- Murchison grew up working with his mother at her restaurant in Elizabethtown called Glenda's Just Desserts and Lunch Counter, which she has owned for more than 10 years. He would work doing whatever needed to be done – mopping floors, sweeping, waiting tables and taking orders. DEFENSIVE TACKLE • 6'2" • 304 LBS • COLLEGE: FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL
ACQUIRED: FREE AGENT - 2020 • NFL EXPERIENCE (NFL/TITANS): 2/2
HOMETOWN: PHILADELPHIA, PA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 9/3 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans signed Teair Tart (first name pronounced "tee-AIR") as a rookie free agent following the 2020 NFL Draft. He registered seven total games played with one start during his rookie campaign. The 6-foot-2-inch, 304-pounder appeared in 23 games with 10 starts over two seasons at Florida International (2018-19), and totaled 51 tackles, 19.0 tackles for loss, six sacks, one pass defensed, five quarterback pressures and two forced fumbles.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Tart traveled an unlikely road to the NFL. He played two years of high school basketball in his hometown of Philadelphia, Pa., at Palmer Leadership Learning Partners Charter School—a school that did not have a football program. Prior to his junior year, West Philadelphia High School's defensive coordinator, Karl Patrick, saw Tart playing in a basketball tournament and eventually convinced him to transfer and begin playing football for the first time in his life. Two years later, Tart continued his football career at ASA College in New York but left six games into his first season after an older brother, Rasheed Spencer, was tragically killed in a motorcycle accident. Time passed, and Tart headed to Valley Forge (Pa.) Military Academy, followed by stops at East Mississippi Community College and Ellsworth (Iowa) Community College before finding a home for his final two collegiate campaigns at Florida International.
- Tart is the second youngest of 11 children in his family.

CAREER TRANSACTIONS:

- The Philadelphia, Pa., native was signed by the Titans as a rookie free agent on May 7, 2020.
- Waived by the Titans on Sept. 5, 2020 and signed to the practice squad a day later.
- Signed by the Titans to their active roster from the practice squad on Nov. 7, 2020.

2020 (7/1, 0/0): Played in seven games with one start at defensive end as a rookie and registered five tackles, two quarterback pressures, a stop for loss and a pass defensed. Was suspended by the league for one contest. Missed two games, including the postseason contest while on the reserve/COVID-19 list. Spent the first seven weeks of the season on the team's practice squad. Tied for the team lead in passes defensed once in 2020 (vs. IND). Made his NFL debut against Chicago (11/8/20). Made his first career NFL start on the defensive front at Green Bay (12/27/20).

- Against Chicago (11/8), saw action in his first NFL contest as a reserve at defensive tackle and tallied a quarterback pressure.

- At Indianapolis (11/29), played as a reserve at defensive tackle and recorded a tackle and a quarterback pressure. Shot through the line and dropped Nyheim Hines for no gain on a rush off right tackle in the fourth quarter.
- Against Detroit (12/20), played as a reserve on the defensive front and produced a tackle for loss. Stuffed Matthew Stafford for a one-yard loss after a botched shotgun snap in the fourth quarter.

HOMETOWN: FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA.
GAMES PLAYED/GAMES STARTED: 1/0 (PLAYOFFS: 0/0)

PRO: The Titans selected Rashad Weaver in the fourth round of the 2021 NFL Draft. The 6-foot-4-inch, 259-pound defender is capable of causing disruption in both the run and pass game, and displays a high motor and good length at the position. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native was a consensus All-American, a Bednarik Award semifinalist, and earned first-team All-ACC honors as a senior in 2020 after totaling 35 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, 12 quarterback pressures, three forced fumbles and a fumble recovery in nine games. In four seasons at Pittsburgh, Weaver's career totals include 110 tackles, 34.5 tackles for loss, 17.0 sacks, nine passes defended, 28 quarterback pressures, five forced fumbles and four fumble recoveries.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- In 2020, Weaver was named a consensus All-American after garnering first-team All-America honors from four of the NCAA's recognized selectors: Associated Press, American Football Coaches Association, Football Writers Association of America and Walter Camp Football Foundation. He was the 52nd consensus All-American in school history and the first Pitt defensive player to earn that distinction since Aaron Donald in 2013.
- As a senior in 2020, Weaver was a Bednarik Award semifinalist, earned All-ACC honors, and was awarded first-team All-America recognition by CBS Sports, ESPN, Phil Steele and Pro Football Focus after tallying 35 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, three forced fumbles and a fumble recovery in nine games.
- In 2018, Weaver led Pitt in sacks (6.5), tackles for loss (14), and fumble recoveries (three). He tied for the ACC lead and ranked sixth nationally in fumble recoveries.

TITANS TIDBITS:

- Prior to being drafted by the Titans, Weaver was introduced to future teammate and fellow pass rusher Bud Dupree. The pair share a financial advisor and were able to form a relationship in Arizona while training at the same facility and discussed ACL recovery.
- Weaver lists rehabbing a torn ACL during the pandemic as the biggest challenge he has had to overcome in his football career. He worked on 'staying focused even not knowing if there was going to be a season and even just finding locations to do my rehab work when everything shut down.'
- He was a member of Pitt's prestigious Blue & Gold Society, an undergraduate organization composed of top students who serve as ambassadors for the university and Pitt Alumni Association.
- Prior to the NFL Draft, Weaver trained in the martial art of Krav Maga.
- Weaver's grandmother has battled multiple sclerosis since he was in a middle school.
- While at Pitt, Weaver participated in the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's Race to Anyplace Fundraiser with the same girl, Lili, for three consecutive years. Weaver and Lili struck up a friendship and are frequently in touch.
- Weaver and his best friend started a clothing line called Dreams to Reality which can be found on Instagram @d2r.shop.
- Weaver grew up in Indiana but moved to Florida prior to his sophomore year of high school. He wore No. 17 because he played quarterback and wanted a number right before Peyton Manning's No. 18. Weaver circled back to No. 17 in college, and 'I thought it was a cool number for an edge rusher.'

AMY ADAMS STRUNK BROUGHT HER FATHER'S TEAM BACK TO LIFE

BY BRUCE SCHOENFELD
ESPN W
NOVEMBER 5, 2018

SHE'S STUCK IN traffic, a side effect of the explosive growth that makes Nashville, Tennessee, an enticing place to own an NFL team. By the time Amy Adams Strunk arrives at Nissan Stadium, it's only an hour before kickoff, so she heads straight to the field.

Right away, it starts. "Miss Amy!"

A ruddy-complexioned man in his 30s, wearing a deep blue Tennessee Titans jersey and a lanyard around his neck, is waving like a traffic cop. One of several dozen season-ticket holders randomly chosen to spend the pregame on the Titans' sideline, he has spotted his team's owner and can't help shouting. It's like he already knew her, he'll say.

That's later, after the selfie with her arm around him and the embrace she gives his wife, two devoted Titans fans she'd never met. From there, she's on to another couple, and a 6-year-old boy she bends down to talk with eye to eye. "We love you," the wife says.

There's a man in the front row of the stands holding a sign claiming he has come all the way from France. She strides over to find out more. "Bonjour," she says. He looks at her with a quizzical expression, like, "Why is this woman talking to me?"

"That's the owner," someone tells him.

His eyes get wide. "Of the team?"

She's at the Titans' bench, visiting with Mike Vrabel, her head coach, when someone on the field shouts her name. It's kicker Ryan Succop, standing at the 50. When Succop pulls her close for a bear hug, she disappears for a moment.

From there, Adams Strunk walks toward the sideline to greet the Glazer brothers, Joel and Bryan. They own the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Tennessee's opponent on this August evening. And it seems that, like most NFL owners, they don't know quite what to make of her.

Really, who can blame them? Owners typically make a fortune, then buy a team. Or else they put in years working in football as the family business, which it has been across generations for Rooneys and Bidwills, Maras and McCaskeys, Browns and DeBartolos, and lately Irsays and Krafts and, indeed, Glazers.

Adams Strunk, instead, spent her early professional years as the owner of a few car dealerships and some oil interests that her father, former owner Bud Adams, had given her. She has a passion for horses and she's quite a tennis player. She has raised two girls and a boy, who seem like admirable people. But she hadn't worked a day in the sport when she gained control of the Titans in 2015.

"They look at me," says Adams Strunk, now 63, "and they're probably thinking, 'What does she know? She doesn't know anything. She doesn't have a business degree. She hasn't been in football. How is she going to make a go of this? We want our partners to have a certain background, and she definitely doesn't have it.'" She pauses. "I mean, I get that."

Unlike the Glazers, who apprenticed under their father, Malcolm, and inherited the Bucs when he died, Adams Strunk wrested control of this $2 billion franchise from her sister and brother-in-law because she was determined that it be run well. She did it because she felt obliged to protect the memory of Bud Adams -- even though he hadn't wanted her anywhere near his football team. Since then, the Titans have improved dramatically. From 2-14, they came within a game of the AFC Championship Game last season. Their ties to Nashville today run deeper than they ever have.

In just three years, Amy Adams Strunk rescued her father's legacy. And she did it by taking almost everything she watched him do as an owner and turning it upside down.

BUD ADAMS ISN'T in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, but he ought to be. When Lamar Hunt couldn't entice anyone to sell him an NFL team and instead started a competing league, Adams was his first call. "I'm in," said Adams, who was in the process of getting rich in oil. That was the AFL, which opened for business in 1960.

Before his Houston Oilers played a game, Adams wooed Billy Cannon, the reigning Heisman Trophy winner and best-known football player in America. After dinner at the family home, Adams sent his wife and three children to bed and got down to bidness. Pouring a drink, he asked Cannon what could convince him to spurn the NFL. "That sure is a nice car out there in the driveway," the halfback drawled. He meant the white Cadillac convertible Bud had given wife Nancy for her birthday just a few days before.

Sure enough, when Nancy came down in the morning to drive the kids to school, the car had vanished. "Billy wanted it," Adams shrugged, displaying in three words both his determination to succeed and his valuation of a woman's worth in the world.

Cannon was named MVP in each of the first two AFL title games. The Oilers, not incidentally, won both.

Those were the only championships they ever won. But the franchise grew exponentially, from a shoestring startup to a valuation of hundreds of millions of dollars. "Amy's daddy was a role model and a wannabe of mine, not just a great owner but a great businessman," says Jerry Jones of the Dallas Cowboys, who used to linger in the hallways outside AFL meetings, hoping to get a word with Adams.

AMY ADAMS STRUNK

Adams ran his franchise like a quarterback runs a huddle. He demanded to make every decision, not just whom to draft but whether to repair the fax machine. That level of control applied even to his son and heir apparent, Kenneth III. As for his two daughters, he wouldn't let them work for the team. "He thought that women were unable to reach a serious understanding of the game," says Steve Underwood, who worked under Adams as a lawyer and team executive for more than three decades. There was a reason, Adams believed, that every general manager in the NFL was a man. "Women could never be capable of understanding things like sizing up men to be head coaches," is how Underwood characterizes Adams' thinking. "How could a woman possibly be capable of that?"

That was fine with Amy. "I never saw myself in football," she says, sitting in her office under an oil painting of former Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini. "It wasn't the life I wanted. My dad could be very charming, and there were times he was a great father. But he was very hard. He wouldn't have brought me along, 'Someday I want you to run the team.' Nooooo. It would have been about control."

As the years passed, Adams found ways to thwart his son's progress. Ken yearned for his approval, but Adams mistrusted most those he knew best. Amy and her sister, Susie, would get on the phone and commiserate. "We'd say, 'Poor Ken.' We were just glad it wasn't us."

Still, Amy wasn't prepared for the call one June morning in 1987. Ken's wife had come through their garage door with the couple's 3-year-old and 7-month-old children and the dog. She found her husband, then 29, in a puddle of blood, a gun beside him. "He was crushed by the pressure," Amy says.

Ken's suicide hit her hard. She plunged into depression, talking about her brother every day for years, obsessing over whether she should have seen the signs. In 1990, she and her husband divorced.

Bud reacted differently. "He shut down," Amy says. "And after Ken died, his obsession with control ramped up."

Amy stepped away. Years passed. She met and married a cattle breeder named Tim Strunk, and gave her daughter and son a half-sister. Life seemed idyllic with Tim and the little ones until the morning in 1997 when he left to take a load of cattle to auction. He was struck by an 18-wheeler three miles from home and died at the scene.

This time, family sustained her. Her sister closed ranks. Her parents did what they could. And she found solace in football, losing herself in the passion of her team. "I was Superfan," she says.

But that was changing, too.

BY 1997, BUD ADAMS had abandoned Houston's decrepit Astrodome and moved the Oilers to Nashville. In his mind, though, the Titans remained the Oilers, with different uniforms and a new stadium just a quick flight away. He made no effort to meet fans or connect with the city. "He didn't want to spend his time doing that," Underwood says. "In his mind, he had people to do that."

That was fine while the Titans were winning. But as their fortunes faded following the Super Bowl season of 1999, what had never been a torrid love affair became a marriage of convenience. As Adams grew older, and then old, he became detached. By the time he died in 2013, the Titans were in disarray. "The team was a mess," Amy says. "My dad's later years, things kind of fell off the wagon."

The Titans hadn't won a playoff game in a decade. The facilities, once state-of-the-art, were showing wear. "Nobody knew what was going on," recalls Phil Bredesen, who helped bring the team to Nashville as the city's mayor and later served as Tennessee's governor. "There was just a sense of lots of stuff not getting done. The details of that don't leak out, but the effects of it do."

Worse, perhaps, the franchise had lost relevance. Folksy Nashville, with its spicy fried chicken and throwback Grand Ole Opry, had grown into one of America's most enticing destinations. The Predators were the hot ticket, along with the country acts that played Broadway each night. Conventioneers congregated. Tourism numbers soared. The Titans seemed shabby, dated, a vestige of the previous generation. "You'd see more Vols shirts than Titans shirts at Titans games," insists Nathan Followill, drummer for the Nashville-based band Kings of Leon and a season-ticket holder, referencing the state university's Tennessee Volunteers.

"When you have so many years of going downhill, it becomes less and less important to people," Underwood explains. "Amy saw that. She wanted to change direction."

But Amy wasn't in charge. Tommy Smith, Susie's husband, had worked for the team for years. Long before he died in October 2013, Adams had created a trust that allocated a third of his assets to Susie, a third to Amy, a third to his late son's family. Tommy would run the team with the others as silent partners. "We were all on board with it," says Kenneth Adams IV, Ken's son, who also had started working for the Titans.

Following in his father-in-law's footsteps, Tommy was Bud Lite. Ownership meant absolute control. As the losses accumulated during that 2014 season, Amy made suggestions. When they were rebuffed without consideration, she started to wonder if there might be a better way. "We weren't working it out as a family," she says. "It was just another dictatorship."

The team finished 2-14, the worst record in Titans history. "This was our chance to start fixing everything that had gone wrong during my father's last years," Amy says.

AMY ADAMS STRUNK

"Tommy wasn't doing that." The NFL is a league of constant adaptation, she believes. The Titans hadn't adapted. "The offenses, the defenses, the business part of it," she says. "If it ain't broke, sure, don't fix it. But if it is broke, you better get in there and figure out what to do."

That winter, Amy spent New Year's Eve at the family ranch in central Texas. Late at night, over a glass of wine that wasn't her first, she asked Barclay Adams, Kenneth IV's brother, if their family was satisfied with the way the team was being run. Barclay hesitated, and Amy wondered what she'd gotten herself into. Then Barclay said, "No, we aren't."

"Then we need to talk," Amy told him.

It turned out Kenneth had been having similar conversations with Tommy, with similar results. "We didn't see an end in sight," Kenneth says now. "'You going to move off from that coach?' 'No, I'm good with him.' 'You going to move off from that GM?' 'No, we're good.'"

"I don't want this to be a mark on our names," Amy told him. Kenneth agreed. Together, they expressed their concern to Tommy and Susie. They asked if someone from one of the other two families could have a seat at the table. "We were talking for a month or six weeks," Amy says. "I was still hopeful that Susie, as controlling owner, would come around. If it's truly a family operation, why did the other two-thirds have no say? All the power had coalesced right there in Tommy and Susie. And that was proving not to be a good thing."

Together, Amy and Kenneth knew, their shares constituted a majority. "But I don't think it ever dawned on them," Amy says of Tommy and Susie. "It never occurred to them that we were unhappy enough to do anything. Or that I had a willingness to try to make it happen if they wouldn't."

By March, Amy and Kenneth had had enough. They decided to oust

Tommy as president. "I felt bad," Amy says. "But we'd given him 18 months. He'd had his opportunity." In a statement on the Titans' website, Tommy announced that he was leaving as president and CEO because juggling his family and professional duties had proved too difficult. Then he and Susie disappeared from sight.

Underwood was summoned out of retirement to run the team as president and CEO. And Amy went to work.

"YOU HAVE TO bring them along slowly," Adams Strunk explains. She's crouched in the dirt, dragging a metal bar just far enough from a jump so a horse can gauge where he needs to land. Moments later, here comes Rowan, who weighs as much as three linemen combined. He approaches the barricade and canters over. "That's g-o-o-o-d," she enthuses.

She'd returned home to Houston after college (a year at Pine Manor near Boston, the rest at the University of Texas in Austin) and worked as a travel agent. Soon enough, she abandoned city living for a 4,000-acre family ranch off a two-lane road on the edge of Harris County. She started training riders and grooming horses. Bud and Nancy told everyone she'd be back in a month. She's still there, except when she isn't. Lately that means extended time in Nashville, where she now owns a home with her husband, a retired airline pilot.

Horses and football have been the threads running through her life. She has ridden since childhood, competing until she fell off once too often. "At my age," Adams Strunk says, "you don't want to be doing that." She made businesses out of breeding and raising horses, stabling, even staging fox hunts in the wild. It wasn't running a major corporation or a hedge fund, but there were lessons to be learned there in the dirt. "When you do horses, at whatever level, you have an ownership view," says Debbie Phillips, the widow of the former Oilers coach Bum Phillips, who met

Adams Strunk while training cutting horses in the 1980s. "Bum was always surprised at how well I could assess the talent on the field. Amy does exactly the same thing. She has that ownership eye."

"I can't go back on my business experience like some owners -- you know, I've done it this way in the past," Adams Strunk says, sitting with a glass of water at a wood-block island the size of a flatbed truck in her kitchen. "But I can go back on my personal experience. Maybe it's a wild, crazy horse, and you just learn that if you work it enough, he'll come around. Whatever. What happened was, over all those years, I became confident that if something needed to be done, I could do it. I'm not afraid to make hard decisions."

It didn't take long before she needed to. When the Titans started poorly in 2015, she fired head coach Ken Whisenhunt and replaced him with assistant Mike Mularkey. "The offense was a great offense for Philip Rivers, but we just didn't have the players to make it work," she says. It wasn't the losing as much as the need to keep franchise QB Marcus Mariota ambulatory. "I approach things practically," she says. "And the practical part of this was, in that offense, Marcus was likely to get hurt."

She knew the firing might define her as an owner into the future. "If it doesn't work out," she said to herself, "this will be on you forever." Underwood cautioned against it. "You make a change like that in the middle of the season," he'd said, "most of the time it doesn't work out well." But she had spent her life watching football, and she understood what she was watching. "I just knew somehow," she says, "that it was the right thing to do."

After that 2015 season, Adams Strunk fired GM Ruston Webster. Around the league, it was assumed that she'd use a recruiting firm or consultant to find a replacement, a practice that has become common. Instead, Underwood and Kenneth Adams helped her compile a list of possibilities. Then she researched them online.

Jon Robinson had run college scouting for the New England Patriots. He seemed unconventional, especially when he sat down to a vegan lunch during his interview. He wasn't yet 40. And he was the most candid of the candidates, insisting that minor tweaks would not reverse the decline. "The system's broken," he said. "That's the reason you're not winning. It's broke and you need to fix it."

It was what Adams Strunk longed to hear. "Everything he was saying, Kenneth and I already knew," she says. "Now here was someone who wasn't afraid to say it. By the time he left the interview, I just knew that he was our guy."

Less than a year into her first job in football, she'd fired and hired both a coach and a GM. She wasn't sure why, but the path forward seemed clear. "I'm a big believer in osmosis," Jerry Jones explains. "If you're around an activity for as long as Amy has been, you're soaking it up. You develop instincts. That's what I see in Amy. I can tell from her logic, the way she approaches problems. She knows what she's doing."

IN TWO YEARS, Robinson ran off two-thirds of the team. The Titans improved to 9-7 in 2016, then repeated that last season. They won their playoff game at Kansas City in miraculous fashion 22-21.

That showed how far they'd come. Getting steamrolled by the Patriots the next week showed how far they had to go. It made another hard decision that much easier. "I just thought we'd reached the ceiling," says Adams Strunk, who fired Mularkey a week after the Titans' season ended. "In Nashville, people understood. Outside, it was probably like, 'She's nuts.'"

Change is the theme whenever a new coach is hired, but players often remain dubious. "If they walk into the same building," Robinson says, "if they sit down at the same locker and everything looks the same, they look around at each other and they're like, 'What's changed?'"

The Titans arrived at their training facility this summer and found new blue uniforms in their lockers. After years of wear, the turf beneath the practice bubble had been replaced. So had the bubble itself. The locker room had been reconfigured so the entire team can see each other. "When you walk in the building now, it resonates," Robinson says. "These ain't the same old Titans. It was very cool of her to write that check."

They ain't the same old Titans because Adams Strunk isn't the same owner. "I worked with her dad for many, many years in the league," says Amy Trask, the former Oakland Raiders CEO. "Amy's style is clearly different." Bud Adams had no problem signing players to huge contracts, but considered upgrading facilities a needless expense. If a building was two decades old, well, he figured it ought to last another eight. "That's not me," Adams Strunk says. "We needed to come out of the dark ages and adapt to how things work now."

The players noticed. "Actions speak louder than words," says Taylor Lewan, the left tackle. "She put vents in here so our pads cool down and don't get all gross and moldy. It shows that she really cares." Lewan was sure that once he reached the pros, he'd be little more than a number. "I'd already felt that in college," he says. "For her to come in and be excited to see me, to give me a hug when I'm all sweaty in my pads, it does something," he says.

But who'd guess that such warmth might pay off in tangible terms? A week into training camp, Lewan signed an $80 million contract, the largest ever for an offensive lineman. He could have cashed in most anywhere, but he decided to stay because he felt wanted. "It was the way Amy talks with my wife when she sees her," he says one afternoon after a weight-room session. "The way she takes time to show that she cares about me as a person. Every time she sees me, she'll ask, 'How's Taylin? How's Wynne?' our daughter."

He pauses and looks around the locker room. "The new facilities are great and all," he says. "But I'm a physical guy. I love to show affection. So she's the perfect owner for me."

And also, it appears, for Nashville, which appreciates connecting with an owner more than a larger market might. With the help of Adams Strunk's outreach, the Titans are hot again. A crowd of more than 30,000 attended the downtown party unveiling the new uniforms, a remarkable turnout that led the NFL to award the city its 2019 draft. For the first time, fans say, their hometown team is truly theirs.

None of it will mean much, Adams Strunk knows, if the team can't contend. "I'm warm, I like to show people how I feel, that's who I am," she says. "But I also have no problem doing whatever it takes to win. That is definitely my priority." For guidance, she consults with her inner circle: Kenneth Adams, Underwood and, increasingly, Robinson. Then she'll go outside it and hear as many relevant perspectives as she can get.

The options will be weighed by a committee of one. In that sense, at least, she is her father's daughter.

"The final decision," she says, "is mine."

TITANS OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK NAMED TENNESSEAN OF THE YEAR BY TENNESSEE SPORTS HALL OF FAME

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
FEBRUARY 22, 2019

The 2019 NFL draft is coming to Nashville in about two months, a landmark event for the city that will make it the center of the football world for a week in April.

And at the center of making of it happen was Amy Adams Strunk.

Strunk on Friday was selected as the 2019 Tennessean of the Year by the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame, not just for her efforts in bringing the draft to Nashville but for reinvigorating the Titans franchise and her contributions to the sports community since becoming the controlling owner in 2015.

Titans general manager Jon Robinson called Strunk "the most pivotal piece in the franchise and turning it around." The Titans are fresh off a third-straight winning season for the first time in franchise history.

"Her vision for the uniform change and the unveiling for that downtown (last April, an event that drew as many as 20,000), I think that was really a tipping point to get the draft here," Robinson said. "She was the key piece in getting the draft here to Nashville, which is going to be huge for our city, huge for our state, not just on a national level but really a global level. It's great. She's extremely passionate about Nashville and Tennessee and wants nothing but for the city to succeed, the state to succeed and our football team to succeed."

Nashville Tourism Commissioner Mark Ezell made the announcement at Friday's 2019 NFL Draft luncheon at Saint Thomas Sports Park. Strunk will be formally presented the award at the Hall of Fame's annual induction on June 15 at the Omni Hotel in downtown Nashville. Hall of Fame inductees will be announced in March.

"Amy Adams Strunk sealed her place in the hearts of Titans fans, not only because of her incredible contributions to the sport, but because of her equal and unrivaled passion and commitment to the state," said John E. Simmonds, president of the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame, in a release. "I can't think of anyone more deserving to represent the Tennessee sports community."

Previous winners of the TSHF's Tennessean of the Year award — which is not bestowed every year — include Pat Summitt (1988 and 2012), Vince Gill (1995), James A. "Jim" Haslam (2006), James Franklin (2013), and, most recently, the Nashville Predators.

TITANS AGREE TO DEAL WITH DENICO AUTRY

BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITANINSIDER.COM
MARCH 15, 2021

The Titans first move in free agency allowed them to take a player away from their top division rival. Tennessee agreed to a deal with former Indianapolis Colts defensive tackle Denico Autry, a league source confirmed.

Autry, 30, is receiving a reported $21.5 million deal over three years, according to NFL Network's Ian Rapoport.

Autry's arrival could signal that the Titans may be ready to move on from DaQuan Jones and/or Jack Crawford, who started alongside 2019 first-round pick Jeffery Simmons last season.

Autry spent the past three seasons with the Colts and put up sack numbers of nine, 3.5 and 7.5 with Indy, as the Titans seek to bolster a pass rush that generated just 19 sacks last season.

Autry initially broke in to the NFL with the Raiders in 2014, spending four seasons in Oakland before going to the Colts.

Autry, 6-5, 285, played college football at Mississippi State and will now join his fellow former Bulldog on the Titans' defensive line.

The deal cannot be officially announced until the new league year opens on Wednesday.

DENICO AUTRY

HOW DENICO AUTRY WHO FRUSTRATED TITANS FOR YEARS, COULD IMPACT AFC SOUTH RACE IN LEAVING COLTS

BY ADAM SPARKS
THE TENNESSEAN
MARCH 16, 2021

Denico Autry is the Tennessee Titans' gain and the Colts' loss, and both sides of that transaction could factor into the AFC South race.

Autry, a defensive lineman, will sign a three-year, $21.5 million deal as early as Wednesday, when free agency opens, the NFL Network's Ian Rapoport reported.

The Titans needed a disruptive force on defense, and they got one. The soon-to-be signing of pass-rushing linebacker Bud Dupree, also reported by NFL Network, will add another.

But let's focus on Autry, who the Colts clearly valued. With perspective from Colts beat reporters Joel Erickson and Jim Ayello of the Indianapolis Star, here's a quick look at the player the Titans are getting.

What did the Titans know that drew them to Autry?

Autry has spent plenty of time in the Titans' backfield during his seven-year career with the Raiders and Colts. In eight games against the Titans, he sacked Marcus Mariota four times and sacked Ryan Tannehill twice.

He also forced Mariota to fumble, dropped Derrick Henry for a 3-yard loss, routinely pressured quarterbacks and deflected passes.

"Autry blossomed into a difference-maker in Indianapolis because the Colts let him do what he does best: Penetrate and wreak havoc in the backfield," Erickson wrote.

"Initially miscast in Oakland as a 3-4 defensive end, Autry thrived in a one-gap scheme in Indianapolis, and he showed in 2020 that he has the versatility to play at both defensive end and slide inside to defensive tackle on passing downs."

So why did the Colts let him go?

Autry is arguably the Colts' best free-agent signing since general manager Chris Ballard took the helm in 2017. Autry was undrafted out of Mississippi State in 2014, but he proved to be a solid contributor in the Raiders' rotation.

With the Colts, Autry's career skyrocketed. He started 38 of 40 games in three seasons and racked up 20 sacks, 26 tackles-for-loss and 32 quarterback hits.

Ayello reported that the Colts made a strong late push to try and keep Autry away from the Titans, who committed more money in the first two years of the contract. It's a notable shift of an impact player from one defensive line to another in the AFC South.

"While Autry isn't a household name, his departure will certainly sting," Ayello wrote. "Not only will the Colts have to see him twice a year, but they have to figure out how they're going to replace a player who has been a critical cog in their defense the past three years."

What will Autry bring to Titans' team chemistry?

Autry is described as a low-key, high-motor player who draws most of his attention on the field.

"Autry's a quiet guy, but he plays through pain, plays hard and plays a lot of snaps for a big body (6-foot-5, 285 pounds)," Erickson said. "Colts head coach Frank Reich loved Autry's approach."

But his soft-spoken nature apparently hides a good-natured mischievous side. Before playing at Mississippi State, Autry was a standout at East Mississippi Community College, the national championship program featured on the Netflix series "Last Chance U" — although that show came after his time there.

EMCC coach Buddy Stephens told the San Jose Mercury News that Autry would climb a 14-foot wall and turn off a surveillance camera so he and his teammates could shoot basketball in the school gym after hours.

And sometimes Autry would hot-wire his coach's golf cart to drive to a local market off campus to buy snacks.

That was more than a decade ago for the 30-year-old Autry. But it hints at the layers of a quiet but likable teammate the Titans will be adding to their locker room.

BREON BORDERS

AFTER GETTING CUT BY SEVEN NFL TEAMS, BREON BORDERS MAKING IMPACT FOR TITANS | ESTES

BY GENTRY ESTES
THE TENNESSEAN
NOVEMBER 24, 2020

Titans cornerback Breon Borders doesn't mind sharing his story.

What he went through growing up, he's actually grateful for it now. It helps explain how he got to where he is, and how he broke a depressing cycle in his family and hometown. It's a story of tough lessons met by a tougher mentality.

A short memory, staying confident and positive, not feeling sorry for himself — these things have been useful for an undrafted NFL fringe player who's been cut by seven teams in about three years.

"I feel like I'm ready for anything that comes in my life," he said.

And Borders is hopeful that his eighth team is the charm. Because in his fourth NFL season, he's finally getting a real shot.

He went from joining the Titans' practice squad in Week 3 to the COVID-19 list to, not long after that, his largest role as a pro. With Adoree' Jackson injured and Johnathan Joseph released, the 25-year-old Borders has started at cornerback opposite Malcolm Butler the past three games.

"Hopefully, this will be the team for him right here," said Yvonne Bennett, Borders' grandmother.

The Titans have needed Borders. They've heaved him into the fire, too, quickly promoting him ahead of some more experienced defensive backs.

On a team that keeps demonstrating resiliency, Borders has fit in.

"I wish Breon could verbalize to young men today that think they want to play pro football what he's had to go through from team to team, but there's a reason he keeps turning up," said David Cutcliffe, Borders' head coach at Duke University.

"... He went through a lot of tough times growing up. God is good is what I think when I hear about Breon doing so well."

'She was my world'

Borders is from Statesville, North Carolina, a town of fewer than 30,000 about a 45-minute drive north of Charlotte.

Former NFL linebacker Vinson Smith was from Statesville, but Borders grew up idolizing wide receiver Randy Moss. From a young age, Borders would point to pictures and tell his family that's what he was going to do one day.

Those aspirations didn't change over the years, even as much around Borders did.

"My immediate family went to prison for drugs when I was 7," he said. "That kind of devastated me. ... It was like a drug chain. My family was just real heavy into drugs. When one person went down, everybody went down."

From birth until almost 7, Borders was raised by Bennett. Her daughter — Borders' mother — was young. He wasn't around his father much, he said.

Three short paragraphs in the Charlotte Observer in 2002 described the event that upended Borders' childhood. A cocaine conspiracy case in Statesville, the Observer reported, resulted in prison sentences for four family members, Bennett included.

"She was my world," Borders said of his grandmother. "She was my everything. When she left, I feel like she left kind of suddenly. It didn't really hit me the first or second day. But the third day, I had to go live with my aunt. It was hard, but she instilled my core values in me that I still hold on to today. And, I'm grateful for that."

Borders credits Sandra Reid, his great aunt and Bennett's sister, for keeping him on the right track. Bennett returned when he was 14, and Borders went back to live with her. During that stretch, Borders was separated from his brother — who lived in another home — and most of his family.

"Even though it's a messed-up situation, I feel like that situation prepared me for life," Borders said. "For seven years, I didn't see my mom, dad, my grandma, my brother. From 7 to 14, it was a huge lesson that I had to overcome. When I did, I felt like I could get past anything."

Reid had kids of her own, and she was disciplined. She told him he'd better be on the porch when the streetlights came on.

When Borders' grades slipped in middle school, Reid benched him for a football season, she said.

"I know that he missed his grandma," Reid said. "I know that, because we talked about that. And he did. But still, he was OK, because we were all a part of his life."

Years later, he did so well in the classroom that he ended up being able to attend Duke. Clearly, football skills didn't suffer, either.

"The actual work isn't easy," he said, "but to make the decision to work and do what I need to do, I mean, it was easy. I'm trying to honor the sacrifice that my grandma made for me."

Borders' NFL success is a growing source of pride in Statesville. It has long been a source of pride for Bennett and Reid, on and off the field.

"Even without the football," Bennett said, "just the fact he went to Duke."

Rising to the occasion

BREON BORDERS

As a freshman in 2013, Borders played in all 14 games for Cutcliffe's Blue Devils.

In the ACC Championship Game that season against eventual national champ Florida State, Borders intercepted Jameis Winston twice.

"He just could rise to the occasion," Cutcliffe said, "and I believe that's what he's continued to do in his professional career. If you give him a shot — a legitimate shot — he's going to rise to the occasion. And he's always got a smile on his face. He's great in a locker room. He's just good people."

Borders started every game for the next two seasons. As a junior, he played the most snaps on Duke's team and led the Blue Devils in interceptions for the third year in a row.

His senior season was going ever better until he was sidelined late in the year by a staph infection. He ended up losing about 30 pounds, "and I'm already not the biggest guy," said Borders, who is listed by the Titans as 6-foot, 189 pounds.

That ordeal likely impacted his draft stock. The Raiders signed Borders in 2017 after he wasn't selected. He ended up making their practice squad, beginning an NFL odyssey from Raiders to Bills to Texans to Jaguars to the Washington Football Team to Steelers to Dolphins and now the Titans.

"Every time one team lets him go," Bennett said, "it just really breaks my heart because I know he loves football so much. He'll say, 'Well, another team will pick me up. Don't worry about it.'"

"I'm trying to look at it in a positive way," Borders said. "I'm visiting all these different cities, meeting all these different people, learning from all these different coaches. Of course, I want to be grounded somewhere, but I'm grateful to continually get picked up. I'm doing something right if I'm getting picked up over and over again."

Though Borders was signed to the Titans' practice squad in Week 3, he said he didn't actually get into the team's building until about four weeks later. He had to quarantine for COVID-19 initially because of contact tracing. Then as the team fought an outbreak, he learned he'd caught COVID-19 himself.

"I had a slight headache for maybe a day or two, but it wasn't bad at all," said Borders. The worst part might have been having to spend weeks quarantining in a hotel in a new city, all the while logging into virtual meetings and trying to learn the Titans' defense.

When the time came to play, though, he was ready.

"He's come in here and he's learned the defense," Titans secondary coach Anthony Midget said. "He's met extra with us to pick up the scheme. Every opportunity he's gotten, he's taken advantage of it. That's why he's out there playing for us now."

Back home, Titans fans are being created quickly. Among them are Borders' two young children — 3-year-old son Breon Jr. and 1-year-old daughter Ashley — who are still in Statesville.

"They're young," he said, "but I have to figure out how to teach them those same lessons and values that I was taught, but not with the same experiences."

He misses them, and he's hoping that if his time on the Titans becomes more permanent that they can move to Nashville.

If that happens, Borders' story will become more well-known — and an inspiration to those who run across it.

"I'm unbelievably proud," Cutcliffe said. "He is proof (of) what we all need to think about right now when we want to complain about 2020. ... The more I learned about what he had to overcome in his youth I just became a fan. It is a valuable lesson that through difficult times the opportunity to grow is there."

CORNERBACK RE-SIGNED DAYS AFTER RELEASE

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
MARCH 1, 2021

Breon Borders is back.

Less than a week after they released him, the Tennessee Titans re-signed the 25-year-old cornerback Monday.

Borders appeared in six games for the Titans in 2020 and started five. He was credited with 27 tackles, five passes defensed, one tackle for loss and his first career interception.

His season ended in early December, when he was placed on injured reserve with a hip issue. His last game was against Cleveland, a 41-35 loss in which he got beat for several big gains.

“When you play this game for a long time, you are going to have days like that,” defensive backs coach Anthony Midget said a couple days later. “It’s how you bounce back from it. That’s what makes guys successful in this league, being able to bounce back and put that behind them.”

Borders never got that opportunity. He will, however, get another chance after having been waived along with wide receiver Adam Humphries and cornerback Chris Milton last Thursday.

He was one of the Titans’ more pleasant surprises of 2020 in a secondary that was racked with injury issues from start to finish. He earned his opportunity to get on the field and into the lineup with relentless competitiveness during practice sessions.

“I would say [he has] probably one of the best attitudes on this football team as far as just day to day, and his outlook on his job and this football team,” coach Mike Vrabel said late in the regular season. “Couldn’t say enough nice things about (Borders).”

A fourth-year pro out of Duke, Borders was not even on an NFL roster at the start of the season. Tennessee signed him to its practice squad on Sept. 21. His first appearance was as a gameday addition to the active roster, after which he immediately reverted to the practice squad. He was signed to the active roster on Nov. 7 and started opposite Malcolm Butler until he got hurt.

He appeared in 12 games for Jacksonville (2018-19) and one for Washington (2019) prior to last season.

SHANE BOWEN

SHANE BOWEN COMFORTABLE WITH DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR TITLE

*BY TERRY MCCORMICK
TITAN INSIDER
AUGUST 3, 2021*

Shane Bowen caught a lot of flak last year for the Titans' defensive shortcomings – and he didn't even have the title of defensive coordinator.

This year, now that he has the title to go with the responsibilities of running the defense, Bowen said he feels much more able to communicate and convey his messages to the group.

“Absolutely, I do. I think it has helped with everybody, with the coaching staff, the players. I think that it has been good up to this point,” Bowen said. “They kind of understand where the bus stops and it is what it is. I am excited for the opportunity, I really am. I am excited for the ways these guys are going about working right now and kind of what we are trying to get accomplished on defense.”

Bowen said he has been more able to go back and forth between meeting rooms during defensive meetings this year, rather than have the outside linebackers duties on his plate.

“I have been able to bounce around meeting rooms. Again, I think it goes back - and you guys heard it a lot last year, the coordination, the communication, making sure everybody is on the same page,” he said. “Now, the DB's see something one way, I can immediately walk into the linebacker room and say, ‘Hey man, this is what we are thinking, this is how they see it.’ That way everybody sees things the same way, we are communicating things the same way. I think that has been a tremendous asset, being able to bounce room to room.

“Also being able to understand and make sure we're getting coach rolling with coach, that is part of it too. I want to make sure they are hearing what they want and then when we go into the unit room, they better be able to spit it back and I know they then have got it covered. I think building the relationships with the guys, that is a big part of it. That last year I don't think was there, whereas this year it is growing and it is becoming a bigger piece for me.”

Bowen said that having Jim Schwartz as a senior defensive assistant as well as head coach Mike Vrabel as a mentor has been a benefit for him as well.

“It has been great having (Jim) Schwartz here, it really has. He is a great sounding board for me as things go. Obviously, Mike (Vrabel), he knows it all so I can always turn to him. Schwartz has been great,” Bowen said. “Anything comes up, we talk through everything, we go through our plan for different scenarios. I think as we get more into situations, his experience with some of that stuff is going to pay dividends too. I am super excited he is here, he has been a great asset to me so far to this point and I expect that to continue.”

Kicking it

Both newcomer Sam Ficken and Tucker McCann were 6-of-6 kicking field goals in Ficken's first day with the Titans after being claimed off waivers from the New York Jets.

The Titans waived Blake Haubeil to make room for Ficken after both Haubeil and McCann had missed two field goals each in a practice session last week.

Defensive effort

In the first padded practice, the defense had an outstanding day for much of the session. The defensive line, led by Jeffery Simmons, proved disruptive, according to multiple accounts.

“I think everybody has been kind of excited, waiting for this day to happen. It is real football once we put the pads on. I think we have to come out here ready to go a little bit faster. I don't think we started very fast, but I felt as the practice went on we improved,” Bowen said.

Bowen said he was pleased with the energy and competitiveness that the defense has shown thus far in camp.

“The energy, the competitiveness. I think all these guys are battling right now in a lot of ways, in their positional groups, against the offense. I see improvement. The biggest thing for us is just the consistency. Guys are getting better, we see it by player, we see it by unit, we see it by position group, but being able to do it day in and day out, play in and play out, that is where we have to be able to take the next step,” Bowen said

A.J. BROWN

TITANS WR A.J. BROWN ON HIS NEW HOME IN TENNESSEE, AND HIS NFL ASPIRATIONS

THE ROOKIE RECEIVER FROM OLE MISS, SELECTED IN THE SECOND-ROUND OF THE NFL DRAFT, IS ADJUSTING WELL IN HIS FIRST SEASON

TITANS ONLINE)
NOVEMBER 18, 2019

NASHVILLE – My new home in Tennessee really does feel like home.

Even before I was drafted by the Titans, I came to town on a pre-draft visit. I talked to coaches and other people with the team, and I got a good feel from them right out of the gate. From the start, I felt like this could be the place for me, even though I didn't know a whole lot about the Titans. I knew about Steve McNair since he's from Mississippi, but for the most part I didn't know a whole bunch about the team before then. Still, it just felt right.

So when the Titans ended up picking me, I was really happy because my new home was not far from where I grew up in Starkville, Mississippi, and where I played college ball at Ole Miss. And I knew from the start it was a blessing because my family would get to come watch me play.

Making things even better? My older sister, Reva, lives in Nashville, so that was huge for me. She's 28, several years older than me, so it was nice to have her here to help me get settled in. Really, that was huge for me. When you go to a new place, you want to be around your family and she would cook me home-cooked meals, and she just made me feel like I wasn't alone.

I was 21-years-old when I got drafted and going off to live on your own is an adjustment, different from college. Having my sister here helped, but I think me just being the way I am helped too. I am a homebody. Most 21-year-olds when they get drafted are probably in the streets, running around. But that's not who I am, and it will never be who I am. My dad, Arthur, he doesn't have to worry about me getting in trouble.

A.J. Brown with his father, Arthur, and sister, Reva (center photo) who lived in Nashville prior to the Titans selecting Brown in the 2nd Round of the 2019 NFL Draft.

I am all about football. I love the game, and I want to be great. I'm always working at it. When I take a break from the game, I like to watch movies, play video games. I am really good at shooting pool, so that's what I do when I have free time. It takes me away from the world and helps me get away. Sometimes I play some music and I shoot pool for hours.

But really, football is my life. I get really bored in the offseason. I mean really bored. Because you can work out all day, and work out a million times, but there is nothing like being in season and playing ball and doing what you love.

I was so excited to get started with the Titans. When I got drafted, I wanted to show what I was made of. I had a lot of expectations coming in, and I wanted to establish myself in training camp. Unfortunately, I couldn't because I suffered an injury, so I had to sit down and wait, and be patient. I knew when I came back I'd have to put myself in a position to be ready, so I got the mental part of the game down, and I leaned on my teammates.

My veteran teammates, they helped me out a lot. I wouldn't be where I am today without those guys. They helped me out with the plays and everything, kind of like big brothers.

When I finally got healthy and more comfortable, I started to feel like myself and I started playing ball and it was good to make some plays and good to start helping the team.

Ten games into my first NFL season, I think it's gone OK as far as my expectations go. Of course, there are some plays I would like to have back, but I feel like I've gotten better and the second half of the season I want to take it to another level.

A.J. Brown celebrates one of two TDs with teammates during the Titans-Falcons Week 4 game in Atlanta.

Along the way I feel like I've also grown up a lot, too, and I've seen the NFL is a serious business. All of us as players, we support one another and are in this together and we want to win. I've already seen players come and go, and I've seen changes.

Take quarterback Marcus Mariota, for instance. I've only been around him six months and I've grown to respect that guy so much. When we played the Broncos in Denver back in October and he was replaced in the lineup, I admit that was very hard for me. I got really emotional during the game, in fact. I think that's why I got a pass interference penalty called on me, because I was so frustrated. I ended up throwing the guy from the Broncos to the ground and I got a penalty. I admit, I was crying during the play. And after the game, I was still emotional because me spending time with Marcus and really getting to know him, he became a brother to me. To see something like that happen to a great person, it was tough to deal with. I always tell him he's such a pro in the way he handles himself, and I want to be like that myself.

But I understand why decisions have to be made, and as a team and as a player you have to do your job and focus on yourself and how you can do better. I have so much respect for Ryan Tannehill, too, and how he plays the game and he's done great. And I am going to do everything I can to be the best player I can be to help him, and to help the team.

I know I'm still just a rookie, and I know right now I am laying the groundwork for my career and I want to keep getting better and better. This is just the beginning.

I want my teammates to see me work, and I want them to know how important football is to me. I feel like I can be the best receiver in this league, I really do, and that's what I am striving for – to be the very best. And I really believe I can get there.

I mentioned my home earlier, and I know being where I am today, I have a great opportunity in the NFL. I mentioned my dad earlier, too, and he's the one who instilled in me to work hard at a young age. He's retired now, but he worked for the electric company and I remember his work ethic. He was a good athlete growing up. His sport was baseball, and he was really good at it. And he always pushed me to be the best I can be. I still remember him telling me at a very young age: If you are not trying to be the best, then you need to find something else to do. So I have to give my dad credit for giving me that competitive edge and pushing me, and now it is up to me.

I want to be successful in Tennessee. I want to prove the Titans made a smart move by picking me. I am trying to retire here. I know it is going to take a lot of work to reach my goals and to have the success I want to have, but without a doubt I am willing to work to make it happen. I am just getting started.

