nissan Stadium, the two clubs met again in the playoffs, this time in the 2008 Divisional Round. Matt Stover's 43-yard field goal with less than a minute on the clock provided the Ravens a 13-10 victory.

TITANS-RAVENS: THE LAST MEETING

Titans 0, Ravens 21

Week 6 • Sunday, Oct. 14, 2018 • 3:25 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 6 of the 2018 season the Titans hosted the Baltimore Ravens and lost by a score of 21-0.

On the Titans opening drive, the Ravens defense forced Tennessee to punt. The Baltimore offense took the field, as Ravens QB Joe Flacco guided his team on a 17-play, 94-yard scoring drive that lasted nine minutes and nine seconds. Baltimore converted five first downs as Flacco rushed for a first down, and connected with Ravens WR Michael Crabtree and Ravens RB Javorius Allen for two first downs each. Ultimately, Flacco hit Crabtree for a four-yard touchdown pass as Baltimore got on the board with a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Baltimore kept the chains moving as Flacco connected with Ravens WR Willie Snead IV for 11 yards and a first down, and Ravens WR John Brown for 23 yards and a first down. The 52-yard scoring drive culminated in a 13-yard rushing score by Ravens RB Alex Collins and a 14-0 Baltimore lead.

On the opening drive of the second half, five first downs were made by Baltimore en route to a touchdown score. Flacco threw two first down passes to Snead IV, and Ravens RB Gus Edwards, Ravens RB Alex Collins, and Ravens QB Lamar Jackson each rushed for a first down. The drive culminated in a two-yard touchdown rush by Collins as Baltimore extended its lead, 21-0.

The Titans ultimately could not manufacture a comeback victory, and fell to the Ravens at home by a score of 21-0.

John Harbaugh is in his 12th season as the Ravens head coach. He was named the franchise's third head coach on Jan. 19, 2008.

In 2019, Harbaugh led the Ravens to a AFC North division title for the second straight season after finishing the season with an AFC-best 14-2 record.

Over the last 12 years, Harbaugh has led the Ravens to a playoff berth in eight (2008-12, 2014, 2018-19) of his 12 full seasons, and in 2012, he helped capture the franchise's second World Championship.

Harbaugh became the third head coach in NFL history to guide his team to the playoffs in each of his first five seasons (2008-12). He is the only head coach in NFL history (since 1970 merger) to win a playoff game in each of his first four and first five seasons. Baltimore owns a 10-5 postseason mark during his tenure and has appeared in three AFC Championship games (2008, 2011, 2012).

In 2017, Baltimore finished second in the AFC North with a 9-7 record, falling one game short of earning a playoff berth (lost on tiebreaker with Buffalo) for the seventh time in Harbaugh's 10-year tenure. Over the season's last nine games, Baltimore scored the NFL's second-most points per contest (29.4). During that span, the Ravens also ranked first in fewest giveaways (five) and second in sacks allowed (10).

In 2016, the Ravens finished second in the AFC North with an 8-8 record (4-2 in division play) behind the 11-5 Pittsburgh Steelers. Through the first 12 games, Baltimore's defense ranked No. 1 in the NFL in yards allowed, finishing seventh overall (322.1 ypg). Quarterback Joe Flacco set a single-season franchise record by throwing for 4,317 yards, adding 20 TDs and Pro-Bowl kicker Justin Tucker scored a single-season franchise-record 141 points, connecting on 38 of 39 and 27 of 27 PATs.

Prior to coaching the Ravens, Harbaugh spent 1998–2007 as an assistant coach with the Philadelphia Eagles. Harbaugh's special teams in Philadelphia were consistently ranked among the NFL's best. From 2000–2005, the Eagles' special teams units finished in the Top 10 five times in The Dallas Morning News' comprehensive rankings.

Following the 2001 campaign, Harbaugh was voted the NFL's Special Teams Coach of the Year by his peers. He was also named The Dallas Morning News Special Teams Coach of the Year that season. In just four seasons (1998-2001), Harbaugh elevated the Eagles' special teams units from 29th to first in the league.

Harbaugh's 30 total years of coaching includes 10 years on offense and four on defense at the collegiate level. He launched his coaching career in 1984 at the age of 21 as a graduate assistant for his father, Jack Harbaugh, at Western Michigan. In his second position at the University of Pittsburgh (1987), he was mentored by the legendary Sid Gillman, a Pro Football Hall of Famer. He also coached the tight ends at Pitt under head coach Mike Gottfried. While at the University of Cincinnati (1989–1996), Harbaugh coached special teams, tight ends, outside linebackers, running backs and was also the recruiting coordinator. From 1995–1996, he was Cincinnati's assistant head coach, with the Bearcats finishing 6-5 both seasons.

TITANS ERA PLAYOFF GAMES

Wild Card • Jan. 8, 2000 • Bills 16 at TITANS 22

The "Music City Miracle," a 75-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Kevin Dyson with three seconds remaining in the game, provided a 22-16 Wild Card victory ... Eddie George rushed for 106 yards on 29 carries ... Jevon Kearse recorded two sacks, a forced fumble and a safety.

Jan. 16, 2000 • Divisional • TITANS 19 at Colts 16

Eddie George set a franchise playoff record with 162 rushing yards on 26 carries, including a 68-yard touchdown run ... Al Del Greco added four field goals in the win ... An 87-yard punt return by the Colts was reversed after a replay review.

Jan. 23, 2000 • Conference • TITANS 33 at Jaguars 14

Steve McNair rushed for 91 yards and two second-half touchdowns ... The Titans defense forced six Jaguars turnovers ... After a safety, Derrick Mason returned the kick 80 yards for a touchdown.

Jan. 30, 2000 • SB XXXIV • RAMS 23, Titans 16

Steve McNair led a two-minute drive that ended with a Kevin Dyson reception on the one-yard line as time expired ... Isaac Bruce's 73-yard reception from Kurt Warner was the game-winning score with 1:54 remaining ... Eddie George rushed for 95 yards and two second-half touchdowns, igniting a 16-point comeback.

Jan. 7, 2001 • Divisional • RAVENS 24 at Titans 10

The Ravens returned a blocked field goal 90 yards for a touchdown, and Ray Lewis intercepted a pass and raced 50 yards to seal a Ravens victory ... The Titans scored their only touchdown on a two-yard run by Eddie George to cap the first series of the game.

Jan. 11, 2003 • Divisional • Steelers 31 at TITANS 34 (OT)

Joe Nedney's 26-yard field goal, following a 31-yard miss and Pittsburgh running-into-the-kicker penalty on the play, provided the winning margin in overtime ... Steve McNair passed for 338 yards, including 123 yards to Frank Wycheck.

Jan. 19, 2003 • Conference • Titans 24 at RAIDERS 41

Before halftime, the Raiders turned back-to-back Titans fumbles into 10 total points ... After Steve McNair's second rushing touchdown pulled the Titans within three points (27-24) in the third quarter, the Raiders scored 14 unanswered points to advance to the Super Bowl.

Jan. 3, 2004 • Wild Card • TITANS 20 at Ravens 17

Gary Anderson's 46-yard field goal with 29 seconds remaining provided a 20-17 win ... The Titans rushed for 165 total yards and limited the Ravens to 54 rushing yards, including only 35 yards by Jamal Lewis ... Steve McNair completed a 49-yard touchdown pass to Justin McCareins.

Jan. 10, 2004 • Divisional • Titans 14 at PATRIOTS 17

Adam Vinatieri's 46-yard field goal with 4:06 on the clock was the difference in the coldest game in Titans history (four degrees at kickoff) ... A final drive by the Titans ended with an incomplete pass in Patriots territory from Steve McNair to Drew Bennett on fourth down.

Jan. 6, 2008 • Wild Card • Titans 6 at CHARGERS 17

After the Titans took a 6-0 lead into halftime, the Chargers scored 17 unanswered points in the second half ... The Titans limited LaDainian Tomlinson to 42 rushing yards, but Philip Rivers passed for 292 yards and one score ... Tomlinson's one-yard touchdown on fourth down sealed the victory.

LAST WEEK VS. THE PATRIOTS

Wild Card Weekend: Titans 20, Patriots 13
Saturday, Jan. 4, 2020 • 8:25 p.m. ET • Gillette Stadium

GAME RECAP

During the 2019 playoffs on Wild Card Weekend, the Titans traveled to New England and defeated the defending Super Bowl champion Patriots by a score of 20-13. RB Derrick Henry set the franchise's single-game postseason record with 182 rushing yards and one touchdown on 34 carries, while the defense shut out the Patriots in the second half.

New England got on the board on their opening possession as Patriots QB Tom Brady led his team on an eight-play, 57-yard scoring drive that included a 21-yard pass to Patriots TE Ben Watson and a 29-yard catch by Patriots RB James White. The drive culminated in a 36-yard field goal and an early 3-0 lead. The Titans responded on their own opening possession with a scoring drive to take the lead. QB Ryan Tannehill engineered a 12-play, 75-yard drive that featured a combined 49 rushing yards by Henry before Tannehill connected with TE Anthony Firkser for a 12-yard touchdown and a 7-3 lead.

On the ensuing New England possession, the Patriots came back with a 10-play scoring drive. Patriots RB Sony Michel contributed a 25-yard rush and White added a 14-yard gain to help move the chains, before Patriots WR Julian Edelman collected a five-yard touchdown on a jet sweep. New England went ahead, 10-7.

Later in the second quarter with New England in the red zone, the Titans defense orchestrated an impressive goal line stop to force the Patriots to settle for a field goal. On New England's first down at the Tennessee one-yard line, Michel was stopped for a loss of one by LB Rashaan Evans. Next, Patriots RB Rex Burkhead was halted after a gain of one on second down, and on third down, Michel was pushed back for a loss of two yards again by Evans. New England was forced to kick a 21-yard field goal to extend the lead, 13-7. On the following Tennessee possession, the Titans retook the lead on a seven-play scoring drive. Henry accounted for all 75 yards on the drive that culminated in Henry's one-yard rushing score and a 14-13 Titans lead heading into halftime.

In the fourth quarter, with the Titans still leading by one point, New England took possession of the ball at their own one-yard line. With 15 seconds remaining, Brady dropped back to pass but the ball was intercepted by CB Logan Ryan and returned for a nine-yard touchdown to seal a Titans victory. Tennessee advanced to the divisional round with a 20-13 win at New England.

NOTES FROM LAST WEEK'S GAME

TEAM NOTES

- With their victory at New England, the Titans advanced to the divisional playoff round to play the AFC's No. 1 seed, the Baltimore Ravens. Kickoff at Baltimore's M&T Bank Stadium is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. CST on Saturday, Jan. 11.
- The victory improved the franchise's all-time record to 9-5 in wild card games and a 5-4 record on the road in wild card games.
- The win improved the team's postseason record to 7-7 in the "Titans era" (1999–present).
- The win gave the Titans at least one playoff victory in two of the last three seasons (2017 wild card win).
- The Titans made their second postseason appearance in four seasons under general manager Jon Robinson. Robinson's team also earned a wild card win following the 2017 campaign.
- Second-year head coach Mike Vrabel earned his first playoff victory in his first career postseason game with the Titans.

TEAM NOTES – OFFENSE

- The Titans scored a touchdown on their opening possession for the second consecutive week. They went 75 yards on 12 plays, taking 6 minutes and 58 seconds, one week after reaching the end zone on their first drive at Houston to end the regular season.
- The Titans offense converted 50 percent of its attempts on third down. The team had six conversions on 12 total attempts.
- The Titans' 201 rushing yards made up the second-best playoff total in franchise history. The only playoff game in which the team had more was 202 rushing yards at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018.
- The Titans' 201 rushing yards were the second-most allowed by the Patriots during the 2019 regular season and playoffs. The Patriots had the NFL's No. 1 overall defense in 2019 and ranked sixth against the run.
- The Titans scored touchdowns on both of their trips inside the red zone at New England, continuing the success they found during the regular season. During the regular season, they scored touchdowns on 75.6 percent of their drives inside the opponent's 20-yard line to lead the NFL and finish with the NFL's best percentage since the 2013 Denver Broncos (76.1).

- In the fourth quarter, with the Titans nursing a one-point lead, they totaled a time of possession of 11 minutes and 4 seconds on three possessions. That included one drive that consumed 8 minutes and 1 second.

TEAM NOTES – DEFENSE

- The defense shut out the Patriots in the second half. It marked the Titans' second consecutive wild card game in which the defense pitched a second-half shutout. The Titans last accomplished the feat in a win at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018.
- The Titans limited the Patriots to 13 total points. That amount tied for the lowest by the Patriots in a playoff game under head coach Bill Belichick. The last time the Patriots scored 13 points in a playoff game was their Super Bowl win against the Los Angeles Rams on Feb. 3, 2019.
- The Titans defense limited Tom Brady to 20-of-37 passing for 209 yards, no touchdowns, one interception and a 59.4 passer rating. The passer rating was the fifth-lowest of Brady's postseason career and was his lowest since Jan. 24, 2016 against the Denver Broncos (56.4).

TE ANTHONY FIRKSER

- Led the team with 23 receiving yards on two receptions (tied for team lead) in his postseason debut.
- Recorded a 12-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter. The catch, the first of his career in the playoffs, came on third down.
- Converted a third-and-eight with an 11-yard reception late in the fourth quarter. The first down helped the Titans run off valuable time and helped force the Patriots to burn their final timeout.
- Became the first NFL player from Harvard to score a touchdown in a postseason game.

RB DERRICK HENRY

- Rushed for 182 yards and one touchdown on 34 carries. His 182 rushing yards set the franchise's single-game postseason record, topping Eddie George's 162 yards at Indianapolis on Jan. 16, 2000. Henry now owns two of the top three rushing performances in franchise postseason history (156 at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018).
- Rushed for the most yards in an NFL playoff game since Jan. 12, 2008, when Green Bay Packers running back Ryan Grant totaled 201 rushing yards against the Seattle Seahawks.
- Rushed for the second-most yards on the road in an NFL playoff game since 1950. In that time, the only the New York Jets' Freeman McNeil had more in a road playoff game, with 202 yards at Cincinnati on Jan. 9, 1983.
- Broke the franchise record for most rushing attempts in a playoff game (34), eclipsing Eddie George's 29 carries against the Buffalo Bills on Jan. 8, 2000. His 34 rushing attempts were the most in any NFL playoff game since Seattle's Shaun Alexander had 34 carries against the Carolina Panthers on Jan. 22, 2006.
- Added 22 yards on one reception to give him a franchise postseason record of 204 scrimmage yards. He broke his own record of 191 scrimmage yards (156 rushing, 35 receiving) at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018.
- Produced the most scrimmage yards in a playoff game by any NFL player since wide receiver T.Y. Hilton had 224 yards for the Indianapolis Colts against the Kansas City Chiefs on Jan. 4, 2014.
- Notched his seventh 100-yard rushing game of 2019 and his 12th career 100-yard rushing game, including playoffs. He recorded his second postseason game with at least 100 rushing yards (156 at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018), joining Eddie George (three) as the only players in franchise history with multiple career 100-yard rushing performances in the postseason.
- Went over the 100-yard mark for the game on a nine-yard run in the second quarter. On the same drive, he added 22 yards on a screen pass and then scored a touchdown on a one-yard run. Henry accounted for all 75 yards on the scoring drive.

- Recorded the most rushing yards in the first half of a playoff game in franchise history. His 106 yards in the first and second quarters topped the previous franchise high of 72 yards by Chris Johnson in the first half of a playoff game against Baltimore on Jan. 10, 2009. Henry registered the most rushing yards in the first half of an NFL playoff game since Seattle's Thomas Rawls rushed for 107 yards in the first half against the Detroit Lions on Jan. 7, 2017.
- His 128 scrimmage yards in the first half were the most by an NFL player in the first half since Atlanta's Julio Jones had 135 scrimmage yards in the first half against the San Francisco 49ers on Jan. 20, 2013.
- Improved his career postseason totals to 366 rushing yards on 69 attempts with two touchdowns. His rushing yardage total now ranks second in franchise playoff history, behind only Eddie George's 776 career postseason rushing yards and Earl Campbell's 420.
- Became the eighth NFL player since 1950 with multiple postseason games with at least 150 rushing yards. He joined Terrell Davis (four), Marcus Allen (two), Le'Veon Bell (two), Eric Dickerson (two), Franco Harris (two), John Riggins (two) and Thurman Thomas (two). Henry is the first member of the group to have multiple 150-yard rushing games in road playoff contests.

P BRETT KERN

- Averaged 45.8 gross yards and 42.0 net yards on six punts, including a postseason career-high four punts placed inside the 20.
- Booted a 58-yard punt to the one-yard line in the final minute of play.
- Pinned the Patriots on the seven-yard line with a 36-yard punt in the third quarter.

CB LOGAN RYAN

- Recorded the third interception return for a touchdown in franchise history. With the Titans leading by one point, he picked off a Tom Brady pass and returned the ball nine yards for a touchdown with nine seconds remaining in the fourth quarter to seal the victory. He joined Vernon Perry (Jan. 6, 1980 at Pittsburgh) and Bubba McDowell (Jan. 3, 1993 at Buffalo) as the only players in team annals with a postseason pick-six.

- Registered his second career NFL touchdown, including regular season and postseason games, and his first since a 79-yard interception return at the New York Jets as a rookie on Oct. 20, 2013.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL

- Registered a win in his first career playoff game. The win improved his record with the Titans to 8-3 record since taking over as the starting quarterback in Week 7 of the regular season.
- Completed eight passes for 72 yards and one touchdown on 15 attempts. He added four rushing attempts for 11 yards, including a pair of rushing first downs.
- Completed a 12-yard touchdown pass to tight end Anthony Firkser in the first quarter.
- Found Firkser again for a key 11-yard completion to convert a third-and-eight late in the fourth quarter.

(opening statement)
I want to wish Derrick (Henry) a happy birthday, and I want to wish Stretch (John Streicher) a happy birthday. Those are two people that are instrumental to this organization, and to me. Excited for our players.

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry dictating the tempo of the game)
It certainly did and that has to be the formula, you know, when we look at things and we study it. Taking care of the football, we have to do a better job of that. But to be able to run the football and stop the run was huge and we are appreciative of everything he does, and the offensive line, and the tight ends and the fullbacks. You know, it takes all 11 to run the football, but certainly Derrick is a huge part of that.

(on how secure he feels knowing Derrick Henry can carry the workload he has proven to be capable of shouldering)
There's a lot of confidence in his ability. His toughness, his durability, and he cares a lot about this football team. You know, I'm lucky to be able to coach him and these players.

(on how big the goal line stand was)
Huge. I mean, they were gaining some yards, hitting some screens. But as long as we have an opportunity to play defense, that's our job, to go play defense. I thought our guys responded, and they attacked the line of scrimmage, they tackled. To be able to come back and turn that into points and score was huge, and to shut them out in the second half. Really proud of our guys and thankful that I get to coach them.

(on how much the game went according to plan and how many adjustments had to be made)
I mean, that's kind of how it goes, and they came out in the second half with a little different front defensively. Something that we saw last year against us and other teams. But you know, when you can run it, when the other team knows you are going to run it, that says a lot about your running game.

(on the contributions from punter Brett Kern and the special teams units)
Well, just the entire game. Just being able to operate and function. I thought we punted the ball, I thought we protected. This is a team that had blocked four punts and we are very conscious of that, and that was a huge key for us. And to be able to execute there at the end of the game goes a long way, and we are going to continue to need that.

(on what allowed the Titans to be so focused while playing in an environment he called the 'viper's den')
I think our players were just, they were ready to go. Our coaching staff did a great job to have them prepared. I told them, 'To win the game, you're going to have to be mentally and physically exhausted to win this football game.' Anytime you're in man coverage they are going to try to pick and rub you. There's going to be gadgets, or throwbacks, or whatever there may be. Defensively, they are going to do things that force you to think, Ben (Jones) and Ryan (Tannehill), and make calls. We didn't hand them anything, and that's the one thing. They feast on bad football and we didn't hand them anything, and I don't think our guys spent too much time staring up at those banners.

(on what today's win means for him personally)
I mean, I'm honored to coach these guys and there is no other team that I would rather have come in here with, than the one that was out there on the field. I'm thankful that I get to coach them another week.

(on cornerback Logan Ryan getting a win-sealing pick six after dropping a potential interception in the first half)
You know, we just got to continue to take advantage of opportunities. We had one early in DaQuan (Jones) and Logan (Ryan), but we go on to the next play. That's what you do, so it was good to be able to execute there at the end against a team that's so good situationally.

(on the Titans having to rely on the defense to win the game after being able to count on the offense putting up a significant number of points in recent weeks)
Shut them out in the second half. Shut them out in the second half, and it's a testament to our players. They really responded. Played well on third down in the second half. Our offense was 50 percent against the No. 1 third-down defense in the league, and it was tough sledding throwing the football, but we kind of expected that. We will have to get some things fixed and get moving here, and get healthy in a hurry.

(on winning a game after only passing for 76 yards)
We talked about running the football, stopping the run. You know, there's a lot of different ways to win the games in this league. Play great defense.

(on the postgame celebration and how quickly the team puts the victory behind them)
It was a quick speech and we're all excited, we'll enjoy it. But we've got to get back to work quickly, and we've got to get as healthy as we possibly can, and get ready to go on the road again.

(on the Patriots being the defending Super Bowl champions and if he expected them to be challenging)
Yeah, I mean, there's a reason they're good, they're well-coached. I was very comfortable coming into this game, the way our guys just prepared. The way we started the game – I thought Kenny (Vaccaro) and I know a lot of guys on tape, but when you feel those hits on the sideline where I'm standing, and you see the line of scrimmage on offense go the other way, I felt pretty comfortable. And I knew there were going to be some ups and downs in the game, but early on I thought our guys were ready to play. And again, I am thankful that I get to coach them.

(on his early thoughts on matching up with the Baltimore Ravens next)
Just a huge challenge with what they have been able to do in all three phases. We'll have to try to find a way to slow them down, but for the next 30 minutes or 40 minutes, I'm going to be appreciative of our football team and our players for playing as well as they did tonight, as hard as they did, and believing in each other, the effort to finish, the foundation of our program in Tennessee.

(on how big the goal line stand was)
Those rarely happen. I mean, you find a way to punch it in, and our guys dug in there and got some great calls, great execution, Rashaan (Evans) and (Jeffery) Simmons pushing the line of scrimmage back.

QUARTERBACK RYAN TANNEHILL

(on what it's like to leave New England with a road playoff victory)
It's awesome. It's unbelievable just the way that our guys fought. I'm so proud of this team. It was ugly at times offensively, but we kept fighting and found a way to make a couple plays there at the end and come out with the W.

(on how big it is to have a running back like Derrick Henry and to be able to utilize him the way the offense did today)
It's huge. He's been big for us all year and he was big for us tonight. He made a couple big runs, but just the consistency that he has down-in, down-out, the physicality he brings. He's so hard to tackle. The offensive line did a good job of creating some creases for him. There at the end, they were loading up the box and he's still able to get positive yards.

(on if today's win and Derrick Henry's performance is a suitable birthday gift for Henry)
Yeah, I think so. I mean, you'll have to ask him, but a big game for his birthday, that's pretty cool.

(on if he knew coming into the matchup that the Titans were going to rely on the run more than the passing game)
Yeah, we knew coming in that we wanted to run the football. Obviously a really good defense, good in the secondary, and they make it tough on you throwing the football. I don't know if we knew we were going to throw it that little, but they definitely did a good job and the run game was working for us, so we stuck with it.

(on his emotions pregame and what it felt like to make his first career postseason appearance)
Not a whole lot. Honestly, it felt like a football game. Once it was going, it felt like a football game. I think it was louder, this place was louder than any other time I've been up here. But other than that, it felt like a football game and guys are competing and playing hard.

(on the call and look on the third-down pass to tight end Anthony Firkser)
It was a great call by Art (Arthur Smith). I brought Firk (Anthony Firkser) across, had man coverage on him, and he was able to get leverage on his guy and break out there and I was able to hit him. It was a big play for us, and Firk came up big a couple times for us – first time down in the red zone with the touchdown and then that huge play there on third down.

(on the Titans not seeming surprised about winning and what that says about the team's belief in each other)
This team believes in each other. We've believed in each other all year and it's come through trial. We've been in situations like this, tough games, tight games, and found a way to make a play and win. It's happened over and over again throughout the year, so there's a lot of belief. The game may be ugly, may be in a tight spot but we're just going to keep playing, keep plugging away and somebody will make a play, and we were able to do that tonight.

Yeah, I know they're good. That's all I know. I know they won a lot of games – good on defense, good on offense but past that, I don't know. We'll have to get on looking at tape and find out.

(on if Patriots cornerback Stephon Gilmore did a good job covering wide receiver A.J. Brown today)

SELECT TITANS POSTGAME QUOTES

Yeah, he did. You know, on some of the looks we're not going away from (Stephon) Gilmore, just kind of the way it turned out, and we didn't get a whole lot of opportunities to push the ball down the field. They did a good job in their secondary but I still have a lot of confidence, no matter who's on A.J. (Brown), that he can get open.

RUNNING BACK DERRICK HENRY

(on if today turned out how he pictured it)
We knew it was going to be a tough game, we knew it was going to be muddy. We just had the mindset to never give up, keep playing in all three phases.

(on why it is when games get 'muddy' like today's game it tends to favor the Titans)
That's the way we like it. We don't want anything easy. We want it gritty, we want it dirty. That's the mentality we've got to have. My main focus is finishing each and every drive in all three phases. Don't give up on each other, believe, communicate when we're out there what we're seeing so we make adjustments as a team. Just keep thriving, keep striving and finish the game.

(on the Titans not seeming surprised about winning and what that says about the team's belief in each other)
I mean, it's us just playing Titan football. Being great in all three phases, I think that was our main focus. We knew what type of game this was going to be, we knew we were coming into a hostile environment. We knew that with this team they're a different team in the playoffs, but we just had to play our game and not worry about the outside noises. Just focus on what we need to do.

(on if he felt his momentum and confidence growing as he continued to run the ball on the opening touchdown drive)
I think we just want to put efficient drives together and everybody just do their job. Beat the man in front of you, be physical, and I think that's what we try to do as we're moving the ball down the field.

I think his main message was that we all know the obvious. We know what type of organization this is, but focus on what we need to do. Focus on how we need to play and then everything else will take care of itself.

(on if he took the challenge of going against the New England defense personally)
My approach is always the same against any defense. They've been doing a great job all year, so I knew that I just had to go out there and do my job at the best of my abilities and be efficient. But it's going to take all 11 of us.

(on the importance of him thanking the fans postgame)
I love seeing the fans, man. They're always passionate. For them to travel and have that much passion and be screaming – it's always a great connection with the fans to come out and support us. So we definitely appreciate it.

(on telling the team during preseason, 'Why not us?' and where that came from)
I just said that at the end of camp, just saying, 'Why not us?' I don't think anybody expected anything from us. Keep that underdog mentality and just stay hungry. Just keep believing in each other, because all of us in that building, all of us together, we're the ones that have to make it happen. No matter what anybody writes or anybody says, we're the ones that have to go out there and do it, each and every day. Each practice, each play, and just keep believing in each other. Like I told them, 'Why not us, why can't we do it?' That's why we're going to keep that same mentality, keep working.

(on what he would say to his grandmother if he could speak with her right now)
I would say thank you and I love her. I want to hug her. I appreciate you with that story you put out. It's indescribable man. If I could see her right now, there's no telling what I would do.

(on what he was thinking when cornerback Logan Ryan returned an interception for a touchdown to seal the victory)
I was happy as hell, man. He could have had one earlier in the game and then he got that one. I was happy for him to be able to get one to end the game off the way he did.

(on how tough of a challenge the Titans face heading to Baltimore)
We're going to enjoy this one. Obviously we know who Baltimore is and what type of team they are. Get ready for them tomorrow. We know exactly what we're facing, we know what type of team they are, they're the number one team in the division so it's self-explanatory.

WIDE RECEIVER A.J. BROWN

(on today's game at New England)
It was definitely a tough game against a really good opponent. They controlled the game, but we controlled it as much as we could. We found a way. That is what it is going to come down to in this league, especially in the playoffs.

(on if he thought the Patriots were determined to limit his production tonight)
Most definitely. You know, it is a sign of respect. Whatever we have to do to get the win, if it's carry the ball a thousand times, I am going to block the safety, that's fine. I definitely got doubled a lot of times especially on third downs, but it's cool. We got that dub.

WIDE RECEIVER COREY DAVIS

(on today's game at New England)
It's a big W. It's the first playoff win, in the first round, and we are still dancing. We understand that next week we have a real tough opponent and that is what we have to focus on right now. We are going to enjoy this win but we are going to put this behind us tomorrow.

(on the key to beating the Patriots)
Just being more physical out there and running the ball. That's what we did. We ran all over those guys. They are a great team, but we came out here and we knew what we had to do, and we did it.

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry)
He's a great running back. He did great today, I'm real proud of him. He is real tough no doubt.

(on the defense's performance in the second half)
That was huge, to shut out an offense like that out.

LINEBACKER RASHAAN EVANS

(on today's game at New England)
We just felt like we had to play our best game of the season. I feel like we can just build off of this game and continue to gain confidence and chemistry. The sky is the limit for us.

(on how the defense was able to shut out the Patriots in the second half)
We just had to settle down and see what they wanted to do with us. We came in really confident, and we wanted to make a statement that we were better than some of the numbers we were showing during the season. We just have to keep doing what we are doing.

(on how much last year's victory over the Patriots factored into today's win at New England)
"It played a lot into it, just having that momentum and knowing what a win feels like. We know what it feels like to lose, so it's another thing that is driving us to play our best game.

TIGHT END ANTHONY FIRKSER

(on his first down reception in the fourth quarter)
Yeah, it was third-and-eight and they put in the call, and I knew if I got the right matchup and leverage it might be coming to me. Ryan (Tannehill) put a great ball out there and all I had to do was make the catch. The line held up their blocks perfectly.

SELECT TITANS POSTGAME QUOTES

(on today's game at New England)
We knew it was going to be a hostile environment and they're a tough team that has a lot of wins in the playoffs. It's good that we were able to step up and looking forward to next weekend.

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry)
He's unbelievable. Just watching him run and carry guys in, and control the ball for our offense. We rely on him a lot and he steps up every week.

CENTER BEN JONES

(on the run game tonight)
We did that tonight and that's the winning formula for the playoffs. You have to be able to run the ball. We were able to pound it and stay in rhythm. We knew what we had to do get here, and we knew what it would take to win here. We came in here and ran the ball and took care of it, and did whatever it took to win.

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry)
He's the man. He runs the ball hard every play and he's special. We're happy to block for that guy any day of the week.

(on advancing to the next round of the playoffs)
Every week we know it's a bigger challenge. We have to go to another great team next week and take care of business on the road again. They [Baltimore Ravens] have a great team. They have done it week-in and week-out, but we have to go up there and take care of business next week.

TACKLE TAYLOR LEWAN

(on today's game at New England)
It's awesome. We won, but it's not over. This is amazing. The last two decades they have been the greatest team in football. They played an amazing game, luckily we played good football. We took care of the ball, and our defense stepped up when they needed to. Our offense stepped up and now we go play the Ravens.

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry)
He's unbelievable. The guy's a wolf. We got his back, we're going to keep riding him. We're going to keep riding (Ryan) Tannehill, and protecting him. We're not just satisfied with a win against the Patriots. We have to get ready for next week.

(on quarterback Ryan Tannehill)
I think Ryan (Tannehill) does a good job of getting us all locked in before each drive. Let's go sustain the drive, keep your pad level low, let's run the ball. He doesn't care what the stats line says as long as you win. He's an amazing leader, and we're very happy to have him.

RUNNING BACK DION LEWIS

(on today's game at New England)
It was a great win, a great team win. We did everything that our coach told us we would need to do to win. We executed. We made a couple more plays than they did. That is a great team over there. They are used to this environment but we came in and played great football. We ran the ball pretty well, and Derrick (Henry) had a great game. We knew coming in that we would have to run the ball to win and that is what we did.

(on if it was special to beat his former team in the Patriots)
No, we just want to take it one week at a time and get to our ultimate goal. We will enjoy this win tonight and get ready for Baltimore next week.

(on his reception)
I was just trying to run my route. I just broke to the left trying to extend the play and make a play for my guys. I think Jamie (Collins) had me, he started to grab me and I think he might have slipped. I was able to break free and (Ryan) Tannehill found me. I made the catch and took a hit after that.

CORNERBACK LOGAN RYAN

(on today's game at New England)
It feels great, man. We put a lot of work in. We had a lot of belief. It was a different feeling than coming up here two years ago. Two years ago, I think we were happy to be here, happy to be in the game. This time we believed we could win and I think that showed. We challenged them, we didn't back down. Hats off to Bill (Belichick), Tom (Brady), Julian (Edelman), those guys. It's hard to do here. I know, I've been on that side, so I know how hard it is to do. I don't know if it's hit us yet, it's hard to do here. We believed we could.

(on his game-sealing interception returned for a touchdown)
Everyone knows I should have had the one before halftime. I was looking at the run before I even secured the catch. I never do that. I always pride myself on having great hands, and I dropped the easiest pick of my career. But I had faith, I said the ball's going to come back to me. I think everyone on my team knew that was a fluke. They said that the ball was going to come back to me again and I believed it. What do you know, it came back to me again. So, I appreciate TB12 (Tom Brady) for that one. That one is going on my mantle.

GUARD RODGER SAFFOLD III

(on the performance of running back Derrick Henry)
It was big and helped us build our confidence. We knew we were in a hostile environment, but this is a great game environment for us. When it came right down to it, we were like, 'OK, let's push people off the ball. Get him to his fourth and fifth step and let him make things happen.' Even though we were able to get good, efficient runs, he was able to break tackles to make really good runs.

(on advancing to the next round of the playoffs at Baltimore)
"You know, you got to love that. You want to play against the best, and if you want to be the best you have to beat the best. Right now those guys are the best. AFC, NFC, it doesn't matter. This is a great challenge for us and that is a great team.

LINEBACKER WESLEY WOODYARD

(on the defensive game plan tonight)
We just needed one opportunity and that is what it was. Control the line of scrimmage, stop the run, run the football and don't give them the game. That is what we did today. We came in here, we locked the gates and we kicked them out of their own house.

(on what the Titans are capable of)
I think we have something special in this locker room. We all have been saying this from day one, and we all have to go out there and prove it every week. I think through the course of the year we learned a lot of tough, valuable lessons that allowed us to get into the postseason and be effective. We are a second-round playoff team and the sky is the limit for us. We just have to take advantage of every opportunity we get.

(on the lack of celebration in the Titans locker room)
This is not our Super Bowl. You know, we beat the New England Patriots, the defending Super Bowl champions, but this is not our Super Bowl and not where we are going to be stopping at. We have to continue to keep going.

(on knocking the Patriots out of the playoffs at New England)
I have never won a postseason game in this stadium until today. You know, they win here for a reason. They do the right things. They control the clock when they get here, they just do everything a winning football team should do. Today we were able to do those things that propelled us to get a victory. Logan (Ryan) was able to make a play at the end to seal the deal. Our offense said, 'Get us the ball, we are going to control the clock,' and that's what they did.

TITANS 2019 GAME-BY-GAME RECAP

Week 1 • Sept. 8, 2019 • TITANS 43 at Browns 13 • 1-0

Marcus Mariota opens the season with three touchdown passes, while the Titans defense contributes three interceptions, five sacks and a safety—a first in franchise history for the defense with that combination ... All three interceptions come in the fourth quarter and lead to Titans touchdowns ... Delanie Walker accounts for two touchdowns, and Derrick Henry adds a 75-yard touchdown reception on a screen play ... Cameron Wake records 2.5 sacks and a safety, while Logan Ryan posts an interception and 1.5 sacks.

Week 2 • Sept. 15, 2019 • COLTS 19 at Titans 17 • 1-1

Jacoby Brissett completes the game-winning four-yard touchdown pass to T.Y. Hilton with 4:38 on the clock in the fourth quarter ... The Colts convert 50 percent on third down (7-14) and limit the Titans to 10 percent (1-10) ... Brissett totals three touchdown passes, while Marcus Mariota completes one touchdown pass to offensive lineman David Quessenberry ... Derrick Henry (81 rushing yards) adds the other touchdown on a one-yard run.

Week 3 • Sept. 19, 2019 • Titans 7 at JAGUARS 20 • 1-2

The Jaguars score 14 points in the first quarter, including a touchdown on a possession resulting from a muffed Titans punt return ... Jaguars rookie Gardner Minshew II tosses two touchdown passes ... Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota is sacked nine times, with Calais Campbell accounting for three sacks and Josh Allen and Dawuane Smoot accounting for two sacks each ... Jon Robinson was hired as Titans general manager on Jan. 14, 2016 after spending two years as director of player personnel for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Nearly one year later, on Jan. 5, 2017, he was promoted to executive vice president/general manager.

In his first three years on the job, the Titans finished with three consecutive 9-7 seasons. It marked the first time the organization produced at least three consecutive winning seasons since a seven-year run of winning records from 1987–1993. The Titans were one of six NFL teams to accomplish the feat from 2016–2018, joining New England, Seattle, Kansas City, Pittsburgh and Dallas. Robinson became only the second general manager in franchise history whose first three teams finished above the .500 mark, joining Mike Holovak (1989-91).

Robinson's work helped the team go from three wins in the season prior to his arrival (2015) to a Divisional Round playoff finish following the 2017 campaign. He became the fifth general manager in franchise history to have the team in the playoffs within his first two full seasons.

Robinson turned over more than 80 percent of the Titans roster in his first three years on the job. At the end of the 2018 campaign, 43 players on the club's 53-man roster (81.1 percent) were added after Robinson arrived in Tennessee—27 free agents, two players acquired via trade, one waiver pickup and 13 draft picks. An additional nine players he acquired (six free agents, two draft picks and one waiver claim) ended 2018 on injured reserve.

Near the beginning of the 2019 free agent signing period, Robinson worked quickly to add several veterans from other teams who figure to have key roles in 2019: Buccaneers wide receiver Adam Humphries, Rams guard Rodger Saffold, Dolphins defensive end/outside linebacker Cameron Wake and Dolphins quarterback Ryan Tannehill via trade. Robinson also worked to re-sign starting safety Kenny Vaccaro and punter Brett Kern.

Then, in the 2019 NFL Draft, Robinson directed the selection of six total players, including Mississippi State defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons in the first round (19th overall) and Ole Miss wide receiver A.J. Brown in the second round (51st overall).

2018: The Titans' 2018 free agent class included a pair of former New England Patriots: Pro Bowl cornerback Malcolm Butler and running back Dion Lewis. In his first season in Tennessee, Butler played in all 16 games (11 starts) and finished second on the squad with three interceptions. Lewis rushed for 517 yards and added career highs with 59 receptions and 400 receiving yards. In early August, the Titans signed Vaccaro, who went on to start 13 games.

Robinson's 2018 draft class was comprised of four players after he used multiple trades to go up and get his targets. It included first-round linebacker Rashaan Evans from Alabama (22nd overall pick) and second-round outside linebacker Harold Landry III from Boston College (41st overall). Evans was slowed initially by an injury that caused him to miss the entire preseason, but he returned to play in 15 games with seven starts. Landry also appeared in 15 games (three starts), and his 4.5 sacks tied for third place on the Titans.

Robinson selected 23 total players in his first three drafts as general manager, and 15 of those picks remained with the club at the end of the 2018 season. During the same three years, he engineered 14 trades and made eight waiver claims (through December 2018).

2017: During the 2017 offseason, Robinson used free agency to address needs on defense and special teams. Most notably, he spearheaded deals for cornerback Logan Ryan (New England), safety Johnathan Cyprien (Jacksonville) and special teams contributor and 2017 Pro Bowler Brynden Trawick (Oakland).

In the 2017 NFL Draft, Robinson spent first-round picks on wide receiver Corey Davis (fifth overall) and cornerback Adoree' Jackson (18th overall). It marked the first time the franchise had a pair of first-round draft selections since 1987. Davis led the Titans in receiving in 2018 (65 receptions for 891 yards). Jackson played in all 32 games in his first two seasons, totaling a team-high 34 passes defensed. He also led the team in punt returns in each of his first two campaigns. The Titans' 2017 draft haul also featured tight end Jonnu Smith in the third round and linebacker Jayon Brown in the fifth round.

2016: In his first year as an NFL general manager, Robinson's leadership and decision-making helped the Titans triple their win total from the previous season, finishing 9-7 in 2016 after a 3-13 finish in 2015. The six-win improvement tied for the most in franchise history (1967 and 1974) and doubled the previous club benchmark for the most wins in the first year under a new general manager (three by Bum Phillips in 1975).

Within the first four months at his post, Robinson pulled the trigger on several key personnel decisions. On March 9, 2016, he made his first major acquisition, swapping fourth-round draft picks with the Philadelphia Eagles in exchange for running back DeMarco Murray. The trade provided major dividends in 2016, as Murray led the AFC and ranked third in the NFL with 1,287 rushing yards.

Around the same time, Robinson began to work the free agent market. Center Ben Jones and wide receiver Rishard Matthews highlighted the haul, and both were instrumental in helping to transform the Titans offense into the 11th-ranked unit in the NFL. Jones started all 16 games and keyed a rushing attack that ranked third in the league, while Matthews set career highs with 65 receptions (tied for the team lead), a team-high 945 receiving yards and a team-high nine touchdown receptions.

On April 14, 2016, two weeks before the NFL Draft, Robinson and the Titans dealt the first overall pick to the Los Angeles Rams in one of the biggest trades in recent NFL history. The Titans gave up the No. 1 pick and a fourth-rounder in order to receive the 15th overall pick, two second-rounders and a third-rounder in 2016, plus the Rams' first- and third-round picks in 2017. From 1990–2015, there were seven trades involving the No. 1 overall pick, but this was the first since 2004, when the San Diego Chargers selected Eli Manning with the first pick and dealt his rights to the New York Giants.

The Titans had their hands at one point or another on 17 selections in the 2016 draft due to five different trades (including one trade in 2015), and in the end, they ended up with a class of 10 players, including four of the top 45 picks. Robinson swung a draft-day trade with the Cleveland Browns to move back up to the eighth slot to choose Michigan State tackle Jack Conklin.

All 10 members of Robinson's first draft class played in at least one game in 2016. They accumulated a total of 110 games played and 38 starts, including 16 starts at right tackle by Conklin. The eighth-overall pick capped his successful rookie campaign by being named first-team All-Pro by Associated Press. Other rookies in 2016 who made significant contributions included second-round running back Derrick Henry, third-round safety Kevin Byard and fifth-round wide receiver Tajaé Sharpe. Henry led the team in rushing in both 2017 and 2018, while Byard earned first-team All-Pro honors and a Pro Bowl berth in his second season. From 2017 through 2018, Byard's 12 interceptions led the NFL.

PRIOR HISTORY: Robinson arrived in Tennessee with a wide range of experience from working his way up on the personnel side of the NFL. From 2014–2015, he served as director of player personnel for the Buccaneers and oversaw both college and pro departments as the team rebuilt its roster. The 2015 Buccaneers draft class made a significant impact, including four rookie starters: quarterback Jameis Winston, tackle Donovan Smith, guard Ali Marpet and linebacker Kwon Alexander.

Prior to joining Tampa Bay, Robinson spent 12 years with the New England Patriots, including his last five years (2009-13) as the director of college scouting. In the five years heading up their college scouting, the Patriots added a number of key components to their roster that won the Super Bowl in 2014, including wide receiver Julian Edelman, defensive back Devin McCourty, tight end Rob Gronkowski, tackle Nate Solder and defensive end Chandler Jones. He joined the Patriots as an area scout in 2002, a role he served for four seasons. Robinson then spent two years (2006-07) as a regional scout, before being promoted to assistant director of college scouting in 2008 and then director of college scouting in 2009. In his time scouting for the Patriots the team won 10 division titles, four conference titles and two Super Bowls (2003, 2004).

Robinson played three years at Southeast Missouri State as a defensive lineman after starting his college career at the Air Force Academy. Following his college career as a player, he spent one season (1998) coaching at his alma mater and three years (1999-2001) coaching at Nicholls State.

A native of Union City, Tenn., Robinson and his wife, Jaimie, have two daughters, Taylor and Bailey.

FOUR WINNING SEASONS

Jon Robinson constructed a roster that produced four consecutive winning seasons in Robinson's first four years on the job. The club went 9-7 in 2016, 2017, 2018 and 2019 with postseason berths following the 2017 and 2019 campaigns.

Robinson became only the second general manager in franchise history whose first four teams finished above the .500 mark, joining Mike Holovak (1989-92).

ROBINSON TO THE PLAYOFFS IN YEAR 2

In January 2016, Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk hired general manager Jon Robinson, who helped turn the Titans into a playoff team by his second season.

Robinson became the fifth general manager in franchise history to have the team in the playoffs within his first two full seasons.

Titans/Oilers general managers in the playoffs within their first two full seasons:

Head Coach	First Full Season as General Manager	Postseason Berths in First Two Seasons
Jon Robinson	2016	2017 (Year 2)
Mike Reinfeldt	2007	2007, 2008 (Years 1 & 2)
Mike Holovak	1989	1989, 1990 (Years 1 & 2)
Don Klosterman	1966	1967 (Year 2)
Don Suman	1961	1961, 1962 (Years 1 & 2)

FIRST-YEAR GENERAL MANAGERS

Jon Robinson was the 13th general manager hired in franchise history. In his first season, he helped lead the Titans to a 9-7 record after inheriting a 3-13 squad from 2015. No new general manager for the club had ever before seen a win increase of more than three games in his first season.

Robinson's nine wins were one shy of the previous record for a first-year general manager, a mark shared by Mike Reinfeldt (10-6 in 2007) and Don Suman (10-3-1 in 1961).

History of Titans/Oilers new general managers and improvement in first season:

2019 TITANS DRAFT REVIEW

DL JEFFERY SIMMONS | 6-4, 305, Mississippi State
1st round, 19th overall

College: During a three-year career as a defensive tackle at Mississippi State (2016-18), Simmons appeared in 38 contests with 28 starts. He finished his career ranked sixth in school history with 32.5 tackles for loss. He also tied for sixth in MSU annals with five forced fumbles and tied for fourth with three blocked kicks. His totals also included 163 tackles, seven sacks, seven passes defensed and two defensive touchdowns. He was one of two players in the nation to be named a Bednarik Award Semifinalist in both 2017 and 2018.

WR A.J. BROWN | 6-1, 226, Mississippi
2nd round, 51st overall

College: In three seasons at Ole Miss (2016-18), Brown appeared in 36 games and made 25 starts. Brown set the standard in the Ole Miss record book, becoming the program's all-time leading receiver with 2,984 yards. He ranked third in school history with 189 receptions and fifth all-time with 19 touchdowns. Brown averaged 15.8 yards per catch, and he tallied the most 100-yard receiving games in Ole Miss history with 12. He became the third player in school history to top 1,000 yards in a single season, and the only receiver in Ole Miss history to tally 60 or more receptions in back-to-back seasons.

OL NATE DAVIS | 6-3, 316, Charlotte
3rd round, 82nd overall

College: In four seasons at Charlotte (2015-18), Davis appeared in 41 career games with 37 starts. A four-year starter on the offensive line, Davis started at guard from 2015-17 before switching to right tackle for his senior season in 2018. As a senior, Davis earned First Team All-Conference USA recognition by Phil Steele and Second Team All-Conference USA recognition by the league's coaches.

DB AMANI HOOKER | 5-11, 210, Iowa
4th round, 116th overall

College: During a three-year career at Iowa (2016-18), Hooker played in 36 games with 19 starts and totaled 125 tackles, six interceptions, a sack, 3.5 tackles for loss and nine passes defensed. As a junior, he was named the Big Ten's Tatum-Woodson Defensive Back of the Year, selected second-team All-America by The Associated Press and USA Today and earned All-Big Ten recognition by league coaches and media. In 2018, he started all 13 games and shared the team lead with four interceptions and seven pass break-ups.

OLB D'ANDRE WALKER | 6-2, 251, Georgia
5th round, 168th overall

College: During a four-year career at Georgia (2015-18), Walker appeared in 54 games (13 starts) and totaled 113 tackles, 13.5 sacks, 27.5 tackles for loss, four passes defensed, five forced fumbles, one fumble recoveries and two blocked punts. As a senior, he started all 13 games in which he played and established career highs with 45 tackles, a team-best 7.5 sacks, a team-high 14 quarterback pressures, three passes defensed, four forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He also led the Bulldogs with 11 tackles for loss.

6th round, 188th overall

College: During a three-year career at West Virginia (2016-18), Long played in 34 games with 31 starts and totaled 252 tackles, 14 sacks and 40 career tackles for loss, which tied for third place on West Virginia's all-time list. In 2018, he started all 12 games at Will linebacker and was named Big 12 Defensive Player of the Year by the coaches and Associated Press. He garnered second-team All-America honors and first-team All-Big 12 accolades from the Associated Press. He led the team with 111 tackles, eight sacks and 19 tackles for loss, the latter of which tied for the single-season program record.

Video: Igniting the Fire - Who is Mike Vrabel?

Mike Vrabel was named head coach of the Titans on Jan. 20, 2018. He became the 19th head coach in franchise history.

In his first season as head coach, Vrabel directed the Titans to a 9-7 record. His nine wins tied for the fourth-highest total in franchise history by a first-year head coach.

With only 82 penalties enforced against the Titans in 2018, Vrabel's team led the NFL and set a franchise record (16-game season) for fewest penalties in a season. The 2018 Titans also placed third in points allowed (18.9 per game), eighth in total defense (333.4 yards per game), sixth in passing defense (216.9), second in red zone defense (44.7 percent touchdown rate) and seventh in rushing offense (126.4) in the league rankings.

Vrabel arrived in Tennessee with 18 years of NFL experience, including four seasons as a coach and 14 seasons as a player. His distinguished playing career included three Super Bowl wins (2001, 2003 and 2004), one Pro Bowl selection (2007) and an All-Pro honor (2007). Vrabel played in 206 NFL games and totaled 57 sacks, 496 tackles, 11 interceptions, 20 forced fumbles, nine fumble recoveries and 10 touchdown receptions. Additionally, his teams advanced to the playoffs eight times (20 postseason games), with Vrabel recording eight postseason sacks and two postseason touchdown receptions.

Vrabel joined the Titans after four seasons with the Houston Texans, spending the first three seasons (2014-16) coaching linebackers and one year (2017) as the team's defensive coordinator. During his time in Houston, the Texans built one of the best defenses in the NFL and experienced tremendous success as a team – earning two division titles (2015, 2016).

Between 2014-16, the Texans defense ranked third in the NFL in yards allowed per game (319.9) and net passing yards (218.4). Houston also ranked first in third-down defense (33.6), fourth in opponent completion percentage (59.5) and sixth in points allowed per game (19.8). The 2016 defense ranked number one in the NFL, for the first time in franchise history, in yards allowed (301.3).

In 2017, his first year as a defensive coordinator, the Texans finished the campaign with 19 players on injured reserve. Despite the injuries, Vrabel led the defense to the fifth-best third-down percentage in the NFL and a franchise-record 3.97 yards per carry by opponents. Houston also had 18 different players record at least half a sack last year and 26 players tally at least one tackle for loss.

Vrabel spent his career playing and coaching with accomplished leaders, including Bill Belichick, Bill Cowher, Romeo Crennel, Urban Meyer, Bill O'Brien and Todd Haley.

As the Texans linebackers coach from 2014-16, Vrabel developed several players into top-notch performers, including Jadaveon Clowney (Pro Bowl, 2016), Whitney Mercilus, Benardrick McKinney (second-team All-Pro, 2016) and Brian Cushing. The 2015 Texans defense had the top third-down defense in the NFL (28.5 percent), which was the lowest percentage in franchise history and the lowest by any NFL team since the 2003 Titans (27.7 percent). The 2015 defense also set a franchise mark for sacks in a season with 45 - 22.5 coming from Vrabel's linebacking corps.

Prior to joining the NFL coaching ranks, Vrabel transitioned immediately from an NFL player to college coach. He started as the linebacker coach at Ohio State in 2011 and coached the defensive line from 2012–2013. The 2012 Buckeyes finished the season undefeated at 12-0. He also was named Big Ten Recruiter of the Year by ESPN.com in 2012.

Vrabel was selected by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the third round (91st overall) of the 1997 NFL Draft, after his playing career at Ohio State, where he earned All-America honors and Big Ten Conference Defensive Lineman of the Year in both 1995 and 1996.

A native of Akron, Ohio, Vrabel attended Walsh Jesuit High School. He and his wife, Jennifer, have two sons: Tyler and Carter.

TITANS ASSISTANT COACHES

DEAN PEES
DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Click For Complete Online Bio

- Pees joined the Titans in 2018 with 45 previous years of coaching experience, including 14 seasons in the NFL.
- In seven of his 11 seasons as a defensive coordinator in the NFL, Pees' defenses have finished in the NFL's top 10, including the 2018 Titans defense (eighth in the NFL).
- Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, Pees was with the Baltimore Ravens for eight seasons, first as linebackers coach (2010-12) and then as defensive coordinator (2012-17).
- In 2012, he helped the Ravens to a Super Bowl XLVII victory and became the eighth defensive coordinator in NFL history to reach the Super Bowl with two different teams.
- From 2004-09, Pees was with the New England Patriots as linebackers coach (2004-05) and defensive coordinator (2006-09).
- Over his four-year tenure as New England's defensive coordinator, the Patriots ranked second in the NFL in points allowed (17.3 per game).
- Pees also has 25 years of college coaching experience, including time as the head coach of Kent State (1998-2003) and as the defensive coordinator at Michigan State under head coach Nick Saban (1995-97).
- He also had stops at Notre Dame (1994), Toledo (1990-93), Navy (1987-89), Miami (Ohio) (1983-86) and Findlay (Ohio) (1979-82). He started his coaching career as a high school coach from 1973-78.
- A native of Dunkirk, Ohio, Pees graduated from Bowling Green State University.

ARTHUR SMITH
OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Click For Complete Online Bio

- Smith was promoted to offensive coordinator on Jan. 21, 2018 after working his way up the coaching ladder under four different head coaches during his time at the Titans.
- Seven games into the 2015 campaign, Smith was promoted from offensive assistant/tight ends to tight ends coach. From that point through 2018, the Titans ranked fifth in receiving yards by tight ends (3,779), sixth in receptions by tight ends (326), and tied for fifth in receiving touchdowns by tight ends (30).
- He was hired in 2011 as a defensive assistant/quality control coach, and from 2012–2013 he served as the offensive assistant/quality control coach.
- In 2010, he worked at Ole Miss as an administrative assistant/defensive intern and worked primarily with the linebackers.
- He spent two years (2007–2008) working for the Washington Redskins. He worked two years as defensive quality control coach after joining the organization as a college scouting assistant.
- The Memphis, Tenn., native graduated from North Carolina and played offensive line before joining the coaching staff for one season (2006) as a graduate assistant.

CRAIG AUKERMAN
SPECIAL TEAMS

2020 OPPONENTS DETERMINED

The Titans know the 16 opponents they will face during the 2020 regular season.

As always, the Titans have home and road games against each of the AFC South rival Houston Texans, Indianapolis Colts and Jacksonville Jaguars.

Based upon the NFL's schedule rotation, the Titans also will face every team from the AFC North. They will host the Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers and travel to meet the Baltimore Ravens and Cincinnati Bengals.

Additionally, the Titans will square off against the NFC North. They will have dates at Nissan Stadium against the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions and road games versus the Green Bay Packers and Minnesota Vikings. It will be their first appearance at Minnesota's U.S. Bank Stadium.

Every team plays two intraconference games that are determined by order of finish within its division, and those matchups are set as well. The Titans finished second in the AFC South, resulting in a 2020 home matchup with the AFC East's equivalent finisher, the second-place Buffalo Bills. The Titans will go on the road to meet the AFC West's equivalent finisher from 2019, the Denver Broncos.

Preseason opponents as well as dates and times of regular season games are typically announced by the NFL in April.

NISSAN STADIUM

In 2015, the Titans and Nissan North America announced the formation of a 20-year, exclusive naming-rights partnership that rebranded Nashville's downtown stadium as Nissan Stadium.

Nissan Stadium hosts all Titans home football games, Tennessee State University football games, the Music City Bowl, the CMA Music Festival and numerous other events.

The procurement of naming rights to Nissan Stadium fit the automotive company's 'Fewer, Bigger, Better' marketing strategy, which has included ongoing sponsorships of NBC's 'The Voice,' the Heisman House college football program and a major advertising presence in this year's Super Bowl. Nissan is also now the official automotive partner of the Tennessee Titans.

Nissan's ever-growing footprint in Tennessee includes vehicle and powertrain manufacturing facilities in Smyrna and Decherd respectively, along with its North American headquarters in Franklin.

The Nissan Smyrna Plant began operations in 1983 and employs more than 8,400 people. In 2014, the Smyrna plant assembled more than 648,000 vehicles, making it the highest volume automotive assembly plant in North America. Nissan also has a major manufacturing presence in Canton, Miss., along with research and development groups in California, Arizona and Michigan. In total, the company employs more than 22,000 employees in the U.S.

One component of the Titans-Nissan partnership is assisting charitable organizations throughout Middle Tennessee in an array of community outreach programs. A centerpiece of this is the annual "Taste of Titans" charitable event, for which Nissan serves as presenting sponsor. During the course of a 20-year relationship, a total of more than $1 million resulting from these annual events is anticipated to be distributed to local non-profit organizations.

Nissan Stadium is a city-owned venue that has housed the Titans since 1999. The naming rights agreement includes the opportunity for Nissan branding on the exterior of the stadium, as well as stadium signage and other unique displays inside the stadium. LP Building Products has held the naming rights to the stadium since 2006 and that exclusivity now shifts to Nissan.

NISSAN STADIUM CLEAR BAG POLICY

The Titans strongly encourage fans not to bring any type of bag to Nissan Stadium to expedite entry at the gates, but if you need to bring personal items to the game, please familiarize yourself with the NFL's clear bag policy.

To provide a safer environment for the public and speed fan entry, the Tennessee Titans enforce a league-wide NFL policy that limits the size and type of bags that may be brought in to the stadium.

Clear bags must be 12" x 12" x 6" or smaller.

Non-transparent bags can be no larger than 4.5" x 6.5," even if you are placing it inside your larger clear bag. Please Note: Non-transparent bags are still subject to inspection by security personnel at the gates.

Clear bags are available at the Titans Locker Room next to Gate 1 and online at TitansLockerRoom.com.

All styles of clear bags are acceptable as long as they are 12" x 12" x 6" or smaller. This includes clear cinch sacks, clear diaper bags, gallon ziploc bags, etc.

The clear bag policy is in effect for all Titans games, college football games, concerts and any other sporting event at Nissan Stadium.

PROHIBITED ITEMS INCLUDE, BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO: any non-transparent bag larger than 4.5" x 6.5"; coolers or containers, including glass bottles, cans (aerosol and non-aerosol), thermos, hard plastic tumbler; metal flasks and metal cigar/cigarette cases; seat cushions, folding and/or standalone chairs; umbrellas; strollers or baby seats; camera lenses over 6", video cameras/recording devices, tripods; poles, selfie sticks, sticks of any kind; drones, unmanned aircraft; horns, whistles or other noisemakers; weapons of any kind (including pocket knives); outside food/beverages; illegal drugs or substances, any alcoholic beverage; animals, except service animals assisting guests with disabilities; footballs, inflatable balls, balloons; battery-operated warmers are not permitted in any clothing or blankets; any headwear or apparel with hazardous attachments including, but not limited to, spikes and blades; lights (flashlights, LED lights, any battery-operated lights); anything that creates a nuisance or disruption

For the protection of our fans, prohibited items cannot be stored by Nissan Stadium personnel. All unattended items including, but not limited to, backpacks, bicycles, strollers and umbrellas will be disposed.

During concerts and other non-sporting events, additions may be made to the prohibited items list, at the discretion of the artist and/or management. All updates will be communicated via the Nissan Stadium social media channels.

FOUR CONSECUTIVE WINNING SEASONS

In 2019, the Titans recorded their fourth season with a winning record in four seasons since Jon Robinson was hired as general manager.

In the "Titans era" (1999–present), it marks the first time the team has had as many as three consecutive winning campaigns.

With 9-7 records every season from 2016 through 2019, the Titans own the fourth-longest active streak of winning seasons in the NFL through 2019. Only the New England Patriots (19), Seattle Seahawks (eight) and Kansas City Chiefs (seven) have longer streaks.

Most current consecutive winning seasons (through 2019):

Team	Total	Seasons
1. New England Patriots	19	2001–2019
2. Seattle Seahawks	8	2012–2019
3. Kansas City Chiefs	7	2013–2019
4. Tennessee Titans	4	2016–2019
5. New Orleans Saints	3	2017–2019
Baltimore Ravens	3	2017–2019
Philadelphia Eagles	3	2017–2019
Los Angeles Rams	3	2017–2019

WINNING CLOSE GAMES

The Titans have been one of the NFL's most successful teams in games decided by three points or less in the recent seasons. They were 2-2 in such games in 2019, 3-2 in 2018, 2-1 in 2017 and 4-0 in 2016.

Best NFL winning percentages from 2016-19 in games decided by three points or less (regular season):

WINNING IN THE AFC SOUTH

From 2017 through 2019, the Titans were 11-7 in games versus AFC South opponents. Their .611 winning percentage was the best in the division during that time period.

The Titans finished the 2017 regular season with a 5-1 record in the AFC South, giving them their second-best divisional record since the formation of the AFC South in 2002. In 2018 and 2019, the Titans went 3-3 within the division.

Best division winning percentage in the AFC South from 2017–2019:

	Team	Wins	Losses	Ties	Win %
1.	Tennessee Titans	11	7	0	.611

ALLOWING 20 OR FEWER POINTS

The Titans began the 2019 season by limiting their first seven opponents to 20 or fewer points.

Since 1999, there have been only two other Titans squads that did not allow more than 20 points in any of their first four games: the 2000 team (seven games) and the 2008 team (six).

Most consecutive games at the beginning of a Titans season allowing 20 or fewer points, 1999–2019:

Season		Games
1.	2019	7

3.	2008	6
4.	2011	4
5.	2010	3

LIMITING TURNOVERS

Through their first five games in 2019, the Titans had an NFL-best one turnover, a lost fumble at Jacksonville on Sept. 19.

The Titans became only the sixth team since the 1970 NFL-AFL merger to have only one turnover through the first five games of a season. The last team to accomplish the feat was the 2017 Kansas City Chiefs.

Teams with one turnover through the first five games of a season, 1970–present:

Team	Season	INTs	Fum Lost	Total Turnovers
Tennessee Titans	2019	0	1	1

TITANS SCORING IN 2019

On Dec. 8 at Oakland, the Titans scored 42 points to mark their fourth consecutive game in which they tallied at least 30 points.

The Titans began the run on Nov. 10, hitting 35 points against the Kansas City Chiefs. They continued with 42 points against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Nov. 24, followed by a 31-point outing at Indianapolis on Dec. 1.

The Titans tied for the third-longest streak in franchise history in consecutive 30-point games. It was their longest such streak since 2003.

Most consecutive games in a season scoring 30 or more points, franchise history:

Season		Dates	Consec. Games
1.	2003	Sept. 28–Nov. 9, 2003	6
2.	1961	Nov. 19–Dec. 17, 1961	5
3.	2019	Nov. 10–Dec. 8, 2019	4
	1962	Nov. 25–Dec. 15, 1962	4

The Titans have scored at least 42 points on three separate occasions this season. In addition to the Jacksonville and Oakland games, their season high remains the 43 points they scored at Cleveland in the opener on Sept. 8.

It marks the third season in franchise history and the first time since 1962 (three games) that the team scored at least 42 points three times in a season. Besides 2019 and 1962, the only other time it happened was 1961, when the Oilers had six such games.

Most total games in a season scoring 42 or more points, franchise history:

Season		Total Games
2.	1961	6
3.	2019	3
	1962	3

TURNOVER MARGIN IN 2019

With 23 takeaways and 17 giveaways in 2019, the Titans were ninth in the NFL with a turnover margin of plus-six.

TIGHT END PRODUCTION UNDER SMITH

Former Titans tight ends coach Arthur Smith was promoted to offensive coordinator in January 2019.

During his final season coaching the tight ends, Smith and the team were dealt a significant challenge when starter Delanie Walker suffered an injury in the season opener and was placed on injured reserve for the remainder of the season.

However, during the second half of 2018 the remaining Titans tight ends—including Jonnu Smith, Luke Stocker, Anthony Firkser and MyCole Pruitt—were establishing the group as one of the league's most productive units.

From Week 9-17 in 2018, the Titans tight ends' 49 total receptions tied for the fourth-highest total in the league among tight ends. Additionally, their 607 receiving yards ranked fifth, and their six touchdown receptions tied for fourth place.

Most receptions by team tight end units in 2018 from Week 9-17:

	Team	Rec	Rec Yds	Rec TD
1.	Philadelphia Eagles	71	672	6
2.	Kansas City Chiefs	66	764	7

TITANS DBs A THREAT ON THE BLITZ

The Titans have had the NFL's most successful defensive back group in getting to the quarterback since the beginning of 2018, when head coach Mike Vrabel and defensive coordinator Dean Pees began their tenures with the club.

The Titans defensive backs contributed nine total sacks in 2018, which was the highest total in the NFL, and followed with 5.5 sacks as a group in 2019.

The nine sacks in 2018 were the most by the team's defensive back group in the "Titans era" (1999–present), surpassing the eight sacks by the safeties and cornerbacks in 2014.

Most sacks by a defensive back group from 2018–2019:

	Team	Sacks
1.	Tennessee Titans	14.5
2.	New York Jets	11.0
	Baltimore Ravens	11.0

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Marcus Mariota (6-4, 222) is in his fifth NFL season in 2019. The Titans selected him with the No. 2 overall selection in the 2015 NFL Draft, and since that time, he arguably has had the best beginning to a career of any quarterback in team annals.

Mariota won 27 games as a starter from 2015 through 2018. It was the most by any quarterback in his first four seasons with the franchise since George Blanda joined the Oilers as a 10-year veteran in 1960 and earned 34 wins through 1963.

Mariota became the fifth quarterback in NFL history with at least 12,000 passing yards (12,004) and 1,200 rushing yards (1,270) in his first four seasons, joining Russell Wilson, Cam Newton, Jeff Garcia and Blake Bortles.

In 2018, Mariota completed 228 of 331 passes for 2,528 yards with 11 touchdowns, eight interceptions and a passer rating of 92.3. He is the only quarterback in franchise history to produce a passer rating of 90.0 or greater in three separate seasons.

Mariota's 68.9 completion percentage in 2018 shattered the previous franchise record. It was previously owned by Cody Carlson, who completed 65.6 percent of his passes (149 of 227) in 1992.

In 2017, Mariota led the team to the postseason and became the youngest quarterback in franchise history to win a playoff game. His statistics in the regular season included 281 completions, 3,232 yards and 13 touchdowns on 453 attempts (79.3 passer rating).

From 2015–2016, Mariota passed for 6,244 yards and 45 touchdowns, while throwing only 19 interceptions. His 93.8 passer rating during that time ranked sixth in NFL history for a player's first two NFL campaigns, trailing only Kurt Warner (107.9), Dan Marino (104.5), Nick Foles (101.0), Russell Wilson (100.6) and Ben Roethlisberger (98.3).

In 2016, Mariota started 15 games. He was 276-of-451 passing for 3,426 yards, 26 touchdowns and nine interceptions. His 95.6 passer rating ranks third in franchise history for a single season, behind only Warren Moon's 96.8 in 1990, when he was the Associated Press Offensive Player of the Year, and Steve McNair's 100.4 in 2003, when he was the NFL's Co-MVP. Only two quarterbacks with the franchise have had more touchdown passes in a season than Mariota in 2016: George Blanda (36 in 1961 and 27 in 1962) and Moon (33 in 1990).

During his rookie season, Mariota started 12 games, missing four total contests due to injuries. He completed 230 of his 370 passes for 2,818 yards, 19 touchdowns—all franchise rookie records—while throwing only 10 interceptions. At the time, his 91.5 passer rating ranked third in franchise history.

Mariota also set a franchise rookie record by completing 62.2 percent of his passes. That was the fifth-highest percentage by a rookie quarterback in NFL history and the eighth-highest completion percentage in a season by any quarterback in Titans/Oilers history.

On the ground in 2015, Mariota accounted for 252 yards and a pair of touchdowns on 34 carries. He finished second in franchise history in rushing yards by a rookie quarterback, trailing only Young's 2006 total of 552 rushing yards. Mariota's total included an 87-yard touchdown run against Jacksonville (Dec. 6), which was the fifth-longest rushing play in franchise history.

Mariota joined Manning (1998) as the only rookie quarterbacks in NFL history to complete three touchdown passes in four different games, and he became the lone NFL rookie to ever record two games with four touchdown passes and no interceptions (Sept. 13 at Tampa Bay and Nov. 8 at New Orleans).

He entered the NFL following a historic career at the University of Oregon. He concluded his three seasons as the school's starting quarterback by winning the Heisman Trophy and leading his team to the College Football Playoff Championship Game.

Mariota broke nearly every major passing record at Oregon, totaling 10,796 career passing yards and 105 touchdown passes. The three-time All-Pac-12 selection started every game over his three seasons, earning a 36-5 record, and he completed at least one touchdown pass in every contest. He became one of four players in FBS history to pass for 10,000 yards and rush for 2,000 yards (2,237) in a career, joining Dan LeFevour, Griffin and Colin Kaepernick.

During his Heisman season in 2014, Mariota directed the Ducks to a Rose Bowl victory over Florida State. His totals for the year included 4,454 passing yards, 42 touchdown passes and only four interceptions. He also rushed for 770 yards and 15 touchdowns and even caught a touchdown pass. His 58 total touchdowns in a season (passing, rushing and receiving) shattered Matt Barkley's (2011) previous Pac-12 record of 41 touchdowns.

The 6-foot-4-inch, 222-pound signal caller became the fifth Heisman Trophy winner to be drafted by the Oilers/Titans, joining Billy Cannon, Earl Campbell, Mike Rozier and Eddie George. Derrick Henry became the sixth Heisman winner drafted by the club when he was selected in 2016.

At the 2015 NFL Scouting Combine, he finished among the top three quarterbacks in the 40-yard dash, vertical jump, broad jump, three-cone drill and 20-yard shuttle. His 4.52-second 40-yard dash gave him the fastest quarterback time at the Combine since Griffin's 4.41 in 2012.

Mariota is a native of Honolulu, Hawaii.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), completed 14 of 24 passes for 248 yards, three touchdowns and a passer rating of 133.3. It was the fifth-highest passer rating of his career (minimum 20 attempts) and the 16th best passer rating in franchise history. He recorded his ninth career game with at least three touchdown passes and his fifth career game with at least three touchdown passes and no interceptions. He tossed a 47-yard pass to wide receiver A.J. Brown in the first quarter and tied his career long with a 75-yard touchdown pass to running back Derrick Henry in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, Mariota found tight end Delanie Walker for touchdown passes of 11 yards and seven yards.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), completed 19 of 28 passes for 154 yards and one touchdown without throwing an interception (93.5 passer rating). He added 32 rushing yards on five attempts. He opened the season with consecutive passer ratings of 90-plus for the first time since his rookie campaign of 2015. He threw a one-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter to offensive lineman David Quessenberry, who lined up as eligible on the play.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), completed 23 of 40 passes for 304 yards with no interceptions and a passer rating of 81.7. It was his eighth career 300-yard passing game and his first since Nov. 26, 2018 at Houston. In the second half, he was 17-of-24 for 242 yards passing. He threw a 47-yard pass to wide receiver Tajaé Sharpe in the third quarter.
- At Atlanta (9/29), completed 18 of 27 passes for 227 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions, and he added three rushing attempts for 22 yards. His passer rating of 129.7 was the seventh-highest mark of his career in a game with at least 20 attempts to qualify. He notched his sixth career game with at least three touchdown passes and no interceptions. In the first quarter, he found wide receiver A.J. Brown for a 55-yard touchdown pass to give Mariota his seventh career touchdown pass of 55 yards or longer. He connected with Brown again for an 11-yard touchdown pass later in the first quarter. In the second quarter, he completed a 23-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Corey Davis. It gave him three touchdown passes in the first half, marking the third time in his career he accomplished the feat and the first time since Nov. 13, 2016 against the Green Bay Packers.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), completed 13 of 22 passes for 183 yards and added 13 rushing yards on five attempts. He became the NFL's only quarterback to start every game through five weeks without throwing an interception or losing a fumble. His totals included a 57-yard pass on a screen play to tight end Jonnu Smith in the third quarter, giving Mariota the seventh-longest pass of his career. He increased his franchise record to 191 consecutive passes attempted without throwing an interception.
- At Denver (10/13), completed seven of 18 passes for 63 yards with two interceptions. His franchise-record streak of 205 consecutive passes without an interception comes to an end.
- At Houston (12/29), completed one pass for 24 yards to A.J. Brown.
- At New England (1/4), completed one pass for four yards.

CONSECUTIVE PASSES WITHOUT AN INT

At Atlanta on Sept. 29, Marcus Mariota set a new franchise record for consecutive passes attempted without an interception. He eclipsed the record set by Kerry Collins of 161 passes without an interception in 2008.

After Mariota threw an interception against Jacksonville on Dec. 6, 2018, the next time he was intercepted was on Oct. 13, 2019. In total, he went 205 passes between interceptions.

MARIOTA AT AGE 25

Marcus Mariota celebrated his 25th birthday on Oct. 30, 2018. He became only the ninth quarterback since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970 to pass for at least 10,000 yards before his 25th birthday.

The list also includes Drew Bledsoe (14,642 passing yards before his 25th birthday), Jameis Winston (14,628), Josh Freeman (12,963), Peyton Manning (12,287), Matthew Stafford (12,272), Dan Marino (11,975), Cam Newton (11,299) and Blake Bortles (11,241).

Among the nine players to accomplish the feat, Mariota led the group in completion percentage (62.2) and ranked third in passer rating (87.5) behind only Marino (96.6) and Winston (87.8).

Mariota (1,098), Newton (2,032 rushing yards) and Bortles (1,088) were the only three players with 10,000 passing yards and 1,000 rushing yards before age 25.

Players since the 1970 NFL-AFL merger with 10,000 passing yards before age 25 (through 2018):

FRANCHISE SINGLE-GAME PASSER RATINGS

Against the Packers on Nov. 13, 2016, Marcus Mariota completed 19 of 26 passes for 295 yards with four touchdowns and no interceptions. His passer rating for the game was 149.8.

Among all games in franchise history, Mariota's passer rating against the Packers ranks second (minimum 20 attempts). The only one that tops it is a perfect 158.3 by Chris Chandler against the Cincinnati Bengals on Sept. 24, 1995.

Mariota owns three of the franchise's four best single-game passer ratings and six of the team's 20 best performances. His 148.1 passer rating against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Oct. 27, 2016 is third on the list, while his 147.7 passer rating at the Houston Texans on Nov. 26, 2018 is fourth.

In his NFL debut at Tampa Bay on Sept. 13, 2015, Mariota had a perfect 158.3 passer rating. However, his 15 attempts fell short of the 20 attempts required to qualify in the NFL's official record books.

RUSH TO THE RECORD BOOKS

On Dec. 6, 2015 against Jacksonville, Marcus Mariota rushed for an 87-yard touchdown against Jacksonville and finished the game with 112 rushing yards on nine attempts.

The 87-yard run was the longest run in franchise history by a quarterback and at the time was the fifth-longest run overall for the team, behind three rushes by running back Chris Johnson (94, 91 and 89 yards) and one rush by running back Sid Blanks (91).

Steve McNair previously recorded the longest run in franchise history by a quarterback with a 71-yard attempt in 1998 (Nov. 8 at Tampa Bay).

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Quarterback Ryan Tannehill (6-4, 207) is in his eighth NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans. He was originally a first-round selection (eighth overall) by the Miami Dolphins in the 2012 NFL Draft.

Tannehill was acquired by the Titans in a trade with the Dolphins on March 15, 2019. The Titans sent a seventh-round pick in 2019 and a fourth-round selection in 2020 to Miami in exchange for Tannehill and a 2019 sixth-rounder.

Over his first seven NFL seasons, he started 88 games, threw for 20,434 yards and 123 touchdowns, and rushed for 1,210 yards and six scores. When he left Miami, he ranked second in franchise history behind Chad Pennington in both career completion percentage (62.8) and career passer rating (87.0). He authored 13 game-winning drives.

In 2018, while being limited by injury to 11 starts, Tannehill threw for 1,979 yards and 17 touchdowns.

During the first four seasons of his career (2012-15), Tannehill's passing yardage total—15,460 yards—was the third highest mark in NFL history, behind only Peyton Manning and Dan Marino. Tannehill's two 4,000-yard passing seasons (2015 and 2014) were the only ones recorded by a Dolphins quarterback other than Marino (six times). The Dolphins reached the playoffs in 2016, breaking an eight-year postseason drought.

A native of Big Spring, Texas, Tannehill attended Texas A&M, where he earned honorable mention All-America honors as a senior. He played both quarterback and wide receiver, passing for 5,450 yards and 42 touchdowns and adding 112 receptions for 1,596 yards and 10 scores.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), made his Titans regular season debut in the fourth quarter but did not attempt a pass.
- At Denver (10/13), entered the contest in the second half and completed 13 of 16 passes for 144 yards with one interception (78.1 passer rating). His first pass as a member of the Titans went to wide receiver Corey Davis for five yards in the third quarter. He completed a 25-yard pass to tight end Anthony Firkser in the fourth quarter.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), earned a victory in his first start as a member of the Titans and was credited with his 14th career game-winning drive. He completed 23 of 29 passes for 312 yards, two touchdowns and one interception. His 79.3 completion percentage set a career high for games with a minimum of 20 attempts, and it also qualified (minimum 20 attempts) as the 10th-best in franchise history. His 120.1 passer rating ranked 10th in his eight-year career (minimum 20 attempts). He completed an eight-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Corey Davis in the final minute of the first half. In the fourth quarter, he completed a go-ahead touchdown pass on third-and-goal with a five-yard scoring strike to wide receiver Tajaé Sharpe. He recorded his 17th career 300-yard passing game and his first since passing for 319 yards against the Cleveland Browns as a member of the Miami Dolphins on Sept. 25, 2016.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), completed 21 of 33 passes for 193 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions. His 109.8 passer rating gave him consecutive passer ratings above 100.0 in his first two starts of the season. He authored his 24th career game with a passer rating of at least 100.0 with a record of 20-4 in such outings. He completed touchdown passes in the first quarter of five yards to tight end Jonnu Smith and six yards to wide receiver Tajaé Sharpe. In the fourth quarter, he engineered a 90-yard drive and connected with wide receiver A.J. Brown for the game-winning, eight-yard touchdown pass. Tannehill notched a game-winning drive for the second consecutive week (15th career). He also recorded his seventh career game (7-0) with at least three touchdowns and no interceptions.
- At Carolina (11/3), completed 27 of 39 passes for 331 yards and a touchdown (82.3 passer rating) and added four rushing attempts for 38 yards, including a 10-yard touchdown. He completed a 23-yard touchdown pass on a screen play to running back Derrick Henry in the fourth quarter. He notched his 18th career 300-yard passing game and his second 300-yard game in a three-week span. His 331 passing yards were his most in a game since Sept. 11, 2016 (387 vs. Seattle) as a member of the Miami Dolphins. He picked up 25 yards on a run in the third quarter, leading to a Titans touchdown. It was his longest rushing attempt since Dec. 27, 2015 (28 vs. Indianapolis). He recorded his third career game with at least one rushing touchdown and at least one passing touchdown, as well as his first career game with at least 300 passing yards and a rushing touchdown.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), completed 13 of 19 passes for 181 yards and two touchdowns with no interceptions. His 133.9 passer rating gave him his third passer rating over 100 in four games since taking over the starting quarterback role. He added three rushing attempts for 37 yards, including an 18-yard scramble during the game-winning touchdown drive late in the fourth quarter. He found tight end Anthony Firkser for a nine-yard touchdown in the second quarter, and with 23 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, he completed a game-winning, 23-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Adam Humphries. His third game-winning drive in four starts with the Titans gave him 16 career game-winning drive. It was his second career game in which he completed a game-winning touchdown pass when his team trailed by more than three points in the final minute of the fourth quarter (Dec. 9, 2018 vs. New England). He added a run for a two-point conversion following his game-winning touchdown pass. It was the first run for a two-point conversion in his career. In the second quarter, he connected with wide receiver Kalif Raymond for a season-long 52-yard pass.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), recorded his fourth win in five games as a starter for the Titans, completing 14 of 18 passes for 259 yards and two touchdowns with a passer rating of 155.8. He completed a one-yard touchdown pass to offensive lineman Dennis Kelly in the third quarter and a 65-yard touchdown to wide receiver A.J. Brown in the third quarter. He completed five total passes of 20-plus yards. In addition to his 65-yard touchdown pass, he converted a third down with a 24-yard pass on a screen play to Dion Lewis in the first quarter, found tight end MyCole Pruitt for a 20-yard pass in the first quarter, added a 24-yard pass to wide receiver Corey Davis in the second quarter, and connected again with Brown for a 36-yard play in the third quarter. He registered his second game of 2019 and his fourth career game with at least one touchdown pass and at least one touchdown run. It was his first career game with multiple touchdown passes and multiple touchdown runs. Tannehill rushed for 40 yards on seven attempts and set a career high with two rushing touchdowns. He notched his third consecutive game with a rushing attempt of at least 18 yards. He rushed for 20 yards on the Titans' first offensive play of the game, rushed for a 21-yard touchdown in the second quarter, and added a three-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter. He set a career season high with three rushing touchdowns in 2019, surpassing his previous high of two touchdown runs in 2012.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), notched his fifth win in six games as a starter for the Titans, completing 17 of 22 passes for 182 yards and two touchdowns for a passer rating of 131.2. His passer rating was the second-highest single-game rating of his career with a minimum of 20 attempts. His two touchdown passes included a 13-yard pass to wide receiver Adam Humphries in the first quarter and a 40-yarder to wide receiver Kalif Raymond in the fourth quarter. He logged his 21st career game in which he completed at least two touchdown passes without throwing an interception. His completion rate of 77.3 percent was the fourth-best mark of his career (minimum 20 attempts).

➢ At Oakland (12/8), completed 21 of 27 passes for 391 yards and three touchdowns with one interception. His passer rating of 140.4 was the second-best single-game mark of his career (minimum 20 attempts). He added 19 yards on four rushing attempts. With a 77.8 percent completion percentage and a 140.4 passer rating, he joined Aaron Rodgers (three games in 2011) as the only players in NFL history to complete at least 75 percent of their passes with a passer rating of 130 or higher (min. 10 attempts) in three consecutive games in a single season. He joined Russell Wilson (five games in 2015) as the only players with four consecutive games with at least two passing touchdowns and a passer rating of 125 or higher in NFL history. His three touchdown passes included strikes to wide receiver A.J. Brown of 91 yards and 16 yards in the second quarter and a 17-yarder to tight end Jonnu Smith in the fourth quarter. His 91-yard touchdown pass was the longest pass of his career. The longest previous pass of his career was an 80-yard touchdown at Arizona on Sept. 30, 2012 as a member of the Miami Dolphins. His 91-yard touchdown pass was the fourth-longest touchdown pass in franchise history and the longest since 1965. The only longer touchdown passes in team annals were a 98-yard strike from Jacky Lee to Willard Dewveall against the San Diego Chargers on Nov. 25, 1962; a 95-yard touchdown pass from George Blanda to Dick Compton against the Buffalo Bills on Dec. 5, 1965; and a 92-yarder from Lee to Bill Groman on Nov. 20, 1960. His 391 passing yards amounted to the third-highest total of his career, ranked sixth for the team in the "Titans era" (since 1999) and were the most by a Titans player since Ryan Fitzpatrick's 402-yard passing day against the Arizona Cardinals on Dec. 15, 2013. He recorded his 19th career 300-yard passing game and his third 300-yard game of 2019. It was his fourth consecutive game with at least two touchdown passes. With 263 passing yards in the first half, he recorded the highest total by a Titans passer in the first half since Billy Volek's 282 yards at Oakland on Dec. 19, 2004. He was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week and the FedEx Air NFL Player of the Week for his performance.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), completed 17 of 27 passes for 272 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions. His 133.6 passer rating ranked third in his career in a contest in which he qualified with a minimum of 20 attempts. He produced his 17th career game with three or more touchdown passes, completing a 41-yard touchdown pass to Jonnu Smith in the first quarter and adding a pair of touchdown passes to Tajaé Sharpe, first on a 36-yard play in the third quarter and then a seven-yard play in the fourth stanza. He registered his eighth career game (second of 2019) throwing at least three touchdown passes without being intercepted. It was his sixth consecutive game with at least two touchdown passes, the best streak of his career. He reached 20 touchdown passes on the season for the fourth time in his career and his first time since 2015.

➢ At Houston (12/29), completed 13 of 20 passes for 198 yards and two touchdowns for a passer rating of 130.8. It was his sixth performance in a seven-game span with a passer rating of 130 or better. He completed a 51-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver A.J. Brown in the first quarter and added a one-yard touchdown pass to tight end MyCole Pruitt in the second quarter. He registered his seventh consecutive game with at least two touchdown passes, which extended the best streak of his career (five in 2015) and paired him with Marcus Mariota (eight consecutive games in 2016) as the only quarterbacks in franchise history with at least seven consecutive games with two or more touchdown passes. Tannehill registered his 10th consecutive game with at least one touchdown pass, the longest streak by a Titans quarterback since Steve McNair (10) from 2003 to 2004. On the offense's first snap against the Texans, he rushed for a 19-yard gain. It was his 100th career NFL game.

➢ Named AFC Offensive Player of the Month, capping a December in which he completed 90 of 132 passes for 1,322 yards with 12 touchdowns and two interceptions. His passer rating for the calendar month was 124.6, which led the AFC and ranked second in the NFL to Drew Brees (137.0). His passer rating, passing yards and passing touchdowns were the best by a player in franchise history during the month of December.

➢ At New England (1/4), completed eight passes for 72 yards and one touchdown on 15 attempts with one interception in a wild card victory. He added four rushing attempts for 11 yards, including a pair of rushing first downs. He registered a win in his first career playoff game. He tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to tight end Anthony Firkser in the first quarter and found Firkser again for a key 11-yard completion to convert a third-and-eight late in the fourth quarter.

BAUGH, MONTANA & TANNEHILL

During the 2019 season, Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill accomplished a statistical feat only reached previously by a pair of Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterbacks.

Tannehill's season statistics included a 70.3 completion percentage and an average of 9.6 yards per passing attempt.

In the history of the NFL, only two previous qualifying passers have enjoyed a season in which they completed at least 70.0 percent of their passes and averaged at least 9.0 yards per attempt: Sammy Baugh and Joe Montana.

Montana led the San Francisco 49ers to a Super Bowl XXIV title and won the NFL MVP award following a 1989 season in which he completed 70.2 percent of his passes (271 of 386) and averaged 9.1 yards per attempt (3,521 yards).

Baugh directed the Washington Redskins to the NFL Championship game in 1945, while completing 70.3 percent of his passes (128 of 182) and averaging 9.2 yards per attempt (1,669 yards).

Players in NFL history with a completion rate of at least 70.0 percent and a passing average of at least 9.0 yards per attempt (qualifiers only):

SINGLE-SEASON FRANCHISE RECORDS

Ryan Tannehill's 2019 regular season totals included 2,742 yards, 22 touchdowns and six interceptions on 201-of-286 passing. His passer rating of 117.5 ranked first in the NFL.

Tannehill set three of the franchise's major single-season passing records. He established new benchmarks for passer rating, completion percentage (70.3) and passing average (9.6).

Steve McNair established the franchise's single-season record with a passer rating of 100.4 in 2003, his MVP season. Marcus Mariota set the completion percentage mark for the club in 2018, completing 68.9 percent of his passes. For passing average (yards per attempt), George Blanda held the team record since 1961, the franchise's second season, when he averaged 9.2 yards per pass.

SEASON GAMES WITH A 130 RATING

Ryan Tannehill registered a total of six single-game passer ratings of 130 or greater in only 10 starts during the 2019 regular season. He tied Seattle's Russell Wilson with the most such performances in 2019 and also tied for the most by any NFL starting quarterback in any season since 1960. Green Bay's Aaron Rodgers (2011) and Dallas' Tony Romo (2014) are the only other quarterbacks to accomplish the feat.

In franchise history, former Oilers quarterback Chris Chandler previously had the most season games with a 130-plus passer rating, with four in 1995.

Most starts by a quarterback with a passer rating of 130.0 or greater, 1960–2019:

	Player	Season	Team	Games
1.	Ryan Tannehill	2019	Tennessee Titans	6
	Russell Wilson	2019	Seattle Seahawks	6
	Tony Romo	2014	Dallas Cowboys	6

	Joe Montana	1989	San Francisco 49ers	5

CONSECUTIVE GAMES WITH A 130 RATING

During the 2019 campaign, Ryan Tannehill produced a streak of four consecutive games with a passer rating greater than 130. The run included a 133.9 passer rating against the Kansas City Chiefs (Nov. 10), a 155.8 against the Jacksonville Jaguars (Nov. 24), a 131.2 at the Indianapolis Colts (Dec. 1) and a 140.4 at the Oakland Raiders (Dec. 8).

In franchise history, no quarterback prior to Tannehill had ever produced four consecutive starts with a passer rating of 100 or better (minimum 10 attempts per game). Marcus Mariota (2016) was the most recent of six Titans/Oilers signal callers to do so for three games before Tannehill.

Most consecutive games in a single season with a 100 passer rating, franchise history (minimum 10 attempts each game):

	Player	Dates	Games
1.	Ryan Tannehill	Nov. 10–Dec. 8, 2019	4

LEADING VETERAN QBS ON NEW TEAMS

In 2019, Ryan Tannehill set a new standard for veteran quarterbacks in their first year with a new team. Tannehill, who was acquired in a trade after seven years with the Miami Dolphins, had a passer rating of 117.5. No quarterback has ever finished with a passer rating that high in his first season with a new team after playing at least one year with another team.

Brett Favre held the distinction until 2019. In 2009, Favre's 107.2 passer rating with the Minnesota Vikings became the best figure in league annals by a veteran in his first campaign with a new club.

Highest passer rating in a veteran's first season with a new team:

	Player	Season	New Team	Former Team	Rating
1.	Ryan Tannehill	2019	Tennessee	Miami	117.5
2.	Brett Favre	2009	Minnesota	N.Y. Jets	107.2

2 TD PASSES W/ LESS THAN 2 INTS

To end the 2019 regular season, Ryan Tannehill completed multiple touchdown passes for seven consecutive games, one game shy of Marcus Mariota's 2016 franchise record of eight consecutive games with multiple touchdown passes.

However, Tannehill did establish a franchise benchmark in his final seven contests for most consecutive games with multiple touchdown passes and fewer than two interceptions. Over those seven games, he had two total interceptions—one each on Dec. 8 (at Oakland) and Dec. 15 (vs. Houston)—to go along with 19 touchdown passes and a 129.8 passer rating.

During Mariota's 2016 season, he registered the previous franchise-best streak of four straight games with at least two touchdown passes and fewer than two interceptions.

Running back Derrick Henry (6-3, 247) is in his fourth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans with the 45th overall pick in the second round of the 2016 NFL Draft.

Henry authored his first career 1,000-yard season in 2018 and the 28th 1,000-yard rushing season in franchise history, totaling 1,059 yards and 12 touchdowns on 215 carries—all career highs.

His 2018 rushing yardage ranked second in the AFC to Joe Mixon's 1,168 yards, and he finished seventh in the NFL. Henry's 12 rushing touchdowns tied James Connor for third place in the NFL behind Todd Gurley (17) and Alvin Kamara (14).

Henry was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December 2018. His 625 rushing yards in the month were the most by any NFL player in any month during the season.

Against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 6, Henry recorded one of the greatest single games in franchise history in front of a national television audience. He broke Chris Johnson's single-game franchise record (228) with 238 rushing yards, including a 99-yard touchdown run. He joined Tony Dorsett as the only two players in NFL history to rush for a 99-yard score.

In 2017, Henry shared time in the Titans backfield with DeMarco Murray. Henry led the team with 744 rushing yards on 176 carries, and he added 11 receptions for 136 yards and a touchdown. His five rushing touchdowns tied for second on the club.

As a rookie, Henry played in 15 games with one start, sharing time in the backfield with DeMarco Murray. He carried the ball 110 times for 490 yards and five touchdowns and added 137 yards on 13 receptions. Henry became the third rookie for the franchise in the "Titans era" to score at least five touchdowns in a season, joining Vince Young (seven rushing touchdowns in 2006) and Chris Johnson (nine rushing and one receiving in 2008).

The Heisman Trophy winner played three seasons (2013–2015) at the University of Alabama, where he set numerous school and SEC records while leading his team to a National Championship in 2015.

Henry played in 39 games and totaled 602 carries for 3,591 yards and 42 rushing touchdowns and added 285 yards on 17 career receptions with three receiving scores. During Alabama's victory over Clemson in the 2016 College Football Playoff National Championship, he broke Shaun Alexander's record for most career rushing yards in Alabama history.

In his final collegiate season, Henry rushed for an Alabama and Southeastern Conference record 2,219 yards, which led the nation and ranked fifth in FBS history. He recorded 100-yard rushing games 10 times and had four 200-yard games during the season. His 28 rushing touchdowns were a national best and an SEC record, snapping Tim Tebow and Tre Mason's old mark of 23. In addition to the Heisman, he also won the Doak Walker Award, Walter Camp Award and Maxwell Award, among a multitude of other honors.

2019 Notes:

➢ At Cleveland (9/8), totaled 19 rushing attempts for 84 yards and one touchdown and added one reception for a 75-yard touchdown. His 159 scrimmage yards made up the third-best total of his career. It was his first career performance with a rushing touchdown and receiving touchdown in a game. He recorded a one-yard touchdown run in the second quarter for his ninth touchdown run (10th overall touchdown) over a six-game span dating back to the end of the 2018 campaign. In the third quarter, he scored on a career-long 75-yard touchdown reception, topping his previous long reception of 66 yards on Dec. 31, 2017. His 75-yard reception gave him a new career high for receiving yards in a game (66 vs. Jacksonville on Dec. 31, 2017).

➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), led the team with 82 rushing yards on 15 carries (5.5 avg.) and added 12 yards on a pair of receptions. He posted a one-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), led the team with 44 rushing yards on 17 carries in his 50th career game. He rushed for a one-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter. It gave him a rushing touchdown in all three games to start the 2019 season. It was his 25th career rushing touchdown and his NFL-leading 12th total touchdown (11 rushing) in an eight-game span, dating back to the final five games of 2018.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), registered his fifth career 100-yard rushing game, leading the team with 100 yards on 27 carries. He added an eight-yard reception. His 27 carries made up the third-highest total of his career. He had 18 rushing attempts for 71 yards in the second half alone.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), led the team in rushing with 78 yards on 20 attempts with one touchdown. He recorded a 24-yard run in the first quarter. In the third quarter, he rushed for a 17-yard gain to the Buffalo eight-yard line, and three plays later, he rushed for a one-yard touchdown. It was his fourth rushing touchdown of 2019 and the 26th of his career.

➢ At Denver (10/13), rushed for 28 yards on 15 attempts and added a five-yard reception.

➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), led the team with 90 rushing yards and one touchdown on 22 carries (4.1 avg.). It was his eighth performance in an 11-game stretch with at least 80 rushing yards. He added an 18-yard reception to give him 108 scrimmage yards, tying for the seventh-highest scrimmage yardage total of his career. He scored his fifth rushing touchdown of the season on an 11-yard run in the fourth quarter. On a six-yard run in the third quarter, he passed Chris Brown (2,757 career rushing yards) for 10th place on the franchise's all-time rushing list, and on an eight-yard run in the fourth quarter, he passed Ronnie Coleman (2,769 career rushing yards) for ninth place on the list.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), led the team with 75 rushing yards on 16 attempts to give him at least 75 rushing yards in six of the team's first eight games of the season. With the offense backed up at its own one-yard line in the first quarter, he posted a 34-yard rushing attempt, giving him his longest carry of the season through eight games. His 75 rushing yards were the most by an individual in the first eight weeks of 2019 against the Buccaneers, who went into the contest with the NFL's top-rated rushing defense. He added an eight-yard reception.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), totaled 188 yards and two touchdowns on 23 rushing attempts (8.2 avg.). His 188 yards made up the second-highest single-game total of his four-year career. It was his fifth career game with at least two rushing touchdowns and his first such performance of 2019. He scored on a 68-yard run in the third quarter and a one-yard run in the fourth quarter. With his 30th career rushing touchdowns, he passed Lorenzo White (29) for fifth place on the franchise's all-time rushing touchdowns list. With his 10th total touchdown in 2019, he became the sixth player in franchise history with at least 10 touchdowns in two or more consecutive seasons, joining Bill Groman (1960-61), Billy Cannon (1961-62), Earl Campbell (1978-81), Eddie George (1999–2000) and Chris Johnson (2008-10). His 68-yard touchdown run was the fourth-longest rushing attempt of his career and his seventh career scrimmage play of 50 yards or more (five rushing, two receiving). On his 68-yard touchdown, he became the ninth player in franchise history to reach 3,000 career rushing yards. His 188 rushing yards gave him the NFL's second-largest single-game total to date in 2019 (225 by Leonard Fournette). With his third career game with at least 170 rushing yards and two rushing touchdowns, he tied for the fifth-most such games in a player's first four seasons in league annals, joining Jim Brown (six), Eric Dickerson (six), Earl Campbell (five) and Jamal Lewis (four). He was named FedEx Ground NFL Player of the Week for his performance against the Chiefs.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), totaled 19 rushing attempts for 159 yards and two touchdowns and added one catch for 16 yards. His 159 rushing yards gave him the fourth-highest total of his career, and his 175 scrimmage yards gave him the third-highest total of his career. He notched his second consecutive 100-yard rushing game. In the third quarter, he scored on a 74-yard rushing attempt to record his longest rushing attempt of the season and the third-longest rushing attempt of his career. On the offense's next scrimmage play, he scored again on a seven-yard carry. With 16 seconds on the game clock between his two touchdown runs, he became the first player to score two touchdowns in a 20-second span in a single game since the San Diego Chargers' LaDainian Tomlinson (two in 15 seconds) at the Cincinnati Bengals on Nov. 12, 2006. With his 74-yard touchdown run, he joined Napoleon Kaufman (1997–1999) and Robert Smith (1997–2000) as the only players in NFL history to record a rushing touchdown of at least 70 yards in three consecutive seasons. Henry became the sixth player in franchise history with at least 12 touchdowns in two or more consecutive seasons, joining Bill Groman (1960–1961), Billy Cannon (1961–1962), Earl Campbell (1978–1980), Eddie George (1999–2000) and Chris Johnson (2009–2010). He passed Charles Tolar (3,277) for eighth place on the franchise's all-time rushing list. Against the Jaguars, Henry rushed for 126 yards in the third quarter alone, the second-highest figure by any NFL player in any quarter in 2019 through Week 12 (143 by Leonard Fournette, Sept. 29). Henry's 126 yards in the third quarter were the most by a Titans/Oilers player in any quarter in the last 29 seasons (1991–2019). He was named FedEx Ground NFL Player of the Week for his performance against the Jaguars.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), totaled 149 yards and one touchdown on 26 rushing attempts (5.7 avg.) and added three receptions for 17 yards. He joined Jim Brown, Eric Dickerson, O.J. Simpson and Adrian Peterson as the only players in NFL history with at least 145 rushing yards and a touchdown in three consecutive games. Henry reached the 1,000-yard season rushing mark on his first carry of the game to become the franchise's first player since Chris Johnson (2008–2013) with consecutive 1,000-yard rushing seasons, and he joined Eddie George (seven), Johnson (six) and Earl Campbell (five) as the only players in franchise history with multiple 1,000-yard rushing seasons. Henry rushed for a 13-yard touchdown on a fourth-and-one play in the third quarter to notch his fourth consecutive game with at least one rushing touchdown and tie his career-best streak (2018). He registered a 34-yard run in the third quarter. With his third consecutive 100-yard rushing game, he became the first Titans player with three consecutive 100-yard rushing games since Chris Johnson (12) from 2009-10. His 100-yard rushing performance was the first such individual effort against the Colts since Denver's C.J. Anderson (158) on Dec. 14, 2017. The Colts defense went 29 consecutive games without allowing an individual 100-yard rusher until Henry did so. He was named FedEx Ground NFL Player of the Week for the third consecutive game.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), totaled 103 yards and two touchdowns on 18 rushing attempts. He scored first on a 12-yard run in the first quarter and then on a 10-yard run in the third quarter. It marked his seventh career game with at least two rushing touchdowns and his third game of the season with two rushing touchdowns—all three coming within the last four contests. He passed Steve McNair (3,439 career rushing yards) for sixth place on the team's all-time rushing list and later passed Hoyle Granger (3,514) for fifth place on the team's all-time rushing list. He joined Earl Campbell (1978–1980) as the only players in franchise history to record consecutive seasons with 12 or more rushing touchdowns. On a four-yard run in the third quarter, he moved past 1,200 yards on the season to join Chris Johnson (2009), Earl Campbell (1978–1980, 1983) and Eddie George (2000) as the only players in franchise history with 1,200 rushing yards and 12 rushing touchdowns in a season. He went over 100 rushing yards for the game on a 24-yard carry in the third quarter, notching his fourth consecutive 100-yard rushing game, his fifth 100-yard rushing game of 2019 and his 10th career 100-yard rushing game, including playoffs. He became the first Titans player with four consecutive 100-yard rushing games since Chris Johnson (12) from 2009-10. He was named FedEx Ground NFL Player of the Week for the fourth consecutive game.

➢ Against Houston (12/15), totaled 86 yards on 21 rushing attempts (4.1 avg.). He continued a streak with five consecutive games with at least 85 rushing yards to match the fourth-longest streak of its kind in franchise history. He produced a 23-yard run in the second quarter to give him five consecutive games with a rushing attempt of at least 20 yards. He became the team's first player to reach 1,300 rushing yards in a season since Chris Johnson had 1,364 rushing yards in 2010.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), he was inactive with a hamstring injury. It marked the second game in his four-year career he missed and his first missed game since Nov. 6, 2016 as a rookie.

➢ At Houston (12/29), rushed for 211 yards and three touchdowns on 32 carries, recording the second-highest totals of his career in each category. His 211 rushing yards made up the second-best total of his career and the fifth-best single-game total in franchise history. Claimed the NFL's 2019 rushing title with 1,540 yards (fourth in franchise history), joining Billy Cannon (AFL, 1961), Earl Campbell (1978-80) and Chris Johnson (2009) as the only running backs in franchise history to lead their respective leagues in rushing. Henry rushed for a three-yard touchdown in the third quarter and added fourth-quarter touchdown runs of one yard and 53 yards. It marked his second career game with three or more touchdowns. He reached the 100-yard mark on an eight-yard carry in the third quarter to notch his career-high sixth 100-yard rushing game of 2019 and his 11th career 100-yard rushing game, including playoffs. With 38 career rushing touchdowns, he passed Steve McNair (36) for fourth place on the franchise's all-time rushing touchdowns list. On his 53-yard touchdown, Henry registered his seventh career rushing touchdown of 50-plus yards, which was high in the NFL from the time he entered the NFL in 2016 through the 2019 regular season. Henry was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week and FedEx Ground Player of the Week for his performance.

➢ At New England (1/4), rushed for 182 yards and one touchdown on 34 carries in a wild card playoff victory. His 182 rushing yards set the franchise's single-game postseason record, topping Eddie George's 162 yards at Indianapolis on Jan. 16, 2000. He rushed for the most yards in an NFL playoff game since Jan. 12, 2008, when Green Bay Packers running back Ryan Grant totaled 201 rushing yards against the Seattle Seahawks, and he rushed for the second-most yards on the road in an NFL playoff game since 1950 (202 by Freeman McNeil; New York Jets at Cincinnati; Jan. 9, 1983). Henry broke the franchise record for most rushing attempts in a playoff game, eclipsing Eddie George's 29 carries against the Buffalo Bills on Jan. 8, 2000. His 34 rushing attempts were the most in any NFL playoff game since Seattle's Shaun Alexander had 34 carries against the Carolina Panthers on Jan. 22, 2006. Henry added 22 yards on one reception to give him a franchise postseason record of 204 scrimmage yards, topping his own record of 191 scrimmage yards at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018. Henry produced the most scrimmage yards in a playoff game by any NFL player since wide receiver T.Y. Hilton had 224 yards for the Indianapolis Colts against the Kansas City Chiefs on Jan. 4, 2014. Henry recorded his second postseason game with at least 100 rushing yards (156 at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018), joining Eddie George (three) as the only players in franchise history with multiple career 100-yard rushing performances in the postseason. He went over the 100-yard mark for the game on a nine-yard run in the second quarter. On the same drive, he added 22 yards on a screen pass, scored a touchdown on a one-yard run, and accounted for all 75 yards on the scoring drive. His 106 yards in the first half were the most in the first half of a playoff game in franchise history. Henry became the eighth NFL player since 1950 with multiple postseason games with at least 150 rushing yards. In joining Terrell Davis (four), Marcus Allen (two), Le'Veon Bell (two), Eric Dickerson (two), Franco Harris (two), John Riggins (two) and Thurman Thomas (two), he became the first member of the group to accomplish the feat in two or more road playoff games.

DECEMBER TO REMEMBER

In five games in the month of December 2018, Derrick Henry's rushing totals included 97 carries for 625 yards and eight touchdowns. His 625 yards were the most by any NFL player in any calendar month in 2018.

Additionally, Henry authored one of only four calendar months for the franchise since 1970 in which a player rushed for at least 600 yards. Chris Johnson (800 rushing yards in November 2009) and Earl Campbell (633 in October 1980; 662 in November 1980) were the organization's only other players to accomplish the feat in that timespan.

Henry's December rushing totals included 40 yards against the New York Jets (Dec. 2), a franchise-record 238 yards against the Jacksonville Jaguars (Dec. 6), 170 yards at the New York Giants (Dec. 16), 84 yards against the Washington Redskins (Dec. 22) and 93 yards against the Indianapolis Colts (Dec. 30).

For his efforts, Henry was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month.

Titans/Oilers with 500 rushing yards in any calendar month from 1970-2018 (includes playoffs):

RECORD-SETTING NIGHT

On Dec. 6, 2018, Derrick Henry had one of the most memorable rushing performances in NFL history on Thursday Night Football. He rushed for a team-record 238 yards and four touchdowns (tied), including a 99-yard touchdown run.

WATCH: Highlights from Derrick Henry's performance on 12/6/18

Henry's 238 rushing yards set a new franchise record, breaking Chris Johnson's mark of 228 yards against the Jaguars on Nov. 1, 2009. It was the highest single-game rushing total in the NFL in 2018 and the league's highest total since Doug Martin's 251 rushing yards for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers against the Oakland Raiders on Nov. 4, 2012.

Most rushing yards in a game, franchise history:

	Player	Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards
1.	Derrick Henry	12/6/18	Jacksonville	238
2.	Chris Johnson	11/1/09	Jacksonville	228

10.	Chris Johnson	9/20/09	Houston	197

In the second quarter, Henry took a handoff from Marcus Mariota inside his own one-yard line and raced 99 yards for a touchdown. It was the second 99-yard run in NFL history, tying Tony Dorsett's record-setting touchdown run for the Dallas Cowboys against the Minnesota Vikings on Jan. 3, 1983. It was also the team record, topping Johnson's 94-yard touchdown run against the New York Jets on Dec. 17, 2012. The only other runs in franchise history of at least 90 yards were Johnson's 91-yard rush against the Houston Texans on Sept. 20, 2009 and a 91-yarder by Sid Blanks against the Jets on Dec. 13, 1964.

Henry's 99-yard touchdown run tied for the longest scrimmage play in NFL history. It was the 15th such play, including his and Dorsett's runs and 13 passing plays. The last 99-yard scrimmage play before Henry's was New York Giants wide receiver Victor Cruz's 99-yard reception from Eli Manning against the New York Jets on Dec. 24, 2011.

Longest runs from scrimmage in NFL history:

	Player	Team	Date	Opponent	Rushing Yards
1.	Derrick Henry	Tennessee	12/6/18	Jacksonville	99t
	Tony Dorsett	Dallas	1/3/83	Minnesota	99t

	Andy Uram	Green Bay	10/8/39	Chi. Cardinals	97t
	Bob Gage	Pittsburgh	12/4/49	Chi. Bears	97t

Henry scored on a three-yard run in the first quarter, a 99-yard run in the second quarter, a 16-yard run in the third quarter, and finally a 54-yard run in the third quarter. He tied the franchise record and became the third player in franchise history to rush for four touchdowns in a game, joining Earl Campbell (against Miami on Nov. 20, 1978) and Lorenzo White (against Cleveland on Dec. 9, 1990).

The only franchise player with more overall touchdowns in a game than Henry was Oilers running back Billy Cannon, who had five total touchdowns (three rushing, two receiving) at the New York Titans on Dec. 10, 1961. Henry became the first NFL player with four rushing touchdowns in a game since New England Patriots running back Jonas Gray at Indianapolis on Nov. 16, 2014.

Most rushing touchdowns in a game, franchise history:

	Player	Date	Opponent	Rushing Touchdowns

	Lorenzo White	12/9/90	Cleveland	4
	Earl Campbell	11/20/78	Miami	4
4.	(several tied)			3

Additionally, Henry's rushing performance against the Jaguars accomplished the following:

- He became the ninth NFL player since 1975 with at least one 90-yard run and at least one 60-yard reception in his career. The others were Tony Dorsett, Garrison Hearst, Tiki Barber, Chris Johnson, Jamaal Charles, Herschel Walker, Warrick Dunn and Adrian Peterson.
- Henry became the seventh NFL player since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger with at least four rushing touchdowns and at least 200 rushing yards in a game, joining Clinton Portis, Barry Sanders, Doug Martin, Jonas Gray, Mike Anderson and Corey Dillon. Henry became the first to accomplish the feat in fewer than 20 carries (17).
- Henry recorded his NFL-high three rushing attempts of at least 70 yards since the beginning of the 2017. Leonard Fournette (two) was the only other player with more than one through 14 weeks of the 2018 campaign.
- He matched former Titans running back Chris Johnson as the only players in NFL history with a rushing touchdown of at least 90 yards and a rushing touchdown of at least 50 yards in the same game. Johnson accomplished the feat against the Houston Texans on Sept. 20, 2009.
- His 24 points tied for the fourth-highest single-game total in franchise history, trailing only Billy Cannon (30 on Dec. 10, 1961), Rob Bironas (26 on Oct. 21, 2007) and George Blanda (26 on Sept. 18, 1960). Earl Campbell (Nov. 20, 1978) and Lorenzo White (Dec. 9, 1990) also had 24 points on four touchdowns in a single game.
- His 238 rushing yards and four rushing touchdowns were each the most in any Thursday Night Football game in history.

#33 • RB DION LEWIS

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Running back Dion Lewis (5-8, 195) is in his eighth NFL season and his second campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed as an unrestricted free agent from the New England Patriots on March 16, 2018.

Lewis' 2018 totals included 155 carries for 517 yards and one touchdown. Additionally, he ranked second on the squad with a career-high 59 receptions, and his 400 receiving yards also set a career benchmark and ranked third on the team. His reception total was the third-highest in franchise history by a running back and the most since Todd McNair's 60 receptions in 1995.

Lewis spent his first two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles (2011-12) before stops with the Cleveland Browns (2013), Indianapolis Colts (2014) and Patriots (2015-17). He arrived in Tennessee with 329 career carries for 1,584 yards and 10 touchdowns in 54 games (19 starts), plus 88 receptions for 717 yards and five scores. He also averaged 22.9 yards on 57 career kickoff returns with one touchdown prior to signing with the Titans.

In 2017, Lewis led the Patriots with 896 rushing yards on 180 carries with six touchdowns. In the last eight games of the campaign, he led the NFL with 625 rushing yards. Compared to all running backs with 150 or more rushing attempts, his per-carry average of 4.98 yards led the NFL.

In 2016, Lewis returned from injury to play in seven regular season games with five starts and total 64 rushing attempts for 283 yards and 17 receptions for 94 yards. He helped the Patriots capture the Super Bowl title by playing in all three playoff games with two starts. He contributed in all three phases - rushing 25 times for 79 yards and a touchdown, catching five passes for 33 yards and a touchdown and returning five kickoffs for 162 yards and a touchdown.

Lewis played two seasons at the University of Pittsburgh (2009-10), where he finished fourth on the school's all-time rushing list with 2,860 yards.

The Albany, N.Y., native was originally selected by the Philadelphia Eagles in the fifth round (149th overall) of the 2011 NFL Draft.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), totaled three carries for seven yards and three receptions for six yards.

- At Jacksonville (9/19), totaled three rushing attempts for 13 yards and added one reception for seven yards.
- At Atlanta (9/29), rushed for 16 yards on four attempts and added four yards on four receptions.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), produced 11 yards on two rushing attempts and 19 yards on two receptions.
- At Denver (10/13), caught three passes for 20 yards and lost one yard on one rushing attempt.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), posted two yards on one rushing attempt.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), registered a two-yard reception.
- At Carolina (11/3), totaled four rushing attempts for 20 yards and a team-high five receptions for 33 yards. He registered a season-long 15-yard run in the first quarter and a season-long 24-yard reception late in the second quarter.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), recorded five rushing attempts for 21 yards and added a 24-yard reception. He gained 24 yards on a screen pass to convert a third down in the first quarter.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), caught one pass for nine yards.
- At Oakland (12/8), totaled 26 yards on nine rushing attempts and added a five-yard reception.
- Against Houston (12/15), recorded an 11-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter and added three rushing attempts for 10 yards. His touchdown reception was his first of 2019 and gave him seven career touchdown catches.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), recorded his first start of the season and led the team with a season-high 68 rushing yards on 15 attempts, the latter of which also set a season high. His day included a 17-yard rushing attempt in the third quarter. He added a 19-yard reception to finish the contest with 87 scrimmage yards, his highest total since Nov. 5, 2018 at Dallas (122).
- At Houston (12/29), recorded one rushing attempt for seven yards.
- At New England (1/4), carried the ball twice for eight yards and added an eight-yard reception for a first down.

#81 • TE JONNU SMITH

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Tight end Jonnu Smith (6-3, 248) is in his third NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the third round (100th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

Smith's 2018 campaign came to a premature end. He suffered a knee injury against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 6 and was subsequently placed on injured reserve on Dec. 11. Prior to the injury, he played in 13 games with 12 starts and achieved career highs with 20 receptions, 258 receiving yards and three touchdowns. He led the club's tight ends in all three categories at the time of his injury.

During the 2017 regular season, Smith was one of three rookie tight ends to appear in all 16 games (Gerald Everett and David Njoku) and one of two rookie tight ends with at least 13 starts (O.J. Howard). He caught 18 passes for 157 yards and two touchdowns, ranking fifth among all rookie tight end in receptions. He also caught three passes for 19 yards in two postseason games.

Smith concluded his four-year career at Florida International University's all-time leader among tight ends in receptions and receiving yards, totaling 178 receptions for 2,001 yards and 18 touchdowns. On the school's all-time receiving list, regardless of position, Smith finished fourth in receptions, fifth in receiving yards and third in receiving touchdowns.

Smith finished his career registering at least one reception in every game he played. The 43-game streak was the second-longest streak of its kind in school annals.

During his senior campaign, he started 11 games and earned second-team All-Conference USA honors. He registered 42 receptions for 506 yards and four touchdowns.

As a sophomore (2014), led all college tight ends with 61 receptions, 710 receiving yards and eight touchdown catches.

2019 Notes:

➢ At Cleveland (9/8), returned to the lineup for the first time since suffering a season-ending injury on Dec. 6, 2018 and had one reception for seven yards. He also recorded his first career rushing attempt, gaining 10 yards for a first down in the second quarter.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), caught two passes for 20 yards, including a 20-yard reception in the third quarter.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), registered one catch for five yards.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), caught a screen pass and turned it into a 57-yard reception in the third quarter. The reception was the second-longest catch of his career (61-yard touchdown at Houston, Nov. 26, 2018).

➢ At Denver (10/13), recorded an eight-yard reception.

➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), set a new career high with 64 receiving yards on three receptions, topping his previous high of 63 yards at Houston on Nov. 26, 2018. He caught a 24-yard pass from Ryan Tannehill on the offense's first snap of the game, and on a third-and-14 in the third quarter, he took a short pass and went 35 yards for a first down.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled 78 yards and a touchdown on six receptions, setting a career high in receiving yards for the second consecutive week. His six receptions matched his career high. In the first quarter, he caught a five-yard touchdown pass from Ryan Tannehill to notch his sixth career touchdown catch. He also registered a 26-yard reception in the second quarter and a 20-yard catch in the fourth quarter.

- At Carolina (11/3), caught three passes for 18 yards.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), led the team with four receptions and totaled 30 receiving yards. He surpassed his career season highs in both receptions (20 in 2018) and receiving yards (258 in 2018).
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), recorded four yards on a rushing attempt.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), posted two receptions (no yards).
- At Oakland (12/8), totaled three receptions for 29 yards and one touchdown. He recorded a 17-yard touchdown reception on a pass from Ryan Tannehill in the fourth quarter to give him two touchdowns in 2019.
- Against Houston (12/15), caught five passes for 60 yards and added a 57-yard rushing attempt. His 117 scrimmage yards were the most of his career, topping his previous career high of 78 scrimmage yards against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on Oct. 27, 2019. His 57-yard rushing attempt came on the first play of the fourth quarter and helped lead to a touchdown. It was the longest rushing attempt by an NFL tight end since New York Jets tight end Rich Caster was credited with a 60-yarder against the Washington Redskins on Dec. 5, 1976. Smith caught passes on three consecutive plays in the fourth quarter, including a 23-yard reception. He had a 17-yarder earlier in the fourth quarter.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), totaled 63 yards and one touchdown on three catches. His yardage total tied for the third-highest number of his career. In the first quarter, he took a pass from Ryan Tannehill 41 yards for his third-longest career reception and his second-longest career touchdown catch. He tied his career high with his third touchdown reception of the season.
- At Houston (12/29), recorded a seven-yard rushing attempt.
- At New England (1/4), registered one reception for nine yards.

SMITH EXCEEDS 600 SNAPS

A year after leading all rookie tight ends with 13 starts in 2017, Jonnu Smith continued to see a high rate of offensive snaps in 2018, his second NFL season.

Despite spending the final three contests on injured reserve, he participated in 609 total offensive snaps in 2018 (including penalized plays), a total that ranked fourth among all tight ends in their rookie, first-year or second-year seasons. The only three such tight ends with more offensive snaps than Smith were San Francisco's George Kittle (925), Cleveland's David Njoku (863) and the New York Jets' Christopher Herndon (624).

Smith's offensive play total ranked third among all non-linemen on the Titans. Only wide receiver Corey Davis (870) and quarterback Marcus Mariota (773) had more.

Most offensive snaps in 2018 among rookie, first-year and second-year tight ends (includes offensive plays called back due to penalty):

	Player	Team	Offensive Snaps
1.	George Kittle	San Francisco 49ers	925

#82 • TE DELANIE WALKER

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Tight end Delanie Walker (6-0, 248) is in his 14th NFL season and his seventh campaign with the Titans in 2018. He was signed as an unrestricted free agent on March 14, 2013 after spending the first seven years of his career with the San Francisco 49ers.

Walker finished each of the 2018 and 2019 seasons on injured reserve. In 2019, he was placed on injured reserve with an ankle injury on Nov. 27 after appearing in seven games (four starts). He caught 21 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns.

His 2018 season came to an end on Sept. 10 after he was placed on injured reserve due to a leg injury he suffered in the season opener at Miami the previous day.

In Walker's time with the Titans, he has put his name among the top players in franchise history at his position. Through 2019, his 381 receptions and 4,423 receiving yards ranked second in franchise history among tight ends behind only Frank Wycheck (482 for 4,958). Walker's 28 touchdown receptions set the organization's benchmark for tight ends, surpassing Wycheck (27).

From 2013–2017, Walker totaled 356 receptions for 4,156 yards and 26 touchdowns. In those five seasons, no NFL tight end totaled more receptions than Walker.

Walker posted at least 60 receptions in each of his first five seasons in Tennessee. Prior to his arrival, Wycheck was the only Titans/Oilers tight end to reach the plateau in a single campaign. Walker also recorded the top four single-season receiving yardage totals in franchise history among tight ends from 2014–2017.

Walker and Kansas City's Travis Kelce were the NFL's only tight ends to post at least 800 receiving yards every season from 2014–2017.

In 2017, Walker was named to his third consecutive Pro Bowl after leading the club with 74 receptions and 807 receiving yards. His three touchdown catches ranked second on the squad. Among all NFL tight ends, his reception total tied for third place, and his yardage total ranked fourth.

In 2016, Walker tied for the team lead with 65 catches for 800 yards and a career-high seven touchdowns, and he was named to his second consecutive Pro Bowl. He ranked sixth in receiving yards among NFL tight ends, and he was second in the AFC behind only Kansas City's Travis Kelce. Also among tight ends, his reception total tied for eighth in the NFL, and his touchdown total tied for third.

In 2015, Walker set new team records among tight ends with 94 receptions and 1,088 receiving yards. He broke his own receiving yardage record (890 in 2014) and Wycheck's reception record (70 in 1998 and 2000) for franchise tight ends. On the team's all-time single-season receptions list, regardless of position, Walker tied wide receiver Kendall Wright (94 receptions in 2013) for the fifth-highest total. Walker's 94 receptions tied Jason Witten (94 catches in 2009 and 2010) for the 10th–highest total in NFL history by a tight end.

In 2014, Walker's team-leading 890 receiving yards set a then-career high and set a new standard among Titans/Oilers tight ends, eclipsing Wycheck's 768 receiving yards in 1998. Walker's 63 receptions in 2014 at the time also led the team, set a career high, and tied for fourth in team annals.

Appearing in 15 games with 11 starts in 2013, he totaled 60 receptions for 571 yards and six touchdowns. He set then-career highs in all three categories. Also, he became the only tight end in franchise history other than Wycheck to reach 60 receptions in a single season. Wycheck accomplished the feat five times from 1997 through 2001, including 70 receptions in both 1998 and 2000 to establish the record for Titans/Oilers tight ends. Walker's six touchdown receptions tied for fourth place in franchise history among tight ends and were the most since Wycheck's six in 1996.

Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, the former sixth-round pick appeared in 99 career regular-season games with the 49ers (40 starts) and totaled 123 receptions for 1,465 yards (11.9 avg.) and eight touchdowns. A regular contributor on special teams, Walker posted 61 special teams tackles as well as 31 kickoff returns for 528 yards during his time in San Francisco.

In 2012, Walker played an integral role in the 49ers' second consecutive playoff season, as he teamed with Vernon Davis to form one of the NFL's top tight-end duos. He saw action in all 16 regular-season games (four starts) and set a career high with 344 yards and three touchdowns (matched career high) on 21 receptions. His average of 16.4 yards per catch was the highest among all NFL tight ends with 20 or more catches.

During the 2012 playoffs, he appeared in all three games and started in Super Bowl XLVII. In the Super Bowl, he recorded three receptions for 48 yards.

Walker was a sixth-round pick in the 2006 NFL Draft. As a rookie, he appeared in only seven games with one start. Then, in 2007, he played in all 16 contests and set a career high with 10 starts. It began a string of six seasons (2007-12) during which he missed a total of four games. In 2010, he set his career high with 29 receptions.

A native of Pomona, Calif., Walker spent two seasons (2002-03) at Mt. San Antonio (Calif.) Community College before joining the University of Central Missouri Mules for his final two collegiate campaigns (2004-05). As a wide receiver at Central Missouri, he caught 113 passes for 1,347 yards in 20 games. The 49ers selected him with the 175th overall pick in the 2006 NFL Draft.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), returned to the field for a regular season game 364 days after suffering a season-ending injury in the 2018 season opener at Miami (Sept. 9, 2018). He totaled a team-high five receptions for 55 yards and two touchdowns. He scored on an 11-yard touchdown pass from Marcus Mariota in the fourth quarter, and on the next drive, he scored on a seven-yard pass from Mariota. His two touchdown passes tied his career high, marking the third time in his career he accomplished the feat. With two touchdown receptions—his 27th and 28th with the franchise—Walker surpassed Frank Wycheck (27 touchdown receptions) for the most in franchise history among tight ends. He also tied former wide receiver Nate Washington (28) for eighth place on the franchise's all-time touchdown receptions list.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), led the team with four receptions and 39 receiving yards.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), accumulated 64 yards on a team-high seven receptions. It was his third consecutive game to lead the team in receptions to begin the 2019 campaign. His totals included a 29-yard catch in the fourth quarter.
- At Atlanta (9/29), on a three-yard reception in the first quarter, recorded the 500th reception of his career. He became the 16th tight end in NFL history to reach 500. He also joined Jason Witten, Greg Olsen, Jimmy Graham, Vernon Davis and Ben Watson as the only active NFL tight ends to reach 500 career receptions.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), recorded a 10-yard reception.
- At Denver (10/13), recorded his 100th career start and caught three passes for 43 yards. He extended his streak to 83 consecutive games played in a Titans uniform with a reception to pass Ernest Givins (82) and Charlie Hennigan (82) for second place in franchise history behind only Frank Wycheck (99).
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), played but did not tally a reception, ending the franchise's second-longest all-time streak of consecutive games played with a reception. Walker's streak spanned 83 games, second only to Frank Wycheck (99).
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), at Carolina (11/3), against Kansas City (11/10) and against Jacksonville (11/24), he was inactive with an ankle injury.

➢ Placed on injured reserve on Nov. 27.

CONSECUTIVE GAMES WITH A RECEPTION

Delanie Walker caught at least one pass in every game for a streak of 83 consecutive games—every contest in which he participated from the time he joined the Titans in 2013 through Oct. 13, 2019.

He moved past Ernest Givins (82 games from 1988–1993) and Charlie Hennigan (82 games from 1960–1966) for second place in franchise history.

Walker's streak was longer than all others in team annals besides tight end Frank Wycheck's 99 consecutive games with a reception from 1996–2002.

Most consecutive individual games played with a pass reception, franchise history:

	Player	Seasons	Games
1.	Frank Wycheck	1996–2002	99
2.	Delanie Walker	2013–2019	83
3.	Ernest Givins	1988–1993	82
	Charlie Hennigan	1960–1966	82
5.	Ken Burrough	1971–1978	80
6.	Drew Hill	1986–1991	76
7.	Nate Washington	2009–2013	71
8.	Kendall Wright	2012–2016	63
9.	Bob McLeod	1961–1966	58
10.	Charley Frazier	1962–1968	55

Walker's streak of consecutive NFL games with a reception was even longer than his Titans streak. He began his career with the San Francisco 49ers (2006–2012), and he finished his time in San Francisco with at least one reception in his final seven games.

His streak of 90 consecutive NFL games with a reception led all NFL tight ends and ranked sixth overall in the NFL at the time it came to an end.

SECOND FASTEST TO 300 RECEPTIONS

On Oct. 1, 2017 at Houston, Delanie Walker became the 10th player in franchise history to record at least 300 receptions with the club. Walker reached the milestone in his 64th game with the team. Of the 10 members of the franchise's 300-catch club, he was the second-fastest to the mark and the fastest in half a century. Former Oilers receiver Charlie Hennigan, who played from 1960–1966, needed only 56 games to get to 300 receptions.

Games needed to reach 300 receptions with the Titans/Oilers:

Player		Seasons with Club	Games to Reach 300 Receptions
1.	Charlie Hennigan	1960–1966	56

SEASON RECEPTIONS BY NFL TIGHT ENDS

In 2015, Titans tight end Delanie Walker set a new standard for franchise tight ends, accumulating 94 receptions.

Additionally, Walker became the ninth tight end in NFL history to reach 90 catches in a season. Previously, eight tight ends in history produced 16 total 90-catch seasons. Tony Gonzalez (five), Jason Witten (four) and Todd Christensen (two) all have multiple 90-reception campaigns. Dallas Clark, Jimmy Graham, Ben Coates, Martellus Bennett and Rob Gronkowski are the others to reach the mark.

At the time, Walker's 94 catches in a season put him in a tie for the 10th-most in NFL history, equaling Witten's 2009 and 2010 numbers.

REC YARDS IN A GAME, TITANS TIGHT ENDS

At Philadelphia on Nov. 23, 2014, Delanie Walker caught five passes for 155 yards. His yardage total set a new single-game career high, and the total also qualified as the second-highest in franchise history by a tight end. The only tight end with more receiving yards in a game for the franchise was Jared Cook, who had 169 yards against Jacksonville on Dec. 24, 2011.

Earlier in the 2014 season, Walker posted 142 receiving yards against the Dallas Cowboys (Sept. 14), a total that ranks fourth in team annals.

MORE TITANS TIGHT ENDS

86 - TE ANTHONY FIRKSER (6-2, 246, 1st Year, Harvard)

- Anthony Firkser was signed by the Titans during the 2018 offseason.
- He spent the first two weeks of 2018 on the 53-man roster and played one game before spending the next three weeks on the practice squad. He was added back to the 53-man roster on Oct. 9 and went on to produce 19 receptions for 225 yards and one touchdown in 12 games.
- He was originally signed by the New York Jets as an undrafted free agent on May 5, 2017.
- After his release from the Jets, he spent time as a rookie on the practice squad of the Kansas City Chiefs and stayed with the Chiefs for part of the 2018 offseason.
- Firkser appeared in 29 games with 24 starts over four seasons at Harvard (2013-16) and caught 99 passes for 1,559 yards and 14 touchdowns. He finished his career ranked 12th all-time in school history in receptions, ninth all-time in receiving yards and sixth all-time in touchdown receptions.
- He was named to the All-Ivy League second team as both a junior and sophomore.
- He is a native of Manalapan, N.J.

2019 Notes:

- At Denver (10/13), registered a 25-yard reception on a pass from Ryan Tannehill in the fourth quarter.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), recorded a 27-yard reception in the third quarter that helped lead to a touchdown.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), finished second on the squad with 43 receiving yards on three receptions (tied for second). He recorded a 23-yard reception to convert a third-and-11 in the third quarter.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), totaled 36 yards on three receptions, including a nine-yard touchdown catch on a pass from Ryan Tannehill in the second quarter. It was his second career touchdown. He also had a 20-yard grab during the team's game-winning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter. The Titans scored on the following play.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), tied for the team lead with three receptions for 22 yards.
- At Oakland (12/8), posted a 39-yard reception in the second quarter to record the longest catch of his career.
- At New England (1/4), led the team with 23 receiving yards and a touchdown on two receptions (tied for team lead) in his postseason debut. He recorded a 12-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter. The catch, the first of his career in the playoffs, came on third down. He also converted a third-and-eight with an 11-yard reception late in the fourth quarter, which helped the Titans run off valuable time and helped force the Patriots to burn their final timeout. He was the first NFL player from Harvard to score a touchdown in a postseason game.

85 - TE MyCOLE PRUITT (6-2, 245, 4th Year, Southern Illinois)

- MyCole Pruitt was signed by the Titans off the Houston Texans practice squad on Sept. 10, 2018, one day after the season opener.
- His 2018 totals included nine receptions for 102 yards and one touchdown in 15 games (one start).
- He arrived in Tennessee with 21 games of NFL experience with the Texans, Chicago Bears and Minnesota Vikings. His statistics prior to joining the Titans included 12 receptions for 102 yards.
- Pruitt was a fifth-round selection by the Vikings in the 2015 NFL Draft.
- A native of South Bend, Ind., he amassed multiple school records for tight ends during a four-year career at Southern Illinois, where he tallied 211 career receptions for 2,601 yards and 25 touchdowns. He earned All-America honors for both his junior and senior seasons. Pruitt also was named the best tight end in the 30-year history of Missouri Valley Conference.

2019 Notes:

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Wide receiver A.J. Brown (6-1, 226) was selected by the Titans in the second round (51st overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

During a three-year career at Mississippi (2016-18), Brown became the program's all-time leading receiver with 2,984 yards. He ranked third in school history with 189 receptions and fifth all-time with 19 touchdowns. Brown averaged 15.8 yards per catch and 82.9 yards per game, and he tallied the most 100-yard receiving games in Ole Miss history with 12. He became the only receiver in Ole Miss history to tally 60 or more receptions in back-to-back seasons.

In 2018, Brown started all 12 games and set Ole Miss' single-season receiving records in yards (1,320) and catches (85), leading the SEC in both categories. His 1,320 receiving yards ranked seventh in the nation. Brown caught six touchdowns, averaging 110.0 yards per game, and he topped the 100-yard receiving mark in six contests. He earned AP first-team All-SEC and third-team All-American honors for the second consecutive season.

Brown was selected in the 19th round of the 2016 Major League Baseball Draft by the San Diego Padres as a centerfielder and he participated in the team's extended spring training program each summer from 2016-18.

He is a native of Starkville, Miss.

2019 Notes:

➢ At Cleveland (9/8), recorded a start at wide receiver in his NFL debut. With 100 yards on three receptions, he became the franchise's first player with 100 receiving yards in his first career game since Sid Blanks (131) against the San Diego Chargers on Sept. 12, 1964. Brown notched the 19th 100-yard receiving game in Week 1 in franchise history. In the first quarter, he recorded his first NFL reception on a 47-yard pass from Marcus Mariota. On the first play of the third quarter, he turned a pass from Mariota into a 51-yard reception.

➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), caught three passes for 25 yards.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), registered a four-yard catch.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), led the team with 94 yards and two touchdowns on three receptions. He turned a pass from Marcus Mariota into a 55-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter, marking his first career touchdown reception and his longest reception through four NFL games. Later in the first quarter, he scored his second touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Mariota. He became the first Titans rookie with two or more touchdown receptions in a game since Chris Sanders against the Denver Broncos on Nov. 26, 1995. Aside from Dane Cruikshank's 66-yard touchdown reception on a fake punt in 2018, Brown's 55-yard touchdown catch was the longest touchdown reception by a Titans rookie since Chris Sanders' 76-yard score at Pittsburgh on Dec. 3, 1995. Brown also notched a 28-yard reception in the second quarter at Atlanta.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), registered 27 yards on two receptions.

