They enter the contest with an NFL-best streak of eight consecutive wins in the month of October in a span that began at Jacksonville on Oct. 10, 2021.

Over the past three seasons, the Titans have lost a total of two games in October—against Pittsburgh on Oct. 25, 2020 and at the New York Jets in overtime on Oct. 3, 2021.

At 10-2, the Titans' .833 October winning percentage since 2020 is the best in the NFL. The Baltimore Ravens (9-3) and Buffalo Bills (9-3) are tied for second place at .750.

AUTRY BETTER THAN EVER: Titans defender Denico Autry has at least one sack in each of the team's first three games of 2023. In his 10th NFL season, he leads the team with 3.5 sacks, and his total is tied for fourth in the AFC and sixth in the NFL.

Since Autry celebrated his 30th birthday in July 2020, he has 28 sacks—four more than the 23 sacks he accumulated through his 20s. He registered 7.5 sacks in 2020, his final season with the Colts, and then produced nine sacks in 2021 during his first season in Tennessee. He led the Titans with eight sacks in 2022.

Since the start of the 2020 campaign, only one player—New Orleans Saints defensive end Cameron Jordan—has more sacks in his 30s than Autry. Jordan has 29 sacks in that time frame, one more than Autry.