TITANS ROOKIE WR A.J. BROWN SHOWS OUT BEFORE "BIG BRO" JULIO JONES

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
SEPTEMBER 30, 2019

ATLANTA – No. 11 stole the show early here on Sunday, but maybe not the one most expected.

Titans rookie A.J. Brown set the tone by scoring the game's first touchdown in a 24-10 win over the Falcons, and he followed that up with another touchdown in the victory.

After the game, Brown dished out credit to those around him, from quarterback Marcus Mariota to fellow receiver Corey Davis.

He also showed respect for Jones, a six-time Pro Bowler that Brown said he models his game after. The two players talked after the game, and swapped jerseys. Brown said he picked No.11 in the NFL because of Jones after wearing No.1 at Ole Miss.

"That's my big bro," Brown said of Jones. "He taught me everything I know, and he don't even know it. I think so much of how he plays. I was watching him today, trying to steal something to put in my bag. He is a great one and one day I want to be like him. I want to be better than him."

Brown had three catches for 94 yards and the two touchdowns against the Falcons. He scored on a 55-yard catch after making a grab in the middle of the field and racing past defenders. Brown also had an 11-yard touchdown catch in the game, which gave the Titans a lead they never relinquished.

"I want to make that the standard," Brown said. "I tell myself I haven't done anything yet. I have to keep my head down and keep working."

Brown's performance came on a day when Mariota completed 18-of-27 passes for 227 yards and three touchdowns. Davis led the Tians with five catches, and he had 91 receiving yards and a 23-yard touchdown catch of his own.

The Titans defense did a solid job vs. Jones, who had just four catches for 52 yards for the Falcons. In the contest, Jones reached a significant milestone – he became the fastest receiver to reach 11,000 receiving yards for his career. Earlier this season, Jones also became the all-time leading receiver in Falcons franchise history.

"(Julio) told me just keep playing, keep balling, keep getting open," Brown said. "He said, "Don't let it be just one week, be consistent. You have to be reliable in this league."

"It means the world to me, talking to him."

TITANS WIDE RECEIVER BELIEVES HE SHOULD HAVE BEEN DRAFTED BEFORE THE SECOND ROUND.

DECEMBER 24, 2020

A.J. Brown wants his Pro Bowl selection to send a message to every NFL team that allowed him to fall to the second round of the 2019 NFL Draft.

“I think about that all the time to be honest,” Brown said. “We sit here and talk about stuff like that [teams passing on him]. And I have definitely thought about it a lot.”

Monday, Brown one of two Titans named Pro Bowlers this season. The second-year Tennessee Titans wide receiver took to social media to explain his emotions after he received the news.

“This is the night everyone passed on me,” Brown wrote on Twitter, along with the picture from the opening night of the 2019 NFL Draft. “Very humbling moment. Pro Bowl in year two.”

The Titans selected Brown 51st overall last year. He was the fourth wide receiver chosen overall, and 27 of the NFL’s other franchises had at least one chance to pick him. Even the Titans passed on him once when they selected defensive tackle Jeffery Simmons in the first round.

Brown has a career-high 10 touchdown catches. That puts him one behind Drew Bennett for the most by a player during the Titans era (1999-present) He also has at least one touchdown reception in nine of his 12 appearances on the season (he missed two games early with a knee injury).

Combined with his eight touchdown receptions as a rookie, he is now the fourth player in franchise history with at least eight in back-to-back seasons.

“A.J. (Brown) consistently makes big plays for us,” quarterback Ryan Tannehill said.

Brown’s reliability as a primary target for Tannehill created a crucial synergy for the Titans’ offense all season. He now has three 100-yard receiving games in the season (vs. Pittsburgh, vs. Chicago, at Jacksonville).

He has become the third player in franchise history to eclipse 1,500 career receiving yards before his 24th birthday.

“(Tannehill) holds me accountable. And doesn’t let anything slide,” he said. “He is a leader to everyone, and most definitely me.”

The Pro Bowl selection, for Brown, comes as a form of validation for the work he has put into this season. And though his team may have its eyes on a Super Bowl this year, he wants the others to look at him and think they made a mistake.

“In this league, the only people you want validation from are your teammates and the people across from you,” Brown said. “To be voted in means a lot. And I’m blessed to be voted in so it means a lot.”

A.J. Brown was one of the NFL's best receivers in 2020. Yet he was far from his best.

The Tennessee Titans' top pass catcher for the second straight season went on Instagram on Tuesday afternoon and revealed that he had surgery on both knees.

He streamed the live video from a hospital bed shortly after the procedure and even complained to a nurse that a drink irritated his throat. She explained that it was due to the ventilator that was employed while he was under anesthesia.

"But yeah, look, I was sore all year," Brown said. "Nobody knew. They told me I was done for the year in Week 2. I played all year. I ended up making the Pro Bowl. Didn't know how I was going to do it. I did it."

A subsequent post from Brown's Twitter account, which referred to him in the third person, classified the work as "small procedures."

The 2019 second-round draft pick out of Ole Miss led the Titans with 70 receptions for 1,075 yards and 11 touchdowns despite the fact that he missed two games. He was tied for fifth in the league in receiving touchdowns and was 16th in receiving yards. Among the 18 players who had at least 1,000 receiving yards in 2020, Brown's 70 receptions were tied for the second fewest.

A knee injury sidelined Brown for victories over Jacksonville and

A.J. BROWN

Minnesota in Weeks 2 and 3, and he was on the injury report every week thereafter throughout the season with knee, ankle and hip issues.

"He would do walk-thrus in a wheel chair," linebacker Will Compton playfully wrote on Twitter in response to Brown's revelation. "His knees were so bad - at one point they talked about pulling the plug. But death or surgery was never an option for (Brown).

"Thru guided mediation (and) prayer he was able to somehow play on Sundays. One of the toughest men I know."

He became the 11th NFL player to reach 1,000 yards in receiving each of his first two seasons in the league and the fifth since 1970 with at least 2,000 receiving yards and 19 touchdowns in his first two seasons. As a rookie, he led Tennessee with 52 receptions, 1,051 yards and eight touchdowns.

Brown was one of three Titans named to the Pro Bowl, a first for him in his career and scored at least one touchdown in 10 of the 14 games he played.

"This is no talk, bro," he said. "Like real talk—I'm going to be the best receiver in the NFL."

If he can stay healthy, he might be right.

A.J. BROWN: 'I'M PRETTY SURE EVERYONE CAN TELL THAT I'M HEALTHY'

DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM
JULY 31, 2021

NASHVILLE – It was understood throughout the 2020 NFL season that A.J. Brown was not fully healthy. The extent to which he was injured was not clear until weeks later.

Four days into training camp, there is no doubt about the health of the Tennessee Titans' Pro Bowl wide receiver.

"I'm pretty sure everyone can tell that I'm healthy," Brown said with a wry grin Saturday. "Pretty soon, everyone else will know too."

Brown, a second-round pick out of Ole Miss in 2019, is one of 11 players in NFL history to top 1,000 receiving yards in each of his first two seasons and one of five since 1970 with at least 2,000 receiving yards and 19 touchdown catches in his first two seasons combined.

He got there – and earned his first Pro Bowl invitation – last season when he caught 70 passes for 1,075 yards and 11 touchdowns in just 14 games. Along the way, he was on the injury report every week of the regular season. It started with a knee injury right before the season-opener at Denver and ended with knee and hand injuries that had him listed as "questionable" for the wild card playoff game against Baltimore (he played). There was also an ankle injury, and at times more than one of those issues was the reason for his inclusion on the injury report.

The only games he missed were in Weeks 2 and 3. After that, he made it to the field every Sunday even though there were times he did not practice at all during the week.

"It was all a mental thing," Brown said. "Last year, like I was facing a lot of things. My knee. Then I rolled my ankle real bad. I damaged some ligaments in my ankle, but I was kind of glad I hurt something else so I could take some pressure off the knee. That's how – mentally – I had to do it.

A.J. BROWN

"... I knew I had to keep going. I knew my team needed me."

Weeks after the loss to the Ravens, he revealed in an entertaining and enlightening social media post that he had surgery on both knees.

That led to an offseason focused primarily on rehab. He was not an active participant in organized team activities (OTAs) or the mandatory June minicamp. He said the first time he ran on a football field was two weeks prior to the start of training camp.

"This offseason was all weight room work," he said. "Like, I wasn't able to get on the field. ... I'm excited. This is probably one of the first times me going into training camp that I'm fully healthy."

"I'm flying around, having fun and making plays."

That he is. Right from the outset, he has looked every bit like a player whose first two seasons were no fluke. He has been a difficult matchup for all of the defensive backs, whether it is in individual periods, seven-on-seven or 11-on-11 work.

He's also running his mouth, ramping up the competitive nature of things between the offense and the defense.

"Obviously, A.J. – he's a dog," safety Kevin Byard said. "... He's been out there making plays, scoring touchdowns. But, honestly, that is something we expect from him. Even when he was a rookie, he was making plays already."

"What he's doing now, it's not really surprising because we know the talent that he has and the chip that he has on his shoulders because he wants to be one of the best in the league."

Of course, it helps that he is healthy.

"I'm so comfortable," Brown said. "I feel like I can do whatever I want to do when I want to do it. My confidence is just through the roof."

PROUD “UNCLE”: FORMER NFL GREAT WILLIE MCGINEST PROUD OF JAYON BROWN'S SUCCESS WITH TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
FEBRUARY 21, 2019

NASHVILLE – Willie McGinest is able to say he knew Titans linebacker Jayon Brown way back when.

And because of it, he smiles when talking about Brown’s success.

“He has always had the mentality, and the work ethic, from youth football to high school, all the way up,” McGinest said of Brown. “He’s a guy who never gave up on himself. He always worked. He always walks around with a smile, but he will work his butt off. I’m really proud of Jayon.”

McGinest, an analyst with NFL Network, played from 1994-2005 with the Patriots before playing three more seasons with the Browns (2006-08). McGinest played in two Pro Bowls while in New England, and won three Super Bowls with the Patriots, where he was teammates with Titans coach Mike Vrabel. He’s in the New England Patriots Hall of Fame.

McGinest is also close with Brown, who just finished his second season with the Titans.

Brown said he wears No.55 because it’s the number McGinest wore during his playing days.

Like McGinest, Brown is from Long Beach, California, and he went to Long Beach Poly High School. McGinest has been close friends with Brown’s father, Jason, since they were youngsters.

“Willie has always been around my family growing up, so he’s pretty much my uncle,” Brown said. “He’s helped me out throughout my career, and even today we’ll go over film.

“He gives me tips when I need them, when I ask for them. Even when I don’t ask for them, he’ll give them to me,” Brown continued, smiling. “He’s a guy who has tried to help me throughout my career, and he’s helped me a lot.”

Brown, a fifth round draft pick from UCLA in the 2017 NFL Draft, made a big leap for the Titans in 2018.

He was second on the team with 107 tackles, and he also racked up six sacks and 18 quarterback pressures. He was one of the team’s most consistent players.

In the team’s finale against the Colts, Brown was a one-man wrecking crew, returning an interception for a touchdown before forcing another fumble – and recovering it – a little later.

“He can be really good,” McGinest said of Brown. “He is still learning the game. They ask him to do a lot – he’s a cover guy, he can play the run, he can cover a tight end and a back if you need him to. He never has to come off the field, so he is still growing, and he is still learning. I think the sky is the limit.”

Seeing Brown excel has been fun for McGinest to watch.

Watching how he’s done it makes him even prouder.

McGinest and Brown both made their comments from Super Bowl LIII earlier this month.

“A lot of people always identify players just because of the football side of it,” McGinest said. “But this kid has a great personality. He has a great outlook on life, he’s happy, and he loves doing what he is doing. And he’ll grind - he’ll work. I think when you have special guys like that you know they are going to have a bright future, and I kind of knew that with him.

“He’s just a great kid, on and off the field.”

BROWN NOT GIVING CONTRACT YEAR A SECOND THOUGHT

FOURTH-YEAR LB WAS THIRD ON TEAM IN TACKLES LAST SEASON

BY MICHAEL GALLAGHER
NASHVILLE POST
AUGUST 13, 2020

Tennessee Titans linebacker Jayon Brown has steadily improved every season since the team drafted him in the fifth round out of UCLA in the 2017 NFL draft.

Many scouts doubted whether or not Brown could stick as a linebacker in the NFL due to his small 6-foot, 220-pound frame. But after a breakout 2019 season during which he ranked third on the team in tackles (105) and improved in coverage situations, Brown is making his living proving everyone wrong.

“Every year I just want to improve on everything that I did good on and things I didn’t do so good on,” Brown said. “Just become a more complete player. I hold myself to high standards and I want to be the best at what I do. So, for this year, I want to improve on everything across the board.”

Brown went from a pass-rushing linebacker in 2018 to more of a coverage linebacker in 2019. He blitzed 74 times with six sacks two years ago and just 28 times last year with one sack.

However, according to Pro Football Focus, since 2018 Brown is the highest-graded linebacker when lined up against tight ends and running backs and the fifth-highest graded coverage linebacker. He allowed zero touchdowns on 480 coverage snaps last year.

The 25-year-old is poised for an even more productive 2020 season after the Titans solidified their pass rush, freeing up Brown to do what he does best. He finished 2019 with 105 tackles, eight passes defended, seven QB pressures, four tackles for loss, a sack, an interception and a fumble recovery for a touchdown.

Entering the final year of his rookie contract, he could cash in on a big payday with success equal to or exceeding his 2019 production.

“I haven’t really thought about it,” Brown said of his contract situation. “I know this is the last year on my contract, but I’m just focused on performing this year and enjoying another opportunity to play with the guys in this locker room and this coaching staff... All my focus is on ... getting better each and every day in practice and perfecting my craft and my techniques, and basically getting ready for Denver Game 1.”

LB JAYON BROWN IS RETURNING TO THE TITANS, AND HE'S FIRED UP ABOUT IT

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MARCH 19, 2021

NASHVILLE – Jayon Brown is returning to the Titans, and he couldn't be more fired up about it.

"I am so happy to be back to the team that drafted me and believed in me from Day One coming into the league with (GM) Jon Robinson," said Brown, who agreed to terms on a new deal with the Titans. "And knowing the system that Coach (Mike) Vrabel runs, and with our D.C., with Shane Bowen, just the familiarity with the team and the city that I know, the fan base, it is like I am coming back home."

What's made Brown smile even bigger is the excitement he's seen from Titans fans reacting to the news.

"I've been seeing some of the mentions on Twitter," Brown said. "I don't think I've gotten this much love in a very long time."

Yes, the Titans are bringing back a key piece to their defense in Brown. On Friday, the team officially reached a deal with the franchise's fifth-round draft pick in the 2017 NFL Draft, a player who has developed into playmaker in the NFL.

Brown, who was scheduled to hit the open market on the first day of free agency on Wednesday, instead opted to return to Tennessee, where he has played in 56 games over the past four seasons, with 33 starts.

"I would love to play in Tennessee my whole career, and hopefully it goes that way," Brown said. "I can't tell the future, but Tennessee is a place I've grown to love, coming from southern California. I am so comfortable with the city, and our program, and I know what is expected out of me, being a leader, being a playmaker, being a great tackler.

"I am excited to come back to my linebacker coach, Jim Haslett, as well. I still have a lot to learn from him as well, with all the knowledge he has about the game."

Since entering the NFL, Brown has tallied 367 tackles, 9.5 sacks, 35 quarterback pressures, 17 tackles for a loss, three interceptions, four forced fumbles, three fumble recoveries and 28 passes defended.

Brown tallied 76 stops and a sack, with an interception and four quarterback pressures, in 2020 before suffering a season-ending elbow injury in the team's win at Baltimore in November.

Brown racked up a career-high 117 tackles in 2019, when he also had a sack, seven quarterback pressures, four tackles for a loss with an interception and fumble recovery.

On an evolving defense, Brown's stability in the middle will be key. Brown said he's noticed some of the new additions on the defense in free agency, "and I'm looking forward to playing with those guys on the field."

Brown said he's healthy, and ready to go.

"I am fully cleared, and I can't wait to get back and show everybody this injury is not going to affect me," Brown said. "I am going to act like I never left and try and be better than ever."

"Coming off the season I had last year, I feel like I have so much to improve on. So yeah, I am so hungry to come back for another year and give it another shot to defend out AFC South title, and go to the Super Bowl."

DEPARTMENT OF CHILDREN'S SERVICES 'SAFE ROOM' DEDICATED TO TITANS SAFETY KEVIN BYARD AND HIS WIFE ON SUNDAY

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
AUGUST 1, 2021

NASHVILLE – Titans safety Kevin Byard and his wife Clarke unveiled the renovated facility housing the Davidson County Department of Children's Services' Safe Room on Sunday.

The Safe Room is a dedicated space designed to help reduce the trauma for children who come into custody for child abuse and/or child neglect. Through a full cosmetic renovation this is now a safe space for the youth seeking refuge and gives them some sense of comfort.

"God has extended so much grace to me and my wife and my family," Byard said. "We only feel right to try and do the same. I give 100 percent credit to my wife. ... She ended up visiting this facility, and she had a vision, and wanted to be able to help out the community as much as possible. With me personally, I've had family that's been in the foster system, so this is near and dear to me as well."

The Davidson County Foster System is the recipient of the Byard Family Legacy Fund's annual "Gift of Grace" Grant.

"The Byard Family Legacy Fund actually has a grant called the "Grace Grant" and we model that after God's grace," Clarke Byard said. "We leave it open for individuals or for organizations ... that are in need of a little grace, a little extra help to push forward with what they are trying to accomplish."

The mission of the Byard Family Legacy Fund is not only to provide a sanctuary for families, but believes everyone deserves a second chance.

Byard, a father of two who is the second oldest of seven children, grew up without a father in his home. Byard has said his family worked hard to make ends meet growing up.

Byard, who played in college at MTSU, and his wife Clarke were on hand with their two children at Sunday's ribbon cutting.

"I want to give my personal thanks to Clarke and Kevin Byard for what they have done for the children in our custody," DCS Commissioner Jennifer Nichols said. "Kids are taken in at all times, day and night, and during that transition period, it's probably some of the most dramatic hours for them.

"The Byards have provided this home-like environment for them to stay in during those hours, and I can't imagine anything that is more important than the legacy this family is creating."

On Sunday, the Byards were presented a Certificate of Appreciation signed by Tennessee Governor Bill Lee.

Also, the Safe Room was dedicated the Byards, and the plaque will be hung inside the "Byard Family Safety Room."

"We all have a story – I have been through some rough times in my life as well," Byard said. "My path to where I am now definitely wasn't straight. ... The thing we wanted to do (with the Safe Room) is to make sure these kids feel comfortable."

BYARD NAMED TITANS' WALTER PAYTON MAN OF THE YEAR

FORMER BLUE RAIDER RECOGNIZED FOR SOCIAL ACTIVISM, COMMUNITY WORK

NASHVILLE POST
OCTOBER 30, 2020

Middle Tennessee sports fans have long known what kind of player and person Tennessee Titans safety Kevin Byard is.

On Thursday, Titans head coach Mike Vrabel was as close to giddy as local reporters have probably ever seen him when the third-year coach announced Byard as the Titans 2020 Walter Payton Man of the Year.

"I wanted to tell everybody how happy I was to tell the team about Kevin Byard being the Walter Payton recipient for the Titans," he said. "That is a special honor. That's something that I know that our guys hold in high regard just to the service that they do and the care for others, so just excited to be able to tell the team that and then honor Kevin (Byard) in front of the team. So, I wanted to share that with you guys as well."

Byard is one of 32 finalists for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year award, which is given annually to recognize an NFL player for "commitment to philanthropy and community impact."

Byard was recognized by the NFL Players Association back in September as the first Community MVP of the season after he hosted a pair of events where he helped pack and distribute over 300 kits to distribute that included backpacks of school supplies and other various items for distance learning kids.

Additionally, the 27-year-old All Pro has been one of the Titans' biggest catalysts for speaking out on racism, social justice and police brutality this year. Byard was also one of many Titans players out on the streets in March helping the city of Nashville with its tornado relief efforts.

"This honor is no shock to anyone around Middle Tennessee," said Rick Stockstill, Byard's former MTSU head coach. "Kevin is a great man, a great husband, and a great player who always works hard in the community helping others. There's not a better leader or teammate than Kevin Byard. We love him dearly and wish him nothing but success."

Byard helped deliver his son back in August at his home in Nashville and also recently bought his mother a house back in May, stating it was "a pipe dream that only few are able to accomplish."

As the Titans nomination, Byard will receive up to $50,000 donated to a charity of his choice by the NFL Foundation and Nationwide. Should he win the NFL award, he will receive $250,000 donated to a charity of his choice. The winner will be announced during the Super Bowl in February 2021.

No member of the Titans has ever won the award and quarterback Warren Moon is the only player in franchise history to ever win, doing so in 1989. Baltimore Ravens defensive end Calais Campbell won the award last year when he was with the Jacksonville Jaguars.

"I think that's the total package that we're striving for, that all of us are striving for, to have some balance in our families, in our personal life, in our professional life, and then also what we're able to do to impact other people around the community and I know that's something that Kevin has done a lot of," Vrabel added.

SUPER DAD: TITANS SAFETY KEVIN BYARD EXPLAINS HOW HE DELIVERED HIS OWN SON AT FAMILY'S HOME

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
SEPTEMBER 16, 2020

NASHVILLE – Kevin Byard has made some clutch plays during the course of his playing career.

In the season opener at Denver, in fact, his forced fumble led to an early Titans touchdown.

But the 27-year-old made the play of his life last month when he delivered his own son, Kevin Leon Byard IV.

Yes, it's true. And on Wednesday, Byard went into great detail about how it happened while on a video conference call with reporters.

"It's one of those deals where we just couldn't make it to the hospital," Byard started off. "Obviously we weren't planning on having the baby at the house."

Byard said his wife, Clarke, started having mild contractions on the evening of August 23. Around 10:30 p.m., Byard's wife woke up and things escalated quickly. Then, she started having more severe contractions while on the bathroom floor. The child was due on August 24th.

"I kind of got up, I wasn't really panicking, but I scrambling to get some clothes on, helping her try to get dressed," Byard recalled. "Her mom was downstairs, so I called her up."

Byard then got the car ready, as Clarke Byard started moving around. Byard called the doula and said, "meet us at the hospital." But with things changing, it became, "meet us at the house."

With the doula on the speakerphone, the Byards provided updates. With the doula being 30 minutes away from the Byard's home, she provided instructions. The first: "Let's try and get her in the bathtub."

But by this time, Byard said his son's "head was already poking out." At this point, Byard said his wife was on her hands and knees.

"The (doula) said, "Tell her to start pushing, the baby is coming," Byard recalled. "His face was pointing upward, so I could see his face was real purple. I was nervous about that, so the doula told me to support his head."

About 10 or 15 minutes later, there was serious action.

"Once he got his head out, his shoulders and everything just kind of slipped out," Byard said. "And I kind of caught him in my arms. He waited about five seconds, he coughed about two or three times, and started crying."

Byard's wife remained on the floor, and an ambulance was called.

"We ended up getting the placenta out, cut the umbilical cord, and we headed to the hospital," Byard said. "All of this happened from 10:30 to 11:05. It was like a 30-minute period. Things kind of went fast."

Byard and his wife also have a one-year-old daughter, Eliana.

A former MTSU star and team captain who has recorded 17 interceptions in his NFL career, Byard knows he has a moment he'll never forget.

"That was probably the most memorable thing me and my wife have ever been through in our relationship other than getting married," Byard said. "That's a story I am going to tell my son for the rest of our days."

BEING PICKED BY TITANS A "DREAM COME TRUE" FOR S KEVIN BYARD

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
APRIL 30, 2016

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Kevin Byard already had the Titans hat.

And he could hardly wait to put it on. In the third round of Friday's NFL Draft, the Middle Tennessee State star got his chance as his NFL dream was realized in a big way.

"I kind of had it planned already," Byard said with a smile while speaking to reports on a conference call. "As soon as I hung up, I said, 'Give me my Titans hat. Titan up.'

"It's the greatest feeling in the world," Byard, who played 30 minutes down the road at MTSU, continued. "As soon as I heard the general manager's voice, it was just a whirlwind of madness from me. It is a dream come true. Just a few years ago I never thought I would be in this position. I just have to think the man upstairs."

Byard earned his draft position, Titans general manager Jon Robinson said.

Byard (5-11, 216) was an interception machine at MTSU, racking up 19 interceptions in four seasons. He displayed smarts on the field and off, something the Titans found out when they spent two hours with him on the MTSU campus recently.

It's why the team picked him 64th overall in the third round.

"Outstanding ball skills," Robinson said of Byard. "I think 19 interceptions speaks for itself, and he had 370-plus tackles as well. So he's a really productive football player, and he's a great guy. He is a captain, he is a (team-first guy). He embodies all the traits we are looking for. We think he can play free and strong, and he can play in the kicking game. He is really good with the ball in his hands when he picks it off."

Over the phone, Robinson could sense Byard's excitement.

"He is walking over now," Robinson said with a smile.

Byard racked up 66 tackles and four interceptions in 2015. With the Titans, he'll have a chance to compete for playing time, and potentially a starting spot, as a rookie.

Coach Mike Mularkey said the addition of Byard adds competition at the position, which he welcomes.

"This is what we want," Mularkey said. "Those guys that want to buy in and compete and do the things we are doing, those guys will be the players we're going to do our best to keep around here."

Byard watched the draft with his family. He was hoping the Titans would pick him. He said he watched Titans games every Sunday from the locker room while at MTSU. When he was selected, he said he got 100 text messages and "probably 30 missed calls."

"When they picked me, it was almost surreal," Byard said. "I am going to go in there and work as hard as anybody coming in. I am going to go in there and make an immediate impact on special teams, and I am going to go in there and try and fight for a starting job, that is my plan.

"I am glad the Titans picked me, and they made the best decision of the draft by picking me. I am excited and ready to go to work."

KEVIN BYARD

BYARD A RARITY: NFL INTERCEPTIONS LEADER, NOT A PRO BOWLER

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
NASHVILLE POST
JANUARY 3, 2018

There is nothing unique about the fact that Kevin Byard's eight interceptions were enough to get him to the top of the NFL for the just-completed 2017 season.

This is the 10th straight year that the league leader(s) finished with seven, eight or nine. The last time anyone had more than that was 2007, when Antonio Cromartie picked off 10 passes for San Diego.

What's odd is that Byard's eight picks were not enough to get him to the Pro Bowl.

The Tennessee Titans safety is just the second player in the past decade to lead or share the league lead in interceptions but not earn a spot in the NFL's annual all-star affair. The only other one was New England cornerback Kyle Arrington, one of three players who finished with seven picks in 2011.

Byard got to eight when he picked off two passes in Sunday's regular season finale against Jacksonville and shared the title with Detroit cornerback Darius Slay, who was selected to play for the NFC in this year's Pro Bowl later this month.

A rundown of the NFL's interception leaders (2008-17):

2017: Kevin Byard, Tennessee; Darius Slay, Detroit – 8

2016: Casey Hayward, San Diego – 7

2015: Reggie Nelson, Cincinnati; Marcus Peters, Kansas City – 8

2014: Glover Quin, Detroit – 7

2013: Richard Sherman, Seattle – 8

2012: Tim Jennings, Chicago – 9

2011: Charles Woodson, GB; Kyle Arrington, NE; Eric Weddle, SD – 7

2010: Ed Reed, Baltimore – 8

2009: Charles Woodson, GB; Darren Sharper, NO; Jarius Byrd, Buff; Asante Samuel, Phi. – 9

2008: Ed Reed, Baltimore – 9

"I told myself when I got snubbed that the only thing I can do is go out there and play to my highest level," Byard said Sunday. "And I got two (Sunday). So I'm leading the league. So they (have) to do a little bit more research when it comes to Pro Bowl picks and stuff like that."

It's possible that because Byard is just a second-year player, executives overlooked him (Byard won the fan votes, which accounted for one-third of the selection process). However, Kansas City's Marcus Peters was a rookie when he made it in 2015, when he shared the interception title with Cincinnati's Reggie Nelson.

Likewise, Byard does not yet have the reputation of some other recent interception leaders such as Richard Sherman, Charles Woodson and Ed Reed. Yet Sherman had not been a Pro Bowler before 2013, when he finished with a league-high eight picks. That year he made the first of four Pro Bowl appearances.

Then there is safety Glover Quin, who made it to the Pro Bowl once in nine NFL seasons. That was 2014, when he topped the league with seven interceptions.

Somehow, though, Byard was overlooked.

"He's a good football player, has a lot of confidence," coach Mike Mularkey said. "We all have a lot of confidence in (Byard). He deserves it. He shows if you do what you're asked to do and you're in the right place, good things happen and it continues to happen for him."

TITANS' TAYLOR LEWAN, KEITH CARTER FIND CONNECTION AFTER ROCKY START

BROADWAY SPORTS
MEDIA
AUGUST 7, 2021

It was not love at first sight.

That might be the easiest way to describe the early stages of the relationship between Titans left tackle Taylor Lewan and his offensive line coach, Keith Carter.

Truth be told, it's pretty easy to see – in retrospect – why the two took to one another like beer and firecrackers.

On the one side was the brash Lewan, who – in 2018, when Carter came aboard as part of Mike Vrabel's staff – was feeling pretty good about himself.

Just 26 years old at the time, Lewan was coming off a second straight Pro Bowl appearance, and the Titans were coming off their first playoff victory in 15 years. Much of the reason the team had produced back-to-back winning records had been Lewan and the offensive line. The group had helped DeMarco Murray pile up nearly 2,000 rushing yards during that stretch, while allowing just 28 sacks in 2016, 35 in 2017.

So why fix what wasn't broke?

Lewan had thrived under his former offensive line coach, Hall of Famer – and former “Hog” – Russ Grimm, who brought a low-key, laid-back leadership style to his position.

“Just kind of a relaxed guy, chillin’ all the time,” Lewan said of Grimm. “Maybe has a beer at 9 in the morning kind of dude, relaxing.”

It would have been difficult to find a more polar opposite for Grimm than Carter, a tightly wound, hyper-focused bundle of energy, whose playing career as a tight end had come to an end at UCLA in 2003 – the result of a motorcycle accident that left him with a fractured and dislocated right hip.

Just 35 years old at the time, Carter was – like Lewan – also feeling pretty good about himself, seemingly on the coaching fast track after being put in charge of an NFL offensive line for the first time in his career.

“I went in there full of piss and vinegar,” Carter said of the Titans job, “and ready to rock and roll.”

Predictably, this attitude did not go over well with Lewan, who hails from the John Mellencamp school of taking orders.

“I’ve never done a very good job with authority, and he’s definitely an authoritative figure,” Lewan said of Carter. “So that was a hard thing for me to handle and, you know, that’s just being as candid as possible.”

Added Carter: “I was the new guy, he was the veteran that’s been here. I wanted to change things, he wanted to keep (things the same). It’s the age-old story you’ve heard over and over.”

So it’s fair to say Lewan wasn’t clamoring for private tutoring sessions from Carter in the early going, nor would Carter have been a welcome guest on the famed Bussin’ With The Boys bus – if Lewan and Will Compton’s podcast had even been in existence back then.

“There were some moments,” Carter said. “We had some arguments and stuff, but it was never awful.”

Somewhere along the way, of course, Lewan began to slowly, grudgingly appreciate his new position coach. Sure, the no-nonsense, highly efficient Carter might push his linemen hard. Sure, Carter might challenge Vrabel for sheer number of F-bombs dropped on the practice field. But as intense as Carter was, he was also a very detailed technician. Even Lewan saw that.

“There was some resistance from me in the beginning of our relationship,” Lewan said. “I went scratching and clawing the whole way.”

But the fact is that Lewan did eventually buy in.

That was a huge win for the young offensive line coach because if his Pro Bowl left tackle wasn’t on board, how was Carter supposed to make inroads with the Titans’ other linemen? At the time, that group included the likes of Jack Conklin, Quinton Spain, Ben Jones and Dennis Kelly among others.

“It means everything,” Carter said of Lewan’s attitude change. “You needed the players that play at their best to believe in what you’re doing. Because everybody else will follow.”

More than three years into their relationship, the 30 year-old Lewan is now even more impressed by Carter’s work as a coach.

On Carter’s watch, Lewan went to another Pro Bowl in 2018, Nate Davis evolved into one of the league’s better guards, Kelly transformed from journeyman into effective starter, and back-ups Ty Sambrailo and David Quessenberry gave the Titans a huge boost filling in for injured starters last year.

The team’s offensive line has helped pave the way for Derrick Henry to run for 3,567 yards and 33 touchdowns over the last two seasons, while making huge strides in pass protection – surrendering only 25 sacks last year after a dismal 56 in 2019.

“I think his standard and what he’s held us to has shown a lot in the success we’ve had,” Lewan said of Carter. “I hate saying that out loud, but he was right, so I think I have a lot more appreciation for Keith and what he demands out of us. It’s allowed us to go out there and play the way we do as an offensive line.

It always takes two.

“There’s always a lot of things we can do better. But there’s a consistency of everyone wanting to get better every day. No one is coming out here and going through the motions. Keith won’t let that happen.”

And fittingly enough, Carter’s admiration for his 6-7, 309-pound left tackle, the one with the razor-sharp wit and the James Dean streak, has grown as well. When the Titans were without Lewan for most of last season, the team not only missed his talent – but his ever-charged battery as well.

“It’s 100 percent,” Carter said of the energy difference with and without Lewan. “I’ve said it before. He’s a big personality. He’s the life of the party, so to speak.

“So from an energy and juice standpoint, that’s really important. You need that. Because you get in these dog days of camp and stuff, it can kind of get mundane. You have those hump days, and so he’s a big help getting over those.”

How’s that for a mutual admiration society?

We don’t know whether things have progressed to the point that Lewan and Carter are sharing barbecue recipes or taking vacations together these days. But as Vrabel said Friday, it’s not about coach and player being best friends. Rather, it’s about being able to form a professional connection, one based on trust and a willingness to compromise.

That’s the point Lewan and Carter have reached.

“A lot of these players have great ideas and have done things a certain way and have been successful at it,” Vrabel said. “All we ask them to do is try to keep an open mind and be willing to change, and to improve and try to think about some new techniques. I think Taylor has done that, I think Keith has done that.”

NEW TITANS LONG SNAPPER MORGAN COX, A FOUR-TIME PRO BOWLER, EXCITED ABOUT RETURN TO TENNESSEE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MARCH 18, 2021

NASHVILLE – Morgan Cox is coming back to Tennessee, to join the Titans.

Cox, who played 11 seasons as the long snapper for the Baltimore Ravens, on Thursday agreed to terms on a one-year deal with the Titans.

A Collierville native who played at Evangelical Christian School and the University of Tennessee, Cox is regarded as one of the best long snappers in the NFL.

"It was a huge attraction for me," Cox said of returning to the state. "Getting to play high school ball in Memphis and college ball in Knoxville, it just seems fitting for me to come here. I am really excited. My phone has been blowing up ever since the news hit. I have been invested in the Titans for many years now – I remember when they came to town and they were playing in the Liberty Bowl back in the day and I came to games when I was in high school.

"I love this organization. This was an easy "yes" for me. As soon as I learned that they were interested, I was ecstatic just on that. And to get the news that we had finalized it was beyond. ... I am joining a great team already, and I am excited to see how I can help improve it."

Cox is a four-time Pro Bowler, and when the league added long snapper to this year's All-Pro ballot, Cox became the first honoree.

Cox, 34, joined the Ravens in 2010 as an undrafted rookie from Tennessee. He was released by the team earlier this offseason.

Cox has played in 165 games in his NFL career. Cox was a walk-on at the University of Tennessee before earning a scholarship prior to the 2008 season. He was the starting long snapper for Tennessee for the 2007, 2008, and 2009 seasons and he earned Academic All-SEC honors from 2006–2009.

With the Titans, he'll snap to Titans punter Brett Kern on punts, but the team's kicker for 2021 remains unclear.

Cox and Kern talked on FaceTime after Cox agreed to the deal, and they've already made plans to work on their chemistry together. Cox made the drive from Memphis to Nashville on Thursday to sign his new deal.

"I am excited to work with Brett," Cox said. "I've worked with him at the Pro Bowl, and I have already planned it out in my mind and stuff. So, I am excited to get together and get to work ... and I am excited about being in Tennessee and where we could go. I think the sky is the limit."

TENNESSEE TITANS' NFL FREE-AGENT SIGNINGS 2021: BUD DUPREE SHOULD HELP PASS RUSH

*BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM*

MARCH 15, 2021

NFL free agency is off and running, and we're keeping track of every major signing, trade and release of the 2021 offseason, with analysis from our NFL Nation reporters and grades from our experts. The new league year begins March 17 at 4 p.m. ET, which means free-agent signings can be made official after that. The first round of the 2021 NFL draft begins April 29 on ESPN.

The Titans have multiple roster needs that have to be addressed. Finding an impact pass-rusher tops the Titans' defensive needs list. Adding a game-changing defensive end/outside linebacker will likely take up most of their cap space that Tennessee has to work with.

The Titans could also use some help at the cornerback position, specifically at nickel. Wide receiver and tight end are the biggest needs for the Titans' offense. They'll need to find a kicker as well. Filling out the roster with limited cap space and 20 players that are set to become free agents won't be an easy task.

Here's a breakdown of every 2021 NFL free-agent signing by the Tennessee Titans, and how each will impact the upcoming season:

Bud Dupree, linebacker

The Titans have agreed to a deal with linebacker Bud Dupree, the former Steeler told ESPN's Jeremy Fowler on Monday. The deal will pay Dupree more than $16 million per year.

What it means: The Titans get much-needed pass-rush help by signing Dupree who had eight sacks in 11 games last season. Dupree had 11.5 sacks in 2019. The 6-foot-4, 269-pound outside linebacker complement's Harold Landry who is more of a speed rusher coming from the opposite side. Dupree's 24 tackles for loss over the last two seasons show he's capable of making plays behind the line of scrimmage which should help set up more third-and-long situations to allow the pass rush to go after the quarterback. The Titans allowed opposing offenses to convert on 51.8% of their third-down opportunities. That should change this season.

What's the risk: Dupree is coming off a torn ACL that occurred in Week 12 against the Baltimore Ravens. He told Fowler in early March he plans to be a full participant in an NFL training camp based on positive feedback from his doctors. The injury is a reason to be concerned, especially for a player that relies on his explosiveness to get a jump on the snap and rush the passer. The other thing to consider is whether or not Dupree will be successful without T.J. Watt on the opposite side. Dupree only posted 4.5 sacks in 2016 before Watt arrived.

Veteran Denico Autry has 30.5 sacks and 202 tackles in 96 games over seven seasons. Jeffrey Brown/Icon Sportswire

Denico Autry, defensive lineman

Autry agreed to a three-year deal with the Titans.

What it means: The Titans needed to add to their pass rush after struggling to sack the quarterback last season (19 sacks, ranked 30th). Titans GM Jon Robinson found a disruptive interior defender in Autry, who had 7.5 sacks last season with the Colts as a complement to DeForrest Buckner (9.5 sacks). Tennessee hopes to create a similarly disruptive tandem with Autry and third-year defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons. Autry created an additional five sacks last season and was double-teamed on 57.8% of his interior pass rushes.

Now that the Titans have the interior rush solidified, they can turn their attention to an impact defender who can rush the passer off the edge.

What's the risk: There really aren't any risks. At 30 years old, Autry had his second-best season last year with the Colts and that was next to Buckner. The Titans are banking on Autry's ability to be successful without Buckner as his running mate. It's not out of the question as Autry led the Colts with nine sacks in 2018. He finished with 3.5 sacks the year before Buckner arrived in Indianapolis. Autry will be 33 years old by the time his contract with the Titans expires.

Kendall Lamm, offensive tackle

What it means: Lamm gives the Titans a reserve tackle that can back up starters Taylor Lewan and Dennis Kelly. Tennessee will likely lose veteran tackle Ty Sambrailo to free agency so signing Lamm who is a year younger is a good move. Lamm comes to the Titans from the Browns who employ a similar zone-blocking scheme. Just for good measure, Lamm caught a one-yard pass for a touchdown for the Browns in their Week 13 win over the Titans last season. Under Mike Vrabel, the Titans have used numerous tackle-eligible plays that have resulted in offensive linemen catching touchdowns. Lamm could follow in the lines of Kelly and reserve tackle David Quessenberry.

What's the risk: There really aren't any risks to this deal. At 28-years-old, Lamm is a veteran tackle that can fill in if called upon. His $8.5 million salary over two years is a bargain for a reserve offensive lineman.

EDGE RUSHER BUD DUPREE ALL SMILES AFTER FIRST PRACTICE WITH TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
AUGUST 6, 2021

NASHVILLE – In the grand scheme of things, it was just one practice.

But for Titans edge rusher Bud Dupree, it was a start.

"Everybody said: Welcome back," Dupree said after his first practice with the Titans on Friday. "(My teammates are) excited, just like I am excited. I haven't played football since December, so it is exciting for me just to be able to do the things I am doing right now. It is fun. I love this game, and I am excited to be on the Titans."

Dupree, signed back in March, practiced for the first time – on the team's eighth practice of training camp – after being taken off the team's Physically Unable to Perform list earlier in the day.

Decked out in No.48, with red socks, red gloves, and a red sleeve on his right arm, Dupree went through individual drills, and he worked in other periods as well. Dupree said coaches and trainers are deciding on how much he does as he works his way back from the torn ACL he suffered last season while with the Steelers.

It was a different look for Dupree, who wore black and gold with the Steelers since being drafted in the first round of the 2015 NFL Draft.

"It' different, but it's fun," said Dupree, who started 66 games and he posted 39.5 sacks, 231 tackles, 54 tackles for loss, an interception return for a touchdown and 65 quarterback hits in six seasons in Pittsburgh. "Change of color doesn't mean anything. You just have to go out there and embrace your new atmosphere, embrace your new team and put everything else behind you."

Dupree, 28, recorded eight sacks in 11 games in 2020 before suffering the season-ending knee injury and he also posted 31 tackles, 8 tackles for loss and 15 quarterback hits.

Dupree posted a career-high 11.5 sacks in 2019 with 17 quarterback hits and 16 tackles for loss. Dupree's 19.5 sacks over the past two seasons rank eighth and his six strip sacks rank fourth in the NFL since 2019.

During the offseason, Dupree rehabbed in both Arizona and Atlanta, and also in Nashville. The Titans placed him on PUP at the start of camp, and he's spent the past 10 days working inside and outside at Saint Thomas Sports Park with trainers, while attending meetings.

As Dupree edges closer to being 100 percent, he knows the biggest question centering him now is: Will he be ready for Week 1?

"God willing, I am," Dupree said with a smile. "I am working hard to be able to be in a position to play whenever they need me to play. If they want me to play Week 1, if they want me to play Week 2, if they want me to play Week 3, 4, or 5, it doesn't matter. But I know mentally and physically I am going to be ready."

"So I am just going to put everything on them to allow me to know when I'll be suiting up."

DARRYNTON EVANS

OAK HILL TO THE NFL: ROOKIE DARRYNTON EVANS IS A BIG TALENT FROM A SMALL TOWN

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
MAY 13, 2020

Editor's note: This is the third in a six-part series on the Tennessee Titans' 2020 NFL Draft picks. John Glennon's story on Isaiah Wilson and Joe Rexrode's story on Kristian Fulton were published earlier this week.

Situated between Daytona and Cocoa Beach on Florida's Atlantic Coast, Darrynton Evans' hometown of Oak Hill doesn't carry quite the marquee name of the Sunshine State's hot spots.

It's so under-the-radar, in fact, that the town is one of very few on Florida's east coast without its own exit on Interstate 95.

You really want to get to Oak Hill? Take the exit to one of its big neighbors — Edgewater or Titusville — and start working your way through the back roads. But don't blink. Oak Hill's population stood at 1,792 as of the last census, and if you're not careful, you'll blow through town before you know it.

"It's, umm, really small," Evans said. "We have one blinking light, one Dollar General store, one gas station and then a flea market."

Those who know football, however, are becoming increasingly familiar with the little town, which — just in case you were wondering — also marks the end of Florida's 156-mile "River of Lakes Heritage Corridor." Evans will be one of two NFL players from Oak Hill in 2020, joining safety D'Cota Dixon, who spent last season, his first in the league, on injured reserve with the Buccaneers.

Evans and Dixon attended New Smyrna High School, which has also recently produced Raheem

Mostert, who led the NFC champion 49ers in rushing last season, and linebacker Cole Holcomb, who piled up 105 tackles as a Washington Redskins rookie.

Mostert, who played for five teams in his first two seasons in the league, has found a home in San Francisco. He was among the first to reach out to Evans on social media during the draft, tweeting three simple words: "We built different!" It was a message that celebrated the New Smyrna talent pipeline, and — perhaps — served to acknowledge that Evans may turn out to be the best of the bunch.

"You guys in Tennessee got a great pick in Darrynton, and you're in for a real treat," said Mostert, who ran for 220 yards and four touchdowns in last season's NFC Championship Game victory.

"He's got that same underdog mentality as I do, always having that chip on his shoulder and wanting to go out and prove himself when people doubt him. He's really something special, and I can't wait to see him take off."

"We had our fingers crossed"

Justin Watts knows the way to Oak Hill.

As the recruiting coordinator at Appalachian State, Watts is tasked with discovering those hidden gems who have managed to elude the Power 5 conferences for one reason or another.

Watts first met Evans at New Smyrna High in 2015. He expected to find a back who was a little too small to excite the bigger programs. He was pleasantly surprised when he first spotted Evans in the weight room.

"At our level, you kind of expect to see a slighter-built athlete, but Darrynton was built a lot better and was a lot more powerful looking than I expected," Watts said. "Then you start watching a little film of him, and you see what speed he had and how explosive he was."

What Watts also saw were intangibles such as effort and determination, a possible byproduct of a little-brother syndrome. Evans and Eugene Mostert, Raheem's younger brother, competed for years with their big brothers despite an age difference of about half a decade.

"(Darrynton) was definitely one of those kids that wanted to play with the big boys," Mostert recalled. "He felt like he was too advanced to play with the smaller kids, and he wanted to get better by playing with us. I was the same way growing up. I wanted to prove myself against the big dogs. That's the mindset you had to have down there."