➢ At Denver (10/13), totaled 23 yards on two receptions.

➢ Against the Los Angeles Charges (10/20), tied for the team lead with six receptions for 64 yards. His six receptions were the most of his rookie season through seven weeks.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled two receptions for 11 yards, including the go-ahead touchdown on an eight-yard pass from Ryan Tannehill in the fourth quarter. His three touchdown receptions in 2019 gave him the most by a Titans rookie since 2013, when Justin Hunter totaled four touchdown catches.

➢ At Carolina (11/3), led the team with 81 receiving yards on four receptions. He caught a short pass and went 23 yards in the second quarter and posted a 35-yard reception in the fourth quarter.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), led the team with 135 yards on four receptions, including a touchdown. He had receptions of 19, 36, 65 (touchdown) and 15 yards. He recorded a career-long 65-yard touchdown reception in the third quarter to notch the fourth touchdown of his rookie season. His 33.8-yard single-game receiving average ranked second in franchise history among players with four or more receptions in a game. Justin Gage's 36.8-yard average at Jacksonville on Nov. 16, 2008 was the only better average with a four-catch minimum. His 135 receiving yards were the most in a game by a franchise rookie since Nov. 26, 1995, when Chris Sanders had 147 receiving yards against the Denver Broncos. His 135 receiving yards were also the second-most by an NFL rookie in 2019 through Nov. 24, behind only Baltimore Ravens rookie Marquise Brown's 147 yards at the Miami Dolphins on Sept. 8. He became the fourth rookie in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to have a pair of 100-yard receiving games, joining Kenny Britt (2009), Justin Hunter (2013) and Dorial Green-Beckham (2015). Brown also became the fifth Titans rookie since 1999 with four touchdown receptions, joining Tyrone Calico (2003), Kendall Wright (2012), Justin Hunter (2013) and Dorial Green-Beckham (2015). Brown was named NFL Rookie of the Week for his performance against the Jaguars.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), totaled five receptions for a career-high 153 yards and a pair of touchdowns (tied career high). His 153 receiving yards were the most by a Titans player since Corey Davis' 161 yards against the Philadelphia Eagles on Sept. 30, 2018. Since 1970, Brown's 153 receiving yards were the third-most in a game by a franchise rookie. The only Titans/Oilers rookie with more since 1970 was Ernest Givins, who had a 156-yard receiving game (Nov. 16, 1986 at Pittsburgh) and a 155-yard receiving game (Oct. 5, 1986 at Detroit) as a rookie in 1986. Brown recorded touchdown receptions of 91 yards and 16 yards in the second quarter. His 91-yard touchdown reception was the fourth-longest touchdown catch in franchise history and the longest since 1965. The only longer touchdown passes in team annals were a 98-yard strike from Jacky Lee to Willard Dewveall against the San Diego Chargers on Nov. 25, 1962; a 95-yard touchdown pass from George Blanda to Dick Compton against the Buffalo Bills on Dec. 5, 1965; and a 92-yarder from Lee to Bill Groman on Nov. 20, 1960. Brown became the first rookie in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to have three 100-yard receiving games. The franchise's last rookie to accomplish the feat prior to Brown was Ernest Givins (four 100-yard games) in 1986. Brown also became the first rookie in the "Titans era" (1999–present) with at least five touchdown receptions. The franchise's last rookie to accomplish the feat was Chris Sanders (nine) in 1995. In the first half at Oakland, Brown registered four receptions for 141 yards and two touchdowns in the first half. It was the highest receiving yardage total for the Titans in the first half of a game since Drew Bennett's 192 yards against the Kansas City Chiefs on Dec. 13, 2004.

➢ Against Houston (12/15), totaled a career-high eight receptions for 114 yards and one touchdown. He posted a five-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter to notch the seventh touchdown catch of his rookie season, ranking fourth in franchise history for a rookie behind only Bill Groman's 12 touchdowns in 1960, Chris Sanders' nine touchdowns in 1995 and Mac Haik's eight touchdowns in 1968. Brown became the first Titans player with consecutive 100-yard receiving games since wide receiver Nate Washington accomplished the feat in 2013 against the San Diego Chargers (Sept. 22) and New York Jets (Sept. 29). His 60-yard reception in the first quarter against the Texans was the third-longest catch of his rookie season. He moved past Chris Sanders (823 receiving yards in 1995) for the third-highest receiving yardage total by a rookie in franchise history behind only Groman (1,473 yards in 1960) and Ernest Givins (1,062 in 1986). Brown reached the 100-yard mark on an 11-yard catch in the third quarter, and in doing so, he became the franchise's first rookie to have four 100-yard receiving games since Ernest Givins (four 100-yard games) in 1986. Brown also became the first Titans player (rookie or veteran) with four 100-yard receiving games in a single season since Drew Bennett had five such performances in 2004. His eight receptions against Houston were the most by a Titans rookie since Oct. 7, 2012, when Kendall Wright had nine receptions at the Minnesota Vikings. Since 1970, only three other franchise rookies besides Brown and Wright recorded eight (or more) receptions in a game: wide receiver Mike Holston (eight vs. Atlanta on Nov. 29, 1981), Givins (eight at Pittsburgh on Nov. 16, 1986) and running back Rodney Thomas (eight vs. Jacksonville on Oct. 1, 1995).

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), scored on a 49-yard rushing attempt in the first quarter. It was the longest of his three career rushing attempts and his first career rushing touchdown. He also posted a 34-yard reception in the fourth quarter to bring his total to 83 scrimmage yards for the game. He tied Eddie George (eight touchdowns in 1996) for the fourth-highest touchdown total by a rookie in franchise history with his eighth touchdown of the season. The only rookies in team annals with more total touchdowns were Earl Campbell (13 in 1978), Chris Johnson (10 in 2008) and Chris Sanders (nine in 1995).

➢ At Houston (12/29), tallied 124 yards on four receptions (31.0 avg.), including a 51-yard touchdown reception in the first quarter. His 124 yards gave him the third-best total of his rookie season. His total of 1,051 receiving yards in 2019 led all NFL rookies. He posted his fourth touchdown reception of the season of at least 50 yards, becoming the fourth rookie since 1970 with at least four touchdown receptions of 50 yards or more and the first since Randy Moss (five in 1998). The others on the list are Isaac Curtis (1973) and Willie Gault (1983). Brown also caught a 47-yard pass in the fourth quarter to set up a touchdown. It was his NFL-leading ninth scrimmage play of the season to go at least 45 yards. He registered his fourth consecutive game (rushing or receiving) with at least one touchdown, making him the franchise's first rookie to do so since Chris Sanders (five games) in 1995. On a 24-yard pass from Marcus Mariota in the second quarter, he went over 1,000 receiving yards on the season to join Bill Groman (1,473 yards in 1960) and Ernest Givins (1,062 yards in 1986) as the franchise's only rookie 1,000-yard receivers. He also joined John Jefferson (1978), Bill Brooks (1986) and Moss (1998) as the NFL's only rookies since 1970 to have a minimum of 50 receptions, 1,000 receiving yards and five receiving touchdowns while averaging at least 17.0 yards per catch. With his fifth 100-yard receiving game, he led all NFL rookies in 2019 and became the franchise's first rookie to have five 100-yard receiving games since Groman (nine 100-yard games) in 1960.

➢ Named NFL Offensive Rookie of the Month for December.

50 RECEPTIONS, 1,000 YARDS

A.J. Brown enjoyed one of the finest seasons in franchise history by a rookie wide receiver. His regular season totals included 52 receptions, 1,051 receiving yards and eight touchdown catches, and his 20.2-yard receiving average ranked second in the NFL.

Brown achieved a rare statistical combination matched by only three other NFL rookies since 1970. Since then, John Jefferson (1978), Bill Brooks (1986), Randy Moss (1998) and Brown are the league's only rookies to have a minimum of 50 receptions, 1,000 receiving yards and five receiving touchdowns while averaging at least 17.0 yards per catch.

#84 • WR COREY DAVIS

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Wide receiver Corey Davis (6-3, 209) is in his third NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans with the fifth overall pick in the 2017 NFL Draft.

Davis led the Titans offense in 2018 with 65 receptions, 891 receiving yards and four touchdowns. His yardage total ranked ninth among all AFC wide receivers.

As a rookie, Davis totaled 34 receptions for 375 yards in 11 games (nine starts). He started both postseason contests and contributed nine receptions for 98 yards and a team-high two touchdowns.

In four seasons at Western Michigan (2013–2016), Davis played and started 50 games. He registered 332 career receptions for 5,285 yards and 52 touchdowns, setting the Mid-American Conference record in each category and becoming the only player in FBS history with 300 catches, 5,000 yards and 50 touchdowns. His 5,285 career receiving yards were the most in FBS history, and he ended his career ranked second all-time in FBS history with 52 career receiving touchdowns (60 by Jarett Dillard). Davis' 332 career receptions ranked fourth all-time in FBS annals.

As a senior, he set career highs with 97 receptions, 1,500 receiving yards and 19 touchdowns, ranking eighth, seventh and first (tied) in the FBS, respectively. He helped the Broncos win the MAC and go undefeated until suffering their first loss in the Cotton Bowl. Davis' record-setting, All-American campaign included five games of 100-plus yards and six games of two or more receiving touchdowns.

2019 Notes:

➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), caught three passes for 38 yards. His 25-yard catch in the third quarter preceded a Titans touchdown on the next play. In the first quarter, he recorded his 100th career reception on a six-yard grab, reaching the 100-catch benchmark in his 29th career game. Since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger, wide receivers Kendall Wright (22 games) and Ernest Givins (24) are the only other players to hit 100 receptions with the Titans/Oilers within their first 29 games.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), posted three receptions for 44 yards, including a 19-yard grab.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), recorded a team-high five receptions for 91 yards and one touchdown. His yardage total tied for the fourth-highest single-game total of his career. In the first quarter, he converted a third-and-15 with a 16-yard reception. Extending the drive allowed the Titans to finish the possession with a touchdown. He made a 22-yard catch in the second quarter, and three plays later, he scored on a 23-yard pass from Marcus Mariota to give him his first touchdown of 2019 and the fifth touchdown of his career.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), registered a pair of receptions for 28 yards, including a 23-yard reception in the second quarter.

➢ At Denver (10/13), totaled 36 yards on three receptions.

➢ Against the Los Angeles Charges (10/20), tied for the team lead with six receptions for a team-high 80 yards with one touchdown. It was the sixth-highest receiving yardage total of his career. He recorded an eight-yard touchdown reception in the final minute of the first half, and in the fourth quarter, he provided a 38-yard reception to convert a third down.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), registered two catches for nine yards.

➢ At Carolina (11/3), tied for second on the team with four receptions for 48 total yards.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), he was inactive with a hip injury.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), finished with two receptions for 29 yards, including a 24-yard reception in the second quarter.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), posted a 23-yard reception to help set up a Titans touchdown in the first quarter.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), totaled 34 yards on two receptions.

➢ Against Houston (12/15), totaled 57 yards on three receptions, including a 22-yard reception in the first quarter, a 16-yard catch on a screen play in the third quarter, and a 19-yard grab in the fourth quarter.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), caught three passes for 40 yards, including a 22-yard reception in the third quarter, before exiting the contest in the fourth quarter to be evaluated for a head injury.

➢ At Houston (12/29), tied for the team lead with four receptions for 44 yards. He finished his third NFL season with 601 yards and two touchdowns on 43 catches.

AMONG FASTEST TO 1,000 REC YARDS

On Nov. 26, 2018 at Houston, Titans wide receiver Corey Davis hit the 1,000-yard career receiving mark in his 22nd NFL game.

Davis reached the 1,000-yard mark in fewer career games than all but two players for the franchise since 1970. In that time period, only Ernest Givins and Chris Sanders hit the mark in fewer games. Givins reached 1,000 receiving yards in his 14th career game in 1985, and Sanders took 21 games from 1995–1996 to reach the plateau. Davis tied Kendall Wright, who also hit 1,000 receiving yards in his 22nd game (2012–2013).

#19 • WR TAJAÉ SHARPE

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Wide receiver Tajaé Sharpe (6-2, 194) is in his fourth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (140th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

Sharpe's 2018 totals included 26 receptions for 316 yards and two touchdowns. He played in all 16 games for the second time in his career and set a career high with 13 starts.

Sharpe's second NFL campaign came to an end before the regular season began. He was placed on injured reserve on Sept. 2 after suffering a foot injury in the preseason finale.

As a rookie, Sharpe played in all 16 games with 10 starts, the highest number of starts by a Titans rookie wide receiver since Chris Sanders started 11 games in 1995.

Sharpe totaled 41 receptions for 522 yards and a pair of touchdowns during his first season. In franchise history, only eight other rookies had more receptions, and Sharpe ranked seventh among the NFL's 2016 rookie class in receptions and receiving yards.

In four seasons at the University of Massachusetts (2012-15), Sharpe appeared in 47 career games with 43 starts and finished as the school's all-time leader with 277 receptions and 3,486 receiving yards. He caught at least one pass in every game he played. The two-time All-MAC first-team performer ended his collegiate career ranked third in Minuteman history with 16 touchdowns and sixth with 3,497 all-purpose yards.

As a senior in 2015, Sharpe's 111 catches led the nation. He recorded 1,319 receiving yards and five touchdown catches and was a Walter Camp All-American.

Sharpe is a native of Piscataway, N.J.

2019 Notes:

- Against Indianapolis (9/15), totaled 24 yards on a pair of receptions, including a 15-yard catch.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), totaled 70 yards on two receptions, posting the third-highest yardage total of his career. He recorded a 23-yard reception in the first quarter and then registered a career-long 47-yard catch in the third quarter. His previous career long was a 34-yard touchdown at Indianapolis on Nov. 20, 2016.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), posted one catch for 12 yards.
- Against the Los Angeles Charges (10/20), caught two passes for 19 yards, including a go-ahead five-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter on a pass from Ryan Tannehill. The touchdown reception came on third-and-goal. He notched his first touchdown of 2019 and the fifth touchdown of his career.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled 18 yards and a touchdown on three catches. In the first quarter, he connected with Ryan Tannehill on a six-yard touchdown pass, which gave Sharpe touchdowns in back-to-back games for the second time in his career.
- At Carolina (11/3), totaled 31 yards on two receptions and forced a 42-yard defensive pass interference penalty in the first quarter. On a 16-yard reception in the fourth quarter, he reached the 1,000-yard career receiving mark.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), registered a 20-yard reception in the first quarter.
➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), he was inactive with a hamstring injury.
➢ At Oakland (12/8), he caught four passes for 25 yards.
➢ Against Houston (12/15), he had a pair of receptions for 28 yards.
➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), led the team with five receptions for 69 yards and two touchdowns. It was his fourth career game with five or more receptions, and his yardage total ranked fourth in his career. It was his first career two-touchdown performance. He scored on a 36-yard touchdown reception in the third quarter and added a seven-yard touchdown grab in the fourth quarter. His four touchdown receptions in 2019 set a career high.
➢ At Houston (12/29), recorded a 13-yard reception.

#78 • T JACK CONKLIN

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Jack Conklin is in his fourth NFL season in 2019. The 6-foot-6, 308-pound tackle was selected by the Titans with the eighth pick in the first round of the NFL Draft.

Conklin's 2018 season came to an end with three games remaining due to a knee injury he suffered against the Jacksonville Jaguars on Dec. 6. Prior to going on injured reserve, he played and started in nine games on the season, all at right tackle.

Conklin started every game at right tackle in his first two seasons, including all 16 games in the 2017 regular season and both postseason games. However, he suffered a torn ACL during the second and final playoff contest at New England. The injury led him to spend all of training camp and preseason in 2018 on the physically unable to perform list.

As a rookie, Conklin became the team's first player to start all 16 games at left or right tackle as a rookie since Michael Roos in 2005. He was a key cog in a line that helped the Titans finish 11th overall in offense, third in rushing and tied for seventh in fewest sacks allowed.

Conklin was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl and was named first-team Associated Press All-Pro. He became the first Titans player to receive first-team All-Pro honors since running back Chris Johnson in 2009 and the first Titans rookie to receive the honor since defensive end Jevon Kearse in 1999. Conklin joined Dallas guard Zack Martin (2014) as the only rookie offensive linemen since the AFL-NFL merger to be named first-team AP All-Pro.

Conklin became the first draft pick by new general manager Jon Robinson. The Titans, who initially had the first pick in the draft but traded with the Los Angeles Rams back to the 15th spot, made a deal with the Cleveland Browns to jump up to the eighth spot to select Conklin. The Titans gave up a third-round pick and a second-rounder in 2017 in the trade and also got back a sixth-rounder.

The Michigan State product was a walk-on for the Spartans but went on to become the first Michigan State offensive lineman to be selected in the first round since 1989 (Tony Mandarich) and also the highest drafted Spartan since wide receiver Charles Rogers (No. 2) in 2003.

A native of Plainwell, Mich., Conklin was a three-year starter at left tackle for the Spartans. He started 38 of his 39 career games (35 at left tackle, three at right tackle) and recorded more than 235 career knockdowns. Three of his career starts at left tackle came in bowl games (2014 Rose, 2015 Cotton, 2016 College Football Playoff Semifinal at Cotton Bowl).

In his final season on campus, Conklin was named second-team All-American by The Associated Press and was on numerous All-Big Ten teams.

32 STARTS IN TWO SEASONS

Right tackle Jack Conklin recorded 16 starts in his second season. In doing so, he joined a total of four other former Titans and two offensive linemen in a rare feat.

Since the team became the Titans in 1999, Conklin is in a group of five players who have started all 32 games from the time they were drafted through the end of their second seasons. He joined defensive end Jevon Kearse (1999–2000), safety Tank Williams (2002–2003), offensive tackle Michael Roos (2005–2006) and guard Chance Warmack (2013–2014).

Center Ben Jones (6-3, 308) is in his eighth NFL season and his fourth campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed as an unrestricted free agent on March 10, 2016.

On Dec. 12, 2019, Jones was named the Titans nominee for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award. Considered one of the league's most prestigious honors, the award recognizes an NFL player for outstanding community service activities off the field, as well as excellence on the field.

On Nov. 3, 2019, Jones' streak of 120 consecutive games played and 88 consecutive starts came to an end when he was deactivated with a concussion. At the time, Jones' consecutive games streak tied Kansas City's Mitchell Schwartz for the longest active streak in the NFL among offensive linemen, and his starting streak ranked first in the NFL among all centers.

Jones started all 16 games at center in 2018, registering a start in every contest for the fifth consecutive season, dating back to his third year in Houston (2014).

In his first year in Tennessee, Jones played a key role in an offensive turnaround. The veteran was a key cog in a line that helped the Titans finish 11th overall in offense, third in rushing and tied for seventh in fewest sacks allowed.

Jones was originally selected by the Houston Texans in the fourth round (99th overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft. Over the following four seasons, he started contests at center and both guard spots. He was a starter on two playoff teams in Houston (2012 and 2015).

In 2015, Jones started every game at center, extending his streak of consecutive regular season games played to 64, which was the second-longest active streak among NFL centers at the conclusion of the season.

A native of Centreville, Ala., Jones attended the University of Georgia, where his 49 total starts ranked third in school annals. He was a two-time All-SEC selection by the league's coaches and was named to Georgia's Team of the Decade. As a senior (2011), the team captain earned All-SEC first-team honors.

Dennis Kelly (6-8, 321) is in his eighth NFL season and his third campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was acquired in a trade with the Philadelphia Eagles on Aug. 16, 2016. In exchange for Kelly, the Titans dealt wide receiver Dorial Green-Beckham to the Eagles.

Kelly played in 11 games in 2018 with five starts at right tackle. It was the third-highest start total of his career.

Kelly played in all 16 games in both 2016 and 2017. During that time he had a regular role in the team's "heavy" personnel package and earned six total starts—six in 2016 and one in 2017. He helped the Titans rush for an average of 136.7 yards per game in 2016, which ranked third in the NFL.

Kelly entered the NFL as a fifth-round selection by the Eagles in the 2012 NFL Draft. In four seasons with the Eagles, he recorded 15 starts and 30 games played. He recorded nine starts with the Eagles at right tackle, four starts at right guard and two starts at left guard.

A native of Chicago Heights, Ill., Kelly was a team captain and a two-time offensive MVP at Purdue. He started his final three seasons at left tackle for the Boilermakers.

Tackle Taylor Lewan (6-7, 309) is in his sixth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans with the 11th overall pick of the 2014 NFL Draft and received a multi-year contract extension in 2018.

Lewan was named to the Pro Bowl for the third consecutive season in 2018. He played and started in 15 of the team's 16 games at left tackle, marking his fourth consecutive season with at least 15 starts.

In 2017, Lewan became the team's first offensive lineman to make multiple Pro Bowls since center Kevin Mawae from 2008–2009. Lewan started all 16 games for the second consecutive season in 2017 and added starts in both postseason contests.

In 2016, Lewan started all 16 games for the first time. The left tackle was the anchor a line that helped the Titans finish 11th overall in offense, third in rushing and tied for seventh in fewest sacks allowed.

In 2015, Lewan started the first 15 games of the season at left tackle before missing the finale with a concussion.

As a rookie in 2014, Lewan played in 11 games with six starts before suffering an ankle injury. He played as a reserve for the first five games and then started in six consective contests before the injury caused him to be inactive the final five weeks. For his efforts, Lewan was named to the Pro Football Writers of America All-Rookie Team.

In four seasons at Michigan, Lewan appeared in 50 games with 48 starts at left tackle. He started the final 41 games of his career and was named the Big Ten Conference Offensive Lineman of the Year in 2012 and 2013. As a senior in 2013, he started all 13 games at left tackle for the third consecutive season and was named second-team Associated Press All-American.

At the 2014 NFL Scouting Combine, he ran the 40-yard dash in 4.87 seconds, beating all other offensive linemen in his class and clocking the fourth-fastest time among offensive linemen in the last five years (2010-14). He also ranked among the top offensive linemen at the 2014 combine in the broad jump (first at nine feet, nine inches), vertical jump (tied for third at 30.5 inches) and three-cone drill (fourth at 7.39 seconds).

A native of Cave Creek, Ariz., Lewan became the first offensive tackle selected by the Titans/Oilers in the first round since tackle Brad Hopkins (13th overall) in 1993.

➢ Douglas arrived in Tennessee with 17 games of NFL experience, including six starts at right guard and center.

➢ Douglas was originally drafted by the Miami Dolphins in the fourth round (114th overall) of the 2015 NFL Draft. He appeared in all 16 games and made six starts as a rookie.

➢ In 2016, he spent time on the Dolphins practice squad and active roster (one game) and then spent much of the year on the New England Patriots practice squad.

➢ In 2017, Douglas spent the preseason with the Patriots before being waived during roster cuts. He was signed by the Atlanta Falcons to the team's practice squad, where he spent majority of the season before being elevated to the 53-man roster in Week 17 (did not play).

➢ In 2018, he spent the preseason with the Falcons before being waived during roster cuts. Douglas spent the remainder of the season on both the Indianapolis Colts and Titans practice squads.

➢ The Cypress, Calif., native played college football at Arizona State (2011-14), where he appeared in 53 games and made 40 consecutive starts.

66 - G/T KEVIN PAMPHILE (6-5, 315, 6th Year, Purdue)

➢ Kevin Pamphile (pronounced pom-FEEL) was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 29, 2018.

➢ Pamphile was placed on injured reserve on Sept. 25, 2018, three games into his first campaign in Tennessee. He appeared in all three games, starting against Houston (Sept. 16) at left tackle and at Jacksonville (Sept. 23) at right tackle.

➢ Pamphile was originally selected by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the fifth round (149th overall) of the 2014 NFL Draft. He spent four seasons with the Buccaneers (2014-17), appearing in 53 games with 33 starts. He started contests at guard, tackle and as an extra tight end.

➢ In his last two seasons in Tampa Bay (2016-17), Pamphile appeared in 30 games with 29 starts. He started 28 games at left guard and one contest at right tackle.

➢ In 2017, Pamphile played in all 16 games with a career-high 15 starts at left guard and was a part of a line that helped block for an offensive unit that produced 5,816 total yards, the third-most for a single season in team history.

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Defensive lineman Jurrell Casey (6-1, 305) is in his ninth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the third round (77th overall) of the 2011 NFL Draft.

A five-time defensive captain and a two-time Titans nominee for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award, Casey was named to his fourth consecutive Pro Bowl at the conclusion of the 2018 season. However, his season was cut short due to a knee injury he suffered on Dec. 22 against Washington.

Prior to the injury, he started 15 games and totaled 72 tackles, seven sacks, seven tackles for loss, a career-high 50 quarterback pressures, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. It marked the third time in his career he totaled at least seven sacks.

Casey finished his 2018 campaign in eighth place in franchise history with 46 career sacks. His total ranked second among all defenders in the "Titans era" behind only Jevon Kearse's 52 sacks.

In 2017, Casey started all 16 games and set a career high with 35 quarterback pressures, which ranked second on the team. His six sacks also ranked second on the squad, as he reached the mark for the third time in his career.

With six sacks in 2017, Casey became the first player for the team since Ray Childress (1986–1994) to register five or more consecutive seasons with at least five sacks.

In 2016, Casey started 15 games and set a then-career high with 29 quarterback pressures in addition to 51 tackles, five sacks, three tackles for loss and five passes defensed. He became the first player for the team in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to register four consecutive seasons with at least five sacks.

In 2015, he started all 16 games for the second consecutive season and for the third time in his career. He led the team's defensive linemen with 86 tackles and tied Brian Orakpo for the team lead with seven sacks, the second-best total in Casey's career. Casey also set a then-career high and finished second on the team behind Orakpo with 28 quarterback pressures. He was named to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his career.

Casey was named one of five permanent team captains by his teammates for the first time in 2014. While remaining a key cog in the defense's switch from a 4-3 to a 3-4 scheme, he started all 16 games and led the team's defensive linemen (fourth on the team) with 86 tackles. His 27 quarterback pressures and 13 tackles for loss tied for the team lead and set new career highs. With five sacks, he ranked second on the squad.

In 2013, Casey was named Associated Press second-team All-Pro after putting together one of the best seasons by a defensive tackle in franchise history. His 10.5 sacks set a career high and made up the second-highest total by a franchise defensive tackle since sacks became an official statistic in 1982, finishing behind only Ray Childress' 13 sacks in 1992. In 2013, only Jason Hatcher of the Dallas Cowboys (11) finished with more sacks than Casey among defensive tackles.

Casey started 31 out of 32 games in his first two seasons, and in each campaign he led the team's defensive linemen in tackles. As a rookie, he notched 74 tackles and 2.5 sacks, and he followed with 80 tackles and three sacks in 2012.

A native of Long Beach, Calif., Casey played in 38 games (26 starts) on the defensive line (24 at right defensive tackle and two at nose tackle) at the University of Southern California. He recorded 138 tackles, nine sacks, 22 tackles for loss, three quarterback pressures, four fumble recoveries, three forced fumbles, an interception and three passes defensed.

In his final season with the Trojans (2010), he started all 13 games for the second consecutive season and had 67 tackles, a team-best 11 tackles for loss, a team-leading 4.5 sacks, one interception, one fumble recovery and two passes defensed. He was named first-team All-Pac 10.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), posted two tackles and a team-high four quarterback pressures.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), totaled five tackles.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), registered six tackles and a team-high three quarterback pressures.
- At Atlanta (9/29), tallied six tackles, one sack, four quarterback pressures, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery. Late in the first quarter, he tallied a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery on the same play – marking the first time in his career he accomplished the feat. He knocked the ball out of the hands of Matt Ryan to record his 47th career sack, his eighth career forced fumble and his fourth career fumble recovery. In the second quarter, he helped bring down Falcons running back Devonta Freeman for a one-yard loss on fourth-and-one.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), produced two tackles and a team-high four quarterback pressures.
- At Denver (10/13), totaled six tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), credited with one tackle, two quarterback pressures and one fumble recovery. He made a game-saving play with a fumble recovery in the end zone for a touchback with 15 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter. The fumble was forced by linebacker Wesley Woodyard on a rushing attempt by Melvin Gordon III. The play gave Casey a career-high two fumble recoveries in 2019 and five total career fumble recoveries.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), registered seven tackles, one sack, a team-high three quarterback pressures and one tackle for loss. In the second quarter, he dropped Jameis Winston for a five-yard sack on third down. In doing so, he tied Robert Brazile for seventh place on the franchise's all-time sack chart with his 48th career sack. With two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, he combined with safety Kenny Vaccaro for a key fourth-down stop by stuffing running back Peyton Barber for a one-yard loss in Titans territory.
- At Carolina (11/3) and against Kansas City (11/10), he was inactive with a shoulder injury.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), totaled three tackles and two quarterback pressures.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), posted six tackles, one sack and one quarterback pressure. He took down Jacoby Brissett for a seven-yard sack in the second quarter. With his 49th career sack, he passed Robert Brazile (48 career sacks) for seventh place on the franchise's all-time sack chart.
- At Oakland (12/8), led the defense with four quarterback pressures and two tackles for loss. He totaled five tackles.
- Against Houston (12/15), notched three tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), registered four tackles, one sack and one quarterback pressure. He recorded a nine-yard sack of Drew Brees in the second quarter, and with the play, he became the seventh player in franchise history to reach 50.0 career sacks. Jevon Kearse is the only other player to do so in the "Titans era" (1999–present).
- At Houston (12/29), registered five tackles and a sack. He sacked AJ McCarron for a nine-yard loss to end the second quarter to notch his fifth sack of 2019. It marked his seventh consecutive season with at least five sacks. Since individual sacks became an official NFL statistic in 1982, Casey became the second franchise player to have five sacks in seven consecutive seasons—and the first in the "Titans era" (1999–present). Former Oilers defensive lineman Ray Childress tallied at least five sacks for nine straight seasons from 1986–1994.
- At New England (1/4), posted three tackles and one quarterback pressure in a wild card victory.

FOUR PRO BOWLS

In being named to his fourth Pro Bowl in 2018, Jurrell Casey tied for the seventh-most consecutive Pro Bowls in franchise history. Prior to Casey, the franchise's two most recent players to do so were offensive lineman Bruce Matthews, who made 14 consecutive Pro Bowls from 1988–2001, and running back Eddie George, who earned Pro Bowl berths from 1997–2000.

Casey also achieved a first-time feat for players in the club's "Titans era" (1999–present). Seven other players who have worn the two-tone blue have been named to three Pro Bowls. However, Casey is the first to earn four selections in the Titans era. He did so in four consecutive seasons.

#90 • DL DAQUAN JONES

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Defensive lineman DaQuan Jones (6-4, 322) is in his sixth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the fourth round (112th overall) of the 2014 NFL Draft.

In 2018, Jones started all 16 games for the third time in his career. He tallied 39 tackles on the season, which was his second-highest career total, and added 14 quarterback pressures, a career-high four tackles for loss and one pass defensed.

Jones was placed on injured reserve on Dec. 4, 2017 due to a bicep injury he suffered the previous day against the Houston Texans. It concluded a season in which he totaled a career-high 3.5 sacks, 36 tackles, one tackle for loss and nine quarterback pressures. The injury put an end to his streak of 45 consecutive starts.

Jones was one of two Titans who started every game from 2015–2016, holding down a spot at defensive end for consecutive seasons. Outside linebacker Brian Orakpo was the other member of the team to start every game in that time period.

As a rookie, Jones appeared in seven games with one start. He registered 13 tackles, a sack, three quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and a forced fumble.

A leader at Penn State during a time of turmoil, Jones started 23 of 46 college games, with all of his starting assignments coming during the last two seasons. Jones finished his career with 92 tackles, adding 4.5 sacks for minus 28 yards, 15.5 stops for losses totaling 55 yards, two fumble recoveries and a pass deflection.

As a senior in 2013, he started all 12 games at defensive tackle, finishing fifth on the team with a career-high 56 tackles (33 solos). His tackle total was the most for any interior defensive lineman in the Big Ten during the 2013 campaign. Jones was named first-team All-Big Ten by the league's coaches and second-team All-Conference by the media. He was named Penn State's Outstanding Senior Player and the recipient of the team's Reid-Robinson Award.

#98 • DL JEFFERY SIMMONS

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons (6-4, 305) was selected by the Titans in the first round (19th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

Simmons begins his rookie season on the non-football injury list due to a knee injury he suffered during training in February 2019.

During a three-year career as a defensive tackle at Mississippi State, Simmons appeared in 38 contests with 28 starts. He finished his career ranked sixth in school history with 32.5 in tackles for loss. He also tied for sixth in MSU annals with five forced fumbles and tied for fourth with three blocked kicks. His totals also included 163 tackles, seven sacks, seven passes defensed and two defensive touchdowns.

He was a first-team All-SEC selection as a sophomore and junior and was one of two players in the nation to be named a Bednarik Award Semifinalist in both 2017 and 2018.

As a junior in 2018, Simmons was named second-team All-American after totaling 63 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and two sacks. His 17 tackles for loss led the team, ranked fourth in the SEC and were the third-most in single-season school history.

During his sophomore season (2017), he set a career high with five sacks and added 12 tackles for loss. With three total blocked kicks and punts, he became the first SEC player since 2004 to lead the nation in the category.

Simmons is a native of Macon, Miss.

2019 Notes:

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Linebacker Jayon Brown (6-0, 226) is in his third NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (155th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

Brown played in all 16 games with nine starts in 2018. He finished second on the defense with 107 tackles and six sacks, and his 18 quarterback pressures tied for the second-highest total on the team. He added six tackles for loss, seven passes defensed, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He was one of only six NFL linebackers with at least six sacks, one interception, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery during the season.

As a rookie, Brown appeared in all 16 regular season games and both postseason games as the team's nickel linebacker. He registered 67 tackles, which tied for the 10th-highest total by a "Titans era" rookie (1999–present) and ranked fifth among the team's rookie linebackers in that span. His statistics also included 1.5 sacks, two tackles for loss, six quarterback pressures, four passes defensed and one fumble recovery. He added five tackles in the playoffs.

In four seasons at UCLA (2013-16), Brown appeared in 49 games with 21 starts and totaled 220 tackles, three sacks, nine tackles for loss, three interceptions, 15 passes defensed, one forced fumble and four fumble recoveries. He started 21 games over his final two seasons and totaled nine games with double-digit tackles.

As a senior in 2016, he earned first-team All-Pac-12 honors after leading the Bruins with 119 tackles, which tied for 16th on the all-time school single-season list. He added 2.5 sacks, seven tackles for loss, three interceptions, 23 passes defensed and two fumble recoveries.

Brown is a native of Long Beach, Calif.

2019 Notes:

➢ At Cleveland (9/8), generated three tackles, one quarterback pressure and two passes defensed.

➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), credited with a team-high 10 tackles and added a pass defensed.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), led the defense with 11 tackles with one quarterback pressure and one tackle for loss.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), tallied nine tackles, one sack, three quarterback pressures, one tackle for loss and one pass defensed. In the fourth quarter, with the Falcons facing a fourth-and-one at the Tennessee 25-yard line, he was credited with a one-yard sack of quarterback Matt Ryan.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), notched eight tackles.

➢ At Denver (10/13), posted one tackle before exiting early in the first quarter with an injury.

➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), he was inactive with a groin injury.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled seven tackles and tied for the team lead with a career-high three passes defensed.

➢ At Carolina (11/3), produced nine tackles.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), he was inactive with a groin injury.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), he led the team and set a new career high with 16 tackles. His 16 tackles tied for the eighth-highest single-game total for the team since the beginning of the 1999 season. He added one quarterback pressure.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), led the defense with 10 tackles and added one pass defensed.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), totaled seven tackles, one tackle for loss and one fumble return for a touchdown. In the second quarter, with the Raiders on the one-yard line on first-and-goal, he timed a leap at the snap across the line of scrimmage to drop ball carrier Alec Ingold for a one-yard loss. In the fourth quarter, he recovered a fumble by tight end Darren Waller and returned the ball 47 yards for a touchdown. It was his second career touchdown (interception return vs. Indianapolis, Dec. 30, 2018) and his third career fumble recovery (first of 2019).

➢ Against Houston (12/15), notched 11 tackles and his second career interception. With the Texans on Tennessee's four-yard line, Deshaun Watson's pass was batted by Jeffery Simmons, and Brown then came down with the ball in the end zone for the interception.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), led the defense with 11 tackles and also tallied one quarterback pressure and one tackle for loss.

➢ At Houston (12/29), posted four tackles.

➢ At New England (1/4), registered three tackles before leaving the game in the first quarter with a shoulder injury.

Linebacker Rashaan Evans (6-2, 232) is in his second NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans with the 22nd pick in the first round of the 2018 NFL Draft. The Titans traded up from the 25th spot in order to take the former Alabama standout.

In his first NFL season, Evans overcame an injury that kept him out of the preseason. He played in 15 games during the regular season with seven starts at inside linebacker and totaled 63 tackles, six quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and three passes defensed.

In four seasons with the Crimson Tide (2014–2017), Evans appeared in 53 games with 14 starts and totaled 152 tackles, 15.0 sacks, 23.5 tackles for loss, five passes defensed, 19 quarterback hurries, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. During his four years there, he appeared in three CFP National Championship contests with two victories.

As a senior in 2017, Evans started 12 games and tied for the team lead with 74 tackles. He led the Crimson Tide with 13 tackles for loss despite missing a pair of games due to injury and also posted seven quarterback hurries, six sacks, three passes defensed, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery.

Following his senior campaign, he was named a first-team All-American by the AFCA, earned first-team All-SEC honors from Associated Press and second-team All-SEC honors from the conference coaches.

Evans is a native of Auburn, Ala.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), totaled eight tackles and one pass defensed.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), notched six tackles, including a tackle for loss.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), recorded seven tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- At Atlanta (9/29), led the team and set a career high with 10 tackles. He added a half sack, two quarterback pressures and one tackle for loss. He combined with defensive tackle Isaiah Mack for a five-yard sack in the fourth quarter. It was the first half sack of Evans' two-year career.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), led the team and tied his career high with 10 tackles, including a tackle for loss.
- At Denver (10/13), led the team and set a career high with 11 tackles.

- At Carolina (11/3), led the defense with 12 tackles, giving him six consecutive games with at least 10 tackles. He added one quarterback pressure.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), tallied seven tackles, one sack, two quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and one fumble recovery for a touchdown. He scored his first career touchdown in the second quarter, when he picked up the football after it was fumbled by running back Damien Williams and raced 53 yards for a score. It was Tennessee's first fumble return for a touchdown since Dec. 24, 2017 (Wesley Woodyard vs. the Los Angeles Rams). Later, he registered the first solo sack of his career, dropping Patrick Mahomes for a five-yard loss on third down in the fourth quarter to help end a Chiefs drive. The Chiefs botched a field goal attempt on the ensuing play.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), produced three tackles, one tackle for loss, one sack and one quarterback pressure. He registered a six-yard sack of Nick Foles in the fourth quarter to give him 2.5 sacks in 2019. It marked his second consecutive game with a sack.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), registered four tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- At Oakland (12/8), posted seven tackles.
- Against Houston (12/15), notched 12 tackles and two quarterback pressures.

Linebacker Wesley Woodyard (6-0, 233) is in his 12th NFL season and his sixth campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed as an unrestricted free agent on March 14, 2014.

Woodyard was named a team captain by his teammates in 2018 for the fifth time as a member of the Titans and for the 11th time in his career. He led the team with 124 tackles in 14 games (14 starts), posting the third-best tackle total of his career, and he tied for third on the squad with 4.5 sacks. He added 12 quarterback pressures, seven tackles for loss, two passes defensed and one fumble recovery.

In 2017, he enjoyed one of the best seasons of his career. He set career highs with 172 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, 15 quarterback pressures and two fumble recoveries and also had five sacks, which fell a half-sack short of his career benchmark (5.5 in 2012). In addition to setting a career high, Woodyard's 2017 tackle tally was one of the best marks by a defender in the franchise's "Titans era" (1999–present). In that time, his 172 tackles rank second to linebacker Keith Bulluck's 180 tackles in 2002.

In 2015, he recorded 12 starts, finished second on the team with 110 tackles and ranked third on the squad with five sacks. He added nine quarterback pressures, seven tackles for loss, three passes defensed, a forced fumble, a fumble recovery and six special teams tackles.

In 2014, Woodyard's totals in his first season with the Titans included 16 starts and a career-high 134 tackles, which led the team.

Woodyard joined the Titans after spending the first six years of his career with the Denver Broncos. He appeared in 87 regular-season games with 40 starts. For his Broncos career, he totaled 396 tackles, eight sacks, five interceptions, six forced fumbles and one fumble recovery.

As the middle linebacker from 2012-13, Woodyard started 24 total games and registered 197 tackles, seven sacks, four interceptions and three forced fumbles.

In 2012, Woodyard led the Broncos with a career-high 114 tackles. He ranked second on the squad in both 2013 (83) and 2011 (87).

Also in 2012, he was the only NFL player to record at least 100 tackles, five sacks and three interceptions. He was only the 12th NFL player to accomplish the feat over a 30-year span.

The LaGrange, Ga., native entered the NFL as an undrafted free agent out of the University of Kentucky. He earned first-team All-SEC honors during each of his final two seasons with the Wildcats.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), registered three tackles and added a stop on special teams.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), he was inactive due to a quad injury.
- At Atlanta (9/29), posted five tackles, including a tackle for loss.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), tallied three tackles.
- At Denver (10/13), led the team with one sack and two tackles for loss. He recorded his first sack of 2019 (28th career) by dropping quarterback Joe Flacco for a 10-yard loss in the fourth quarter. He totaled eight tackles and added a quarterback pressure.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), started and was credited with seven tackles and one forced fumble. On a play the Chargers ran from the one-yard line with 19 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, he made a game-saving play with a forced fumble at the goal line. He knocked the ball free from running back Melvin Gordon III, and defensive tackle Jurrell Casey recovered it in the end zone for a touchback. The forced fumble was Woodyard's first of 2019 and the eighth of his career.
- At Carolina (11/3), totaled seven tackles and one additional special teams tackle.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), started and tallied seven tackles.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), registered three tackles.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), credited with one tackle.
- At Houston (12/29), registered one tackle and one pass defensed.
- At New England (1/4), tallied three tackles in a wild card victory.

SINGLE-SEASON TACKLE LEADERS SINCE '99

Inside linebacker Wesley Woodyard's 2017 campaign was one of the best of his 10-year NFL career and one of the finest by any player in a Tennessee Titans uniform. His regular season totals included 172 tackles (104 solo, 68 assists), five sacks, 17 tackles for loss, 15 quarterback pressures and two fumble recoveries—all career highs except for sacks, which fell a half-sack short of his career benchmark (5.5 in 2012).

In addition to a career high, Woodyard's tackle tally was one of the best marks by a defender in the franchise's "Titans era" (1999–present). In that time, his 172 tackles rank second to linebacker Keith Bulluck's 180 tackles in 2002.

The published tackle statistics are taken from the Titans coaches' film review and can differ from "press box statistics."

Most tackles in a season by a Titans player, 1999-2017 (tackle statistics from coaches' film review):

20 TACKLES IN A GAME

Against the Baltimore Ravens on Nov. 5, 2017, Wesley Woodyard was credited with 20 tackles, as determined by the defensive coaching staff's film review*. He had 13 solo stops and seven assists.

In the "Titans era" (since 1999), Woodyard became the team's first player to record 20 tackles in a game. Previously, former linebackers Brad Kassell (Jan. 2, 2005 vs. Detroit) and Keith Bulluck (Sept. 28, 2003 at Pittsburgh) shared the distinction of having the most tackles in a single game during the Titans era with 19 each.

Most total tackles in a game by a Titans defender, 1999–present (all totals from coaches' film review):

Player	Date	Opponent	Total Tackles*
1. Wesley Woodyard	Nov. 5, 2017	Baltimore	20

MORE TITANS INSIDE LINEBACKERS

53 - ILB DAREN BATES (5-11, 225, 7th Year, Auburn)

- Daren Bates was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent in the 2017 offseason.
- He was named a team captain (special teams) for the first time in his career prior to the 2018 campaign. He played in all 16 games and finished second on the squad with 10 special teams tackles. Additionally, he contributed six tackles as a reserve linebacker.
- In 2017, Bates set a career high and ranked second on the team with 16 special teams tackles. He added two stops on special teams during the postseason.
- The 5-foot-11 inch, 225-pounder appeared in all 16 games with one start for the Oakland Raiders during the 2016 season, playing primarily on special teams.
- Bates was originally signed by the St. Louis Rams as an undrafted free agent following the 2013 NFL Draft.
- The Memphis, Tenn., native appeared in 49 games at linebacker and safety over four seasons at Auburn.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), registered one tackle at linebacker. He also lined up at fullback on Derrick Henry's one-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.
- At Carolina (11/3), tied for the team lead with two special teams tackles.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), led the team with three special teams tackles and created a turnover on kickoff coverage. On a Jaguars kickoff return in the third quarter, he tackled returner Michael Walker, forced a fumble and recovered the fumble. After he recovered the fumble, the Titans offense scored on the ensuing play.

51 - ILB DAVID LONG JR. (5-11, 227, Rookie, West Virginia)

- David Long Jr. was selected by the Titans in the sixth round (188th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.
- In three seasons at West Virginia (2016-18), Long played in 34 games with 31 starts and totaled 252 tackles, 14 sacks, and 40 tackles for loss. His career tackles for loss tied for third place on West Virginia's all-time list.
- In his final campaign at West Virginia in 2018, he tied the single-season program record with 19 tackles for loss.
- Long is a native of Cincinnati, Ohio.

2019 Notes:

- Against Indianapolis (9/15), made his NFL debut on special teams.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), credited with his first career tackle and his first career tackle for loss when he stopped running back Melvin Gordon III for a four-yard loss in the first quarter.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), ranked third on the defense with a career-high 11 tackles. Additionally, he recorded his first career forced fumble, combining with linebacker Rashaan Evans to force a turnover in the second quarter. On a rushing attempt by Damien Williams, Long knocked the football loose, and Evans raced 53 yards with it for a touchdown.
- Against Oakland (12/8), credited with two tackles, including one tackle for loss.
- At New England (1/4), posted five tackles in his postseason debut.

Outside linebacker Harold Landry III (6-2, 252) is in his second NFL season. He was selected by the Titans in the second round (41st overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft. The Titans traded up 16 spots in the second round (57 to 41) in order to take the former Boston College standout.

As a rookie in 2018, he played in 15 games with three starts. His 4.5 sacks tied for third place on the team, and he also tied for second on the defense with 18 quarterback pressures. He added 46 tackles, two tackles for loss, two passes defensed and one forced fumble.

In 46 career games playing defensive end for Boston College, Landry totaled 160 tackles, 26 sacks, 47.5 tackles for loss, seven passes defensed, 10 forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and one interception. His 26 career sacks were exceeded in school history by only Mathias Kiwanuka (37.5 from 2002-05).

As a senior in 2017, Landry played and started eight games before a season-ending ankle injury ended his year. He finished second on the team with five sacks and totaled 38 tackles, 8.5 tackles for loss and two passes defensed.

In 2016, Landry set the school's single-season record with 16.5 sacks, which led the nation. He added seven forced fumbles, which also led the country, while his 22 tackles for loss ranked fifth nationally and ranked second all-time for the Eagles. His numerous honors included Walter Camp second-team All-America, AP second-team All-America and second-team All-ACC by the Atlantic Coast Sports Media Association and the league's head coaches.

He is a native of Spring Lake, N.C.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), posted five tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), tied his career high with six tackles and added one sack, one quarterback pressure, one tackle for loss and one fumble recovery. In the third quarter, he notched his first career fumble recovery, falling on the ball after it was lost by Colts quarterback Jacoby Brissett. The takeaway led to a Titans field goal on the ensuing possession. In the fourth quarter, he was credited with his first sack of the season (zero yards).
- At Jacksonville (9/19), tallied four tackles, including one tackle for loss.
- At Atlanta (9/29), totaled five tackles, including a career-high two sacks. In the third quarter, he sacked Matt Ryan for a six-yard loss, and three plays later, he recorded his second sack, taking down Matt Ryan on fourth-and-one.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), produced a career-high seven tackles, one sack, one quarterback pressure and one tackle for loss. He dropped Josh Allen for a six-yard loss on third down in the third quarter to record his fourth sack of the season.
- At Denver (10/13), tied his career high with seven tackles and added one quarterback pressure.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), tied for the team lead with four quarterback pressures to go along with three tackles.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), recorded a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery on the same play in the fourth quarter. With the Titans trying to preserve a three-point lead in the final seven minutes of the contest, he stripped the ball from Jameis Winston and then recovered the ball. It marked the first time in his career he notched a strip-sack and fumble recovery on the same play. With his fifth sack of 2019, he surpassed the 4.5 sacks he had during his rookie season in 2018. He totaled five tackles in the contest.
- At Carolina (11/3), tied his career high with seven tackles and added one sack, two quarterback pressures, one tackle for loss and one interception. He recorded his first career interception in the first quarter, picking off Kyle Allen's pass that was intended for wide receiver Jarius Wright but tipped by safety Kenny Vaccaro. It marked his second consecutive game with a takeaway. He also helped stall a Panthers drive with an eight-yard sack on third down in the second quarter.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), totaled three tackles, one sack and three quarterback pressures. He registered a sack in his third consecutive game by taking down quarterback Patrick Mahomes for an eight-yard loss in the second quarter.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), produced a career-high eight tackles, one sack and three quarterback pressures. He knocked Jacksonville out of field goal range in the first quarter with an eight-yard sack of Nick Foles on third down. With his fourth consecutive game with at least one sack, he became the team's first player with a four-game sack streak since 2016, when outside linebackers Brian Orakpo (five games) and Derrick Morgan (four) each accomplished the feat.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), totaled seven tackles, one sack and a team-high four quarterback pressures. He sacked Jacoby Brissett for a two-yard loss in the third quarter to register his fifth consecutive game with at least one sack, tying for the seventh-longest streak of its kind in franchise history. The last Titans player with a five-game sack streak was outside linebacker Brian Orakpo in 2016. In the third quarter, his pressure of Brissett resulted in an interception by safety Kevin Byard.
- At Oakland (12/8), notched five tackles and two quarterback pressures.
- Against Houston (12/15), posted four tackles and three quarterback pressures.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), totaled two tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- At Houston (12/29), produced three tackles and two quarterback pressures in his 16th start of the season.
- At New England (1/4), led the team with three quarterback pressures and added one tackle and one pass defensed in his postseason debut.

#91 • OLB CAMERON WAKE

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Outside linebacker Cameron Wake (6-3, 263) is in his 11th NFL season and his first campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed as an unrestricted free agent from the Miami Dolphins on March 15, 2019.

Wake's 2019 season came to an end with six games remaining on the schedule. He was placed on injured reserve on Nov. 26, concluding his season with 2.5 sacks, 11 quarterback pressures, one pass defensed and nine tackles. At the time he was placed on injured reserve, his 100.5 career sacks ranked third among all active NFL players, trailing only Terrell Suggs (138.0) and Von Miller (104.0).

In 10 seasons with the Dolphins, Wake totaled 98 sacks to rank second in franchise history. He is a five-time Pro Bowl selection (2010, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2016) and a four-time Associated Press All-Pro (first team 2010 and 2012; second team 2014 and 2016).

Only Pro Football Hall of Famer Jason Taylor (131) has more sacks in Dolphins history than Wake. From 2009 through 2018, Wake's 98 sacks tied Von Miller for the highest total in the NFL, and entering 2019, only Terrell Suggs (132.5) had more sacks among all active players.

Additionally, Wake ranked second in the NFL with 213 total quarterback hits from 2009–2018, trailing only J.J. Watt (244).

In 146 career games in Miami (126 starts), Wake's totals also included 348 tackles, one interception, 15 passes defensed, 22 forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries. The durable veteran experienced only one season (2015) in which he missed more than two games due to injury.

In 2018, Wake played and started in 14 games and contributed six sacks, 36 tackles, one pass defensed and one forced fumble.

Originally signed by the New York Giants as an undrafted free agent in 2005, Wake played for the Canadian Football League's B.C. Lions in 2007 and 2008 and was named the CFL Defensive Player of the Year both seasons. He then joined the Dolphins as a free agent in 2009.

A native of Hyattsville, Md., Wake was a four-year letterman at Penn State, where he totaled 191 tackles and 8.5 sacks as a linebacker and defensive end.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), led the Titans with 2.5 sacks in his debut in a Titans uniform. He totaled three tackles and one quarterback pressure. In the first quarter, he recorded his first sack with the Titans, dropping Baker Mayfield for a 15-yard loss. In the second quarter, he recorded a safety with a sack of Mayfield in the end zone. It was his second career safety and first since 2013 as a member of the Miami Dolphins. On the sack for a safety, he became the second active NFL player to reach 100 career sacks, joining current Arizona Cardinals defender Terrell Suggs. He became the 33rd NFL player to reach the mark since individual sacks became an official statistic in 1982. Wake also shared a seven-yard sack with cornerback Logan Ryan in the fourth quarter. It was his ninth career game with at least 2.5 sacks. He became the second player in franchise history to be credited with a safety and at least 2.5 sacks in the same game, joining Ray Childress (Sept. 16, 1990 at Pittsburgh).
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), generated one tackle and one quarterback pressure.
- At Atlanta (9/29), contributed two quarterback pressures and one pass defensed in the 150th game of his NFL career. Since individual sacks became an official NFL statistic in 1982, Wake became one of 14 players to have had 100 or more sacks through their first 150 career games.
- Against Buffalo (10/6) and at Denver (10/13), he was inactive with a hamstring injury.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), registered two quarterback pressures.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled two quarterback pressures.
- At Carolina (11/3), notched one tackle.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), posted one quarterback pressure.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), registered two quarterback pressures.
- Placed on injured reserve on Nov. 26.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), tied his career high with five tackles.
➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), tied his career high with five tackles and added one sack, one tackle for loss, one fumble recovery and one special teams tackle. He sacked Jacoby Brissett for a one-yard loss in the fourth quarter. The sack came on third down and preceded the team's go-ahead touchdown on a blocked field goal return on the following play. Minutes later, he helped secure the victory by recovering a fumble by tight end Ross Travis at Tennessee's eight-yard line with 1:58 on the clock. It was his first career defensive fumble recovery.
➢ At Oakland (12/8), registered his second consecutive game with a sack, forcing Derek Carr out of bounds for no gain in the second quarter. He totaled two tackles in the contest.
➢ Against Houston (12/15), recorded four tackles, including a sack. He dropped Deshaun Watson for a nine-yard sack in the first quarter to give him a career-high four sacks in 2019 and three consecutive games with a sack.
➢ At Houston (12/29), credited with a sack and tied for the team lead with three quarterback pressures. He recorded an eight-yard sack in the second quarter to give him a career-high five sacks in 2019. He registered a sack in four of the final five contests to end the regular season. He added a stop on special teams at Houston.
➢ At New England (1/4), started and recorded two tackles in his postseason debut.

93 - OLB REGGIE GILBERT (6-4, 260, 2nd Year, Arizona)

➢ Reggie Gilbert was acquired by the Titans in a trade with the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 29, 2019. The Titans traded a conditional 2020 seventh-round draft choice in exchange for Gilbert, who began his NFL career with the Packers as an undrafted free agent in 2016.
➢ During three seasons in Green Bay, Gilbert appeared in 18 total games, totaling 47 tackles, 3.5 sacks, 20 quarterback pressures and two special teams stops.
➢ In 2018, he played in all 16 games for the first time in his career and recorded 44 tackles, six tackles for loss, 2.5 sacks, a fumble recovery, four quarterback hits, 15 quarterback pressures, two passes defensed and two tackles on special teams. His 15 quarterback pressures ranked second on the squad.

➢ He spent the majority of his first two seasons Green Bay's practice squad.
➢ At the University of Arizona, he started 47 of 57 games played and registered 14 sacks. He played in four bowl games and helped lead his program to 33 wins from 2012-15, which served as the winningest four-year stretch in program history.
➢ He is a native of Laveen, Ariz.
2019 Notes:
➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), made his debut with the Titans after missing the first two games due to a knee injury. He registered two tackles.
➢ At Atlanta (9/29), logged his first career start at outside linebacker and totaled three tackles and one quarterback pressure.
➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), started and produced three tackles, one sack, one quarterback pressure and one tackle for loss. In the fourth quarter, he recorded his first sack as a member of the Titans, dropping Josh Allen for a four-yard loss.
➢ At Denver (10/13), produced a pair of tackles.
➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), registered four tackles.
➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), recorded one tackle, one quarterback pressure and one special teams tackle.
➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), contributed three tackles.
➢ At Oakland (12/8), tallied three tackles and one quarterback pressure.
➢ Against Houston (12/15), recorded three tackles and added one special teams stop.

50 - OLB DERICK ROBERSON (6-3, 250, Rookie, Sam Houston State)
➢ Outside linebacker Derick Roberson signed with the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 10, 2019.
➢ He spent the first six games of his rookie season on the practice squad before being elevated to the 53-man roster on Oct. 19. He then spent the next four weeks on the practice squad before being re-signed to the 53-man roster on Nov. 26.
➢ Roberson appeared in 32 games with 20 starts over three seasons at Sam Houston State (2016-18) and totaled 123 tackles, 23 sacks, eight passes defensed, one interception and seven forced fumbles.
➢ Transferred to Sam Houston State from Texas where he played one season as a redshirt freshman. He saw action in 10 contests at Texas and registered six tackles, two sacks and one forced fumble.
➢ He is a native of San Antonio, Texas.
2019 Notes:
➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), led the team with two sacks, logging the first two sacks of his career. He recorded his first career sack in the first quarter, dropping Drew Brees for a seven-yard loss, and he added an eight-yard sack in the fourth quarter on third down. Roberson became the first Titans rookie with two or more sacks in a game since linebacker Avery Williamson accomplished the feat as a rookie against the Pittsburgh Steelers on Nov. 17, 2014.
➢ At Houston (12/29), tallied two tackles, including a sack. He dropped AJ McCarron for an eight-yard sack in the first quarter. The sack, which came on third down, gave him three sacks in a two-game span.
➢ At New England (1/4), registered a tackle for loss in his postseason debut.

42 - OLB D'ANDRE WALKER (6-2, 251, Rookie, Georgia)
➢ D'Andre Walker was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (168th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

#21 • CB MALCOLM BUTLER

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Cornerback Malcolm Butler (5-11, 190) is in his sixth NFL season and his second campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 16, 2018.

His 2019 season was cut short due to a wrist injury he suffered in the ninth game (Nov. 3 at Carolina). Until that point, he had 30 tackles, two interceptions, including one for a touchdown, and 10 passes defensed.

In 2018, Butler led the Titans with 13 passes defensed in his first season as a Titan and was second on the team with three interceptions, which included an interception return for a touchdown. He added 56 tackles, one sack, one quarterback pressure, three tackles for loss and one forced fumble in 16 games (11 starts).

Prior to his arrival in Tennessee, Butler spent the first four seasons of his career with the New England Patriots. During his time in New England, he appeared in 59 career regular season games with 48 starts and amassed 204 tackles, eight interceptions, 47 passes defensed, four forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries.

Butler appeared in 11 career playoff games with seven starts with the Patriots. He started all three postseason contests on the Patriots' run to the Super Bowl LI title in 2016 and made the crucial, game-winning interception at the goal line in New England's Super Bowl XLIX victory over the Seattle Seahawks to conclude the 2014 campaign.

In 2017, he played in all 16 games during the regular season with 15 starts and amassed 60 tackles, two interceptions, a sack, 12 passes defensed and three forced fumbles. He saw action in all three postseason games (two starts) and posted four tackles.

In 2016, Butler earned his second consecutive Pro Bowl invitation and was named Associated Press second-team All-Pro after starting all 16 regular season games and recording 63 tackles, one sack, a career-high four interceptions and 17 passes defensed.

As a rookie free agent in 2014, Butler was involved in one of the most memorable plays in Super Bowl history. With 26 seconds remaining against the Seattle Seahawks in Super Bowl XLIX, he intercepted a pass intended for Ricardo Lockette at the goal line, preventing a go-ahead touchdown by the Seahawks and sealing New England's championship victory.

The Vicksburg, Miss., native was originally signed by the New England Patriots on May 19, 2014, following two seasons at the University of West Alabama, where he was a two-time first team All-Gulf South Conference selection at cornerback. He transferred to West Alabama from Hinds (Miss.) Community College.

2019 Notes:
➢ At Cleveland (9/8), in the fourth quarter, intercepted a pass from Baker Mayfield that was intended for wide receiver Jarvis Landry and raced 38 yards for a touchdown. It was Butler's second career interception return for a touchdown. The interception was the 12th of Butler's career. He added five tackles in the contest.
➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), recorded seven tackles and one pass defensed.

- At Jacksonville (9/19), registered one pass defensed.
- At Atlanta (9/29), contributed six tackles and one pass defensed.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), tallied four tackles.
- At Denver (10/13), produced a pair of tackles and a team-high two passes defensed.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), posted five tackles and one pass defensed.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), recorded his second interception of the season and the 13th interception of his career when he picked off a Jameis Winston pass and returned the ball 23 yards to the Tampa Bay six-yard line in the first quarter. The takeaway resulted in a Titans touchdown on the ensuing possession. He added one tackle in the contest.
- At Carolina (11/3), registered two passes defensed before leaving the contest in the second quarter with a wrist injury.
- Placed on injured reserve on Nov. 5.

#25 • CB ADOREE' JACKSON

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Cornerback Adoree' Jackson (5-11, 185) is in his third NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans with the 18th overall pick in the first round of the 2017 NFL Draft.

In 2018, Jackson appeared in all 16 games for the second consecutive season with 13 starts. He set single-season career highs with 69 tackles and two interceptions. His 11 passes defensed ranked second on the squad, and he added one quarterback pressure and three tackles for loss. He also handled the team's punt return duties, averaging 9.3 yards on 16 returns.

In 2017, Jackson was the first rookie cornerback for the team in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to record 16 starts. His 1,260 total plays (1,017 defensive snaps, 231 special teams snaps and 12 offensive snaps) ranked second in the NFL among all players behind only Arizona Cardinals safety Tyrann Mathieu (1,261).

Jackson's rookie defensive totals included a team-high 23 passes defensed, 67 tackles, four tackles for loss, one quarterback pressures and three forced fumbles (tied for team lead). He ranked fifth in the NFL with 290 punt return yards (34 returns), ranked sixth in the NFL with a 23.1-yard kickoff return average (25 returns), and finished sixth with 868 combined kickoff return and punt return yards. He added 55 yards on five rushing attempts.

In three seasons at Southern California, Jackson appeared in 39 games with 36 starts. Although he was a starter at cornerback, he was a three-way threat, contributing as a returner and on offense. He scored 15 total touchdowns during his career in four different ways: via reception (6), interception (1), punt return (4) and kickoff return (4).

Jackson's career defensive totals with the Trojans included 139 tackles, 29 passes defensed, six interceptions, six stops for loss, three fumble recoveries and two forced fumbles.

As a return specialist, Jackson notched 79 kickoff returns for 2,141 yards with four touchdowns and 46 punt returns for 578 yards with four touchdowns. He tied two NCAA records with his eight career touchdowns on kick/punt returns and nine touchdowns on all runbacks. He also set Southern California career records for kickoff returns and kickoff return yards.

As a junior in 2016, Jackson was awarded the Jim Thorpe Award as the nation's top defensive back. Additionally, he was a consensus All-American, the 2016 Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year, a team captain and the team MVP (the first Trojan to repeat as team MVP since 2004-05), and he earned first-team All-Pac-12 honors at two different positions (defensive back and return specialist). He started all 13 games at cornerback and led the team with five interceptions, 11 passes defensed and two fumble recoveries. He scored twice on kickoff returns, twice on punt returns and once on offense.

A native of East St. Louis, Ill., Jackson also made his name as a world-class track athlete. He was a long jumper and sprinter on USC's track team in 2015 and 2016, winning the Pac-12 outdoor long jump title both years (and placing second in the Pac-12 100 meters in 2016) and earning All-American status both years after twice placing fifth in the NCAA long jump. He also placed 10th in the long jump in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

2019 Notes:
- At Cleveland (9/8), totaled five tackles and returned one kickoff 23 yards.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), posted one tackle and added two punt returns for 26 yards, including a 17-yard return.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), registered two tackles.
- At Atlanta (9/29), tallied four tackles and one pass defensed.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), registered two tackles and one pass defensed.
- At Denver (10/13), totaled three tackles.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), registered two tackles.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), he was inactive with a foot injury.
- At Carolina (11/3), posted three tackles, one tackle for loss and two passes defensed.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), tallied seven tackles and two passes defensed.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), recorded a career-high 10 tackles, one tackle for loss and one pass defensed.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), recorded one tackle before leaving the game with an injury.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), against Houston (12/15), against New Orleans (12/22) and at Houston (12/29), he was inactive with a foot injury.
➢ At New England (1/4), returned from a foot injury to start and record two tackles and two passes defensed (tied for team lead) in a wild card win.

MOST TOTAL SNAPS IN 2017

Cornerback Adoree' Jackson was on the field more than any other Titans player and almost more than every other NFL player in 2017. He was the first rookie cornerback for the team in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to start all 16 games in the regular season, and he and Buffalo's Tre'Davious White were only NFL rookie cornerbacks to record 16 starts in 2017.

Jackson played 1,017 defensive snaps while also serving as the team's primary returner and even lining up on offense occasionally. His 231 special teams snaps and 12 offensive snaps brought his season total to 1,260 total plays.

The only NFL player in 2017 to participate in more plays than Jackson was Arizona Cardinals safety Tyrann Mathieu, who recorded 1,261 snaps—1,046 on defense and 215 on special teams. The next-closest rookie behind Jackson was New York Jets safety Jamal Adams, who was on the field for 1,205 total plays.

Second-year safety Kevin Byard ranked second on the Titans with 1,153 total snaps in 2017.

#26 • CB LOGAN RYAN

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Cornerback Logan Ryan (5-11, 195) is in his seventh NFL season and his third campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 11, 2017.

Ryan's 2018 season came to an early conclusion after he suffered a season-ending leg injury on Dec. 16 at the New York Giants. He was placed on injured reserve two days later. Prior to the injury, he played and started in 14 games and collected 85 tackles, a career-high four sacks, one tackle for loss, one quarterback pressure and eight passes defensed. At the time of his injury, his four sacks were tied (Minnesota's Mackensie Alexander) for the NFL lead among cornerbacks.

Ryan set a career high in 2017 with 15 starts during the regular season and totaled 73 tackles, 14 passes defensed, two quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and one forced fumble. He added 12 tackles, one pass defensed and one tackle for loss in two postseason starts.

Ryan spent his first four NFL seasons in New England, where he was a contributor to two Super Bowl titles. He played in 64 games with the Patriots, including 40 starts, and totaled 13 interceptions, 41 passes defensed, 251 tackles, two sacks and three forced fumbles. His 13 interceptions from 2013–2016 ranked seventh among NFL corners.

In 2016, Ryan led the Patriots in tackles (92), also adding two interceptions, 11 passes defensed and one sack as part of a defense that was ranked first in points allowed and eighth in yards allowed.

In 2013, he played all 16 regular season games with seven starts as a rookie. He led all NFL rookies and tied for the AFC lead with a career-high five interceptions.

A native of Voorhees, N.J., Ryan was a third-round pick by the Patriots in the 2013 NFL Draft following a four-year career at Rutgers. As a cornerback for the Scarlet Knights, he started 27 games and earned All-Big East honors as a junior and senior.

2019 Notes:
➢ At Cleveland (9/8), totaled eight tackles, 1.5 sacks (tied career high), one quarterback pressure and one interception. He was credited with an eight-yard sack late in the second quarter and also split a seven-yard sack with outside linebacker Cameron Wake in the fourth quarter. It gave him eight career sacks, including 5.5 sacks since the beginning of the 2018 season. In the fourth quarter, he recorded his 14th career interception and his first in a Titans uniform, picking off Baker Mayfield's pass that was intended for wide receiver Jarvis Landry. Since individual sacks became an official NFL statistic in 1982, it marked only the third time a Titans/Oilers player recorded at least one interception and at least 1.5 sacks in the same game. Ryan joined Oilers linebackers Robert Brazile (Dec. 19, 1982 at Philadelphia) and Johnny Meads (Oct. 21, 1990 against New Orleans) as the franchise's only players to accomplish the feat.

➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), recorded four tackles, one interception and two passes defensed. In the second quarter, he recorded his second interception of the season and the 15th interception of his career, picking off a pass from Jacoby Brissett to T.Y. Hilton. It marked the third time in his seven-year career with interceptions in consecutive games.

➢ At Jacksonville (9/19), registered two passes defensed.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), produced six tackles and added one pass defensed.

➢ Against Buffalo (10/6), totaled nine tackles and one sack. In the first quarter, he sacked quarterback Josh Allen for a five-yard loss.

➢ At Denver (10/13), notched six tackles, one quarterback pressure and a forced fumble (recovered by the Broncos).

➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), appeared in his 100th career regular season NFL game and led the team with three passes defensed. He added nine tackles, one tackle for loss and one forced fumble (recovered by the Chargers). It was his second consecutive game with a forced fumble.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), produced seven tackles, one sack, one interception, three passes defensed (tied for team lead) and one forced fumble. He cemented the victory with an interception in the final 30 seconds of the fourth quarter, picking off Jameis Winston's pass that was intended for wide receiver Breshad Perriman. He dropped Winston for a sack in the second quarter and forced a fumble on the play (recovered by the Buccaneers). He logged his second career game and his second game of 2019 (Sept. 8 at Cleveland) with at least one sack and at least one interception. He became the first NFL player in 2019 to do so in multiple games.

➢ At Carolina (11/3), set a season high with 11 tackles and added one pass defensed.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), led the defense with 13 tackles, including one tackle for loss, and added a team-high three passes defensed.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), registered seven tackles and one pass defensed.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), totaled nine tackles, one tackle for loss and one interception. He tallied his fourth interception of the season by snaring Jacoby Brissett's pass that was intended for Zach Pascal in the fourth quarter. He returned the ball 16 yards. With the takeaway, he recorded the third season of his career with four or more interceptions and his first such campaign as a member of the Titans.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), led the defense with 13 tackles, including a tackle for loss.

➢ Against Houston (12/15), registered eight tackles and a forced fumble. He knocked the ball out of the hands of Deshaun Watson in the first quarter for his fourth forced fumble of the season, but the ball went out of bounds.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), contributed seven tackles and one pass defensed.

➢ At Houston (12/29), totaled three tackles, including a sack. He sacked AJ McCarron for an eight-yard loss in the fourth quarter to give him a career-high 4.5 sacks in 2019, surpassing his previous high of four sacks in 2018.

➢ At New England (1/4), returned an interception for a touchdown and ranked second on the team with eight tackles. With the Titans leading by one point, he picked off a Tom Brady pass and returned the ball nine yards for a touchdown with nine seconds remaining in the fourth quarter to seal the victory. He joined Vernon Perry (Jan. 6, 1980 at Pittsburgh) and Bubba McDowell (Jan. 3, 1993 at Buffalo) as the only players in team annals with a postseason interception return for a touchdown. It was Ryan's second career NFL touchdown, including regular season and postseason games, and his first since a 79-yard interception return at the New York Jets as a rookie on Oct. 20, 2013. He notched his second career postseason interception.

Safety Kevin Byard (5-11, 212) is in his fourth NFL season in 2019. He was selected by the Titans in the third round (64th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

From 2017 through 2018, no NFL player had more interceptions than Byard, who had 12. His 2018 totals included a team-leading four interceptions, 10 passes defensed, 96 tackles and two sacks in 16 games (all starts). He also completed a touchdown pass on a memorable fake punt to help defeat the Houston Texans (Sept. 16).

Byard experienced a breakthrough second-year season in 2017. He was named to the Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors after tying Detroit's Darius Slay for the NFL lead with eight interceptions. He added a pair of fumble recoveries to pace the league with 10 total takeaways.

Byard's 2017 numbers also included 87 tackles, three quarterback pressures, four tackles for loss and 18 passes defensed. In two playoff starts, he led the club with 16 tackles.

As a rookie in 2016, Byard played in every game, starting the final seven contests at free safety. His 63 tackles were the most by a Titans rookie safety since Tank Williams' 69 tackles in 2002. Byard added one sack, three quarterback pressures, five tackles for loss (third on the team) and four passes defensed. He also ranked second on the squad with 10 special teams tackles.

During a four-year career at Middle Tennessee State University, he appeared in 49 games and notched 46 starts at safety while becoming one of the most prolific defenders in school history. He set school records with 19 career interceptions, 377 interception return yards and four interception returns for touchdowns, and he finished sixth in MTSU history with 312 career tackles. In total, he had a hand in 25 turnovers (19 interceptions, five forced fumbles and one fumble recovery) during his career and added 17 career passes defensed and five tackles for loss. He was twice named first-team All-Conference USA.

As a senior in 2015, Byard appeared in 12 games with nine starts as a permanent team captain and was named first-team All-Conference USA for the second consecutive year. He ranked fourth on the team with 66 tackles and led the squad with four interceptions and six additional pass breakups.

The Lithonia, Ga., native set a career high in college with six interceptions as a junior and forced to fumbles the same season.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), registered seven tackles and one interception. In the fourth quarter, he recorded his first interception of the season (13th career) by picking off a Baker Mayfield pass that was intended for Odell Beckham Jr. He returned the ball 28 yards to help set up a touchdown on the Titans' ensuing drive.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), posted four tackles and added a stop on special teams.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), tallied five tackles, including one tackle for loss.
- At Atlanta (9/29), contributed eight tackles and a team-high two passes defensed.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), totaled seven tackles, one interception and two passes defensed. In the third quarter, he picked off a Josh Allen pass in Bills territory to notch his second interception of the season and the 14th interception of his career.
- At Denver (10/13), registered three tackles, one interception and one special teams tackle. In the third quarter, he picked off Joe Flacco's pass that bounced off the back of tight end Noah Fant. It marked Byard's second consecutive game with an interception.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), credited with eight tackles and one pass defensed. In the first quarter, he broke up a pass on fourth-and-two that was intended for tight end Hunter Henry. He also recorded his first NFL reception in the first quarter. On a fake punt, he took a pass from Brett Kern and went 11 yards to convert a fourth-and-eight.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), totaled three tackles and one tackle for loss.
- At Carolina (11/3), produced six tackles, one pass defensed and one stop on special teams.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), tallied six tackles.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), produced 11 tackles.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), totaled four tackles, one quarterback pressure and one interception. He intercepted a Jacoby Brissett pass in Colts territory and returned the ball 21 yards in the third quarter. The play gave him three consecutive seasons with four or more interceptions. It also put him in a tie for 18th place on the franchise's all-time career interceptions list.
- At Oakland (12/8), contributed eight tackles.
- Against Houston (12/15), registered a pair of tackles.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), recorded three tackles and added a stop on special teams.
- At Houston (12/29), credited with six tackles and added an interception in his 16th start of the season. He intercepted a pass from AJ McCarron in the fourth quarter to give him a team-high five interceptions in 2019. It was the 17th interception of his career.
- At New England (1/4), tallied five tackles in a wild card win.

FIVE INTERCEPTIONS IN TWO GAMES

On Oct. 22, 2017 at Cleveland, Titans safety Kevin Byard registered three interceptions. The following game, on Nov. 5, 2017 against Baltimore, Byard tallied two interceptions to become the first player in franchise history to record five interceptions in a two-game span.

Prior to Byard, the last NFL player to accomplish the feat was Washington Redskins cornerback DeAngelo Hall in 2010. On Oct. 24, 2010, Hall intercepted four passes at Chicago, and seven days later at Detroit, Hall picked off another pass.

Byard became only the fifth player since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger with five interceptions over two games. In addition to Byard and Hall, the others were Patriots cornerback Mike Haynes in 1976, Packers cornerback Willie Buchanon in 1978 and Chiefs cornerback Albert Lewis in 1985.

Most interceptions in a two-game span, 1970–2017:

	Player	Team	Season	Interceptions in Two Games
1.	Kevin Byard	Ten	2017	5
	DeAngelo Hall	Was	2010	5
	Albert Lewis	KC	1985	5

Safety Kenny Vaccaro (6-0, 214) is in his sixth NFL season and his second campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed as a free agent on Aug. 4, 2018.

Vaccaro recorded 13 starts in 13 games during his first year in Tennessee. He finished with 70 tackles, two sacks, three quarterback pressures, four tackles for loss, one interception and five passes defensed.

Vaccaro (6-0, 214) joined the Titans after five years as a starter with the New Orleans Saints. In 68 career games with 67 starts in New Orleans, he totaled 482 tackles, eight interceptions, 7.5 sacks, five forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

In 2017, Vaccaro started 12 games at strong safety and recorded three interceptions, seven passes defensed, 60 tackles, 1.5 sacks and one fumble recovery. He tallied three total interceptions in a three-game stretch from Weeks 3-6. He missed four total games due to injury, including spending the final two weeks of the campaign on injured reserve.

In 2016, Vaccaro started 11 games at strong safety and totaled 80 tackles (56 solo), one sack, six passes defensed, two forced fumbles, one fumble recovery, two interceptions and a special teams stop.

Vaccaro was named to the PFWA and Bleacher Report All-Rookie teams in 2013, and in 2014 he won the Jim Finks Good Guy Award for cooperation with the New Orleans media.

The Brownwood, Texas, native was selected by the Saints in the first round (15th overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.

During his time at the University of Texas, Vaccaro appeared in 51 games with 32 starts and totaled 264 tackles and five interceptions. He earned first-team All-American honors as a senior and All-Big 12 first-team recognition from league coaches in each of his final two years. The versatile defender played four different positions including both safety spots for the Longhorns.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), led the team with 13 tackles and added two stops on special teams.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), credited with seven tackles.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), totaled five tackles.
- At Atlanta (9/29), registered six tackles, including a tackle for loss. He helped bring down Falcons running back Devonta Freeman for a one-yard loss on fourth-and-one in the second quarter.
- Against Buffalo (10/6), tallied four tackles.
- At Denver (10/13), recorded eight tackles and one quarterback pressure.
- Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), totaled four tackles and added one stop on special teams.
- Against Tampa Bay (10/27), notched seven tackles and one pass defensed. With two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, he combined with defensive tackle Jurrell Casey for a key fourth-down stop by stuffing running back Peyton Barber for a one-yard loss in Titans territory.
- At Carolina (11/3), totaled three tackles and one pass defensed. He helped cause an interception in the first quarter by tipping Kyle Allen's pass that was intended for wide receiver Jarius Wright. It was then intercepted by outside linebacker Harold Landry III.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), posted nine tackles and one pass defensed and added one special teams tackle.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), produced six tackles and one sack. In the fourth quarter, he recorded a six-yard sack of Nick Foles to give him his first sack of 2019.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), totaled five tackles.
- At Oakland (12/8), tallied two tackles before exiting the game late in the second quarter with a concussion.
- Against Houston (12/15), led the defense with 13 tackles and added an interception and two passes defensed. He recorded his first interception of the season during Houston's first possession, on a play from Tennessee's 20-yard line. He stepped in front of a pass from Deshaun Watson to running back Duke Johnson at the one-yard line to record the 10th interception of his career.
- Against New Orleans (12/22), posted three tackles and added one special teams stop against his former team.
- At Houston (12/29), credited with a team-high nine tackles in his 16th start of the season.

➢ At New England (1/4), tallied seven tackles, one tackle for loss and one pass defensed in his postseason debut.

29 - DB DANE CRUIKSHANK (6-1, 209, 2nd Year, Arizona)
➢ Dane Cruikshank was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (152nd overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft. The Titans traded up to select him by giving up a fifth-round pick (162nd overall) and a sixth-round pick (215th overall) to the Baltimore Ravens.
➢ As a rookie, Cruikshank appeared in 12 games and finished fourth on the team with eight special teams tackles. He added two tackles on defense, a 66-yard touchdown reception and a 39-yard kickoff return.
➢ Entering the NFL Draft, Cruikshank was coveted for his versatility, having played safety, and both inside and outside cornerback at the University of Arizona. He started all 25 games during his two seasons as a Wildcat, totaling 135 tackles, 1.5 sacks, seven tackles for loss, 17 passes defensed, one forced fumble and intercepted five passes for 68 yards.
➢ As a senior in 2017, he started all 13 games after switching to spur safety from cornerback. He ranked fifth on the team with 75 tackles and also posted 1.5 sacks, 5.5 tackles for loss, eight passes defensed, one forced fumble and three interceptions for 65 yards as a Wildcat. He was voted a captain by his teammates.
➢ Prior to attending Arizona, he played two seasons at Citrus College.
➢ He is a native of Chino Hills, Calif.

2019 Notes:
➢ Against Indianapolis (9/15), tied for the team lead with two special teams tackles.
➢ At Carolina (11/3), tied for the team lead with two special teams tackles. Additionally, he recorded his first career blocked kick, getting his hand on an extra point attempt by Panthers kicker Joey Slye in the fourth quarter.
➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), posted a pair of special teams stops.

37 - DB AMANI HOOKER (5-11, 210, Rookie, Iowa)
➢ Amani Hooker was selected by the Titans in the fourth round (116th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft. The Titans traded up to select him by giving up a fourth-round pick (121st overall) and a fifth-round pick (157th overall) to the New York Jets.
➢ During a three-year career at Iowa (2016-18), Hooker played in 36 games with 19 starts and totaled 125 tackles, six interceptions, one sack, 3.5 tackles for loss and nine passes defensed.
➢ As a junior (2018), Hooker received the Tatum-Woodson award, given to the best defensive back in the Big Ten.
➢ He is a native of Minneapolis, Minn.
2019 Notes:
➢ At Cleveland (9/8), recorded one special teams tackle in his first career NFL game.
➢ At Atlanta (9/29), registered the first four tackles on defense of his NFL career.

46 - DB JOSHUA KALU (6-0, 203, 1st Year, Nebraska)
➢ Joshua Kalu was originally signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 11, 2018. He spent the first 11 games of his rookie season on the practice squad before being elevated to the 53-man roster on Dec. 1, 2018.
➢ He totaled four tackles on special teams in five games in 2018.
➢ Kalu played in 48 games with 37 starts at cornerback and safety over four seasons at Nebraska. He totaled 215 tackles, two sacks, 27 passes defensed, seven interceptions for 78 yards and a score, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. His 27 passes defensed tied for seventh in Cornhusker history. His 215 career tackles ranked fifth all-time among Nebraska defensive backs and among the top 30 overall tacklers in Cornhusker history.
➢ As a senior in 2017, Kalu started nine games at safety and missed three contests due to injury. He finished with 47 tackles, two interceptions for 32 yards, six passes defensed and one forced fumble. He was named to the Academic All-Big Ten list.
2019 Notes:

Long snapper Beau Brinkley (6-4, 260) is in his eighth NFL season in 2019. He was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 4, 2012.

In his first seven seasons, Brinkley never missed a game and handled all of the team's long snapping duties in that time period.

In 2018, he posted five special teams tackles and helped punter Brett Kern earn his second consecutive Pro Bowl appearance. Kicker Ryan Succop convert 26 of his 30 field goal attempts.

In 2017, Brinkley's efforts helped punter Brett Kern earn Pro Bowl and second-team Associated Press All-Pro honors while setting new franchise records for gross punting and net punting average.

In 2016, Brinkley helped Ryan Succop make 22 of his 24 field goal attempts, with the only misses coming from 51 and 58 yards. Succop's 91.7 percent rate ranked third in the NFL in 2016 behind only Justin Tucker (97.4) and Matt Bryant (91.9).

In 2014, he Brinkley tied for third on the team with a career-high 10 special teams tackles.

The Kearney, Mo., native spent four seasons as Missouri's long snapper after joining the team as a preferred walk-on. Appeared in 50 career games during his time at Missouri.

#6 • P BRETT KERN

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Punter Brett Kern (6-2, 214) is in his 12th NFL season and his 10th full campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was claimed off waivers by the Titans during the 2009 season.

During his time in Tennessee, Kern has placed his name at the top of most of the franchise's leaderboards at his position. At the end of the 2018 campaign, he ranked as the team's all-time career leader in gross punting average (45.8 yards), net punting average (40.5) and punts placed inside the 20 (296). He punted 761 times in a Titans uniform from 2009–2018, second all-time for the franchise behind Craig Hentrich's 861 punts. Kern owns the top seven net punting seasons in franchise history and eight of the team's top 10 net punting seasons.

In 2018, Kern was named to the Pro Bowl for the second consecutive season. His 47.1-yard gross average ranked fifth in team history, and his 41.7-yard net average ranked second in team annals. He set a franchise record and recorded a career high with 39 of his 74 punts inside the 20-yard line. He finished the season with a career-long streak of 16 consecutive punts placed inside the 20, including every punt in the final three games of the season.

In 2017, Kern had arguably one of the best seasons by a punter in NFL history and was named to his first career Pro Bowl in addition to earning second-team Associated Press All-Pro honors. He punted 75 times for 3,728 yards with 28 punts placed inside the 20-yard line. His 44.6-yard net average broke his own team record and finished second in NFL history behind only Johnny Hekker's 46.0-yard net average in 2016. Kern's 49.7-yard gross average also broke his team mark and finished eighth in NFL history.

In 2016, Kern punted 77 times for a 44.2-yard gross average and a 38.6-yard net average. He placed 41.6 percent of his punts inside the opponent's 20-yard line (32 of 77), which ranked second in his career (42.2 in 2009).

In 2015, Kern continued his annual assault on the team's all-time punting records and accomplished a first-of-its-kind NFL feat, becoming the first punter in league history to record 80 or more punts, a net average of 40 yards, and one or zero touchbacks in a single season. His season totals included 88 punts (tied for fifth place in franchise history), a 47.4-yard gross average (second in franchise history), a 40.3 net average (third in franchise history), a career-high 34 punts inside the 20 (third in franchise history) and only one touchback (career low).

In 2014, Kern launched a career-high 88 total punts for a gross average of 46.8 yards and a net average of 40.8 yards, which broke his own single-season team record (40.4-yard net average in 2012).

Kern produced one of the best punting seasons in team history in 2012. He set franchise records with a gross punting average of 47.6 yards and a net punting average of 40.4 yards (he broke the mark in 2014).

Kern's 2011 statistics included 86 punts for a gross average of 43.6 yards. His net average of 39.4 yards set a then-career high and then-franchise record, narrowly beating out Craig Hentrich's previous franchise record of 39.2 net yards per punt in 1998.

Kern was claimed by the Titans off waivers from the Denver Broncos on Oct. 27, 2009. He spent the entire 2008 season and the first six games of 2009 campaign in Denver, totaling 73 punts and a 46.5-yard average in 22 games with the Broncos.

In 2008, Kern ranked fifth in the league with a 46.7-yard punting average that marked the third-best season total by a Bronco in club history. At the time, his punting average was the best in NFL history by a rookie. He was named to the All-Rookie team by Pro Football Weekly/PFWA and The Sporting News.

The Grand Island, N.Y., native was originally signed by the Broncos as a rookie free agent on April 28, 2008, following four seasons at the University of Toledo.

2019 Notes:

- At Cleveland (9/8), averaged 46.2 yards (43.2 net) on six punts with three punts placed inside the 20. He boomed a 70-yard punt to Cleveland's three-yard line in the second quarter, recording his eighth career punt of at least 70 yards. It resulted in the Titans scoring a safety on the next play.
- Against Indianapolis (9/15), averaged 48.0 yards (41.0 net) on six punts with two inside the 20.
- At Jacksonville (9/19), punted eight times for a 46.5-yard average (40.1

net) with four punts placed inside the 20. It was his 12th career game with at least eight punts and his first such outing since Oct. 14, 2018 against Baltimore (nine punts). In the second quarter, he placed a 52-yard punt at Jacksonville's five-yard line.

➢ At Atlanta (9/29), punted five times for a 45-yard average and a 44.6-yard net average with all five of his punts placed inside the 20. It was the seventh time in his career he placed at least five punts inside the 20 in a game. He booted a 50-yard punt to pin Atlanta on the five-yard line in the third quarter, and in the fourth quarter, he placed the ball at their two-yard line with a 33-yard punt. With his 158th game in a Titans uniform, he passed Keith Bulluck (157) for eighth place on the team's all-time career games played list.

➢ At Denver (10/13), punted nine times for a 47.1-yard gross average and a 41.8-yard net average with eight of his nine punts placed inside the 20. He tied the NFL record with eight punts placed inside the 20 in a game. The only previous NFL players to accomplish the feat were Pittsburgh's Mark Royals (Nov. 6, 1994) and Jacksonville's Bryan Barker (Nov. 14, 1999). He became the second player in franchise history to reach 800 career punts (801) with the team, joining Craig Hentrich (861).

➢ Against the Los Angeles Chargers (10/20), punted twice for a 42.0-yard average (42.0 net) with both punts placed inside the 20. He pinned the Chargers on their own six-yard line with a 34-yard punt in the second quarter. He also completed his first NFL passing attempt on a fake punt in the first quarter. On a fourth-and-eight, he threw the ball to Kevin Byard for 11 yards and a first down. He played in his 161st career game with the Titans to pass Ray Childress (160) for sixth place on the team's all-time career games played list.

➢ Against Tampa Bay (10/27), averaged 49.6 yards (40.6 net) on five punts with a long of 61 yards and one punt placed inside the 20. He also recorded a rushing attempt on a fake field goal but was unable to convert.

➢ Against Kansas City (11/10), averaged 51.0 gross yards on four punts, including a 65-yard punt in the third quarter, and placed two punts inside the 20. His 49.8-yard net average was the second-highest net average of his career (50.2 vs. Miami on Oct. 8, 2017) and tied for the second-highest net average in franchise history (49.8 by Greg Montgomery vs. San Diego on Sept. 19, 1993; minimum four punts). He pinned the Chiefs on their own eight-yard line with a 41-yard punt in the first quarter and backed up the Chiefs at their own four-yard line with a 56-yard punt late in the second quarter.

➢ Against Jacksonville (11/24), averaged 44.0 gross yards on three punts (45.7 net), including a 35-yard punt to pin the Jaguars on their six-yard line in the first quarter.

➢ At Indianapolis (12/1), averaged 48.8 gross yards and 42.4 net yards on five punts. He placed four of his five punts inside the 20. He boomed a 65-yard punt in the second quarter and delivered a 62-yard punt in the third quarter to help pin the Colts on their own 12-yard line.

➢ At Oakland (12/8), averaged 51.0 gross yards and 45.0 net yards on two punts.

➢ Against Houston (12/15), averaged 48.3 gross yards and 48.3 net yards on three punts with one punt placed inside the 20. He also attempted a pass on a fake punt, but it was incomplete.

➢ Named to his third consecutive Pro Bowl on Dec. 17.

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), averaged 42.7 gross yards and 39.7 net yards on seven punts with one punt placed inside the 20.

➢ Named first-team Associated Press All-Pro on Jan. 3.

➢ At New England (1/4), averaged 45.8 gross yards and 42.0 net yards on six punts, including a postseason career-high four punts placed inside the 20. He booted a 58-yard punt to the one-yard line in the final minute of play, and on the ensuing play, the Titans returned an interception for a touchdown to seal the victory. He pinned the Patriots on the seven-yard line with a 36-yard punt in the third quarter.

CLICK FOR COMPLETE BIO

Kicker Ryan Succop (6-2, 218) is in his 11th NFL season and his sixth campaign with the Titans in 2019. He was signed by the Titans as a free agent on Sept. 1, 2014.

Succop's 2019 season ended when he was placed on injured reserve on Dec. 18. He battled through injuries throughout the 2019 offseason and began the regular season on injured reserve. He was activated to the roster prior to Week 9 and played six games before landing again on injured reserve.

The franchise's fifth all-time leading scorer and the club's second all-time leader in career accuracy made 26 of his 30 field goal attempts in 2018. His 26 field goals and 106 points were the third-highest totals of his career, and his 86.7 percent success rate ranked third his career for a single season. He also converted 28 of 31 extra points and booted 45 of his 72 kickoffs for touchbacks (62.5 percent).

Succop set career highs in 2017 with 35 field goals and 42 attempts. He added 31 extra points on 33 attempts to set a career high with 136 points—a total that tied Al Del Greco's 1998 franchise record. Succop also booted 47 touchbacks on 80 kickoffs (58.8 percent).

During the 2017 campaign, Succop set the NFL record for most consecutive field goals made from inside 50 yards. His streak, which began in 2014, lasted 56 attempts. The previous league benchmark was 46 such kicks by Atlanta's Matt Bryant from 2013–2015.

In 2016, Succop made 22 of his 24 field goal attempts, with his only misses coming from 51 and 58 yards. His 91.7 percent rate was the best single-season performance of his career and the third-best percentage in franchise history (92.3 by Rob Bironas in 2010 and 92.3 by Al Del Greco in 1998). Succop's percentage ranked third in the NFL in 2016 behind only Justin Tucker (97.4) and Matt Bryant (91.9).

During his second season in Tennessee, Succop connected on 14 of his 16 field goal attempts and 29 of his 31 extra point attempts to total 71 points. His 87.5 percent success rate on field goals set a personal best and ranked as the sixth-highest figure in franchise history.

In 2014, he set a then-career high by making 86.4 percent of his field goal attempts. He was 19-of-22 and also connected on all 27 of his extra point attempts.

Succop's previous five seasons were spent with the Kansas City Chiefs, who chose him with the last pick of the 2009 NFL Draft (256th overall).

In his career with the Chiefs, he posted four 100-point seasons and made 81.0 percent (119-147) of his field goal attempts. Over his final three years there (2011-13), 52 percent of his kickoffs resulted in touchbacks, a number that ranked 11th in the NFL during that span.

In 2013, he tallied career highs for points (118) and touchbacks (47). He also posted the second-best percentage of his career for field goals made inside of 50 yards, connecting on 87.5 percent (21-24) of those attempts. During his Chiefs career, he produced five game-winning kicks.

A native of Hickory, N.C., Succop played in 50 games for the University of South Carolina Gamecocks, hitting 49 of 69 field goals (71.0%) and converting 104 of 106 PATs. His 251 points made up the second-highest total in school history.

2019 Notes:

- Placed on injured reserve on Sept. 4.
- Activated to the 53-man roster from injured reserve on Nov. 2.
- At Carolina (11/3), made his season debut. He made both extra point attempts and missed three field goal attempts.
- Against Kansas City (11/10), made three of four extra point attempts.
- Against Jacksonville (11/24), connected on all six extra point attempts. His six extra points tied for the most by a kicker for the team since 1999 and were the most in a game since Succop had six against the Jaguars on Dec. 6, 2015.
- At Indianapolis (12/1), made his only field goal attempt (31 yards) and all four extra point attempts.
- At Oakland (12/8), made all six extra point attempts. He missed his only field goal attempt.
- Against Houston (12/15), made all three extra point attempts and had his only field goal attempt blocked.
- Placed on injured reserve on Dec. 18.

CONSECUTIVE FIELD GOALS

Ryan Succop began 2017 by extending his streak to 19 consecutive successful field goals, including every attempt over the final 10 games of 2016. The streak came to an end on Sept. 10.

The streak was the second-longest of his career, behind only a 22-kick streak in 2011 as a member of the Kansas City Chiefs. It also qualifies as tied for the fifth-longest streak of its kind in franchise history.

From the final three games of the 2014 campaign through the first eight games of 2015, Succop made 15 consecutive field goals to record what is now the eighth-longest streak in franchise history.

Longest streaks of field goal attempts without a miss, franchise history:

	Kicker	Season(s)	Consecutive Field Goals
1.	Rob Bironas	2011–2012	20

MORE TITANS SPECIALISTS

7 - K GREG JOSEPH (6-0, 210, 2nd Year, Florida Atlantic)

➢ Greg Joseph was signed by the Titans during Week 16 of the 2019 season.

➢ Joseph entered the NFL as an undrafted college free agent in 2018 with the Miami Dolphins.

➢ He was waived by the Dolphins following his rookie training camp and then signed to the Cleveland Browns roster after Week 2. In 14 games with the Browns in 2018, he converted 17 of 20 field goal attempts, including 11 for 11 inside of 40 yards.

➢ Joseph played four seasons at Florida Atlantic, where he connected on 57 of 82 career field goal attempts (69.5 percent).

➢ Born in Johannesburg, South Africa, his family moved to Florida when he was seven years old, and he attended high school in Delray Beach, Fla.

2019 Notes:

➢ Against New Orleans (12/22), made his Titans debut and made all four of his extra point attempts. He added a special teams tackle.

➢ At Houston (12/29), made all five of his extra point attempts and sent all six of his kickoffs into the end zone for touchbacks.

➢ At New England (1/4), connected on both of his extra point attempts and placed three of his four kickoffs in the end zone for touchbacks.

TITANS TIDBITS: OFF-THE-FIELD NOTES

LB DAREN BATES

➢ In 2018, Bates and NFL defensive end Armonty Bryant opened AstroKids Gym in Austin, Texas. The facility offers children's classes and camps based upon proprioceptive learning.

➢ Bates is a Memphis native and a huge Memphis Grizzlies fan.

➢ For the My Cause, My Cleats campaign, Bates has worn specially designed cleats featuring the words "American Heart Association" to raise awareness for the organization's life-saving mission. His mother, Weslynn Bates, was a heart transplant recipient and lived some wonderful years following her surgery. She sadly passed away in 2015 at the age of 56.

➢ Bates is a tattoo enthusiast and has 107 tattoos.

RB/FB KHARI BLASINGAME

➢ Blasingame enjoys playing the saxophone.

➢ He originally started his Vanderbilt career at linebacker before transitioning to running back as a sophomore.

➢ After his football career, his goal is to become the CEO of a hospital or health care system and then focus on improving health care outcomes for disadvantaged populations.

LS BEAU BRINKLEY

➢ Brinkley's father, Mike, was an All-American defensive end and long snapper at Missouri Valley College. He taught Beau the skill of long snapping when he was just seven years old. Beau's football idol growing up was Kansas City Chiefs long snapper Kendall Gammon.

➢ Brinkley raced four-wheelers in the Extreme Dirt Track Racing Series while growing up in Missouri. He traveled the country competing in both motor cross and flat track competitions and won a flat track regional title in 2005.

➢ An avid golfer, Brinkley won the 2018 Pepsi Tournament C Flight Championship in Brookfield, Mo.

➢ In June 2015, Brinkley participated in the Nashville Sports Council Golf Tournament at Gaylord Springs Golf Course. On the par-3 eighth hole, he sunk a hole-in-one to win a barrel of Jack Daniel's Tennessee whiskey.

WR A.J. BROWN

➢ Brown was selected in the 19th round of the 2016 Major League Baseball Draft by the San Diego Padres as a centerfielder and he participated in the team's extended spring training program each summer from 2016-18.

➢ He has a dog, Bentley Juan Brown, and runs an Instagram account for him @bentleyjuan1.

➢ During a pre-draft visit to San Francisco, Brown was able to link up and work out with Hall of Fame NFL receiver and fellow Mississippian Jerry Rice. Rice took Brown on the horse trail at Edgewood Park in Redwood City, known as one of Rice's training sites, where the pair ran hills as part of their work out. Brown's hometown Starkville, Miss., and Rice's hometown Crawford, Miss., are a 30-minute drive apart.

LB JAYON BROWN

➢ Brown went to the same California high school, Long Beach Poly, as Titans teammate Jurrell Casey. Brown's older brother, Juwuan, was Jurrell's teammate there.

➢ Former Long Beach Poly and New England Patriots star Willie McGinest is a close friend of the Brown family.

➢ Brown's younger brother, Joshua, is a defensive end at the University of Arizona, and his two older brothers also played college football. Jason played linebacker at Idaho, while Juwuan was a defensive lineman at Southern Oregon.

CB MALCOLM BUTLER

➢ In February 2017, the production company Narrative Capital acquired the rights to the story of Butler for a film tentatively titled "The Secondary."

➢ Prior to securing a rookie free agent tryout with the Patriots in 2014, Butler was operating the fryolator at a Popeye's restaurant.

S KEVIN BYARD

TITANS TIDBITS: THE BEST OF TITANS OFF-THE-FIELD NOTES

Philadelphia to Atlanta. Although it was a financial struggle, Stanley worked long hours to make sure her children received what they needed. Byard claims he and his older brother "had to grow up really fast" as they helped their mother with taking care of the younger kids in the family.

➢ The Titans had an inside track in their scouting of Byard. Titans general manager Jon Robinson received glowing reports on Byard from his friend and MTSU recruiting coordinator Steve Ellis. When Robinson was a linebackers coach at Nicholls State, Ellis was one of his pupils, and the two remained close through the years. Additionally, Patrick Callaway, college scout for the Titans, was Byard's high school teammate.

➢ Byard says his football role models are Ed Reed, Brian Dawkins and Troy Polamalu.

DT JURRELL CASEY

➢ A fixture in the community, Casey was twice voted Tennessee Titans Walter Payton Man of the Year (2016, 2018), which recognizes players for excellence on and off the field. Casey is a regular at Titans community events and also serves as the spokesperson for United Way of Metropolitan Nashville. Casey and his wife, Ryann, established The Casey Fund, a non-profit dedicated to raising money for established re-entry programs, inner-city youth programs, mentoring and halfway houses. Ryann is a lawyer working in the Nashville Public Defender's Office. More information about The Casey Fund is available through their social media accounts: @caseyfund99 on Facebook and @TheCaseyFund on Twitter and Instagram.

➢ In 2019, Casey was named a finalist for the Mary Catherine Strobel Direct Service Volunteer Award, which recognizes Middle Tennessee volunteers for their efforts in the community.

➢ Casey has served as a spokesperson for United Way of Metropolitan Nashville since 2017.

➢ Casey has a strong partnership with Project Return Tennessee, Free Hearts and Purpose Prep Academy. Casey's wife is on Purpose Prep Academy's school board.

➢ When he was younger, family members, friends and teammates called him "Tut-Tut," a nickname he earned from his aunt as a small child because she said he walked like a turtle.

➢ When he was in high school, his older brother, Jurray, was convicted of first-degree murder. Despite the turmoil it caused, Jurrell credits his brother for helping him re-focus on becoming a better football player and student.

➢ Casey calls his mother, Collette Burns, a cafeteria worker in the Long Beach Unified School District, "the inspiration in my life" for how hard she worked to provide for Jurrell and his siblings.

➢ Casey and teammate Wesley Woodyard coach a women's flag football team that is comprised of wives and significant others of Titans players.

T JACK CONKLIN

➢ After not receiving a single Division I scholarship offer, Conklin began his time at Michigan State as a preferred walk-on in 2012. He impressed enough in his redshirt season to earn a scholarship in the spring of 2013.

➢ At Plainwell (Mich.) High School, Conklin's head coach was his father, Darren Conklin, who once was a walk-on at Michigan under Wolverines head coach Bo Schembechler.

➢ His mother, Jennifer Jackson, was an All-American swimmer at the University of Michigan.

➢ Conklin's grandfather, Ron Jackson, was a professional baseball player. He played first base for the Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox.

➢ Conklin traveled to Australia in 2015 to participate in Michigan State's study abroad International Summer Sports Program.

OLB KAMALEI CORREA (pronounced KAH-mah-lay kor-AY-uh)

➢ Correa attended St. Louis School in Honolulu, Hawaii, where he played football for two seasons with current Titans teammate Marcus Mariota.

➢ Correa grew up a huge fan of the Green Bay Packers all the way from Honolulu, Hawaii.

DB DANE CRUIKSHANK (last name pronounced CROOK-shank)

➢ Cruikshank credits his grandparents and his mother for his success in life. "My grandparents have provided for their whole family, and they've helped everyone in the family be successful at whatever they choose to do. My mom, (Beverley Jackson, a hair stylist) she's been able to raise her kids by working hard and never taking days off. She loves us and gives us everything we need."

➢ He lists owning his own business as a goal on his bucket list. He would one day like to open his own training facility.

WR COREY DAVIS

➢ Davis and his six siblings survived a tough economic upbringing in Wheaton, Ill. While he has always maintained a loving relationship with his parents, Olasheni Timson and Michelle Davis, he made the decision as a high school junior to move into the home of Robin and Dan Graham, who became his legal guardians. Dan, Corey Davis' youth football coach, was an offensive lineman for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. His son, Ryan Graham, played youth and high school football with Davis and currently plays quarterback at Northern Illinois.

➢ Davis' brother, Titus, played football at Central Michigan and was signed by the Chargers as a rookie free agent in 2015. Titus also spent time with the Jets, Bills and Bears.

➢ One of Davis' favorite quotes is "Never die easy" by Walter Payton, who used the saying as the title to his autobiography.

OL NATE DAVIS

➢ Growing up, Davis was 'always a pretty big kid.' He played on the offensive or defensive line during Pop Warner, and estimates that in the fourth grade he weighed around 200 pounds.

➢ Davis was invited to the 2019 Senior Bowl, which he credits for helping him during the draft process. He went head-to-head with defensive linemen from larger conferences, and as an athlete from a smaller conference, he credits his performance at the Senior Bowl for helping put his name into the conversation ahead of the draft.

WR RASHARD DAVIS

➢ Davis was drafted No. 1 overall by the D.C. Defenders in the 2019 XFL Draft.

➢ He was a member of the Philadelphia Eagles practice squad when the team won Super Bowl LII.

DE MATT DICKERSON

➢ Dickerson's father, Clarence, played college football at Henderson State (Ark.).

➢ He has a twin sister named Megan.

G JAMIL DOUGLAS

➢ First name is pronounced "Juh-MILL."

➢ Douglas was on the New England Patriots practice squad when the team won Super Bowl LI.

LB RASHAAN EVANS

➢ Upon being drafted by Tennessee, Evans was reunited with former Crimson Tide teammate Derrick Henry. Henry phoned Evans immediately after he was selected with the 22nd pick to congratulate him.

➢ Growing up in rural Alabama, Evans would chase wild horses to work on improving his speed and athleticism.

➢ Evans' father, Alan, was a star running back at Auburn. Evans' mother, Chenavis, received four degrees from Auburn, including her doctorate. Evans' older sister was a cheerleader at Auburn, and despite the family ties including his cousins attending Auburn, Evans stuck with his gut and instead chose Alabama.

TE ANTHONY FIRKSER

➢ Firkser grew up playing basketball and both roller and ice hockey at elite levels and didn't begin playing football until his sophomore year of high school.

RB DAVID FLUELLEN

➢ Fluellen's favorite personal moment in sports growing up was his first touchdown when he was eight years old. He strip-sacked the quarterback, picked up the fumble and ran it in.

➢ He is married to Nashville TV anchor/reporter Desiree Wiley, who works for NBC affiliate WSMV-4.

➢ He hosted the first annual David Fluellen Football Camp in June 2018 at his high school alma mater in New York, Lockport High School.

TITANS TIDBITS: THE BEST OF TITANS OFF-THE-FIELD NOTES

OLB REGGIE GILBERT

➢ His sister, Vicki Baugh, played for the WNBA's Tulsa Shock (2014-15) and San Antonio Stars (2016).

➢ As part of My Cause My Cleats, he wore cleats to raise awareness for those, including his aunt, who have lupus.

➢ His four seasons at the University of Arizona (2012-15) were the winningest four seasons in program history, as the Wildcats accumulated 33 wins and went to four bowl games.

RB DERRICK HENRY

➢ In high school, Henry broke the 51-year-old national high school rushing record with 12,124 yards after compiling 4,261 rushing yards as a senior.

➢ Henry sealed an Iron Bowl victory with an epic, career-best 271 rushing yards against the Tigers. He put the Crimson Tide on his back by carrying the ball a school-record 46 times. His 271 rushing yards were 11 more yards than Auburn had in total offense (260). He ended the game with 14 consecutive rushes to run out the clock.

➢ His late grandmother, Gladys Henry, helped raise him and played a key inspirational role in his development. In 2018, he fulfilled a promise to her and graduated from Alabama with his bachelor's degree. He has a portrait tattoo of her on his chest.

➢ Gladys Henry nicknamed him "Shocka" as a baby because he "shocked the whole family" when he was born.

➢ Henry has been growing out his hair since he was in elementary school.

WR CODY HOLLISTER

➢ Hollister's twin brother, Jacob, was a tight end at Wyoming and was also signed by the New England Patriots along with Cody as rookie free agents in 2017. The two brothers were teammates with the Patriots for the 2017 and 2018 campaigns. Jacob was traded to the Seattle Seahawks during the 2019 offseason.

DB AMANI HOOKER

➢ Hooker was named a finalist for Minnesota's Mr. Football in 2015. Yet he had just two FBS scholarship offers. When the in-state university showed hesitancy after multiple workouts, Hooker knew he belonged at Iowa saying, "love who loves me."

➢ Amani's brother, Quinton, played basketball for North Dakota and helped take the team to the NCAA tournament his senior year. Quinton was Minnesota's Mr. Basketball in high school and currently plays basketball professionally in France.

WR ADAM HUMPHRIES

➢ Humphries was originally a rookie tryout invitee with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers following the 2015 NFL Draft. Titans general manager Jon Robinson was a member of the Bucs player personnel department at the time and saw the 5-foot-11-inch wideout grind it out in practice and eventually earn a spot on the team's 53-man roster. "Humph came in as a tryout and won a spot on the 90-man roster," said Robinson. "He was a tough guy to cover all through training camp and he kept working and working and working. I've always had an affinity for him and liked his style. He's earned everything he's got."

➢ Clemson head football coach Dabo Swinney took a visit to Humphries' high school, Dorman, before the 2011 season to scout eventual signee Charone Peake during a basketball game. But once the game began, Swinney couldn't help but notice Dorman's 5-foot-11 point guard running the show. "I go watch a basketball game at Dorman High School to see Charone Peake, and I'm going, 'Dang, who's this point guard?'" Swinney said. "And I've got Coach (Dave) Gutshall going, 'Well that's the best football player I've got on the team.' And I'm like, 'Really? We need to watch this guy a little bit.' He played corner, he played receiver, he played running back, he played quarterback. He was the best football player on the team. Adam Humphries was his name. I don't think he had any offers. So we offer the guy, 'Well, we're only offering the guy to get Charone Peake. No, no, no. We want Humphries."

CB ADOREE' JACKSON

➢ Jackson was a long jumper and sprinter on USC's track team in the springs of 2015 and 2016, winning the Pac-12 outdoor long jump title both years (and placing second in the Pac-12 100 meters in 2016) and earning All-American status both years after twice placing fifth in the NCAA long jump. He also placed 10th in the long jump during the U.S. Olympic Trials.

➢ Jackson lists his parents, Chris and Vianca Jackson, as the people that inspire him the most. "They've always steered me in the right direction. All of their experiences and guidance helped get me where I'm at."

➢ Vianca Jackson, a survivor of breast cancer, served as the team's Honorary 12th Titan prior to the team's 2017 Breast Cancer Awareness Game (Oct. 16).

➢ Jackson's father, Chris Jackson, is the ultimate grill master and can be found at Titans home games smoking turkey legs, Cornish hams, chicken, rabbits, alligator and frog legs for a pre-game tailgate among family and friends, as well as a post-game meal with players and coaches. He makes all of his own rubs and sauces and has been cooking since 1984.

➢ Jackson, business partner James Moore, and Jay Levine co-founded Kor Media Entertainment (KME), a Los Angeles-based entertainment agency under the Warner Brothers Digital umbrella. Their tagline is "Where Creatives Come to Play" and their goal is to create culture relevance for both creators and brands through interactive and labs which a focus on gaming and esports.

➢ Jackson is a Reese's Peanut Butter Cups enthusiast. He names creator Harry Burnett Reese as a historical person he would have loved to meet. "He's a genius. That's by far and away my favorite candy. I eat that like it ain't nothing."

➢ Jackson watched the movie "Space Jam" continuously as a child to the point he memorized most of the movie.

DL AUSTIN JOHNSON

➢ When Johnson was drafted by the Titans, he became a teammate once again of DaQuan Jones, a former Penn State defensive lineman who was drafted by the Titans in 2014. The two remained close, and Jones was among Johnson's family and friends surrounding him on draft night.

➢ Johnson's wife, Danika, is a former LFL MVP and is currently the general manager and head coach of the Nashville Knights football team.

➢ The son of Austin and Tammy Johnson, he has two older sisters, Brandi and Erika, and one younger sister, Kennedy. Kennedy was a forward on the Michigan State women's basketball team.

C BEN JONES

➢ Jones switched from jersey #61 to #60 prior to his senior season at Georgia, to honor his father, Steve, a former collegiate star, who was killed in a helicopter crash when he was 10 years old.

➢ Jones' pregame ritual consists of walking barefoot on the field "to get a feel for the turf." The routine began before one game with his brother in high school and after enjoying success that night, it has continued ever since.

➢ When he was 10 years old, Jones suffered a blow to the head with a baseball bat. The impact caused a blood clot to develop on his brain and fractured his skull. The injury kept him out of all athletic activity for a year.

➢ In 2017, Jones established The Jones Mission Fund at The Community Foundation to provide at-risk youth with opportunities they might otherwise not have.

➢ During the past two offseasons, Jones and his wife, Alex, have hosted the Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot. The two events raised more than $182,000.

➢ Jones' brother, Clay, played baseball for the University of Alabama and then was drafted by the Detroit Tigers.

DL DaQUAN JONES

➢ Jones has a reputation as an upbeat, positive influence. "I've always had that positive mindset, even when things weren't as good," he says. "The guys laugh at me sometimes because I'm always smiling ... It's not that I'm happy all the time, but I just feel like in today's world, if you let anything get you down, it will. The smallest thing will turn into the biggest problem if you let it, so I just try my best to keep a positive mindset."

➢ Jones majored in criminal justice at Penn State and spent a portion of his 2013 summer as an intern observing the Spring Township Police Department near State College.

➢ Jones entered the Penn State program after being rated the second-best offensive lineman in the nation during his playing days at Johnson City High School. He switched to the other side of the ball and made an immediate impact as a true freshman.

➢ Jones lists his father, Steve, as the most inspirational person in his life. Steve raised DaQuan as a single father and one of his father's greatest traits is that he works extremely hard in everything he does. Steve works as an executive chef at Cornell University.

TITANS TIDBITS: THE BEST OF TITANS OFF-THE-FIELD NOTES

K GREG JOSEPH

➢ Joseph was born in Johannesburg, South Africa, where he lived until his family moved to Florida when he was seven years old.

➢ Joseph played for the same youth soccer club as United States men's national team forward Jozy Altidore. Altidore is four years older than Joseph, and so the two never played on the same team. However, the two players reunited during the 2019 offseason when the U.S. national team visited Cleveland in late June.

T/G DENNIS KELLY

➢ In May 2019, Kelly received his MBA from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University.

➢ Kelly is an avid professional wrestling fan that does not let the opportunity pass him by whenever a live WWE show is in town. He lists the Undertaker as the one person in the world he would like to have dinner with.

➢ Kelly's brother, Tim, played football at Eastern Illinois and is currently the offensive coordinator for the Houston Texans.

P BRETT KERN

➢ Kern's father, Cal, is a former professional soccer goalie.

➢ Kern is an avid golfer that sports a +1 handicap. He picked the game up late in his high school years and caddied for three summers at Inverness Golf Club while in college. The course is located in Toledo, Ohio, and has hosted PGA and NCAA Championships. In 2011, Kern competed in The Vinny, a local golf fundraising tournament hosted by singers Vince Gill and Amy Grant, and finished fourth in the event.

OLB HAROLD LANDRY III

➢ Landry could have entered the NFL Draft following his 16.5-sack junior season at Boston College. However, he chose to stay in school and received his degree in communications in December 2017.

➢ He and his son, Greyson, share the same June 5 birthday.

T TAYLOR LEWAN (pronounced leh-WAHN)

➢ Lewan chose to wear jersey number 77 at Michigan and then at the pro level because of the legacy of Wolverine tackles who have donned the number, including Jake Long and Jon Jansen.

➢ His father, Dave, was a defensive lineman at the University of Minnesota.

RB DION LEWIS

➢ Lewis credits his parents, Leroy (former construction worker) and Linda (social worker) as the biggest influences on his career. "Growing up, they were hard on me and they made sure I stayed out of trouble," Lewis said. "That helped me out a lot later on in life."

➢ Lewis attended the University of Pittsburgh, but he was offered a scholarship from just two other schools, Miami (Ohio) and Tulane.

LB DAVID LONG JR.

➢ David's father, David Sr., is a former professional boxer who went 12-5-2 as a heavyweight. He once fought future world champ Deontay Wilder.

➢ During the offseason, Long still uses on-the-bell, three-minute-round boxing training to focus on his mental awareness. In 2018, Long Jr. went into the ring with headgear against his old man for the first time. They went for three 90-second rounds. "He busted up my lip, but it was fun," Long Jr. says. "He was really iffy that I knew how to throw my hands for real. It was just jabs, but it's grown-man strength."

QB MARCUS MARIOTA (pronounced MAHR-ee-OH-tah)

➢ In 2016, Mariota launched of his Motiv8 Foundation, which serves the communities of Middle Tennessee, Eugene and Honolulu. The Motiv8 Foundation aims to create and support economic and educational programs and athletic activities to provide an alternative outlet for youth of troubled neighborhoods and backgrounds. The Foundation's programming centers around the tools for success that will allow more children to fully matriculate through grade-school and eventually attend college. Since its launch, the Motiv8 Foundation has awarded hundreds of thousands of dollars towards healthy lifestyle programming, and will continue to fulfill its mission through signature programs, strategic partnerships and fundraising initiatives.

➢ In 2018, the Motiv8 Foundation launched the Ardel Deppe Community Football Coach Award to recognize three Hawaii football coaches (one top winner) from any level of play who best exemplify Marcus' grandfather's spirit of going the extra mile and giving back to the community.

➢ He is the oldest son of Toa and Alana Mariota. His younger brother, Matthew, is a tight end at Oregon.

➢ Mariota credits much of his athletic success to playing soccer in his youth. By the time he was eight years old, he was wearing a soccer jersey with the number 8, and he has kept the jersey number ever since then.

CB CHRIS MILTON

➢ Milton is related to former NFL running back Tashard Choice.

➢ Milton's family is close with the family of Pro Football Hall of Famer Champ Bailey. When Milton was preparing for the NFL, he reached out to Bailey, and they trained together during the weeks leading up to the draft.

➢ Milton enjoys fishing in his free time.

G/T KEVIN PAMPHILE (pronounced POM-feel)

➢ Pamphile has been active in sending school supplies and hygiene kits to students in his parents' homeland of Haiti. In February of 2017, he made his first trip to Haiti to donate goods and spend time with children and families battling challenging circumstances.

➢ In July 2017, Pamphile returned to Haiti to host a youth football camp for about 250 children.

➢ For his work in the Tampa area and in Haiti, Pamphile was the Buccaneers' 2016 winner of the Ed Block Courage Award.

TE MyCOLE PRUITT

➢ The name MyCole has a unique origin. Pruitt's mother's name is Colette. Cole means "people's victory" in Greek baby names. She named him MyCole for My-Victory. MyCole is his mother's victory

WR KALIF RAYMOND

➢ Raymond was a dual-sport collegiate athlete, competing in football as well as track and field during his senior season at Holy Cross. He placed second in the 100-meter dash at the 2015 New England Outdoor Championship with a time of 10.71 seconds.

CB LOGAN RYAN

➢ Logan and his wife, Ashley, are the founders of The Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation (ryananimalfoundation.org). RARF works with animal welfare organizations to promote adoption and provide grants and educational opportunities.

➢ Every month on the 26th—the day corresponding to his jersey number—he posts a photo on social media with a dog that is in need of adoption along with the hashtag #ryansmonthlyrescue.

➢ In June 2017, Ryan surprised his big brother, Jordan, by paying off his student loans for his 29th birthday. Logan cut a check for $82,000 to the American Education Services to cover Jordan's loans from earning his engineering degree from Drexel University. "My man got accepted to college, graduated with honors, and now works as an engineer. He did everything the right way and still lived with a ridiculous amount of student loan debt. The system is broke and makes no sense. I'm fortunate and blessed to be able to take care of that for him."

➢ When Ryan decided to leave Rutgers and enter the NFL Draft after his redshirt junior season in 2012, he made a promise to his parents that after his rookie year, he would return to school and earn his degree. Ryan kept his promise and graduated in the spring of 2014 with a degree in labor relations and a minor in psychology.

G RODGER SAFFOLD

➢ Saffold is the owner of competitive "Call of Duty" and "Fortnite" teams called Rise Nation. He invested in the video game industry in April 2014.

➢ His father, Rodger II, played football at the University of Iowa in the mid-1970s.

➢ Rodger and his wife Asia grew up on the same street as eight-year olds in Ohio. The childhood friend's romance didn't begin until quite awhile later when the two re-connected on Facebook during Saffold's second-year with the Rams.

TITANS TIDBITS: THE BEST OF TITANS OFF-THE-FIELD NOTES

WR TAJAÉ SHARPE

➢ Sharpe's grandmother, Cozy Little, is a breast cancer survivor who was initially diagnosed in 2001. She was honored as the 12th Titan prior to a 2016 home game against the Cleveland Browns in conjunction with the team's Breast Cancer Awareness Month efforts.

➢ Sharpe's family members nicknamed him "Show," which is short for "Showtime."

DL JEFFERY SIMMONS

➢ During college Simmons was a two-time member of the SEC Academic Honor Roll.

➢ Simmons' brother, Dylan Bradley, played football at Southern Miss and then spent time with the Minnesota Vikings. His uncle, Jason Hatcher, played 10 total seasons with the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins.

➢ Away from football, Simmons enjoys fishing and spending time outdoors.

CB LESHAUN SIMS

➢ He was commonly referred to as "Swis" in college because for his first college game the name on the back of his jersey was upside down. The nickname stuck, but some Titans teammates refer to him now as "Mouse" due to his quiet nature.

➢ Prior to Sims, no prior student-athlete from Andre Agassi Prep in Las Vegas, Nev., had ever earned an athletic scholarship. When he was a high school freshman, the Stars played eight-man football in the public charter school's first year with a football team. They moved to 11-man football during his sophomore year, and by his senior season, the team won a league title.

TE JONNU SMITH (pronounced JAH-new)

➢ Smith credits his mother, Karen, for his successes. Jonnu's father passed away as a result of a tow truck accident when he was four years old and his mother raised all six children by herself.

➢ Smith endured a lot of challenges as a youngster in Philadelphia and after his brother was arrested and one of his friends was killed on the streets, a decison needed to be made. His family didn't have the financial means to just uproot, so for his own safety Jonnu moved in with his mother's sister and brother-in-law, Darla and Mike Kirkland, in Ocala, Fla. He started playing high school football and even though he was far from a touted recruit, he earned a scholarship to Florida International where his play took off.

➢ Smith's best friend Willie "Quasim" Jefferson tragically died from a gun shot in October 2016. Jonnu gave his son the middle name Quasim in honor of him.

CB TYE SMITH

➢ In the spring of 2018, Smith hosted his first "Simple Greatness" youth football clinic at St. Augustine University in his hometown of Raleigh, N.C.

➢ In May 2019, Smith held the second annual Simple Greatness Football Camp, hosting 300 kids for the free camp in Raleigh.

➢ He has his own website, www.simplegns.com.

K RYAN SUCCOP (pronounced SUCK-up)

➢ Succop was given the title "Mr. Irrelevant" after being selected with the final pick (256th overall) of the 2009 NFL Draft.

➢ Succop is an avid golfer that sports a +2.2 handicap. He has played prestigious golf courses like Pine Valley, Silverleaf and Pinehurst.

➢ Succop caddied for his friend, Wesley Bryan, at the 2016 Nashville Golf Open, a Web.com event at Nashville Golf & Athletic Club. Succop and Bryan went to school together at the University of South Carolina, ➢ Succop registered 104 career goals and was a four-time all-conference and two-time all-state soccer selection at Hickory (N.C.) High School.

➢ Succop handled both the kicking and punting duties during his sophomore and junior seasons at South Carolina.

QB RYAN TANNEHILL (pronounced TAN-uh-hill)

➢ Ryan founded the Tannehill's A.C.E.S. (Achieving Community Educations Success) program with wife, Lauren, which consisted of 17 sophomores from American Senior High School and is focused on awarding scholarships to the participating students who strive for good grades and took on an active role in their community by hosting monthly events to reward the students and help them give back to the community.

➢ Ryan's father, Tim, played wide receiver at Texas Tech from 1985-87.

S KENNY VACCARO

➢ In 2014, Vaccaro won the Jim Finks Good Guy Award for his cooperation with New Orleans media.

➢ Vaccaro's uncle, A.J. Johnson, played for the Washington Redskins (1989-94) and helped the team win Super Bowl XXVI. He also played a season with the San Diego Chargers (1995).

➢ His younger brother, Kevin, also played at Texas.

OLB CAMERON WAKE

➢ Wake took an unusual route to the NFL. Following his career at Penn State, he signed with the New York Giants as an undrafted free agent. Released by the Giants on June 22, 2005, Wake entered the corporate world and spent 2006 as a mortgage broker. He then resumed his professional football career in Canada with the B.C. Lions.

OLB D'ANDRE WALKER

➢ Prior to the 2019 NFL Draft in Nashville, former Tennessee State University linebacker Christion Abercrombie was chosen to announce the Titans' fifth-round choice. Abercrombie became an inspirational figure in Nashville and around the football world by overcoming a life-threatening injury during the 2018 season and battling through two subsequent brain surgeries. By chance, he announced the Titans' selection of Walker, a friend since age 10 when the two played youth football at Welcome All Park in College Park, Ga.

➢ Walker claims the most inspirational person in his life is his mother, Au'Drea, who worked as a massage therapist to provide for him and his two sisters.

TE DELANIE WALKER

➢ Walker was named the Tennessee Titans Community Man of the Year in 2013 and 2015, due in large part to his tireless work with Mothers Against Drunk Driving. He teamed with MADD to help raise awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving after losing his aunt and uncle in a horrific accident near New Orleans after Super Bowl XLVII. The morning after San Francisco's loss to Baltimore at the Superdome, an alleged drunk driver killed Alice and Bryan Young only hours after Walker hugged Alice and Bryan at the team's postgame party. In addition to his work with MADD, Walker is an ambassador with the Tennessee Governor's Highway Safety Office's "Booze It and Lose It" campaign.

➢ In 2014, Walker established the Delanie Walker Gives Back Foundation (delaniewalker.org) to provide inner city and low-income children with the educational opportunities and resources to reach their full potential and beat the odds.

➢ As a high school senior, he won the Division III 100m (10.6) and long jump (21-5) titles, while also serving as a member of the winning 4x100m relay team at the 2002 Miramonte League Meet.

➢ On Feb. 14, 2015, Walker was inducted into the Central Missouri Athletic Hall of Fame.

LB WESLEY WOODYARD (pronounced WOOD-yard)

➢ Woodyard was the recipient of the 2017 Titans Walter Payton Man of the Year award. He was a three-time nominee for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year while with the Broncos in 2010-11 and 2013.

➢ Woodyard is the co-founder of The 16Ways Foundation, which recognizes an emotional need for at-risk youth. The Foundation works on a national level to develop and implement workshops, seminars, camps, and other activities. Its primary focus is to work with at-risk youth between the ages of 8 and 18 and a secondary focus on adults in employment transition.

➢ In addition to his work with his own foundation, Woodyard has been a tireless advocate for the work of other non-profits, including the ALS Association and Second Harvest Food Bank. For the second year in a row, Woodyard used the NFL's My Cause My Cleats platform to raise awareness and funds for ALS. Woodyard's aunt suffered from ALS leading up to her death, and Woodyard is close to former Titans linebacker Tim Shaw, who was diagnosed with ALS in 2014. Woodyard also serves as the spokesperson for Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee.

➢ Woodyard has been a captain in his first four seasons with the Titans. He joined Hall of Fame running back Floyd Little as the only players in Broncos franchise history to serve as a captain in each of their first six years with the club. In 2004, Woodyard also became the first-ever Kentucky freshman to serve as a team captain.

WE STAND FOR

In 2018, the Titans launched We Stand For as a platform for players, coaches and front office personnel to share personal stories about newsworthy causes and charities that are important to them.

The causes range widely from personal foundations to health research, to programs that equip men, women and children with the proper resources to be successful in all areas of life.

The goal of We Stand For is to create positive dialogue around the community work of the players, bringing attention to the causes that are meaningful in their lives.

Additionally, the club pledged to match charitable contributions of the players up to $250,000.

Among the We Stand For initiatives are the following:

Jurrell Casey — Social injustice reform and leveling the playing field for people in need

TITANS CONTROLLING OWNER AND CO-CHAIRMAN AMY ADAMS STRUNK

"I think our fans have always heard me talk about family. The Titans is a family. To use the words "I Stand For," it wasn't the right ring. If it's someone's passionate, individual cause, it's our cause, too. We're going to get with them, stand with them and help them get that cause out there."

TITANS AWARD $450,000 IN GRANTS

Titans Owner Amy Adams Strunk Distributes $450,000 in Grant Funding to 10 Local Non-Profits as "We Stand For" Campaign Takes Center Stage

by Jim Wyatt, TitansOnline.com
July 30, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – A year ago, the Titans launched the "We Stand For" campaign, designed to bring the public's attention to the causes that are important to the team's players, coaches and executives.

On Tuesday, it was on full display -- along with some big checks handed out by controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk.

Several of the team's leaders, including general manager Jon Robinson, head coach Mike Vrabel and three players – tight end Delanie Walker, linebacker Wesley Woodyard, and defensive lineman Jurrell Casey – were on hand for a community engagement panel at Nissan Stadium, where they discussed the causes that are dear to them.

Then, Amy Adams Strunk handed out $450,000 in grant funding to 10 local non-profit organizations at the end of a luncheon.

"Mike said, "We're all family,' and what they stand for, we stand for," Strunk said. "We want to be a part of the community and be a part of the change, and just be good Samaritans. (Our players) take their feelings about this community (seriously) – they're so strong. And they just want to do what they can to make it a better place. Nashville is great, but we can always be better.

"Today was fun. It was a surprise (to the check recipients) and that made it even more fun. … It just means so much that we have taken on different causes now that maybe we wouldn't have thought about if our players hadn't brought them to us. I think it's a great thing."

The grants handed out on Tuesday ranged from $25,000 to $100,000 and support non-profit organizations in the spaces of education, African American history and culture, social justice, diversionary and re-entry programs, immigrant outreach and domestic violence and sexual assault.

The $100,000 grant recipients:
* National Museum of African American Music
* NAACP Freedom Fund

The $50,000 grant recipients:
* Community Achieves by Metro Nashville Public Schools
* Nashville GRAD

The $25,000 grant recipients:
* Project Return
* Davidson County Drug Court Program (DC4)
* Thistle Farms
* Sexual Assault Center
* Nashville International Center for Empowerment
* Conexion Americas

Grant recipients were selected not only on merit but also based on their affiliation with a cause identified as important to a player, coach or executive through the team's "We Stand For" campaign.

The organization's hope for the "We Stand For" campaign is to foster positive dialogue around the community work of its players and executives and raise awareness for the associated causes. The campaign was launched to give Titans players, coaches and front office a platform to better showcase causes and charities that are important to them, and to foster positive dialogue around their community and the work of their associated charities.

Along with his wife Ryann, the Caseys established the Casey Fund, a nonprofit dedicated to addressing the needs of at-risk youth as well as formerly incarcerated individuals by raising money for re-entry programs, inner-city youth programs, mentoring, and halfway houses.

Casey said the organization's work in the community – and Strunk's generosity – has inspired everyone to do more.

"It's unbelievable," said Casey, the 2018 Titans recipient of the Walter Payton Man of the Year award. "For you to have an owner and an organization to do something this incredible in the community, something we fight for all the time. … For Amy to do something like this, I am baffled, I am speechless. She has done something so amazing it touches my heart down deep."

TITANS RADIO AFFILIATES

Titans Radio brings football to fans across the Mid-South in one of the NFL's largest radio networks, including Nashville flagship 104.5 The Zone.

Play-by-play announcer Mike Keith connection with pro football across the Mid-South dates back to 1996, a year before the Oilers arrived in Tennessee, and he became the "Voice of the Titans" in 1999. Former Titans assistant coach and NFL head coach Dave McGinnis began serving as Titans Radio's color analyst in 2017, while Titans Radio gameday host Rhett Bryan's involvement with the broadcast dates back to 1997. Jonathan Hutton has been a member of the Titans Radio gameday crew since 2014, while Amie Wells has been reporting on the sidelines since 2018.

TITANS ALL ACCESS

The Titans' 30-minute, official magazine-style TV show returns for its 17th season in 2019. Mike Keith and Amie Wells co-host the show, joined by Titans general manager Jon Robinson.

Titans All Access features a variety of long-form stories every week. The show always reviews and previews Titans games, but also shares on-and-off-field stories about the players, coaches and their families. Other Titans All Access staples include one-on-one chats with players and exclusive insight from Robinson, plus Titans news from Titansonline.com senior writer/editor Jim Wyatt.

Titans All Access is shown locally on Nashville's FOX 17 Fridays at 11:05 p.m.; WNAB 58 Saturdays at 3 p.m.; and MyTV 30 Saturdays at 10:30 p.m.

Titans All Access has also been picked up again by affiliates in Memphis, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Jackson, Huntsville, AL and Paducah, KY.

HEAD COACH MIKE VRABEL PRESS CONFERENCE TRANSCRIPT
Sunday, January 5, 2020

(on if playing the Patriots can help the Titans' players who made their playoff debut in games moving forward)

If it helps us play well on the road and prepare for another opponent, a tough opponent, then it will be advantageous. I'm just proud of the way the guys handled the environment, the way they handled the preparation. I thought they were focused and ready to go. We'll need more of that this week.

(on the challenge of recovering from an emotional and physical game)

Well, there is some challenge there. I think when you put a lot into something, like our players did and our coaches did, our guys are going to get some rest. We'll have to get them back in here, treat, lift and decide what we can do in practice on Tuesday, which will be a normal Wednesday for us, and then work our way through the week.

(on if he's open to changing the Titans' weekly plan once he evaluates the health of the players)

Sure, yeah. Having met with Todd (Toriscelli), I may have an idea of where we are at this point of the season. I'm always open to doing those things and doing what's always best for the team.

(on Jayon Brown's injury status)

Sore, like a lot of guys.

(on how far David Long Jr. has come this season)

I mean, we only have so many guys at every position. Our job as coaches is to get everybody ready that goes to the game, those 46 players. Some of them have starting roles, some of them have special teams roles, some of them have backup roles at one position, or at multiple positions. David (Long Jr.) has worked his way in there and tried to understand what to do. There's some things that showed up yesterday that were good, and some things that he'll have to continue to be coached on and he'll have to continue to improve on.

(on how he made the decision to take consecutive penalties to burn time off the clock in the fourth quarter of the Wild Card round against the Patriots)

See how we're playing defensively, how the game's going, how Brett (Kern)'s punting the ball, how we feel we can pin them down there. Just a lot of situations as it relates to do we think that we can stop them? Do we think that that's the right decision in that instance?

(on how it made him feel that Bill Belichick wasn't pleased about the Titans taking penalties to burn the clock)

I can only concentrate on one team. Just trying to do what's best for us each and every week. Sometimes that's the case, and then sometimes I have to do a better job.

(on if he thinks the NFL will change the rule on the clock running after penalties until there is 5:00 remaining in the quarter)

Again, I just try to understand what the rules are and play by them and use them to our advantage where we can.

(on if he feels like the Titans did a bad job of setting the edge in the Wild Card round against the Patriots)

There were times where we, I think off the top of my head, had stunts on or something. Again, that's always critical. That's one of the phases to stopping the run is to be able to set the edge. They found it a few times, but I thought all in all, they ran a few toss cracks that they tried to get out there on the edge. I thought we played them well. I think going back to preseason, that was a play that they had run against us in the game. In general, I think in the first quarter, Jayon (Brown) and Rashaan (Evans) were out there. Later on in the game, I can recall Kenny (Vaccaro) triggering and Logan (Ryan) to stop the toss crack. So, it wasn't all just on the edge. There were some other plays. Again, it was competitive. It could've been better in the run game, but I thought it was good enough to allow us to win.

(on how much he thinks Derrick Henry welcomes getting so many carries and how essential it is for him to do that for the Titans' success)

I think we understand how important his performance, and the offensive line's performance, and the receivers that go in there and get the support players, how important that is to us, especially in the playoffs. I think Derrick (Henry) trains and prepares to be able to handle that load, to carry that load. He's got a certain skillset that's size, strength, durability – those are all great qualities for a running back in January. He'll do everything that he has to get ready and to do whatever it is that we ask him to do in the game plan.

(on if he thinks Derrick Henry is seeing things better)

I think everybody continues to develop so that he's not just a one-style back. He's very unique. There's not that many players or running backs in the league like Derrick (Henry) because there's not that many players in college that are like Derrick. And by that, I just mean a bigger tailback. Going back to guys I played with, or against, whether it was Jerome Bettis – again, it was a different body type, but the size – and Eddie George. Now when you watch college, there's just a different style of back. So, I do think that he's continuing to develop in those multiple run packages or run schemes that we want to run.

(on the value of being able to run when the opposition knows they are going to run)

It's always valuable. It's like on third down, if you can drop back and protect when the other team knows that you're throwing the football, that's a good thing to be able to protect. But also, when you're in the late-game situations in what we'd call four minute, if you can hand the ball off, cover them up, block them and guys can get those first downs that pretty much ice the football game, that's always really positive. To be able to get the first down when we did with Firk (Anthony Firkser), and then to come back and get the first down, we knew there was going to be 15 to 20 seconds left by doing anything.

(on the challenge of facing the Baltimore Ravens)

Number one in most statistical categories. Offensively, near the top in almost all statisitical categories. Defensively, they're long in the secondary, physical. Matthew (Judon)'s playing at a high level. The defensive line is disruptive, they play with their hands, they're hard to move. Offensively, they have the best player in the league who's impossible to tackle. A great scheme. I think on any other day it'd be fun to watch, but not when you're trying to prepare for them and stop them. Greg (Roman) does a fantastic job. They're well-coached, they're physical. It's what the Baltimore Ravens have always been, especially with John (Harbaugh). Fundamentally sound and they're good in the kicking game.

(on the challenge of preparing for the Ravens' offense)

We see it in doses, but not as consistently as they'll run the quarterback. So, when you run the quarterback, everybody has to defend and there's an extra gap in there, there's an extra guy carrying the football. So, you don't have to block them all, you can read one of them. They'll read the four technique, they'll read the five technique, they'll read the end or the outside linebacker. It just is a challenge to make sure that when you're playing option football, that based on what your call is that everybody has responsibilities, and when somebody leaves that responsibility, that's where you give up big plays.

(on if the Titans' passing offense seemed limited in the Wild Card round against the Patriots because they were focused on the run or because it was a tough day for the passing game)

Probably a little bit of both.

(on if Ryan Tannehill's inability to consistently find success passing in the Wild Card round against the Patriots will present a challenge for him to bounce back in the divisional round)

We'll try to do everything we can to win the football game this week. If that's throwing it better, then we'll have to throw it better. If it's to run it better, we'll have to run it better. It's a good defense that we played. Derrick (Henry) was having a lot of success, our offensive line was moving guys off the ball. Again, we like to be as balanced as we possibly could be. We'd also like to win the football game.

(on how much the Ravens' run success will dictate how the Titans' defend the pass in the divisional round)

Sometimes you pull the safety out of the middle of the field, which then cover 4 is basically blitz zero without the blitz. He's (Lamar Jackson) athletic enough to buy time when he has to to move around. He throws the ball from different arm angles. So, it's been impressive just in the few games that I've watched today because you kind of hear about what he's doing, but you've never really watched it. You watched it a little bit just in the crossover games, but then to be able to sit there and watch him just improvise and make plays when there's guys there. Not sure that that's how they drew up the play, but that's what this league's about is guys going out there and making plays. He's a special player.

(on how he thought Adoree' Jackson looked in his first game back from his foot injury)

Good. Tight coverage. Late in the game there, they had to have it, and I thought he was in good, tight coverage – didn't foul. It was a contested catch, and he got a PBU. We'll need everybody available that we can have moving towards Saturday night.

(on if he had ever been a part of a two-minute drill like the Titans had at the end of the first half of the Wild Card round against the Patriots)

Every two-minute drill is different. I just felt like where we were offensively, the fact that where we were getting the ball back, where we had timeouts, that's the way that we chose to attack last night. That could be different going forward, but each game is different. I thought our guys did a nice job. Even when we threw the screen to Derrick (Henry), it was well-blocked, he made a good cut and guys were finishing down the field.

(on the risk of not rushing the quarterback on a Hail Mary attempt and the benefit to dropping 11)

Well, you're trying to figure out if maybe they're trying to get 10 yards and try a long kick, or 15 yards and try a long kick, and that's where you get into situational football. Sometimes you could blitz at the end of the game, or at the end of the half. But I think our guys understood kind of when they transitioned down into the end zone to carry them down, box them out, jump and bat it down. Sometimes, you play that game. We've been successful where we've had some of that defense in and guys have scrambled around for 17 seconds and ended the game, and then there's a tradeoff. Then, sometimes guys will convert and head to the end zone, and then you're going to have to defend a Hail Mary. You kind of go back and forth, but you're figuring out what you're going to do, making sure that the players can execute it in the most critical time in the game.

(on who won the game ball for the Wild Card win against the Patriots)

I just think right now the Titans – I think everybody that played in that game contributed. Rashaan (Evans) was very active, physical. I thought Kenny (Vaccaro) played safety how I envisioned safety being played. He was physical, threw his body around for his team. Offensively, we got a lot of great efforts up front, came off the football. Certainly Derrick (Henry) played very well, but you could kind of feel the line of scrimmage moving in the direction that we wanted it to go. I thought Dane (Cruikshank) played well on special teams. I thought we punted the ball, for the most part. We caught the punts clean. So again, there was a lot of great efforts. Field position in the second half was heavily in our favor. So, that's a testament to all three phases.

(on if he was surprised to see Tom Brady's Instagram video and if he referenced it to the team after the game)

I reference a lot of things. I'm just trying to focus on the Ravens. Tom (Brady)'s active on social media. I'm not quite as active on it. He won't ever answer me if he does it, or he has somebody else do it, so I'm not really sure. I'm not as involved in social media as maybe my wife, or my son, or Paul (Kuharsky) would be.

(on if he will get Tom Brady anything as retaliation for the trophy he received during training camp)

When you're in this league a long time playing and coaching, it's unique to be able to compete or coach against players that you played with, or coaches that coached you. I'm sure it will come up again, but I'm going to keep the trophy that Tom (Brady) gave me.

(on the progress Tramaine Brock Sr. has made over the last few weeks)

He's a veteran corner that's seen a lot of routes, that's seen a lot of different receivers. I don't think it's an easy thing coming, maybe, here in the middle of the season. We run a lot of coverages. I'm probably different than the head coaches that he's played for. I think he's kind of gotten up to speed pretty quickly, and I appreciate his efforts. I appreciate his willingness to try to do it how we're coaching him to do. So, we're going to need a lot more of that on Saturday night. I think that if you played for two different organizations, and then you come to a new one. So, I think that there's probably some apprehension, but I think he's bought in and has tried to help us, and he has.

(on if there were more plays in the Wild Card round against the Patriots that were blocked like he'd hoped more than in an average game)

I mean, there was some well-blocked plays. Usually, the ones that are well-blocked, you see them into the second level untouched. There was a few of those. I thought Keith (Carter), Arthur (Smith), Sully (Mike Sullivan) and Tony Dews put together a good plan for the run game. I thought our players understood it. You could tell by how they played and how they came off the football that they were confident in the plan and they knew what to do, which allowed them to play fast and aggressive. It's hard to run in this league, especially against that defense, multiple looks. Every week's a new challenge. We'll have another huge challenge on Saturday to try to find ways to move the football and be good in the red zone against a defense that's very good in the red zone – top four I think.

(on what the week ahead looks like as far as recovery and preparation for a Saturday night game)

Well, Tuesday will be a Wednesday, Wednesday will be a Thursday, Thursday will be a Friday. Then, we'll kind of travel on Friday. It'll be nice that we'd just come off of a late game with an 8:15 game, so we'll stick to kind of the schedule that we had with getting them up, meeting a little bit, walking through and giving them some time to get in their routine.

TITANS-BROWNS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 1: Titans 43, Browns 13
Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 • 1:00 p.m. EDT • First Energy Stadium

GAME RECAP

On Kickoff Weekend of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Cleveland to face the Browns and won by a score of 43-13.

Both Cleveland and Tennessee put together 73-yard scoring drives on each team's opening possessions. First, with help from first down receptions by Browns WR Odell Beckham Jr. and Browns WR Rashard Higgins, and a first down rush by Browns RB Nick Chubb, Browns RB Dontrell Hilliard ran in a four-yard score. The extra point attempt was no good as Cleveland got on the board first, 6-0. As the Titans took the field for Tennessee's opening drive, WR A.J. Brown caught his first career pass for 47 yards to help move the chains, but ultimately K Cairo Santos converted a 37-yard attempt to get on the board and cut Cleveland's lead, 6-3.

In the second quarter, Tennessee took the lead and didn't give it up for the rest of the game. First, QB Marcus Mariota led the Titans on an 11-play, 87-yard scoring drive that culminated in a one-yard rushing score by RB Derrick Henry and a 10-6 lead. Later in the second quarter, with Cleveland backed up to their own two-yard line due to a 70-yard punt by P Brett Kern, OLB Cameron Wake recorded his 100th career sack as he took down Browns QB Baker Mayfield in the endzone for a safety. Tennessee increased the lead, 12-6.

On the first snap of the second half, Mariota tossed a 51-yard pass to Brown to flip field position, as Brown recorded his first career 100-yard receiving game in his NFL debut. Santos was then able to convert a 53-yard field goal for a 15-6 Titans lead. The Browns responded as Mayfield orchestrated a 61-yard scoring drive that culminated in a three-yard touchdown pass to Browns TE David Njoku. Cleveland inched closer, 15-13. However, on the first play of the Titans next drive, Mariota connected with Henry for a career-high-tying 75-yard touchdown pass. Tennessee increased the lead, 22-13.

In the fourth quarter, S Kevin Byard picked off Mayfield and returned the ball 28 yards to give Tennessee possession at the Cleveland 35-yard line. The Titans capitalized on the turnover as Mariota connected with TE Delanie Walker for his first score of the quarter, and a 29-13 lead. Then, on the following Cleveland possession, Mayfield was intercepted by CB Logan Ryan. Tennessee again capitalized on the turnover, as Mariota hit Walker for a seven-yard score and a 36-13 lead. Later, the Titans forced yet another turnover as CB Malcolm Butler picked off Mayfield and returned the interception for a 38-yard touchdown. Tennessee left Cleveland with a 43-13 victory.

TITANS-COLTS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 2: Titans 17, Colts 19
Sunday, Sept. 15, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 2 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Indianapolis Colts for Tennessee's home opener, in the hottest game (93 degrees) in the Titans Era (1999-present). Tennessee lost by a score of 19-17.

Indianapolis struck first as the Colts got on the board with a seven-play, 78-yard scoring drive on their opening possession. Colts QB Jacoby Brissett connected with Colts TE Eric Ebron for a three-yard score as Indianapolis went ahead early, 7-0.

Later in the first quarter, Tennessee constructed a 72-yard scoring drive that included two rushing first downs by RB Derrick Henry, and receiving first downs by WR Tajaé Sharpe, TE Delanie Walker, and WR Darius Jennings. Ultimately, the Titans featured a jumbo tight end package with OL David Quessenberry catching a one-yard touchdown pass in the end zone. Tennessee tied the game, 7-7. Indianapolis responded on their following possession with a scoring drive of their own. Colts RB Marlon Mack ran for 21 yards on the drive, as Brissett then connected with Colts WR Parris Campbell for a 12-yard touchdown. However, Colts K Adam Vinatieri's extra point attempt was no good, as Indianapolis went ahead, 13-7.

Tennessee took the lead on the team's opening drive of the second half on a four-play, 40-yard drive. With help from a 25-yard reception by WR Corey Davis, Henry ran into the endzone on a one-yard score. The Titans went ahead, 14-13. Later in the third quarter, the Titans tacked on another score as K Cairo Santos converted a 49-yard field goal attempt for a 17-13 lead.

Despite the Tennessee defense holding Indianapolis to 121 net passing yards and forcing two turnovers, the Colts retook the lead in the fourth quarter and ultimately sealed a victory. With help from a field-flipping 55-yard run by Mack, Brissett connected with Colts WR T.Y. Hilton for a four-yard touchdown. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful hitting the right upright, as Indianapolis took a 19-17 lead and preserved the victory.

TITANS-JAGUARS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 3: Titans 7, Jaguars 20
Thursday, Sept. 19, 2019 • 8:20 p.m. ET • TIAA Bank Field

GAME RECAP

In Week 3 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Jacksonville to face the Jaguars in a primetime Thursday Night Football matchup. Despite allowing Jacksonville just 12 first downs, and yielding only two conversions on 11 third-down attempts, Tennessee lost by a score of 20-7.

On Jacksonville's opening possession, the Tennessee defense forced the Jaguars to go three-and-out. CB Adoree' Jackson was back deep to return the ball, but fumbled the punt and turned it over to Jacksonville at the Tennessee seven-yard line. Jaguars QB Gardner Minshew capitalized on the turnover by tossing a seven-yard touchdown pass to Jaguars TE James O'Shaughnessy for an early 7-0 lead.

Later in the first quarter, Jacksonville tacked on another score with a six-play, 62-yard scoring drive that culminated in a 22-yard touchdown pass from Minshew to Jaguars WR DJ Chark Jr. Jacksonville doubled the lead, 14-0.

In the third quarter, with help from a 37-yard reception by Chark and a 15-yard reception by Jaguars WR Chris Conley, Jacksonville found their way into Titans territory. Ultimately, the Titans defense forced the Jaguars to settle for a 40-yard field goal as Jacksonville extended the lead, 17-0.

Tennessee was able to construct a seven-play scoring drive in the fourth quarter. QB Marcus Mariota tossed a 29-yard reception to TE Delanie Walker, as well as 11 and 14-yard passes to WR Corey Davis to help move the chains. Mariota contributed a nine-yard rush from the Jacksonville 10-yard line to inch the offense closer, as ultimately RB Derrick Henry ran into the endzone for a one-yard score. The Titans got on the board, 17-7.

Later in the fourth quarter, Jacksonville tacked on another field goal as Jaguars K Josh Lambo successfully converted a 48-yard attempt. Jacksonville extended the lead to 20-7, and preserved the score for a victory.

TITANS-FALCONS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 4: Titans 24, Falcons 10
Sunday, Sept. 29, 2019 • 1:00 p.m. ET • Mercedes-Benz Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 4 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Atlanta to take on the Falcons and won their fifth consecutive game over an NFC opponent. QB Marcus Mariota threw three touchdown passes en route to guiding the Titans to a 24-10 win.

The Titans got on the board first and never trailed throughout the day's contest. In the first quarter, Mariota connected with WR A.J. Brown for Brown's first career touchdown and his first score of the day, as he raced into the end zone on a 55-yard pass for a 7-0 lead. Atlanta responded on their following possession, as Falcons QB Matt Ryan strung together a six-play, 85-yard scoring drive. With a total of 33 yards contributed by Falcons TE Austin Hooper, Falcons RB Ito Smith was able to run in a one-yard touchdown to tie the game, 7-7.

However, Tennessee immediately responded on their next possession as Mariota constructed a 75-yard scoring drive that culminated in another passing score. Mariota again connected with Brown for an 11-yard touchdown reception, as the Titans pulled ahead 14-7.

In the second quarter, Tennessee orchestrated two more scoring drives. First, kicker Cairo Santos converted a 45-yard field goal attempt to increase Tennessee's lead, 17-7. Next, Mariota tossed his third touchdown pass of the day as he connected with WR Corey Davis for a 23-yard score and a 24-7 Titans lead.

Atlanta opened up the second half with a 10-play scoring drive. With a 22-yard reception by Falcons RB Devonta Freeman, and a 28-yard catch by Falcons WR Mohamed Sanu, Falcons K Matt Bryant converted a 42-yard field goal, 24-10.

Ultimately, the Titans defense limited Atlanta rushers to 58 rushing yards on 17 attempts, and did not allow Ryan to throw a touchdown pass, breaking Ryan's streak of 18 consecutive games with at least one touchdown pass. Atlanta could not mount a comeback, as Tennessee preserved and sealed a 24-10 road victory.

TITANS-BILLS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 5: Titans 7, Bills 14
Sunday, Oct. 6, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 5 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Buffalo Bills at Nissan Stadium and lost by a score of 14-7.

Buffalo got on the board first in the second quarter by way of a six-play, 60-yard scoring drive. Bills QB Josh Allen connected with Bills WR John Brown for 14-yard and 21-yard passes, as well as with Bills WR Duke Williams for 11 yards to help move the chains. Ultimately, Allen hit Bills TE Lee Smith for an eight-yard touchdown and a 7-0 Buffalo lead. Tennessee missed two scoring opportunities in the second quarter, as K Cairo Santos failed to convert 50 and 36-yard attempts.

In the third quarter, S Kevin Byard picked off Allen and returned the ball five yards to give the Tennessee offense possession at the Buffalo 38-yard line. The Titans were able to capitalize on the turnover, as QB Marcus Mariota led the team on a seven-play, 38-yard drive. With help of a nine-yard first down reception by WR Adam Humphries, and a 17-yard rush by RB Derrick Henry, Henry was able to scoot into the end zone for a one-yard score and a tie game, 7-7.

Later in the third quarter, TE Jonnu Smith took a screen pass 57 yards to earn a first down at the Buffalo 21-yard line. With two touchdown plays called back due to penalties, the Titans were forced to settle for a 33-yard field goal attempt, which went unsuccessful after being tipped by Bills DE Darryl Johnson.

Buffalo tacked on their second score in the fourth quarter as Allen flipped a 46-yard pass to Bills WR Isaiah McKenzie to get the team into the red zone. Allen connected with Williams for a seven-yard touchdown and a 14-7 lead.

After regaining possession of the ball, the Titans failed at converting a fourth field goal attempt and were unable to construct a comeback. Tennessee fell to Buffalo at home, 14-7.

TITANS-BRONCOS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 6: Titans 0, Broncos 16

Sunday, Oct. 13, 2019 • 2:25 p.m. MDT • Empower Field at Mile High

GAME RECAP

In Week 6 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Denver to take on the Broncos and lost by a score of 16-0.

On Denver's opening possession, the Broncos constructed an eight-play, 32-yard scoring drive. Broncos RB Phillip Lindsay contributed 13 yards on the ground, and Broncos RB Royce Freeman accounted for 11 rushing yards. Broncos K Brandon McManus converted a 31-yard field goal for an early 3-0 Denver lead.

In the second quarter, Denver tacked on another field goal to double their lead. Broncos QB Joe Flacco tossed a 41-yard pass to Broncos WR Courtland Sutton, but the Titans defense forced Denver to settle for a 53-yard field goal. The Broncos went ahead, 6-0.

In the third quarter, the Broncos added a touchdown on a six-play, 41-yard scoring drive. Flacco connected with Freeman for a 19-yard reception, and then with Broncos WR DaeSean Hamilton for a 13-yard catch, as ultimately Lindsay ran in a two-yard score for a 13-0 lead.

Denver put up three more points on a successful 48-yard field goal attempt in the fourth quarter, 16-0. Despite the defense allowing Denver to convert just two of 14 third down attempts on the day, Tennessee was unable to mount a comeback after replacing QB Marcus Mariota with QB Ryan Tannehill in the second hakf. The Titans fell on the road, 16-0.

TITANS-CHARGERS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 7: Titans 23, Chargers 20
Sunday, Oct. 20, 2019 • 3:05 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 7 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Los Angeles Chargers and won by a score of 23-20.

Tennessee got on the board first on a nine-play, 42-yard scoring drive that included a chain-moving fake punt playcall. On fourth-and-eight at the Chargers 43-yard line, P Brett Kern threw an 11-yard pass to S Kevin Byard to help keep the drive alive, and ultimately led to K Cody Parkey converting a 45-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead. On the following drive, Los Angeles responded with their own field goal, as Chargers K Chase McLaughlin converted a 29-yard attempt for a 3-3 game.

In the second quarter, Chargers QB Philip Rivers led Los Angeles on a 14-play, 94-yard scoring drive. Chargers WR Keenan Allen contributed 32 yards on two catches, and Chargers RB Austin Ekeler totaled 24 total yards on the drive, as Rivers ultimately connected with Chargers RB Melvin Gordon for a one-yard score and a 10-3 lead. However, on the ensuing Tennessee drive, the Titans responded with a touchdown of their own. QB Ryan Tannehill connected with WR A.J. Brown for 42 yards on three catches, and RB Derrick Henry added 36 total yards, as the drive culminated in an eight-yard touchdown catch by WR Corey Davis and a 10-10 tie game.

Tennessee tacked on another score early in the fourth quarter, as Tannehill connected with WR Tajaé Sharpe for an 11-yard touchdown. However, the extra point attempt was no good, as the Titans took a 16-10 lead. On the following Chargers possession, Los Angeles converted a 50-yard field goal to make it a 16-13 game.

Later in the fourth quarter, Tannehill led the Titans on a seven-play, 75-yard scoring drive. With help from a 38-yard catch by Davis, Henry ran in an 11-yard touchdown to put Tennessee ahead, 23-13. Los Angeles then responded on the next possession, as Rivers hit Ekeler for a 41-yard score. The Chargers made it a one possession game, 23-20.

With 2:35 remaining to play in regulation, Tennessee turned the ball over on downs at the Chargers 49-yard line. Rivers drove Los Angeles down the field and entered the red zone, and in Titans territory Rivers threw what was initially called a 16-yard touchdown pass to Ekeler. However, the ruling on the field was overturned. Next, a defensive pass interference penalty called on CB Malcolm Butler allowed the Chargers a fresh set of downs at the one-yard line. Then, Gordon ran in what was at first called a one-yard touchdown, but the ruling on the field was reversed as Gordon did not break the plane. On his second attempt, Gordon lost possession of the ball as LB Wesley Woodyard forced a fumble. DT Jurrell Casey recovered the ball to give the Titans possession with 15 seconds remaining in the game and seal a 23-20 victory at Nissan Stadium.

TITANS-BUCCANEERS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 8: Titans 27, Buccaneers 23
Sunday, Oct. 27, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 8 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Buccaneers and won by a score of 27-23. Tennessee recovered two fumbles, and recorded two interceptions to finish the contest plus-three in turnover margin.

Tampa Bay got on the board first on the team's opening drive. Buccaneers QB Jameis Winston led his team on an eight-play, 71-yard scoring drive that culminated in a 22-yard field goal and a 3-0 lead. On the next Tampa Bay possession, Winston fumbled the ball and it was recovered by DT Isaiah Mack to give Tennessee possession at the Tampa Bay 10-yard line. The Titans capitalized on the turnover, as QB Ryan Tannehill quickly connected with TE Jonnu Smith for a five-yard score and a 7-3 Tennessee lead.

Later in the first quarter, Tennessee forced another turnover and capitalized on the play. CB Malcolm Butler picked off Winston and returned the ball 23 yards to the Tampa Bay six-yard line. Tannehill hit WR Tajaé Sharpe in the end zone for a six-yard score and a 14-3 Titans lead. The Buccaneers responded on the ensuing drive, as the Titans defense forced Tampa Bay to settle for a field goal after DT Jurrell Casey sacked Winston on third down. Buccaneers K Matt Gay converted a 48-yard attempt, 14-6 Tennessee.

In the second quarter, both Tampa Bay and Tennessee added a field goal each, as the score changed to 17-9. Later in the second stanza, Winston and Buccaneers WR Mike Evans combined on one drive for four catches for 82 yards with one touchdown, as Winston connected with Evans for a nine-yard score. Tampa Bay opted to attempt a two-point conversion and was unsuccessful, as they inched closer to the Titans, 17-15.

On the Titans opening drive of the second half, RB Derrick Henry fumbled the ball and it was recovered by Buccaneers CB Vernon Hargreaves III. Tampa Bay capitalized on the turnover, as Winston hit Evans for a two-yard touchdown. The Buccaneers again attempted a two-point conversion, and were this time successful as Winston threw a two-yard pass to Buccaneers WR Chris Godwin. Tampa Bay took the lead, 23-17. Later in the third quarter, Tennessee tacked on a 42-yard field goal to make it a 23-20 game.

In the fourth quarter, Tannehill led the offense on a 12-play, 90-yard scoring drive. J. Smith accounted for three catches for 41 yards, WR Adam Humphries had a 13-yard first down reception, and Henry added a 15-yard first down rush to help move the offense along. Ultimately, WR A.J. Brown caught an eight-yard touchdown for a 27-23 lead early in the quarter. Finally, with 26 seconds remaining in regulation and the Titans looking to preserve the score, CB Logan Ryan intercepted Winston. The fourth turnover of the day helped seal the Titans victory.

TITANS-PANTHERS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 9: Titans 20, Panthers 30

Sunday, Nov. 3, 2019 • 1:00 p.m. ET • Bank of America Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 9 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Carolina to face the Panthers and lost by a score of 30-20.

Carolina got on the board first with an 11-play, 51-yard drive early in the second quarter. Panthers QB Kyle Allen had his pass batted down by DL DaQuan Jones, and was sacked by OLB Harold Landry III on third down, as Carolina was forced to settle for a 35-yard field goal and a 3-0 lead. Later in the second quarter, after QB Ryan Tannehill's pass bounced off the hands of WR A.J. Brown, the ball was caught by Panthers CB Donte Jackson. Carolina took possession at the Tennessee 15-yard line and capitalized on the interception, as Allen connected with Panthers RB Christian McCaffrey for a seven-yard touchdown on fourth-and-two and a 10-0 lead.

The Panthers added another score in the first half to make it a 17-0 game. Carolina constructed a 90-yard scoring drive, with Panthers WR Curtis Samuel grabbing a 20-yard pass, WR DJ Moore making 13 and 18-yard first down receptions, and Panthers TE Greg Olsen and McCaffrey each contributing a first down catch. Ultimately, Allen hit Samuel for a 12-yard score and a 17-0 lead heading into halftime.

The Titans opened up the second half with their first score of the day. RB Derrick Henry had five consecutive carries that amassed 32 yards to start the drive, and Tannehilll added a 25-yard rush, as the drive culminated in an eight-yard score by Henry and a 17-7 game. Carolina responded on their following possession with a scoring drive of their own. With help from a fake punt that saw Panthers S Colin Jones convert the fourth down on a five-yard rush, McCaffrey ran into the end zone for a one-yard touchdown to increase the Panthers lead, 24-7.

In the fourth quarter, Tennessee added another touchdown on a 94-yard scoring drive. With help from a 35-yard catch from Brown, Henry took a screen pass 23 yards into the end zone to cut the lead, 24-14. On the ensuing Panthers possession, Carolina replied as McCaffrey broke free for a 58-yard touchdown run. However, the extra point attempt was blocked, 30-14.

Later in the fourth quarter, the Titans put together one more scoring drive that saw Tannehill run in for a 10-yard touchdown. After a failed two-point conversion attempt, the Titans were unable to mount a comeback victory, and fell to the Panthers.

TITANS-CHIEFS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 10: Titans 35, Chiefs 32
Sunday, Nov. 10, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 10 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Kansas City Chiefs and won by a score of 35-32.

Kansas City got on the board on their opening possession, with an 11-play, 69-yard scoring drive. Chiefs QB Patrick Mahomes connected with Chiefs TE Travis Kelce for a three-yard touchdown and an early 7-0 lead. On the following Tennessee possession, QB Ryan Tannehill was strip-sacked and the ball was recovered by Chiefs DE Tanoh Kpassagnon at the Titans 20-yard line. Kansas City capitalized on the turnover and added a field goal for a 10-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Tennessee strung together a four-play, 73-yard scoring drive. Tannehill threw a 52-yard pass to WR Kalif Raymond to flip field position before connecting with TE Anthony Firkser for a nine-yard touchdown. The Titans got on the board, 10-7. Then, on the following Kansas City possession, LB David Long Jr. forced Chiefs RB Damien Williams to fumble the ball. LB Rashaan Evans recovered the fumble and ran it into the end zone for a 53-yard touchdown, but the extra point attempt was no good as the Titans took a 13-10 lead. On the ensuing Kansas City possession, with help from a 29-yard reception by Chiefs WR Tyreek Hill, Kansas City was able to get into field goal range. Chiefs K Harrison Butker converted a 40-yard attempt to tie the game, 13-13.

On Kansas City's opening possession of the second half, the Chiefs put together a 10-play, 77-yard scoring drive that culminated in an 11-yard touchdown catch by Hill. However, the extra point attempt failed as Kansas City went ahead, 19-13. The Titans immediately responded on the following drive. Tannehill threw a six-yard pass to RB Derrick Henry, and on the next play Henry took off for a 68-yard touchdown run as the Titans retook the lead, 20-19.

Kansas City took the lead again in the third quarter on a 10-play, 50-yard scoring drive. The Chiefs' 43-yard field goal attempt was successful, as Kansas City went ahead 22-20.

In the fourth quarter, the Chiefs extended their lead to 29-20. Mahomes connected with Chiefs WR Mecole Hardman for a 63-yard touchdown to make it a two-possession game. However, on the following Tennessee drive, Henry added his second score of the day on a one-yard rushing touchdown. The Titans cut the lead, 29-27. On the net Kansas City possession, Butker tacked on his fourth field goal of the day to increase the Chiefs lead, 32-27.

Later in the fourth quarter, with 1:27 remaining to play and the Chiefs lining up to attempt a field goal on fourth down, Chiefs LS James Winchester and Chiefs P Dustin Colquitt botched the snap. Colquitt threw the ball away and was penalized for intentional grounding, as Tennessee took over at their own 39-yard line. Tannehill scrambled for 18 yards and connected with Firkser for a 20-yard pass before he ultimately threw a 23-yard go-ahead touchdown pass to WR Adam Humphries. Tennessee opted to attempt a two-point conversion, and the try was successful as Tannehill rushed into the end zone for two points to put the Titans up, 35-32.

Kansas City took possession of the ball with 23 seconds remaining on the clock, and Mahomes swiftly tossed a 23-yard pass to Chiefs WR Demarcus Robinson to enter Titans territory. Ultimately, Kansas City lined up to attempt what would have been a game-tying 52-yard field goal. However, the kick was blocked by DB Joshua Kalu who quickly came off the edge, and the ball was recovered by CB LeShaun Sims to seal a Titans victory.

TITANS-JAGUARS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 12: Titans 42, Jaguars 20
Sunday, Nov. 24, 2019 • 3:05 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 12 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the AFC South opponent Jacksonville Jaguars and won by a score of 42-20. Tennessee accumulated 471 total net yards on offense, including 248 net yards in the third quarter alone.

Both teams held each other scoreless through the first quarter. Tennessee got on the board first in the second stanza, as QB Ryan Tannehill led the offense on a seven-play, 73-yard scoring drive. With help from a 24-yard reception by WR Corey Davis, Tannehill ran into the end zone for a 21-yard touchdown and a 7-0 lead. Jacksonville responded on their following possession, as Jaguars QB Nick Foles led his team on a scoring drive that culminated in a 49-yard field goal, 7-3.

The Titans tied a franchise record by racking up 28 total points in the third quarter and scoring on three consecutive scrimmage plays. First, Tannehill tossed a one-yard touchdown pass to T/G Dennis Kelly for a 14-3 lead. After forcing Jacksonville to punt on the ensuing drive, RB Derrick Henry took a handoff and raced 74 yards into the end zone for a one-play scoring drive and a 21-3 lead. As Tennessee kicked the ball off after the touchdown, LB Daren Bates forced Jaguars KR Michael Walker to fumble the ball on the return. Bates recovered the ball to give the Titans possession at the Jacksonville seven-yard line. Henry again took the ball and on the first play immediately ran into the end zone for a 28-3 lead. Henry became the first player since 2006 to record two touchdowns in a 20-second span. The Titans then added their fourth touchdown of the quarter, as WR A.J. Brown took a Tannehill pass 65 yards to extend the lead to 35-3.

Later in the third quarter, Jacksonville strung together a 12-play scoring drive. With first down receptions by Jaguars WRs Dede Westbrook and Keelan Cole, as well as one rushing and one receiving first down by Jaguars RB Leonard Fournette, Fournette ultimately ran in a one-yard score. Jacksonville's two-point conversion attempt was successful as Foles connected with Jaguars WR DJ Chark to cut the lead, 35-11.

In the fourth quarter, Fournette ran in his second one-yard touchdown of the day. However, Jacksonville's two-point conversion attempt was unsuccessful, 35-17. On the following Tennessee possession, the Titans put together a quick, four-play scoring drive that saw Tannehill rush for a three-yard score to extend the lead, 42-17.

Jacksonville added a 50-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to make it a 42-20 game, but ultimately the Titans preserved the lead and won a divisional game at home.

TITANS-COLTS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 13: Titans 31, Colts 17
Sunday, Dec. 1, 2019 • 1:00 p.m. ET • Lucas Oil Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 13 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Indianapolis and won by a score of 31-17. This marked Tennessee's third consecutive victory, and the third consecutive game in which the Titans scored 30 or more points. Tennessee forced three turnovers and blocked two field goals in the win.

On the first play of the game RB Derrick Henry recorded a nine-yard rush, but turned the ball over as Colts LB Anthony Walker forced Henry to fumble. Colts S Malik Hooker recovered the fumble which gave Indianapolis possession at the Tennessee 39-yard line. Indianapolis capitalized on the turnover as Colts QB Jacoby Brissett tossed a 21-yard touchdown pass to Colts TE Jack Doyle for an early 7-0 lead. However, the Titans responded immediately on the ensuing possession. With help from a 23-yard reception by WR Corey Davis, and a 13-yard catch by WR A.J. Brown, QB Ryan Tannehill tossed a 13-yard score to WR Adam Humphries to tie the game, 7-7.

Later in the first quarter, Tannehill was strip-sacked by Colts LB Bobby Okereke and the ball was recovered by Colts DE Justin Houston. The Titans defense held Indianapolis to a field goal attempt, but as Colts K Adam Vinatieri attempted a 53-yard kick, DL Austin Johnson blocked the ball to keep the game tied, 7-7.

In the second quarter, Indianapolis constructed an 11-play, 80-yard scoring drive with help from 18 and 19-yard catches by Colts WR Marcus Johnson. Vinatieri converted a 28-yard field goal to give Indianapolis a 10-7 lead.

Indianapolis opened the second half with an 11-play, 75-yard scoring drive that saw Colts RB Nyheim Hines rush for a one-yard touchdown and a 17-7 lead. But, on the ensuing Tennessee possession, the Titans manufactured their own 75-yard scoring drive. Henry accounted for a 34-yard rush to move the chains, and he ultimately recorded a 13-yard rushing score on fourth-and-one to inch closer to Indianapolis, 17-14. On the Colts' next offensive play, Brissett was intercepted by S Kevin Byard who returned the ball 21 yards to the Indianapolis 14-yard line. The Titans capitalized on the turnover as K Ryan Succop converted a 31-yard field goal for a 17-17 tie.

In the fourth quarter, with Indianapolis driving, OLB Kamalei Correa sacked Brissett on third down at the Tennessee 27-yard line. Vinatieri lined up to attempt a 46-yard field goal, but DB Dane Cruikshank blocked the kick and it was recovered by CB Tye Smith. Smith raced for a 63-yard touchdown as Tennessee went ahead, 24-17. Brissett was then intercepted by CB Logan Ryan who returned the ball 16 yards. The Titans capitalized on the turnover, as Tannehill tossed a 40-yard touchdown bomb to WR Kalif Raymond. Tennessee increased the lead to 31-17, and preserved the score to seal a divisional road victory.

TITANS-RAIDERS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 14: Titans 42, Raiders 21

Sunday, Dec. 8, 2019 • 1:25 p.m. PT • Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum

GAME RECAP

In Week 14 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Oakland to face the Raiders and won by a score of 42-21. The offense totaled 552 net yards, which marked sixth-highest single-game figure in franchise history, and the defense recorded a shutout in the second half of the contest to secure Tennessee's sixth victory in seven games.

On Tennessee's opening possession, the offense swiftly drove down the field and entered the red zone. However, at the Oakland 19-yard line QB Ryan Tannehill's pass was deflected by Raiders DE Dion Jordan and intercepted by Raiders DT Maurice Hurst, who returned the ball to the Tennessee 24-yard line. Oakland capitalized on the turnover and got on the board first as Raiders RB DeAndré Washington ran in a 14-yard score for a 7-0 lead.

The Titans immediately responded with a 74-yard scoring drive of their own. Tannehill connected with FB/RB Khari Blasingame and TE Jonnu Smith for first downs, and RB Derrick Henry rushed for a first down. Ultimately Henry ran into the end zone for a 12-yard touchdown and a tie game, 7-7.

In the second quarter, starting at their own nine-yard line, the Titans recorded a one-play scoring drive. Tannehill threw a 91-yard touchdown pass to WR A.J. Brown as the Titans took a 14-7 lead. On the ensuing Oakland drive, Raiders QB Derek Carr tossed a 49-yard touchdown pass to Raiders WR Rico Gafford to tie the game, 14-14. The Tennessee offense immediately responded with a 77-yard scoring drive. Brown caught a 22-yard pass, and WR Corey Davis added a 24-yard reception, as Tannehill then connected with Brown for a 16-yard touchdown and a 21-14 lead. Oakland responded again with a 71-yard scoring drive on the ensuing possession, that saw Carr toss a one-yard touchdown pass to Raiders TE Foster Moreau to once again knot the score, 21-21.

In the third quarter, Tennessee took the lead and maintained it for the remainder of the contest. Blasingame caught a 23-yard pass, Davis grabbed a 10-yard reception, and TE MyCole Pruitt made a career-long 42-yard catch before Henry rushed in for a 10-yard touchdown. The Titans went ahead, 28-21.

The Titans tacked on two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter, one on offense and one on defense. WR Tajaé Sharpe, WR Kalif Raymond, and Brown contributed first down receptions, and Henry added a 24-yard gain on the ground as part of a nine-play, 89-yard scoring drive. The series concluded with Smith making a 17-yard touchdown catch for a 35-21 lead.

On the following Oakland possession, Carr connected with Raiders TE Darren Waller for a three-yard gain, but CB Tye Smith caused Waller to fumble the ball. LB Jayon Brown scooped up the ball and scored on a 47-yard touchdown return for a 42-21 lead. Tennessee preserved the score and sealed a road victory.

TITANS-TEXANS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 15: Titans 21, Texans 24
Sunday, Dec. 15, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 15 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Texans for the first of two contests between the clubs in a three-week span. Tennessee fell to Houston at home, 24-21.

On Houston's opening possession, Texans QB Deshaun Watson drove his offense down the field into Titans' territory. On second-and-seven at the Tennessee 20-yard line, Watson's pass was intercepted at the one-yard line by S Kenny Vaccaro to end Houston's scoring threat and keep it a scoreless game. Later in the first quarter, QB Ryan Tannehill efficiently moved the offense into the red zone with help from a 22-yard reception by WR Corey Davis and a 23-yard rush by RB Derrick Henry. At the Houston five-yard line, Tannehill's pass was batted into the air by Texans S Justin Reid and intercepted by Texans OLB Whitney Mercilus, who returned the ball 86 yards. Houston capitalized on the turnover as Texans WR Kenny Stills caught a 12-yard touchdown pass for a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Houston put together a nine-play, 72-yard scoring drive that culminated in a 16-yard touchdown catch by Stills. The Texans took a 14-0 lead into the half.

On Tennessee's opening possession of the second half, the Titans constructed their most time consuming scoring drive of the season, a nine-minute, 26-second possession that covered 76 yards. WR A.J. Brown contributed two first down catches, Davis added one, and Tannehill and Henry each rushed for a first down to help keep the chains moving. Ultimately, on fourth-and-goal, Tannehill ran into the end zone for a one-yard touchdown to cut the lead in half, 14-7.

Later in the third quarter, with Houston in the red zone, Watson attempted a pass from the Tennessee four-yard line. However, the ball was tipped by DL Jeffery Simmons, and intercepted by LB Jayon Brown in the end zone for a touchback. The Titans capitalized on the turnover, and with help from a 57-yard rush by TE Jonnu Smith, Tannehill tossed a five-yard touchdown to A.J. Brown for a tie game, 14-14.

On Houston's ensuing possession, the Texans regained the lead on a 75-yard scoring drive. Texans WR DeAndre Hopkins contributed a 35-yard reception as the possession culminated in a 10-yard score by Texans RB Carlos Hyde for a 21-14 lead. On the Texans following possession, Houston tacked on a 29-yard field goal to extend the lead to 24-14.

The Titans took the field down by 10 points with 3:26 remaining in regulation. Tannehill connected on a 23-yard pass to Smith, a 12-yard ball to WR Tajaé Sharpe, and a 19-yard catch to Davis to move the Titans down the field, before throwing an 11-yard touchdown to RB Dion Lewis. Tennessee came within three points of Houston, 24-21, but could not recover an onside kick and fell to the Texans.

TITANS-SAINTS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 16: Titans 28, Saints 38
Sunday, Dec. 22, 2019 • 12:00 p.m. CT • Nissan Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 16 of the 2019 season, the Titans hosted the Saints in the final home matchup of the regular season and fell to New Orleans by a score of 38-28.

In the first quarter, the Titans put together two touchdown scoring drives to take a 14-0 lead. First, QB Ryan Tannehill engineered a five-play, 73-yard possession that saw TE Jonnu Smith catch a 41-yard touchdown. Then, after forcing New Orleans to punt, Tennessee got the ball back and orchestrated a three-play scoring drive. Smith caught a 15-yard pass and RB Dion Lewis rushed for a six-yard gain, before WR A.J. Brown took a handoff and raced 49 yards into the endzone for a score and 14-0 lead.

New Orleans got on the board in the second quarter on a 13-play scoring drive. Saints QB Drew Brees connected with Saints WR Michael Thomas for a 19-yard first down to help move the chains, but on third down at the Tennessee 20-yard line, Brees was sacked by DT Jurrell Casey for a loss of nine. New Orleans settled for a 47-yard field goal to make it a 14-3 game.

Later in the second quarter, on a one-play scoring drive, Brees tossed a quick 61-yard touchdown pass to Saints TE Jared Cook to make it a 14-10 game.

On the Saints opening possession of the second half, New Orleans strung together a three-play scoring drive that saw Saints RB Alvin Kamara tack on a 40-yard rushing score. New Orleans took the lead, 17-14. After forcing Tennessee to punt, the Saints took possession of the ball and added another score. Brees threw two first down passes to Thomas, and one to each Saints WR Tre'Quan Smith and Kamara, before Kamara ran into the end zone for a one-yard touchdown. New Orleans took a 24-14 lead. The Titans immediately responded on the ensuing possession with a touchdown drive of their own. With help from a 22-yard reception by WR Corey Davis, Tannehill threw a 36-yard touchdown to WR Tajaé Sharpe to make it a three-point game, 24-21. On the following drive, New Orleans then extended their lead, as Brees hit Cook for a 16-yard score and a 31-21 game.

In the fourth quarter, the Titans tacked on a six-play, 42-yard scoring drive. RB Dalyn Dawkins amassed 26 yards and two first downs on four carries, before Tannhill threw a seven-yard touchdown to Sharpe. Tennessee again made it a one-score game, 31-28 Saints.

Later in the fourth quarter, the Titans took possession of the ball needing a touchdown to go ahead and retake the lead. Tannehill connected with WR Kalif Raymond for a 22-yard pass to move the Titans downfield, but Raymond fumbled the ball after contact. Saints DB C.J. Gardner-Johnson recovered it and ran 38 yards to give New Orleans possession at the Tennessee 25-yard line. The Saints took over with 4:06 remaining in regulation, and Brees quickly threw a two-yard touchdown to Thomas for a 38-28 lead.

Ultimately, the Titans could not overcome a 10-point deficit and fell to the Saints at home.

TITANS-TEXANS: GAME SUMMARY

Week 17: Titans 35, Texans 14
Sunday, Dec. 29, 2019 • 3:25 p.m. CT • NRG Stadium

GAME RECAP

In Week 17 of the 2019 season, the Titans traveled to Houston and secured a playoff berth with a 35-14 victory over the Texans.

On Houston's opening possession, Texans QB AJ McCarron led his team on a 15-play, 75-yard scoring drive that included first down receptions by TE Jordan Akins, WR Steven Mitchell Jr., and RB Duke Johnson. Ultimately, Johnson ran into the end zone on a one-yard score for an early 7-0 lead. As the Tennessee offense took the field, Titans QB Ryan Tannehill and the offense responded and engineered a quick four-play scoring drive. Tannehill opened the drive with a 19-yard rush before connecting with WR A.J. Brown for a 51-yard touchdown down the right sideline to tie the game, 7-7.

Later in the first quarter, Tennessee began a 16-play scoring drive to take the lead. WRs Corey Davis and Tajaé Sharpe contributed first down receptions, and RB Derrick Henry added two first downs on the ground. QB Marcus Mariota entered the game to throw a 24-yard pass to Brown, which not only moved the chains, but also put Brown over 1,000 receiving yards on the season. Ultimately, Tannehill found TE MyCole Pruitt in the end zone for a one-yard touchdown and a 14-7 lead.

Tennessee began the second half in possession of the ball and orchestrated a 78-yard scoring drive that featured 10 straight run plays. Henry accounted for 46 yards on the drive, including a three-yard touchdown plunge to make it a 21-7 game. On the following Houston possession, the Texans responded with a scoring drive to pull within one possession. The 16-play scoring drive culminated in a one-yard rushing score by McCarron, 21-14. Then on the ensuing Titans possession, Brown made another big play as he caught a 47-yard reception that gave Tennessee the ball at the Houston one-yard line. Henry swiftly ran in a one-yard touchdown to make it a 28-14 game.

In the fourth quarter with 3:30 remaining to play, McCarron attempted a pass but it was intercepted by S Kevin Byard at the Tennessee 15-yard line. The offense took the field and Henry recorded three consecutive carries of five, 23, and four yards, before breaking free for a 53-yard rushing score that secured the victory as well as the NFL's rushing title. Tennessee secured a playoff berth after winning a 35-14 division game on the road.

TITANS-PATRIOTS: GAME SUMMARY

Wild Card Weekend: Titans 20, Patriots 13
Saturday, Jan. 4, 2020 • 8:25 p.m. ET • Gillette Stadium

GAME RECAP

During the 2019 playoffs on Wild Card Weekend, the Titans traveled to New England and defeated the defending Super Bowl champion Patriots by a score of 20-13. RB Derrick Henry set the franchise's single-game postseason record with 182 rushing yards and one touchdown on 34 carries, while the defense shut out the Patriots in the second half.

New England got on the board on their opening possession as Patriots QB Tom Brady led his team on an eight-play, 57-yard scoring drive that included a 21-yard pass to Patriots TE Ben Watson and a 29-yard catch by Patriots RB James White. The drive culminated in a 36-yard field goal and an early 3-0 lead. The Titans responded on their own opening possession with a scoring drive to take the lead. QB Ryan Tannehill engineered a 12-play, 75-yard drive that featured a combined 49 rushing yards by Henry before Tannehill connected with TE Anthony Firkser for a 12-yard touchdown and a 7-3 lead.

On the ensuing New England possession, the Patriots came back with a 10-play scoring drive. Patriots RB Sony Michel contributed a 25-yard rush and White added a 14-yard gain to help move the chains, before Patriots WR Julian Edelman collected a five-yard touchdown on a jet sweep. New England went ahead, 10-7.

Later in the second quarter with New England in the red zone, the Titans defense orchestrated an impressive goal line stop to force the Patriots to settle for a field goal. On New England's first down at the Tennessee one-yard line, Michel was stopped for a loss of one by LB Rashaan Evans. Next, Patriots RB Rex Burkhead was halted after a gain of one on second down, and on third down, Michel was pushed back for a loss of two yards again by Evans. New England was forced to kick a 21-yard field goal to extend the lead, 13-7. On the following Tennessee possession, the Titans retook the lead on a seven-play scoring drive. Henry accounted for all 75 yards on the drive that culminated in Henry's one-yard rushing score and a 14-13 Titans lead heading into halftime.

In the fourth quarter, with the Titans still leading by one point, New England took possession of the ball at their own one-yard line. With 15 seconds remaining, Brady dropped back to pass but the ball was intercepted by CB Logan Ryan and returned for a nine-yard touchdown to seal a Titans victory. Tennessee advanced to the divisional round with a 20-13 win at New England.

LAST WEEK'S GAME CLIPS

TITANS BEAT PATRIOTS 20-13, ADVANCE TO FACE RAVENS IN PLAYOFFS

JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. – On his birthday, Titans running back Derrick Henry took the cake.

And the Titans blew out the candles on New England's season.

The Titans pulled out a mammoth win over the Patriots on Saturday night, winning 20-13 on a night when Henry led the way.

Henry, who turned 26 on Saturday, ran for 182 yards on 34 carries.

Cornerback Logan Ryan intercepted Patriots quarterback Tom Brady and returned it for a touchdown with nine seconds for Tennessee.

The Titans will travel to face the Ravens next Saturday night at 7:15 CT in Baltimore.

It's already been a memorable season for the Titans, who finished with their fourth consecutive winning season (9-7), marking their first time to do so in the "Titans era."

With a 2-4 mark after Week 6, the Titans made a quarterback change, as Ryan Tannehill stepped in for Marcus Mariota. The Titans ended up going 7-3 in their final 10 games to reach the postseason, clinching a playoff spot for the second time in three seasons with a win at Houston last weekend.

Tannehill led the NFL with a 117.5 passer rating during a season when running back Derrick Henry captured the NFL's rushing title with 1,540 yards, racking up 16 rushing touchdowns and six 100-yard games along the way, including a 211-yard performance last Sunday in Houston.

On Saturday night, the Titans came to town and knocked off the defending Super Bowl champions.

With fog swirling above Gillette Stadium, it was tight from the get-go.

The Titans took an early 7-3 lead on a 12-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ryan Tannehill to tight end Anthony Firkser, which capped a 12-play, 75-yard drive. Running back Derrick Henry ran for 49 yards on seven carries on the team's opening drive, providing a sign of things to come in the process.

The Patriots, who took an early 3-0 lead on a 36-yard field goal by kicker Nick Folk, regained the lead 10-7 on a five-yard rushing touchdown by receiver Julian Edelman.

The Titans were in danger of going into a double-digit deficit before halftime, but the defense got a big stop, holding the Patriots to another field goal after they had a first and goal at the Tennessee 1. Titans linebacker Rashaan Evans made a pair of stops near the goal-line, including one on a Sony Michel run on third down, and the Patriots led 13-7 with 2:16 left in the first half after another Folk field goal.

The Titans then reclaimed the lead at 14-13 with 35 seconds left in the first half on a one-yard touchdown run by Henry, which capped a seven-play, 75-yard drive.

The Titans led 14-13 at halftime, and Henry had 106 yards on 14 carries.

SIX THINGS THAT STOOD OUT FOR THE TITANS IN PLAYOFF WIN OVER PATRIOTS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JANUARY 5, 2020

NASHVILLE – The Titans beat the Patriots 20-13 on Saturday night at Gillette Stadium to advance into the divisional round of the NFL playoffs.

Here's a look at six things that stood out from the game as the team begins to turn its attention to next Saturday's playoff game against the Baltimore Ravens.

King Henry

Titans running back Derrick Henry set the tone early. Henry had runs of four, five, six, seven, eight, nine and 10 on the team's opening drive, while providing a sign of things to come on his 182-yard rushing night. The fact the Patriots knew the battering ram was coming made it even more impressive. Henry totaled 204 of the team's 272 yards on offense, along with a touchdown run. Henry wanted the ball on his birthday, and the Titans gave it to him again and again and again – 35 times in all (34 rushing, 1 reception). Henry's 182 rushing yards vs the Patriots set the franchise's single-game postseason record, topping Eddie George's 162 yards at Indianapolis on Jan. 16, 2000, and his rushing total was the most in an NFL playoff game since Jan. 12, 2008.

Defense, Defense, Defense

Patriots quarterback Tom Brady has made a career out of guiding game-winning touchdown drives, and on several occasions he had a chance to do so on Saturday night. But time and again the Titans defense stiffened up and kept the game's most clutch quarterback of all time from being a hero. The Titans shut out the Patriots in the second half, and New England didn't have a drive finish inside the Tennessee 47 in the final 30 minutes. Logan Ryan's pick-6 of Brady with nine seconds left capped off the win, but the goal-line stand in the first half – when the Titans held the Patriots to a field goal after they had a first and goal at the 1 – was a huge momentum changer. The Titans limited the Patriots to 13 total points, which tied for the lowest by the Patriots in a playoff game under head coach Bill Belichick. Brady's 59.4 passer rating was the fifth-lowest of his postseason career. Rashaan Evans, who led the Titans with 10 tackles, and safety Kenny Vaccaro, who had two tackles for a loss and a pass break-up, made multiple big plays.

Tannehill's Gut-Check Plays

Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill's stat line isn't one that usually produces a win in the playoffs -- he was 8-of-15 for 72 yards in the game. In his first ever playoff game, there were a few plays he'd like to have back – his ill-advised interception, and his dropped shotgun snap. But Tannehill once again stepped up big in clutch situations. Tannehill capped off the team's first possession with a touchdown pass to tight end Anthony Firkser, but his biggest throw of the night came on a third-and-eight with 2:08 left – an 11-yard completion to tight end Antony Firkser that helped the team run the clock down. Tannehill also lowered his shoulder and earned a big first down run late on 3rd and 2.

Anthony Firkser

On a night when the Patriots focused on Titans receivers A.J. Brown and Corey Davis, and OC Arthur Smith relied on Henry, it was Firkser who had the two biggest catches of the night. With his touchdown catch, Firkser became just the sixth player from an Ivy League School – and the first from Harvard – to score a touchdown in a playoff game. Would you believe Firkser led the team in receiving yards with two catches for 23 yards?

Some Clutch Punting

There's a reason why punter Brett Kern was named first-team All-Pro, and voted to the Pro Bowl team. Kern proved his worth on Saturday night, averaging a 45.8-gross yards average and 42.0 net yard average on six punts, including a postseason career-high four punts placed inside the 20. Kern booted a 58-yard punt to the one-yard line in the final minute of play, and he pinned the Patriots on the seven-yard line with a 36-yard punt in the third quarter.

No Flinch

The Patriots entered the contest with a massive edge in playoff experience, and with six Lombardi Trophies. The Titans, meanwhile, had 30 players making their playoff debut, along with a head coach making his coaching debut in the playoffs as well. But on Saturday night, the Titans never flinched, and they handled the pressure when it mattered most. There was Mike Vrabel, who found a creative way to run precious seconds off the clock late on a night when he had his team ready to play. There was Tannehill with a big throw, and players across the board who didn't flinch when the tension was at its highest. The Patriots still have their trophies, but the Titans walked out of Gillette Stadium on Saturday night with a memorable win, in large part because of a gut-check effort.

TITANS CB LOGAN RYAN CAPS OFF WIN OVER PATRIOTS WITH PICK SIX

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. – Logan Ryan made the rounds at Gillette Stadium before the game on Saturday, slapping high fives with Titans fans and Patriots fans in pregame.

The Titans cornerback has fond memories of his playing days in the stadium, where he played four seasons, and won two Super Bowl rings.

When the night was over, Ryan made Titans fans happy. His return left a painful memory for Patriots fans, however – Ryan's nine-yard interception return for a touchdown with nine seconds left was the capping score in Tennessee's 20-13 playoff win over the Patriots.

"It's a great feeling," Ryan said. "It doesn't happen often – T.B. throwing pick-6s. But I just made right for the first one and earned some credibility from my teammates. No one will doubt my hands any more hopefully."

Earlier in the game, Ryan let a potential pick-6 escape his grasp.

"One thing I didn't do is I didn't get down on myself, and I kept the faith," Ryan said. "I felt like the ball was going to come to me because it came to me once. I had two opportunities today and I caught one and it helped seal the game. I'm very thankful I could do my part to help us win this game."

Ryan said he'll treasure the football from Saturday night's pick. It was his fifth interception of the season, counting the regular season.

"Every ball that I get, every interception, I give away to somebody," Ryan said. "I think (intercepting) Tom Brady, I'll keep it for my mantel. He has been a role model for me, and a lot of his work ethic I studied and tried to bring to Tennessee. That's the goat in my eyes, so I am happy I got one off of him."

HOT TOPICS FROM TITANS COACH MIKE VRABEL'S SUNDAY PRESSER

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JANUARY 6, 2020

NASHVILLE – Titans coach Mike Vrabel held a press conference on Sunday at Saint Thomas Sports Park, one day after the team's 20-13 win over the New England Patriots.

The Titans return to action on Saturday when they face the Ravens in Baltimore.

Here's a look at some of the hot topics from today's presser…

Henry's Workload

Titans running back Derrick Henry racked up 204 of the team's total 272 yards against the Patriots.

Henry ran for 182 yards on 34 carries, and he also caught a pass for a 22-yard gain.

Vrabel said Henry is built for moments like Saturday night, and thinks there's a reason he's held up so well during the course of a season when he carried the ball 303 times for 1,540 yards and 16 touchdowns.

"I think Derrick trains and prepares to be able to handle that load, to carry that load," Vrabel said. "He has a certain skillset, with size and strength and speed and durability – those are all great qualities for a running back in January. So he'll do everything that he has to to get ready and to do whatever it is that we ask him to do in the game plan.

"He's very unique – there's not that many running backs in the league like Derrick, because there's not that many players in college that are like Derrick, and by that I just mean a bigger tailback."

Challenge vs the Ravens

The Titans will face the Ravens at 7:15 CT on Saturday.

The Ravens, ranked No.2 in the NFL in total offense (yards) and No.1 in scoring offense, are led by quarterback Lamar Jackson, who has 3,127 passing yards and 36 touchdowns, along with 1,206 rushing yards and seven touchdowns.

Baltimore is ranked fourth overall on defense (yards), and third in scoring defense.

"Offensively they have the best player in the league, who is impossible to tackle," Vrabel said of Jackson. "They have a great scheme – on any other day it would be fun to watch, but not when you are trying to prepare for them and stop them. … They are well coached and they are physical and that's what the Baltimore Ravens have always been, especially with John (Harbaugh)"

Clock Management

By design, the Titans were whistled for a pair of penalties in the closing minutes, which allowed extra time to run off the clock.

Television cameras caught Patriots coach Bill Belichick looking upset when talking to officials, but it was a legal plan Vrabel took advantage of because he trusted his defense.

"(I) see how we're playing defensively, how the game is going, and how Brett (Kern) is punting the ball," Vrabel said. "Do we think that we can stop them?"

Asked about Belichick's demeanor, Vrabel said: "I can only concentrate on one team. Just trying to do what is best for us each and every week. … I just try and understand what the rules are and play by them, and use them to our advantage any way we can."

Game Balls

Vrabel regularly hands out game balls and recognizes players of note after games, and when asked about those players this week he said it was a team win.

"I just think right now the Titans, everybody that played in that game, contributed," Vrabel said.

But Vrabel went on to praise several of his players from the game, including linebacker Rashaan Evans and safety Kenny Vaccaro.

"Rashaan was very active, and was physical," Vrabel said. "I thought Kenny played safety how I envision safety being played – he was physical and he threw his body around for his team.

"Offensively we got a lot of great effort up front, came off the football. Certainly Derrick played very well, but you could kind of feel the line of scrimmage moving in the direction we needed to go."

Vrabel singled out safety Dane Cruikshank's performance on special teams, and he said punter Brett Kern was solid.

Jayon Brown's Health

Titans linebacker Jayon Brown left Saturday's game on two separate occasions with a shoulder injury, and after the second time he didn't return.

Brown watched the second half of the game in streets clothes.

"He's sore, like a lot of guys," Vrabel said when asked about Brown's health.

Vrabel was not asked about an injury status for any other player.

Adoree's Return, and Praise for Tramaine Brock

Titans cornerback Adoree' Jackson played vs the Patriots for the first time since Dec. 1.

Jackson started the contest, and he played in 58 of 61 defensive snaps. Jackson was credited with two tackles and two passes defensed, including one late.

"(He was) good," Vrabel said. "Tight coverage, late in the game there they had to have it and I thought he was in good, tight coverage. He didn't foul, it was a contested catch and he got a PBU. We'll need everybody available that we can have moving toward Saturday night."

Vrabel also complimented cornerback Tramaine Brock, who was acquired off waivers from the Cardinals late in the season. Brock played well on Saturday, tallying four tackles and two breakups while playing 45 snaps.

"He's gotten up to speed pretty quickly," Vrabel said. "And I appreciate his efforts, and I appreciate his willingness to try and do it how we're coaching. We're going to need a lot more of that on Saturday night."

TITANS 20, PATRIOTS 13: FIVE OBSERVATIONS AS TENNESSEE ADVANCES TO FACE RAVENS

BY ERIC BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Massachusetts — Could it be Tom Brady's last game? Could a former Patriots linebacker be the one to help shove him out the door? Could a quarterback with zero playoff experience help take down one with all of it?

These were questions that swirled in the days leading up to Titans-Patriots at Gillette Stadium, a showdown of two teams with connections at every level of their organizations and that even shared joint practices in Nashville during training camp in August.

In the end, the ex-Patriot prevailed – coach Mike Vrabel's Titans came to his former stomping grounds Saturday and weathered every storm in their 20-13 win.

So did the zero-experience quarterback – and Tennessee is now 8-3 since Ryan Tannehill took over as starting QB in Week 7.

On a third-and-8 from th Titans 15 with 2:54 left, Tannehill completed an 11-yard pass to tight end Anthony Firkser for a first down. The Titans then got an 11-yard rush from Derrick Henry, an All-Pro-type punt from All-Pro punter Brett Kern that pinned New England at its 1-yard line and an interception return for a touchdown from former Patriots cornerback Logan Ryan to seal it.

Here are five observations as the Titans (10-7) handed the Patriots (12-5) their first home playoff loss since the 2012 season and advanced to the AFC divisional round to face the Ravens (14-2) in Baltimore next Saturday:

All hail the rushing king

Save for a dense, consistent fog, Winter Storm Henry didn't factor significantly into Saturday night's game.

The other Henry did, though.

On his 26th birthday, Henry was in bulldozer mode from the start, piling up 106 yards in the first half on 7.6 yards per carry. His 1-yard rushing touchdown with 38 seconds left in the half was set up by his 22-yard gain on a screen pass the play before it.

Henry, who led the NFL with 1,540 rushing yards in the regular season, finished with 34 carries for 182 yards rushing and a touchdown.

Goal-line stand looms large

The Titans entered the postseason ranked 31st in the league in defending in the red zone with their opponents converting red-zone trips into touchdowns 68.1% of the time.

But a goal-line stand toward the end of the second quarter proved massive Saturday.

The Patriots' had a first-and-goal from the 1-yard line with 4:29 left in the second quarter but could move no further. Linebacker Rashaan Evans had a tackle for a 1-yard loss on first down; defensive lineman DaQuan Jones and Evans combined for a tackle for one yard on second down; and Evans, after Jeffery Simmons got good push inside, had another tackle for a loss on third down.

The Patriots settled for a 21-yard field goal, and the Titans took a 14-13 lead 100 seconds of game time later after Henry scored.

Tom Brady held in check

He had his moments, like the 20-yard pass that eluded two Titans' outstretched arms before finding receiver Julian Edelman for a clutch third-down conversion in the second half.

But they were few and far between. For the most, the Titans did well against Brady, the all-time leader in playoffs wins (30) and appearances (41). He completed just 20 of 37 passes for 209 yards with an interception.

Titans don't let turnover kill them

The Patriots had a plus-21 turnover margin through the regular season, plus-five better than the next closest team.

They got a huge one on the first play of the fourth quarter Saturday – the game's first turnover – after Tannehill underthrew receiver Corey Davis and was intercepted by safety Duron Harmon.

But the defense picked up the slack. In perhaps the best example of the night that indicated these Patriots were a lesser version of previous iterations during their dynasty, Brady and the New England offense couldn't capitalize.

Tannehill, Titans receivers stifled

By halftime, Titans wide receivers had only two catches: A.J. Brown's 4-yard catch, and Tajae Sharpe's 6-yarder.

They had run into New England's second-ranked pass defense, which held opponents to just 180.4 passing yards per game during the regular season.

Tannehill finished 8-for-15 passing for 72 yards with one touchdown and one interception. His 61.0 passer rating was his lowest since taking over as starting quarterback.

TITANS LOOKED UP AT PATRIOTS' SIX CHAMPIONSHIP BANNERS, THEN RAN ALL OVER THEM

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Massachusetts — Rodger Saffold was of the understanding that the Titans should not have been looking up at the Patriots' six championship banners that hang right along the Gillette Stadium marquee.

Taylor Lewan was not.

"That (stuff) was dope," the Titans left tackle said as Saffold laughed after Tennessee's 20-13 win against the Patriots on Saturday in the AFC wild-card round. "The reality is, the last 20 years, they've been like, the team. They've literally been a dynasty. It doesn't matter how old Tom Brady is, that team is unbelievable. But we were obviously confident with what we've done up until this point, and it's just a matter of taking care of business and getting enough points for the win."

And so the Titans – with a quarterback who had no previous playoff experience, a 53-man roster that featured 30 players making their postseason debuts and a coach who was very much the apprentice in the master-apprentice analogy Saturday – tore through the Patriots' playoff mystique while running all over it.

Derrick Henry's 182 rushing yards, the defense's clutchness and a superior coaching effort were just enough.

"I think our players were just ready to go," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "Our coaching staff did a great job, to have them prepared. You know, I told them, 'To win this game, you're going to have to be mentally and physically exhausted to win this football game.' … They feast on bad football, and we didn't hand them anything. And I don't think our guys spent too much time staring up at those banners."

But what about on a personal level? It had to mean something for Vrabel to come back to Foxborough and beat Bill Belichick and the team he won three Super Bowls with, right?

"I mean, I'm honored to coach these guys," Vrabel said. "And there is no other team that I would rather have come in here with than the one that was out there on the field. I'm thankful that I get to coach them another week."

Just how good had the Patriots been at Gillette? They entered Saturday on a nine-game home winning streak in the postseason, with the best home playoff record (23-4) of all-time, and having won at least one playoff game in a record eight seasons from 2011-18.

The Titans, somehow, dismissed all of that.

"We had a lot of belief," cornerback Logan Ryan said. "It was a different feeling than coming up here two years ago (when the Titans lost to the Patriots in the divisional round 35-14). Two years ago, I think we were happy to be here, happy to be in the game. This time we believed we could win, and I think that showed."

The Patriots had their first two possessions of the fourth quarter end with a punt while trailing by only a point. Each lasted four plays. Tom Brady's magic, the fuel to this six-title dynasty, was smothered. New England didn't get its third possession until 15 seconds remained, when it was backed up at the 1-yard line and in miracle-or-bust mode.

"We challenged them. We didn't back down," said Ryan, a former Patriot. "It's hard to do here – I know I've been on that side, so I know how hard it is to do. I don't know if it's hit us yet, but we believed we could."

Now it's on to Baltimore, where the Titans (10-7) next Saturday will face the top-seeded Ravens (14-2). Titans players already were looking ahead to that game shortly after beating the Patriots. So was Vrabel – though he did prioritize appreciating what took place at Gillette Stadium.

"For the next 30 minutes or 40 minutes, I'm going to be appreciative of our football team and our players," Vrabel said during his postgame press conference, "for playing as well as they did (Saturday), as hard as they did, and believing in each other, the effort to finish, the foundation of our program in Tennessee."

TITANS' LOGAN RYAN CREDITS POISE FOR SECONDARY'S PERFORMANCE AGAINST PATRIOTS

BY DRAKE HILLS
THE TENNESSEAN
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Massachusetts — Titans cornerback Logan Ryan had to stay loose.

In a game in which he was tasked with stopping the Patriots' leading receiver in Julian Edelman and facing a quarterback destined for the Hall of Fame in Tom Brady, Ryan and the rest of the secondary kept their poise, and that made all the difference in helping the Titans win 20-13 on Saturday at Gillette Stadium to advance to the AFC divisional playoffs.

"He's going to make plays. He's gonna be a good quarterback. He's gonna put the team in a good place," Ryan said of Brady. "They're going to get the ball to the playmakers like (James) White and Edelman. We had better poise in the second half and got them to punt and kick field goals, keeping the score low."

Both Ryan and cornerback Adoree' Jackson attested to the wild atmosphere at Gillette Stadium and the importance of keeping their composure. Ryan said it was "a different feeling than coming here two years ago." The Titans lost that game 35-14 in the divisional round.

A part of that difference were the well-traveled Titans fans who cheered on their team, despite the rainy forecast with a temperature in the low 40s. Fans arrived long before kickoff, and Ryan noticed.

And he gave them something to remember the trip by, sealing the victory with an interception return for a score.

For Ryan, the interception not only called 'game,' but it was a successful shot at redemption, following a potential interception he mishandled with 23 seconds left in the first half. If Ryan had caught that pass and ran it in for a score, it would have given the Titans an eight-point lead going into the intermission.

He called it the "easiest pick of my career." He got redemption later in the game. So did the team.

"This time, we believed we could win," he said. "I think that showed. We were challenged and we didn't back down."

Jackson agreed.

"We didn't go out there worrying about getting beat," he said. "We're just out playing our game and playing ball. Coach (Mike) Vrabel always talks about when you're out there, think about the worst thing that can happen on the field and eliminate that (thought). We just had to play within the defense and play in our scheme."

Neither Ryan nor Jackson backed down from Edelman, limiting the wide receiver to three catches for 30 yards and Brady to no touchdown passes. Edelman had entered the game with 100 receptions for 1,117 yards.

Jackson's potion for poise? It was something he told himself just before kickoff.

"I asked the Lord myself to remove all the nerves and jitters that I may have," he said. "I told myself to have fun, be great, play great and to just be legendary."

'THIS IS NOT OUR SUPER BOWL': TITANS CELEBRATED LIKE THEY EXPECTED TO TOP PATRIOTS

BY GENTRY ESTES
THE TENNESSEAN
JANUARY 6, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Massachusetts – The postgame headline on NFL.com proclaimed "Titans upset the reigning champs," the subhead noting a result that "stunned the New England Patriots."

Upset? Stunning? Not in the Titans' locker room. No, really.

"I think everybody thought it was like a 'Oh, they're lucky to be in here' type of situation," Titans safety Kenny Vaccaro said. "For us, it was 'We're trying to go the distance.' We're not just in the playoffs just to see how long we can last. I think we expected to come in and be successful. I think everybody else didn't."

One would have anticipated a party. And sure, it was a celebratory atmosphere among the Titans after Saturday night's 20-13 victory at Gillette Stadium ended the Patriots' three-year run of Super Bowl appearances. But it wasn't a full-scale celebration.

There's a difference, and the meaning was clear as players quickly dressed and gathered belongings for the trip back to Nashville: These Titans were not awed by the Patriots or shocked to beat them.

If anything, the aftermath felt surprisingly routine, like any of the other victories that allowed the Titans to reach the playoffs after a slow start this season. "This is not our Super Bowl," linebacker Wesley Woodyard said.

"I mean, we're on to the next win," Vaccaro said. "We won the wildcard. Whoop-dee. Do banners get hung for that?"

Those who would be shocked by the Titans' victory over the Patriots hadn't been paying attention to either side in recent weeks, not just the Pats' losing at home to the lowly Dolphins to end the regular season but how well the Titans have been playing on their end.

The perception of newly formidable Titans wasn't dented much Saturday night. This result wasn't a fluke. Yes, the Titans were fortunate at times – Tannehill fumbled twice and the Titans recovered each, for example – but the game didn't play out perfectly for them either.

Instead, those things the Patriots had been known to be able to do in the playoffs, the Titans were able to do them.

Saturday night was a step back in the passing game, but the Titans were more physical when it mattered. Derrick Henry's 182 rushing yards nearly tripled Sony Michel's 61 for the Patriots. The Titans' offense was 6-of-12 on third down (the Patriots were 5-of-13) and 2-for-2 on touchdowns in the red zone (that one was a critical 1-of-3 for the home team).

Defensively, the Titans played as well as they had in weeks, shutting out Tom Brady and the Patriots in the second half and making a one-point lead hold up until the final seconds.

"We came up here expecting that if we play our best ball, if we play our brand of football, we were going to win the game," safety Kevin Byard said. "We didn't come up here just to beat the Patriots and then lose next week. Our whole mentality is go win a Super Bowl." Could that actually happen?

A confident team that can win the line of scrimmage, run the ball, stop the run, limit mistakes and make plays in critical situations can be a tough out in the playoffs. These Patriots weren't the same as the ones that won titles in recent years, but they still won 12 games and have an undeniable track record in the postseason, especially at home.

Beating them, basically, at their own game means something about the Titans' growth as a franchise. It also is a sign to not count the Titans out of any matchup.

It'll be a greater challenge against the Ravens and former Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Lamar Jackson, who has put together an MVP-caliber sophomore season in the NFL and has a solid defense backing him up.

The Titans will be underdogs in Baltimore, surely. And they should be. If they win that one, they'll probably be underdogs again. That's the deal when you are the No. 6 seed in the AFC.

Going back to earlier in the season, tight end Delanie Walker said he felt like the Titans were often at their best when doubted, and he was right. They tend to crave disrespect, and they usually don't lack for it.

Before the first game, in fact, Henry made a point of saying "Why not us?" to teammates. He's still saying it as a rallying cry for a team that the rest of the league didn't see coming. "I don't think anybody expected anything from us," Henry said. "Keep that underdog mentality and just stay hungry, just keep believing in each other."

Personnel-wise, the Titans do not have the makeup of some star-studded, special team, but that doesn't mean this can't be a special run. The intangibles are coming together nicely. They are genuinely expecting to be able to win while still being motivated by a belief that few others agree with them.

That's a powerful combo for an NFL team that will be one of eight left standing in mid-January.

The Titans deserve to be one of them. That's good. Very good, even. But it's not great. Not yet, at least.

And these Titans seem to understand that.

DERRICK HENRY ROLLS UP 182 YARDS RUSHING TO CARRY TITANS BY PATRIOTS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. -- A winter storm named Henry rolled through New England on Saturday. That's also what rolled through the Patriots at Gillette Stadium.

The Tennessee Titans rode Derrick Henry to a 20-13 win against the New England Patriots in the wild-card round, as the back ran for 182 yards -- the most against a Bill Belichick-coached Patriots team in a playoff game.

Henry is the first player to gain over 100 yards against the Patriots in the playoffs since Seattle Seahawks back Marshawn Lynch gained 102 yards in 2015, and he joined Hall of Famer Marcus Allen as the only former Heisman winners in NFL history to record multiple 150-yard rushing games in the playoffs.

Tennessee's game plan was to get the game into the fourth quarter with a lead and use a steady dose of Henry to close it out. Playing on his 26th birthday, Henry set the tone early by picking up over 100 yards in the first half. The 6-foot-3, 247-pound back carried the ball five times for 50 on the final drive in the second quarter.

Henry also caught a screen pass for 22 yards that set up his one-yard touchdown plunge to give the Titans the lead for good.

"We were just locked in, we wanted it," Henry said on CBS after the game. "And I thing that was our mindset, just coming in here and doing what we do in all three phases, no matter what happens in the game."

The Titans handed the Patriots their earliest playoff exit since 2009 when they lost to the Baltimore Ravens in in the wild-card round. Tennessee coach Mike Vrabel secured his first playoff win at the expense of his former team and coach, Bill Belichick.
Now the Titans have a date with the top-seeded Ravens in Baltimore in the divisional round next Saturday.

"It's a great win against a great team in a hostile environment," Henry said. "It's a credit to my team. I am just happy we are able to advance."

MIKE VRABEL'S 'TEAM OF BELIEVERS' LIVES ON IN THE PLAYOFFS

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUAHRSKY.COM
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. – It's premature to say the Titans toppled a dynasty at Gillette Stadium Saturday night.

But they showcased their bruiser birthday running back as they dethroned the champions with an imperfect game, advancing to a matchup in Baltimore to renew a once violent rivalry. They won a wild card playoff game for the second time in three seasons.

And that's plenty.

"We've been on the other side of it," said Logan Ryan, who won two Super Bowls with the Patriots but was part of the 2017 Titans who lost here in the divisional round. "The whole thing was you can't get caught looking at the pinstripes. They are a championship organization, they are all class, they've got the best quarterback, the best coach.

"But we were just trying to win the game. Mike (Vrabel) preached that to the team, he brought a team of believers up here."

Vrabel won three Super Bowls in eight seasons playing for Bill Belichick and the Patriots. Given a chance to say the game meant something to him because of all that, he pointed to his team now.

"I'm honored to coach these guys," he said, "And there is no other team that I would rather have come in here with than the one that was out there on the field. I'm thankful I get to coach them another week."

As they did in a regular-season win over the Patriots in Nashville last season, the Titans shut out New England in the second half.

Their 14-13 intermission lead expanded to 20-13 only when Ryan grabbed Brady's last pass of the season and took if back 9-yards for a pick 6 with 9 seconds remaining in the game.

The Patriots head into the offseason having lost to all four of the AFC's remaining teams Tennessee, Houston, top-seeded Baltimore and No. 2 seed Kansas City.

Tom Brady is set to become a free agent for the first time in his career and the 42-year old is no lock to be back.

When the Titans and Patriots practiced together during training camp and we saw just how close he and Vrabel are and when the Titans own quarterback situation was so up in the air, I thought a Nashville pairing of the two might be a real possibility.

But Ryan Tannehill is 10 years younger, and his excellent season once he took over for Marcus Mariota in Week 7 lines him up to be the guy now. Saturday he will have to do more next week in Baltimore to lead the Titans to the AFC Championship Game.

Against the Patriots, he threw just 15 times, hitting on eight for 72 yards with a bad pick and a touchdown to Firkser. After posting an incredible regular season 9.6 yards per attempt, he managed 4.8 against the league's top defense.

"We knew coming in that we wanted to run the football," Tannehill said. "Obviously (that's) a really good defense, good in the secondary and they make it tough on you throwing the football.

"I don't know if we knew we were going to throw it that little, but they definitely did a good job and the run game was working for us so we stuck with it."

Tannehill's passer rating of 61.0 was still better than Brady's 59.4, dragged down by 17 incomplete passes on 37 attempts.

"It's unreal, I can't lie," Jurrell Casey said. "To go against the GOAT, to get him riled up, not let him complete passes like he normally does all day, it feels great. It's definitely a good motivator for this defense."

Henry turned 35 touches into 204 yards in a game where no other skill player on either side managed more than 76 (James White) and no other Titan had more than 23 (Anthony Firkser).

"We don't want anything easy," said Henry, who turned 26. "We want it gritty, we want it dirty. That's the mentality we've got to have. My main focus is finishing each and every drive in all three phases.

"Don't give up on each other, believe, communicate when we're out there, what we're seeing so we make adjustments as a team. Just keep thriving, keep striving and finish the game."

The Patriots were in a position to go up 14-7 in the second quarter with a first-and-goal from the Titans' 1. But the Titans turned them away with an excellent goal-line stand.

Rashaan Evans shot through the line to get Sony Michel for a 1-yard loss on first down, DaQuan Jones moved laterally to get Rex Burkhead after just a 1-yard gain on second down and on third down Jeffrey Simmons blew things up to allow Evans another play on Michel, this one for a 2-yard loss.

"After that, we had a momentum shift," Evans said.apple icon 144x144 precomposed

The Titans turned around and went on a seven-play, 75-yard drive that took just 1:41. WKRN's Cory Curtis has taken to calling it "reinvented 2:00 offense." Henry touched the ball on six plays, five of them runs including a 1-yard TD.

It unconventional, but they're making it work. This time it produced the winning score.

It gave the Titans another game to push for their good-to-great goal. And it sent the left the Patriots into their uncertain future.

“It’s always the same,” New England safety Devin McCourty said of a playoff loss: “It’s like a crash landing.”

WHEN THE TITANS NEEDED BIG PLAYS — A GOAL-LINE STAND AND A PICK SIX — THE DEFENSE DELIVERED AGAINST THE PATRIOTS

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBORO, Mass. — Only seconds remained in the first half when the football floated toward Titans cornerback Logan Ryan, the opportunity to make a game-changing play literally in his hands.

Until it wasn't.

With a clear path to the end zone ahead of him, Ryan lost his focus for a split second, just long enough that Tom Brady's deflected pass tumbled from his grasp and fell to the ground.

How many chances do you get like that against Brady? How many opportunities to land a gut-punch to the defending Super Bowl champs, one that — had Ryan returned it for a touchdown — would have given the Titans an eight-point lead heading into halftime? Would it be the play the Titans looked back on in frustration if they fell to the Patriots in this wild-card round playoff contest?

"Everyone knows I should have had that one before halftime," Ryan said. "I always pride myself on having great hands and I drop the easiest pick of my career. But I had faith. I said, 'The ball is going to come back to me.' I think every one of my teammates knew that was a fluke. They said, 'Lo, that ball is going to come back to you again.' I believed it."

'We couldn't allow them to score'

How many times have the Titans needed their defense to make a difference over the past couple of months?

Not very often, to be honest.

Quarterback Ryan Tannehill and the Titans' offense were so busy scoring points — averaging more than 30 per game over the previous 10 contests — that it didn't often matter what the defense did. In one four-game winning streak, the Titans rolled up 35 points against Kansas City, 42 against Jacksonville, 31 against Indianapolis and 42 against Oakland. Who really cared how the defense fared in those games? What difference would it have made?

The problem, though, was the Titans' offensive explosion was overshadowing a downward spiral on the other side of the ball, one that saw the team's overall defensive ranking slide from eighth — prior to Week 7 — to 21st at the end of the regular season.

And when the Titans actually needed their defense to come through with key stops — in critical late-season games against New Orleans and Houston — it was unable to do so.

"We knew we were still going to be all right," Titans linebacker Rashaan Evans said. "It's about how you finish, and we want to be the team that finished strongest."

It was late in the second quarter when the Titans' defense started to show that finishing kick. The Patriots had marched to the Tennessee 1-yard line, on the verge of taking a 17-7 lead that could have altered the Titans' patient offensive plan. Instead, the Titans threw the Pats back on three consecutive plays — with Evans collecting 2.5 tackles in that stretch. The Pats were held to a field goal, leaving the Titans down by just six points.

"We just knew we couldn't allow them to score," Evans said. "That was like a pivotal moment for us to be able to take advantage of. Because if they score at that time, shit, the game is a lot different than what it was. But (defensive coordinator) Dean Pees gave us a really good call, and I was able to make a couple plays to help my team."

'This guy's a machine'

In his career, Brady has won six Super Bowls, earned three NFL MVP awards, thrown for nearly 75,000 yards and connected on 541 touchdown passes.

But in the second half, the greatest quarterback in the history of the game was owned by the Titans' defense. Six times, the Patriots took possession trailing 14-13, needing only a field goal to retake the lead. On those six possessions, the Patriots managed just five first downs, only once crossing midfield.

On one third-quarter possession, Titans' defenders got their hands on the football on back-to-back plays. Outside linebacker Harold Landry smacked one Brady attempt to the turf on second down, while cornerback Adoree Jackson stepped in front of receiver N'Keal Harry one play later, batting the pass away.

"Yeah, just give them a lot of credit," said Brady, who completed 6-of-15 passes for 60 yards in the second half. "They played good and kind of stopped us when they needed to at different points in the first half and the second half. We just weren't able to get the job done."

Still, even when Brady and the Pats took over on their own 1-yard line, trailing by one with only 15 seconds remaining in the game, it was easy to believe we were about to witness another miracle comeback. This is a man, after all, who'd engineered 45 game-winning drives in his career, 36 fourth-quarter comebacks.

"We were talking on the sideline like, 'Man, this guy's a machine, he's not going to stop,'" Titans safety Kevin Byard said of Brady. "We had to make sure we were staying as locked in as we knew he is."

Added safety Kenny Vaccaro: "We knew anything could happen, anything was possible. I've seen these guys come back from down 28-3. Tom Brady is that special."

‘A storybook ending’

But that’s when Ryan got his chance to make amends.

On the Patriots’ first play, another Brady pass bounced off the hands of his intended receiver, this time fluttering away from tight end Ben Watson. Once again, Ryan found himself with the ball floating toward him, a clear path to the end zone ahead. There was no lapse of concentration, no wasted opportunity. Instead, he snatched the football out of the air and waltzed nine yards into the end zone, putting the Titans ahead 20-13 with nine seconds left and driving that final nail into the Pats’ coffin.

“What do you know?” Ryan said with a smile. “It came right back to me again. So I appreciate TB12 for that one, man. That one’s going on my mantle.”

It was a moment rich with satisfaction for Ryan, who spent four seasons in New England, winning a pair of Super Bowls with the Patriots. He’s close with a number of New England’s players, including Brady, Julian Edelman and defensive backs Devin McCourty, Jason McCourty, Stephon Gilmore and Duron Harmon. What’s better than beating those you know best, part of a Patriots team that had won three of the past five Super Bowls?

“It’s a special moment for Logan,” Byard said. “I told him at halftime that everything happens for a reason. I know he was disappointed that he dropped the interception. But you know, he didn’t really pout about it. He didn’t get upset. He knew he had to keep battling. And to finish the game like that, man, it’s like a storybook ending.”

The same could be said of a Titans’ defense overall, one that dropped a clean sheet on the Patriots over the final two quarters.

On a night Tannehill came back to earth — completing just 8-of-15 passes for 72 yards, fumbling twice and throwing an interception — the Titans won because of Derrick Henry’s relentless running and because the defense wouldn’t give an inch.

“I think we withstood all the punches, withstood the hostile environment,” Ryan said. “It’s hard to (win) here. I know. I’ve been on that side. I don’t know if it’s hit us yet … but I know we all believed we could do it.”

A PATRIOTS DYNASTY KILLER? MAYBE. AN ALL-TIME GREAT WIN FOR THE TITANS? DEFINITELY

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBORO, Mass. — Mike Vrabel and Jon Robinson held court in family circles a few feet apart outside the visiting locker room at Gillette Stadium late Saturday night, the people closest to them sharing in their greatest Tennessee Titans triumph and perhaps their termination of the NFL dynasty they helped build.

That's where most of the folks who packed the press box went with this story, this grinding 20-13 Titans playoff victory, this showcase of Derrick Henry and defense, this game that could be Tom Brady's last with the Patriots and Bill Belichick's last — at least for a while — with a team capable of winning a championship. It felt like history for the Patriots. And if this is it, the Titans will always get their credit for hitting the weak spot after two decades of Death Star reign over the league. But the point here is to have a prominent role in the new era. The story in the Titans locker room was one of a team that looked hapless at 2-4 in October, now gets a shot at Lamar Jackson and AFC No. 1 seed Baltimore and should be taken seriously in that game. The history was all over that locker room, too.

Vrabel helped win championships here as a player, Robinson as a personnel man. As coach and GM of the franchise that currently employs them, they just engineered one of the best wins it has enjoyed, in Nashville or Houston. That should not be minimized because the No. 3-seed, 12-4 Patriots have looked vulnerable this season. They've looked that way before other playoff runs. You still have to beat them.

"We didn't hand them anything," Vrabel said, repeating the primary message to his No. 6-seed team during the week, a week that saw him disavow all Patriots Vrabel talk as he did again during Saturday's postgame presser. "They feast on bad football and we didn't hand them anything."

They did make a couple of mistakes. Logan Ryan, another member of the Titans who has won it all with the Patriots, dropped an easy pick for a touchdown late in the first half with the Titans up 14-13. And Tannehill made one costly throw, lofted high and short to Corey Davis, picked off by New England safety Duron Harmon on the first play of the fourth quarter. After both plays, it felt in a stadium teeming with 65,878 rowdy fans like the Titans would ultimately pay. But the Titans defense backed up Tannehill with a stop. And Ryan capped it off by accepting another tipped gift, potentially Brady's last pass in Gillette, and taking it in for the final margin. He has given away other footballs tied to notable interceptions, he said, including one off Peyton Manning. But this one is going on the mantle.

"He's a role model to me, a lot of his work ethic I studied, how early he got to the building, things I do and try to bring to Tennessee, try to be a leader each and every day and a competitor every day in practice and the game," Ryan said of Brady. "So I mean, that's the GOAT in my eyes. Played with him. Played against him a couple times. Nothing's better. If you like to compete, competing against him and being his teammate are the two best things in the world. Happy I got one off him."

The potential lasting power of that play, from the New England perspective, was brought up.

"I didn't end a dynasty, man, the Titans did — well, I don't know if it's a dynasty over and whatnot," Ryan said. "I was part of that, they're a great organization, they'll be good for a long time. I have no idea Tom Brady's future, you've got to ask Tom Brady that, but he deserves the right to determine it, I know that. It's too early to ask questions like that."

Also, in this room, that's merely a side story.

"This team was 2-4 and written off for dead," Ryan said. "And now we just beat the Patriots in Foxboro. So belief and hard work can do a lot of things. We have a special locker room, I said it in the beginning of the year, I said it when we were 2-4, I said it when we were whatever our record was. Goal-line stands, last-minute, game-winning plays, it just continues. We believe in this team right now."

It used hurdling Rashaan Evans, touchdown-saving DaQuan Jones and line-wrecking rookie Jeffery Simmons to put together the latest goal-line stand. It got just enough from Ryan Tannehill, who was playing in his first playoff game and who never won in New England as quarterback of the Miami Dolphins. It needed a punt that could not be more clutch from All-Pro Brett Kern with 25 seconds left, all the way to the New England 1. And It feasted on 182 yards and a touchdown on 34 carries from Henry.

He was one of many Titans who were here two years ago for the divisional round of the playoffs and endured a 35-14 thumping, which was followed by Robinson's firing of coach Mike Mularkey and hiring of Vrabel. Titans right tackle Jack Conklin tore his left ACL in that game. On Saturday he was part of a blocking wall that consistently pushed around the NFL's No. 1 defense. Henry was special on his 26th birthday, elite, relentless, the best player on the field Saturday. But he had help. These Titans, Henry said, "want it gritty and want it dirty."

"We wanted to put it on our shoulders and that's what it came down to tonight," Titans center Ben Jones said. "We lined up and hit them in the mouth, we ran it up and down the field. And Derrick, he's special. He's a guy you can give it to him 40 times a game and he can do it every week. Great guy in the locker room, a great leader, and I'm just glad he's on our team."

Rodger Saffold was a key part of that push in the trenches as well, Robinson's big acquisition of the offseason, a guy whose personal turnaround since October has not been unlike his new team's turnaround. He brought history to this game, too. A year ago, he and the Los Angeles Rams were stymied and defeated by the Pats in the Super Bowl.

"This was absolutely a revenge game," Saffold said. "But I mean, at the end of the day, that's a great team and I have nothing but respect for them. Just the way they go about everything, even after the loss. If I would have lost that game I probably would have ran into the locker room. The fact that they stay out and talk to everybody and have a chance to have some fellowship with your brothers in the NFL, it just tells you what kind of team they are."

But in this room? It's about what kind of team the Titans are.

"Honestly, a gritty and grimy team," Saffold said. "And the harder it gets, the better we play."

Two years ago, Dion Lewis killed the Titans out of the backfield on the way to helping the Pats to the Super Bowl. On Saturday he had one catch for 8 yards and a first down. That isn't much, but it was 1/8 of Tannehill's completions and 1/9 of his passing yardage.

Three years ago, Anthony Firkser was a senior at Harvard in nearby Boston.

"It is pretty crazy," Firkser said. "I mean, I watched the Patriots beat the Falcons in the Super Bowl back in my dorm room and then partied in Boston afterward. So it's pretty unbelievable to be part of an NFL postseason."

Firkser led the Titans with two receptions, against a team that was as stingy against the pass Saturday as it was non-threatening downfield on offense. The first was a 12-yard touchdown strike from Tannehill on the Titans' first possession. The second was the most important completion of the game, on their last — an 11-yard out on third-and-8 from the Tennessee 15 with 2:54 left that helped them kill most of the remaining clock. That the Titans could get so little through the air, with one A.J. Brown reception for 4 yards and nothing for Corey Davis, and still win a game like this, helps explain why they are not conceding the next one.

"All we did was make it another week," Titans left tackle Taylor Lewan said. "Our goal is not to win a wild-card game. We have bigger goals than that."

The Ravens look as awesome right now as the Patriots did shaky entering the postseason. The Titans will need production from both sides of the offense against another nasty defense to have a chance. And this will be their first look at Jackson, the league's likely MVP. Of course, Titans defensive coordinator Dean Pees still knows a lot about the Ravens, his most recent team before Vrabel lured him out of a brief retirement to join the Titans. And Henry may be the only person in the Titans organization who had a better Saturday night than Pees.

"Dean called a hell of a game," Titans safety Kevin Byard said, and in doing so Pees may have helped close the book on a Patriots dynasty that he, like many in the Titans organization, helped create.

We'll see. It didn't seem like the Titans cared much about that late Saturday night. While the NFL world devotes endless discussion and speculation to it, they get to keep working on their own thing.

DERRICK HENRY, TITANS STUN PATRIOTS 20-13 IN WILD-CARD UPSET

BY BARRY WILNER
ASSOCIATED PRESS
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. (AP) — When the eerie Foxborough fog lifted, it became clear that New England's reign atop the NFL was ending.

Derrick Henry ensured that with the kind of dominating playoff performance usually reserved for Tom Brady and the Patriots.

Henry rushed for 182 yards and a touchdown while Tennessee's defense stymied Brady and perhaps ended his championship-filled New England career with a 20-13 wild-card victory Saturday night.

Brady vows to be back on an NFL field next season, but his contract with the Patriots is done.

"I love the Patriots," the 42-year Brady said, adding about leaving the game after 20 seasons: "I would say it's pretty unlikely, hopefully unlikely. I love playing football. I don't know what it looks like moving forward."

Doing the most moving forward Saturday night was Henry, who had a total of 184 yards rushing in two playoff games two years ago. He nearly got that against the league's top-ranked defense in boosting the Titans (10-7) into the divisional round at No. 1 seed Baltimore.

"It's a great win against a great team in a hostile environment," Henry said on his 26th birthday. "Credit to my team. I'm just happy we were able to advance.

"We were just locked in. That was our mindset, just coming in here doing what we needed to do in all three phases, stay locked in no matter what happens in the game, and I feel like we did that."

For sure.

As that dense fog that shrouded Gillette Stadium for the first half dissipated, the Patriots, who made the last three Super Bowls and won two, stalled repeatedly with the ball. They no longer were the bullies on the block — Henry was.

As for this defeat, the Patriots' fourth as a wild card, Brady noted: "They kind of stopped us in the first half and the second half and we couldn't get the job done."

There had been no scoring in the second half when All-Pro Brett Kern's 58-yard punt that took up 10 of the final 25 seconds rolled down at the New England 1. Brady then was picked by former Patriot Logan Ryan for a 9-yard touchdown to finish off the Patriots (12-5), who at one point were 8-0.

The game's first three possessions wound up as three long scoring drives. A 29-yard screen pass to James White set up Nick Folk's 36-yard field goal, but Tennessee answered with a 75-yard march built around Henry. He had no role on the touchdown, Tannehill's pass to a Harvard man, tight end Anthony Firkser that made it 7-3.

Firkser is the first player from Harvard to score a playoff TD.

New England counterpunched with its own 75-yard drive, taking temporary control of the game by victimizing Tennessee's defense on the outside. The Titans looked slow trying to protect the flanks as Sony Michel broke off a 25-yard run and White had a 14-yarder.

Julian Edelman finished it with the first rushing touchdown of his 11 pro seasons, a 5-yard dash to the unprotected left side of the Tennessee D.

New England appeared primed for another touchdown after Mohamed Sanu's 14-yard punt return set up the Patriots at the Titans 47, and they steadily drove to first-and-goal at the 1.

All they got was Folk's 21-yard field goal as three runs failed. It was the 13th time the Patriots had first-and-goal at the 1 in a playoff game in the Brady era and the first time they failed to get a TD on the drive.

Tannehill led the NFL with a career-best 117.5 passer rating and by averaging 9.6 yards per pass attempt. But he didn't do a whole lot Saturday night in his first postseason game: 8 of 15 for 72 yards. His awful decision to put the ball up for grabs on the first play of the fourth quarter resulted in Duron Harmon's interception.

But New England's spotty attack flopped and never revived. That has not been unusual during the second half of the schedule.

Tannehill's passing yards were the fewest for a starter since the Ravens' Joe Flacco had 34 in a wild-card win against the Patriots 10 years ago.

BIRTHDAY BOY

Henry celebrated his birthday by getting the most rushing yards against a Bill Belichick-coached Patriots team in the playoffs. He set an early tone by rushing for 49 of the Titans' 75 yards on their opening touchdown drive. On the Titans' second 75-yard TD march, all Henry did was gain every yard: 22 on a screen pass and 53 rushing, including a 1-yard dive into the end zone for a 14-13 halftime lead. Those were Tennessee's first points in the final two minutes of the opening half since Week 8.

He led the NFL in rushing this season with 1,540 yards in 15 games, the fourth-most rushing yards in franchise history. Henry also ran for 16 TDs, second most in team history.

BELICHICK DISCIPLE

Titans coach Mike Vrabel, a star linebacker for New England who won three Super Bowl rings, is a rare member of the Belichick coaching tree to defeat the Patriots' long-time coach head to head. Another of those, Houston's Bill O'Brien, also did it this season — and the Texans advanced to the divisional round earlier Saturday by beating Buffalo in overtime.

NEW ENGLAND SLUMP

After winning their first eight games, the Patriots struggled mightily in the second half of the schedule. They lost four games, and with the defeat by the Titans, they fell three times at home.

INJURIES

Titans: Linebacker Jayon Brown hurt his shoulder in the first half.

Patriots: Safety Patrick Chung left in the first quarter with an ankle issue.

NEXT UP

Titans: Head to Baltimore in the divisional round.

Patriots: Head home early, failing to become the second team to make four straight Super Bowls. And wondering where Brady is headed.

TITANS PLEASED, BUT NOT SATISFIED AFTER WIN OVER PATRIOTS

BY KYLE HIGHTOWER

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. (AP) — Titans coach Mike Vrabel posted himself outside the locker room following Tennessee's 20-13 wild-card playoff win over the New England Patriots and waited.

He wanted to personally shake the hand of every member of his team as they came off the field. Between the flood of high-fives and hugs, Vrabel mostly said, "Thank you" as his smiling players streamed by.

The last player to come down the corridor was running back Derrick Henry. When he locked eyes with his coach, he beamed as well and began shouting, "We want more! We want more!" before the pair eventually shared their own embrace.

Tennessee's methodical effort against the defending Super Bowl champion Patriots and the league's top-ranked defense was one of the biggest surprises of Saturday's opening day of the playoffs. But the Titans made one thing clear afterward: They feel like their best football is still ahead of of them. They advanced to face AFC top seed Baltimore in the divisional round.

"That's the way we like it. We don't want nothing easy. We want it gritty, we want it dirty," said Henry, who carried 34 times for 182 yards and a touchdown.

Henry, whose 444 scrimmage yards rank second in the Super Bowl era for a player in their first three career playoff games, said they weren't fazed playing against a Patriots team that had motivation after losing to the Titans during the regular season last year. It was a game that also could have potentially been quarterback Tom Brady's final game with the Patriots. The six-time champion's current contract expires following the season.

"We knew what type of game this was going to be. We knew this was a hostile environment," Henry said. "We knew this was a different type of team in the playoffs. But we just had to play our game. Not worry about the outside noise. Just do what we needed to do."

The Titans also did it the same way they did it in winning seven of their 10 games to qualify for the playoffs: grinding out points through Henry and riding the resurgent play of quarterback Ryan Tannehill, who is 8-3 since taking over the starting role from 2015 first-round pick Marcus Mariota.

Tannehill led the NFL during the regular season with a career-best 117.5 passer rating, and also led the league averaging 9.6 yards per pass attempt. He was just 8 of 15 for 72 yards and an interception Saturday night, but stayed poised and kept the ball moving — which limited the number of possessions for the Patriots.

Tennessee's 72 passing yards are the fewest by any team in a playoff win since the 2009 Ravens (34) against the Patriots in the 2009 wild-card round.

Combined with his time as Miami's starter, Tannehill now has five victories over New England. Including the playoffs, those are the second-most wins of any quarterback during the Belichick and Brady era, behind only Peyton Manning's six.

"I'm so proud of this team," Tannehill said. "It was ugly at times offensively. But we kept fighting and found a way to make a couple of plays at the end."

The biggest of the night came on the Patriots' final possession of the night — after All-Pro Brett Kern's 58-yard punt put the ball at the 1 — when cornerback and former Patriot Logan Ryan intercepted Brady and ran it in for a 9-yard touchdown.

The defense also had a goal-line stand in the second quarter that limited New England to a field goal just before the half.

"This is amazing. But it's not over," tackle Taylor Lewan said. "The last two decades, they've been the greatest team in football. We played good football. We took care of the ball and our defense stepped up when they needed to. Offense stepped up. And now we play the Ravens."

TITANS DON'T BACK DOWN, THEY MOVE ON

BY DAVID BOCLAIR

JANUARY 5, 2020

It was not the absolute best of the Tennessee Titans.

In a way, though, Saturday's 20-13 victory over the New England Patriots in a wild-card matchup at Gillette Stadium was the best representation of what these Titans are as a whole.

A team that relied too much on its defense early in the regular season and then rode a high-scoring offense into the playoffs late in the year got quality contributions from every aspect of the roster as it earned a spot in the divisional round. They were outgained but not outgunned. They gave up some plays but not a lot of points. And they made the most of the moments that mattered most.

As a result, Tennessee will play at Baltimore next Saturday with a spot in the conference championship on the line. The victory ended the championship reign of the Patriots, who won Super Bowl LIII last season and had gotten at least as far as the AFC Championship game each of the last eight years.

"We didn't hand them anything," coach Mike Vrabel said. "That was the one thing … they feast on bad football. We didn't hand them anything and I don't think our guys spent too much time staring up at those banners."

There was some good from the offense. In particular, there was Derrick Henry and the line. The NFL's leading rusher maintained his momentum from the regular season and rolled to a franchise playoff record 182 rushing yards on 34 attempts, which was more than enough to offset a surprisingly pedestrian performance in the passing game.

There was some good from the defense. In particular, there was a second-quarter goal-line stand that forced the Patriots to settle for their second field goal of the opening half. It was the second time in three red-zone possessions that quarterback Tom Brady and New England's offense failed to score a touchdown, and that ability to dig in close to the goal line offset the fact that the Patriots produced 10 plays of more than 10 yards on their first four possessions.

"This team believes in each other," quarterback Ryan Tannehill said. "We believed in each other all year, and it's come through trial. We've been in situations like this – tough games, tight games – and found a way to make a play and win. … We were able to do that (Saturday) night."

The goal-line sequence, three attempts to run it in from the 2-yard line or closer (linebacker Rashaan Evans made two tackles and defensive lineman DaQuan Jones made one), was the turning point.

Up until then – with 2:16 to play in the first half – the Patriots had scored on three of their first four offensive possessions, compiled 199 total yards and led 13-7. After that, seven possessions netted just 108 total yards and only one crossed midfield (New England got as far as the Tennessee 47). The Patriots' final play on offense was an interception that cornerback Logan Ryan returned nine yards for a touchdown with nine seconds remaining.

"They made some key plays in critical situations," New England coach Bill Belichick said of Tennessee's defense. "In the red area on third down, ultimately those plays were probably the difference in the game."

It was also after the goal-line stand that the Titans turned to Henry in earnest. They put together a seven-play, 75-yard touchdown drive that gave them the lead at halftime. Those seven plays were six Henry runs for 53 yards and one Henry reception for 22 yards.

There was little else for offensive coordinator Arthur Smith to do given that Tannehill and the passing game – particularly the wide receivers – fell well short of the standard they established over the preceding 10 contests. Tannehill completed just eight of 15 passes for 72 yards, and his leading targets were backup tight ends Anthony Firkser (two receptions, 23 yards) and MyCole Pruitt (two receptions, four yards).

Firkser contributions were particularly notable given that his first catch went for 12 yards and a touchdown that put Tennessee ahead 7-3 in the first quarter. His second was an 11-yard gain on third-and-8 with 2:54 to play, which allowed the Titans to run precious time off the clock.

"We knew it was going to be a tough game," Henry said. "We knew it was going to be muddy. We just had the mindset to never keep up [and] keep playing together in all three phases."

FIRKSER PLAYS STAR IN FIRST PLAYOFF GAME

BY DAVID BOCLAIR

JANUARY 5, 2020

Chances are that Anthony Firkser could do the math and tell you exactly what the chances were that he would be one of the heroes of the Tennessee Titans' 20-13 wild card victory at New England on Saturday.

Anyone else simply would figure those chances to be somewhere between slim and none.

Yet there he was, the backup tight end who holds an applied mathematics degree from Harvard running into the end zone to score the game's first touchdown and getting his hands on another ball that helped his team run time off the clock late in the contest.

It might not sound like much, but on a night when quarterback Ryan Tannehill managed just eight completions on 15 attempts, Firkser's two catches for 23 yards figured prominently in the result. He tied for the team lead in receptions and finished as the leader in receiving yards, and he did so in his first career playoff appearance and a mere 30 miles or so from where, two-plus years ago, he walked across a stage to collect one of the world's most prestigious diplomas.

The only other player with multiple receptions was another backup tight end, MyCole Pruitt who caught two passes for four yards.

"Firk came up big a couple times for us," Tannehill said.

Firkser gave the Titans their first lead with a 12-yard touchdown reception with 5:39 to play in the first quarter (pictured). He beat safety Terrence Brooks one-on-one when the Patriots blitzed on third-and-10 and capped a seven-play, 75-yard drive on Tennessee's opening possession.

New England had gotten the ball first and settled for a field goal. The Titans, who had the best red zone offense during the regular season, did not. Firkser's catch made it 7-3.

According to Elias Sports Bureau, Firkser is the sixth player from an Ivy League school all-time -- the 1st from Harvard -- to score a touchdown in an NFL playoff game.

Tennessee started the second half with a 14-13 lead and that was still the score with 2:54 to play, when the offense faced a third-and-8 from its own 15 and New England had just used its second timeout. Tannehill hit Firkser on an out route that gained 11 yards that earned a fresh set of downs. When the Titans finally gave the ball back to the Patriots, there just 15 seconds to play.

"It was a great call by (offensive coordinator Arthur Smith)," Tannehill said. "… I was able to hit him. It was a big play for us. … That [was a] huge play there on third down."

RYAN SEIZES SECOND CHANCE FOR PICK-SIX

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
JANUARY 5, 2020

Logan Ryan let one ball slip through his hands Saturday.

When he got a second chance, he did not simply grab it. He held it and planned to do so all the way back to Nashville.

With nine seconds to go, the veteran cornerback intercepted a pass and returned it nine yards for a touchdown that closed out the scoring in the Tennessee Titans' 20-13 victory over the New England Patriots in a wild card matchup at Gillette Stadium.

"That one's going on my mantle," he said.

There were any number of reasons for him to want to turn the takeaway into a keepsake. It was the first postseason touchdown of his career, the first interception against his former team and the exclamation point for a defense that held quarterback Tom Brady and the Patriots offense scoreless for the entire second half.

Or maybe he plans to use it as a reminder that every moment – particularly in the playoffs – matters.

Earlier in the contest he missed an opportunity for a similar interception, one he almost certainly would he returned for a touchdown as well. The moment came three plays after the Titans had gone ahead 14-13 in the final minute of the first half. His drop left open the possibility for the Patriots to put points on the board before halftime (they ultimately did not).

"Everyone knows I should have had the one before halftime," Ryan said. "I was looking at the run before I even secured the catch, and I never do that. I always pride myself on having great hands and I dropped the easiest pick of my career.

"But I had faith. I said the ball was going to come back to me. Every one of my teammates knew that was a fluke and said, 'Lo, the ball's going to come back to you again. It's going to come back to you again.' And I believed it."

His interception was the only takeaway by the Tennessee defense in the contest and the first postseason interception by the Titans since Cortland Finnegan got one in 2007 against the then-San Diego Chargers in 2007.

For Ryan, one wasn't as good as two, but it was good enough for the Titans to win.

"What do you know? It came right back to me again," he said. "So I appreciate (Brady) for that one."

TITANS, DERRICK HENRY RUN PAST PATRIOTS IN AFC WILD-CARD

BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITANINSIDER.COM
JANUARY 5, 2020

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. _ Earlier in the week, left tackle Taylor Lewan said the Tennessee Titans would have to pack their running game and their defense to take on the road with them if they wanted to defeat the New England Patriots.

Saturday night, the Titans unpacked those elements in Gillette Stadium resulting in a stunning 20-13 AFC Wild-Card upset of the defending Super Bowl champion Patriots.

Derrick Henry ran 34 times for 182 yards and a touchdown, and the Tennessee defense, after a shaky start had an impressive second-quarter goal-line stand and then proceeded to shut out Tom Brady and the Patriots in the second half.

The victory advances the Titans (10-7) into the AFC Divisional Round next Saturday against the top-seeded Baltimore Ravens.

Henry said the Titans were ready for a street fight type game and imposed their style of football on the Patriots.

"We knew it was going to be a tough game. We knew it was going to be muddy. We just had the mindset not to give up and to keep playing in all three phases," said Henry, who had 106 of his yards and the go-ahead touchdown in the first half.

The Titans wound up needing everything Henry and the defense could give them, because the Patriots made it a point to shut down Tennessee's passing attack. Ryan Tannehill, who was coming off being the AFC Player of the Month in December, completed just 8 of 15 passes for 72 yards with one touchdown and one interception. But it gave him his first win ever at Gillette Stadium as well in his first postseason start.

Saturday night's Titans win was also the franchise's first in Gillette Stadium since moving to Tennessee in 1997. Titans coach Mike Vrabel said running the football with Henry was how the Titans drew up their game plan.

"He certainly did (run well), and that has to be the formula when we look at things. To be able to run the football and stop the run was huge. … It takes all 11 to run the football, but Derrick is a huge part of that," Vrabel said.

After the Titans defense surrendered a field goal on the opening drive, Tennessee answered with a TD drive for a7-3 lead. Tannehill found tight end Anthony Firkser for a 12-yard touchdown pass to cap a 75-yard drive.

However, the Titans defense yielded another touchdown on the second series, and it looked as though it might be a tough night defensively.

But Dean Pees' group rallied and turned the tide in the game with the Titans trailing 10-7 and the Patriots driving for more.

New England had first-and-goal at the Titans 1 after Sony Michel ran 12 yards to the shadow of the goal line. But on first down, Rashaan Evans stuffed Michel for a 1-yard loss. Rex Burkhead was stopped for a 1-yard gain on second down and Evans again threw Michel for a loss on third down, forcing the Patriots to kick a field goal and settle for a 13-7 lead. It would be the last points Brady and the Patriots would get all night.

"The defensive line set their line back for me to be able to make plays," Evans said. "As a whole, we just came up big in that opportunity. We know if they score (a touchdown), it's a totally different game. It's one of those situations where we knew we had to hold them to have an opportunity to win the game."

The Titans answered on the ensuing series with another 75-yard march, again with Henry doing the bulk of the work on the ground. The running back said the type of game that played out was exactly what the Titans wanted.

"That's the way we like it. We don't want it easy. We want it gritty. We want it dirty. That's the mentality we've got to have," Henry said.

Henry scored from a yard out to cap the drive and give the Titans the lead, 14-13, at halftime.

Even Patriots coach Bill Belichick admitted that the Titans had come what they had set out to do game-plan wise.

"They do a good job on the running game," Belichick said. "They've got a good offensive line. He's a good back. You've got to defeat blocks and tackle them. That's what the game is against them."

The second half was indeed a defensive struggle for both teams, as the Titans played a field position game, even using a loophole in the rules by taking two straight penalties on a fourth down to eclipse more than a minute off the clock.

When Brett Kern's 58-yard punt was downed at the 1 by Dane Cruikshank with 25 seconds left, the Titans were on their way to a win.

It was sealed when former Patriots cornerback Logan Ryan, who earlier in the game had dropped a potential pick-six interception, snatched Brady's pass in the flat and took it back 9 yards for an insurance Titans TD. The sixth-seeded Titans have dethroned the Patriots and now will face the Ravens and likely league MVP Lamar Jackson in the divisional round.

"We know who Baltimore is and what type of team they are," Henry said. "We'll get ready for them tomorrow. We know exactly what we're facing. We know what type of team they are – they're the No. 1 team in the (conference), so it's self-explanatory."

MIKE VRABEL HAD PLAYERS READY TO BE "MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY EXHAUSTED"

BY MIKE FLORIO
PRO FOOTBALL TALK
JANUARY 5, 2020

The Tennessee Titans knew that they'd have their hands full against the Patriots in New England. Coach Mike Vrabel, who played 17 playoff games with the Patriots from 2001 through 2007, specifically knew what they'd be facing in a place he called a "viper's den" earlier this week.

"I think our players were just, they were ready to go," Vrabel told reporters after the 20-13 win over the Patriots. "Our coaching staff did a great job, to have them prepared. You know, I told them, 'To win the game, you're going to have to be mentally and physically exhausted, to win this football game.' Anytime you're in man coverage, they are going to try to pick and rub you. There's going to be gadgets, or throwbacks, or whatever there may be. Defensively, they are going to do things that force you to think, Ben [Jones] and Ryan [Tannehill], and make calls. We didn't hand them anything. And that's the one thing, they feast on bad football and we didn't hand them anything."

As to the mystique that comes with playing in New England, Vrabel said, "I don't think our guys spent too much time staring up at those banners."

The challenge won't be any easier next Saturday, when the Titans try to return a favor, 11 years after the Ravens came to Nashville and bear the top-seeded Titans.

"We'll have to try to find a way to slow them down," Vrabel said of the Ravens. "But for the next 30 minutes or 40 minutes, I'm going to be appreciative of our football team and our players. For playing as well as they did tonight, as hard as they did. And believing in each other, the effort to finish, the foundation of our program in Tennessee."

The finish by the Titans has been remarkable. A 34-14 win at Cleveland to start the season quickly fell into the "fluke" category, as the Titans lost four of the next five. But 2-4 became 9-7 and now, most importantly, 1-0 in the postseason.

Captain: 2018

PRO: Daren Bates is an athletic linebacker that has excelled on special teams coverage units during his NFL career. He joined the Titans in 2017 after spending time with the St. Louis Rams and Oakland Raiders. In 2018, he was named a Titans special teams captain for the first time. Bates, a former rookie free agent, will once again look to make his biggest impact as a core member of the Titans' special teams units and provide veteran depth in the linebacking corps.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Bates was a team captain (special teams) for the first time and tallied 10 special teams tackles.
• In 2017, Bates set a career high and ranked second on the team with 16 special teams tackles.
• Bates registered back-to-back seasons (2014-2015) of double-digit special teams tackles as a member of the St. Louis Rams.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• In 2018, Bates and NFL defensive end Armonty Bryant opened AstroKids Gym in Austin, Texas. The facility offers children's classes and camps based upon proprioceptive learning.
• Bates is a Memphis native and a huge Memphis Grizzlies fan.
• For the My Cause, My Cleats campaign, Bates has worn specially designed cleats featuring the words "American Heart Association" to raise awareness for the organization's life-saving mission. His mother, Weslynn Bates, was a heart transplant recipient and lived some wonderful years following her surgery. She sadly passed away in 2015 at the age of 56.
• Bates is a tattoo enthusiast and has 107 tattoos.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Memphis, Tenn., native was originally signed by St. Louis Rams as an undrafted free agent on May 9, 2013.
• Signed by Oakland Raiders as a free agent on March 14, 2016.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 11, 2017.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (13/0, 1/0 - Tennessee): Leads the team with 11 special teams tackles. Has led or tied for the team lead in special teams tackles seven times in 2019 (at JAX, vs. TB, at CAR, vs. KC, vs. JAX, at IND, at HOU). Played in his 100th career regular season contest against Tampa Bay (10/27/19).

41 KHARI BLASINGAME

FULLBACK/RUNNING BACK • 6'0" • 233 LBS • COLLEGE: VANDERBILT ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE
HOMETOWN: NEW MARKET, ALA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 6/3 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans signed rookie fullback/running back Khari Blasingame off the Minnesota Vikings' practice squad during the 2019 bye week to provide depth in the backfield and on special teams. Blasingame originally signed with the Vikings as a rookie free agent following the 2019 NFL Draft and spent the first 10 weeks of his rookie campaign on the team's practice squad. The 6-foot, 233-pounder amassed 997 rushing yards and 15 rushing scores as well as 35 catches for 380 yards and two receiving touchdowns during his collegiate career at Vanderbilt.

TITANS TIDBITS:
• Blasingame enjoys playing the saxophone.
• Blasingame originally started his Vanderbilt career at linebacker before transitioning to running back as a sophomore in 2016.
• After his football career, Blasingame's goal is to become the CEO of a hospital or health care system. Once there, he wants to focus on improving health care outcomes for disadvantaged populations. He earned his undergraduate degree in medicine, health and society from Vanderbilt in 2017 and is working towards master's degree in education, after playing his final collegiate season in 2018 as a graduate student.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:
• The New Market, Ala., native was originally signed by the Minnesota Vikings as a rookie free agent on May 3, 2019.
• Waived by the Vikings on Aug. 31, 2019 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
• Signed by the Titans to their active roster from the Minnesota Vikings' practice squad on Nov. 13, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:
2019 (6/3, 1/1 - Tennessee): Made his first career start in his NFL debut against Jacksonville (11/24/19). Spent the first 10 weeks of the season on the Minnesota Vikings' practice squad before being signed by the Titans to their active roster on Nov. 13, 2019. Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles twice in 2019 (at IND, at NE).
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), started at fullback in his NFL debut. Notched a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), played as a reserve at fullback and on special teams. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Oakland (12/8), saw action as a reserve at fullback and snared two receptions for 47 yards. Helped open holes for Titans' rushers to gain 161 yards on the ground. Set up the Titans' opening score with his first career catch, a 24-yard reception, in the first quarter. Got the Titans offense some breathing room with a 23-yard catch to the Tennessee 34-yard line in the third quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), played as a reserve at fullback and caught one pass for no gain.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at fullback and helped the Titans amass 149 rushing yards on 26 carries.
• At Houston (12/29), started at fullback and caught one pass for seven yards. Helped open holes for Titans' rushers to gain 245 yards on the ground.
• At New England (1/4), started at fullback in his first career postseason game and blocked for Derrick Henry to amass 182 rushing yards. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle and a forced fumble on coverage units.

COLLEGE:
• Helped revitalize Vanderbilt's football program, advancing to Independence Bowl against N.C. State in 2016 and Texas Bowl against Baylor in 2018. Capped his collegiate career with CoSIDA Academic All-District honors in 2017 and 2018 and SEC Academic Honor Roll recognition from 2015-17.
• As a graduate student (2018), played in all 13 games with two starts and rushed for 401 yards and five touchdowns on 96 attempts, while adding 25 receptions for 320 yards and a score.
• As a junior (2017), participated in 11 games with one start at running back. As the top reserve to Commodores all-time leading rusher Ralph Webb, produced 147 yards on 45 carries.
• As a sophomore (2016), after moving from linebacker to running back in spring drills, played in all 13 games at running back and on special team return units. Finished the season second on the squad with 449 rushing yards and 10 rushing touchdowns on 97 carries. Also registered four receptions.
• As a redshirt freshman (2015), played in 11 games, contributing at inside linebacker and on special teams.
• In 2014, did not see action as a true freshman.
• Earned an undergraduate degree in medicine, health and society from Vanderbilt in May 2017, and is currently working toward a Master's of Education from Vanderbilt's Peabody College.

PERSONAL:
• Named second team All-State as a defensive back at Buckhorn (Huntsville, Ala.) High School.
• As a senior, posted 64 solo tackles and pair of interceptions as a safety. Also rushed for 966 yards and 10 touchdowns.
• Started at cornerback during junior and sophomore seasons.
• Played baseball and did sprints and jumps on the track and field squad at Buckhorn.
• Served as school ambassador and member of National Honor Society.
• Son of Stanley and Tara Blasingame and has an older sister, Camara.
• Born Khari Thomas Blasingame on July 1, 1996 in Huntsville, Ala.

48 BEAU BRINKLEY

LONG SNAPPER • 6'4" • 260 LBS • COLLEGE: MISSOURI
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2012 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/8
HOMETOWN: KEARNEY, MO.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 128/0 (PLAYOFFS: 3/0)

PRO: Beau Brinkley was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent following the 2012 NFL Draft and has handled all of the team's long snapping duties in every game since then. His consistency helped Brett Kern set the franchise records for both gross and net punting average in 2017 and helped Titans kickers Rob Bironas (2012-13) and Ryan Succop (2014-18) combine to make 85.6 percent of their field goals in Brinkley's first seven campaigns.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:
• In 2018, Brinkley was the team's long snapper for every punt, field goal and extra point attempt for his seventh consecutive season.
• In 2018, he played in his 100th career regular season game against Philadelphia (9/30/18).
• In 2014, Brinkley set a career high and tied for third on the squad with 10 special teams stops.
• As a rookie in 2012, Brinkley played in every game and contributed six special teams tackles.

TITANS TIDBITS:
• Brinkley's father, Mike, was an All-American defensive end and long snapper at Missouri Valley College. He taught Beau the skill of long snapping when he was just seven years old. Beau's football idol growing up was Kansas City Chiefs long snapper Kendall Gammon.
• An avid golfer, Brinkley won the 2018 Pepsi Tournament C Flight Championship in Brookfield, Mo.
• Brinkley raced four-wheelers in the Extreme Dirt Track Racing Series while growing up in Missouri. He traveled the country competing in both motor cross and flat track competitions and won a flat track regional title in 2005.
• In June 2015, Brinkley participated in the Nashville Sports Council Golf Tournament at Gaylord Springs Golf Course. On the par-3 eighth hole, he sunk a hole-in-one to win a barrel of Jack Daniel's Tennessee whiskey.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:
• The Kearney, Mo., native was signed by the Titans as an undrafted free agent on May 4, 2012.

SEASON RECAPS:

35 TRAMAINE BROCK SR.

CORNERBACK • 6'0" • 188 LBS • COLLEGE: BELHAVEN
ACQUIRED: WAIVERS (ARI) - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 10/1
HOMETOWN: BROWNWOOD, TEXAS
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 117/56 (PLAYOFFS: 9/4)

PRO: The Titans acquired Tramaine Brock Sr. off waivers from the Arizona Cardinals in early December to add depth and experience in the secondary. The 6-foot, 188-pounder entered the NFL as a rookie free agent with the San Francisco 49ers out of Belhaven in 2010. Brock Sr. spent seven seasons with 49ers (2010-16) before playing with the Minnesota Vikings (2017), Denver Broncos (2018) and Cardinals (2019). The 10th-year veteran has collected 11 interceptions and 53 passes defensed in his career and has posted at least 10 passes defensed in a season three times.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2016, Brock started all 16 games for the 49ers and finished with a career-high 59 tackles, an interception, a career-best 14 passes defensed and a forced fumble.
• In 2015, Brock started 15 games and posted 53 tackles, three interceptions, 11 passes defensed and two tackles for loss.
• In 2013, Brock appeared in all 16 games and made his first seven career starts while posting a career-high and team-leading five interceptions (one returned for a touchdown) and 13 passes defensed.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Brock became the first player in Belhaven University's history to play in the NFL. In February of 2011, Belhaven retired Brock's jersey in recognition of his accomplishments on both the collegiate and professional levels.
• Brock's path to the NFL was not an easy one by any means. From the small country town of Gulfport, Miss., he traveled 30 miles north to Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College in Perkinston, Miss., where he spent two seasons before transferring to the University of Minnesota. Why would a southern boy decide on Minnesota? "I wanted to see what a big city felt like," Brock said. After one year, he transferred back down south to Belhaven University in Jackson, Miss., a small Christian NAIA school.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Long Beach, Miss., native was originally signed by the San Francisco 49ers as a rookie free agent on April 26, 2010.
• Waived by the 49ers on Sept. 14, 2010 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
• Elevated to the 49ers active roster from the practice squad on Sept. 20, 2010.
• Waived by the 49ers on Oct. 12, 2010 and signed to the team's practice squad two days later.
• Elevated to the 49ers active roster from the practice squad on Oct. 27, 2010.
• Released by the 49ers on April 7, 2017.
• Signed by the Seattle Seahawks as a free agent on Aug. 16, 2017.
• Traded by Seahawks to the Minnesota Vikings on Sept. 2, 2017.
• Signed by the Denver Broncos as a free agent on March 14, 2018.
• Signed by the Arizona Cardinals as a free agent on April 2, 2019.
• Released by the Cardinals on Dec. 2, 2019.
• Claimed off waivers by the Titans from the Cardinals on Dec. 3, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (10/7 - Arizona; 4/4, 1/1 - Tennessee): Has tied for the team lead in passes defensed twice in 2019 (vs. NO, at NE). Appeared in 10 games with seven starts at cornerback for the Arizona Cardinals and collected 39 tackles, two stops for loss, two quarterback pressures and three passes defensed. Was inactive for two contests. Released by the Cardinals Dec. 2, 2019 and claimed off waivers by the Titans on Dec. 3.
• Against Detroit (9/8), started and notched four tackles and two passes defensed in his Cardinals debut.
• At Baltimore (9/15), started and tallied six tackles and one tackle for loss, dropping Mark Ingram behind the line of scrimmage in the fourth quarter.
• Against San Francisco (10/31), stopped Emmanuel Sanders short of a first down on third-and-12 and broke up a Jimmy Garoppolo pass intended to Tevin Coleman.
• At Oakland (12/8), started at cornerback in his Titans debut and amassed two tackles.
• Against Houston (12/15), started at cornerback and totaled a tackle.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at cornerback and produced four tackles, including a stop for loss and a team-high two passes defensed. Broke up a deep pass intended for Michael Thomas in the opening quarter. Stonewalled Alvin Kamara for a one-yard loss on a short pass in the first quarter. Defensed a deep pass intended for Ted Ginn Jr. in the second stanza. Stuffed Taysom Hill for a two-yard loss on a short pass in the third quarter.
• At Houston (12/29), started at cornerback and recorded six tackles.
• At New England (1/4), started at cornerback and posted four tackles and two passes defensed. Broke up a deep pass intended for Phillip Dorsett II early in the fourth quarter. Sealed the victory by deflecting a Tom Brady pass that was then intercepted by Logan Ryan and returned nine yards for a touchdown with nine seconds remaining in the game.

2018 (12/5 - Denver): Saw action in 12 games with five starts in his first season with the Broncos, registering 23 tackles and six passes defensed. Was inactive for four contests.

11 A.J. BROWN

WIDE RECEIVER • 6'1" • 226 LBS • COLLEGE: MISSISSIPPI
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE HOMETOWN: STARKVILLE, MISS.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 16/11 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans selected A.J. Brown in the second round (51st overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-1-inch, 226-pounder brings a complete skill set to the receiving corps, excelling in route-running, blocking, and the ability to get open and catch the ball. Brown leaves Ole Miss as the program's all-time leading receiver with 2,984 yards, and tallied the most 100-yard receiving games in school history (12) over his three seasons. As a junior in 2018, he set Ole Miss' single-season receiving record both in yards (1,320) and catches (85).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Brown started all 12 games and set Ole Miss' single-season receiving records in yards (1,320) and catches (85), and led the SEC in both categories. His 1,320 receiving yards ranked seventh in the nation. Brown caught six touchdowns, averaging 110.0 yards per game, and he topped the 100-yard receiving mark in six contests.
• In 2018, he was named All-America Second Team (FWAA, Phil Steele), All-America Third Team (Associated Press), All-SEC First Team (Associated Press, coaches), and a finalist for the C Spire Conerly Trophy.
• In 2017, Brown caught 75 passes for 1,252 yards and a career-high 11 touchdowns. He became Ole Miss' single-season leader in receiving yards and receiving touchdowns. His 1,252 yards led the SEC and ranked 10th in the nation. Brown also became just the third receiver in Ole Miss history to record a 1,000-yard season.
• In 2017, he was named All-America Second Team (Phil Steele), All-America Third Team (Associated Press), All-SEC First Team (coaches, Associated Press, Phil Steele), and All-SEC Second Team (Athlon).
• In 2016, Brown played in every game as a true freshman and finished fifth on the team with 29 catches and 412 yards, and added a pair of touchdowns. He ranked fourth among SEC freshman with 2.4 catches per game and fifth with 34.4 receiving yards per game.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Brown was selected in the 19th round of the 2016 Major League Baseball Draft by the San Diego Padres as a centerfielder and he participated in the team's extended spring training program each summer from 2016-18.
• He has a dog, Bentley Juan Brown, and runs an Instagram account for him @bentleyjuan1.
• During a pre-draft visit to San Francisco, Brown was able to link up and work out with Hall of Fame NFL receiver and fellow Mississippian Jerry Rice. Rice took Brown on the horse trail at Edgewood Park in Redwood City, known as one of Rice's training sites, where the pair ran hills as part of their work out. Brown's hometown Starkville, Miss., and Rice's hometown Crawford, Miss., are a 30-minute drive apart.
• In every sport Brown played growing up, he wore jersey No. 1.
• Brown names the 2017 Egg Bowl as his most memorable college football moment. "Playing against Mississippi State in my hometown," he says, 'Everything was great. We won, and I had six catches for 167 yards and one touchdown." After reaching the endzone, Brown yelled to the crowd, 'This is my city.'
• Brown briefly stopped playing football during junior high and his freshman year of high school. He returned to the field his sophomore year after his high school coach suggested he play again.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Starkville, Miss., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (51st overall) the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (16/11, 1/1): Leads the team with 52 receptions, 1,051 receiving yards and eight receiving touchdowns. Leads all NFL rookies with 1,051 receiving yards, ranks fifth among all rookies with 52 receptions and tied for first among all NFL rookies with eight touchdown receptions. Leads all NFL rookies with five 100-yard receiving games in 2019. His 20.2-yard receiving average in 2019 ranks second among all qualifying NFL players. Has led the team in receiving yards eight times in 2019 (at CLE, at ATL, at CAR, vs. JAX, at IND, at OAK, vs. HOU, at HOU). Has led or tied for the team lead in receptions six times in 2019 (vs. LAC, vs. JAX, at IND, at OAK, vs. HOU, at HOU). Has posted five career 100-yard receiving performances (at CLE, vs. JAX, at OAK, vs. HOU, at HOU). Made his first career start in his NFL debut at Cleveland (9/8/19). Collected his first two receiving touchdowns at Atlanta (9/29/19). Became the first rookie in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to have five 100-yard receiving games. Became the first rookie in the "Titans era" (1999–present) with at least five touchdown receptions—he has eight. Ranks third in team history for receiving yards by a rookie, fifth in franchise history for receptions by a rookie and tied for third in franchise history for touchdown receptions by a rookie. Posted his fourth touchdown reception of the season of at least 50 yards at Houston (12/29/19), the first rookie to do so since Randy Moss (five in 1998). Named the AFC Offensive Rookie of the Month for December, after hauling in 21 receptions for 470 yards with four touchdowns.
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at wide receiver in his NFL debut and snared three catches for a team-best 100 yards. With his 100 receiving yards, he became the franchise's first player with 100 receiving yards in his first career game since Sid Blanks on Sept. 12, 1964. Got the Titans' opening scoring drive rolling with his first career reception, a 47-yard catch-and-run play, in the first quarter. Kickstarted the Titans' scoring drive early in the third quarter with a 51-yard reception over the middle.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), started at wide receiver and hauled in three passes for 25 yards.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), started at wide receiver and caught one pass for four yards.
• At Atlanta (9/29), played as a reserve at wide receiver and led the team with 94 receiving yards on three catches, including a team-high two touchdowns. Became the first Titans rookie with two or more touchdown receptions in a game since Chris Sanders against the Denver Broncos on Nov. 26, 1995. Gave the Titans an early 7-0 lead with a 55-yard catch-and-run touchdown on the first play of the second possession. Made an acrobatic, toe-drag 11-yard touchdown reception in the corner of the end zone late in the first quarter.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), started at wide receiver and snared two passes for 27 yards.
• At Denver (10/13), started at wide receiver and collected two receptions for 23 yards.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), played as a reserve at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with six catches for 64 yards. Totaled three receptions for 42 yards during the Titans' touchdown drive late in the second quarter.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and snared two passes for 11 yards with a touchdown. Gave the Titans a 27-23 lead with an eight-yard touchdown grab on third-and-eight midway through the fourth quarter.
• At Carolina (11/3), played as a reserve at wide receiver and led the team with 81 receiving yards on four catches. Extended the Titans' second touchdown drive with a beautiful over the shoulder catch on a 35-yard bomb on third-and-seven early in the fourth quarter.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), started at wide receiver and caught one pass for 17 yards.