Watts was confident he'd found a talent in Evans. But he had to sweat out the next several months, hoping Evans wouldn't attract too much attention and earn an offer from a Power 5 school. The palms of the Appalachian State coaching staff grew especially sweaty when Evans turned in a strong performance at the University of North Carolina's camp. But the Tar Heels were looking for backs with more size than Evans, who weighed about only 170 pounds at the time.

"The way he competed at that (North Carolina) camp with the so-called bigger names and bigger stars, we thought he outshined all of them," Appalachian State head coach Shawn Clark said. "We thought he was the best one in camp that day. So we had our fingers crossed hoping North Carolina wouldn't offer. When they didn't, we went full speed ahead."

Conquering the Cube

Appalachian State's coaches were at first uncertain where to use Evans, who had experience as a running back and wide receiver. At the time, the Mountaineers were loaded in the backfield with Marcus Cox, the school's all-time leading rusher, and future NFL player Jalin Moore.

But Clark, who was then the team's offensive coordinator, knew he had to find some way to get Evans involved. That much was clear when Evans was running conditioning sprints after practice — and finishing 5 to 10 yards ahead of nearly everyone else.

“I still remember on day one of fall camp when (Evans) was a freshman. I saw him take a little bubble screen and go about 80 yards for a touchdown,” Clark said. “I mentioned to (former Appalachian State head coach) Scott Satterfield, ‘I don’t care where he plays, just get the ball to him, especially at running back. Because he can make an offensive line look very good.’”

It wasn’t just Evans’ skills as an athlete, however, that impressed the coaching staff in the early going. An honor roll student in high school, Evans threw himself into the mental side of the game as well. He didn’t just play the game — he studied it.

“He wasn’t the usual kind of freshman, coming in and trying to find his way through,” Clark said. “He was picking the brains of coaches. I was coaching the offensive line, and we’d sit down and talk about protection schemes, the run game, where you want the ball to hit.”

That sounds like the inquisitive nature of a youngster who made quick work of the Rubik’s Cube in high school. True story: Inspired by a member of the swim team who solved it, Evans and five of his New Smyrna teammates bought their own cubes and set up a competition — with a tasty reward for the victor.

“We decided whoever could solve it the fastest gets a meal from every other person,” Evans said. “So I ended up getting it done about two or 2 1/2 days later. I had free meals for a week, basically. It was nice.”

‘Lit up like a Christmas tree’

Most of Evans’ contributions as a freshman came on special teams — he returned 25 kicks, one for a touchdown — and he redshirted the following season because of an injury. By 2018, Evans was shredding Sun Belt defenses, averaging 6.6 yards per carry on the way to a conference-best 1,187 rushing yards.

It was just before the 2019 season, Evans’ final year at Appalachian State, that he found himself flooded by a family concern. His mother, Evelyn, was diagnosed in July with stage 1 endometrial cancer, a form of the disease that begins in the uterus. The same jovial and enthusiastic mom, who’d been in the stands for nearly every game of his career, would be forced to undergo surgery to remove the cancer.

“It hit me hard,” Evans said. “But at the same time, my mom and the rest of the family were so positive about it. She just gave it to God and that helped me. Really, she wasn’t too concerned about herself. She was more concerned about not being there for my games.”

On Oct. 31, Evelyn, only months removed from successful surgery, was back cheering for her youngest son. The retired Florida Department of Corrections probation officer, along with her husband, Darry, made the 600-mile trek up from Oak Hill, supporting Darrynton on a snowy Halloween night in Boone, N.C.

“He just lit up like a Christmas tree,” Clark said of Evans, “and it was a beautiful thing to watch.”

By season’s end, Evans had piled up 1,480 rushing yards and 18 touchdowns on the ground, adding five touchdown catches on just 21 receptions. One of the more impressive stats the 5-foot-10, 203-pound Evans compiled: Over the course of his final two seasons, he totaled 11 runs of 50 yards or more.

Where did Evans develop the kind of speed that enabled him to run a 4.4 40-yard dash at the NFL Scouting Combine? In little Oak Hill, of course, playing with the big boys.

“I was always playing with those older guys from Pop Warner through high school, and I had to find some kind of advantage to help me keep pace and play with everyone,” Evans said. “I had to find my niche and what I could do, where I could get on the field and produce. So speed has been there. I would say I just did it in college on a bigger stage.”

‘Those guys couldn’t cover him’

So now Evans must prepare himself for the NFL, the biggest stage of all.

And, thanks to the Appalachian State staff, he got a head start last fall. Every year, the Mountaineer coaches study one NFL offense and incorporate some of its principles into their own playbook. It just so happened that App State chose the Titans prior to the 2019 season.

“I don’t think there will be much teaching because he understands it,” Clark said. “I think that should make it an easy transition for him.”

While hulking Derrick Henry is still expected to get the bulk of the Titans’ carries this season, the team’s hope is that Evans can provide a change-up — a blazer who can fly past defenses that get accustomed to Henry’s power. In addition, Evans is likely to have plenty of opportunities as a third-down receiver. Sure, he only caught 21 passes in the Mountaineers’ ground-based attack last year, but Evans does show promise as a pass catcher.

“We could have him in the backfield, shift to empty and put him on a linebacker,” Clark said. “It didn’t matter whether it was Penn State, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina or Coastal Carolina. It was the same result. Those guys couldn’t cover him in space.

“He’s just a guy that does a great job understanding what you’re trying to get done on offense, whether it’s the run or pass protections. He saved us many times on protections because he just knew where the hot guy was coming from. He took a hit off the quarterback. It was just very impressive to watch him do that.”

DARRYNTON EVANS

We'll let Mostert, Evans' fellow New Smyrna alum, offer up a final juicy NFL scouting report.

"He brings a lot of unique ability in the passing game," Mostert said. "He's more like Alvin Kamara coming out of the backfield, able to catch and also take jet sweeps and do all that type of stuff. He's not just one-dimensional. He can definitely do multiple things."

High praise and high expectations?
Correct on both counts.

But who knows? If Evans can live up to those kinds of standards, he might just earn Oak Hill an exit all its own one day.

TITANS RB DARRYNTON EVANS GETTING UP TO SPEED IN SECOND YEAR WITH TEAM

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MAY 29, 2021

NASHVILLE – Darrynton Evans is used to doing things fast – he was once clocked at a 4.36 in the 40 while in college at Appalachian State.

While Evans maybe didn't know it – or appreciate it – at the time, he thinks slowing down during his rookie season with the Titans in 2020 was beneficial.

And he hopes it will help him moving forward.

"Getting hurt last year was probably one of the best things for me," Evans said on Thursday. "It gave me time to sit down and reflect on everything on the field, where now I see things a lot different."

Evans found this out the hard way. The talented running back played in just five games last season because of injuries. He carried the ball just 14 times for 54 yards, with two catches for 27 yards and a score. He also contributed on special teams.

A third round (93rd overall) pick in the 2019 NFL Draft, the 5-foot-10, 203-pound Evans posted 4,642 all-purpose yards at Appalachian State, with 34 career touchdowns. In 2019, Evans produced 2,064 all-purpose yards with 1,480 rushing, 198 as a receiver and 386 on kickoff returns.

"It is kind of hard to say you didn't get frustrated, definitely when you want to be out there on the field," Evans said. "You worked hard, but you aren't able to showcase anything. It is definitely tough. But at the same time, you have to be able to keep a level head, because if you don't it's not going to get any better."

The Titans want to see Evans take a big step in 2021, and it's starting this offseason.

Evans was very active in Thursday's OTA. In addition to working at running back, he also worked with the receivers in individual drills as the team explores his abilities.

Chances are the experiment was done to expand his skills as a threat out of the backfield, but as they say, the more you can do ...

"I don't know where he's going to line up right now, but I know that Darrynton has been a versatile player," Titans Coach Mike Vrabel said of Evans. "I know he dealt with some injuries in his first year. I would say that he's a player that we're excited about, and (he) has some versatility. He worked (at receiver Thursday), and those are ideas that we try to have. (We) try to get him some cross training work, and a lot of those players that can handle more than one particular role, then we'll continue to add those roles to them, and I'd say Darrynton would be one of those players."

Evans plans to use the OTAs, and this offseason, as a chance to prepare himself for bigger and better things in 2021 in a running backs room that features Derrick Henry. He's asking more questions, even though he has a much better understanding of the playbook.

This time last year, because of the pandemic, Evans was working out in Florida, not with his coaches and teammates in organized team activities.

The time on the practice field this offseason should help him, no matter how he's used by the team.

"Wherever coach Vrabel tells me to go, that's where I am going to go," Evans said. "If he wants me to play tight end and get some reps there, I'm going to go there. If he wants me to go o-line, I'll end up going there."

"Really, I am just excited to go wherever I can to help the team and try and contribute – that's my main thing, to try and contribute this year and help the team advance."

HOW CHASING HORSES, COUNTRY LIFE SHAPED TITANS' RASHAAN EVANS

ESPN.COM
JUNE 21, 2018

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Aladdin is much faster than you, but maybe one day you'll catch him. That thought ran through Tennessee Titans linebacker Rashaan Evans' head day after day, week after week, year after year while growing up on his family's ranch in the deep country woods of Auburn, Alabama.

The Evans brothers essentially had a farm lifestyle, living on 5 acres of open land with unfenced woods covering much more ground. They raised chickens, ducks, rabbits, birds, dogs, cats, other foreign animals and even hosted coyotes that would sometimes kill the chickens. It was here that Evans fell in love with nature. He has a special affinity for horses that began when he and his brother, Alex, participated in equestrian events as youngsters.

But chasing a horse is unusual. Alex, a year-and-a-half younger than Rashaan, is the animal aficionado of the family. He brought the idea to Rashaan when the two were in fourth and fifth grade, respectively. Rashaan looked at him like he had two heads. Alex saw it as fun and exercise. He knew the family's handful of Arabian horses, known for endurance, ran up to 30-35 miles per hour.

"That sounded dangerous: to run behind a horse? A horse is a powerful animal. It could kill you. I thought he was crazy," Rashaan said. "But I tried it one day. Everything went good. We kept doing it. I enjoyed it. I actually got a little faster."

Alex, the only one of the two to catch a horse, added: "When you're having fun, you don't realize it but it's great conditioning and speed training. We ran with them for about 45 minutes every day from grade school through high school. If you can imagine running full speed for that long, you get a good bit of workout in."

Eleven years later, Evans points to his horse-chasing and country upbringing as key reasons why he was the Titans' first-round selection and hand-picked future leader of the defense. He says his unique hobby and lifestyle made him faster and tougher. His experiences growing up made him ready for everything the NFL will throw at him.

"We're not going to ask you to chase any horses," Titans general manager Jon Robinson joked to the former Alabama linebacker one day after drafting him.

Robinson and Titans coach Mike Vrabel visited Alabama's pro day in March to scout Evans and several other Alabama prospects. In a group of alpha males, former five-star high school recruits and future NFL stars, Evans clearly stood out.

"You could see his leadership in the room, the command that he had in that room," Robinson said. "He kind of had an old-soul feel about him."

The old-soul reference made Evans laugh. It isn't new. He's heard it his whole life, whether in reference to his determined approach to football or jokes about him being a bald 21-year-old man. He's just glad Robinson loves him for who he is.

"I am an old soul, that describes me well. A lot of people say I'm ahead of the curve in my generation. That's how I was raised up in the country," Evans said. "My mom was constantly harping on making sure you do the right thing, make sure you're respectful, make sure you clean up the bed. She believed that translated in life. It paid off."

Vrabel believes Evans can become one of the Titans' leaders, even as a rookie. Robinson drafted Evans to be a core piece of a championship team. There is a long list of star Alabama linebackers who have set a standard of physicality and NFL success. Expectations are huge for this country kid who loved to chase horses, but he appears unfazed.

"I must accept that challenge. The head of the organization is looking at me to be the guy to tell everybody else what they have to do. It's a big responsibility because you have to be doing right, too," said Evans. "You have to earn your teammates' trust. You have to live a certain standard. It's not for everybody. But I embrace it."

It won't be the first time Evans is presented with a big challenge at the start of a new journey. Four years ago, Evans chose to attend college at Alabama, snubbing Auburn on signing day, which shocked his community and left his family's business threatened and created plenty of trouble for them.

Going to Auburn was an Evans expectation. His father, Alan, was a star running back at Auburn. His mom, Chenavis, received four degrees from Auburn, including her doctorate. His older sister was an Auburn cheerleader. His uncle is a vice president at Auburn. His cousins all went to Auburn.

"We just have an Auburn family. We went to Auburn High. We lived in Auburn our whole lives," said Alex, who chose to follow his brother and run track at Alabama. "To switch from Auburn to Alabama was a big shocker to the community and our family. We made the best of it. The cream always rises to the top."

Rashaan didn't take the easy way. He picked what was best for him -- Alabama. He took the process slow, went through every possible outcome and accepted all the negative reaction in stride. He says how he handled that difficult situation is one of the proudest moments of his life.

"Everything ain't fruit and berries. You gotta work for everything you get," Evans said. "You're going to have to make some big-man decisions, life-changing decisions. That was one of my first ones. I felt like, 'I'm a man now.'"

Now he's the newest, important man in Tennessee. So important that he'll be chasing quarterbacks and running backs, not horses, now.

TITANS TEAMMATES KEVIN BYARD, RASHAAN EVANS SEE REASONS FOR HOPE IN SEARCH FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
JUNE 11, 2020

NASHVILLE – The death of George Floyd will always be painful to watch.

It's equally heartbreaking, and sickening.

Unfortunately, similar scenes have played out too many times over the years.

This time, the hope is it will lead to change, and those pushing for it include Titans safety Kevin Byard, linebacker Rashaan Evans, and quarterback Ryan Tannehill, who all spoke on the subjects of police brutality and social injustice during a Zoom conference call on Wednesday.

"I've watched police brutality and I've watched guys being killed on TV, if it's black or whatever, for a long time," Byard said. "I don't really like to watch it. I don't like to see that coming down on my timeline. I try to stay away from it as much as possible. But at the end of the day you can't help it when you put the TV on and see different things. At the end of the day, my heart goes out to everyone, my heart goes out to all the victims and the families. I just hope and pray that one day while I'm raising my daughter, and I have the conversation with her about police brutality or just growing up being black in America, that conversation is a lot better than what it is right now."

Kevin Byard Reacts to Civil Unrest In United States

All three players say they have been encouraged by what has happened in the wake of Floyd's death in Minneapolis, which occurred when police officer Derrick Chauvin kneeled on Floyd's neck for more than eight minutes.

Floyd's death has led to more conversations across the world, and awareness, and a lot of that is happening through protests.

"It's globally that people are bringing awareness to something like this," Evans said. "You're talking about not just in the United States, you're talking about in Germany, Italy. ... Watching on my TV screen, I saw many people many cultures, many colors, literally come together for one cause. I thought that was the most beautiful thing I've ever seen in my life. I've never seen this many people take this matter and take it in their own to really be able to bring awareness about it.

"To have that many people take that to heart and be able to protest about that, I think it's a big step to just in the future, just in general with the world. I feel like people now are starting to be more and more gentle with each other. I feel like we definitely need to be more gentle with each other with the things that we say and how we treat each other."

Titans head coach Mike Vrabel said last week he's had a number of conversations with players in the wake of Floyd's death.

Tannehill said he's tried to educate himself over the years so he would have a better understanding of what his black teammates have experienced and he said "it's really shocking what guys have been through."

Rashaan Evans: I am Ready to Play, Ready to Go

"We're dealing with a big issue right now that has plagued our country for a long, long time," Tannehill said. "Some really good conversations are going on right now, and I think the progress our country is making is headed in the right direction slowly but there's still a long, long way to go. This is not a short-lived awareness thing -- it is something that is going to have to go on a long time to get to where we need to be with justice and equality."

In time, Byard hopes the world will be a better place.

"I'm happy that the awareness and the stuff that is going on around the country right now today is happening," Byard said. "I honestly feel like we're in a monumental time in our history just with the level of consciousness, and everybody not necessarily waking up, but just understanding that like I said all lives matter and different things like that. I would just say that for anybody that's trying to understand what black people are going through or trying to figure out what they can do in this situation is just have empathy. Have empathy as human beings to understand that everybody goes through struggles, not just black people, everybody goes through struggles. Just understand to be more empathetic and be more humane.

"Everybody's lives should mean equally as everybody else's no matter what your skin color is, what you look like, no matter what. That's definitely how I feel about that. I support everybody peacefully protesting all racial injustice all around the world, police brutality, social injustice, systemic racism, everything. That's kind of how I feel about that."

FORMER ALABAMA

BY HAILEY SUTTON
WSFA 12 NEWS
AUGUST 16, 2020

LOACHAPOKA, Ala. (WSFA) - "When you go to sleep at night, if your dreams are not big enough to where you just want to jump out of your bed in the middle of the night, they're not big enough."

That was the message shared with the Loachapoka football team Friday morning as they gathered outside for a "special surprise. Thanks to Tennessee Titans linebacker Rashaan Evans, the program feels like they are a little bit closer to achieving those dreams.

"Today was a great day," said Loachapoka head coach Frederick Newton. "To see my kids smile the way they did, especially during this pandemic and what's going on, it just brings my heart up."

The Indians were gifted two different pairs of cleats to wear during games this season, along with gloves and other important equipment.

Evans and his foundation, the Razor Foundation, donated more than $40,000 worth of equipment to the players, a gift that some of them have never received.

"Nobody has ever given us nothing like this before, so it feels good to get something for the community," said senior linebacker and running back Brandon Bedgood. "Me and my teammates - some of us have never had stuff like this, so it feels good to get this stuff."

For them to come out and do that for us when they didn't have to, it was just great to see that," added Newton. "If you saw those kids over there looking at the shoes and everything, like I told someone earlier, it's like Christmas in August."

RASHAAN EVANS

Rashaan was unable to be at the high school because of coronavirus restrictions, but even 280 miles away, he was still overwhelmed at the impact his donation made.

"It means everything. That's the biggest thing about doing what I do and the things that I live by, is trying to inspire as many people as I come across, and change as many lives as I can," said Rashaan. "I can only being in that situation where some of these guys have nothing. They have no shirt on their own backs, so to be able to have the opportunity to give shoes and some of the other gear, it definitely was a good thing for me to do."

His father, Alan, who helps out with the Razor Foundation echoed those sentiments; and is proud that his son is finding ways to make an impact in local communities.

"Him having the opportunity to play in the NFL, and make the kind of money he makes, and then to be able to give back some of what he has earned, it makes me feel good as a father because he could be doing a lot of other things with his money," said Alan. "He could be buying a Ferrari, or he could be doing something else with it, but he decided he wanted to give a portion of the proceeds of his earnings back to the community."

"I think it was a beautiful thing from some of the pictures I've seen, which really made me feel good because at the end of the day, you play football, you get all these accolades and achievements, but the number one thing is what have you done at the end of the day for other people, and I feel like this opportunity is one that was given to me, especially to do it for some kids and a community who needed it," added Rashaan.

No matter how uncertain the 2020 football season is, the Evans family hopes their donation will inspire more players to have their dreams keep them up at night.

"It motivates me a lot because we play the same position, so I feel like if he can do it, I can do it, too if I put in the same work," said Bedgood.

"To see [The Evans family], hopefully when I go in and speak to [the team] about what this meant to us, and get their opinion on what this meant to them, this hopefully will open up dreaming to them also," said Newton. "So they can be the next Rashaan Evans."

The Razor Foundation also donated gear to the Loachapoka boys and girls basketball teams last November.

CALEB FARLEY

DOUBT TENNESSEE TITANS' CALEB FARLEY AT YOUR OWN RISK. HIS MOTIVATION COMES FROM LATE MOTHER

BY GEORGE ROBINSON
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 30, 2021

It doesn't take long to realize the kind of player the Tennessee Titans selected with the 22nd pick in the 2021 NFL Draft on Thursday.

Caleb Farley isn't interested in talking about the injuries he has suffered, including his two back surgeries and a knee injury before college. His recent positive COVID-19 test result is of no mind, and his decision to opt out of the 2020 college football season at Virginia Tech has already been discussed ad nauseam.

Farley is a Titan. And that's enough for him.

Would have been enough for his late mother, too.

"I was telling my mother I was going to be a first-round draft pick when I was like 7 years old," he said. "I hope she's smiling down on me from the sky."

Any physical obstacles Farley has faced through football pale in comparison to the loss of his mother, Robin, to breast cancer in 2018.

The memories of conversations he had with her as a child are still fresh, and his thoughts drifted to her when the Hickory, North Carolina, native heard his name called Thursday.

"She always believed in me," he said.

Robin was diagnosed with cancer in 2009 and endured two years of chemotherapy and radiation. For a while it looked like she had beaten the disease. But the cancer returned aggressively and invaded her bones.

"After some time it started to wear on her," Caleb's father, Robert Farley, told The Tennessean. "I think Caleb accepted what happened because he knew that his mother had faithfully lived the life she wanted to live. She didn't die in regret."

Robin died without seeing her son play college football.

She attended every game from the time he began playing little league at 7 through his high school career at Maiden High School in North Carolina, where he starred as a quarterback.

Caleb tore the ACL and MCL ligaments in one of his knees prior to arriving at Virginia Tech in 2017. He took a redshirt his first year on campus, and was moved to wide receiver. Months later, in January 2018, Robin died with her family, including Caleb, by her side.

"He never once thought about not playing football after his mother's death," Robert said. "He's always been committed to it. His mom encouraged that commitment. I mean it was difficult on all of us and it took some time to adjust but Caleb pours himself into football. He loves it that much."

Football is Caleb's love, but family has been the foundation. It's the reason why he decided to opt out last fall despite coming off a 2019 year in which he led the ACC in passes defended (16) and finished with four interceptions as a converted cornerback.

It was a risky move. He was the first high-profile college football player to make that decision, and some questioned whether it would hurt his rising draft stock.

"Yeah, it's just frustrating," Farley said about having to answer questions about his health. "It gets to the point where you want a team to draft you, that believes in you, and if you don't believe in me, then play against me."

"Caleb opted out because of his concern with COVID," Robert said. "It was as simple as that. It had nothing to do with his injuries. He wasn't hurt. You have to understand, we were still learning about the short- and long-term effects of this virus. He didn't want to risk his health or possibly the health of his family members."

Caleb maintained a strength and conditioning schedule last fall. Despite not seeing the field in 2020, his instincts and ability in man coverage were enough to convince NFL scouts. The Titans felt his 6-foot-2, 207-pound frame and athletic skillset at cornerback — a position of need — were too good to pass up.

"He's long and I think (man coverage) is something they did a lot of at Virginia Tech," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said. "Those guys were manned up outside without a whole lot of help. He's coming from a very aggressive scheme that puts a lot of pressure on those guys on the outside."

Farley was invited to attend the draft in Cleveland on Thursday, but a positive COVID-19 test result earlier in the week prevented him from attending.

Farley was tested again Thursday and that result came back negative, he said. But the questions about his health remain. And so will the memories of his late mother, and the motivation she gave him to overcome any obstacles en route to the NFL.

"When coach called me to tell me I was going to be a Tennessee Titans, the first thing out of my mouth was 'When can I get the playbook?'," Caleb said. "I'm extremely excited to get back on the field and rep these colors."

AFTER LOSING HIS MOM TO CANCER, TITANS' CALEB FARLEY LEANED ON FAITH TO HELP REALIZE HIS NFL DREAM

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
MAY 14, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Robert Farley was sitting at a card table playing spades when his phone rang. His son Caleb was on the other end and burst into tears as he began to explain that he just tore the ACL in his knee.

Caleb was then a freshman wide receiver at Virginia Tech and thought his playing career was in jeopardy.

"OK, it's all right," Robert said, recalling that 2017 conversation. "No, baby, the advancement with medicine and everything they have going now, they'll have you back in no time. You still have your career ahead of you."

Robert was right. Caleb, who developed into a top cornerback prospect, was taken by the Tennessee Titans at No. 22 in the 2021 NFL draft.

The knee injury turned out to be a blessing in disguise. Not playing afforded Caleb opportunities to travel back to Maiden, North Carolina, to spend time with his mother, Robin. She was being treated for a second bout with cancer. She was first diagnosed with breast cancer when Caleb was in junior high, but it went into remission after two years of treatment.

But the cancer returned and this time it was too much -- Robin died when she was just 53 years old. But what Caleb learned from his mother's struggles with cancer ultimately strengthened his faith and prepared him to deal with his own health challenges that laid ahead before he could realize his NFL dream.

According to Robert, his wife never asked why God allowed her, a faithful person, to get sick. Despite the bad days that came from chemotherapy treatments, Robin made sure it wasn't obvious how much she was struggling.

Robin's strength and steadfastness to her faith while enduring such a trying fight left an impression on Caleb, underscoring the importance of having a close relationship with God.

"I can say that was the start of me maturing in my faith," Caleb said. "I've always been built up in the scriptures and known what you should and shouldn't do. It wasn't as intimate or as pure of a relationship as it could have been.

"When I saw my mother go through that and believe that she could be healed and then I saw it come back and kill her, it hurt my faith in the beginning. But I believe you have to serve the Lord when it's good and bad. I made the decision that I was going to trust God. I would be lost without him."

Working through the loss of his mother was a test, but Caleb knew his mother would want him to press onward toward his goal of being a professional football player -- something he wanted to do since he was little.

Like many young kids, Caleb was told his NFL goals weren't realistic. But his mother was always the one telling him he could do whatever he put his mind to doing.

"My mother had a crazy belief in me and things that I could do," Caleb said

Robert added: "It was all about his little will. He was so determined at such a young age."

Caleb was a star quarterback at Maiden High School, passing for 1,776 yards and 21 touchdowns and rushing for 2,574 yards and 37 touchdowns as a senior. But after enrolling at Virginia Tech, he became a wide receiver. Then came the knee injury that ended his freshman season.

That will Robert noticed in Caleb at an early age was put to the test when he changed positions again, this time converting to cornerback before the 2018 season.

But Caleb quickly found success. He notched two interceptions and a sack against Florida State in his first start at corner. Then in 2019, Caleb established himself as one of the best cornerbacks in the country when he posted four interceptions, one of which he returned for a touchdown, along with 12 passes defended.

Then adversity struck again.

Caleb suffered a herniated L5 disk and bulged S1 joint while doing a deadlift exercise. The injury caused him to miss the final two games of the 2019 season. He had a discectomy performed on the L5 in February 2020 and was advised to let the bulged S1 heal on its own.

Next came another curveball: The COVID-19 pandemic, which complicated things even more because of the uncertainty surrounding the college football season. Caleb understood how much another year of experience would bolster his draft stock.

Robert thought another season would solidify Caleb as the best corner in the 2021 draft class.

"I knew that if he came out of college playing another year, he was going to grow by leaps and bounds," Robert said. "I knew if he played another year, it would be without question that he was something special, something you don't see often."

But Caleb's mind was on his family. Having lost his mother already, he was not about to put his father at risk by exposing him to COVID. He wasn't comfortable with how procedures were being followed at Virginia Tech. In July, he made a decision to opt out of the 2020 season.

Here is former Virginia Tech CB Caleb Farley's announcement that he is opting out of the college football season to train and turn pro, sent to ESPN: pic.twitter.com/5j4FmQvGKy

— Adam Schefter (@AdamSchefter) July 29, 2020

"My faith taught me to be smart and cautious," Caleb said. "I had to identify and target what was disturbing my peace. With everything going on with my living arrangements, I couldn't see me playing being the best decision. I had to be cautious and protect my father."

Robert wanted Caleb to play, but understood his reasoning. He didn't want Caleb to carry that weight on his shoulders, so he supported the decision.

Caleb was still widely projected to be top-10 draft pick, but adversity found its way back into the picture.

The bulged S1 was still causing Caleb discomfort when training for his pro day. He elected to have a microdiscectomy in March, which kept him from being able to perform at his pro day, where he could have showcased his speed and athleticism for NFL personnel executives and scouts.

Suddenly a player who was a likely top-10 pick was projected to go in the latter half of the first round. But Caleb remained positive and maintained his faith that everything would work out. This was what all of the other obstacles he faced prepared him for.

"For him to have endured that and went through that adversity, there could not have been any bigger adversity that he could have faced," Robert said. "He faced that and moved past it. The rest of it is just small matters."

But there was one more twist in store for Caleb: The NFL invited him to Cleveland for the draft, but he was unable to attend when he tested positive for COVID.

pic.twitter.com/TCLWNde6lx

— Caleb 🏆 (@IamCalebFarley) April 28, 2021

Instead of traveling to Cleveland to celebrate, the Farleys spent the day at Robert's home. Caleb tested negative the morning of the draft, but the family celebrated in separate rooms to be safe. Caleb was in his father's living room by himself while everyone else was in the garage.

Caleb says he views what happened to him over the past year as a chance to prove his faith and not take anything for granted.

"This whole situation has been eye-opening," Caleb said. "I've gotten closer to my family and to God. I am just thankful to wake up every day and breathe air and still have football and carry out my dreams."

He remains confident he will be ready to play when the Titans report for training camp and says he's felt great since the day he had the surgery in March. Caleb laughed as he reflected on how he woke up from surgery and walked out a day later to jump on a flight from Los Angeles to Virginia to attend the Hokies' pro day.

Caleb knows that in due time he will fulfill his dream of being an NFL player with his mother proudly looking down from above. He is dedicating this season to his mother.

Added Caleb, "If she were here, I would be talking trash to her about what I'm about to do to everybody and she'd be telling me, 'Yeah, baby, that's what you're going to do.'"

“For me, I leaned on my faith, which was extremely helpful to me,” Farley said on draft day. “I trust in God. I trust in Jesus Christ. Lord willing, I knew I was going to be playing football this year.”

Caleb Farley brought his grandmother to tears Saturday.

The Tennessee Titans’ first-round pick in the 2021 NFL Draft made what he said was one of his “childhood dreams” come true when he presented her with a car. Farley surprised her with the SUV that was parked in front of her house with a bow on top and a sign in front that read “Love You Granny Coco.” Another sign said “Faith” and included a cross.

“Keep checking off these childhood dreams,” Farley wrote on Instagram, where he posted a photo and a video of the moment. “My (grandma) kept me covered in prayer since a baby! Love my family, she about made me cry.”

Tears did fill his grandmother’s eyes as she hugged Farley and offered praise to God. Farley was dressed in a Titans T-shirt and cap.

The 22nd overall selection in this year’s draft, Farley signed a four-year, $13.495 million contract in May. The deal, which is fully guaranteed, included a signing bonus of just less than $7.2 million.

The cornerback out of Virginia Tech has not played football since 2019. He opted out of the 2020 college football season to prepare for the draft and underwent two back surgeries in less than a year, which created questions about whether he will be ready for the start of training camp and/or the regular season and caused him to drop down the draft board.

He did not participate in practices during last month’s organized team activities (OTAs) and mandatory minicamp but has maintained his belief that he will be a contributor this season.

NASHVILLE – Titans tight end Anthony Firkser was awarded for his work during the offseason, named one of the team's top performers by head coach Mike Vrabel.

It came with a prime parking spot in the new parking garage at Saint Thomas Sports Park.

The good news is Firkser's parking spot is right next to Vrabel's white Nissan Titan truck.

The bad news is Firkser's parking spot is right next to Vrabel's white Nissan Titan truck.

Vrabel, of course, now knows Firkser's schedule especially well.

"I guess that's true," Firkser said after practice on Friday when reminded of the potential downside. "I have to try and get here before him, and leave after him, and that might be hard."

God forbid Firkser put a ding on the head coach's vehicle.

Rumor has it the passenger side wheels on Vrabel's truck were over the white line, and in Firkser's space, on Day 1 of training camp. Make no mistake: This tidbit didn't come from Firkser.

"That's a little nerve-wracking," Firkser said, smiling. "I have to stay away from his (truck)."

Firkser, for the record, said he was happy to be recognized alongside teammates Nick Westbrook-Ikhine, Tearr Tart and Larrell Murchison for the annual offseason award.

"(But) I don't think that I did anything extraordinary than any of the other guys who were working out this offseason," Firkser said. "Everyone was here, trying to help the team. But I was thankful for the award."

Coming off a year when he caught 39 passes for 387 yards and a touchdown in 2020, Firkser is in line to play a bigger role for the Titans this fall in his fifth NFL season.

In training camp, Firkser and fellow veteran Geoff Swaim are the leaders of the tight end group.

Safety Kevin Byard, for one, believes Firkser is in a prime spot.

"Firkser, he's a top-flight tight end in my opinion," Byard said on Friday. "I went against Delanie (Walker) my first couple of years, and then Jonnu (Smith) as well. I would definitely put Firkser right up there. Honestly, the dynamics of our offense right now, where you have Julio (Jones) and A.J. (Brown) and you have Derrick (Henry) – that is the main focal points.

"Working in the middle of the field, I think Firk is going to have a year. I am not making any predictions or anything he is going to do, but I am excited about what he is going to be able to do this year. I worked out a few times with him (this offseason), so I know the time he is putting in. I know he is super-excited to have the opportunity he is having this year with Jonnu departing."

Firkser said on Friday he's added roughly five pounds to his 6-foot-2 frame, which puts him right around 250 pounds. He feels stronger, and he believes the added bulk will help him.

Firkser, who played collegiately at Harvard, said he wants to be a bigger asset in the run game, so the extra size will help with his blocking. But he also wants to stay fast and keep his agility, which will help him as a receiving threat.

His plan in training camp, and this season, is simple.

"Just take advantage of the opportunities, and make sure every play you are doing your job and excelling at your job," he said. "You want to show you want to work hard and have effort and finish, which is what Vrabel stresses.

"I am just trying to see where I fit in this offense and see where I can add value."

TITANS TE ANTHONY FIRKSER TEACHES SKILLS, LIFE LESSONS AT FOOTBALL CAMP FOR KIDS

NASHVILLE – Tight end Anthony Firkser worked to established himself in Nashville, with the Titans.

On Sunday, Firkser gave back to the community with his first football camp for kids.

Roughly 80 campers, ages 7-16, showed up at D1 in Franklin to learn from Firkser and a good number of his teammates.

"Just being with the Titans for three years now, going on my fourth, I've spent some time here," Firkser said. "And I thought it was a good opportunity to let the (campers) meet me and a bunch of my teammates. It's a chance to show them we're just like them, and give them some guys to look up to.

"My main goal is to explain to them that I was in the same position as they were, loving sports growing up, and doing whatever it takes to be on team. I wanted to tell them ways to push themselves through challenges, and be able to reach your dreams at the end of it. Just be able to give them a visual of a person they can relate to and see themselves there one day if they have that dream."

Firkser, a native of Manalapan, New Jersey, who played in college at Harvard, joined the Titans during the 2018 offseason after spending time previously with the Jets and Chiefs. Firkser caught 39 passes for 387 yards and a touchdown in 2020.

In addition to Firkser, quarterback Logan Woodside, fullback Khari Blasingame, receiver Josh Reynolds, tight end Tommy Hudson, tight end Miller Forristall, receiver Mason Kinsey, and cornerback Elijah Molden all took part as coaches.

All proceeds for the camp went to Caring Hearts, a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that helps families in need in Nashville and Mexico.

"I think it went really well," Firkser said of the camp. "I was fortunate enough to have a bunch of teammates come out and volunteer with the kids, and it was a fun experience for all of them. To use football as an opportunity to bring everyone together, it's great. It's a way to give back to the fan base, which has been important in my growth."

TITANS CORNERBACK KRISTIAN FULTON FULFILLS NFL DREAM JUST 2 WEEKS AFTER GRANDFATHER DIES DUE TO COVID-19

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
APRIL 25, 2020

Kristian Fulton was surrounded by family at his New Orleans home Friday night when he finally heard his name called in the 2020 NFL Draft.

One of his biggest fans, though, was missing as the Titans selected the former LSU cornerback in the second round.

Louis Fulton Jr., Fulton's grandfather, died two weeks ago because of COVID-19. So while Fulton saw his NFL dreams come to fruition Friday, it wasn't easy.

"Definitely was (difficult)," Fulton said on a conference call with reporters after being drafted. "There's a lot going on right now, just dealing with everything that's going on.

"It's crazy. I had just talked to him a few days before and he was telling me how he was still watching some of my old games that was coming on TV, and he was always watching and was always excited just to see me succeed. It definitely was tough for me."

Fulton, a 6-foot, 197-pounder, gives the Titans secondary a much-needed jolt. Known for his penchant for disrupting passes, the sticky cornerback was a second-team All-SEC performer in 2019. He had a red flag on his resume — Fulton was suspended for the 2017 season after tampering with an NCAA drug test — but a thorough vetting process left the Titans with no doubt that he had matured from the experience and was a high-character prospect.

Titans general manager Jon Robinson said he felt fortunate that Fulton was still available when the Titans were on the clock with the 61st overall pick.

When the Titans finally swiped him off the draft board, Fulton said he felt his grandfather's support.

"I know he was looking tonight and he's going to be with me along the way," Fulton said. "Me and my family, we're getting through, it's tough getting through it."

FOOTBALL FASHION AND FOOTWEAR HOW TITANS KRISTIAN FULTON BUILT A BRAND IN NASHVILLE

ESPN
JULY 16, 2021*

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Although Tennessee Titans defensive back Kristian Fulton is entering his second season in the NFL, he is facing a different kind of rookie season this year. Kristian, 22, and his older brother Keith, 25, recently opened an urban wear boutique in Nashville called The Trenches.

"We came up with ideas and our goals, so when we had the opportunity we could make something happen. Once I knew I was going to the NFL and got the chance to make some money, that's really when it started to come about," Kristian said.

Kristian was drafted in the second round of the 2020 NFL draft (61st overall) and signed his four-year, $5.3 million rookie contract soon after. He played sporadically as a rookie, but finished with an interception and a sack. His season was limited due to a knee injury and being placed in COVID-19 protocol. He figures to be a key part of the secondary this season at right corner and as the nickel corner.

Kristian was destined to play in the NFL from his days at Archbishop Rummel High School in Metairie, Louisiana, where he was named New Orleans Defensive Player of the Year as a junior. The Fulton brothers played on the same high school team and shared dreams of playing in the pros.

"I expected to play football when I was younger. We played on the same high school team and won two championships. I played running back in college at four schools, chasing the dream of getting to that next level," Keith said.

Keith started with a scholarship to Mississippi College. He transferred to Southeastern Louisiana, then to Grossmont College before finishing his final two years at LSU.

While at LSU, as it became clear his NFL dreams wouldn't be realized, Keith made the decision to shift his focus to the management side of sports. He also developed a love for art, which would eventually grow into an idea for the layout of the boutique. Keith was intrigued by the prices he saw collectors paying for art. Being from New Orleans, a place where artists abound, made his interest even stronger.

Now that interest is on display, by way of the featured artists whose works rotate on a monthly basis inside the boutique. The decision to showcase artists offered the opportunity to become an investor while helping those who might otherwise not have a chance to sell their paintings.

"I see a lot of galleries here in Nashville, but not everyone is able to get into them. I thought it would be cool to showcase local artists and Black artists around the country. It was cool to give them a shot to sell their product," Keith said.

The Trenches features a unique blend of fashion, footwear and art.

"It all comes together. Clothes, music, art, it's layered," Keith added. "We tied it all together into one."

"There were a lot of [local brands] that we thought could do it big if they had the opportunity. Now, we want to give them a chance," says Kristian Fulton. Felice Brightman II

Their mother, Michelle Fulton, had similar business aspirations and is happy to see her sons make it a reality.

"I tell them how proud I am of them, because back when I was in college, my dream was to own my own business. A dream of mine has become a dream come true for them and it makes my heart full."

None of the clothing brands in The Trenches are mainstream names. Instead, the boutique features rising designers from New Orleans and other cities across the country.

"Everybody falls into the trend of high-end luxury brands. Growing up, we couldn't afford that, so we supported the local brands. There were a lot of them that we thought could do it big if they had the opportunity. Now, we want to give them a chance," Kristian noted.

There are typically four or five different brands featured in the store on a rolling basis. Kristian mentioned the "Fulton County" clothing line as one of his favorites.

"That's a smooth design to come up with. Fulton County, that's like a jail. That's how I'm going to lock everybody up," Kristian said, referring to his coverage skills on the football field.

The sneakers make up another part of the boutique's unique formula; the Fulton brothers didn't always have access to the latest and greatest sneaker releases. Keith recalled a time when he wanted to get the LeBron James Galaxy 9 sneakers, but couldn't get his hands on them.

"That's really the main thing. Giving other people the opportunity to have the chance to get some kicks they might not be able to get at the main stores," Kristian said.

According to Keith, it's really difficult to get a hold of new sneaker releases because of hoarders who buy up the supply. But the connections that he has developed and the doors that have opened because Kristian is an NFL player help the brothers get access to rare sneakers, like Nike's Kobe Mambas, various Jordans and more.

When it comes to the Fulton brothers' passion for shoes, the apple didn't fall too far from the tree.

"I am a shoe fanatic," Michelle said, "I start with the shoes and then I'll find the clothes to match. In their late-high-school to early college days, I began to notice their style take shape. It started with lots of different style tennis shoes. I'd tell them they reminded me of myself. I'd say to them, 'You are definitely my child,' because when they pack for a trip they have a separate suitcase for their shoes."

KRISTIAN FULTON

The Trenches isn't just a boutique for the Fulton brothers. It's a way to connect to the community.

As Kristian's business manager, Keith traveled to Nashville right after Kristian was selected in the draft, so he could network.

"I was thinking of different ways where he [Kristian] could introduce himself to the community in Nashville as a businessman, not just an athlete. I thought about the idea as a way that we can give back to the community," Keith said. "There's a lot of intimate but also family-oriented spots in New Orleans that we would go hang out at. There weren't too many places that had those spots that we are used to. We wanted to bring that here."

They've been able to bring the New Orleans vibe to Nashville through free seafood boils and other events that were hosted at the boutique, which is located on historic Buchanan Street in North Nashville.

The location is not a coincidence. They initially looked at storefronts downtown near the Broadway strip, only to find that they were too expensive. That's when Keith turned his attention to Buchanan Street.

"It's been a very popular area in the Black community in Nashville. We learned that quickly when we got here with the Black-owned businesses they have. We felt like it was the perfect location for us to keep it in the trenches, close to the community," Keith said.

The Fulton brothers' passions for fashion and art come through in the store's selection and layout. Felice Brightman II

The storefront sits directly on Buchanan Street next to a thriving

Black-owned kitchen and lounge, and across the street from a flourishing Black-owned pizza shop. Naming the boutique "The Trenches" goes perfectly with the culture they came from.

"We feel like everybody is either actually from the trenches or they want to be from the trenches. It's a popular thing in our generation coming up. That's how we gravitated to the name. It's relatable," Kristian said.

For Kristian, a big part of being relatable is actually being present in the store. He wants his customers to have access to him to talk about fashion, football, footwear or anything else that will help provide a unique shopping experience.

Opening The Trenches wasn't easy, especially during the coronavirus pandemic. Despite being a sports management major at LSU, Keith didn't have any business experience. He had to rely on his research and some help from mentors.

They opened the boutique on Saturday, March 20 of this year only to close the following Wednesday because they sold all of their products. Now the shelves are always stocked and the boutique is prospering.

"Our saying is, 'The real always prevail.' There was a lot that we went through and there's a lot that people go through, too," Keith explained. "I feel like everybody -- well, most people -- can feel our story, where we came from and what we are trying to do. For us to make it out, we want to inspire everybody."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Tennessee Titans running back Derrick Henry last season became the eighth player in NFL history to reach the 2,000-yard mark, finishing with 2,027 yards -- the fifth-highest total.

While Henry's feat has been recognized -- winning the 2021 Offensive Player of the Year award -- the fifth-year running back won't hesitate to give credit to his offensive line. That's why King Henry gave each offensive lineman a gold rope chain with a medallion that includes a crown at the top along with "2K" in diamonds.

The medallion also has each player's name engraved on the back with Henry's rushing total.

The jewelry is the latest in a line of gestures Henry has made to show his appreciation for the guys up front. Henry gifted each of his offensive linemen a Rolex of their choice after they helped him clinch the NFL's rushing title in 2019.

Then, Henry made sure they were taken care of at Christmas when he had arcade-style Pac-Man games sent to each lineman. In Henry's mind, it's only right to take care of his linemen because they take care of him.

"Like we always say, block longer than the guy with the ball, and those guys did a great job. I just had to go out there and do my job and those guys are physical," Henry said of the offensive linemen after rushing for 250 yards in the regular-season finale against the Houston Texans.

"Those guys are tight. They stick together. They help one another. They communicate. They work hard. They want to be great each and

DERRICK HENRY BECOMES TITANS SECOND 2,000-YARD RUSHER

THE TITANS RUNNING BACK BECOMES THE EIGHTH PLAYER IN NFL HISTORY TO REACH THE MILESTONE.

BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
JANUARY 3, 2021

A few weeks ago, a 2,000-yard season was just a possibility for Derrick Henry. In fact, he was a little behind pace.

But for the Tennessee Titans running back, nothing should come as a surprise. Certainly not another massive performance against a team he has dominated in recent seasons, the Houston Texans.

To become the eighth player in league history to reach 2,000 rushing yards in a single season Sunday, Henry needed 223 yards. And he got every last one of them and then some.

Henry entered one of the most exclusive clubs in football and all of sports, the 2,000-yard club, with a six-yard run on his 28th carry of the contest. It came with 7:46 to play.

Henry finished with 250 yards on 34 carries (both career-highs) as the Titans outlasted the Texans 41-38 to finish first in the AFC South for the first time since 2008. His final total of 2,027 yards is the fifth-highest single-season total in NFL history.

"I am very thankful for those guys [on the offensive line]," Henry said. "I told those guys in the locker room, every single one of them, how thankful I was for them. I wouldn't want anybody else blocking for me. I couldn't do it without them."

Henry makes the Titans the first NFL franchise to have two 2,000-yard rushers. Chris Johnson earned his 'CJ2K' nickname when he rushed for 2,006 yards in 2009.

Johnson gave his reaction on Twitter, saying "2 2k's!!!!"

The 2015 Heisman Trophy winner at Alabama becomes the first running back to reach the milestone since Adrian Peterson did it with the Minnesota Vikings in 2012.

"I keep saying it's a really cool moment, a really cool thing," right tackle Dennis Kelly said. "That's something when you're older, when you're done playing, you're able to talk to your kids, that's something you can look back and be like, 'I did that.' Instantly, there's this bond that we all accomplished this together."

"It's going to be pretty impossible to forget."

From the start of Sunday's contest, the two-time rushing champion had the looks of a man on a mission. Henry had more than 100 yards rushing by halftime, including a 52-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. He added a six-yard touchdown in the third quarter. He surpassed 200 rushing yards for the game on the Titans' second offensive series of the third quarter. At the start of the fourth quarter, he was 18 yards away from 2,000.

Henry said that he knew somebody had been keeping track of his progress toward 2,000 yards throughout the game. Quarterback Ryan Tannehill, who had the greatest statistical season of any Titans quarterback, said he didn't have much of a clue about how close Henry was getting. He is happy to have been a part of it, though.

"I enjoy, like I said, every opportunity I get to go out and play on Sundays or Saturdays," Tannehill said of the day. "You know, it's something that when you go through what I went through over the past couple years, you appreciate it a little bit more. So, to be able to get into the playoffs for a second time, win the division, it's definitely a moment I'll look back on and really appreciate."

In the process of gaining the final yards to reach 2,000, Henry had one mistake that clearly did just enough to bother him to the point where he was not all smiles after a massive performance in a memorable victory.

He lost his second fumble of the season late in the third quarter -- a rare mishap from a player who almost never coughs up the football. The Texans scored a touchdown plays to close the Titans' lead to three, 31-28.

"You know, after rushing 2,000 yards, but I'm serious, right now I'm just pissed off at myself for the mishaps that I had," he said.

While Henry wouldn't acknowledge much about his season, it has been historic.

He is the 10th player since 1953 to be the league's rushing champion in consecutive seasons, and the other nine are members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Four of the previous 2,000-yard rushers also have a spot in Canton, Ohio.

In leading the league this season, Henry had seven 100-yard performances and three others with more than 200 yards. He is the first player to have three 200-yard rushing performances in a season since 2016 and fifth overall since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. Only a handful of running backs have had one 200-yard rushing game since 2018.

Henry now has five career 200-yard rushing performances, and three of them have come in his last three games against Houston. He is the first player in league history to have that many against a single opponent.

A player who notoriously takes zero credit for his accolades and commends his teammates for just about everything he accomplishes, Henry might as well start writing his Hall of Fame speech.

He will have a lot of people to thank.

DERRICK HENRY

“I’m just thankful for my teammates,” he said. “Thankful for all of them, you know, week in and week out, you know, them doing their job. Just the unselfishness that they have for my success, I’m very thankful.”

But for now, reflection is something that will have to wait until this season is actually over.

“Regardless of if I got it, I did it or I didn’t,” he said. “I wasn’t pressing for it. I just wanted to be able to win the game as a team and make it to the playoffs in the division.”

TITANS RB DERRICK HENRY DONATES $10,000 TO NASHVILLE FIREFIGHTER WHO LOST HOME IN FIRE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MARCH 1, 2021

NASHVILLE – His 2020 season over, Derrick Henry was in already offseason workout mode a few weeks back, preparing for what's ahead.

But the Titans running back stopped in his tracks when he saw a heartbreaking story on his Twitter feed, and he wanted to do something to help.

The beneficiary: Nashville firefighter Jeremy Taylor, a Titans season ticket member and father of four daughters who lost his new home to a large fire recently.

Taylor was surprised at his fire station last week with $15,000 donation -- $10,000 from Henry's 'Two All' Foundation, along with a $5,000 contribution from Campbell's Chunky Soup.

The good deed was prompted by Henry, who took a screenshot of the Twitter post on the story and asked a member of the Titans organization how he could help.

"I saw the tweet and I was just touched by it, losing a home is such a tragic occurrence," Henry said. "Not only did I see the tweet but I saw that he was a Titans fan and also a first responder. Nashville has been through so much as a community – the tornado, the pandemic going on, and then the Christmas bombing. I just wanted to be able to help someone in need and someone who has been helping everyone else throughout this pandemic."

Taylor and his family were not in their new home at the time of the early morning explosion and fire on January 30, but they'd moved all their belonging into the White Bluff residence and were preparing to move in after finishing a checklist at the home they'd recently sold.

Taylor, his wife Lauren and their daughters, ages 13, 12, 11, and 8, lost everything in the fire.

"I thank God we weren't home, and nobody got hurt," Taylor said.

Taylor said it's been an emotional time. He's been buoyed by the support of friends, and fellow firefighters.

Then came the act of kindness from Henry, and Campbell's.

When Taylor got to work last Wednesday, he got a big surprise. After watching a video message from Henry, who explained why he wanted to help, Taylor also received a signed No.22 jersey from the NFL's Offensive Player of the Year in 2020. Titans cheerleaders and others from the organization were on hand for the check presentation.

"I am blessed, very blessed," Taylor said. "(This) has definitely been a blessing to my family. I am very overwhelmed. I don't know what to say."

Henry said he was more than willing to help.

"I was just touched by what I had seen about Jeremy and his family on Twitter, and just wanted to do anything I could to help them," Henry said. "I'm very thankful to be able to have Campbell's come in as well to try to help Jeremy and his family. Just touched by his family and wanted to help Jeremy in his own time of need."

Derrick Henry continues to raise the bar with his travel attire, but his outfit this time was much more than a fashion statement.

Henry on Sunday honored victims of racial injustice by wearing their names on his suit. As the Titans arrived in Denver ahead of Titans-Broncos on "Monday Night Football" (9:20 p.m., ESPN), Henry exited the team plane wearing the suit. The Titans posted photos of it on their official Twitter handle with the caption: "It takes all of us."

Henry led the league in rushing last season with 1,540 yards and was a first-time Pro Bowler. In July, the team re-signed him to a four-year, $50 million deal.

The Titans were one of a handful of NFL teams to cancel practice on Aug. 27 in the wake of the police shooting of Jacob Blake in Kenosha, Wisconsin, which occurred a few days earlier.

Titans' Derrick Henry wears a suit honoring victims of racial injustice by wearing their names on his suit as he arrives for the team's first game against the Denver Broncos.

It remains to be seen whether Titans players will peacefully protest during Monday night's national anthem, as several NFL players around the league did Sunday. Titans coach Mike Vrabel said that any protests would come as a decision by his players. Defensive lineman and team captain DaQuan Jones said Friday that the team was still discussing what they might do ahead of Monday night's kickoff.

"I think our players will do what they feel comfortable doing, and we will support that," Vrabel said on

AMANI HOOKER

BYARD SAYS HOOKER HAS FOLLOWED PROPER PATH TO LEADERSHIP

*BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
JUNE 3, 2021*

Amani Hooker figures to make a bigger impact in more than one way this season.

First, the Tennessee Titans safety figures to be a full-time starter for the first time in his career after the team released veteran Kenny Vaccaro as part of a secondary overhaul in March.

He also hopes to be more of a leader for the defensive unit.

And nobody knows how to properly establish leadership than the man he will be playing beside in the defensive backfield this season, Kevin Byard, who has been a team captain in each of the past two seasons.

In order to become a good leader, Byard said, one must first be a good follower. And Hooker has done that well over his first two NFL seasons.

“I think Amani has been a great follower since he’s been here,” Byard said. “Watching me and (Vaccaro), or just watching any of the veteran guys and learning from them, learning how to be a pro.”

A third-round pick out of Middle Tennessee State in 2016, that’s exactly how Byard became one of the Titans’ most prominent voices in the locker room, for both on and off-field matters.

The Pro Bowler and All-Pro observed and learned from the likes of defensive back Jason McCourty and linebacker Brian Orapko.

Not only would Byard listen to what veterans had to say on a daily basis, but he paid close attention to the smallest of details. In the NFL, of course, doing the “little things” matters most.

“One thing that I did when I first got into the league was I looked at the parking lot,” Byard said. “When I got there in the morning, I was looking at cars ... what car is here early in the morning? Okay, this guy here. I was asking Jason, ‘Hey, what time are you getting here in the morning? Why are you coming here so early?’ They were getting rehab or doing the little things.”

A fourth-round pick out of Iowa in 2019, Hooker’s ascension to a more significant role on the defense started last season. His snaps with the defense increased, and when Vaccaro missed three games due to a lingering concussion, Hooker was called upon to start.

He finished tied for the team lead in interceptions with four and second in passes defended eight while also making 51 total tackles. All of those marks are career-highs.

Entering the 2021 season, Hooker is in a position to evolve as a leader for many reasons. Many younger players will fill the secondary after numerous moves in free agency and the NFL Draft.

But most importantly, he’s taken after many veterans over his first two seasons, including Byard.

“He’s into that role where he’s out there playing, he’s out there being more vocal, making calls and checks. That’s the start of it,” Byard said. “Going out there being sure of yourself, knowing what you need to do. When you assure yourself and know what you need to do, you can coach another guy up. I think he’s been doing pretty great at that.

“I think we’re going to be pretty good running mates this year.”

MUCH OF THE NFL THOUGHT TOMMY HUDSON WAS HEADING FOR THE NAVY SEALS

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
AUGUST 4, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – As NFL scouts converged on Tempe, Ariz. or rolled Arizona State tape to watch Brandon Aiyuk or even Eno Benjamin in 2019, some took note of a player in the background who was doing some gritty work, blocking aggressively.

But there was a widespread undertone that Tommy Hudson wasn't interested in the NFL because his plan was to be a Navy SEAL.

"Yeah, there was a little bit of a miscommunication I think on some of the player personnel people at ASU about what my ambitions were after (college) football," Hudson said. "My dream has always been to play football for as long as God's going to give me the ability to play it, and I guess that just was miscommunicated."

He was not on the list of 65 tight ends Dane Brugler had in "The Beast," his thorough pre-draft scouting preview for The Athletic.

Sixteen tight ends were selected in the 2020 draft and Hudson was not one of them. But a football opportunity did present itself, as the Titans scooped him up as an undrafted free agent.

Other big developments have unfolded too, as he's become a husband and father to a baby daughter.

What if the Titans hadn't called and another free agent opportunity had not arrived?

"I don't like to live in the what if, and I don't really know how it would have worked out," he said. "Covid happened, a lot of things changed pretty rapidly and I just kind of adjusted on the fly.

"Navy SEAL was the dream, yes sir. We had some really amazing people come and talk to us at ASU and I just always saw that as the next step of team, being part of a unit. Those guys as the epitome of being professionals, the way they work every day, the way they prepare for a mission is similar to how we practice but on a completely different level. Personally, I felt like that was the next step to being able to push myself to being part of that team and finding that higher calling."

He spent the 2020 season on the practice squad, with a six-week interruption to serve a suspension for a violation of the NFL's policy against performance enhancers.

Now, after the Titans lost Jonnu Smith to a giant free-agent contract with New England and didn't make an effort to re-sign MyCole Pruitt, who's in San Francisco, the team turns to Anthony Firkser as its primary pass catcher at the position, with Geoff Swaim as the top blocker.

Swaim is hurt and has been missing, which may have been a big reason the team brought back Luke Stocker on Saturday.

With everyone healthy, Hudson figures to be fourth in line, fighting with Stocker for the third spot. The team finished last season with four on the roster.

Briley Moore recently went on IR with what looked to be a serious knee injury suffered in practice and Miller Forristall and Jared Pickney have not stood out.

"I think if you look back historically, the numbers with those (blocking) tight ends have decreased," Mike Vrabel said in the early days of camp., before Stocker arrived. "Ten or 11 of them, I don't even really know, are getting drafted. I don't know what the average is. ...You only have so much to choose from when you are talking about the draft and player acquisition.

"Tommy improved over the course of last year on the practice squad and now I would say he is doing things that are going to help him and get him noticed and help him in that role. He is on the punt team, he is playing special teams, so those are all positive steps."

That tape he was on, in the frame with Aiyuk and/or Benjamin was a win for the sort of guy just doing his job.

"I think that's just all attributed to just being there, doing the right things, being a good teammate," he said. "That's kind of what they preach here: Team first, trying hard, effort, finish," Hudson said. "And I think they saw that on film and I was able to get an opportunity here. I think it's really, really promising. They really hold people to a high standard. And if you come out and bring it every day, you're going to keep getting opportunities."

It seems likely there is more football for him and if there is a military life ahead, it's further ahead.

In the meantime, he said he hopes to find some ways to give back to the military community. The local V.A. may be hearing from him soon.

REXRODE: TITANS ROOKIE CHRIS JACKSON HAD TO BE TOUGHER THAN ANY KID SHOULD

BY JOE REXRODE
THE ATHLETIC
MAY 16, 2020

Editor's note: This is the sixth in a six-part series on the Tennessee Titans' 2020 NFL Draft picks. Stories on Isaiah Wilson, Kristian Fulton, Darrynton Evans, Larrell Murchison and Cole McDonald were published earlier this week.

Time stretches and contracts, a trait clearer to all in a global pandemic, and it can blur memories — altering, eliminating and even exaggerating details of a moment.

Some remain vivid. Ira Reynolds says he can still see the play that made him realize he had something special in the Tennessee Titans' most recent draft pick. Chris Jackson was a freshman at FAMU Developmental Research School in Tallahassee, Fla., and a small one at that, maybe 100 pounds. But he was fast and hungry and persistent — “it was yap yap yap like a little dog at your ankles until you finally say, ‘OK fine,’” Reynolds said — and the coach got him on the field in a varsity game to serve as a decoy on a play that was supposed to go to the running back on a wheel route.

Reynolds can see Jackson carrying out his downfield route. He can see his quarterback, for some reason, lofting a pass to Jackson. He can see the linebacker and safety converging on Jackson and combining on the type of hit that might convince a 100-pound ninth-grader to try debate team.

“Out cold,” Reynolds said of Jackson, lying on the field after the hit. “But he didn't drop the ball. And then when he came to, he was begging to go back out there.”

This set the stage for Jackson to become a standout receiver and safety at FAMU-DRS, a leader with enough confidence to tell the waitstaff at a restaurant during a team dinner that it was Reynolds' birthday so they would sing to him (they did, but it wasn't). He would go on to graduate early and choose Marshall over suitors such as Kent State and Troy, though Ivy League schools also inquired because of his near-perfect academic record. He had no interest from hometown Florida State and that ilk. Jackson started four years at cornerback for the Thundering Herd, setting the school record for pass break-ups (45) and getting his 5-foot-10, 193-pound self drafted in the seventh round by the Titans. Plenty of guys from Florida State and that ilk did not go in any round. And now Jackson is a 22-year-old pro with a criminal justice degree and corner/safety versatility that Titans coach Mike Vrabel said made drafting him an “easy” choice.

Jackson has a chance to make an NFL team, just eight years after that first, stinging taste of varsity football. Which came just two years after the completion — the legal completion anyway — of a tragic journey no one should have to experience and no one would want to remember.

That's what Jackson was asked to do in a Tallahassee courtroom at 12 years old. He was asked to recount the details of the murder of his mother, as her killer sat a few feet away from him.

“I got probably three minutes in,” Jackson said. “And then I just broke down and couldn't do it anymore.”

He can do it now. He has done it many times since. It became a motivational staple inside the Marshall program. The story of Chris Jackson is also the story of figuring out what to take and what to leave behind from the life and death of Tanesha Overstreet.

Reynolds coached Dwayne Jackson at FAMU-DRS, too. He was a similar kind of player. Aggressive, smart, fast and undersized. Dwayne was set to play for Florida A&M in college. A blown knee, which meant a lot more in the early 1990s than it does today, ended that. Dwayne moved to Minneapolis for a job and met Tanesha, who grew up in Chicago but moved with her family as a teenager and graduated early from Minneapolis North Community High. They welcomed Chris to the world on April 13, 1998, moved to Chicago to be near her family, then to Tallahassee to be near his. Soon, much of her family joined them.

“Everybody thinks their family is the loudest but no — my family was the loudest,” said Jessica Overstreet, Tanesha's younger sister. “And Tanesha was the leader of the family. She was so giving. She had three younger siblings living with her in their house, and my mom, and she loved it. I was like, ‘Don't you want some privacy?’ Nope. She was happiest around her family.”

Tanesha never got to college as she had planned, but she pushed Jessica to keep going after high school graduation.

“She said, ‘The sky's the limit, now you've got to go to college,’” said Jessica, who graduated from Florida A&M and is now a school social worker in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. “I'll never forget that. It was like she was living through our accomplishments. She called me her pumpkin.”

Chris remembers his mother as a combination of tough and fun. She was the one who first put him in football. Sitting around at home wasn't an option. Doing the dishes and other chores was expected, as was eating healthy. Chris hated eggs, so Tanesha bargained with him: Eat your eggs every day and you get a dollar. Pretty soon he had enough for a dirt bike.

“Work for everything you get, that was a big thing with my mom,” Chris said. “And tell the truth. I always told her the truth.”

Dwayne took Chris fishing often on the Ochlockonee River, and that remains a passion for Chris, who wants to be a game warden when football ends. But Dwayne's presence was spotty. Chris said he was “in and out of jail” during his childhood for “drug-related offenses.” After the Titans drafted Chris, Dwayne called him from jail. They talk almost every day, Chris said, and Dwayne is supposed to be out in June. As a kid, Chris had another father figure in Terrell Thomas, Tanesha’s long-term boyfriend after she and Dwayne broke up. Tanesha and Terrell had a daughter on the way in the summer of 2008.

Tanesha, Chris and Jessica went to a routine baby check-up on Aug. 14, 2008, but doctors told Tanesha she would need an emergency cesarean section because there wasn’t enough fluid around the baby. She was not due for a couple of more months. She ended up delivering vaginally, and 2-pound Taylor Thomas ended up fully healthy and crying with a strong voice upon arrival. She still needed time in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

Two days later, Tanesha came home against doctor’s orders. Taylor remained in the hospital. Early in the morning of Aug. 17, 2008, Chris was asleep in the back bedroom of their house along with Terrell’s 16-year-old son, Breon, and his 12-year-old cousin Richard Footman. Terrell was not in the house. The children were awakened by yelling. They heard Tanesha sobbing and begging for her life, telling a male intruder that she had just given birth to a child. They heard him demanding her to give him whatever she had. They backed away from the cracked bedroom door and pretended to be sleeping as the intruder came down the hall and closed the door.

They heard the explosion of a 12-gauge shotgun. They heard the water in the kitchen sink turn on as the 35-year-old intruder, William Yawn, washed his hands. They heard a door open and close. They ran out to Tanesha, bleeding on the ground and fighting for breath. Breon called 911. Chris grabbed Tanesha’s hand.

“I think she was trying to tell him that she loved him,” Footman testified two years later in Yawn’s trial, according to WCTV-TV. “But she kind of like couldn’t get it all out.”

Jessica Overstreet didn’t really grieve her sister until a couple of years ago, she said. She has a family of her own, a job she loves working with at-risk kids at Fort Lauderdale’s Rock Island Elementary School. And for years the focus was on getting Chris through the trauma.

“Can you imagine a 10-year-old boy at a funeral walking up to a casket and trying to wake his mother up?” Jessica said. “Like she was sleeping. It was a lot. You talk about strength and resilience, he had to have so much of it.”

Chris’ maternal grandmother, Renee Jones-Johnson, was originally supposed to take him in, but her anguish was too intense in the wake of her daughter’s death. He moved in with his paternal grandmother, Delores Madison, and that’s where he continues to live until he gets the all-clear to move to Nashville.

“When you find a kid who supersedes challenges like that, who goes through that and comes out a tremendous student, a tremendous kid, you’ve got the right dude,” said Chuck Heater, who recruited Chris at the time as the defensive coordinator at Marshall. “And the bottom line is, his grandmother is just a sensational person.”

She did not do it alone.

“I spent months and months doing nothing, just crying every day,” Chris said. “I went a whole year without going to school. But my grandmothers, Auntie Jessica, Auntie Caprice, it was like they all jelled together to become my mom.”

Jessica would take Chris and Taylor each weekend, so the siblings could have time with each other as well. Running water was a trigger for Chris then, causing him to “have an emotional breakdown or get really angry,” he said. He could not get the sound of the water Yawn left running in his house out of his head. When he needed to shower at Jessica’s house, she would sit on the toilet and talk him through it.

She would tell stories of Tanesha, too. By the time Taylor was old enough to understand, Chris was stronger, back in school, playing football and basketball, singing in the church choir.

“My sister’s kind of like my favorite person in the world,” Chris said of Taylor, who is coming up on her 12th birthday. “She didn’t get to experience my mother, but we tell her stories, show her pictures. And then growing up not living together, I couldn’t see her all the time like a normal family would. So I’ve spoiled her whenever I could to make up for it.”

And he has reached the point where he can remember what he loved about his mother and talk about her death without reliving the trauma. He told the story at Marshall more than once during team-building exercises, and he became the example coaches would use when trying to motivate others. Not that this is as simple as another “athlete overcomes adversity” story. Not that this has been easy or free of setbacks.

Chris had a significant one when he had to testify more than two years after the murder at the trial of Yawn, an admitted drug addict who said he broke into the house that night looking for cocaine. Jessica spoke on behalf of the family on the day of Yawn’s sentencing. Chris was not in the courtroom that day to hear him receive three life sentences in prison.

“I honestly don’t even remember what I thought about that at the time,” Chris said. “I kind of just don’t think about him.”

JACKRABBIT JENKINS

WHY TENNESSEE TITANS CORNERBACK JANORIS JENKINS WANTS YOU TO CALL HIM 'JACKRABBIT'

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 4, 2021

Within the first few days of training camp, Janoris Jenkins' name on the Tennessee Titans' official roster had been changed to "Jackrabbit" Jenkins, his nickname. He prefers it that way.

Why, you ask?

"I don't like Janoris," Jenkins told reporters late last week. "It's not my name."

Yes, he said the latter with a straight face.

For the veteran cornerback, signed by the Titans to a two-year deal worth $15 million this offseason to be part of a defensive revival, the nickname stems from his days at the University of Florida – and represents a nod to his Pahoee, Florida, roots.

"It comes from college," Jenkins said of the nickname. "When I first entered college, I entered in January (for) spring ball. I really didn't know any plays when I went out there, but I was making a lot of plays. We got in the film room and my coach was just like, 'You're moving fast. You're moving like a jackrabbit.' Because where I'm from, we're catching rabbits."

In Nashville, Jenkins is catching the adoration of his teammates.

The 32-year-old cornerback has stood out early in training camp with the energy and intensity he brings to practices. He's mentoring rookie first-round pick Caleb Farley. And he's showcased glimpses of his man-coverage playmaking ability, what made him a 2016 Pro Bowler with the New York Giants and a two-time pick-six leader in the NFL.

Jenkins, who picked off quarterback Ryan Tannehill twice in Saturday's practice, has 26 career interceptions in nine seasons.

"Whenever you have a veteran like that who has done it a long time and has success, and you see the way he practices and competes and goes about it, I think it rubs off on everybody regardless of the position group," defensive coordinator Shane Bowen said Tuesday. "The wide receivers see it; that is contagious. The thing with him, he is constantly talking, constantly coaching guys up, constantly trying to turn the tide because every game there is going to be something. It is not always going to be perfect; we understand that; he understands that from playing so long; and I think his leadership and being able to turn the tide and get our guys to respond can kind of change the mojo when it is not going our way."

Safety Kevin Byard compared Jenkins to one of the guys he's slated to replace: Malcolm Butler, who was a cap casualty this offseason by the Titans.

"He's a true vet," Byard said last week of Jenkins. "He's been doing it for a long time. Guy that brings a lot of swag to the DB room. A funny guy, too. Somebody who I've been really hanging around with a lot these past couple days of training camp. I think he'll be a great addition to our room. He's a scrappy guy."

WHATEVER NAME YOU USE, JENKINS WANTS TO BE KNOWN AS A WINNER

*BY MICHAEL HOGAN

MARCH 19, 2021*

He winced a few times as it happened before he finally set the record straight.

“When y'all were calling me Janoris, I almost got upset,” he said.

One of the Tennessee Titans's newest members, Janoris Jenkins, would rather reporters – and others – address him as “Jackrabbit” instead.

“I have been going by that since I entered the league,” the free-agent cornerback added.

The nine-year veteran, who agreed to terms with the Titans on Tuesday five days after being released from the New Orleans Saints, spoke to local media members for the first time on Friday afternoon, shortly after the team formally announced his addition.

Other than his name preference, Jenkins gave insight into what Titans fans ought to know about him ahead in anticipation of the 2020-21 season.

Experience matters: The 32-year-old Pro Bowler has played in 128 games with 125 starts over 10 NFL seasons. A second-round selection in the 2012 NFL Draft, he spent his first four seasons with the St. Louis/Los Angeles Rams, the next four with the New York Giants and the last two seasons with the New Orleans Saints.

The Titans recently released three veteran defensive backs, cornerbacks Malcolm Butler and Adoree' Jackson, as well as safety Kenny Vaccaro. Jenkins becomes the eldest member of Tennessee's secondary.

No doubt, his experience will be a benefit for younger players, safety

Amani Hooker and especially cornerback Krisian Fulton, who enters his second NFL season.

“You get excited,” Jenkins said. “...I just showed up, played football, made sure the younger guys knew what was going on and they have confidence. That's what I am here for. We're going to have fun.”

He just wants to win: Jenkins loves playing man-to-man defense. It's his preference. But he can also play zone, he said.

Most importantly, though, Jenkins wants to make plays, have fun and win games.

High-impact play-making ability is something the Titans so obviously lacked this past season on the defensive side of the ball. Jenkins has made plenty of those types of plays.

Among NFL players since 2012, Jenkins ranks first in passes defended (119), first in defensive touchdowns scored (9) and fourth in interceptions (26).

“I like to win,” Jenkins said. “If you looked at my background, high school and college, all I did was win. Every level, I like to compete that's what I am here for.”

Jenkins won a state championship while playing for Pahokee High School in Florida. He attended the University of Florida for three years and won plenty of games and a national championship under a program that at the time was coached by the legendary Urban Meyer, who now coaches the Jacksonville Jaguars.

Bigger is not always better: Many people often feel apprehensive about signing veteran corners. Entering his 10th NFL season, Jenkins surely has put a lot of miles throughout his successful NFL career.

The good news is that he has it down when it comes to staying in shape.

“Always being available. Make sure you're healthy and available,” Jenkins said. “Doing the small things. You don't have to do in the weight room and lift 300, 400 pounds. Just keep the small muscles around your body active, and you'll be okay.”

JOURNEYMAN WIDE RECEIVER PROVING A GOOD FIT WITH TITANS

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUGUST 15, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Marcus Johnson never doubted how much the Tennessee Titans liked him. Not even when they traded for seven-time Pro Bowl wide receiver Julio Jones.

The Titans had reached out too many times before signing him to the practice squad in January and then to a contract March 9. The June trade for Jones did not shake Johnson's confidence after what he saw as genuine interest in his skills and opportunity from the team.

"I know what adversity looks like," Johnson said. "I know this league. I know myself and what I can bring. So ... it just brings the best out of me."

Johnson's fourth NFL team might just wind up being the right fit. The Titans are looking for wide receivers to play with Jones and Pro Bowler A.J. Brown, and Johnson, who just turned 27, keeps making catches and working his way up the depth chart.

He currently backs up Jones on the preseason depth chart and started the preseason opening win in Atlanta with both Jones and Brown watching along with all the Titans' other starters on offense.

"I've been in similar situations," Johnson said. "My second year in Philadelphia, we brought in Alshon (Jeffery), Tory Smith and then we drafted two guys and I'm an undrafted second year player coming from the practice squad. And by the grace of God (I) made t he roster that year.

Johnson has taken advantage of his experience and the extra reps with Jones not practicing over the past couple weeks to make an impression.

MARCUS JOHNSON

Coach Mike Vrabel said Johnson has earned the what he's gotten in training camp.

"He has been one, durable because he has been out there every day, been available," Vrabel said. "He has gotten better, whatever mistakes he makes he quickly corrects and usually rarely makes the second mistake twice. I would say that is a good model that we should all look at for training camp."

The Titans have plenty of competition at wide receiver. They signed Josh Reynolds as a free agent after four years with the Los Angeles Rams, then drafted Dez Fitzpatrick in the fourth round and Racey McMath in the seventh round. They also have Cameron Batson and Nick Westbrook-Ikhine who've been with the Titans.

A native of Clear Springs, Texas, the 6-foot-1, 207-pound Johnson went undrafted out of Texas. He signed as a rookie free agent with Philadelphia in May 2016 only to spent parts of that season on the practice squad. In 2017, the Eagles signed both Alshon Jeffery and Torrey Smith.

Johnson made the roster that season, winning a Super Bowl ring after playing in 10 games.

The Eagles traded him in March 2018 to Seattle, then the Seahawks traded him to Indianapolis that September. He played in 24 games with the Colts, including a couple stints on the practice squad, and caught 37 passes for 634 yards and three TDs.

But the Colts waived him for the final time Jan. 2, and the Titans signed him to their practice squad four days later.

Johnson is enjoying being with easily the most talented receiving corps he's been a part of in the NFL.

"And it brings the best out of me. I know that for a fact," Johnson said. That's why when we brought in Julio and obviously everyone else we already had and then the two draft picks, you look at it and you like, 'Cream rise to the top.'"

BEN JONES

TITANS CENTER BEN JONES OVERCAME TRAUMATIC CHILDHOOD

TITANS ONLINE
JUNE 22, 2016

In just three months, center Ben Jones has established himself as one of the livelier personalities on the Titans.

He's shared shocking stories about eating cockroaches and, yes, drinking his own urine on dares by previous NFL teammates, not to mention one about ripping the dreadlocks off a college opponent and tying them to his ceiling fan.

It's easy to believe the affable Alabama native, who's been known to break up monotonous practices with a joke as he and teammates are lining up for a play, hasn't suffered much in his 26 years.

But that's far from the case.

Jones' childhood and formative years were marked by a near-death experience, as well as the unexpected deaths of his father and a close friend. The combination of the events made Jones wonder why he'd been singled out to suffer, and caused him to question his own faith as well.

"Especially when you're young, you're like, 'Why is all this happening to me? What is going on?' " the 6-foot-3, 308-pounder said during Titans minicamp.

Mom was 'a real rock'

A tortuous stretch of months for Jones began just a few months after his 10th birthday in 1999, when his father, Steve, died in a helicopter crash.

Steve Jones did timber work of all kinds, everything from planting trees to helping them grow and eventually cutting them down. He was aboard a helicopter that was spraying pesticide on Alabama pines when the chopper's fuel system malfunctioned. The crash killed Jones and the pilot.

Since then, Ben Jones has worn the No. 60 when it was available. It was the number his father wore playing high school football in Thomasville, Ga.

But it was Jones' mother, Vickie Jones, who became a bigger part of her son's life, even stepping into the role of Little League coach her husband had held.

"It was tough because I really relied on my Dad," Ben Jones said. "But my mom just stepped in and was a real rock. She was the discipline in the house. If I didn't do my running throughout the year, she'd wake me up at night and be like, 'Hey, run to the mailbox and back,' and that's about a mile and a half on the farm.

"She stayed on us just like my Dad was doing. She pushed me to be who I am today."

'I still have screws in my head'

Only months after the passing of his father, Jones was battling for his own life.

Attending a high school baseball game, Jones was walking from his seat behind home plate toward the outfield seats, where his mother was watching the contest. But as he came around the corner of the dugout, Jones ran straight into the warm-up swing of a player, the bat thumping his uncovered skull.

Jones passed a doctor's concussion test afterward, so it looked like he might be OK. But his condition spiraled downward.

"I started throwing up because there was a blood clot was pressing on my brain, making me sick," Jones said. "It was very bad. I had to have emergency surgery to get rid of the blood clot on the brain. They went ahead and opened my head up and drained the blood clots out."

Jones remained in intensive care for a couple of days before leaving the hospital with some everlasting mementos.

"I still have screws in my head," he said, "so I guess you could say I might have a couple screws loose."

In order to make sure he didn't suffer any more damage, Jones had to wear a batting helmet to school for a year.

"I was the kid in class with the helmet on, the kid going to (recreation) with a helmet on," Jones said. "Fortunately, I was a pretty big kid, so nobody was going to say much to me."

'I just didn't understand'

Jones had to sit out a season of youth football because of the brain surgery, but by the time high school rolled around, he was back on the field, playing on the same team with his older brother, Clay.

But tragedy sought Jones out again during his junior year, when one of his best friends was killed in a four-wheeler accident. Jones was not present when it occurred.

Faith had been important to Jones growing up, but he found it hard to reconcile it with the events of his life to that point.

"I just didn't understand," he said. "Why is this all getting taken from me at such a young age? But stuff happens and at some point you realize, 'Hey, there's more in life like this.' So you have to grow up early."

The older brother of Jones' friend, a youth minister, spoke at the funeral and delivered a message that resonated.

"He said there's a reason (this death) happened, and I want somebody to get saved because of it," Jones said. "I feel like it helped a lot of people really turn their life around."

Since getting drafted by the Texans in 2012, Jones said he and his wife regularly attend religious retreats with other professional athletes, many of whom have lost parents, children or friends. He said they have all come to rely on team chaplains, spouses and family members to help them deal with hard times.

BEN JONES

But Jones said his mother, who still works the 300-acre farm the family has had since he was young, has had the greatest influence.

“Everything is a learning point and you reach out to different people,” Jones said. “But my mom, really, she never cracked. Just seeing a God-fearing woman like her showed us an example every day on how to live that Christian life.”

TITANS CENTER BEN JONES' POWER IS STILL OUT, SO RYAN TANNEHILL IS LENDING A HAND

BY ERIK BACHARACH
THE TENNESSEAN
MAY 7, 2020

As of Thursday morning, 7,000 Nashville Electric Service customers were still without power after a damaging wind storm Sunday evening caused widespread outages.

Ben Jones was one of them.

The Titans center, like thousands of other Nashvillians, had been "roughing it out" for three days before his quarterback, Ryan Tannehill, lended a hand.

"I have a great teammate who is not staying in Nashville right now, so we are staying at his house," Jones said on a Zoom call with reporters on Thursday. "Tannehill came in clutch for us because it got a little cold (Wednesday)."

More than 130,000 customers in the Nashville area had their electricity knocked out by the storms, which brought straight-line winds up to 70 miles per hour. Decosta Jenkins, the president and CEO of Nashville Electric Service, said the storms "caused the largest number of power outages in my 29-year career at NES."

Jones said he felt fortunate to have a teammate like Tannehill, who is riding out the COVID-19 pandemic with his family in South Florida, where he spent his first six NFL seasons as a member of the Miami Dolphins.

Earlier this offseason, Tannehill signed a four-year, $118 million extension with the Titans after a career year in 2019 in which he was named to his first Pro Bowl and led the Titans to the AFC title game.

For Jones, it's one more unusual obstacle in an offseason full of them.

With team facilities closed due to the pandemic, the NFL offseason has gone entirely virtual. Jones is adjusting accordingly.

"I do a Zoom workout every morning at 5:30 — I try to get in (the weight room) and work out before our kids get up," he said. "We have four guys in there, with a trainer in there, so I'm going through a program. And mainly I'm trying to be innovative with how to run, because you don't have a field like you normally have. So, I have a Peloton bike that I use a couple of times a week. I bought a sled that I am pushing in the yard. I am running sprints on the driveway, through the neighborhood. I try to get up early and do it so I don't have a whole bunch of people out there watching me."

JULIO JONES DECLINES TO TAKE NO. 11 FROM TENNESSEE TITANS' A.J. BROWN, WILL WEAR NO. 2

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN.COM
JUNE 8, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Wide receiver A.J. Brown offered his No. 11 to Julio Jones, but the Tennessee Titans' newly acquired playmaker declined. Instead, Jones will wear No. 2 with his new team.

Brown has worn No. 11 since his rookie year after originally sporting No. 18 during rookie minicamp.

"#11 until I retire. I tried to give it up and he wouldn't take it. Respect," he tweeted Tuesday. The Titans later announced that Jones will wear No. 2.

Jones commented for the first time Tuesday on being traded from the Atlanta Falcons to Tennessee, saying in a statement posted to social media that he'll "never forget my time as an Atlanta Falcon" and thanked the Titans and their fans for the "warm welcome" he and his family have received.

"Thank you ATL for all the love you've shown me over the years. It's been an amazing 10 years playing for the city & all the fans. I appreciate everything you've done for me over the years & will never forget my time as an Atlanta Falcon.

"Excited for the next part of my journey here in Nashville. To the fans, I want to thank you all for the warm welcome for me and & my family. We are very excited to be part of the Titans family.

"Ready to get to work!"

It's no surprise that Brown would offer his number to Jones given how much he lobbied to get the Titans to trade for the 10-year veteran. Brown has always admired and studied Jones dating back to his days at Ole Miss, when wide receiver coach

Jacob Peeler used to make cutups for him to watch.

"He's a big receiver just like me, but the thing he does special is he runs routes just like a smaller guy," Brown told ESPN on Sunday. "For me, in college, he was teaching me everything and didn't even know it. That's when I didn't know him and was just watching him."

Brown wore No. 1 at Ole Miss and considered making that his number when the NFL made rule changes allowing players other than quarterbacks, punters and kickers to wear single-digit numbers. He was going to ask Warren Moon for permission to wear the retired No. 1 jersey. But that was before he discovered how impactful Moon was to the Oilers/Titans organization.

"I was about to bother you and ask you is there anyway I could wear the #1 until I read your Bio ... I'm not even deserving tbh," he tweeted in April. "Thank you for everything you've done for the game. Legend!! Salute!!"

The Titans were able to absorb Jones' $15.3 million cap number after starting quarterback Ryan Tannehill agreed to restructure his contract to create over $15 million in cap space. Tannehill now holds a $41.8 million cap hit in 2022 and a $39.8 million cap hit in 2023. Jones will have an $11.5 million cap hit in each of the next two seasons.

JULIO JONES

JONES SAYS PLAYING FOR TENNESSEE 'FEELS LIKE HOME'

SI.COM
AUGUST 1, 2021

NASHVILLE – The past is prologue. That does not mean it is forgotten. Not for Julio Jones.

After 10 seasons with the Atlanta Falcons, the Pro Bowl wide receiver still has to remind himself from time to time that he is a member of the Tennessee Titans. It happened Friday during his first media session of training camp when he said “Falcons” instead of “Titans” once. It also has come up in encounters with fans of his new team.

“Man, I sign stuff so much [and] I’m so used to putting ‘11’ on so many things,” he said. “Now, I’m the deuce. I’m sorry. It’s been a whole decade, right? So, it happens.”

With Tennessee, which acquired him in June via a trade with Atlanta, Jones will wear the No. 2, the same one he wore during his three seasons at the University of Alabama (2008-10). He also will be part of an offense that features running back Derrick Henry and includes another Pro Bowl wide receiver, A.J. Brown, and he will be part of a team that has been to the playoffs three of the last four seasons.

Make no mistake, whatever the adjustment, there is no place he’d rather be.

“It’s been good, man,” he said. “Just the team. Coach [Mike] Vrabel, everything he’s done for me to make the transition so easy for me. My teammates here. The staff. I mean, everybody here is so welcoming.

“It feels like home. It’s not like you’re here and it’s like, ‘What am I supposed to do? What am I supposed to do?’ There’s so many people to help you understand the locker room, the facility. Just everything. So, the transition for me has been very, very easy.”

Even though he has a different locale, different teammates and a different number, the Titans hope the 32-year-old will be the same player he was for most of his time in Atlanta.

They want him to be the guy – or at least close to it – who three times led the NFL in receiving yards per game. The guy who topped 1,000 receiving yards seven times and twice topped the league in that category. The guy who demanded attention from opposing defenses and, therefore, created opportunities for others to produce as well.

They do not expect him to be just one of the guys.

“One thing I told him was that I am going to hold the best players the most accountable and hope they can then, in turn, do that to the rest of the team,” Vrabel said. “I have always said that, that is something we believe in, that is how I was coached and that is what I know.

“I just wanted to make sure he understood that, which he did. And that was something he was very comfortable with and we were able to have a conversation. All our conversations and everything that he has done since he has been a member of our team has been positive.”

If Jones can perform as expected, he will make an offense that was one of the NFL’s best in the red zone last season and ranked in the top 10 in yards per pass attempt and touchdown passes even more potent.

And the way he sees it, a fresh start is the perfect way to send the message to the rest of the NFL that his days are not a thing of the past.

“It’s a great opportunity for me to just showcase my skills, my ability, what I can do and what I bring to the game,” Jones said. “Like I said, I can’t talk enough about the organization and the team here. It’s just family right off the bat.

“You love football, and the way these guys come out here, they compete and just the team camaraderie here. For me being a veteran guy coming to a new organization, ... I was blown away when I got here.”

WHEN YOU HAVE BRETT
KERN — A PRO BOWL
PUNTER AND A PRETTY GOOD ATHLETE — YOU TAKE SOME CHANCES

BY JOHN GLENNON
THE ATHLETIC
DECEMBER 17, 2019

The play call itself? Debatable.

When the Titans — in punt formation near the end of the first half Sunday — sent Amani Hooker in motion toward the right sideline, it appeared to all but wave a flag in the face of the Texans, alerting them that a fake might be in the works.

What special-teams unit, after all, would simply ignore the fact that two players were flanked wide to the right instead of the usual single gunner?

“(The Texans) definitely thought something was up,” Titans gunner Dane Cruikshank said. “That’s why they backed off their coverage.”

So go ahead and critique the design if you choose, but let’s show a little appreciation here for punter Brett Kern, whose 47-yard spiral downfield still nearly turned the fake into a success, his pass tipped away from Cruikshank at the last second by Texans defensive back Lonnie Johnson.

“I mean, it’s really a perfect throw,” exclaimed CBS Sports analyst Tony Romo, who knows a thing or two about slinging the football.

It’s been an out-of-the-ordinary season for the 33-year-old Kern, a 12-year veteran who may be headed to his third consecutive Pro Bowl after finishing first among punters in fan voting. He’s punting to his usual strong standards, fifth in the NFL in average (47.5 yards per attempt) and tied for third in net average (43.6 yards per attempt).

Kern’s arms and legs, however, have been even more entertaining than his foot.

BRETT KERN

Heading into Monday night’s game, Kern was the only punter in the NFL this season who had both run once and thrown at least two passes, plays that have resulted — at various times — in Kern’s near decapitation as well as in game-changing moments.

Who says punters live a life of leisure?

“Hey, whatever works,” Kern said Monday. “If there are certain looks or certain ways we can help the field position, help with trying to get first downs here or there, and take advantage of something the punt-return team does, then I’m all for it.”

Just why is it that Kern, who’d never thrown a single regular-season pass before this year, has been assigned a few more opportunities this season?

Maybe it’s as simple as a former NFL player — Titans coach Mike Vrabel — wanting to see his specialists sweat a little harder during practices that aren’t exactly exhausting.

“They’ve got a lot of time on their hands,” a half-serious Vrabel said. “They kick for about 10 minutes, then they snap and hold, then they probably throw passes and do some stuff.”

Kern won’t argue with that. When he punted collegiately at Toledo, Kern had enough spare time on his hands during practice that he took up holding for the team’s kicker. It turned out to be a pretty smart decision on Kern’s part, as he’s doubled as the Titans’ holder since arriving in Nashville.

So these days, Kern uses some of his extra moments to craft fakes, working alongside special-teams coach Craig Aukerman and assistant Matt Edwards.

“We just try to find out what’s realistic and what’s not, what’s a throw I could make and feel comfortable making it,” Kern said. “You just toss around the ideas of what would work and what wouldn’t, and then you go from there.”

Still, Vrabel wouldn’t be handing out extra responsibility — running and passing the football — in key situations to Kern unless he trusted his decision-making and athleticism. Considering Kern’s background includes long-jumping, high-hurdling, playing basketball (he has some nasty dunks on tape) and owning a one-handicap in golf, it’s a pretty safe bet he’s not going to trip over his own two feet while attempting a fake.

“I guess you never really know about the term ‘athletic,’ what it means to be an athlete,” Kern said. “That’s always a debate in our locker room, as far as what it is to really be an athlete.

“Shooting hoops out here definitely helps me. Playing golf helps. Being able to throw the football a little bit helps, too.”

When it works as planned, everyone looks like a genius.

That was the case earlier this season against the Los Angeles Chargers, when Kern connected on a perfect 11-yard strike to Kevin Byard, producing a first down on fourth-and-8. That completion led to the Titans’ first score of the game and a 3-0 lead.

But all the extra practice hours and all the surprising athleticism in the world don’t always result in success. No one knows that more than Kern, who’s been part of two special-teams failures this season.

The first oops was especially memorable to everyone, with the possible exception of Kern, who still may be fuzzy about the fake field-goal attempt against Tampa Bay. Kern took the deep snap from center on that play, then stood up and headed around left end in search of a first down. But Buccaneers linebacker Devin White read the play perfectly and delivered a frightening, flattening hit on Kern.

“I heard (the hit) and I thought, ‘Oh my God,’” Taylor Lewan said following that contest. “I thought he was dead.”

Kern managed to survive quite well, thank you, to the point he was back at it last Sunday, throwing long to Cruikshank with the Titans facing fourth-and-10 at Houston’s 37-yard line.

Should Vrabel have simply stuck with the offense in that situation, especially considering Ryan Tannehill’s success at converting third-and-long plays since becoming the starter? One could certainly make an argument that going a more traditional route would have offered a better chance at success than having a punter throw a Hail Mary.

Still, hats off to Kern for making an on-the-money toss halfway down the field.

It was simply the latest lively moment in a season that’s offered Kern more than his usual share.

Who knows when the Titans will once again call on his arm — or legs — to complement that rocket of a right foot?

KERN HONORS ANNIVERSARY OF BIRONAS' DEATH

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
NASHVILLE POST
SEPTEMBER 21, 2017

Tennessee Titans punter Brett Kern didn't let the anniversary of Rob Bironas' death go unnoticed.

Wednesday marked three years since the former Titans kicker was killed in a one-car accident. Kern, who doubled as Bironas' holder for more than four and a half seasons, wore the No. 2 (Bironas' number) during the workout in preparation for Sunday's game against Seattle at Nissan Stadium (noon, Fox).

"I think about Rob all the time," Kern told the team's website. "... [I] figured this is a way I could pay him respect by remembering him. Wearing the No.2 jersey, it was great to honor him for the day."

Bironas spent his entire NFL career (144 games) with the Titans. He earned the job in 2005 after having failed to catch on with other teams the previous three years and having spent time in two arena leagues.

In nine seasons, Bironas made 85.7 percent of his field goal attempts and 99.4 percent of his extra-point tries. His field goal accuracy ranks fourth in NFL history. He set an NFL record when he made eight field goals in a single game (Oct. 21, 2007 at Houston) and earned All-Pro recognition in 2007.