• Against Jacksonville (11/24), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and led the team with four catches and a career-high 135 receiving yards with a touchdown. Kickstarted the Titans' touchdown drive to open the second half with a 35-yard catch early in the third quarter. Increased the Titans lead to 35-3 with a career-long 65-yard catch-and-run touchdown in the third stanza.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), started at wide receiver and led the team with 45 receiving yards while tying for the team lead with three receptions.
• At Oakland (12/8), started at wide receiver and led the team with five catches, 153 receiving yards and two receiving scores. Gave the Titans a 14-7 advantage with a career-long 91-yard touchdown grab early in the second quarter. His 91-yard touchdown reception was the fourth-longest touchdown catch in franchise history and the longest since 1965. Increased the Titans lead to 21-14 with a physical 16-yard touchdown catch on third-and-13 in the second quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), started at wide receiver and led the team with a career-high eight catches and 114 receiving yards with a touchdown. Got open deep and hauled in a 60-yard reception down the right sideline in the opening quarter. Extended the Titans' inital touchdown drive with a pair of third-down conversions: a nine-yard catch on third-and-five and an 11-yard reception on third-and-three in the third quarter. Evened the score at 14-14 with a five-yard touchdown grab early in the fourth quarter.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at wide receiver and hauled in a 34-yard catch to go along with a 49-yard rushing touchdown. Extended the Titans lead to 14-0 with a 49-yard touchdown jaunt on a reverse in the first quarter.
• At Houston (12/29), started at wide receiver and led the team with 124 receiving yards while tying for the team lead with four receptions and a receiving touchdown. Evened the score at 7-7 with a 51-yard catch-and-run touchdown down the right sideline on third-and-five in the opening quarter. Eclipsed 1,000 yards receiving for the season with a 24-yard grab from Marcus Mariota during the Titans' second touchdown drive. Set up the Titans' fourth touchdown 47-yard catch over double coverage down to the Houston one-yard line early in the fourth quarter.
• At New England (1/4), started at wide receiver in his first career postseason game and caught one pass for four yards.

COLLEGE:

• In three seasons at Ole Miss (2016-18), Brown appeared in 36 games and made 25 starts. Brown set the standard in the Ole Miss record book, becoming the program's all-time leading receiver with 2,984 yards. He ranked third in school history with 189 receptions and fifth all-time with 19 touchdowns. Brown averaged 15.8 yards per catch and 82.9 yards per game, and he tallied the most 100-yard receiving games in Ole Miss history with 12. He became the third player in school history to top 1,000 yards in a single season, and the only receiver in Ole Miss history to tally 60 or more receptions in back-to-back seasons.

AS A JUNIOR (2018), played and started all 12 games and set career highs and Ole Miss single-season receiving records with 85 receptions and 1,320 yards. His 1,320 receiving yards led the SEC, were seventh in the nation, and broke the Ole Miss record for single-season receiving yards that he had set in 2017. He added six touchdowns on the year. Brown had six games of 100-plus yards and caught seven or more passes in seven contests. Earned All-America honors from FWAA (second team), Phil Steele (second team), Associated Press (third team), and All-SEC first team honors (Associated Press, coaches). Named a Biletnikoff Award semifinalist and was a finalist for the C Spire Conerly Trophy.
• Against Southern Illinois (9/8), caught eight passes for 158 yards and two touchdowns. Named to Pro Football Focus' SEC Team of the Week for his performance.
• Against Louisiana-Monroe (10/6), caught nine receptions for 133 yards and one touchdown. Helped set Ole Miss' single-game school record in receiving yards (517).
• Against Auburn (10/20), made 10 catches for 155 yards and a score. His 155 yards were the most ever by an Ole Miss receiver against Auburn.
• At Texas A&M (11/10), tallied six catches for 127 yards and in the process became Ole Miss' career leader in receiving yards.
• At Vanderbilt (11/17), tied season-high with nine receptions for a season-high 212 yards and one touchdown. Brown's touchdown came on a career-high 84-yard reception. It marked the fourth time an Ole Miss receiver surpassed the 200-yard mark, and the second time Brown recorded such a performance (9/2/17 against South Alabama).

AS A SOPHOMORE (2017), played and started all 12 games and caught 75 passes for 1,254 yards and a career-high 11 touchdowns. His 11 scores tied Ole Miss' single-season school record, led the SEC and ranked 11th in the nation. Posted six 100-yard games and became the third receiver in Ole Miss history to record a 1,000-yard season. Brown's 1,254 receiving yards led the SEC, ranked 10th in the nation, and broke the school record for a single season. Scored two touchdowns in four different contests. Earned All-America honors from Phil Steele (second team), Associated Press (third team), All-SEC first team honors (coaches, Associated Press, Phil Steele) and second team honors (Athlon). He was the 2017 recipient of the C Spire Conerly Trophy, and was a semifinalist for the Biletnikoff Award.
• Against South Alabama (9/1), caught eight passes for a career-high and Ole Miss record 233 yards and two touchdowns. Became the first receiver in school history with two 70-yard receiving touchdowns in the same game (71, 77 yards). His 233 yards were the 13th-most in a game in SEC history. Named to Pro Football Focus' National Team of the Week for his performance.
• Against Vanderbilt (10/14), made eight catches for 174 yards and two touchdowns.
• Against Louisiana (11/11), tied the Ole Miss record for most receptions in a game with 14. Finished the game with 185 yards and two touchdowns.
• At Mississippi State in the Egg Bowl (11/23/17), caught six passes for 167 yards and a touchdown.

AS A FRESHMAN (2016), played in all 12 games with one start as a true freshman. He finished fifth on the team with 29 catches and 412 yards, and added a pair of touchdowns. He ranked fourth among SEC freshman with 2.4 catches per game and fifth with 34.4 receiving yards per game.
• Against Florida State (9/5), started the first game of his career and posted two receptions for 28 yards.
• Against Wofford (9/10), caught two passes for 15 yards and his first career touchdown.
• Against Alabama (9/17), made two receptions for 28 yards and a score.

55 JAYON BROWN

LINEBACKER • 6'0" • 226 LBS • COLLEGE: UCLA
ACQUIRED: 5TH ROUND - 2017 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3
HOMETOWN: LONG BEACH, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 46/23 (PLAYOFFS: 3/1)

PRO: The Titans selected Jayon Brown in the fifth round of the 2017 NFL Draft. The 6-foot, 226-pound defender was identified quickly as the defense's nickel linebacker and played extensively as a rookie. In his second season, he emerged as one of the defense's top playmakers, finishing second on the squad in total tackles (107) and sacks (six). He possesses tremendous speed for the position and excels at covering tight ends and running backs. At UCLA, he was a two-year starter and led the team in tackles during his junior and senior campaigns.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, he finished second on the defense with 107 tackles and six sacks, and his 18 quarterback pressures tied for the second-highest total on the team. He was one of only six NFL linebackers with at least six sacks, one interception, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery during the season.
• Against Indianapolis on Dec. 30, 2019, he recorded his first career interception and returned the ball 22 yards for his first career touchdown. He later recorded a forced fumble and fumble recovery, and in doing so, he became the third NFL player in 2018 to record an interception for a touchdown, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery in the same game (Bobby Wagner, Khalil Mack). Brown became the first Titans player to accomplish the feat since at least 1993.
• As a rookie in 2017, Brown appeared in every game as the team's nickel linebacker. He registered 67 tackles, which tied for the 10th-highest total by a "Titans era" rookie (1999–present) and ranked fifth among the team's rookie linebackers in that span.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Brown went to the same California high school, Long Beach Poly, as Titans teammate Jurrell Casey. Brown's older brother, Juwuan, was Jurrell's teammate there.
• He likes spending as much time as possible with his dogs, "a mutt named Lou" and a Rottweiler named Kali. He also enjoys puzzles and watching movies.
• Former Long Beach Poly and New England Patriots star Willie McGinest is a close friend of the Brown family.
• Brown's younger brother, Joshua, is a defensive end at the University of Arizona, and his two older brothers also played college football. Jason played linebacker at Idaho, while Juwuan was a defensive lineman at Southern Oregon.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Long Beach, Calif., native was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (155th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (14/14, 1/1): Ranks third on the team with 117 tackles. Ranks fourth on squad with nine passes defensed. Has led the team in tackles five times in 2019 (vs. IND, at JAX, vs. JAX, at IND, vs. NO). Has led or tied for the team lead in passes defensed three times in 2019 (at CLE, vs. TB, at IND).
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at linebacker and collected three tackles, two passes defensed and a quarterback pressure. Deflected a pass intended for Rashard Higgins and the ball was almost intercepted on the opening play from scrimmage in the first quarter. Batted down a pass intended for Demetrius Harris midway through the second quarter.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), started at linebacker and led the team with 10 tackles, while adding a pass defensed. Teamed with Rashaan Evans to stuff Marlon Mack for no gain on a rush off right guard late in the fourth quarter.

Flew over the line and stuffed Alec Ingold for a one-yard loss on a first-and-goal rush from the one-yard line late in the second quarter. Scooped up a Darren Waller fumble along the sideline that was forced by Tye Smith and raced 47 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), started at linebacker and totaled 11 tackles and an interception. Halted a potential Texans' scoring drive by intercepting a Deshaun Watson pass in the end zone after it was initially batted in the air by Jeffery Simmons at the line of scrimmage.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at linebacker and led the team with 11 tackles, including a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Stopped Alvin Kamara for a two-yard loss on a short pass late in the second quarter.
• At Houston (12/29), started at linebacker and recorded four tackles.
• At New England (1/4), started at linebacker and posted three tackles before leaving the game in the second quarter with an injury. Combined with Rashaan Evans to stonewall Sony Michel for no gain on a rush off right tackle in the opening quarter.

2018 (16/9): Played in all 16 games with nine starts at linebacker. Ranked second on the squad with 107 tackles and six sacks and tied for second on the team with 18 quarterback pressures. Collected six tackles for loss, an interception he returned for a touchdown, seven passes defensed, two forced fumbles, a fumble recovery and a special teams tackle. Led the team in tackles three times (vs. PHI, at BUF, at LAC). Led or tied for the team lead in sacks five times (vs. PHI, at BUF, at LAC, at DAL, vs. NYJ). Tied for the team lead in passes defensed four times (vs. PHI, at IND, vs. NYJ, vs. IND). Tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures twice (at BUF, vs. NYJ). Made his first career NFL start at linebacker against Philadelphia (9/30/18).
• Against Philadelphia (9/30), made his first career start at linebacker and led the team with 11 tackles, including a sack, a stop for loss, four quarterback pressures and a pass defensed. 31 KEVIN BYARD

SAFETY • 5'11" • 212 LBS • COLLEGE: MIDDLE TENNESSEE STATE
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: LITHONIA, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 64/55 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

Captain: 2019 Pro Bowl: 2017

PRO: The Titans selected Kevin Byard with the first pick of the third round in the 2016 NFL Draft, and he is now considered one of the top safeties in the NFL. Following his second season, during which he tied for the NFL lead in interceptions (eight) and led the NFL in total takeaways (10), he was named first-team Associated Press All-Pro and earned his first Pro Bowl berth. The 5-foot-11-inch, 212-pound defender has a reputation as a sideline-to-sideline, ball-hawking safety who plays with tremendous intelligence and effort. The Middle Tennessee State product made an immediate impact as a rookie in 2016 by finishing fifth on the team with 63 tackles and ranking second on the squad with 10 special teams tackles.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• Since 2017, Byard leads the NFL with 12 interceptions.
• In 2018, Byard led the team with four interceptions and ranked third on the team with 96 tackles and 10 passes defensed.
• In 2017, Byard was named to the Pro Bowl and earned first-team Associated Press All-Pro honors after tying Detroit's Darius Slay for the NFL lead with eight interceptions. He added a pair of fumble recoveries to pace the league with 10 total takeaways.
• His eight interceptions in 2017 tied for seventh in franchise history and made up the highest total by any franchise player since Oilers cornerback Richard Johnson picked off eight passes in 1990.
• In 2016, Byard saw action in all 16 games with seven starts and compiled 63 tackles, a sack, five tackles for loss, three quarterback pressures, four passes defensed and 10 special teams tackles. His seven starts were the most by a Titans rookie safety since Michael Griffin (10) in 2007.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Byard credits his mother, Artina Stanley, for much of his success. Following a divorce when Byard was in ninth grade, his mother moved with the children from Philadelphia to Atlanta. Although it was a financial struggle, Stanley worked long hours to make sure her children received what they needed. Byard claims he and his older brother "had to grow up really fast" as they helped their mother with taking care of the younger kids in the family.
• During the 2019 offseason, Byard hosted 200-plus youngsters at the inaugural Kevin Byard Football Camp at Ensworth School. He plans to hold the camp - which was free - every year.
• The Titans had an inside track in their scouting of Byard. Titans general manager Jon Robinson received glowing reports on Byard from his friend and MTSU recruiting coordinator Steve Ellis. When Robinson was a linebackers coach at Nicholls State, Ellis was one of his pupils, and the two remained close through the years. Additionally, Patrick Callaway, college scout for the Titans, was Byard's high school teammate.
• Byard says his football role models are Ed Reed, Brian Dawkins and Troy Polamalu.
• Byard has aspirations to travel the world, and his bucket list includes setting foot on every continent.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Lithonia, Ga., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (64th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

HOMETOWN: LONG BEACH, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 139/137 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

Captain: 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019 | Pro Bowl: 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018 | Community Man of the Year: 2016, 2018

PRO: The Titans used their third-round pick in the 2011 NFL Draft on University of Southern California defensive tackle Jurrell Casey. In his first eight pro seasons, Casey became regarded as one of the top interior defensive linemen in the NFL, a force against both the run and pass. During that timespan, he played in all but three games and tied with Ndamukong Suh for fourth place among all defensive tackles with 46 total sacks, trailing only Geno Atkins, Aaron Donald and Gerald McCoy. Casey finished the 2018 campaign in eighth place in franchise history with 46 career sacks. He was named to the Pro Bowl following the 2015, 2016, 2017 and 2018 campaigns, becoming the first player to earn four selections in the Titans era.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Casey was voted to his fourth consecutive Pro Bowl after setting a career high with 50 quarterback pressures.
• In 2018, became the 10th player in franchise history to reach 40 career sacks (vs. HOU).
• In 2018, he recorded his sixth consecutive season with at least 5.0 sacks (7.0), and his ninth career game with two sacks (vs. HOU).
• In 2017, Casey was voted to his third consecutive Pro Bowl after setting a then-career high with 35 quarterback pressures.
• With six sacks in 2017, Casey became the first player for the team since Ray Childress (1986–1994) to register five or more consecutive seasons with at least five sacks. His six sacks ranked second on the squad, as he reached the mark for the third time in his career.
• In 2016, Casey was voted to his second consecutive Pro Bowl after setting a then-career high with 29 quarterback pressures and adding five sacks.
• In 2015, he was named to the Pro Bowl after tying for the team lead with seven sacks.
• In 2013, Casey was named Associated Press second-team All-Pro after putting together one of the best seasons by a defensive tackle in franchise history. His 10.5 sacks set a career high and made up the second-highest total by a franchise defensive tackle since sacks became an official statistic in 1982, finishing behind only Ray Childress' 13 sacks in 1992. Only Jason Hatcher of the Dallas Cowboys (11) finished with more sacks than Casey among defensive tackles in 2013. Casey's season totals also included a career-high 90 tackles and a career- and team-high 10 quarterback pressures.
• In 2012, he notched 80 tackles to lead the defensive line and added three sacks.
• As a rookie in 2011, Casey recorded 74 tackles, which led the team's defensive linemen, and tied for second on the defense with five tackles for loss.
• Casey totaled nine sacks and 22 tackles for loss during his three seasons at Southern California. In 2010, Casey's junior year, he was named first-team All-Pac-10.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• A fixture in the community, Casey was twice voted Tennessee Titans Walter Payton Man of the Year (2016, 2018), which recognizes players for excellence on and off the field. Casey is a regular at Titans community events and also serves as the spokesperson for United Way of Metropolitan Nashville. Casey and his wife, Ryann, established The Casey Fund, a non-profit dedicated to raising money for established re-entry programs, inner-city youth programs, mentoring and halfway houses. Ryann is a lawyer working in the Nashville Public Defender's Office. More information about The Casey Fund is available through their social media accounts: @caseyfund99 on Facebook and @TheCaseyFund on Twitter and Instagram.
• The Caseys have hosted a Thanksgiving food giveaway for 200 underprivileged families in the Nashville area.
• Casey also hosts an annual free youth football skills camp for linemen in his hometown of Long Beach, Calif.
• In 2019, Casey was named a finalist for the Mary Catherine Strobel Direct Service Volunteer Award, which recognizes Middle Tennessee volunteers for their efforts in the community.
• In 2018, Casey partnered with the Starlight Children's Foundation to donate $999 for every sack he recorded during the season to design custom hospital gowns for hospitalized children.
• In 2018 and 2019, he and his wife served as the celebrity co-chairs for Rally on the Runway, a nonprofit that empowers volunteers across the country to raise awareness and funds for childhood cancer research. Casey has served as a celebrity escort for the event each year since 2016.
• Casey has served as a spokesperson for United Way of Metropolitan Nashville since 2017.
• Casey has a strong partnership with Project Return Tennessee, Free Hearts and Purpose Prep Academy. Casey's wife is on Purpose Prep Academy's school board.
• He was selected to represent the Titans in London in July 2018 to publicize the team's visit in October and to help coach in the youth flag football Summer Bowl.
• When he was younger, family members, friends and teammates called him "Tut-Tut," a nickname he earned from his aunt as a small child because she said he walked like a turtle.
• Casey has nine brothers and sisters.
• When he was in high school, his older brother, Jurray, was convicted of first-degree murder. Despite the turmoil it caused, Jurrell credits his brother for helping him re-focus on becoming a better football player and student.
• Casey calls his mother, Collette Burns, a cafeteria worker in the Long Beach Unified School District, "the inspiration in my life" for how hard she worked to provide for Jurrell and his siblings.
• Casey and teammate Wesley Woodyard coach a women's flag football team that is comprised of wives and significant others of Titans players.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Long Beach, Calif., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (77th overall) of the 2011 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (14/14, 1/1): Leads the team with 30 quarterback pressures. Tied for second on the team with five sacks. Registered his seventh consecutive season with at least five sacks. Has led or tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures six times in 2019 (at CLE, at JAX, at ATL, vs. BUF, vs. TB, at OAK). Has tied for the team lead in sacks three times in 2019 (vs. TB, at IND, at HOU). Passed Robert Brazile for seventh place on the franchise's all-time sack chart at Indianapolis (12/1/19). Collected his 50th career sack becoming only the seventh player in franchise history to accomplish the feat against New Orleans (12/22/19).
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at defensive tackle and collected two tackles and a team-best four quarterback pressures.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), started at defensive tackle and tallied five tackles.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), started at defensive tackle and posted six tackles and three quarterback pressures. Teamed with Jayon Brown to stuff Leonard Fournette for no gain on a rush up the middle in the second quarter. Stonewalled Fournette for no gain on a rush up the middle in the third stanza.

• At Atlanta (9/29), started at defensive tackle and registered six tackles, a sack, a forced fumble, a fumble recovery and four quarterback pressures. Dropped Matt Ryan for a 10-yard sack and forced a fumble that he recovered at the Tennessee 46-yard line late in the first quarter. Teamed with Kenny Vaccaro to stuff Devonta Freeman for a one-yard loss on a fourth-and-one rush in the second quarter.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), started at defensive tackle and notched two tackles and a team-best four quarterback pressures.
• At Denver (10/13), started at defensive tackle and recorded six tackles and a quarterback pressure.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), started at defensive tackle and posted a tackle, two quarterback pressures and a game-clinching fumble recovery. Sealed the victory by recovering a Melvin Gordon fumble in the end zone that was forced by Wesley Woodyard on second-and-goal from the one-yard line with 15 seconds remaining in the game.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), started at defensive tackle and tallied seven tackles, including a sack, a tackle for loss and three quarterback pressures. Dropped Jameis Winston for a five-yard sack on third-and-eight in the second quarter. Halted a Buccaneers' drive by teaming with Kenny Vaccaro to stonewall Peyton Barber for a one-yard loss on a fourth-and-one rush up the middle late in the fourth quarter.
• At Carolina (11/3), was inactive.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), was inactive.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), returned to the lineup as a starter at defensive tackle and notched three tackles and two quarterback pressures.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), started at defensive tackle and posted six tackles, a sack and a quarterback pressure. Dropped Jacoby Brissett for seven-yard sack in the second quarter and moved into seventh place on the franchise's all-time sack list. Teamed with Logan Ryan to stuff Jordan Wilkins for no gain on a rush off right tackle in the fourth quarter.
• At Oakland (12/8), started at defensive tackle and amassed five tackles, including two stops for loss and a team-high four quarterback pressures. Combined with Logan Ryan to stonewall Jalen Richard for a one-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the third quarter. Came off the edge and dropped DeAndré Washington for no gain on a third-and-goal rush late in the fourth quarter.

78 JACK CONKLIN

TACKLE • 6'6" • 308 LBS • COLLEGE: MICHIGAN STATE
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: PLAINWELL, MICH.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 57/57 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

PRO: With the eighth overall selection in the 2016 NFL Draft, the Titans selected former Michigan State tackle Jack Conklin. The 6-foot-6-inch, 308-pounder possesses the versatility and physical prowess to play multiple positions on the offensive line, but during his first three NFL seasons started every game he played at right tackle. He was the first draft pick by general manager Jon Robinson who vowed to acquire "tough, physical, smart and accountable" players. Conklin made an immediate impact in his first season with the Titans by starting all 16 games and being named first-team All-Pro at right tackle. He became the first Michigan State offensive lineman to be selected in the first round since 1989 (Tony Mandarich, No. 2 overall by Green Bay) and also the highest drafted Spartan since wide receiver Charles Rogers (No. 2) in 2003.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2017, Conklin became just the fifth player in the 'Titans Era' (1999-present) to have started all 32 games from the time they were drafted through their second seasons.
• As a rookie in 2016, Conklin was named first-team Associated Press All-Pro at right tackle. He started all 16 games on the right side and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for the NFL's third-ranked rushing attack which averaged 136.7 rush yards per game.
• Became the first franchise rookie to earn first-team All-Pro honors since Jevon Kearse in 1999.
• In his final season at Michigan State, Conklin was named second-team All-American by The Associated Press and was on numerous All-Big Ten teams.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• After not receiving a single Division I scholarship offer, Conklin began his time at Michigan State as a preferred walk-on in 2012. He impressed enough in his redshirt season to earn a scholarship in the spring of 2013.
• At Plainwell (Mich.) High School, Conklin's head coach was his father, Darren Conklin, who once was a walk-on at Michigan under Wolverines head coach Bo Schembechler.
• His mother, Jennifer Jackson, was an All-American swimmer at the University of Michigan.
• Conklin's grandfather, Ron Jackson, was a professional baseball player. He played first base for the Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox.
• Conklin is involved with a pediatric cancer organization called DC Strong, founded by his childhood friend Dustin Colyer, who overcame Wilms' tumor kidney cancer.
• Conklin traveled to Australia in 2015 to participate in Michigan State's study abroad International Summer Sports Program.
• Conklin hopes to one day own a farm.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Plainwell, Mich., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (eighth overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (16/16, 1/1): Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles once in 2019 (vs. HOU).
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at right tackle and opened holes for Titans' ball carriers to gain 123 yards on the ground.

29 DANE CRUIKSHANK

DEFENSIVE BACK • 6'1" • 209 LBS • COLLEGE: ARIZONA
ACQUIRED: 5TH ROUND - 2018 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: CHINO HILLS, CALIF.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 28/0 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select Dane Cruikshank with the 152nd overall pick in the fifth round of the 2018 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-1 inch, 209-pound defender possesses above average size and speed for a defensive back, and was coveted for his versatility, having played safety, and both inside and outside cornerback at Arizona. Cruikshank started all 25 games during his two seasons as a Wildcat and provided a steady presence in both the run game and pass coverage.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, scored his first career touchdown with a 66-yard reception on a fake punt against Houston (9/16) and was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week.
• From 2016-17, Cruikshank started 25 consecutive games at Arizona after transferring from Citrus College.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Cruikshank credits his grandparents and his mother for his success in life. "My grandparents have provided for their whole family, and they've helped everyone in the family be successful at whatever they choose to do. My mom, (Beverley Jackson, a hair stylist) she's been able to raise her kids by working hard and never taking days off. She loves us and gives us everything we need."
• Growing up a Southern California fan, his most memorable college football moment was playing the Trojans in the Coliseum. Cruikshank posted 10 tackles and one interception in the contest.
• Cruikshank's nickname is 'Smoove.' He wore jersey No. 2 in high school, earning the nickname '2 Smoove,' which was then shortened to Smoove.
• He lists owning his own business as a goal on his bucket list. He would one day like to open his own training facility.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Chino Hills, Calif., native was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (152nd overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (16/0, 1/0): Ranks second on the team with 10 special teams tackles. Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles four times in 2019 (vs. IND, vs. BUF, at CAR, at OAK).
• At Cleveland (9/8), played as a reserve on special teams.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), tied for the team lead with two special teams tackles on coverage units.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• At Atlanta (9/29), played as a reserve on special teams.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), saw action as a reserve on special teams and notched a tackle on coverage units.
• At Denver (10/13), played as a reserve on special teams and collected a tackle on coverage units.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), played as a reserve on special teams.
• At Carolina (11/3), saw action as a reserve on special teams and tied for the team lead with two tackles on coverage units. Kept it a two-possession game by blocking an extra point early in the fourth quarter.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), played as a reserve on special teams.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), saw action as a reserve on special teams and notched two tackles on coverage units.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), played as a reserve on special teams and blocked a field goal. Shot through the line and blocked an Adam Vinatieri 46-yard field goal with the ball being scooped up by Tye Smith and returned 63 yards for a touchdown to give the Titans a 24-17 lead late in the fourth quarter.
• At Oakland (12/8), played as a reserve on special teams and tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• Against Houston (12/15), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), played as a reserve on special teams and registered a tackle on coverage units.
• At Houston (12/29), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• At New England (1/4), played as a reserve on special teams in his first career postseason game.

2018 (12/0): Played in 12 games as a reserve in his rookie campaign and ranked fourth on the squad with eight special teams tackles. Collected a 66-yard touchdown reception on a fake punt and a 39-yard kickoff return on a reverse. Registered two tackles on defense. Was inactive for four games. Led or tied for the team lead in special teams tackles four times in 2018 (vs. HOU, at BUF, at LAC, vs. IND). Led the team in receiving yards once in 2018 (vs. HOU). Saw action in his first career NFL game at Miami (9/9/18). Named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week after leading the team with two special teams tackles and notching a 66-yard touchdown reception on a fake punt against Houston (9/16/18).
• At Miami (9/9), made his NFL debut as a reserve on special teams and notched a stop on coverage units.
• Against Houston (9/16), named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week after leading the team with two special teams tackles and notching a touchdown on a fake punt. Gave the Titans a 7-0 lead with a 66-yard touchdown reception from Kevin Byard on a fake punt early in the first quarter. Cruikshank became the first primarily defensive player in team annals to record a touchdown reception.
• At Jacksonville (9/23), saw action as a reserve on special teams. Snuffed out a fake punt and slowed down Corey Grant allowing LeShaun Sims to make the tackle short of the first down in the first quarter.
• At Buffalo (10/7), saw action as a reserve on special teams and collected a stop on coverage units.
• Against Baltimore (10/14), played as a reserve at safety and amassed two tackles. Stuffed Nick Boyle for a one-yard loss on a short pass in the fourth quarter.
• At Los Angeles Chargers in London (10/21), led the team with two special teams tackles on coverage units.
• At N.Y. Giants (12/16), played as a reserve on special teams and collected a tackle on coverage units.
• Against Indianapolis (12/30), played as a reserve on special teams and tied for the team lead with a tackle on coverage units. Returned the opening kickoff 39 yards after taking a reverse from Darius Jennings.

COLLEGE:

• During a two-year career at Arizona, he started all 25 games at 'spur' safety and cornerback. Cruikshank recorded 135 tackles, 1.5 sacks, seven tackles for loss, 17 passes defensed, one forced fumble and intercepted five passes for 68 yards.
• Prior to Arizona, he played two seasons at Citrus College.
• As a senior (2017), started all 13 games after switching to spur safety from cornerback. Ranked fifth on the team with 75 tackles. Also posted 1.5 sacks, 5.5 tackles for loss, eight passes defensed, one forced fumble and three interceptions for 65 yards as a Wildcat. Voted as a team captain by his teammates.
• As a redshirt junior (2016), started all 13 games at cornerback in his first season at Arizona and finished fourth on the team in tackles with 60. Tied for the team lead with a pair of interceptions. Also tallied 1.5 tackles for loss and nine passes defensed.

• As a junior (2015), redshirted after transferring to Arizona.
• As a sophomore (2014), saw action in 10 games as an Owl and notched 45 tackles, a tackle for loss, four passes defensed and one interception for 29 yards. Named first-team all-state.
• As a freshman (2013), appeared in all 11 games for Citrus College and posted five tackles and one forced fumble. Caught four passes for 147 yards and one touchdown, and added five kick returns for 103 yards.
• Graduated in May 2017 from Arizona with a degree in general studies.

PERSONAL:
• Attended Ayala (Chino Hills, Calif.), High School where he played cornerback, safety, wide receiver, running back and return specialist.
• Also ran track as a high school athlete.
• List of favorites: (TV show) "Power"; (movies) "Friday," "Black Panther" and "Avengers: Infinity War"; (musician or band) Meek Mill, Drake, Migos and YoungBoy; (food) seafood; (childhood sports team) Los Angeles Lakers; and (guilty pleasure) peach cobbler or sour candy.

84 COREY DAVIS

WIDE RECEIVER • 6'3" • 209 LBS • COLLEGE: WESTERN MICHIGAN
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2017 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3
HOMETOWN: WHEATON, ILL.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 42/36 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

PRO: The Titans selected Corey Davis with the fifth-overall pick in the 2017 NFL Draft, which was obtained in a 2016 trade with the Los Angeles Rams. After appearing in 11 games as a rookie, he led the Titans offense in 2018 with 65 receptions, 891 receiving yards and four receiving touchdowns. The 6-foot-3-inch, 209-pound wide receiver brings a complete skill set to his position, excelling in route running, making plays after the catch, and blocking. His 5,285 receiving yards at Western Michigan set an all-time FBS record, and he became the second player in FBS history to record 52 career receiving touchdowns. Davis became the highest drafted player from Western Michigan and the first first-rounder from the school since Jason Babin in 2004. The fifth pick was the highest selection ever used by the Titans/Oilers on a wide receiver by 11 slots, topping the 1998 choice of Kevin Dyson with the 16th pick.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Davis led the Titans with 65 receptions, 891 receiving yards and four touchdowns. His yardage total ranked ninth among all AFC wide receivers.
• In a playoff game at New England on Jan. 13, 2018, Davis caught two touchdown passes to tie the franchise single-game postseason record (five previous times). He became the first player to accomplish the feat in the postseason since wide receiver Haywood Jeffires did so at Buffalo on Jan. 3, 1993. Davis was the first NFL rookie with two touchdown receptions in a playoff game since Panthers receiver Kelvin Benjamin on Jan. 10, 2015.
• In Week 1 of the 2017 season, Davis caught six passes for 69 yards. This reception total ranks second among all rookies in Week 1 games in the "Titans era" (1999-present).
• Davis set an FBS all-time record with 5,285 career receiving yards.
• In 2016, Davis was a consensus All-American selection after tying for the FBS lead with 19 touchdown receptions, ranking seventh nationally with 1,500 receiving yards, and ranking eighth with 97 catches.
• Davis set Western Michigan records for single-season touchdown receptions (19), single-game receiving yards (272), touchdown receptions in a bowl game (three), career receptions (332), career touchdown receptions (52) and career receiving yards (5,285).

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Davis and his six siblings survived a tough economic upbringing in Wheaton, Ill. While he has always maintained a loving relationship with his parents, Olasheni Timson and Michelle Davis, he made the decision as a high school junior to move into the home of Robin and Dan Graham, who became his legal guardians. Dan, Corey Davis' youth football coach, was an offensive lineman for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. His son, Ryan Graham, played youth and high school football with Davis and currently plays quarterback at Northern Illinois.
• Davis' brother, Titus, played football at Central Michigan and was signed by the Chargers as a rookie free agent in 2015. Titus also spent time with the Jets, Bills and Bears.
• One of Davis' favorite quotes is "Never die easy" by Walter Payton, who used the saying as the title to his autobiography.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Wheaton, Ill., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (fifth overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (15/11, 1/1): Ranks second on the team with 601 receiving yards and 43 receptions. Has led or tied for the team lead in receptions three times in 2019 (at ATL, vs. LAC, at HOU). Has led the team in receiving yards once in 2019 (vs. LAC).
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at wide receiver. Supplied a key block on Derrick Henry's 75-yard touchdown catch late in the third quarter.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and caught three passes for 38 yards. In the first quarter, recorded his 100th career catch on a six-yard grab. Set up the Titans' second touchdown with a 25-yard reception down to the Colts' three-yard line in the third quarter.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), started at wide receiver and grabbed three receptions for 44 yards. Kept the Titans' touchdown drive alive with an 11-yard catch on third-and-nine in the final quarter.

• At Oakland (12/8), started at wide receiver and grabbed two receptions for 34 yards. Helped set up the Titans' third touchdown with a 24-yard catch down to the Raiders' 13-yard line in the second quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), played as a reserve at wide receiver and hauled in three passes for 57 yards. Helped set up the Titans first touchdown with a 16-yard reception in the third quarter.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at wide receiver and caught three passes for 40 yards.
• At Houston (12/29), started at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four catches for 44 yards. Extended the Titans' second touchdown drive with a pair of third-down conversions: a 12-yard catch on third-and-nine and a five-yard grab to the Texans' one-yard line on third-and-two.
• At New England (1/4), started at wide receiver.

2018 (16/16): Started all 16 games at wide receiver and led the team with 65 catches, 891 receiving yards and four receiving touchdowns which were all career-highs. Rushed six times for 55 yards. Led or tied for the team lead in receptions 10 times (at MIA, vs. HOU, vs. PHI, at BUF, at DAL, vs. NE, vs. NYJ, at NYG, vs. WAS, vs. IND). Led the team in receiving yards eight times (at MIA, at JAX, vs. PHI, at BUF, vs. NE, at HOU, at NYG, vs. IND). Posted two career 100-yard receiving performances (vs. PHI, vs.

NE). Posted his first career regular season touchdown against Philadelphia (9/30/18). Posted career-highs with nine receptions and 161 receiving yards against Philadelphia (9/30/18).
• At Miami (9/9), led the team with six receptions and 62 receiving yards. Extended the Titans' first scoring drive with a 17-yard reception on third-and-six in the first quarter. Kept the Titans' scoring drive alive with a 15-yard catch on third-and-nine on the first play of the fourth quarter.
• Against Houston (9/16), led the team with five receptions for 55 yards. Kept the Titans' second touchdown drive alive with a seven-yard catch on third-and-four late in the first quarter.
• At Jacksonville (9/23), snared two receptions for a team-high 34 yards. Kept the Titans' game-winning scoring drive alive with a 12-yard grab on third-and-five in the fourth quarter.
• Against Philadelphia (9/30), led the team with a career-best 161 receiving yards on a career-high nine receptions with his first career touchdown grab in the regular season. Became the third player in NFL history to score a touchdown in the final 10 seconds of overtime. Kept the Titans' initial scoring drive alive with a 28-yard grab on third-and-three in the first quarter. Extended the Titans' first touchdown drive with a 20-yard catch on third-and-one in the third stanza. Kickstarted a Titans' touchdown drive with a career-long 51-yard bomb from Marcus Mariota midway through the fourth quarter. Gave the Titans' 26-23 overtime victory with a leaping, 10-yard touchdown grab on third-and-10 with five seconds remaining in the extra session.
• At Dallas (11/5), led the team with six catches for 56 yards. Carried the ball once for four yards. Extended the Titans' initial touchdown drive with a 17-yard grab on third-and-nine in the opening quarter. Kept the Titans' final touchdown drive alive with an eight-yard catch on third-and-six in the fourth quarter.
• Against New England (11/11), led the team with seven catches and 125 receiving yards with a touchdown. Kickstarted the Titans' opening touchdown drive with a 24-yard grab over the middle. Increased the Titans lead to 14-3 with a 23-yard touchdown grab midway through the first quarter. Extended the Titans' third touchdown drive with a 20-yard reception on third-and-14 in the second quarter.
• At Houston (11/26), led the team with 96 receiving yards on four receptions, including a touchdown. On a 19-yard catch in the first quarter, reached the 1,000-yard receiving mark for his career. Took a reverse handoff from Derrick Henry and scampered 39 yards in the second quarter. Cut the Texans lead to 27-17 with a 48-yard touchdown catch on third-and-seven late in the third quarter.
• Against N.Y. Jets (12/2), snared three receptions for 42 yards with the game-winning touchdown. Gave the Titans a 26-22 lead with an 11-yard touchdown grab on third-and-seven with 36 seconds left in the game.
• At N.Y. Giants (12/16), tied for the team lead with three catches for a team-best 33 receiving yards. Converted a pair of third downs, an 11-yard catch on third-and-nine and a 17-yard reception on third-and-12, during the Titans' opening touchdown drive in the first quarter.

2017 (11/9, 2/2): Played in 11 games with nine starts at wide receiver during his rookie campaign and recorded 34 receptions for 375 yards. Was inactive for five games. Started his first two career postseason contests and tied for the team lead with nine catches for 98 yards with a team-best two receiving touchdowns. Tied for the team lead in receptions twice in 2017 (at IND, vs. LAR). Led the team in receiving yards once in 2017 (vs. LAR). Appeared in his first career NFL game against Oakland (9/10/17). Made his first career NFL start at Jacksonville (9/17/17).
• Against Oakland (9/10), played as a reserve at wide receiver in his NFL debut and finished second on the team with six receptions for 69 yards. In the team's "Titans era" (1999-2017), his reception total ranks second among all rookies in Week 1 games. Only Tajaé Sharpe had more, with seven catches (9/11/16). Only Sharpe (76 yards) and Kenny Britt (85 yards on 9/10/09) had more receiving yards than Davis in a rookie Week 1 debut. Registered his first career reception and extended the Titans' opening touchdown drive with a leaping 23-yard catch down the right sideline on third-and-eight in the first quarter.
• At Jacksonville (9/17), made his first career start at wide receiver and caught one pass for four yards before leaving the game in the second quarter with an injury.
• Against Baltimore (11/5), returned to the lineup as a starter at wide receiver and snared two receptions for 28 yards. Helped set up the Titans' first touchdown of the afternoon with a 23-yard, toe-drag reception along the right sideline in the first quarter.
• At Pittsburgh (11/16), started at wide receiver and grabbed three receptions for 27 yards. Extended the Titans' first touchdown drive with a 15-yard, toe-drag reception along the sideline in the first quarter.
• At Indianapolis (11/26), started at wide receiver and tied for the team lead with four receptions for 39 yards. Hauled in a leaping 19-yard reception during the Titans' game-winning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter.

• At Kansas City (1/6), started at wide receiver and hauled in four passes for 35 yards in his first career postseason game.
• At New England (1/13), started at wide receiver and grabbed five passes for 63 yards with his first two career touchdowns. Gave the Titans a 7-0 lead with an acrobatic, one-handed 15-yard touchdown catch with 1:14 left to play in the opening quarter. Kept the Titans' final touchdown drive alive with a 17-yard catch on fourth-and-11. Got open in the corner of the end zone and hauled in an 11-yard touchdown reception with 1:55 left to play in the fourth quarter.

COLLEGE:

• In four seasons at Western Michigan (2013-16), Davis played and started 50 games. He registered 332 career receptions for 5,285 yards and 52 touchdowns, setting the Mid-American Conference record in each category and becoming the only player in FBS history with 300 catches, 5,000 yards and 50 touchdowns. His 5,285 career receiving yards were the most in FBS history, and he ended his career ranked second all-time in FBS history with 52 career receiving touchdowns (60 by Jarett Dillard). Davis' 332 career receptions ranked fourth all-time in FBS annals.
• As a senior (2016), played and started 13 games and set career highs with 97 receptions, 1,500 receiving yards and 19 touchdowns. He helped his team win the MAC and go undefeated until a Cotton Bowl loss. He had five games of 100-plus yards and six games of two or more receiving touchdowns. His receiving yardage total ranked seventh in FBS, while his reception total was eighth. Named a Biletnikoff Award semifinalist and earned All-American honors from Associated Press (first-team), FWAA (first-team), Phil Steele (first-team), USA Today, Sporting News and Sports Illustrated. Named Mid-American Conference Offensive Player of the Year. At Ball State (11/1), posted 12 catches for a WMU-record 272 yards with three touchdowns and was named MAC Player of the Week.
• As a junior (2015), played and started 13 games and caught 90 passes for 1,436 yards and 12 touchdowns. Finished fifth in the nation and second in the MAC in receiving yards, and his 6.9 receptions per game ranked third in the league and 11th nationally. He ended the season with seven consecutive 100-yard games and nine total for the year and was named first-team All-MAC.
• As a sophomore (2014), finished with 78 receptions for 1,408 yards and 15 touchdowns in 12 games (all starts). Ranked seventh in the nation and first in the MAC in receiving yards. Named first-team All-MAC and Phil Steele first-team All-MAC. Went over 100 yards receiving in eight games.
• As a freshman (2013), played and started 11 games and set WMU freshman records for receiving yards (941), receptions (67) and 100-yard games (five). Named MAC Freshman of the Year, earned Freshman All-America honors from FWAA and College Football News, and was a second-team All-MAC selection.
• Majored in sports management at Western Michigan.

64 NATE DAVIS

OFFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'3" • 316 LBS • COLLEGE: CHARLOTTE
ACQUIRED: 3RD ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): ROOKIE HOMETOWN: ASHBURN, VA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 13/12 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans selected Nate Davis in the third round (82nd overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-3-inch, 316-pounder brings quick feet and physicality to the trenches of the offensive line. The Ashburn, Va., native appeared in 41 contests with 37 starts at both guard and tackle over four seasons for the Charlotte 49ers.

TITANS TIDBITS:
• Growing up, Davis was 'always a pretty big kid.' He played on the offensive or defensive line during Pop Warner, and estimates that in the fourth grade he weighed around 200 pounds.
• Davis was invited to the 2019 Senior Bowl, which he credits for helping him during the draft process. He went head-to-head with defensive linemen from larger conferences, and as an athlete from a smaller conference, he credits his performance at the Senior Bowl for helping put his name into the conversation ahead of the draft.
• Davis' father purchased him a fishing rod as a child and would take him to the pond near their home in Ashton, Va., to fish and relax.
• Davis is a car enthusiast who has a knack for identifying the year, make and model of a car. He lists his dream car as a Rolls-Royce.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:
• The Ashburn, Va., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (82nd overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:
2019 (13/12, 1/1): Appeared in his first career NFL contest at Atlanta (9/29/19). Made his first career NFL start against Buffalo (10/6/19).
• At Cleveland (9/8), was inactive.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), was inactive.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), was inactive.
• At Atlanta (9/29), made his NFL debut as a reserve at right guard. Was a part of an offensive front that did not allow a sack on 27 pass attempts, while opening holes for Titans' ball carriers to gain 138 yards on the ground.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), started his first career NFL contest at right guard.
• At Denver (10/13), started at right guard.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), started at right guard but left the game in the second quarter with an injury.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), started at right guard.
• At Carolina (11/3), started at right guard.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), started at right guard and helped open holes for Titans' rushers to gain 225 yards on the ground.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), started at right guard and blocked for Titans' ball carriers to gain 219 rushing yards.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), started at right guard and helped open holes for Derrick Henry to collect 149 rushing yards on 26 carries.
• At Oakland (12/8), started at right guard and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for Titans' ball carriers to gain 161 yards on the ground, while also not allowing a sack on 27 pass attempts.
• Against Houston (12/15), started at right guard and was a member of an offensive line that opened holes for Titans' rushers to gain 163 yards on the ground.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), started at right guard and helped the Titans amass 149 rushing yards on 26 carries.
• At Houston (12/29), started at right guard and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for Derrick Henry to amass 211 yards on the ground and become the NFL's leading rusher in 2019.

54 RASHAAN EVANS

LINEBACKER • 6'2" • 232 LBS • COLLEGE: ALABAMA
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2018 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: AUBURN, ALA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 31/23 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select Rashaan Evans with the 22nd overall pick in the first round of the 2018 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-2 inch, 232-pound defender was identified as a playmaker that could immediately bolster the linebacking corps and develop into a leader on defense. As a rookie, he appeared in 15 games with seven starts at inside linebacker. At Alabama, Evans tied for a team-leading 74 tackles as a senior while helping the Crimson Tide capture a 2018 College Football Playoff National Championship title.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• As a rookie in 2018, Evans played in 15 games with seven starts at inside linebacker and totaled 63 tackles, six quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and three passes defensed.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Upon being drafted by Tennessee, Evans was reunited with former Crimson Tide teammate Derrick Henry. Henry phoned Evans immediately after he was selected with the 22nd pick to congratulate him.
• He has two pregame rituals. Evans prays before each game and pulls grass from the field early in pregame to get a feel for the turf.
• His nickname is 'Razor, because I cut up.'
• At Alabama, Evans shared the field with his brother, Alex, a member of the Crimson Tide spirit squad.
• Two of his football role models are DeMarcus Ware and Lawrence Taylor. He met Ware, who also is from Auburn, Ala., at the 2018 NFL Draft. He later had a chance to meet Taylor during a trip to Miami and calls each experience an "amazing moment."
• Growing up in rural Alabama, Evans would chase wild horses to work on improving his speed and athleticism.
• Evans' father, Alan, was a star running back at Auburn. Evans' mother, Chenavis, received four degrees from Auburn, including her doctorate. Evans' older sister was a cheerleader at Auburn, and despite the family ties including his cousins attending Auburn, Evans stuck with his gut and instead chose Alabama.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Auburn, Ala., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (22nd overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

HOMETOWN: LAVEEN, ARIZ.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 29/5 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans traded for Reggie Gilbert late in the 2019 preseason to bolster the team's depth and experience at outside linebacker. The 6-foot-4-inch, 260-pounder played in 18 games during his first three seasons (2016-18) with the Green Bay Packers and amassed 47 tackles and 3.5 sacks. The University of Arizona product entered the NFL as a rookie free agent following the 2016 NFL Draft.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Gilbert played in all 16 games for the first time in his career and posted 44 tackles, six tackles for a loss, 2.5 sacks, a fumble recovery and four quarterback hits. Ranked second on the squad with 15 quarterback pressures.
• In 2017, Gilbert appeared in two games and collected three tackles, a sack, five quarterback pressures and three quarterback hits.
• In his NFL debut against Minnesota (12/23/17), recorded a team-high four quarterback pressures and a career-best three quarterback hits.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Gilbert's sister, Vicki Baugh, played for the WNBA's Tulsa Shock (2014-15) and San Antonio Stars (2016).
• As part of My Cause My Cleats, Gilbert wore cleats to raise awareness for those, including his aunt, who have lupus.
• Gilbert's final four seasons at the University of Arizona (2012-15) were the winningest four seasons in program history, as the Wildcats accumulated 33 wins and went to four bowl games.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Laveen, Ariz., native was originally signed by the Green Bay Packers as an undrafted free agent on May 6, 2016.
• Waived by the Packers on Sept. 3, 2016 and signed to the team's practice squad two days later.
• Signed by the Packers to a future's contract on Jan. 24, 2017.
• Waived by the Packers on Sept. 2, 2017 and signed to the team's practice squad a day later.
• Signed by the Packers to their active roster from the practice squad on Dec. 22, 2017.
• Traded by the Packers to the Titans in exchange for a 2020 conditional seventh-round draft pick on Aug. 29, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (11/5 - Tennessee): Notched his first career NFL start at Atlanta (9/29/19). Has tied for the team lead in sacks once in 2019 (vs. BUF). Has tied for the team lead in passes defensed once in 2019 (vs. JAX). Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles twice in 2019 (vs. TB, vs. HOU).
• At Cleveland (9/8), was inactive.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), was inactive.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), made his Titans debut as a reserve at outside linebacker and on special teams. Posted two tackles on defense. Stuffed Leonard Fournette for no gain on a rush up the middle on the final play of the third quarter.
• At Atlanta (9/29), made his first career start at outside linebacker and registered three tackles and a quarterback pressure. Combined with Logan Ryan to stop Devonta Freeman for a one-yard loss on a rush off left guard early in the third quarter.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), started at outside linebacker and notched three tackles, including a sack, a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Dropped Josh Allen for a four-yard sack in the final quarter. Teamed with Harold Landry to stuff Frank Gore for a one-yard loss on a rush off left end late in the fourth quarter.
• At Denver (10/13), started at outside linebacker and recorded two tackles.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), started at outside linebacker and posted four tackles. Combined with Kevin Byard to stop Melvin Gordon for no gain on a rush off right tackle in the second quarter.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), started at outside linebacker and tallied a tackle and a quarterback pressure. Notched a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Carolina (11/3), was inactive.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), played as a reserve at outside linebacker and registered three tackles. Combined with Wesley Woodyard to stuff Damien Williams for no gain on a rush off left tackle in the second quarter.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), saw action as a reserve at outside linebacker and notched two quarterback pressures and a pass defensed. Collected a special teams tackle on coverage units. Batted down a pass intended for Leonard Fournette in the fourth quarter.

HOMETOWN: YULEE, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 62/31 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

Pro Bowl: 2019

PRO: The Titans selected Heisman Trophy winner Derrick Henry in the second round of the 2016 NFL Draft out of the University of Alabama. The 6-foot-3-inch, 247-pounder is a powerful, downhill runner who displays tremendous speed and balance. He racked up 2,293 rushing yards and scored 22 rushing touchdowns during his first three NFL seasons, including his first career 1,000-yard season in 2018. At Alabama, the Heisman Trophy winner set numerous school and SEC records while leading his team to a National Championship in 2015.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Henry was named to the PFWA All-AFC team after setting single-season career highs in carries (215), rushing yards (1,059), rushing long (99t), and touchdowns (12).
• 2018 marked Henry's first career 1,000-yard season. He finished sixth in the NFL in rushing yards.
• In 2018, named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for Week 13 after collecting a franchise-best 238 rushing yards with a franchise-tying four rushing touchdowns against Jacksonville on Thursday Night Football (12/6). In the same game, he scored four rushing touchdowns to tie the franchise's single-game record (Earl Campbell, Lorenzo White).
• In Week 13 of the 2018 season, recorded the second 99-yard touchdown run in NFL history (Tony Dorsett). The run also set the mark for the longest touchdown run in franchise history and tied for the longest scrimmage play in NFL history. He also became the second player in NFL history with a rushing touchdown of at least 90 yards and a rushing touchdown of at least 50 yards in the same game (Chris Johnson).
• In 2018, named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for December after registering 97 carries for 625 yards and eight touchdowns.
• In 2018, became the seventh NFL player since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger with at least four rushing touchdowns and at least 200 rushing yards in a game (Clinton Portis, Barry Sanders, Doug Martin, Jonas Gray, Mike Anderson and Corey Dillon). Henry became the first to accomplish the feat in fewer than 20 carries (17).
• In 2017, Henry led the Titans with 744 rushing yards on 176 carries, and he rushed for five touchdowns for the second consecutive season.
• In the team's Wild Card playoff victory at Kansas City on Jan. 6, 2018, Henry recorded a franchise postseason record of 191 scrimmage yards (156 rushing, 35 receiving), breaking a 57-year-old postseason record set on Jan. 1, 1961, when Billy Cannon had 178 scrimmage yards against the Los Angeles Chargers. Henry's 156 rushing yards ranked second in franchise postseason history (162 by Eddie George on Jan. 16, 2000).
• In 2016, Henry rushed for 490 yards and five touchdowns to become the third rookie for the franchise in the "Titans era" to score at least five touchdowns in a season, joining Vince Young (seven rushing touchdowns in 2006) and Chris Johnson (nine rushing and one receiving in 2008).
• Despite playing just three seasons and not seeing extensive action in his first campaign at Alabama, Henry finished his career as the school's all-time rushing leader with 3,591 yards.
• As a senior in 2015, Henry claimed the Heisman Trophy and led his team to the College Football Playoff National Championship. He also won the Doak Walker and Maxwell Award and was selected as the Walter Camp Player of the Year after rushing for an Alabama and Southeastern Conference record 2,219 yards.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• In high school, Henry broke the 51-year-old national high school rushing record with 12,124 yards after compiling 4,261 rushing yards as a senior.
• Henry sealed an Iron Bowl victory with an epic, career-best 271 rushing yards against the Tigers in 2015. He put the Crimson Tide on his back by carrying the ball a school-record 46 times. His 271 rushing yards were 11 more yards than Auburn had in total offense (260). He ended the game with 14 consecutive rushes to run out the clock.
• His late grandmother, Gladys Henry, helped raise him and played a key inspirational role in his development. In 2018, he fulfilled a promise to her and graduated from Alabama with his bachelor's degree. He has a portrait tattoo of her on his chest.
• Gladys Henry nicknamed him "Shocka" as a baby because he "shocked the whole family" when he was born.
• Henry has been growing out his hair since he was in elementary school.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Yulee, Fla., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (45th overall) the 2016 NFL Draft.

37 AMANI HOOKER

DEFENSIVE BACK • 5'11" • 210 LBS • COLLEGE: IOWA
ACQUIRED: 4TH ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE: ROOKIE
HOMETOWN: MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 16/0 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select Amani Hooker with the 116th overall pick in the fourth round of the 2019 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11 inch, 210-pound defender was coveted for his versatility, having played safety, and a hybrid linebacker/cornerback position at Iowa. Hooker played in 36 games during his three seasons with the Hawkeyes and provided a steady presence in both the run game and pass coverage. He tallied 125 career tackles and six interceptions before declaring for the NFL Draft following his junior campaign.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• As a junior in 2018, Hooker received the Tatum-Woodson award given to the best defensive back in the Big Ten.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Hooker was named a finalist for Minnesota's Mr. Football in 2015. Yet he had just two FBS scholarship offers. When the in-state university showed hesitancy after multiple workouts, Hooker knew he belonged at Iowa saying, "love who loves me."
• In February 2019, Hooker helped crowdfund about $1,200 for the Park Center high school football program through a Pledge-It campaign raising a dollar amount for every inch of his vertical jump at the NFL Scouting Combine. His 37-inch jump ranked fifth among safeties and equaled money for better equipment at his alma mater.
• Amani's brother, Quinton, played basketball for North Dakota and helped take the team to the NCAA tournament his senior year. Quinton was Minnesota's Mr. Basketball in high school and currently plays basketball professionally in France.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Minneapolis, Minn., native was selected by the Titans in the fourth round (116th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (16/0, 1/0): Ranks third on the team with eight special teams tackles. Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles five times in 2019 (at JAX, vs. BUF, vs. TB, at IND, at HOU). Appeared in his first career NFL contest at Cleveland (9/8/19).
• At Cleveland (9/8), made his NFL debut as a reserve at safety and on special teams. Notched a stop on special teams coverage units.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), played as a reserve at safety and on special teams.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), saw action as a reserve at safety and on special teams. Tied for the team lead with a special teams stop.
• At Atlanta (9/29), played as a reserve at safety and registered four tackles.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), saw action as a reserve at safety. Notched a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Denver (10/13), saw action as a reserve at safety.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), played as a reserve at safety and posted a tackle.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), saw action as a reserve at safety and tallied a tackle. Notched a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Carolina (11/3), played as a reserve at safety.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), saw action as a reserve at safety and registered two tackles.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), played as a reserve at safety and on special teams. Notched two tackles on special teams coverage units.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), saw action as a reserve at safety and posted two tackles. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Oakland (12/8), saw significant action as a reserve at safety and amassed three tackles.
• Against Houston (12/15), played as a reserve at safety and on special teams.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), saw action as a reserve at safety.
• At Houston (12/29), played as a reserve at safety and on special teams. Tied for the team lead with a special teams stop on coverage units.
• At New England (1/4), saw action as a reserve safety in his postseaon debut and posted two tackles.

COLLEGE:

• During a three-year career at Iowa, played in 36 games with 19 starts and totaled 125 tackles, six interceptions, a sack, 3.5 tackles for loss and nine passes defensed.

AS A JUNIOR (2018), named Tatum-Woodson Defensive Back of the Year in the Big Ten. Selected second-team All-America by The Associated Press and USA Today and All-Big Ten by league coaches and media. Selected as Roy Carver Most Valuable Player for the Iowa defense. Started all 13 games and shared the team lead with four interceptions and seven pass break-ups, while ranking second with 65 tackles.
• Against Northern Illinois (9/1), started at strong safety and recorded five tackles, along with an interception in the red zone. Also had one tackle for loss, resulting in a safety.
• Against Wisconsin (9/22), started at strong safety and led team with 11 tackles, along with one pass break-up.
• Against Maryland (10/20), collected a solo tackle and an interception.
• At Purdue (11/3), tallied five tackles, a shared tackle for loss and an interception and 11-yard return that led to Iowa touchdown.
• At Illinois (11/17), recorded three solo tackles, including one tackle for loss. Added an interception and 39-yard return to go with one pass breakup and a nine-yard punt return.

AS A SOPHOMORE (2017), saw action in 10 games with six starts and recorded 56 tackles, two interceptions with a touchdown return, and two passes defensed. Named to Associated Press All-Bowl team following his performance in Pinstripe Bowl win over Boston College
• Against Penn State (9/23), started at free safety in his first career collegiate start and posted a career-best 13 tackles, including 11 solo stops and two assists, to go along with one pass break-up.
• Against Illinois (10/7), recorded six solo tackles, while collecting his first career interception in the Iowa end zone to stop an Illinois scoring threat. Also had one rush for 18 yards while converting a fake punt, which led to an Iowa touchdown.
• Against Ohio State (11/4), started at strong safety in 55-24 win over #3 Ohio State. Returned an interception 30 yards for first career touchdown on the opening play of the game. Also contributed one solo tackle and three assists.
• Against Boston College (12/27), led team with 12 tackles, including two touchdown-saving tackles that held Boston College to field goals.

AS A FRESHMAN (2016), saw action in all 13 games, primarily on special teams, recording three solo tackles and one assist.
• Majored in sports and recreation management with a minor in entrepreneurship at Iowa.

PERSONAL:

• Attended Parker Center (Brooklyn Park, Minn.), High School where he played primarily safety and wide receiver, but also lined up as cornerback, running back, quarterback and linebacker.

• As a senior, was selected Conference MVP, named first-team All-State and was a finalist for “Mr. Football.”
• In his final high school campaign, the team captain set the school record for interceptions in a season (11) and helped team post a 9-3 record, while reaching state playoffs.

10 ADAM HUMPHRIES

WIDE RECEIVER • 5'11" • 195 LBS • COLLEGE: CLEMSON
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (TB) - 2019
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/1 • HOMETOWN: SPARTANBURG, S.C.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 72/20 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed wide receiver Adam Humphries to the roster early in the 2019 free agency period. The 5-foot-11-inch, 195-pounder has the ability to line up both inside and outside at wide receiver as well as contribute in the return game. After completing his four-year career at Clemson, Humphries signed a rookie free agent deal with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and spent his first four NFL campaigns with the club (2015-18), registering 219 receptions for 2,329 yards and nine touchdowns.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Humphries was originally a rookie tryout invitee with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers following the 2015 NFL Draft. Titans general manager Jon Robinson was a member of the Bucs player personnel department at the time and saw the 5-foot-11-inch wideout grind it out in practice and eventually earn a spot on the team's 53-man roster. "Humph came in as a tryout and won a spot on the 90-man roster," said Robinson. "He was a tough guy to cover all through training camp and he kept working and working and working. I've always had an affinity for him and liked his style. He's earned everything he's got."
• Clemson head football coach Dabo Swinney took a visit to Humphries' high school, Dorman, before the 2011 season to scout eventual signee Charone Peake during a basketball game. But once the game began, Swinney couldn't help but notice Dorman's 5-foot-11 point guard running the show. "I go watch a basketball game at Dorman High School to see Charone Peake, and I'm going, 'Dang, who's this point guard?'" Swinney said. "And I've got Coach (Dave) Gutshall going, 'Well that's the best football player I've got on the team.' And I'm like, 'Really? We need to watch this guy a little bit.' He played corner, he played receiver, he played running back, he played quarterback. He was the best football player on the team. Adam Humphries was his name. I don't think he had any offers. So we offer the guy, 'Well, we're only offering the guy to get Charone Peake. No, no, no. We want Humphries."
• Humphries maintains a friendship with former Clemson teammate and current division rival DeAndre Hopkins.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• Signed by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a rookie free agent on May 11, 2015.
• Waived by the Buccaneers on Oct. 5, 2015 and signed to the team's practice squad two days later.
• Signed by the Buccaneers to their active roster from the practice squad on Oct. 28, 2015.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 15, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:

25 ADOREE' JACKSON

CORNERBACK • 5'11" • 185 LBS • COLLEGE: SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2017 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 3/3
HOMETOWN: EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 43/39 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

PRO: The Titans added the versatile and electric Adoree' Jackson with the 18th overall pick in the first round of the 2017 NFL Draft, and Jackson proceeded to start every game during his rookie season at cornerback while also serving as the team's primary returner. The 5-foot-11-inch, 185-pound playmaker possesses game-breaking speed but is also a proven and willing tackler. He also can contribute on the offensive side of the ball. During his three-year stint at Southern California, he scored 15 total touchdowns in four different ways: via reception (six), interception (one), punt return (four) and kickoff return (four).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Jackson set single-season career highs in tackles (69) and interceptions (2). His two interceptions ranked third on the team.
• In 2018, he appeared in all 16 games for the second consecutive season.
• In 2017, Jackson was the first rookie cornerback for the team in the "Titans era" (1999–present) to record 16 starts. His 1,260 total plays (1,017 defensive snaps, 231 special teams snaps and 12 offensive snaps) ranked second in the NFL among all players behind only Arizona Cardinals safety Tyrann Mathieu (1,261).
• Jackson led the Titans with 23 passes defensed as a rookie.
• Jackson was awarded the 2016 Jim Thorpe Award as college football's top defensive back.
• At Southern California, Jackson tied two NCAA records with eight career touchdowns on kick returns and nine touchdowns on all runbacks. He also set USC career records with 2,141 kickoff return yards and 79 kickoff returns.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Jackson was a long jumper and sprinter on USC's track team in the springs of 2015 and 2016, winning the Pac-12 outdoor long jump title both years (and placing second in the Pac-12 100 meters in 2016) and earning All-American status both years after twice placing fifth in the NCAA long jump. He also placed 10th in the long jump during the U.S. Olympic Trials.
• Jackson lists his parents, Chris and Vianca Jackson, as the people that inspire him the most. "They've always steered me in the right direction. All of their experiences and guidance helped get me where I'm at."
• Vianca Jackson, a survivor of breast cancer, served as the team's Honorary 12th Titan prior to the team's 2017 Breast Cancer Awareness Game (Oct. 16).
• Jackson's father, Chris Jackson, is the ultimate grill master and can be found at Titans home games smoking turkey legs, Cornish hams, chicken, rabbits, alligator and frog legs for a pre-game tailgate among family and friends, as well as a post-game meal with players and coaches. He makes all of his own rubs and sauces and has been cooking since 1984.
• Jackson, business partner James Moore, and Jay Levine co-founded Kor Media Entertainment (KME), a Los Angeles-based entertainment agency under the Warner Brothers Digital umbrella. Their tagline is "Where Creatives Come to Play" and their goal is to create culture relevance for both creators and brands through interactive and labs which a focus on gaming and esports.
• Jackson is a Reese's Peanut Butter Cups enthusiast. He names creator Harry Burnett Reese as a historical person he would have loved to meet. "He's a genius. That's by far and away my favorite candy. I eat that like it ain't nothing."
• Jackson watched the movie "Space Jam" continuously as a child to the point he memorized most of the movie.
• During the 2018 offseason, Jackson worked with Microsoft to host children from the Boys & Girls Club in Nashville and Los Angeles at parties where they could compete with him in video games Fortnite and Forza Motorsport.
• In May 2018, Jackson and his business partner James Moore paid for the burial costs of Jaylon McKenzie, an eighth-grade football player who was killed by a stray bullet. McKenzie, a St. Louis, Ill., native, grew up idolizing Jackson.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The East St. Louis, Ill., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (18th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

PRO: The Titans added free agent wide receiver Darius Jennings to the roster during the 2017 offseason. The 5-foot-10-inch, 180-pounder has the ability to line up at wide receiver as well as return kicks. He set the franchise's single-season record and led the NFL with a 31.7-yard kickoff return average in 2018. After completing his four-year career at Virginia, Jennings ranked No. 1 all-time in program history with 1,839 kick return yards. Jennings originally signed as a rookie free agent with the Cleveland Browns in 2015 and has since spent time on the practice squads of Cleveland, Chicago Bears and the New York Jets.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Jennings set the team's single-season record with a 31.7-yard kickoff return average, totaling 698 yards on 22 attempts with one touchdown. The previous franchise record was set in 1960 by Ken Hall with a 31.3-yard average (19 for 594 yards). Jennings' 31.7-yard average led the NFL in 2018 and tied for the eighth-best average in the NFL among qualifiers (1.25 attempts per team game) since 1960.
• At Miami on Sept. 9, 2018, he returned a kickoff 94 yards for his first NFL touchdown and the first kickoff return touchdown for the Titans since 2012.

TITANS TIDBITS:

94 AUSTIN JOHNSON

DEFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'4" • 314 LBS • COLLEGE: PENN STATE
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: GALLOWAY, N.J.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 58/13 (PLAYOFFS: 3/1)

PRO: The Titans selected Austin Johnson in the second round of the 2016 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4-inch, 314-pound defensive lineman has the bulk and power to secure the middle of the defense as a nose tackle but also the versatility and movement skills to play other positions along the front. In his first three NFL seasons, Johnson played in 42 games and tallied 72 tackles, 2.5 sacks, four tackles for loss and five passes defensed.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Johnson saw action in all 16 games and posted 25 tackles, a sack, five quarterback pressures, a stop for loss and two passes defensed.
• In 2017, Johnson appeared in all 16 games and made three starts. He posted single-season career-highs with 32 tackles, one sack, two tackles for loss and two passes defensed. He also appeared in his first two postseason contests with one start.
• As a rookie in 2016, Johnson appeared in 10 games. His totals included 15 tackles and a half sack.
• Johnson's 78 tackles as a junior in 2015 ranked second among defensive linemen in FBS and were the most by a Penn State defensive lineman since Jimmy Kennedy (87) in 2002.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• When Johnson was drafted by the Titans, he became a teammate once again of DaQuan Jones, a former Penn State defensive lineman who was drafted by the Titans in 2014. The two remained close, and Jones was among Johnson's family and friends surrounding him on draft night.
• Johnson's wife, Danika, is a former LFL MVP and is currently the general manager and head coach of the Nashville Knights football team.
• The son of Austin and Tammy Johnson, he has two older sisters, Brandi and Erika, and one younger sister, Kennedy. Kennedy was a forward on the Michigan State women's basketball team.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Galloway, N.J., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (43rd overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

60 BEN JONES

CENTER • 6'3" • 308 LBS • COLLEGE: GEORGIA
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (HOU) - 2016
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/4 • HOMETOWN: BRENT, ALA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 127/106 (PLAYOFFS: 6/6)

Captain: 2019 Community Man of the Year: 2019

PRO: The Titans signed Ben Jones early in the 2016 free agency period to bring veteran leadership and experience to the center position and he provided just that in his three campaigns with the club. The 6-foot-3-inch, 308-pounder was originally selected by the Houston Texans in the fourth round (99th overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft. The University of Georgia product is a versatile player, having started contests at center and both guard spots in his first four seasons with the Texans.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• Jones has started games at center, left guard and right guard during his NFL career and has opened holes for four 1,000-yard rushers.
• In 2018, Jones started all 16 games at center, registering a start in every contest for the fifth consecutive season (2014-15 with Houston).
• Jones appeared in his 100th career game in Week 4 of the 2018 season. He has never missed a game in his seven-year career.
• As of the completion of the 2018 season, among NFL offensive linemen listed as centers, Jones ranked first in the NFL with 80 consecutive games started. He had played in 112 consecutive games, which at this point tied for the longest active consecutive games streak among NFL offensive linemen.
• In 2016, Jones centered all 16 games in his first campaign with the Titans and was a part of an offensive front that blocked for the NFL's third-ranked rushing attack which averaged 136.7 rush yards per game.
• In 2015, Jones transitioned to his natural position of center and started all 16 games and the playoff contest for the Texans.
• In 2014, Jones started all 16 contests at left guard.
• As a rookie in 2012, Jones started the final 10 games of the season at right guard and was named the Texans Rookie of the Year.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Jones switched from jersey #61 to #60 prior to his senior season at Georgia, to honor his father, Steve, a former collegiate star, who was killed in a helicopter crash when he was 10 years old.
• Jones' pregame ritual consists of walking barefoot on the field "to get a feel for the turf." The routine began before one game with his brother in high school and after enjoying success that night, it has continued ever since.
• When he was 10 years old, Jones suffered a blow to the head with a baseball bat. The impact caused a blood clot to develop on his brain and fractured his skull. The injury kept him out of all athletic activity for a year, proving to be a challenging time for an active and athletic boy. Although it was a tough period in his life, Ben says this time turned him into the man he is today. As soon as he was cleared for activities, Jones threw himself into being the best athlete he could be.
• In 2017, Jones established The Jones Mission Fund at The Community Foundation to provide at-risk youth with opportunities they might otherwise not have through grants, additional resources and educational opportunities.
• For the past three offseasons, Jones and his wife has hosted the annual Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot. The three events combined have raised more than $400,000 benefitting The Jones Mission Fund.
• Jones hosts a free Friday Night Lights youth football camp in his native Alabama.
• Jones' brother, Clay, played baseball for the University of Alabama and then was drafted by the Detroit Tigers.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• A native of Brent, Ala., Jones was originally selected by the Houston Texans in the fourth round (99th overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 10, 2016.

90 DaQUAN JONES

DEFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'4" • 322 LBS • COLLEGE: PENN STATE
ACQUIRED: 4TH ROUND - 2014 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 6/6
HOMETOWN: JOHNSON CITY, N.Y.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 83/77 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: Seeking a big, physical and versatile defensive lineman, the Titans selected Penn State's DaQuan Jones in the fourth round of the 2014 NFL Draft. Jones offers an impressive combination of size, athleticism, intelligence and power. The 6-foot-4-inch, 322-pounder played as a reserve as a rookie but earned a full-time role as a 3-4 defensive end by his second season. He started 45 consecutive games until an injury ended his fourth season prematurely. He was signed to a new multi-year contract in 2018.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Jones started all 16 games for the third time in his career. His 39 tackles made up the second-highest total of his career and included a career-high four tackles for loss.
• In 2016, Jones joined Brian Orakpo as the only two Titans to start every game from 2015–2016.
• Against Houston in the 2016 season finale (1/1/17), recovered a Tom Savage fumble in the end zone for his first career touchdown.
• In 2015, Jones was one of four members of the team to start all 16 games, holding down a spot at defensive end for the duration of the campaign. He totaled 67 tackles, 15 quarterback pressures, two tackles for loss and a fumble recovery.
• As a rookie in 2014, Jones played in seven games with one start. He posted his first career sack against Indianapolis on Dec. 28.
• As a senior at Penn State, Jones earned first-team All-Big Ten Conference honors and was named Penn State's Outstanding Senior Player and the recipient of the team's Reid-Robinson Award. He was one of the team's leaders who opted to stay with the program during a time of turmoil.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Jones has a reputation as an upbeat, positive influence. "I've always had that positive mindset, even when things weren't as good," he says. "The guys laugh at me sometimes because I'm always smiling ... It's not that I'm happy all the time, but I just feel like in today's world, if you let anything get you down, it will. The smallest thing will turn into the biggest problem if you let it, so I just try my best to keep a positive mindset."
• Jones majored in criminal justice at Penn State and spent a portion of his 2013 summer as an intern observing the Spring Township Police Department near State College.
• Jones entered the Penn State program after being rated the second-best offensive lineman in the nation during his playing days at Johnson City High School. He switched to the other side of the ball and made an immediate impact as a true freshman.
• Jones lists his father, Steve, as the most inspirational person in his life. Steve raised DaQuan as a single father and one of his father's greatest traits is that he works extremely hard in everything he does. Steve works as an executive chef at Cornell University.
• Jones is in the process of launching his own non-profit organization called "Create Your Legacy." In June 2019, he hosted the DaQuan Jones Create Your Legacy Football Camp for more than 100 kids ages 11-18 at Johnson City (N.Y.) High School.
• Jones has four dogs, one of which he named Titan.

7 GREG JOSEPH

KICKER • 6'0" • 210 LBS • COLLEGE: FLORIDA ATLANTIC
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/1
HOMETOWN: BOCA RATON, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 16/0 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: A veteran kicker in his second NFL campaign, Greg Joseph joined the Titans prior to Week 16 of the 2019 regular season after Ryan Succop was placed on injured reserve. Joseph spent his rookie campaign with the Cleveland Browns (2018), where he converted 17 of 20 field goal attempts and 25 of 29 extra points. The 6-foot, 210-pounder has also spent time with the Miami Dolphins and Carolina Panthers during his career.

TITANS TIDBITS:
• Joseph was born in Johannesburg, South Africa and lived in the country until he was seven years old when his family moved to Florida.
• Joseph played for the same youth soccer club as United States men's national team forward Jozy Altidore. Altidore is four years older than Joseph so the two never played on the same team, but the two players reunited during the 2019 offseason when the U.S. national team visited Cleveland in late June.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:
• The Johannesburg, South Africa native was originally signed by the Miami Dolphins as a rookie free agent on May 10, 2018.
• Waived by the Dolphins on Sept. 1, 2018.
• Signed by the Cleveland Browns on Sept. 17, 2018.
• Waived by the Browns on Aug. 31, 2019.
• Signed by the Carolina Panthers to their practice squad on Nov. 25, 2019.
• Signed by the Titans off the Panthers' practice squad on Dec. 18, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:
2019 (2/0, 1/0 - Tennessee):
• Against New Orleans (12/22), made his Titans debut and connected on all four extra point chances. Registered a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Houston (12/29), connected on all five extra point chances and collected six touchbacks on six kickoffs.
• At New England (1/4),

2018 (14/0 - Cleveland): Played in 14 contests and set the Browns rookie records for points scored (76) and field goals (17). Converted 17 of 20 field goal attempts (85.0 percent) and 25 of 29 extra points (86.2 percent).
• Against N.Y. Jets (9/20), in 21-17 primetime victory, converted both field goal attempts (45, 27) and one extra point in his NFL debut.
• Against Baltimore (10/7), during a 12-9 overtime division win, made game-winning 37-yard field goal with two seconds remaining in overtime.
• Against Kansas City (11/4), made a career-long 51-yard field goal in first quarter.
• Against Cincinnati (12/23), completed the sweep of Bengals with 26-18 win by connecting on two field goals (37, 31). Set the record for most field goals by a Browns rookie in one season.
• At Baltimore (12/30), converted one of two field goal attempts (35) and all three extra points, becoming Browns' all-time rookie leading scorer.

COLLEGE:
• Appeared in 50 games for Florida Atlantic as a four-year contributor.
• Connected on 57 of 82 career field goals and 165 of 170 extra point chances. Was a two-time All-Conference USA honorable mention selection (2016-17).
• Finished his career as the school's all-time leader in scoring (336), field goals (57) and extra points (165).
• As a senior (2017), played in all 14 games and made 15 of 21 field goals and 64 of 68 extra points. Named All-Conference USA honorable mention.
• As a junior (2016), played in all 12 games and connected on 10 of 14 field goals and 39 of 39 extra points. Selected All-Conference USA honorable mention.
• As a sophomore (2015), saw action in all 12 games and made 18 of 27 field goals and 28 of 28 extra points.
• As a redshirt freshman (2014), played in all 12 games and nailed 14 of 20 field goals and 34 of 35 point after attempts.
• Redshirted in 2013.
• Graduated with a degree in exercise science and health promotion from Florida Atlantic.

PERSONAL:
• Attended American Heritage School in Delray Beach, Fla.
• Played just one season of football. Also played soccer, earning all-county and all-state accolades.
• Follow Joseph on Instagram at @gregj711.
• Follow Joseph on Twitter at @greg_joseph1.
• Born Greg Joseph on Aug. 4, 1994 in Johannesburg, South Africa.

71 DENNIS KELLY

GUARD/TACKLE • 6'8" • 321 LBS • COLLEGE: PURDUE
ACQUIRED: TRADE (PHI) - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/4
HOMETOWN: CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILL.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 88/31 (PLAYOFFS: 3/0)

PRO: The Titans acquired Dennis Kelly in a trade with the Philadelphia Eagles in 2016. The 6-foot-8-inch, 321-pounder provides quality experience and depth along the offensive front, having logged starts at right tackle, right guard, left guard and tight end during his NFL career. In his first three seasons in Nashville, he appeared in all 43 games with 12 starts. The 2012 fifth-round pick spent his first four NFL campaigns as a member of the Philadelphia Eagles and appeared in 30 games with 15 starts from 2012-15.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Kelly saw action in 11 games and logged five starts at right tackle.
• In 2016, Kelly appeared in all 16 games for the first time in his career and recorded six starts in his first campaign in Tennessee.
• In 2012, he started 10 games as a rookie—three starts at right guard and seven starts at right tackle.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Kelly went back to school during the 2014 offseason to earn his degree in organizational leadership from Purdue.
• In May 2019, Kelly received his MBA from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University.
• Kelly is an avid professional wrestling fan that does not let the opportunity pass him by whenever a live WWE show is in town. He lists the Undertaker as the one person in the world he would like to have dinner with.
• Kelly's brother, Tim, played football at Eastern Illinois and is currently the offensive coordinator for the Houston Texans.
• Kelly's favorite football player growing up was former Titans great Jevon Kearse.
• Kelly claims that the biggest influence on his life and career has been his entire family. "We're a Southside [Chicago] Irish family, so we share a really tight bond and they've inspired me to get to where I am today."

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• A native of Chicago Heights, Ill., Kelly was originally selected by the Philadelphia Eagles in the fifth round (153rd overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft.
• Traded by the Eagles to the Titans in exchange for wide receiver Dorial Green-Beckham on Aug. 16, 2016.

PRO: Brett Kern is a strong-legged punter that has shown a keen ability to down his kicks inside the opponents' 20-yard line. The 12th-year pro is the franchise's all-time leader in gross punting average and net punting average and ranks second in career punts, trailing only Craig Hentrich (861). In 2017, Kern was named to his first career Pro Bowl and was selected second-team Associated Press All-Pro after leading the NFL with a career-high and franchise-best 49.7 gross average and a career-best and franchise-high 44.6 net average. He added a second Pro Bowl berth in 2018. The University of Toledo product joined the Titans franchise during the 2009 season when he was claimed off waivers from the Denver Broncos.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Kern was named to the Pro Bowl for the second consecutive season. His 39 punts inside the 20-yard line on 74 attempts established a franchise record and a career high. He finished the season with a career-long streak of 16 consecutive punts placed inside the 20, including every punt in the final three games of the season.
• In 2017, Kern's gross punting average (49.7) ranked eighth in NFL history and was the highest of any player since 2012. His net punting average (44.6) ranked second in NFL history. He was named to his first career Pro Bowl and was selected second-team Associated Press All-Pro after leading the NFL with a career-high and franchise-best 49.7 gross average and a career-best and franchise-high 44.6 net average.
• In 2016, Kern placed 41.6 percent of his punts inside the opponent's 20-yard line (32 of 77), which at the time ranked second in his career (42.2 in 2009).
• In 2015, Kern launched a career-high tying 88 punts to become the second-leading punter (career punts) in franchise history. He placed a then-career-high 34 punts inside the 20 with only one touchback (career low). He also accomplished a first-of-its-kind feat, becoming the first punter in NFL history to record 80 or more punts, a net average of 40 yards, and one or zero touchbacks in a single season.
• In 2014, Kern booted 88 total punts for a gross average of 46.8 yards and a net average of 40.8 yards, which broke his own single-season team record (40.4-yard net average in 2012).
• In 2013, Kern established then-career benchmarks with 32 punts inside the 20-yard line and only two touchbacks.
• Kern arguably had his most productive season in 2012 when he ranked fifth in the AFC with what at the time was a franchise record and career-best 47.6 gross punt average. He also finished ninth in the AFC with a then-franchise record 40.4 net punting average.
• In 2009, Kern's combined average of 45.5 yards per punt with the Titans and Broncos ranked eighth in the NFL.
• In 2008, Kern ranked fifth in the league with a 46.7-yard punting average and was named to the All-Rookie team by Pro Football Weekly/PFWA and the Sporting News.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Kern's father, Cal, is a former professional soccer goalie.
• Kern is an avid golfer that sports a +1 handicap. He picked the game up late in his high school years and caddied for three summers at Inverness Golf Club while in college. The course is located in Toledo, Ohio, and has hosted PGA and NCAA Championships. In 2011, Kern competed in The Vinny, a local golf fundraising tournament hosted by singers Vince Gill and Amy Grant, and finished fourth in the event.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Grand Island, N.Y., native was originally signed by the Denver Broncos as a rookie free agent on April 28, 2008.

58 HAROLD LANDRY III

OUTSIDE LINEBACKER • 6'2" • 252 LBS • COLLEGE: BOSTON COLLEGE
ACQUIRED: 2ND ROUND - 2018 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: SPRING LAKE, N.C.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 31/19 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans traded up to select outside linebacker Harold Landry III with the 41st overall pick in the second round of the 2018 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-2-inch, 252-pound defender possesses a unique ability to bend the edge as a pass rusher and use his speed, athleticism and long arms to get to the quarterback. He finished his career at Boston College ranked second in school history with 26 career sacks.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, made his NFL debut and appeared in 15 games on the season. His 4.5 sacks tied for third on the team and his 18 quarterback pressures tied for second.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Landry could have entered the NFL Draft following his 16.5-sack junior season at Boston College. However, he chose to stay in school and received his degree in communications in December 2017.
• Landry enjoys traveling. One of his favorite getaways is Destin, Fla.
• He and his son, Greyson, share the same June 5 birthday.
• Landry's 26 career sacks at Boston College were exceeded in school history by only Mathias Kiwanuka (37.5 from 2002-05).
• In 2016, he set a Boston College record and led the nation with 16.5 sacks. His seven forced fumbles also ranked first nationally.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Spring Lake, N.C., native was selected by the Titans in the second round (41st overall) of the 2018 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (16/16, 1/1): Leads the team with a career-high nine sacks. Ranks second on the squad with 28 quarterback pressures. Has led or tied for the team lead in sacks eight times in 2019 (vs. IND, at ATL, vs. BUF, vs. TB, at CAR, vs. KC, vs. JAX, at IND). Has led or tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures seven times in 2019 (vs. LAC, at CAR, vs. KC, vs. JAX, at IND, vs. HOU, at NE).
• At Cleveland (9/8), started at outside linebacker and collected five tackles and a quarterback pressure.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), started at outside linebacker and tallied six tackles, including a sack, a tackle for loss and a fumble recovery. Recovered a Jacoby Brissett fumble midway through the third quarter. Dropped Marlon Mack for no gain on a rush off left end in the final quarter. Ended a Colts' drive by sacking Brissett on third-and-five in the fourth quarter. Stonewalled Mack for a three-yard loss on a rush off left guard in the fourth stanza.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), started at outside linebacker and posted four tackles, including a stop for loss. Stuffed Leonard Fournette for a three-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the first quarter.
• At Atlanta (9/29), started at outside linebacker and registered five tackles, including a team-best and career-high two sacks. Sacked Matt Ryan for a six-yard loss in the third quarter. Ended a Falcons' drive by dropping Ryan for a nine-yard sack on fourth-and-one in the third stanza.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), started at outside linebacker and notched seven tackles, including a sack, a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Ended a Bills' drive by coming off the edge and sacking Josh Allen for a six-yard loss on third-and-four early in the third quarter. Teamed with Reggie Gilbert to stuff Frank Gore for a one-yard loss on a rush off left end late in the fourth quarter.
• At Denver (10/13), started at outside linebacker and recorded seven tackles and a quarterback pressure. Stuffed Emmanuel Sanders for no gain on a short pass in the flat in the opening stanza.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), started at outside linebacker and posted three tackles, while tying for the team lead with four quarterback pressures. Teamed with Jeffery Simmons to stonewall Melvin Gordon for a one-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the opening quarter.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), started at outside linebacker and tallied five tackles, including a sack, a forced fumble and a fumble recovery. Combined with Kevin Byard to stuff Ronald Jones for a two-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the first quarter. Came off the edge and sacked Jameis Winston while forcing a fumble that he recovered at the Buccaneers' 36-yard line in the final stanza.
• At Carolina (11/3), started at outside linebacker and produced seven tackles, a sack, an interception, two quarterback pressures and a stop for loss. Collected his first career interception by picking off a Kyle Allen pass that was initially tipped by Kenny Vaccaro on third-and-nine in the opening stanza. Dropped Kyle Allen for an eight-yard sack early in the second quarter. Stonewalled Kyle Allen for a two-yard loss on a bootleg run late in the game.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), started at outside linebacker and registered three tackles, including a sack and a team-high three quarterback pressures. Registered a sack in his third consecutive game. Came off the edge and sacked Patrick Mahomes for an eight-yard loss late in the second quarter.

77 TAYLOR LEWAN

TACKLE • 6'7" • 309 LBS • COLLEGE: MICHIGAN
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2014 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 6/6
HOMETOWN: CAVE CREEK, ARIZ.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 85/80 (PLAYOFFS: 3/3)

Pro Bowl: 2016, 2017, 2018

PRO: With the 11th overall selection in the 2014 NFL Draft, the Titans selected former Michigan left tackle Taylor Lewan (pronounced leh-WAHN). The 6-foot-7-inch, 309-pound lineman is considered one of the top tackles in the NFL, evidenced by his Pro Bowl berths following the 2016, 2017 and 2018 campaigns. Lewan signed a long-term extension with the club during the 2018 training camp and will be anchor for the offensive front for years to come. An outgoing personality off the field, he is tenacious and aggressive on it. At Michigan, he was a four-year starter, anchoring the line at left tackle for 48 career starts. Lewan became the first offensive tackle selected by the Titans/Oilers in the first round since tackle Brad Hopkins (13th overall) in 1993.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Lewan was selected to his third consecutive Pro Bowl after starting 15 games at left tackle.
• In 2017, Lewan was named to his second Pro Bowl after starting every game at left tackle for the second consecutive season. He became the team's first offensive lineman to make multiple Pro Bowls since center Kevin Mawae from 2008–2009.
• In 2016, Lewan was named to his first career Pro Bowl after starting all 16 games at left tackle and blocking for the NFL's third-ranked rushing attack which averaged 136.7 rush yards per game.
• Lewan was named the Big Ten Conference Offensive Lineman of the Year in 2012 and 2013.
• At the conclusion of the 2011 season, during which Lewan helped pave the way for a pair of 1,000-yard rushers (Denard Robinson and Fitzgerald Toussaint), the Wolverines scored an overtime victory over Virginia Tech in the Sugar Bowl.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Lewan is the co-founder of the popular podcast Bussin' With The Boys with former teammate Will Compton. The two friends host guests on an old Monte Carlo Budweiser bus and discuss any and everything.
• Lewan was the originator of the 2018 Offseason Titan Games, inspired by the popular video game Fortnite. The entire 90-man roster engaged in a contest in which two-man teams could eliminate other players anywhere other than at Saint Thomas Sports Park using foam swords. The contest lasted several weeks, and eventually fellow offensive lineman John Theus was declared the winner.
• Lewan owns a taxidermied beaver named Steve. The fedora-donning stuffed rodent, who was a gift from Lewan's wife, Taylin, makes appearances around the Titans locker room, often appearing at the locker of an unsuspecting rookie.
• Lewan chose to wear jersey number 77 at Michigan and then at the pro level because of the legacy of Wolverine tackles who have donned the number, including Jake Long and Jon Jansen.
• One of Lewan's close friends is former Carolina Panthers defensive end Craig Roh. The two played together as high school seniors and then went to Michigan at the same time.
• At the 2014 NFL Scouting Combine, Lewan ran the 40-yard dash in 4.87 seconds, beating all other offensive linemen in his class and clocking the fourth-fastest time among offensive linemen from 2010-14. He also ranked among the top offensive linemen at the 2014 combine in the broad jump (first at nine feet, nine inches), vertical jump (tied for third at 30.5 inches) and three-cone drill (fourth at 7.39 seconds).

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• A native of Cave Creek, Ariz., Lewan was selected by the Titans in the first round (11th overall) of the 2014 NFL Draft.

33 DION LEWIS

RUNNING BACK • 5'8" • 195 LBS • COLLEGE: PITTSBURGH
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (NEW ENGLAND) - 2018
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/2 • HOMETOWN: ALBANY, N.Y.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 86/27 (PLAYOFFS: 7/5)

Super Bowl: 2016

PRO: Early in the 2018 offseason, the Titans signed unrestricted free agent Dion Lewis. The 5-foot-8-inch, 195-pounder brings versatility and veteran leadership to the Titans' running back corps. Lewis is strong runner that can excel between the tackles and a skilled pass catcher that flourishes as a receiver out of the backfield. The University of Pittsburgh product is also a talented kick returner with two career touchdown returns in his first seven seasons. He enjoyed one of his best campaigns with the New England Patriots in 2017 when he led the team with 896 rushing yards and six touchdowns. A former fifth-round draft choice, Lewis spent his first two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles before stops with the Cleveland Browns, Indianapolis Colts and Patriots.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In his first season with the Titans in 2018, Lewis finished second on the team with 517 rushing yards and a touchdown. He also ranked second on the squad with a career-high 59 receptions and third on the team with a career-best 400 receiving yards.
• In 2017, Lewis led the Patriots with 896 rushing yards on 180 carries with six touchdowns. In the last eight games of the campaign, he led the NFL with 625 rushing yards. Compared to all running backs with 150 or more rushing attempts, his per-carry average of 4.98 yards led the NFL.
• In 2016, Lewis returned from injury to play in seven regular season games with five starts and total 64 rushing attempts for 283 yards and 17 receptions for 94 yards. He helped the Patriots capture the Super Bowl title by playing in all three playoff games with two starts. He contributed in all three phases - rushing 25 times for 79 yards and a touchdown, catching five passes for 33 yards and a touchdown and returning five kickoffs for 162 yards and a touchdown.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Lewis credits his parents, Leroy (former construction worker) and Linda (social worker), as the biggest influences on his career. "Growing up, they were hard on me and they made sure I stayed out of trouble," Lewis said. "That helped me out a lot later on in life."
• Lewis attended the University of Pittsburgh, but he was offered a scholarship from just two other schools, Miami of Ohio and Tulane.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Albany, N.Y., native was originally selected by the Philadelphia Eagles in the fifth round (149th overall) of the 2011 NFL Draft.
• Traded by the Philadelphia Eagles to the Cleveland Browns in exchange for linebacker Emmanuel Acho on April 11, 2013.
• Released by the Browns on Aug. 30, 2014.
• Signed by the Indianapolis Colts as a free agent on Sept. 10, 2014.
• Released by the Colts on Sept. 16, 2014.
• Signed by the New England Patriots as a free agent on Feb. 6, 2015.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 16, 2018.

51 DAVID LONG JR.

LINEBACKER • 5'11" • 227 LBS • COLLEGE: WEST VIRGINIA
ACQUIRED: 6TH ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE: ROOKIE
HOMETOWN: CINCINNATI, OHIO
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 14/0 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: The Titans selected David Long Jr. in the sixth round of the 2019 NFL Draft. The 5-foot-11-inch, 227-pound defender possesses tremendous speed for the position, displays grit and toughness and has a knack for finding the ball carrier. At West Virginia, he was a three-year starter and amassed 252 career tackles, 14 sacks and 40 tackles for loss. The 2018 Big 12 Defensive Player of the Year led the Mountaineers in tackles during his final collegiate campaign.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• As a junior in 2018, Long Jr. was selected Big 12 Defensive Player of the Year by the coaches and the Associated Press. He also received second-team All-America honors by the Associated Press and first-team All-Big 12 accolades by the Associated Press.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• David's father, David Sr., is a former professional boxer who went 12-5-2 as a heavyweight. He once fought future world champ Deontay Wilder.
• During the offseason, Long still uses on-the-bell, three-minute-round boxing training to focus on his mental awareness. In 2018, Long Jr. went into the ring with headgear against his old man for the first time. They went for three 90-second rounds. "He busted up my lip, but it was fun," Long Jr. says. "He was really iffy that I knew how to throw my hands for real. It was just jabs, but it's grown-man strength."
• Long was a high school teammate of safety Mike Edwards, who was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the third round of the 2019 NFL Draft.
• When Long was seven years old, he was on the back of a bike being pedaled by his older brother when he was hit by a car driven by someone who was not paying attention. He was treated at the hospital with head and arm injuries.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Cincinnati, Ohio, native was selected by the Titans in the sixth round (188th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (14/0, 1/0): Has tied for the team lead in passes defensed once in 2019 (at HOU). Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles twice in 2019 (vs. TB, at OAK). Appeared in his first career NFL contest against Indianapolis (9/15/19).
• At Cleveland (9/8), was inactive.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), made his NFL debut as a reserve on special teams.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), played as a reserve on special teams.
• At Atlanta (9/29), was inactive.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• At Denver (10/13), played as a reserve on special teams.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), saw action as a reserve at linebacker and posted a tackle for loss. Shot through the line and stonewalled Melvin Gordon for a four-yard loss on a screen pass late in the first quarter.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), played as a reserve on special teams and notched a tackle on coverage units.
• At Carolina (11/3), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), played as a reserve at linebacker and registered 11 tackles and a forced fumble. Forced a Damien Williams' fumble that was scooped up by Rashaan Evans and returned 53 yards for a touchdown in the second stanza.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), saw action as a reserve at linebacker and on special teams.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), played as a reserve on special teams.
• At Oakland (12/8), saw action as a reserve at linebacker and amassed two tackles, including a stop for loss. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle on coverage units. Stonewalled DeAndré Washington for a six-yard loss on a short pass in the fourth quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), played as a reserve on special teams.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), saw action as a reserve on special teams.
• At Houston (12/29), played as a reserve on special teams and at linebacker late in the game. Recorded a tackle and a pass defensed on defense. Broke up a pass intended for Jordan Akins late in the fourth quarter.
• At New England (1/4), made his postseason debut as a reserve at linebacker and posted five tackles.

COLLEGE:

• During a three-year career at West Virginia, played in 34 games with 31 starts and totaled 252 tackles, 14 sacks and 40 career tackles for loss which tied for third place on West Virginia's all-time list. In his final campaign in 2018, tied for the single-season program record with 19 tackles for loss.

AS A JUNIOR (2018), started all 12 games at Will linebacker and named Big 12 Defensive Player of the Year by the coaches and the Associated Press. Garnered second-team All-America honors by the Associated Press and first-team All-Big 12 first-team accolades by the Associated Press. Led the team with 111 tackles, eight sacks and 19 tackles for loss. Finished with 10 or more tackles in six games.

QUARTERBACK • 6'4" • 222 LBS • COLLEGE: OREGON
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2015 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 5/5
HOMETOWN: HONOLULU, HAWAII
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 63/61 (PLAYOFFS: 3/2)

Captain: 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019

PRO: The Titans used the second overall pick in the 2015 NFL Draft on Oregon quarterback Marcus Mariota. In his first four NFL seasons, Mariota passed for 12,004 yards and 69 touchdowns, while rushing for 1,270 yards and 11 more scores. His 93.8 passer rating in his first two seasons ranked sixth in NFL history for a player's first two NFL campaigns, trailing only Kurt Warner (107.9), Dan Marino (104.5), Nick Foles (101.0), Russell Wilson (100.6) and Ben Roethlisberger (98.3). As a rookie, the 6-foot-4-inch, 222-pound signal caller validated his draft selection by posting the third-highest passer rating in franchise history (91.5) and the fifth-highest rookie completion percentage in NFL history (62.2). He was the first player in franchise history to open his rookie season in Week 1 as the starting quarterback. He became the second rookie quarterback in NFL history (Peyton Manning) to complete three touchdown passes in four different games and the only NFL rookie to record two games with four touchdown passes and no interceptions. Mariota was the fifth Heisman Trophy winner to be drafted by the Oilers/Titans (Derrick Henry became the sixth in 2016), joining Billy Cannon, Earl Campbell, Mike Rozier and Eddie George.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Mariota set a career-high with a franchise-best 68.9 completion percentage. He completed 228 of 331 passes for 2,528 yards with 11 touchdowns for a 92.3 passer rating.
• In 2017, Mariota led the Titans to their first playoff berth in nine years and their first postseason victory since January 2004. He completed 281 of 453 passes for 3,232 yards with 13 touchdowns and tied a career-high with 60 rushes for 312 yards with a career-best five rushing touchdowns. He engineered five game-winning drives, including four in the regular season and one in the postseason.
• In 2016, Mariota completed 276 of 451 passes for 3,426 yards and ranked fourth in the AFC and 10th in the NFL with a 95.6 passer rating and sixth in the AFC and tied for 10th in the NFL with 26 touchdown passes. He was named first alternate for the Pro Bowl but was unable to play because of injury.
• Mariota's 16 games with at least two touchdown passes in his first two NFL seasons tied for third all-time in the NFL, equaling Peyton Manning and Russell Wilson and trailing only Dan Marino (22) and Derek Carr (17).
• Mariota was named AFC Offensive Player of the Month for November 2016 after completing 86 of 130 passes for 1,124 yards with 11 touchdowns and two interceptions for a 115.0 passer rating, in addition to rushing for 89 yards and a score.
• During his rookie season, Mariota completed 230 of his 370 passes for 2,818 yards, 19 touchdowns—all franchise rookie records—while throwing only 10 interceptions. His 91.5 passer rating ranks third in franchise history behind only Steve McNair's 2003 MVP season (100.4) and Pro Football Hall of Famer Warren Moon's 1990 AP Offensive Player of the Year campaign (96.8).
• Mariota set a franchise rookie record by completing 62.2 percent of his passes. That was the fifth-highest percentage by a rookie quarterback in NFL history and the eighth-highest completion percentage in a season by any quarterback in Titans/Oilers history.
• Mariota joined Peyton Manning (1998) as the only rookie quarterbacks in NFL history to complete three touchdown passes in four different games, and he became the lone NFL rookie to ever record two games with four touchdown passes and no interceptions (Sept. 13 at Tampa Bay and Nov. 8 at New Orleans).
• Mariota's 252 rushing yards in 2015 included an 87-yard touchdown run against Jacksonville (Dec. 6), which was the fifth-longest rushing play in franchise history.
• Prior to Mariota in 2015, the last NFL player to record touchdowns of at least 40 yards passing, rushing and receiving in the same season was Walter Payton in 1983.
• At the 2015 NFL Scouting Combine, he finished among the top three quarterbacks in the 40-yard dash, vertical jump, broad jump, three-cone drill and 20-yard shuttle. His 4.52-second 40-yard dash gave him the fastest quarterback time at the Combine since Robert Griffin III's 4.41 in 2012.
• Mariota earned a 36-5 starting record as a starter at Oregon. He completed at least one touchdown pass in all 41 games during his three seasons there, which ranks second in NCAA history. He became one of four players in FBS history to pass for over 10,000 yards (10,796) and run for over 2,000 yards (2,237) in a career (Dan LeFevour, Robert Griffin III and Colin Kaepernick).
• Mariota was awarded the Heisman Trophy on Dec. 13, 2014. He became the first winner from the University of Oregon and the first player born in Hawaii to receive the honor. In the balloting, he received 2,534 total points, or 90.9 percent of the total points possible. Only one player in Heisman history—Ohio State quarterback Troy Smith in 2006—garnered a higher percentage. Mariota received 788 first-place votes, while the runner-up, Wisconsin running back Melvin Gordon, received 1,250 total points and 37 first-place votes. Alabama wide receiver Amari Cooper finished third with 1,023 points and 49 first-place votes. The point total is reached by a system of three points for a first place vote, two for a second and one for a third.
• As a junior in 2014, Mariota led Oregon to an appearance in the College Football Playoff Championship Game after completing 304 of 445 passes for 4,454 yards with 42 touchdown passes and only four interceptions. He also rushed for 770 yards and 15 touchdowns and even caught a touchdown pass. His 58 total touchdowns in a season (passing, rushing and receiving) shattered the previous Pac-12 record of 41 (Matt Barkley, 2011).

TITANS TIDBITS:

• In 2016, Mariota launched of his Motiv8 Foundation, which serves the communities of Middle Tennessee, Eugene and Honolulu. The Motiv8 Foundation aims to create and support economic and educational programs and athletic activities to provide an alternative outlet for youth of troubled neighborhoods and backgrounds. The Foundation's programming centers around the tools for success that will allow more children to fully matriculate through grade-school and eventually attend college. Since its launch, the Motiv8 Foundation has awarded hundreds of thousands of dollars towards healthy lifestyle programming, and will continue to fulfill its mission through signature programs, strategic partnerships and fundraising initiatives.
• The Motiv8 Foundation puts on two full scale golf tournaments in Honolulu and Portland. Both tournaments are in their third year. The Honolulu tournament is presented by First Hawaiian Bank and features high level sponsors Nissan, Heisman Trophy, Beats by Dre, Nike, See More Putters, Island Insurance and Albert Chong and Associates. The Portland tournament is presented by Dutch Bros. and was held at Langdon Farms Golf Club for the first time in 2018.
• The Motiv8 Foundation has put the spotlight on homelessness and recently fed 5,000 homeless and workers in the homeless field on Oahu and Maui and additionally donated 1,000 pounds of dog food to two dog shelters on Oahu. Motiv8 continues to grow in its work with the homeless and will be hosting a job fair for homeless families and will be also donating a year supply of toiletries to more than 30 shelters across the state of Hawaii.
• Mariota has a special place in his heart for children and remembers the impact attending a game had on him when he was growing up. Annually,

Motiv8 gives nearly 2,000 young students a football game experience to remember. Motiv8 sponsors the attendance of 1,200+ kids to a University of Hawaii game, 300+ kids to a Oregon Ducks game and more than a 100 kids to a Tennessee Titans game. The kids are treated to a game ticket, meal at the game, Motiv8 t-shirt and transportation to the game.
• Motiv8 also continues to be a major player in high school football in the state of Hawaii with its presenting sponsorship of the nationally televised Polynesian Bowl featuring the nation's top football players including every nationally ranked Polynesian player in America, Hawaii High School all-star game - Life Champions Bowl and the scholarship generating GPA Showcase Hawaii.
• In 2018, the Motiv8 Foundation launched the Ardel Deppe Community Football Coach Award. The award recognizes three Hawaii football coaches (one top winner) from any level of play who best exemplify Marcus' grandfather's spirit of going the extra mile and giving back to the community. The winners all receive Riddell equipment allowances with the winner receiving $10,000 in equipment value.
• Marcus is the oldest son of Toa and Alana Mariota. His younger brother, Matthew, is a tight end/wide receiver at Oregon.
• Mariota credits much of his athletic success to playing soccer in his youth. By the time he was eight years old, he was wearing a soccer jersey with the number 8, and he has kept the jersey number ever since then.
• During his time in Eugene, Mariota became a fixture at the Boys and Girls Club of Emerald Valley, spending time on a weekly basis with kids at the center. For his efforts in the community, he was awarded with the inaugural Play It Forward Award at the 63rd Annual Oregon Sports Awards in June 2015.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Honolulu, Hawaii, native was selected by the Titans in the first round (second overall) of the 2015 NFL Draft.

He is the first player since at least 1933 with a perfect passer rating in his first game (minimum 10 attempts) and the first player in the Super Bowl era (since 1966) with a perfect rating in his first start (minimum 10 attempts). He also became the first quarterback in franchise history to start the opening game of his rookie season. Gave the Titans a 7-0 lead with a 52-yard touchdown toss to Kendall Wright with 13:10 left to play in the first quarter. Made the score 21-0 with a 12-yard touchdown toss to Bishop Sankey with 6:49 left to play in the first stanza. Connected with Harry Douglas for a four-yard touchdown on third-and-four in the second quarter. Posted his fourth touchdown pass of the afternoon with a one-yard strike to Walker on third-and-one with 48 seconds remaining in the first half.
• At Cleveland (9/20), started at quarterback and completed 21 of 37 passes for 257 yards with two touchdowns passes for a 96.3 passer rating. Rushed three times for 19 yards. Got the Titans on the scoreboard with a 19-yard touchdown pass to Fasano with 1:36 remaining in the third quarter. Cut the Browns' lead to 21-14 with a 13-yard touchdown strike to Dorial Green-Beckham on fourth-and-six with 6:42 left to play in the game.
• Against Indianapolis (9/27), started at quarterback and completed 27 of 44 passes for 367 yards with two touchdowns and two interceptions. Cut the Colts' lead to 14-10 with a seven-yard touchdown pass to Kendall Wright with 19 seconds remaining in the second quarter. Gave the Titans a 24-14 advantage with a three-yard touchdown toss to Dorial Green-Beckham in the corner of the end zone with 9:36 left to play in the third stanza.
• Against Buffalo (10/11), started at quarterback and completed 21 of 32 passes for 187 yards with an interception. Led the team with 47 rushing yards on five carries.
• Against Miami (10/18), started at quarterback and connected on 21 of 33 passes for 219 yards with a touchdown and two interceptions. Cut the Dolphins' lead to 24-10 with a three-yard touchdown toss to Dexter McCluster on the final play of the third quarter.
• At New Orleans (11/8), returned to the lineup as the starter at quarterback. Named AFC Offensive Player of the Week after completing 28 of 39 passes for franchise rookie record 371 yards with four touchdowns in leading the Titans to a 34-28 overtime victory. Connected on all six passes for 62 yards and a touchdown during the game-winning overtime drive. With four touchdown passes, improved his season total to 13 and broke the franchise's single-season rookie record for touchdown passes. Cut the Saints' lead to 14-10 by lobbing up a pass to Delanie Walker that was deflected, caught and turned into a 61-yard touchdown pass with a minute left to play in the opening stanza. Found Walker for a two-yard touchdown pass in the back of the end zone with 8:08 remaining in the second quarter. Connected with Justin Hunter on an eight-yard touchdown pass and then hooked up with Delanie Walker for a two-point conversion to even the score at 28-28 with 7:06 left to play in the fourth quarter. Extended the Titans' game-winning touchdown drive with a nine-yard pass to Dorial Green-Beckham on third-and-two in overtime. Gave the Titans a 34-28 overtime victory with a five-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Fasano with 9:50 left to play in the extra session.
• Against Carolina (11/15), started at quarterback and completed 16 of 24 passes for 185 yards with an interception. Rushed five times for 24 yards.
• At Jacksonville (11/19), started at quarterback and completed 22 of 35 passes for 231 yards. Rushed five times for 29 yards with his first career rushing touchdown. Gave the Titans a 13-9 lead with a 23-yard touchdown run with 5:22 left to play in the third quarter.
• Against Oakland (11/29), started at quarterback and completed 17 of 37 passes for 218 yards with three touchdowns and two interceptions. Gave the Titans an early 6-0 lead with a 20-yard touchdown pass to Craig Stevens with 5:53 left to play in the opening stanza. Cut the Raiders' lead to 17-14 with a 13-yard touchdown pass to Harry Douglas and a two-point conversion connection with Dorial Green-Beckham with 6:22 left to play in the third quarter. Gave the Titans a 21-17 lead with a one-yard touchdown toss to Jalston Fowler with less than five minutes to play in the fourth quarter. During the fourth quarter, broke Vince Young's franchise record for the most passing yards during a rookie season.
• Against Jacksonville (12/6), started at quarterback and completed 20 of 29 passes for 268 yards with three touchdowns and an interception for a 118.2 passer rating. Rushed nine times for a career-best 112 yards with a touchdown. Became the only player in NFL history to pass for at least 250 yards with three touchdowns and rush for more than 100 yards in the same game. His 112 rushing yards are the most by a quarterback in franchise history in a single game. Gave the Titans a 7-0 lead with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Craig Stevens with 4:15 remaining in the first quarter. Increased the Titans' lead to 14-6 with a seven-yard touchdown pass to Walker on third-and-seven in the second stanza. Gave the Titans a 28-19 lead with a 47-yard touchdown pass to Green-Beckham on the first play of the fourth quarter. Helped the Titans recapture the lead at 35-32 with a record-breaking 87-yard touchdown run on third-and-seven midway through the fourth quarter. The 87-yard touchdown run was the longest run in franchise history by a quarterback, the third longest run by a quarterback in NFL history and the fifth-longest run overall for the team.

• At N.Y. Jets (12/13), started at quarterback and completed 21 of 39 passes for 274 yards with an interception. Collected his first career reception which resulted in a 41-yard touchdown. Scored the Titans only touchdown with a 41-yard touchdown reception down the right sideline from Antonio Andrews with 4:09 left to play in the third quarter. Converted the two-point conversion with a pass to Dexter McCluster. He became the first player since Walter Payton in 1983 to record touchdowns of at least 40 yards passing, rushing and receiving in the same season.
• At New England (12/20), started at quarterback and completed three of six passes for 32 yards before leaving the game in the second quarter with an injury.

COLLEGE:
• At Oregon, Mariota broke nearly every major passing record for the school, totaling 10,796 career passing yards and 105 touchdown passes. The three-time All-Pac-12 selection started every game over his three collegiate seasons (2012-14), earned a 36-5 record, completed at least one touchdown pass in every game, and is one of four players in FBS history to pass for 10,000 yards and rush for 2,000 yards (2,237) in a career, joining Dan LeFevour, Robert Griffin III and Colin Kaepernick.
• His career passing statistics included 1,167 attempts, 779 completions, 10,796 yards, 105 touchdowns, 14 interceptions and an efficiency rating of 171.8. Additionally, he rushed 337 times for 2,237 yards and 29 touchdowns and recorded two touchdown receptions.
• He became one of four players in FBS history to pass for over 10,000 yards (10,796) and run for over 2,000 yards (2,237) in a career. He set University of Oregon records for career total offense (13,033 yards), passing yards (10,796), completions (779), touchdown passes (105), rushing yards by a quarterback (2,237), completion percentage (66.8), total touchdowns (136) and total points accounted for (816). He was the 14th player in conference history to eclipse the 10,000-yard barrier in total offense, and he ended his career ranked seventh all-time in Pac-12 career passing yards.
• He completed at least one touchdown pass in all 41 games in which he played, good for second in NCAA history behind Marshall's Rakeem Cato (46).
• From 2012 to 2013, Mariota set the Pac-12 record with 353 consecutive passes without an interception. He became the only player in league history to put together multiple interception-free streaks of 200 attempts or more.
• Mariota became the Pac-12's first quarterback ever to be named first-team All-Conference three times.
• As a junior (2014), started all 15 games en route to the team's appearance in the College Football Playoff Championship Game. Completed 304 of 445 pass attempts for 4,454 yards (third in FBS) with 42 touchdowns (second) and four interceptions. Rushed 135 times for 770 yards and 15 touchdowns. Had the nation's top passer efficiency rating at 181.7.
• Became the Ducks' first Heisman Trophy winner and the first Heisman winner from the state of Hawaii. Also became Oregon's second unanimous first-team All-American of all time. Additional honors included Player of the Year by the Associated Press and the Walter Camp Football Foundation, the Maxwell Award, the Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award and the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award. Named Pac-12 Offensive Player of the Year and 2015 Rose Bowl Offensive MVP.
• His 58 total touchdowns—42 passing, 15 rushing and one receiving—set the single-season conference record, breaking Matt Barkley's (USC) mark of 41 from 2011. His passing touchdowns also marked a new conference best.
• Led the Ducks to No. 2 in the final Associated Press rankings. Directed the third-overall rated offense in the country (547 yards per game) and the 10th-ranked passing offense (312.5).
• Against Florida State (1/1/15), recorded a season-high 26 completions (36 attempts) for 338 yards, scoring two touchdowns through the air and one on the ground in the College Football Playoff Semifinal Rose Bowl victory.
• Against Ohio State (1/12/15) in the inaugural College Football Playoff Championship game, completed 24 passes for 333 yards and two touchdowns, including a 70-yard touchdown toss. Added 39 rushing yards.
• As a sophomore (2013), started all 13 games and was 245-of-386 passing (65.8 percent) for 3,665 yards, 31 touchdowns and four interceptions. Rushed 96 times for 715 yards and nine touchdowns.
• Named first-team All-Pac-12 for the second consecutive season and named Oregon's Most Inspirational Player in a vote of his teammates. Led the Pac-12 in passing efficiency (167.7), passing yards per completion (14.96 avg.) and total points responsible for (240) while ranking seventh in the country in the former two categories and tied for ninth in the latter. Nationally, rated ninth in total offense (336.9), 12th in touchdown passes (31) and 14th in passing yards per game (281.9). Became the first player in school history to eclipse 4,000 yards of total offense in a single season (4,380) and was one of three league players to surpass the previous Pac-12 season record in 2013. Set school records for most points responsible for, completions (245) and most total touchdowns (40), and finished second on the single-season passing yards ledger (3,665). Broke Pac-12 and Oregon pinnacles for consecutive pass attempts without an interception in both a single season (285) and a career (353). Extended his streak of tossing at least one touchdown pass in every game of his career (26).
• As a redshirt freshman (2012), started all 13 games and was 230-of-336 passing for 2,677 yards with 32 touchdowns and six interceptions. Rushed 106 times for 752 yards and five touchdowns. Won honorable mention All-American and Pac-12 Offensive Freshman of the Year honors and became the Pac-12's first freshman quarterback to earn first-team all-league honors in 23 years. Recorded at least one touchdown pass in every game and set a conference freshman record for most touchdown passes in a season. Led the conference and ranked seventh in the country in passing efficiency (163.23). Led the league in completion percentage (68.45), falling just short of the NCAA freshman record of 69.5 percent (Sam Bradford, Oklahoma, 2007). Finished second on Oregon's single-season total offensive yards list (3,429) and ninth in passing yards (2,677). The Ducks' second-leading rusher (752) also ran for more yards in one year than any other quarterback in school history, including a single-game best 135 yards at Arizona State.
• Also in 2012, threw only one interception over his final seven games, a stretch that included 119 consecutive pass attempts without an interception.
• Redshirted in 2011.
• The second-team academic all-conference choice graduated from Oregon in December 2014 with a degree in general science.

PERSONAL:
• Splits time between Nashville, Eugene, Ore. and Honolulu, Hawaii.
• Attended Saint Louis (Honolulu, Hawaii) High School, where as a senior he threw for 2,597 yards on 165-of-255 passing (64.7%), including 32 touchdowns against only five interceptions. Guided the Crusaders to an 11-1 record and a state title. Also rushed the ball 60 times for 455 yards (7.6 yards per carry) and seven scores.
• Rated a four-star recruit by 247Sports.com and garnered three stars from both Rivals.com and Scout.com. Rated the No. 6 recruiting prospect in the state of Hawaii and No. 12 overall quarterback in the nation by Rivals.com. Named PrepStar Magazine All-West Region, Interscholastic League of Honolulu Offensive Player of the Year and first-team All-ILH. Played in the NUC All-World Gridiron Classic, a high school all-star bowl in Columbia, S.C.

66 KEVIN PAMPHILE

GUARD/TACKLE • 6'5" • 315 LBS • COLLEGE: PURDUE
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (TB) - 2018
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 6/2 • HOMETOWN: MIAMI, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 56/35 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Kevin Pamphile (pom-FEEL) during the 2018 free agency period to bring versatility, starting experience and competition to the offensive line. The 6-foot-5-inch, 315-pounder was originally selected by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the fifth round of the 2014 NFL Draft. The Purdue University product is a versatile player, having started contests at guard, tackle and as an extra tight end in his first four seasons with the Buccaneers.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In his first season with the Titans in 2018, Pamphile played in three games with a start at right tackle and a start at left tackle before being placed on season-ending injured reserve.
• In his last two seasons in Tampa Bay (2016-17), Pamphile appeared in 30 games with 29 starts. He started 28 games at left guard and one contest at right tackle.
• In 2017, Pamphile played in all 16 games with 15 starts at left guard and was a part of a line that helped block for an offensive unit that produced 5,816 total yards, the third-most for a single season in team history.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Pamphile has been active in sending school supplies and hygiene kits to students in his parents' homeland of Haiti. In February of 2017, he made his first trip to Haiti to donate goods and spend time with children and families battling challenging circumstances.
• In July 2017, Pamphile returned to Haiti to host a youth football camp for about 250 children.
• For his work in the Tampa area and in Haiti, Pamphile was the Buccaneers' 2016 winner of the Ed Block Courage Award.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• A native of Miami, Fla., Pamphile was originally selected by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the fifth round (149th overall) of the 2014 NFL Draft.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 29, 2018.

26 LOGAN RYAN

CORNERBACK • 5'11" • 195 LBS • COLLEGE: RUTGERS
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (NEW ENGLAND) - 2017
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 7/3 • HOMETOWN: VOORHEES, N.J.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 109/85 (PLAYOFFS: 13/8)

Super Bowl: 2014, 2016

PRO: The Titans entered the 2017 NFL free agency period looking to add leadership and experience to their secondary. The club found just that when they signed two-time Super Bowl Champion Logan Ryan as an unrestricted free agent on March 11, 2017. The 5-foot-11-inch, 195-pounder collected 13 total interceptions in four seasons (2013-16) with the New England Patriots, a total that ranked 10th in the NFL among all cornerbacks. The Rutgers product was originally drafted by the Patriots in the third round (83rd overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Ryan ranked fourth on the team with 85 tackles and eight passes defensed, while also collecting a career-high four sacks.
• Ryan set a career high in 2017 with 15 starts during the regular season.
• Ryan is a two-time Super Bowl champion, having captured the title with the New England Patriots in 2014 and 2016.
• In 2016, Ryan posted 92 tackles, two interceptions, a sack, 11 passes defensed, three quarterback pressures and a forced fumble. He started all three postseason games and collected 22 tackles, an interception, a sack, four passes defensed and a quarterback hit.
• In 2015, Ryan collected 82 tackles, a team-high four interceptions and 14 passes defensed.
• In 2013, Ryan led all rookies and finished tied for the AFC lead with five interceptions.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Logan and his wife, Ashley, are the founders of The Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation (ryananimalfoundation.org). RARF works with animal welfare organizations to promote adoption and provide grants and educational opportunities.
• Every month on the 26th—the day corresponding to his jersey number—he posts a photo on social media with a dog that is in need of adoption along with the hashtag #ryansmonthlyrescue.
• During the 2019 offseason, Ryan hosted The Chow Down, a foodie gala and community fundraiser featuring some of Nashville's top restaurants and catering companies. Proceeds from the event helped The Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation continue efforts in helping homeless animals.
• During Super Bowl weekend in February 2018, RARF partnered with Animal Planet in the first-ever Dog Bowl, which featured adoptable adult and senior dogs.
• During the 2018 offseason, Ryan and several other Titans defensive backs spent extensive time training in the Nashville area. Ryan also spent some time working with former running back Eddie George and George's long-time boxing coach.
• In 2017, while taking wedding photos in the St. Lucian town of Soufriere, Logan and Ashley came across a group of stray dogs. One dog in particular followed them through the streets and impacted the newlyweds. Determined to help the dog, the couple donated to HelpAWS (@helpaws), a St. Lucian-based dog rescue, and encouraged all friends and family to donate rather than give wedding gifts. After the couple posted a photo on social media, HelpAWS found the particular dog, named her Logan, and part of the donation paid for her spay.
• During the 2017 and 2018 offseasons, Ryan and N.Y. Giants cornerback Eli Apple funded and hosted their #ThursdayNightLights Football Camp at Eastern High School in Vorhees, N.J., where they both attended. The free event for kids was filled with football, celebrity guests and music.
• In June 2017, Ryan surprised his big brother, Jordan, by paying off his student loans for his 29th birthday. Logan cut a check for $82,000 to the American Education Services to cover Jordan's loans from earning his engineering degree from Drexel University. "My man got accepted to college, graduated with honors, and now works as an engineer. He did everything the right way and still lived with a ridiculous amount of student loan debt. The system is broke and makes no sense. I'm fortunate and blessed to be able to take care of that for him."
• When Ryan decided to leave Rutgers and enter the NFL Draft after his redshirt junior season in 2012, he made a promise to his parents that after his rookie year, he would return to school and earn his degree. Ryan kept his promise and graduated in the spring of 2014 with a degree in labor relations and a minor in psychology. "I committed to Rutgers, not only as a football player, but as a student, so I was going to make sure I finished that end too. It's a big accomplishment in my life. I held my word to my parents and stuck with it and I'm fortunate. It took a lot of work, but I was able to go back and finish and walk in graduation."

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Voorhees, N.J., native was originally selected by the New England Patriots in the third round (83rd overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.
• Signed by the Titans as a unrestricted free agent on March 11, 2017.

2014 (16/6, 3/0 - New England): Played all 16 regular season games with six starts and compiled 36 tackles, two interceptions, six passes defensed, one forced fumble and eight special teams tackles. Appeared in all three playoff games as a reserve and made four tackles, one pass defensed and forced one fumble.
• At Miami (9/7), rotated in at defensive back in the season opener and forced his second career fumble that was recovered by Darrelle Revis in Patriots territory to prevent a Miami scoring drive.
• At Minnesota (9/14), started at cornerback and recorded his first interception of the season off Matt Cassel that led to a Patriots field goal in the win.
• Against Detroit (11/23), intercepted a Matthew Stafford pass intended for Golden Tate in the win.
• Against Baltimore (1/10), posted one tackle and forced a fumble in the AFC Divisional win.
• Against Seattle (2/1), posted one tackle and one pass defensed in the Super Bowl XLIX win.

2013 (16/7, 2/0 - New England): Played all 16 regular season games with seven starts and posted 41 tackles, 1.5 sacks, five interceptions for 82 return yards and one touchdown, 10 passes defensed and one forced fumble. Played in both postseason games as a reserve and registered 12 tackles. Led all NFL rookies and tied for the AFC lead with a team-high five interceptions.
• Against New Orleans (10/13), made his first career start.
• At N.Y. Jets (10/20), returned his first career interception 79 yards for a touchdown. Also collected four tackles.
• Against Miami (10/27), forced a fumble on his first NFL sack. Strip-sacked Ryan Tannehill, forcing a fumble that was recovered by Rob Ninkovich deep in Miami territory. New England scored a touchdown three plays later. Finished the game with four tackles, 1.5 sacks for 18 yards, one pass defensed and one forced fumble.
• Against Denver (11/24), started as the nickel cornerback and intercepted a Peyton Manning pass early in the fourth quarter that led to a touchdown. Also posted four tackles.
• At Houston (12/1), intercepted a pass for the second straight game and made three tackles.
• At Baltimore (12/22), picked off two passes for the first two interception game of his career. The offense turned the interceptions into 10 points en route to a 41-7 win.

COLLEGE:
• Started 27 of 37 games at cornerback for Rutgers and recorded 170 career tackles with a half sack, 11 stops for losses of 49 yards and a quarterback pressure. Also forced two fumbles and recovered four others, returning one 18 yards. Deflected 39 passes and made seven interceptions for 73 yards in returns, including one touchdown.
• Earned first team All-American honors (Pro Football Weekly) and second-team All-America accolades from The NFL Draft Report, All-Big East Conference.
• As a junior (2012), started all 13 games, recording 94 tackles, 17 pass breakups and four interceptions. 76 RODGER SAFFOLD

GUARD • 6'5" • 325 LBS • COLLEGE: INDIANA
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (LOS ANGELES RAMS) - 2019
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 10/1 • HOMETOWN: BEDFORD, OHIO
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 130/127 (PLAYOFFS: 5/5)

PRO: The Titans signed Rodger Saffold early in the 2019 free agency period to bring veteran leadership and experience to the interior of the offensive front. The 6-foot-5-inch, 325-pounder was originally selected by the St. Louis Rams in the second round (33rd overall) of the 2010 NFL Draft. The Indiana University product is a versatile player, having started contests at both guard and both tackle spots in his NFL career.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Saffold started all 16 games for the Rams and all three postseason contests on L.A.'s march to Super Bowl LIII. He helped open holes for Todd Gurley II to gain 1,251 rushing yards and 17 touchdowns on the ground.
• In 2017, Saffold started 15 games at left guard and blocked for Todd Gurley's 1,305-yard rushing campaign that included 13 rushing scores.
• In 2010, Saffold was named All-Rookie by Pro Football Weekly and the Pro Football Writers of America after finishing the season as the only NFL rookie to start all of his team's games at left tackle.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Saffold is the owner of competitive "Call of Duty" and "Fortnite" teams called Rise Nation. He invested in the video game industry in April 2014.
• His father, Rodger II, played football at the University of Iowa in the mid-1970s.
• Rodger and his wife Asia grew up on the same street as eight-year olds in Ohio. The childhood friend's romance didn't begin until quite awhile later when the two re-connected on Facebook during Saffold's second-year with the Rams.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• A native of Bedford, Ohio, Saffold was selected by the St. Louis Rams in the second round (33rd overall) of the 2010 NFL Draft.
• Signed by the Titans as an unrestricted free agent on March 15, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:

Allowed only three sacks in 590 pass attempts and was a part of an offensive line that helped Steven Jackson surpass the 1,000-yard mark for a sixth consecutive season.

COLLEGE:
• Started 41 of 42 games at Indiana. Never left the starting lineup after sliding in at left tackle midway through his true freshman campaign. While in the starting lineup the Hoosiers rushed over 100 yards in 29 games. In his last two seasons, registered 171 knockdowns and 20 touchdown-resulting blocks.
• As a senior (2009), named a team captain and started all 12 games at left tackle. Selected second team All-Big Ten by the conference coaches and named honorable mention by the league's media. Anchored an offensive line that allowed just 16 sacks on the season, a total that ranked second in the Big Ten and shared 28th nationally. The front five surrendered one sack per 27.5 pass attempts, which ranked second in the Big Ten. Saffold allowed just one sack on the year. Hoosiers rushed for over 180 yards on four occasions, including 197 yards at No. 23 Michigan and 196 yards against Purdue.
• As a junior (2008), started 10 games at left tackle. Battled a back injury the entire season and missed two games with a knee injury. The Hoosiers broke the 2,000-yard rushing mark (2,003) for the second straight year, the first time since 2000 and 2001 an Indiana team produced back-to-back 2,000-yard rushing seasons. Indiana averaged 4.5 yards per carry and posted 19 rushing scores, its best numbers since 2001. The team rushed for over 250 yards four times with a season-best 297 yards in the season-opening win over Western Kentucky.
• As a sophomore (2007), started all 13 games at left tackle. Helped the Hoosiers average 157.4 yards per game on the ground and 393.8 yards of total offense, the highest averages in each category since 2001. The Hoosiers also set a new school record with 412 points and finished second in school history averaging 31.7 points per game. A key component of an Indiana rushing attack that went over 100 yards nine times and over 200 yards five times.
• As a freshman (2006), played in seven games starting six times. Started at left tackle for six straight contests, beginning with the Hoosiers' game against Wisconsin. In those six starts, the Hoosier running game topped 100 yards five times and averaged 138.5 per contest.
• Graduated in May 2010 with a public affairs management degree from Indiana.

PERSONAL:
• Was a two-way lineman at Bedford (Ohio) High School and was rated a two-star prospect by Rivals.com.
• As a senior, earned first team All-Lake Erie League, All-District and honorable mention All-State honors after recording 18 tackles as a defensive end and notching a 94-percent blocking efficiency on the offensive front. Also played in 2006 Ohio North-South All-Star game.

HOMETOWN: PISCATAWAY, N.J.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 47/29 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Tajaé Sharpe in the fifth round (140th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-2-inch, 194-pounder is known for his precise route-running and he shows excellent body control and concentration when the ball is in the air. Sharpe led the nation with 111 receptions as a senior and finished his career as the University of Massachusetts all-time leader in receptions, receiving yards and catches in a single game.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, appeared in all 16 games and ranked fourth on the team in receptions (26) and receiving yards (316).
• In 2018, 84.6 percent of his receptions earned first downs (22 of 26), which ranked first in the NFL among players with eight or more receptions.
• Sharpe recorded his first career 100-yard game (101) in Week 7 of the 2018 season at the Los Angeles Chargers in London.
• He appeared in all 16 games with 10 starts as a rookie in 2016, and became one of four rookies in the "Titans era" (1999-present) to tally at least 500 receiving yards. Finished the season ranked fourth on the team with 41 receptions and third on the team with 522 receiving yards.
• In 2015, Sharpe enjoyed a stellar senior campaign by being named a Walter Camp All-American and first-team All-Mid-American Conference selection. Sharpe led the nation with 111 receptions and led the Minutemen with 1,319 receiving yards and five touchdowns. He topped 100 receiving yards in six games and recorded at least 11 receptions in six games.
• Sharpe caught at least one pass in all 47 career games in which he appeared at Massachusetts.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Sharpe's grandmother, Cozy Little, is a breast cancer survivor who was initially diagnosed in 2001. She was honored as the 12th Titan prior to a 2016 home game against the Cleveland Browns in conjunction with the team's Breast Cancer Awareness Month efforts.
• Sharpe was so excited to get into football mode that he brought his own football to the first day of the Titans rookie minicamp. He says he usually goes to sleep with it and carries one around as much as he can, just because.
• Sharpe's family members nicknamed him "Show," which is short for "Showtime."
• Sharpe started rapping during his freshman year in college after recognizing the need for a hobby after summer workouts were finished for the day. As a self-proclaimed 'music lover,' he is part of the hip-hop/rap group 'GMR,' short for Get Money Regardless. Sharpe and his group produce and record their own music at a studio in New Jersey, and the group released a mixtape during the 2019 offseason.

2016 (16/10): Played in all 16 games with 10 starts at wide receiver as a rookie and ranked fourth on the team with 41 receptions and third on the squad with 522 receiving yards. Collected two receiving touchdowns. Joined Kenny Britt (2009), Kendall Wright (2012) and Dorial Green-Beckham (2015) as the only rookies in the "Titans era" (1999–present) with at least 500 receiving yards. Led the team in receptions once in 2016 (vs. MIN). Led or tied for the team lead in receiving yards twice in 2016 (vs. MIN, at JAX). Collected his first career touchdown against Green Bay (11/13/16). Appeared in his first career NFL game as the starter at wide receiver and became the team's first rookie wide receiver to start a season opener in the "Titans era" (1999–present) against Minnesota (9/11/16).
• Against Minnesota (9/11), made his NFL debut as a starter at wide receiver and led the team with seven receptions and 76 receiving yards. Became the team's first rookie wide receiver to start a season opener in the "Titans era" (1999–present). In franchise history, only one rookie—Sid Blanks in 1964—had more receptions in a season opener. Hauled in his first career reception with a 12-yard catch from Marcus Mariota in the first quarter. Extended the Titans' first touchdown drive with an eight-yard catch on third-and-eight late in the second quarter.
• At Detroit (9/18), started at wide receiver and hauled in four receptions for 33 yards. Extended the Titans' game-winning touchdown drive with a seven-yard catch on third-and-five in the fourth quarter.
• Against Oakland (9/25), started at wide receiver and registered three receptions for 48 yards. Hauled in a 23-yard pass and a 19-yard reception during the final drive in the fourth quarter.
• Against Indianapolis (10/23), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and hauled in four passes for 59 yards. Extended the Titans' final touchdown drive with a 16-yard catch on third-and-15 late in the third quarter.
• At San Diego (11/6), saw action as a reserve at wide receiver and snared four receptions for 58 yards. Extended the Titans' second touchdown drive with a 29-yard reception along the left sideline on third-and-one late in the second quarter. Hauled in three receptions for 29 yards during the Titans' go-ahead touchdown drive to open the third quarter.
• Against Green Bay (11/13), started at wide receiver and collected three receptions for 68 yards with his first career receiving touchdown. Kept the Titans' second touchdown drive alive with a leaping, 22-yard catch on third-and-14 in the first quarter. Registered his first career NFL touchdown with a 33-yard catch from Marcus Mariota midway through the third quarter.
• At Indianapolis (11/20), started at wide receiver and caught four passes for 68 yards with a touchdown. Got open deep in the end zone for a 34-yard touchdown pass midway through the third quarter.
• At Jacksonville (12/24), played as a reserve at wide receiver and recorded three receptions for 48 yards. Extended the Titans' initial touchdown drive by hauling in a 13-yard reception on third-and-12 early in the second quarter.