Bironas is second-leading scorer in Tennessee/Houston history with 1,032 points. His 60-yard field goal against Indianapolis (Dec. 3, 2006) is a franchise record and one of 11-game winning kicks (another franchise record) he made during his career.

Those numbers and achievements ensure he will always have a place in Titans history. For one day, Kern went for something a little more personal "To this day, I still don't go by his house, or take the road where the accident happened," Kern said. "I try to stay away from that stuff. But [long snapper] Beau Brinkley and I are always reminiscing about him, and talking about things he did. It makes us laugh.

"There's definitely things that make you think about Rob, and wonder if he is looking down on you. I hope he appreciated me wearing his No.2 out there (Wednesday)."

KENDALL LAMM

NEW TITANS OT KENDALL LAMM CAN'T WAIT TO BLOCK FOR DERRICK HENRY, 'ONE OF THE BEST RUNNERS EVER'

BY MIKE ORGAN
THE TENNESSEAN
MARCH 18, 2021

No matter how you look at it, Kendall Lamm is going from one good situation to another in the NFL.

The six-year offensive tackle spent the last two seasons in Cleveland blocking for one of the NFL's most formidable rushing attacks featuring running backs Nick Chubb and Kareem Hunt.

After signing a two-year deal with the Titans, worth up to $8.5 million according to Ian Rapoport of NFL Media, Lamm will now block for two-time rushing champion Derrick Henry.

"You can't go wrong with either or (Henry, Chubb or Hunt)," Lamm said. "I mean, Derrick Henry is the king. I get it. But Nick Chubb and Kareem Hunt are phenomenal. At the same time, though, I know the stats speak for themselves. So we'll just leave it at that."

The statistical similarities are uncanny.

Over the last two seasons Henry rushed for a total of 3,567 yards. Chubb and Hunt, who missed part of the 2019 season with a sports hernia injury, combined for 3,582 yards.

The Titans were the No. 2 rushing team in the NFL last season (2,690 yards) and the Browns were No. 3 (2,374).

Lamm's first impression of Henry was memorable. It came when Lamm was still at Houston where he spent four seasons after being an undrafted free agent out of Appalachian State in 2015.

"I remember watching Derrick Henry in the far end zone warm up with the Titans and telling myself, 'He is literally (former Texans' middle linebacker) Benardrick McKinney's size (6-foot-4, 257 pounds) at running back,'" Lamm said.

"And then to watch him be able to do the things he does ... that's what you want," he said. "We literally play offensive line to open holes for a man like that. To know I'm going to have the opportunity to block for possibly one of the best runners ever; it's going to be so tight man."

Lamm's time in Houston overlapped with Titans coach Mike Vrabel, who was the Texans' linebackers coach (2013-16) and defensive coordinator (2017).

In his four seasons at Houston Lamm made a career-high 13 starts in 2018. He played in 19 games with three starts for the Browns the past two seasons.

Titans fans may remember Lamm from last season when the 6-5, 310-pounder made a 1-yard TD catch on a tackle-eligible play in a Week 13 game the Browns won 41-35.

Lamm will never forget it.

"It's a moment as a bigger dude growing up you dream about," Lamm said. "We block everyday when we try to make sure the receivers can do their job so they can get that glory. The fact that I was able to do that is a feeling I can't even describe. I still have the ball. It literally has a picture on it from when I caught it. It will be one of my fondest memories ever."

HAROLD LANDRY III

CORONAVIRUS HAD LITTLE IMPACT ON LANDRY'S OFFSEASON

BY MIKE HOGAN
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
AUGUST 3, 2020

Tennessee Titans outside linebacker Harold Landry said it was crazy how things worked out for him this offseason.

When the coronavirus pandemic took the country by storm more than five months ago, team facilities were shut down and in-person, full-team workouts were suspended. The entirety of the NFL's all-important offseason was conducted via Zoom, an online group-meeting application that many didn't even know existed until mid-March.

As a byproduct, players across the NFL and other professional leagues had to come up with their own ways to stay in five-star shape. Some players purchased Peloton bikes and home workout equipment, while others traveled to different states to meet with personal trainers or teammates.

Landry was an exception. He already had all he needed.

"I was actually doing a legit home gym before the whole COVID thing broke out," Landry said during a video press conference Monday. "Then the whole COVID thing broke out and I was already set with the renovations and everything on my house to have my own gym. I'm ready to go."

A second-round draft pick in 2018 out of Boston College, Landry was a starter for the first time last season and was one of two members of the Titans' front seven who started every game.

He led the team with nine sacks and set career-highs with 81 tackles, 28 quarterback pressures, four tackles for loss and two fumble recoveries. He also forced a fumble and intercepted a pass.

Most of Landry's production, however, came in the first 12 weeks of the regular season

Over the course of the Titans' final seven contests (four regular season games, three postseason games), Landry recorded one sack (against Baltimore in the AFC divisional round) and 22 total tackles.

Earlier this offseason, Titans outside linebackers coach Shane Bowen said Landry's lack of production down the stretch of last season was a combination of two different factors.

"I think he is still adamant about developing his body, his strength, his stamina, all of those things," Bowen said in June. "But in my mind, he played too many plays. I've got to do a better job of not putting so much on him in terms of play count. Hopefully we get him at his best when we need him at his best down the stretch."

Landry, while thankful to hear that Bowen had his back, said otherwise.

"I guess I just had a cold spurt," he said "You hate to see it, but it happens. I'm not too worried about that happening this year. I feel tremendous. I'm just ready to go.

"I feel whenever he wants me out there, I should be able to perform at a high level. That's on me. I just need to be able to perform at my best, full go, every single play. I think it has more so to do with me than it does him."

As training camp opens, Landry said he does not feel any added pressure to be more productive in 2020. His hard work and preparation this offseason -- along with his year-to-year development - - will speak for him when the regular season commences on Sept. 14 in Denver.

"I'm ready to take that next step. My goal is really when I came into the league, it's just be a better player every single year I come into the league. I feel I took a step from year one to year two and now it's time to take a step from year two to year three, and I think I'm ready to do that. I've been putting in a lot of work and I'm excited for the season."

TITANS DRAFT PICK TAYLOR LEWAN THE FAMILY DAREDEVIL

*BY DAVE BIRKETT
DETROIT FREE PRESS
MAY 9, 2014*

NEW YORK — Before he grew into his 6-foot-7, 309-pound body and became one of the best offensive linemen in the country, Taylor Lewan fashioned himself as a future X Games star.

Lewan, the Michigan offensive tackle who's expected to be a high first-round pick in today's NFL draft, spent part of his youth growing up in Cave Creek, Ariz., riding dirt bikes on his family's 12-acre ranch and at an amateur motocross track in the desert the locals call The Watering Hole.

"Taylor, actually, believe it or not, was an unbelievable dirt bike rider," said Bryce Lewan, Taylor's 19-year-old brother. "My dad actually made him quit because of football 'cause he didn't want him to get injured or anything like that. That was actually his passion before anything else. Riding dirt bikes and being a country boy."

Lewan said he started riding dirt bikes as a 5-year-old when his grandfather got him a Yamaha PW50.

The Tennessean's Titans Insider talks about the team's first-round draft pick, Michigan tackle Taylor Lewan. The Tennessean

By the time he was 16, he had three bikes and he spent most of his downtime tooling around the desert, riding trails and navigating step-ups — changes in elevation — that sent him soaring 100 feet or more in the air.

"There's something about taking off just riding, going 125 feet and everyone's just like, 'Oh my god, you're in the air and you're a couple stories up.'" Lewan said. "That's crazy. I love it."

The family daredevil, Lewan said he mastered a few basic tricks as a teenager, including jumping off and getting back on his bike in the air.

"I never could backflip or anything like that, but I thought I was pretty damn good," he said. "They had some pretty crazy jumps out there. I broke my wrist once, I had all these scars on my chin from it, a couple separated shoulders once in a while, but you always come back. It's great. Puked blood a couple times. It's exciting."

These days, Lewan doesn't ride bikes anymore, though he said he wants to again after his playing days are done, and gets on a motorcycle only when his good friend Nick Bennett, one of two buddies he brought to New York for the draft, lets him ride his Harley around the block.

Lewan, who started 48 games at left tackle for the Wolverines and took predraft visits to the Lions, Rams, Giants, Falcons and Cardinals, said his fun-loving nature shouldn't be confused with a wandering eye from football.

"I mean, if you watch me play football, I'm so determined to be successful, I'm so determined to be that No. 1 guy," he said. "Those are the things I care about. I'm sitting here maybe being the first, second or third tackle taken off the board right now and personally that (ticks) me off."

"I'd rather be the worst tackle in the draft than the second best just 'cause I hate it when you're that close and somebody has to say, this guy's better than you. This one guy's better or this two guys (are) better than you. And that's not to take away from them because they are phenomenal guys. Everything about them are great. It's just one of those things."

Lewan is rated the second- or third-best offensive lineman by most draft analysts, behind Auburn's Greg Robinson and Texas A&M's Jake Matthews.

Both Robinson, a mauling run blocker, and Matthews, a polished pass protector and the son of Hall of Fame lineman Bruce Matthews, are in the mix to go second overall to the Rams.

NFL Network analyst Mike Mayock said Lewan is a "finesse" player, but projects him to go sixth overall to the Falcons.

"He's a great athlete," Mayock said. "He tested as well or better than any other tackle at the draft. I'd like to see him be able to finish a little bit more in the run game, but what I like about him is his athletic ability."

Lewan said he doesn't just want to test better than his fellow tackles, he wants to be better than them when all is said and done.

"I would never sit here and tell anybody that I think I'm second best at anything I do just 'cause that's the competitive nature of everybody here," Lewan said. "Off the field, am I fun loving guy? I love to be around all my friends and do certain things. Yeah, it's great. It's awesome. Always have a smile on my face."

"But as soon as I step between the lines it's not like that. When I watch film, it's not like that. When I go to practice, it's not like that."

TITANS 'HYPED UP' TO GET TAYLOR LEWAN'S BIG PERSONALITY BACK

BY TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN
AUGUST 14, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- The 2020 season turned out to be another strong one for the Tennessee Titans' offensive line, but that doesn't mean the team was the same without left tackle Taylor Lewan.

The three-time Pro Bowler made it through four games in 2020 before suffering a torn ACL in the Titans' 42-36 win over the Houston Texans in Week 6. Lewan went down in the second quarter and was out for the rest of the season.

"He's a big personality, the life of the party so to speak," offensive line coach Keith Carter said. "From an energy and juice standpoint, that's really important. You need that. He's a big help getting over those hump days."

The Titans pressed on in 2020 without Lewan, winning the AFC South division title, fueled by running back Derrick Henry becoming the eighth NFL player to rush for more than 2,000 yards. Accomplishing such big things hardly meant Lewan's impact wasn't missed.

"Taylor is a large part of what we are doing here," coach Mike Vrabel said. "He does have some energy and excitement. He has been locked in, and he has done everything that we have asked him to do in his return."

They say "absence makes the heart grow fonder." That was exactly the case for Lewan and his relationship with football.

"I have a newfound appreciation for the game," Lewan said. "I've never been excited in my life just to practice. I'm just really happy with where I'm at and fortunate to be as healthy as I am."

Lewan was so eager to put the work in that his legs were sore after reporting to camp early to help out some of the younger offensive linemen.

"It's nice to feel the pains of football. I missed it all," Lewan added.

According to Lewan, there were points when he wondered if he'd be the same player on the field again or if he would be strong enough to play. He had no idea how the recovery process was going to be because it was his first time requiring surgery after an injury.

Lewan says he attacked each day like it was a new opportunity to get better, even the days when he didn't want to get out of bed because he was hurting. Lewan said he kept a journal where he'd log what he wanted to accomplish every day. That helped him reset and get through some of the down periods.

As the Titans enter their third week of camp, Lewan says he feels like the same person he was before the knee injury. A lot of that comes from what he calls "an amazing" team that he put together to help him through the rehab process.

His workload has steadily increased to the point where he's taking reps in the team period and going full tilt. Initially, Lewan's reps would conclude on contact. Now it's all the way through the whistle.

Having missed so much time, Lewan is eager to get back on the field. But he has trust in the coaching and training staff to bring him along at the correct pace so he can be ready to go for the season opener against the Arizona Cardinals. There was a time when perhaps things wouldn't have gone so smoothly.

Carter and Lewan didn't exactly hit it off when the two started working together in 2018. Carter admits he came in full of "piss and vinegar" to set a tone with the group. Lewan said there was some resistance, but ultimately Carter has helped elevate his game to another level.

"You go from a guy like [former Titans O-line coach] Russ Grimm, who's a relaxed guy, the type that maybe would have a beer in the morning," Lewan said. "Keith is a high-strung dude. It's a big change. I've never done a good job with authority, and he's definitely an authority figure, so that was a hard thing for me to handle. But I really appreciate Keith and what he's done for this team, especially this offensive line."

Now Lewan and Carter have an excellent relationship to the point where the veteran tackle is a player the coach relies upon to reinforce executing specific techniques and bringing energy to practice.

Lewan can be heard cheering on players and talking trash with the defense. There's a different emotional level when Lewan is on the field.

That stems from when Lewan was in high school playing nose tackle. He posted a video on YouTube of himself playing, thinking it would get him a scholarship. Instead, it brought criticism from a teammate, who said he goes hard only every once in a while.

Lewan vowed to never have his effort questioned again. He wants his energy to rub off on his teammates.

"It's juice, man," Lewan said. "You have millions of people watching, and you have an opportunity to put something on film that everyone around the league is going to judge you for. I love playing football and taking a guy and throwing him to our sidelines and dudes get hyped up."

HIS ARIZONA HIGH

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
NASHVILLE POST
OCTOBER 18, 2017

Taylor Lewan's first Pro Bowl appearance was worth something for his high school. Thousands of dollars, in fact.

Cactus Shadows High School (Cave Creek, Az.) announced this week that it received a $10,000 donation from the Tennessee Titans left tackle. The money will be used for athletics upgrades, including "new banners for the stadium, an industrial washer and dryer as well as other miscellaneous equipment."

Members of the winning team at last year's Pro Bowl (the AFC beat the NFC 20-13) received grants from the NFL Foundation, which could be directed to their high school or youth football programs.

"During our meeting Taylor was an absolute gentleman and really enjoyed the changes to our campus," Jim Swetter, assistant principal of operations and athletics, said in a prepared statement, according to the Scottsdale Independent. "He said he was going to donate the $10,000 to us because Cave Creek is home. We are very grateful for his generosity and his desire to help Cactus Shadows."

Lewan, one of five Titans players named to the 2016 Pro Bowl, was an all-state football player at Cactus Shadows. As a senior, he helped his team reach the state championship game.

"When students bond with their school, their desire to come back and give back drastically increases," Dr. Steve Bigbee, the school's principal, said. "We are so happy that Taylor felt that bond while he was here as student/athlete and we are grateful that he chose Cactus Shadows to be the recipient of his gratitude."

TITANS MAKE TAYLOR LEWAN RICHEST OL IN NFL HISTORY, GIVE HIM $80M, FIVE-YEAR EXTENSION

BY WILL BRINSON
CBSSPORTS.COM
JULY 27, 2018

The offensive tackle won't be holding out now, that's for sure

One of the concerns for the Tennessee Titans this offseason was making sure offensive lineman Taylor Lewan got into camp, paid, happy and not holding out. Lewan's been a stud since he was drafted in the first round of the 2014 NFL Draft, the anchor for the Titans physical running game. And he's being rewarded with a monster deal that will make him the richest offensive lineman in NFL history.

The Titans announced the extension on Friday morning.

And per Adam Schefter of ESPN, the contract is a whopper, worth a total of $80 million over five years. That's a very stout $16 million per year to protect Marcus Mariota's blindside, which easily eclipses the top tackle valuation on the market right now (Nate Solder got $15.5 million per year and $62.5 million total from the Giants this offseason).

Per Ian Rapoport of NFL Media, there are $50 million "in guarantees" with the deal. Flash the giant red siren for verbiage purposes: that does not mean $50 million guaranteed. But you can bet there's a substantial amount of guaranteed money built into this deal.

It isn't a no-brainer move for the Titans, but it's pretty close. Lewan made the Pro Bowl the last two seasons and is the tone-setter for a pretty close-knit group of offensive lineman in Tennessee. He's a nasty, physical presence in the run game, and with the addition of Dion Lewis alongside Derrick Henry, you can bet the Titans want to be aggressive in the run game.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT RACEY MCMATH

BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
MAY 4, 2021

Racey McMath. What a name.

But it's not just some random moniker. It is one that has meaning and significance.

When his mother was pregnant with him, she decided that would be his name because he consistently moved around.

"It felt like he was just racing in my stomach, so we said, 'Ok, that's going to be his name – let's call him Racey,'" his mother told LSU, where McMath played three collegiate seasons.

A sixth-round pick, McMath is one of two wide receivers the Tennessee Titans selected in the 2021 NFL Draft. And while how he got his name is probably the one thing everyone wondered upon his selection on Saturday, the 6-foot-3, 224-pounder is an interesting prospect for the Titans for many reasons.

Here are five things to know about one of the Titans' newest wide receivers:

He played with some of the best young wide receivers in the NFL. At LSU, McMath did not produce massive numbers on offense. He caught only 33 passes for 522 yards and four touchdowns in three seasons.

A lot of that had to do with the fact that he sat behind Minnesota Vikings star receiver Justin Jefferson, Cincinnati Bengals rookie Ja'Marr Chase and Carolina Panthers rookie Terrace Marshall Jr. Jefferson and Chase were first-round picks in 2020 and 2021, respectively, and Marshall was a second-round pick this year.

"To be honest, those guys, they are just great players," McMath said. "There were just kind of ahead of me and I learned from those guys and we always competed at the end of the day. I can't say that I didn't work hard or anything like that and that I didn't know what I was doing. But it was just something that happened. I know that everything happens for a reason and just waiting for the next step."

He shares a close relationship with Titans cornerback Kristian Fulton. Funny enough, McMath and Fulton, who the Titans selected in the second round of last year's draft, were college roommates. By now, Fulton has presumably welcomed his friend to Nashville.

"I'm pretty sure after things settle down I'm going to call and talk it up with him," McMath said shortly after he was picked. "That was my roommate at LSU, so we are closer than close."

McMath is a capable special teams contributor. While the Titans would like to see McMath develop as a receiver, he first will need to make an impact on special teams to make the roster and see action on game day.

Coach Mike Vrabel said the one thing that stood out about McMath in the pre-draft process was the high degree of "speed and violence" with which he plays.

"I feel like it is how I use my speed. I have the size," McMath said. "I play with a physical edge to the game, but I know my speed is a big thing in my getting up and down the field and making those plays."

He developed as a special teams contributor at LSU under Greg McMahan, who has been coaching that unit for more than a decade for numerous collegiate programs and the New Orleans Saints (2008-2016).

"Coach McMahan gave me the opportunity. He stayed on me. I always asked him questions and he always just gave me pointers on being a great special teamer because he saw the potential I had, and he always pushed me," he said. "He was the hardest on me at practice because he saw the potential. If I made a mistake, he would let me have it. I just know that was him wanting the best out of me because he saw the potential I had."

He's a champion. McMath helped lead his high school, Edna Karr, to a Louisiana state championship in 2016. As a sophomore at LSU in 2019, he contributed to a Tigers team that did not lose a game en route to dominating Clemson in the 2019 National Championship game.

A big-name connection. McMath had four touchdown receptions for LSU. He caught two of them from Heisman Trophy winner and 2020 No. 1 overall pick Joe Burrow, who now plays for the Bengals.

'HE KIND OF REMINDS ME OF JULIO': TENNESSEE TITANS' RACEY MCMATH FLASHING OFFENSIVE POTENTIAL

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 6, 2021

In spring 2019, Racey McMath was frustrated at LSU.

He aired his grievances with coach Ed Orgeron. He spoke with special teams coordinator Greg McMahan, too. Then a rising junior for the Tigers, McMath didn't want to leave Death Valley.

But in an LSU wide receiver room loaded with NFL talent, he craved more opportunities on offense.

"He was never out the door," LSU wide receivers coach Mickey Joseph told The Tennessean. "He was ready to roll, but he just wanted to get more reps because he wanted to prove to us that he had some receiving skills and that he just wasn't a special teams player."

McMath has flashed that receiving ability in his short time with the Tennessee Titans.

The rookie sixth-round pick has turned heads early in training camp with his play in one-on-ones and team periods. Last week, McMath had one of the highlight receptions of camp so far: using his 6-foot-3, 217-pound frame to get position and high point a back-shoulder throw down the sideline against tight coverage. His impressive physical tools for a wide receiver and speed – he ran a 4.35-second 40-yard dash at LSU's pro day – have popped at Saint Thomas Sports Park.

What he's displayed offensively, coupled with his special teams reputation as a gunner, have made him an early favorite to crack the Titans' 53-man roster.

training camp practice at Saint Thomas Sports Park Thursday, July 29, 2021 in Nashville, Tenn.

"He is fun to coach, man," Titans coach Mike Vrabel said last week. "He just keeps getting better. He has a unique skill-set. He is big. He is fast. He is coachable. Again, he takes a rep over there in the open field tackling drill as a receiver. Obviously, we are projecting him for a major special teams role, so he goes over there and is taking reps in the open field tackle on defense. Takes the coaching, doesn't miss a beat, bounces around."

Added McMath: "The more plays I make, it gives me more confidence. That's what I'm trying to do. Make more plays and play (with) more confidence and play faster out there."

Titans star receiver A.J. Brown couldn't resist the urge to compare McMath's receiving potential to another new teammate of his: Julio Jones.

"I don't want to say this, but he kind of reminds me of Julio," Brown said last week, cracking up as reporters furiously wrote down his comment. "That's the upside I think he has in him."

Tennessee Titans wide receiver Racey McMath (81) warms up during a training camp practice at Saint Thomas Sports Park Friday, July 30, 2021 in Nashville, Tenn.

LSU coaches always saw that upside, too.

McMath made his mark with the Tigers as a special teamer – "Probably the best in the SEC, or at least that's what our opponents communicated to us," McMahan said – but Joseph always believed McMath stacked up with the other future NFL players in the receiving room, which was headlined by the Vikings' Justin Jefferson (who broke the NFL's rookie record for receiving yards last season) and the Bengals' Ja'Marr Chase (the No. 5 pick in the 2021 NFL Draft).

Other pros who overlapped with McMath's tenure included 2018 second-round pick D.J. Chark (Jaguars), 2021 second-rounder Terrace Marshall Jr. (Panthers), 2018 sixth-rounder Russell Gage (Falcons) and 2020 seventh-rounder Stephen Sullivan (Panthers).

McMath posted an underwhelming 33 catches for 522 yards and four touchdowns at LSU (34 games). Overshadowed most of his career, he finally became a starter as a senior, but played just six games because of a hamstring injury.

Joseph believes he would've been drafted higher if he didn't get hurt.

"Racey was in that room, but let me tell you something: We never blinked one time when we had to put Racey in the game," Joseph said. "Yes, he was in a talented room. But he was also talented. ... Y'all seen him (in Nashville). That stuff don't just happen overnight. That's stuff you're born with. We can only do so many drills here at LSU. I go back to his competitive nature. He never backed down in practice from anybody. He was going against first-, second-round corners. It never got too big for Racey."

LSU wide receiver Jontre Kirklin (13) celebrates his touchdown with wide receiver Racey McMath (17) during the third quarter at Vanderbilt Stadium Saturday, Oct. 3, 2020 in Nashville, Tenn.

Joseph appreciated McMath's willingness to accept his role. And his humility stood out.

On Thursdays during game week, he never rehearsed touchdown celebrations with his LSU teammates. He preferred not to think about them until he scored. McMath was a quiet kid with a "warrior" mindset, Joseph said.

"He was going to fight to the end, and that's one thing I know about him," Joseph said. "Even with Ja'Marr Chase and Justin Jefferson and Terrace Marshall being there, I know if I had to be locked up in a closet with somebody (or) if we were playing streetball, I'd pick Racey. I'm sure Ja'Marr and Jefferson and Terrace, they'd all tell you that. He's just a guy with some grit and gets after you."

Joseph can see McMath having a 10-year career in the NFL.

"If you're going to be a third receiver or a fourth receiver, you better be able to play on (special teams)," Joseph said. "He can play on all four (special teams units) and give you 25-30 snaps a game (on offense) at full speed.

"He just sticks it out. He's got some grit. He's going to give (the Titans) everything he got."

ELIJAH MOLDEN

TITANS ROOKIE ELIJAH MOLDEN'S GOAL? PROVE HIS NFL VETERAN DAD'S HARD WORK PAID OFF

TURRON DAVENPORT
ESPN
JUNE 20, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- Elijah Molden was still in high school when then-University of Washington defensive coordinator Jimmy Lake started teaching him the Huskies' scheme. Lake received a call from Molden's mother, Christin, saying the young defensive back had sketched out pictures of the defense he had learned and covered his bedroom wall with them like posters.

"This guy means business," Lake thought to himself.

That's the impression Elijah, who was taken by the Tennessee Titans in the third round of the 2021 NFL draft, often leaves on those when talking about football. After all, playing cornerback is the family business. His father, Alex, was selected by the New Orleans Saints with the 11th pick in the 1996 draft and went on to play eight seasons with the San Diego Chargers and Detroit Lions.

"It wasn't like, 'You're going to get to the NFL or else.' But it was kind of just assumed that I would get here," Elijah said.

Elijah's path to the NFL was created in part by a great understanding of football passed along from his dad, who spent countless hours breaking down film and coaching his son from a young age.

Growing up Molden

Elijah is the second oldest of Alex and Christin's eight children. Each of them was given a development plan. It started with gymnastics to learn balance. Then they transitioned to soccer to work on foot quickness and changing speeds.

After that, the Molden kids were allowed to play whatever they wanted -- not just football.

"Just because Daddy played doesn't mean you have to," Alex told his children. "But if you do, I got the playbook."

Elijah's love for football was sparked early when he was able to go into the Chargers' locker room with his dad. He got to hang out with greats such as running back LaDainian Tomlinson, linebacker Junior Seau and safety Rodney Harrison.

Watching his father run out of the tunnel before games to blaring hype music made Elijah want to follow in Alex's footsteps.

"There wasn't a day where I woke up and didn't want to be a football player," Elijah said.

He started asking detailed questions about football in the fourth grade. Alex wasn't surprised because he could see Elijah's passion and competitive spirit growing.

The next year, Alex and Christin allowed Elijah to play tackle football a year earlier than they had planned because Elijah needed that physical aspect of the game. His speed and strength stood out.

"I would get giddy," Alex said. "[Elijah] was using stiff-arms, blowing kids up. He was having so much fun. When he put on the pads, it was just like me when I played. It gave him so much freedom."

Breaking down film with Dad

Elijah initially wanted to play running back because he loved Adrian Peterson. But Alex encouraged him to play defensive back once he got to the eighth grade, knowing he could begin to share his knowledge and experience.

"I had to approach him," Elijah said of Alex. "He'd never just show me. He was hands-off until I showed him I wanted to know."

Alex wanted his son to think like an eight-year NFL veteran rather than an eighth-grader. Unlike typical fans, the two didn't take in a football game in a few hours. Watching games turned into a four- or five-hour session.

"I would pause it after a big play and ask him if he knew why it happened," Alex said of their film study. "I'd explain to him what the DB's read was. You have to learn the reads and the keys. I would break things down like route patterns.

"When [opposing offenses] get to the 50-yard line, what are you thinking? I'm telling him, 'They're going to take their shot.' When you get 3-on-1, what are you thinking depending on what receiver is on the field side? They're trying to isolate. That really helped with football IQ, having him watch film and break down what the receiver or offensive coordinator was thinking. It's all about tendencies."

This is where the foundation of Elijah's football knowledge was built, which impressed the Titans in pre-draft interviews.

"I think he's been raised well. He was just really intelligent," GM Jon Robinson said after the Titans selected Elijah in the draft. "He knew about our football team. He had prepared for the interview by watching our football team. He spoke highly of how we played and the effort and the finish with which we play."

How Elijah ended up in Lake's hands

Alex got to coach Elijah as his position coach at West Linn High School in Oregon. One of his proudest memories came when Elijah was only 14 and locked down an opposing team's wide receiver who had been offered a scholarship to Arizona. When Elijah was a freshman, he got his own scholarship offer from Oregon, his father's alma mater, after attending one of the school's football camps.

ELIJAH MOLDEN

Other offers followed.

When he was a junior, Elijah was offered a chance to visit the University of Washington and watch spring ball on an unofficial visit. Alex didn't think the long drive to the Seattle area was worth it -- especially since the school was a Pac-12 rival of Oregon's. So Elijah and his mother took the three-hour drive without him.

They were blown away by the campus and the program, so they arranged another visit, with Alex this time. Everything changed for Alex after he met Lake. Suddenly, the idea of turning over the keys to Elijah's success to his alma mater's rival wasn't such a bad idea.

"[Lake] broke down film, and the attention to detail was on another level," Alex said. "Also, the success he had with defensive backs made me realize this was the perfect breeding ground. He coached in the NFL. That set off bells with me. Yeah, I would have loved for [Elijah] to be a Duck, but it was a perfect scenario for him to go there."

Lake, who coached defensive backs in the NFL for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2006-07, 2010-11) and Detroit (2008), sold them on Washington's track record with defensive backs, such as NFL first-rounders Kevin King and Desmond Trufant.

"There was already proof in how we developed those guys, how they moved on and were successful in the NFL," Lake said. "Alex knew a lot of the guys that I had coached in the NFL and those guys being All-Pros, one of which was a future Hall of Famer in Ronde Barber, so he respected the process."

Lake, who's now the head coach at Washington, said Elijah was one of his favorite recruits to watch on film. He loved Elijah's physical ability and leadership, noting how the team would "sway with however Elijah was playing."

Elijah's inquisitive side came out as well. He asked detailed questions about the Huskies' techniques and scheme. Lake was impressed that Elijah wanted to know what everyone around him was doing in addition to what his own duties were.

"He prides himself on learning every detail of the defense," Lake said. "You could see that he was a football junkie. When you got him on the phone, you could tell that he had a passion for playing."

Another Molden's NFL journey begins

Elijah developed into a top NFL prospect, finishing with 153 tackles (seven for a loss), five interceptions, 19 passes defended and four forced fumbles in 36 games at Washington.

"With what I taught him and what Coach Lake taught him at UW, he was seeing things at a totally different rate of speed," Alex said.

NFL scouts saw Elijah as one of the best nickel defenders in the 2021 draft class.

ESPN NFL analyst Louis Riddick jokingly referred to Elijah as the "Jedi of the slot" because of how well he played the nickel position.

"It's Luke Skywalker-type stuff. He can see all of these things, but there's never any panic," Riddick said. "There's a lot of chaos around him, but he's in control. That to me signifies a guy who's really dialed in to the game at another level. He comes from great bloodlines, and that stuff transfers. He'll quickly adapt to the pro game."

Making it to the NFL was always Elijah's goal, but the rookie said he isn't satisfied. For him, it's time to make sure all of the hard work his father poured into him pays off.

Elijah's message to his dad for Father's Day shows how much all of the lessons mean to him.

"Thank you for letting me live out my dreams and always giving me advice, keeping things in perspective," Elijah said. "When I step on the field, I can do what I do because of you, and when I'm off the field too. I appreciate that, and I love you!"

TITANS CEO BURKE NIHILL: MORE BIG EVENTS ON THE HORIZON AT NISSAN STADIUM, POSSIBLY EVEN A SUPER BOWL

BY MARQ BURNETT
NASHVILLE BUSINESS
JULY 27, 2021

With live events returning and football season on the horizon, Nissan Stadium has a packed calendar.

This weekend, Garth Brooks will take the field for a sold-out concert event.

Next week, the Big Machine Music City Grand Prix will take over the campus for a festival of racing, music and entertainment.

With Nissan Stadium serving as the paddock for the race, the 2.17-mile track will run across the Korean Veterans Memorial Bridge into downtown Nashville and back.

Looking ahead, there's also the World Cup qualifying match and the NHL Stadium Series.

We spoke with Titans president and CEO Burke Nihill about Nissan Stadium's wide variety of upcoming events, his thoughts on Oracle coming to Nashville and more. Here is our Q&A, edited for length and clarity.

What made you want to do more big events at Nissan Stadium?

It wasn't long ago Nissan Stadium hosted football games, CMA Fest and maybe something else if someone wanted to put on a concert at the stadium.

The last five or six years, we've really started to see not just the football team, but also the venue as something of a community trust. We have the ability, but also the responsibility to deliver great events to Nashville and Middle Tennessee.

We've put a lot of emphasis on making that a great venue for promoters to want to come and put on their event. It's starting to bear fruit.

There's a wide variety of events as well.

It is. It's a lot of fun. When you have a venue like ours, not just the capacity, but the centrality of its location being right across from downtown, it does open up the possibility to have a variety of events. We're certainly going to host as many football games as we can; Titans games, TSU [Tennessee State University] games, Music City Bowl. We're always open to hosting even more football games than that.

We love hosting soccer matches for Nashville SC this year and last year. Also international soccer games with the World Cup qualifier coming up in September.

Clearly this is Music City so we're going to host as many concerts as we can host working around our busy schedule.

It is really the more creative, diverse events that make it fun. ... This year, we have the Music City Grand Prix. I think the whole city is excited to see our parking lots and parts of downtown turned into a race track, so it's exciting.

Are there any events you're still after?

We are challenging ourselves to think differently and be innovative. At some point, maybe that means self-promoted events or festivals.

Racing around the gridiron: Nissan Stadium to be on full display during the Music City Grand Prix

We are scanning other venues of our size to see what other events they've had that are a bit outside of the box that we've never had a chance to host ourselves.

Stay tuned. I definitely can see some oddball events coming to the stadium in the next couple of years.

From a business standpoint, how does Oracle coming to Nashville impact Nissan Stadium and the Titans?

Oracle will be our neighbors on the East Bank. It's exciting to have a business the caliber of Oracle's not far down the East Bank.

In terms of the direct impact, we're hoping that a lot of those people who get those jobs become Titans fans and that we can deliver the types of non-Titans events at the stadium that would interest them so that they can see Nissan Stadium as a big part of what's great about Nashville.

What's the financial state of the team as recovery from the pandemic continues?

Last year was not a banner year for a lot of companies, and ours is certainly in that category. We're excited to hopefully host a full stadium of Titans fans this coming year, and to get back to the normal swing of things.

How do you view your role as sort of a spokesperson for the city and the team's role in the community? Do you feel like you're one of the faces of the city?

I don't know if I'm a face of the city, but we, as an organization over the last five years since Amy has become controlling owner, we've tried to become community leaders and reemphasize service in our communities.

Last year was a terrible year for the world, but it was a particularly bad year for Nashville. You add on the tornado and the Christmas Day bombing. Our initial reaction to that as an organization is that it's our responsibility to lead and let the community see us show up in meaningful and tangible ways to hopefully inspire the community to support each other, which is what people love to do here in Nashville.

Prior to Steve Underwood stepping down, he mentioned that the organization would be pursuing hosting a Super Bowl in the city. Is that still a goal of yours?

Absolutely. Certainly the stadium is going to need some work to get into Super Bowl worthy condition, but that's absolutely something we'll continue to throw our hat in the ring for in the coming years.

We think the NFL saw first hand what Nashville could do in terms of big events when the draft came in 2019. I know that they were impressed. When the stadium is ready, we're going to throw our hat in the ring for a Super Bowl or two.

What can you share about the stadium renovations?

Back in December, we announced with the mayor that we were having conversations about what's next for the stadium. At that time, we mentioned that we were going to be entering a phase where we would talk with the community about what they would like to see at the campus and that we were going to talk to our fans about what they wanted to see at the stadium.

That process is well under way. This is not the sort of thing that's a regular occurrence. We're going to measure twice and cut once. We continue to have conversations with the city.

They've been very positive conversations, but these things take time, especially the conversations with the community. ... Hopefully in the next few months we'll have more tangible progress that we're able to share, but at this point there's no breaking news.

What are you hearing during those conversations with the community?

A lot of what it comes down to is that our campus is really precious real estate. As you mentioned, Oracle is moving 8,500 jobs down the East Bank.

There's a real desire on the city planner's part and our part to get this right, to engage the riverfront in more meaningful ways, to get public amenities right and to ultimately create the sort of neighborhood that Nashvillians today and 50 years from now will be proud of.

HOW TENNESSEE TITANS PLAN TO HELP THOSE AFFECTED BY DEADLY FLOOD IN WAVERLY, HUMPHREYS COUNTY

BY BEN ARTHUR
THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 25, 2021

Tennessee Titans president and CEO Burke Nihill announced that the franchise will make a $50,000 donation for flood relief in Waverly and Humphreys County.

The Titans also have offered up Nissan Stadium for the Waverly Central football team, which saw its football complex destroyed by the devastating flooding that rocked Middle Tennessee on Saturday.

Nihill unveiled the Titans' plan to help at the team's Kickoff Luncheon on Wednesday.

"We've been working really hard over the last three days to figure out how we can have the most impact," Nihill told reporters. "We'll probably issue a press release with more details, but among things that we plan to do is have a large financial contribution, probably $50,000. We also plan to support the community in more tangible ways as well. We've been connecting with (Waverly Central's) high school coach. As you've probably read, their facilities were devastated. Their equipment is damaged. So we're working with our partners, with vendors to try to see what gaps we can fill in.

"In terms of the equipment, looking to potentially give them some washers and dryers for their equipment room. And thinking of even bigger things. We're planning to offer them the opportunity to play a home game at Nissan Stadium, seeing as though they're not going to be able to play home games at their own stadium this year. More details to come."

At least 19 people have been killed in the flood, and one person is still missing, officials confirmed to The Tennessean on Wednesday.

BURKE NIHILL

Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee on Wednesday signed a major disaster and state of emergency declaration for Humphreys County, which frees up state aid for residents impacted by the flooding.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel on Tuesday said his thoughts and concerns are with the people of Waverly.

They've lost family members. They've lost homes," Vrabel said. "Wanted to thank the first responders. ... Our team, our organization, our thoughts and our prayers are with everyone that was affected by the floods."

MORE THAN A HALF-CENTURY LATER, TITANS QBS COACH PAT O'HARA MEETS HIS BIRTH MOTHER IN "LIFE-CHANGING EXPERIENCE"

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
AUGUST 12, 2021

NASHVILLE – Titans quarterbacks coach Pat O'Hara has lived a blessed life, involved in a game he loves, surrounded by people he loves, for as far back as he can remember.

But in the back of his mind, as an adoptee, there was always something missing.

Until just recently.

Born and raised west of downtown Los Angeles, O'Hara was a star quarterback at Santa Monica High School. From there he attended USC, where he played well enough to be selected in the NFL Draft.

As a player, O'Hara spent 16 seasons on teams in the NFL, the Arena Football League and the World League. Over the years, he's also appeared in movies about football, including The Waterboy, Any Given Sunday, and The Game Plan.

He's also a long-time coach.

Today, O'Hara in his fourth season coaching QBs for the Titans, where he tutors veteran Ryan Tannehill and the team's other quarterbacks. His life-long passion for the game – and the profession – is evident from his many coaching stops, which began in high school and continued from the AFL to eventually the NFL.

Without question, O'Hara's football journey has been a long and rewarding one.

And so, too, was his search for his birth mother.

It's a search that recently ended for O'Hara, in life-changing fashion.

And the 52-year-old O'Hara is proud to tell his story.

"I could write a book on it," O'Hara said with a smile. "It is hard to describe the feeling, especially at my age, to find out now. I don't know if it has taken a huge load off my shoulders, but I feel different in a positive way.

"You always wonder as an adoptee about things, and it is hard to explain unless you are an adoptee. But my experience has definitely been a great one, and I have a whole new respect for not only my birth mother, but my mom and dad, who are no longer with us. They were amazing people, and I wish that they could have been a part of me meeting my birth mother."

During a social media post on July 11, O'Hara posted a picture with his birth mother, with the following caption:

"It took half a century to find and connect with this amazing woman. So blessed and thankful to meet my birthmother who is beautiful inside and out. The strongest person I've ever met. Thank you for giving me life and accepted me after all these years...I love you! #ImAnAdoptee"

Following a recent training camp practice, O'Hara provided the background on his search, and the meeting.

He knows his life will never be the same because of it.

Understand, O'Hara found more than just his birth mother – he found a big family in Long Island, New York.

"I've always known I was adopted," O'Hara said. "I grew up on Santa Monica and ended up going to USC, and I found out the adoption agency was a mile from campus. I went over there when I was 18 years old and tried to get some information, and I wasn't allowed to get it. So, the search began.

"There was a lot in between there, a lot of searching. But I found my birth mother, and my whole family from Long Island. It's incredible, really."

At the end of his search, O'Hara said he discovered his birth mother was very young and frightened when she had him on September 27, 1968.

She never told anyone about him.

After years and years of looking, O'Hara was able to locate her, he said.

But even then, it took a lot of dialogue before she was willing to meet with him.

"There was some apprehension on her part – she had never told anybody," O'Hara said. "So, over the last year-and-a-half, there were a lot of phone conversations, working through things. And she was finally at a point where she was ready to meet."

On July 4, O'Hara and his family – his wife, Billie, and his two boys, Tyler and Trace – flew to New York for the meeting.

He'll never forget what happened next.

"It was a blur," O'Hara recalled. "It really was really a blur, because I look exactly like her. It is hard to describe, really. I am still kind of at a loss for words.

"I found my birth mother, and a whole family from New York that I didn't even know about, and they are wonderful. ... Being able to reunite with her, and her meeting my kids, her grandchildren. I have a brother, a sister in New York, a half-brother, half-sister, niece, nephews, just wonderful people up in Long Island. My kids now know who their grandmother is, biologically. It has just been a great experience.

"What's beautiful is my experience in reuniting with my birth mother has been unbelievable. It's an A-plus."

PAT O'HARA

O'Hara said he's stayed in touch with his birth mother on a regular basis since.

The family is planning to attend the Titans game against the New York Jets in East Rutherford, New Jersey, on October 3, and already plans are being made for a vacation next summer.

When O'Hara met his birth mother, she was wearing a gold necklace with the letter 'M' engraved on it.

Her name is Melissa.

Or, to him, "Mom."

"She is wonderful, a really amazing person," O'Hara said. "She is so strong to do what she did.

"All of this, it has completely changed my life right now. I really do have whole new respect for a lot of things. I have a whole new family, and a pretty large family. My parents have passed away, and my sister passed away. So, it is just me and my sister from the family I grew up in. So, now it is just kind of neat to have a whole group of people that are just wonderful. They're family, and it is just a really neat thing."

CANCER SURVIVOR DAVID QUESSENBERRY MAKES TOUCHDOWN CATCH FOR TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
SEPTEMBER 15, 2019

NASHVILLE – Titans tackle David Quessenberry beat cancer.

So, getting open and catching an NFL touchdown pass on Sunday was a piece of cake.

“It was a simple route --- any of the offensive linemen on this team could have caught that ball,” Quessenberry said after his memorable play. “I just happened to be the guy who had his number called on that play and was able to come down with it. All I was thinking was, ‘Don’t drop it.’”

Quessenberry didn’t drop it – he caught a one-yard touchdown pass thrown by quarterback Marcus Mariota in the team’s 19-17 loss to the Colts on Sunday.

What made the play so unique: Quessenberry is a 6-foot-5, 310-pound offensive tackle who hadn’t caught a pass since high school. He was lined up in the team’s jumbo package on the play, making him a tight end, and eligible to catch it.

What made it so special: Quessenberry was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma in June 2014 while with the Texans. His cancer went into remission after he completed radiation treatment in February 2015, and he completed his full treatment in April 2017, and returned to practice with the Texans.

Quessenberry joined the Titans last year, and he made the team’s 53-man roster this season.

“I have been through a lot, and it has been a long journey to get here,” Quessenberry said. “Even with all of that, to go out there and score a touchdown, it is crazy. That was amazing. It was epic.”

After making the catch, Quessenberry was swarmed by teammates.

Quarterback Marcus Mariota jumped into his arms as he held the ball above his head.

“The ups and the downs and the rollercoaster that he has been a part of,” Mariota said of Quessenberry. “It was a pretty cool moment for him, and hopefully something he’ll remember and cherish for the rest of his life.”

Titans coach Mike Vrabel was disappointed with the loss.

But he was happy for Quessenberry. Vrabel was defensive coordinator with the Texans when Quessenberry was in Houston.

“We’d like to have it help us win the game,” Vrabel said. “Dave is a valued member of this football team who can play multiple positions. He cares about the team. Every single day he’s into it on the sideline during the game. He executed the play and we were able to find him.”

After the game, Quessenberry said the Titans worked on the play in practice several times.

But in practice, Mariota never threw him the ball.

On Sunday, he found himself open – and he caught it.

“I guess he just trusted me,” Quessenberry said with a smile. “But I don’t think I am switching positions any time soon. I enjoy being an o-lineman too much. But if my number gets called and they need me to play jumbo tight end, I am happy to do it.”

FIRST CAREER START ONE TO REMEMBER FOR TITANS' DAVID QUESSENBERRY, WHO BEAT CANCER

BY PAUL SKRBINA
THE TENNESSEAN
NOVEMBER 30, 2020

David Quessenberry had more career touchdowns – one – than starts going into Sunday's game against the Colts.

The Titans offensive lineman pulled that score to 1-1 when he finally, four years after making his NFL debut and not much more than three years removed from his final cancer treatment, was able to start what he finished.

Quessenberry, whose football career and life were question marks when he was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's T Lymphoblastic lymphoma in 2014, took his place at left tackle for the beginning of what turned out to be a 45-26 victory Sunday.

He played 68 snaps, tied for most among Titans linemen in the game. Also the same number of combined snaps he'd played in 12 previous NFL games spanning three seasons.

"It's hard to put into words," Quessenberry said. "It really is. It was very special for me, something I've been working for for a long time. It's been a huge mountain to climb, a lot of valleys and peaks along the way."

On the field, Quessenberry had a front-row seat, but was far more than a spectator, when he helped Derrick Henry bulldoze the Colts for 42 of his 178 yards and the first of his three touchdowns.

In his head afterward, he couldn't help but recall his relationship with Titans coach Mike Vrabel. How he helped teach one of Vrabel's sons, Tyler, to play offensive line when the two were with the Texans. How Vrabel has stood by Quessenberry through his sickness and his health.

Quessenberry mentioned how "grateful for the type of man he is, his belief in me, giving me the nod this week."

"David Quessenberry stepping in, making his first start in six or seven years, pretty impressive (considering) the journey he's been on," Vrabel said.

Quessenberry was watching film last week when he was informed he very well could start. The first person he shared the news with was his wife, naturally.

"She's kind of seen those valleys and those hard days, and being able to share the good news with her is big," he said.

The 6-foot-5, 310-pound sixth-round pick of the Texans in 2013 was well aware he was trying to fill in for Taylor Lewan, the anchor of the line who will miss the rest of the season with a torn ACL. He and Lewan worked out together during the offseason.

Seeing him and other teammates injured, opening up a spot for him, wasn't easy. But it's all part of the game.

One he finally started. One that went pretty well, considering the Titans allowed Ryan Tannehill to be sacked just once and became the first team this season to score 35 points in a half.

"The touchdown was great, but give me a great team win any day of the week," Quessenberry said. "I'll take that."

DILLON RADUNZ

TITANS DRAFT PICK DILLON RADUNZ FINDS MOTIVATION IN MEMORIES OF LATE FATHER, FOOTBALL COACH

BROADWAY SPORTS
MEDIA
MAY 26, 2021

The tears began to flow within seconds of the Titans' call to Dillon Radunz on draft night.

In that sense, it mirrored the experience of top NFL prospects and their families all across the country, where pent-up joy and relief poured out when the big moment arrived.

But mixed in with the elation at the Radunz household in Becker, Minn., was also a sadness, an understanding there was a hole in the family gathering. This was not new, of course, as Jeff Radunz – Dillon's father – had died following a battle with alcoholism more than a decade ago.

Still, how could his presence not be felt at a time like this?

It was Jeff Radunz, a former college player himself, who moved the family to Becker when his kids were young, in large part because he wanted his boys – Dillon and younger brother Nick – to grow up in a strong, tight-knit football community.

It was Jeff Radunz who coached Dillon's sixth-grade football team, a video of Jeff beaming following his son's big pancake block still a part of family legend.

And of course, it was Jeff Radunz whose death inspired the tattoos on Dillon's right arm, a pair of angel wings to represent his father, along with the serenity prayer commonly associated with Alcoholics Anonymous.

So, yes, the announcement that Dillon Radunz had taken a giant step forward in his football career – chosen in the second round by the Titans with the 53rd overall pick – broke the tenuous hold the family had managed to keep on its feelings.

"There were tears across the board for everybody," said Dillon's mother, Kathy Radunz, her voice breaking as she recalled the moment. "Dillon and his brother have formed a bond since their dad died that is literally unbreakable. So to watch those two crying and talking about their dad within moments of receiving the phone call was just, uh, it was really hard. It was really hard.

"But Dillon always said his dad has the best seat in the house now. He gets to watch everything."

I'll make you proud

The relationship the family – which also includes Dillon's older sister, Danielle — shared with Jeff Radunz was a complicated one, as is almost always the case when dealing with those suffering from addiction.

He was always a big supporter of the kids and their athletic endeavors, but Radunz said his late father was an alcoholic "as far back as I can remember." What might have made matters even more challenging is that Radunz described Jeff as "a functional alcoholic," meaning the outside world didn't often see the symptoms his family did.

"We still did everything together and all that kind of stuff," Radunz said. "So it wasn't too crippling. He did go to rehab a few times."

Kathy Radunz, however, said the situation was especially stressful on her kids at a young age, as the family tried to support Jeff – living through a lot of emotional ups and downs. She noted that Dillon was old enough to understand the significance of the problem.

"There's not a lot of gray area with Dillon," Kathy Radunz said. "If he believes something's right, it's right, and if he believes something's wrong, it's wrong. Not to say he can't change his mind.

"But with his father, it was like, 'This is not right. This is not how you should be doing this. This is not what a father should be doing.' So that caused some struggles."

Kathy Radunz is thankful, though, that through some frank and difficult conversations, father and oldest son better understood one another before Jeff's death.

"They were able to talk about it and really work through some things," Kathy Radunz said. "I thank the Lord every single day for that. But it was tough."

Jeff Radunz passed on Aug. 10, 2010, the cause of death "an alcohol-related injury" that didn't involve a car crash, per the family. One month later, 12 year-old Dillon signed the online guestbook next to his father's obituary:

"Thank you for the gifts u gave 😊 I'll make u proud."

Imagining him there helping me

The loss of a parent at a young age can send a child spinning in all kinds of directions, but Kathy Radunz was determined not to let Dillon falter.

As the oldest son, he felt he should in some ways take on his father's role, serving as a source of strength and protection for the family. Kathy Radunz kept it simple for her seventh-grader, telling Dillon just to focus on maintaining his good grades and competing in three sports – football, basketball and track.

"I hope I did a good job of making sure he knew he didn't have to take on that role," Kathy Radunz said, "and allowed him to – after a while – just be a kid again."

Added Dillon: "She was kind of the rock to it all ... So as a kid, I was kind of like, I'm just going to try to have fun and try to see where I can go with this, use it as a motivation tool instead of something to bring me down.”

It wouldn't be long before other father figures stepped up to help the young Radunz.

One was Jeff Radunz's brother, Uncle Mike to Dillon. Another was Dillon's Becker High math teacher, who also happened to coach him in basketball and track. A third was legendary Becker football coach Dwight Lundeen, who's earned a reputation of churning out quality young men as well as title after title during his 53-year tenure.

Lundeen found himself equally impressed with the emotional make-up and the tremendous athleticism of Radunz, who started on both sides of the ball – a 6-6, 270-pound offensive tackle and defensive end – on back-to-back state championship teams during his junior and senior seasons.

“It was a situation where he could have been angry at the world and frustrated with taking on so much responsibility so early,” Lundeen said. “But he was just a very mature young man. He was very grounded in his family. He balanced his academics and his life extremely well, stayed on top of everything.”

It was also clear to Lundeen that Radunz's late father was still very much on the son's mind, an invisible presence Dillon sought to please.

“There's no doubt it was difficult for a young man not to have that father image there,” Lundeen said. “But he would always say, ‘Dad is watching.’ We said, ‘You bet he is. He was a great Becker football fan.’ He just felt like he was honoring his father, and I think that helped him to focus and to play well.”

It was in Radunz's sophomore season that he first taped a picture of his father inside his football helmet. Somehow the image stayed intact for three years, defeating the forces of sweat and weather.

Radunz also began a pre-game ritual he's continued ever since, taking a knee – and a moment to himself – to connect with Jeff.

“I just try to picture him up in the stands,” Radunz said. “I've got an old video of him coaching me. So I'm just imagining him being able to be there helping me. It's just something that reminds me of my roots, where I came from.”

Helping people with addictions

Radunz's football career at North Dakota State didn't gain immediate traction, as he took a redshirt year in 2016 and then tore his ACL just 15 snaps into the 2017 season.

The unfortunate circumstances did allow Radunz more time to spend on his academics, a significant silver lining since he had chosen a challenging path of studies: Industrial engineering and management.

About a year-and-a-half into that major, Radunz considered switching to Psychology, telling his mother he wanted “to be able to help people who've gone through stuff like we've gone through.” Radunz ultimately stuck with his first choice, but the urge to use his own personal experiences to benefit others remained a strong one.

In fact, Radunz recently helped initiate a $1,000-per-year scholarship fund at Becker High, the only requirement that entrants would be limited to students who'd lost a parent or guardian – as he lost his father to alcoholism.

“That's something I'm super passionate about – just helping people with addictions, being able to talk to people through it,” Radunz said. “Because I grew up with it.”

Once Radunz eventually got on the field, meanwhile, he quickly made an impact at North Dakota State, whether it was protecting quarterback Trey Lance – the third overall pick of the 2021 draft – or blocking for a Bison running game that totaled a school-record 4,601 yards in 2019. North Dakota State won three straight Football Championship Subdivision championships from 2017-19.

And despite Radunz's lesser-known FCS profile, he was the first player extended an invite to play in the 2021 Senior Bowl.

“One of the mottos at North Dakota State is ‘Raise to Maturity,’ and I think Dillon had that maturity as a young kid,” said Vanderbilt offensive line coach A.J. Blazek, who held the same position at North Dakota State during Dillon's last two seasons.

“He does talk about his dad. That's a driving force for him. He knows that's a motivator. It's really important to make his dad proud in what he does.”

Remembering my dad

Only three days after playing in North Dakota State's only football game last year – the Bison's season cut short by COVID-19 – Radunz packed a suitcase or two and flew to California, where he spent months training under former NFL Pro Bowl tackle Joe Staley.

Preparing for the Senior Bowl was especially important for a prospect like Radunz, who had to show NFL scouts – as well as himself – he had what it took to compete with high-level players from Football Bowl Subdivision powers.

“We're all human, so, yeah, there was some nervousness there, especially when people tell you constantly, repeatedly that you're not from that level so it's going to be a change,” Radunz said. “But I knew there was a plan in place. I knew I had enough confidence in my game to just go out there and do what I did.”

Things couldn't have gone much better for Radunz, who was named the Senior Bowl's practice player of the week. He not only led his National team to victory in the game, but celebrated by dumping a water container – full of Reese's peanut-butter cups – on Miami

DILLON RADUNZ

Dolphins coach Brian Flores afterward.

Radunz's performance in Mobile, Ala., sealed his value in the eyes of NFL teams like the Titans, setting the stage for the NFL Draft.

On night two of the big event, Radunz gathered family and friends in Becker, awaiting the phone call that would change his life. Among those present of course was Uncle Mike, the man who'd done so much to fill the void in Radunz's life over the years. In Jeff Radunz's absence, it was Uncle Mike who often served as Radunz's coach, took him hunting, taught him the lessons he needed to learn.

So it didn't take long after announcing his destination that Radunz turned to his Uncle Mike, the two reveling in the news – wishing Jeff Radunz was there to enjoy it with them, but confident he was still somewhere watching with a smile.

“Between us, we hugged it out,” Radunz said. “(My uncle) was crying, and he's not normally a guy who cries a lot. So it was just a special moment that we shared together.

“We were remembering my dad – and his brother. Just being able to share that was an awesome thing.”

JOSH REYNOLDS

TITANS ADD FORMER RAMS WR JOSH REYNOLDS ON ONE-YEAR DEAL

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MARCH 23, 2021

NASHVILLE – The Titans have bolstered their receiving corps with the addition of former Los Angeles Rams receiver Josh Reynolds.

On Tuesday, the team and Reynolds officially agreed to terms on a one-year contract.

Reynolds (6-3, 196) had a career-best 52 catches for 618 yards and two touchdowns in 2020 with the Rams.

In four NFL seasons, Reynolds has played in 64 games, with 24 starts. He's worked in the slot and on the outside at receiver during his career, and he's caught 113 passes for 1,450 yards and nine touchdowns. He's recorded 23 catches of 20-plus yards, one catch of 40-plus yards, and 67.3 percent of his receptions have resulted in first downs.

Per Sportradar, Reynolds lined up as an outside receiver on 69.5% of the snaps last season with the Rams, and in the slot 22.1% of the time.

Reynolds has never missed a game during his career. His 64 consecutive games played puts him in a tie for the third-longest current streak among all active wide receivers.

Reynolds, 26, will have an opportunity to compete for significant playing time alongside third-year receiver A.J. Brown in 2021, following the departure of Corey Davis in free agency, and the release of Adam Humphries earlier this month.

The Titans also have receivers Cam Batson, Cody Hollister, Nick Westbrook-Ikhine, Rashard Davis, Chester Rodgers, Marcus Johnson and Mason Kinsey on the roster.

The Rams selected Reynolds, who played at Texas A&M, in the fourth round (117th overall) of the 2017 NFL Draft.

At Texas A&M, Reynolds led the SEC with 30 career receiving touchdowns, which ranks second in school history. In his collegiate career, Reynolds caught 164 passes for 2,788 receiving yards, and he caught a touchdown in the final eight games of his career. He's the only player in Texas A&M and SEC history with multiple 90-yard plus receptions in his career.

JON ROBINSON

TITANS CONTROLLING OWNER AMY ADAMS STRUNK, GM JON ROBINSON, HC MIKE VRABEL WANT TO MAKE DIFFERENCE IN FIGHT FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
JUNE 11, 2020

NASHVILLE – Jon Robinson sat at his desk at Saint Thomas Sports Park on Thursday and poured his heart and soul into issues now on center stage across the world.

The Titans General Manager made it clear he wants to do his part to make a difference as it relates to social injustice, racism and police brutality, and in an emotional delivery, he encouraged others to do the same.

On the same day, Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk also made her feelings known on the matter.

"I want to add my voice and the voice of our organization to the calls for equality and reiterate our firm stance against all forms of racism," Strunk said in a statement. "Hearts, minds and institutions need to change throughout our country. Those who face racism need to be heard, and more importantly, understood by those who haven't listened before. Our organization and our players have dedicated time and resources to these issues through the 'We Stand For' campaign and we are making a difference in our own community, tackling issues like educational equity, judicial reform, policing policies and assistance for underserved areas. We are proud to support those efforts and we will continue to find ways to impact our region.

"Hearing our players and coaches speak over the last two weeks has been constructive to this vital discussion. I support our players using peaceful protests and their platforms to advance us as a nation.

I would encourage those who haven't thought about these issues before to understand the pain, anger and frustration of the black community. Black lives matter. We should all agree on that."

Jon Robinson on Social Injustices:
We Have to be Better

Robinson eloquently broke down the words of the Pledge of Allegiance in a Zoom conference call with reporters.

Members of the organization – from front office officials to coaches to players – have had a number of conversations on subjects of police brutality in the wake of George Floyd's death in Minneapolis, and the protests that have followed across the country.

Robinson said he's also been on conference calls with officials around the league, and said he's had meaningful talks with players and members of his staff he described as "real and empowering."

"This being my first opportunity to speak publicly about the issues our nation is facing with respect to social injustice, to racism, police brutality – all issues that are wrong," Robinson said. "There shouldn't be a standard for how to live as a black person in our country. I had a great conversation with a staff member the other day who teared up in my office talking about how he hopes this (Black Lives Matter) movement can create change, a sustained change, so that talk that he had to have with his parents as a young black man, that he does not have to have that same talk with how to be leery and how to conduct himself as a black man in our country. We've got to be better."

Robinson then reflected back to his childhood, when he learned the Pledge of Allegiance.

"It's a pledge to a flag that represents our country, and a pledge is a solemn oath," Robinson said. "It says, one nation – not a black nation or a white nation. It says one nation. It says indivisible – which means united, not able to be pulled apart. With liberty, which means a state of being free from oppressive restrictions. And justice, which is defined by the quality of being fair and reasonable, for all, which is for everyone, regardless of the color of your skin. So, I just think this pledge, this oath that we've all recited, if we can truly put that into action, we can work to change. We can work the hearts and minds that need to be changed, that liberty, that justice, that feeling of one nation, a nation of human beings, a nation of God's children. I think that is our charge."

On Wednesday, Titans safety Kevin Byard, linebacker Rashaan Evans, and quarterback Ryan Tannehill all said they've been encouraged by what has happened in the wake of Floyd's death in Minneapolis, which occurred when police officer Derrick Chauvin kneeled on Floyd's neck for more than eight minutes.

Floyd's death has led to more conversations across the world, and awareness, and a lot of that is happening through protests.

Titans coach Mike Vrabel, who has been involved in conversations with his players on the push for social justice during the team's virtual offseason meetings, called for "inclusion, diversity, equality, and opportunity" earlier this month while also acknowledging he didn't see the issues as clearly as he needed previously.

"I'd like to acknowledge my own personal privilege, one that is real," Vrabel said. "And I'd like to acknowledge a social blind spot that either I was unaware of or chose not to see. I've had the unbelievable opportunity to listen to our players ... in our team meetings. I listen to them with an open mind and hear and learn what they believe in and how they feel. Amy, Jon and myself have tried to put great people and great fathers and great husbands and great student-athletes onto our football team, and the majority of those men are African-American with a much different experience and background than I'll ever know.

JON ROBINSON

And by listening and understanding those thoughts and feelings, and how they feel, has helped me recognize what is important, and what is important is we find ways to respect each others' feelings, that we respect each others' beliefs, that we respect each others' efforts to make positive change in our community where we work, the communities where we live and the communities where we grew up."

On Thursday, Vrabel said he wants to continue to do his part "to make this a positive change for everybody."

JON ROBINSON

TITANS' VRABEL, ROBINSON ADVOCATE FOR GETTING VACCINE

NASHVILLE POST
AUGUST 27, 2021

The Tennessee Titans endured a COVID-19 outbreak last season that affected more than 20 players and coaches and caused a few wrinkles in the regular season schedule as well.

That was before three COVID-19 vaccines became available to the general public.

Now the Titans are about 98 percent vaccinated, according to General Manager Jon Robinson. And as they deal with their second virus outbreak, Robinson and head coach Mike Vrabel, who tested positive for COVID on Sunday, say the vaccine has made a major difference in how things are handled this time around.

“The vaccine maybe made the symptoms, in my specific case, less,” Vrabel acknowledged on Thursday. “I think that is also the case from what I have heard from our other players. It is important because there is no fail safe. We have proven that.

“All we can try to do is maximize our ability to stay safe, to function as a team, to keep our families safe, to do our jobs and do them well. I am proud of where we are at as a team in vaccination rate, but hopefully we can continue to do that and allow our communities and everyone to enjoy the games and enjoy life.”

Special teams coach Craig Auckerman, who has been absent from the last two practices, is also in the COVID protocol along with Vrabel. Both are vaccinated.

Seven players including quarterback Ryan Tannehill, linebacker Harold Landry and tight end Geoff Swaim, among others were added to the reserve/COVID-19 list. Tannehill said at the end of July he had begun the process of getting vaccinated. It's not known if he was fully vaccinated before Thursday.

“We've had two people that I know personally that have lost loved ones over the last couple of days to COVID from symptoms and complications,” Robinson said. “And it's a lifesaving vaccine.

“...I think everybody's doing everything they can to try to help it. And the biggest thing is the vaccination, because it does save lives.”

ESPN's Adam Schefter reported on Thursday that all nine of the Titans coaches and players on the reserve/COVID-19 list tested positive while The Tennessean is disputing that report.

Vrabel said after his positive test, he had a monoclonal antibody infusion and has felt great since. Robinson noted on Thursday that the players he has spoken to that have tested positive and are vaccinated said their symptoms didn't last longer than 24 to 48 hours.

“If you do contract it and you're vaccinated, it looks like the science has shown that you're sick for a day or two and then you're going to get through that,” Robinson said. “So, there's comfort in going out to dinner and trying to get back to some degree of normalcy, which we all want to do. And I know that the vaccine helps.”

A FATHER'S LOVE: TITANS GM JON ROBINSON MAKES WINNING BID AT JDRF GALA

BY JIM WYATT
TITANS ONLINE
MAY 4, 2017

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Card No. 486.

Titans general manager Jon Robinson held it up during a live auction at the JDRF Promise Gala, and he wasn't about to put it down. He was thinking about his oldest daughter as tears filled both their eyes, and all those impacted by Type 1 diabetes.

Robinson won more than just a painting with his $10,000 bid that night. He provided a lasting memory for his family, and all those in attendance at the Omni Hotel the weekend before the NFL Draft.

"I guess it kind of showed a father's love and a family's love for their child, and that we are willing to fight to make her life better," Robinson said. "It was a really, really special moment for me and hopefully it impacted somebody out there to help continue to fight to find a cure. It was a really special night."

Anyone who thinks the Titans GM is aggressive in pursuing players or trades should've seen him at the 17th Annual Promise Gala.

Mary Lyn A. Schuh, Executive Director of the JDRF Middle Tennessee Chapter, got emotional retelling the story about the night Robinson refused to let anyone in the crowd of 830 outbid him for a special painting at the black tie affair.

The last item up for bid during a live auction was a "Dreams of the Future" painting inspired by 10 youth ambassadors, all of them impacted by Type 1 diabetes.

Robinson's 11-year-old daughter, Taylor, was diagnosed with Type 1

diabetes in April 2012, on Easter Sunday. She is on an insulin pump and a glucose monitoring system. Finger pricks, middle of the night searches for juice boxes to address low sugars, and daily stress are a part of the routine for Taylor and the Robinson family as they hope and pray for a cure one day. Jaimie Robinson, Jon's wife, serves on the JDRF board in Nashville, and at previous NFL stops in Boston and Tampa, the Robinsons were involved with the JDRF community as well.

Inside a triangle on the painting, Taylor penned her dream: "I want to go to Harvard and become a doctor or lawyer." Other children wrote about dreams of being a No.1 draft pick in the NFL, an athletic trainer, a veterinarian or a dermatologist. Others said simply they hoped to one day find a cure for the disease, or to simply "stop worrying" because of it.

"I want to be able to say I HAD diabetes," one child wrote.

Schuh described what happened when the item went up for bid. And when card No.486 was raised into the air.

"Jon put his bid card up, and he wouldn't put it down," Schuh said. "And so the bidding is going on, and slowly people are realizing someone over there is not putting their bid card down. And then people started realizing it was Jon, and he has this look of utter determination and love on his face, looking at his daughter. And then Taylor looks at him and sees him, and she starts crying..."

"The next thing you know Jon is walking up on stage toward Taylor, his arm is still up in the air holding the card in the air. He holds her and they are both crying on stage as he held that big card in the air. When (he won) there was a standing ovation. Everyone in the room could identify with that feeling of wanting to support their child. It was such a beautiful, beautiful moment.

"And it was very emotional. There was not a dry eye in the house. I had all these grown men come up to me telling me they couldn't remember the last time they'd cried, and they cried."

Robinson called it a "special night."

"I didn't do it for recognition," he said. "It was really to show her how much we are willing to fight for her, and to really show everybody in attendance how passionate we are about finding a cure, not just for her but for all the kids and families affected by diabetes."

The Promise Gala raised roughly $1.6 million for JDRF, and the money the foundation raised goes toward helping find a cure for children and adults with the disease.

Type 1 diabetes is usually diagnosed in children and young adults. Since the body does not produce insulin, those with the disease are required to take shots or use an insulin pump, in addition to regularly monitoring their blood sugars.

In addition to the $10,000 bid, the Robinsons, who have two daughters, also made a substantial donation to JDRF.

The highest bid of the night – $16,000 – was an opportunity to call a play in a Titans preseason game. Other Titans memorabilia, including a Marcus Mariota helmet, a VIP experience at a Titans practice, and a chance to play golf with Robinson and Titans head coach Mike Mularkey were also part of the fundraising event.

Schuh praised the Robinsons for their support, and generosity.

"That organization is making great strides and working on an artificial pancreas that will hopefully help slow the disease until we can eventually find a cure," Robinson said. "It is something we are very passionate about.

"I know there are certainly worse things that afflict families out there, but this one is one that impacts our family so we are going to do everything we can to thwart it."

ROBINSON CLIMBED CAREER LADDER WITHOUT NFL'S HELP

BY DAVID BOCLAIR

Jon Robinson did it on his own.

Those who want to follow a similar career path to that of the Tennessee Titans general manager got a little help from the NFL on Tuesday.

Owners approved a change to the league's anti-tampering rules that makes it easier for assistant coaches and front-office personnel to interview for higher ranking positions with other teams. In short, a team no longer can block an interview request provided the candidate wishes to pursue a "bona fide" career advancement opportunity.

According to SI senior NFL reporter Albert Breer, the impetus for the change came from the New England Patriots' decision last year to block director of player personnel Nick Caserio from an interview with Houston during the Texans' search for a general manager.

Caserio's contract with the Patriots included language that allowed them to deny him the opportunity to interview. The Texans ultimately decided they had no legal recourse and ended their attempt to talk to Caserio.

It is not the only time New England use such a clause in a contract.

From Breer in this week's MAQB column:

New England wanted to put a similar clause in then-college scouting director Jon Robinson's contract in 2013, Robinson refused, let his contract run, and went with Bucs GM Jason Licht to Tampa in 2014 as a result. Two years later, he became the Titans GM. So, you can see where avoiding the clause benefitted Robinson, just as agreeing to it hurt Caserio.

JON ROBINSON

Robinson joined the Patriots as an area scout in 2002. Four years later he was promoted to regional scout, then to assistant director of college scouting (2008) and director of college scouting (2009).

Caserio is in his 18th season with New England and has been in his current position for more than 12 years.

The Texans ultimately decided to allow head coach Bill O'Brien to serve as general manager as well.

TITANS GENERAL MANAGER JON ROBINSON GETS PROMOTION, SAME DUTIES

BY JASON WOLF
THE TENNESSEAN
JANUARY 6, 2017

The Titans promoted general manager Jon Robinson to executive vice president/general manager Thursday.

It doesn't change his job responsibilities, but provides greater recognition and a likely pay bump after his aggressive trades, free agent signings and first draft class helped turn the Titans from a league laughingstock into a potential playoff contender.

Tennessee finished with a 3-13 record in 2015, tied for the worst in the NFL. Robinson was hired Jan. 14, 2016, after previous scouting and front office jobs with the Buccaneers and Patriots.

The Titans went 9-7 and just missed the playoffs this season. It was their first winning record since 2011, and the six-win increase marked the largest single-season turnaround in franchise history.

"Jon has done great work since his arrival to our organization and this is a way to recognize that fact," Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk said in a release. "His leadership and football acumen helped change our culture and improve our team. He and (coach) Mike (Mularkey) deserve a great deal of credit for our turnaround this year and I am hopeful that will continue this coming year and into the future. This is an acknowledgement of his work and it puts him on equal footing with others in the league who direct football operations."

Robinson orchestrated several important trades. He dealt the No. 1 overall pick to the Rams for a handful of additional picks, then traded back up to select right tackle

Jack Conklin with the eighth overall pick. Conklin is a Pro Bowl alternate. The trade also resulted in the Titans having the fifth overall pick in this year's draft. All of Robinson's draft picks remain on the team, and many provided notable on-field contributions.

Robinson also acquired running back DeMarco Murray from the Eagles for a swap of fourth-round draft picks. Murray led the AFC in rushing yards this season.

A number of his free agent signings also provided significant returns, including wide receiver Rishard Matthews and center Ben Jones.

"Amy called me today to talk about this promotion and I was truly humbled and grateful," Robinson said in a release. "This organization means the world to me and I am working on a daily basis to make it better. I don't stand alone in this task of improving our team — from ownership, Mike and the coaches, the players who have bought in to our program, scouts and staff. We all have worked together to create a family and hopefully a culture of long-term success."

HARD WORK PAYS OFF: WR CHESTER ROGERS
OPPORTUNITY WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
SEPTEMBER 8, 2021

NASHVILLE – Chester Rogers arrived in the NFL as an underdog in 2016, an undrafted free agent from Grambling State who fought like crazy to make the 53-man roster for the Indianapolis Colts.

Rogers didn't just make the squad as a rookie – he ended up playing four seasons with the Colts, and he was productive.

But in 2020, Rogers took a step back. He spent most of last season on the practice squad with the Titans, where he got healthy, and studied film of himself, while helping the team's defense get better in practices. He also put himself in a position to seize an opportunity this season.

His perseverance has paid off. Heading into 2021, Rogers is listed as a first teamer (in a three-receiver set) alongside fellow receivers A.J. Brown and Julio Jones on Tennessee's depth chart to start the season. He's also listed as the team's starting returner on punts and kicks.

Needless to say, he's excited about what's ahead.

"I manifest a lot of things, so I wasn't sweating (cuts)," Rogers said on Monday. "I feel like I put in the work, and now I just have to continue to do what I did all through training camp and OTAs. My role is ... I've got a role. I just have to make plays when the ball comes my way, from returns, to the slot, to wherever they've got me.

"This opportunity I have now is just as rewarding as when I came in as an undrafted free agent my rookie year. I really went out there and earned it every single day. I am not taking it for granted."

CHESTER ROGERS

Rogers, who caught 111 passes for 1,221 yards and four touchdowns while playing in 53 games, with 22 starts, from 2016-2019 in Indianapolis, thinks he brings something different to the table as well.

The Titans kick off the regular season on Sunday against the Cardinals at Nissan Stadium.

"You have guys like A.J., who is 230 pounds, and Julio who is (6-3)," Rogers said with a smile. "I am 5-11, 180 pounds, so to be able to give something different in the inside, it's a 1-2 punch."

Rogers definitely earned his spot on the roster.

He was consistent in practices, and in three preseason games he caught three passes for 39 yards. Rogers also returned three punts for 76 yards, including one for 57 yards. He returned a kick 18 yards.

A Huntsville, Ala., native, Rogers kept the faith when his days with the Colts ended. While in Indianapolis, he worked primarily on the outside, and he caught a career-high 53 passes for 485 yards and a pair of touchdowns in 2018.

After spending time with the Dolphins in August and September of 2020, Rogers joined Tennessee's practice squad on September 21 of last year. He spent 14 weeks practicing with the team, in the regular season and the playoffs.

"It was a mental year for me more than anything, rehabbing," he said. "It was just grasping the game, everything slowed down for me after a year off."

Now, he's set to play in a game for the first time since December 1, 2019, as a member of the Colts, against the Titans.

Rogers has adjusted his game, and he now considers himself a great option in the slot.

"I am so excited, man," Rogers said. "First game back in a long time for me, so I'm ready.

"And to me, I don't have to put pressure on myself. When you have a great group of guys, you just have to do your job and let the game come to you. You don't have to go out there and be something that you're not."

RODGER SAFFOLD III

TITANS VETERAN LINEMAN RODGER SAFFOLD HUNGRY FOR SUPER BOWL RING AFTER TWO CLOSE CALLS

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
MAY 29, 2020

NASHVILLE – Rodger Saffold had options when he became a free agent after the 2018 season.

The veteran offensive lineman had just played in a Super Bowl with the Los Angeles Rams, and part of his mission was to find a good match with a contender.

He ended up signing with the Titans, and he still remembers the reaction from some.

"People thought I was crazy for coming to the Titans," he said, before adding: "But look at us now."

Heading into his 11th NFL season, Saffold is as hungry as ever.

After his Rams lost in Super Bowl LIII to the Patriots, during his first season in Tennessee Saffold was part of playoff wins at New England and Baltimore before experiencing an AFC Championship loss at Kansas City. As a result, the Titans finished one win short of making it to the Super Bowl in Miami.

Saffold started all 19 games at left guard in 2019, including the three playoff contests.

He has a Super Bowl-or-bust mindset heading into 2020.

"My passion for that is through the roof," Saffold said during a Zoom call on Thursday. "After going to the Super Bowl and then realizing that we were one game from getting into the (Super Bowl) with the Titans, I was really driven. My entire focus was driven to getting back to the Super Bowl. Total complete confidence in myself and my teammates, and basically what can I do to get us there again. This time we know having a slow start won't help us at all.

"We really had to gut-wrench through the season to get everything back the right way. For us now, I think that now that we know our capabilities, having that fast start is always in the back of our minds. But we're not putting any pressure on us. We know that hard work is what got us there. For me, I constantly – even the day after our loss in the Super Bowl, all I thought about was getting back. People thought I was crazy for coming to the Titans, but look at us now. I have nothing but confidence in my team and I can't wait to get back in that position again."

Rodger Saffold Looking Forward to Getting Back to Work with Teammates

Saffold struggled at the start in 2019.

In fact, following a Week 5 loss to the Bills, he stood at his locker and beat himself up after allowing multiple sacks in multiple games early last season. He blamed poor technique, and a new scheme, for his issues in Tennessee after playing his first nine NFL seasons with the Rams.

"I feel like I am letting my team down at this point," Saffold said at the time. "I am not used to having this type of frustration. ... I am not going to blame anybody on my team – my players, my coaches. I am just going to have to find a way to get connected with this team and be able to get in rhythm with the team.

"At the end of the day, even though we all make mistakes, we always talk about how you have to be critical of yourself and that is one thing that I definitely take to heart. The only thing that I can do is come in here and try to be the same guy without being too down."

Saffold ending up settling down, and settling in.

He was part of an offensive line that paved the way for running back

Derrick Henry to lead the NFL in rushing with 1,509 yards, and while the group allowed too many sacks of quarterbacks Marcus Mariota and Ryan Tannehill, it showed improvement in the second half of the season, and during the playoffs.

Tannehill made it to the Pro Bowl as he led the NFL in passer rating.

And Saffold found his footing.

"There was definitely an adjustment last season just with everything being new," Saffold said. "I think that just having that perseverance to just keep working through it and then start meshing with the offensive line, it allowed us a lot of success toward the end of the year. I really like the mentality, the direction that we're kind of going into next year. I think that we should expect to be on the same plane. Just continue from last season, but always challenging ourselves to be better than before.

"As far as for myself, (I now have a better understanding of the) kind of the concepts that the coaches are looking for. Kind of the way that they want us to handle certain types of protections, the techniques. We started to figure that out better and better as the season went on and now it's kind of second nature. The fact that they can tell me something and I can regurgitate that back to them the way that they see it is really helpful. Kind of understanding plays and understanding technique. Now I have a better grasp of that, so it's going to help me in the future, especially in the future."

HOW TITANS' RODGER SAFFOLD BECAME AN ESPORTS OWNER AND WHAT'S NEXT

ESPN
AUGUST 17, 2020*

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- It all started with trips to Blockbuster to rent video games.

That's how Tennessee Titans offensive lineman Rodger Saffold III and his business partner, Kahreem Horsley, were first exposed to the world of online gaming.

Saffold and Horsley have known each other for around 15 years. Gears of War was one game they played together early on.

Horsley became a pro in 2008 playing Call of Duty 4: Modern Warfare. He joined a series of small online leagues and played in weekly Major League Gaming 2K tournaments. He was building a following, so he and Saffold started streaming games on Twitch, an online platform for gamers. As their audience grew, Horsley and Saffold started thinking of founding a team of their own. Fast-forward to 2014 and Saffold, who was the No. 33 overall pick of the 2010 draft by the Rams, became one of the first active professional athletes to own an esports team.

"You start to get into conversations with people [about esports ownership] and they look at you like, 'What the hell are you talking about?'" Saffold said. "At the end of the day, they still look at video games as a child's game. You have to tell them, 'No, this is a very profitable business.' This is a business that you want to get in as early as you can because the price keeps going up. You see all of these people and realize it's really a huge deal. These franchises keep getting more and more expensive over time."

Now Saffold and Horsley have even bigger plans for their esports future after announcing last week they're expanding to include a team for VALORANT, a first-person shooter game released in June.

Building a team

Competing in tournaments opened Horsley's eyes to how more money was being earned on the competitive scene. Global esports revenue exceeded $1 billion in 2019, according to a report from Forbes.

Saffold and Horsley looked into starting a gaming organization that housed competitive esports gamers, with a goal of eventually selling merchandise. It wasn't expensive -- all they had to pay for initially was setting up a limited liability company (LLC) and traveling to tournaments. They came up with the name Rise Nation, which was recently shortened to Rise.

Rise's ascension started during its rookie year. Horsley lost a tournament but turned his attention to the players who beat him -- Jonathan "Pac Man" Tucker, Jamal "Whea7s" Lee, Daniel "Loony" Loza and Damod "F3ars" Abney.

Back then it wasn't common for players to be under contract as they are now. Horsley reached out to them via Twitter and had contracts drawn up. Six months later, that team competed for the 2014 Call of Duty Championship.

It placed seventh and won $35,000.

Making a name for themselves

Rise began competing in the Call of Duty World League. In 2018, its last year in the league, it finished first in three open events in Atlanta, Seattle and Anaheim, California. It won six major championships in Call of Duty.

And it has been able to expand into other games such as Gears of War and Street Fighter, where in its first year Rise won a $250,000 prize for winning the Capcom Cup. The key was adding a player from the Dominican Republic -- Saul "MenaRD" Mena -- whom, Horsley said, no one had ever heard of.

Tennessee Titans lineman Rodger Saffold, center, saw his Rise team soar to success during the Call of Duty World League season in 2018. MLG

Rise has 32 total employees, including 15 pro gamers. Before bringing a player aboard, it does a background check and scours a prospective player's social media for signs of trouble.

"It's a regular process like you would do at any other place," Horsley said.

Being on the scene as a respected gamer helps Horsley find new talent.

"You have to play yourself up through the ranks and get that respect level," Horsley said. "Once you get to a certain point of competition, guys will contact you to get scrimmages because you only practice with those that you respect. They respect me so it's very easy to navigate these scenes."

Added Saffold, "We are very beloved in this space. A lot of people have respect for us and enjoy playing with us."

Expanding to new games

That respect helped Rise form its new VALORANT team.

"Rise was a huge name in Call of Duty, winning major titles. And winning Capcom Cup for Street Fighter 5 was a giant milestone, cementing their name as an organization," VALORANT team leader Todd "Anger" Williams said.

"Adam 'Spirit' Wills, who is on the current VALORANT roster, competed in Overwatch for them and instantly gave us the blessing when we were scouting who to play for."

RODGER SAFFOLD III

Although Rise doesn't compete on the Madden platform, Saffold has become somewhat of an esports ambassador to his NFL teammates. A lot of them play Call of Duty, FIFA, Madden and more, but until speaking with Saffold, they don't realize how much money can be made from the games.

"Every time I talk to them they are like, 'Really?' Now guys are like, 'Hey, can I invest?' I have talked to several people on the Rams and Titans about it and they're surprised now," Saffold said.

Running back Marshawn Lynch and former defensive end Michael Strahan are some of the high-profile investors in NRG Esports. Rams owner Stan Kroenke and Patriots owner Robert Kraft both own teams in the Overwatch League.

Having been in the NFL for 10 years, Saffold is familiar with the results-driven aspects of the game. He strives to keep his esports players motivated to play the games the way they need to play to win.

"I'm all about the process and I'm all about the work," Saffold said. "As long as I've got players that grind continually on the game, making sure they have some experience, making sure that they're practicing, playing the game instead of playing a bunch of other games, I'm usually in a good mood."

Unlike many other industries, online gaming has seen an upswing during the COVID-19 pandemic, with more people staying at home and looking for things to do.

"It's definitely helped my business," Saffold said in May. "One of the biggest expenses that you have as an esports owner is having your players travel to different cities. With there not being any travel and most things being online, it's really cut down the cost of a lot of expenses going to and from events. Expenses are going down, viewership is going up. You get more eyes on marketing, those types of situations. You'll definitely see yourself in the green after this."

Rise recently underwent a rebranding process for the first time since it hit the scene in 2014. It redesigned its jerseys and hosted a $50,000 charity Call of Duty: Warzone event in June, with proceeds going to the Equal Justice Initiative. They also have aspirations toward potential participation in the Call of Duty League.

Ideally, Saffold would like to merge his Rise fans and Titans fans.

"I want this to go hand in hand. I want the gamers to support the Titans and the Titans fans to support my off-the-field hobbies."

TITANS GUARD RODGER SAFFOLD TREASURES LESSONS, SUPPORT AND LOVE FROM HIS LATE FATHER

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
SEPTEMBER 9, 2020

NASHVILLE – As a youngster growing up in Ohio, Titans guard Rodger Saffold III knew from an early age he wanted to play football.

His father, Rodger Saffold II, showed him the way with love and support.

"My dad played football, so we had a football home," Saffold said of his father, who played at the University of Iowa in the mid-1970s. "I used to watch high school, college, and professional football games at a very young age. I decided I wanted to play football when I was nine, and my dad helped me figure out what I was going to do."

Rodger Saffold II helped his son pick his position, and he steered him toward his dreams.

Saffold said his father drove him to workouts, and supported him every step of the way, through his playing days at Bedford High (Ohio), and into his collegiate days at Indiana University, where he became a dominant performer, and a team captain. Saffold said his father used to send him tapes of players to watch when he was in college, and it helped him turn into an NFL-caliber talent. Saffold was drafted in the second round of the 2010 NFL Draft by the Rams.

"He was always there, very supportive," Saffold said of his father. "During games in high school he would give (me) a thumbs up and thumbs down after drives (when I came off the field) to see how well I did. Thankfully, it was always a thumbs up."

Along the way, Rodger Saffold II also learned how to be a man, thanks to his father's steady guidance.

RODGER SAFFOLD III

"He basically taught me about having the values of good character, and a leadership role and all those things and to match that with being in love with the hard work and the grind and that has carried me through this whole time," Saffold said. "I have been playing over 20 years now and he was a big part of that."

Rodger Saffold III, an 11-year NFL veteran who is set to begin his second season with the Titans, lost his father at the end of August. Funeral services for Rodger Saffold II were on Wednesday, September 2.

Saffold left the Titans briefly to support his family, but he returned to be with his teammates, who have done their best to keep his mind off the loss of his dear father. Practices, and a game plan for the opener, have allowed him the opportunity to turn his attention away from his sorrow.

When Rodger Saffold II discussed his father during a video conference call last week, he bragged about the man who was "a huge support system for me all my life." The two talked before every single game, and after every game.

On Monday, before the Titans face the Broncos in the season opener, Rodger Saffold won't be able to pick up the phone in the hours leading up to kickoff to talk to his father, something he's done since he first started playing football 20 years ago.

But he knows his father will be with him in spirit.

"I am still going to talk to him," Saffold said. "One of my rituals is going to be praying (before games), so I am still going to be talking to my father through that form. And I am just going to continue to play how I know how to play."

"This has raised a lot of motivation for me, just wanting to get out and do what I can for myself and my family. So, motivation is not going to be a problem for me this year. So I just think taking all of (the heartbreak) and putting it in the right direction and being productive for this team is what's going to be best for me and for my family."

JIM SCHWARTZ

SCHWARTZ WAS WINNING NUMBERS GAME BEFORE MOST WERE PLAYING

BY DAVID BOCLAIR
SI.COM

APRIL 7, 2021

Jim Schwartz was crunching the numbers well before it was cool to do so.

He was the first coach I encountered to use analytics, and he did so even before they were called “analytics” or at least before the term was part of the general sports vernacular. Then it was just numbers and percentages that seemed to be more like one man’s obsession than a trend that eventually would dictate decision-making of every game.

It was early in his tenure as Tennessee Titans defensive coordinator, which ran from 2001-08. One day, Schwartz and I crossed paths in the media relations office, and we struck up a conversation in which he talked about the degree to which one forced turnover improved a team’s chances of victory and how those percentages increased with two and three takeaways. From there he moved into the likelihood that an offense would score when it started a drive inside its own 25 versus when it started at its 35 or beyond. The feeling was that he could have gone on forever such was his enthusiasm for the information.

If anyone would be quick to recognize the value of analytics, it makes sense that it was Schwartz. He was a Division III Academic All-American at Georgetown, where he earned an undergraduate degree and graduate honors in economics – and he banked on the fact that mathematics could and would make him a better coach.

Eventually, his approach and the Titans’ personnel combined to great effect. In 2007, his defense finished fifth in the NFL in yards allowed and eighth in points allowed. The next season his unit finished seventh and second, respectively, in those areas.

It is an important bit of history now that Schwartz is back on Tennessee’s staff as a senior defensive assistant.

Typically, an old hand serves as a voice of wisdom based on all the game situations he has encountered. That was the thinking when Mike Munchak added Gregg Williams to his staff in 2013 to work with defensive coordinator Jerry Gray and when Ken Whisenhunt brought in Dick LeBeau in 2015 to work with Ray Horton. Neither of those decisions produced the desired results.

This is different. Schwartz, at 54, is not an old man, but he has as much – or more – experience with the numbers game as anyone in the NFL.

For a relatively young defensive staff – only Jim Haslett has been an NFL coach for at least a decade, and that includes head coach Mike Vrabel and defensive coordinator Shane Bowen – Schwartz can provide guidance on how to use the numbers that are so prevalent in today’s NFL.

After all, it is one thing to have the information at hand – and there is seemingly no limit to today’s analytics – it is something else to make good use of all that data. It is not difficult to believe that coaches whose careers began in the analytics age can get lost in the numbers and lose sight of the fact that they still have to be applied to players – human beings – who are far less predictable than the numbers.

Schwartz’s success in those early days of mathematical game management make him one of the gurus in this regard. His career began before the integer invasion and has thrived since (he also had top five defenses in Buffalo and Philadelphia), and he has been a part of it every step of the way.

Vrabel has not said specifically what Schwartz’s responsibilities will be in his return to the Titans. You can bet, though, that he was not brought back just to look back on what he has done and try to keep the rest of the staff from repeating his mistakes.

He will be looking at the numbers – as he always has – and trying to help Bowen et. al. use them to get the most out of a defense that allowed yards and points to add up way too high last season.

TITANS HIRE JIM SCHWARTZ AS SENIOR DEFENSIVE ASSISTANT

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS
APRIL 7, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Titans have hired veteran defensive coordinator and former Lions head coach Jim Schwartz as a senior defensive assistant.

The Titans announced the move Wednesday.

“He has a deep level of football knowledge and has overseen a great deal of success on the defensive side of the ball, so it always good to add a quality coach to our staff,” coach Mike Vrabel said. “This role will provide our defensive staff with Jim’s experience and perspective in the staff meetings and on the practice field.”

Vrabel announced in late January that Shane Bowen, who ran the defense last season without the title, as the Titans' defensive coordinator. The Titans were last in the NFL allowing teams to convert 51.8% of third downs and 28th giving up 398.3 yards a game.

Schwartz has been defensive coordinator for 14 NFL seasons, the last five with Philadelphia. The Eagles ranked third in the NFL last season with 49 sacks, a category the Titans ranked ahead of only Jacksonville and Cincinnati in last season. The Eagles ranked seventh in sacks through his five seasons.

Schwartz was on the Philadelphia staff that won the 2017 NFL championship.

Buffalo led the NFL with 54 sacks in 2014 during his lone season as defensive coordinator for the Bills. He was head coach of the Detroit Lions between 2008 and 2013.

Schwartz worked 10 years for the Titans, and Tennessee ranked third in points allowed per game, second in passing yards allowed and fifth with 44 sacks in 2008 when he was coordinator. He started in the NFL in 1996 with the Baltimore Ravens.

This is the second time a Titans coach has brought back a former Tennessee defensive coordinator as a senior defensive assistant. Then-coach Mike Munchak hired Gregg Williams in February 2013 after the NFL reinstated him from suspension for his role in the New Orleans Saints' bounty scandal.

SIMMONS GOES HOME TO GIVE BACK

BY MICHAEL HOGAN
SI.COM
MARCH 2, 2021

Much like everybody else, a rare burst of winter weather that put a vast majority of southern states on pause two weeks ago took Jeffery Simmons by surprise.

Snowy and icy storms created much work remained for first responders, electric workers and others. In Noxubee County, Mississippi, where the Tennessee Titans defensive tackle starred in high school, those essential employees worked long days to restore services to the communities impacted.