98 JEFFERY SIMMONS

DEFENSIVE LINEMAN • 6'4" • 305 LBS • COLLEGE: MISSISSIPPI STATE
ACQUIRED: 1ST ROUND - 2019 • NFL EXPERIENCE: ROOKIE
HOMETOWN: MACON, MISS.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 9/7 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Jeffery Simmons with the 19th overall pick in the 2019 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4, 305-pound defensive lineman provides a rare blend of size, power and quickness. He was a first-team All-SEC selection as a sophomore and junior, adding second-team All-American as a junior. Following his junior season, he declared for the NFL Draft but suffered a knee injury during training in February 2019.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• As a junior in 2018, Simmons was named first-team All-SEC and second-team All-American after totaling 63 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and two sacks. His 17 tackles for loss led the team, ranked fourth in the SEC and were the third-most in single-season school history.
• During his sophomore season (2017), he set a career high with five sacks and added 12 tackles for loss.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• During college Simmons was a two-time member of the SEC Academic Honor Roll.
• Simmons' brother, Dylan Bradley, played football at Southern Miss and then spent time with the Minnesota Vikings. His uncle, Jason Hatcher, played 10 total seasons with the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins.
• Away from football, Simmons enjoys fishing and spending time outdoors.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Macon, Miss., native was selected by the Titans in the first round (19th overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (9/7, 1/0): Has led or tied for the team lead in sacks twice in 2019 (vs. LAC, at OAK). Has tied for the team lead in quarterback pressures once in 2019 (at HOU). Saw action in is first career game and registered his first career sack against the L.A. Chargers (10/20/19). Made his first career start against Tampa Bay (10/27/19).
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), made his NFL debut as a reserve at defensive end and posted six tackles, including a sack, a stop for loss and two quarterback pressures. Teamed with Harold Landry to stonewall Melvin Gordon for a one-yard loss on a rush off right tackle in the opening quarter. Collected his first career sack by dropping Philip Rivers for a three-yard loss in the third quarter. Combined with Rashaan Evans to stop Gordon for no gain on first-and-goal during the final goalline stand.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), notched his first career NFL start at defensive end and tallied four tackles and two quarterback pressures. Stonewalled Peyton Barber for no gain on a first-and-goal rush off right guard in the first quarter.
• At Carolina (11/3), started at defensive tackle and produced four tackles and a quarterback pressure.
• Against Kansas City (11/10), started at defensive end and registered three tackles and a quarterback pressure.
• Against Jacksonville (11/24), started at defensive end and notched six tackles.
• At Indianapolis (12/1), started at defensive end and posted five tackles and three quarterback pressures. Teamed with Kamalei Correa to stuff Jonathan Williams for a two-yard loss on a rush off left end in the opening quarter.
• At Oakland (12/8), started at defensive end and amassed five tackles, including a sack and a stop for loss. Stuffed DeAndré Washington for a two-yard loss on a rush off left end late in the first quarter. Halted a Raiders' drive by sacking Derek Carr for a four-yard loss on third-and-two in the third quarter.
• Against Houston (12/15), started at defensive end and totaled four tackles, two quarterback pressures and a pass defensed. Halted a potential Texans' scoring drive by deflecting a Deshaun Watson pass at the line of scrimmage that was then intercepted by Jayon Brown in the end zone.
• Against New Orleans (12/22), was inactive.
• At Houston (12/29), played as a reserve on the defensive front and recorded three tackles and three quarterback pressures.
• At New England (1/4), saw action as a reserve on the defensive front in his first career postseason contest and posted two tackles and a quarterback pressure.

COLLEGE:

• During a three-year career as a defensive tackle at Mississippi State, Simmons appeared in 38 contests with 28 starts. He finished his career ranked sixth in school history with 32.5 in tackles for loss. He also tied for sixth in MSU annals with five forced fumbles and tied for fourth with three blocked kicks. His totals also included 163 tackles, seven sacks, seven passes defensed and two defensive touchdowns. He was one of two players in the nation to be named a Bednarik Award Semifinalist in both 2017 and 2018.

AS A JUNIOR (2018), appeared in 13 games with 12 starts. Led the team and ranked fourth in the SEC with 17 tackles for loss, which made up the third-highest total in school history. Tied for second in the SEC among defensive linemen with 63 total tackles and added a pair of sacks, one forced a fumble and four passes defensed. Collected two or more tackles for loss in six different games and had at least one in nine contests.
• According to Pro Football Focus, he finished the campaign with the fourth-overall grade (91.6) and third-overall run-defense grade (93.2) among the nation's interior defensive linemen.
• Named a Bednarik Award Semifinalist and won the 2018 Conerly Trophy by the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame and Museum as the top player in Mississippi. Also named second-team All-American (AP, The Athletic) and first-team All-SEC (AP, Coaches).

CORNERBACK • 6'0" • 203 LBS • COLLEGE: SOUTHERN UTAH
ACQUIRED: 5TH ROUND - 2016 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 4/4
HOMETOWN: LAS VEGAS, NEV.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 56/11 (PLAYOFFS: 1/0)

PRO: LeShaun Sims was selected by the Titans in the fifth round of the 2016 NFL Draft. The six-foot, 203-pounder saw action in 42 games over his first three seasons and registered 72 tackles, two interceptions, three stops for loss, 11 passes defensed and 19 special teams tackles. Sims' presence adds more experience and athleticism to an already-competitive defensive back unit. With the reputation as a tough and physical corner and a willing tackler, he possesses the physical tools to match up with NFL receivers after a successful four-year career at Southern Utah.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Sims appeared in all 16 games for the first time in his career and registered two starts at cornerback.
• In 2017, Sims saw action in 13 games with five starts before being placed on injured reserve with a hamstring injury. His season totals included a career-high 33 tackles, one interception, five passes defensed, and a career-high seven special teams tackles.
• As a rookie in 2016, Sims played in 13 games with two starts at cornerback and registered 18 tackles, an interception, a stop for loss and six passes defensed.
• In 2015, Sims was a first-team All-Big Sky performer at Southern Utah, finishing the campaign with a pair of interceptions and 54 tackles. He helped the Thunderbirds win the conference title.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• He was commonly referred to as "Swis" in college because for his first college game the name on the back of his jersey was upside down. The nickname stuck.
• Prior to Sims, no prior student-athlete from Andre Agassi Prep in Las Vegas, Nev., had ever earned an athletic scholarship. When he was a high school freshman, the Stars played eight-man football in the public charter school's first year with a football team. They moved to 11-man football during his sophomore year, and by his senior season, the team won a league title.
• Sims is a movie buff who lists "Training Day" among his all-time favorites.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Las Vegas, Nev., native was selected by the Titans in the fifth round (157th overall) of the 2016 NFL Draft.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (14/2, 1/0): Has tied for the team lead in special teams tackles three times in 2019 (vs. KC, vs. HOU, at HOU).
• At Cleveland (9/8), saw action as a reserve on special teams and limited snaps at cornerback.
• Against Indianapolis (9/15), notched a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• At Jacksonville (9/19), played as a reserve on special teams.
• At Atlanta (9/29), saw action as a reserve on special teams and notched a tackle on coverage units. In punt coverage late in the fourth quarter, he batted down a Brett Kern punt at the goal line that was then downed at the Falcons' two-yard line.
• Against Buffalo (10/6), played as a reserve on special teams.
• At Denver (10/13), saw action as a reserve on special teams. Downed Brett Kern's 38-yard punt at the Broncos' three-yard line in the final quarter.
• Against L.A. Chargers (10/20), played as a reserve at cornerback and on special teams. Helped pin the Chargers deep in their own territory by batting down Brett Kern's 34-yard punt that went out of bounds at the Los Angeles six-yard line in the second quarter.
• Against Tampa Bay (10/27), saw significant action as a reserve at cornerback and tallied four tackles and a pass defensed. Broke up a pass intended for Tanner Hudson late in the second quarter.

2018 (16/2): Played in all 16 games for the first time in his career with two starts at cornerback. Collected 21 tackles, a quarterback pressure, a stop for loss and six special teams tackles. Tied for the team lead in special teams tackles four times in 2018 (at JAX, at BUF, at DAL, vs. NYJ).
• At Jacksonville (9/23), saw significant action as a reserve at cornerback after Adoree' Jackson left the game in the second quarter with an injury and posted a tackle. Notched a special teams tackle on coverage units. Snuffed out a fake punt and stopped Corey Grant short of the first down in the first quarter.
• At Dallas (11/5), played as a reserve on special teams and tied for the team lead with a tackle on coverage units.
• Against New England (11/11), saw action as a reserve on special teams and limited snaps at cornerback in the fourth quarter. Notched a special teams stop on coverage units.
• At Houston (11/26), played significant snaps at cornerback after Malcolm Butler left the contest in the second quarter with an injury and recorded five tackles.
• At N.Y. Giants (12/16), saw action as a reserve at cornerback and posted two tackles in the Titans' first shutout win since 2000.
• Against Washington (12/22), made his first start of the season as the nickelback and totaled a career-high tying six tackles, including a stop for loss and a quarterback pressure. Stonewalled Adrian Peterson for a one-yard loss on a rush up the middle in the fourth quarter.
• Against Indianapolis (12/30), started as the nickelback and registered four tackles.

2017 (13/5): Played in 13 games with five starts at cornerback and tallied a career-high 33 tackles, an interception, a forced fumble, a stop for loss and five passes defensed. Notched seven special teams tackles on coverage units. Placed on injured reserve on Dec. 22, 2017. Tied for the team lead in special teams tackles three times in 2017 (at HOU, vs. IND, at CLE).
• At Jacksonville (9/17), made his season debut as a reserve cornerback and collected two tackles and a forced fumble.
• Against Seattle (9/24), started at cornerback as the team opened in a nickel package and notched two tackles and two passes defensed. Ended a Seahawks' drive by breaking up a third-and-10 pass intended for Paul Richardson in the second quarter.

• At Houston (10/1), played as a reserve at cornerback and tied a career-high with four tackles. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle.
• At Miami (10/8), started at cornerback as the team opened the game in a nickel package and totaled two tackles. Registered a special teams tackle on coverage units. Pinned the Dolphins deep in their own territory by downing Brett Kern's 48-yard punt at the Miami three-yard line in the opening stanza.
• Against Indianapolis (10/16), started at cornerback as the team opened the game in a nickel package and recorded a stop for loss. Led the team with two special teams tackles on coverage units. Stuffed Marlon Mack for a four-yard loss on a rush off right end in the first quarter.
• At Cleveland (10/22), played as a reserve at cornerback and posted three tackles. Tied for the team lead with a special teams tackle on coverage units.
• Against Cincinnati (11/12), started at cornerback as the team opened the game in a nickel package and recorded two tackles.

GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 45/39 (PLAYOFFS: 3/2)

PRO: The Titans selected Jonnu Smith in the third round (100th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-3-inch, 248-pound tight end participated in every game as a rookie and ranked fifth among rookie tight ends in receptions (18). In 2018, he set single-season career highs in every receiving category before having his second season cut short due to a knee injury. Smith was a prolific passer catcher in his four seasons at Florida International. Smith concluded his career as FIU's all-time leader for tight ends in receptions and receiving yards and his 18 career receiving touchdowns ranked third in the school's record books. Smith possesses the ability to flash after the catch and has the speed to attack all three levels of the field. He is also known for his strength and willingness to block in the run game.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Smith set single-season career highs in receptions (20), receiving yards (258), receiving long (61t), and receiving touchdowns (3) despite missing the final three contests due to injury. His three receiving touchdowns ranked second on the squad.
• During the 2017 regular season, Smith was one of three rookie tight ends to appear in all 16 games (Gerald Everett and David Njoku) and one of two rookie tight ends with at least 13 starts (O.J. Howard). His 18 receptions, which resulted in 157 yards and two touchdowns, ranked fifth among all rookie tight ends.
• Smith finished his career as Florida International's all-time leader for tight ends in receptions and receiving yards. Smith ended his career ranking fourth on the school's career receptions list and fifth on the program's receiving yardage list. His 18 career receiving touchdowns rank third in school annals.
• As a sophomore (2014), led all college tight ends with 61 receptions, 710 receiving yards and eight touchdown catches.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Smith credits his mother, Karen, for his successes. Jonnu's father passed away as a result of a tow truck accident when he was four years old and his mother raised all six children by herself. "My mother is my rock. It was tough, but we always got what we needed—not necessarily what we wanted all the time—but what we needed. She was so strong all the time."
• Smith endured a lot of challenges as a youngster in Philadelphia and after his brother was arrested and one of his friends was killed on the streets, a decision needed to be made. His family didn't have the financial means to just uproot, so for his own safety Jonnu moved in with his mother's sister and brother-in-law, Darla and Mike Kirkland, in Ocala, Fla. He started playing high school football and even though he was far from a touted recruit, he earned a scholarship to Florida International where his play took off.
• Smith's best friend Willie "Quasim" Jefferson tragically died from a gun shot in October 2016. Jonnu gave his son the middle name Quasim in honor of him.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Philadelphia, Pa., native was selected by the Titans in the third round (100th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE:

• In four seasons at Florida International (2013-16), Smith appeared in 43 career games and tallied 178 receptions for 2,001 yards with 18 touchdowns.
• As a senior (2016), started in 11 games for the Panthers and was a second team, All-Conference USA honoree. Caught 42 passes for 506 yards and four touchdowns. Became the fifth player in Florida International history to register over 2,000 yards receiving during a career (2,001 yards). Finished his career registering at least one reception in every game he played (43-straight – second-most in school history).
• As a junior (2015), started eight games for the Panthers and recorded 36 catches for 397 yards and four touchdowns. Finished fourth on the team in receptions, third in receiving yards and second in receiving touchdowns. Missed the final four games of the season due to injury.
• As a sophomore (2014), appeared and started in all 12 games for the Panthers and earned first team All-Conference USA honors. Led Florida International with 710 yards on 61 catches and eight touchdowns. Also led all tight ends nationally in touchdowns, receiving yards and receptions. Set the school record for tight ends in receiving yards, touchdowns and receptions and his eight receiving touchdowns broke the previous school season-best of seven set by T.Y. Hilton (2008, 2011) and Cory McKinney (2002). The 710 receiving yards ranked seventh all-time at FIU for a season and his 61 catches were tied for fourth in a single year.
• As a freshman (2013), started all 12 games as a true freshman and earned All-Conference USA honorable mention honors as well as a spot on the league's All-Freshmen team. Led all Florida International players with 39 receptions for 388 yards and was the only FIU receiver to have a catch in all 12 games. Either led or tied for the team-lead in receptions or receiving yards in eight of 12 games. Was the first true freshman to lead the team in receptions and receiving yards since T.Y. Hilton in 2008.

PRO: The Titans added free agent cornerback Tye Smith to the roster during the 2017 offseason to provide competition and flexibility in the secondary. The 6-foot, 195-pounder made the Titans' roster out of training camp in 2017 and set career-highs with 11 tackles, an interception and eight special teams tackles. He spent the entire 2018 campaign on injured reserve. Smith entered the league as the Seattle Seahawks fifth round pick (170th overall) in the 2015 NFL Draft. He spent the 2016 season on the Seahawks and Washington Redskins practice squads.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2017, Smith played in a career-high 15 games in his first season with the Titans and posted career-bests with 11 tackles, an interception and eight special teams stops.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• In the spring of 2018, Smith hosted his first "Simple Greatness" youth football clinic at St. Augustine University in his hometown of Raleigh, N.C. Smith says Simple Greatness to him means, "It can't be measured. It means heart, dedication. It's all the intangibles that we as a society overlook because we look so much at things we can measure." Fellow NFL players Todd Gurley II of the Los Angeles Rams, Jamison Crowder of the New York Jets and Keith Marshall of the Washington Redskins were special guest coaches.
• Smith enjoys volunteering his free time in the community and he helped raise money for Habitat for Humanity in 2018 with a bowling event and kids field day activity in his hometown of Raleigh, N.C.
• In May 2019, Smith held the second annual Simple Greatness Football Camp, hosting 300 kids for the free camp in Raleigh.
• He has his own website, www.simplegns.com.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Raleigh, N.C. native was selected by the Seattle Seahawks in the fifth round (170th overall) of the 2015 NFL Draft.
• Waived by the Seahawks on Sept. 3, 2016.
• Signed by the Seahawks to the team's practice squad on Sept. 8, 2016.
• Waived by the Seahawks on Sept. 20, 2016.
• Signed by the Washington Redskins to the team's practice squad on Sept. 27, 2016.
• Signed by the Titans as a free agent on Jan. 1, 2017.
• Re-signed by the Titans as a free agent on March 17, 2019.

17 RYAN TANNEHILL

QUARTERBACK • 6'4" • 217 LBS • COLLEGE: TEXAS A&M
ACQUIRED: TRADE (MIA) - 2019
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 8/1 • HOMETOWN: BIG SPRING, TEXAS
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 100/98 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans traded for Ryan Tannehill in the 2019 offseason to provide a veteran presence among the team's quarterbacks. Tannehill spent his first seven seasons as a member of the Miami Dolphins after being selected in the first round of the 2012 NFL Draft. Tannehill started 88 games over six seasons in South Florida and accumulated 20,434 passing yards and 123 touchdown passes. He missed the entire 2017 campaign with an injury. The Texas A&M product has also shown mobility as a signal caller having rushed for 1,210 yards and six scores in his career.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• During his first seven seasons (2012-18) in Miami, Tannehill passed for at least 3,000 yards four times and more than 4,000 yards twice. He totaled 16 career 300-yard passing games, which is the second-most in Dolphins history.
• Tannehill has engineered 14 career fourth-quarter comebacks during his career.
• In 2015, Tannehill posted 4,208 passing yards with 24 touchdowns. Set a then NFL record with 25 consecutive completions. His 4,208 passing yards was the fifth-highest single-season total in Dolphins history and most by a Dolphins quarterback other than Dan Marino.
• In 2014, Tannehill passed for 4,045 yards with 27 touchdowns for a 92.8 passer rating. He registered a career-best 311 rushing yards with a touchdown. His 392 completions were the most in Dolphins history.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Ryan founded the Tannehill's A.C.E.S. (Achieving Community Educations Success) program with wife, Lauren, which consisted of 17 sophomores from American Senior High School and is focused on awarding scholarships to the participating students who strive for good grades and took on an active role in their community by hosting monthly events to reward the students and help them give back to the community.
• Ryan's father, Tim, played wide receiver at Texas Tech from 1985-87.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Big Spring, Texas, native was originally selected by the Miami Dolphins in the first round (eighth overall) of the 2012 NFL Draft.
• Traded by the Dolphins to the Titans along with a 2019 sixth-round pick for a 2019 seventh-round draft pick and a 2020 fourth-round draft choice on March 15, 2019.

SEASON RECAPS:

2019 (12/10, 1/1 - Tennessee): Leads the NFL with a 117.5 passer rating and ranks third in the NFL with a 70.3 completion percentage. Established the fourth-highest single-season passer rating in NFL history. Became the third qualifying passer in NFL history to have a season with at least a 70.0 completion percentage and an average of at least 9.0 yards per attempt, joining Sammy Baugh and Joe Montana. Established new franchise single-season records for completion percentage (70.7) and yards per attempt (9.6). Has posted 30 career games with a 100.0 or better passer rating, including eight in 2019 (vs. LAC, vs. TB, vs. KC, vs. JAX, at IND, at OAK, vs. NO, at HOU). Has registered 19 career games with at least 300 passing yards, including three in 2019 (vs. LAC, at CAR, at OAK). Has engineered 16 career game-winning drives (including the playoffs), defined as when the team trailed or was tied in the fourth quarter or overtime, including three in 2019 (vs. LAC, vs. TB, vs. KC). Set a then NFL record with 25 consecutive completions on Oct. 18 (at Tennessee) and Oct. 25 (vs. Houston). His 4,208 passing yards was the fifth-highest single-season total in team history and most by a Dolphins quarterback other than Dan Marino. His 24 touchdown passes marked the third straight season he passed for 20 or more touchdowns, joining Marino as the only Dolphins quarterback to accomplish the feat.
• At Jacksonville (9/20), connected on 30 of 44 passes for 359 yards with two touchdowns for a 108.0 passer rating.
• Against Buffalo (9/27), completed 26 of 49 passes for 297 yards and two touchdowns. Set a team record with 160 consecutive passes without an interception, breaking Dan Marino's mark.
• Against Houston (10/25), named AFC Offensive Player of the Week and FedEx Air NFL Player of the Week by completing 18 of 19 passes for 282 yards with four touchdowns for a perfect 158.3 passer rating. His 94.7 completion percentage was a single-game team record. Became the first NFL quarterback since Randall Cunningham in 1998 to complete three 50-yard touchdown passes in the first half of a game.

2014 (16/16 - Miami): Started all 16 games and completed 392 of 590 passes for 4,045 yards with 27 touchdowns for a 92.8 passer rating. Registered 56 carries for 311 yards with a touchdown. His 392 completions were the most in team history and his 590 pass attempts were the fourth-most in team history. Completed 70 percent of passes in five consecutive games (Nov. 2 to Dec. 1), setting a team record. His 27 touchdown passes were the sixth-most in team history and the most by anyone other than Dan Marino.
• Against San Diego (11/2), connected on 24 of 34 passes for 288 yards with three touchdowns for a season-high 125.6 passer rating.
• At N.Y. Jets (12/1), completed 25 of 35 passes for 235 yards. Engineered a game-winning drive that led to a 26-yard field goal with 1:57 left to give Miami the 16-13 victory.
• Against Minnesota (12/21), connected on 35 of 47 passes for 396 yards with four touchdowns for a 118.8 passer rating. His 396 passing yards marked the eighth 300-yard game of his career, moving him into second place in team history in the category.

2013 (16/16 - Miami): Started all 16 games and completed 355 of 588 passes for 3,913 yards with 24 touchdowns for an 81.7 passer rating. Tallied 40 carries for 238 yards with a touchdown.
• At Atlanta (9/22), completed 24 of 35 passes for 236 yards with two touchdowns. Led the team on a 13-play, 75-yard drive that culminated in a one-yard touchdown pass to Dion Sims with 38 seconds left to win the game. Completed nine of 12 passes for 69 yards with a touchdown on the game-winning drive.

• At N.Y. Jets (12/1), connected on 28 of 43 passes for 331 yards with two touchdowns. Marked his second consecutive 300-yard passing game, the first back-to-back 300-yard games of his career.
• Against New England (12/15), completed 25 of 37 passes for 312 yards with three touchdowns for a 120.6 passer rating. It was his second straight three plus touchdown performance as he became the first Dolphins quarterback since Dan Marino in 1994 to accomplish the feat. Led the team on a nine-play, 60-yard drive capped off by a 14-yard touchdown pass to Marcus Thigpen with 1:15 left to win the game.

2012 (16/16 - Miami): Started all 16 games as a rookie and completed 282 of 484 passes for 3,294 yards with 12 touchdowns for a 76.1 passer rating. Carried the ball 49 times for 211 yards and two touchdowns. Set franchise rookie records in completions (282), attempts (484) and passing yards (3,294). His 58.3 completion percentage was second-best among rookies in team history.
• At Houston (9/9), made his NFL debut and his first NFL start and completed 20 of 36 passes for 219 yards. Became the first rookie quarterback in team history to start a season opener.
• Against Oakland (9/16), collected his first win by completing 18 of 30 passes for 200 yards and a touchdown. Scored his first NFL rushing touchdown with a two-yard run in the first quarter. Threw his first NFL touchdown with a 14-yard pass to Anthony Fasano in the fourth quarter.
• At Arizona (9/30), connected on 26 of 41 passes for 431 yards with a touchdown. His 26 completions were the most in team history by a rookie and his 431 passing yards was the third-highest single-game total by a rookie in NFL history, the most by a rookie in Dolphins history and tied for the sixth-most in any game in team history.

COLLEGE:

24 KENNY VACCARO

SAFETY • 6'0" • 214 LBS • COLLEGE: TEXAS
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2018 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 7/2
HOMETOWN: BROWNWOOD, TEXAS
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 97/96 (PLAYOFFS: 1/1)

PRO: The Titans signed free agent Kenny Vaccaro during the 2018 training camp after then-starter Johnathan Cyprien suffered a season-ending injury during practice, and re-signed him to a multi-year contract during the 2019 offseason. The former 2013 first-round pick arrived in Nashville after five years as a starter with the New Orleans Saints. In 68 career games with 67 starts in New Orleans, the University of Texas product totaled 482 tackles, eight interceptions, 7.5 sacks, five forced fumbles and three fumble recoveries.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Vaccaro totaled 70 tackles which ranked sixth on the squad. In Week 1 at Miami, he posted an interception in his first game as a Titan.
• In 2017, he registered 60 tackles and a career-best three interceptions.
• In 2015, Vaccaro started all 16 games for first time and set career-highs with 136 tackles, three sacks, two forced fumbles and his first career fumble recovery.
• In 2014, he posted 113 tackles, a sack, two interceptions and five passes defensed.
• In 2013, Vaccaro was named to the PFWA All-Rookie team after collecting 93 tackles, a sack, an interception, six passes defensed and a forced fumble.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Vaccaro traveled to Kenya during the 2016 offseason with former Texas and Saints teammate Alex Okafor and is involved in community and fundraising efforts to construct a school in the region.
• Vaccaro's uncle, A.J. Johnson, played for the Washington Redskins (1989-94), helping them to Super Bowl XXVI win before spending a season with the San Diego Chargers (1995).
• Vaccaro founded the Kenny Vaccaro Foundation to provide economically-challenged students with literacy and education resources so that they can achieve academic excellence, develop confident personal skills, and make positive decisions to avoid high risk behavior.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

• The Brownwood, Texas, native was originally selected by the New Orleans Saints in the first round (15th overall) of the 2013 NFL Draft.
• Signed by the Titans as a free agent on Aug. 4, 2018.

59 WESLEY WOODYARD

LINEBACKER • 6'0" • 233 LBS • COLLEGE: KENTUCKY
ACQUIRED: UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT (DEN) - 2014
NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 12/6 • HOMETOWN: LAGRANGE, GA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 180/110 (PLAYOFFS: 9/3)

Captain: 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019

Community Man of the Year: 2010 (DEN), 2011 (DEN), 2013 (DEN), 2017 (TEN)

PRO: The Titans signed Wesley Woodyard during the 2014 unrestricted free agency period, adding veteran leadership to the linebacking corps. Following his career at the University of Kentucky, the 6-foot, 233-pounder went undrafted and signed a free agent contract with the Denver Broncos. Woodyard spent six seasons in Denver and appeared in 87 career regular season games, totaling 396 tackles, eight sacks, five interceptions, six forced fumbles and one fumble recovery. He was also a six-time team captain during his tenure with the Broncos.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

• In 2018, Woodyard led the Titans with 124 tackles and finished tied for third on the squad with 4.5 sacks.
• In 2017, Woodyard led the Titans with a career-best 172 tackles and 17 stops for loss. His 172 tackles ranked second by a defender in the franchise's "Titans era" (1999-present).
• In 2016, Woodyard saw action in all 16 games and ranked second on the team with 88 tackles, while leading the squad with seven tackles for loss.
• In 2015, Woodyard finished second on the team with 110 tackles and third on the squad with five sacks.
• In his first season with the Titans in 2014, Woodyard started all 16 games at linebacker and led the team with a career-high 134 tackles.
• Represented the only player in the NFL in 2012 — and just the 12th player in the last 30 years — to record at least 100 tackles, five sacks and three interceptions in a single season. Posted career highs in starts (14), tackles (114), sacks (5.5), interceptions (3), passes defensed (6) and fumble recoveries (1).
• In 2011, started seven games for the Broncos and finished second on the club with 87 tackles to go along with two passes defensed and two forced fumbles.
• In 2008, was the only Bronco to rank among the top eight on the team in both defensive tackles (54 - 8th) and special-teams stops (11 - T1st) while seeing time in all 16 games with six starts as a rookie.

TITANS TIDBITS:

• Woodyard was selected as the 2017 Titans recipient of the Walter Payton Man of the Year award. Woodyard was a three-time Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year recipient while with the Broncos in 2010-11 and 2013.
• Woodyard is the co-founder of The 16Ways Foundation which recognizes an emotional need for at-risk youth. The Foundation works on a national level to develop and implement workshops, seminars, camps, and other activities. These events are designed to build self-esteem, promote responsibility for one's own actions and overcoming obstacles, and demonstrate the importance of academics, knowledge of career options, professional development, community involvement, and mental and physical fitness among youth of all socio-economic backgrounds. The Foundation's primary focus is to work with at-risk youth between the ages of 8 and 18 and a secondary focus on adults in employment transition.
• During the last eight offseasons, Woodyard's 16Ways Foundation has hosted a youth football and cheer camp, as well as a charity golf outing in Lexington, Ky.
• In addition to his work with his own foundation, Woodyard has been a tireless advocate for the work of other non-profits, including the ALS Association and Second Harvest Food Bank. For the second year in a row, Woodyard used the NFL's My Cause My Cleats platform to raise awareness and funds for ALS. Woodyard's aunt suffered from ALS leading up to her death, and Woodyard is close to former Titans linebacker Tim Shaw, who was diagnosed with ALS in 2014. Woodyard also serves as the spokesperson for Second Harvest Food Bank of Middle Tennessee.
• Woodyard has been a captain in his first five seasons with the Titans. He joined Hall of Fame running back Floyd Little as the only players in Broncos franchise history to serve as a captain in each of their first six years with the club. In 2004, Woodyard also became the first-ever Kentucky freshman to serve as a team captain.

All other kickoffs (returned kickoffs, fair catches, touchback and kickoffs out of bounds) are included. Kickoffs resulting in the kicking team retaining possession are not included.

ADJ KO: Adjusted kickoffs are used to compute the Avg. Team Drive Start.

I20: The number of drives that start inside (not including) the 20 yd line.

AMY ADAMS STRUNK BROUGHT HER FATHER'S TEAM BACK TO LIFE

BY BRUCE SCHOENFELD
ESPN W
NOVEMBER 5, 2018

SHE'S STUCK IN traffic, a side effect of the explosive growth that makes Nashville, Tennessee, an enticing place to own an NFL team. By the time Amy Adams Strunk arrives at Nissan Stadium, it's only an hour before kickoff, so she heads straight to the field.

Right away, it starts. "Miss Amy!"

A ruddy-complexioned man in his 30s, wearing a deep blue Tennessee Titans jersey and a lanyard around his neck, is waving like a traffic cop. One of several dozen season-ticket holders randomly chosen to spend the pregame on the Titans' sideline, he has spotted his team's owner and can't help shouting. It's like he already knew her, he'll say.

That's later, after the selfie with her arm around him and the embrace she gives his wife, two devoted Titans fans she'd never met. From there, she's on to another couple, and a 6-year-old boy she bends down to talk with eye to eye. "We love you," the wife says.

There's a man in the front row of the stands holding a sign claiming he has come all the way from France. She strides over to find out more. "Bonjour," she says. He looks at her with a quizzical expression, like, "Why is this woman talking to me?"

"That's the owner," someone tells him.

His eyes get wide. "Of the team?"

She's at the Titans' bench, visiting with Mike Vrabel, her head coach, when someone on the field shouts her name. It's kicker Ryan Succop, standing at the 50. When Succop pulls her close for a bear hug, she disappears for a moment.

From there, Adams Strunk walks toward the sideline to greet the Glazer brothers, Joel and Bryan. They own the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Tennessee's opponent on this August evening. And it seems that, like most NFL owners, they don't know quite what to make of her.

Really, who can blame them? Owners typically make a fortune, then buy a team. Or else they put in years working in football as the family business, which it has been across generations for Rooneys and Bidwills, Maras and McCaskeys, Browns and DeBartolos, and lately Irsays and Krafts and, indeed, Glazers.

Adams Strunk, instead, spent her early professional years as the owner of a few car dealerships and some oil interests that her father, former owner Bud Adams, had given her. She has a passion for horses and she's quite a tennis player. She has raised two girls and a boy, who seem like admirable people. But she hadn't worked a day in the sport when she gained control of the Titans in 2015.

"They look at me," says Adams Strunk, now 63, "and they're probably thinking, 'What does she know? She doesn't know anything. She doesn't have a business degree. She hasn't been in football. How is she going to make a go of this? We want our partners to have a certain background, and she definitely doesn't have it.'" She pauses. "I mean, I get that."

Unlike the Glazers, who apprenticed under their father, Malcolm, and inherited the Bucs when he died, Adams Strunk wrested control of this $2 billion franchise from her sister and brother-in-law because she was determined that it be run well. She did it because she felt obliged to protect the memory of Bud Adams -- even though he hadn't wanted her anywhere near his football team. Since then, the Titans have improved dramatically. From 2-14, they came within a game of the AFC Championship Game last season. Their ties to Nashville today run deeper than they ever have.

In just three years, Amy Adams Strunk rescued her father's legacy. And she did it by taking almost everything she watched him do as an owner and turning it upside down.

BUD ADAMS ISN'T in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, but he ought to be. When Lamar Hunt couldn't entice anyone to sell him an NFL team and instead started a competing league, Adams was his first call. "I'm in," said Adams, who was in the process of getting rich in oil. That was the AFL, which opened for business in 1960.

Before his Houston Oilers played a game, Adams wooed Billy Cannon, the reigning Heisman Trophy winner and best-known football player in America. After dinner at the family home, Adams sent his wife and three children to bed and got down to bidness. Pouring a drink, he asked Cannon what could convince him to spurn the NFL. "That sure is a nice car out there in the driveway," the halfback drawled. He meant the white Cadillac convertible Bud had given wife Nancy for her birthday just a few days before.

Sure enough, when Nancy came down in the morning to drive the kids to school, the car had vanished. "Billy wanted it," Adams shrugged, displaying in three words both his determination to succeed and his valuation of a woman's worth in the world.

Cannon was named MVP in each of the first two AFL title games. The Oilers, not incidentally, won both.

Those were the only championships they ever won. But the franchise grew exponentially, from a shoestring startup to a valuation of hundreds of millions of dollars. "Amy's daddy was a role model and a wannabe of mine, not just a great owner but a great businessman," says Jerry Jones of the Dallas Cowboys, who used to linger in the hallways outside AFL meetings, hoping to get a word with Adams.

Adams ran his franchise like a quarterback runs a huddle. He demanded to make every decision, not just whom to draft but whether to repair the fax machine. That level of control applied even to his son and heir apparent, Kenneth III. As for his two daughters, he wouldn't let them work for the team. "He thought that women were unable to reach a serious understanding of the game," says Steve Underwood, who worked under Adams as a lawyer and team executive for more than three decades. There was a reason, Adams believed, that every general manager in the NFL was a man. "Women could never be capable of understanding things like sizing up men to be head coaches," is how Underwood characterizes Adams' thinking. "'How could a woman possibly be capable of that?'"

That was fine with Amy. "I never saw myself in football," she says, sitting in her office under an oil painting of former Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini. "It wasn't the life I wanted. My dad could be very charming, and there were times he was a great father. But he was very hard. He wouldn't have brought me along, 'Someday I want you to run the team.' Nooooo. It would have been about control."

As the years passed, Adams found ways to thwart his son's progress. Ken yearned for his approval, but Adams mistrusted most those he knew best. Amy and her sister, Susie, would get on the phone and commiserate. "We'd say, 'Poor Ken.' We were just glad it wasn't us."

Still, Amy wasn't prepared for the call one June morning in 1987. Ken's wife had come through their garage door with the couple's 3-year-old and 7-month-old children and the dog. She found her husband, then 29, in a puddle of blood, a gun beside him. "He was crushed by the pressure," Amy says.

Ken's suicide hit her hard. She plunged into depression, talking about her brother every day for years, obsessing over whether she should have seen the signs. In 1990, she and her husband divorced.

Bud reacted differently. "He shut down," Amy says. "And after Ken died, his obsession with control ramped up."

Amy stepped away. Years passed. She met and married a cattle breeder named Tim Strunk, and gave her daughter and son a half-sister. Life seemed idyllic with Tim and the little ones until the morning in 1997 when he left to take a load of cattle to auction. He was struck by an 18-wheeler three miles from home and died at the scene.

This time, family sustained her. Her sister closed ranks. Her parents did what they could. And she found solace in football, losing herself in the passion of her team. "I was Superfan," she says.

But that was changing, too.

BY 1997, BUD ADAMS had abandoned Houston's decrepit Astrodome and moved the Oilers to Nashville. In his mind, though, the Titans remained the Oilers, with different uniforms and a new stadium just a quick flight away. He made no effort to meet fans or connect with the city. "He didn't want to spend his time doing that," Underwood says. "In his mind, he had people to do that."

That was fine while the Titans were winning. But as their fortunes faded following the Super Bowl season of 1999, what had never been a torrid love affair became a marriage of convenience. As Adams grew older, and then old, he became detached. By the time he died in 2013, the Titans were in disarray. "The team was a mess," Amy says. "My dad's later years, things kind of fell off the wagon."

The Titans hadn't won a playoff game in a decade. The facilities, once state-of-the-art, were showing wear. "Nobody knew what was going on," recalls Phil Bredesen, who helped bring the team to Nashville as the city's mayor and later served as Tennessee's governor. "There was just a sense of lots of stuff not getting done. The details of that don't leak out, but the effects of it do."

Worse, perhaps, the franchise had lost relevance. Folksy Nashville, with its spicy fried chicken and throwback Grand Ole Opry, had grown into one of America's most enticing destinations. The Predators were the hot ticket, along with the country acts that played Broadway each night. Conventioneers congregated. Tourism numbers soared. The Titans seemed shabby, dated, a vestige of the previous generation. "You'd see more Vols shirts than Titans shirts at Titans games," insists Nathan Followill, drummer for the Nashville-based band Kings of Leon and a season-ticket holder, referencing the state university's Tennessee Volunteers.

"When you have so many years of going downhill, it becomes less and less important to people," Underwood explains. "Amy saw that. She wanted to change direction."

But Amy wasn't in charge. Tommy Smith, Susie's husband, had worked for the team for years. Long before he died in October 2013, Adams had created a trust that allocated a third of his assets to Susie, a third to Amy, a third to his late son's family. Tommy would run the team with the others as silent partners. "We were all on board with it," says Kenneth Adams IV, Ken's son, who also had started working for the Titans.

Following in his father-in-law's footsteps, Tommy was Bud Lite. Ownership meant absolute control. As the losses accumulated during that 2014 season, Amy made suggestions. When they were rebuffed without consideration, she started to wonder if there might be a better way. "We weren't working it out as a family," she says. "It was just another dictatorship."

The team finished 2-14, the worst record in Titans history. "This was our chance to start fixing everything that had gone wrong during my father's last years," Amy says. "Tommy wasn't doing that." The NFL is a league of constant adaptation, she believes. The Titans hadn't adapted. "The offenses, the defenses, the business part of it," she says. "If it ain't broke, sure, don't fix it. But if it is broke, you better get in there and figure out what to do."

That winter, Amy spent New Year's Eve at the family ranch in central Texas. Late at night, over a glass of wine that wasn't her first, she asked Barclay Adams, Kenneth IV's brother, if their family was satisfied with the way the team was being run. Barclay hesitated, and Amy wondered what she'd gotten herself into. Then Barclay said, "No, we aren't."

"Then we need to talk," Amy told him.

It turned out Kenneth had been having similar conversations with Tommy, with similar results. "We didn't see an end in sight," Kenneth says now. "'You going to move off from that coach?' 'No, I'm good with him.' 'You going to move off from that GM?' 'No, we're good.'"

"I don't want this to be a mark on our names," Amy told him. Kenneth agreed. Together, they expressed their concern to Tommy and Susie. They asked if someone from one of the other two families could have a seat at the table. "We were talking for a month or six weeks," Amy says. "I was still hopeful that Susie, as controlling owner, would come around. If it's truly a family operation, why did the other two-thirds have no say? All the power had coalesced right there in Tommy and Susie. And that was proving not to be a good thing."

Together, Amy and Kenneth knew, their shares constituted a majority. "But I don't think it ever dawned on them," Amy says of Tommy and Susie. "It never occurred to them that we were unhappy enough to do anything. Or that I had a willingness to try to make it happen if they wouldn't."

By March, Amy and Kenneth had had enough. They decided to oust Tommy as president. "I felt bad," Amy says. "But we'd given him 18 months. He'd had his opportunity." In a statement on the Titans' website, Tommy announced that he was leaving as president and CEO because juggling his family and professional duties had proved too difficult. Then he and Susie disappeared from sight.

Underwood was summoned out of retirement to run the team as president and CEO. And Amy went to work.

"YOU HAVE TO bring them along slowly," Adams Strunk explains. She's crouched in the dirt, dragging a metal bar just far enough from a jump so a horse can gauge where he needs to land. Moments later, here comes Rowan, who weighs as much as three linemen combined. He approaches the barricade and canters over. "That's g-o-o-o-d," she enthuses.

She'd returned home to Houston after college (a year at Pine Manor near Boston, the rest at the University of Texas in Austin) and worked as a travel agent. Soon enough, she abandoned city living for a 4,000-acre family ranch off a two-lane road on the edge of Harris County. She started training riders and grooming horses. Bud and Nancy told everyone she'd be back in a month. She's still there, except when she isn't. Lately that means extended time in Nashville, where she now owns a home with her husband, a retired airline pilot.

Horses and football have been the threads running through her life. She has ridden since childhood, competing until she fell off once too often. "At my age," Adams Strunk says, "you don't want to be doing that." She made businesses out of breeding and raising horses, stabling, even staging fox hunts in the wild. It wasn't running a major corporation or a hedge fund, but there were lessons to be learned there in the dirt. "When you do horses, at whatever level, you have an ownership view," says Debbie Phillips, the widow of the former Oilers coach Bum Phillips, who met Adams Strunk while training cutting horses in the 1980s. "Bum was always surprised at how well I could assess the talent on the field. Amy does exactly the same thing. She has that ownership eye."

"I can't go back on my business experience like some owners -- you know, 'I've done it this way in the past,'" Adams Strunk says, sitting with a glass of water at a wood-block island the size of a flatbed truck in her kitchen. "But I can go back on my personal experience. Maybe it's a wild, crazy horse, and you just learn that if you work it enough, he'll come around. Whatever. What happened was, over all those years, I became confident that if something needed to be done, I could do it. I'm not afraid to make hard decisions."

It didn't take long before she needed to. When the Titans started poorly in 2015, she fired head coach Ken Whisenhunt and replaced him with assistant Mike Mularkey. "The offense was a great offense for Philip Rivers, but we just didn't have the players to make it work," she says. It wasn't the losing as much as as the need to keep franchise QB Marcus Mariota ambulatory. "I approach things practically," she says. "And the practical part of this was, in that offense, Marcus was likely to get hurt."

She knew the firing might define her as an owner into the future. "If it doesn't work out,'" she said to herself, "this will be on you forever." Underwood cautioned against it. "You make a change like that in the middle of the season," he'd said, "most of the time it doesn't work out well." But she had spent her life watching football, and she understood what she was watching. "I just knew somehow," she says, "that it was the right thing to do."

After that 2015 season, Adams Strunk fired GM Ruston Webster. Around the league, it was assumed that she'd use a recruiting firm or consultant to find a replacement, a practice that has become common. Instead, Underwood and Kenneth Adams helped her compile a list of possibilities. Then she researched them online.

Jon Robinson had run college scouting for the New England Patriots. He seemed unconventional, especially when he sat down to a vegan lunch during his interview. He wasn't yet 40. And he was the most candid of the candidates, insisting that minor tweaks would not reverse the decline. "The system's broken," he said. "That's the reason you're not winning. It's broke and you need to fix it."

It was what Adams Strunk longed to hear. "Everything he was saying, Kenneth and I already knew," she says. "Now here was someone who wasn't afraid to say it. By the time he left the interview, I just knew that he was our guy."

Less than a year into her first job in football, she'd fired and hired both a coach and a GM. She wasn't sure why, but the path forward seemed clear. "I'm a big believer in osmosis," Jerry Jones explains. "If you're around an activity for as long as Amy has been, you're soaking it up. You develop instincts. That's what I see in Amy. I can tell from her logic, the way she approaches problems. She knows what she's doing."

IN TWO YEARS, Robinson ran off two-thirds of the team. The Titans improved to 9-7 in 2016, then repeated that last season. They won their playoff game at Kansas City in miraculous fashion 22-21.

That showed how far they'd come. Getting steamrollered by the Patriots the next week showed how far they had to go. It made another hard decision that much easier. "I just thought we'd reached the ceiling," says Adams Strunk, who fired Mularkey a week after the Titans' season ended. "In Nashville, people understood. Outside, it was probably like, 'She's nuts.'"

Change is the theme whenever a new a coach is hired, but players often remain dubious. "If they walk into the same building," Robinson says, "if they sit down at the same locker and everything looks the same, they look around at each other and they're like, 'What's changed?'"

The Titans arrived at their training facility this summer and found new blue uniforms in their lockers. After years of wear, the turf beneath the practice bubble had been replaced. So had the bubble itself. The locker room had been reconfigured so the entire team can see each other. "When you walk in the building now, it resonates," Robinson says. "These ain't the same old Titans. It was very cool of her to write that check."

They ain't the same old Titans because Adams Strunk isn't the same owner. "I worked with her dad for many, many years in the league," says Amy Trask, the former Oakland Raiders CEO. "Amy's style is clearly different." Bud Adams had no problem signing players to huge contracts, but considered upgrading facilities a needless expense. If a building was two decades old, well, he figured it ought to last another eight. "That's not me," Adams Strunk says. "We needed to come out of the dark ages and adapt to how things work now."

The players noticed. "Actions speak louder than words," says Taylor Lewan, the left tackle. "She put vents in here so our pads cool down and don't get all gross and moldy. It shows that she really cares." Lewan was sure that once he reached the pros, he'd be little more than a number. "I'd already felt that in college," he says. "For her to come in and be excited to see me, to give me a hug when I'm all sweaty in my pads, it does something," he says.

But who'd guess that such warmth might pay off in tangible terms? A week into training camp, Lewan signed an $80 million contract, the largest ever for an offensive lineman. He could have cashed in most anywhere, but he decided to stay because he felt wanted. "It was the way Amy talks with my wife when she sees her," he says one afternoon after a weight-room session. "The way she takes time to show that she cares about me as a person. Every time she sees me, she'll ask, 'How's Taylin? How's Wynne?' our daughter."

He pauses and looks around the locker room. "The new facilities are great and all," he says. "But I'm a physical guy. I love to show affection. So she's the perfect owner for me."

And also, it appears, for Nashville, which appreciates connecting with an owner more than a larger market might. With the help of Adams Strunk's outreach, the Titans are hot again. A crowd of more than 30,000 attended the downtown party unveiling the new uniforms, a remarkable turnout that led the NFL to award the city its 2019 draft. For the first time, fans say, their hometown team is truly theirs.

None of it will mean much, Adams Strunk knows, if the team can't contend. "I'm warm, I like to show people how I feel, that's who I am," she says. "But I also have no problem doing whatever it takes to win. That is definitely my priority." For guidance, she consults with her inner circle: Kenneth Adams, Underwood and, increasingly, Robinson. Then she'll go outside it and hear as many relevant perspectives as she can get.

The options will be weighed by a committee of one. In that sense, at least, she is her father's daughter.

"The final decision," she says, "is mine."

HALL OF FAME QB WARREN MOON: TITANS OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK HAS MADE THE OILERS "FEEL LIKE THEY ARE PART OF SOMETHING"

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 20, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Amy Adams Strunk was an enthusiastic fan of the Houston Oilers when quarterback Warren Moon arrived with the franchise back in 1984.

The daughter of late Titans owner and founder Bud Adams, Strunk was fond of the team's players, her heroes, and the success of the Oilers made her father happy. Led by Moon, the Oilers set a franchise record of reaching the playoffs seven consecutive seasons (1987-93) during the "Run and Shoot" era.

Thirty-five years later, the Oilers are a thing of the past, having left the city after the 1996 season. Strunk, however, is doing her part as the team's controlling owner to keep their memory alive, and it's something Moon appreciates.

"I really like the way she's reached out to the former Oiler players, and tried to make them more welcome to the Tennessee Titans organization," said Moon, who played from 1984-93 with the team. "The weird thing about the Oilers, more than other teams, is all those great players who played for the Oilers, it's almost like they don't have an identity any more. Every other former player has their team to look to, a team to identify with. I've played on other teams like the Seahawks, the Chiefs and the Vikings, and I can always go back to those alumni weekends and feel like I am a part of those teams.

"For a long time, the Oilers didn't have that. Bud Adams wasn't necessarily reaching out to the former players, and they had nowhere to go. Some might have been reached out to by the Houston Texans, but they weren't Houston Texans – they were Houston Oilers. But that's changed. I think it is great she has reached out and done that, and made guys feel like they a part of something again."

Strunk organized an Oilers reunion last year in Houston, an event Moon attended. Over 60 players and many former coaches attended the reunion.

In addition to Moon, quarterback Dan Pastorini attended the event, along with former Oilers Bruce Matthews, Robert Brazile, Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, Kenny Burrough, Mike Renfro, Mike Barber, Gregg Bingham, David Carter, Ray Childress, Wade Phillips, Kevin Gilbride, Mike Rozier, Al Smith, Spencer Tillman, Lamar Lathon, Sean Jones, Vernon Perry, Zeke Moore, Cris Dishman, Bubba McDowell, Bo Eason, Keith Bostic, Jeff Donaldson, Lorenzo White and receivers Ernest Givins, Haywood Jeffires, Curtis Duncan. Smith has been a regular at Titans Homecoming events in Nashville.

"The guys felt like they were welcome again," Moon said. "They felt like they were a part of something they didn't feel like they were a part of for a long time."

Last season, Brazile served as the Honorary 12th Titan for a game. He also received his Hall of Fame Ring of Excellence in a special ceremony at Nissan Stadium, and went into the team's Ring of Honor, where his name is on display atop the stadium.

Strunk sent her private plane to pick up Brazile's family in Mobile, Alabama, and brought them to Nashville. Strunk also threw a party for Brazile and his family in Canton, Ohio.

Strunk has said she wants the Oilers to feel like they have a home with the team.

"The guys in Houston, no fault of their own, kind of got left out – they kind of became NFL orphans, and it always bothered me," Strunk said in October when Brazile was in town. "And it became important for me to include them, and have a reunion and start bridging whatever happened in the past to get them feeling like they are part of our family."

Moon, who is on the Pro Football Hall of Fame Board of Trustees with Strunk, said he's gotten to know her over the last few years.

A Hall of Famer who threw for 49,325 yards in 17 NFL seasons with the Oilers, Vikings, Seahawks and Chiefs, Moon said he feels like the organization is in good hands with Strunk. Moon made his comments leading up to Super Bowl LIII in Atlanta.

"I really like her," Moon said of Strunk. "I really like how she seems to be really interested and focused on the football team, with the Titans, and she wants them to be a really good football team, you can tell. She is putting out the necessary money as far as upgrading the training facility and providing the team with what it needs to improve.

"As long as you are doing that and giving the football people the resources they need to be successful, the team is going to have a chance to be good. And she is doing that."

CONTROLLING OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK CREDITED WITH CHANGING DIRECTION OF TITANS FRANCHISE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JUNE 19, 2019

NASHVILLE – When Houston Oilers owner Bud Adams first made plans to move his NFL franchise to Nashville, there was plenty of uncertainty surrounding how things might work out.

Among the curious was his daughter, Amy, who had never been to Tennessee.

"I knew it was a pretty city, and I knew that my dad would be drawn to a southern city, that's just how he thought," she said. "When we did come to visit – before the team ever moved here -- we came on the 4th of July and we saw the fireworks and did a few other things around town. I knew then this would be a great place."

Fast-forward a few decades plus and now it's Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk who has taken her late father's vision and done her part to make it even grander. Today, the Titans are a team on the rise, with three straight winning seasons for the first time since the move.

And the city is in the NFL spotlight after hosting the most successful NFL Draft in league history.

Over the weekend, Strunk was recognized as the 2019 Tennessean of the Year by the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame, and she has plenty of folks singing her praises for her work in jump-starting a franchise that just five years ago had the worst record in the NFL.

"A lot of times, when you own a franchise, you often get taken for granted," NFL Network analyst Charles Davis said of Strunk. "People think: 'You've got money, and you can do this and you can do that.' But what she has done in her time at the head of the Titans organization, pulling everything together, has been impressive, and that is because of her leadership and it is because of her guidance and because of her demanding accountability.

"I think this state is very fortunate to have her leading the Tennessee Titans."

In April, NFL commissioner Roger Goodell credited Strunk for her role in bringing the 2019 NFL Draft to the city. It came on the same day Strunk donated $100,000 to a pair of Nashville non-profits charged with fighting hunger in the community.

This year's draft easily shattered records for attendance, as over 600,000 fans fill the streets of Nashville for the three-day event. This year's NFL Draft generated a record $133 million in direct spending -- a 79 percent increase over the $74 million at the 2018 Dallas event. The economic impact was another record-breaker at $224 million, also a 79 percent increase over the $125 million in 2018.

"I've gotten to know Amy," former University of Tennessee and long-time NFL quarterback Peyton Manning said of Strunk. "She has carried on her father's legacy and done some things unique with her leadership style and has the Titans in a great place.

"Bringing the draft here tells you everything you need to know about how serious the NFL is about the Titans and their fan support here. … Amy deserves a lot of credit."

Peyton Manning on @Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk, who is being honored as the 2019 Tennessean of the Year by @theTSHF. The former @Vol_Football QB is being inducted tonight.

Last week, when Strunk announced plans to retire the jersey numbers of Titans greats Eddie George and Steve McNair, George also praised the Titans owner, who took over as the team's controlling owner in 2015. Back then, Ken Whisenhunt was the team's head coach, and Ruston Webster was the general manager.

George said Strunk has taken the team's ownership to another level on the field, and off.

"She's an amazing woman, and she's doing it the right way," George said. "Bud had his ways, and he did it the way he wanted to do it and he was very successful. But what she is doing and how she is investing into the players and creating a culture here, and giving back to the community of Nashville, becoming a strong pillar in Nashville.

"Bringing in former players with open arms -- you don't get that nowadays. Most owners and most organizations and most programs around the country, including college, are really standoffish. But to constantly pull us back in and ask our opinions on certain issues or to soak up knowledge. … She is a gracious woman, a very successful businesswoman."

Before thanking Tennesseans – from organizers to volunteers to fans – for doing their part to make the 2019 NFL Draft a success while accepting the TSHOF Tennessean of the Year award, Strunk smiled when asked about how much has changed over the years.

Strunk has not only made some big decisions on the football side – HC Mike Vrabel and GM Jon Robinson replaced former coaches and GMs – but she's also changed the look inside the building at Saint Thomas Sports Park and at Nissan Stadium, with upgrades and additions. She even changed the team's uniforms.

Along the way, she's also restored the passion and the confidence in the team's fan base.

"It just feels great," she said. "I know when I took over four years ago, some people were probably like: Who is she? What is she going to bring to our team? Is she capable? I just decided I was going to put my head down and go to work and hopefully get things straightened out and all that would take care of itself."

Needless to say, those questions have since been answered.

And the appreciation is on full display as Strunk is regularly swarmed by fans when she makes her way onto the field prior to games, or at team functions.

Strunk admits, however, she still navigates through the aisles at supermarkets in town, where she owns multiple homes, undetected on most days.

"Very few people recognize me," she said with a smile. "I bet I've had two people ever in the grocery story recognize me, so I am still kind of incognito.

"I think if there's anything to do with the football, I'm recognized right away. But when I'm just grabbing oranges, limes and lemons, I'm just there as a shopper, too."

In the future, Strunk would like to bring something else to the city.

She'd love to see the Titans on center stage.

In February.

"Who would have ever thought 20 years ago this is what (Nashville) would look like?," Strunk, thinking back to the success of the NFL Draft, said. "But I am so proud of it, and so happy to see the city of Nashville in the spotlight.

"This success will lead to bigger moments in the future," she said while behind a podium over the weekend, "moments that hopefully include a Lombardi Trophy, and a championship parade sometime real soon."

TITANS OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK DISTRIBUTES $450,000 IN GRANT FUNDING TO 10 LOCAL NON-PROFITS AS "WE STAND FOR" CAMPAIGN TAKES CENTER STAGE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JULY 31, 2019

NASHVILLE – A year ago, the Titans launched the "We Stand For" campaign, designed to bring the public's attention to the causes that are important to the team's players, coaches and executives.

On Tuesday, it was on full display -- along with some big checks handed out by controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk.

Several of the team's leaders, including general manager Jon Robinson, head coach Mike Vrabel and three players – tight end Delanie Walker, linebacker Wesley Woodyard, and defensive lineman Jurrell Casey – were on hand for a community engagement panel at Nissan Stadium, where they discussed the causes that are dear to them.

Then, Amy Adams Strunk handed out $450,000 in grant funding to 10 local non-profit organizations at the end of a luncheon.

"Mike said, "We're all family,' and what they stand for, we stand for," Strunk said. "We want to be a part of the community and be a part of the change, and just be good Samaritans. (Our players) take their feelings about this community (seriously) – they're so strong. And they just want to do what they can to make it a better place. Nashville is great, but we can always be better.

"Today was fun. It was a surprise (to the check recipients) and that made it even more fun. … It just means so much that we have taken on different causes now that maybe we wouldn't have thought about if our players hadn't brought them to us. I think it's a great thing."

The grants handed out on Tuesday ranged from $25,000 to $100,000 and support non-profit organizations in the spaces of education, African American history and culture, social justice, diversionary and re-entry programs, immigrant outreach and domestic violence and sexual assault.

The $100,000 grant recipients:

* National Museum of African American Music

* NAACP Freedom Fund

The $50,000 grant recipients:

* Community Achieves by Metro Nashville Public Schools

* Nashville GRAD

The $25,000 grant recipients:

* Project Return

* Davidson County Drug Court Program (DC4)

* Thistle Farms

* Sexual Assault Center

* Nashville International Center for Empowerment

* Conexion Americas

"We Stand For" campaign takes center stage on Tuesday as HC, GM, players discuss causes dear to them on a day @Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk hands out $450,000 in grant funding to 10 non-profit organizations.

Grant recipients were selected not only on merit but also based on their affiliation with a cause identified as important to a player, coach or executive through the team's "We Stand For" campaign.

The organization's hope for the "We Stand For" campaign is to foster positive dialogue around the community work of its players and executives and raise awareness for the associated causes. The campaign was launched to give Titans players, coaches and front office a platform to better showcase causes and charities that are important to them, and to foster positive dialogue around their community and the work of their associated charities.

Along with his wife Ryann, the Caseys established the Casey Fund, a nonprofit dedicated to addressing the needs of at-risk youth as well as formerly incarcerated individuals by raising money for re-entry programs, inner-city youth programs, mentoring, and halfway houses.

Casey said the organization's work in the community – and Strunk's generosity – has inspired everyone to do more.

"It's unbelievable," said Casey, the 2018 Titans recipient of the Walter Payton Man of the Year award. "For you to have an owner and an organization to do something this incredible in the community, something we fight for all the time. … For Amy to do something like this, I am baffled, I am speechless. She has done something so amazing it touches my heart down deep."

TITANS GM JON ROBINSON FIGHTS HIS BIGGEST BATTLE AT HIS HOUSE

BY BRAD SCHMITT
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 19, 2018

After the Easter egg hunt a few years back, Taylor Robinson dove into a package of Peeps marshmallow candies and ate two before the 6-year-old girl bent over and announced she had a bellyache.

Her father, Titans GM Jon Robinson, was dubious.

“We thought she just wanted to skip church and eat candy all day,” he said.

Then again, Robinson thought, some other things had been bothering him and his wife, Jaimie, about their older daughter.

Taylor had been drinking a lot of water lately and using the bathroom a lot. And she’d lost six pounds in a month.

Robinson went online and put “excessive thirst,” “excessive urination” and “weight loss” into Web MD. And Google. And Yahoo.

All three websites came back with the same answer.

A few hours later, emergency room physicians confirmed the Robinsons’ fears: Taylor has type 1 diabetes. She likely would be taking insulin for the rest of her life.

The two parents stepped out into the hallway and cried.

“Here this is hitting me upside the face,” Jon Robinson said.

Scared, questions swirled around his mind – Will Taylor be able to live a normal life like any other kid? Will she be able to go to the ice cream shop? Will she be able to go to sleepovers? Will Taylor be accepted?

Since then, the Robinsons have learned how to manage the disease and – just as important – they’ve plugged into communities of families of children with diabetes.

They’re active with the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, and the Robinsons on Saturday (April 21) are hosting the first black-tie fundraiser on the field of Nissan Stadium.

While manageable, life with diabetes can be challenging and, sometimes, scary.

Robinson, 42, loves overseeing the Titans battle on the field, but his biggest fight is to find a cure for his daughter’s disease.

“She’s very comfortable with it, and it’s just a part of her now,” he said.

“But we all know what she deals with, and we’re not accepting of it. We’re trying to help her beat it.”

A bouquet of positive pregnancy test sticks

The family was built on football: Jon and Jaimie met in the late 1990s at sports bar Bubba’s II, in Thibodaux, La., where Jon was a football coach at Nicholls State University.

Several years after the couple got married in 2002, Jon found out his wife was pregnant. That happened when he came home from a scouting trip for the New England Patriots, and there were a dozen positive pregnancy test sticks in a basket.

“She knows me,” Jon said, smiling. “I’d have asked, ‘Did you take more than one?’”

This 2009 picture was taken at New England Patriots

A tough player and coach all his life, Jon expected to be the disciplinarian with his kids. Soon after Taylor was born, both parents realized Jon was the softie.

About five months before the diabetes diagnosis, the Robinsons started noticing Taylor asked to have water by her bed. They’d hear the toilet flush several times overnight, but didn’t think much of it.

“We were oblivious,” Jon said.

After doctors confirmed diabetes in 2012, Taylor cried during the first few insulin injections. Within weeks, though, she insisted on giving herself the shots.

The girl learned about food, sugars, portion size, controlling carbohydrates and taking care of herself. She learned how to use an app on her phone that lets her and her parents know at all times what her sugar level is.

Going back to school was, well, kinda cool for the first-grader.

“Our nurse came and talked to our class about what diabetes is and how it affects me,” Taylor said. “It felt good. I almost felt kind of proud of it because I was different.”

A year later, the tears flow

There were many sleepless nights at first, as Taylor and her parents obsessed about the numbers and the beeping alarms.

Jon was emotional at first, and he worked a lot. So Jaimie saw herself as the tough-minded caregiver who had to execute plans to keep their daughter healthy: “There was not time for tears.”

Until there was.

About a year in, all the emotions of the ordeal caught up with Jaimie, and she found herself crying often, for nearly a month.

“It’s just hitting me now,” she told her husband then, “that Taylor has to deal with this her entire life.”

The most frightening moment happened in a parking lot of an outlet mall.

Taylor said she wasn’t feeling good, and she doubled up on the floor of the family SUV, in and out of consciousness.

Her parents shouted, “Taylor! Taylor!” and fed her Gatorade when she was awake enough to drink.

Eventually, the girl threw up and felt much better.

Taylor said her life is pretty normal, and yes, she has been able to go to sleepovers at friends’ houses.

She said she just keeps her blood sugar alarm under her pillow so it won’t wake her friends up if it goes off.

Jaimie agrees that things are pretty routine now with diabetes care.

“A lot of people feel sorry for us, but I’ll be honest, once you get the swing of it, it’s not hard,” she said.

“It’s difficult to tell her, ‘No, you can’t have that second cupcake,’ because her sugar would be through the roof. But she’s amazing. That’s what makes it easy for Jon and me.”

In fact, sometimes the Robinsons consider the disease a blessing.

It has given them purpose, to raise awareness and to raise money for research.

“Fate, call it whatever you want to call it,” Jon said. “God picked us because we now by his grace are financially in the position to where we have a bigger shovel to find a cure.”

ROBINSON, TITANS ALWAYS OPEN FOR BUSINESS AS DRAFT APPROACHES

BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITANINSIDER.COM
APRIL 22, 2019

Titans general manager Jon Robinson and Coach Mike Vrabel were careful not to give away any secrets in meeting with the media to discuss the NFL Draft, which will take place right in their own backyard beginning Thursday in Music City.

While the Titans organization will make players available at certain events as they roll out the red carpet for the entire NFL, Robinson, Vrabel and the front office staff, scouts and coaches will be holed way inside Saint Thomas Sports Park, ready to add to the team's roster.

And at Monday's pre-draft meeting with the media, Robinson let people know that he is – as always – open for business.

"I'd love to have more draft picks. We'll see how that goes," Robinson said.

The Titans have six picks heading into the draft, having packaged their seventh-rounder (plus a fourth next year) to acquire veteran quarterback Ryan Tannehill.

Last year, the Titans wound up with just four picks, moving up in round one for linebacker Rashaan Evans and moving up again in the second round for edge rusher Harold Landry.

"I thought last year, we made some decisions to put ourselves in position to get those guys we ended up with. You just kind of see how it unfolds on draft night and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and the value of a player versus the value of a potential trade," Robinson said.

So that means that the Titans are open to moving from No. 19 either up or down if it makes sense to do so.

"I think we've shown a willingness to move around in the draft and try to do what we think is best for the team. We're not set in stone that we're going to do it this certain way," Robinson said. "It's much like a coach calling a game or a player within the game, sometimes you've got to audible. Do you like this call? Sometimes, I'm going to change this call and I'm going to do this, and kind of get into the flow of the game. We kind of do that with player acquisition whether it be free agency or the draft. You're not set in stone."

Robinson could move down and collect additional draft capital especially if there is a pool of players with similar grades when their turn comes around.

"A lot of times, you've got maybe a couple of guys that you're honed in on, and I think the pool of players kind of comes into play when you're talking about moving, if you slide up or slide back. Certainly, if you're sliding up, it's for one player who is there. If you're sliding back, you're talking about a pot of players that you would be comfortable taking and you're evaluating that extra draft currency that you're getting versus staying at 19 because you think that if you slide back seven, eight or nine spots, he won't be there."

And so the chess game begins for Robinson as he moves around the board trying to evaluate all options that could crop up this weekend.

ROBINSON ADDRESSES TITANS' GLARING NEEDS WITH THE ADDITIONS OF HUMPHRIES, SAFFOLD AND WAKE. NOW WHAT?

BY TRAVIS HANEY
THE ATHLETIC
MARCH 13, 2019

Jon Robinson and Mike Vrabel certainly didn't lay out the Titans' needs — or plans — when they spoke two weeks ago during the NFL Scouting Combine in Indianapolis. They didn't provide many tea leaves to read at all, really.

But the work since then has gone to show that the team's positional deficiencies were in line with what they thought they were.

Tennessee needed, most notably:

An experienced receiver who has produced more than the Titans' young nucleus has.

An interior lineman to better protect Marcus Mariota after the quarterback was sacked a career-high 42 times, even given the nearly four games that he missed.

A veteran edge pass-rusher to go with the developing second-year prospects, Harold Landry and Sharif Finch.

Tennessee landed this week, in response:

Adam Humphries, one of the better third-down targets in the league in 2018. He'll also be a red-zone asset for Mariota.

Tampa Bay is fighting back. Adam Humphries gets a touchdown.

Rodger Saffold, a quality protector and a bulldozer in the run game — someone to aid Derrick Henry's continued ascent. (Remember to breathe, Titans fans, after watching the clip below.)

.@RamsNFL @Rodger_Saffold keeps showing up play after play; game after game. Where would the league's most exciting offense be w/o #76? #BaldyBreakdowns

Cameron Wake, even at 37, has some pass-rush fuel remaining. Wake's six sacks last season in Miami would have tied him for second on Tennessee's roster, and Wake did it in 47 percent of the Fins' snaps. But it's fair to wonder how the decline will continue to take shape as he nears forty years of age.

Omar Kelly
@OmarKelly
I hate to say this because I'm a HUGE Cameron Wake fan. But two years ago Wake would have powered through that guard and closed this play with a sack. Those days are no more. For the first time in his career he looks old. He'll use this tweet as motivation. But so be it.

I'd like to add that I'm 37, and I can barely catch my dog — let alone an NFL QB. So, props to Mr. Wake for excelling at this stage in his career and earning an eight-figure deal in guaranteed money. That's pretty amazing, really.

We'll see how the moves work out in time, of course, but for now, I'd say the perceived needs were pretty well aligned with our interpretation of them. Of course, this week's flurry doesn't cover all concerns and assert Tennessee as a prohibitive favorite in the AFC.

Were there any lessons learned from last year's free agency decisions? Is there anything left in the cap piggy bank? How do these moves impact the draft plans for Robinson and his front office mates?

Let's dive in.

The offensive line is now left-leaning, and pressure's now really on Kline and Conklin.

The left side, with Saffold and Taylor Lewan, is a beefed-up dump truck. Mariota is a huge beneficiary here, but so is Henry. So often last season he was bowled over at the line. Now he just needs to find Saffold and bounce from there.

However, from Ben Jones over to the right side? Wellllllll. Pretty iffy. Two-fifths of a line doesn't necessarily make a great line, or even a successful one.

The hope, if you're Robinson and Vrabel, is that players who underperformed in 2018 — Josh Kline and Jack Conklin — are somehow lifted by the comparative talent level on the left side.

Conklin certainly seems to have more of a shot to return to his 2016, All-Pro form, or something close to it. If he wasn't confident in his knee post-ACL surgery, it's somewhat fair to write off his 2018 season. But that's the mulligan. That's it. The league saw what he's capable of. He'll likely get the fifth-year option for 2020 exercised in the coming months, but this is a massive prove-it season for Conklin.

Regarding Kline? Robinson has given him a sorta, kinda vote of confidence — and he's still on the roster, to that effect — but that's an accounting matter as much as anything. (His cap hit goes from $3.5 million to $1 million after this season.) Fiscally, they want to give him an opportunity to play to his potential this fall. But I imagine the leash will be rather short for Kline, considering Dennis Kelly and Kevin Pamphile are both capable of playing inside.

Sliding under the radar Tuesday, Pamphile will reportedly be back for another one-year deal. Kelly and Pamphile provide quality depth for inside and outside help, something that was quite necessary in 2018 and could be again. Their presence as contingency plans makes this a playoff-caliber line.

When Conklin was drafted, with some rumbling that he might take over the left tackle spot, it pushed Lewan to a level at which he'd never before performed. Perhaps the hope is the Lewan-Saffold tandem only motivates whoever is manning the right side.

As for Jones, he is who he is at this point. He's serviceable. He's a great team guy, a regular captain, and one of the players who is closest to Mariota. But the Titans should certainly examine drafting a guard/center prospect — perhaps even N.C. State's Garrett Bradbury in the first round, if he's there — and continue to carefully evaluate Corey Levin.

This would seem to be a make-or-break few months for Levin, who is entering his third season. But I feel like we said that last summer, too. At some point, the Titans have to know what they have (or don't have) in him.

I'm curious if the Titans at least tinker in the spring and summer with Saffold lining up on the right side, just to potentially balance things out and see what it looks like. Or they could try Levin in the center spot, with Jones playing guard — as they did for a stretch during the Jets game.

This also feels like an appropriate time to celebrate Quinton Spain and his finest moment while in Nashville.

Is Tennessee's pick at 19 now a foregone conclusion? It seemed that way until the Wake deal.

Following the addition of Saffold and before the Wake report, it appeared the Titans would almost certainly draft an edge rusher with their first-round pick. The need was too glaring to do otherwise. But Wake coming aboard quiets that notion, although more edge depth will surely be a goal in one of the first three rounds.

But the board seems fairly open for the Titans at this point, as any GM with a poker face would desire.

Further developing defensive line help around Jurrell Casey has been the priority all along in my mind, because I did believe they'd answer some of the concerns that they did in free agency. If Clemson's Christian Wilkins falls to 19, I'd pounce on him. His linemate, Dexter Lawrence, also makes sense.

"Helping Casey" is the defensive equivalent of "helping Marcus." The Titans have bolstered Mariota's surrounding cast, and now it's time to build around Casey and extend his career.

If it's not a line prospect, suddenly the thought of Iowa tight end T.J. Hockenson — another addition that would help solve protection and run-block woes — is a pretty reasonable and viable choice. I still doubt Tennessee takes a flier on a receiver that late in Round 1, particularly given the team's track record with the position in the draft. The risk is incredible. This fan base has been down that road many times. Take a receiver, sure, but not at 19.

I mentioned Bradbury earlier. One additional note about him: Carolina, picking 16th, has been a popular destination for him in mocks. But the Panthers will reportedly sign former Denver center Matt Paradis, negating their need at the position and perhaps leaving Bradbury on the board.

This week's moves have put the Titans in position to take the BPA at about four or five different positions, and that's what you want when you're picking in the no-man's land of the late teens.

I still think they look for a second- or third-round receiver, where there's plenty of depth in this class. There's no need to take a first-round skydive on D.K. Metcalf when prospects such as Hakeem Butler or Deebo Samuel will likely be around on Day 2. I'd even support moving up for the right receiver.

Wake is a good add, but doesn't end the search for edge help.

With Wake having just turned 37, there's still a pretty big risk in presuming he'll be healthy for 16 games even as a situational rusher. That still leaves a heavy burden for Landry and Finch as they continue to learn, even if I could see a precipitous jump for Landry in his second season. (Like, say, going from 4.5 sacks to nine sacks in 2019; he was really close to the QB on a number of occasions last season.)

I suppose I should include Kamalei Correa here, as well, but I'm skeptical of his viability given the number of games he landed on the healthy scratch list last season. He has a burst, but he does seem limited in the scheme.

Robinson and his staff will likely need to find one additional veteran body, in the same way that it added Will Compton a year ago as an insurance policy as Rashaan Evans was getting settled. Lo and behold, that plan was prudent as Evans was dinged-up during camp and got off to an extremely slow start.

I cannot say I know exactly who that economy addition is. Even the thought of bringing back Derrick Morgan at something close to half of what he was making in 2018 ($6.5 million) isn't the worst idea. They need some supplemental bodies while they make sure the young guys, and particularly Finch, are ready for the steady workload.

That takes us to the remaining cap …

Whether it's signing another receiver or pass-rusher, there's still some wiggle room — but not a ton. After the draft money is drained, perhaps there's $10-15 million left for additional moves. And the Titans will not use all of it; this isn't a fantasy draft.

I'd be surprised if there are any additional moves that create ripples because there are still maintenance matters to be encountered.

I'd expect blocking tight end Luke Stocker back; he was at $1 million a year ago and would re-sign for that. He was too versatile in the system, and I imagine Arthur Smith knows that as much as anyone since he was the TEs coach. Perhaps the Titans' draft plans would dictate whether Stocker ultimately returns, given the depth at the position (Walker, Jonnu Smith, Anthony Firkser, MyCole Pruitt).

And then, more importantly, there's locking up Kevin Byard long-term, in the same way the team did with Lewan a year ago. That decision saved the franchise millions, as evidenced by Trent Brown's four-year, $66 million deal with the Raiders to re-set the record Lewan notched last summer.

Landon Collins' deal this week with Washington (six years, $84 million) just set the market for Byard. The Titans will try to get close to that number; Byard's reps will be pushing to just nudge ahead of it. But expect something in the neighborhood of $14 million a year (over five or six seasons) for the team's young defensive star. And that'll still be wiser than waiting and letting the market creep even higher.

As much as there might be a "hometown" discount for Byard, who is from Atlanta but played in college in Murfreesboro, Byard is going to have an itch to be ahead of Collins — who is about six months younger than Byard.

The limited cash on hand likely means one other thing: When Vrabel said in Indy he thought Blaine Gabbert would again be the team's backup QB, he meant it. I don't know that there's money to attract someone who would be an obvious upgrade over Gabbert.

The Titans' plan appears pretty simple: Protect Mariota better and see less Gabbert. But Vrabel painted a rosier picture of Gabbert's inconsistencies than perhaps Tennessee fans would, saying "there were a few plays he'd like to have back, like a lot of guys." They like him. He's a likable guy. But Mariota needs to play 15-plus games next season, and everybody knows it.

Robinson and his crew appear more fiscally intelligent than 2018, if we're being honest.

Overall, the contracts appear more responsible than a year ago. Even with better play in the second half of the season, Malcolm Butler's five years and $61.25 million ($30 million guaranteed) deal is looking like an albatross for the return on investment. Even Dion Lewis' four years and $19.5 million ($8.25 million guaranteed) was based, really, on one season in New England — and now what is his role with Henry emerging?

The Saffold move feels extremely safe, presuming he stays healthy. Humphries has proven consistent in Tampa, even with QB turmoil and highly paid weapons demanding the ball. He's the perfect guy to fill the Rishard Matthews void, and at about the same cost.

Wake is the riskiest of the group, presuming his $10 million guaranteed is coming this season. But when Indy is paying Devin Funchess $13 million and Nick Foles is getting $20-plus million a year from the Jaguars, you kind of re-set the bar for risky plays in the AFC South.

The dollar figures are lower for the Titans than a year ago and the risks seem lower, as well.

You can understand why the Titans pulled out of the Antonio Brown hunt now, right?

Brown will reportedly receive a bump to nearly $20 million per season. Even as talented as he is, that's a crippling salary figure for any non-QB for 90 percent of NFL teams.

If the Titans brought in Brown, how then would they have afforded the moves for Saffold and Wake? It would have weakened the entire team, just to get someone who maybe would have worked out. I imagine Robinson & Co. tried to learn what Brown wanted in a new deal. Once they heard the figure, they probably had a laugh and moved on to other plans. But they tried. Fans should at least give them that.

Fans are always saying "at least pick up the phone and ask." Well, the Titans did.

Acquiring Brown also would have further impaired their ability to sign Byard in this cycle, before he commands even more money a year from now. And then there's the Mariota quandary with which the team will soon encounter.

The Raiders had tons of cap room, a QB under contract and a stockpile of draft picks; that's precisely the type of team and situation for Brown (and Trent Brown and others).

Don't overlook the deal for Kenny Vaccaro; it's critical for this team and it didn't hurt them financially.

The headlines of the new guys quickly overtook the deal to retain Vaccaro, someone Robinson called a "priority" while in Indy.

I don't know that the Titans necessarily got a "hometown discount" for Vaccaro, but the 28-year-old proved to be a great fit in Pees' defense as a pure safety (as opposed to the slot corner spot he'd played in New Orleans). And on social media and with reporters, he made it very clearly known how badly he wanted to remain a Titan.

At $6.5 million per season (and $11.5 million guaranteed), Vaccaro feels like a steal. And credit should go to Robinson for identifying Vaccaro as a then-temp replacement for Johnathan Cyprien last August. It's a wonder to me that Vaccaro was available in August, really. It doesn't seem as if he was properly evaluated in New Orleans, where he also dealt with a few injuries.

To upgrade the position from Cyprien to Vaccaro for less than $2 million a season feels almost too good to be true. As a side note, I'm curious to see how Dane Cruikshank continues to develop in the secondary.

While we're dispensing credit to the front office, there's an unsung hero.

I type Robinson's name quite a bit, and rightfully so since he pulls the trigger on these difficult decisions, but tip your cap, too, to Tennessee salary cap whiz Vin Marino.

Marino has the task of balancing the books and helping set the table for Robinson to close deals. Marino, from all accounts in the building and around the league, is exceptional at his job. There's a reason he's been with the franchise for 13-plus years following a distinguished run with the league.

The accounting folks are often overlooked, but they're integral to the team's overall success. Taking a look at these new contracts, particularly their structuring, it appears that Marino has done some really fine work.

But here's the big offseason question: What is the deal with Vrabel's mustache?

We're all thinking it. Someone had to say it. I thought maybe it was just an Indy thing, just a goof. But now? Oh, now it's a full-blown thing. Does it have its own Twitter yet?

Well look who's hanging at #Vandy Pro Day... #Titans GM Jon Robinson, HC Mike Vrabel, DB coach Kerry Combs and Dores HC Derek Mason.

Where does this go from here? Forget Antonio Brown. This a serious offseason distraction for the Titans. Vrabel is starting to look like a Hoboken mechanic. Or someone Liam Neeson fights on a train in a Taken movie. Or a forklift operator at a Cincinnati Costco.

Hate saying this, but Goodell may have to step in here.

TITANS' TRADER JON ROBINSON FINDS THAT PERSISTENCE PAYS OFF

BY JOHN GLENNON
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 29, 2018

Titans GM Jon Robinson knocked on plenty of doors before finding partners for three significant draft-day deals. His aggressiveness landed Titans targets and kept them from falling into the hands of rivals.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – It will be months before we see linebacker Rashaan Evans slicing through the middle of the opposing offensive line, edge rusher Harold Landry swooping around the end or defensive back Dane Cruikshank shadowing rival receivers.

Until then, it's Titans general manager Jon Robinson who holds the spotlight following his performance at the NFL Draft.

The fact that Robinson was active in the draft-weekend swap fest came as no surprise, as it's what we've come to expect from Trader Jon in his two-plus years at the helm of the team. He engineered five trades in 2016 (two on draft days) and tacked on five more in 2017 (four on draft days).

But whereas a number of those deals involved moving back in the draft and acquiring picks – especially the monster trade with the Rams in 2016 that gained the Titans six selections – this past weekend showcased Robinson's ability to move forward.

The Titans jumped up three spots to land Evans, 16 spots to snatch Landry and 10 more to secure Cruikshank.

Only one man's opinion here, but I suspect it's more of a challenge to move forward than to move back on draft day. It's one thing to dangle a juicy top overall position in front of salivating teams, quite another to convince those rivals to surrender their own advantageous spots higher in a round.

Robinson managed the latter feat once on Friday, once on Saturday and once on Sunday, prying better selections from the clutches of opponents even if it required the persistence of a good salesman.

The Titans' general manager was shooed off the porch many more times than he was greeted with open arms on the trade market.

“I've banged on quite a few doors this weekend,” Robinson said following the draft. “Sometimes they open and peek. Sometimes they open it all the way and sometimes they don't even come to the door.

“But that's part of my job is to work the draft and to try to move around on the draft board, up and down -- more up this year, obviously – and try to get players that are going to help our football team win.”

The primary reward in Robinson's moves was that the Titans got exactly who they targeted with their early selections, as opposed to hoping those players were still on the board when Tennessee picked.

In drafting Evans and Landry, the Titans secured a pair of first-round talents who should both improve a pass rush that wasn't consistent enough last year as well as better the team's pass coverage against running backs and tight ends.

In adding Cruikshank, the Titans landed what appears to be an increasingly valuable “chess-piece” player, one versatile enough to move between cornerback and safety against different-sized receivers.

It's also worth noting that the Titans not only improved themselves with their draft picks, but potentially kept talented players out of the hands of the AFC's elite rivals like New England and Pittsburgh.

A number of reports, for instance, suggested the Steelers, who sat at 28 in the first round, tried unsuccessfully to trade up for Evans.

In addition, the Titans leapfrogged New England, which had enough reported interest in Evans that Patriots director of player personnel Nick Caserio was asked about Tennessee moving in front of the Pats to grab the Alabama standout.

“I mean, Jon and (Titans coach Mike Vrabel) did what they thought was best for their team,” Caserio told New England media. “We didn't like throw our pens against the wall and go `Oh my gosh, what just happened?' We were just ready to move on to the next pick.”

In making the 16-spot leap from the 57th overall spot to nab Landry early in Round Two, the Titans again moved ahead of the Patriots, who surely must have seen plenty of Landry over the years at nearby Boston College.

“I think the primary focus is just to get (targeted players) on our team,” Robinson said. “That's the main goal, to not let someone beat you to a player and get him on your football team.

“I don't think we're trying to trade and move around so that Player A doesn't go to Team A. Whatever the extra, or the lagniappe as we used to say in south Louisiana, it is what it is. We just want to get (those players) on our football team.”

The only potential concern of the Titans moving up three times in the draft is that the team had to use assets in order to do so, which is why Tennessee wound up with what is believed to be the smallest draft class – four players – in franchise history.

But what Robinson is betting on is that his wheelings and dealings over the past two years – including his free-agent additions and 19 draft picks, 17 of whom are still on the roster – have fortified the Titans' roster to the point that it didn't necessarily need another huge rookie haul. not to say the team won't take a hard look at undrafted rookie free agents and the secondary free-agent market in the months ahead.

Expect more roster changes.

If we know anything by now, it's that Robinson doesn't sit still for long.

NO YELLER: MIKE VRABEL TRIES TO TAKE CALM, TEACHER APPROACH WITH TITANS

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
SEPTEMBER 26, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Mike Vrabel makes it clear he's upset with himself, always putting "I've got to coach better" at the head of the line when he discusses Titans' issues.

But after dreadful results like the Titans have gotten in their last two games, losses to the Colts and at Jacksonville, I imagined the high-energy coach could get high-volume.
We've seen him lose his cool with a media member who was filming something he didn't want filmed -- not a major event in the big picture. He later apologized in front of the whole press corps.

So what might a dropped pass or a missed tackle that had big consequences prompt?

To hear his players tell it, such an outburst from Vrabel is a rarity in the locker room or the meeting room.

"I don't think yelling really gets anything done in a business full of grown men," Kevin Byard said. "I think you want to be taught. If a player's not getting something, if he's not understanding, it's usually because he doesn't know or he's a little bit confused. Being able to teach him will get more across versus yelling. I think it's the same thing when it comes to parenting. Yelling doesn't usually work."

Vrabel is typically able to gather himself and talk that calm, teacher-like approach, rather than being the old-school coach who might enter a meeting room on fire ready to chew his team out.

Byard said he doesn't see his coach angry a lot, that even-keeled rules the day. If he sees Vrabel yelling, it's during the game, at the officials. Vrabel shows the good out of the bad games to his team the same way he shows the bad out of the good games.

"There have been moments, just because it's football and there is a lot of testosterone, a lot of intensity," Dennis Kelly said. "But being a player, he understands that there is not a lot of reason to yell. We're all adults, just talk to us and we'll figure it out, and if we don't, we know you'll move on from the person.

"I'm sure coming from the Patriot Way, it's probably like that: We're not going to yell, if you don't do it, you're going to lose your job."

Said Delanie Walker: "Yelling at players nowadays, it doesn't go well, it doesn't work. I've had yellers, yeah, yeah. Mike Singletary, he used to yell a lot. He's the head coach, what can you say? If he yells, he yells. You've just got to sit there and smile."

Rashaan Evans' last coach, who he played under in Tuscaloosa, Ala., has been known to rip into people on occasion. That's a contrast from the guy the young linebacker is working under now.

"I don't think I can remember a time where (Vrabel) really just yelled-yelled," Evans said of Vrabel. "I mean he always tries to go and do a good job of coaching and keep it calm. There are times to yell, there are times not to yell. It's really on the scenario, the situation. Sometimes it can be too heightened of a situation to yell or too low of a situation for you not to yell. It just depends.

"I can't really remember a time where he went straight coach (Nick) Saban or anything."

Vrabel said it's his hope not to work at a high volume.

"I try to teach and so sometimes my voice may be higher than normal," he said. "It's all based on the setting, the time, the person. But if we're in a meeting, I'm trying to teach, I'm trying to explain what's going on, or what we need to do to fix something to get better. I hope not.

"It's a big room. I mean my voice is louder than it is now, if that's what you're asking."

HOW MIKE VRABEL BALANCES LIFE WITH A HEAD COACH'S RELENTLESS SCHEDULE

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JULY 22, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Chinese takeout. That was what Tennessee Titans head coach Mike Vrabel said he was planning to eat for Thanksgiving dinner last year.

Of course, Vrabel would have liked to have joined his family for the holiday, but he had to stay at the office to prepare for a Week 12 game against the Houston Texans on Monday Night Football. That's NFL life.

Like most NFL coaches, Mike Vrabel keeps long hours even in the offseason.

Even the offseason is demanding. Here's a sample of what Vrabel's schedule looked like during minicamp:

4:30 a.m.: Leave for the office

Coaches fitness club. They pick different things to do -- sometimes they push the blocking sled. It's another bonding opportunity for them. Vrabel makes it a point to commit to finding 30 minutes for his own health. "This is a stressful environment. I have to remind myself to take care of myself mentally and physically."

Breakfast

Plan team meeting

Meet with coordinators

Meet with director of sports medicine Todd Toriscelli to talk about the health of the team

Sit in on different position meetings

Stop by the training room to talk to players

Practice

News conference

More meetings, review practice film

6 p.m.: Leave the office

In addition to his responsibilities at the facility, the Titans' community events in the evening can keep Vrabel out later.

"If there's something going on at night, I have to get some more work done during the day so that I can get out for that appearance or event," Vrabel said.

The second-year head coach always has football on his mind, continuously evaluating ways to improve his team. But he's also a family man who strives to stay involved with his wife, Jen, and two sons, Carter and Tyler. How does he balance the two?

In short, it's maintaining priorities despite numerous demands of the job.

Staying connected

Vrabel's oldest son, Tyler, is a 19-year-old redshirt freshman offensive lineman for Boston College. Sometimes Vrabel flies up to Massachusetts to check out Tyler's games if the Titans have a bye week or a Thursday night game.

BC Football 🏈

Great to have @tylervrabel_ and @CoachVrabel50 in the 🏠 for Tuesday’s practice.#WeAreBC

His younger son, Carter, 17, is a pitcher on Father Ryan High School's baseball team in Nashville. Vrabel has no problem wrapping up his day at St. Thomas Sports Park to take in Carter's games, even if one of them starts at 4:30 p.m.

"You love what your family loves. There's a lot of baseball games. Carter loves baseball. When there is a baseball game, I am leaving," Vrabel said.

Since Carter is at games or practice a lot, Jen doesn't cook as much as she used to. But Vrabel said his favorite dish she makes is lemon chicken with pasta. Jen said she got the recipe from Heidi Bruschi, the wife of former New England Patriots teammate Tedy Bruschi.

"She made it the first time we went over to their house for dinner. I was like, 'I need this recipe!'" Jen said.

Staying connected with family is something Vrabel stresses to members of his staff, too, especially during the offseason.

"I tell our staff that we work too much during the season for any of our guys to miss something that their family has in the offseason. That's not healthy for their families," Vrabel said while sitting at his desk after a minicamp practice in June. "It's not healthy for them. They're not going to be productive here at work if they're thinking, 'Man, I wish I was at that game.' If their kid has a game or a dance recital, I need them to be involved in that."

Vrabel's assistants appreciate his work-life philosophy. Defensive coordinator Dean Pees was especially thankful to Vrabel for allowing him to go to Canton, Ohio, last year during training camp for former Baltimore Ravens linebacker Ray Lewis' Hall of Fame induction ceremony. Pees will be taking the trip once again this August when Ravens safety Ed Reed is inducted. Both players played for Pees in Baltimore.

"Coach Vrabel does a great job of giving coaches long weekends off during the offseason, along with several full weeks off during that same period," Pees said. "We have almost five weeks off in the summer. During the season, he is a head coach that doesn't watch the clock. It's get your work done and go home -- myself along with all the coaches truly appreciate that."

Navigating the season grind

Strangely, coaching in the NFL has afforded the Vrabels more time together than when he was a linebackers coach at Ohio State.

"Fridays are always our nights because we have a teenage son that doesn't want to hang out with Mom and Dad, so he goes to high school football games," Jen said. "It's fun. He's usually home earlier, and we grab dinner. When he coached in college, he really didn't have a night like that, so we cherish that night. It was the same when he played. Fridays were always the best. It became like a date night or family night."

But on other weekday nights during the season, Vrabel can get home from the facility as late as 11 p.m. He needs time to wind down before he can sleep -- that's when he has to fight poor eating habits. Vrabel shook his head at the thought of all the late-night snacks and leftover pizza he has put away.

Eating healthy in season can be tricky. Like most team employees, Vrabel mostly eats what is provided at the team facility. He loves the Buffalo chicken wraps.
"I've been hammering too many of those. They put them there, and every time you walk by, you're tempted to grab one," Vrabel said with a smile.

Despite the workaholic NFL culture, Mike Vrabel still manages to get away with his family, including his wife, Jen, and his sons Tyler, center, and Carter, right. Courtesy of Mike Vrabel

On weeks when the Titans have road games, Vrabel doesn't see his family much on Saturdays or Sundays. Vrabel and his wife primarily text each other to keep in contact. Back-to-back road games are the worst because there are times when the team returns to Nashville late at night so Vrabel might not see his family on consecutive weekends. Jen bought Mike an inflatable queen-sized mattress for the occasional nights when he has to crash at the office.

Sleeping at the facility is something Vrabel tries to avoid. But sometimes it's necessary to save time and get a jump on the next day.

Home games afford him a chance for more family time. Vrabel goes to the facility around 12:30 p.m. on Saturday but returns in time to chill with the family. "We like to sit around and watch college football," Jen said.

After a casual college football scouting session, Vrabel heads to the team hotel around 7 or 7:30 p.m. before a home game. The Sunday afternoon games allow him to get home earlier and see his family before going back to work Monday.

So what do the Vrabels do to get away from the grind? They planned an RV trip to Atlanta this summer. Vrabel laughed as he told the media that he did a good enough job on a similar trip last year to talk Jen into taking the journey again. Sitting behind the wheel on the four-hour trip gave him plenty of time to think. Although it's the offseason, the relentless pursuit of finding an edge over the opponent won't allow Vrabel to detach from football entirely, especially with training camp rapidly approaching.

"I think it all the time. You're always thinking about a play or a player throughout the course of your day or night or time off," Vrabel said.

HOW MIKE VRABEL WENT FROM TRASH-TALKING LINEBACKER TO TOUCHDOWN-CATCHING TIGHT END

BY TRAVIS HANEY
THE ATHLETIC
NOVEMBER 7, 2018

It's been more than a decade since Christian Fauria played for the Patriots, but there's no statute of limitations for ball-busting in the world of Boston sports radio. So the former tight end is more than fair game for his daily show on juggernaut WEEI.

A regular gag from callers: How did you let a linebacker steal all those touchdowns from you?

"It became this running joke back then," Fauria said. "And it's still going now, only with people who call our show."

The calls are about Mike Vrabel. We'll call him the Original Touchdown Vulture. He leached away scores from Fauria and other New England offensive players from 2002-08.

Vrabel caught 10 passes for 10 touchdowns in his time as a Patriot. He added two more scores with Kansas City from 2009-10, as his playing career wound down.

Now in his initial season as Tennessee's head coach, this week marks the first time that a Vrabel-led team will meet mentor Bill Belichick and the franchise with which he's most associated. Belichick on Monday even stumped for Vrabel to be in the Patriots Hall of Fame.

"He's one of the best we've ever had," Belichick said.

Touchdowns certainly help the legacy. Touchdowns on the biggest stage help even more. Scores in New England's wins in Super Bowl XXXVIII (vs. Panthers) and XXXIX (vs. Eagles) cemented the status of the creative formation, throwing a 250-pound linebacker in there for goal-line situations.

And then throwing to him.

"Had it not been in the Super Bowl," Vrabel said. "I don't know if it would have been what it became."

That includes people in Boston still talking about it, news that clearly delights Vrabel when he hears about it. Immediately, in a single Cheshire grin, it becomes obvious who Vrabel was as a player: He was equal parts dedicated student of the game — and notorious trash-talker.

He loved to needle anyone and everyone who came into his atmosphere, even that hooded curmudgeon in charge of the whole operation. No one was safe.

"He used to drive us crazy in practice," said former New England offensive coordinator Charlie Weis, adding that Vrabel and safety Rodney Harrison often practiced with the scout team. Weis said it allowed them to get full-speed reps against the first-team offense, keeping them sharper.

It also made the banter more lively, especially when it came to quarterback Tom Brady.

"They would talk trash to Brady the entire practice," Weis said. "They were always fired up."

Switching sides: Vrabel the 'traitor'

Ah, but that back and forth then made Fridays interesting. That's when Vrabel, at some point during practice, would migrate from the defensive side to the offensive huddle for the team's goal-line work. That made him something of a traitor to outspoken defenders such as Harrison, Willie McGinest and Tedy Bruschi.

He very suddenly became the target of the chatter. Instead of being in pursuit, he was being pursued.

"The worst part was when I'd have to go on the other side," Vrabel told The Athletic last week. "The defense would be like, 'We're going to freaking kill you.' It's Rodney and it's McGinest. It's Bruschi. They're just talking. They were trying to knock the shit out of me."

In those Friday practices, Vrabel essentially wound up on an island. Defenders were trying to hammer him; offensive players were rolling their eyes as this defector appeared in their midst.

"What's up, fellas?" he'd say as he arrived in the huddle, ear-to-ear smile on his face.

"He came to take away our touchdowns," Fauria said. "Look, it's not like they're handing those things out.

"He already had this big ego and he was already established. It was like, 'Great, now we have to hear about him scoring touchdowns? Now we've got to deal with this, too?'"

Belichick was establishing his wizardry. He'd later do the same thing on the goal line with a 6-6, 305-pound offensive lineman (Tom Ashworth) and a 6-6, 317-pound defensive lineman (Richard Seymour).

"I just thought, 'Bill's just fucking with us. This is part of his master plan to show he's a genius and we're getting screwed because of it,'" Fauria said. "He said, 'I can put a linebacker at tight end, or a receiver (Troy Brown) at defensive back.'"

Fauria then imitated a Belichick-ian evil-genius laugh.

Genesis of the formation

The beginnings of the move came not with Belichick or Brady, but the quarterback who preceded Brady. As a rookie, Vrabel and his family received invites to hang out at Drew Bledsoe's home. Bledsoe, like Vrabel, had young children. After the two became friends, Bledsoe then invited Vrabel to come out with him for pregame warmups.

Vrabel would run tight end routes in those pregames, just messing around.

But it caught Bledsoe's eye. Vrabel was actually quite good at it. Bledsoe passed along the recommendation to Weis.

Weis didn't recall Bledsoe's rec, but he did remember being shorthanded for a 2002 game in San Diego. He said there was a mini-tryout among defensive players for the role as the team's third tight end. Vrabel easily stood out, perhaps in part because of that pregame route-running.

Against the Chargers that day, Vrabel caught the first of his 12 career touchdowns.

"It was as if he'd been playing tight end all along," Weis said. "He was physical. He was athletic. He could really catch the ball. He wasn't a stiff out there. He wasn't some glorified lineman playing tight end. He was just the way he is with everything else, too: He was conscientious. Knowing what to do was important to him.

"We had confidence in him from when we first put him in there."

Still, there was some adjustment required, particularly when it came to the sanctity of Brady's offensive huddle.

The third day Vrabel practiced at tight end, he got open in the middle of the field. He turned into a Pop Warner player, waving his arms emphatically to get the quarterback's attention.

"Tommy! Tommy! Tommy!" Vrabel yelled.

The ball didn't go his way. Vrabel trekked back to the huddle, where Brady was there to meet him.

"Don't ever do that again if you want me to throw you the freaking ball," Brady told Vrabel.

"I thought I was open and that's what you did. I didn't know," Vrabel said sheepishly. "I saw Randy Moss do it. … I learned the Brady etiquette, I guess."

Brady Lesson No. 2: Celebrate with the offense when you score.

As Vrabel began to score with regularity, beginning in 2004, he would sprint from the end zone to the sideline to celebrate with his defensive teammates.

"Tom would be like, 'If you ever run off the damn field again …'" Vrabel said. "I was excited, you know? I would just start sprinting and go to the defense.

"Tom would say, 'Don't you ever run off.' I said, 'OK, I got you.'"

A natural receiver

Looking back, Vrabel thinks the best catch he had came in a 2006 game in Green Bay.

Officially, though, it didn't count; it was one of just four times in his career that he was targeted but he didn't make the catch. Brady was trying to throw the ball away in the back of the end zone, but Vrabel read his quarterback's eyes and broke toward the base of the goal post. He got one foot in, and then the other — but his elbow hit before he could get the second foot down.

It was an objectively outstanding play, regardless whether it counted.

"He really had to show some athletic ability," Fauria said. "I remember walking off the field and thinking, 'Damn, that was a good catch.' That was a pro catch. That wasn't a gimmick of some tackle being eligible."

The best official catch for Vrabel was a 2004 score in a win in St. Louis.

Current Titans tight end Luke Stocker watched a YouTube clip of that touchdown, nodding as Vrabel made a nimble grab in the back left corner of the end zone with a defender trailing him.

"The thing that impresses me is that he lines up his eyes and his hands; that's next-level for what you're taught as a receiver," Stocker said.

Stocker added that he hadn't seen much of Vrabel's pass-catching highlights, but the Titans roster has a certain awareness of who Vrabel was — a three-time Super Bowl champ — both defensively and offensively.

Vrabel was a first-team All-Pro selection in 2007. He finished his career as a linebacker with 740 tackles, 57 sacks, 19 forced fumbles and 11 interceptions.

"Guys know his pedigree and what he's been through, who he was in the league and where he's been," Stocker said. "He definitely has clout."

But he's remained playful as a coach, teasing players the same way he did his former teammates and coaches. He almost had a little-brother persona as a player.

Vrabel took particular delight in jabbing at Moss when the Hall of Fame receiver arrived in 2007. As Vrabel would trot in for goal-line situations, it often meant Moss was out of the game.

Vrabel would find Moss, mockingly pointing to the sideline.

"'See ya, Moss,'" Vrabel would say, waving at Moss. "'You've got to go.'"

The cantankerous Moss responded about how you'd imagine.

The Patriots had first-round tight ends in Ben Watson (No. 32 overall pick in 2004) and Daniel Graham (No. 21 pick in 2002), and yet Vrabel would find a way to squeeze them.

"He was just snatching away our freaking reps," Fauria said. "It was such a Bill thing. One of those tight ends was coming off the field because Vrabel was going on the field."

The other linebackers were left somewhat jealous that Vrabel was the one who made the move. In the end, they'd live vicariously through him.

"All of us thought we could play tight end," said Matt Chatham, a Pats linebacker from 2000-05 and a current contributor for The Athletic. "Vrabel was really good at it, really good at framing it up.

"We were all going crazy on the sideline. We loved it. It's just funny that our guy was making plays from the linebacker group."

Transition from huddle to sideline

Weis and Vrabel's former teammates are not at all surprised to see him now as an NFL head coach. They're betting on the 43-year-old fast riser, too.

"He'll stick to a plan. He'll produce. He's smart, tough," Weis said. "He won't deviate from the plan. That's exactly what you're going to get. That's why you know he'll be successful."

Intelligence was a recurring theme from those discussing Vrabel's makeup. Vrabel often makes fun of himself about over-preparing.

"You knew Mike Vrabel was going to be a head coach somewhere in some form or fashion," said Kevin Faulk, a New England running back from 1999-2011. "He just had that coach's mentality as a player, and he used that to help himself out. He was just so smart and so intelligent. It's awesome to see."

Fauria compared Vrabel's ascent to that of Red Sox manager Alex Cora, the 43-year-old whose team just won the World Series.

"Mike has a really good personality that young guys tend to follow," Fauria said. "He's honest. He's direct. He has a lot of credibility. I think people respond to that. It was no surprise to me that he, one, became a coach and, two, rose as fast as he has."

Fauria can probably expect a few calls this week about Vrabel. He'll be ready.

"He was this snarky, condescending smartass, but he could back it up," Fauria said. "He was always backing it up."

HOW MIKE VRABEL SUCCEEDED IN YEAR 1 WITH TITANS — AND WHY HE'S POISED TO DO BETTER IN YEAR 2

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 2, 2019

Mike Vrabel addresses the media before the start of training camp. George Walker, Nashville Tennessean

You go from being in charge of a small group of football players to "being in charge of a corporation," as one former NFL head coach put it.

You go from wearing one hat to wearing countless, and with that, "something different is going to come up every day, something you didn't expect," another former NFL head coach said.

So there was no way for anyone to accurately prep Mike Vrabel for what was to come when he was named the Titans' head coach on Jan. 20, 2018.

That didn't stop them from trying, though.

"It's no different than any other new opportunity," Vrabel said Monday. "Parenting — everybody's going to tell you what you should do for your kid when he's crying, but I think until you have that new baby, then you figure out as parents what to do."

So, just like any other new opportunity, there was a learning curve Vrabel had to endure — one he's still enduring, to some extent.

He knows there's still tons of room to grow in Year 2; he'll be the first to tell you his "good to great" mantra for his team in 2019 applies directly to him, too.

But it's Vrabel's experience in Year 1 that gives his head coaching future such promise.

No CliffsNotes for head coaching

On Sept. 9, 2018, the Titans traveled to Miami to play the Dolphins in what wound up as the longest game in NFL history: 7 hours, 8 minutes. That's including about four hours worth of weather delays.

It was Vrabel's debut as coach.

"We didn't cover that one in the offseason manual," he said.

If only such a piece of literature existed, one that comprehensively touched on every potential situation a head coach might encounter.

But no, "no one has really written the book on head coaching," said Romeo Crennel, a former head coach of the Browns and Chiefs, and the current assistant head coach and defensive coordinator for the Texans.

"You have to sit in the seat and have the job to totally understand that it encompasses so much."

That much Vrabel was told ahead of taking the job — yet still couldn't fully grasp until he was in his office at Saint Thomas Sports Park.

"You have to learn how to manage your time, how to allocate your time," said Dave McGinnis, a former head coach of the Cardinals and the current color analyst for Titans Radio. "You have to learn which people in the building you can lean on for certain things other than football. And so, as a second-year head coach, all of those types of things, you're more firmly planted in those situations that surround you because you've experienced them once before. Now there's something new that always comes up every day, but at least you have a foundation now from your first year to know which people you can rely on."

New Tennessee Titans coach Mike Vrabel promised fans would enjoy the product the team will put on the field this upcoming season.

Handling the curve

There's a learning curve, absolutely, but Vrabel was equipped for it well.

He was a championship player, winning three titles with the Patriots during a 14-year NFL career. A captain on championship teams. Then a position coach. Then a coordinator. All the while, a leader.

"I've watched Vrabel from afar for a long time," Titans general manager Jon Robinson said, "and then getting to sit down with him in the interview process (before hiring him), his leadership, his command of the room, knowing that he could stand in a room full of 100 men and present a plan and present a vision of what our football team wants to look like. He could do that with no problem and be able to balance and mix in some humor as well as some teaching moments."

"The one thing players trust in this league, they trust somebody that has experience and somebody that's honest with them, and (Mike Vrabel) has always been that." - Dave McGinnis, former NFL head coach

Crennel, who both coached Vrabel and later worked alongside him in Houston, remembers feeding Vrabel tidbits here and there about what it's like to run the show, about how much is demanded of a head coach.

Sometimes it was while they were on the sidelines. Other times it was in staff meetings.

"I think that he made mental notes about those conversations," Crennel said.

That doesn't surprise Titans defensive coordinator Dean Pees — not when he looks over to see Vrabel bouncing around between position groups at practice, from animated interactions with the wide receivers to long chats with the defensive linemen to hands-on guidance with the tight ends.

"I think what's unique about him is I think he programmed himself to become a head coach," Pees said. "I think all along the way he's watched everything, whether it be offense, defense or special teams, because if you watch him out here interact, I mean he's involved in everything. There's a lot of head coaches that are offensive coaches, head coaches, defensive head coaches, special teams coaches. Mike's all of them."

A smoother, more efficient operation

Rhett Bryan, a fixture at Titans practice for around 15 years, says this is one of the smoothest starts to training camp he can recall.

"Noticing coach Vrabel in his second training camp, they're not having to take a lot of time to stop and correct things," said Bryan, the executive producer for Titans Radio. "They did all of that in OTAs and minicamp. There's been very little corrective things here. It's like guys know where they're supposed to be and know what they're going to do."

About halfway through training camp, "We haven't seen a bad practice yet," Bryan said. "You always say, if you have a whole bad practice, that's on the head coach for not noticing that, stopping and readjusting. They haven't had to do that. But there were a couple of times last year they did."

That's a microcosm for how much things have changed in a year.

When it comes to dealing with the media, Vrabel has shed a Belichickian approach of terse answers in favor of opening up more. When it comes to scheduling, he's adopted quirks like starting days earlier to give players more time to rest later. When it comes to the overall operation, he's able to get ahead by doing things like re-sodding the middle of three practice fields during minicamp to prep it for training camp.

“Having a desert in between fields (last year), it would have been a (crap) show, for lack of a better term," Vrabel said.

Now, it's not.

What hasn't changed is Vrabel's command and demeanor. That hasn't wavered an inch.

"When you come in every day and you're the same (freaking) guy every day, demanding greatness from everyone around you," veteran linebacker Wesley Woodyard said, "nobody can be upset because he's coming to pull the best out of you. That's him, every day, since Day 1."

He's a coach that was once a player, after all.

"The one thing players trust in this league, they trust somebody that has experience and somebody that's honest with them, and he has always been that," McGinnis said of Vrabel. "And I think he and (controlling owner) Amy Adams Strunk and Jon Robinson all trust and respect each other because trust and respect is so big. That, to me, you can just see it."

Year 2 holds promise

There have been 106 coaches to coach in the Super Bowl. Of those 106, 20 were second-year coaches, making Year 2 the most common year for a coach to earn a trip to the championship game. Each of the past three Super Bowls have featured Bill Belichick facing a second-year coach.

Robinson's reaction to that?

"Sign me up," he said with a smile. "I'll take that."

The Titans will have to far exceed expectations to make that type of run. But the point remains: Year 2 coaches are that much further along.

That much is evident with Vrabel already, and Robinson sees room for more. He pointed to personal example.

"I learned more in my second year as a general manager than I did my first year," he said, "because I did this, I really liked the way that worked, and then I did that, and maybe we can kind of tweak that and make that a little bit better. And I didn't like the way this went, and we're not doing that anymore. It's the same thing with Mike. He's, 'I really liked what we did here. I need to fix kind of this, and we need to get rid of that.' So with experience, there's a comfort level that you have being in that chair. I've never seen him uncomfortable in his leadership role, but there are certainly things that he has, I'm sure, picked up along the way that he wants to focus on improving."

Asked for his own assessment of his performance in Year 1, Vrabel kept it literal.

"I would say slightly above .500," he said shortly after the Titans' season finale, a loss to the Colts that dropped the team to 9-7.

But that stat about second-year coaches and their success doesn't surprise him. Looking at his own team, Vrabel knows there's something sturdy to build on.

"There’s always going to be new learning," Vrabel said, "but there’s a lot of carry over in everything that we do. The more comfortable that the players are and the coaches are, that could probably only help."

FOR TITANS' DEAN AND MATT PEES, COACHING ON THE SAME SIDELINE WAS ALWAYS THE DREAM

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
NOVEMBER 27, 2019

Matt Pees ventured into the corporate world. He dabbled in advertising and marketing. In all, he spent 10 years away from what he considers his true calling before the pull became too strong to ignore.

Coaching, after all, is in his blood.

So the 38-year-old found a teaching job, became a high school football coach, and, in an impressive ascent, carved a path to the NFL sideline – all in a five-year span. These days, he can be seen warming up defensive tackle DaQuan Jones before kickoff at Nissan Stadium as a Titans defensive quality control coach.

His father is never far.

“That's a bucket list thing for a coach,” Titans defensive coordinator Dean Pees said of working with his son. “When your son becomes a football coach, you do have that thought. You think, ‘Maybe someday we'll get a chance to work together.’ It's a dream come true.”

High school to the NFL

Matt, who holds a master’s degree in education from Regis University in Denver, always thought he’d wind up a coach, but he transitioned away from the football field after college “just to see what else was out there.”

Nowhere else seemed like a good fit.

“I always felt like coaching is what he wanted to do even when he was in business,” the 70-year-old Dean said. “He decided he really missed it a lot, so he went back to school to get his degree in education so he could at least, if nothing else, be a high school coach, which is what happened.”

At Green Mountain High just outside Denver, Matt rose from receivers coach in 2014 to offensive coordinator in 2015 to head coach in 2016-17.

Then, on Jan. 1, 2017, Dean announced his retirement after an illustrious coaching career, the last six years of which were spent as the defensive coordinator for the Baltimore Ravens. The dream of father and son coaching on the same squad was squashed – but only for a few weeks.

On Jan. 29 of that year, Dean was hired as the Titans’ new defensive coordinator by coach Mike Vrabel, who played under the elder Pees in New England.

Things played out naturally from there.

“I had already accepted the job and I was asking about the staff and who (Vrabel) had already hired,” Dean said. “I just said, ‘Do you have anybody in (the quality control) position?’ And he said, ‘Do you have somebody in mind?’ I said, ‘Yeah, I do. Here's who I have, if you guys would allow it,’ and they did.”

The Titans believe they are better for it.

“He's a great teacher,” Vrabel said of Matt, who is a defensive line assistant. "When you spend time and you coach football in high school, you have to find different ways to teach. ... I think he’s done a great job with our young guys that come from college that maybe have a limited playbook on a smaller scale, and I’ve watched him install with those rookies we had at minicamp, training camp, throughout the season, just being creative, unique and different ways of getting them to learn.”

Cut from the same cloth

Jones sees a bit of one in the other.

“Just like their mannerisms,” the Titans defensive lineman said of the Peeses. “Like they do a lot of similar stuff. I think it's kind of cool when you sit there and watch them or just see them interact with each other on the field.”

Titans defensive line coach Terrell Williams sees some of it, too.

“You can see the character in him from what Dean instilled,” Williams said. “But from a coaching standpoint, he’s a guy who’s been a head coach in high school, so he’s very organized, no job too small, does whatever we need, so we’re very happy to have him.”

Last season, when Dean was forced to leave in the middle of the Titans’ Week 11 game because of a medical issue and spent the night in an Indianapolis hospital, he was prescribed rest.

You wouldn’t know it from how difficult he was to keep away from the practice facility in the hours that followed.

“We’re telling him we’ve got the security guards out there making sure he doesn’t come (to the team facility the day after the game),” Vrabel joked at the time.

It seems that trait is in the Pees’ bloodline, too.

“I’m never in this building during the week and Matt Pees isn’t here doing something,” Vrabel said.

For Vrabel, there’s some personal satisfaction in being able to set up the father-and-son connection.

“To be able to do what you love with the people that you love is always a great thing,” Vrabel said.

Said Dean: "I'll always be deeply indebted to Mike for giving Matt that chance and giving me that opportunity."

A Titans' Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving falls between the Titans' Week 12 game against the Jaguars and Week 13 matchup with the Colts.

Yes, football will seep into the conversation at the Pees' dinner.

"Naturally," Matt said with a smile, "you can't avoid it."

At work, though, the father-son factor rarely comes up.
"When you come to work, you realize that you have a role and that he's your boss and so it's just showing that level of respect," Matt said. "It's just keeping things separate a little bit."

Dean remembers working for his father during summers growing up. He remembers his father being a bit harder on him than anyone else.

That's not the case at Saint Thomas Sports Park.

"During the week when we're doing stuff, he's just another coach," Dean said. "He's got his job to do."

Every now and then, though, there are small moments when this dream that they're living is cherished. Every now and then, it dawns on them again.

"Sometimes," Dean said, "I'm just out on the field on game day and I see him out there thinking, 'This is pretty neat.'"

Said Matt: "We feel blessed."

DEAN OF DEFENSE: WHY TITANS DEFENDERS ARE SO EXCITED ABOUT THE RETURN OF DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR DEAN PEES, AND 2019

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MARCH 6, 2019

NASHVILLE – Less than an hour after safety Ed Reed had been elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame last month, he was asked about a man who played a big role in his NFL career – Titans defensive coordinator Dean Pees.

"Dean Pees is my guy," Reed, a nine-time Pro Bowler who was coached by Pees with the Ravens, said without hesitation. "Dean Pees is like a father to me, family -- no doubt about it. The conversations we had about defense, life, family.

"He means so much to me. That's my guy. Dean is my man."

Many Titans feel the same way.

Pees joined the Titans in 2018, and in January he announced he was returning for the 2019 season. Pees was Reed's defensive coordinator with the Ravens, and in three of his six seasons as DC in Baltimore the Ravens finished in the top 10 on defense. Pees helped guide the Ravens to a Super Bowl XLVII.

Speaking from Atlanta during Super Bowl LIII week, a number of Titans spoke about the significance of Pees returning to Tennessee.

"It is key," said Titans linebacker Wesley Woodyard, who led the team in tackles in 2018. "When you are able to have the same system, and you can learn and build off of that, especially with a lot of the same players, you kind of expect to take off even more.

"The trust level with the defense, and with Dean, has continued to go up with the veterans and the younger guys, and that's important."

The Titans ranked 3rd in the NFL in scoring defense in 2018, and eighth overall in total defense.

"I love Dean," cornerback Logan Ryan said. "I could give a long, heartfelt message about him. I am so excited about him coming back, and super-excited to play in his defense for the second year in a row. It's the best defense in football. I think it's why Baltimore's always been really good."

Pees, who has 46 years of coaching experience, joined the Titans last offseason after coaching with the Ravens and Patriots. The Titans recorded their first shutout since 2000 in a 17-0 win over the New York Giants in December.

The Titans finished the year ranked sixth vs the pass, and 18th vs the run. In 2018, the Titans defensive backs posted the highest number of sacks in the "Titans era" (1999-present).

Pees replaced veteran defensive coordinator Dick LeBeau as defensive coordinator.

"Two legends," linebacker Jayon Brown said. "I feel fortunate. Dean, part of what makes him so good is he trusts his players to make plays. First off, he explains the concepts on why we run stuff, so we're not just out there running plays. So we know why we are doing it, and that helps players get a better understanding of the whole concept on what we're doing that week. And I think that helps us play faster, because we know why we're doing it and not just running plays that he's calling.

"I love his defense, and love what we did. We can improve on our numbers as an overall defense and get back to being a stingy defense."

Pees had a health concern during the 2018 season. He left the team's November 18 game vs the Colts at Lucas Oil Stadium with a "medical issue," and he remained in an Indianapolis hospital one night for tests. Pees returned to Nashville the following day, however, and didn't miss a game the rest of the season.

But Pees said last month he feels good, and said the decision to return was based on his love of Nashville, his fellow coaches, the fans -- and his players.

Pees said having the faith of his players is important. He was asked how close the Titans are to having a championship defense.

"I think we are very close," Pees responded. "I don't know where we finished this year - I know we were in the top 10 in most of the categories and we felt good about that. ... There are so many things we can do a little better. (But) the guys believe in the system now. I had a lot of players come in at the end of the season and talk to me and really felt good about everything and that is the key thing. There are so many different systems, and they're all good.

"It has to be something you believe in as a coach, and more than that, the players have to believe in it, and I think our guys truly do. When you have those two ingredients, you always have a chance."

DEAN PEES, FREE OF HEALTH CONCERNS, CALLS DECISION TO RETURN AS TITANS DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR A 'VERY EASY ONE'

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
JUNE 3, 2019

Happy wife, happy life.

That's part of what made the decision for Dean Pees to remain in his role as Titans defensive coordinator a "very easy one."

Mel Pees really likes Nashville.

"If she likes it, I like it," Pees said on Thursday before a Titans spring practice. "But I just say it's a lot of things. It was Nashville. It was the fans. And most of all it was the team and the coaching staff. I love it here."

That was music to coach Mike Vrabel's ears. After losing offensive coordinator Matt LaFleur (who became the Packers' coach), the second-year coach gets some continuity on defense by bringing back Pees – and a whole lot of experience.

"Continue the continuity," Vrabel said. "To have him come back has been great for me because he's got a lot of experience. Coached me, obviously (while they overlapped in New England). Easy conversations. We talk things through. I have maybe some grandiose ideas about doing some things, and then he'll tell me where the pitfalls are. He'll be like, 'Hey, remember when we did that? We run into this.' 'Oh yeah, you're right.' He does a great job of just communicating with me each and every day, and working through things that we want to put in."

It wasn't a foregone conclusion that Pees would return. The 69-year-old had a medical issue during the Titans' Week 11 game in Indianapolis and had to be transported to a nearby hospital in the first quarter. He continued to coach the rest of the season.

The good news now: no medical issues.

"That whole thing," Pees said, "was something to do with a little bit of a nerve thing in the back of my head that kind of gave symptoms that were similar to a stroke but it had nothing to do with that. At the time, I didn't know that. But no health concerns."

Vrabel said he was "happy and excited for Dean personally because (the news that he wanted to return to his role as defensive coordinator) meant that he was feeling great and ready to come back feeling refreshed, that him and Mel had made a decision that was in their best interest as well as the best interest of the Titans."

The Titans defense ranked eighth overall last season with 333.4 yards allowed per game. It was even better in preventing opponents from scoring, ranking third in the league with 18.9 points allowed per game.

"I've never had a job like this, to be honest with you," Pees said. "That's not a slight at anybody else. It's just – I feel comfortable here. Really like the staff, really like the players a lot. I think they really bought into our system and believed in it. I appreciate that."

WITH A NEW SON, TITANS COORDINATOR ARTHUR SMITH JUGGLING FOOTBALL AND FATHERHOOD

GENTRY ESTES
THE TENNESSEAN
NOVEMBER 1, 2019

William Smith (Liam for short) arrived prematurely, about four-and-a-half weeks ahead of schedule. But you could say his timing was good.

“At least he waited until after the third-down meetings,” said his father with a smile.

Born last Wednesday night, Liam is the third child for Titans offensive coordinator Arthur Smith and his wife Allison, joining their son Tanner and daughter Sophie.

Such an occasion was celebratory, of course, but not for too long. Dad was back at work Thursday morning without sleep, preparing for a much-needed victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Smith is preparing this week to try to get a much-needed victory over the Carolina Panthers. Meanwhile, after a short stay in the newborn intensive care unit over this past weekend, Liam has made it home.

“He’s doing really well,” Smith said Thursday. “He got out of the NICU on Monday, and he’s home, and he’s doing awesome. It’s cool. His schedule is similar to mine. I get to see him late at night and then immediately he’s up early in the morning for a feeding.”

Standing at the Titans’ facility before practice, Smith grinned widely as he spoke about his son. A proud parent, normal as it gets.

But all this is not normal, the coaching lifestyle and family. Far from it, really, and that’s especially true during the season, when the pressure is unceasing and the NFL’s schedule isn’t going to budge to accommodate personal milestones. Coaches work long days and weeks, knowing the opposing staff is doing the same thing.

Meaningful moments at home compete with critical days at work, and it’s obvious which has to win.

Smith, in particular, is dealing with a lot. The Titans are in the thick of AFC South race, trying to get into the mix for a playoff spot, and as anyone who has watched them understands, their offense needs plenty of attention from its first-year coordinator.

“You try to balance everything,” Smith said, “and it takes a special wife to handle this profession. My wife Allison does a great job. It’s like anything. If you don’t have things that are smooth at home, it makes the job harder. I give all the credit in the world to her.”

✔@jwyattsports

.@Titans OC Arthur Smith just told reporters his wife had the couple’s third child last night. Their son came 4.5 weeks early. Name is William Smith — they're already calling him “Liam” for short.

Titans head coach Mike Vrabel looks back and says he probably wouldn’t have gotten into coaching had his sons not been near high school age when he decided to do it.

Prior to that, he’d been able to find time to help coach Little League baseball and basketball teams.

“I know that every coach loves football. They love helping players. They love everything about it,” Vrabel said. “They also love their families, but it does take a toll on that by not just being around. The best thing you can do for your kids and your families is time. It’s not money. It’s not gifts. It’s just time. And that’s one thing that’s hard to give them during the season.”

If you’re an NFL coach, you’ll probably get Fridays. There are Saturdays before a team has to travel, maybe Sundays after games.

And yet, “There are real-life moments, like that one,” said Titans receivers coach Rob Moore of Smith.

“He’s doing well,” Moore said. “We tip our hat to him, because he is here, diligent, doing his work and somehow find a way to muster the energy and the resolve to kind of fit it all in. I know last week was a test for him and his family, but he did a great job.”

An affable son of the founder of FedEx, the 37-year-old Smith was the Titans’ tight end coach when he was promoted to coordinator after Matt LaFleur left to be the head coach of the Green Bay Packers.

Players roundly applauded the move, and they celebrated in the locker room in Cleveland with Smith when he received a game ball from Vrabel after this season’s opening win over the Browns.

“It just speaks volumes to the kind of man he is,” tight end Jonnu Smith said. “Guys are going to rally around you when you mean well. … If you know Art, you would know he busts his tail. He just works so hard. It was good to see a guy when he gets rewarded for it.”

Such a career-changing promotion for Smith was also a bit of a gamble by Vrabel and the Titans. Smith had never before been a coordinator, and he now was being put in charge of an offense that was far from a turnkey operation. It was going to be about improving, not maintaining. After eight games, it’s still about improving.

There have been moments, but there needs to be more. The Titans' offense has already needed a quarterback change. It entered this week 27th out of 32 NFL teams in total offense, 28th in passing and 20th in rushing. Criticism is part of that deal.

The Titans' new tight ends coach, Todd Downing, got a similar promotion a couple of years ago with the Oakland Raiders, being bumped up from quarterbacks coach to offensive coordinator. The Raiders went 6-10 in a disappointing season that ended with head coach Jack Del Rio and his staff being fired.

"When I was a coordinator and sitting in that chair in Oakland, I remember talking to some friends of mine and saying, 'You really have no idea what that role is like until you're in it,'" Downing said. "You can be prepared schematically. You can be as smart as Arthur is, as smart as any coach out there is. But until you have all that weight on your shoulders and all that responsibility on your plate, you don't really know what it's like. It can be taxing. It can feel lonely at times.

"But Arthur is doing an incredible job of just being steadfast in what we're doing. He's confident. He's brilliant. … He's doing a fantastic job. He really is."

And so is Allison. And Liam.

Arthur joked that his son, who arrived at about 7 ½ pounds, is "probably a future interior O-line guy."

Odds are in favor of that.

You know that football, after all, won't be far away.

FROM QUALITY CONTROL TO OC IN THE NFL, ARTHUR SMITH WORKS HIS WAY UP

BY DON WADE
DAILY MEMPHIAN
FEBRUARY 10, 2019

Almost two decades earlier, Arthur Smith had been a football-crazy teenager hanging around the one-year wonder that was the Memphis Mad Dogs, a Canadian Football League team owned by his father, Frederick W. Smith, and coached by Pepper Rodgers.

Now it was Oct. 19, 2014, and the Tennessee Titans were playing in Washington at FedEx Field. Arthur Smith was on the Titans' sideline as assistant tight ends coach. His father, the founder, chairman and chief executive of FedEx, had come to the game with Rodgers, a former Redskins executive, and still a great friend who back in their Mad Dogs days used to play tennis with Fred at his East Memphis home.

"I went down on the field with Fred and I was as proud of Arthur as I would be one of my own," said Rodgers, now 87. "His dad wields a lot of power, but none of it has had anything to do with Arthur's football career. Arthur has worked and earned his way."

Most recently, Arthur Smith has worked his way into the title of Titans offensive coordinator. He succeeds Matt LaFleur, who left to become head coach of the Green Bay Packers. Smith, 36, will be the fifth play-caller in as many seasons for quarterback Marcus Mariota.

Smith's climb with the Titans started in 2011 when he was a defensive quality control coach. It was a rung-by-rung ascent. The next season he worked in offensive quality control and then in 2013 he coached the offensive line and was also a tight ends assistant coach. He focused just on coaching tight ends in 2014-15 and was officially promoted to the lead post for that position group for the 2016-18 seasons.

Smith, in an interview with The Daily Memphian, called the quality control positions "entry level jobs in the NFL," adding, "when you're a grad assistant in college, it's almost like you're a gopher. My number one job was to break down film and run scout team. And then as time goes on, you get more responsibilities."

He comes to the OC position having never been a play-caller. Which might be cause for some nervousness among the Titans fan base. But if Smith has any fear, doubt, uncertainty – whatever you want to say – it doesn't show.

"You've got to start somewhere," he said.

Loving the game, learning from the game

After graduating Yale University in 1966, Fred Smith served as an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps until 1970. The mindset never entirely left him.

Arthur says his dad was always a huge football fan, adding, "He didn't make us play, but he believed the discipline and life lessons in football made you tougher."

Just 36 years old, Arthur Smith will be one of the youngest OCs in the NFL. Titans head coach Mike Vrabel believes promoting Smith will help the Titans maintain an offensive cohesiveness. (Courtesy of Tennessee Titans)

In 1995, the lone year of the Memphis Mad Dogs' existence, Arthur was around the team a lot, around Rodgers enough that today he still calls him a "big influence."

Steve Ehrhart, who was general manager of the Mad Dogs and now serves as executive director of the AutoZone Liberty Bowl, remembers seeing Arthur working with younger brother Cannon, who would go on to play quarterback and safety at the University of Memphis.

"Arthur just has this wonderful way of guiding and leading," Ehrhart said. "I can remember thinking, 'He's going to be a coach.'"

Rodgers called young Arthur a "football aficionado" and older brother Richard Smith, who is an executive with FedEx, said the signs of Arthur's future success were evident early.

"He's got a tremendous work ethic. He has since he was a little kid," Richard said. "He's going to be another really bright, talented young coach moving up into those NFL play-calling ranks, which we saw most recently with Sean McVay of the Rams (who is 33). My brother's 36, so he enters that group of young play-callers.

"He's innovative, he's smart, he's strategic, he's hard-working, he's a player's coach. I'm thrilled, and not just because he's my brother."

Titans believe he's right fit at right time

Arthur Smith jumped into coaching after playing offensive line at North Carolina. One year as a grad assistant for the Tar Heels, then two years working defensive quality control for the Redskins, a stint at Ole Miss as defensive intern and administrative assistant, and on to the Titans in 2011.

Hired by head coach Mike Munchak, Smith stayed on under Ken Whisenhunt, and again when Whisenhunt was fired and then tight-ends coach Mike Mularkey was promoted to head coach. Mike Vrabel just finished his first season as head coach and it was his call to entrust the offense to Smith.

The modern NFL is first and foremost a quarterback's league, so the new OC had to be someone Vrabel believed would click with Mariota. Smith and the Titans' young QB, a player some believe still has real star potential, already have a good relationship.

"It's what's best for Marcus and for a lot of guys," Vrabel told reporters covering last month's Senior Bowl. "The foundation (of the offense) is going to be the same. There's going to be some things that we want to do differently."

Vrabel envisions a smooth transition in part because terminology won't change. But there is work to do. The Titans went 9-7 last season, just missing the playoffs, and ranked 25th in total offense – 7th in rushing and 29th in passing.

Running back Derrick Henry ran for 1,059 yards and 12 touchdowns and he recently gave his personal thumbs-up to the Smith promotion.

"He has that physical mindset, which I love," Henry said.

Smith, likewise, sees Henry as a 6-foot-3, 247-pound asset.

"He's a home run hitter," Smith said. "Derrick Henry's going to be a big part of the offense."

Opportunity earned, not guaranteed

So, Arthur Smith is getting his big chance. Call plays in the NFL at a time when nothing is off the table. If you can imagine it, you can try it, and maybe score with it.

For most of the season, the Rams and Kansas City Chiefs, fueled by league MVP quarterback Patrick Mahomes, made the numbers on stadium scoreboards dance. But as the season wore on, balance was somewhat restored.

"Kansas City and Los Angeles played wide open," Smith said. "Early in the season, it felt like you were watching the Big 12. But as season gets later, you get a couple of injuries, and people dive so deep into film, they get an idea what you're doing."

The New England Patriots dived deep enough to beat the Rams 13-3 in the Super Bowl.

"You've got two weeks and arguably the greatest coach in Bill Beichick," said Smith.

He may be a rookie play-caller, but Smith is under no illusions. A flashy offense that does not contribute to the bottom line might create some buzz, but won't do anything for the greater mission or the longevity of the offensive coordinator.

"If you can look aesthetically pleasing, people like that in the short-term," he said. "But at the end of the day, we have to win games, and it will always come down to that."

To be sure, the NFL is not in the habit of handing out favors.

It's something that Pepper Rodgers, who coached at Kansas, UCLA and Georgia Tech, and in the USFL with the Memphis Showboats before his time with the Mad Dogs and as a Redskins executive, knows well.

"They don't give you stuff in coaching because your dad is a special man," Rodgers said. "It doesn't work that way.

"Arthur's gotten everything on his own and he wouldn't want it any other way. Neither would Fred."

‘I JUST WANT TO BE JUDGED BY THE JOB I DO’: TITANS OC ARTHUR SMITH OPENS UP ABOUT HIS FEDEX FAMILY, ROAD TO THE NEW ROLE

BY TRAVIS HANEY
THE ATHLETIC
JUNE 10, 2019

After just a few minutes of chatting, Arthur Smith wants to make something clear: The new Tennessee Titans offensive coordinator does not want a story written about him.

He wants to be helpful to reporters in doing their jobs — and he understands the coordinator role comes with added responsibilities — but, no, this is not something he’d choose to do of his own volition.

“I hope you guys (media) never take offense to it,” Smith said last month, sitting at a conference table inside his office at Saint Thomas Sports Park. “Some of these coaches, there’s a story about them every day or a rumor about them going here or doing this. I cringe when I see some of that. I don’t think it comes off well for some people.

“Like, I just want to do a really good job and be judged by the job that I do.”

Smith started with the Titans in 2011 as a defensive quality control assistant — an intern position, essentially. He survived three coaching changes to eventually find himself a year ago on Mike Vrabel’s staff. Vrabel retained him as the team’s tight ends coach.

When Matt LaFleur left the offensive coordinator position in early January to become Green Bay’s head coach, Vrabel felt confident in promoting Smith to the play-calling role.

Smith, 37, has expressed interest in one day becoming an NFL head coach. But that doesn’t mean he’s comfortable with the corresponding spotlight that even a coordinator receives.

“Some of these guys, it’s comical,” Smith said. “They’re so worried about their brand or whatever. They’re so worried about trying to be a head coach that they’re bad at the job they’re hired to do. I could give a crap about that.”

And that, in essence, defines the center of Smith’s ethos. It’s one he says he’s adopted from his father, FedEx founder and CEO Fred Smith.

On a recent podcast with Titans left tackle Taylor Lewan, Arthur Smith said his dad — whose net worth was estimated in 2017 at $5.4 billion — has worn the same style of plain, gray suit for decades. He said Fred Smith drives a Ford Explorer.

That’s the same relatively modest vehicle that tight end Delanie Walker believes Arthur Smith drives. Smith has worked with Walker and Tennessee’s tight ends in some capacity since 2013 — which was also the year Walker arrived.

“I was thrown off a little bit,” Walker said of the first time he heard about the link between his coach and FedEx. “I was shocked that he was working as an assistant coach. I was like, ‘Yo, you’re lying. Have you seen that dude?’ He drives a Ford Explorer — an old one, too.

“He doesn’t talk about that. He doesn’t seem concerned about that. He says, ‘Oh, that ain’t my money. That’s my pop’s money.’ To see what he’s done and the hard work he’s put in, you can’t even tell. You wouldn’t have any idea.”

Added Titans GM Jon Robinson: “That’s Arthur. He could probably very easily be sipping a mai tai in Maui right now. But he loves ball. He coaches his tail off. I’m proud he’s on this staff, really proud he’s on this staff.”