Simmons, who has been doing offseason training in Dallas, Texas, did not hesitate to return to an area that still means so much to him. Last Friday at the Noxubee County Civic Center in Macon, Simmons provided meals and signed T-shirts to law enforcement and electric workers.

"I'm just grateful to be in a position to be able to show my appreciation to these guys," Simmons told The Dispatch, a newspaper that serves Starkville and Columbus, Mississippi, areas. "...Their job's as important as anybody else's job. I just wanted these guys to see that and feel that I really appreciate them and care about them and the job they're doing."

A first-round pick by the Titans in the 2019, Simmons said he still has two aunts who live in the Macon area. Their power, however, remained throughout the storms. Just because he has family in the area, though, is not why he returned.

Simmons wanted to show community members that no matter how much fame he achieves, he will always remember where he came from. That mission was accomplished.

Jaron Andrews, an electric worker in the Noxubee area, brought his 17-year-old daughter, Anna Beth, to Simmons' event. The two became fans during Simmons' three-year career at Mississippi State University. His presence and generosity so clearly had a positive impact on them and many others.

"It's good to see somebody come in here and re-invest their time in the community," Jaron Andrews told the paper. "I like to see that as a parent of children who are growing up in the community."

Now a leader on the Titans' defense and in the locker room overall, Simmons has played 24 games with 22 starts over the course of his two seasons with the Titans. He has registered five sacks, 81 tackles, seven tackles for a loss of yards and three fumble recoveries in all.

Many things, though, are bigger than football.

"I take pride in doing this. I take pride in just being able to show people that I don't have a 'hot head' as people say," Simmons said. "I just want to show people that no matter how far in life I go, I'm always going to remember Noxubee County. I'm always going to give back."

The Tennessee Titans knew two things about Jeffery Simmons before they took him 19th overall in the 2019 NFL draft on Thursday: that he was coming off surgery to repair a torn ACL in February and, more importantly, an arrest in high school for simple assault — an incident in which he was caught on video hitting a woman, who Simmons claimed was fighting his sister.

Simmons pleaded no contest in 2016 to the simple assault charge and was found guilty on one count of malicious mischief.

But the Titans took a gamble on the defensive lineman, and that had a lot to do with a leap of faith by owner Amy Adams Strunk. At Simmons' introductory press conference on Friday, Strunk spoke passionately about why the Titans chose Simmons while he wiped away tears.

"We are getting a great football player, that goes without saying, but we are getting a great man," Strunk said. "We are a nation that gives second chances, and this young man, Jeffery Simmons, he deserved that second chance."

Strunk said that she and the Titans brass watched the video of the incident and discussed it. But she made the final call, and decided to draft Simmons.

"It didn't take me long to see that this young man had an incident in high school," Strunk said. "We all can look back on our lives in high school and wish we had done things differently."

Simmons, who went to Mississippi State, fell in draft boards this week due to the injury and the past misconduct. But he was appreciative of Strunk's support, especially "coming from a woman."

Multiple teams viewed new Titans' DT Jeffrey Simmons as a top-5 pick, even though he went at No. 19. One even called him "the best player in this draft." Of course there are well-documented disturbing issues with him.

"I made a mistake, and I regret it," Simmons said. "The key word she said was trust. And I'll tell her in front of you guys that she can trust me. I won't let her down. I won't let either one of these guys and down. I am grateful."

SLIMMER, HEALTHY SIMMONS COULD ELEVATE TITANS D-LINE

SECOND-YEAR DT DROPPED 15 POUNDS DURING OFFSEASON TRAINING

NASHVILLE POST
AUGUST 12, 2020

The Tennessee Titans didn't have 2019 first-round pick Jeffery Simmons for seven games last year.

Now, the 23-year-old defensive tackle is one year removed from ACL surgery and finally fully healthy, which could make all the difference for the Titans defensive line heading into the new season.

"[With] an ACL injury or meniscus injury, it's a lot to get back to," Simmons said. "Some people say they're not themselves for a year or two. But when I went back and watched film, I knew that wasn't me. I know what type of guy I am...There was a lot of stuff that I didn't see on film that I know I could do, especially this upcoming year. Stuff that I've been working on.

"I had an injury for sure, but at the same time that's the whole point of this year here — to see how much I can grow from that this past year. [The coaches] are going to put me in a great position to see how much I can get better from last year."

Simmons was a solid contributor last season in the nine games he played. He finished his rookie season with 32 tackles, four tackles for loss, two sacks, two quarterback hits and a pass defended.

His stats weren't too far off from those of Pro Bowl defensive tackle Jurrell Casey, who was traded to the Denver Broncos during the offseason. Casey had 44 tackles, five tackles for loss, five sacks and 10 QB hits last year. Had the Titans been able to keep both in 2020, they would have presumably had one of the top interior line groups in the NFL.

Now, Simmons is being relied on to replace Casey's production while allowing a younger player such as DaQuan Jones, Jack Crawford and rookie Larrell Murchison an opportunity to make an instant impact this year.

"Of course, Jurrell was a big loss for us," Simmons said. "He was a great leader on and off the field, especially in the community. When he came to the building, he was just a first-class leader. But at the same time, I don't feel like it's any pressure on me, personally. I'm a leader myself. I like to lead.

Added HC Mike Vrabel: "We're excited about the group that we have moving forward...I think they're well-coached. I think Big T (Terrell Williams) does a great job coaching them and Zak (Kuhr) has helped him out."

Simmons has been using the unconventional offseason to shed some weight with the goal to be a leaner, quicker version of himself during training camp.

The 6-foot-4 second-year lineman is currently listed at 304 pounds on the Titans official website. He played much of last year around 320 and has really emphasized easing the amount of weight his surgically repaired knee has to carry.

"My goal was to especially cut down the fat on my body," Simmons said. "I'm not sure exactly where I was at first, but I feel like I've made a big change with my body weight. My knee made a lot of progression from when I first started playing to the end of the season. But at the end, I knew that I needed to do a little more strengthening and just maintenance stuff after the end of the season. Still now, I'm trying to stay on top of it, make sure that I'm just ready to have this team win games. So my body is feeling great; my knee is feeling great."

Simmons attributed a simple diet change and a disciplined attitude toward improving his health for helping him drop the 15 pounds he's already lost.

"When you're trying to lose fat, ... you have to be in the right mental (state) to be able to be disciplined in what you eat. At one point, I was cutting off what time I ate at night. Take a lot of responsibility of yourself in trying to maintain a routine that you have. Of course, I changed up my diet a little bit."

A slimmer, quicker Simmons may be just what the Titans need to elevate their defensive line from good to great.

TANNEHILL RESTRUCTURES DEAL TO MAKE ROOM FOR JONES

BY MICHAEL GALLAGHER
NASHVILLE POST
JUNE 9, 2021

The Tennessee Titans landed quarterback Ryan Tannehill an elite weapon in 32-year-old receiver Julio Jones. So it would make sense that Tannehill would scratch the team's back since they scratched his.

According to NFL Network's Ian Rapoport, Tannehill agreed to restructure his contract on Tuesday, converting $23.4 million of his guaranteed base salary into a bonus that will be paid over the next two seasons and adding two voidable years onto the end of his contract.

The 32-year-old was set to be the fourth-highest paid quarterback in the NFL in 2021 behind only Aaron Rodgers ($37.2 million), Russell Wilson ($32 million) and Kirk Cousins ($31 million).

The move frees up $18.7 million for the Titans, who had about $3.9 million in cap space at the time of the trade and added Jones' $15.3 million salary on Sunday, which is not fully guaranteed. The seven-time Pro Bowler's salary will drop to $11.5 million in 2022 for the final two years of his current contract.

"[I'm] excited to bring Julio on board," Tannehill said on Sunday following the trade. "To pair him across from A.J. (Brown) on the other side, it's really a dynamic duo for our wide receivers. Looking forward to what he can bring to the table."

Tannehill, who signed a four-year, $118 million contract last offseason, will make just $10.76 million in 2021 but will see that shoot up to $38.6 million in 2022 and $36.6 million in 2023 with $9.37 million in dead cap space in 2024, according to Spotrac.

The Titans have other restructuring options available — for example, Derrick Henry, Rodger Saffold, Taylor Lewan, Kevin Byard — should they need to free up more cap space to add another free agent pass rusher such as Melvin Ingram, Justin Houston or Olivier Vernon.

DON'T LET THE SMILE FOOL YOU, TANNEHILL A SERIOUS COMPETITOR

THE TITANS QUARTERBACK LED THE NFL IN GAME-WINNING DRIVES AND FOURTH-QUARTER COMEBACKS DURING THE 2020 REGULAR SEASON.

BY IAN KAYANJA
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
JANUARY 5, 2021

Don't be fooled by quarterback Ryan Tannehill's even-keeled demeanor.

He's one of the fiercest competitors on any football field. Or so says his position coach.

"Make no mistake, he is ultra-competitive," Tennessee Titans quarterback coach Pat O'Hara said Tuesday. "Don't ever excuse his calm demeanor on the outside from being a fierce competitor. That is something about him that is very evident to me and his teammates."

Tannehill's competitive streak was on full display Sunday against the Houston Texans. With a division title at stake, he threw for 216 yards and tallied three touchdowns, two rushing and one passing.

With the game on the line, he connected with wide receiver A.J. Brown on a 51-yard pass that set up Sam Sloman's game-winning field goal as time expired.

"(It's) his calm demeanor on the outside and being a fierce competitor," O'Hara said. "He maintains that even-keel demeanor and that helps him in pressure situations like (Sunday)."

Tannehill is no stranger to the big moment. The events of this season leading up to the matchup with the Texans prepared him for his latest fourth-quarter flurry.

In the just-completed regular season, he led the NFL with five fourth-quarter comebacks and six game-winning drives in the fourth-quarter or overtime. In games decided by one possession, the Titans went 7-2.

The only Tennessee quarterback who has approached that level of late-game production was Vince Young. As a rookie in 2006, he led four fourth-quarter comebacks and five game-winning drives, both of which led the NFL that season.

Dating back to when Tannehill first took over as the starter, the Titans are 11-3 in games decided by one possession.

He's a closer. And much like a star relief pitcher in baseball, Tannehill looks forward to the high stakes moment where he can get his team out of a tight jam.

"I think it's fun," Tannehill said. "I get to do what I dreamed of doing as a kid. I love going out there on a Sunday and competing with guys that I love playing with. I love the competition of it

"... I love the game, all of it."

Tannehill's success can be attributed to his ability to avoid the emotional roller coaster that some ride throughout a game. He remains focused on the current task at hand, staying competitive.

And because of that, the Titans found ways to win in close games, in which the outcomes could have varied drastically.

"At the end of games, it's maintaining that calm demeanor, while also being ultra-competitive," O'Hara said.

With Tannehill under center last year, the Titans offense found a new life.

That unit went from being shut out by the Denver Broncos on Oct. 13, 2019 to scoring at least 20 points in the next 10 games and more than 30 in five of the final seven. That momentum carried over into the 2020 NFL season, which saw Tannehill throw for 3,819 yards and a career-high 33 touchdowns.

Tannehill and the Titans finished second in the NFL in average yards per game (396.4) and fourth in points per game average (30.7).

He's found freedom within Arthur Smith's system, and he's been seen smiling more on the field because of it.

"I've loved playing the game," Tannehill said. "I think about what I went through (with) injury, and then through what I went last year, I think I've grown a bigger appreciation for enjoying the moment."

A quarterback who isn't afraid of the big moments is a tremendous advantage in the NFL playoffs. Tannehill's late-game record proves that he can rise to the occasion, courtesy of an outsized competitive streak.

“We roughed it out for three days,” Jones said. “(Wednesday) night we got to come over here and get some hot water and a little TV actually.”

NASHVILLE – Ben Jones is an avid outdoorsman who can rough it with the best of them.

Even the Tennessee Titans center has his limits, though.

Jones’ home was one of more than 130,000 that lost electricity Sunday night when a rare weather event known as a derecho passed through the city. It was one of the largest power outages on record and as of Thursday morning some still had not had their service restored, including Jones.

Not all of those impacted, however, have a teammate like quarterback Ryan Tannehill, who literally opened his doors to the man who will be snapping him the ball this season.

“We’re still out of power,” Jones, Tennessee’s starting center for the past four years, said. “[But] I’ve got a great teammate who’s not staying in Nashville right now. So, we’re able to stay at his house.

“Tannehill came in clutch for us because it got a little cold (Wednesday).”

Tannehill is currently in south Florida, his home for his first seven NFL seasons. With NFL team facilities closed and offseason work happening virtually, he has remained there to prep for his first full season as the Titans’ starter.

Jones used his love of outdoor activities to create the Ben Jones Celebrity Clay Shoot four years ago, and the event has raised close to half a million dollars since its creation. He also is an avid hunter and fisherman.

Eventually, though, everyone needs their creature comforts.

TANNEHILL'S EYES OPENED TO SOCIAL INJUSTICE THROUGH FORMER TEAMMATE

NASHVILLE POST
JUNE 11, 2020

Tennessee Titans safety Kevin Byard said last week that one of the biggest solutions to helping fix the racial divide and social injustice in society is through education.

Byard's teammate, quarterback Ryan Tannehill, took his words to heart, using his platform to speak out against social injustice and point to the importance of education as a tool to battle racial intolerance.

"Education is a big part of it," Tannehill said. "Educating people, white people, who don't deal with it [and] to the reality of the situation. Just leveling the playing field. There's a lot of legislature that's going to have to get changed."

"I think the first step is awareness and education ... on the systematic injustices that have been going on for a long, long time. Once we can have that education, the awareness, then we can all kind of work together toward finding that equality that I'd hope we all want."

Tannehill made a post on his Twitter account on May 27 addressing the murder of George Floyd, stating everyone deserves to feel safe and protected in their communities.

Tannehill also said that he wished he would have taken the Black Lives Matter movement more seriously a lot sooner, but his eyes were opened a lot through former 49ers quarterback Colin Kaepernick taking a knee during the national anthem and several conversations with former Miami Dolphins teammate Kenny Stills.

"Do I wish I would have known more and been more supportive back in 2016? Yes, 100 percent, but we all make mistakes," Tannehill continued. "We all have to live and learn and experience to grow, and I feel like I've done a lot of growing over the past four or five years...I hope to use what I've learned, just continue to educate myself, continue to learn and continue to try to push for change and make a difference.

"I think my conversations with Kenny (Stills) and just coming to realize what he's gone through in his life — getting ripped out of a car with his dad and everything stripped out of the car for no reason, weren't even speeding, left on the side of the road, they were traveling, all their clothes and everything, bags strung out on the side of the road. Things like that where it's like, I can't imagine being put in that situation and having to deal with that. You hear stories like that and then he gave me a bunch of resources, books that were written...Then I just started digging more and more into it as time went on. You go from kind of being naïve to the situation because of the [white] privilege, and my eyes kind of got opened to it. It was really kind of a shock for me...I think my views have definitely changed."

While the NFL and the greater society still have a long way to go in addressing racial equality, Tannehill's openness to have the difficult discussions and willingness to take the time to educate himself on such issues have earned him even more respect from his teammates.

"I respect Ryan (Tannehill) to the fullest," Byard said. "That's one thing about me, I don't look at guys as race. Ryan and his family, his wife, have treated my family with nothing but love and I respect him just for the man he is. The fact that he's speaking and using his voice to uplift others, black, white, or different ... it speaks volumes for his character. I will always treat him based upon that."

BENGALS COACH HELPED TANNEHILL BECOME THE PLAYER HE IS TODAY

BY MIKE HOGAN
SPORTS ILLUSTRATED
OCTOBER 31, 2020

Familiarity is a storyline every week in the NFL. Some, however, are bigger stories than others.

That is the case for Tennessee Titans quarterback Ryan Tannehill and Cincinnati Bengals head coach Zac Taylor this week.

The veteran quarterback and the second-year head coach have eight years of experience together, and it all started when both were just trying to find their way in 2008. Tannehill was Texas A&M's backup quarterback. Taylor, a former quarterback who had a short-lived NFL career, was just starting his coaching career as an offensive assistant of Texas A&M.

The pair spent four years together in College Station followed by four more years with the Miami Dolphins (2012-2015).

Sunday, they will square off against each other for the first time.

"I learned a ton of football from Zac [Taylor]," Tannehill said. "I have so much respect for him, the way he coaches the game, his work ethic, and just how he puts so much time and effort into preparing me each and every week. I definitely learned a lot of football from (Taylor) and am appreciative of all he did for me."

When the Dolphins drafted Tannehill with the eighth overall pick in 2012, so much was familiar for Tannehill. Taylor was his assistant quarterbacks coach, and former Texas A&M head coach Mike Sherman was then the Dolphins' offensive coordinator.

Taylor said it helped Tannehill transition smoothly to life as a starting quarterback in the NFL.

"Certainly, for a rookie to come in and already know everything about the offense from day one helped him right away," Taylor said on Thursday. "He very well may have won the job anyway had it been a new offense, but of course his familiarity with the offense from day one helped him instruct some of the veteran players on some of the nuances of the offense."

Tannehill had a mostly up-and-down stint in Miami. The Dolphins were nothing more than a mediocre football team, and the quarterback dealt with a handful of injuries that held him back.

However, he had his best statistical seasons in Miami in 2015, when Taylor was on the offensive staff as a quarterbacks coach and as the interim offensive coordinator for five games. Tannehill threw for more than 4,000 yards twice (2014, 2015) and at least 20 touchdowns while completing more than 60 percent of his passes in three of those four seasons.

The Dolphins decided to revamp their coaching staff at the conclusion of the 2015 campaign. In a way, that also marked the beginning of the end for Tannehill's time in Miami. He started the 2016 season out hot but sustained a torn ACL in Week 14 and missed the remainder of that season and the Dolphins' Wild Card playoff game. He again tore his ACL in training camp before the 2017 season and missed the entire season.

He appeared in just 11 games in 2018, and the Dolphins traded him to the Tennessee Titans in exchange for draft picks.

With the Titans, of course, Tannehill has revived his career. After taking over as starter in Week 6 of the 2019 season, Tannehill led the Titans to seven wins in 10 games en route to the postseason and the AFC Championship game against the Kansas City Chiefs.

He earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl, was named Comeback Player of the Year honors and then in the offseason signed a four-year contract extension.

Tannehill's success story has spilled over into this season. Through the first six games, Tannehill has been one of the top quarterbacks in the league, completing 139 passes on 203 attempts for 1,590 yards and 15 touchdowns, which is tied for second among all quarterbacks.

None of what has transpired has surprised Taylor, who said Tannehill is "the perfect quarterback for the Tennessee Titans."

"Very happy for him. He's a great human being, great teammate, very coachable, very hard on himself," Taylor said. "There is not a lot of weakness to his game. He's got a lot of strength, and you can just see his confidence right now. The team really believes in him."

And on Sunday, Taylor will try to defeat the player he has built such a strong relationship with for the first time in his career.

"He poses a very difficult challenge for us," Taylor said. "Not only do they have a great running game, great receivers, but they have a quarterback who is playing at one of the highest levels in the league right now. He's really impressive."

NEED A MINUTE? MIKE VRABEL ASKS PLAYERS TO CONFIDE IN HIM, ALLOWS TIME TO DEAL WITH DISTRACTIONS

BY PAUL KUHARSKY
PAULKUHARSKY.COM
JULY 31, 2021

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Not so long ago, the broad NFL mentality didn't lend itself to caring much about a player's personal issues.

In 1990 Oilers offensive lineman David Williams stayed home from a game on the road for the birth of his son and Babygate was a national scandal.

Missing a game to welcome a child might still be looked down on by some now, but the world has changed and the league has changed with it.

Pro sports have evolved to allow a broader understanding of life beyond the game, in many ways that have less visible impacts than missing kickoff.

Wives and kids, moms and dads, friends tugging at a player and anything else under the big heading of life that may once not have been allowed to be a factor in the tough-guy atmosphere of a facility or practice field are not walled off as much now -- at least not in Nashville.

With the Titans, Mike Vrabel considers it a key part of his job to know what's going on with his guys and make sure they can sort through it to best put their worries aside to most effectively do their jobs.

Sure, a player still has to manage his stuff and devote himself to work, but things can't always stay neatly compartmentalized. Stresses are bound to spill, at least at times, from home-life into the workplace.

Vrabel said he's grown in terms of investing in that part of his relationship with his players.

"I don't know if that was necessarily the case when I played, but I take that," he said. "I am very honored to be able to build that trust and know what are the good things going on in a player's life and what are some of the things that maybe aren't so good and that we have to work on because we all have it. We all have things that we have to deal with.

"And so I think I have probably put a lot more time into that than I thought I would have, and that is OK because I have enjoyed that just as much as coaching a guy on the field as I have trying to get to know him and help him through his growth as a man, as a brother, as a husband, and as a father."

Vrabel said he wants players to have someone to go to with any issue, it doesn't have to be him.

I spoke with several Titans about how things work with the team.

All indications are that if they have something that they believe will bleed into their day that has the potential to divert their focus, Vrabel is quick to give them the time to go make the call or do what is needed to get things sorted out or reset for the moment.

"He tells us he doesn't want us coming into the meetings distracted by anything," Brian Hill said. "Just communicate and he'll be able to comply with it. He doesn't want us in there worried about family or anything. He wants us in there focused on the meetings."

"I doubt in Vrabel's days playing it was like that. But he went through that, so I think that is why he is how he is. He knows that sometimes things happen in a family, you need to go take care of that. It's more complicated than just football."

Said Vrabel, who at Ohio State and for the Steelers, Patriots and Chiefs: "I didn't have... it was just different."

Kendall Lamm called it an open forum of communication.

"You can let him know something is going on with your family, with your children if you have kids, something is going on back home, or anything," Lamm said. "That's a safe space where you can be totally open and he's going to keep it to himself. Or if you need help and you ask for it, he's going to get you the help you need."

Chester Rogers was dinged up last year and spent all but two weeks on the practice squad. He's making a good showing so far in a bid for a wide receiver spot who can be the punt returner.

He played four years with the Colts and spent a little time with the Dolphins before landing in Tennessee last season.

"I think we've all got a lot of things that we deal with," he said. "And dealing with football players, there is a lot of pride. But when you're able to confide in your coaches and knowing that they've got you and will allow you to get back to yourself, I think that is very major. I appreciate it a lot. I don't have that everywhere that I've been.

"I don't think that's the case in different places. It's a big relief, a lot of comfort."

Vrabel's dad was a high school basketball coach. He grew up around the team, in the middle of pool parties, Christmas parties and Super Bowl parties. When he started as a coach working with the Buckeyes' defensive line, he realized just how much of a parental role he had to take on as part of the job, as part of building trust as asking for all he did from players.

And that's extended ever as he's come to work with older players.

I wondered if some Titans might be hesitant to approach their coach with something for fear of it seeming like excuse-making. But they do not seem to worry about that.

"Guys just feel comfortable talking to him," Nick Westbrook-Ikhine said. "I definitely feel that way if something comes up, I can trust him. And he'll trust that I am shooting him straight, not giving him any excuses."

Lamm said he thinks that's a case-by-case, guy-by-guy basis but said he'd certainly never violate the trust by taking something to Vrabel that didn't deserve to be heard.

"I know I wouldn't (use it that way)," he said. "If something is seriously going on and I tell you that my grandmother needs something, my grandmother really needs it. I would never want to put that bad juju on my grandma."

THINK YOU KNOW MIKE VRABEL? THERE'S A SIDE OF TITANS COACH THAT MIGHT SURPRISE YOU

BY DAN POMPEI
THE ATHLETIC
SEPTEMBER 2, 2021

The Mike Vrabel you think you know said he would cut off a valued body part to win a Super Bowl.

Now, when he walks past fans, he hears, "Hey coach, now that you got Julio Jones, get ready to say goodbye to your dick!"

The Mike Vrabel you think you know said he would fight every coach in the NFL if it meant the Titans would move up in the NFL standings.

The Mike Vrabel you think you know is all pushups, planks and squat thrusts on the sideline three hours before a game.

The Mike Vrabel you think you know refuses to acknowledge his 46 years, so he grabs the pads and mixes it up with his players at practice.

The Mike Vrabel you think you know talks trash like Conor McGregor.

"Little buddy," he says to receiver A.J. Brown during a training camp practice, "just wait for that tackling drill on Monday, little buddy."

The Mike Vrabel you think you know is Bill Belichick II. How could he not be after playing eight years for him and sharing three Super Bowl victories?

So you think you know the big-jawed head coach of the Tennessee Titans.

But do you really?

With the seventh-best winning percentage among his peers, Vrabel is universally respected as one of the best young coaches in football.

Vrabel often was referred to as coaching material during his 14-year NFL playing career as an outside linebacker, as if he were a mahogany tree destined to become a bookcase. But he didn't think about doing anything after football except watching grass grow.

Then on May 30, 2011, Jim Tressell unexpectedly resigned as head coach of Ohio State, and defensive coordinator Luke Fickell became interim head coach. Vrabel had not retired from playing yet, but Fickell, who was Vrabel's host when he visited Ohio State as a high school recruit and the best man at his wedding, asked him to coach linebackers. How could Vrabel say no?

When Urban Meyer replaced Fickell the following year, he made Vrabel his defensive line coach. Vrabel relished some aspects of the job that many coaches abhor. "He loved recruiting, going to people's houses, talking to the parents and kids," his wife, Jen, says.

Once the recruits were his, he fostered the relationships, trying to understand their stories. He wanted to know what made them who they were and what was important to them. The Vrabels hosted the defensive linemen for cookouts and pool parties at their house.

It really was a return to Vrabel's roots.

Mike credits his father Chuck Vrabel with teaching him how to be a teammate. Vrabel was playing in a little league baseball game and asked two friends if they would come over afterward to swim and have a sleepover. When Mike told dad that a couple of kids were coming, Chuck said, "Either the whole team is coming, or nobody is coming."

As a sophomore at Walsh Jesuit High School in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, Vrabel started on the varsity football team on Friday nights. When his sophomore classmates played Saturday morning, Mike made it a point to be on the sidelines, offering cups of water and words of encouragement.

"It didn't matter that he was the varsity guy," his father says. "It was more important to him that they were friends ... I would say he values friendships above all."

As a player in the NFL, Vrabel was known as the kind of teammate who lifted all around him. He had to sweat out making the roster as a special-teams contributor the first four years of his career in Pittsburgh. Through force of will, he became a team captain on a dynasty, an All-Pro and a two-way player. And finally, he was a not-as-good-as-he-used-to-be veteran who was valued because of his intangible influence.

On the day Belichick traded Vrabel, this is what he said: "Mike Vrabel epitomizes everything a coach could seek in a professional football player: toughness, intelligence, playmaking, leadership, versatility and consistency at the highest level."

He showed qualities, in other words, that could make an exceptional coach.

Three years into his coaching career at Ohio State, Vrabel was hired to coach linebackers with the Texans. Bill O'Brien's program was different from Meyer's or Belichick's in that O'Brien welcomed family member involvement. If Vrabel ever became a head coach, he thought, that's how he would do it.

Vrabel became a head-coaching candidate after two years as O'Brien's linebackers coach and one year as his defensive coordinator. He interviewed with the Colts, Lions and Titans. Most head-coaching candidates are sought after because of cutting-edge strategies or distinguishing runs of success. Not Vrabel.

His rapid ascension was about his presence and his human touch.

MIKE VRABEL

Titans center Ben Jones texted Vrabel one morning before a practice last spring. He was running late for work because one of his kids had been ill overnight.

“Family comes first,” came the reply.

The head coach of the Titans makes sure his players know he thinks OTAs are voluntary. Anything else would be hypocritical. Vrabel didn’t always attend OTAs when he was playing. He spent his offseasons in Columbus and prioritized coaching his sons, Tyler and Carter.

When he wasn’t coaching, Mike, like many parents in the stands, sometimes had difficulty hiding frustrations.

“I was really bad,” he says. “I’d mumble. Every at-bat, I was like, oh, get your elbow up, load your back foot. And I don’t know anything about baseball.”

Tyler had been a defensive lineman, but he was not a natural. That was unexpected because he is “the son of.” Jen says it was “a disaster” when Mike watched Tyler play football early in his high school days.

“I’d tell him you don’t always have to say everything that comes to your head,” she says. “You don’t have to say it aloud. You can think it and not say it.”

Tyler came to work with his father at the Texans’ offices and got to know Jones, who was on the Texans at the time, guard David Quessenberry and offensive line coach Mike Devlin. They brought Tyler into their offensive line world, and it felt like home to him. He sat in their position group meetings, participated in their drills and lifted weights with them.

Tyler became an offensive lineman when he began his senior year of high school. He’s now a senior starter at left tackle for Boston College and an NFL prospect.

It took time for Mike to understand Tyler’s struggles weren’t his struggles or a reflection of him. Something clicked when Vrabel heard ESPN’s Mark Schlereth say the only thing you should tell your kids about their sports is you can’t wait to see them play.

“Now I watch the game probably how my grandma used to watch me,” he says. “I just watch Tyler. I don’t even know if it’s a good play or bad play, I just watch him. Then I’ll be like, ‘What happened on the play? Was it a completed pass?’”

Tyler, offensive tackle, is his own man now. So is Carter, a third baseman at Volunteer State Community College in Gallatin, Tenn. Whereas Mike is clean-cut, both sons have long hair and full sleeve tattoos on their arms. Carter wears earrings. “We try to support them and love them, but that’s who they are,” Mike says.

Letting go can be challenging for parents whose children are coming into their own. It also can be challenging for head coaches. Vrabel has come to terms with having less direct control over games as a head coach than he did as a linebacker. Now, he thinks of himself as an “influencer” of his team rather than an authoritarian.

He tries to communicate to his players in different ways so his message is understood by everyone. Vrabel knows not every player can absorb the game plan by looking at play diagrams or sitting in a classroom. His appeal to Titans owner Amy Adams resulted in a “mobile classroom” in the Titans’ indoor facility that enables players to walk through plays while watching tape on 12-foot screens on wheels.

Vrabel is sensitive about learning issues.

In grammar school, Carter, who has a bold nature like his father, didn’t read as well as was expected. He found it difficult to sit at a desk all day. It took him hours to do 30 minutes of homework. As a quarterback, Carter couldn’t understand the play call. He was frustrated and angry. His parents tried everything to help him and to help themselves, even family counseling. It was, in Jen’s words, a “long struggle.”

The NFL gives much to its players and takes much in return. Vrabel wonders what moving so much during his playing career took from his family. “I think,” Vrabel says and then pauses. Deep breath. “I think sometimes Carter gets the short end of the stick.”

Once Vrabel was settled in Columbus as an assistant at Ohio State, he thought he was in the best place for Carter, so the plan was to stay there. It was with trepidation that he took the job with the Texans, and initially, Carter struggled with it. But over time, Carter found teachers in Houston and then in Nashville who brought out his best.

Carter is in a good place now. So is his family.

Everybody, Vrabel knows well, is dealing with something in their life. Vrabel makes it a point to know what that something is for every player and coach on his team.

“One thing I’m proud of and grateful for is when I stand up in front of the team, there will be many players sitting very closely to one another who all have shared something with me, or I know they are dealing with something,” Vrabel says. “It’s a parent who’s sick, a child they haven’t seen. They may not know that a person sitting five feet away from them is dealing with the same thing. But I do because I’ve had conversations with them.”

Defensive tackle Jeffery Simmons couldn’t play for the first seven games of his rookie season in 2019 because he was recovering from a torn ACL. Being on the sidelines was an emotional challenge. It’s the kind of struggle most players keep to themselves. Simmons shared it with his head coach.

MIKE VRABEL

“Sometimes I went in his office and shed a couple tears because it was so stressful and I wanted to be the best,” Simmons says. “He’d listen and talk to me.”

Some coaches close their doors and want players to communicate with them through predetermined channels. There are no barriers to Vrabel, who is all over the building, touching as many people as he can.

It was difficult for him — “miserable” was the word he used — to be quarantined in his basement for 10 days after recently testing positive for COVID-19. Even though Vrabel had only mild symptoms, he was cut off from that which feeds him.

Vrabel, like O’Brien, enjoys having kids around. When Titans strength coach Frank Piraino brings his baby Milo around, Vrabel asks to hold him.

Vrabel encourages his assistants to take time off to see their kids’ games in the offseason. “If they have something to go to at 3, I want them to get out of here,” he says.

Before camp started, Vrabel had a pool party for his coaches and their families at his home. Another day, he had the team’s rookies over. He made chicken wings with a dry rub on his Green Egg.

Vrabel fancies himself a grill master and hones his craft with help from TikTok. On “TikTok Tuesdays” he prepares dinner with a TikTok recipe.

“He’s addicted,” Jen says.

Whereas Jen asks Mike for advice on her fantasy football team, Mike asks her advice on the Titans. They met as Ohio State freshmen in a time management class and have been together since. Mrs. Vrabel undoubtedly has an influence over the team that is favored to win the AFC South.

“She knows a lot about the game,” Vrabel says of his wife, who was a volleyball setter for the Buckeyes and still is sixth in all-time assists at the school. “She has seen me play over 200 football games. She’s seen me, coach. I think she has a good grasp on what you need, the decisions we make. We have conversations about the game, the team, what the message should be.”

Jen encourages him to focus more on the journey and less on the destination. He is good at reveling in the moment.

Laughter follows him down hallways, through the locker room, in and out of meeting rooms and onto the grass.

“He has called me ‘Fat Boy’ from day one,” Jones says. “It don’t matter if I’m walking into church or lunch. I hear it from across the room. But it goes both ways.”

On Vrabel’s birthday, Jones pranks his coach. Once, it was a cream pie in the face. Another time it was a bowl of oatmeal over his head. He got him with baby powder, too — that was a good one.

Whenever Jones is in the building, he stops by to say hello. They might grab lunch together. If it’s a slow day in the offseason, they’ll sneak out for a round of golf.

This is an unusual head coach-player dynamic, but it works because of trust and mutual respect. Jones says he wants his children to be as respectful to everyone as the head coach is.

Vrabel was working with Simmons on a pass rush drill, and Simmons didn’t get his hands up high where they should have been. Vrabel subsequently punched Simmons in his chin with a hand shield. If that wasn’t embarrassing enough, Vrabel showed the video to the whole team the next day for their amusement.

“I told him we’d get our matchup again eventually,” Simmons says.

“We talk a lot of trash to each other.”

Although Vrabel sometimes acts like he’s the same age as his players, no one dares try to take advantage of him. What he tells his players is he will treat them the way they treat the team.

“The relationships allow him to have that back and forth with the players and at the same time hold them accountable,” says Titans defensive coordinator Shane Bowen, who previously worked with Vrabel as a graduate assistant at Ohio State and as a quality control coach in Houston. “He’s demanding. He really is.”

In practice, Vrabel insists that all his players go “two stripes,” or 10 yards, once a receiver catches a ball or a ball carrier takes off. When Vrabel sees a player not finishing a play or loafing, the response is immediate and forceful. If he catches it on tape, he calls out the player in a team meeting and uses a red dot from a laser pointer as a weapon.

The Titans respect what he says, and they respect what his media guide bio says. How could they not? But Vrabel does not expect a free pass because of his yesterdays.

Vrabel is in prove-it mode when he grabs the pads and gets physical with his players in practice. And when he’s in prove-it mode, everyone else had better be as well.

There are many benefits, the way Vrabel sees it. It is impactful for players to learn technique from the head coach. There is no better way to evaluate than to line up against someone. How better to bond? It provides opportunities for him to give players a piece of his heart, and a piece of his mind.

Before Simmons was healthy enough to participate in practice, he worked with Vrabel for about 40 minutes every day.

“I did my rehab in the morning, and when the time came to do some hands-on stuff, it was with no one else, it was with Vrabel,” Simmons says. “Being a young player especially, you feel like you are gaining something, especially coming from a head coach being hands-on. That’s how I gained all my respect for coach Vrabel. I feel like he might still like to be a player the way he wants to take contact on.”

MIKE VRABEL

At night, Vrabel’s knee aches, and his Achilles gets tight. That’s what ice is for.

“You guys always seem to try to hit that pad harder when I’m holding it or wearing it,” he yells to his players. “You should hit the guy on Sunday as hard as you hit me.”

The Mike Vrabel you think you know is sounding like Belichick. If you didn’t know better, it could be the voice of the Patriots coach, not the Titans coach.

“Say what you want,” he says. “I’m just telling ya, this is what he’s going to do. I’m just telling ya, this is what they are going to fucking do.”

This is his Belichick imitation. But sometimes, his words sound like Belichick’s without trying. “It’s only natural to hear a voice for eight years that you say some of those things,” he says.

He tries to be like Belichick in how he pays attention to detail, the way he prepares for every possibility, and how he stresses accountability.

“I try to explain to the players that I coach you how I’ve always been coached,” Vrabel says. “There are a lot of things I learned from Bill.”

Jen says her husband and Belichick are very different people, but she can see Belichick’s influence on him.

“Mike is like him with the media — doesn’t want to say anything to anybody, and he thinks it’s kind of funny,” she says.

The point that has been missed with Vrabel is his image has been shaped — and misshaped — by his sense of humor. When Vrabel said he would cut off that valued body part, he was joking around on a podcast hosted by two of his players, Taylor Lewan and Will Compton.

The fight talk began because John Harbaugh and Vrabel exchanged words during a pregame skirmish last year between the Ravens and Titans. Then before a playoff rematch between the teams, ESPN’s Dianna Russini light-heartedly asked Vrabel who would win a fight between him and Harbaugh, drawing a laugh from Vrabel and his comment about being willing to fight every coach if it made a difference in winning.

“John Harbaugh and I were laughing about this in the offseason,” Vrabel says now. “The one thing he and I wanted to make a point of emphasis about this year was taunting. And here our teams are like nose to nose with each other, and the two of us are pushing for taunting rules. I have nothing but respect for the coaches in this league and especially John Harbaugh.”

The ultimate team player isn’t doing pushups on the 10-yard line before games anymore because he doesn’t want the cameras on him. “Sundays are not about the coach,” he says. “So I’ll figure out something else to do.”

Vrabel has coached the Titans to three straight winning seasons. He might not have to cut off a valued body part to get to where he wants to be. The real way to get there, he knows, is less startling.

“This will only be my fourth year, so we’re trying to build something here, build some consistency, have an identity, understand what our culture should look like, and continue to host playoff games and make playoff runs,” he says.

His wife says Vrabel is learning it’s about more than winning or losing.

“Sometimes, I am like, ‘Can we just play a game with the family, and if you don’t win, you’re not mad?’” she says. “That’s a part of him, but it’s a part we’re working on.”

While he works on it, Vrabel knows grilling chicken wings for rookies and holding babies will only get him so far.

“You are never going to get the ‘Attaboy, what a great guy,’ unless you win,” he says. “You can impact lives and I think you can be real and honest and empathetic and try to help guys, but you also have to win.”

After Vrabel said he would cut off a valued body part, he added that Jen gladly would do it for him.

A priest friend texted Jen shortly after.

“Is everything OK?” the priest asked, prompting chuckles.

Yes, everything is OK. Better than OK.

People just don’t know Mike Vrabel.

VRABEL CALLS FOR INCLUSION, DIVERSITY, EQUALITY, OPPORTUNITY'

BY DAVID BOCLAIR

SI.COM

JUNE 2, 2020

NASHVILLE – Mike Vrabel admits that he did not see the issue clearly.

For the last two days, though, the Tennessee Titans coach decided to listen. In an unscheduled address to the local media, he indicated that team meetings this week have included a great deal of discussion about current events, particularly the death of George Floyd while in custody of Minneapolis police officers and the public protests that have followed.

“I’d like to acknowledge a social blind-spot that either I was unaware of or chose not to see,” Vrabel said. “I’ve had the unbelievable opportunity to listen to our players the last two days in our team meetings. Listen to them with an open mind and hear and learn what they believe in and how they feel.

“... And by listening and understanding those thoughts and feelings and how they feel has helped me recognize – I think – what’s important. And what’s important is that we find ways to respect each others’ feelings, that we respect each others’ beliefs, that we respect each others’ efforts to make positive change in our community where we work, the communities where we live and the communities where we grew up.”

Three assistant coaches – all of defense – were scheduled to meet with the media Tuesday afternoon, and they did so. The discussed a variety of issues related to the team, the coaching staff and individual players.

At the start, however, Vrabel joined the video conference and delivered an address that lasted just shy of four minutes and departed without taking questions. In his remarks, he talked about the definition of leadership, the role race relations play in a sports locker room and his vision for how the social issues that currently dominate the conversation and can be resolved.

Roughly two hours earlier the team's official Twitter account posted an item that showed players gathered in an on-field huddle and included a caption that denounced racism.

“Being an only child of a basketball coach, playing for the Ohio State Buckeyes, Pittsburgh Steelers, New England Patriots and Kansas City Chiefs afforded me a great luxury of seeing how successful locker rooms are built and managed,” he said. “They’re built and managed on fair competition, love, loyalty, accountability, teamwork. What they’re not built on is race, creed, color or money.

“... After the past couple days of personal reflection and some really great conversations with our owner, Miss Amy [Adams Strunk], and our general manager, Jon Robinson, and most especially our football team, ... I’d like to acknowledge my own personal privilege, one that’s real. ... Amy, Jon and myself have tried to put great people and great fathers and great husbands and great student-athletes on to our football team. And the majority of those men are African American, with a much different experience and background than I’ll ever know.”

He finished with a not-so-subtle challenge to government officials at all levels.

“I would say that – in closing – leaders are prepared, leaders take decisive action and inspire a group of people towards a common goal,” Vrabel said. “That common goal is inclusion, diversity, equality, opportunity. So, on behalf of the Tennessee Titans – our owner, our general manager, the head football coach, our staff – we want to support and will continue to help lead our players as we work towards that common goal.”

TITANS' VRABEL DETERMINED TO KEEP SUICIDE-PREVENTION MESSAGE GOING: 'PEOPLE ARE THERE FOR YOU'

BY MIKE JONES
USA TODAY
SEPTEMBER 30, 2020

If you or someone you know may be struggling with suicidal thoughts, you can call the U.S. National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 800-273-TALK (8255) any time day or night, or chat online.

Mike Vrabel couldn't let the call for help go unanswered. Not this one.

Like countless others, the request for assistance reached the inbox of the Tennessee Titans head coach. But this message from the Jason Foundation -- a Tennessee-based mission dedicated to preventing youth suicide -- grabbed Vrabel, and the coach concluded that he had to act.

Since 2000, the Titans had donated proceeds from their specialized license plate program to the Jason Foundation and nine other Nashville-area charities. But when broached about lending his voice to the cause, Vrabel eagerly obliged, determined to help fight the "Silent Epidemic."

Throughout September (which is Suicide Prevention and Awareness Month), he lent time and resources to the Jason Foundation. He also has done a series of public service announcements as part of the organization's educational programs geared toward equipping young people, educators and parents with tools and resources to help identify and assist at-risk youth.

Tennessee Titans head coach Mike Vrabel wants to keep the message of suicide prevention going all year round.

But as September draws to a close, Vrabel doesn't want the message to fade into obscurity. Although the Suicide Prevention and Awareness Month campaigns may end, the coach intends to remain vocal about preventing suicide.

"It's something that's critically important, not only to the suicide prevention, but the mental health and well-being of our adolescents," Vrabel told USA TODAY Sports in an interview last Friday. "I've got a 20-year-old son and an 18-year-old son, and obviously, the environment they are growing up in is different than the environment that I grew up in with the social media and the make-believe that's portrayed on those avenues.

"So, I really want to spread awareness and try to help prevent what is the second-leading cause of death in people 10 to 24 years old."

The mission is important to Vrabel, not only because he's the father to young men but also because of two painful experiences within his football family.

In 2012, Hall of Fame linebacker and New England Patriots teammate Junior Seau took his own life.

Vrabel still remembers the day he learned of Seau's death. Then an assistant coach at Ohio State, Vrabel was on a recruiting trip in Indianapolis.

Vrabel recalled, "It was a pretty traumatic experience for all of us. ... He was a great teammate and I was lucky to have spent time with him."

Then, in the June 2019, one of the Titans' equipment assistants, George Cheng, died by suicide, shaking members of the organization.

When the Titans players returned to the area for training camp roughly a month later, Vrabel, who attended the 28-year-old Cheng's funeral, began talking with his players about the importance of communication and accountability as tools to help prevent suicide. A year later, the partnership with the Jason Foundation has strengthened Vrabel's resolve and message to his players, the team's fans and his sons.

"The one thing that the Jason Foundation has tried to educate parents and teachers about: what the warning signs could be. If you're not sure, you have to make sure. Or, you're telling someone else, 'I'm not sure about so-and-so.' It's not unlike a player that may have had on the field with a head injury. You tell someone, 'Hey, I'm not sure, but he's not seeming like himself.'"

As Vrabel points out, simple check-ins with loved ones can wind up making a difference. So, whether with his children, former teammates or Titans players, he makes a point of keeping those lines of communication open, while also maintaining transparency.

"It's about providing a safe space for them to talk," Vrabel said, discussing talks with his sons. "I think it's important to share my own personal feelings and fears. Again, I've learned through my own communication and therapy that when you're in the river, one side is anxiety and one side is depression and you're trying to steer clear of those. You're trying to steer clear of worrying about the past and trying not to worry about what could happen wrong in the future. You're trying to focus on the present."

The coach understands the mental anguish that isolation and loneliness can create. And that's part of the reason why immediately after his playing days, he got into coaching, believing that maintaining an active life would help guard against depression. He encourages healthy habits, but more than anything, he hopes to convey the message that it's always okay and important to reach out to others for help.

"Suicide is not the answer to a bad day or a bad week, and if you feel hopeless or sad, there's someone willing to help you, to listen, to talk to you," Vrabel urges. "Whether it's a coach, a teacher, your parents or an aunt, uncle or a friend, you have to understand that there are always people that will be there for you no matter how bad you feel.”

RASHAD WEAVER

TITANS' RASHAD WEAVER SAYS HIS MOM WON'T PAY HIS PHONE BILL ANYMORE: 'I FEEL BETRAYED'

DANIELLA MEDINA
THE TENNESSEAN
JULY 2, 2021

Are you still on your family's cell phone plan?

Tennessee Titans' defensive end Rashad Weaver was. Up until Wednesday.

Weaver's mother, Autumn DeLaPorte, told him he would need to pay for his phone bill since he's in the NFL now, Weaver tweeted.

"My mom decided today, on her birthday she wanted to break 23 years of trust and bond we had built...." Weaver tweeted. "By telling me I'm in the NFL and I need to pay for my own phone bill.

"I feel betrayed," he said.

Weaver, 23, was drafted by the Titans in the fourth round with the No. 135 overall pick in the 2021 NFL Draft. The former Pitt standout missed the entire 2019 season with a knee injury, but bounced back in 2020 and earned honors including All-America and first-team ACC.

According to Spotrac, an online sports team and player contract resource, Weaver signed a four-year $4,139,664 contract with the Titans. His average salary is $1,034,916.

One day before the NFL Draft, the Fort Lauderdale native was charged with misdemeanor assault in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, court records show.

Weaver was among the draft picks to participate at rookie minicamp, Titans coach Mike Vrabel said in May.

"Everything I've seen from Rashad here in person, he's been one who's been attentive and wants to try to be a good teammate and is taking coaching," Vrabel told reporters when asked if he feels Weaver fits the team's culture. "We understand the severity of the accusations. We take them very seriously, but we're also going to allow the legal process to play its part and run its course."

Weaver is due in court for a preliminary hearing on the charge in October.

TITANS ROOKIE OLB RASHAD WEAVER FOCUSED ON IMPROVING, WHILE HIS TEAMMATES HYPE HIM UP

BY JIM WYATT
TENNESSEE TITANS
AUGUST 16, 2021

NASHVILLE – Just minutes after the Titans selected Rashad Weaver in the fourth round of the NFL Draft, the outside linebacker gave his own draft day critique.

Weaver, a semifinalist for the Bednarik Award (presented to the national defensive player of the year) during his final season at Pittsburgh, said he felt like the Titans got the biggest steal of the draft.

In his preseason debut against the Falcons, Weaver made quite a first impression as he began to make his case.

"Honestly, after the game I was pretty confused," Weaver said with a smile on Sunday. "In college, I was nervous before games, but I was super-relaxed out there (in Atlanta). I was just like, 'There's nothing to lose, just go out there and have fun, play, and show what you've got.'"

While playing 39 snaps, Weaver showed he's pretty talented.

In Tennessee's 23-3 win over the Falcons, Weaver was credited with 1.5 sacks, two quarterback hits, three tackles, and one tackle for a loss in the contest, and he also batted down a pass

Weaver said the coaching staff told him to let go of the stress, and play.

"Just getting the green light from Coach Vrabel and the coaches, to just go hard, go play, and we'll fix the stuff on film," Weaver said. "When someone tells you that, they just want to see you play hard with effort, you can just go out there and run around full speed and make good things happen."

Weaver, selected with the 135th overall pick of the 2021 NFL Draft, missed the entire 2019 season due to a torn ACL injury. The injury followed a 2018 season when Weaver started all 14 games and compiled 47 tackles, 14 TFLs, 6.5 sacks, four pass breakups, three fumble recoveries and two forced fumbles.

Weaver said he learned a lot of patience, and a lot about himself, while recovering from the injury, and in 2020 he exploded back on the scene while earning consensus All-America status last season with the Panthers from four of the NCAA's recognized selectors: Associated Press, American Football Coaches Association (AFCA), Football Writers Association of America (FWAA) and Walter Camp Football Foundation.

In nine games in 2020, Weaver (6-4, 259) totaled 35 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 7.5 sacks, three forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. He led the ACC in sacks per game (0.83 avg.) and tackles for loss per game (1.61 avg.).

His new teammates with the Titans were impressed with his NFL debut.

"Those guys are always messing with me, so they're hyping me up and stuff," Weaver said with a smile. "And I am just like, 'Chill, I've got to stay level-headed.' And they are like, 'It's OK to be happy and smile.' I am walking around here just trying to stay focused and keep (working) each day."

Weaver, of course, knows he still has a lot of work to do.

He's still learning, and he's trying to improve so he'll be ready to make an impact during the regular season.

When Weaver watches himself on film, he sees plenty of room for improvement.

He knows he's just getting started.

"That goes back to college, the way we ran our d-line room," Weaver said. "I constantly look at what I need to work on. Even plays that I made, (I look) at what I did wrong and could have done better, because there's always going to be better competition, or someone that is going to be prepared for the next play.

"So you have to prepare yourself for those plays when it is not that easy. I always look at what I can do better."

LOGAN WOODSIDE

TITANS OFFSEASON AWARD WINNERS LOGAN WOODSIDE, RASHAAN EVANS, RASHARD DAVIS POISED FOR BIGGER ROLES

THE TENNESSEAN
AUGUST 5, 2020

Quarterback Logan Woodside, wide receiver Rashard Davis and inside linebacker Rashaan Evans were named the Titans' offseason performers of the year, coach Mike Vrabel said on a Zoom conference call Wednesday.

In trying to determine the significance of the offseason awards, it's worth taking a quick glance back at the 2019 winners and observing what it meant for each of them.

In 2019, during a much more traditional offseason, Vrabel and his staff named four winners: quarterback Marcus Mariota, running back David Fluellen, wide receiver Cameron Batson and defensive lineman Matt Dickerson.

Mariota: This was another endorsement of Mariota in the lead-up to a make-or-break season for him in Nashville. We know how it panned out – Mariota is now playing for the Raiders – but with rumors swirling about a quarterback competition between Mariota and Ryan Tannehill in the 2019 offseason (spoiler: there actually was none), this was yet another nod in favor of Mariota.

Fluellen: Vrabel handpicked Fluellen for an offseason award in 2019. If there was any doubt about the running back's chances of making the roster (and what the coaching staff thought of him), this helped to dispel that notion.

Batson: Batson entered training camp competing with Darius Jennings for the No. 6 wide receiver spot. An offseason award seemed to point to Batson having a real shot at upstaging Jennings, who in 2018 led the league in kickoff returns. But an injury suffered in training camp prevented Batson from making such a push.

Dickerson: Dickerson played in three games as a rookie in 2018 after signing with the Titans as an undrafted free agent, but he was by no means a lock to make the 53-man roster out of training camp in 2019. His offseason award was the first indication that he was well on his way to doing so.

As for the 2020 offseason, things were different. There were no organized team activities, no minicamp. Instead, a lot of virtual meetings. Still, Vrabel and his staff were able to determine three winners.

"We couldn't evaluate many guys and the efforts that they put in outside of Zoom," Vrabel said. "So we just kind of had to give it some thought and (our) observations throughout those meetings, guys that showed leadership and improvement through the course of our installation."

Logan Woodside

This one shouldn't come as a surprise. Titans coaches and even players have been singing Woodside's praises all offseason in the lead-up to what will be an important training camp for the 25-year-old. Woodside, who has yet to be on an active NFL roster, has a chance to cement his role as the team's backup to Tannehill.

Titans general manager Jon Robinson could look to bring in a veteran quarterback through free agency as more of a reliable safety net for Tannehill, but all indications so far point to the QB2 job being Woodside's to win.

Rashard Davis

Another one that shouldn't come as a surprise, at least not after Vrabel's Zoom conference call with reporters in June, when he gave Davis an unsolicited shoutout. "A young receiver that we had last year that played some for us, made a couple big catches down the stretch. I think he's really put a lot into it," Vrabel said at the time.

Titans wide receiver Rashard Davis (12) warms up before a game against the Texans at NRG Stadium last season.

The Titans have their top three receivers locked in with A.J. Brown, Corey Davis and Adam Humphries, and Kalif Raymond looks like the No. 4 for now. But beyond that, it's wide open. Rashard Davis should be considered very much in the mix for the last two spots on the wide receiver depth chart as he clashes with Batson, Cody Hollister and a handful of undrafted free agents.

Rashaan Evans

The Titans aren't bring back Wesley Woodyard, Jurrell Casey or Logan Ryan to their defense in 2020. In terms of leadership, that's three big blows.

But Evans, the team's first-round pick in 2018 and top returning tackler from a year ago, appears well equipped to take up a part of the leadership mantle. The offseason award is an endorsement of that.

TITANS/OILERS HALL OF FAME

In recognition of the 40th season of the Houston Oilers/Tennessee Titans organization in 1999, the team's late owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. created an official team Hall of Fame, featuring players and staff from the past, while creating a special place for Titans stars of the future to be recognized. Through 2020, 14 individuals were named to the franchise's Hall of Fame. In 2021, the franchise announced plans to add former head coaches Bum Phillips and Jeff Fisher and former general manager Floyd Reese to the Hall of Fame.

George Blanda, who came out of retirement with the emergence of the American Football League in 1960, was the offensive catalyst for the explosive Oiler squads of the early 1960s. He played quarterback and handled the placekicking chores in Columbia blue for seven of his NFL-record 26 seasons in the league. Blanda was the team's leading passer and scorer in each of those seven seasons and still owns franchise records for most extra points (299), most touchdown passes in a season (36) and most touchdown passes in a game (7). He is also third in points scored with 596. The 36 scoring tosses stood as an NFL record for an astounding 23 years. Blanda's NFL career records included most games (340), most points (2,002) and most extra points (943). He also passed for 236 touchdowns. Blanda captained the Oilers to two consecutive AFL titles in 1960 and 1961, earning AFL Player of the Year honors in 1961. Blanda's career was divided into three distinct parts, 10 years with the Chicago Bears, seven seasons with the Houston Oilers and nine years with the Oakland Raiders. In 1970, he became the oldest quarterback to play in a title game. He was just a month shy of his 49th birthday when he retired before the 1976 season. Blanda passed away at age 83 on Sept. 27, 2010.

SAFETY • 6'3" • 197 lbs • COLLEGE: PRAIRIE VIEW A&M
NFL SEASONS: 14 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 6 (1967-72)
HOMETOWN: LUFKIN, TEXAS • BORN: NOV. 12, 1944

Considered one of the best safeties in football history, Ken Houston picked off 49 passes (898 yards), recovered 21 fumbles and scored 12 touchdowns over his 14-season NFL career, earning Pro Bowl honors 12 consecutive times (1968-69 AFL, 1970-79 NFL). Houston returned an NFL-record nine interceptions for a touchdown in his six seasons as an Oiler. Four of those scores came in 1971, tying an NFL record. He returned two in one game against San Diego in the 1971 season finale, which also ties an NFL mark. His other three touchdowns came on a punt return, a fumble return and a blocked field goal return. Houston also holds the Oilers record for most career interception return yards with 650. With a long, fluid stride, Houston had excellent speed and quickness. His 6-3, 197-pound frame made him an ideal pass defender. Yet his lean, muscular body helped him to become a punishing tackler. Originally a ninth-round draft choice out of Prairie View A&M, Houston earned a starter's role by the third game of his rookie season. Two weeks later in a game against the New York Jets, he scored two touchdowns, one on a 71-yard blocked field goal attempt, and the other on a 43-yard interception return. After excelling for six years with the Oilers, Ken was traded to the Redskins for five veteran players in 1973. The Redskins once referred to Houston as "pro football's most underrated superstar," but his capabilities were widely recognized. He won all-league acclaim with the Oilers in 1969 and 1971, and then was either All-Pro or All-NFC with the Redskins every year from 1973 to 1979. He was selected for either the AFL All-Star game or the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl 12 straight seasons from 1968 through 1979. He played in 183 consecutive games before suffering a broken arm against the New York Giants Nov. 25, 1979.

EARL CAMPBELL

HOMETOWN: TYLER, TEXAS • BORN: MARCH 29, 1955
GAMES PLAYED: 115 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 1991

Earl Campbell, a 5-11, 232-pound ball-carrying dynamo from the University of Texas, joined the Houston Oilers as the first player taken in the 1978 National Football League Draft. The first player to earn All-Southwest Conference honors four years, Campbell was a consensus All-America and the Heisman Trophy winner in 1977. Campbell took the NFL by storm from the outset. In 1978, he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player, All-Pro, and Rookie of the Year. He won the league rushing championship with a club-record 1,450 yards and was named to the AFC Pro Bowl squad. It was more of the same the next two years with NFL rushing titles, MVP honors, and consensus All-Pro acclaim each season. He followed his rookie campaign with 1,697 yards in 1979, but his finest year came in 1980 when he rushed for 1,934 yards, which at the time was second only to O. J. Simpson's 2,003 yards gained in 1973. That year, Campbell gained over 200 yards in four games. In 1981, he won his fourth straight AFC rushing title with 1,376 yards. A sensational runner, Campbell was picked for the Pro Bowl five of his first six NFL seasons (1978-81, 1983). In his eight-year career, which finished in New Orleans, Campbell rushed 2,187 times for 9,407 yards, and 74 touchdowns, retiring as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher. He also gained 806 yards on 121 receptions to bring his career combined net yards total to 10,213. He set Oilers records for most career yards (8,574), most career attempts (1,979), most touchdown runs (73) and most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5). His most famous performance came in a Monday night game against Miami in his rookie season. That night, he rushed for 199 yards and four touchdowns to lead the Oilers to a spectacular 35-30 victory. In spite of the constant pounding he took from opposing defenders, Earl missed only six games out of 115 because of injuries. Midway into his seventh season, he was traded by the Oilers to the New Orleans Saints for a first-round draft pick. He played a season and a half with the Saints before retiring after the 1985 campaign. Campbell is one of just four people officially designated a Texas Legend by the Texas State Legislature. The others are Davy Crockett, Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin. Campbell was the only designee of the 20th century.

Charlie Joiner played 18 seasons in the NFL, including his first four with the Houston Oilers. One of the league's most prolific receivers, he amassed 750 career receptions for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns, ranking as the league's leading receiver of all-time when he retired at the age of 39 in 1986. His 18 seasons played were longer than any other wide receiver in history at the time of his retirement. The Oilers originally targeted Joiner for the defensive backfield when they picked the 5-11, 180-pounder from Grambling in the fourth round of the 1969 AFL-NFL Draft. Joiner played briefly on defense and the kickoff return team but soon became established as a premier pass catcher. Joiner caught 82 of his 750 career passes as an Oiler, totaling 1,480 yards and 12 touchdowns. He paced the squad with 681 yards and seven touchdown grabs in 1971. In his fourth season in 1972, Houston sent him to the Cincinnati Bengals in a four-player swap. Four years later in 1976, he was traded to San Diego. With the Chargers, Joiner blossomed into super-stardom. He and quarterback Dan Fouts formed a lethal pass-catch team that accounted for the preponderance of his 586 receptions as a Charger. During his 11 years in San Diego, Joiner caught 50 or more passes seven times and had 70 or more receptions three seasons. Injuries cut into his playing time at the beginning, but in a 193-game span over his final 13 seasons, Joiner missed only one game. He was an All-NFL pick in 1980 and a Pro Bowl choice three times. In the 1980 AFC title game, he led the Chargers with six receptions for 130 yards and two touchdowns. Blessed with excellent speed and tantalizing moves, Joiner averaged 16.2 yards per catch and accounted for 12,146 yards and 65 touchdowns. When he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1996, Joiner ranked fifth in receptions and sixth in receiving yardage on the NFL's all-time list. Joiner was once described by San Francisco 49ers coaching great Bill Walsh as "the most intelligent, the smartest, the most calculating receiver the game has ever known."

GUARD • 6'3" • 281 lbs • COLLEGE: PENN STATE
 NFL SEASONS: 12 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 12 (1982-93)
 HOMETOWN: SCRANTON, PA. • BORN: MARCH 5, 1960
 GAMES PLAYED: 159 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2001

Mike Munchak was the eighth player overall and the first offensive lineman chosen in the 1982 National Football League draft. Selected by the Oilers, the former Penn State standout was an immediate success with the Houston club, earning the starting left guard spot in his first training camp. The 6-3, 281-pound lineman wasted little time establishing himself as one of the premier guards in the NFL. In 1984, in just his third year in the league, he was named to the first of seven All-AFC teams. That same year he received the first of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Not coincidentally, the Oilers' on-the-field successes increased as Munchak's development and experience increased. From their dismal 1-8 record in the strike-shortened 1982 season, the Oilers improved nearly every year that Munchak played. Along the way, the team advanced to the playoffs seven consecutive years (1987-1993) and captured the 1991 and 1993 AFC Central Divisional crowns. Munchak was a devastating blocker and considered the key to an offensive line that kept the Oilers at or near the top of the NFL's offensive statistical categories. In 1988 he led the Oilers' offensive line that gave up just 24 quarterback sacks which was third in the NFL. It was also the fewest sacks allowed by the team in 10 seasons. The following season the offensive line held opponents to no sacks in six games. In 1991, the Oilers offensive line finished second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in the fewest quarterback sacks allowed. Behind the Munchak-led line, Houston led the NFL in total offense in 1990 and passing offense in 1990 and 1991. The Oilers finished second in points scored in 1990 and second in total offense in 1991. Equally effective as a run blocker, Munchak led the Oilers offensive charge in 1993 as the team finished fourth in the NFL in both average gain per rushing play (4.4) and average gain per offensive play (5.3). Although he suffered from chronic knee problems, Munchak played in 159 regular season games. His 12 seasons with the Oilers tied him for second longest in the franchise's history at the time of his retirement. He became the first player inducted into the Hall of Fame who played his entire career with the Oilers. Long-time teammate Bruce Matthews presented Munchak for induction.

ELVIN BETHEA

DEFENSIVE END • 6'2" • 260 lbs • COLLEGE: NORTH CAROLINA A&T
 NFL SEASONS: 16 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 16 (1968-83)
 HOMETOWN: TRENTON, N.J. • BORN: MARCH 1, 1946
 GAMES PLAYED: 210 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2003

Defensive end Elvin Bethea, an eight-time Pro Bowl selection during his outstanding career with the Houston Oilers, was named to the five-man class of the 2003 Pro Football Hall of Fame that included running back Marcus Allen, guard Joe DeLamielleure, wide receiver James Lofton, and coach Hank Stram. A third-round draft pick in 1968 (77th player overall) Bethea played in 210 games over 16 seasons, never missing a game until breaking his arm on Nov. 13, 1977. He was considered a "steal" in a draft class that produced three future Hall of Fame players in Larry Csonka, Art Shell, and Ron Yary. When he retired, he held three team records relating to career service: most seasons (16), most career regular season games played (210), and most consecutive regular season games played (135). Having led the team in sacks in six seasons, Bethea's unofficial 105-career sack total still ranks first in franchise history, including his team-best 17 sacks in 1973. He recorded four sacks and a fumble recovery in his best single game performance against San Diego in 1976. He played in eight playoff games and posted 691 career tackles. Bethea also played in eight Pro Bowls (1970, 1972-1976, 1979, 1980) and earned All-Pro second-team honors in 1973, 1975, 1978, and 1979. More than just a pass rusher, Bethea was also effective against the run. Eventhough 1974 was the first year such statistics were compiled by the Oilers, his 691 career tackles, are still among the best in franchise history, even excluding the first six years of his career. "When people ask me who the best guy I ever played against was I always tell them Elvin Bethea and Lyle Alzado because both of them were complete ballplayers," said Art Shell, Hall of Fame member of the Oakland Raiders. "Elvin was one of the quickest guys I've ever been around. We always had to double-team him. There were times when I was supposed to block him when he would get by me so quick. And then Gene Upshaw was supposed to pick him up and he also got by him so quick that we would get back to the huddle and Upshaw would say, 'Did you see that?' and I'd say, 'Yeah, I saw that. He just beat the heck out of me too!' Elvin was just a great player."

WARREN MOON

QUARTERBACK • 6'3" • 212 lbs • COLLEGE: WASHINGTON
 NFL SEASONS: 17 • YEARS WITH OILERS: 10 (1984-93)
 HOMETOWN: LOS ANGELES, CALIF. • BORN: NOVEMBER 18, 1956
 GAMES PLAYED: 208 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2006

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history, was inducted into the 2006 class of the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Moon played 10 years (1984-93) with the Oilers/Titans organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. During a 17-year NFL career, Moon played for the Houston Oilers, Minnesota Vikings, Seattle Seahawks and Kansas City Chiefs and amassed 49,325 passing yards, 291 touchdowns and 102 wins. He earned nine Pro Bowl invitations (tied for the most by a quarterback with John Elway and Dan Marino), posted nine 3,000 yard seasons, 49 300-yard games and led his team to nine playoff appearances. His eight consecutive playoff berths matched a feat accomplished by Terry Bradshaw and Joe Montana. At the time of his retirement, he held the single-season passing yardage record for three different franchises: Oilers (4,367 in 1991), Vikings (4,364 in 1994) and Seahawks (3,678 in 1997). Moon tallied many accomplishments during his Oiler career. His finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363 for 584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third of nine Pro Bowl invitations. Against Kansas City in 1990, Moon threw for 527 yards, which ranks as the second highest single-game total in NFL history (Norm Van Brocklin, 554 yards in 1951). In 1991, he surpassed the previous season's yardage total with 4,690 yards and became just the third player (Marino, Fouts) in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000 yard passing seasons. Moon joined the Oilers and the NFL in 1984, after six seasons in the Canadian Football League, where he led his team to five Grey Cups (League Championships). In the CFL, Moon threw for 21,228 yards and 144 touchdowns. Moon was driven to play in the CFL after drawing little interest from the NFL as a starting quarterback following his senior season at the University of Washington. Moon became the first African-American quarterback to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame and his legacy as a minority quarterback cannot be underestimated. At the time of his arrival in the NFL only two black quarterbacks had been significant starters for their NFL teams (Shack Harris, Rams; Doug Williams, Tampa Bay).

Arguably one of the best offensive linemen to ever play the game, Bruce Matthews became the first Tennessee Titan to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. At the time of his retirement, Matthews played in more NFL games (296) than any non-kicker in the league's history. Longevity and durability were his hallmarks, but that coupled with his unparalleled play, earning a league record 14 consecutive Pro Bowl (9 at guard and 6 at center) selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and seven times named AP All-Pro, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in starting at every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 C, 99 LG, 67 RG, 22 RT, 17 LT). He becomes the first Hall of Fame offensive lineman to play significant time at all five offensive line positions. A constant for the Oilers/Titans franchise, Matthews started in a team record 229 consecutive games (streak started at Indianapolis, Nov. 29, 1987) and never missed a game because of injury. His 19 seasons also are a team record and he ranks second in NFL history for years with one team behind Jackie Slater, who spent 20 seasons with the Rams. Matthews and G Randall McDaniel (Vikings) were the only two NFL players to play in every game during the decade of the 90's. Matthews was a part of nearly one-half of the franchise's first 42-years of history and helped the team win 146 games, make the playoffs nine times, earn the only three AFC Central titles in team history, earn an AFC Championship and the franchise's only Super Bowl appearance. He blocked for 15 quarterbacks and 27 running backs, including five different 1,000-yard rushers (Earl Campbell, Mike Rozier, Lorenzo White, Gary Brown and Eddie George). During his career, he played in offenses that produced nine 1,000-yard rushing seasons and eight 3,000-yard passers. Additionally, he played in 42 different stadiums during his NFL career. During his career, Matthews blocked on a line that helped produce 65 100-yard rushing performances and 48 300-yard passing performances. Originally drafted by the Houston Oilers in the first round (ninth overall) of the 1983 NFL Draft, Matthews earned All-America honors at the University of Southern California. Matthews and his brother, Clay, each played 19 NFL seasons and the duo set an NFL record for games played by a pair of brothers with 574 games. Clay Matthews played in 278 games during his NFL career. Matthews had his number 74 jersey retired by the team and was inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame during a December, 2002 ceremony. Matthews joined a 2007 Hall of Fame class that included Dallas Cowboys WR Michael Irvin, Buffalo Bills RB Thurman Thomas, Detroit Lions TE Charlie Sanders, Cleveland Browns G Gene Hickerson, and St. Louis CB Roger Wehrli.

Curley Culp was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2013. A six-time Pro Bowl selection, Culp played in 179 games during his NFL career with the Kansas City Chiefs (1968-1974), Houston Oilers (1974-1980) and Detroit Lions (1980-81). He was considered the prototypical nose tackle and helped pioneer the 3-4 defense. Hailing from Arizona State, where he was an All-American in both football and wrestling, Culp was selected in the second round of the 1968 NFL Draft by the Denver Broncos, who intended to use him as an offensive guard. However, his brief stint in Denver ended when he was traded to the Chiefs, who inserted him permanently on the defensive side. In 1969, the Chiefs won Super Bowl IV, and Culp was an instrumental member of one of the league's top defenses. He helped the Chiefs defeat the Oakland Raiders in the AFL Championship Game and the Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl. In 1974, during his seventh campaign in Kansas City, Culp was traded to the Oilers along with a first-round draft pick (used to select Robert Brazile) in exchange for John Matuszak. The move paid almost immediate dividends for the Oilers, who previously suffered through 1-13 records in both 1972 and 1973. In 1975, Culp's first full season in Houston, he helped the Oilers to a record of 10-4, the first winning mark for the club in eight years. With Culp anchoring the defense, the Oilers finished with the AFC's top-ranked run defense (third in the NFL). Individually, Culp produced arguably the finest season of his career, recording 11.5 sacks and earning NFL Defensive Player honors by the Newspaper Enterprise Association. Culp continued as a leader of the Oilers defense that culminated in back-to-back appearances in the AFC championship games in 1978 and 1979. He was named to one AFL All-Star Game and five Pro Bowls during his career. Culp also was picked as a first-team All-Pro in 1975 and a second-team selection in 1971, 1977, 1978, and 1979. He was selected first- or second-team All-AFC five times. "Curley Culp was perhaps the strongest man I ever lined up against," said Raiders Hall of Fame center Jim Otto. Culp used his strong wrestling background to create havoc for opposing guards and centers. He was the 1968 NCAA heavyweight wrestling champion and was named to the U.S.

Olympic wrestling team that year. Culp joined a 2013 Hall of Fame class that included offensive linemen Larry Allen and Jonathan Ogden, wide receiver Cris Carter, coach Bill Parcells, linebacker Dave Robinson and defensive lineman Warren Sapp.

Robert Brazile was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2018. As a rookie in 1975, he made an instant impact as he helped Houston notch the franchise's first winning season in eight years with a 10-4 record. He went on to win Defensive Rookie of the Year in 1975. With his speed, strength, tackling and coverage ability, Brazile helped revolutionize the outside linebacker position in a 3-4 defense. Nicknamed 'Dr. Doom,' Brazile started all 147 regular season games during his career and made seven postseason starts, including back-to-back AFC Championship Games (1978-79). He recorded nine tackles and one fumble recovery in the 1978 AFC Championship game. He was elected to seven career Pro Bowls and named All-Pro for five consecutive seasons (1976-80). Brazile registered a career-best 185 tackles in 1978 on his way to helping the Oilers secure three consecutive 10-win seasons and three consecutive playoff berths (1987-80). His career statistics include 13 interceptions, 14 fumble recoveries and 6.5 sacks in both 1976 and 1980. Brazile was named to the NFL's All-Decade Team of the 1970s.

KEVIN MAWAE

HOMETOWN: LEEVILLE, LA. • BORN: JAN. 23, 1971
GAMES PLAYED: 241 • HALL OF FAME INDUCTION: 2019

Kevin Mawae was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame Class of 2019 and became the first established Titan without connections to the Houston Oilers to receive the honor. He played four seasons (2006-09) in Tennessee. Mawae entered the NFL as a second-round pick of the Seattle Seahawks in the 1994 NFL Draft. He began his career at right guard before being moved to center at the start of the 1996 season and remained at that position for the rest of his NFL career. After four seasons (1994-97) in the Northwest, the Louisiana State product signed a free agent deal with the New York Jets in 1998. In his first season in New York, Mawae helped running back Curtis Martin rush for a Jets franchise record eight 100-yard rushing games en route to 1,287-yard season. In 1999, he was named to his first of eight Pro Bowls and paved the way for Martin's then franchise-record 1,464 rushing yards. The 6-foot-4-inch, 289-pounder played in an astounding 177 consecutive games before a serious triceps injury ended his 2005 campaign after six games. Mawae signed a free agent deal with the Titans in 2006. In his first season with Tennessee, he made an immediate impact and was a part of an offense that ranked third in the AFC and fifth in the NFL in rushing with 2,214 yards. Three seasons later, he helped Chris Johnson amass a franchise-best 2,006 rushing yards, becoming just the sixth player all-time to accomplish the feat. In 241 career games over 16 seasons, Mawae was extremely durable and known for his toughness in the trenches. He was a first-team, all-decade center for the 2000s and blocked for a 1,000-yard rusher in 13 of his 16 seasons. Running backs Chris Warren (1,545 yards in 1994), Martin (1,697 in 2004), LenDale White (1,110 in 2007) and Johnson (2,006 in 2009) had the highest season rushing totals of their careers with Mawae on the line. He played 90 games in which there was a 100-yard rusher, the most by any offensive lineman in NFL history.

RETIRED JERSEY NUMBERS

In the history of the Oilers/Titans franchise, only eight players have had the distinction of having their jersey number retired — Jim Norton (No. 43), Elvin Bethea (No. 65), Earl Campbell (No. 34), Mike Munchak (No. 63), Bruce Matthews (No. 74), Warren Moon (No. 1), Eddie George (No. 27) and Steve McNair (No. 9).

Jim Norton played nine seasons for the Oilers (1960-68) as a safety and as a punter, establishing team records at both positions. As a rookie from the University of Idaho, Norton was a member of the Oilers' 1960 AFL Championship team. A four-time league all-star, he holds the club record for most interceptions in a career with 45. Also an accomplished punter, Norton was tops in club history with 519 career punts for a 42.3-yard career average and a long kick of 79 yards (11/22/64 vs. Kansas City).

Elvin Bethea joined the Oilers in 1968 after an outstanding career at North Carolina A&T. He started at defensive end in the 1968 season opener and didn't miss a game until breaking his arm in November 1977. That streak of 135 consecutive games played stands third in team history. An eight-time Pro Bowler (1970, 1972-76, 1978-80), Bethea ranks second for most seasons played (16, 1968-83), while his 210 games played (1968-83) also stands second behind Bruce Matthews. Bethea led the team in sacks six times, including a career-best mark of 17 in 1973. The Oilers honored him with an "Elvin Bethea Appreciation Night" on Aug. 4, 1983. He became the sixth player in franchise history to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Aug. 3, 2003.

Earl Campbell, the franchise's second leading rusher and a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was honored by having his number retired at ceremonies on Aug. 13, 1987. He set a single-season club record with a league-leading 1,450 yards his rookie season. Campbell followed that performance with 1,697 yards in 1979 and an astounding 1,934 yards in 1980. Both those totals led the NFL and the latter was second only to O.J. Simpson's 2,003 yards in 1973. Campbell was selected to five Pro Bowls (1978-81, 1983) and retired as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher (9,407). He ranks second in franchise history in career rushing yards (8,574) and attempts (1,979), first in touchdown runs (73) and first in most consecutive games with a rushing touchdown (5).

Mike Munchak joined the Oilers as a first-round draft pick in 1982 out of Penn State. He was the first offensive lineman selected in the draft and the eighth overall selection. Munchak won the starting left guard position as a rookie and went on to play in 12 campaigns (1982-93) and 159 games (156 starts) for the Oilers. He is tied for third on the team's all-time list for seasons played and ranks fifth in games played. Munchak became a fixture on an offensive line that helped the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances (1987-93). One of the premier guards in the National Football League, Munchak was selected to NFL's "Team of the Decade" for the 1980s and was chosen in 1989 to Oilers' 30th Anniversary "Dream Team." He ranks second in club annals with nine Pro Bowl selections, seven as a starter. Munchak announced his retirement on July 21, 1994, and on the same day, K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., announced that jersey No. 63 would be retired on "Mike Munchak Appreciation Day" on Nov. 6, 1994.

Bruce Matthews played in more games (296) than any non-kicker in NFL history. Longevity and durability were his hallmark. And that, coupled with his unparalleled play, in which he tied a league record with 14 Pro Bowl selections (tied with Merlin Olsen) and earned All-Pro honors six times, made him one of the all-time greats. He rose to the challenges presented to him in playing every position on the offensive line during his NFL career (87 at center, 99 at left guard, 67 at right guard, 22 at right tackle, and 17 at left tackle). His number was retired during a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Dec. 8, 2002.

Warren Moon, the fourth leading passer in NFL history at the time his number was retired, played 10 years (1984-93) with the organization and holds the franchise records for passing yards (33,685) and touchdowns (196), while leading the Oilers to seven consecutive playoff appearances from 1987-93. Moon's finest season came in 1990, throwing for 4,689 yards (363-for-584) and 33 touchdowns in only 15 games and becoming the third player in NFL history to produce consecutive 4,000-yard passing seasons. He earned AP NFL Offensive Player of the Year for his efforts and his third Pro Bowl berth. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Oct. 1, 2006.

Eddie George became the organization's all-time leading rusher as well as its all-time scrimmage yards leader in eight seasons with the team. His 10,009 rushing yards from 1996–2003 ranked second in the NFL (Curtis Martin), while his 12,153 scrimmage yards in the same time frame were third (Marshall Faulk, Martin). His accolades included four Pro Bowl selections (1997–2000), AP All-Pro honors (2000) and the AP Rookie of the Year Award (1996). George also set franchise standards for career rushing attempts (2,733), career touchdowns (74), 1,000-yard rushing seasons (seven), seasons as the team's leading rusher (eight) and career playoff rushing yards (776). During his time with the Titans he amassed 36 100-yard rushing performances (second to Earl Campbell's 39), resulting in a 30-6 record in those contests. He established an NFL mark with 130 consecutive starts by a running back to begin a career—a total which ranked second in NFL history for consecutive starts by a running back at any point. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Sept. 15, 2019.

Steve McNair played 11 seasons with the organization (1995–2005), becoming its second all-time leading passer (27,141 yards) and recording the most wins as a starting quarterback (76). At the time his jersey was retired, he trailed only Warren Moon on the franchise's all-time passing yards list and also ranked second for the organization in completions (2,305), completion percentage (59.5) and passer rating (83.3). He ranked third in touchdown passes (156). His 3,439 rushing yards and 36 touchdown runs were the most in team history by a quarterback. McNair earned three of his four career Pro Bowl berths with the Titans (2000, 2003 and 2005), and in 2003, he shared Associated Press NFL Most Valuable Player honors with Peyton Manning after leading the league with a 100.4 rating. He became the first African-American quarterback to win MVP honors. McNair was the third player in the history of the NFL to pass for 30,000 yards and rushed for 3,500 yards, along with Fran Tarkenton and Steve Young. Only Brett Favre and Manning started more combined NFL regular season and postseason games than McNair (134) from the time he became a full-time starter in 1997 through 2005. He was selected with the third overall draft pick in 1995. His jersey was retired in a halftime ceremony in Nashville on Sept. 15, 2019.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

THE "FOOLISH CLUB"

In 1959, after numerous failed attempts to enter the NFL as owners through expansion or purchase (Chicago Cardinals), Lamar Hunt and K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. agree that forming a new league is a viable option to NFL ownership. They would recruit a number of other future owners, who like themselves were looking to enter the world of football ownership, but had been rebuffed. The eight original teams, which would later be dubbed the "Foolish Club" for taking on the NFL were: Dallas (Hunt), Houston (Adams), Denver (Bob Howsam), New York (Harry Wismer), Los Angeles (Barron Hilton), Buffalo (Ralph Wilson), Boston (William Sullivan) and Oakland (Wayne Valley). Minneapolis was set to become one of the original AFL teams, but they were replaced by Oakland when the NFL awarded an expansion franchise to the Minneapolis market in 1960.

All eight teams agreed to contribute $25,000 to create a league office, which was headed by the first AFL commissioner, Joe Foss. The AFL held their first draft on Nov. 22, 1959 and began play in the fall of 1960 with games televised on ABC.

EARLY DOMINANCE & AFL SUPREMACY

With a mix of cast-off players from other professional leagues (QB George Blanda, C Bob Schmidt, T Al Jamison), pro football rookies (RB Billy Cannon, G Bob Talamini) and local college players who never entered the NFL (WR Charles Hennigan, DT Orville Trask), the Oilers quickly became the dominant team in the newly formed American Football League. In each of the league's first three years, the Oilers advanced to the AFL title game, winning the first two league championships (1960 and 1961). Amazingly, the Oilers reached each of those title games under three different coaches: Lou Rymkus (1960), Wally Lemm (1961) and Frank "Pop" Ivy (1962).

The fiery Rymkus led the inaugural Oilers to the Eastern Division title with a 10-4 mark. They met the Western Division winner Los Angeles Chargers at Jeppesen Stadium in Houston to crown the first AFL champion. The two teams split their two matchups during the regular season. The Oilers took a one-point lead into the fourth quarter and then Blanda hit Cannon for an 88-yard score early in the fourth quarter to end the scoring, 24-16. Blanda tallied 301 passing yards and three touchdowns in the game.

After the Oilers opened the 1961 season 1-3-1, head coach Lou Rymkus was replaced by Wally Lemm, who had been on the 1960 staff but left for private business prior to the 1961 season. The Oilers would win nine consecutive games under Lemm to end the regular season with a 10-3-1 mark and first place in the Eastern Division. The 1961 AFL Championship game was a defensive struggle as the Oilers defeated the San Diego Chargers 10-3 in San Diego.

After leading the Oilers to a second title, the St. Louis Cardinals hired Wally Lemm as their head coach for the 1962 season. The Oilers tabbed Frank "Pop" Ivy to lead the team in 1962. The team again won the Eastern Division with an 11-3 record and faced the Dallas Texans at Jeppesen Stadium for the 1962 AFL title. Dallas raced out to a 17-0 halftime lead, but the Oilers mounted a second half rally to knot the score at 17 with five minutes remaining in the game. The game would go to overtime and was eventually decided in double overtime (6th quarter) with a Dallas 25-yard field goal.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

BUM PHILLIPS

If ever there was a coach made for a team and a team that embodied their coach, it was the marriage between O.A. "Bum" Phillips and the Houston Oilers. A native of Orange, Texas, Phillips spent the majority of his first 15 years in coaching in the Texas high school ranks before moving up the ladder as a defensive coordinator in the college and pro level. He would join the Oilers as a defensive coordinator in 1974 and was named head coach in 1975, where he would remain through the 1980 season. Known for strolling the sidelines in his cowboy hat and boots, he was the face of the Oilers for six seasons (59-38 record) and saw the birth of the "Luv Ya Blue" era. In 1978, he led the Oilers back to the playoffs for the first time in 11 years with their march to the AFC Championship. The Oilers would again reach the AFC Championship game in 1979 and wild card round in 1980. Phillips was let go by the Oilers following the 1980 season.

LUV YA BLUE!

With Oiler fever in full bloom following the march to the AFC Championship game in the 1978 season, the team looked to tap into the frenzy with a marketing campaign that captured that team spirit. The result was the "Luv Ya Blue!" phrase that would sweep the area and be forever remembered with the 1979 and 1980 seasons. The phrase was trademarked by the team and became as popular as regular Oilers merchandise. The campaign included a song which was written and sung by Mack Hayes, a local musician and was performed before each game at the Astrodome during those seasons.

MOON ERA

In February of 1984, the Oilers won a recruiting battle for a five-time Canadian Football League champion quarterback named Warren Moon and by doing so, changed the future of the franchise. Houston had a leg up on the competition with the hiring of Hugh Campbell, who coached Moon for five seasons in Canada, just a month earlier. Moon would play 10 seasons for the Oilers and lead them to the playoffs in each of his final seven seasons (1987-93) with the team and earn six Pro Bowl invitations. Moon established many of the franchise's passing records, including career passing yards (33,685), career touchdowns (196), single season passing yards (4,690 in 1991), passing yards in a game (527 at KC in 1990) and career 300-yard passing games (38). His quick release, decision-making and mobility made him a perfect fit for the Oilers high-octane passing offense. Moon's reign at quarterback for the Oilers came to end with the advent of the salary cap prior to the 1994 season. Most of the Oilers' high-priced talent was released or traded away to comply with the new NFL structure, including Moon, who was traded to Minnesota in April 1994. In 2006, Moon became the first African-American quarterback to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

September 23 – The Oilers win their 1990 home opener 24-10 over the Indianapolis Colts as QB Warren Moon becomes the all-time leading passer in club history. WR Drew Hill catches ten passes for 123 yards to help key the victory.

The record belongs to the Rams' Norm Van Brocklin, who threw for 554 yards against the New York Yanks on September 28, 1951. Moon had an opportunity to break the record but declined to do so based on the Oilers' comfortable lead. Almost overshadowed by Moon's effort was WR Haywood Jeffires catching nine balls for 245 yards (including an 87-yard TD), which marked the second best receiving day in Oiler history. Charles Hennigan had 272 receiving yards versus the Patriots on October 13, 1961.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

RUN 'N SHOOT

Born in the 1970's under the offensive master "Mouse" Davis, the "Run 'N Shoot" offense and its concepts started to enter the NFL in the late 1980's. The Houston Oilers were one of the first teams to run the pass oriented offense that featured one running back and four wide receivers. The Oilers hired June Jones, a Mouse Davis disciple, in 1987 as quarterback coach and he integrated some of the "Run 'N Shoot" concepts into offense. Jones left following the 1988 season to join Wayne Fontes in Detroit. Kevin Gilbride, who also had worked with Davis, took over in 1989 and continued to mold the offense. With Jack Pardee's arrival as head coach in 1990, the Oilers offense became a full-time "Run 'N Shoot" offense, where in previous years it was only used in passing situations. During a three-year stretch (1990-92), the Oilers ranked first in the NFL in passing yards (avg. 4,485 passing yards per season) and second in total yards (avg. 5,954 yards per season). They set a then-franchise record for points scored in 1990 with 405. Warren Moon drove the offense and under his leadership the offense took flight and his receiving corps of Drew Hill, Haywood Jeffires, Ernest Givens and Curtis Duncan totaled unbelievable numbers as they tortured NFL defenses. Head coach Jack Pardee was relieved of his duties 10 games into the 1994 season and with that came the death of the "Run 'N Shoot" offense. New head coach Jeff Fisher moved the offense back to a conventional approach in 1995.

December 30 – Led by backup QB Cody Carlson, who played for the injured Warren Moon (dislocated thumb), the Oilers earn a Wild Card playoff berth by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers 34-14 in the Astrodome. Carlson completes 22 of 29 passes for 247 yards and three TDs. With the victory, the Oilers end up in a three-way tie for first place with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh in the AFC Central.

October 18 – QB Warren Moon becomes the leading passer in professional football history by surpassing Ron Lancaster's 50,535 yards (in 19 years). November 15 – In Houston's 17-13 win at Minnesota, QB Warren Moon suffers a fractured upper left arm on a fourth quarter hit by Viking S Vencie Glenn and misses the next five games. ### McNAIR AND GEORGE

First round draft picks in consecutive years, QB Steve McNair (drafted in 1995) and RB Eddie George (drafted in 1996) became the centerpieces of a team that advanced to the playoffs in four of five years (1999, 2000, 2002, 2003). From 1997, McNair's first season as a starter, until Eddie George's final season as a Titan in 2003, the two combined to pull the franchise to new heights, including the team's first Super Bowl appearance (XXXIV).

The duo started in the same backfield 107 times during their seven seasons together and posted a 67-40 record (.626 winning percentage) in those games, and 5-4 in postseason. The 2003 season would be memorable for both as McNair was named Co-MVP of the NFL, becoming only the franchise's second player to garner the honor (Campbell in 1979) and George became the franchise's all-time leading rusher, passing Earl Campbell and becoming only the 17th running back to reach 10,000 career rushing yards.

Each player personified toughness with legendary stories told of McNair returning from injuries to lead his team to victory and George never missing a start in his eight year franchise career - 128 games - which represented the most consecutive starts in NFL history for a running back to start a career.

On June 12, 2019, Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk announced that McNair's No. 9 jersey and George's No. 27 jersey would be retired by the club.

HOUSTON OILERS TO TENNESSEE TITANS

After trying unsuccessfully for many years to construct a deal with the city of Houston for a new football or multi-use stadium, Oilers owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr. decided that moving his franchise to another city might be the only solution left to keep the team financially competitive. In the spring of 1995, research was completed and several cities were identified as desirable for relocation and at the top of the list was Nashville, Tenn.

In the summer of 1995, Adams contacted Nashville's mayor, Phil Bredesen, to see if the city would be interested in having the team relocate to the region. A 70-day exclusive negotiating period was agreed to and in November the two had signed a relocation agreement that would bring the Oilers to Nashville. In April of 1996, the NFL approved the team's relocation and on May 7th, the voters of Davidson County approved a referendum on using public funding for the new downtown stadium.

Dec. 15, 1996 would mark the Oilers final home game at the Astrodome in Houston – a 21-13 loss to Cincinnati in front of 15,131 fans. In May of 1997, the team reached a settlement with the Astrodome that let them escape the final year of the contract and allowing the team to play the 1997 season in Tennessee.

With the new stadium in Nashville still two years from completion, the team decided to play at Memphis' Liberty Bowl until the stadium was complete. The Tennessee Oilers opened their inaugural season in the state of Tennessee with a 24-21 overtime win over the Oakland Raiders at the Liberty Bowl in front only 30,000 fans.

The Oilers struggled with low attendance throughout the 1997 season and by March of 1998, the Oilers reached an agreement to play the 1998 season at Vanderbilt Stadium in Nashville. Crowds at Vanderbilt Stadium were an improvement from the previous year, but the team could only muster a 3-5 home mark. During the 1998 season, Adams announced the Oilers name would be retired and the team would be renamed the Titans as they entered their new stadium for the 1999 season.

In April of 1999, the team unveiled their new Titans uniforms and in August the team played its first game at Nissan Stadium (named Adelphia Coliseum at the time). The 1999 season ended with the franchise's first Super Bowl berth in the team's 40-year history. A total of 20 players endured the entire odyssey of playing in Houston in 1996, Memphis in 1997, Vanderbilt in 1998 and LP Field in 1999.

HOME SWEET HOME

The newly-named Tennessee Titans opened their new stadium, Adelphia Coliseum (eventually to be named Nissan Stadium) with the regular season opener on Sept. 12, 1999 against the Cincinnati Bengals. The back and forth game would end with the Titans hanging on for a 36-35 win. The win would start a historic streak of 12 consecutive wins to open the new stadium. The 12 consecutive wins were the most in the modern era for a new stadium (Texas Stadium, 9 wins in 1971) and one short of the all-time record by the Buffalo Americans in 1920. The Titans first loss in their new home would come against the Baltimore Ravens on Nov. 12, 2000. The winning streak actually began in the spring of 1998, when a devastating tornado ripped through Nashville, but only gave a glancing blow to the under construction stadium and sparing it from destruction.