Fairly regularly, Walker will retweet an account called “Billionaire Mindset” that shares a somewhat canned, straight-talk version of entrepreneurial wisdom.

Billionaire Mindset

@IntThings

Truth is debit card

Pay first enjoy later.

Lie is a credit card

Enjoy first and pay later #Deep

Well, his longtime position coach and now coordinator, in fact, has a “billionaire mindset.” Or at least he’s been privy to it. It’s an irony that makes Walker laugh when he’s asked about it.

“That’s real talk right there,” Walker said, continuing to laugh.

But you learn, at least in Smith’s case, that deflecting from the family’s fame and money is how he has gotten where he is. That’s the true “billionaire mindset” for the Smith family.

He’d rather be an anonymous Smith. He’d rather work.

Hal Hunter was Smith’s offensive line coach the majority of his time at the University of North Carolina.

“Of all the guys I’ve coached, he is in the top five in terms of competitiveness and toughness,” said Hunter, now the offensive line coach for the New York Giants. “And that includes guys I’ve coached in the NFL, All-Pro-level players. He practiced and played at such a high tempo. He played nasty. When he got on the field, it was a totally different level from him.”

After a year as a grad assistant at UNC and then a couple of seasons with the Redskins, Smith came with Washington assistant Jerry Gray to Nashville. Dave McGinnis was Tennessee’s defensive line coach when Smith joined the staff in 2011.

“He’s the most egoless dude I’ve ever been around. In this business? That doesn’t happen,” said

McGinnis, now the Titans Radio Network analyst. “There was no job that was too menial or time-consuming that he wouldn’t take on. Everything that he was ever asked to do, when I was here with him — he was to the nuts-and-bolts good. To the nth degree, he would do it.”

Smith’s father and family probably would have offered similar sentiments and anecdotes, but they proved reluctant to talk for the story because they didn’t want the focus to be taken away from Arthur’s accomplishments.

Months of requests through FedEx to speak with Fred Smith, or even just have questions answered via email, went unfulfilled. Each time, the FedEx PR team was polite and prompt with its replies. There were continued promises to help. It became clear, however, that the head man didn’t want to distract from his son’s story, even though Arthur is this way because of Fred and the rest of the Smiths.

Humility runs in the family, it seems.

“I’ve never been impressed with myself. That’s just the way I was raised,” Arthur Smith told me just after his introductory news conference in January. “There’s a lot of preconceived notions about a lot of people. I guess I’m thankful to my parents that they instilled some good lessons in me.”

In a 45-minute conversation in May, Smith provided a great deal of insight into his path to football and this new role with the Titans.

(Some of the responses have been edited for brevity and clarity.)

I’m sure that this has happened quite a bit in your life, especially as an adult and working around an NFL team, but is it a compliment to you when people say, ‘Oh, I would have never known …’ when it comes to your family and the FedEx business?

Yeah, I take it as a compliment. It’s just how we were raised. We didn’t know any differently. I remember one time I agreed to do one of these stories. Maybe it was the Durham paper or Raleigh paper. The guy wrote the story “just one of the guys.” I mean, what did he think? That I was going to get dropped off wearing an ascot?

That’s just how we were raised. My mom’s from a big Catholic family. My dad’s essentially an only child and he was an old Marine. He didn’t want us growing up to be any of that. Whatever visions people have, they stereotype you. That’s why I’ve always been affected by that. I don’t put labels on people, either. For me, it’s never “you’re from here or you did this, so you must be this kind of guy.” I’ve always been very anti that.

I think that’s always helped me here (with the Titans) because I don’t judge guys who come in from different walks of life. You prove who you are first instead of saying, “Oh, I know exactly who that guy is.” Some people look at a résumé and think, “Oh, I know exactly what that guy is like.” You could be so far from it.

But, yeah, I take it as a compliment now. I didn’t know any different, you know? It’s more of a credit to my parents than it is me.

What was it like to be part of such a big family? (Smith is one of 10 children; he’s the fourth-youngest of the 10). Does that apply at all to a life in coaching?

Awesome. I feel like I know tons of people in Memphis because we were always the house where, for better or worse, everybody would come over. My mom would always get everybody food or entertain everyone. It was like a clubhouse. I was always around a ton of people. It was like living in chaos. It was awesome. Maybe that’s why this job, it doesn’t bother me when there’s a lot of things going on.

You’ve landed in coaching. I know your sister works in Hollywood. Were you all encouraged to take whatever path you wanted and not necessarily enter into business — or the family business?

He always encouraged us to go after your goals and find something you love to do. Maybe then you wouldn’t have to feel like it’s work.

Is it fair to say you’ve been driven by the idea of carving your own path, independent of your dad or your family’s success?

That’s why I like this profession. Hopefully, you ultimately get judged on what you do. You’re keeping score. That’s probably why I’ve always been attracted to athletics. It doesn’t matter where you’re from because you’re going to keep score.

Some people have it harder than others; don’t get me wrong. Maybe you’re from a small town or you played eight-man or seven-man football, and it was hard to get recruited. At the end of the day, when that game starts, it doesn’t matter where you’re from. They’re going to keep score and you’re going to be judged. I want that.

It definitely has motivated me quite a bit. I don’t want to say it’s proving people wrong, but you’re proving yourself through the competition of it. “Here I am. Let’s go. You give me your best shot, and I’ll give you mine.”

How did you start on a path toward sports and coaching?

Well, I fell into sports because it was probably something that gave me an identity. I started playing (football) when I was 9. We didn’t have it at the school; I was at a small Catholic school in Memphis. I wound up playing out in the county league. The county league in Memphis — it’s still going on, the Shelby Youth Sports.

You want to talk about an eclectic group. It was every walk of life in Memphis, playing in this county league. Looking back on it, there were some real beauties of coaches there. Out in the country, you’ve got everything. I made some awesome friends playing football. I became obsessed with it. When you're little, you try to find something you're good at. That's what I found. I just kind of stuck with it from there.

I believe you had a couple of brothers who played football? And your dad played, too, right? So it had kind of been thematic for the family?

Absolutely. He didn't have a dad growing up. His dad passed when he was 4, so he didn't have a dad. My grandmother remarried, but his high school coach had a huge impact on him. He thought it was a great game. He didn't push us toward it, but he definitely encouraged us if we wanted to play. It had such an impact on him.

When I spoke to Hal Hunter, your college offensive line coach, he talked about you dealing with a serious foot injury at UNC. He said you were almost forced to quit football. What happened?

I was determined I wasn't going to let it stop me. Going into my redshirt freshman year, I'd had a good camp. I was all fired up. Because of injuries, I wound up starting Week 1, and we got our butts kicked by Miami of Ohio. It was Ben Roethlisberger. We took a lot of heat for that (loss), because no one knew who he was at the time.

We came back the next week and played Syracuse. I get to make the start. I'm so geeked up that I jump offside on the first play of the game. It was a national TV game, an ESPN game, in the Carrier Dome. I mean, I was so geeked up. I remember some of the older guys in warmups telling me to calm down.

I may have given up a quarterback hit early, too. I finally settled down. We were rotating in, and I just didn't play very well. Come back, and I got pneumonia the next day. I don't know how. I missed a couple of practices. I came back too early and then something happened with my foot in practice. They tape me up, do an X-ray and say it's a mid-foot sprain. They tape it up.

During warmups — and I can't remember who we were playing, maybe Georgia Tech — Hal looks at me. I couldn't stop on my foot. I'd been practicing and was trying to play. He said, "You don't look right. I can't put you in the game." I had no power in my foot.

That doesn't sound like a sprained foot.

I went an got an MRI, finally, and realized I had a stress fracture in my foot. In hindsight, I should have had the surgery done right there. I didn't. I was a young guy and thought it'd just be 6-8 weeks and a boot. But it didn't heal. I came back from winter workouts. It didn't feel right. Did another MRI. The stress fracture had grown. They do the surgery there at (UNC). … It was a pretty big surgery, but it just didn't feel right when I came back.

I'm sure that was frustrating. Were you close to quitting football at that point?

I mean, I'm sure they kicked around whether I was going to have to take a medical hardship.

The doctors felt like I was done at Carolina, but I finally went down to Robert Anderson in Charlotte. I'd gone to all these other doctors. Then Anderson comes in there, all calm, and says, "Oh, we'll fix you. You'll be fine." I thought, "OK, well, this is the first guy who's said that."

He just told me the screws were pressing down and causing inflammation. He fixes it. Six weeks later, I'm good to go. Never had a problem with it since.

Are there still screws in your foot?

Oh, yeah. I got it checked out two years ago. It's never bothered me since.

Sounds like battling through that ate up a lot of your time at UNC?

It was my sophomore year, and then I missed all of 2003. It was a long process to come back. By the time I did come back, they'd recruited a class and this and that. You go back to the bottom of the depth chart. They were probably skeptical, that I wouldn't be back.

That probably changed my perspective more than anything; it changed my perspective on the entire game. It had all been taken away from me, and I felt like I had a new chance at this thing. All that stuck in my mind was that Syracuse game. It kept eating at me and eating at me. I played like shit. I thought, 'Man, if I never play again, that would be an awful way to go out.' That motivated me for all those years, to come back.

Thankfully, Hal and those coaches didn't give up on me; a lot of coaches would have. They would have been like, "Hey, see you later" and take your scholarship and send you on down the road. You see that a ton in college football.

Was it gratifying to come back and go out the way that you did?

Very. Absolutely. I give Hal Hunter and John Bunting — I'm glad they stuck with me. I came back in that '04 season. I broke my hand and was just like, "No, you've got to tape this up." If it wasn't a wheel, I was going to play. I just kept going and kept going and worked my way back in there.

(Smith started a few games his final season with the Tar Heels. Hunter on Smith's return: "He was so respected by the locker room. They knew what he'd done, the effort he'd made to get healthy and play. I honestly think they were more excited to see him play than anything about themselves. They were so happy he got to play.")

Hunter told me that he remembered the Monday after your last game, he walked in his office and your dad was sitting there. He said he wanted to thank him for how he coached you, not treating you any differently.

He told me that story, too. I'm not sure. My dad always tried to stay away from any of the athletics, just because he didn't want to be the overbearing sports dad or whatever. He didn't want to do that.

Did you immediately want to get into coaching after graduation?

I was finishing up at the University of North Carolina. I wasn't really sure what I wanted to do. I almost took an internship in Hong Kong. I called a place there, trying to figure it out.

I knew I wasn't going to play in the pros. I'd talked to my head coach, John Bunting, about coaching. We'd had those conversations. He called me in February (2006) and said, "What are you doing?" I told him I had this job lined up, these interviews lined up, blah, blah, blah. He told me they had a spot in one of the GA roles. They'd had someone leave.

I took that job and I was so fired up. I was like, "Holy hell, here I am." I was getting a chance to do it. And then it was a miserable year. I think we got fired with like four games to go.

(Smith said he was working with the offensive line for coordinator Frank Cignetti, who now, coincidentally, is LaFleur's quarterbacks coach in Green Bay.)

I think UNC had won a bidding war with Ole Miss for Frank Cignetti, who was at Fresno. So, Frank comes across the country and he implements a new offense. This was his West Coast version. He was good buddies with Mike McCarthy. We ended up going through spring ball. They'd run a bunch of two-back stuff at Fresno, lead and power or bob or whatever they were calling it at the time.

He decided we were going to go full Alex Gibbs, because that's what they were doing in Green Bay. We changed after spring ball, to all this outside zone stuff. It was an ugly transition. We weren't very good. We lost the opener and it just didn't go well. We got blown out on Thursday night against Virginia and fired with like four games to go. It was just miserable, behind the scenes.

So that was your introduction to coaching, huh?

Yeah, I was like, "If this is coaching, this sucks." (Cignetti) was an early-morning guy and the head coach was a late-night guy. You're just trying to find your way. After that, I was like, "If this is coaching, I don't wanna do this." It was just bad.

Did you think that about just college coaching? Or any coaching?

Oh, any coaching. I thought, "If this is what the profession is, this is terrible."

It definitely can be. What did you do next?

So, I was able to go to Washington as a scouting intern, doing all the scouting stuff. I loved it. I thought it was the best job in the world. You go pick up guys from the airport. You go to the combine. You're a runner, doing the (draft) board and all that stuff. I thought it was awesome.

I went in there on Memorial Day (2007), and (Washington coach) Joe Gibbs says he wants to go talk to me. I'm thinking, "All right, he's going to give me the 'nice job with the draft,' blah, blah. I was leaving to go to Charlotte for the weekend and he tells me that he had to make a change on the defensive staff.

He said, "You know how to break games down?" I told him I did. "All right, we'll teach you the defensive stuff. Our linebackers coach, Kirk Olivadotti, he's done the job a long time. He'll help you out breaking the games down and running the scout team."

(Olivadotti is also on LaFleur's Green Bay staff now.)

I swear to you, I wanted to say no so bad. But I was looking at Joe Gibbs and just said, "Yes, sir." I walked out of there and thought, "What did I just commit myself to?"

Hard guy to say no to.

The whole summer, I was sweating bullets. I was breaking games down and trying to learn all that stuff. That staff was awesome. (Defensive coordinator) Gregg Williams was awesome to work for. Jerry Gray was on that staff … Greg Blache, Steve Jackson, Kirk Olivadotti.

It was just such a different experience, a 180 from that experience in North Carolina. I thought then, "If this is what coaching is, then this is what I want to do."

What were the other kinds of jobs you considered before the UNC GA job?

I had kicked around ideas, just like anyone when you're done with college. I thought it'd be cool to go to Hong Kong. It was going to be an internship in the financial sector. I said, "All right, do I want to get into investment banking?" I thought that'd be pretty cool. I used a connection there.

The more I thought about it, it wasn't really what I wanted to do. I had that conversation with John Bunting, it was about February; it'd been about two months (since the season). I came back kind of quick.

But I'd kicked around a thousand ideas. I can't sit here and tell you I wanted to be this or that. I obviously ended up being a coach.

You mentioned to me after your introductory presser that you'd wanted to be a coach since you were a kid, since you were like 9 or 10. So that was always there for you, in your mind?

It was always there. I just thought since I'd just finished playing that maybe I'd do something different for a different life experience. I knew at some point I wanted to get back into coaching; it just happened quicker than I expected.

So you then almost gave up on coaching after the UNC experience?

Oh, yeah. I just thought scouting might have been better. I thought it may have a little bit more stability than coaching.

Yeah, right. On that subject, you started on Mike Munchak's Titans staff, then Ken Whisenhunt's, then Mike Mularkey's and now Vrabel's. What's the secret to hanging on through coaching changes?

I mean, a lot of it's luck. It's the jobs you're in. If you're a quarterback coach or a coordinator, usually those guys don't get held over. If you're (quality control guy) or an assistant (position coach), you've got a much better shot.

Last year, when Vrabes took over, I'd been in the tight end role. I felt like I had a shot. Certain spots, you almost know those guys don't have a shot. Before that, I'd been in the QC role. Sometimes, (a new head coach) might have a guy. But sometimes if you're under contract, honestly, in the big picture, it's as simple as, "This guy's pretty competent, does a good job, keeps his head down. Do we really want to fire this guy and pay him his money and bring someone else in for 'this' amount of dollars?" I'm not sure that's what happened, but that helps guys a lot, too.

Still, it's unique to be able to climb to the OC role in the same organization and despite those changes.

I've been really fortunate. It's wild how it's worked out, when you step back and take a look at it. When I took this job in 2011, you always kind of look at it, like, "OK, awesome. Get a shot to be back in the NFL. Nashville's great," all that stuff. In your mind, though, you don't think you're going to be here that long. You hope you do a good job and someone gets a job somewhere and can move up, or whatever your goals are.

Stuff kept happening. Some of it was out of my control, when you have a transition. The difference from college, you can't leave if you're under contract unless they fire you or give you permission. That's worked in my favor, too.

That worked in my favor during the Whiz transition. I wasn't sure what was going to happen. He kind of put us in limbo. We had a conversation, me and a guy named John Gannon, who's now the secondary coach in Indy. Both of us were in those spots. We'd shared an office and he told us, 'Hey, we may keep you. You've got a chance.'

He didn't fire us that first day. We come back from Senior Bowl. John's contract was up and he had a chance to go to Minnesota. So he weighed both. He kind of wanted to stay, but it was a better deal and so he was able to go to Minnesota. I was under contract. Whiz was like, 'Hey, we're going to hold on to you.' But I couldn't have gone if I wanted to. So it's just worked out in my favor.

The word we've heard often with this staff, and particularly with the decision to promote you, is continuity. What do you think the value of that is, especially this time of the year in the spring and summer months? An outside hire would be installing a new offense right now.

It wasn't just blowing smoke. When we come in here and go through the installs, they're very familiar with how we call formations. What mattered to me was what the players knew. Most of these guys knew this, so (this spring) when we came in here we could focus on how to get better running these individual things.

We didn't go through all this stuff where you decide what you're calling a route, like a hook or a curl. For us, it was, "Here's what we're calling it; it's what we called it last year." It's sped up their improvement cycle. The whole four weeks isn't guys breaking the huddle and wondering the language.

Is there continuity value, too, in knowing this specific franchise? (Smith estimates he's one of 10 to 12 football employees who have been with the Titans since 2011.)

Since I've been here, I've seen a lot of change in the franchise. But there's a lot of familiarity. In talking to Matt (LaFleur), that was a tough job for Matt to take. I only say that because, when you're putting in a brand-new offense and you don't know the building; you're trying to move your family; you're trying to learn everybody's name in the building.

And every building is run differently between the personnel and the coaches. That's 32 different ways, the power dynamics from one building to the next. Then you're trying to get a feel for what these guys can do. At least I've been here. I've been with Delanie going on seven years … Marcus (Mariota), since he's gotten here. It just makes the transition a lot easier. This job would be a lot harder if I had to move to a new city and I didn't know the team. There's no doubt about that.

I imagine a lot of this time (in early spring, before OTAs and mini-camp) is spent envisioning what you want this offense to look like and be. Do you feel like there's a higher ceiling than what we saw a year ago, when the offense was ranked in the 20s in most categories?

We have high standards, but if you start worrying too much about stats and the rankings — it's like listening to criticism. Some criticism you need. You need constructive criticism. But if you start playing to always appease everybody or you're playing for (statistical) rankings, that may not be the best way to play team football.

Last year was unusual. We had a lot of random things happen, going back to the Miami game. To Matt's credit, we go and win those next two games — we knew we were going to sacrifice some numbers. We went into those games knowing there was only one way we could win those. Obviously, we called the fake punt against Houston. We made a couple of plays on that fourth-quarter drive and made it as ugly as possible. We called 43 runs.

Are you a numbers guy, generally?

There's some good analytics out there. Don't get me wrong. The way the NFL's covered and loud, minority voices grow on Twitter, and you see, "Well, he went run-run." Well, that was the plan. That's what we had to do those two weeks.

We couldn't throw the football, for different reasons. Blaine (Gabbert) gets knocked out of the Jacksonville game, Marcus comes in there and he can't throw the ball down the field. So you're going to have to call the run. It wasn't because we disregarded some obvious tendencies. Yeah, pretty much everybody in the stadium knew we were going to run most of the time in Jacksonville.

(The Titans won 9-6 in Week 3 to get to 2-1 despite a rash of injuries.)

That game was ugly as hell. It wasn't aesthetically pleasing to the fans, but we did what we had to do, which ultimately set us up at the end of the year. The ones you want to have back are like the Buffalo game, where we turned it over a couple of times on the road. Missed some huge opportunities in that game. That game, to me, is, for sure, we deserve all the criticism in the world for that one.

To defend Matt a little bit, those two games (Houston and Jacksonville) can skew some of the end-of-year statistics. As the year went on, we had a run on injuries — we had tight end after tight end having to play. I don't think we — rarely did we ever go into the game with the same starting lineup at O-line. Blaine came in a decent number of times to finish games, started a couple. So, it was a very interesting year.

I say that in defense to Matt. You're right. I've seen some of the stuff; we were ranked in the high 20s. Now we've got this personnel and we should be a lot better.

The whole focus, what it boils down to, is whether we can get better as an offense. We'll see where those numbers are by the end of the year, but ultimately what matters is whether we can win enough games to win the division and get in the playoffs.

I remember Vrabel saying that you all had a conversation when he got here and you expressed your career goals to him. What do you remember about that meeting?

I remember it very well. I was down in Mobile at the Senior Bowl. (Special teams coach) Craig Aukerman and I drove down there to go interview with him. He asked me that question. I just answered him as honestly as possible.

He said, "What are your goals?" I told him I hoped to one day be a head coach. But I told him, "To get there, I've got to be a really good tight end coach and a really good offensive coach and play-caller." But long-term, being a head coach, that would be the goal.

Having said that, and I still feel the same way, I've got to do a damn good job at this job. I could give a crap about all the other stuff that comes along with it.

BATES A BIG PRESENCE IN A SMALL ROLE

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
DECEMBER 1, 2019

NASHVILLE – He is part football player, part Flavor Flav.

The Tennessee Titans signed Daren Bates in 2017 to beef up their special teams and to provide some depth (if needed) at linebacker. He has been exactly what franchise officials hoped – and more.

Bates also has evolved into the team's unquestioned hype-master. It's not so much a responsibility – no one formally asked him to do that job – as it is the natural reaction of his teammates to his natural energy, which seemingly knows no bounds. His frenetic personality spills out in the music that blares from a oversized radio he keeps at his locker and from his interactions with teammates, which often include some dancing, rapping or both.

To see Bates off the field is to understand what makes him such a fit for his primary role on it. It is easy to imagine him on the sideline while the offense or defense does its thing as a ball of nerves, the energy building up, eager for release. Think of a teapot on a hot stove, just on the verge of boiling. Then suddenly he is sent out to help cover a kick or to block for a return and all that pent-up emotion and enthusiasm bursts from him in the controlled chaos that is a kick or a punt in the NFL.

Coach Mike Vrabel has singled him out numerous times in recent weeks for the pride he takes in his special teams play and the effect he has on the others who are on the field with him in those moments.

"I mean, that's my job," Bates said. "That's what I'm here to do. Personally, I like to make my teammates better, so all the guys that want to play special teams and get better, that's why we compete against each other, to see who can be better. We all are making plays and making our team better."

It was Bates who made one of the biggest plays of last Sunday's 42-20 victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars. After the Titans took a 21-3 lead on a 74-yard, Derrick Henry touchdown run, Bates forced and recovered a fumble on the ensuing kickoff and one play later Tennessee scored another touchdown.

In 103 appearances for three franchises (he also has played for the Raiders and Rams) he has made 66 tackles on special teams, including a team-leading nine this season. That was the first time he got the ball out and the first time he recovered a fumble in one of those situations.

"I was just running down the field trying to get a tackle and the ball just came out," he said following the game. "… I just saw the ball and got to it."

He made it sound simple, but his effort did not go unnoticed by his teammates, who were still hyped about it following the contest (see the above video).

Every team can use a player like Bates, who keeps guys around him loose and upbeat, who lightens the mood and who provides energy and animation that helps break up the monotony of a long season. Chances are not every team does.

Fewer still have a player like him, someone who often sees the field only in kicking situations and who survives in the league because of his ability to run down and cover kicks or block for returns. In this age of specialization, most players have at least a minimal role on offense or defense in addition to what they do on special teams.

"I think they were more prevalent maybe 10 or 15 years ago when there was some, certainly, [special teams] specialists, and that's what they did," Vrabel said. "… (Bates) understands that that's his role on this team is to be a core special teams' player, and to help the young guys that maybe aren't as familiar with special teams in the NFL. He does that."

Bates, though, has not been on the field with the defense since Sept. 29 at Atlanta. Then, it was only for two plays.

That does not mean he has not been busy, on or off the field.

DAREN BATES PLAYING 'SPECIAL' ROLE FOR TENNESSEE TITANS

BY MARK INABINETT
AL.COM
DECEMBER 3, 2019

The Tennessee Titans roster lists Daren Bates as a linebacker. But that's not his primary position.

In 103 NFL regular-season games, Bates has played 114 snaps as a linebacker. In two seasons, he didn't play any defensive snaps. But that didn't mean Bates wasn't contributing to his team, as he did when he made what Tennessee Titans coach Mike Vrabel called "a huge play" in a 42-20 victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars last week.

The former Auburn standout tackled Michael Walker on a kickoff return at the Jacksonville 19-yard line, and when Walker fumbled, Bates won the scramble for the loose football, setting up the Titans on the Jaguars 7.

"Offense had been scoring, so we were running down, kicking off a lot," Bates said. "Guys are able to see the returns, which returns they were running, and kind of just felt the return they were going with and came off (a block) and made the play, got the tackle, and I didn't even know the ball came out until the great swell, the great crowd started chanting, and I was like, 'It's got to be the ball out.' Luckily, I got the ball."

In his eighth NFL season, Bates has been on the field for 2,352 special-teams plays. The proportion of Bates' special-teams work to his position play makes him something of a throwback as a special-teams specialist, Vrabel said.

Bates has had six snaps as a linebacker and three as a fullback while playing 255 special-teams plays this season for the Titans. He's been on the field for 85 percent of Tennessee's special-teams plays, the fourth-highest rate in the NFL.

But Vrabel also said Bates is ready to play on the Tennessee defense, if needed.

"I think they were more prevalent maybe 10 or 15 years ago when there was some, certainly, some (special-teams) specialists, and that's what they did," Vrabel said. "We asked Daren to really improve as a linebacker and be ready to play in a linebacker role, and he's done that for us in the past. Maybe not as much this year as he did last year, but he studies and he's prepared to go in there.

"But he takes (special teams) serious. He understands that that's his role on this team is to be a core special-teams player and to help the young guys that maybe aren't as familiar with special teams in the NFL. He does that. He's been productive, and he made a few really nice plays (Sunday)."

Bates said he enjoys his role of working with younger players on the Titans' special-teams units.

"I mean, that's my job," Bates said. "That's what I'm here to do. Personally, I like to make my teammates better, so all the guys that want to play special teams and get better, that's why we compete against each other, to see who can be better. We all are making plays and making our team better."

By winning four of their past five games, the Titans have climbed back into the race for the top spot in the AFC South with five games left in the regular season.

"I feel like we've always been," Bates said of the Titans' contender status. "We never counted ourselves out. That's not even going to happen. So we're going to always feel like we're in it. It's one week at a time. That's what we're going to do."

Tennessee lost to Indianapolis 19-17 on the second Sunday of the season. The next week, the Titans lost to Jacksonville 20-7. If Tennessee can earn a split with the Colts the way it did with the Jaguars, the Titans will have a clear opportunity to win the AFC South.

But they'll have to earn it.

After playing the Colts, Tennessee visits the Oakland Raiders on Dec. 8. The Raiders also have a 6-5 record. After that, the Titans close the regular season with games against the Texans sandwiching a contest against NFC title contender New Orleans.

TITANS LONG SNAPPER BEAU BRINKLEY KEEP THINGS LIGHT WHILE KEEPING SNAPS TIGHT

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
OCTOBER 4, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Many scores and seven years ago, the Titans were looking for a new long snapper.

Titans punter Brett Kern still remembers being called in by former special teams coach Alan Lowry to watch tape of a rookie by the name of Beau Brinkley, and then giving his endorsement.

Brinkley ended up being signed in May of 2012, and he's played in every game for the Titans over the past seven seasons. This past Sunday, Brinkley played in his 100th career regular season game.

Over the years he's been a teammate, a friend, a jokester, a golf partner, and a reliable pro in the eyes of Kern and Titans kicker Ryan Succop. In Brinkley's mind, the 100 games went by in a snap. He's had a ball, he said.

"It has definitely flown by," Brinkley said. "It seems like just yesterday when I came in. … But it's been great. And I thank the good Lord for every time I get the opportunity to play this game. We all know that on any given play something could happen and it could all be over. So I try and take advantage of every game I get."

Brinkley, whose father, Mike, was an All-American defensive end and long snapper at Missouri Valley College, learned the skill of long snapping from his father at the age of seven. Growing up, he watched others at the position – his idol growing up was Chiefs long snapper Kendall Gammon.

After making Missouri's football team as a walk-on, Brinkley earned the job as long snapper. He appeared in 50 games at Missouri before arriving in the NFL, where he's started every game of his career. In addition to handling all of the team's long snapping duties, Brinkley has also been credited with 40 special teams tackles since 2012.

"Just watching him grow on and off the field and seeing how he's gotten better every year -- he's so consistent," Kern said of Brinkley. "I think he is the best long snapper in the league."

Brinkley's consistency helped Kern set franchise records for both gross and net punting average in 2017, and he helped the late Rob Bironas (2012-13) and Succop (2014-18) combine to make over 86 percent of their field goals. In addition to the 100 regular season games, Brinkley has also played in two playoff contests.

"He continues to get better and better on the field, which is hard to believe because he is already so good," Succop said. "I am super proud of him. … I really believe he is the best long snapper in the league, and I have thought that for a while. He does everything so well."

Brinkley said he treasures his friendship with Kern and Succop, two guys he said are like brothers. He credits the veteran specialists for inspiring him, and making him better on the field and in life.

Brinkley, Kern and Succop are deeply religious, and regularly take time to pray on the sideline. They spend time with one another off the field. Kern took Brinkley on an all-expenses paid trip to the Pro Bowl last season in Orlando. Kern said his kids think it's a treat to FaceTime with Brinkley.

"Just being around them has made an impact on me," Brinkley said of Kern and Succop. "You see their families -- they are great husbands and great fathers and they are good around other people. They treat others with respect, and are very Christian based and I am happy to have been around them and learn from them and pick up what they do and put my own twist on things.

"They have brought me back on my Christian roots, and they've been really key people to me, really like older brothers to help me develop as a person on and off the field. I don't think I could ever repay Brett or Ryan for that."

Brinkley also credited Kern and Succop, both scratch golfers, for also helping him improve on the golf course, where he's gone from a "18 to 20" handicap to an "8 or 9."

Brinkley has bragging rights over Kern and Succop when it comes to hole-in-ones, however – he aced the par-3 eighth hole at Gaylord Springs Golf Course back in 2015 -- and he's not afraid to bring it up.

"Sometimes when we all go out there (on the field), he'll make a joke about how he's the only one who's gotten a hole-in-one," said Kern, shaking his head. "He won't let us forget about it."

Kern and Succop credit Brinkley for bringing humor to the group.

"He definitely keeps it light, even on game days," Succop said of Brinkley. "It is not unlike him at all to crack a joke or something, even as we are running on the field. That is just his personality, and it has been great for all of us. It helps take the pressure off."

Said Brinkley: "I guess I am kind of the goofball of the group."

One-hundred games into his NFL career, Brinkley said he feels blessed, for a number of reasons.

It's safe to say Kern, Succop and the Titans feel the same way.

"It has been cool to see Beau grow as a player, and grow in his faith," Succop said. "He has just improved in all areas of his life, in my opinion. He has grown in his faith, and he is a great teammate. And he continues to get better and better on the field, which is hard to believe because he is already so good.

"I am super proud of him."

A.J. BROWN IS 'LIKE A LINEBACKER OUT THERE,' LEAVING DEFENSIVE BACKS IN HIS WAKE

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
OCTOBER 3, 2019

The NFL is supposed to be the league that slaps rookies in the face, letting them know right away everything is different on the professional level.

Players are bigger, stronger and faster here, so as elusive and strong as a player might have been in college, well, there's no guarantee it will be the same in the pros.

One month into his rookie season, however, A.J. Brown is playing the same kind of game — catch me if you can — he did in college, and he's doing so very well.

Thanks in large part to a couple of weaving, downfield runs after reception, Brown is leading the NFL in average yards after catch (for receivers with at least 10 receptions). Per Pro Football Focus, Brown is averaging 11.1 yards after he catches the ball, while the NFL's Next Gen Stats have Brown averaging 10.9 yards after catch.

His big-play production has made a huge difference in a Titans team that had far too few explosive gains last year.

Just four games into the 2019 season, the Titans have five pass completions of 40 yards or more, tied for the second-best figure in the league behind Kansas City. A year ago? The Titans managed only six pass completions of 40 yards or more all season, a figure that ranked higher than only six teams.

Brown has three of those five 40-plus pass plays this year, recording two in a win over Cleveland and one in the win last week against Atlanta.

"That's huge for anybody, not just me," Brown said. "When people can continue drives and make bigger plays — like turning a 5-yard gain into a 20- or 30-yard gain — that's a really big help to the offense."

Yards after catch was considered a strength for Brown at Ole Miss, where the second-round draft pick averaged close to eight yards after each of his 254 career receptions.

But would the strength and cutback ability carry over into the NFL?

The early returns are favorable, as Brown has displayed both traits in racking up impressive numbers.

In Week 1 against the Browns, for instance, the 6-foot-1, 226-pound receiver offered a glimpse of his physicality, stiff-arming Cleveland defensive back Terrance Mitchell to the ground after catching a short pass over the middle from quarterback Marcus Mariota.

Titans safety Kenny Vaccaro, who's gone head-to-head with Brown plenty of times in practice, notes Brown will almost always have a size and strength edge on NFL cornerbacks, not to mention safeties.

"He looks like a linebacker out there," Vaccaro said. "If you're that big, you're going to be hard to take down. I don't care if you're a receiver or a running back. For a 185-pound corner, that's not a very good sight to see out there. Because (Brown) has, like, 40 or 50 pounds on a lot of them."

Adds Brown: "I know DBs think twice when they try to tackle me. I know that, and I try to take advantage of that every time."

But Brown has shown the ability to be far more than just a brute.

Witness the remainder of that 51-yard catch against Cleveland, when Brown hip-wiggled his way past Damarious Randall at the sideline, then used another cutback to avoid linebacker Joe Schobert before he was finally tackled.

His elusiveness after the catch was even more noticeable in last Sunday's win over Atlanta when he scored the first touchdown of his NFL career. Brown started the play with a shake move that completely turned around Falcons cornerback Desmond Trufant, leaving Brown open for a medium-range reception over the middle.

That's when things got really interesting.

Brown appears at first to be encircled by three Falcons defenders fast approaching him. But instead of trying to plow through them, Brown slows down and reverses course, leaving poor Trufant toasted yet again and allowing him to take the pass 47 yards into the end zone.

"He's very patient," Titans wide receiver Adam Humphries said of Brown. "You can tell when he's got the ball in his hands, he's not overreacting to three guys around him.

"He's going to find someone to stiff-arm, to break a tackle and get more yards. He's had some great opportunities to run after the catch, and he's made the most of it."

One trait we haven't covered is Brown's want-to level.

Numerically, it might best be illustrated by one of the NFL Next Gen Stats categories. Brown's expected yards-after-catch average this season has been just 4.4 yards. The fact that he's actually averaging 10.9 yards after catch means he's averaging about 6.6 yards more than expected, the biggest difference among all NFL receivers.

* Average yards after catch

“I really feel like (yards after catch) is a mindset,” Brown said. “With me, I want to try to be as dominating as I can when I have the ball in my hand. I’m not trying to be a possession receiver, catch the ball and go down. I just try to make things happen, make plays and continue drives.”

Added Vaccaro: “I think it’s willpower — guys that don’t want to go down, guys that want to get yards after catch. I think it’s a mentality, honestly, more than it is a skill set.”

Through four games, Brown’s 10 catches rank third among Titans wide receivers in receptions, just behind Corey Davis (11) and Adam Humphries (11). But he ranks first in yardage (223), average per catch (22.3 yards) and touchdowns (two), which calls to mind this question: Is it reasonable to expect more snaps for Brown in the near future?

The rookie has been on the field for fewer than 50 percent of the Titans’ offensive snaps (45.6 percent), a figure that trails Davis’ (78.9 percent), Tajae Sharpe’s (52.5 percent) and Humphries’ (51 percent).

Part of bringing Brown along slowly likely has to do with the fact he missed so much of training camp and the preseason due to a hamstring injury. In fact, Titans coach Mike Vrabel took a little jab at Brown following the win over the Falcons, saying it was nice to see Brown didn’t run out of gas at the end of the contest.

“The first game, I was out of shape, honestly,” Brown said with a smile. “I hadn’t really practiced that much, so it was kind of holding me back. But I’m back on my feet now, I’m OK. (Vrabel) is giving me a little hard time right there, but I know it’s all love.”

Would Brown, who’s only once this year played as many as 30 snaps, be comfortable playing 45 or 50 snaps if the game plan called for it?

“Yes, sir,” Brown said. “I could do that.”

Note to defensive backs: Better catch him while you can.

TITANS ROOKIE WR A.J. BROWN SHOWS OUT BEFORE "BIG BRO" JULIO JONES

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
SEPTEMBER 30, 2019

ATLANTA – No. 11 stole the show early here on Sunday, but maybe not the one most expected.

Titans rookie A.J. Brown set the tone by scoring the game's first touchdown in a 24-10 win over the Falcons, and he followed that up with another touchdown in the victory.

The team's second-round pick of the NFL Draft left Mercedes-Benz Stadium with a pair of No.11 jerseys on Sunday – his own, and one belonging to Falcons receiver Julio Jones, his idol.

After the game, Brown dished out credit to those around him, from quarterback Marcus Mariota to fellow receiver Corey Davis.

He also showed respect for Jones, a six-time Pro Bowler that Brown said he models his game after. The two players talked after the game, and swapped jerseys. Brown said he picked No.11 in the NFL because of Jones after wearing No.1 at Ole Miss.

"That's my big bro," Brown said of Jones. "He taught me everything I know, and he don't even know it. I think so much of how he plays. I was watching him today, trying to steal something to put in my bag. He is a great one and one day I want to be like him. I want to be better than him."

Brown had three catches for 94 yards and the two touchdowns against the Falcons. He scored on a 55-yard catch after making a grab in the middle of the field and racing past defenders. Brown also had an 11-yard touchdown catch in the game, which gave the Titans a lead they never relinquished.

"I want to make that the standard," Brown said. "I tell myself I haven't done anything yet. I have to keep my head down and keep working."

Brown's performance came on a day when Mariota completed 18-of-27 passes for 227 yards and three touchdowns. Davis led the Tians with five catches, and he had 91 receiving yards and a 23-yard touchdown catch of his own.

The Titans defense did a solid job vs. Jones, who had just four catches for 52 yards for the Falcons. In the contest, Jones reached a significant milestone – he became the fastest receiver to reach 11,000 receiving yards for his career. Earlier this season, Jones also became the all-time leading receiver in Falcons franchise history.

"(Julio) told me just keep playing, keep balling, keep getting open," Brown said. "He said, "Don't let it be just one week, be consistent. You have to be reliable in this league.'

"It means the world to me, talking to him."

5 THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT TITANS RECEIVER A.J. BROWN, INCLUDING TRAINING WITH JERRY RICE

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 28, 2019

PAGE: 4B

Marcus Mariota has a new, dynamic target.

And A.J. Brown gives Titans fans another reason to be optimistic about an offense that last season was among the worst in the league in passing. The Ole Miss product, whom the Titans drafted in the second round (51st overall) of the 2019 NFL Draft, joins a receiving corps that includes Corey Davis, Tajae Sharpe and Taywan Taylor.

Here are five things to know about the Titans' new wideout:

Prolific at Ole Miss

Titans general manager Jon Robinson continued his streak of drafting wide receivers with a proven track record.

Brown left Ole Miss as the program's all-time leading wide receiver with 2,984 yards. As a junior this past season, he had 85 catches for 1,320 yards and six touchdowns.

Since Robinson took over as GM in 2016, he's drafted four wide receivers – Davis, Taylor, Sharpe and Brown – and all four had at least two 1,000-yard seasons in college.

The Titans chose Brown over his teammate at Ole Miss, D.K. Metcalf, whom many analysts had ranked ahead of Brown but who had only 1,228 yards in his collegiate career.

Versatile wideout

Brown is versatile enough to play inside or outside, he said.

"Whatever Tennessee needs," the wide receiver said on a conference call. "At Ole Miss, I was a slot guy when D.K. got hurt, so I could do both. I could play inside and outside; it really wasn't a problem. I can run any route, so, I mean, it wasn't a problem. Got to have the best people on the field any time. At the next level, I'm trying to be able to be versatile."

The Titans think he can be.

"Really productive in a strong football conference," Robinson said. "Has played a couple of different positions. Has played outside receiver, has played inside receiver. He's got good size. He's got strong hands, good route-running. And he's got good play speed. Really felt like he fit what we were looking for in a player."

And at 6-foot, 226 pounds, he gives the Titans another big-bodied option.

He trained with Jerry Rice

During his pre-draft training regimen, Brown was guided by a pretty good player to model himself after as a wide receiver.

He went through endurance training with Jerry Rice, going through the Hall of Fame wide receiver's famous Hill workout.

"He was just telling me how he liked to play in the games," Brown said. "His first quarter was his best. Running the hill and getting in shape, he's still going like it's the first quarter. You have to stay ready and train hard for those big moments."

High school rivals with Jeffery Simmons

Brown, a native of Starkville, Miss., said he grew up "30 minutes" away from Jeffery Simmons, whom the Titans drafted in the first round.

The two played each other in high school, and Robinson even said he asked Simmons about Brown before he drafted the wide receiver.

"He won," Brown said. "I think it ended up being 2-1. He beat me twice, and I beat him once.

"He's a great guy and dominant and force to be reckoned with. We are from the same place, basically down the street."

Drafted to play baseball

Brown is – or at least was – a two-sport athlete.

He was drafted in the 19th round of the 2016 Major League Baseball Draft by the San Diego Padres. He played outfield for Starkville High.

Brown was asked about his baseball career on Friday.

"No baseball, no baseball," he said. "I am locked into football."

TITANS ROOKIE A.J. BROWN HAS ADMIRER IN FELLOW MISSISSIPPIAN JERRY RICE

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
MAY 13, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- When Mississippi native A.J. Brown flew to the Bay Area before the draft, he didn't just meet with San Francisco 49ers brass -- he got to meet a Hall of Famer who grew up not far from Brown's hometown of Starkville.

Jerry Rice, the wide receiver who redefined the position as a perennial MVP candidate in the 1980s and '90s, is from Crawford, Mississippi. That's just a 30-minute drive from Starkville, where Brown -- the wide receiver the Tennessee Titans selected at No. 51 in the second round -- was a high school star.

Brown often mentions current pro receivers such as Julio Jones as players he modeled his game after, but he has no hesitation pointing out that Rice is the greatest of all time.

"I watched Jerry Rice. I go on YouTube and watch his routes. Even though he played back then, he still offers things that I can put in my toolbox," Brown said after the Titans' second rookie minicamp practice. "We're from the same area, Oktibbeha County. We connected. That's the GOAT. My people got in touch with him, and he was down from there."

Rice took Brown on the infamous horse trail at Edgewood Park and Natural Preserve in Redwood City. The trail is known as one of Rice's primary training grounds.

"When I got drafted by San Francisco, I thought about Mississippi," Rice said during the run via a video on NFL.com. "I said if I have success in the NFL, that will open the door for so many other guys. Look at your opportunity right now. You're getting ready to live your dream."

In the video, Rice emphasized the endurance benefits he reaped from running the hill, crediting it for his ability to excel in the fourth quarter and function at his best despite being tired during his career.

If getting to work out with the greatest wide receiver ever wasn't enough, Brown even got the opportunity to wear Rice's Hall of Fame ring and his three Super Bowl rings.

Rice is proud to see another wideout make it to the NFL from the 662 area code.

"He's from my hometown and represents it the way I did," Rice said of Brown. "This kid has an amazing work ethic. I am so glad I got to spend time with him and can’t wait to watch him do work," Rice said on Instagram after running the hill with Brown.

PROUD "UNCLE": FORMER NFL GREAT WILLIE MCGINEST PROUD OF JAYON BROWN'S SUCCESS WITH TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 21, 2019

NASHVILLE – Willie McGinest is able to say he knew Titans linebacker Jayon Brown way back when.

And because of it, he smiles when talking about Brown's success.

"He has always had the mentality, and the work ethic, from youth football to high school, all the way up," McGinest said of Brown. "He's a guy who never gave up on himself. He always worked. He always walks around with a smile, but he will work his butt off. I'm really proud of Jayon."

McGinest, an analyst with NFL Network, played from 1994-2005 with the Patriots before playing three more seasons with the Browns (2006-08). McGinest played in two Pro Bowls while in New England, and won three Super Bowls with the Patriots, where he was teammates with Titans coach Mike Vrabel. He's in the New England Patriots Hall of Fame.

McGinest is also close with Brown, who just finished his second season with the Titans.

Brown said he wears No.55 because it's the number McGinest wore during his playing days.

Like McGinest, Brown is from Long Beach, California, and he went to Long Beach Poly High School. McGinest has been close friends with Brown's father, Jason, since they were youngsters.

"Willie has always been around my family growing up, so he's pretty much my uncle," Brown said. "He's helped me out throughout my career, and even today we'll go over film.

"He gives me tips when I need them, when I ask for them. Even when I don't ask for them, he'll give them to me," Brown continued, smiling. "He's a guy who has tried to help me throughout my career, and he's helped me a lot."

.@WillieMcGinest raves about @Titans linebacker @JayonBrown12.

Brown, a fifth round draft pick from UCLA in the 2017 NFL Draft, made a big leap for the Titans in 2018.

He was second on the team with 107 tackles, and he also racked up six sacks and 18 quarterback pressures. He was one of the team's most consistent players.

In the team's finale against the Colts, Brown was a one-man wrecking crew, returning an interception for a touchdown before forcing another fumble – and recovering it – a little later.

"He can be really good," McGinest said of Brown. "He is still learning the game. They ask him to do a lot – he's a cover guy, he can play the run, he can cover a tight end and a back if you need him to. He never has to come off the field, so he is still growing, and he is still learning. I think the sky is the limit."

Seeing Brown excel has been fun for McGinest to watch.

Watching how he's done it makes him even prouder.

McGinest and Brown both made their comments from Super Bowl LIII earlier this month.

"A lot of people always identify players just because of the football side of it," McGinest said. "But this kid has a great personality. He has a great outlook on life, he's happy, and he loves doing what he is doing. And he'll grind - he'll work. I think when you have special guys like that you know they are going to have a bright future, and I kind of knew that with him.

"He's just a great kid, on and off the field."

LB JAYON BROWN MIGHT BE SMALL, BUT HE MORE THAN MEASURES UP FOR THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 3, 2019

NASHVILLE – Jayon Brown has made a name for himself in his first two seasons with the Titans, earning snaps and recognition along the way.

It's safe to say Brown is exceeding expectations for his work at linebacker, even if the first reaction he gets from most fans is about his size.

"When they do recognize me, the first thing I get is: 'I thought you were bigger'," Brown said with a smile while on the Titans Caravan this week. "They'll say: You're kind of a slim guy.' I'll be like, 'Yeah, I'm not the biggest. But I get the job done, though.' Hey, I just laugh. I've been hearing that my whole life. It's all good."

Brown, who's 6-foot, 226 pounds, has proven to be more than big enough in a league where small and speedy linebackers are becoming more and more common. In the NFL Draft, the Titans selected former West Virginia linebacker David Long, who's 5-11, 227 pounds.

When Titans coach Mike Vrabel was asked about Long's size, he brought up Brown, which is a good thing.

"The size of linebackers has really diminished over the past 10 years," Vrabel said. "Most recently it is what is playing in college football. The more that offenses become spread out, the more that college defenses recruit athletic, quick, smaller (linebackers). We are very comfortable with where we are with Jayon Brown and his development as a linebacker. I would say that David would probably fit similar to Jayon's size. As long as you give the guy, the player, enough tools in his tool box to play with his skillset and then try to develop some other things around it, I think that is always something that we are trying to do."

Brown has more than held his own with the Titans. In 2018, he was second on the team with 107 tackles, and he also racked up six sacks and 18 quarterback pressures.

He was one of the team's most consistent players.

In the team's finale against the Colts, Brown was a one-man wrecking crew, returning an interception for a touchdown before forcing another fumble – and recovering it – a little later.

Brown played 979 snaps in 2018, including 850 on defense (81.3 %), while also playing 129 more on special teams. He earned nearly a half-million additional dollars in addition to his regular salary as part of the NFL's performance-based pay program, which rewards players based on playing time and salary levels.

Brown didn't hate getting the bump in pay. He was also happy about his jump in play, although he's not too interested in talk about exceeding expectations already.

Heck, he's just two years into his career.

"I am just getting started," Brown said. "It has only been two years of film, so to be back in Nashville again and be able to go into my third year, some guys haven't made it this far. It is a blessing and I just want to keep improving my game and keep on contributing and help us win. But to be able to be on the field and contribute as much as I do as a late-round guy, it's nice I guess."

A fifth-round pick in the 2017 NFL Draft out of UCLA, Brown spent the early part of the offseason in California training with NFL players like Kenny Clark, Caleb Benenoch, Malik Jackson, Malcolm Smith, David Bakhtiari, and Lance Kendricks, in addition to Titans teammate Matt Dickerson, his former teammate at UCLA.

One of his missions is to improve his stamina, so he'll be able to do even more.

"Just being able to just go hard and full speed every play when I am on the field," Brown said. "It just gives me the ability to make more plays and keep longer focus."

More than anything, Brown just wants to keep getting better.

He's already looking forward to Year 3.

"I just want to keep getting better and improving on my skills and each and every weekend I want to help the defense," he said. "I just want to keep doing me. Keep on doing what I do in this defense, and keep making plays and being a great teammate to my guys in the locker room.

"And hopefully we can keep winning games and this year get back in the playoffs."

STATUS SYMBOL: TITAN KEVIN BYARD'S CONTRACT IS MAKING PEOPLE TAKE NOTICE

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
NASHVILLE SCENE
AUGUST 22, 2019

The MTSU grad from humble beginnings has fought hard to get where he is — but that's not the end of his story

Well-deserved.

Last month as teammates and others reacted to Kevin Byard's record-setting contract extension with the Tennessee Titans, the same sentiment was expressed over and over again — this was well-deserved.

A five-year, $70.5 million pact is something unimaginable to many, based solely on the numbers — Byard will earn close to an average of $1 million per game over the course of the contract. Others might question the sanity of franchise officials who signed off on such a deal. There are those who certainly will see green in one manner of speaking (a desire to cash in on another's success), but seemingly no one was green with envy.

Good luck finding anyone anywhere to question whether Byard, a 26-year-old safety out of Middle Tennessee State University, toiled hard for the sizable stack of money he will earn beginning with the 2020 season, or whether he should have been rewarded for all he did to get to this point in his life and his career.

Never has he benefited merely from his reputation. Byard has always fought to be noticed — and has performed in a way that he can't be ignored. Somehow he never complained or wallowed in self-pity. Every step of the way, the only thing he knew to do was work harder.

With the 2019 NFL season set to open in two weeks, a guy who has been overlooked for virtually all of his football life — which dates back to when he was 8 years old — is suddenly the player his teammates look to as an example. He's an example of what is possible, and the one his fellow Titans see as the standard for professional conduct. Names like Mariota, Lewan and Henry are better-known, but Kevin Byard is now the face of a franchise that constantly fights for recognition amid 31 other franchises — many of which are in bigger media markets, and nearly all of which have been rooted in their current homes much longer than the Titans have been in Tennessee.

"That was definitely well-deserved by K.B.," says wide receiver Corey Davis. "He's a phenomenal player. He's a great dude. And he comes to work every single day."

Byard himself heard the same thing many times on the day he put pen to paper (July 25) and those that followed. There is no reason for him or anyone else to think it's hollow praise rather than genuine respect.

After all, Byard wasn't a high school phenom awash in scholarship offers. He didn't play college football at a school that routinely sends players to the professional game, and NFL scouts weren't overly impressed by his body of work during his college days. He didn't enter the league with any sort of guarantee that he'd one day be in this situation. Yet here he is.

"The main thing a lot of guys have been saying is it's well-deserved," says Byard. "It makes me feel good to know that my hard work [paid off] and they're seeing it. But I want to continue to do it. That's the main thing: You see a big number — you see a big contract, but my whole mindset is, 'I'm going to earn every single dollar, every single penny.' ...

"Really, nothing's changed but the change."

It sounds nice, but the reality is that much is different now.

This season, Byard will play out the four-year contract he signed as a rookie. But beginning in 2020, he will earn an average annual salary of $15.1 million, the highest of anyone who plays his position. It will make him one of the highest-paid players among the Titans, a team that has increasingly handed out some sizable contracts in its three-plus seasons under current general manager Jon Robinson and his staff.

With money comes status. It's true in the NFL as it is in pretty much any walk of life — and status is something Byard has rarely known, and certainly hasn't enjoyed for any extended period of time.

"There's a lot of guys in that locker room that work hard, that show up, that were probably told at some point in their football careers that they couldn't do something, and they've overcome those odds, and they're on an NFL roster," says Robinson. "[Byard] has earned everything he's gotten, and we're proud he's a Titan. … To have him in a Titans uniform for several years to come was pretty important."

Byard was a standout player at Martin Luther King High School in Lithonia, Ga., and a Class 5A all-state selection as a senior. But college recruiting services rated him as a two-star prospect (on a scale of five), which did not exactly open doors to a lot of the top programs. There was some interest from Kentucky, but no scholarship offer.

Byard ultimately made his way to MTSU, where — after a redshirt season — he was a four-year starter at safety and set program records for interceptions, interception return yards and touchdowns on interception returns. He also ranks among the top 10 in career tackles.

It was enough to earn Byard an invitation to the 2016 Senior Bowl, where he more than held his own against players from more prominent programs. Several outlets that reported on the events of that week identified Byard as a player who had greatly improved his prospects for the draft, yet inexplicably the NFL didn't invite him to its annual scouting combine in Indianapolis — a snub that suggested he might not get drafted at all.

But the Titans called Byard's name on the second day of the 2016 NFL Draft, a three-day affair. He was the 64th overall choice among the 253 players selected that year. It was a satisfying result, but one that also motivated him to live up to — if not surpass — the expectations that came with his draft position. In 2018, during Byard's second season in the NFL, he tied for the league lead in interceptions, and earned All-Pro and Pro Bowl recognition. More than a year later, the money followed.

"Being in my dorm room or my student apartment down at Middle Tennessee, I honestly never imagined I could be in this position," Byard says. "Don't get me wrong — I prayed for it, for sure, and I sat there and I envisioned it. But to see it happen and see this moment come to fruition, it's just a testament to hard work. It's a testament to, honestly, just believing in yourself and staying humble and understanding to keep working, keep working — keep your head down and everything will work itself out."

Of course, even at the pinnacle of his athletic success (to date), Byard had at least one doubter. Months after the 2018 season, he attracted attention when he got into a Twitter spat with Deion Sanders, a Pro Football Hall of Fame member and current television analyst who didn't mention Byard as someone he thought was one of the NFL's best current safeties. The most maddening part? Sanders' response to Byard's protest suggested that the former assumed the latter was a fan, not a player — let alone a player who believed he belonged in the discussion.

These days, Byard politely declines to discuss the back-and-forth. He is quick to recognize Sanders' place in the history of the game and notes that he ultimately would like to accomplish as much, or close to it, in his own right.

"You play this game long enough, you're going to be able to do a lot of things that other people can't," says Titans coach Mike Vrabel. "But it's about coming to work every day, staying consistent in that attitude and your desire to improve. Your leadership can't change because you got a couple extra zeros at the end of your paycheck."

But Byard's salary and reputation aren't the only things expanding. Somewhere around the start of the season, he and his wife Clarke will welcome their first child. It promises to be a significant life moment, particularly for someone like Byard, one of the oldest of seven children whose parents divorced when he was in high school. The time spent wrangling his younger siblings while his mother, who had custody of the children, was at work helped hone his sense of responsibility and the idea that there is always work to be done — even when it seems like everything is in place.

Byard now has the accomplishments and the contract that will have a locker room full of professional athletes looking to him for guidance and inspiration. Before long, there will be a tiny person in this world counting on him for everything.

Money. Responsibility. Expectations. Those are things that change many people, often not for the better. The contract, Byard acknowledges, means he will encounter people with their hands out — and not with the offer of a congratulatory handshake. Having an infant at home will mean sleepless nights throughout the coming season. The professional standard he has set on the field only means that coaches, teammates and fans will expect even more.

Byard seems uniquely equipped to handle it all. He's never traveled on Easy Street. Whatever challenges he faces in the coming weeks, months and years — on and off the field — his instinct will be to work harder to make it right.

"[We're] just really proud of certainly the player he is on the field, but more importantly the person he is in this community, the husband he is, and the soon-to-be father he will be," Robinson says. "Nothing here is given. Everything here is earned.

"He came in as a rookie and was a special teams player, and a role player defensively. Earned a starting spot second year, was a starter and a Pro Bowl player, and then last year really matured, became more of a vocal presence for us, and still a really good playmaker back there."

Not many people — who Byard knows, at least — thought he could do it. That includes college recruiters and NFL scouts. Doubters and detractors were with him every step of the way, but he never carried their skepticism with him. Few told him he could do it. Yet here he is, the NFL's highest-paid safety with seemingly the majority of his career still in front of him. That's a lot of time to add to everything he has already accomplished and to further convince those who were unconvinced at so many points along the way.

Byard, however, doesn't seem to plan on saying, "I told you so." He's got more of an "I knew I could" mentality, because that was the internal dialogue he maintained every step of the way. To look back at those who doubted is to miss the view on the way up.

These days, he gets to see a whole lot of things from an entirely different perspective.

"Coming from humble beginnings, every next step for me was a blessing," Byard says. "I always looked at it like a blessing. So I never really looked at it like, 'Oh, they doubted me.' … Most success stories you hear, it's always a humble beginning. You always hear that people go through different tests and trials, and I understand that when you're trying to make it to a great destination that you have to go through tests and trials. The road is not going to be straight, it's going to be crooked. So I always understood that, and I kept working.

"This is not the end, where just because I signed my contract this is where it's all downhill. No. My whole mentality is to keep elevating, to keep going higher and higher."

It's the only direction he knows.

TITANS SAFETY KEVIN BYARD GIVES BACK TO COMMUNITY WITH FREE FOOTBALL CAMP

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 12, 2019

NASHVILLE – As a youngster, Kevin Byard never had an opportunity to attend a football camp.

When the Titans safety embarked on his NFL career, Byard set a number of goals for himself on and off the field.

Among them: Byard wanted to host his own camp, for kids.

On Friday night, Byard's dream became a reality as 200-plus youngsters turned out for the first annual Kevin Byard Football Camp and Ensworth School.

"That's something I always envisioned when I first got into the NFL -- I wanted to throw a football camp," Byard said. "To be able to throw it in Nashville in a community that loves me and I love them as well, it's just a beautiful thing all around."

Byard smiled when he looked down at the camp's t-shirt, featuring an image of his end zone interception in a Monday Night Football game at Dallas last season.

He also smiled as he encouraged kids in drills, rooting them on.

Several of Byard's teammates – defensive lineman Jurrell Casey, cornerback Logan Ryan, cornerback Malcolm Butler, cornerback Joshua Kalu, cornerback Tye Smith and cornerback Kenneth Durden – showed up to help run drills.

Byard's personal trainer, Jason Spray, told campers about the young Kevin Byard he first met when he was the strength and conditioning coach at MTSU. Years later, Byard is heading into his 4th NFL season, with a Pro Bowl appearance, an All-Pro selection and 12 career NFL interceptions already among his accomplishments.

"His work ethic from when he was 18 years old to where he is today has never changed," Spray said of Byard. "He is a true self-made guy and that's why he is where he is."

Byard talked to the kids about the importance of hard work, before watching them work.

"No matter what circumstances you come from -- if it's good, poor, rich, you can accomplish anything you set your mind to," Byard said. "Just to see these kids running around, the smiles on their faces, it does everything for me."

Byard said he plans to hold the camp - which was free -- every year.

He promised even bigger and better things ahead.

"This is an unbelievable experience," Byard said. "It means everything to me, from the bottom of my heart. It is an incredible response from the community, the kids. People came from Memphis, my family came from Philadelphia, for this. It's awesome."

TITANS' KEVIN BYARD, KENNY VACCARO TRAINING WITH SOME OF NFL'S BEST DBS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JULY 12, 2019

You can't pass up working with talent like this.

Tennessee Titans safeties Kevin Byard and Kenny Vaccaro and CB Joshua Kalu traveled to Austin, Texas, to meet up with other players for what they're calling "DB Week." The group includes some of the league's top defensive backs: Ravens safety Earl Thomas, Chargers safety Derwin James, Redskins safety Landon Collins, Colts safety Malik Hooker, Cardinals safeties Budda Baker and Deionte Thompson and Lions CB Quandre Diggs.

Vaccaro, Diggs and Thomas played for the University of Texas, right by where the defensive backs have been training all week. The group arrived on Monday and started working with performance coach Jeremy Hills -- a former Texas running back who put the group through a series of grueling workouts in a sandpit, on the field and in the weight room. They also incorporated an intense Pilates workout for recovery.

DB Week is a great opportunity for elite players to come together and push each other and take their training to another level. Byard didn't get to attend last year's workouts because he had something bigger on his hands: He got married. But he was excited to meet with the group this year.

"The kind of work that we are doing down here, a lot of guys aren't working like this ... two-a-days every day," Byard said. "Seeing how these guys have worked so hard to maintain an All-Pro level for so many years, that's the main thing I got from this so far. I am working out with guys like Earl Thomas. We have so many great safeties here, some elite players. These guys are out here going to work. It's the work ethic."

College teammates Thomas and Vaccaro got together in Austin to train with other safeties before, but they decided to expand things this year to include other defensive backs. This year's group even had a weight room session that included rookie defensive linemen Christian Wilkins (Miami Dolphins) and Charles Omenihu (Houston Texans).

The players will wrap up the week this Saturday with a "Bowl with the Pros" charity event.

KEVIN BYARD IS STILL THE NFL'S BEST-KEPT SECRET

BY ANDY BENOIT
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
MAY 28, 2019

NASHVILLE — Kevin Byard plays an often-overlooked position in an relatively small market and hails from a college program most casual football fans have never seen live. So it's fitting that the most famous moment of his career was when a prominent TV personality didn't know who he was.

A few months after Byard received his 2017 first-team All-Pro honor, he tweeted at NFL-legend-turned-TV-star Deion Sanders, questioning how Sanders could name Tyrann Mathieu the game's best safety and "not include the two first-team AP All Pro safeties" (the other 2017 All-Pro safety was Minnesota's Harrison Smith). Upon firing back, Sanders referred to Byard as "a fan," a past great failing to recognize one of football's current greats.

"[Byard is] probably the most complete safety I've played with," says fellow Titans safety Kenny Vaccaro, who quickly follows with an homage to a college teammate, "[future] Hall of Famer" Earl Thomas. "But Kevin Byard, as far as in the box, man coverage, ball skills back deep, he's probably the best I've played with."

Last season, Byard's numbers dipped from eight interceptions to four, 16 passes defensed to eight, and two fumble recoveries to none. He missed out on the 2018 All-Pro team. But the decline in numbers is further evidence that stats—especially for a safety—are finicky. Most football people, especially within the Titans building, believe Byard was better in 2018, and by a significant margin.

"He was," says Titans cornerback Logan Ryan. "You're not going to get eight interceptions every year … Plus, when you go All-Pro, offenses then know who you are and they're going to try to find ways to factor you out. I talked to guys who played us this year, they said, 'We saw Byard back there [in centerfield], we were not throwing anything deep. We're going to go [to an empty formation] and throw quick game, you have too good a free safety.'"

Indianapolis Colts v Tennessee Titans

Taking Byard out of games is difficult because he's so much more than just a free safety. "Kevin, to me, is like a younger Eric Berry," Ryan says. "He's the best openfield tackler of our safeties, he covers man-to-man if we're facing the best tight ends. He has the most interceptions out of centerfield. And he's smart on a level that lets us communicate and change blitzes. And he is becoming a better blitzer. He was doing all that by Year 2 in his career."

Byard took it to another level in Year 3 when the Titans overhauled their defensive approach, replacing previous coordinator Dick LeBeau's system with a mix of new head coach Mike Vrabel's scheme from Houston and defensive coordinator Dean Pees's scheme from Baltimore—two of football's most complex schemes to begin with. Titans defensive backs are quick to point out that their secondary, in terms of coverages, disguises and especially blitzes, does more schematically than any in the league. There are two keys: 1) corners like Ryan, Malcom Butler (expensive free agents), and Adoree' Jackson (first-round pick) who can each play man or zone and, 2) versatile safeties like Vaccaro and especially Byard.

"I pride myself on being able to play deep, being able to come in the box and play good run defense, being able to blitz," Byard says. "And having the versatility to play the slot and cover tight ends—that's one thing you don't see a lot of safeties do consistently."

Byard laughs when asked if he sent his agent, David Mulugheta, a gift basket back in March. Mulugheta also represents former Giant Landon Collins, who signed a six-year, $84 million deal ($44.5M guaranteed) in Washington, raising the high-water mark for guaranteed money in a safety's contract by a staggering 11.25 percent.

"Going into this offseason, I didn't know the safety market was going to jump up that high," Byard says. "So it's like, 'Ah man, that's super good'—especially for Landon, [new Raven] Earl Thomas, those boys deserve it. I was definitely excited."

His teammates leave no doubt as to whether they think Byard deserves it. "As far as being able to do everything, Kevin is the best safety in the league," Vaccaro reiterates, adding that Byard should be the highest-paid at his position. "And when you're paying Kevin, you're paying a leader, you're paying a good father, you're paying a great teammate."

Adds Ryan: "He's always thanking his teammates. He wants a new contract and that's going to probably have to wait, and I think he's handling that very well. He's here [in the offseason program], he's being a leader, he's even helping out potential replacements. His attitude is, 'Whatever man, at the end of the day I'm going to be a good teammate.' That's where we have a special group [in this secondary]. It's not built to last forever, obviously. Contract-wise, you can't keep paying everyone forever. But we're excited for this year, it's maybe our last run."

Indeed. Ryan himself is in the final year of his deal. And Malcolm Butler, one figures, could be on the outs in 2020 if he has another up and down season. (According to OverTheCap.com, the Titans can tear up his pricey contract for a $7.6M cap savings in 2020.) As for Byard? "I'm taking it day by day," he says. "I understand it's a business. It can go either way. They can pay this offseason, they can play this year out and try to franchise me—I try to just keep my mind off that stuff because I feel like it can almost drive you crazy."

Watching film with Byard, it's easy to understand how he has become such a versatile ball hawk. Besides strong playing speed and fluid change-of-direction prowess, he understands the game from a quarterback's perspective.

In Week 1 against the Dolphins, he made one of last season's most impressive pass breakups from centerfield, swatting away a deep shot to speed-receiver Jakeem Grant. "I wish I could have one-hand picked it," he says with authentic ruefulness as the film rolls. "One thing I learned about playing [centerfield] is if the quarterback's shoulders open, say to the right, then that quarterback is not getting back to the left. If the quarterback is going to throw to the left, at the top of his drop, his shoulders would be more squared. So I could immediately feel this throw, and as soon as I saw the QB take that hitch step, I just turned and went. It helped that I was already anticipating it, knowing that at that time of the game the Dolphins needed a big play, and that [Jakeem] Grant runs nothing except stop routes and Go balls."

Watching his interception against Eli Manning in Week 15, he talked about the importance of a free defender in two-deep man coverage getting 22 yards from the line of scrimmage after the snap, which he says is the perfect landmark for defending any route. "Every third down in this game they kept throwing this 'sail' route concept, so I was already anticipating this one. As soon as I saw the receiver break out, I just took off because Eli Manning just kept throwing that ball. I don't know why he threw this one, he definitely didn't read it right."

On another snap, Byard perfectly disguised a blitz, creating a sack opportunity for someone else—something, teammates note, he does regularly. "One thing that I learned more from Dean Pees is understanding how offensive lines block and make their calls," Byard says. "That's how we'd like to manipulate guys with our disguises." Ryan raved about this with Byard, citing it as the biggest reason Titans had more sacks by defensive backs (9) than any team last year. "Stats and Pro Football Focus equate to what you do individually, but they don't show what you sacrifice for your teammates," he says.

Byard's football IQ, you could say, launched his NFL career. Incredibly, he was not invited to the 2016 combine. A four-year starter at Middle Tennessee State (located just 30 minutes from Titans headquarters), he performed well at the Senior Bowl, the highlight being an interception against Jacoby Brissett in practice. But while fellow Senior Bowlers would talk about their combine invites, Byard was left out and baffled as to why. "I didn't understand why I wasn't getting an invite," he says. "Nobody really gave me an answer. My college numbers were off the charts. I broke pretty much every school record: 19 interceptions, four pick-sixes, 300-plus tackles, a bunch of different stats. Maybe because I was a small-school guy, but I was still accomplished at a D-I program."

Of course, Byard wasn't going completely unnoticed. In the early 2000s, Titans general manager Jon Robinson coached at Nicholls State where one of his players was Steve Ellis, Middle Tennessee's defensive coordinator while Byard was at MTSU. "Steve raved about Kevin," Robinson says. Steve would text Robinson updates on Byard every few weeks, and eventually Robinson put on Byard's film. "He was a willing tackler and extremely productive on the ball. I think he had 19 interceptions in college. You don't just stumble into 19 picks, whether it's college, pro, high school, whatever."

Byard discovered a silver lining to his combine snub: More personal visits with teams. "I ended up taking, like, 12 visits. I was able to have some real personal time with those teams' GMs. I was able to sit down with DB coaches and watch film, talk ball."

Byard's agent, Mulugheta, told him he was being talked about as, at best, a fourth-round pick and, at worst, a seventh-rounder. "That's not that good," Byard remembers thinking. "But after my first week of visits, my agent was like, 'I don't know what you're doing on these visits man, but you're starting to climb up draft boards.'"

That included the Titans'. And so days before the draft, their entire brass caravanned over to Middle Tennessee State. "It was three or four to a vehicle," Robinson recalls. "I drove and, I think, Dick LeBeau drove. We got there and Kevin was sitting in the film room waiting for us. He had everything lined up and was ready to roll."

They had no idea that Byard had to be coaxed into taking the meeting.

"I was taking my last visit, it was in Miami. On these visits they're wining and dining you," he says. "You're eating steak almost every night. So I'm not really in good shape. I get a call down there in Miami from my agent. He said, 'Listen, the Titans want to work you out.' This was like a week before the draft, I'd been on the road for two straight weeks. I said, 'I'm not doing any more workouts, I'm done.'"

Other than sending a defensive assistant coach to Middle Tennessee State's pro day, the Titans had had no contact with Byard. But shortly after the call, Mulugheta phoned again telling his client he needed to do the workout because the Titans were sending all of their big wigs and pertinent defensive coaches.

The on-field portion lasted about 10 minutes; the rest of the session was spent in the film room and at the whiteboard. The Titans had Byard take them through MTSU's game against Alabama, Byard narrating all the calls and assignments. The Titans also installed portions of their own defense and tested Byard's comprehension. "He nailed every call, you could see that he was a very cerebral player," Robinson says.

"I'll never forget," Byard says with a grin, "Dick LeBeau was like, 'This is the best meeting I've had with any DB [in that year's draft process].'" Byard had wowed coaches in other meetings. They'd ask him to draw his favorite coverages and defensive plays and when he did, he'd include all 11 defenders, clear down to what specific alignments the defensive linemen were in. He didn't realize how unusual that was.

And so the Titans took Byard with the first pick in the third round after rejecting offers to trade down. After the pick, "I got a couple of calls from teams that were trying to trade up with us," Robinson remembers. "And they said, 'You just took the guy that we were going to take.'"

Robinson's next decision on Byard will be even bigger. The franchise tag for a safety is projected to cost over $13 million. A long-term deal could cost in the realm of $50 million guaranteed. Fortunately for the Titans, Byard is content to play out the final year of his rookie deal, which pays just over $2 million—greener pastures await. In the meantime, did he ever hear again from Deion Sanders?

"No, of course not," Byard says. "I wasn't really expecting to, though. He's a legend, he doesn't really have to respond. If anything, he probably feels like, 'Hey, I'm giving this kid clout by responding.' I just left it alone. He probably just made an honest mistake, he probably really didn't know [who I was]. We're a small-market team, we don't get a lot of prime-time TV games, so he might not know. But if you work at NFL Network you should probably know who the All-Pros are. But it's TV, man, people pick their favorites."

Byard continues: "If you look up Deion's stats, he was the Truth. That's why I kind of just looked at [his tweet] like, 'Man, he's OG, a legend, I'll leave it up to him.' I felt like it would have been manning-up if he had just reached out to me, but he doesn't have to. I'm trying to get that gold jacket like he has—if I get that gold jacket, then I'll be able to say something to him."

TITANS SAFETY KEVIN BYARD ON NEW CONTRACT: "NOTHING HAS CHANGED BUT THE CHANGE"

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JULY 26, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans safety Kevin Byard strolled out the door at Saint Thomas Sports Park wearing a black t-shirt shirt with the words: "PRAYED FOR THIS" across the front.

A night earlier, Byard had agreed to a whopping new contract with the team, which gives him security on and off the field.

"I want to start everything off, first and foremost, by thanking the most high power," Byard told reporters. "Without Him, none of this would be possible."

Byard then thanked Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk, General Manager Jon Robinson, head coach Mike Vrabel, his teammates, and his family.

A third-round draft pick by the Titans in 2016, Byard reflected on how far he's come. But he also made it clear he plans to keep improving and "it's just the beginning."

"From the humble beginnings I come from, being in my dorm room or my student apartment at Middle Tennessee, I never could have imagined I'd be in this situation," Byard said. "Don't get me wrong: I prayed for it for sure, and I sat there and I envisioned it. But to see it happen and see this moment come to fruition, it is a testament of hard work. And it is a testament in believing in yourself and staying humble and understanding: 'Keep working, keep working and keep your head down and everything will work itself out. It's a blessing for sure."

@jwyattsports

.@Titans safety @KB31_Era gives thanks

Byard, who has 12 interceptions in the past two seasons, is considered one of the NFL's best safeties, and he'll now be paid like one.

Byard was named to the Pro Bowl in 2017, when he racked up eight interceptions and led the NFL in takeaways. He was also named All-Pro that season.

Byard had 96 tackles, four interceptions and two sacks in 2018. In three seasons, Byard has 246 tackles with 12 interceptions and 10 quarterback pressures.

Byard, whose contract was initially scheduled to expire after the 2019 season, smiled and said his teammates joked with him and congratulated him after learning of his deal.

@jwyattsports

.@Titans GM Jon Robinson on rewarding @KB31_Era with the long term deal: He earned it.

"The main thing that a lot of guys have been saying is it's well deserved," Byard said. "But I want to continue to do it. That's the main thing – you see a big number and you see a big contract and my whole mindset is: I am going to earn every single dollar, every single penny. I am going to go out there and earn it for Jon and for Amy for believing in me, and I am going to keep on doing what I have been doing, which is staying humble.

"Really, nothing has changed but the change."

TITANS D-LINEMAN JURRELL CASEY AIMS TO BE BIGGER, STRONGER IN 2019

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 17, 2019

NASHVILLE – As Titans defensive lineman Jurrell Casey prepares for his ninth NFL season, he's looking at himself and at those around him.

Casey's personal offseason priority is to get bigger, and stronger – and it's working.

Speaking on the Titans Caravan recently, Casey said he weighed in at 284 pounds the other day. He'd love to play at 290 pounds this fall, but knows it could be a challenge based on the rigors of the season. But he already feels stronger than he did in the fall, when his weight dipped to 275 pounds – his lowest playing weight in the NFL.

He's adjusted his diet and training regiment in time to help.

"I want to be a little bit stronger," Casey said, "and a little bit stouter to help the overall team as a whole."

Casey said another focus is on the big picture of the defense.

"The biggest thing is really getting to know the guys around you, getting to know what their jobs are, getting to know their assignments," Casey said. "If you understand what the guys next to you are doing, and what is coming beforehand, it makes your game go to another level and I think that is what this season is going to be about – understanding what my safeties are doing, what my corners are doing, understanding where the blitz is coming from beforehand. If you do that while understanding what you can do, it can take your game to another level and you can play 10 times faster."

Casey finished the 2018 season with 72 tackles, a whopping 50 quarterback pressures, and a team-high seven sacks.

In the midst of the team's four-game winning streak, Casey suffered a knee injury in the team's December 22 win against the Redskins, and it robbed him of a chance to play in the season finale vs. the Colts, a game with playoff implications. The Titans lost that contest against Indianapolis, and their season ended short of the playoffs, and their Super Bowl dream.

Earlier this offseason, Casey told Titans Online the memory of that game – and being forced to be a spectator -- will motivate him heading into 2019.

"It was definitely hard – very tough for me," Casey said. "I probably cried the first couple of nights. I know it wasn't too bad of a crazy injury, but just to know that I wasn't able to help my team the following week, couldn't participate in one of the biggest games of my career with my teammates, it hurt. It hurt me bad.

"But at the end of the day I have to get ready for another season. I have to chuck that behind me and get ready to go."

Casey said he's feeling good now.

He spent a lot of time rehabbing, and he's working to be in the best condition of his playing career while also getting stronger. After being on a Vegan diet, he's switched to a Pescatarian diet to get extra protein, but is still on a plant-based diet.

Casey said he's looking forward to 2019, and being led by head coach Mike Vrabel and defensive coordinator Dean Pees.

"The biggest thing I'm looking at is trying to make it the playoffs, and trying to get to the Hall of Fame," said Casey, a four-time Pro Bowl selection who has 611 career tackles and 46 career sacks. "I have been to the playoffs one time since I've been here. Our team has been good, winning nine games three years in a row. But we have to take it to another level. And I want to do my part to help get us there.

"We have a coach who understands football and understands how players should play. He's putting is in great situations, and with two great defensive minds in Vrabel and Pees, we could be unstoppable on defense."

JURRELL CASEY NAMED TITANS WALTER PAYTON MAN OF THE YEAR

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 6, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- As a youngster growing up in California, Titans defensive lineman Jurrell Casey remembers how his mother always welcomed his friends, and others in the neighborhood.

It made a lasting impression on him.

"My mom taught me to always give back to others," Casey said. "My mom was one of those people where if my friends were hanging out, she made sure she made enough dinner for everybody. It wasn't like, 'It's dinner time, so you have to go home.' If you were around my house, she made enough for everybody.

"But it was more than just that. My mom has always been a big-hearted person, and that's something that rubbed off on me."

Casey is the 2018 Titans recipient of the Walter Payton Man of the Year award.

Casey is now a finalist for the league-wide 2018 Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award that will be awarded during the upcoming Super Bowl week. This prestigious NFL award has been in existence since 1970 and it honors players who demonstrate outstanding balance in their lives between civic and professional responsibilities. In 1999, the NFL renamed the award after the late Walter Payton as a tribute to his greatness, both on and off the field.

A 2011 draft pick by the Titans, Casey credited the two women in his life – mom Collette Burns, and wife Ryann Gray – for inspiring him, and pushing him to help others.

"And that's the biggest thing about it – when you have a wife that encourages you, and pushes you to continue to do better, it inspires you," Casey said. "And being around her and her family – her mom is one of the most thoughtful and thankful people I've ever met in my life. I've been around some great, strong women."

A three-time Pro Bowler on the field, Casey has been a giant off the field as well during his time in Nashville. He was also the team's Walter Payton Man of the Year in 2016 for his work in the community. He's been a captain five years in a row.

Included in Casey's work:

• Along with his wife Ryann, the Caseys established the Casey Fund, a nonprofit dedicated to addressing the needs of at-risk youth as well as formerly incarcerated individuals by raising money for re-entry programs, inner-city youth programs, mentoring, and halfway houses.

• Works closely with Project Return, a local non-profit dedicated to the successful new beginnings of individuals returning to the community after incarceration

• Supports Purpose Prep Academy as host of their annual fundraiser along with attending career fairs and hosting school supply giveaways for the scholars

• Partners with Free Hearts to coordinate special experiences for children with incarcerated parents

• The Caseys serve as chairs of the Rally Foundation's Rally on the Runway 2018, an event that raises funds for childhood cancer research

• Partners with the Starlight Foundation, a non -profit dedicated to bringing joy and comfort to hospitalized children and their families, by designing a custom hospital gown and pledging to donate $999 to Starlight for each sack during the 2018 season

• Serves as spokesperson for United Way of Metropolitan Nashville

• Hosts free summer football camps for youth offensive and defensive linemen in Nashville and Long Beach

• Recognized by You Have the Power as the 2017 Powerhouse Award winner for his continued efforts to empower and encourage local youth

• Supported local students by hosting a "Shop with a Titan" event to provide school supplies

• Selected as the Tennessee Titans Walter Payton Man of the Year in 2016

Casey also helped spearhead the launch of the team's We Stand For campaign this season, which provides a platform for players to foster positive dialogue around their community work and raise awareness and funds for certain charities and causes.

Growing up in a minority area outside Los Angeles, Casey was exposed at an early age to the effects a lack of resources can have on a community. It's this experience that drives Casey's commitment to his community and leveling the playing field for people in need.

"(Jurrell) does a good job to try and motivate everybody to be better in the community," said Titans linebacker Wesley Woodyard, the team's 2017 Walter Payton Man of the Year recipient. "It is bigger than football with him, and he realizes that. I think him and his wife also realize how they can make an impact in the community. It is good that he is grinding like that, and you remember that it is always bigger than football."

Casey said he's honored to be chosen.

He again credited his wife, mother, and his teammates.

The winner of the award each year receives $250,000 donated to United Way in his name to expand Character Playbook across the country and up to $250,000 donated to the winner's charity of choice.

All other 31 nominees will receive a $50,000 donation in their name to expand Character Playbook and up to $50,000 donated to their charity of choice. All donations are courtesy of the NFL Foundation, Nationwide and United Way Worldwide.

"It is definitely a blessing," Casey said. "It just shows the hard work and the dedication that I've continued to do off the field. It makes me feel good for people to see me want to give back to the community.

"I think the biggest thing for me is understanding the world, understanding society. Growing up, understanding that everybody is going through a struggle, everybody is needing help. And my mindset was if I was ever in a position to do so, no matter what position I was in, if you have a chance to give back then you should do it."

JURRELL CASEY: INSPIRED BY HIS BROTHER, HE OFFERS OTHERS A FRESH START

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
DECEMBER 10, 2018

Jurrell Casey never bought the guilty verdict that sent his older brother to prison for first-degree murder in 2007.

There seemed to be too many holes in the prosecution's argument.

Sure, Jurray Casey had been driving three of his friends through Culver City, Calif., in the early morning hours of Jan. 8, 2006, when someone in the car fired shots that killed Rashad Ali — a passenger in another vehicle.

But where was the definitive proof Jurray had done the shooting?

How was it that none of Jurray's three companions was sentenced to a single day in prison?

Jurrell Casey believed — as did many others — that his brother took the rap for a friend, winding up with a prison sentence of 25 years to life.

Hard as it was to look ahead at the time, Casey realized that — one day — his brother would return to society from Calipatria State Prison in California.

That started Casey thinking: How difficult is the challenge of resuming one's life after spending decades behind bars? How do ex-cons start again, when they have virtually nothing from which to draw?

Those were the seeds that led Casey, the Titans' three-time Pro Bowl defensive tackle, to invest so much time, effort and money in a nonprofit organization called Project Return. It's dedicated to the successful new beginnings of individuals returning to the community after incarceration — and to lowering a recidivism rate that sees so many wind up back in jail.

Project Return's current focus is developing housing for those who've left prison.

"It's just something that was needed," Casey said. "It's for felons because sometime they can't go into certain neighborhoods. They can't transition back into certain places because landlords don't want them in their buildings. So Project Return is trying to find housing, and trying to buy up projects as much as they can to provide housing."

Investing himself in Project Return is merely one example of Casey's ongoing altruistic work in the community, which — combined with his ferocious play on the Titans' defensive line — makes him The Athletic Nashville's 2018 Person of the Year.

Casey and his wife, Ryann — a deputy public defender in Nashville — also run The Casey Fund, which addresses the needs of at-risk youth and the formerly incarcerated. Project Return serves as one of the organization's cornerstones.

Since its inception, The Casey Fund has funded and hosted dozens of events such as free football skills camps, Thanksgiving food drives and giveaways, back-to-school shopping events, career fairs and more.

This year, Casey has steered The Casey Fund into partnering with Starlight Foundation, a nonprofit dedicated to comforting hospitalized children by designing custom hospital gowns. In addition, Casey, who wears No. 99 on the football field, is donating $999 to Starlight for each sack that he records during the 2018 season.

"It was something I wanted to do and something that touched my heart a lot," Casey said. "This way, those kids in the hospital don't have to wake up to a little dingy gown every day — it's something to put more of a smile on their face. I thought it was something I could do, and that a sack could help thousands of kids get new gowns, so why not?"

The Casey Fund also is partnering with Free Hearts, an organization that offers support, education and advocacy for families affected by incarceration.

Once again aiding a cause that's become especially important to him, Casey soon will be throwing a Christmas party for kids who have parents in jail.

"He took that situation with his brother, and he turned it around into a positive thing, to help people when they come out of prison," said Casey's mother, Collette Burns, who still lives in Long Beach, Calif.

"Because they do need help. (People) always want to turn them down because they've been in prison or whatever the issue may be. But still, they are human and they do need some kind of foundation when they come home. So I'm really proud of him and his wife both on that."

Casey, 29, stays in touch with his older brother on a regular basis, more than happy to accept Jurray Casey's collect calls, his only form of electronic communication with the outside world.

They talk football and they talk life, with Jurray, 30, offering snippets of advice from Titans games he happens to see and Casey sharing updates on his new baby boy — 2-month-old Nolan.

At least a few times a year, Casey visits Jurray at the prison in Calipatria, a 300-acre complex in south-central California near the Mexican border. One of Casey's more recent visits, in March, was especially interesting. Jurray got married at the prison to an old high school friend.

"She'd been starting to visit him, coming to see him with my mom from week to week," Casey said.

"Sure enough, maybe a year later, they decided they wanted to get married. It was amazing how family and friends were able to come and show support. To see my brother happy was definitely a blast."

Separated by just two years, the two brothers had been close growing up, with Jurray serving as a protector for Casey, steering him clear of the kind of trouble that would follow Jurray.

Only weeks after then 17-year-old Jurray had accepted a football scholarship to Oregon, the lives of the brothers were changed forever on that January night in 2006.

It's unclear what exactly happened between two groups of teens driving in Culver City that night.

But for some reason — there were reports gang signs were exchanged between the two vehicles — Jurray's car made a U-turn and caught up to a pickup truck it had passed.

Someone in the Thunderbird opened fire with a 9 mm handgun, hitting Ali, also 17, who died later that day.

The Casey family acknowledges Jurray was driving the car that night but insists he was not the shooter.

"It was his (cousin's) car and he was driving, but I know that my son did not kill that person," Burns said in a 2015 interview with this reporter. "My son is in jail because he took a rap for someone else's crime that he didn't do. My son has had his name slandered and his career destroyed because nobody would step up in that car and tell what really happened."

The Casey brothers' high school football coach, Raul Lara, also expressed skepticism over the verdict when interviewed in 2015.

"I'll tell you this right now — myself and a whole bunch of people in the community know (Jurray) didn't do it," Lara said. "A lot of people in the community know who did it, and he's out there having fun while (Jurray) is still locked up. It's amazing to me that loyalty code — don't snitch and all that."

Jurray is scheduled to go in front of the parole board in 2020.

His mother and younger brother have been working on letters of support for Jurray, the kind he'll need when the board listens to his request for an early release. She's hopeful Jurray, who's served more than a decade of his sentence, will return to the family in a matter of years.

"I have no doubt in my mind that when he goes in front of the board that they're going to give him a release day," Burns said. "Because he's doing good up in there. He's staying out of the way and staying positive, doing what he's supposed to do. He's going to school, taking classes, all that. A lot of good things."

In the meantime, Casey is helping pave the way for not only his brother but also for hundreds like him who eventually will face a transition back to the outside world.

He's ably assisted in all his endeavors by Ryann, perhaps fitting since the two first met at the University of Southern California in a class called Adolescent Gang Prevention.

"Everything happens for a reason," Ryann said. "The situation with Jurrell's brother is definitely a really sad and negative situation from all accounts. But sometimes you kind of gain your influence through negative situations. So I'm super impressed by what Jurrell has done.

"If anything, this is going to come full circle. If Jurrell is able to help his brother to transition … Since he's helped a lot of other people, how awesome would it be to help your own family?"

TITANS' JACK CONKLIN: 'IT'S TIME TO PROVE TO EVERYBODY AGAIN WHO I AM AND WHAT I CAN DO'

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
JULY 27, 2019

Will Jack Conklin ever return to his 2016 form, when he was an All-Pro as a rookie with promise of more prestigious honors down the road?

That question has been asked since the Titans' right tackle suffered a torn ACL during a playoff game against the Patriots in January 2018.

Conklin has heard that noise. On one hand, he says it's motivation. On the other?

"I try not to think about it. I try to think about getting strong, getting healthy, getting back to my old self," Conklin said. "I know I can be an All-Pro offensive tackle and it's time to prove to everybody again who I am and what I can do."

He's got a long way to go to make believers out of the skeptics who watched him last season, but Friday was a good start.

After not doing much during minicamp, Conklin was a full participant at the first day of Titans training camp. On the second play of team drills, his pancake block prompted a few pats on the back.

"It feels good to be back running with these guys and be part of it," he said. "Anytime you're not doing something, it's tough. We're all competitive guys and to not be out there this spring was tough, but I'm happy that I'm back."

Conklin, the Titans' first-round pick in 2016, suffered another knee injury in Week 14 last year that forced him to miss the last three games of the season. Before that, he struggled to get back to the level at which he played before his ACL tear.

He had started all 16 games in each of his first two seasons.

"Feels better than it felt since before the surgery," Conklin said of his knee. "I'm feeling way more confident in it. I'm feeling like I can sit down and take on bull rush. I feel strong, my legs are stronger than before I tore my ACL. I'm feeling good. I couldn't be happier. I couldn't be feeling better than I am right now."

Marcus Mariota noticed it.

"He looks bigger, looks faster, looks stronger," Mariota said. "Says a lot about what he did this offseason and it's good to see it kind of come out here to practice."

Conklin was set to compete with Dennis Kelly for the starting right tackle position, but those plans have changed. With Taylor Lewan saying he's facing a four-game suspension to start the season, Kelly will be needed to fill in as the starting left tackle.

The 6-foot-6, 308-pound lineman said his big thing this offseason was working on pass blocking. He went to Arizona to work with LeCharles Bentley, a former NFL center and college star at Ohio State who owns a training facility geared toward offensive linemen.

"I was working with him just on that, just becoming my efficient with it," Conklin said. "With injuries and growing older in the league, people start to pick up on stuff and you've got to change. You've got to either adapt and make yourself more efficient or you're going along the wayside. Worked really hard on being more efficient, staying more square and I think it's going to really pay off."

CRUIKSHANK PERSONIFIES TITANS' PERSISTENCE ON SPECIAL TEAMS

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
DECEMBER 3, 2019

Dane Cruikshank wasted no time when it came to establish his credentials as a difference-maker on special teams.

In the second game of his career, the Tennessee Titans 2018 fifth-round pick scored a touchdown on a fake punt when he caught a pass and went 66 yards for a touchdown in a victory over the Houston Texans. He added two tackles in the kicking game that day and was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week.

Since then, the backup safety said he has tried not to waste a moment when he is on the field for a kick. His time to shine arrived once again Sunday at Indianapolis when he blocked a fourth-quarter field goal attempt. Backup cornerback Tye Smith gathered up the ball and went 63 yards for a go-ahead touchdown that sent Tennessee on its way to a 31-17 victory.

"We take special teams very seriously over here," Cruikshank said following the game. "Everybody takes advantage of their opportunities and I rose to the occasion (Sunday) and made the best of it."

Cruikshank's block was the fourth by the Titans (7-5) in their past four games and the second of the day against the Colts (6-6). Defensive lineman Austin Johnson got his hand on an earlier attempt, which made Tennessee the first NFL team in more than six years to block two kicks in the same game. The last to do it was the then-San Diego Chargers against Washington on Nov. 3, 2013.

They also blocked a game-winning field goal attempt by Kansas City and an extra-point attempt by Carolina, the latter by Cruikshank.

"Every week we look for ways to go affect the kick," coach Mike Vrabel said. "It really comes down to effort, not taking a play off. That's certainly been something that's helped us."

In addition to his blocked kicks, Cruikshank has made eight special teams tackles this season, which is tied for second on the team and matches his total from 2018 when he was fourth on the team in that regard.

As a member of the defense he has made just two tackles in 24 career games.

On special teams, though, he has proven versatile and invaluable. For example, last season he diagnosed a fake punt by Jacksonville and forced the ball carrier to LeShaun Sims, who made the tackle short of the first down. Cruikshank also took a reverse on the opening kickoff of the Week 17 showdown with Indianapolis and went 39 yards on his only return.

Now he has a blocked field goal to his credit as well, one that paid immediate and significant dividends in a game the Titans had to have.

"I knew our team was in a dogfight and I just wanted to make a play for my teammates," Cruikshank said. "I ended up being able to do that and, thankfully, (Smith) was able to pick it up and return it for a touchdown. So, it ended up being a great play for us."

TITANS WR COREY DAVIS AIMS TO TAKE HIS GAME TO EVEN GREATER HEIGHTS IN 2019

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 8, 2019

NASHVILLE – The game slowed down for Titans receiver Corey Davis in 2018, and he was able to play faster.

As a result, Davis doubled his production output, and became the team's top playmaker at the receiver position.

Now, he's looking to take things up a few more notches in 2019.

"Last year I was able to catch the rhythm, and was able to go out there and be confident, play fast," Davis said on Wednesday from the Titans Caravan. "Hopefully this year it slows down a lot more. I just have to keep working.

"I am excited to get back to it, back in the groove of things. … I feel healthy, I feel good going into the season, and just have to keep it that way."

Jim Wyatt

@jwyattsports

.@Titans receiver @TheCDavis84 said he wants to get better in every aspect of the game in 2019. #TitansCaravan.

Davis, the fifth overall pick of the 2017 NFL Draft, finished the 2018 season with 65 catches for 891 yards and four touchdowns. He caught the game-winning touchdown in overtime in the team's win over the Eagles, and he caught another game-winning touchdown pass in the team's win over the Jets.

Along the way, he developed even greater chemistry with quarterback Marcus Mariota.

"Me and Marcus, our chemistry is growing every day, and it's continuing to grow," Davis said. "Our job is to get open and catch the ball. ... Our chemistry is looking good and continuing to grow."

Since last season, the Titans have more weapons around Davis.

The Titans signed veteran Adam Humphries, and drafted A.J. Brown in the second round of the NFL Draft.

Davis likes the looks of Brown, the former Ole Miss receiver who will take part in the team's rookie minicamp over the weekend.

"I recently watched his highlight tape," Davis said of Brown. "I like his game -- he's a baller. He goes out there and gets the ball, so I am excited to work with him."

Davis knows tight end Delanie Walker's return will help the offense a well.

"I feel like it is going to help us out a lot obviously," Davis said of the new additions. "We have some weapons coming back from injury, and we've added some weapons. These dudes are going to go to work every single day. We added Humph, and he's a great complement to the room.

"Iron sharpens iron. These guys, they see things that I don't see. Humph sees something that he notices in my game and he'll correct it, and vice versa. A lot of these things, it's just us helping each other out and getting better."

Davis has also done his part to make sure he's healthy, and available.

Slowed by a hamstring injury during his rookie season, Davis has done a lot of preventative work with his hamstrings while training in Arizona. He's also worked on staying hydrated.

Davis has also recalled lessons he learned from veteran teammates Harry Douglas and Rishard Matthews earlier in his career. Davis credits the veteran for teaching him to be a pro.

Now, he wants to take his game to another level.

"Obviously I just want to get better at every aspect of the game – playing faster, (staying) healthy so I can go out there and help the team out," Davis said. "I want to get better at hands, routes, quickness, releases -- there's a lot of things I am working on this offseason and I'll continue to work at it.

"I am feeling good going into the season, healthy, and that's the main thing."

TITANS RECEIVER COREY DAVIS PUTTING ON SHOW IN TRAINING CAMP

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUGUST 2, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Titans left tackle Taylor Lewan turned to reporters on the sideline one day in training camp, telling them to note the one-handed catch just hauled in by Corey Davis.

The third-year wide receiver may have topped himself Thursday.

During a red zone drill, Davis leapt and stretched out his right arm to grab the ball by its point for an impressive touchdown.

That's exactly what the Titans, and Davis, want to see more of this season. The Titans keep reminding Davis to approach each ball in the air as his.

"There's a lot of times where we saw that, and there's times where we need to continue to see that," coach Mike Vrabel said. "He's trying to take that mindset that when it leaves a quarterback's hand, it's his ball and everybody thought he was throwing it way and Ryan (Tannehill) couldn't get enough steam on it to throw it away so Corey went up and made a play."

That's just one example of how well Davis has played in training camp, looking like the No. 1 receiver the Titans sought when drafting him at No. 5 overall in the 2017 draft. And it's also part of the consistency Davis wants to show this season.

"It's huge," Davis said. "That's one of the big things I want to come out here and work on is me being consistent, catch the ball consistently and have my teammates and coaches rely on me first, second and third down, so that's huge."

The first wide receiver drafted in 2017 struggled with a hamstring injury that cost him almost all of the preseason and five games that season. The 6-foot-3, 209-pound receiver followed up by leading the Titans with 65 catches for 891 yards in his second season.

Tennessee worked this offseason to stock up the receiving corps alongside Davis. General manager Jon Robinson signed veteran Adam Humphries and then drafted A.J. Brown out of Mississippi in the second round. The return of three-time Pro Bowl tight end Delanie Walker also is back from a season-ending injury.

Davis is in position to benefit most from the extra help. Despite the Titans ranking 29th averaging just 189.5 yards passing per game, Davis averaged 13.7 yards per reception last season — ninth-best in the NFL among players with at least 65 catches.

Assistant coach Rob Moore thinks Davis has grown from playing every game last season and from the extra attention from opposing defenses. Moore also believes Davis' confidence grew from his big plays in 2018, including an overtime TD catch to beat Philadelphia in his best game as a pro with nine catches for 161 yards.

"I think what you see with him is just the natural progression of the maturity in this league and him understanding how to be a pro," Moore said.

Davis spent lots of time this offseason working with a trainer. He has worked on his route running, getting in and out of his breaks and releasing at the top of his runs. He also spent time with Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota to sharpen their timing and chemistry.

Mariota has noticed improvement.

"His body language in and out of his routes has been impressive," Mariota said. "It makes it easy on us, he's creating separation. Again, he's had a countless number of plays — something that we've got to continue and hopefully build off of. Again, he's put in the time and the work, and I'm just excited for him."

WHY RASHAAN EVANS COULD EXPLODE IN YEAR 2 FOR THE TITANS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
MARCH 27, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- For much of his rookie season, Rashaan Evans wasn't himself.

A severe hamstring injury kept the Tennessee Titans linebacker sidelined for most of training camp last year. Even after he returned to the field, the injury robbed Evans for part of the season of his trademark speed to the ball carrier that he exhibited as a standout at Alabama.

He was injured while covering a tight end during the first week of training camp. The Titans were tight-lipped about the extent of Evans' hamstring injury as they slowly brought along their first-round pick, whom they traded up three spots to take last April. Evans was not activated until the second game of the season. Although he was able to learn the defense in the classroom, the rookie was hindered by not getting game reps.

"You can sit in front of a whiteboard and learn a lot of things, but it's a different type of thing when you are actually in the game," Evans said. "It took me a while to get on the field to experience the speed and where I fit in certain gaps. That's what I was missing from camp with my injury."

Evans had never dealt with a hamstring injury, and the biggest hurdle was learning to trust that he was fully recovered. Evans didn't want to further postpone realizing his NFL dream, so he took the field even though he wasn't sure if he would re-injure the hamstring. He ended up injuring the other hamstring in Week 3 against Jacksonville. The experience was a valuable lesson, teaching him how to be in better tune with his body.

"I didn't care how bad it hurt me, I wanted to get out there and play," Evans said. "That was a lifelong dream. A lot of people don't know that I pulled both hamstrings. I look back on it and don't regret it at all. It taught me how to play hurt.

"The fact that I have the experience and know how to operate and go about practice -- I know my limits and how to do certain things. I know my body a lot better now and how it reacts to certain things. Little stuff, like how much water I need to drink and even changing my diet. It'll be easier for me."

The first time Evans felt back to normal last season was in Week 6 during his seven-tackle performance against the Baltimore Ravens. His signature play of the season came in Week 14 when he shot into the backfield to tackle Jaguars running back Leonard Fournette on a fourth-and-goal from the 1-yard line. That play provided a glimpse of what's to come for Evans.

After finishing his rookie season with 53 tackles, two tackles for loss, and a QB hit, Evans is poised to break out in his second year in the league. His sideline-to-sideline speed makes him a key defender against the run. The Titans would also like to showcase Evans' edge-rushing ability. His best pass-rushing tool is a spin move that he says comes naturally to him. Don't be surprised to see him use a fake spin move as a counter. Head coach Mike Vrabel is quick to mention Evans when he discusses players on the roster who will get to rush the quarterback. That's music to Evans' ears.

"I am excited about that," Evans said. "It's how I started my career -- pass rushing. It's funny how it panned out. The majority of my high school career I played quarterback. I switched to defense and started rushing the passer towards the end of my career in high school. Then I did it more when I got to college and I started to fall more in love with it."

DO THE MATH: LONGSHOT PLUS HARVARD EDUCATION EQUALS BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR TITANS TIGHT END ANTHONY FIRKSER

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 13, 2018

When he takes the field Sunday during the Titans' home opener, tight end Anthony Firkser will be going where few of his kind have gone in the past.

But he'll also be heading down an increasingly well-traveled path.

If those statements sound as if they cancel one another out, let the story of Firkser — an undrafted free agent from Harvard with a penchant for problem-solving — help clear up things.

But first, his relevance:

Firkser and fellow tight ends Jonnu Smith, Luke Stocker and MyCole Pruitt have all been shoved into the spotlight over the past few days, tasked with helping to fill the gaping void left when Pro Bowler Delanie Walker was lost — likely for the season — in the Titans' opener.

Quarterback Marcus Mariota needs new targets, and the Titans — who use two tight ends in their base offense — can't completely overhaul the team's offensive scheme overnight.

"If somebody goes down in front of you, that means that the next gets more opportunity," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said.

It's the fact that Firkser may be one of those next men up, however, that's still an eye-opener, given his status as a longshot to make the team's 53-man roster only weeks ago.

How unlikely was he to stick?

In the long history of the Oilers/Titans franchise, dating all the way back to 1960, only one Harvard alum — current Tampa Bay quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick — has ever taken a regular-season snap for this team.

"We've never been known as a football factory," Firkser said with a smile.

But perhaps it's high time we all started paying more attention to Harvard's players, the school's tight ends in particular.

The last five to play the position for the Crimson are all on NFL rosters, meaning Firsker will be the latest in a lineage that reflects well on Harvard coach Tim Murphy's system.

"I tell our (tight ends) like Anthony in the very first meeting that you kids are like the Navy SEALS of our football team," Murphy said. "By that, I mean they have to have the versatility to play multiple positions, and they have to be able to physically and mentally handle it. They get into the idea that they're kind of an elite group, and they take that challenge on. It's obviously worked out very well."

The perfect learning lab

Growing up in Manalapan, New Jersey, some of Firkser's early interests might have offered a glimpse of the Ivy League path he one day would follow.

"I was a more reserved kid growing up, so I loved drawing art when I was younger," Firkser said. "Puzzles always interested me, too, problem-solving and stuff like that. Maybe that's my math background — doing problems and drawing out equations, like Geometry."

But Firkser was a heck of an athlete as well, one whose first loves were hockey and basketball.

In fact, even though Firsker went to Harvard as a football recruit, his intent was to earn a spot on the Crimson basketball team — having passed on some small-college basketball scholarship offers as a shooting guard.

"I really wanted to give it a shot to play college ball there, so (Murphy) gave me that option and let me try out," Firkser said. "But ultimately, it just wasn't worth splitting time with that. So I just figured it was a better opportunity to play football for (Murphy)."

It proved a wise move for at least a couple of reasons.

One, Firkser joined a Harvard tight end group that included the likes of current NFLers Cameron Brate (Tampa Bay) and Kyle Juszczyk (San Francisco).

"We had a lot of older guys in the room to learn from and to help be leaders," Firkser said. "You embrace that role as you get older and you try to help the younger guys, so it's definitely a good environment to be in."

In addition, Murphy doubled as the team's tight ends/H-backs coach, helping install the kind of flexibility at the position that would work on the NFL level as well. The Crimson utilize a two-tight end attack, one that puts some of the team's best athletes to work at multiple spots — including wide receiver and fullback.

"That way, you can play an up-tempo style of offense like we do," Murphy explained, "without having to substitute or being predictable."

Added Firkser: "The tight ends were kind of like the Swiss Army knife position. We were asked to do a lot of stuff, whether it was online blocking as a wide receiver, moving out in the slot or playing in the backfield as a fullback. I think that definitely helps with your transition to (the NFL)."

‘We know he’s a smart dude’

The 23-year-old Firkser didn’t crack the 53-man roster in stints with the New York Jets and Kansas City last season, his first year out of college.

But he’s found a home so far in Nashville.

Sure, Firkser’s academic background — at this point — is still more impressive than his football resume.

He holds a Harvard degree in applied mathematics, and he’s gone so far as to take actuarial exams in pursuit of a potential post-football career. Some of Firkser’s teammates are even turning to him as an authority on questions that happen to arise in the locker room.

“We know he’s a smart dude, even though he doesn’t talk about it,” Smith said. “But we like to give him a hard time. So if we’re looking for an answer on something, we’re always like, ‘Hey, confirm that with Firk. Hey, Firk, is that right?’”

But it will be interesting to see whether he eventually contributes on the field as well.

The 6-2, 246-pound Firkser caught the eye of the Titans when he led the team with 10 preseason catches, hauling in five passes including a touchdown against Pittsburgh in the traditional Week 3 “dress-rehearsal” contest.

“I think he can do a number of things, whether it’s a vertical threat or catching the ball down the field — I thought he did a good job blocking-wise as a tight end,” Mariota said. “So he’s very versatile and I think if we can help him out, make him feel comfortable, he’ll execute that much more.”

Murphy said Firkser reminds him of former Indianapolis tight end Dallas Clark, a lightly recruited high-school player — and somewhat undersized for his position — who would eventually catch over 500 passes during his NFL career.

“I’m not saying that Anthony Firkser is going to the Hall of Fame,” Murphy said, “but I think his skill set, his body type and his potential is similar to a guy like (Clark).

“Anthony’s just a great kid, a class kid, a high-character kid. He was somebody that was always going to find a way to reach his full potential. That’s ultimately how he got to the NFL.”

IF DERRICK HENRY KEEPS UP THIS PACE, HIS CHANCES OF CLAIMING THE NFL RUSHING CROWN ARE GOOD

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
DECEMBER 4, 2019

It was a decade ago that former Titans running back Chris Johnson torched NFL defenses, earning the nickname "CJ2K" after piling up 2,006 rushing yards.

Johnson ran away with the league's rushing title that season, out-distancing second-place Steven Jackson of Atlanta by nearly 600 yards.

That was the last time a Titan led the league in rushing, though Johnson did finish fourth in 2010 and DeMarco Murray third in 2016.

Might Derrick Henry return the Titans to the top of the rushing pile again this season, 10 years after Johnson became just the sixth player to top the 2,000-yard barrier?

The monstrous Henry is third in rushing after 12 games, his 1,140 yards just 35 behind Cleveland's league-leading Nick Chubb (1,175 yards) and 27 yards behind Carolina's Christian McCaffery (1,167 yards).

CAN THE KING CLAIM A CROWN?

Player	Team	Rushes	Yards
	YPC	TD
Nick Chubb	Browns	238
	1,175	4.9	7
Christian McCaffrey		Panthers
	235	1,167	5.0
	12
Derrick Henry	Titans	232
	1,140	4.9	11
Josh Jacobs	Raiders	218
	1,061	4.9	7
Dalvin Cook	Vikings	223
	1,046	4.7	12

There are plenty of contenders for the crown, though, as a total of eight players — including Baltimore quarterback Lamar Jackson — are within 200 yards of Chubb heading into the final month of the season.

Here's a look at the chances of the top five on the rushing list — Chubb, McCaffery, Henry, Oakland's Josh Jacobs and Minnesota's Dalvin Cook — all of whom have already topped 1,000 yards.

Nick Chubb, Cleveland

12-game stats: Chubb has carried 238 times for 1,175 yards, an average of 4.9 yards per carry.

Remaining opponents (rushing defense rank): Cincinnati (32nd), at Arizona (24th), Baltimore (6th), at Cincinnati (32nd).

Trending up or down: Chubb was held to 58 yards in last Sunday's loss to Pittsburgh, but for the most part, he's been running well recently. The second-year back had topped 90 yards in five of his previous six contests before the Steelers game.

Chances at the rushing crown: Chubb has a pretty favorable schedule heading down the stretch, as he gets to face the worst rushing defense in the league (Cincinnati) two times along with another team (Arizona) that's in the bottom 10. The Browns should be in the lead or at least close for most of those contests, which should mean plenty of carries. Cleveland is also theoretically still in the playoff chase, so the Browns should play with some level of intensity until they're eliminated. That should help Chubb's cause as well.

Christian McCaffery, Carolina

12-game stats: McCaffery has carried 235 times for 1,167 yards, an average of 5.0 yards per carry.

Remaining opponents (rushing defense rank): at Atlanta (17th), Seattle (8th), at Indianapolis (9th), New Orleans (3rd).

Trending up or down: McCaffery topped the 100-yard mark in six of his first nine games, but he's found the going more difficult lately, as the Heisman runner-up in 2015 at Stanford has averaged less than 60 yards in his past three contests. In two of those games, the Panthers trailed by significant amounts, limiting McCaffery's opportunities.

Chances at the rushing crown: McCaffery will have his work cut out for him down the stretch, as he'll face three rushing defenses (Seattle, Indianapolis and New Orleans) ranked in the top 10. One has to wonder, too, if wear and tear might impact McCaffery over the final month, as he's not only carried 235 times this year, but also caught 75 passes. If Carolina is out of the playoff picture, might the Panthers lesson his load? One thing McCaffery has going for him is his breakaway ability. He's tied for the league lead with four runs of 40 or more yards, so he can pile up big yards with big gains.

Derrick Henry, Titans

12-game stats: Henry has carried 232 times for 1,140 yards, an average of 4.9 yards per carry.

Remaining opponents (rushing defense rank): at Oakland (11th), Houston (19th), New Orleans (3rd), at Houston (19th).

Trending up or down: As Titans fans are well aware, Henry is on fire. Over the past three games, he's averaged 165 rushing yards — going for 188 against Kansas City, 159 against Jacksonville and 149 against Indianapolis. Henry's averaged 6.4 yards a carry in those contests. When he topped 100 yards against the Colts, Henry became the first running back to do so in Indianapolis' previous 30 games.

Chances at the rushing crown: Henry is carrying a ton of momentum into the regular season's final four games. He's become the engine of the team's offense, and the Titans are feeding him, as they've given Henry an average of 23 carries per contest over the past three games. Henry's final four games are all against teams in the playoff picture, meaning no one is likely to lay down for him. In addition, the Raiders and Saints both have top-12 rushing defenses. But it would be hard to bet against Henry at this point. He's made up 124 yards on Chubb over the past four weeks, despite playing three games compared to Chubb's four.

Josh Jacobs, Oakland

12-game stats: Jacobs has carried 218 times for 1,061 yards, an average of 4.9 yards per carry.

Remaining opponents (rushing defense rank): Titans (10th), Jacksonville (28th), at LA Chargers (18th), at Denver (20th).

Trending up or down: Jacobs is running pretty well, as he's topped 100 yards in three of his past five games. The only clunker in that stretch was a 10-carry, 34-yard performance against the Jets, who have the league's best run defense. The Raiders spent most of that game throwing before losing, 34-3.

Chances at the rushing crown: The Titans' defense could do Henry a solid favor this Sunday if it's able to shut down Jacobs. Tennessee was strong against the run last Sunday, holding the Colts to 82 yards on the ground. This is Jacobs' last game against a strong run defense, so he might be able to pile up yardage in the final three contests against Jacksonville, the Chargers and Denver. It's reasonable to wonder if the so-called "rookie wall" might impact Jacobs over the final month. But he looked good last week, running 17 times for 104 yards against the Chiefs.

Dalvin Cook, Minnesota

12-game stats: Cook has carried 223 times for 1,046 yards, an average of 4.7 yards per carry.

Remaining opponents (rushing defense rank): Detroit (23rd), at LA Chargers (18th), Green Bay (25th), Chicago (7th)

Trending up or down: Cook appears to be going in the wrong direction heading into the final month. After topping 100 yards in four of his first five games, he's only done so once in the past seven contests. Cook's had a combined 20 carries in the last two games, totaling just 55 yards. He hurt his shoulder in the third quarter of the Vikings' loss Monday night to Seattle and didn't return.

Chances at the rushing crown: Cook's injury is apparently not a long-term one, but it marked the second straight week he'd hurt the shoulder, which could raise a red flag regarding the final four contests. Three out of the remaining four defenses Cook will face are ranked 18th or lower, which should help his totals. But he needs to pick up the pace to remain in contention, as Cook has been held to less than four yards per carry in his previous four outings.

BEST WAY TO KNOW A BIG PLAY IS HAPPENING FOR TITANS RB DERRICK HENRY? THE EYES HAVE IT

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
NOVEMBER 22, 2019

NASHVILLE – Derrick Henry is a big back who has a penchant for making big plays.

And he's made plenty of them.

Since the beginning of the 2017 campaign, Henry has scored six total touchdowns — four rushing and two receiving — that have gone for 65 yards or more. He leads the NFL in that time period, with Kansas City wide receiver Tyreek Hill in second place with five such touchdowns.

A clue to look for when Henry thinks he's on his way:

"Well, my eyes get big," Henry said with a smile on Thursday. "Credit to those guys up front and everybody blocking. … In the open field I just try and get six points."

In the team's win over Kansas City Chiefs, Henry scored on a 68-yard touchdown run, his second-longest scrimmage touchdown of the season. In the season opening victory at Cleveland, he caught a screen pass and went 75 yards for a score. This season, Henry and Panthers running back Christian McCaffrey (two) are the only NFL players this season with multiple scrimmage touchdowns of at least 65 yards.

On Sunday, Henry will face a Jacksonville team he's had some big plays against in the past.

Everyone remembers Henry's 99-yard run against the Jaguars last December. Well, he also had a 66-yard touchdown run against the Jaguars back in 2017.

All of that is history, Henry said.

"I don't really think about that any more," Henry said of his 238-yard performance against the Jaguars last year. "We played them (earlier this year) and they won the last game.

"I just have to go out there and do my job – run the ball and go out there and make plays."

TITANS RB DERRICK HENRY AIMS TO "TAKE IT TO THE NEXT LEVEL" IN SECOND HALF OF SEASON

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
NOVEMBER 1, 2019

NASHVILLE – At the season's halfway point, Derrick Henry and the Titans running game hasn't been half bad.

Henry has 581 yards and five touchdowns on the season, which has him on pace for 1,162 yards on the year. If he gets to that total, it would be a career high.

But Henry sees room for improvements as he prepares for Sunday's game at the Carolina Panthers.

"I feel like I can take it to the next level to help this team," Henry said on Thursday. "I always feel like I can do that, to make this run we want to make because it is hard to win in this league.

"We just have to keep working on the things we need to get better at and let it carry on to the game. I think we have to build off the good things we are doing and improve on the things we need to work on."

The Titans are ranked 12th in the NFL in rushing yards per game (98.3), and as a team the Titans are ninth overall in rushing average per carry (3.74). Henry is averaging 3.8 yards per carry, however, which is currently the lowest average of his four-year career. Henry averaged 4.5 yards in 2016, 4.2 ypc in 2017 and 4.9 ypc in 2018, when he ran for a career-high 1,059 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Since 2018, Henry is one of only three players (Christian McCaffrey and Todd Gurley) with 1,500-plus rush yards (1,640) and 15 rushing touchdowns (17).

Based off stats, the Titans should have an opportunity to have success on the ground this Sunday. The Panthers are ranked 27th in the NFL in rushing yards allowed (135.1), and the team allowed 232 rushing yards this past weekend in a loss to the 49ers. San Francisco running back Tevin Coleman had 105 yards and three touchdowns on 11 carries vs. the Panthers.

Henry is more worried about what the Titans need to do, considering the fact the team has so many negative rushes this season. The Panthers are paced by linebacker Luke Kuechly, who has 72 tackles in seven games.

"(Kuechly) has been a great player in this league for a while – he is good at everything and is very instinctive and he is going to be around the ball all the time," Henry said.

"We just have to execute. We have to execute better to avoid the negative plays, and just play better. We just have to focus and if everybody does their job, we'll be fine."

I DID IT, GRANDMA

BY DERRICK HENRY
THE PLAYERS TRIBUNE
MAY 4, 2018

Sometimes I can still hear you singing. I'll just be hanging out at home, or grabbing my stuff in the morning and rushing out to practice, and I'll see the two pictures I have framed on my kitchen island — one of you around the time you first started to get sick, and one of you and me together when I was young — and I'll just … hear it. Out of nowhere, pulled up from somewhere in the back of my heart, your voice will just come rushing into my head, and I swear I can hear you singing church songs to me like you did when I was a kid.

You did everything for me, Grandma. You sang to me. You sat with me on Saturday mornings and watched cartoons — Arthur, Clifford the Big Red Dog … whatever we could get, because you know we didn't have cable. You'd cook me food. Watch me while I was outside riding my bike.

You even gave me my nickname, "Shocka," because my parents were so young when they had me — Mom was 15 and Dad was 16 — that when I came along, you said that I had "shocked the whole family."

You and me, we were just … attached, you know?

You were my best friend.

Even when I left Yulee, Florida, for Alabama, you called me all the time, telling me how much you missed me.

"When you comin' home, Shocka?"

I'd be like, "Grandma, I miss you, too … but I can't come home. I got football. I got school."

"You doin' your lessons?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"You better be."

Courtesy of Derrick Henry

You always made sure I understood the importance of education. "Football ain't gonna last forever," you'd say. So I always told you that no matter what else happened in my life, I would make sure that I got my college degree. I made that promise to you.

Well, Grandma … I want you to know that I did it.

Today, I'm going to walk across the stage and receive my degree from the University of Alabama.

Graduating is something that I've wanted to do for myself, but also, for you. I always wanted you to be proud of me, and I know that you are. I just admired you so much growing up. I mean, you and Granddaddy raised 14 kids. Now, I wasn't around for all that, and I can't even imagine how hard that must have been. But I can definitely see how you did it, because I know how hard you always worked. I remember you leaving early in the morning to go clean rooms at the Holiday Inn, and then coming home at night and cooking and cleaning, and yelling at me and all my cousins for being bad … you never turned it off. You were always working. Always looking after us, providing for us.

You taught me what's important. You knew I loved sports and that I was gonna be good. But remember how mad I used to get? I hated losing so much. If I was out in the yard playing football with my cousins and I lost, I would get so frustrated that I would cry.

And there was that time when I was like nine years old playing basketball with Cousin Karris out in the driveway — we were playing 21, and he beat me. So we played again. And again. And again. We started at like three o'clock in the afternoon, and even after I finally beat him a couple of times, we kept on playing because I wasn't gonna stop until I felt like I had beaten him enough. We played till like 10 at night. We could barely even see the ball anymore it was so dark out on that dirt road. But I just wanted to keep playing. I was so competitive. I wanted to win so bad.

Even when I played against the computer on the NCAA video game, I was competitive. I'd be in the back room of your house on the PS2 and I'd create Derrick Henry — the biggest, baddest player in college football — and play dynasty mode. And when a season ended and Derrick Henry didn't win the Heisman, I'd play again. I'd just keep on playing until I won the Heisman.

I'd always hear you yell from the front of the house, "Booooy, you better get off that game and go do your lessons!"

You were always telling me to go do my lessons because I would always delay doing my homework so I could go out and play football or basketball or whatever, or just sit on that back porch on the PS2, trying to win the Heisman.

You were always there to remind me what was most important.

Later on down the road, when I eventually lived my dream and won the Heisman in real life, you were too sick to be there with me. The bad cough that first put you in the hospital turned into a respiratory infection that just continued to get worse. By that time, you had a breathing tube in your throat and you weren't able to talk. So when I got back to Yulee, you couldn't even tell me how proud you were, or remind me to do my lessons.

But you didn't have to tell me all that.

I already knew.

Since you weren't able to speak, we wrote a lot of notes to each other. I remember the last time I came and saw you at the hospital, right before I reported back to Tennessee for the 2016 season. We just sat there together, passing notes back and forth like two kids in the back of class, just saying how much we loved each other. You kept telling me how you wanted to get out of that hospital — just get in the car and go for a ride. And even though you stayed strong throughout everything, it killed me to see you like that — hooked up to all those tubes and machines. I wanted to get you out of that place, too … just bring you home and take care of you.

But I couldn't. I went back to Tennessee and went back to work. And a few weeks later, when Aunt Latrease called me up and told me things didn't look good, it killed me that I couldn't be there with you.

Then, when I got the call on September 13, 2016 that you had passed, it was like my whole world crashed down.

You took a piece of me with you when you passed, Grandma. Life just hasn't been the same since you left. I know you were tired and you were ready to "go home," as we'd always say. I just wish we would have had more time. I wanted to take care of you. Do things for you. Show my appreciation for everything you did for me.

But life doesn't always work that way, and you don't always get those chances.

I'm just glad you're not hurting or suffering anymore.

I guess I just want you to know that I love you and I miss you, and I'm doing all the right things. I'm keeping God first, like you always told me to. I'm working hard every day. I'm being respectful to my elders. I'm doing my lessons, Grandma — I promise I am. And when I walk across that stage in Tuscaloosa today and get my degree, I know I won't be walking alone. You'll be right there with me, the same way you are every day, inside my heart. I can feel your spirit. I can hear you singing.

You did a good job raising me, Grandma.

Thank you.

I love you.

— Shocka

NEW TITANS WR ADAM HUMPHRIES MAY NOT LOOK THE PART, BUT HE SURE PLAYS IT

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 29, 2019

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. – Adam Humphries put on a Titans uniform on Monday and made his way into the Post Exchange here on the Fort Campbell military base.

The Army officers at the entrance seemed to know him as he posed for pictures with Titans linebacker Rashaan Evans out front, and if the fans waiting inside didn't, the name plate in front of him as he sat down helped.

Those who follow the NFL know Humphries – he's an accomplished receiver who earned a lucrative contract with the Titans in March after four years in Tampa Bay.

But he's not necessarily the most recognizable guy, and he knows it.

"I'll be sitting on a plane and someone will ask: What do (you) do?," Humphries said with a smile. "And they don't believe (that I play in the NFL) until they get off the plane and Google me. That's always funny. It comes with it, 5-11, short white dude claiming he plays in the NFL. I have to (convince) people I actually play in the NFL."

Heck, as Humphries made his way through the streets of downtown Nashville during NFL Draft weekend, he said more Tampa Bay fans recognized him than Titans fans.

"As I start to play on Sundays," Humphries said, "hopefully my face will be out there with my name as I make some plays."

In 2018, the 25-year-old Humphries had a career high in receptions (76), receiving yards (816) and receiving touchdowns (five) with the Buccaneers. The 5-foot-11, 195-pounder became Tampa Bay's top slot receiver while catching 219 passes for 2,329 yards and nine touchdowns over the last four seasons.

Humphries joined a Titans receiving corps that was led by receiver Corey Davis last season. Davis had 60 catches for 843 yards and four touchdowns, while receiver Taywan Taylor was second among receivers with 35 catches for 458 yards and a touchdown. Tajae Sharpe (26-316-2), Darius Jennings (11-101-0) and Cameron Batson (8-82) all had their moments as well.

Over the weekend, the Titans drafted former Ole Miss receiver A.J. Brown in the second round.

Humphries likes the group.

"It's a bunch of guys who are humble and ready to work," he said of the Titans receiving corps. "They all have that chip on their shoulder trying to prove a lot of people wrong and that is my kind of group."

Humphries also likes his new quarterback – Marcus Mariota. He said he's humble, athletic, and a hard worker.

During the course of the offseason program, Humphres said he's concentrating on being dependable, and trust-worthy. It's not about making one-handed catches at this point, he said.

It's about developing chemistry, and trust.

"There's not better way to bond with your teammates than conditioning and lifting weights and just grinding it out with them," Humphries said. "We've made some good connections in the locker room and in the receiving room as well. The past couple of weeks have been awesome and Phase 2, being on the field with coaches today went really smoothly and you can tell a lot of guys are hungry and ready to win some games."

SLOT MACHINE: HOW NEW TITAN ADAM HUMPHRIES WENT FROM OVERLOOKED RECRUIT TO ONE OF THE NFL'S MOST COVETED WRS

BY TRAVIS HANEY
THE ATHLETIC
JUNE 3, 2019

As Adam Humphries plunged this past winter into the deep end of the NFL free agency pool, his agents threw him a life preserver.

The value of a slot receiver had risen significantly, his reps at MGC Sports told him. Humphries, who had proven himself in four seasons with Tampa Bay, could be looking at upward of $10 million a year on the open market.

The Clemson product went undrafted in 2015 and improbably made the Buccaneers' roster after a rookie mini-camp tryout. His odds of sticking were so minuscule that Tampa had included his return flight as part of the initial invite.

A few years later, and he was looking at the possibility of an eight-figure check? For one season?

"I thought, 'Dude, that's ridiculous,'" Humphries told The Athletic in May. "I never thought there was a chance I could make that much. It was kind of mind-blowing, to go from making minimum wage in the NFL to this."

It wasn't just about the money; it was the statement behind it. The South Carolina native had spent his entire football career laboring for visibility and opportunity. In a reversal, being an NFL team's priority in free agency would show just how badly he was wanted.

There would be a fight for a player who'd spent his life in the sport undersized and overlooked.

Fending off the Patriots, Saints and others, the Titans on March 14 signed the 25-year-old Humphries to a four-year, $36 million deal.

"It's a testament to him and how he's worked," Tennessee GM Jon Robinson said.

It's not a future that he could have ever imagined when he was at Dorman High, just outside Spartanburg, S.C.

Well, no one could have.

"He just wasn't a guy you'd look at and say, 'OK, this guy will be a millionaire in the NFL,'" longtime Dorman coach David Gutshall said. "Nobody would have bought that."

For one thing, Humphries only occasionally played receiver; he was the team's best defensive back. And he was perhaps best known at Dorman for his role as the star point guard on the basketball team.

The way he had it figured, he'd most likely follow his father's path. Bill Humphries was a standout basketball player at USC Upstate (then USC Spartanburg).

"I was planning on trying to get a scholarship for basketball. Get a scholarship. Go to school. Get a degree. Maybe coach. Get a normal job," Adam Humphries said. "I never really had aspirations to play football at the highest level, because I didn't really think that was even possible."

In fact, he nearly quit football after his sophomore season in high school to focus on hoops. Coaches and friends talked him into continuing to play both.

"I realized, 'Why not try to make the most of football right now? I'm not going to get to play it the rest of my life,'" Humphries said. "I could go play pickup basketball the rest of my life and get competitive juices from that."

Now entering his fifth NFL season, and his first in Nashville, Humphries' rec league basketball career is still on hold.

Dave Gutshall was reduced to begging.

Colleges from all over the country were coming to see uber receiver prospect Charone Peake at Dorman. When they'd stop by, Gutshall, the school's head coach since 1993, would tell them about Humphries.

Humphries appeared strong and athletic. He was versatile, too, capable of playing four or five different positions.

But he was 5 foot 10. He failed recruiters' eye test.

"When you tell somebody you've got a skill kid, that's not what they're looking for," Gutshall said inside his office, across from Dorman's palatial weight room. "I guess they've got this person in their mind, like it's got to be Dez Bryant or Calvin Johnson or something like that. All of a sudden, there's Adam Humphries.

"I used to tell Adam that his biggest problem was that he was a little white boy."

The seeming lack of interest didn't stop Gutshall's efforts to shine a light on Humphries.

"It was killing me, because I knew he belonged and could play at that level," Gutshall said. "I've never worked any harder with one of my players to get a scholarship than I did Adam. I mean every time someone would talk to me, I was pushing him, telling people about him.

"I felt like he was going to get left behind."

One time, a Penn State assistant coach was watching Humphries during a basketball practice. Humphries was knocking down 3 after 3.

"The Penn State coach turned to me and said, 'Oh, well, we've got all kinds of kids like this in Pennsylvania,'" Gutshall said.

As the Penn State coach left, Humphries threw down a couple of thunderous dunks. Despite his height, or lack thereof, he can dunk flat-flooted.

"I called him over and said, 'Adam, when there's a college scout here looking at you, don't be shooting 3's. They need to see what kind of athlete you are,'" Gutshall said.

Asked about that, Humphries laughed and said he didn't really want to go to Penn State. Too far away, he said.

One school far closer, Clemson, had always been aware of Humphries — because Gutshall never missed a chance to sell him on Dabo Swinney and his staff.

Clemson receivers coach Jeff Scott said he'd recruited Humphries' teammate, Peake, since the ninth grade, often traveling the hour-plus to see a Dorman basketball or football game. Each time Scott was there, he heard about the "other kid" he should be recruiting.

"Their coaches were adamant that Adam could play at our level," Scott said. "I mean, we get that a lot on the recruiting trail. Every coach has a kid that they like and maybe they don't translate to the college level based on their size and speed. We definitely take those comments, but we have to see it for ourselves."

What schools mostly saw was Humphries excelling on defense.

There was the time Dorman took a 7-on-7 team to Nashville. Playing against a talented team from Arkansas, Gutshall was standing near a Vanderbilt coach as the scrimmage wound down.

"We're up by four with three seconds left to go in the game," Gutshall remembered. "(The Vandy coach) walks over to me and and points and says, 'They're going to go to that receiver over there. They're going to just throw the jump ball to him.' I looked out there at corner to see who was covering him. It was Adam.

"I kind of looked at him and said, 'Well, they picked the wrong corner.' And Adam intercepted it. I'm sure they looked out there and their guy was 6-4 and they said, 'Well, that's the one to go after.' Nobody understood what an athlete he was."

Humphries had a similar, acrobatic interception to seal the 2009 state title against Byrnes High, a team that included future South Carolina star Marcus Lattimore at running back.

"We were playing against a team that, if they beat us, might have not only won the state championship but the national championship," Gutshall said. "They threw at the wrong guy. Humphries, he looked like he was at least 11 feet in the air — at least."

There was also the time Humphries was selected for the Shrine Bowl, the annual postseason exhibition between high school stars from North Carolina and South Carolina. The South Carolina staff told Gutshall they planned to play Humphries at safety.

Gutshall asked why they wouldn't play him at corner.

"Well, he's not as athletic as we want our corners to be in this game," the coach told Gutshall. "We need our corners to be a little more athletic."

Gutshall attended a practice the following week. Humphries was lined up at corner.

"They looked at me and said, 'He's the best damn corner we've got,'" Gutshall said with a laugh.

Adam Humphries at Dorman High School (Courtesy of the Spartanburg Herald-Journal)

Eventually, Gutshall had to figure out a way to show colleges what Humphries could do offensively.

He estimates that 40 schools came to Dorman's spring game prior to Humphries' senior year. Most of them were there to see Peake.

"I told Charone, 'Every one of these colleges in this stadium has offered you. Adam has no offers. Understand that tonight's going to be the Adam Humphries Show,'" Gutshall remembered.

Scott, the Clemson assistant, thinks Humphries touched the ball on the first 11 plays of the spring game. He was sensational, electric as he broke tackles and made moves in the open field. Humphries was essentially putting together a live highlight tape for all of those college recruiters.

After one of those early, game-breaking plays, Gutshall turned around from the sideline and made eye contact with Scott.

"You seen enough or do I need to keep giving it to him?" Gutshall asked Scott.

Scott laughed.

"No, Coach," he said. "I'm good."

Scott fished the phone from his pocket and called Swinney. The scholarship offer — the only one Humphries would ever receive from an FBS-level school — came later that day.

Humphries committed to Clemson a few weeks later. Peake, the reason Clemson ever saw Humphries, also committed to be a Tiger.

The decision still didn't create a sense of certainty about Humphries' future, however.

Later that year, Scott and Swinney were visiting Dorman for a basketball game. Bill Humphries, Adam's dad, pulled Scott aside.

"Coach Scott, I need to ask you a question,' Scott remembered. "'Do you truly believe that Adam can play football at Clemson?'"

"'Absolutely, I do,'" Scott told Humphries' dad. "'We wouldn't have offered him if we didn't think he could.'"

Humphries first turned Swinney's head at a basketball game, months before the scholarship offer was extended.

“When I saw him play basketball, I thought, ‘This guy’s got something to him,’” Swinney said. “He’s just a winner. He’s just one of those guys. He’s going to be the best. He’s the guy who, on the playground, somebody’s picking him first — because they know they’ll win with him on their team.”

Clemson saw Humphries as a possible replacement for slot receiver Tyler Grisham, who went on to play a couple of seasons in the NFL. He’s now back at Clemson as an offensive assistant coach.

Between Grisham, Humphries and the most recent slot standout, new Oakland Raider Hunter Renfrow, the Tigers have started a New England-esque trend on the college level of unearthing unheralded talent at the position.

Perhaps by no coincidence, Swinney was a walk-on receiver at Alabama.

“I think Dabo feels for those guys,” Gutshall said. “He knows that they can play. He’s willing to take a chance on them.”

Furthering the point, Scott said Clemson is one of the only schools he knows that doesn’t do any testing at its summer camps for high school prospects.

“It’s not all about how fast you run, how big you are,” Scott said. “Within our program, the best players are going to play. We’re not going to get caught up in all the measurables.”

Humphries arrived as the lowest-rated recruit in the 2011 class. Some assistant coaches in the room even wondered why the Tigers were taking this smallish 2-star instead of a stud from elsewhere. Scott and Swinney asked for some faith.

The presumption was that Humphries would redshirt, especially considering the receiver room included future NFL players Grisham, Sammy Watkins and Martavis Bryant.

But Scott saw enough from Humphries in that initial preseason camp to call him into his office before the season began. He told him that he would play as a true freshman.

Humphries was shocked.

“Do you really think I’m ready to play?’” Humphries asked Scott.

“Absolutely,” Scott said. “Not only are you going to play but you’re going to help us this year.”

Humphries caught just 15 passes his first year, but he played in all 14 of the team’s games. The coaches saw his potential — not just for his time at Clemson, but beyond the college game.

After the season, he was riding in a golf cart with Chad Morris, Clemson’s offensive coordinator at the time.

Morris told Humphries that he’d play 10 years in the NFL.

Humphries laughed.

“I thought, ‘There’s no way. I had like 12 catches last year. I’m just happy to be on the field at Clemson,”” Humphries said.

Morris repeated it. He said he’d have every bit the pro career that the team’s star receiver, Watkins, would.

“I would just tell him, ‘Man, you’re going to play longer than all of them. Just trust me,’” said Morris, now the head coach at Arkansas.

Playing with that talented receiver group, one that eventually also included DeAndre Hopkins, served as a confidence-builder for Humphries.

“I think just being around them, that’s what helped me the most,” he said. “I was learning from the best dudes to do it. We were close and we helped each other grow and worked together. It gave me the confidence and the swagger to know that I could perform at that level and contribute.”

Clemson’s wide receivers from 2012. Six of them have gone on to play in the NFL. In the top row, No. 19 is Charone Peake (Jets), No. 18 is Jaron Brown (Seahawks), No. 2 is Sammy Watkins (Chiefs), No. 1 is Martavis Bryant (Raiders) and No. 6 is DeAndre Hopkins (Texans). Humphries is No. 16 in the bottom row. (Mark Cramer)

At the time, Humphries set the record for number of games played by a Clemson receiver (52). He caught 112 passes his final three seasons, also returning punts.

“He was dependable,” Hopkins said last fall. “You had Sammy and myself, but he was one of those guys who got slept on in the slot, and he made a lot of plays for us. He was consistent. He’d go back to catch a punt and might return it for a touchdown.

“It was about hard work, and he was a good route runner, studied hard. He knew every position, so if somebody went down, he could play that spot. It was hard to keep him off the field.”

During Humphries’ sophomore year, the Clemson staff even tried him at cornerback, just in case the team needed an emergency defensive back.

He had two tackles in 11 snaps at corner in a game at Wake Forest.

“You think about all the receivers we had there,” Morris said, “but there was no job too big or too small for Adam Humphries.”

Despite proving himself capable and versatile in helping Clemson ascend to the power it is now, Humphries’ phone didn’t ring during the 2015 draft. He did not get an undrafted rookie deal, either.

If his football career was to continue, it would come down to a rookie tryout. He had two invites:

One was in Detroit, the other in Tampa. They coincided, so had was forced to choose one.

His agents felt as if the situation with the Bucs might be a bit more suited for Humphries, so he flew to Tampa. And, yes, the invite did come with the return flight home already booked.

“They were expecting to send me home,” Humphries said. “I was like, ‘Well, OK, that’s cool.’ That just kind of added to a little chip on the shoulder. It’s fun proving people wrong.”

During the two-day tryout, a Bucs staffer came over and encouraged Humphries. It was Jon Robinson, then an assistant GM in Tampa.

“In my mind, I didn’t think I was doing very good at all,” Humphries said. “I didn’t know the plays. I guess I ran a couple of good routes, had some good one-on-ones.”

Following the rookie mini-camp, Tampa’s front office huddled. GM Jason Licht told the scouting staff to pick two of the tryout players for an extended look.

Humphries was one of them.

He went on to catch nine passes for 139 yards and a touchdown in the team’s preseason games, hauling in a touchdown in the final one, to earn a roster spot. He played in Tampa’s opener against the Titans, his debut coinciding with the first games for both Jameis Winston and Marcus Mariota.

He had two receptions against Tennessee, but was then held without the catch the following three weeks. The Bucs actually cut him at that point. He cleared waivers and was assigned to the practice squad.

Three weeks later, though, Humphries was promoted back to the active roster. After 25 catches in the final 10 games for Tampa, he never looked back.

With an evolving rapport with Winston, Humphries saw his production increase each of his four seasons with the Bucs.

ADAM HUMPHRIES IN THE NFL

YEAR	Targets	Rec	Yards
	YPC	YPG	TD
2015	40	27	260

2016	83	55	622

“He’s where he is because he became a master of the details,” Scott said. “It’s his commitment to doing the little things.”

He showed toughness, too. Last season, Humphries had 423 yards after the catch — 11th-most among NFL receivers.

“As his position coach, I could turn my back when he was in the game,” Scott said. “I could focus on coaching someone else and not watch the play because I knew he was going to do it exactly right. There’s been very few of those guys in that category. He graded out at like 97 percent on a consistent basis. That’s really who Adam was, and still is.”

Flourishing last season also allowed Humphries leverage in free agency. Teams were lining up to add his services.

He’d always liked Nashville and he recognized the Titans’ need for a proven slot receiver. That made Tennessee an instant contender for him.

Robinson was perhaps what separated the Titans most. After all, he was part of a front office that believed in Humphries when no one else did.

“The thing about free agency is the uncertainty of where you’re going,” Humphries said. “That can add to the pressure of your decisions. ‘They’re going to do this with you. They’re going to use you like this. You’re going to lead the NFL in third-down receptions.’

“You hear all that from teams, but you don’t know the guys. You’ve never met them. You don’t know anything about them. So, knowing Jon and knowing that he knew exactly what I was capable of doing, being with me for a full season in Tampa, knowing how I approached every day of practice and game days, there was some comfort there.

“I knew I wasn’t going to a place where someone had watched my highlight tape and they think I can do whatever. (Robinson) knows everything about how I prepare and what I do and all that. That was definitely an extra, added level of comfort in making the decision.”

The Titans had one final test, though.

Humphries had agreed to come to Nashville when New England called. The Patriots — coming off their sixth Super Bowl win since 2001 — were making a push to add another slot receiver, a valued position in their storied run.

Gutshall had long joked around Dorman High that Humphries would be the NFL’s leading receiver if Tom Brady were throwing to him. But it wasn’t a joke any longer; it was a real possibility.

“Obviously, he’s the G.O.A.T. That’s that simple,” Humphries said of Brady. “But there’s so much that factors into a decision. It was a four-year deal. Who knows how many (years) he’s got left? There’s a lot that goes into it.

“Obviously the chance to play with him would have been awesome, but a lot of things factor into that decision. Ultimately, I thought this was coming here to a team that was on the rise and with young talent on the offense and a really good defense. They'd had a taste of the playoffs. I felt like my need at the slot position was great. I felt like I could really contribute and start something new here."

Still, Humphries admits it was a tricky day or two. He wanted to remain true to his commitment to Robinson. But, well, the Patriots are the Patriots. They'd made stars of once-overlooked slot guys such as Wes Welker (undrafted) and Julian Edelman (seventh-round pick).

"There were a ton of pros and not a lot of cons," Humphries said. "You have to look at both situations and a quality of life and where you're living, state taxes. A lot of things go into it when you're talking with your agents and families and stuff about it. At the end of the day, my heart wanted to be in Tennessee. I was happy to finally have that all over with and have a team I could commit to and try my best for them.

"I felt like my talents would be used best here. And New England was the same way. That would have worked, too, but at the end of the day, it was a good decision to come here."

His family being able to drive to home games in Tennessee was also a factor. It's a little more than five hours from Spartanburg to Nashville. The Humphries crew wasn't exactly going to be able to make weekend road trips to Massachusetts.

In the end, the decision was sort of like making — and sticking to — a commitment to a college.

"A little bit. You make a verbal commitment," Humphries said. "Everyone's excited for you. Parents are buying shirts online and all that. I already had my mind made up to come here. I felt like I had to honor my word.

"I didn't feel like I had to, I guess, but as a man, you want to honor what you believed in originally and stick to it. I'm glad I did."

It would only be natural if Humphries experienced self-doubt — or self-pity, at least — as he encountered roadblocks in trying to continue his football career in college and then the NFL.

Instead, he maintained an air of positivity amid what even he describes as "shitty situations."

"I always thought if I just had one more play, that meant I had a chance to make something happen," he said. "I thought maybe another school would come in and offer. Even as a tryout guy, I thought 'I've got two days to make the most of it.' I wasn't really worried at all. I had an opportunity, so I thought I might as well not hold back and make the most of it."

When no one expects anything from you, he said it has a way of actually minimizing pressure.

"The way I calculate it in my mind is there's nothing to lose," Humphries said. "I'm blessed to have a family that loves me and cares about me and friends who are the same way.

"I mean, if nothing worked out for me, I'd be fine. I'd go back home and be surrounded by people who support me. I could definitely make the most of it doing something else. … I was going to do my best and that was all I could ask for.'"

For now, his football career continues to trend upward. The salary just made a huge jump, sure. But so did expectations.

"It's not a big deal," Humphries said. "I know where I came from, how I got here. Not going to change anything now."

Swinney said Humphries will always be one of his favorite recruiting stories — and the story's just getting better.

"So he goes from the little guy at Dorman High School that no one wanted to making, what, $9 or $10 million a year? Yeah, I'd say that's a pretty good story," Swinney said. "It's kind of cool to see him earn his way to this place. That's what he's done. So many guys get somewhere based on potential. He's where he is based on performance."

SOURCE: TITANS CB JACKSON PAYS FOR TEEN'S BURIAL

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
MAY 21, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Tennessee Titans cornerback Adoree' Jackson and his business partner James Moore paid for the burial expenses of Jaylon McKenzie this past weekend, a source close to Jackson's family said.

McKenzie was a promising eighth-grade football player at Mason-Clark Middle School in East Saint Louis, Illinois. He was killed by a stray bullet while leaving a party on May 5.

McKenzie was also featured in Sports Illustrated and said Jackson, a fellow Belleville native, was someone whose path he wanted to follow to the NFL.

Despite his young age, McKenzie was already receiving college scholarship offers, one of which was from the University of Illinois. He was selected to compete in the All-American All-Star Game in Canton, Ohio, during the Pro Football Hall of Fame induction weekend last August.

McKenzie's mother, Sukeena Gunner, said her son was trying to leave a party in Venice, Illinois, when a fight broke out. According to Illinois State Police, McKenzie was struck by a stray bullet and died at a local hospital. A 15-year-old girl was also hit and remains in critical condition.

Dallas Cowboys running back Ezekiel Elliott grew up in St. Louis. Elliott and Jackson made arrangements to cover the expenses for the family. Elliott paid for the funeral services, while Jackson and Moore paid for the burial, the source said.

NFL Network first reported on Jackson's gesture.

ADOREE' JACKSON IS SHARPENING HIS MIND TO MATCH HIS PHYSICAL SKILLS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JUNE 13, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Cornerback Adoree' Jackson is one of the Tennessee Titans' most athletically gifted players. He was clocked at 4.39 seconds in the 40-yard dash at the NFL combine. But the 2017 first-rounder also has taken his share of criticism for up-and-down performances on Sundays.

As he enters his third NFL season, Jackson is working on blocking the outside noise and becoming more mentally sharp. He is taking a big-picture approach, because he knows if he gets better, the team also will get better.

"I want to be more mentally sharp and physically be at peace with myself and do everything that I want to do," Adoree' Jackson said. Jim Brown/USA TODAY Sports

"Physically, I will take my tangibles over anybody. I mean every athlete will say that," Jackson said Tuesday after practice. "I am trying to better myself mentally. It's something that has always been in my mind. I want to be better. I have to figure out what I don't do well and how I can do it better to help myself, this secondary, the defense, and it will trickle down."

Through two seasons, Jackson has two interceptions, both of them coming last season. But the 2018 campaign had its share of highs and lows. Jackson's best performance was when he limited Patriots wideout Josh Gordon to two receptions for 14 yards (Gordon had a total of four receptions for 81 yards) in a 34-10 win over New England. But he struggled to contain Colts wide receiver T.Y. Hilton (nine receptions for 155 yards, two TDs) in a 38-10 Week 11 loss at Indianapolis.

The uneven performances aren't unusual at cornerback. As Titans defensive backs coach Kerry Coombs pointed out, "The corner position in the NFL is a very, very challenging position. You're going to go against the other team's best players, best athletes week in and week out." The best cornerbacks are the ones who can quickly get over a bad result and move on to the next play or day. Staying positive during the down times helps block out the criticism.

Part of Jackson's new approach involves getting to the facility earlier. He is taking advantage of the experience he has at his disposal by asking veteran defensive back Logan Ryan a lot of questions. The two are spending more time together, since neither is participating in team or 7-on-7 periods as they rehab from injuries. (Jackson had offseason foot surgery but is expected back for training camp, while Ryan is recuperating from a broken fibula suffered in December.) It allows Jackson to pick Ryan's brain while they're watching plays unfold. It also is giving Jackson a chance to show off his colorful personality.

That's what he did during a 7-on-7 period on the first day of minicamp. Cornerback Tye Smith had just broken up a pass from Marcus Mariota intended for WR Tajae Sharpe. Jackson flashed a smile and made sure Sharpe heard him congratulate Smith for making the play. Jackson could be heard after most of the reps, telling the defensive backs what they did well or offering pointers. Being a leader is important to Jackson.

"I want to be more mentally sharp and physically be at peace with myself and do everything that I want to do," Jackson said. "If I can be the best me I can be, I know it will be beneficial to the team. I did it before in college and high school. I am trying to develop and get better."

Jackson is working to be more at peace during tough times, knowing that he did everything he could to get better and put forth his best effort. His family and faith play a big part in his ability to stay positive. They helped him get through real-life issues, such as when his mother beat breast cancer while Jackson was in college.

"Praying is one of the key things in keeping yourself sane and going. Every day is not going to be a good one. You won't feel your best every day, but I keep praying, and I understand that I woke up this morning, so I am blessed. Some stuff may go bad and go downhill, but it's not always going to be like that," Jackson said.

Head coach Mike Vrabel offered some old-school wisdom when asked about how to ignore the critics.

"Everybody has an opinion. That's this business, but we have to focus on what we can control," Vrabel said. "I've learned that you try to live your life like a river. On one bank is the future. On the other bank is the past. When you worry about the future, it's called anxiety. When you worry about the past, it's called depression. We have to try to stay focused on what's happening now."

BEN JONES NAMED TITANS WALTER PAYTON MAN OF THE YEAR NOMINEE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 12, 2019

NASHVILLE – When Titans center Ben Jones entered the NFL with the Texans back in 2012, he worked to establish himself on the football field with veteran players around him.

Jones was also paying attention to his teammates off the field. And he saw how involved many of them were in the Houston community, from Matt Schaub to Owen Daniels to Chris Myers.

"I wanted to be able to raise a family like them," Jones said, "and I wanted to do something to help others with the platform that we have – those guys really opened my eyes."

After spending his first four NFL seasons with the Texans, Jones arrived in Tennessee in 2016, and he got to work. And in 2017, Jones and his wife, Alex, established The Jones Mission to provide at-risk youth with opportunities they might otherwise not have through grants, additional resources and educational opportunities.

In the past three years, Jones has made a big difference – and his work hasn't gone unnoticed.

Jones is the 2019 Titans recipient of the Walter Payton Man of the Year award.

Jones is now a finalist for the league-wide 2019 Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award that will be awarded during the upcoming Super Bowl week. This prestigious NFL award has been in existence since 1970 and it honors players who demonstrate outstanding balance in their lives between civic and professional responsibilities. In 1999, the NFL renamed the award after the late Walter Payton as a tribute to his greatness, both on and off the field.

"It is something that is definitely appreciated," Jones said of the award. "But the reason you give back is to help people out and to see the impact you can make on kids, and to see the joy you bring them when you take them to games, bring them to practices, and you are able to help their facilities. It means a lot. I get so much joy by seeing how happy they are and how much they benefit from all the guys on our team that are caring and supporting our foundation."

During each of the past three offseasons, Jones and his wife have hosted the annual Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot, a skeet shooting tournament, to raise money for local youth-serving non-profit organizations. The three events combined have raised more than $400,000 benefitting The Jones Mission Fund.

Through The Jones Mission Fund, Jones said they've been able to serve more kids each year in after-school programs. As a result of the 2019 clay shoot, The Jones Mission was able to donate $40,000 to Endure Athletics and $45,000 to Preston Taylor Ministries. With their grant, Preston Taylor Ministries was able to open a new location for after school programs.

"We've done counselors for homeless kids who are in after-school programs," Jones said. "We've done things with the church to bring kids and their mentor to a Titans game. If it's from an after-school program, if it's sending them to camps, if it's bringing them to football games, if it's getting them the skill they need outside, a tutor.

"The more time they are able to be around positive role models and getting to have an experience and knowing they can get out of where they are. I want to give kids something to look forward to. I just want to give kids a chance. We're just trying to give a kid that needs a little extra help a shot."

Here's a deeper look at Jones, and his work in the community:

• Ben's childhood adversity – his father was killed in a helicopter crash just a few months after his 10th birthday – planted the seeds of a strong and still-growing passion for helping kids in need, and he strives daily to be a role model and show children experiencing hardship that anything is possible through hard work, determination, and prayer.

• Renovations to the Nashville Ronald McDonald House kitchen and dining room were completed this summer, courtesy of a $88,000 grant from the 2017 clay shoot. The 2017 event also allowed Ben and Alex to expand and remodel the computer lab at Youth Encouragement Services. The computer lab was also unveiled over the summer.

• In 2018, the event raised $33,000 for Endure Athletics, $22,000 for Backfield in Motion and $33,000 for Alive Hospice.

• Every year, Ben sponsors a trip to a Titans game for the seniors on the football team at his high school (Bibb County HS) in Centreville, Alabama. The experience includes round-trip transportation from his hometown, tickets, a private tailgate, swag bags plus a meet-and-greet with Ben and tour of the Titans practice facility after the game.

• Ben also hosts a "Friday Night Lights" free youth football camp in Centreville every June for kids ages 8 through 14.

• The Jones Mission is also very active during the holidays as Ben sponsors Christmas shopping events for families in his hometown in Alabama and locally in Nashville.

• In addition to his work with his own Foundation, Ben is also actively involved in team-organized community events and programs, appearing on behalf of the team at local schools, hospitals, fundraising events, 5K races and more.

Jones credited all the sponsors, and everyone who has supported his events over the years.

And he gave thanks to his wife, Alex.

“She backs it all up,” Jones said. “She is the busy bee behind everything, checking every box and making sure it flows right. It wouldn’t get done if it wasn’t for her.”

All 32 nominees will receive a donation of up to $50,000 in their name to their charity of choice. The winner of the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year award will receive a $250,000 donation to the charity of their choice. All donations are courtesy of the NFL Foundation and Nationwide.

As a nominee, Jones will wear a Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year helmet decal through the end of the season in recognition of his accomplishments on and off the field.

Jones said because the Titans organization, and locker room, has such a giving culture, it makes the award special for everyone. Titans defensive lineman Jurrell Casey’s was the team’s Walter Payton Man of the Year recipient in 2016 and 2018. Titans linebacker Wesley Woodyard was the team’s recipient in 2017.

“We have multiple guys that are coming to my event, going to other events. It is a family, and you want to support each other,” Jones said. “Logan (Ryan) is always there, Jurrell is always there, Delanie (Walker) is always there. So many guys are always there to support me, and we support each other.

“All those guys are just as worthy as me, and they have foundations and are doing everything they can, putting in the extra hours to help the community as well. So many guys are just as worthy. Really, all of us just want to do our part to help and make a difference in the lives of others.”

TITANS CENTER BEN JONES GATHERS TEAMMATES FOR CLAY SHOOT TO HELP AT-RISK YOUTH

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 3, 2019

NASHVILLE – Growing up in the small town of Brent, Alabama, Ben Jones loved being outdoors.

The Titans center has spent many offseasons Quail hunting with his grandfather.

On Friday, Jones took his teammates into his world during the third annual Ben Jones Celebrity Clay shoot, an event that benefits area nonprofits dedicated to enriching the lives of at-risk youth.

Roughly 20 of his Titans teammates turned out for the shooting tournament at the Nashville Gun Club, including coach Mike Vrabel and General Manager Jon Robinson.

"It's something different for my teammates to come out to," Jones said. "Instead of doing a dinner or a golf tournament, I wanted to do something special for them, to give them an opportunity that not every person has. It's just something different, and the guys have been amazing – they always come out and support me, and I can't thank those guys enough."

Cornerback Logan Ryan was there, outfitted in a throwback Oilers uniform of Earl Campbell.

It was Ryan's first time out, but he hit the flying targets on back-to-back shots on one of his first stops on the course.

Ryan said the event is a continued effort for players to support one another. A night earlier, he was at a fundraising event for defensive lineman Jurrell Casey.

"When your best players, your most known players, are so conscious about giving back on our off days, I think it just shows good leadership on the team," Ryan said. "I just think Jon Robinson has built a good nucleus of guys that are not only good players, but good family men who are good in the community. And Ben is definitely one of those guys."

Tight end Delanie Walker brought his own gun.

It turns out he's a pretty good shot.

"I am not going to say I'm the best, but I hold my own when I'm out there," a smiling Walker said of his marksmanship. "My team doesn't have to worry about me – you can count on that."

Walker said the fundraising event fits Jones perfectly because of his hunting background, and he said the players love it. Each Titans player is on a team with sponsors and others who signed up for the event.

"All the guys here are really excited to come here and support Ben and be a part of something special," left tackle Taylor Lewan said. "It's not a surprise (it's here) – the guy grew up in the South and spent his whole life on a cow farm pretty much. Things like this are a fun time. A lot of guys do golf charities and things like that, but this is a cool opportunity just outside Nashville to … get people from all walks of life to have a little fun."

Jones stayed at one location on the course, and chatted with teammates and others as they made their way from station to station.

As part of his charity, the Jones Mission, Jones said he and his wife, Alex, want to give kids a better opportunity to succeed in life.

The Jones Mission provides at-risk youth with opportunities they might otherwise not have through grants, additional resources, and educational opportunities.

"Every kid might need just a little more, and if we are able to give them that opportunity we are happy to do it," Jones said. "It's just what we can do for this community, and that's my passion. When I am not working for the Titans in football, I want to be able to impact kids' lives."

TITANS, FORMER BIBB COUNTY PLAYER HOLDING FREE FOOTBALL CAMP

BY EDWIN STANTON
TUSCALOOSA NEWS
MAY 30, 2019

Ben Jones knows what it's like to have support.

The Tennessee Titans center had an entire community come to his aid when he was a kid growing up in Centreville.

When Jones was 10 years old, his dad died in a helicopter crash. His mom was always a big part of his life, but losing his dad at such a young age was tough. Fortunately, Jones had a support system of extended family and friends in the community to help him.

"Where I am today, I wouldn't be here if it wasn't for my hometown and my whole community," Jones said.

It's a big reason that Jones is heavily involved in charity work. On June 7 at Bibb County High School, Jones and a few of his NFL and college football friends will conduct a free football camp for kids 8-14. The camp is supported through a grant from the NFL Foundation.

"I'm trying to give back to my hometown an opportunity for kids who don't usually get a chance to attend football camp and be around guys who played in college," Jones said. "I'm also bringing some guys from the Titans with me."

Jones has been a part of several other charitable deeds during his time in Nashville., including the Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot, which benefitted programs that deal with at-risk kids.

"We have a fund in Nashville and we've given around 400 thousand over past three years combined," Jones said. "It helps with after-school programs, mentor programs, sending kids to camps, grief counseling. We want to give them the next step in life that not everyone is able to help them with. So if we can help them in any way that's been our mission."

Jones plans on bringing Titans teammates Ryan Succop (kicker), David Quessenberry (OL), Beau Brinkley (LS) and a few more. Also, Jones' former Bibb County teammate and former NFL player Zac Stacy will attend, as will former Alabama football player Brad Smelley.

Jones grew up just a short drive from Tuscaloosa, but chose the University of Georgia over Alabama. He was a four-year starter with the Bulldogs and was drafted in the fourth round by the Houston Texans in 2012, where he played left guard before moving to center in 2015. He was traded to the Titans in 2016 and has started every game.

The Titans missed the playoffs last season but Jones has reason to be confident for the 2019 season.

"Last year we had a new head coach (Mike Vrabel) and we were trying to learn a new offense and a new defense and we actually had a pretty good year," Jones said. "Now we are trying to take the next step and go from good to great.

"Every game comes down to a couple of plays and we are trying to find those details so that we know the ins and outs of the offense and defense. So when it comes down to those couple of plays we are able to execute and make the playoffs. That's the mission – just get in. Anything can happen after that."

A big piece of the Titans' offense is running back Derrick Henry, the 2015 Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Alabama. The former Crimson Tide back had a career night during a game last season against the Jacksonville Jaguars, rushing for 238 yards with four touchdowns, including an NFL record-tying 99-yard run.

"Derrick is one of my closest friends. We talk just about every day, even during the offseason," Jones said. "He's the first guy to come in and say 'Roll Dawgs' every day because he was committed to Georgia for a while. But he bleeds crimson through and through. We have that relationship that we want each other to do well. When it comes down to that last game of the year we just say anything that week.

"He's a heck of a guy, tough player, good team guy. If you have a guy like that you can really lay it on. It wears a defense out and as an offensive line we really love blocking for a guy like that."

It was the Crimson Tide that handed Jones' alma mater two of the most devastating losses in the program's history – last year's SEC title game and the 2017 national championship game. Fortunately for Jones, he didn't have to witness the defeat in Atlanta.

"Last year, I missed the game because of meetings," Jones said. "I went into meetings and we were up like 20-7, and I got out and we had lost the game, so I was like, 'Oh my goodness.'

"I'm happy they turned it around and hopefully they can take the next step."

LUCKY NO.7? NEW TITANS KICKER GREG JOSEPH READY FOR OPPORTUNITY IN TENNESSEE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 19, 2019

NASHVILLE – Kicker Greg Joseph was enjoying his off day with the Carolina Panthers on Tuesday when he got the call from his agent.

"He said, 'Hey, do you know why I am calling?'," Joseph said in the Titans locker room on Wednesday. "I was like, 'I guess I am headed out of Carolina?' And he was like, yeah, you're headed to Tennessee."

By Wednesday, Joseph was in Nashville. The Titans signed Joseph to the team's 53-man roster while placing veteran Ryan Succop on Injured Reserve, ending his 2019 season.

Joseph, who had been on the practice squad of the Panthers, played in 14 games with the Cleveland Browns last season and he hit 17-of-20 field goal attempts, including 11 for 11 inside of 40 yards and one from plus-50 yards. He also hit 25-of-29 extra point attempts and had 47 touchbacks on 69 kickoffs.

Joseph was on the practice field at Saint Thomas Sports Park on Wednesday with his new teammates.

"Actually, it's my first time in Nashville, so I am excited about that," Joseph said. "I believe everything happens for a reason, I really do believe that.

"I am just here to be me. I am an outgoing guy, and I am learning everything I can so far from (snapper) Beau (Brinkley) and (punter) Brett (Kern). I am not here to assert my dominance or anything. I am here to be Greg Joseph."

The Titans need Joseph to make field goals, while also being productive on kickoffs.

Succop finished the season 1-of-6 on his field goal attempts, and he had a kick blocked in the team's game against the Texans on Sunday. On the season, the Titans are just 8-of-18 on field goal attempts. Cairo Santos and Cody Parkey also kicked for the Titans earlier this season.

Succop handled field goals and extra points for the Titans since being activated from Injured Reserve before the team's November 3 contest against the Panthers. The Titans waived kicker Ryan Santoso, who handled kickoffs for the team in games against the Raiders, Colts and Texans, on Tuesday.

The 6-foot, 210-pound Joseph, born in Johannesburg, South Africa, initially signed as an undrafted free agent with Miami (5/11/18), but was waived by the Dolphins on 9/1/18. He signed as a free agent with Cleveland a few weeks later before eventually being waived by Cleveland this past August. He was signed to Carolina's practice squad on 11/25/19.

In college, Joseph spent four seasons at Florida Atlantic, and he finished his career hitting 165-of-170 extra point attempts (97.1 percent) and 57-of-82 field goal attempts (69.5 percent). He attended American Heritage School in Delray Beach, Florida.

When asked about his field goal distance and the strength of his leg, Joseph didn't make any bold predictions.

But he said he's confident he can get the job done.

"Whatever coach needs me to is always going to be my answer," he said. "I have faith in my ability and my leg strength. … I am always going to be confident in my ability. … (My mindset) is put your head down and work."

IT'S TIME FOR PUNTER AWARENESS IN NASHVILLE — BRETT KERN IS THE TITANS' BEST PLAYER, AND THAT'S OK

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
OCTOBER 10, 2019

Specialists Row in the Tennessee Titans locker room is all the way back, past the offensive linemen on the left, the tight ends and defensive linemen on the right, the defensive backs and receivers on the left, the running backs and linebackers on the right. There are two massive televisions and a plastic basketball net along the way. Go through the double doors and walk straight ahead as far as you can walk and you will run into the lockers of punter Brett Kern and long snapper Beau Brinkley. To their right are the Titans quarterbacks, but this is Specialists Row. Inconsistency hounds this team, as expressed in the 2-3 record it will carry into Sunday's game at Denver, but it doesn't touch Kern. This is his row, because he is this team's best football player.

As he and Brinkley prepared for practice Monday, reminiscing about a game that represents the punting standard Kern has been trying to match ever since — the Titans at San Diego in 2012 — a man dressed quietly at his locker a couple stalls to their left. Place kicker Cairo Santos was, at that moment, a couple hours from being waived by the Titans. He looked like he knew it. The temporary replacement for injured starter Ryan Succop had missed all four of his attempts a day earlier in a 14-7 loss to Buffalo, with one of them blocked, and that was it. Santos was 4-for-5 entering that game, but one terrible day got him bounced. That's the business. And it's the fleeting art of kicking a football with precision. Kickers are more scrutinized than punters, with a smaller margin for error and a tangible effect on the scoreboard, and they are more celebrated as well. But as former Ohio State coach Jim Tressel often liked to say, the punt is "the most important play in football," an opportunity each time for massive gain in this 100-yard battle for territory. Blocks and returns change games. So can a perfectly placed missile that puts the opponent in a bad spot.

Rewind to the season opener, the Titans up 10-6 late in the first half in Cleveland, facing a fourth-and-11 from their own 27. Kern got the snap from Brinkley, as he's been doing for the past eight of his 12 NFL seasons. It arrived laces up and right where he likes it, as it does almost every time. He dropped it and launched it, a spectacular 70-yard punt that was downed by Brinkley at the Cleveland 3. After a false start, Cleveland quarterback Baker Mayfield was sacked in the end zone by Cam Wake. Safety. Two points. There's some tangible effect on the scoreboard for you. That's why Kern is working on a third straight Pro Bowl season. That's why, though no team or fanbase would choose a punter to be its top performer, this one deserves to be celebrated for it. This is a call for punter awareness.

"You've got to really understand the game to really understand the importance of what he does," Titans cornerback Logan Ryan said of Kern. "When I watch a baseball game and a pitcher walks a batter I say, 'Ah, that was a bad pitch.' But if the batter is batting .350 and has 50 home runs, sometimes walking him is better than allowing him to hit. Same thing, the game within the game. If you don't know the importance of a punter, just know we have the best punter in football and we'll leave it at that."

In the Titans' other win this season, Sept. 29 at Atlanta, Kern put all five of his punts inside the 20. That included two at the 10, one at the 5 and one at the 2. In the loss to Buffalo, the team he grew up following from nearby Grand Island, N.Y., the Titans were on the other end of the field-position battle. But Kern had a net of 49.7 on his six punts on a rainy day, including a 56-yard blast from his own end zone, out of bounds so Pro Bowl returner Andre Roberts had no chance to do anything with it. Roberts, he of the NFL's best kick return total (912 yards) and punt return average (14.9) in 2018, had two punt returns for 2 yards on the day.

"That guy gets paid money just to be a returner, and Kern took him out of the game singlehandedly, without having our punt team do a lot of work," Ryan said. "He's putting it 55 yards on the sideline. It's hard to throw the ball right to those spots, let alone do it with your legs. But that's what he does, and what it does is gives us an extra 10 or 15 yards every possession. That's an extra first down or two that he's giving our defense. Simple math. Best in the business."

That's a bold statement with young standouts such as Seattle's Michael Dickson and the Rams' Johnny Hekker helping elevate the position. Dickson is one of several Australian punters in the NFL, and their style, crafted by playing Australian rules football, has spread. Kern has an "Aussie" or rugby punt that he will employ at times when facing a short field. He does not boom it consistently like some around the league, not at 33 years old. But even in what SB Nation called in a 2018 piece the "golden age of punting," he stands out. SB Nation pointed out that in 2003, just two NFL punters had net punting averages above 40 yards. In 2017, 22 punters topped 40 in net average. Kern's net punting average that season was 44.6 — second-highest in NFL history. This season he is tied for the league lead with 15 punts placed inside the 20, and he's No. 1 with 11 placed out of bounds.

"The kid's a cyborg," Brinkley said of Kern, a 1-handicap golfer whose work on the football field brings to mind a steady short game, or a pitcher whose ability to paint the corners makes up for the fact that he isn't throwing 98 mph fireballs.

"I'm more the Greg Maddux," said Kern, whose first season and a half in the NFL were spent with the Broncos. "Hit your spots, hit your targets. I'd probably be like Jim Furyk in golf. Doesn't miss a lot of fairways. Not the longest guy but can kind of do everything well. Isn't going to wow you off the tee or anything like that. I don't even know if I'm getting better, I just try to be consistent. Honestly, I feel like I may have lost a little bit of hang time, but I feel I've gained some control."

Or to put it in Brinkley's words: "The guy's aging like fine wine."

And it's a good thing, because Kern's 31 punts through five games has him on a pace for 99 this season. That would smash his career record of 88, set in 2014 and tied in 2015, for teams that finished with a combined record of 5-27. Tennessee's faltering offense has him working hard. At least Tennessee's front office is compensating him. Kern signed a four-year extension in March worth $12.55 million — not bad for a guy who first put on shoulder pads as a sophomore in high school.

Ask Kern for his punter origin story and the story will eventually get to his father in a hospital bed in 1972. Cal Kern grew up in Western New York and was a high school football player who decided to give soccer a try — something not many kids in this country were doing in the mid-1960s — as a high school sophomore. He found a natural fit and great success as a goalkeeper. He went on to play at Buffalo State, which earned a national ranking while he earned All-America honors, and in 1972 he went No. 3 overall in the North American Soccer League draft to the Toronto Metros. Later in that same year, he had to cancel a tryout for the U.S. National Team and a shot at the Munich Olympics because of a nasty ankle sprain suffered in a pickup basketball game. Also later that year, a crushed kneecap ended his career.

Cal was playing in a friendly for a team in Rochester, N.Y., against a team from Germany and collided with an opposing player. His left kneecap was cracked and he was hospitalized. Surgery led to a staph infection, Cal said, and that led to hepatitis and a 3-month stay.

"I almost died," Cal said. "And then I got pretty depressed and suicidal, knowing that soccer was over. I started searching for 'What's the purpose of life?'"

As Cal later told Brett and his older sister, Leanne, the people who visited him in the hospital were friends of his who had religion in their lives. This was not his thing at the time. But when he got out, he paid a visit to a college teammate named Jim Skinner, who was then a grad student at Liberty University. He decided to become a Christian. That started him on the path to meeting his future wife, Sherrie, on a church softball team. That led to two children and five grandchildren (Brett and his wife, Tiffany, have three kids), and to a life of missionary work and preaching. Cal serves as team chaplain for the University of Buffalo football team and other teams, and Sherrie also mentors athletes there. Cal serves as pastor for Niagara Community Church.

"I was a bar hopper, a woman chaser in college, all that stuff," Cal said. "I had no peace in that, and I went down to Liberty and it changed my life. It was kind of cool because it came out of nowhere. I had no interest in God and Jesus, but I was desperate for purpose and meaning. I started a whole new pattern of living."

Faith was a staple of the Kern household. Soccer was big, too. Brett was a star goalkeeper and Cal was his goalkeeper coach. But by high school, Brett said he was "burned out" on soccer and was increasingly intrigued by punting. He watched Steve Christie and Brian Moorman with the Bills. He would punt the ball over his house. The football coach at Grand Island High kept asking him to come out. He made the reverse switcheroo that his dad made at the same time, in 10th grade, and Cal didn't stand in the way.

It wasn't long before Brett was an all-state performer and a recruitable prospect. Several schools, including Penn State, wanted him to walk on with the promise of going on scholarship eventually. The Kerns thought a full ride was coming at Michigan, but that dissolved. Toledo came through instead. Brett's career went from decent to great, Cal said, when he made faith more of a priority in his life. He met Tiffany, playing softball. By the end, he was an All-American, Mid-American Special Teams Player of the Year and potential pro.

And that was a lot of muscle memory ago. The grips, the drops, the different kinds of punts have all been honed to precision. Along with the rugby punt, Kern has what Brinkley calls the "Spicy Meatball," a knuckleball that Kern said "can kind of play tricks on a returner" but is employed only on special occasions.

Then there's "The Boomerang."

"Looks like I'm going to the right like usual, and then I swing across my body like a soccer goalie," Kern said. "Kind of a nasty boomerang, knuckleball all kind of meshed into one. It's really situational. I probably used it four times last year. Just the right situation calls for it. Doesn't happen a lot but it's nice to have in the toolbox."

Mostly, he goes with the fastball, or what Cal calls "The Piss Missile." It goes right and Kern has uncanny control over its location. All of this requires leg strength, of course, but it's more than that. As Kern tells kids who contact him on Instagram looking for advice, there's a lot that goes into the process, and the process allows for individuality with some universal rules.

"A lot is leg speed and how quickly you can get from Point A to Point B, coming through the ball," said Kern, who never had a personal punting coach. "(Former Titans strength coach) Steve Watterson told me the leg speed in that motion is faster than the speed of a helicopter blade going around. So flexibility, you've got to make sure you're good there. Make sure your plant leg is in tune with your kick leg. Because your plant leg takes so much force. You're pretty much doing the splits at a high rate."

The search continues for a performance like the one Kern delivered on Sept. 16, 2012, in San Diego. It was a bad day for the Titans, a 38-10 loss, but Kern and Brinkley recently watched it again because it was a dream punting afternoon. Kern booted it seven times, averaging 51.6 per punt and putting three inside the 20. He was backed up much of the day. His hang time was glorious. He had one touchback and it might have been his best punt, sneaking just inside the pylon instead of going out of bounds at the 1.

"If not for that," Kern said, "it would have been the perfect day."

Another one comes to mind for Kern and Brinkley, the day Brinkley was baptized in 2015, shortly after attending a Christian golf retreat with Kern in Alabama. That's how close they are, and this is the eighth year of their partnership with no end in sight. Wednesday morning on Specialists Row, they readied for practice while a media throng crowded around Cody Parkey, the replacement kicker for dispatched replacement kicker Santos. Succop is expected back in a few weeks, meaning the Titans will again boast one of the best kicker-punter-snapper trios in the NFL. One of them in particular is doing extraordinary things these days, and if you're doubtful at all of the power of a great punter, consider this: Kern's oldest child, 10-year-old son Bryce, wants to be one when he grows up.

HOW PUNTER BRETT KERN, TITANS' EARLY SEASON MVP, KEEPS PINNING OPPONENTS DEEP IN 12TH SEASON

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
OCTOBER 5, 2019

Among the greatest weapons at Brett Kern's disposal — aside from his sniper of a right leg — is what he calls the "data bank in my mind."

In it lies 12 seasons of experience punting in the NFL. Kern, the longest-tenured player on the Titans, has punted in every NFL stadium. He's experienced every shade of weather. He's dealt with every type of field surface.

And still, "it's really hard" to pin opponents deep with coffin-corner punts on a consistent basis, to "become comfortable with it," said Kern, who has 859 career punts.

But he continues to do it.

Last week, the 33-year-old placed all five of his punts inside the 20. Four of them landed inside the 10. One was downed at the 2.

Kern, a Pro Bowler each of the past two seasons, leads the league with 14 punts placed inside the 20; no one else has more than 11. Ahead of the Titans' Week 5 matchup against the Bills on Sunday (noon, CBS), coach Mike Vrabel said Kern in Week 4 gave "an amazing performance, an All-Pro performance."

"It's a weapon. It continues to be a weapon," Vrabel said of Kern. "You just can't say enough about his consistency."

Calibrating the conditions

Kern's success begins with his pregame routine, which includes about 20 to 30 practice punts and varies a bit depending on the weather, the venue and the playing surface. Last week, for example, required a less extensive warm-up. The Titans played the Falcons indoors at Mercedes-Benz Stadium, and after punting inside the bubble at Saint Thomas Sports Park in the week leading up to the game, Kern was well-prepared.

But there's always something. In Atlanta, it was the artificial turf, which causes a different bounce than grass.

"Even how much of the black pellets are in there will determine if the ball lands soft or not," Kern said.

The week prior in Jacksonville? With rain and intermittent gusts, Kern said his pregame prep took a bit longer. In those instances, being on top of the weather and regularly checking the forecast is vital. That's where Kern's appreciation for meteorology — he once wanted to be a storm chaser — comes into play.

There's an art to it

When trying to pin an opponent deep with a punt that goes out of bounds as close to the goal line as possible, Kern said he'll usually pick a spot about 10 yards from the sideline to aim for. The spin he puts on the ball pushes it "like a slice in golf" so that it lands either out of bounds or barely in bounds.

His goal is to hit his punt within a 2-to-3-yard window.

Late in the third quarter against the Falcons, Kern's fourth punt first touched down at the 9 before bouncing out of bounds at the 10. Chris Milton, the Titans' left-side gunner, tracked it well, but in the end, didn't have to do anything. As it trickled out of bounds, he stood for a moment at the 7, unstrapped his helmet, and pointed at his punter.

"If I know I hit it good on the line that I want to hit it, I'm pretty sure I know it's going to go out of bounds," Kern said. "I just pick my target and then trust my line and go after it."

Kern's aggression also depends on the circumstances. When he's indoors he takes aim for the 5. Outdoors is trickier. In Jacksonville, with the wind making his job tougher, he aimed between the 5 and 10.

Then there are punts in which the opponent has no one back to receive, like Kern's fifth and final punt in Atlanta. Late in the fourth quarter, with the Falcons trailing by two scores, they went all-in on trying to block Kern's punt and rushed nine defenders. Kern got his punt off quick and with solid hang time — about 3.9 seconds. LeShaun Sims, the left-side gunner, made contact with the ball at the 3 before it was downed at the 2.

Kern and Sims exchanged emphatic pats on the helmet when they met back up on the Titans sideline.

"We practice it almost every day, so I have a good feel for where his punts are going to come down," Sims said. "Helps that he's just really, really consistent."

It all goes back to the data bank

Kern remembers a specific punt in 2017 for the wrong reasons.

He shanked it. His 35-yarder went out of bounds at the 22, and the Arizona Cardinals began with not-so-horrible field position in the first quarter of that Week 14 game.

Those types of mistakes can linger.

"Sometimes," Kern said, "that can leave you in your head a little bit."

Yeah, the mental part of Kern's job is a legitimate factor.

"It's a lot," Kern said, before nothing that experience is his biggest weapon in combating any doubts in himself.

"A lot of times I'll go through film over the years and just watch, playing in certain stadiums, remembering certain kicks that I have, and I just kind of go over those and look at what I did well in those types of kicks," Kern said. "And then just bring that to the game. I have confidence knowing that, 'Hey, I've done this before at the stadium.' Even those conditions in Jacksonville, I've pretty much seen everything in that stadium. So being able to revert back to old games, old punts that I've had, it's quite the database to have when you're going into a game and looking for confidence."

MVPunter

In Week 1, Kern's 70-yard bomb was downed by Beau Brinkley at Cleveland's 3. One play later, Cameron Wake sacked Baker Mayfield in the end zone for the Titans' first safety since 2014.

Field position has been key for the 2019 Titans.

Titans opponents are starting their drives from their own 23, on average.

That’s the worst average starting field position in the NFL.

"I think it’s huge," Vrabel said, before going on to throw more praise at his punter.

"I appreciate it," Kern said. "(Vrabel) encourages me. But he doesn't really say much. He just says, 'Hey, go out there and be great. Like you can be great.' And that's all I need."

HAROLD LANDRY'S SECRET WEAPON IN BREAKOUT SEASON FOR TITANS? CONFIDENCE

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
DECEMBER 6, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Entering his second NFL season, Harold Landry had a goal: Be disruptive, making as many plays and turnovers as he could.

Through 12 games, the Tennessee Titans outside linebacker has done just that, leading the team with nine sacks to go with an interception and a forced fumble.

Landry is delivering for a team desperately in need of an impact player off the edge. The secret sauce for Landry's success might simply be a heightened level of confidence.

"This year, I am just cutting it loose and going out there playing as fast as I can," Landry said. "I am much more relaxed, flying off the ball, and it's much more reactionary."

Defensive coordinator Dean Pees sees the confidence growing in Landry, too.

"Half the battle in any football player is once the guy is playing with confidence, they start playing faster. ... They feel much more comfortable, and they're not thinking as much," Pees said. "They are just playing. That's exactly where [Landry] is. The more he gets sacks and things like that, the more confident he becomes."

With one more sack, Landry will be the first Titans player to reach double digits since Brian Orakpo had 10.5 in 2016. Landry has had at least one sack in eight games this season and has registered a sack in five consecutive games, the second-longest streak this season, according to ESPN Stats & Information.

Landry's pass-rushing production isn't showing up just in sacks. His 18 quarterback pressures on third down are the second-most in the NFL. Only the Los Angeles Chargers' Joey Bosa (21) has more. One of Landry's pressures against the Colts forced Jacoby Brissett to make a careless throw that was intercepted by safety Kevin Byard. That set up Ryan Succop's game-tying 31-yard field goal.

How did Landry get so confident? The 6-foot-2, 252-pounder worked on adding pass-rushing moves during the offseason. He spent time watching film of pass-rushers such as Dee Ford, Khalil Mack and Von Miller and put hours in at the weight room with teammate DaQuan Jones so he could add more muscle. The greater strength, combined with the new pass-rush moves, have led to Landry's growing belief that he can whip the man across from him.

Outside linebackers coach Shane Bowen credited Landry for learning to tweak his attack during the game as he experiences how offensive linemen are trying to block him. Bowen is up in the booth during game day, but they discuss adjustments throughout the game. The different moves and techniques that Bowen, defensive assistant Ryan Crow and head coach Mike Vrabel are teaching Landry in practice are starting to surface on game day.

"The biggest thing with him is his confidence going into the game right now," Bowen said. "I think any time you're dealing with a young guy, it takes time for that stuff to carry over. When the lights come on, you start looking around, and your focus might go away from some of that stuff. He's locking in ... everything is slowing down for him now, so he can focus on doing those little things that we talk about when we're on the practice field."

Landry is taking it to a new level this year by studying what is working against opposing offensive linemen and replicating it throughout the game. He stopped short of calling it a pass-rushing plan, but he said he caters his attack to different linemen.

"When I am preparing for a game and see a guy that's a low-puncher, that's good for a chop," Landry said during training camp. "When I see a high puncher, that's good for a dip so I can get under him. I want to go into a game and be able to use more than one move that I know will work. It might not be the best time to go to a dip and corner on him. I might have to stab him or do something else. Building my overall repertoire of moves helps me go against the tackles or tight ends."

Another area of emphasis was playing better in space. Landry had been more of a "see ball, get ball" player at Boston College, but now he's asked to do more. He said he's getting more comfortable dropping back into coverage, reading plays and doing more of the things that Dean Pees requires players to do in his defense.

Oakland Raiders coach Jon Gruden says Landry is a player who stands out as his team prepares to face the Titans. Although Gruden called Landry a great edge rusher, the concern is not just because of the sacks.

"You have to be careful with him. He can hurt you off the edge. He does a lot. He drops into coverage, has great range. We will know where 58 is," Gruden said of Landry via conference call.

Landry has enjoyed success this season, but he's ready to keep ascending.

"I love making plays and getting hype with the other guys," he said. "That's when it's the most fun: when we are all out there making plays and feeding off each other's energy. It's awesome.

"I feel like there's another level that I can take. I am just trying to finish these last games strong and get into the playoffs, then take it from there."

TITANS' HAROLD LANDRY EAGER TO UNLEASH FULL PASS-RUSHING SKILL SET

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
AUGUST 3, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Von Miller, Khalil Mack, and Dee Ford combined for 40 sacks last season. Tennessee Titans outside linebacker Harold Landry has a way to go before he's mentioned along with those names, but they are some of the edge defenders the Titans asked him to study closely.

"Our coaches did a great job putting clips of Khalil Mack, Von [Miller], Dee Ford ... all of these different types of moves that I can start putting into my game on my iPad. Being able to watch them every single day and go out on the field to work them live has really helped my game," Landry said.

Despite starting only three games last season, Landry had the third-most sacks on the team (4.5) and his 14 QB hits were a team high. Most of sacks and pressures came from sheer athleticism and beating opponents with speed.

The strength of the Titans' pass rush could depend heavily on Harold Landry's development in Year 2. Zach Bolinger/Icon Sportswire

Landry is a lot like a phenom pitcher who generated a lot of strikeouts with his fastball as a rookie. The pitcher has to find a complementary pitch to catch batters off-guard. Likewise, Landry relied last year on his speed to the outside to generate pressure, so now he's working on broadening his pass-rush moves -- specifically, a countermove to the inside that could make him a lethal pass-rusher. It's something Landry sees in the endless iPad cutups of Miller, Mack and Ford.

The team signed 38-year-old free agent Cameron Wake in the offseason to help with the pass rush. But after finishing with 39 team sacks last season (Ford's Chiefs led the NFL with 54 sacks), the Titans will be relying heavily on Landry in 2019.

Being called upon to be his team's top pass-rusher doesn't faze Landry because he has higher expectations for himself than anyone else. Having a plan is an area where Landry feels he's matured entering his second season. He is learning to study his opponents and figure out different moves that will work against his opponent's weaknesses.

"The game speed has slowed down," Landry said. "Last year was a big learning experience for me. I am much more relaxed, and it's much more reactionary; flying off the ball it's a lot more read-and-react. I am developing these moves so when I am preparing for a game and see a guy that's a low puncher, that's good for a chop. When I see a high puncher, that's good for a dip. I can get under him. I want to go into a game and be able to use more than one move that I know will work. It might not be the best time to go to a dip and corner on him. I might have to stab him or do something else. Building my overall repertoire of moves helps me go against the tackles or tight ends."

When asked if he is experimenting with new moves during training camp, Landry smiled. He's been working on perfecting his new moves during the offseason after testing them during OTAs and minicamp. He can't wait to unleash them.

"It's time to make those things [new pass-rush moves] my thing," Landry said. "I've worked on them so much, and now it's time to perfect it and make it ready to go."

Landry dealt with a mild ankle sprain during camp last year. It kept him from being able to go full speed through drills which was a setback early in his rookie season. "I get better at my moves when I am doing drills full speed in live-action and team period," Landry said.

A noticeably more defined Landry stepped to the podium and spoke to the media on the first day of training camp, saying he regularly weighs in around 255 pounds after hovering around 250 pounds during his rookie season. The second-year pass-rusher stayed in Nashville this offseason and spent a lot of time with veteran teammate DaQuan Jones working on strength training. He was also reunited this summer with his college strength and conditioning coach, Frank Piraino, who took on the same role with the Titans. Landry called his summer of training with Jones and Piraino "the most work he's done in a while." His work in the weight room should help with the kind of ferocious punch that is needed to go against bigger offensive linemen.

Added Jones, “Just the lifts alone, man, that was an animal. After the lift, you’re spent. Then we went out to the field and did our thing. You put all of them together, it’s tough. If you’re not mentally strong, that will break you.”

Landry's confidence continues to grow in his second year in defensive coordinator Dean Pees' elaborate scheme. He is ready to be a difference-maker.

"I just want to do my part. Make plays, create turnovers and get the ball to my offense as much as I can," Landry said. "I am excited. I feel like we've been away from football for so long."

LT TAYLOR LEWAN IS BACK, AND READY TO DO HIS PART FOR TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
OCTOBER 3, 2019

NASHVILLE – Left tackle Taylor Lewan is back with the Titans, and ready to do his part.

"It's been tough to be away, obviously," Lewan said on Wednesday. "You want to be able to compete and be with the boys. Now that I am back I am totally focused on the Buffalo Bills and Week 5."

Lewan, a three-time Pro Bowler, was suspended the first four games of the season for violating the league's policy against performance-enhancing substances.

Lewan said he watched the games on Sundays, and it wasn't easy.

"Any time you are put in a situation like this you have two choices: You can let it beat you up or you can grow from these types of things," Lewan said. "I believe that I have grown from it. There's been a lot of time for reflection for sure.

"I never, since I was little, had September off. So that was something to get used to and hopefully that will never happen again. I am just excited to play Week 5."

Lewan said he trained at Vanderbilt over the past month.

Now back at Saint Thomas Sports Park, he'll use this week to get back in football shape.

"You can do all the sprints in the world but when you put a helmet on it's different – it takes a little bit of time," Lewan said. "My main focus is to get the rust off as soon as possible and get ready to play Sunday.

"I am really excited to be here. I am stoked to be back with the boys and ready to get things going and hopefully play well on Sunday."

NASHVILLE – Left tackle Taylor Lewan is back with the Titans, and ready to do his part.

"It's been tough to be away, obviously," Lewan said on Wednesday. "You want to be able to compete and be with the boys. Now that I am back I am totally focused on the Buffalo Bills and Week 5."

Lewan, a three-time Pro Bowler, was suspended the first four games of the season for violating the league's policy against performance-enhancing substances.

Lewan said he watched the games on Sundays, and it wasn't easy.

"Any time you are put in a situation like this you have two choices: You can let it beat you up or you can grow from these types of things," Lewan said. "I believe that I have grown from it. There's been a lot of time for reflection for sure.

"I never, since I was little, had September off. So that was something to get used to and hopefully that will never happen again. I am just excited to play Week 5."

Lewan said he trained at Vanderbilt over the past month.

Now back at Saint Thomas Sports Park, he'll use this week to get back in football shape.

"You can do all the sprints in the world but when you put a helmet on it's different – it takes a little bit of time," Lewan said. "My main focus is to get the rust off as soon as possible and get ready to play Sunday.

"I am really excited to be here. I am stoked to be back with the boys and ready to get things going and hopefully play well on Sunday."

TAYLOR LEWAN IS MORE THAN JUST MARCUS MARIOTA'S BODYGUARD

BY TURRON DAVENPORT

AUGUST 1, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- If you look at the biggest contracts on each NFL team, the list often starts with a quarterback. That could be the case for the Tennessee Titans in the near future if Marcus Mariota lives up to expectations in his fourth season.

For now, though, left tackle Taylor Lewan is Tennessee's top dog after he signed the richest contract for an offensive lineman in NFL history. His five-year, $80 million contract extension that guarantees him $50 million is about more than his being selected to two consecutive Pro Bowls at a coveted position. And it's about more than his starting every game the past two seasons.

It's about energy and leadership.

Mariota is the cornerstone of the franchise, and the team picked up his fifth-year option in April, which is worth $20.9 million for the 2019 season. But he isn't much of a "rah-rah" guy. He lets his play and work ethic do the talking.

However, football is an emotional sport, and someone among the veterans has to bring the energy to the facility every day to break up the monotony. That's where Lewan brings added value. It is not uncommon to see him singing along to a country song playing over the speakers at practice. He flashes a big smile when fans in the stands call him "Deebo" to get him to sign autographs.

Highest Paid By Position

POS.	PLAYER, TM.	GTD $
QB	Matt Ryan, ATL	$100M
RB	Todd Gurley, LAR	$45M
WR	Mike Evans, TB	$55.008M
TE	Charles Clay, BUF	$24.5M
OL	Taylor Lewan, TEN	$50M
DL	Fletcher Cox, PHI	$63.299M
LB	Von Miller, DEN	$70M
CB	Josh Norman, WSH	$50M
S	Eric Berry, KC	$40M

The 6-foot-7, 309-pound left tackle is always upbeat and talkative during practice. Lewan won't hesitate to congratulate a defensive player on a good play. He'll also talk trash to a defensive lineman before driving him to the ground during a pass-blocking drill.

The energy Lewan brings is contagious, and other players feed off it. Lewan is one of the players who will raise the intensity level, especially during the muggy summer days of training camp. That's good news for new Titans coach Mike Vrabel, who is looking to establish a resilient culture in Tennessee.

"What it comes down to is how our football team works when times are bad," Vrabel said Monday. "When something bad happens, you define what your culture is, how competitive you are, how tough you are and if you're conditioned to do it every single day, no matter how good or bad things are."

Vrabel pointed to Hall of Fame coach Bill Parcells' approach as an example of refining a team: Losers sit around and complain. Winners get together and find ways to win.

Players such as Lewan can help establish a team-wide mindset of being resilient and bouncing back when challenging times arise.

"Leadership is always important. You gotta have someone you can point to that does it the right way, someone that has been through the fires and came out on the other end," wide receivers coach Rob Moore said during minicamp.

Some players elect to hold out of training camp in hopes of getting a new contract. Lewan reported to camp and participated in practice while awaiting his extension.

Sure, there was an injury risk, but Lewan felt it was what he needed to do.

"It's my obligation to be out here and sharpen my tools to get ready for a strong season," Lewan said. "I know I'm on the team this year and want to do whatever I need to make this team successful."

Vrabel summed up what it means to have players such as Lewan in the building: "Leaders bring people along and make people better."

For general manager Jon Robinson, ensuring that Mariota's personal protector is in place was a smart decision. Lewan has allowed just five sacks the past two seasons, but he brings more than pass protection. Last season, Tennessee produced 24 of its 41 rushing first downs and 23 runs of 10 or more yards when running left.

Mariota might be the most excited to have Lewan in the lineup for the long haul.

"I am happy for him and glad that's all taken care of," Mariota said. "Taylor [Lewan] has done such a great job for us. It's well-deserved, and I'm looking forward to having him here for years to come."

TAYLOR LEWAN'S NEW PROJECT? BUY A BUS AND START A PODCAST WITH WILL COMPTON

TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JULY 23, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Some NFL players travel the world during the offseason. Former Tennessee Titans linebacker Will Compton and current left tackle Taylor Lewan decided to do something different. They got on a bus and started a podcast. Their podcast -- called "Bussin' with the Boys" -- is literally recorded on a bus.

Why a bus? Lewan wanted it after he spotted it sitting outside the production company's office. He bought the old bus covered in Budweiser logos for $2,000 and teamed with his interior designer to convert it into a studio.

Titans OT Taylor Lewan (left) and free agent Will Compton (right) have been spending a lot of time on their bus with guests like CrossFit athlete Rich Froning. Courtesy of Will Compton

It's not often that an NFL team's most prominent personality belongs to an offensive lineman, but that's precisely the case with the Titans and Lewan, who bonded with Compton after the veteran linebacker signed with the Titans last year. Doing a podcast together is something that Compton contemplated during the season.

"I've always wanted to do a podcast, personally," Compton told ESPN. "Around December, I did a radio show, and I was like, 'I am going to do it. I'm pulling the trigger.' Taylor [Lewan] was like, 'Yo, let's go all-in on this.' He's an awesome dude, and we wanted to find an avenue to use our personalities. I was fired up because there's a part of you that's nervous to do something like this on your own."

Encouragement from teammates Logan Ryan and Derrick Morgan cemented Compton's commitment to the show. Lewan and Compton did their first podcast in May. The show already has seen some success, having moved up to the No. 10 spot among Sports and Recreation podcasts on iTunes.

"Bussin' with the Boys" gives Compton and Lewan an opportunity for unfiltered talk with guests who have ranged from Titans head coach Mike Vrabel to Minnesota Vikings quarterback Kirk Cousins. Guests of the show come on the bus and sit on a couch with nearby access to a bottle of Tennessee's finest whiskey if they'd like to pour a drink. That loosens things up for what has become one of the funniest podcasts available.

The podcast is hosted on its own platform which allows "The Boys" to ask the most off-the-wall questions without worrying about pushback. Lewan asking Coach Vrabel if he would cut off a particular body part in exchange for a Titans Super Bowl win is a good example.

With training camp around the corner, all of Lewan's focus will return to his day job as a Pro Bowl left tackle. Compton is a free agent and staying ready in case he gets a call to report to a team. That doesn't mean there won't be more episodes of "Bussin' with the Boys." They're putting extra hours in on the bus to get as many episodes recorded as possible so the show can go on through the regular season.

DION LEWIS HAS ARRIVED: THE NEW TITANS RUNNING BACK, AFTER YEARS TRYING TO PROVE HIMSELF, FINDS VALIDATION IN TENNESSEE

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
AUGUST 30, 2018

Only a couple of days after signing with the Titans, running back Dion Lewis stepped to the podium at the team's facility, answering his first round of questions from the Nashville media.

One query, in particular, hit home.

Asked about his long, arduous road to the present, Lewis caught the eyes of his parents – mother Linda and father Leroy – in the back of the room before answering. His voice cracked as he began to talk, tears sliding down Lewis' cheek for the first of several times during the press conference.

It was a shocking sight for cornerback Malcolm Butler, Lewis' friend and teammate of three years in New England before both players signed with the Titans in March.

"It was most definitely stunning," Butler said. "In all of my years knowing Dion, I never thought he'd ever cry about anything. He's so tough on and off the field, a stand-up guy. That just let me know the moment really touched his soul."

The episode was a memorable one for Linda Lewis as well, but Lewis' mother – as mothers always do – had a clearer understanding of what was going through her son's mind.

This was the moment Lewis had finally arrived, even more so than when he helped the Patriots capture a Super Bowl following the 2016 season, even more so than when he tore through the NFL during the second half of last season.

This was Lewis finally realizing his dream of a big NFL contract — shunning the naysayers who'd said he was too small, commemorating his victory over an assortment of brutal injuries, and celebrating the comeback he'd earlier made after missing a full two seasons.

"I think in his mind, everything that had happened to him over the years just came flooding to the front of his brain," Linda Lewis said. "He was just overcome with everything at that moment.

"It was like, `I really am a professional football player and I have a team that appreciates me for me, and wants me for my abilities and who I am.' That's how he felt. He was just so grateful."

Turkeys and reindeer

Lewis first told his parents he was going to be a professional football player when he was just five years old. His belief hadn't changed by the time he reached junior high, when Lewis delivered an intriguing answer to the question "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

Writing in his junior high yearbook for all to see, Lewis responded, "I want to be a running back in the NFL and always eat chocolate-chip cookies."

Lewis' mother didn't discourage his ambitions in the least, but made sure Lewis knew it took more than athletic talent to reach his goals.

"We always believed in him. He knew he always had us," Linda Lewis said. "But I said to him, `If you're serious about the NFL, the most important thing right now as a 13-year-old is your grades. So when all your friends are going out to the mall or going to the movies, you need to stay back and study,' and he did. He did. He listened to us."

Linda Lewis was equally adamant that her son was a good member of their Albany, New York, community.

A service director for the non-profit Unity House of Troy – where she helps provide work for people living with mental illness, substance abuse, domestic violence and AIDS – Linda Lewis found plenty of opportunity for Dion.

On snow days and holidays, Lewis would often head to work with his mother, helping unload hundreds of frozen Thanksgiving turkeys from a truck, for instance, and then delivering food baskets to community members.

He also volunteered for the Police Athletic League in Albany, even when the job assignments were a little out of the ordinary.

"He came home one night from a holiday celebration we call `Lights in the Park,' and he said, `They made me dress up as a reindeer and greet people tonight,'" Linda Lewis said. "I told him, `You'll always remember that, Honey.'"

Lewis learned a lot from both his parents over the years, as his father labored in the construction field, often working with asbestos and other hazardous materials. Leroy Lewis recently retired after back problems forced him to undergo extensive surgery.

"Growing up, my parents were always tough on me, real strict," Lewis said. "They told me they knew I wanted to play football, so they just pretty much told me what it was going to take and I just listened. All the hard work, not hanging around the wrong people and things like that, I just listened to what they told me and worked hard."

Two years without football

Lewis and his family might have been convinced he was on his way to becoming a pro, but the rest of the world needed convincing.

Only one college, Pittsburgh, offered the 5-8 Lewis a scholarship, and that only came after the Panthers happened to notice him on tape while recruiting another player. But Lewis made an impact right away, topping 1,000 yards in both of his seasons at Pitt and producing a combined 31 touchdowns.

Convinced he would be a second- or third-round pick in the NFL Draft, Lewis chose to turn pro, only have to wait through the event's first two days without hearing his name. On the final day, Philadelphia finally called, notifying Lewis the Eagles had picked him in the fifth round.

"It was really difficult walking around my house those first two days because he just had that look of such heartbreak on his face," Linda Lewis said. "Then when Andy Reid called him on the phone and he came downstairs, came over to me and gave me a huge hug. I'll never forget it. He was sobbing."

Lewis found himself stuck behind LeSean McCoy during his two seasons in Philadelphia, carrying the football just 36 times in 24 games. The Eagles traded him to Cleveland in 2013, but things would get worse before they would get better for the 195-pound back.

Over the next two years, Lewis played a grand total of zero games, missing the first season with a broken leg, getting cut by Cleveland, and then missing the following year after Indianapolis cut him early in 2014.

"I watched my professional football player on my couch, watching all of his peers play football," Linda Lewis said. "That was hard. That was very hard. But he kept strong, he kept practicing, he kept working out."

Added Lewis: "I just believed in myself. I know what type of football player I am and I know what I'm capable of. I wanted to make sure I always stayed ready. I knew I would get another opportunity. I just had to be ready for it."

Okay, kid, you've got it now

That opportunity came in New England, but after a promising seven-game start to the 2015 season, injury derailed Lewis' career once again. This time it was a torn ACL that sidelined Lewis after seven games.

Once again, he was forced to watch his teammates, eventually undergoing two knee surgeries that kept him out of action until late November of 2016. It was Lewis' sixth year out of college at that point, and only twice had he managed to play in more than half the games of a season.

Some might have seen the recurring injuries as a sign that the football life wasn't to be, but Lewis said he never stopped believing.

"I just kept getting back up," Lewis said. "Life is about a lot of ups and downs. Football is the same. You just take the good and the bad, stay the same person throughout it all. That's what I did. I knew I was going to do whatever it took to get back."

Lewis' patience and perseverance was first rewarded in that 2016 season, when he helped guide the Patriots to a come-from-behind Super Bowl win over Atlanta. He scored two postseason touchdowns and accounted for 274 all-purpose yards during the playoffs.

"Seriously, to be on the field and watch your kid holding the Lombardi Trophy after the Super Bowl – with his face beaming – that was so much fun," Linda Lewis said. "I took his picture with my cell phone and put it on Facebook, and the next thing I knew, it was in every newspaper and everything else. I guess they liked what I took."

Lewis' production improved that much more last season in New England, as his 625 rushing yards over the second half of the season led the league. Pro Football Focus named him a second-team All-Pro running back behind Todd Gurley, grading him as the NFL's most elusive back, meaning he piled up yardage even when his blockers weren't able to help.

Those kinds of numbers led to the NFL beating a path to Lewis' door in free agency, delivering the kind of attention he'd never before received.

"He called me up and said, `Mom, now I know what it's like to be in high school and to have colleges coming after you with scholarships,'" Linda Lewis said. "I felt like, `Okay, kid. You've got it now.'"

Sky is the limit

Lewis said he chose the Titans – signing a four-year, $19.8 million deal – for a few reasons: the relationship he formed with general manager Jon Robinson and coach Mike Vrabel, the feeling he had that the Titans were a team on the rise, and the opportunity to be part of a one-two punch with Derrick Henry in the backfield.

His two former teammates now in Tennessee, Butler and fellow cornerback Logan Ryan, couldn't have been happier Lewis joined them in Nashville. They were excited not only for what Lewis' talents would mean for the offense, but also for the ways that Lewis would improve the Titans' defense in practice.

"I always try to go against him in the tackle drills," Butler said. "I want to make it as hard as possible, so in games it won't be that hard. Dion will make sure you make the right move because he can cut on a dime."

Added Ryan, who's known Lewis since high school: "He's extremely elusive. He's made his career out of making people miss. I pride myself on being one of the better tacklers, and I try to go up against Dion every day because he makes me better. He's really, really hard to tackle."

Though Lewis ran for more yards last season (896) and scored more touchdowns (nine) than he had in all his previous years combined, he's confident his best years are still ahead of him.

He'll turn 28 in September, but Lewis would seem to have plenty of treads left on his tires, having carried the football just 329 times in his career.

“My body feels young,” Lewis said. “I’ve learned how to take care of myself over the years, just from certain players I’ve been around. So if I can keep doing that, the sky is the limit.

“I want to show people that last year wasn’t a one-time thing, that it wasn’t just because I was with the Patriots that I had a good year. It’s because I’m a good player. I want to go out and prove that.”

DION LEWIS STILL MATTERS TO TITANS IN THIS DERRICK HENRY ERA

BY JOE REXRODE
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 1, 2019

PAGE: 1B

A change of pace for $5 million sounds about as cost-effective as a beer for $11, and you can find both in Nashville these days.

Savor that beer. Remember that back. Dion Lewis still matters to the Titans, and in this league – especially at that position – it's unwise to make long-term assumptions. Around midseason 2018, this looked like an offense made for Lewis and a bench reserved for Derrick Henry. He was the change of pace.

By the end of December, Henry was a third-year star coming into his own and … what was that deal for Lewis again? Four years, $19.8 million? Sound a bit steep right now? Maybe, but maybe December Derrick Henry was the exception and not the rule. Maybe the lucrative long-term deal that Henry has put himself in position to earn will not materialize, either because he fades again or because that's simply the plight of the NFL running back and the Titans have other costs.

A year from now, the Titans might not be able to do without Lewis, or they might not be able to afford him anymore. There are talented young guys at the position in Titans camp now, preparing to make bids. Lewis just knows he has to take advantage of whatever opportunities he gets, understanding they might be limited as the Titans give Henry every chance to resume trucking.

"Everybody knows what I can do, so I've just got to come out here and try to show leadership by working every day, try to be consistent," Lewis said. "This team wants to be a great team, so we've got to be consistent every day. I try to show that and work hard and just let the game come to me. I don't have to force anything. The plays are going to be made. When they're there, I've got to make them."

The difficult thing, for some, would be looking too hard for them amid rep restriction.

"Oh no," Lewis said when asked about pressing, "because it's all about the team. It's not about one player. It's about what's best for the team. So whatever role I get, I'm going to do it to the best of my ability. Go out there, stay in the game plan and do what my team needs me to do."

These are the right words. At age 28, the 5-foot-8 Lewis still has good feet, too. He was effective in 2018, rushing for 517 yards (though just 3.3 per carry) and finishing second on the team with 59 catches for 400 yards. He had one touchdown each way.

He also looked more like a third-down back down the stretch while Henry took over the lead role. Lewis had 20 carries for 53 yards in the final four games; Henry had 87 for 585. Lewis did have 14 catches for 91 yards in those games, and that's his major this fall.

When he gets carries, he vows to stop searching too hard for a home run and striking out instead, which is actually something Henry was doing at midseason when this backfield was flip-flopped. Lewis had 52 carries for 210 yards and 12 catches for 135 in a trifecta of games against the Chargers, Cowboys and Patriots – the last two season-turning wins.

Lewis had nearly double Henry's touches in those games, 64 to 33. Henry had a 1-0 edge in ESPN reports that the Titans had shopped him at the trading deadline. Life moves pretty fast for NFL running backs. Just ask former Titan DeMarco Murray, who was the best running back in the NFL in November 2016 and out of the league 14 months later.

There's talent behind Lewis in camp, some fresh blood with David Fluellen bulked up and doing the fullback/H-back thing. The 5-7 Dalyn Dawkins brings Lewis to mind. Kansas State rookie Alex Barnes (6-0, 226) isn't quite Henry (6-3, 247), but he's also big, fast and impressive. Jeremy McNichols, a former Boise State star who was on Denver's practice squad last season, is impossible to miss.

"Excited about Jeremy McNichols," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "Dawk, we know how quick and how hard he can run. Not a big back, but he hits the hole hard … Barnes is a bigger back that is in great condition, that can run through some arm tackles and is learning how to play special teams."

Every season has surprises. Did anyone have Rishard Matthews disappearing and Cam Batson emerging on the radar a year ago? Maybe 2019 will see Lewis reclaim some of his touches, or get seriously pushed by a young guy, or neither.

He is getting first-team reps right now while Henry nurses a minor lower-leg injury. Frankly, Henry can take a few weeks off, have a couple of $11 beers and be the guy when the Titans open the regular season Sept. 8 at Cleveland. That still leaves room for another.

ISAIAH MACK SHOULDN'T BE HERE, BUT HE HAS TRUCKED HIS WAY INTO THE TITANS' PLANS

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
AUGUST 30, 2019

CHICAGO — His left testicle was gone and any more football could put his right testicle in jeopardy, and though that moment for Isaiah Mack — hearing from a doctor in a hospital that he would have to give up the game — was just eight years ago, it may as well have been a million years and a million miles from Thursday night at Soldier Field.

This time, Mack not playing was football good news. Or so it seems. The 6-foot-1, 299-pound surprise of the Tennessee Titans' preseason sat out a 19-15 win over the Chicago Bears, along with most of both teams' key players. Considering the former Tennessee-Chattanooga star's body of work leading up to Thursday, that's an apparent indication that he will be on the 53-man roster that must be finalized Saturday. There's nothing certain yet, and general manager Jon Robinson has decisions ahead. A third quarterback, Logan Woodside? A fourth running back, Jeremy McNichols? Keeping Mack likely would mean a surplus of defensive linemen for a team with a 3-4 defense, or it would mean a surprise release of someone supposedly ahead of Mack on the defensive line pecking order. Three players who fit that bill — Austin Johnson, Matt Dickerson and Brent Urban — started Thursday.

If he could do it, Robinson might send Mack directly to the Titans' practice squad for a year of developing and helping the Tennessee offense prepare for games each week. But a player who is cut from an active roster must clear waivers before he can be signed to a practice squad, and it would be a major gamble at this point to leave Mack exposed. He has played too well, looked too physical and athletic, at a premium position in this league to trust that another team wouldn't sign him to its active roster. More likely than the Titans flirting with a Mack heist is the Titans getting something out of Mack on the field in 2019.

They may have found themselves a gem here. They've definitely found a self-proclaimed "country boy" and "Mama's boy" from tiny Tunnel Hill, Ga., whose favorite hobby is going "mudding" in his pickup truck with his pickup-truck-loving buddies, who hunts and fishes and cooks and is admittedly obsessed with pedicures — he can get them more often now that the Titans are paying him more than $1,000 a week in the preseason. They've found an undrafted, 23-year-old honors student with a criminal justice degree from UTC whose intent the moment football ends is to work as a police officer in his hometown and perhaps go from there to the FBI or DEA. They've found a competitor who was so upset after a senior-year loss to his high school rival, he slept in a car all night rather than endure being around people. They've found a big kid who, during the in-home visit that got him to Chattanooga, sat in his mother's lap the entire time.

"Boy, get out of your mama's lap," Marcus West, then UTC's defensive line coach, joked near the end of a four-person conversation that included Charlotte head coach Will Healy, who was UTC's recruiting coordinator at the time. "I can tell we're gonna have to break this up."

Actually, he could tell there was no way. And that the 25-mile distance between the Macks' home and Chattanooga was going to be a major recruiting advantage. Sequoyah Mack and her two sons are tight. And a terrifying night in 2011 strengthened that bond and put her oldest son on the path that has him on the cusp of a full-time NFL job today.

Sequoyah made Sloppy Joes that night for Isaiah and his younger brother, Rashaun. The boys shared a room, and when Rashaun came into Sequoyah's room to tell her Isaiah's stomach was bothering him, she wondered if something had gone wrong with the meat.

"But then when he started projectile vomiting," she said, "I knew something else was going on."

Sequoyah is an oncology nurse and works at an HIV clinic, but this was a new one for her. Soon after racing Isaiah to the hospital, the Macks learned he had testicular torsion. This happens when the spermatic cord, which provides blood to the testicle, gets twisted. The blood supply stops and the pain and swelling are intense. It's most common among teenagers, and the Macks never found out what caused it. But the twisting had gone on too long to save Isaiah's left testicle, and he had it removed in an emergency surgery. Doctors then told him his right testicle was now in greater jeopardy and that he would have to give up football.

That's when he realized how much he cared about this game, which had done so much already to embolden him socially.

"He told me football was a part of him, that if he couldn't play he didn't want to go to school," Sequoyah said. "Obviously that wasn't an option. The No. 1 objective has always been education. But I made a deal with him that if he would make that the priority, I would do everything I could do to help him keep playing football."

Isaiah Mack and his mother, Sequoyah (Courtesy of Isaiah Mack)

They met with a urologist. They took all possible protective measures. They prayed. They never encountered another issue. Mack still has regular check-ups and has his testosterone closely monitored, but the risk has plummeted now that he's in his 20s.

"It was really tough, a rough time, but she got me through it," Mack said of Sequoyah. “It made me better.”

Better as a student. Better as a player. Healy and West, who is now Healy’s assistant head coach and co-defensive coordinator at Charlotte, knew bigger programs were missing on Mack. Georgia State, Arkansas State and Central Arkansas were the main competitors for Mack, even though he was becoming a force — nicknamed “IMack” — under coach Josh Robinson at Northwest Whitfield High.

“It’s just not a place people go to recruit much,” Healy said of Tunnel Hill, which according to U.S. Census data has a population of 1,168 and is more than 90 percent white. “The thing I remember most is that he just had a world of potential. Honestly, none of the success he’s having right now surprises me at all.”

West said the only thing that surprised him about Mack’s NFL situation is that he wasn’t drafted. Mack is “twitching out there right now,” West said of his quickness and explosion. And it’s hard for West to imagine an NFL coach or executive meeting with Mack and not being instantly impressed. Quirks aside, of course. Mack has a few.

“He’s country, country, country, and he’s just a different bird,” West said. “We still have the most meaningful, meaningless conversations ever. Those conversations mean the world to me, but a lot of times I’ll hang up the phone and say, ‘What the hell did we just talk about?’”

Mack made an impact right away at UTC under head coach Russ Huesman, though he redshirted in 2014 for a team that had future NFL pass rushers in Davis Tull and Keionta Davis, along with current Titans offensive lineman Corey Levin. He was a terror for the scout team, so much so that offensive linemen often got angry and delivered some extra shots after whistles had blown.

“We didn’t like having to block him,” Levin said.

“The older guys would get so pissed off at him because honestly he’d whoop their tail, man,” West said. “They’d always give him that extra shove after the whistle. I said, ‘Mack if I ever see them shove you again and you don’t do anything about it, I’m gonna jump down your throat so hard.’ So one day I see him after practice and he’s just sitting on a knee, in tears. I say ‘What’s wrong with you?’ He said, ‘Coach, every day since you told me I have to fight, I’ve been in a fight every single day. They push me, push them, I fight one and then I’m fighting them all. I said, ‘Mack, I promise you, you keep fighting every single day and they’ll eventually get tired of fighting you.’”

The next summer, Mack was living with those linemen, in the basement of Levin’s house, cooking ribs and Cajun pasta for the whole bunch. He was a quick success in college, but home was never far. Sequoyah would come over to his apartment on Monday nights during football season for his cooking. When he had breaks, he would get with his high school buddies for what remains his favorite pastime — big trucks with lights and lifts, loud speakers and one of several choice mud pits in the Tunnel Hill/Dalton area.

“We just have a good ol’ time,” said Mack, who has a Ford F-150. “Growing up, all my boys had big trucks and I wasn’t quite able to afford one, so now that’s the goal. A Ford F-250. But I love my truck now, it’s always dirty and muddy. It’s funny seeing people react when I’m the one who gets out of it. But that’s just me, I’m strange and I’m different, just somebody you can’t pinpoint. I don’t like being labeled as this or that.”

Mack went to college intent on a nursing career, to be like Sequoyah and perhaps to work with her. But he took a criminal justice class as a freshman on violence against women. He changed his major to criminal justice the next semester. Though the two most important people in his life are women — Sequoyah and her mother, Sheenequa Mack — he had never seen women in this way.

“I saw a different view of how women go through life, the things they have to deal with,” Mack said. “Things I never thought about before that, just walking around campus, the trials and tribulations, things that men don’t have to think about. It really opened my eyes.”

The switch did not surprise Sequoyah.

“He’s this big brawny man, but he’s just a teddy bear,” she said of the son she calls “D” because his middle name is Dwight. “He’s for the underdog. When he was in high school I would often have to tell him, ‘You can’t save everybody. You can try but you can’t save everybody, because that’s not always for you to do.’ He would have a hard time seeing somebody mess with somebody who was less fortunate or smaller. He had a hard time seeing a bully. Then he’d become the aggressor. And I think that’s what he likes about football, he can let that anger spew all over the field.”

The hardest part of Mack’s college came when Healy got the Austin Peay job in 2016 and took West with him. Mack was certain at first that he wanted to transfer. The longest and most serious phone conversation he had with West came as Mack was sitting in the woods, near the Walnut Street Bridge in Chattanooga. That’s where he goes to think. West convinced Mack the right thing to do was to stay and keep playing for Huesman. Besides, how would he be able to handle being more than three hours away from home?

Mack stayed, and stayed again after Huesman left for Richmond and Tom Arth took over the program. Mack was named Southern Conference Defensive Player of the Year and an Associated Press All-American as a senior, collecting 78 tackles and 8½ sacks. He had become an NFL prospect. After the past month with the Titans, it is clear he is a player.

Sequoyah saw that for herself in Philadelphia, when her son asserted himself in the Titans' first preseason game.

"It's surreal, it gives you a peace, seeing your child work so hard to accomplish something and then getting there," said Sequoyah, who despite her busy schedule gets to her sons' big moments — Rashaun is a Georgia State student and aspiring lawyer — whenever possible.

So it was tough for her to miss Thursday's game. She was back home working. She does all she can to be there when he plays. As it turns out, she didn't miss a thing.

Titans brass won't talk roster until the roster must be discussed. Mike Vrabel said after Thursday's game that he has "enjoyed working with" Mack, but he wouldn't get into the decision to sit him. Mack said he didn't know what it meant, but he may have let a grin slip in briefly as he dressed. It looks like he's made it. The NFL rookie minimum salary is $495,000 which means, though careful investing will be the emphasis, a souped-up F-250 would be in order. That and even more pampering for those feet that helped get Mack here.

"I get my feet done an obnoxious amount of times," Mack said. "It might go up a little bit more if I make the team. But hey, Mom always told me to take care of my feet. And I do whatever she says, she's the boss. She's my person."

ACCEPTING BLAME FOR EVERYTHING IS JUST THE WAY MARCUS MARIOTA IS, AND IT'S ENDEARING TO TEAMMATES

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 26, 2019

One of Marcus Mariota's closest friends, Titans offensive lineman Hroniss Grasu, has become adept at changing the channel for his roommate — in more ways than one.

When Mariota is in the midst of mentally beating himself up for a sub-standard game — or even practice — Grasu is the one who makes sure the Titans' starting quarterback doesn't actually start smashing his head against the wall.

Sometimes, Mariota's dogs — he has a pair of of Frenchtons (a mix of French bulldog and Boston Terrier) — will do the trick all by themselves, immediately taking Mariota's mind off football.

"When he comes home and sees his two dogs, he's one of the happiest people in the world," said Grasu, who served as Mariota's center at Oregon from 2012-14. "He loves them. That's how he unwinds."

Other times, however, Grasu steers the topic away from football when the two arrive at their Nashville home, which they share with Mariota's girlfriend.

That's not always the easiest thing to do, since professional football is both men's livelihood. But Grasu finds getting Mariota interested in a television program is an effective way to lighten the mood as well.

"We're always going to take an hour or two after practice — just to review that day's stuff and go over the next day," Grasu said. "But after that, maybe just try to shut (football) off and just a watch a show, maybe The Golf Channel or 'Stranger Things.' That's what we're into now, 'Stranger Things.' We actually just started Season 1.

"But really, just make him laugh, especially after the Colts game and the Jaguars game, make him laugh. He does a great job with everything, though, so it makes my job easy."

Everyone should have a friend like Grasu, the kind of buddy who can help someone unwind when the wiring gets a little too tight.

But it's especially important for Mariota, simply because he takes responsibility for everything that goes wrong with the Titans' offense. These days, that's probably a pretty tough burden to bear, considering the Titans have scored a combined 24 points in their past two games — back-to-back AFC South losses to Indianapolis and Jacksonville.

How quick is Mariota to put his own head on the chopping block?

In the moments following the frustrating loss to Jacksonville, a game in which he'd been sacked nine times, Mariota calmly explained why two incomplete passes thrown against the Jaguars — one potential big-gainer to Tajae Sharpe, one to Corey Davis — were nobody's fault but his own.

On Wednesday, Mariota was asked about his chemistry with Davis — who has only six catches in three games — and without a second's hesitation said, "That's specifically on me. I think he's finding ways to get open. I've just got to get him the ball."

Mariota's sincere penchant for assuming responsibility — rightly or wrongly — apparently extends beyond football. Take it from Grasu, who's been known to arrive late for offseason lunches between the two, only to have Mariota wave away his apologies.

"Even though I screwed up and was late, he'll take the blame and say, 'No, no, I got here too early,'" Grasu said. "That's just how he is. He never has an ego. His ego is always put to the side. He's always taking the blame or being very self-critical."

It's a trait that endears Mariota to teammates, especially tight end Delanie Walker, who's been on the receiving end of hundreds of Mariota passes over the past half-decade.

"It's tough being a quarterback in this league," Walker said. "You take all the blame, no matter what. That guy (Mariota)? He ain't going to say nothing (bad) about anyone.

"It don't matter that someone dropped the pass on third down or he got sacked multiple times. He's just going to say it was his fault, that he's got to do better, and that's the sad part."

Said wide receiver Darius Jennings: "That's just the sign of a great leader. We'll ride behind 'Eight' every time."

When Mariota is the kind of player who genuinely takes the blame for everything, can it also cause him to press? Can concerns over making mistakes outweigh taking risks to succeed? Can fear of failure, in other words, eventually weigh heavy on the mind of a player like Mariota?

Grasu was asked if Mariota — who's in a contract season, with a starting-caliber quarterback backing him up — might at times be too self-critical for his own good.

"It's a crazy balance he has, where he's very self-critical off the field, but when he's on the field, he's the most confident player I know," Grasu said. "He's very, very competitive, let me tell you. That's why he's so self-critical because he wants to win. That's all he cares about — winning. That's on his mind all the time."

But how does Mariota keep from beating himself up too much, to the extent that it might hamper his progress?

"When it comes down to it, it's being able to have people to talk to, whether that's family, whether it's teammates," Mariota said. "I really lean on my family, I lean on some of these other guys in the locker room, and given the opportunity to talk to them, you definitely feel better."

One of those guys in the locker is clearly Grasu, who says he tries to say something every day to remind Mariota that everything doesn't fall on his shoulders, that there are 11 players lining up on the offensive side of the ball.

But Mariota, Grasu explains, just never wants to let down his teammates, the organization or the fans.

Whether that unwavering willingness to carry the load helps Mariota remain with the Titans beyond this season remains to be seen.

One thing is for sure, though: If the two sides go their separate ways after this year, we know who'll take the blame.

TITANS' MARCUS MARIOTA'S INTERCEPTION-LESS STREAK HAS REACHED HISTORIC SIGNIFICANCE

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
OCTOBER 4, 2019

Anyone keeping close tabs on this season knows that Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota has yet to turn the ball over.

But did you know he's doing so at a historic rate?

Last week in Atlanta, Mariota threw three touchdown passes but didn't have any of his 27 pass attempts intercepted. It was his sixth consecutive game without throwing an interception, dating to Dec. 6 in Jacksonville.

Since then, Mariota has attempted 169 total passes to establish a franchise record for the most consecutive passes thrown without an interception. He broke Kerry Collins' previous mark of 161 passes without an interception, set in 2008.

Additionally, Mariota now holds the NFL's longest active streak of passes without an interception. The next closest to him is Kansas City's Patrick Mahomes (163 attempts), followed by the New York Jets' Sam Darnold (155) and Seattle's Russell Wilson (151).

WHY MARCUS MARIOTA'S EGGS ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN YOU MAY THINK (IT'S NOT ACTUALLY ABOUT EGGS)

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
JUNE 12, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Reporters used to hang out at least once a week around the quarterbacks' locker, and it wasn't all notebooks and microphones. It certainly wasn't all live streamed as a TV show.

The official stuff would be over, the cameras would be down, the tape recorders off.

Then, as with some of the sorts of conversations that still exist with lower-profile players, sometimes even one-on-one, you could bullshit about stuff – the NBA finals, the success or failure of alma mater, the headlines in or out of the world of sports, a good restaurant, a funny joke or – even – the menu helping a guy who's offseason focus was bulking up 12 or 13 pounds maintain the weight.

Player-reporter relationships aren't like a typical office, but some of these conversations are actually like those that take place in a typical office.

The elevation of quarterbacks to once-a-week talkers who often hit bullet points, say as little as possible and get the hell out of dodge has decreased the opportunity for such connections in some places with some guys, certainly the Titans' private and reserved one.

Marcus Mariota is one of the nicest guys you'll ever meet and squeezes in a question about people's kids or engages in quick banter about beaches in quick interactions when he crosses paths with some of us.

We also know next to nothing about him. Honestly, in four-plus years covering him the top thing I've unearthed about him is that he makes his bed when he stays in a hotel and can't stand a mess.

The second most interesting things I've learned about him? Honestly, I'm hard-pressed to think of it.

Now he's not obligated to be interesting or to reveal much, but I'm obligated to try to find out interesting things about him and to try to connect with him.

So I'm not apologizing for a conversation the press core had with him about eggs on Tuesday, and from the chats I've had with colleagues about it after who also heard some of the Twitter complains, they won't be either.

My Midday 180 co-hosts Jonathan Hutton and Chad Withrow absolutely crushed me for it. They said I've become who I hate and said this conversation was the same as the "What's your favorite Thanksgiving dish" piece I mock local TV stations for doing annually.

That's not at all the same as the Thanksgiving dish question, sorry.

And I'm not pretending it's revolutionary or even particularly important info and I'm not breathlessly broadcasting it.

But it was the starting quarterback actually providing some detail and texture and having some fun with it, which helped us connect with him and it was well separate of the earlier part of the press session about the terrible team period where he threw awfully.

I don't think any of us would choose for it to be broadcast by the team or radio stations, but that's the way of the world now. You see more of the whole ecosystem than you used to and that's a good thing in a lot of ways for a fan, and it's a good thing in a lot of ways for businesses like this one and The Midday 180. But it's not all good.

You get to hear it all when it comes to us chatting with the quarterback, even when we start out by asking something that's not unimportant – how have you changed your diet to keep your weight on.

In a good piece about that metamorphosis being able to write or say he's doubled his egg consumption and he eats them scrambled with tomatoes and onions and a little ham, rarely cooking them himself. That's a nice detail. It's not earth-shattering, of course, but a nice detail of the sort it's hard to get into many pieces on Mariota.

It's the sort of detail a good reporter wants to include and a good reader wants to read.

And if you judge the subsequent conversation to be hollow and insignificant, that's fine.

Guess what? It serves a purpose and it wasn't for you.

6 HAWAII PRO ATHLETES UNITE IN CHALLENGE TO RAISE FUNDS FOR ISLE DISASTER AREAS

BY NINA WU
HONOLULU STAR ADVERTISER
JULY 12, 2018

Six pro athletes, including Tennessee Titans Quarterback Marcus Mariota, have launched the "Be A Hero for Hawai'i Challenge" to raise funds for communities affected by recent disasters, particularly the Kilauea Volcano eruption.

The challenge, launched in partnership with the Hawai'i Community Foundation, pits local athletes from three different sports against each other to see which one can rally fans, teammates and rivals to raise the most money for the cause. Pro baseball, pro football and pro mixed martial arts are represented. Donors get to choose which sport they support when they donate, but regardless of which team wins, all of the funds raised through the challenge will go to Hawaii Community Foundation's Hawai'i Island Volcano Recovery Fund to help cover long-term recovery efforts, particularly housing needs for those displaced by the eruption.

The six participating professional athletes are:

>> Kamu Grugier-Hill, linebacker for the Philadelphia Eagles, the reigning Super Bowl champion football team.

>> Marcus Mariota, quarterback for the Tennessee Titans.

>> Max Holloway, UFC Featherweight Champion.

>> Yancy Medeiros, UFC fighter.

>> Kolten Wong, second baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals.

>> Isiah Kiner-Falefa, infielder for the Texas Rangers.

Grugier-Hill said his sister-in-law lost her home to the Kilauea eruption, so he wanted to help, and thought bringing everyone together could help the cause.

"It is going to take a long time to rebuild and they will need a lot of resources," he said. "I had to do something to help and was looking for a way to bring people together around it. So I called other pro athlete friends who were from Hawaii to join in. These guys didn't hesitate and were immediately on board. That's just how Hawaii rolls. And being the competitors we are, we thought it would be great to see which one of our sports could raise the most money."

Wong, who had also launched a GoFundMe campaign when the eruptions began, said he wanted to give back to his hometown.

"Being from the Big Island of Hawaii, using this platform and trying to raise money for these people to restart their lives again and the process to get them into new homes was a no-brainer," he said. "Giving back is always number one. We always want to take care of our family, take care of our ohana. Hawaii is definitely part of our ohana."

Said Hawai'i Community Foundation president and CEO, "Both on and off the field, or octagon, Kamu and the other athletes epitomize what true heroes are. Through their hard work, commitment and dedication they have all found success in their chosen careers but when called upon, they give back to their community and help others — they are setting a great example to the young local kids in our community who look up to them."

Donations for the challenge can be made at Heroes-forHawaii.org or by mail to Hawai'i Community Foundation, 827 Fort Street Mall, Honolulu, HI, 96813. Those mailing donations should note which sports team they support.

TRIP TO OREGON DAYS BEFORE TRAINING CAMP STRENGTHENED BOND BETWEEN TITANS QB MARCUS MARIOTA, WR ADAM HUMPHRIES

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JULY 29, 2019

NASHVILLE – If Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota and receiver Adam Humphries look like they already have a great rapport, it's because they do.

And there's a reason.

Mariota invited Humphries to Oregon just days before the start of training camp and the two spent a lot of time together. They threw passes on the field, played golf, had meals together, and really got to know one another. This on top of the time they spent together during the offseason in Nashville.

During the first three days of training camp, Mariota and Humphries have been on the same page. Humphries attributes it to the work they've put in – including his trip out West.

"Obviously we spent a lot of time together in the spring working but going up to Oregon and spending on-on-one time with Marcus, meeting his girlfriend and some of the people he grew up with at Oregon, it was huge," Humphries said. "And it was cool to see the type of guy he is and how he handles his stuff.

"It was just a good time to build chemistry and find out what type of person he is. I think that definitely helps. And he's obviously a great guy."

@jwyattsports

.@adamhumphries13 knows how to get open. @Titans

Humphries, who signed with the Titans in March after playing his first four NFL seasons with Tampa Bay, traveled to Oregon, where Mariota played his college ball, on July 18-19. Mariota reported to training camp with the team's quarterbacks on July 22, just a few days before the entire team. Prior to working with Humphries, Mariota also worked in California in July with a number of the team's other receivers, including Tajae Sharpe, Taywan Taylor, Cameron Batson and A.J. Brown.

Receivers Corey Davis, Darius Jennings and Humphries also had a throwing session away from Saint Thomas Sports Park earlier in the offseason before the start of the offseason program.

In Oregon, Mariota took snaps from center Hroniss Grasu, his teammate with the Titans and at Oregon, and then dropped back to throw passes to Humphries, who ran routes. They talked football, life and more.

During the course of one of their workouts, they also discussed a hand signal Mariota planned to give Humphries if the defense gave the offense a certain look. On the second day of training camp, when the defense lined up a certain way, Mariota and Humphries made eye contact.

"He looked out at me, and gave me the signal we'd talked about," Humphries said with a smile, "and it helped out.

"The chemistry is something that we'll continue to build."

@jwyattsports

Did I mention @adamhumphries13 has moves? @Titans

Humphries said the time the two players spent in Oregon was well worth the trip.

Humphries, who played at Clemson, had never been to Oregon before taking Mariota up on his invitation.

"Just being able to sit down and eat breakfast and dinner with him, play golf, you know him a lot better than just walking around in meeting rooms and the locker room," Humphries said. "It was good to share that experience with him and really get to know him."

Earlier this offseason, Mariota discussed the impact Humphries could have on the team on the field, and in the locker room while working with younger players.

In 2018, the 25-year-old Humphries had a career high in receptions (76), receiving yards (816) and receiving touchdowns (five). The 5-foot-11, 195-pounder became Tampa Bay's top slot receiver while catching 219 passes for 2,329 yards and nine touchdowns over the last four seasons.

"I think having conversations with him, being around him now, you understand how savvy and smart he is as football player," Mariota said of Humphries. "I think that presence for that young group of receivers will benefit all of those guys. But I think Adam does a great job of just coming in, learn the offense as much as he can so that he can hopefully lead those guys and do his best."

Three days into training camp, Mariota-to-Humphries has been a nice combination.

Humphries looks around and sees a lot of options for his quarterback, in addition to himself. The transition to Tennessee, he said, has been great so far.

"We have a ton of playmakers all over the field and I am excited to see what we can do when the season comes," he said. "It's been great here. Everyone on this team is fun to work with. The transition has been smooth, and obviously the city is awesome. I am looking forward to the future."

TE MYCOLE PRUITT HAS PAID HIS DUES, AND NOW HE'S REWARDING THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 27, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Tight end MyCole Pruitt had bounced from practice squads to active rosters during his career, and in 2017 he found himself paying his dues with the Houston Texans.

Pruitt did his part to help the Texans during the week, but as a practice squad player, he wasn't dressing out on game days.

It was tough, Pruitt admitted. But encouraging words helped him, including some from then-Texans defensive coordinator Mike Vrabel.

"I was going against his defense every day on the practice squad, and he saw some of the things I was able to do," Pruitt said of Vrabel. "He pulled me aside one day because he knew I was kind of down about not being (on the 53-man roster), and he gave me some encouraging words. And I've always appreciated that."

When Pruitt was signed by the Titans in September – off Houston's practice squad -- he suspected Vrabel, hired in January as head coach of the Titans, had something to do with it.

"I believe that was a big factor in why I'm here," Pruitt said. "We had some conversations back on Houston, and he just told me to keep my head up and keep going. When they needed somebody to fill in (here) I feel like he remembered some of those conversations we had, and what he saw from me in practices, and he was able to bring me over."

Pruitt has been rewarded with playing time since being signed by the Titans on September 10. Injuries to tight ends Delanie Walker and Jonnu Smith paved the way for more opportunities.

And Pruitt, who also spent time with the Vikings, Bears and Bills earlier in his career, has rewarded the Titans with his play. Pruitt scored his first career touchdown in Saturday's win over the Redskins, and it was a big one – a two-yard, go-ahead touchdown pass from quarterback Blaine Gabbert.

Pruitt, who played in 16 games for the Vikings in 2015 but in only five games the next two seasons before this year, has seven catches for 76 yards in 14 games for the Titans this season.

"MyCole has been here and he's done a good job for us," Vrabel said. "He's taken advantage of the opportunities that he's basically earned. By playing better, he's earned more opportunities. We unfortunately lost Jonnu (Smith), so he's played more. He's done a good job. He's trying to help us in the run game, then he had two big catches there for us the other night."

The Titans face the Colts on Sunday at Nissan Stadium.

It's a win-and-in playoff scenario for the Titans.

The opportunity is also what Pruitt's been working for since entering the NFL in 2015.

"It has been fun, and I am grateful that they believed in me and gave me this opportunity. It has been a great time. Everybody here has welcomed me in and I have stepped in and played my role," Pruitt said. "It's been a long time coming, and I just want to keep building off this.

"They flexed the game to a Sunday night game, it's primetime, and it's for a playoff spot. It don't get much better than that. Emotions will be high, and the team that plays the best through those emotions will win."

EVERYBODY LOVES RAYMOND: TITANS WR KALIF RAYMOND SEALS WIN WITH LATE TOUCHDOWN CATCH

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 2, 2019

INDIANAPOLIS – The smallest guy on the football field made one of the biggest plays of the game on Sunday.

Unheralded receiver Kalif Raymond caught a 40-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ryan Tannehill to seal the deal for the Titans in a 31-17 win over the Colts at Lucas Oil Stadium.

And his teammates celebrated in a big way.

"Oh my gosh – a guy like that shows up every day and all he does is work," receiver Corey Davis said of the 5-foot-8, 182-pound Raymond. "Kalif shows up every day with the same attitude, happy as hell. I'm not going to lie, some days I'll be like, 'Damn, how are you always in such a great mood?' He's literally always happy.

"Today, we're happy for him. He deserves this, 100 percent. And make no mistake – he can ball."

Raymond, who had just four catches for 85 yards in four games heading into the contest, raced past a Colts defender in the fourth quarter and caught a deep ball from Tannehill with 3:02 left in the contest. It came just two minutes after cornerback Tye Smith's 63-yard return of a blocked field goal produced a touchdown for the Titans.

Raymond's touchdown catch sparked a big celebration on the field, and the diminutive receiver drew a big crowd from reporters in the Titans locker room.

"He works his ass off every day in practice," receiver A.J. Brown said of Raymond. "He does scout team reps – he made a crazy catch in practice earlier this week. Kalif did his thing today and he deserves all the attention he gets.

"We made bunch of big plays today when we needed it and Kalif's play put the cherry on top."

Raymond, who played in college at Holy Cross and previously spent time on NFL rosters of the Broncos, Jets and Giants before making the team's roster out of training camp, said he was glad to get an opportunity.

He praised Tannehill for putting his deep ball on the money on Sunday. And he even credited Titans equipment managers Joey Barranco and Matt Thompson for working with him after practices during the week on the JUGS machine on a regular basis to get him ready for practices, and game days.

Raymond gave his mother, who was at the game, the football from his big catch – his first NFL touchdown.

He called it the biggest of his career.

"We knew it was going to be a shot, an opportunity," Raymond said of the play call. "And when I made my cut, I had a feeling the ball was going to be there, and it was. Shout-out to Ryan for throwing a beautiful pass. (When I scored) I was about to cry, man. I was literally saying prayers and feeling so thankful.

"To make the play, it feels great. And the feeling is magnified when you get a W. To help this team win, it's awesome."

TENNESSEE TITANS: KALIF RAYMOND'S JOURNEY TO THE NFL CENTERED ON UNCERTAINTY, THRIFTINESS AND OVERCOMING THE ODDS

BY LUKE WORSHAM
ATOZSPORTS.COM
DECEMBER 5, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — To call Tennessee Titans receiver Kalif Raymond's journey to the NFL "off-schedule" would be somewhat inaccurate. A truer claim would be that, in his journey, there wasn't much of a schedule at all.

"It was hard," Raymond recalled of his long, winding path to the NFL. "You were kind of going in there thinking, 'I'm just going to do whatever I can to get a shot.' There were no steps, there was no process."

Over the last month, Raymond has become a key contributor for the Titans. He is now their primary kickoff returner, and his 40-yard receiving touchdown in the fourth quarter on Sunday iced a crucial win for the Titans against the Colts.

The path to Raymond getting where he is now was filled with plenty of uncertainty, a bit of thriftiness, loads of diligence and constantly overcoming the odds.

PREP DAYS IN ATLANTA

For high school, Raymond attended the academically rigorous Greater Atlanta Christian School where he caught just 30 passes for 511 yards over his career.

Following a serious injury toward the end of his senior year, it seemed to Raymond and his family—he and his seven siblings remain very close to this day—that collegiate athletics would not be a legitimate possibility.

But Raymond did something that, probably, very few players currently in the NFL did to get a college scholarship offer. Raymond began sending cold emails to various schools that had football programs but were mostly known for academics.

"It was a long process," he said. "I broke my ankle my senior year of high school right before the end of the season. I had to send out emails to a bunch of schools for me to get an opportunity."

Only three schools responded to Raymond's emails with interest in the tiny speedster: Georgetown University, Lehigh University and College of the Holy Cross. Raymond settled on the latter.

TO HOLY CROSS

At Holy Cross, Kalif Raymond was a dual-sport athlete, playing football and running track. In football, he established a reputation as a do-it-all player, returning punts and kickoffs in addition to playing receiver.

When Raymond's college career came to an end, his future was unclear. He was not invited to the NFL Scouting Combine, and Holy Cross had never put on a Pro Day to showcase its graduating players to pro scouts.

Still, Raymond knew he wanted to play in the NFL.

"I think I just told myself, 'look, I know I want to play in the NFL,'" Raymond said. "'I don't know how it's going to happen, I don't know how to make it happen, but if I get a shot, be as prepared as possible.'"

To make himself "as prepared as possible," Raymond started by securing a spot at another school's Pro Day. He was allowed to participate in drills at Harvard University, which is roughly an hour's drive east from Holy Cross.

"THERE WASN'T ANYONE TO CALL."

But when that opportunity was lined up for Raymond, another obstacle arose.

He got confused about the time at which the drills were set to begin, leading to him nearly being late. The biggest factor behind that gaffe was Raymond's, and Holy Cross's, general lack of knowledge on the pre-draft process.

There was no real roadmap for Raymond to follow.

"There wasn't anyone to call at Holy Cross and ask, 'hey, what's this going to be like?'" Raymond said. "I got the times wrong so I ended up getting there just before it started, and I was third in all the lineups. Everything was just so new at the time."

Raymond was relatively successful at Harvard's Pro Day, running an impressive 4.34-second 40-yard dash. He failed, however, to catch the eyes of any of the NFL scouts who were in attendance.

BUMPY START IN THE PROS

As a result, Raymond was not selected in the 2016 NFL Draft. When the draft ended, only two teams were interested in Raymond, at all, as an undrafted free agent: Arizona and Denver.

Thanks to an impressive phone call with then-special teams coordinator Joe DeCamillis, Raymond chose the Broncos.

"We had a lengthy conversation," Raymond said. "He was very truthful, very honest with me. Hearing his voice, hearing him talk to me, I knew that was where I wanted to go."

Raymond's career in the NFL began exactly how one would expect the career of an undrafted and mostly unsought after Holy Cross-alumnus to start: being cut several times.

The Broncos waived Raymond as a part of their final cuts during the last week of the 2016 preseason. He then spent most of the season on Denver's practice squad before being called up to the team's active roster for a few games in December.

After being waived again by the Broncos during final cuts in 2017, Raymond found a temporary home with the Jets, who waived him from their active roster and, subsequently, their practice squad by the end of September.

Since that 2016 phone call with DeCamillis, Raymond has been waived a total of nine times by four different teams.

The Titans are one of them. After Raymond initially made their 53-man roster after 2019 Training Camp, the Titans waived him after just one game and added him to the practice squad.

CARVING OUT A ROLE WITH THE TITANS

It was on the Titans' practice squad, as a member of the scout team, that Raymond began to carve out a role for himself, a first for him in the NFL.

Often in early-season practices, Raymond switched out his number 14 for the jersey number of a receiver the Titans' secondary was getting set to face. In Week One, he played the role of the Browns' Odell Beckham, Jr. Week Two saw Raymond portraying T.Y. Hilton of the Colts.

It was a job that Raymond enjoyed and one that he took seriously.

"It's a good feeling if you go out there and give the defense a good look as that player, and then they go and shut him down during the week," Raymond said. "It means I did my job."

Members of the Titans' secondary, one of the NFL's most productive units in 2019, knew they were seeing something special in their early-season practice matchups against Raymond.

"When I went out there, I would tell him to go 100%, even if it was a walkthrough," corner Adoree' Jackson said.

"'Give me some releases, give me something.' I appreciated that level of competition from him. He was out there going hard as he battled us."

"From a veteran guy, he has my utmost respect because I see how he works day in and day out," corner Logan Ryan said.

"I want him to do well. He's tough to cover, let me tell you that. I think people are starting to see that."

BACK TO THE ACTIVE ROSTER

Raymond's role with the Titans switched, again, just one day ahead of the team's Week Eight matchup with Tampa Bay when the Titans elevated him from the practice squad to the active roster.

Darius Jennings, the Titans' kickoff returner for the first seven games of 2019, was struggling to make things happen in the return game. So, the team waived him and gave Raymond a shot.

To no one's surprise, he took full advantage of the opportunity.

Since returning to the active roster, Raymond has produced numerous chunk gains on kickoff returns, becoming an integral part of an extremely effective Titans special-teams unit.

"He's taken full responsibility for that kick returning job, and he's done a great job gaining yards and making the right calls," said safety Dane Cruikshank, another key special teams player for the Titans.

Raymond's biggest contribution to the Titans since coming back to the active roster, however, came in the fourth quarter of the team's Week 13 win over the Colts.

The Titans offense faced a third-and-6 with a 24-17 lead and 3:11 left in the game. Instead of opting to run the ball with star tailback Derrick Henry to keep the clock moving, the team put its trust into Raymond's hands.

QB Ryan Tannehill faked a give outside to Henry, stepped up into the pocket and fired a shot downfield for Raymond, who tracked the ball over his shoulder and dove into the end zone for a game-clinching, 40-yard touchdown.

It was the first receiving touchdown of Raymond's four-year NFL career.

WHAT'S NEXT FOR KALIF RAYMOND?

Raymond's football career continues to defy odds and convention. The 5-8 receiver from a Catholic college with just over 3,000 students has managed to solidify a key role on an NFL team with more-than-realistic hopes of winning its division.

The only rhyme or reason behind Raymond getting to the point he's currently at has been a refusal to give up or quit.

"It doesn't matter where you went to college, it doesn't matter how you got here, it matters what you do when you're here," said head coach Mike Vrabel, who called Raymond's game-winner against the Colts offensive coordinator Arthur Smith's "best call" of the season.

"Kalif has taken advantage of every opportunity. When he comes in, he's prepared. He studies. He has a great attitude, he's tough. I'm happy for him."

In the midst of his recent success, Kalif Raymond's focus, as it always has, remains on the present.

"One of the mental things I've learned is, 'if you look too far into the future, you lose today.' I try to take advantage of every day, every minute, every hour. That way, if I do well during the day, I won't have to worry about my future."

TITANS CB LOGAN RYAN INFLUENCES STUDENTS AT 6TH ANNUAL NISSAN RESUME CHALLENGE AT NISSAN STADIUM

BY LYNNE MCCRACKEN
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 15, 2019

NASHVILLE -- Partnering with six chapters of 100 Black Men of America, Nissan North America, Inc., hosted its sixth annual Nissan Resume Challenge on Feb. 14, 2019 at Nissan Stadium.

With the tagline of "what they see is what they'll be," 100 Black Men of America is a men's civic organization founded in 1963 to educate and empower African American children and teens. Since then, it has formed more than 100 chapters around the country. Nissan is partnering with chapters in Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Jackson (MS), Nashville, and Washington D.C. to identify students to participate in this year's Resume Challenge and Summit.

The students taking part in the summit first participated in a resume and interview challenge with representatives from their local chapter of 100 Black Men of America. Those students with strong resume and interview skills were invited to attend the 2019 Nissan Resume Challenge and Summit at the automaker's expense.

"Today we are a part of the 2019 Nissan Resume Challenge. The 100 Black Men of America and Chicago took us to Nashville to see some new opportunities," said Brett Harris, 17, who attends Kenwood Academy in Chicago. "We are getting to take a personal tour and have the opportunity to talk to Logan Ryan. It's a great experience for the 100 Black Men to expose African American youth to new things."

Harris plans to major in business and finance when he starts college in the fall.

Titans CB Logan Ryan was guest speaker led with a one-on-one discussion by Titans Radio Executive Producer & Gameday Host, Rhett Bryan.

Ryan said part of why he wanted to reach out to these students was to show them someone who looks like them in a successful position.

"One thing I told them is that no matter what team or name or company you work for on the front, you have a name on the back," said Ryan. "I wanted to bring integrity to the Ryan name like my father did and I wanted to carry that. I wanted to explain that to them that their name will be carried when they have a family one day. I also told them to give max-effort. If you give your all in what you want, you may not always get it. You may not get what you want all the time and in life we don't always get what we want all the time. It's not the end of the world. You can handle things a lot better if you give things your full effort."

Over their two days in Nashville, the young men participated in leadership and development workshops and toured Nissan's North American headquarters, as well as the Nissan Smyrna Manufacturing & Assembly Plant.

"Nissan is big on investing in their future and we look at the 100 Black Men as the future for people that could be employed at Nissan," said Jeffrey Webster, Nissan's director of Diversity & Inclusion. "They get to go through different developmental programs and they get to hear from others like Logan Ryan who have gone through their careers and get some tips on things that will enhance them for the rest of their life. This is a great opportunity for us to partner with the 100 Black Men, the Titans and have a good compilation once we finish."

"When you are an African American male sometimes you will be targeted but never let that stop you. When you are educated, intelligent and persistent you will always accomplish your goal no matter what you look like." said Harris.

The afternoon at Nissan Stadium included lunch, fun activities, giveaways, photos with Ryan and stadium tours. T-Rac and Titans' cheerleaders, Travona and Mari, signed autographs and posed for pictures.

TITANS CB LOGAN RYAN, THE "DOG WHISPERER," LOUD AND PROUD IN RAISING MONEY FOR ANIMAL RESCUE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JUNE 2, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans cornerback Logan Ryan is known as the "Dog Whisperer."

His teammates ask him about anything from tricks to behavior to potty training, or really anything to do with dogs.

"They always think I can fix all their dog's problems," Ryan said with a smile. "I try and send them to my wife – she does that."

Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota has two dogs and yes, he's hit up Ryan.

"He actually helped me kind of figure out potty training," Mariota said.

Ryan and his wife, Ashley, mainly want to help animals – dogs and cats – through their work with the Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation. And over the weekend, they took another big step in doing so with their first ChowDown! Foodie Gala Event.

The event's goal, Ryan said, was to raise $100,000 through donations and an auction. The event sold out at the Bell Tower in downtown Nashville, and it raised around $160,000, according to event organizers.

.@Titans CB @RealLoganRyan and his wife Ashley hosted The ChowDown! tonight, a foodie gala that benefits the Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation. Take a look at all the sights and sounds from the night.

"The South has been great to me," said Ryan, who joined the Titans in 2017 after playing four seasons with the Patriots. "There's a lot of great people down here. I think that's something I worked really hard on, trying to make an impact off the field as much as I do on it. I work really hard on the field. I feel like I can always challenge myself to do more off of it and to give back, give my money back, give my time back. … Nashville has embraced me 100 percent and embraced animal rescue, and it always has. I am happy, and I feel like I am in the right place with this."

Ryan and his wife adopted their first dog back in college at Rutgers. He said he's always loved pets. Back then, Ashley worked at a shelter and spent countless hours with the animals, so when Ryan entered the NFL he wanted to do more himself. He's used his platform to take picture and raise money for the Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation, which "is dedicated to supporting the animal community with financial and educational resources." The foundation partners with animal welfare organizations around the world promoting adoption, offering grants and education to better the lives of animals.

A year ago, the Ryans donated $100,000 of their own money, and they've been thrilled to see the support from the community. The Ryans have three rescue dogs of their own.

"(Animals) don't have a voice for themselves," Ryan said. "Every cause is great, but this is a cause where they can't speak for themselves and what they need, and I feel like I can be someone to speak for them."

The ChowDown! Event hosted over 350 guests, and it featured a culinary competition between 16 local restaurants. Ryan, Mariota, safety Kevin Byard and center Ben Jones were among the celebrity judges. Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk presented the Chow Down "Dog-bardi" championship trophy to Hattie B's at the end of the event.

Jones and Byard said they've been inspired by Ryan's cause, and effort in spreading the word.

"It's been amazing," Jones said. "Just giving these dogs a second chance. So many times, these dogs just need a home. … I see the way his kids interact with the dogs and animals and how much they care about the animals."

Byard has two dogs himself.

"Logan, he's an awesome guy, an incredible guy," Byard said. "What he is doing, and what he has done for dogs. His foundation, and what him and his wife are doing, it is incredible. I've talked to him all the time about the different things he's doing. He's just an incredible human being overall."

Ryan plans to continue pushing his message in the locker room and in the community.

Logan and Ashley Ryan co-founded the Ryan Animal Rescue Foundation two years ago, and 100 percent of the proceeds raised Friday night by RARF went to charity.

“I just think that every dog deserves an opportunity,” Ryan said. “Nothing’s wrong with (adopting) a puppy or anything like that. I just think some of these animals tend to get overlooked. … These animals aren’t damaged goods. I think they deserve more attention. I think someone should speak up for them, and that’s what I’m doing. And I think they have just a huge heart and they unite families like they united mine. I have two large pitbulls and I have young kids and they’re best friends. So I just really think a lot of the stereotypes with rescue animals, pitbulls in particular, (aren’t true).

“A lot of our teammates have rescue animals. A lot of our team is huge dog and cat lovers. So it’s definitely growing on people.”

LOGAN RYAN SHOWING OFF VALUE AS A RUN DEFENDER EARLY

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
JULY 30, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – We make the mistake occasionally, thinking of a nickel corner as a corner, whose job is to cover.

But Logan Ryan has shown us he's an effective blitzer, with the fifth-most sacks on the team in 2018 (four). And on the first big run day of training camp on Sunday, we saw his role as a run defender show up prominently.

He burst into the backfield to hit Dion Lewis for a loss and made other plays outside, showing himself to be a big factor in the run defense.

"What they pay me to do, the salary they gave me, is to be a game-changing player," said Ryan, who wears yellow cleats on the weekend to help his young daughter spot him. "So, I want to make it so the team has to prepare for me, neutralize what I do. I want to make an impact on every game. …

"To stop the run it takes 11 guys, it's not just the front seven. Sometimes they are going to scheme it up where the corners have to tackle. When I am unblocked, that's a good play for our defense, because I am going to go and make the play and try to make it a good play."

I asked Kevin Byard about the defensive backfield's role in run defense, and he didn't respond broadly about the secondary, he spoke narrowly about Ryan.

"I think that's one thing that Logan does very well, he knows how to time up the snap count," Byard said. "Even if he's not blitzing, he gets a good read on the offensive linemen and things like that, so when by the time the ball is snapped he's in the backfield. So he made a good play early in team (Sunday) against Dion. …A lot of times that nickel back is really sometimes a SAM linebacker, so he is in the run fits. Logan does a great job being where he needs to be.

For some semi-outside perspective, I went to Dave McGinnis of Titans Radio.

"He's an excellent run defender and blitzer," McGinnis said. "He understands anchor points from space, how to use the leverage of his other defenders. He's an excellent run defender, a sure tackler. You don't have to be a blow-up guy. You have to be a sure tackler. And he likes to tackle.

"As a blitzer, he understands how to set up people, use leverage, fake inside or out. I've seen him, when a back sets his heels, go through him."

NEW TITANS LINEMAN RODGER SAFFOLD IS READY TO BE BEST FRIENDS WITH TAYLOR LEWAN

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
MARCH 15, 2019

As the rumors swirled, Titans tackle Taylor Lewan appeared almost prophetic, asking a free agent via Twitter if he wanted to be best friends.

“I didn’t want to say anything,” Rodger Saffold said with a smile. “(It was) just like, ‘Wait a minute.’ He kind of knew it was going to happen before even I did.”

Lo and behold, after Lewan tweeted at Saffold on Monday, the news broke on Tuesday: Saffold, the 30-year-old offensive guard formerly of the Rams, was headed to Nashville. Finally he was able to tweet back to Lewan: "I'm ready to be best friends now! Lol We'll create something special."

The Titans officially signed the 6-foot-5, 323-pound Saffold on Thursday.

“I’ve been talking to (Lewan) and I think that relationship is going to go miles with this team,” Saffold said of the one-two punch he’ll form with Lewan on the left side of the Titans’ offensive line. “And I think the relationship with the entire offensive line will work really well for us.

“When you work next to an athletic tackle and you’re an athletic guard, sometimes you just have those freak of nature plays where things can just happen and you end up opening huge lanes in the running game and also being able to pick up different twists and different blitzes of that nature. There's going to be a little bit of time where me and Taylor are going to have to try to figure each other out, and we’re going to have to adjust based on whatever we see. There’s going to be new things that we’re going to have to learn.”

But at least there’s a foundation of familiarity. Saffold, after all, is coming from a Rams team that two years ago was led by offensive coordinator Matt LaFleur, who spent last season leading the Titans offense before being hired as the Packers new coach.

That should help ease the transition.

"It definitely (helps with) a lot of anxiety that you have, just with going to a new place," said Saffold, who Pro Football Focus graded as the ninth-best guard in the NFL last season. "You’re not quite sure how things are going to work and now knowing that the terminology is going to pretty much stay the same and working with some guys that understand how those plays are supposed to be played. It’s going to be easier talking and communicating so that we can get the highest amount of efficiency and yards out of each play that we run."

All of this is new to Saffold, though: the swapping teams, the media introduction, the adjusting to new faces and a new locker room. A second-round pick by the Rams in 2010, he had spent his entire nine-year career with them before this week.

"It’s nerve-wracking, man. It really is. You’re used to something for nine years – I shouldn’t even say that because every few years I had to change coaches. But just having the same people around as far as the strength staff, the training staff, just people that you trust and now coming out here when you’re 30 years old and trying to create new relationships and trying to get guys to trust you as well, it’s a challenge.

"But the biggest thing for me is that now that all of this is done, now that I’ve met everybody, I can basically put a plan together and we can put that into action. All I keep hearing is about how much everybody wants to be put into action and get this team back to the nostalgia that they had in the past, and I’m glad that I get to be a part of it."

TAJAE SHARPE, STAR OF TITANS SCRIMMAGE, IS PROVING HIS VALUE IN TRAINING CAMP

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 5, 2019

PAGE: 1B

Tajae Sharpe wasn't a lock to make the 53-man roster, but he's been showing out in training camp so far.

He put up the best numbers in Saturday's scrimmage - four catches on four targets.

Taywan Taylor had a perfect pass clank off his helmet in the end zone. Even Anthony Firkser, as sure-handed as they come, dropped two wide-open balls.

For the most part, Saturday night wasn't a great night for Titans pass-catchers.

Except for Tajae Sharpe.

The fourth-year wide receiver was everywhere, and he caught everything. On the opening drive of Saturday's scrimmage at Nissan Stadium, Sharpe began with a 9-yard catch from Marcus Mariota. Two plays later, he caught a pass for 15 yards over the middle.

Sharpe, who entered training camp looking like the No. 5 receiver on the depth chart, then had two more catches on the opening drive: one for a gain of about 13 yards and another that capped the drive with a 10-yard touchdown.

Four targets, four catches.

"I'm just trying to focus in on the details and doing my job the right way as best as I can every single snap, just so I have that trust with my teammates, my coaching staff and especially my quarterback," Sharpe said.

That last part is key, and something he's done well to establish. Sharpe was an asset in clutch situations a season ago, namely on third down.

The Titans' fifth-round pick in 2016, Sharpe had 26 catches for 316 yards and two touchdowns last season. On third down, he was targeted 20 times and had 11 catches, all of which went for first downs.

He was at it again Saturday. During third-down practice (the offense lined up in a third-and-5 situation), the Mariota-led white team converted just once in five tries. The one conversion? A completion to Sharpe, who went up high for the catch near the sideline before managing to keep both feet in bounds.

"It means everything to have the trust from my quarterbacks, for them to trust in me to get open and for them to throw me the ball to go make a play for them," Sharpe said. "But it's a work a progress. Like I said, I'm trying to get better each and every day just so we can continue working on that continuity and just going day by day."

Sharpe was not necessarily a lock to earn a spot on the 53-man roster entering camp; offseason acquisitions Adam Humphries and A.J. Brown pushed Sharpe down the pecking order, where Darius Jennings and Cameron Batson were nipping at his heels.

But Sharpe's offseason has been nearly flawless. Asked how Sharpe responded to the heightened competition in the receiving group, coach Mike Vrabel had this to say on Day 3 of camp.

"I would say exactly how we had hoped and how we would want all our players to respond," Vrabel said. "You come in, do your job, produce, know what to do, play as many positions as you can and be out there every time that we practice. So, that's exactly what he's done."

They most important thing for Sharpe will be staying healthy; he spent the 2017 season on injured reserve and was nagged for a portion of last season by a foot injury. If he can do that, Sharpe could be an under-the-radar X-factor for an offense that has had several others generating all the hype.

TITANS' TAJAE SHARPE READY TO 'TAKE IT TO THE TOP' WITH NEW MIXTAPE

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
MARCH 20, 2019

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Nashville is known as "The Music City," so Tennessee Titans wide receiver Tajae Sharpe -- a budding music producer and hip-hop artist -- fits right in.

He is part of group called GMR -- short for Get Money Regardless -- that has a mixtape scheduled to be released on March 29.

"I have always been a music lover," said Sharpe, who has 67 catches for 838 yards in two seasons. "Music can put you in different types of moods. There are so many different types of music that can match how you're feeling."

Tajae Sharpe and his group GMR produce and record their own music at a studio in New Jersey. Courtesy of Tajae Sharpe

Growing up in in Piscataway, New Jersey, Sharpe was exposed to hip-hop early and often -- particularly by his dad, who liked to play Jay-Z.

Sharpe said he started rapping during his freshman year in college. He needed something to do after summer workouts, when it was only the athletes on campus. Anyone who has taken part in summer football workouts knows freestyle rapping is ever-present in the locker room, but Sharpe took it a step further.

He remembered how various songs could be associated with different times of his life, so he bought a microphone and started recording himself. Sharpe said he started out recording with GarageBand software and worked his way up to more professional applications, falling in love with the process along the way.

"When I got back to Jersey after my rookie year, I linked up with some of my homeboys from around the way, and they were making music, as well," he said. "I saw the vision and didn't want to put myself in a box. I wanted to do multiple things and I've been having fun with it, so I wanted to see where it could go."

Sharpe's method of writing lyrics used to simply consist of notes he would take on his iPhone. He used to look up instrumentals on YouTube while typing the words on his cellphone.

Going from listening to beats on the phone to being in the studio was a smooth transition. Sharpe's beat producer, Reem Ali, puts the beats together on the spot, and Sharpe comes up with lyrics to flow to them. While it sounds easy, putting a track together takes a lot of work.

Now, Sharpe is ready to release a self-financed project that was produced and recorded in New Jersey under a label he and his team created, Band Gang Entertainment (BGE). GMR already has two videos released called "Julius Erving" and "Blackin' Out." The group recently finished recording two videos for the upcoming mixtape called "First Quarter," which Sharpe is really excited about.

"I want to take it to the top just like I am working to do in football," Sharpe said. "It's a hobby that I picked up and fell in love with. Anything that I do, I want to be the best that I can be. I want to put it out there for the fans. I think I have something that people want to hear!"

TITANS RECEIVER TAJAE SHARPE WELCOMES NEWCOMERS, AND THE COMPETITION

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JUNE 5, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans receiver Tajae Sharpe is headed into his 4th NFL season, and he's seen plenty of changes around him.

There have been newcomers and departures, and through it all his approach has been the same: Keep working.

So when the Titans signed veteran receiver Adam Humphries in free agency, and then drafted receiver A.J. Brown in the second round of the NFL Draft, Sharpe didn't pout and worry about his job security.

Instead, he welcomed them, and the competition.

"It is what this team needs, every team," Sharpe said after Tuesday's OTA. "If you want to be great you have to have competition at every single position and that is what this league is about. There's going to be new guys coming in at your position, and they are going to work hard to come in and try and play and you have to work hard to stay on the field. It is all part of this business, and you have to focus on things you have to get better at."

Sharpe, one of the standouts of the offseason so far, does admit the new additions ramp things up a bit. He knows the Titans didn't add Humphries and Brown to watch the returners from last year play.

"It definitely raises the sense of urgency," Sharpe said. "Guys come in and they have a sense of urgency to want to get on the field at an early stage, and you have to work hard to stay on the field. You have to work hard on the details and the things you don't do well you have to continue to improve on and continue to do the things that you do well."

In 2018, Sharpe played in all 16 games, with 13 starts. He caught 26 passes for 316 yards and two touchdowns, including a seven-catch, 101-yard game against the Chargers in London. The following week he turned an ankle in pregame warmups against the Cowboys, and down the stretch his production and opportunities were more limited.

Sharpe spent the 2017 season on Injured Reserve after catching 41 passes for 522 yards and two touchdowns as a rookie in 2016.

For the record, Sharpe has been impressed by Humphries, and Brown.

"It has been great having those guys here," he said. "Adam is a veteran guy, and he can bring a lot to the table with the leadership role, too. And A.J. is a great young talent. So we are excited and we want to work hard every day and we are going to compete. We are a group, but we are a team and we do everything for each other to make each other better."

And Titans coach Mike Vrabel said he's been impressed with Sharpe, who caught a pair of touchdown passes in Tuesday's OTA.

In addition to Humphries, Brown and Sharpe, receivers Corey Davis, Taywan Taylor, Darius Jennings and Cameron Batson are among a big group of receivers catching passes from the quarterbacks in OTAs.

"He's embraced the group," Vrabel said of Sharpe. "You're going to make changes every year. … He's a long target, got a good catch radius, quarterback trusts him. So, those are all real positive things. (He) just needs to continue to work and try to improve him every day. But he's been focused, been locked in, and doing everything that we've asked him to do.

"We're going to bring guys in at every position," Vrabel said. "It's your job to understand that, and to withstand that, and carve out a role for yourself through practice, and eventually preseason games, and then once we determine a roster. Whether that's Tajaé, or Taywan, I mean, you know how I feel about those guys. They come here to work every day, they work hard, and the quarterback – they're dependable. Taywan (Taylor) helped us at times, and Tajaé (Sharpe) helped us a lot of times last year. That's just the nature of the NFL, is that you're going to have to stand up to competition and find a role for yourself, and carve one out through the course of time."

Sharpe said his focus his offseason was to get back to work even earlier than in the past.

He regularly spends extra time catching passes from the JUGS machine after practices, and he's focused even more on his work in the classroom.

The work will continue in next week's minicamp, and in training camp.

"I am just out here trying to focus on getting better every single day, just learning from any mistakes the previous day and trying to be better than I was," Sharpe said. "Just taking to coaching and watching the film, and trying to hone in on details. That's what we are doing as a group, trying to hone in on details. It's all about focusing on getting better."

'GOD SPRINKLED A LITTLE EXTRA DUST ON JEFF': TITANS COACHES MARVEL AT JEFFERY SIMMONS' PROGRESSION

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
OCTOBER 31, 2019

San Francisco 49ers defensive end Nick Bosa leads all qualifying first-round rookies with a 23.9% pass-rush win rate, according to Pro Football Focus.

Jeffery Simmons doesn't yet qualify for that list — he's played only 55 snaps so far, after all. The Titans rookie made his NFL debut in Week 7, and Sunday's Week 9 matchup against the Panthers (noon, CBS) will mark only his third game.

If he did qualify, though, Simmons' pass-rush win rate of 28.6% would top the list with ease.

In a crowded draft class for defensive linemen and edge rushers, he and Bosa are the only first-round rookies with a pass-rush win rate over 20%. And the only other first-round rookie above 15% is Jacksonville's Josh Allen (15.1%).

That's just one way to measure the impact Simmons has had early in his NFL career.

The 6-foot-4, 301-pound defensive tackle out of Mississippi State had surgery on the ACL in his left knee in February, fell to the Titans at No. 19 overall in April, and practiced with the team for the first time on Oct. 14. Then he debuted for the Titans on Oct. 20 and was the team's highest-graded defender, according to PFF.

The news only continues to get better for Simmons, who played 21 snaps in Week 7, his debut, before playing 34 last week.

"I would say that he felt better (this Monday) than he did last Monday," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "So that would be probably the most positive thing that I would take from that, that after his second NFL game coming back from what he came back from that he feels better (this Monday). So that just means he's getting used to it and understanding that there's going to be some bumps and bruises or soreness."

Simmons' position coach, Terrell Williams, has marveled at Simmons' progression and early impact but also is mindful that this is only the beginning of a long journey.

"Man, I haven't — and I've coached some good players — and I haven't had a rookie that's coming off an ACL that goes out there and plays however many snaps he's played and make the impact," Williams said. "But I think the thing that we all have to caution is he's two games into a long, long football career. He's just only going to work to get better. That's the great thing you may not see about the kids, is that he's just working to get better."

Williams said he didn't have any expectations about when to expect Simmons back.

"Zero," he said. "My focus was really only on the guys that were playing. Because as a coach you can't sit and daydream. You've just got to coach football. But once he got there and was practicing, now it's like, 'OK, here's what we need you to do. Go do it.'"

And he has — only eight months after ACL surgery.

"God sprinkled a little extra dust on Jeff," Vrabel said. "That's just how it goes. Genetics plays a large part into your makeup, your size, how you recover from injury, your durability. So we kind of figured that going in that it was probably going to be a little shorter than a little longer. If you were betting, you'd probably bet the under."

Simmons already has seven total tackles, two tackles for a loss and a sack.

"He'll continue to get better," Williams said. "It's more about just reps. Like, he missed training camp, he missed OTAs, he missed the preseason games. He's got two weeks of practice and two games under his belt. He's just going to continue to work to get better."

AS JEFFERY SIMMONS' IMPACT ON THE FIELD GROWS, DOCTORS ASSESS AND MARVEL AT HIS ACL RECOVERY

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
OCTOBER 31, 2019

It's been seven years since Adrian Peterson returned from a torn anterior cruciate ligament, but the running back's comeback is still considered something of a medical marvel.

Peterson was playing NFL games less than nine months after suffering his severe knee injury, a timetable many consider miraculous when it comes to recovering from ACL surgery. He not only stepped back into Minnesota's opening lineup in 2012, but went on to win the league's MVP after rushing for more than 2,000 yards.

It's with Peterson's return as a backdrop that the comeback of Titans rookie defensive tackle Jeffery Simmons is looking more and more impressive.

The 6-4, 305-pound Simmons played his first NFL game two weekends ago, a mere eight months after undergoing ACL surgery in February. He's been wreaking havoc on opponents' offensive lines since, totaling a combined 10 tackles, four quarterback pressures, one sack and one tackle for loss.

So just how does Simmons' ACL recovery compare with that of Peterson?

In the opinion of one former NFL team physician, Dr. David Chao, Simmons' speedy return is more mind-boggling than that of the future Pro Football Hall of Fame running back.

"Everyone makes the Adrian Peterson, nine-month return the gold standard," said Chao, a practicing orthopedic surgeon who also serves as a medical analyst for Sirius XM and ProFootballDoc.com.

"But I would say (Simmons) is more impressive for several reasons. No. 1, it's less time, only eight months. No. 2, Peterson was returning to the same level of competition he'd played in, but Simmons is jumping a level of competition.

"Third, as a defensive player, it's harder because you're reacting on the playing field, rather than dictating. And fourth, as a guy playing on the line, he's not just running in free space but engaging other players."

An extraordinary athlete

Timetables vary from person to person when it comes to returning from surgery to the ACL, which is one of the key ligaments that help stabilize the knee, connecting the thighbone (femur) to the shinbone (tibia).

Chao said the most impressive ACL recovery he's witnessed was by one of his own patients, former U.S. women's soccer player Shannon MacMillan. Just four months and a week after undergoing ACL surgery, MacMillan played in the 2003 women's World Cup.

Doctor Michael Pagnani, a physician at Nashville Knee & Shoulder, said that in his practice, an average patient heals in about six months. But he notes there's a significant difference between healing and returning to play a professional sport at top strength.

The Mayo Clinic estimates eight to 12 months or more before athletes can return to their sports following ACL surgery.

"If your goal is to be back as close to your pre-performance level as possible, it probably takes a year," said Pagnani, a previous team physician for the Dolphins and Nashville Predators. "And in a sport where one percent might be the difference between an All-Pro and a practice squad player, that can be a big difference in terms of when they return."

Pagnani says Simmons' ability to return to the playing field at eight months is "a good recovery. I don't know if it's unheard of."

But perhaps what's more impressive to Pagnani is Simmons' level of play, as the big man has made a significant impact in his first two games. Simmons was in the trenches, for example, against the Chargers in the closing seconds, when the Titans stopped running back Melvin Gordon twice from the one-yard line.

"Playing at that level so soon after your ACL, and playing that well against that competition, is definitely remarkable," Pagnani said. "He might just be an extraordinarily great rehabber and an extraordinary athlete to be able to come back and play at that level. I'd say you've got give it a few more weeks, to see if fatigue and more reps affect him. But it sure looks promising so far."

Let's attack this rehab

Simmons suffered the torn ACL in the midst of a lateral-drill exercise, while working out in Boca Raton, Fla., two months before the 2019 NFL Draft.

Having never suffered a knee injury, Simmons had no idea how severe the problem was. But after getting diagnosed, Simmons' first fear, naturally, was how far his draft stock would fall. Predicted by many to be a top-10 overall selection, the former Mississippi State star wondered whether teams would now shy away from him.

Simmons underwent surgery about a week later, with Mississippi State's team orthopedist, Dr. Rusty Linton, repairing the knee. That led straight to one of the more challenging stretches in ACL recovery, the first few weeks following the procedure.

"The operation hurts, so the first couple of weeks are just hard to get going," Pagnani said. "Most people are taking pain medicine for a couple of weeks, and they're wondering, 'Am I ever going to get through this?'"

The goal for most patients is to get their range of motion back in the knee in six weeks. If there's stiffness — or if the patient can't completely straighten the knee — the rehab can become that much more difficult.

"But if they can get their range of motion back by six weeks," Pagnani said, "then it's really just a grind after that."

Grinding through rehabilitation wasn't a problem for Simmons, chosen 19th overall by the Titans in April. He attacked his recovery the same way Simmons dominated opposing offensive lines in college, racking up 163 tackles — 32.5 for loss — in three seasons at Mississippi State.

"Every day I woke up, and every day I walked into the building to do my rehab, it was just like, 'You've got to be better than what you did yesterday. Do more than what you did yesterday. Try to go a little harder,'" Simmons said. "I just wanted to keep getting better. That was my mindset. Every day I woke up thinking: 'Let's attack this rehab.'"

Jeffery Simmons (Christopher Hanewinckel / USA Today)

God sprinkled extra dust on Jeff

When Simmons talked to Nashville media in June, four months after the surgery, he still didn't even know when he'd be ready to jog again. But his work in the weight room, where Simmons was doing all he could to re-build muscle strength around the injured knee, was catching the eye of teammates.

"Every day, he was in here for multiple hours just rehabbing," Titans defensive lineman DaQuan Jones said. "And then I remember him after rehab, going in there for hours with (Titans strength coach Frank Piraino) one-on-one, and doing even more."

By July, as the Titans readied for training camp, Simmons took another big step in the right direction, as he was able to run in a straight line for the first time since suffering the injury. In time, Simmons' rapid progress allowed him to start simulating football moves, even those that required him to move from side to side — testing the strength of the knee.

"When you're coming off an ACL injury, the biggest thing is you've got to work on your lateral movement," Simmons said. "That's why I think they did a great job making sure they hit on every angle, every football drill they knew I was going to be put in (while) playing defensive line."

Many NFL analysts had figured Simmons wouldn't play at all in his rookie year, or that if he did, it wouldn't be until November or December. But only a few weeks into the season, Simmons began working out with Titans coach Mike Vrabel in one-on-one sessions, the two men looking like grown bears wrestling as they pushed one another around the practice field.

How could Simmons already have come so far so fast?

"God sprinkled a little extra dust on Jeff — that's just how it goes," Vrabel said. "Genetics plays a large part into your makeup, your size, how you recover from injury, your durability. So, we kind of figured that going (into the draft), it was probably going to be a little shorter than a little longer. If you were betting, you'd probably bet the under (on his recovery time)."

In early October, less than eight months after the ACL surgery, Simmons received full medical clearance to play once more. Vrabel and the team's training staff put the decision to return in the hands of Simmons, who thought long and hard about it prior to the Titans' Week 7 game against the Chargers.

Simmons said he prayed on the matter first, then sought the advice of an uncle who's always been close and reliable.

"I told him I felt healthy and ready to roll," Simmons said. "He was like, 'Are you sure?' And I'm like, 'Yeah, I'm ready to go.' So we just went from there."

Going to get even better

In watching Simmons play his first two games, Chao marveled at what he was able to do, but also noticed — not surprisingly — that the injury was still impacting him.

"He's a strong guy, so I didn't see him getting pushed off the line," Chao said. "But it was more in the open field and in his quicker movements, the change of directions and the ability to really stick that leg in the ground. Then there was one time I noticed he didn't have the same deceleration, in terms of change of direction. It's relatively subtle."

Chao, like Pagnani, said Simmons won't be at 100 percent until next season, noting that recovery from an ACL tear — like most injuries — is "like a slow sunrise rather a light switch … It creeps along, especially in the later stages."

But in its own way, that's great news for Simmons and Titans fans.

If Simmons was good enough to be Pro Football Focus' top-ranked Titans defender in his first game back, and fit enough to play 34 snaps in just his second game, think ahead to what Simmons' second season might be like.

"He's exceeded expectations in (returning this early)," Chao said. "He seemed effective. What this means is that an 85 percent Jeffery Simmons is pretty darn good. They have a bargain on their hands.

"It doesn't mean he's Superman yet. There were plays I saw in his first game back when I said, 'Oh, he's still favoring that a little bit.' But

I’m not saying the Titans are doing the wrong thing by playing him.

“I’m just saying, ‘Good news, Titans fans. He’s going to get even better than this.’”

AN EMOTIONAL JEFFERY SIMMONS VOWS TO REWARD TITANS AFTER HEARING WORDS OF SUPPORT FROM OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 26, 2019

NASHVILLE – The introductory press conference for Jeffery Simmons got emotional on Friday after Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk pledged her support and trust in the team's first-round pick.

Simmons, sitting two seats down from Strunk, tucked his head and shed tears when Strunk spoke about her faith in him while welcoming him into the organization.

The Titans picked Simmons, a defensive lineman who played at Mississippi State, with the 19th overall in the NFL Draft.

Simmons is recovering from an ACL injury. The injury, paired with an ugly off-field incident Simmons was involved in back in high school, led the Titans and other NFL teams to do extra homework on the big defensive lineman. The well-publicized incident has also resulted in heavy scrutiny since the pick was made.

"Coming from a woman," Simmons, fighting back tears, said of Strunk. "Like I said, I made a mistake, and I regret it. To hear her say (what she said), I am grateful. The key word she said was trust. And I'll tell her in front of you guys that she can trust me. I won't let her down. I won't let either one of these guys and down. I am grateful."

Strunk said she spoke with Titans General Manager Jon Robinson and head coach Mike Vrabel months ago about Simmons, and watched the video of the incident together.

"It was a process, but it did not take me long to see that this young man had an incident when he was in high school, and we can all look back on our lives in high school and wish we'd done things differently," Strunk said of Simmons. "But you can talk, 'I'm sorry.' But the best thing is he's lived the life of 'I'm truly sorry and I am going to be a good man.' So that made it really easy for me to become comfortable with Jeffery.

"We are getting a great football player, that goes without saying, but we are getting a great man. … We are a nation that gives second chances, and this young man, Jeffery Simmons, he deserved that second chance."

Simmons, who racked up 163 tackles, seven sacks, 32.5 tackles for a loss and four forced fumbles in three seasons at Mississippi State, began the offseason as a potential top-10 pick.

The Titans will monitor his progress as he works his way back onto the field in 2019.

Simmons vowed to do his part on the field, and in the Nashville community.

"These people trust me to come in here and do what I need to do on and off the field," Simmons. "This organization here stuck with me, and I will not let this organization down. I am proud to be a Tennessee Titan."

TITANS FIRST-ROUND PICK JEFFERY SIMMONS FOCUSED ON REHAB, PLAYBOOK

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
JUNE 11, 2019

NASHVILLE – Jeffery Simmons doesn't have a return date marked on his calendar.

Right now, the Titans first-round pick is focused on rehabbing, working, learning the playbook and getting himself ready to go as soon as possible.

Of course he'd love to play in 2019, but right now he's focused on what has to come first. Plus, he knows that decision will be up to the medical staff.

"I'm not rushing anything," Simmons said on Tuesday following the team's minicamp. "If I don't play this year, I'm fine with it. But my goal is to get healthy on my time and on this team's time. There's no time limit and when I can come back. Every day I come to work, and I'm putting my mindset at 'I want to get back today.' That's how I come to work every day and try to get better."

Simmons, the 19th overall pick of the NFL Draft, suffered a torn ACL during a workout in February. After he was picked, the Titans said they'd let the big defensive lineman rehab with the team, and chart his progress.

So when the Titans have been practicing, Simmons has been working inside on his rehab and in the weight room.

"I knew coming in this was the plan," Simmons said. "I'm grateful for this opportunity, that they trusted me that I'm going to come in and get the work done off the field. I'm trusting the process. It's not too frustrating right now. My goal is to get healthy and when I get back on the field, it's full go."

Simmons was a beast at Mississippi State, racking up 163 tackles, seven sacks, 32.5 tackles for a loss and four forced fumbles in three seasons. He began the offseason as a potential top-10 pick.

He wants to be an impact player for the Titans, in time.

"While they practice, that's when I'm in the weight room," he said. "I get here in the morning, do my rehab, stay here after and do rehab. Like I said, whatever the plan they tell me to do, that's what I follow. … And the playbook, I am attacking the playbook just like I am attacking the rehab.

"I am just coming in here and following the plan, and doing what they ask me to do. Honestly, I'm not sure (when I'll be allowed to jog). I'm just trusting the plan, coming to work every day, just getting better every day. Whenever that time comes, I can't wait."

TITANS TE JONNU SMITH RETURNS TO PRACTICE, AND HE WAS ALL SMILES

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
AUGUST 20, 2019

NASHVILLE – Tight end Jonnu Smith returned to Titans practice on Monday, and we all found out just how much he missed it.

Smith got down on one knee and said a long prayer immediately after practice. Earlier in the day he was taken off the team's Physically Unable to Perform list.

"It was like the first day of Pop Warner, like I was five years old again," Smith said of his return. "Coming out here running, sweating – all those feelings came back. I reminds me how much I still love the game. I am going on 24 years old and to have the same feeling as I did when I was 4-5 years old is kind of unbelievable."

It was Smith's first practice since suffering a season-ending knee injury in the team's December 6 contest against the Jaguars. Smith credited "hard work and dedication" for his earlier-than-expected return. Smith was wearing a brace on left knee on Monday, but said he plans to ditch it soon.

Smith caught 20 passes for 258 yards and three touchdowns in 2018, including a 63-yard touchdown when he showed off his speed on a Monday Night Football grab and go in Houston. His return bolsters a tight end unit led by veteran Delanie Walker.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel let it be known how happy he was too see Smith back in uniform. Smith said he felt good on his first day back.

"Jonnu is one of my favorite players on this team," Vrabel said. "I don't have like 'favorites,' but he is one of my favorite players on this team. I just love him to death. I love the way he works, I love his attitude. So when he is ready to go in there we'll see what he can handle and try and get him going."

TITANS TE JONNU SMITH AIMS TO TAKE NEXT STEP IN YEAR 3

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 10, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans tight end Delanie Walker worked himself into a lather when the subject of NFL mock drafts came up last week.

Walker was irritated some "experts" had the Titans taking a tight end in the 2019 draft – the team didn't, of course.

But Walker's frustration was as much about fellow tight end Jonnu Smith as it was about his own standing with the team.

"People tend to forget about Jonnu Smith," Walker said. "He was just drafted, so it's not even me – it's him. He's going to replace me when I leave, and that's what makes me upset, that we just drafted a tight end. But that's another story…"

Plenty of mock drafts had the @Titans taking a tight end in the @nfldraft. #Titans TE @delaniewalker82 shook his head at the notion while at the Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot.

Walker, a three-time Pro Bowler, is expected to pick up where he left off after suffering a season-ending injury in Week One of the 2018 season.

Smith, a third-round draft pick by the Titans in the 2017 NFL, is looking to take another big step in his career this fall himself.

"There's definitely some things that I want to improve on and want to build on, but there's also some things I thought I did pretty good," Smith said while on the Titans Caravan this week. "The mindset that I've got is just about getting better. So that's the approach I am going into Year 3 with – I want to carry some of the good things from Year 2, as well as the bad things, so I can correct them and just perfect my craft.

"I want to be more polished in everything that I do. Since I have been playing football, I've never focused on one specific thing I was required to do as far as my position goes. It was always whether to run block or route running. Whatever it may be, you just have to perfect everything in your craft. So I am trying to focus on everything."

Smith caught 20 passes for 258 yards and three touchdowns in 2018, including a 63-yard touchdown when he showed off his speed on a Monday Night Football grab and go in Houston. As he heads into year 3, players like Walker and fellow tight ends MyCole Pruitt and Anthony Firkser are around him. Tight ends Cole Wick and Keith Towbridge will also be in the competition.

Smith, who suffered a season-ending knee injury in the team's December 6 contest against the Jaguars, said he's spent the offseason recovering from the injury. He continues to work his way back.

"It's been a process," Smith said. "I don't know a timetable or anything like that. I am just being positive and I feel great -- I am just working.

"But I feel confident, and now that I have a few years under my belt, I am going to continue to build this confidence."

Smith said he appreciates Walker having his back. And yes, he saw those mock drafts himself.

"Delanie, I am just blessed to be around a guy like that," Smith said. "As polished as a player he is, and as good a person as he is -- I am glad I have a guy like that to look up to.

"And half of those guys that write these things and do these (mock drafts), they have never played football in their lives. So I don't worry about that. I don't play to impress any of them. That's not what we are out here for, and if it was, we probably shouldn't be here."

INJURED TITANS CB TYE SMITH TURNED TO OPRAH WINFREY FOR INSPIRATION LAST SEASON

BY PAUL SKRBINA
THE TENNESSEAN
SEPTEMBER 1, 2019

CHICAGO — Tye Smith was trying to erase the "down" from "down and out."

A torn pectoral muscle suffered during the first week of training camp last season left the Titans cornerback with no option concerning the "out" part — as in out for the season.

So as he waited for his body to heal, acquainted himself with the work of a couple of people — Oprah Winfrey and Eckhart Tolle — to keep his mind in good health.

Winfrey, who was Nashville's first black TV correspondent before building a talkshow empire, provided inspiration to Smith through her podcast, "Oprah's SuperSoul Conversations."

Tolle, a German-born spiritual teacher who lives in Canada, was Smith's go-to author. He said he read two of his books during his time out.

"They help you hone in on the deeper self. Just not getting (the injury) tied into my mind," Smith said Thursday after he recorded five tackles, a sack and a quarterback hurry during the Titans' 19-15 win against the Bears to close out the preseason at Soldier Field.

"When I first got hurt it was a struggle. I was like, 'Dang, I'm going to miss the season.' Once I settled in I found a deeper peace. It was able to help me when I came back to enjoy the moments even deeper."

Making his case

On Thursday, as he packed his bag in the visitor's locker room, Smith reflected on his sheer enjoyment of making it through the preseason. About how Winfrey and Tolle helped him in times that at times felt dark last season.

Roster cuts loomed in about 36 hours, and Smith felt hopeful he'd be part of a cornerback core that includes Logan Ryan and Adoree' Jackson. He said it was a "blessing to get through it healthy."

Smith was picked by the Seahawks in the fifth round of the 2015 draft. He played in four games with them, had a stint on the practice squad and was cut. After a brief stay with the Redskins' practice squad in 2016, Smith latched on with the Titans.

“Long corner with some long speed that helps us on special teams,” Titans coach Mike Vrabel said.

Titans offensive tackle Taylor Lewan talks about his plans for his four game suspension to start the 2019 season. George Walker, Nashville Tennessean

The 6-foot, 195-pounder out of Towson played in 15 games in 2017, including one start, and had 12 tackles and an interception. He started both playoff games that year, too.

But with his injury in 2018 came some worries — about rehabbing, about re-earning his spot this season. Then along came Winfrey and Tolle.

"It’s natural to have those thoughts," Smith said. "But as long as I don’t feed into them, sit back and have a deeper consciousness about it, understand the only thing I can control is what I'm going through at the moment, everything else will work out."

Ups and downs

Smith acquitted himself pretty well during the preseason, when he had 13 tackles.

His pass breakup in the end zone Thursday with 7:33 left in the first quarter kept the score 0-0 for the time being.

He sacked Tyler Bray for a 10-yard loss later in the quarter and wasn't shy about showing his jubilation with a mini-celebration. He was living in the moment. Flashes of being a spectator at every Titans home game last season went through his mind.

"You just enjoy it, and when the next play comes you have to let it go," Smith said. "The sack, I enjoyed it."

And moments later, he let a Bears receiver go for a 29-yard completion.

All part of the job. All part of Smith's journey, which reached a milestone by making it through four exhibition games.

"It's about proving yourself," Smith said. "In this league you're never going to reach your destination; even if you're All-Pro, the next year it doesn't matter. It's about what have you done for me lately."

Last year he watched and read and listened. This year, he hopes to play.

HOW FOOTBALL CHANGED TITANS KICKER RYAN SUCCOP'S LIFE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 21, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – As a kid, Ryan Succop didn't dream of playing in the NFL.

Growing up in Hickory, N.C., Succop played soccer, basketball, baseball and golf. As he got older, he spent his summers cutting grass, spreading mulch and pulling weeds for a landscaping business in town.

It was at the start of Succop's freshman year in high school when his soccer coach convinced him to try out for the football team. And, as they say, the rest of history.

Succop on Tuesday signed a five-year contract extension with the Titans. The 2018 season will be his 10th in the NFL.

With a smile, Succop recalled his introduction to the sport, and how being "Mr. Irrelevant" – the last player picked in the 2009 NFL Draft – helped motivate him to be the player he is today.

The journey began when Succop went to his first football practice, just a few days before the varsity team's first game.

"And they said to me: "Hey bud, you're suiting up on Friday night," Succop said. "I'll never forget going to that first football game on Friday night. I had never put on football pads. I had no idea where all these pads went. I had to ask one of my buddies: 'Where does all this stuff go?' I was putting butt pads where the knee pads go. I didn't know. But I ended up having a lot of fun. I figured out, 'This is kind of fun, kicking this football.' It is really cool how it all worked out."

Succop became a two-time all-state performer at Hickory High School, and from there he went to play at South Carolina. Succop played in 50 games for the Gamecocks, where he racked up 251 points, the second-highest total in school history.

After four seasons, he was selected 256th overall by the Kansas City Chiefs in the 2009 NFL Draft, which made him "Mr. Irrelevant."

Succop found humor in the moniker, but he also used it as motivation.

"For me, I always looked at it as an opportunity," he said. "I think some people could look at that, the name Mr. Irrelevant, and you could take that as a little bit of a negative or a slap in the face. But for me, I looked at it as 'Hey, only two kickers were drafted that year.' So I looked at it as an opportunity to chase my dream to play in the NFL. It was an opportunity and you take them and run with them no matter what they look like."

David Buehler was the other kicker drafted that year. He was selected in the fifth round by the Dallas Cowboys. Buehler spent three seasons in the NFL, the final one in 2011.

Succop, meanwhile, is still going strong.

During his time in Tennessee, Succop has appeared in every game, and made 90 of his 104 field goal attempts, ranking ninth in the league with a success rate of 85.5 percent.

Succop ranks 12th among all active players with 913 career points. He has made 209 of his 251 career attempts on field goals, as well as 286 of his 292 career extra point attempts.

In 2017, his ninth NFL season, Succop made 35-of-42 field goals, and he set an NFL record by connecting on 56 consecutive successful field goals from inside 50 yards (2014-17). During his career, Succop has made seven career game-winning field goals, including one from 47 yards in an overtime win at Cleveland in 2017.

On the night before signing his new deal, Succop talked to his family about his career. He joined the Titans in 2014 after being released by the Chiefs just prior to the start of the season.

"It's been really cool to see God's hand in it, and the plan He's had for my life, and for my family," Succop said. "He's blessed us in ways more than we could ever imagine when we came here. We found a home here in Nashville. We love our teammates and the organization and we love the city of Nashville. So this is great for our family and we couldn't be happier."

After signing the deal, his wife, Paige, and young son, Cooper, by his side in his No.4 Titans jersey, Succop reflected even more on his life, and what's ahead. The couple's second child is due next month.

Succop said he's thankful to the organization for believing in him, and he said he's happy to "keep the band together" with punter Brett Kern and Beau Brinkley. Kern serves as Succop's holder on kicks, and Brinkley is the team's snapper. He's looking forward to working more with new special teams coach Craig Aukerman, who was promoted this offseason under new head coach Mike Vrabel.

After taking some time off at the end of the 2017 season, Succop is gearing up for 2018.

Heading into Year 10, he continues to look for ways to get better. He's currently working on strength training, flexibility, and running, and he plans to start kicking again in May.

"Every year it seems like I learn something a little new or a little different. And it has been really fun, the process of trying to get better every year. That's what I really enjoy and that's kind of the challenge. I am always learning," Succop said. "I promise you I don't have it all figured out. I think about guys that play on (the PGA) tour for a long time. A lot of times they get better later in their career. You just learn more about how to handle situations. How to handle wind, all kinds of different things. And being in those situations help. And you can really have some of your best years later in your career, and that is what I want to do."

Succop doesn't lack motivation.

He wants to remain one of the league's top kickers. And he wants to prove the Titans right once again.

In 2017, Succop he set an NFL record by connecting on 56 consecutive successful field goals from inside 50 yards (2014-17). Since Succop joined the Titans in 2014, he's 82-of-89 on field goal attempts below 50 yards. That 92% FG percentage trails only Justin Tucker (97%) and Stephen Gostkowski (92%) among kickers with 50 games in that span, per ESPN Stats & Info.

"When you have those humble beginnings of being Mr. Irrelevant, it makes you even more thankful I think," Succop said. "I think that ended up being a blessing for me, really, a little bit of motivation. You get a name like that and you kind of want to prove everybody wrong.

"… I think going into my 10th year, it is something I never would have imagined. I just feel so blessed and very fortunate to be in this situation. I have certainly put the work in and will continue to do so."

TITANS QB RYAN TANNEHILL FOCUSED ON PRESENT, NOT FUTURE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 5, 2019

NASHVILLE – When quarterback Ryan Tannehill joined the Titans earlier this offseason, he arrived with an uncertain future.

At the time, Marcus Mariota was locked in as the team's starting quarterback and Tannehill, who'd spent his previous seven seasons with the Dolphins before being traded, was considered a one-year insurance policy.

Plenty has changed since March, and especially since October.

Tannehill's success has the fan base asking questions not only about how the 2019 season plays out, but also about what happens in the future.

Tannehill, however, isn't looking ahead just three months before his one-year contract with the team expires. He's locked in on the next opponent, the Oakland Raiders.

"For me, it's a head-down process of taking advantage of the week," Tannehill said. "I've seen how this thing goes, the waves, the ins and outs of the season. So if you start taking a step back at this point, then you're doing a disservice to your teammates and to yourself of opportunities you could take advantage of this week. So, really just trying to lock in on the Oakland Raiders and do everything I can to prepare for them."

Since taking over the starting job in Week 7, Tannehill has passed for 1,458 yards, 12 touchdowns and three interceptions with a passer rating of 117.1 in six starts. The Titans are 5-1 in those contests.

Tannehill's 2019 season passer rating of 113.9 ranks second in the NFL behind only Vikings quarterback Kirk Cousins' 114.8 passer rating. In the team's win over the Colts, Tannehill completed 17 of 22 passes for 182 yards and two touchdowns for a passer rating of 131.2. His passer rating was the second-highest single-game rating of his career with a minimum of 20 attempts.

When asked about his personal streak of success on Wednesday, and then about being in a "zone," Tannehill twice changed the subject to the team's success.

"It's been a good streak for us," he said. "I think I said it a couple of times, we're on the right path. Just have to keep taking it one game at a time, improving every day at practice and get ready for the next one.

"Like I said, we're playing well, we're doing some good things. We have a lot to improve on. Still a lot of things that we have to clean up from the last game. Looking forward to this week so we can do that."

The Titans, now 7-5 and in the thick of a playoff race, need a win on Sunday in Oakland.

Tannehill has a chance to make some history, too.

With at least two touchdown passes and a passer rating of 125 or higher on Sunday, Tannehill would join Seahawks QB Russell Wilson (five games in 2015) as the only players with four consecutive games with at least two passing touchdowns and a passer rating of 125 or higher in NFL history.

Also, Tannehill has a chance to join Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers (three games in 2011) as the only players to complete at least 75% of their passes with a passer rating of 130 or higher (min. 10 attempts) in three consecutive games in a single season in NFL history.

Those two stats were distributed by the NFL, not the Titans, on Wednesday.

Tannehill, of course, doesn't care about any of that.

In his first game ever at Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, he's looking for a win and nothing else.

The success he's had an any statistical category is a result of the guys playing well around him, he said.

"I just think it speaks to the guys around me, they're playing well," Tannehill said. "The offensive line giving me time, and guys are catching the ball and getting open downfield. I think it all kind of works together – putting the ball in a catchable spot, and then guys making a play on it. I have a lot of confidence that if I throw a ball, that our guys are going to go get it right now. We just need to keep on that track, building that confidence out here on the practice field and carrying it over to games."

THE MARATHON CONTINUES: HOW NIPSEY HUSSLE'S DEATH IMPACTED TITANS SAFETY KENNY VACCARO AND HIS OUTLOOK ON LIFE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
OCTOBER 3, 2019

NASHVILLE – Nipsey Hussle's mentality in life focused on it being a marathon – not a sprint – while dealing with the ups and downs, and adversity.

The late rapper named two mixtapes, his clothing line, and a store around this mentality.

When Hussle was murdered in March, it made Titans safety Kenny Vaccaro rethink some things himself.

He has a tattoo on the back of his neck – like the one Hussle had on the front of his neck – to remind him to keep fighting through adversity.

"A big thing for me this offseason was when Nipsy Hussle died, his whole thing was "The marathon continues" and whatever you have in life, basically you have to fight through adversity," Vaccaro said. "It really hit home with me. It means a lot to me, and I wanted to carry that with me."

On his bottom of his neck, Vaccaro has Hebrew words that mean, "Faith in God."

Just above that tattoo is one with the two checkered flags. Vaccaro got the tattoo this offseason after Hussle's death.

Vaccaro, in his second season with the Titans, beat the odds coming out of Brownwood, Texas. He became a star performer at the University of Texas, a first-round draft pick by the New Orleans Saints, and now one of the leaders of the Tennessee defense.

He said on Wednesday Hussle's death inspired him to be a better player, and person.

Prior to the team's game against the Browns, Titans safety Kevin Byard paid tribute to Hussle on his cleats in pregame at Cleveland. Byard said Hussle "was one of my favorite artists."

"I've tried to carry myself in a different way, and I've tried to be a better father, teammate, player, and just try to do everything every single day to be better," Vaccaro said. "If ever I want to quit, or when there is something maybe I don't want to do, I think about that tattoo.

"Whether it is an injury, maybe even something family-related or any type of adversity, you have to keep fighting because the marathon continues."

TITANS SAFETY KENNY VACCARO EVEN MORE MOTIVATED AFTER OFFSEASON OF 2018

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MARCH 21, 2019

NASHVILLE – As the months passed, and safety Kenny Vaccaro remained without a team all of last offseason, he found himself thinking back to his humble upbringings.

Vaccaro, a first-round pick in the 2013 NFL Draft, had played four solid seasons with the New Orleans Saints. But when his contract expired in March of 2018, he remained unsigned for five months -- until the Titans signed him in August 2018 after Johnathan Cyprien went down.

"What I went through last year, it was tough," Vaccaro said after signing a contract extension last week. "I was thinking: 'I know I am a starter. I know I should be on a team, but I am not.' It was tough for me, but I think it made me better not only as a player, but as a man.

"It reminded me of growing up in my hometown of Brownwood, Texas, being dead poor, not thinking we're going to ever made it out of that city. It kind of brings you back. Then I go on to be a first-round pick. It kind of resets you. Not humble you, but resets you and takes you back to square one. I'm glad it all worked out here."

Yes, it all worked out.

In another span of five months -- August to December -- Vaccaro established himself on a defense that finished third in the NFL in points allowed, and eighth overall in yards allowed. Vaccaro started 13 games for the Titans, and he finished with 70 tackles, two sacks, and an interception.

Most important, he found himself as part of a team again, with teammates who made him better, he said.

Vaccaro praised fellow safety Kevin Byard, and the rest of his secondary mates, from Logan Ryan to Malcolm Butler to Adoree' Jackson.

"KB is the best safety in the league," Vaccaro said of Byard. "Logan is the best nickel in the league, and I have the two best corners in the league. So my job is pretty easy. They make me want to elevate my game.

"That's my biggest thing -- it is not just competing against my opponent. I want to make sure I don't let Kevin Byard down, Logan Ryan, Malcolm Butler, Adoree' Jackson (down). That's what drives me, not necessarily who we are going against. I am not going to let them down at any point in the game. That is where my passion comes from. Besides having my back against the wall, when I look to my left and right and you have that level of competition, not just the other team but within your room, that makes you elevate you game."

Looking ahead to 2019, Vaccaro has high hopes for a defense that will have even more chemistry.

Remember, Vaccaro just joined the group in August. He missed all of the offseason work as the rest of the team prepared for the season.

Vaccaro said he can be even better personally, following a year when he played the traditional safety position for the first time in the NFL. With the Saints, he played nickel, around the line of scrimmage, instead of being 10 yards off the ball.

He believes it's a position that fits his skill-set.

"I still think I have a lot of work to do," Vaccaro said. "I want to earn the team's respect with these workouts coming up, not just on the field but how hard I grind, my work ethic. ... You should see a big leap, as far as from myself, and for our secondary."

Plus, he expects a leap from a defense that's already added former Dolphins defensive end Cameron Wake, who has 98 career sacks.

More additions could be coming in free agency and/or the NFL Draft.

"I am excited. More pass rush means more picks for us, it all works hand in hand," Vaccaro said when asked about Wake. "We cover and they can get to the quarterback, and if they get to the quarterback we don't have to cover as long. Rush and coverage, that's what makes a great defense and it's all about team.

"(As a defense) we could be great. I don't want to give out any predictions at all. We were the No.3 scoring defense last year. We are all coming back together, and that continuity is a big thing, especially in the secondary. … The sky is the limit. It is on paper right now, but we'll grind together in the summer and training camp and we'll see what happens."

TITANS SAFETY KENNY VACCARO BECAME A FAN FAVORITE IN NASHVILLE

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
MARCH 22, 2019

In the sewers of the Twitterverse, haters and criticizers and doubters run rampant. Anonymity has a way of bringing out the ugliest in people, and Kenny Vaccaro is well aware of it.

But that's precisely why Vaccaro was a bit taken aback these past few months, after the Titans' 2018 season ended and the issue of re-signing the Titans safety was a popular discussion topic among Titans fans. On Twitter, Vaccaro's own supporters-versus-haters ratio was off the charts… in a good way.

"Usually you're going to get at least a couple trolls in there like, 'You suck.' But there wasn't," Vaccaro said on March 14, three days after the team re-signed him to a four-year deal worth $26 million (with $11.5 million guaranteed). "Titans fans were great. I couldn't find too many trolls."

So Vaccaro's Twitter feed became a running testament to the phenomenon. He'd retweet all the positive sentiments thrown at him by fans. He also said he was prepared to do the same for any negative jabs taken at him – he just couldn't find any.

"It really wasn't a campaign," Vaccaro said, "like, 'Sign me, sign me, sign me.' I was really like, this is me just retweeting everything I'm getting. There was just no negativity in the tweets."

It was a marvel on a social medium that serves as a home for trolls. But really, it was no wonder Vaccaro emerged as a fan favorite, and no wonder he had throngs of fans clamoring for his re-signing.

There was the crushing hit Vaccaro laid on James White for a loss of three yards on the New England Patriots' opening play from scrimmage on Nov. 11, a tone-setter of sorts in the Titans' 34-10 pummeling of the Super Bowl champs.

There was the time when Giants tight end Rhett Ellison laid an impact block on Vaccaro on Dec. 16, causing the safety to lose his helmet but failing to stop him from helping gang tackle running back Saquon Barkley in the Titans' first shutout in 18 years.

There were a ton of those types of instances scattered throughout the 2018 season, when Vaccaro's physicality played a key part in a big defensive play. They added up, and by the time 2019 hit, fans wanted No. 24 back.

The feeling was mutual.

"I wanted to be back, I'll say that," Vaccaro said with a smile during his press conference last week. "It was always an easy decision for me."

Vaccaro first was brought to Nashville on a one-year deal in August. After Johnathan Cyprien went down with an ACL tear in training camp, Titans general manager Jon Robinson brought in Vaccaro as a replacement.

A season later, it's easy to call the move a success.

"I appreciate it. I'm thankful for the opportunity," Vaccaro said. "I want to give a shout out to Cyp, too. He text me yesterday. I'm going to get emotional. Him getting hurt ... He's just a good dude."

Vaccaro stumbled through that unprompted shout out to Cyprien. He clearly wanted to say more, but emotions prevented him from doing so until he was asked again about the player he replaced.

"Him kind of welcoming me with opening arms, being the stand-up class act he is, it's tough," Vaccaro said. "Because he kind of knew. The writing was on the wall after the season, but (at) the same time he's just a great dude. I appreciate the way he handled the situation. (With) a lot of people there's going to be jealousy. There's going to be praying for somebody's downfall almost. But I never felt that (from him). I just appreciate him."

Yet another instance of Vaccaro giving Titans fans a reason to have his back.

"I saw the clip where he kind of got a little choked up yesterday and thought that was really cool," Robinson said. "Kind of speaks to his passion for football and the camaraderie in that room. Kenny's a real passionate football player. We were fortunate that he was available last August when Cyp went down. He did a great job coming in and acclimating himself to our football program and earned it."

TITANS' KEVIN BYARD, KENNY VACCARO TRAINING WITH SOME OF NFL'S BEST DBS

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JULY 12, 2019

You can't pass up working with talent like this.

Tennessee Titans safeties Kevin Byard and Kenny Vaccaro and CB Joshua Kalu traveled to Austin, Texas, to meet up with other players for what they're calling "DB Week." The group includes some of the league's top defensive backs: Ravens safety Earl Thomas, Chargers safety Derwin James, Redskins safety Landon Collins, Colts safety Malik Hooker, Cardinals safeties Budda Baker and Deionte Thompson and Lions CB Quandre Diggs.

Vaccaro, Diggs and Thomas played for the University of Texas, right by where the defensive backs have been training all week. The group arrived on Monday and started working with performance coach Jeremy Hills -- a former Texas running back who put the group through a series of grueling workouts in a sandpit, on the field and in the weight room. They also incorporated an intense Pilates workout for recovery.

DB Week is a great opportunity for elite players to come together and push each other and take their training to another level. Byard didn't get to attend last year's workouts because he had something bigger on his hands: He got married. But he was excited to meet with the group this year.

"The kind of work that we are doing down here, a lot of guys aren't working like this ... two-a-days every day," Byard said. "Seeing how these guys have worked so hard to maintain an All-Pro level for so many years, that's the main thing I got from this so far. I am working out with guys like Earl Thomas. We have so many great safeties here, some elite players. These guys are out here going to work. It's the work ethic."

College teammates Thomas and Vaccaro got together in Austin to train with other safeties before, but they decided to expand things this year to include other defensive backs. This year's group even had a weight room session that included rookie defensive linemen Christian Wilkins (Miami Dolphins) and Charles Omenihu (Houston Texans).

The players will wrap up the week this Saturday with a "Bowl with the Pros" charity event.

NEW TEAM, SAME MINDSET FOR TITANS VETERAN CAMERON WAKE

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 24, 2019

NASHVILLE – This time last year, veteran defensive end Cameron Wake was in Miami, getting ready for the season opener against the Titans.

Today, he's a Titan, preparing for the 2019 season.

Ten seasons into his NFL career, Wake is adjusting to a new city, a new team, new teammates, and new coaches. After signing as a free agent in March, it's been so far, so good.

"I've definitely enjoyed it," Wake said. "Breath of fresh air. I think it was time, obviously. So, being around not only players, the city, I've gotten the chance to kind of go out and spend some time around town, the people, the fans – been nothing but warm wishes, a lot of healthy welcomes. I've definitely enjoyed it, not only just in this building, but the city as a whole."

Wake downplayed putting on a different helmet and uniform when the Titans kicked off OTAs at the start of this week. The team will be back on the field for OTA No.3 on Thursday.

"Just a different color, that's all," Wake said with a smile. "Same number (91), same guy doing in essence the same thing. Ball is ball, as they say. It's just wearing a different color in a different city."

Wake, 37, has played ball very well during his career. He posted double-digit sack totals in five of his 10 NFL seasons in Miami, including a 10.5-sack season in 2017. Wake recorded six sacks in 2018 while playing limited snaps. He recorded 360 total tackles, one interception, and 22 forced fumbles in addition to his 98 sacks during his time with the Dolphins. Wake's 98 sacks are the second-most ever by a player in a Dolphins uniform, behind only Jason Taylor.

Wake (6-3, 263) played in 146 games with 125 starts with the Dolphins. He's a five-time Pro Bowl selection (2010, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2016) and a four-time Associated Press All-Pro (first team 2010 and 2012; second team 2014 and 2016).

Now he's learning a new defense in Tennessee, led by defensive coordinator Dean Pees.

"Bit of a learning curve, a little different than what I'm used to," Wake said. "I think when you look at the big picture, all the players, all the pieces are put in position to make plays. You've got the fast guys where fast guys need to be, the big, strong guys where they need to be, and he puts everybody in position to help the team out as a whole. When your number is called, sort to speak, you get to have kind of the whole team behind you. But, you have to make that play and we all hold each other accountable, so that's a lot of fun as well."

Already this offseason, some of Wake's younger teammates have praised him for his leadership, from linebackers Rashaan Evans to Jayon Brown to Sharif Finch.

During Tuesday's OTA, his leadership was on full display as he worked with some of the rookies during a break in the action.

In Miami, Wake was twice named the winner of the Don Shula Leadership Award, and he was the 2016 recipient of the Dolphins Ed Block Courage Award after he tore his Achilles' tendon midseason in 2015.

He said he's more than willing to help those around him, even if it's being a leader by example. Wake knows they're watching, because he's always done so himself.

"I've always been a guy who takes a lot of pride in my craft and what I do," Wake said. "I've always been a guy to look around and see other guys who I respect in this league, or other teams, wherever it is. You obviously look and see some of the things that you can maybe pick and choose, and take from their game. I think any player or any guy who is serious about what they do, they're going to do the same.

"I think on this team we have a lot of guys who are serious about what they do, so I wouldn't expect anything less. Again, since I am serious, I don't have to – it's not a show, it's not an act. It's just you do what you've been doing. It's obviously allowed me to play here in this league for a long time, and if I can continue to do the same I think that should continue, and hopefully I can help out some of the guys that are on that same journey."

The Titans signed Wake, of course, to get after the quarterback.

A season after Jurrell Casey led the team with seven sacks, the team is looking to get more pressure from the outside. In addition to Wake, outside linebackers Harold Landry, Kamalei Correa, Finch and fifth-round pick D'Andre Walker will be in the mix to make things happen.

Wake wants to keep on keeping on.

Wake's six sacks in 2018 came despite playing less than 50 percent of the team's defensive snaps. Since 2006, Wake has posted the second highest pressure percentage (16.7 %) in the NFL, behind only Von Miller (17.1), according to Pro Football Focus. Wake generated 54 pressures on 313 pass rushes in 2018, per PFF. On 517 defensive snaps last season, Wake recorded an overall grade of 81.6 and was among the league's most productive pass rushers, per PFF.

"I'm confident that as it stands now, we're putting in the work," said Wake, who tallied 36 tackles, 17 quarterback hits, six sacks, five tackles for loss, and a pass deflection in addition to his six sacks in his 14 starts in 2018.

“I’ll let you guys (do) predictions and all the crystal balls, but we’re just out here working every day. I think that’s the main focus, is wherever you are in your journey – some guys are here, some guys are there – wherever that is, improve. If you do that, then you’re going to help the team as a whole. What’s going to happen? The proof is in the pudding. We’ll worry about that when the real bullets get flying. For now … everybody is putting in the work to make sure that when they do snap that first ball we’ll be ready.”

TITANS TE DELANIE WALKER: "THIS IS NOT THE END FOR ME"

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
DECEMBER 4, 2019

FRANKLIN – Delanie Walker's 2019 season is over, but he's not ready to hang up his cleats.

The Titans tight end said on Tuesday night he wants to keep playing football and believes in time his troublesome ankle will allow him to return to form.

The Titans placed Walker on Injured Reserve last month.

"This is not the end for me," Walker said on Tuesday night, when he hosted a pizza party and took children on a shopping spree. "This is a setback. And if anyone knows the type injury I had, it ain't easy to come back and play at a high level like I do. I just want to get it fixed and be ready for next year.

"I still have a year on my contract, and I am a Titan. So as long as the team, the organization, wants me here and believes in me, I am always going to be a Titan."

Walker, who struggled health-wise this season with the ankle he had surgery on last year, ended up playing in seven games in 2019. He finished this season with 21 catches for 215 yards and two touchdowns.

Walker was inactive for four games leading up to him being placed on IR.

"It was tough, and it hurts that I am not able to help my team out, and they are doing such a good job this year and I am excited about what going on with the team," Walker said. "And that's the disappointing part, in that I feel like I am letting myself down and the team not being able to perform at the highest level. But I know once I get this taken care of I'll be back to normal and that is the goal."

In his 14-year playing career, Walker has 504 catches for 5,888 yards and 36 touchdowns.

Walker said his ankle started to get even more tender after returning to the practice field last month, and the decision was made for him to not play any more in 2019.

"Pretty much I practiced, and I felt good, but as the week progressed I felt like it wasn't getting better the way I thought it was," Walker said. "I just felt like I wasn't going to be myself, and I didn't think I was 100 percent to protect myself on the field. We had a conversation, the team and I, and we felt it was best that I try and get it fixed and get ready for the future."

On Tuesday night, to celebrate the holiday season, local children from Napier Elementary joined Walker for a holiday shopping spree at a local sporting goods store. Walker also hosted the kids for a pizza party, where he surprised them about their shopping spree and Woom Bikes USA giveaway.

It was Walker's 7th Holiday Night Out in partnership with the Delanie Walker Gives Back Foundation.

"Some of them were so excited, they cried out of excitement, and that goes a long way," Walker said. "I set out to try and change lives and being able to have the platform that I do by being in the NFL means a lot to me and I know it means a lot to guys on the team. Just to be able to impact the community we live in (is important to me)."

OUTSPOKEN, COOL, COMMUNITY-COMMITTED AND A BIT 'WEIRD,' DELANIE WALKER IS THE TIGHT END THE TITANS NEED RIGHT NOW

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
AUGUST 23, 2019

Social media has so distorted how we view things that life experiences are interrupted to document confirmation of the best time ever, and things that used to be private and earnest are grand productions.

And that puts authenticity in question. Charity work, for example, is something professional sports teams and athletes should do. Some do more than others, some with pure intentions, some for selfish reasons or out of obligation. What matters is that it gets done. If a sick kid gets a happy moment or an impoverished family a bit of support, this is good. Yet the constant need to tell us, tell us, tell us about it triggers our cynicism. Everyone has a camp, everyone has a foundation, just as everyone on Facebook is happy and secure and thrilled to be doing whatever they're doing at the moment. Delanie Walker thinks about these things, as if coming back from a fractured and dislocated ankle at the age of 35 to revive the Tennessee Titans' offense and re-establish himself as one of the best tight ends in a Gronk-less NFL isn't enough to occupy his mind.

"Sometimes I feel like the message ends up going the wrong way with this stuff," Walker said. "Like athletes only do things in the community to be liked. Or for the 'likes.' Social media is a big nemesis of mine."

That's not to say he shuns it altogether. Walker has use for it, especially now that he is ramping up a philanthropic presence in Nashville that fellow citizens and Titans say has been personal for years. When the Titans do something, you can usually find Walker in the middle of it. And sometimes he'll jump into the discussion on his own. This happened in December of 2017 when an 11-year-old boy from Knoxville, Keaton Jones, went viral with a tearful video about bullies at his school. Walker was one of several celebrities who reached out, offering a motivational message and tickets to an upcoming Titans game to Keaton and his family.

And then, in a perfect summation of this world, sympathy for Keaton quickly turned to controversy as racist posts from his parents were unearthed.

"You know," Walker said Wednesday when reminded of that situation, "the internet is a terrifying thing."

And Walker has been burned by it, and he's careful about what he puts on it. That was apparent in several interviews with him for this, an attempt to find out more about Walker than the fact that he's a 6-foot-2, 248-pound nightmare for defenses — "an unbelievably deceptive route runner, and so strong that he just manhandles you," Titans safety Kevin Byard said — who brings 483 career catches, three Pro Bowls and two healthy legs into his 15th NFL season. He's still an elite tight end in the league and has looked like one during camp. He's perhaps the best player on his team and certainly one of the most important (just ask Marcus Mariota how much he missed Walker after the gruesome injury ended his 2018 season in the opener at Miami). But there isn't much out there about him.

His coaches rave, Titans offensive coordinator and former tight ends coach Arthur Smith crediting Walker with "setting the example" on that side of the ball and Mike Vrabel saying: "Delanie's answer to everything is 'Anything you want, coach.' And that really is the standard answer. As truthful as I can say it, deadpan answer: 'Anything you want, coach.'"

His teammates marvel, at the physical gifts and longevity of course but also at the other aspects of Walker's life they see. He is much cooler than the average 35-year-old father of three. His fashion sense and extensive vinyl collection were featured in a 2015 piece in The Tennessean, and his car collection is a popular topic in the tight ends room. The Lamborghini gets a lot of attention, but Walker favors the Rolls Royce, 1964 Chevy Impala and 1972 Buick Skylark among his current roster of 13. He loves motorcycles, too. He's the Titans' resident Bruce Wayne.

"He's a different dude, in a good way," said Titans tight end Jonnu Smith of Walker, who is vocal and jovial with his teammates but mostly keeps his professional and private lives separate.

"He's a weird guy," Titans left tackle Taylor Lewan said of Walker. "And I mean that as the biggest compliment in the world. No one in this world wants to be normal, man. He doesn't fit in, he's his own unique person, and I have so much respect for him. He lives so many different lives. If you dial in where he grew up, how he grew up and how he had to grow up, it's hard to come out of that and not be jaded. But people can learn a lot from him."

On that childhood in Pomona, Calif., 30 miles east of Los Angeles, Walker offers few specifics. Asked if he has friends from that time who would be willing to talk, he said: "They probably wouldn't talk to you, just because they still live that life, you know what I'm saying? I'm pretty much the only person that got out."

Asked about his mother, Vicey Walker, and the prospect of an interview, Walker said the longtime nurse is busy right now caring for her mother and his grandmother, who is battling cancer.

"She'd probably keep it real and say, 'Delanie was a sneaky little dude,'" Walker said of his mother. "She worked two jobs, left at 6 a.m. and got back at midnight. Every day. She didn't know exactly what the hell I was doing, unless I was getting arrested and they were calling her. That's pretty much the truth."

And so is this:

"One foot in the streets and one foot out, a lot of times that doesn't end the right way," said Leonard Hudson, Pomona High's head football coach and athletic director. "But Delanie figured it out and now you look at him, he wants to come back and talk to our kids all the time."

Walker is always willing to talk to reporters, win or lose, the mark of someone who understands that shrinking away puts more burden on teammates. Walker also offers media critiques regularly. Last week he was asked about the ESPN-inflated hot air balloon of buffoonery titled "Ryan Tannehill might beat out Marcus Mariota before the opener" and he blamed the industry at large for the endless pursuit of "clicks." More than once this offseason, he has ripped analysts for disregarding him and projecting the Titans to take a tight end in the draft.

And this was all before a Bleacher Report piece including Walker among its list of big-name players in danger of being cut, which makes "Tannehill over Mariota" sound like high-level analysis.

Walker has cause to be wary of the microphone. But did you know he was once a member of the media? A standout receiver and linebacker for Pomona High — a Nebraska assistant coach told the Pomona staff he had never seen a better linebacker prospect — Walker was kicked off the team early in his junior season. He blitzed when he wasn't supposed to blitz on a play, got chewed out by assistant coach Johnny Brown on the sideline and responded with such venom that then-head coach John Capraro intervened and told him he was done.

The team later voted to reinstate Walker, but the coaches stuck with the initial decision. They had seen Walker's anger bubble before, including when one of the coaches called him by his given first name, Hubert. Hubert Delanie Walker Jr. was named after his estranged father and had been teased by kids in elementary school about the name. That was an understandable sore spot, but Walker's attitude in general needed fixing.

"It was kind of like, if we didn't put our foot down then, Delanie was never going to learn," said Hudson, who was offensive coordinator at the time.

"I told you I was a knucklehead back then," Walker said. "I thought I was bigger than the school, bigger than the team."

To prove his commitment, Walker joined the Pomona High yearbook staff. He took pictures and videos on the sidelines of games. He put together a highlight package of the team at the end of the season. He liked it so much, video production was later his major at Central Missouri. And to further make amends with Brown, who also coached the baseball team, Walker played baseball that spring. He was back on the football field as a senior, a star whose talent did not go unnoticed by the college game's top coaches.

"I remember (then-USC coach) Pete Carroll saying, 'What can we do to get him here?'" Hudson recalled, but the answer was nothing because Walker didn't qualify academically.

He committed to Arizona State while playing at Mt. San Antonio Community College in Walnut, Calif., but he didn't have the core classes he needed to transfer and play as a junior. At community college, Walker said, he was "still choosing my friends over school, slacking when football season ended."

Willie Fritz had seen situations like this countless times as a football coach at two junior colleges. As head coach at Division II school Central Missouri at the time, he took advantage. He got Walker to visit a nice campus far from home, showed him an academic path, showed him that he had produced NFL players and got him to commit.

Walker dominated far from home, broke records as a receiver and returner and snuck into the sixth round of the 2006 NFL Draft as a choice of the San Francisco 49ers. Hudson said the discipline of Fritz's program was "major, major in Delanie's life," though Fritz recalled a young man who was ready to embrace that structure when he arrived.

"I still follow him on social media," Fritz, now Tulane's head coach, said of Walker. "I'm proud of the man he's become."

Walker is back on the field this preseason.

Fritz reconnected with Walker after the tragedy of Super Bowl XLVII in New Orleans. A few hours after the 49ers lost to the Baltimore Ravens on Feb. 3, 2013, Walker's aunt and uncle Alice and Bryan Young were killed by a drunken driver. That prompted Walker to get involved as spokesman for Mothers Against Drunk Driving around the same time he signed as a free agent with the Titans. He was the franchise's Community Man of the Year in 2013 and 2015 largely because of his work with MADD.

He has been involved with countless other organizations and founded the Delanie Walker Gives Back Foundation in 2015. The foundation just published a website at delaniewalkeronline.com and there's a steak dinner fundraiser planned for Oct. 7 at STK Nashville. This was at the urging of Walker's publicist, Lauren Renschler, Walker said, because she believes he has massive potential as a fundraiser and can do more with his foundation as a result.

These are all good things. Yet the eyes glaze over quickly, don't they? Walker is almost apologetic as he says: “I didn’t really want to do it and the cameras and all that isn’t my thing, but I think we can raise a lot of money.”

And if you ask around the Titans locker room and beyond, there are stories of Walker spending his own cash on kids. And joining random pickup basketball games. And hanging out at Rocketown, a faith-based youth outreach center with a skate park in downtown Nashville. And pulling teeth. He has partnered with Dr. Michele Blackledge, a Nashville dentist, on events for at-youth children at her practice. But it started with her reaching out to him on Facebook. She said she had tried other Titans and members of the Nashville Predators, but Walker was the only one to respond. He showed up. He told a kid who badly needed a tooth removed that if he let the doctor do her work he would give the kid whatever cash he had in his wallet.

“He’s just one of those people you can ask anything and he’ll say, ‘When?’” Blackledge said of Walker. “There aren’t a lot of people like that.”

Walker picks a Nashville school each year for an event in which he gives students brand-new backpacks. This year it was Napier Elementary School. Napier was the lowest-performing school in the state a few years ago and was just given “reward status” by the Tennessee Department of Education, an annual measure of student improvement and the highest status a school can earn. This happened on the watch of principal Watechia Lawless, who said Walker had visited the school several times on his own before putting together the formal backpack event. He manned the football toss at the school’s spring event, asking only that the adults lay off the autograph requests.

“He said, ‘I just want to hang with the kids. I want them to know I’m pulling for them. I don’t want any recognition and I don’t want you to say anything,’” Lawless said. “I’ve never seen anything like it. He’s got to be the nicest, most down-to-Earth Pro Bowler in the world. No pay, no recognition, no entourage, just him.”

Walker’s first encounter with Napier happened while taking part in a Titans-led United Way event a few years ago. It reminded him of his elementary school as a kid. He stayed in touch and saw signs of transformation on each visit.

“To see a place right in the middle of the hood and to see what the teachers and principals do to teach those kids, to make sure they have food on the weekends, make sure they come to class, that’s big,” Walker said. “I grew up in a neighborhood like that and the teachers didn’t care if we came to school or not, they were gonna get paid. They didn’t care if we had food on the weekends. (Napier teachers) don’t have a lot of help, they do it on their own and they do it because they care. That goes a long way when it’s genuine. Everything doesn’t have to be put out for the world on Instagram.”

And everything on Instagram isn’t positive. The mother of Walker’s two daughters, Racine Lewin, blasted him on his account in 2015, saying he had strayed, and you can bet that got trending. Walker and Lewin have a 4-year-old, Erra, and a 6-month-old, Petra. He has a son, 15-year-old Delanie, who is a sophomore tight end for St. John Bosco High in Bellflower, Calif.

“They mean everything to me,” Walker said of his family. “This is why I play the game, so I can support their mother and my kids, make sure they have a successful life growing up. My main thing is to make sure my kids get educated and have opportunities I never had.”

That’s a reward of this life and it comes with tradeoffs at times. After the Titans and Seattle Seahawks opted to not take the field for the national anthem in 2017, amid various protests around the league, Walker was asked about the prospect of fans boycotting the games and said among other things: “No one’s telling you to come to the game. It’s your freedom of choice to do that.”

The resulting backlash included death threats for him and his family. The intensity of that conversation faded quickly, though some may forever hold grudges. A few weeks later, Walker saw the Keaton Jones video and reacted to it. Then, more controversy. Keaton’s family eventually told Walker they wouldn’t be able to make the game. He said he still feels the same about Keaton and what he encountered.

“If the kid was being bullied, he was being bullied,” Walker said. “He can’t help what his family was into. I think a lot of people in the South have Confederate flags.”

On the video he posted for Keaton, Walker read a quote from Buddha: “Our life is shaped by our mind. We become what we think. Joy follows a pure thought like a shadow that never leaves.”

“Always remember that,” Walker said after reading the quote. “You can be whoever you want to be.”

TITANS TE DELANIE WALKER MOTIVATES STUDENT-ATHLETES AT PLAY FOOTBALL DRAFT HIGH SCHOOL DAY

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 23, 2019

NASHVILLE – Two days before the NFL Draft, Titans tight end Delanie Walker told the story of his climb to the NFL, and he hopes it will motivate others.

His audience: High school student-athletes from the Nashville area.

Walker was among the speakers at Play Football Draft High School Day on Tuesday at Nissan Stadiium.

The program assists preparing high school student-athletes for their transition into college and beyond. Roughly 200 high school athletes were on hand for the event, hosted by the NFL and Titans.

"I want to inspire these kids, and let them know if they work hard, they can be like me," Walker said. "It's hard work. My road wasn't easy. For me to get to the NFL and to be successful, it wasn't easy, and you have to always keep fighting.

"I want to let them know what I had to endure to get to this level and share my story. It's fun. I love the kids, and I am interested in hearing what they have to say, getting feedback. I let them ask me questions and I try and answer them the best that I can."

NFL Legends Mark Brunell, Trent Dilfer, Maurice Jones-Drew, Jordan Palmer, Chad Pennington, Michael Robinson, and Bobby Taylor were also on hand for the event, which also hosted high school coaches.

The event consisted of a forum featuring NFL executives, current NFL players and the NFL Legends. Moderators lead breakout sessions with participants discussing important values on and off the field, the role of athletes in the community and career opportunities in the sports industry.

Fairview High School, Gallatin High School, Hunters Lane High School, Maplewood High School, Oakland High School, Overton High School, Ravenwood High School, Stratford High School and Whites Creek High School were among the Nashville-area schools who took part in the event.

Walker led two different sessions, and he stuck around to answer questions about the Titans and himself. He discussed his recovery, quarterback Marcus Mariota, his own personal achievements, and the roadblocks he's cleared to get to where he is as he heads into his 14th NFL season.

He also stressed the importance of making good grades.

The NFL on Tuesday announced the NFL Legends Youth Advisory Committee to assist and guide efforts to preserve and grow youth and high school football through peer-to-peer engagement.

"I think some of those kids understand what I am saying," Walker said. "They are not going to say they have bad grades or that they are not doing what they need to do in the classroom. But I think it touches them because deep down inside they may be in the same boat that I was once in.

"So if I can share that message and let them know even though I was in the same situation they might be in, I still made it because I never gave up."

PRO ATHLETES FORM COUNCIL PROMOTING GUN VIOLENCE AWARENESS

BY KAELEN JONES
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
JUNE 6, 2019

Five athletes are taking the next step in promoting gun violence awareness in the United States.

Everytown for Gun Safety, the nation's largest gun violence prevention organization, announced that players from the NBA, NFL and WNBA are partnering to form the Everytown Athletic Council. The council's founding members include the WNBA's Devereaux Peters, NBA's Joakim Noah and NFL's Xavier Rhodes, Delanie Walker and DeAndre Washington.

"I'm thrilled to be one of the founders of Everytown's Athletic Council. The movement to end gun violence is really important to me and my family," said Noah. " ... Through this Council, we will be able to build on this work and raise even more awareness that the current situation is not acceptable and that we each can play a role in ending gun violence."

The group's first form of action will be to wear orange on Friday, June 7 in observance of National Gun Violence Awareness Day. Additionally, WNBA players have been given "Wear Orange" t-shirts and orange shoelaces to wear over the Wear Orange weekend in solidarity with the movement.

In the NBA, the Golden State Warriors will host 20 survivors of gun violence and Moms Demand Action volunteers during Game 4 of the 2019 NBA Finals. Warriors coach Steve Kerr will also wear orange during his pregame press conference in support of the Wear Orange campaign.

TITANS' WESLEY WOODYARD ADJUSTING TO BENCH ROLE – WHILE STILL LEADING LINEBACKING CORPS

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
OCTOBER 4, 2019

Rashaan Evans hunched forward while seated at his locker and looked dead ahead, wracking his mind for a specific example that speaks to how much veteran Wesley Woodyard has helped him through the early stages of his NFL career.

After a few moments, Evans just smiled.

“Man,” the Titans second-year linebacker said, “there’s just so, so many.”

And so even as Woodyard transitions to a new phase of his career – from weekly starter to regular off the bench this season – it's hard to quantify his value to the Titans.

Woodyard, in his 12th season in the NFL and sixth with the Titans, has been voted a team captain in each of the past 17 years. That goes back to his senior season at LaGrange (Georgia) High School in 2003 and his collegiate career at Kentucky, when in 2004 he became the first Wildcats freshman to serve as a captain.

"I think the most important thing anytime you're a leader, you've got to come into work demanding the best from your teammates, being the same guy every day, and I think that's been something throughout the 17 years," Woodyard said ahead of the team's Week 5 matchup against the Bills (3-1) on Sunday (noon, CBS). "I always loved the game of football, and I always give it my all. I think my teammates can see that and feel that. 'This is a guy we can look to in the good times, and the bad times, too.'"

Even in his new, diminished on-field role, the 33-year-old Woodyard is providing a punch for the Titans' defense. Last week, he came in and brought down Falcons running back Devonta Freeman in the backfield for a tackle for a loss.

"I would say that his leadership – you know, he was voted a captain – has been phenomenal," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "And he was really good last week (against the Falcons). Pop him in there and can play both spots (at inside linebacker). He plays on special teams for us, too, and those are critical things."

Woodyard, who led the Titans last year with 113 total tackles (no other member of the team reached 100), started all but 10 of the 78 games he played in through his first five years with the Titans (2014-18). But he's taken a backseat to a pair of younger inside linebackers this season, Evans and Jayon Brown.

Woodyard averaged 51 defensive snaps a game last season; he's playing about 13 on average this year.

"It's tough, you know? Anytime you're not ..." Woodyard began before stopping himself, thinking better of completing that thought. "... I'm not going to say it. But you got to keep coming to work every day and not worry about the things that you can't control."

So it's not like Woodyard is completely indifferent about playing a smaller role on the defense. That shouldn't come as a surprise. But it clearly hasn't affected his demeanor or approach or attitude.

Brown, in his third year, said he still picks up something from Woodyard – a tidbit of guidance about their position, family advice, notes on how to lead – every day.

"He's just a great, great human," Brown said. "He gets along with everybody in the locker room. I feel like everybody has a strong respect for him, and he's not going to put anybody on the wrong path. Like he's always looking to help us out. What he has to say might not always be what you want to hear, but it's what you need to hear."

Evans corroborated Brown's account: "He's dishing out advice, stuff he knows, stuff he's learned, all the time," Evans said.

"You don't have a lot of guys that are willing to do that, man, just not in the league," Evans continued. "He's the guy that truly just cares about just helping other people and helping his teammates and doing anything he can to help this team."

Even though 2019 hasn't looked like any previous NFL season for Woodyard.

"Yeah, it's been different," he said. "Last year I was a defensive captain; this year I'm a special teams captain. But it's still the same leadership role. My teammates still depend on me to come here every day and make plays and lead, like I always do, and be a true professional. That's something that you can't take for granted or take lightly."

PAYING IT FORWARD: TITANS LB WESLEY WOODYARD CREDITS HALL OF FAMER BRIAN DAWKINS FOR SHOWING HIM THE WAY TO SUCCESS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 14, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans linebacker Wesley Woodyard made the rounds on Radio Row during Super Bowl LIII week, and at the height of the day he probably felt like he was walking through Times Square in New York City.

In the middle of the madness, the sight of someone stopped him in his tracks.

Hall of Famer Brian Dawkins was that someone.

"That was my mentor, and teammate right there," Woodyard said following a long embrace, and chat with Dawkins. "That's one of those guys that I say if you are not changing the game for a positive, then you are doing the game a disservice. Dawk taught me a lot about the mental part of the game. I learned so much trying to play like him, tackle like him.

"He made such a great impact on my game, and my life."

Woodyard and Dawkins were teammates for three seasons, from 2009-11, with the Broncos. Dawkins was at the end of a 16-year career that started back in 1996, while Woodyard was just getting started, signed as an undrafted free agent by the Broncos in 2008.

Woodyard, who just finished his 11th NFL season, and his fifth with the Titans, credits Dawkins and fellow Hall of Famer Champ Bailey for showing him the way. Their influence on the young linebacker helped make him the player, and leader, he is today, Woodyard said.

"For them to come and find the last guy on the roster and just mold him -- and I'm talking about myself -- and take me in as their little brother," Woodyard said. "B-Dawkins, I'll never forget he would say: 'Wood, I see greatness in you, and I am going to pull it out of you.' I was like, 'Man, this is Brian Dawkins, I grew up watching him. This is Champ Bailey, I grew up playing tag football saying I am Champ Bailey.'

"People often ask: Why are guys not taking the next step in their career, or why are their careers so short? It is because most guys are blessed to have guys like that in their locker room, who teaches them and shows them the way on and off the field. As a professional, you are not a little kid any more. You have to be able to be a true professional on and off the field. What Dawkins showed me was how to be a family man. How to get my prayer life together, how to be that true role model for everybody in the community that looks for you to be great. And to learn that at an early age, I am truly grateful for that."

The coolest thing I saw today @SuperBowl: @WoodDro52 of @Titans seeing @ProFootballHOF safety @BrianDawkins, his mentor with @Broncos.

Titans second-year linebacker Jayon Brown said Woodyard is paying it forward.

Brown said Woodyard has been that guy for him in Tennessee, where the team has a number of young linebackers who can learn from the veteran. During his rookie season, linebacker Rashaan Evans also praised Woodyard for his leadership.

"Wood helps me out so much with just little techniques and tips," Brown said. "He is so smart, and he helps me out so I can better my game each and every week whenever he sees I can improve on something.

"When we are watching film, "He'll say, 'Hey Jay, next time try this out in practice and see how it works.' Just tips on blitzing from different angles, stuff like that."

Woodyard, who led the Titans with 124 tackles in 2018 while also posting 4.5 sacks and 12 quarterback pressures, vowed to continue being a leader moving forward.

Woodyard has been a captain every season in the NFL. He's been a Community Man of the Year four times in his career, including in 2017 in Tennessee.

In his mind, he learned from the best.

"After guys like Dawk helped me," Woodyard said, "I could never be that guy in the locker room who is not going to be pouring into the younger guys."

FRANCHISE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAMERS

GEORGE BLANDA

QUARTERBACK/KICKER • 6'2" • 215 lbs • COLLEGE: KENTUCKY
NFL SEASONS: 26 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1960-66)
HOMETOWN: YOUNGWOOD, PA. • BORN: SEPT. 27, 1927
GAMES PLAYED: 340 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1981

George Blanda, who came out of retirement with the emergence of the American Football League in 1960, was the offensive catalyst for the explosive Oiler squads of the early 1960s. He played quarterback and handled the placekicking chores in Columbia blue for seven of his NFL-record 26 seasons in the league. Blanda was the team's leading passer and scorer in each of those seven seasons and still owns franchise records for most extra points (299), most touchdown passes in a season (36) and most touchdown passes in a game (7). He is also third in points scored with 596. The 36 scoring tosses stood as an NFL record for an astounding 23 years. Blanda's NFL career records included most games (340), most points (2,002) and most extra points (943). He also passed for 236 touchdowns. Blanda captained the Oilers to two consecutive AFL titles in 1960 and 1961, earning AFL Player of the Year honors in 1961. Blanda's career was divided into three distinct parts, 10 years with the Chicago Bears, seven seasons with the Houston Oilers and nine years with the Oakland Raiders. In 1970, he became the oldest quarterback to play in a title game. He was just a month shy of his 49th birthday when he retired before the 1976 season. Blanda passed away at age 83 on Sept. 27, 2010.

KEN HOUSTON

SAFETY • 6'3" • 197 lbs • COLLEGE: PRAIRIE VIEW A&M
NFL SEASONS: 14 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 6 (1967-72)
HOMETOWN: LUFKIN, TEXAS • BORN: NOV. 12, 1944
GAMES PLAYED: 196 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1986

Considered one of the best safeties in football history, Ken Houston picked off 49 passes (898 yards), recovered 21 fumbles and scored 12 touchdowns over his 14-season NFL career, earning Pro Bowl honors 12 consecutive times (1968-69 AFL, 1970-79 NFL). Houston returned an NFL-record nine interceptions for a touchdown in his six seasons as an Oiler. Four of those scores came in 1971, tying an NFL record. He returned two in one game against San Diego in the 1971 season finale, which also ties an NFL mark. His other three touchdowns came on a punt return, a fumble return and a blocked field goal return. Houston also holds the Oilers record for most career interception return yards with 650. With a long, fluid stride, Houston had excellent speed and quickness. His 6-3, 197-pound frame made him an ideal pass defender. Yet his lean, muscular body helped him to become a punishing tackler. Originally a ninth-round draft choice out of Prairie View A&M, Houston earned a starter's role by the third game of his rookie season. Two weeks later in a game against the New York Jets, he scored two touchdowns, one on a 71-yard blocked field goal attempt, and the other on a 43-yard interception return. After excelling for six years with the Oilers, Ken was traded to the Redskins for five veteran players in 1973. The Redskins once referred to Houston as "pro football's most underrated superstar," but his capabilities were widely recognized. He won all-league acclaim with the Oilers in 1969 and 1971, and then was either All-Pro or All-NFC with the Redskins every year from 1973 to 1979. He was selected for either the AFL All-Star game or the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl 12 straight seasons from 1968 through 1979. He played in 183 consecutive games before suffering a broken arm against the New York Giants Nov. 25, 1979.

EARL CAMPBELL

RUNNING BACK • 5'11" • 232 lbs • COLLEGE: TEXAS
NFL SEASONS: 8 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1978-84)
HOMETOWN: TYLER, TEXAS • BORN: MARCH 29, 1955
GAMES PLAYED: 115 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1991

Earl Campbell, a 5-11, 232-pound ball-carrying dynamo from the University of Texas, joined the Houston Oilers as the first player taken in the 1978 National Football League Draft. The first player to earn All-Southwest Conference honors four years, Campbell was a consensus All-America and the Heisman Trophy winner in 1977. Campbell took the NFL by storm from the outset. In 1978, he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player, All-Pro, and Rookie of the Year. He won the league rushing championship with a club-record 1,450 yards and was named to the AFC Pro Bowl squad. It was more of the same the next two years with NFL rushing titles, MVP honors, and consensus All-Pro acclaim each season. He followed his rookie campaign with 1,697 yards in 1979, but his finest year came in 1980 when he rushed for 1,934 yards, which at the time was second only to 0. J. Simpson's 2,003 yards gained in 1973. That year, Campbell gained over 200 yards in four games. In 1981, he won his fourth straight AFC rushing title with 1,376 yards. A sensational runner, Campbell was picked for the Pro Bowl five of his first six NFL seasons (1978-81, 1983). In his eight-year career, which finished in New Orleans, Campbell rushed 2,187 times for 9,407 yards, and 74 touchdowns, retiring as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher. He also gained 806 yards on 121 receptions to bring his career combined net yards total to 10,213. He set Oilers records for most career yards (8,574), most career attempts (1,979), most touchdown runs (73) and most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5). His most famous performance came in a Monday night game against Miami in his rookie season. That night, he rushed for 199 yards and four touchdowns to lead the Oilers to a spectacular 35-30 victory. In spite of the constant pounding he took from opposing defenders, Earl missed only six games out of 115 because of injuries. Midway into his seventh season, he was traded by the Oilers to the New Orleans Saints for a first-round draft pick. He played a season and a half with the Saints before retiring after the 1985 campaign. Campbell is one of just four people officially designated a Texas Legend by the Texas State Legislature. The others are Davy Crockett, Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin. Campbell was the only designee of the 20th century.

CHARLIE JOINER

WIDE RECEIVER • 5'11" • 188 lbs • COLLEGE: GRAMBLING
NFL SEASONS: 18 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 4 (1969-72)
HOMETOWN: MANY, LA. • BORN: OCT. 14, 1947
GAMES PLAYED: 239 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1996

Charlie Joiner played 18 seasons in the NFL, including his first four with the Houston Oilers. One of the league's most prolific receivers, he amassed 750 career receptions for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns, ranking as the league's leading receiver of all-time when he retired at the age of 39 in 1986. His 18 seasons played were longer than any other wide receiver in history at the time of his retirement. The Oilers originally targeted Joiner for the defensive backfield when they picked the 5-11, 180-pounder from Grambling in the fourth round of the 1969 AFL-NFL Draft. Joiner played briefly on defense and the kickoff return team but soon became established as a premier pass catcher. Joiner caught 82 of his 750 career passes as an Oiler, totaling 1,480 yards and 12 touchdowns. He paced the squad with 681 yards and seven touchdown grabs in 1971. In his fourth season in 1972, Houston sent him to the Cincinnati Bengals in a four-player swap. Four years later in 1976, he was traded to San Diego. With the Chargers, Joiner blossomed into super-stardom. He and quarterback Dan Fouts formed a lethal pass-catch team that accounted for the preponderance of his 586 receptions as a Charger. During his 11 years in San Diego, Joiner caught 50 or more passes seven times and had 70 or more receptions three seasons. Injuries cut into his playing time at the beginning, but in a 193-game span over his final 13 seasons, Joiner missed only one game. He was an All-NFL pick in 1980 and a Pro Bowl choice three times. In the 1980 AFC title game, he led the Chargers with six receptions for 130 yards and two touchdowns. Blessed with excellent speed and tantalizing moves, Joiner averaged 16.2 yards per catch and accounted for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns. When he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1996, Joiner ranked fifth in receptions and sixth in receiving yardage on the NFL's all-time list. Joiner was once described by San Francisco 49ers coaching great Bill Walsh as "the most intelligent, the smartest, the most calculating receiver the game has ever known."

FRANCHISE PRO FOOTBALL HALL OF FAMERS

MIKE MUNCHAK
GUARD • 6'3" • 281 lbs • COLLEGE: PENN STATE
NFL SEASONS: 12 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 12 (1982-93)
HOMETOWN: SCRANTON, PA. • BORN: MARCH 5, 1960
GAMES PLAYED: 159 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2001

Mike Munchak was the eighth player overall and the first offensive lineman chosen in the 1982 National Football League draft. Selected by the Oilers, the former Penn State standout was an immediate success with the Houston club, earning the starting left guard spot in his first training camp. The 6-3, 281-pound lineman wasted little time establishing himself as one of the premier guards in the NFL. In 1984, in just his third year in the league, he was named to the first of seven All-AFC teams. That same year he received the first of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Not coincidentally, the Oilers' on-the-field successes increased as Munchak's development and experience increased. From their dismal 1-8 record in the strike-shortened 1982 season, the Oilers improved nearly every year that Munchak played. Along the way, the team advanced to the playoffs seven consecutive years (1987-1993) and captured the 1991 and 1993 AFC Central Divisional crowns. Munchak was a devastating blocker and considered the key to an offensive line that kept the Oilers at or near the top of the NFL's offensive statistical categories. In 1988 he led the Oilers' offensive line that gave up just 24 quarterback sacks which was third in the NFL. It was also the fewest sacks allowed by the team in 10 seasons. The following season the offensive line held opponents to no sacks in six games. In 1991, the Oilers offensive line finished second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in the fewest quarterback sacks allowed. Behind the Munchak-led line, Houston led the NFL in total offense in 1990 and passing offense in 1990 and 1991. The Oilers finished second in points scored in 1990 and second in total offense in 1991. Equally effective as a run blocker, Munchak led the Oilers offensive charge in 1993 as the team finished fourth in the NFL in both average gain per rushing play (4.4) and average gain per offensive play (5.3). Although he suffered from chronic knee problems, Munchak played in 159 regular season games. His 12 seasons with the Oilers tied him for second longest in the franchise's history at the time of his retirement. He became the first player inducted into the Hall of Fame who played his entire career with the Oilers. Long-time teammate Bruce Matthews presented Munchak for induction.

ELVIN BETHEA
DEFENSIVE END • 6'2" • 260 lbs • COLLEGE: NORTH CAROLINA A&T
NFL SEASONS: 16 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 16 (1968-83)
HOMETOWN: TRENTON, N.J. • BORN: MARCH 1, 1946
GAMES PLAYED: 210 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2003

Defensive end Elvin Bethea, an eight-time Pro Bowl selection during his outstanding career with the Houston Oilers, was named to the five-man class of the 2003 Pro Football Hall of Fame that included running back Marcus Allen, guard Joe DeLamielleure, wide receiver James Lofton, and coach Hank Stram. A third-round draft pick in 1968 (77th player overall) Bethea played in 210 games over 16 seasons, never missing a game until breaking his arm on Nov. 13, 1977. He was considered a "steal" in a draft class that produced three future Hall of Fame players in Larry Csonka, Art Shell, and Ron Yary. When he retired, he held three team records relating to career service: most seasons (16), most career regular season games played (210), and most consecutive regular season games played (135). Having led the team in sacks in six seasons, Bethea's unofficial 105-career sack total still ranks first in franchise history, including his team-best 17 sacks in 1973. He recorded four sacks and a fumble recovery in his best single game performance against San Diego in 1976. He played in eight playoff games and posted 691 career tackles. Bethea also played in eight Pro Bowls (1970, 1972-1976, 1979, 1980) and earned All-Pro second-team honors in 1973, 1975, 1978, and 1979. More than just a pass rusher, Bethea was also effective against the run. Eventhough 1974 was the first year such statistics were compiled by the Oilers, his 691 career tackles, are still among the best in franchise history, even excluding the first six years of his career. "When people ask me who the best guy I ever played against was I always tell them Elvin Bethea and Lyle Alzado because both of them were complete ballplayers," said Art Shell, Hall of Fame member of the Oakland Raiders. "Elvin was one of the quickest guys I've ever been around. We always had to double-team him. There were times when I was supposed to block him when he would get by me so quick. And then Gene Upshaw was supposed to pick him up and he also got by him so quick that we would get back to the huddle and Upshaw would say, 'Did you see that?' and I'd say, 'Yeah, I saw that. He just beat the heck out of me too!' Elvin was just a great player."

WARREN MOON
QUARTERBACK • 6'3" • 212 lbs • COLLEGE: WASHINGTON
NFL SEASONS: 17 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 10 (1984-93)
HOMETOWN: LOS ANGELES, CALIF. • BORN: NOVEMBER 18, 1956
GAMES PLAYED: 208 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2006

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history, was inducted into the 2006 class of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Moon played 10 years (1984-93) with the Oilers/Titans organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. During a 17-year NFL career, Moon played for the Houston Oilers, Minnesota Vikings, Seattle Seahawks and Kansas City Chiefs and amassed 49,325 passing yards, 291 touchdowns and 102 wins. He earned nine Pro Bowl invitations (tied for the most by a quarterback with John Elway and Dan Marino), posted nine 3,000 yard seasons, 49 300-yard games and led his team to nine playoff appearances. His eight consecutive playoff berths matched a feat accomplished by Terry Bradshaw and Joe Montana. At the time of his retirement, he held the single-season passing yardage record for three different franchises: Oilers (4,367 in 1991), Vikings (4,364 in 1994) and Seahawks (3,678 in 1997). Moon tallied many accomplishments during his Oiler career. His finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363 for 584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Against Kansas City in 1990, Moon threw for 527 yards, which ranks as the second highest single-game total in NFL history (Norm Van Brocklin, 554 yards in 1951). In 1991, he surpassed the previous season's yardage total with 4,690 yards and became just the third player (Marino, Fouts) in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000 yard passing seasons. Moon joined the Oilers and the NFL in 1984, after six seasons in the Canadian Football League, where he led his team to five Grey Cups (League Champions). In the CFL, Moon threw for 21,228 yards and 144 touchdowns. Moon was driven to play in the CFL after drawing little interest from the NFL as a starting quarterback following his senior season at the University of Washington. Moon became the first African-American quarterback to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame and his legacy as a minority quarterback cannot be underestimated. At the time of his arrival in the NFL only two black quarterbacks had been significant starters for their NFL teams (Shack Harris, Rams; Doug Williams, Tampa Bay).

BRUCE MATTHEWS
GUARD/TACKLE/CENTER • 6'5" • 305 lbs • COLLEGE: USC
NFL SEASONS: 19 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 19 (1983-2001)
HOMETOWN: ARCADIA, CALIF. • BORN: AUGUST 8, 1961
GAMES PLAYED: 296 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2007

Arguably one of the best offensive linemen to ever play the game, Bruce Matthews became the first Tennessee Titan to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. At the time of his retirement, Matthews played in more NFL games (296) than any non-kicker in the league's history. Longevity and durability were his hallmarks, but that coupled with his unparalleled play, earning a league record 14 consecutive Pro Bowl (9 at guard and 6 at center) selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and seven times named AP All-Pro, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in starting at every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 C, 99 LG, 67 RG, 22 RT, 17 LT). He becomes the first Hall of Fame offensive lineman to play significant time at all five offensive line positions. A constant for the Oilers/Titans franchise, Matthews started in a team record 229 consecutive games (streak started at Indianapolis, Nov. 29, 1987) and never missed a game because of injury. His 19 seasons also are a team record and he ranks second in NFL history for years with one team behind Jackie Slater, who spent 20 seasons with the Rams. Matthews and G Randall McDaniel (Vikings) were the only two NFL players to play in every game during the decade of the 90's. Matthews was a part of nearly one-half of the franchise's first 42-years of history and helped the team win 146 games, make the playoffs nine times, earn the only three AFC Central titles in team history, earn an AFC Championship and the franchise's only Super Bowl appearance. He blocked for 15 quarterbacks and 27 running backs, including five different 1,000-yard rushers (Earl Campbell, Mike Rozier, Lorenzo White, Gary Brown and Eddie George). During his career, he played in offenses that produced nine 1,000-yard rushing seasons and eight 3,000-yard passers. Additionally, he played in 42 different stadiums during his NFL career. During his career, Matthews blocked on a line that helped produce 65 100-yard rushing performances and 48 300-yard passing performances. Originally drafted by the Houston Oilers in the first round (ninth overall) of the 1983 NFL Draft, Matthews earned All-America honors at the University of Southern California. Matthews and his brother, Clay, each played 19 NFL seasons and the duo set an NFL record for games played by a pair of brothers with 574 games. Clay Matthews played in 278 games during his NFL career. Matthews had his number 74 jersey retired by the team and was inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame during a December, 2002 ceremony. Matthews joined a 2007 Hall of Fame class that included Dallas Cowboys WR Michael Irvin, Buffalo Bills RB Thurman Thomas, Detroit Lions TE Charlie Sanders, Cleveland Browns G Gene Hickerson, and St. Louis CB Roger Wehrli.

CURLEY CULP
DEFENSIVE TACKLE • 6'2" • 265 lbs • COLLEGE: ARIZONA STATE
NFL SEASONS: 14 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 7 (1974-1980)
HOMETOWN: YUMA, ARIZ. • BORN: MARCH 10, 1946
GAMES PLAYED: 179 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2013

Curley Culp was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2013. A six-time Pro Bowl selection, Culp played in 179 games during his NFL career with the Kansas City Chiefs (1968-1974), Houston Oilers (1974-1980) and Detroit Lions (1980-81). He was considered the prototypical nose tackle and helped pioneer the 3-4 defense. Hailing from Arizona State, where he was an All-American in both football and wrestling, Culp was selected in the second round of the 1968 NFL Draft by the Denver Broncos, who intended to use him as an offensive guard. However, his brief stint in Denver ended when he was traded to the Chiefs, who inserted him permanently on the defensive side. In 1969, the Chiefs won Super Bowl IV, and Culp was an instrumental member of one of the league's top defenses. He helped the Chiefs defeat the Oakland Raiders in the AFL Championship Game and the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl. In 1974, during his seventh campaign in Kansas City, Culp was traded to the Oilers along with a first-round draft pick (used to select Robert Brazile) in exchange for John Matuszak. The move paid almost immediate dividends for the Oilers, who previously suffered through 1-13 records in both 1972 and 1973. In 1975, Culp's first full season in Houston, he helped the Oilers to a record of 10-4, the first winning mark for the club in eight years. With Culp anchoring the defense, the Oilers finished with the AFC's top-ranked run defense (third in the NFL). Individually, Culp produced arguably the finest season of his career, recording 11.5 sacks and earning NFL Defensive Player honors by the Newspaper Enterprise Association. Culp continued as a leader of the Oilers defense that culminated in back-to-back appearances in the AFC championship games in 1978 and 1979. He was named to one AFL All-Star Game and five Pro Bowls during his career. Culp also was picked as a first-team All-Pro in 1975 and a second-team selection in 1971, 1977, 1978, and 1979. He was selected first- or second-team All-AFC five times. "Curley Culp was perhaps the strongest man I ever lined up against," said Raiders Hall of Fame center Jim Otto. Culp used his strong wrestling background to create havoc for opposing guards and centers. He was the 1968 NCAA heavyweight wrestling champion and was named to the U.S. Olympic wrestling team that year. Culp joined a 2013 Hall of Fame class that included offensive linemen Larry Allen and Jonathan Ogden, wide receiver Cris Carter, coach Bill Parcells, linebacker Dave Robinson and defensive lineman Warren Sapp.

ROBERT BRAZILE
LINEBACKER • 6'4" • 241 lbs • COLLEGE: JACKSON STATE
NFL SEASONS: 10 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 10 (1975-84)
HOMETOWN: MOBILE, ALA. • BORN: FEB. 7, 1953
GAMES PLAYED: 147 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2018

Robert Brazile was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2018. As a rookie in 1975, he made an instant impact as he helped Houston notch the franchise's first winning season in eight years with a 10-4 record. He went on to win Defensive Rookie of the Year in 1975. With his speed, strength, tackling and coverage ability, Brazile helped revolutionize the outside linebacker position in a 3-4 defense. Nicknamed 'Dr. Doom,' Brazile started all 147 regular season games during his career and made seven postseason starts, including back-to-back AFC Championship Games (1978-79). He recorded nine tackles and one fumble recovery in the 1978 AFC Championship game. He was elected to seven career Pro Bowls and named All-Pro for five consecutive seasons (1976-80). Brazile registered a career-best 185 tackles in 1978 on his way to helping the Oilers secure three consecutive 10-win seasons and three consecutive playoff berths (1987-80). His career statistics include 13 interceptions, 14 fumble recoveries and 6.5 sacks in both 1976 and 1980. Brazile was named to the NFL's All-Decade Team of the 1970s.

KEVIN MAWAE
CENTER • 6'4" • 289 lbs • COLLEGE: LOUISIANA STATE
NFL SEASONS: 16 • YEARS WITH TITANS: 4 (2005-09)
HOMETOWN: LEEVILLE, LA. • BORN: JAN. 23, 1971
GAMES PLAYED: 241 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2019

Kevin Mawae was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame Class of 2019 and became the first established Titan without connections to the Houston Oilers to receive the honor. He played four seasons (2006-09) in Tennessee. Mawae entered the NFL as a second-round pick of the Seattle Seahawks in the 1994 NFL Draft. He began his career at right guard before being moved to center at the start of the 1996 season and remained at that position for the rest of his NFL career. After four seasons (1994-97) in the Northwest, the Louisiana State product signed a free agent deal with the New York Jets in 1998. In his first season in New York, Mawae helped running back Curtis Martin rush for a Jets franchise record eight 100-yard rushing games en route to 1,287-yard season. In 1999, he was named to his first of eight Pro Bowls and paved the way for Martin's then franchise-record 1,464 rushing yards. The 6-foot-4-inch, 289-pounder played in an astounding 177 consecutive games before a serious triceps injury ended his 2005 campaign after six games. Mawae signed a free agent deal with the Titans in 2006. In his first season with Tennessee, he made an immediate impact and was a part of an offense that ranked third in the AFC and fifth in the NFL in rushing with 2,214 yards. Three seasons later, he helped Chris Johnson amass a franchise-best 2,006 rushing yards, becoming just the sixth player all-time to accomplish the feat. In 241 career games over 16 seasons, Mawae was extremely durable and known for his toughness in the trenches. He was a first-team, all-decade center for the 2000s and blocked for a 1,000-yard rusher in 13 of his 16 seasons. Running backs Chris Warren (1,545 yards in 1994), Martin (1,697 in 2004), LenDale White (1,110 in 2007) and Johnson (2,006 in 2009) had the highest season rushing totals of their careers with Mawae on the line. He played 90 games in which there was a 100-yard rusher, the most by any offensive lineman in NFL history.

RETIRED JERSEY NUMBERS

In the history of the Oilers/Titans franchise, only six players have had the distinction of having their jersey number retired — Jim Norton (No. 43), Elvin Bethea (No. 65), Earl Campbell (No. 34), Mike Munchak (No. 63), Bruce Matthews (No. 74), and Warren Moon (No. 1).

Jim Norton played nine seasons for the Oilers (1960-68) as a safety and as a punter, establishing team records at both positions. As a rookie from the University of Idaho, Norton was a member of the Oilers' 1960 AFL Championship team. A four-time league all-star, he holds the club record for most interceptions in a career with 45. Also an accomplished punter, Norton was tops in club history with 519 career punts for a 42.3-yard career average and a long kick of 79 yards (11/22/64 vs. Kansas City).

Elvin Bethea joined the Oilers in 1968 after an outstanding career at North Carolina A&T. He started at defensive end in the 1968 season opener and didn't miss a game until breaking his arm in November 1977. That streak of 135 consecutive games played stands third in team history. An eight-time Pro Bowler (1970, 1972-76, 1978-80), Bethea ranks second for most seasons played (16, 1968-83), while his 210 games played (1968-83) also stands second behind Bruce Matthews. Bethea led the team in sacks six times, including a career-best mark of 17 in 1973. The Oilers honored him with an "Elvin Bethea Appreciation Night" on Aug. 4, 1983. He became the sixth player in franchise history to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Aug. 3, 2003.

Earl Campbell, the franchise's second leading rusher and a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was honored by having his number retired at ceremonies on Aug. 13, 1987. He set a single-season club record with a league-leading 1,450 yards his rookie season. Campbell followed that performance with 1,697 yards in 1979 and an astounding 1,934 yards in 1980. Both those totals led the NFL and the latter was second only to O.J. Simpson's 2,003 yards in 1973. Campbell was selected to five Pro Bowls (1978-81, 1983) and retired as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher (9,407). He ranks second in franchise history in career rushing yards (8,574) and attempts (1,979), first in touchdown runs (73) and first in most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5).

Mike Munchak joined the Oilers as a first-round draft pick in 1982 out of Penn State. He was the first offensive lineman selected in the draft and the eighth overall selection. Munchak won the starting left guard position as a rookie and went on to play in 12 campaigns (1982-93) and 159 games (156 starts) for the Oilers. He is tied for third on the team's all-time list for seasons played and ranks fifth in games played. Munchak became a fixture on an offensive line that helped the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances (1987-93). One of the premier guards in the National Football League, Munchak was selected to NFL's "Team of the Decade" for the 1980s and was chosen in 1989 to Oilers' 30th Anniversary "Dream Team." He ranks second in club annals with nine Pro Bowl selections, seven as a starter. Munchak announced his retirement on July 21, 1994, and on the same day, K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr,. announced that jersey No. 63 would be retired on "Mike Munchak Appreciation Day" on Nov. 6, 1994.

Bruce Matthews played in more games (296) than any non-kicker in NFL history. Longevity and durability were his hallmark. And that, coupled with his unparalleled play, in which he tied a league record with 14 Pro Bowl selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and earned All-Pro honors six times, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in playing every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 at center, 99 at left guard, 67 at right guard, 22 at right tackle, and 17 at left tackle). His number was retired during a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Dec. 8, 2002.

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history, played 10 years (1984-93) with the organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. Moon's finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363-for-584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games and becoming the third player in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000-yard passing seasons. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third Pro Bowl berth. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Oct. 1, 2006.

TITANS/OILERS HALL OF FAME

In recognition of the 40th season of the Houston Oilers/Tennessee Titans organization in 1999, the team's late owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. created an official team Hall of Fame, featuring players and staff from the past, while creating a special place for Titans stars of the future to be recognized. To date, 14 individuals have been named to the franchise's Hall of Fame:

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS, 1995-PRESENT

2000

January 8 – In a play known as the "Music City Miracle," Kevin Dyson returns a Frank Wycheck lateral on a kickoff return 75 yards for a touchdown, lifting the Titans to a 22-16 victory in the AFC Wild Card playoff game over the Buffalo Bills. The improbable play, which occurred with just 16 seconds remaining in the game, gives the franchise its first playoff win in Tennessee in addition to its first since 1993.

January 16 – Eddie George rushes for 162 yards, including a 68-yard touchdown run, as the Titans defeat the Indianapolis Colts, 19-16, in an AFC Divisional Playoff game at the RCA Dome.

January 23 – The Titans beat Jacksonville in the AFC Championship Game, using 23 second-half points en route to a 33-14 win at Alltel Stadium in Jacksonville. Steve McNair runs for two touchdowns and Derrick Mason returns a kickoff 80 yards in the win. The win sends Tennessee to its first Super Bowl in franchise history and its first AFC/AFL Championship since 1961.

January 30 – The Titans fall short in their quest to win Super Bowl XXXIV, as Kevin Dyson is stopped one yard short of the end zone on the final play of the game in a 23-16 St. Louis Rams victory.

Dyson races down the sideline in the Music City Miracle.

August 14 – The Titans host Monday Night Football for the first time since moving to Tennessee. A sell-out crowd of 68,072 at Adelphia Coliseum watch the Titans defeat St. Louis, 30-3, in a preseason Super Bowl XXXIV rematch.

October 16 – The Titans host their first regular season Monday Night Football game at Adelphia Coliseum, a 27-13 victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars.

December 14 – S Blaine Bishop, RB Eddie George, T Brad Hopkins, DE Jevon Kearse, KR Derrick Mason, G Bruce Matthews, CB Samari Rolle and TE Frank Wycheck are named to the AFC team for the Pro Bowl. QB Steve McNair is added as an alternate, giving the Titans nine players on the Pro Bowl roster, the most for the franchise since nine players were selected in 1992.

December 25 – The Titans clinch the AFC Central Division Championship with a 31-0 victory against the Dallas Cowboys, earning a 13-3 record for the second-consecutive season and home-field advantage throughout the playoffs. The defensive unit finishes the season ranked first overall in the NFL.

2001

March 28 – The Titans agree to trade their first pick (29th overall) in the 2001 NFL Draft to the St. Louis Rams for defensive end Kevin Carter.

May 22 – The NFL announces its plans to realign divisions beginning in 2002, placing the Titans in the new AFC South with the Jacksonville Jaguars, Indianapolis Colts and expansion Houston Texans.

August 4 – Mike Munchak, Titans offensive line coach and former Houston Oilers guard, is inducted in the Pro Football Hall of Fame after being selected for enshrinement on Jan. 27.

October 7 – Starting at center in Baltimore, Bruce Matthews plays in his 283rd NFL game and surpasses Jim Marshall for first place on league's all-time list for games played among non-kickers.

2002

January 2 – Bruce Matthews is named to his 14th consecutive Pro Bowl, tying him with Merlin Olsen for the most Pro Bowl selections in league history.

July 15 – Offensive lineman Bruce Matthews officially announces his NFL retirement from the offices of Titans owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., in Houston, Tex.

December 1 – RB Eddie George becomes franchise's all-time leading rusher, passing Earl Campbell, in victory at New York Giants.

December 22 – Titans clinch inaugural AFC South Division with 28-10 victory at Jacksonville.

December 29 – Titans go undefeated in inaugural AFC South division with 13-3 victory at Houston, securing a first-round bye in playoffs. The Titans become NFL's third team to advance to playoffs after starting their season 1-4.

2003

January 11 – Titans defeat Steelers 34-31 in AFC Divisional Playoff Game.

January 19 – Titans play in franchise's fourth AFC Championship Game, but fall short at Oakland, 41-24.

December 7 – Frank Wycheck becomes the fourth tight end in NFL history to record 500 career receptions in Tennessee's 29-27 loss at home to Indianapolis.

December 28 – Recently re-signed QB Neil O'Donnell starts following injuries to Steve McNair and Billy Volek. He throws for 232 yards and a pair of touchdowns in Tennessee's season-ending 33-13 victory over the Buccaneers. It marked O'Donnell's last NFL game, as he would announce his retirement following the season. Eddie George becomes the 17th running back in NFL history to record 10,000 rushing yards in the team's victory over the Bucs. George rushes for 87 yards to push him over the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the seventh time in his eight NFL seasons. It marked the final regular season game and the final home game for George as a Titan.

2004

January 2 – QB Steve McNair named NFL's co-MVP along with Colts QB Peyton Manning. Each player receives 16 votes from a national panel of 50 journalists.

January 3 – Titans defeat Ravens 20-17 in AFC Wild Card Playoff Game in Baltimore.

GAME-WINNING FIELD GOALS

The franchise has totaled 46 game-winning field goals since 1960, including three playoff game winners. Rob Bironas leads the franchise with 11 game-winning field goals, followed by former Oiler/Titan Al Del Greco (1991-00). Bironas' 60-yard field goal vs. Indianapolis (12/3/06) ranks as the longest game-winning field goal in franchise history. A game-winning field goal is defined as one that was the final score of the game and gave the kicker's team the lead at any time in the fourth quarter or overtime.

AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1960
Houston 24, Los Angeles Chargers 16
January 1, 1961 • Jeppesen Stadium

One sensational play by rookie halfback Billy Cannon, the previous season's Heisman Trophy winner, was the difference, as the Houston Oilers defeated the Los Angeles Chargers 24-16 in the first AFL Championship game. The Chargers took the early lead on two field goals by Ben Agajanian, but QB George Blanda brought the Oilers back, throwing a 17-yard touchdown pass to Dave Smith and kicking an 18-yard field goal, which put Houston ahead 10-9 at halftime. The teams exchanged touchdowns in the third quarter, with Blanda throwing a seven-yard scoring pass to Bill Groman and Chargers halfback Paul Lowe pounding over from the 2. Protecting a one-point lead in the fourth quarter and facing a third-and-nine at the Houston 12, Blanda threw a short pass to Cannon, who broke a tackle and outran the Chargers' secondary to complete an 88-yard scoring play. In the final minute of the game, the Chargers drove down the field, reaching the Houston 22. However, the Oilers held on fourth down for the title.

AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1961
Houston 10, San Diego Chargers 3
Dec. 24, 1961 • Balboa Stadium

The Houston Oilers defeated the San Diego Chargers 10-3 to win their second consecutive AFL title. In a game marked by turnovers, Houston had seven and San Diego six. The only score of the first half came on a 46-yard field goal by George Blanda, which followed a nine-yard San Diego punt. In the third quarter, the Oilers put together the only sustained drive of the game, moving 80 yards. With a third-and-five at the San Diego 35, Blanda rolled to his right and found Billy Cannon open at the 17. Cannon jumped to make the catch, shrugged off a would-be tackler, and motored into the end zone for a touchdown that put Houston up 10-0. The Chargers scored early in the fourth quarter on a 12-yard field goal by George Blair, but they could not get on the scoreboard again.

AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1962
Dallas 20, Houston 17 (2 OT)
Dec. 23, 1962 • Jeppesen Stadium

In what was at the time the longest game in the history of professional football, the Dallas Texans dethroned the two-time defending AFL champion Houston Oilers when Tommy Brooker kicked a 25-yard field goal after 2:54 of the sixth quarter, or 17:54 of sudden-death overtime. The Texans led 17-0 after two quarters, but the Oilers, tied it up with 17 second-half points. The overtime started with a potentially damaging gaffe by Dallas captain Abner Haynes, who had already scored twice, but who won the toss and then elected to 'kick to the clock'. What Haynes wanted was the strong wind behind his team, but, by saying kick first, it gave the Oilers the chance to decide which end to take, and they, needless to say, chose to have the wind behind them. As it turned out, it didn't matter. After an interception near the end of the first overtime period, the Texans took over. Two big plays by fullback Jack Spikes put the ball at the Houston 19, and, on fourth-and-nine, Brooker ended the contest.

AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1967
Oakland 40, Houston 7
Dec. 31, 1967 • Alameda County Coliseum

Big plays before and after halftime broke open a tight game, as the Raiders won their first AFL title with a 40-7 victory against Houston. The Raiders led 10-0 in the final minutes of the half, the big play a 69-yard touchdown run by Hewritt Dixon. The Raiders lined up for a field goal attempt from the Houston 17, but instead quarterback Daryle Lamonica took the snap and threw to a wide open Dave Kocourek for a touchdown with 18 seconds remaining to build the lead to 17-0. The Oilers hoped for a big play to open the second half, and they got it, but it was in favor of the Raiders. Zeke Moore fumbled the kickoff and Oakland recovered deep in Houston territory, leading to Lamonica's one-yard quarterback sneak. In the next two quarters, George Blanda kicked three field goals, to give him 16 points for the day, and Lamonica threw a touchdown pass to Bill Miller.

AFL PLAYOFF GAME – 1969
Oakland 56, Houston 7
Dec. 21, 1969 • Alameda County Coliseum

Oakland scored four touchdowns in 4:22 of the first quarter, as the Raiders jumped to a quick 28-0 lead on the way to a 56-7 victory over the Oilers. The key figure was quarterback Daryle Lamonica, who threw six touchdown passes. On their second possession, the Raiders moved 50 yards in five plays, with Lamonica throwing a 13-yard scoring pass to Fred Biletnikoff. On the first play after the kickoff, George Atkinson intercepted Pete Beathard's pass and returned it 57 yards for a score. The Oilers again lost the ball the first play after the kickoff, as Hoyle Granger fumbled and Carleton Oats recovered at the Houston 24. On first down, Lamonica hit Rod Sherman for a touchdown. Following the next kickoff, Houston again fumbled - this time by Beathard on the fourth play - and Tom Keating recovered. Again it took the Raiders one play to score, Lamonica finding Biletnikoff for the touchdown.

AFC WILD CARD GAME – 1978
Houston 17, Miami 9
Dec. 24, 1978 • Orange Bowl

The Oilers, making their first postseason appearance since 1969, advanced to the divisional playoffs on a brilliant passing performance by Dan Pastorini, who completed 20 of 29 passes for 306 yards and one touchdown. The two AFC wild card teams were locked in a 7-7 tie until midway through the fourth quarter. But Pastorini then completed all four of his passes in a 53-yard drive that set up Toni Fritsch's 35-yard field goal for a 10-7 lead with 7:25 left. One play after the ensuing kickoff, Gregg Bingham intercepted a Bob Griese pass and the Oilers drove 50 yards in 10 plays (9 on the ground) for Earl Campbell's clinching touchdown from the one-yard line. Griese completed 11 of 28 passes. Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher during regular season with 1,450 yards, gained 84 yards on 26 carries.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1978
Houston 31, New England 14
December 31, 1978 • Schaefer Stadium

Houston captured its second straight postseason road victory and advanced into its first AFC championship game with an impressive win over New England, the AFC East champion. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini completed 10 of 13 passes for 184 yards and three touchdowns as the Oilers jumped to a 21-0 halftime lead. After a scoreless first period, Pastorini hit wide receiver Ken Burrough on a 71-yard touchdown pass and connected with tight end Mike Barber on 19- and 13-yard touchdown strikes. New England narrowed the gap to 24-14 early in the final quarter on two scoring passes- a 24-yard option toss from running back Andy Johnson to wide receiver Harold Jackson and another 24-yard pass from backup quarterback Tom Owen to tight end Russ Francis. Linebacker Gregg Bingham's 19-yard interception return to New England's 18-yard line with 5:07 remaining stopped the Patriots' rally and set up running back Earl Campbell's two-yard touchdown run three plays later.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1978
Pittsburgh 34, Houston 5
January 7, 1979 • Three Rivers Stadium

Playing in their first championship game since 1962, the Oilers were unable to unseat a strong Pittsburgh team, dropping a 34-5 contest at Three Rivers Stadium. The Steelers, striking through cold, steady rain for 31 first half points, won their third AFC championship in five years behind their usual solid defense and spectacular performances by Terry Bradshaw and Lynn Swann. Seventeen of the points, came during a 48-second span in the last minute of the half as Pittsburgh capitalized on two fumbles by Ronnie Coleman and one by Johnnie Dirden. Despite the playing conditions that contributed to a postseason record 12 fumbles, Bradshaw completed 11 of 19 passes for 200 yards and touchdowns to John Stallworth and Swann, who caught four passes for 98 yards. Both touchdown passes and one of Roy Gerela's two field goals made up the 17-point burst between 14:08 and 14:56 of the second quarter after Pittsburgh had built a 14-3 lead on scoring runs by Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1979
Houston 13, Denver 7
December 23, 1979 • Astrodome

The Oilers, playing a postseason game at home for the first time in 17 years, advanced to the divisional playoffs by shutting out the Broncos over the last three quarters of play. Denver marched 80 yards for a touchdown and a 7-3 lead on its first possession, but Earl Campbell's three-yard scoring run gave Houston a 10-7 halftime margin. Campbell and Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini both missed second half action with groin injuries but Rob Carpenter and second year quarterback Gifford Nielsen played well in relief during their initial NFL playoff competition. Linebacker Gregg Bingham's 15-yard interception return set up Toni Fritsch's second field goal- a 20-yarder with 4:18 remaining to give Houston a 13-7 edge. The Oilers' defense, which recorded six sacks overall, held the Broncos on the final two series with Curley Culp's third-down sack and Vernon Perry's fourth-down pass deflection the key plays.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1979
Houston 17, San Diego 14
December 29, 1979 • San Diego Stadium

The Oilers advanced into their second consecutive AFC Championship Game on the strength of an opportunistic defense and a near-flawless performance by the offensive unit. First-year strong safety Vernon Perry set up 10 of the Oilers' 17 points with a postseason game record of four interceptions in addition to a 57-yard blocked field goal return. Second-year quarterback Gifford Nielsen and third-year running back Rob Carpenter started for regulars Dan Pastorini and Earl Campbell, who were sidelined with groin injuries. The Oilers intercepted AFC passing leader Dan Fouts five times. Nielsen, making his first NFL postseason start, completed a 47-yard scoring pass to Mike Renfro with 12:55 elapsed in the third period to provide the winning margin.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1979
Pittsburgh 27, Houston 13
January 6, 1980 • Three Rivers Stadium

The Steelers held the Oilers to only 24 rushing yards but were also aided by a controversial non-touchdown call to come away with a 27-13 win. Houston jumped to a 7-0 lead just 2:30 into the game when Vernon Perry returned an interception 75 yards for a touchdown. Then after both teams exchanged field goals, Terry Bradshaw completed two touchdown passes, a 16-yarder to tight end Billy Cunningham and a 20-yard score to wide receiver John Stallworth. With the Steelers leading 17-10, the controversial play occurred during the last seconds of the third quarter. Quarterback Dan Pastorini threw a pass to Mike Renfro at the back of the end zone, and Renfro appeared to have caught it for a touchdown with both feet in bounds before he fell out of the end zone. However, the officials ruled the pass incomplete. Although the Oilers protested, and replays would later show that it was inconclusive, they had to settle for a 23-yard field goal. The Steelers would then score 10 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to clinch the victory.

AFC WILD CARD GAME – 1980
Oakland 27, Houston 7
December 28, 1980 • Alameda County Coliseum

The Raiders advanced to the divisional playoffs by shutting out the Oilers over the final three quarters. Oakland converted Earl Campbell's fumble on the first play of the game into Chris Bahr's 47-yard field goal, but Campbell came back to score on a one-yard plunge to give Houston a 7-3 lead. Jim Plunkett's one-yard touchdown pass to Todd Christensen early in the second quarter put the Raiders ahead to stay 10-7. Plunkett added another touchdown on a 44-yard pass to Arthur Whittington on the first play of the final period. Kenny King's 31-yard run set up Bahr's 37-yard field goal that gave Oakland a 20-7 edge. Lester Hayes added two interceptions to his NFL-leading 13 during the regular season. He picked off Ken Stabler's pass in the end zone to end a Houston scoring threat in the third period. In the fourth quarter Hayes' 20-yard interception return capped the Raiders' scoring.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1987
Houston 23, Seattle 20 (OT)
January 3, 1988 • Astrodome

Oilers kicker Tony Zendejas atoned for a fourth-quarter 29-yard field goal miss by converting a 42-yarder 8:05 into overtime to help Houston advance to the divisional playoffs for the first time since 1980. Quarterback Warren Moon completed 21 of 32 passes for 273 yards and one touchdown in his initial NFL playoff game. Drew Hill and Ernest Givins combined for 13 catches for 173 yards, including six for 71 on third downs. Wide receiver Willie Drewrey's first NFL touchdown catch, a 29-yarder, gave the Oilers a 20-13 lead in the third quarter. However, Seattle quarterback Dave Krieg hit wide receiver Steve Largent on a 12-yard scoring pass in the final 1:47 to tie the score and send the game into overtime. Houston held a 47:44 to 20:21 time-of-possession advantage over Seattle and outgained the Seahawks 437 yards to 250.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1987
Denver 34, Houston 10
January 10, 1988 • Mile High Stadium

John Elway passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third as the Broncos defeated the Oilers 34-10 to become the first AFC West team since the San Diego Chargers of 1980 and 1981 to play in consecutive AFC Championship Games. Denver capitalized on two Houston turnovers to take a 14-0 first quarter lead. Safety Steve Wilson recovered Warren Moon's lateral to Mike Rozier at the Oilers' 1-yard line to set up Gene Lang's one-yard run. Karl Mecklenburg's interception on Houston's next possession led to Elway's first touchdown pass, a 27-yarder to Clarence Kay. Kay also caught a one-yarder in the second quarter for the first two-touchdown game of his four-year career. Elway, who completed 14 of 25 passes for 259 yards, scored on a three-yard run with 4:23 remaining to seal the win.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1988
Houston 24, Cleveland 23
December 24, 1988 • Cleveland Stadium

The Oilers advanced to the AFC divisional round of the playoffs for the second straight year with a 24-23 win over the Browns. Allen Pinkett scored two touchdowns within a 15-second span of the second quarter, and Warren Moon rallied Houston with 10 fourth-quarter points for the win. Moon's 14-yard scoring pass to Pinkett seven seconds into the second quarter capped a 17-play, 91-yard drive and gave Houston a 7-3 lead. Nose tackle Richard Byrd recovered Don Strock's fumble on the Browns' next play from scrimmage, and Pinkett scored one play later on a 16-yard run for a 14-9 halftime lead. Mike Pagel replaced the injured Strock and completed a 14-yard touchdown pass to Webster Slaughter late in the third quarter for Cleveland's last lead of the day 16-14. Moon directed a 76-yard drive capped by Lorenzo White's one-yard run as Houston regained the lead 21-16. Richard Johnson's interception on the Browns' next possession led to Tony Zendejas's game-winning 49-yard field goal with 1:54 to play.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1988
Buffalo 17, Houston 10
January 1, 1989 • Rich Stadium

Buffalo's special teams blocked a punt and a field goal, and the defense registered an interception and a fumble recovery in the fourth quarter, as the Bills advanced to their first-ever AFC Championship Game. Quarterback Jim Kelley completed a team-playoff record 19 of 33 passes for 244 yards with one interception. Rookie running back Thurman Thomas led all rushers with 75 yards on seven carries, including an 11-yard touchdown run that gave Buffalo a 14-3 lead in the third quarter. Robb Riddick's one-yard scoring run followed a blocked punt by safety Leonard Smith. Safety Mark Kelso intercepted a Warren Moon pass on the Oilers' second play of the fourth quarter. Derrick Burroughs's fumble recovery on Houston's next possession helped Buffalo preserve the win in their first-ever playoff game at Rich Stadium.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1989
Pittsburgh 26, Houston 23 (OT)
December 31, 1989 • Astrodome

Gary Anderson kicked a 50-yard field goal 3:26 into overtime to cap Pittsburgh's 26-23 comeback win over the Oilers and earn its first playoff victory since 1984. The Steelers, despite being outgained by Houston 380 to 289 total yards, led the game for more than three quarters. Rookie running back Tim Worley converted a fourth-and-one play into a nine-yard touchdown run and Anderson kicked field goals of 25, 30, and 48 yards for a 16-9 fourth-quarter lead. Warren Moon tied the score with an 18-yard touchdown pass to Ernest Givins and gave the Oilers their only lead, 23-16, when he found Givins on a nine-yard scoring pass with six minutes to play. Pittsburgh's Buddy Brister countered with an 82-yard, 11-play drive capped by Merril Hoge's one-yard touchdown plunge with 46 seconds remaining. Anderson's extra point tied the score and sent the game into overtime. Rod Woodson recovered Lorenzo White's fumble on the Oilers' first play in overtime to set up Anderson's decisive field goal.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1990
Cincinnati 41, Houston 14
January 6, 1991 • Riverfront Stadium

Boomer Esiason completed two touchdown passes and ran for a third in the Benglas' victory over the Oilers. Cincinnati built a 20-0 halftime lead as Ickey Woods ran one yard for a touchdown. Esiason flipped a two-yard scoring pass to Harold Green, and Jim Breech kicked two field goals (27 and 30 yards) in the first half. Cincinnati increased its lead to 34-0 in the third quarter when Eric Ball ran three yards for a touchdown and Esiason scored on a 10-yard keeper following James Francis's fumble recovery at Houston's 10-yard line. The Oilers scored on two touchdown passes from Cody Carlson to Ernest Givins (16 and 5 yards). Cincinnati held a 39:45 to 20:15 time-of-possession advantage.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1991
Houston 17, N.Y. Jets 10
December 29, 1991 • Astrodome

Warren Moon threw a pair of touchdown passes to Ernest Givins and the Oilers' defense stopped the Jets inside Houston's 5-yard line twice in the second half to preserve the victory. The Oilers led 14-10 entering the third quarter, when the Jets took the second-half kickoff and consumed more than eight minutes while driving to the Houston 8-yard line. On third down, Ken O'Brien's pass was intercepted by safety Bubba McDowell at the 2. After Al Del Greco's 53-yard field goal put the Oilers ahead 17-10 early in the fourth quarter, New York drove to the Houston 3. But on third down, Al Smith stopped Brad Baxter for no gain. The Jets had one more chance after recovering Moon's fumble at the Oilers' 26 with 4:59 left in the game, but New York could not convert a first down. For Houston, Moon completed 28 of 40 passes for 271 yards, and Drew Hill had nine catches for 77 yards.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1991
Denver 26, Houston 24
January 4, 1992 • Mile High Stadium

David Treadwell's 28-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining capped a dramatic 87-yard drive in the closing moments to lift the Broncos over the Oilers. Treadwell's winning kick came shortly after John Elway's 44-yard completion to Vance Johnson on fourth-and-10 from the Denver 35-yard line. Earlier on the drive, Elway scrambled seven yards for a first down on fourth-and-6 from the 28. And it was Elway's 22-yard completion to Michael Young that got the Broncos out of a hole at their own 2-yard line. Denver started the winning drive there with no time outs left after Houston's Greg Montgomery dropped his punt out of bounds with 2:07 left in the game. Warren Moon passed for three touchdowns as Houston built first half leads of 14-0 and 21-6. But the Broncos defense stiffened, allowing only a field goal in the second half.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1992
Buffalo 41, Houston 38 (OT)
January 3, 1993 • Rich Stadium

Warren Moon threw for 220 yards and four touchdowns in the first half as Houston jumped out to a 28-3 lead. Early in the third quarter, Oilers defensive back Bubba McDowell intercepted Frank Reich's first pass of the second half and returned it 58 yards for a touchdown as the Oilers took a commanding 32-point lead, 35-3. Then, Buffalo started the comeback, advancing 50 yards to score on Davis' 1-yard touchdown run to cut the deficit to 35-10. After a recovered onside kick by the Bills which led to a touchdown, and a 26-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Andre Reed, the lead was trimmed to 35-24. On the Oilers' ensuing possession, Bills safety Henry Jones intercepted a pass from Moon which led to another touchdown pass from Reich to Reed. Kicker Al Del Greco attempted a field goal to increase the Oilers' lead, but the snap was fumbled. The Bills then scored on a 17-yard touchdown pass, taking the lead 38-35 with three minutes remaining in the game. A last minute drive ending in a 26-yard field goal from Del Greco would send the game into overtime. Early in overtime, Bills defensive back Nate Odomes intercepted a pass from Moon, setting up Steve Christie's 32-yard game-winning field goal.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1993
Kansas City 28, Houston 20
January 16, 1994 • Astrodome

Joe Montana threw three second-half touchdown passes, including two just 54 seconds apart in the fourth quarter, to rally the Chiefs past the Oilers. Houston, which entered the game with an 11-game winning streak, jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the opening quarter and still led 13-7 after Al Del Greco's 43-yard field goal with 9:37 remaining in the fourth quarter. But Kansas City marched 71 yards in only 59 seconds, the key play a 38-yard pass interference penalty against Oilers cornerback Cris Dishman, to take the lead for the first time on Montana's 11-yard touchdown pass to J.J. Birden. On the next play from scrimmage, Chiefs linebacker Derrick Thomas sacked Warren Moon, forcing a fumble that defensive tackle Dan Saleaumua recovered at the Oilers' 12-yard line. On third down, Montana's 18-yard touchdown pass to Willie Davis put Kansas City ahead 21-13 with 7:44 left. Houston drove 80 yards to a touchdown to pull within one point with 3:45 to go, but Marcus Allen's 21-yard touchdown run at the 1:55 mark sealed the Oilers' fate.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 1999
Tennessee 22, Buffalo 16
January 8, 2000 • Adelphia Coliseum

One of the most memorable finishes in NFL playoff history gave the Titans the franchise's first playoff win since 1991, a 22-16 stunner over the visiting Buffalo Bills. After Steve Christie kicked a 41-yard field goal to give Buffalo a 16-15 lead with 16 seconds remaining, Kevin Dyson returned a Frank Wycheck lateral on the ensuing kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown with three seconds left in the game. The play, quickly dubbed as the "Music City Miracle," gave Tennessee a 22-16 lead that turned into a victory after Buffalo's last-ditch hopes for a matching return touchdown were thwarted. Eddie George paced Tennessee's offense with a 29-carry, 106-yard performance. The victory, in front of a franchise-record crowd at Adelphia Coliseum, allowed the franchise to advance to the AFC Divisional Playoffs for the first time since 1993. The Titans took a 12-0 lead into intermission, but the Bills stormed back behind two touchdowns from Antowain Smith that gave Buffalo a 13-12 lead with 11:08 remaining. Al Del Greco's 36-yard field goal gave the Titans a 15-13 lead with 1:48 remaining, setting up the game's final dramatic moments.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 1999
Tennessee 19, Indianapolis 16
January 16, 2000 • RCA Dome

Eddie George ran for a franchise playoff-record 162 yards and a touchdown as the Tennessee Titans advanced to their first AFC Championship Game since 1979 with a 19-16 victory over the Indianapolis Colts at the RCA Dome. George's 68-yard touchdown run on the first drive of the third quarter gave the Titans the lead for good, and Tennessee's defense held rookie standout Edgerrin James to only 56 yards rushing on 20 carries. Al Del Greco set franchise post-season records for field goals in a game and a career, kicking two of his four field goals in each half to give him 11 for his career. Indiana native Blaine Bishop led the inspired Tennessee defense with 11 tackles and two passes defensed, and the defensive unit as a whole held Peyton Manning in check, with the second-year signal caller completing only 19 of 43 passes for 227 yards in the loss. The Colts pulled within three points with 1:51 remaining on Manning's 15-yard TD run, but Yancey Thigpen sealed Tennessee's victory by recovering Danny Kight's ensuing onside kick.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 1999
Tennessee 33, Jacksonville 14
January 23, 2000 • Alltel Stadium

The Titans advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in franchise history by defeating the Jacksonville Jaguars for the third time in the same season, 33-14, at Alltel Stadium. Steve McNair ran for 91 yards and two second-half touchdowns, combining with Eddie George for 177 yards rushing on the afternoon. The Titans' defense turned in a dominant performance, forcing six Jacksonville turnovers, including two fumbles and two interceptions from Mark Brunell. Jacksonville led 14-7 on a 33-yard TD run by James Stewart. But the Titans then scored 26 unanswered points, including an Al Del Greco 34-yard field goal that cut the Jaguar lead to 14-10 at halftime. McNair scored on a 1-yard run with 9:24 remaining in the third quarter, and after Mark Brunell was dropped for a safety, Derrick Mason ran the ensuing free kick 80 yards for a touchdown. McNair scored his second touchdown of the game with seven minutes remaining, sealing the 33-14 outcome. The win gave the Titans their first AFC Championship since the AFL-NFL merger, and advanced them to Super Bowl XXXIV against St. Louis.

SUPER BOWL XXXIV – 1999
St. Louis 23, Tennessee 16
January 30, 2000 • Georgia Dome

The Titans' magical season ended at the Georgia Dome, as receiver Kevin Dyson was stopped just short of the goal line on the game's last play by Rams linebacker Mike Jones in a 23-16 St. Louis victory. The play ended an inspired two-minute drive led by Steve McNair, who broke Super Bowl records for rushing yards by a quarterback in both one game and one play for the Titans. The Rams held a 9-0 lead at halftime, extending their lead to 16-0 on a nine yard TD reception by Torry Holt with 7:20 left in the third quarter. The Titans charged back on two touchdown runs by Eddie George, and tied the score at 16 on a 43-yard Al Del Greco field goal with 2:12 remaining. On the first play of the ensuing drive, Isaac Bruce broke free and scored on a 73-yard touchdown pass from Kurt Warner, giving the Rams a seven-point advantage. McNair then led a 12-play, 87-yard drive that culminated in the completion to Dyson. McNair's prolific day included 64 yards rushing. George, meanwhile, rushed for 95 yards to become the Titans' career playoff rushing leader.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 2000
Baltimore 24, Tennessee 10
January 7, 2001 • Adelphia Coliseum

The Baltimore Ravens used big plays on defense and special teams to advance to the AFC Championship Game with a 24-10 victory over the Tennessee Titans at Adelphia Coliseum. Anthony Mitchell returned a blocked Al Del Greco field goal attempt 90 yards for a touchdown to break a 10-10 tie, and NFL Defensive Player of the Year Ray Lewis returned an interception 50 yards for a touchdown to seal Baltimore's win with 6:41 remaining in the fourth quarter. The Titans took control of the game early, as Eddie George capped off an opening drive that spanned 11 plays and 58 yards with a two-yard touchdown run. Regardless of the final score, it was a dominant performance by the Tennessee defense, as they held the Ravens to six first downs, 134 total yards, and only five completions by Baltimore quarterback Trent Dilfer. Offensively, the Titans dominated Baltimore in first downs (23 to 6), rushing yards (126 to 49) and passing yards (191 to 85), but Baltimore's big plays were ultimately too much to overcome. The loss ended the Titans' reign as AFC Champions and their season at 13-4.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 2002
Tennessee 34, Pittsburgh 31 (OT)
January 11, 2003 • Adelphia Coliseum

Joe Nedney got a chance for redemption and made a 26-yard field goal 2:15 into overtime that gave the Titans a bruising 34-31 playoff victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The kick was the result of a penalty on the previous play by cornerback Dewayne Washington. He drew a 5-yard flag for running into Nedney, giving the kicker another chance after he hooked a 31-yard attempt wide right. Titans quarterback Steve McNair passed for 338 yards and two touchdowns in the game, while tight end Frank Wycheck set a career high with 123 yards on 10 receptions. The Titans scored the game's first 14 points on McNair and Eddie George runs before the Steelers responded with 20 unanswered points. Wycheck and Erron Kinney each caught touchdown passes in the second half. Nedney's game-winner gave the Titans their first victory in four playoff games against Pittsburgh and propelled them into the AFC Championship Game at Oakland.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP GAME – 2002
Oakland 41, Tennessee 24
January 19, 2003 • Network Associates Stadium

The Raiders scored 14 unanswered points in the fourth quarter, closing out the Titans 41-24 to advance to Super Bowl XXXVII against Tampa Bay. Steve McNair's second rushing touchdown of the game pulled Tennessee within 27-24 at the end of the third quarter, but Rich Gannon scored on a 2-yard run and Zack Crockett added a 7-yard scoring run, ending a drive that consumed 6:29 on the clock late in the contest. The game's momentum changed before halftime when Oakland turned back-to-back fumbles by Tennessee into 10 points to close out the first half, taking a 24-17 lead at intermission. The Titans had scored 10 unanswered points to take their first lead of the game, 17-14, on McNair's 9-yard rushing touchdown. But a fumble by Robert Holcombe turned into a 1-yard touchdown pass from Gannon to Doug Jolley two plays later. Then John Simon fumbled the ensuing kickoff which Sebastian Janikowski turned into a 43-yard field goal as time expired at intermission.

AFC WILD CARD PLAYOFF GAME – 2003
Tennessee 20, Baltimore 17
January 3, 2004 – M&T Bank Stadium

NFL career scoring leader Gary Anderson kicked a 46-yard field goal with 29 seconds left after a courageous effort by a limping Steve McNair, giving the Titans a 20-17 victory in the first-round AFC Wild Card playoff game. McNair, named the league's co-MVP just 24 hours before kickoff, engineered an eight-play, 35-yard drive to set up the winning kick, and Eddie George finished with 88 yards on 25 carries, despite playing with a dislocated shoulder in the second half. In the process, Tennessee snapped a five-game losing streak against the Ravens. The Titans held 2003 NFL rushing champion Jamal Lewis to a season-low 35 yards. The Titans got the better of Ravens linebacker Ray Lewis, the AP NFL Defensive Player of the Year. George ran repeatedly at him all game, dispelling any myth that Lewis owned the 1-on-1 battle. The Titans took a 14-10 lead in the third quarter when McNair threw a 49-yard touchdown pass to Justin McCareins. Tennessee took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on Chris Brown's first career touchdown from six yards out. The Titans held Lewis to 12 yards rushing on seven carries in the first half and outgained Baltimore 108-15 in the first quarter.

AFC DIVISIONAL PLAYOFF GAME – 2003
New England 17, Tennessee 14
January 10, 2004 – Gillette Stadium

NFL co-MVP Steve McNair almost single-handedly took Tennessee downfield in the final minutes. But the man playing with a cracked bone spur in his left ankle saw his final pass fall in and out of the hands of Drew Bennett with 1:45 remaining in a 17-14 playoff loss to the eventual Super Bowl champion New England Patriots. The Titans (13-5) were trying to return to the AFC Championship for the third time in five seasons, and McNair nearly got them there. He tied the game with an 11-yard touchdown pass to Derrick Mason in the third quarter on a drive in which he was a perfect five of five for 59 yards. But the Titans came up just short on the final drive that included a pair of controversial calls against Tennessee. The game-time temperature at kickoff was four degrees with a wind-chill of minus 10. Winds were blowing at 10 mph. It marked the coldest game in both Patriots and Titans history. Rookie running back Chris Brown scored his second career touchdown – and second of the post-season – when he crossed the end zone from five yards out to tie the game at 7 in the first quarter.

AFC WILD CARD – 2007
Chargers 17, Titans 6
January 6, 2008 – Qualcomm Stadium

A pair of Rob Bironas field goals and a defense that held San Diego to 94 first-half yards enabled the Titans to take a 6-0 halftime lead in their first playoff game in four years. But San Diego scored 17 unanswered points in the second half, exploding for 256 yards, in a 17-6 victory at Qualcomm Stadium. Running back LaDainian Tomlinson was held to 42 yards, but got to celebrate the first playoff victory in three tries in his brilliant career. The Titans bottled up Tomlinson, the two-time NFL rushing champion, and dared quarterback Philip Rivers to beat them. The second-year starter did just that, throwing a 25-yard touchdown pass to Vincent Jackson late in the third quarter that gave San Diego its first lead at 10-6. Tomlinson finally found the end zone midway through the fourth quarter on a fourth-down leap over the pile from inside the 1-yard line that survived a video replay. Tennessee's defense dominated in the first half, holding San Diego to just 10 total yards and without a first down in the first quarter.

AFC DIVISIONAL GAME - 2008
Titans 10, Ravens 13
Saturday, Jan. 10, 2009 • LP Field

Matt Stover connected on a 43-yard field goal with under a minute to play that proved to the difference as the Ravens defeated the Titans 13-10 in a Divisional Round playoff game at LP Field. Despite being outgained 391-211 in totals yards and gaining nine first downs to Tennessee's 21, Baltimore forced three turnovers, all as the Titans were driving inside the Ravens' 30-yard line. Receiver Justin Gage caught a career-high 10 balls for 135 yards, second in his career only to his 147-yard effort in Jacksonville earlier in the season. The Titans were held without a sack for the first time since Week 8. It marked only the third time all season that the Titans did not force a turnover. Defensively, Tennessee held a Baltimore rushing attack averaging four yards-per-carry to 50 yards on 30 carries. Chris Johnson rushed for 72 yards in the first quarter before leaving the game with an injured ankle.

GAME RECAP

In Week 1 of the 2017 playoffs, the Titans traveled to Kansas City to face the Chiefs on Wild Card weekend. Tennessee scored 19 unanswered points in the second half and did not allow the Chiefs to score in the third or fourth quarter, as the Titans won by a score of 22-21 and advanced to the Divisional Round.

Both the Chiefs and Titans punted on their opening possessions. On Kansas City's second possession, Chiefs QB Alex Smith drove his offense down the field with help by a 45-yard reception from Chiefs WR Tyreek Hill and a 27-yard reception from Chiefs TE Travis Kelce. On second-and-one from the Tennessee one-yard line, Chiefs RB Kareem Hunt ran up the middle for a one-yard touchdown and a 7-0 Chiefs lead. On the following Kansas City possession, the Chiefs doubled their lead as Smith hit Kelce for a 13-yard touchdown to put Kansas City up, 14-0.

With the Titans offense driving in the second quarter, QB Marcus Mariota had the ball on the Kansas City 21-yard line. On second-and-10, he threw an interception to Chiefs CB Marcus Peters who returned the pick for 28 yards. However, the Tennessee defense came up big as Kansas City couldn't capitalize and was forced to punt. As the Titans regained possession, Mariota connected with TE Delanie Walker for a 22-yard reception and WR Corey Davis for an 11-yard catch. The Titans entered field goal range and got on the board with a 49-yard kick, 14-3 Chiefs. Kansas City took the field and strung together a 79-yard scoring drive that culminated in a 14-yard touchdown pass from Smith to Chiefs WR Demarcus Robinson with three seconds left to play in the second quarter. Kansas City took a 21-3 lead into halftime.

On the Titans' first drive of the second half, Mariota led the offense into the red zone after he rushed for two first downs and RB Derrick Henry contributed both a 29-yard receiving and 12-yard rushing first down. On third-and-six from the Kansas City six-yard line, Mariota's pass was deflected by Chiefs CB Darrelle Revis, but it bounced back into Mariota's hands and he ran it in for a touchdown. Mariota became the first quarterback to catch a touchdown pass in a playoff game since the 1970 AFC-NFC merger, and he also became the first quarterback in league history to complete a touchdown pass to himself in the playoffs. Tennessee narrowed the Chiefs lead, 21-10.

The Titans had the ball at the Kansas City 35-yard line to start the fourth quarter, and on the second play Henry ran up the middle for a 35-yard touchdown. Tennessee attempted a two-point conversion but failed as they edged closer, 21-16 Kansas City. After forcing the Chiefs to punt, Tennessee regained possession and tacked on another score as Mariota hit WR Eric Decker for a 22-yard touchdown. The two-point conversion failed as Tennessee took the lead, 22-21.

Kansas City couldn't string together a comeback as the Titans came back from the second-largest deficit by a road team in NFL playoff history to win their first postseason contest in 14 years.

TITANS-PATRIOTS: GAME SUMMARY

Titans 14, Patriots 35

Divisional Round • Saturday, Jan. 13, 2018 • 8:15 p.m. ET • Gillette Stadium

GAME RECAP

In the AFC Divisional Playoff round of the 2017 season, the Titans traveled to New England to face the Patriots and were eliminated from postseason contention with a 35-14 loss.

The Titans defense forced New England to punt on both of the Patriots' first quarter possessions. On Tennessee's second possession of the game, the Titans drove efficiently down the field and constructed a 95-yard scoring drive. QB Marcus Mariota scrambled for two first downs, and connected with both TE Delanie Walker for a 36-yard pass and WR Rishard Matthews for an eight-yard third-down conversion pass. The drive resulted in Mariota hitting WR Corey Davis for a 15-yard touchdown as the Titans took an early 7-0 Titans lead.

In the second quarter, New England responded with three consecutive touchdown drives. Patriots RB James White scored on back-to-back possessions, first on a five-yard touchdown pass from Patriots QB Tom Brady, and on the ensuing drive, White rushed into the endzone for a six-yard touchdown. The Patriots got ahead, 14-7. On New England's third possession of the second quarter, Brady led the Patriots on a 91-yard scoring drive that resulted in a four-yard touchdown pass to Patriots WR Chris Hogan. New England took a 21-7 lead heading into halftime.

In the third quarter, Patriots RB Brandon Bolden rushed in a two-yard touchdown as New England increased its lead, 28-7.

On the Patriots opening drive of the fourth quarter, Brady engineered a 90-yard drive that resulted in a four-yard touchdown pass to Patriots TE Rob Gronkowski. New England widened its lead, 35-7. Later in the fourth quarter, Tennessee put up its second score on a 16-play drive. Mariota connected with WR Eric Decker for two first downs and Matthews for one first down, before linking with Davis again for an 11-yard touchdown pass. The Titans doubled their points with Davis' second score of the game, 35-14 New England.

The Titans ultimately couldn't construct a comeback and were knocked out of postseason contention with a final score of 35-14.
