

NFL WEEK 6: RAVENS (4-1) AT PATRIOTS (3-1)

SUNDAY, OCT. 17, 2010 • 1:00 PM. ET • GILLETTE STADIUM (68,756)

JUST THE FACTS

- For the fourth time in the season's first six weeks, the Baltimore Ravens are going on the road to play a quality team. This Sunday, Oct. 17, the Ravens, now 4-1, play the 3-1 New England Patriots, who are coming off their bye weekend, at Gillette Stadium at 1 p.m.
- With 2 TDs and 133 yards rushing from RB Ray Rice, the Ravens dominated the Broncos, 31-17, last Sunday at M&T Bank Stadium. Baltimore, who was stopped on fourth-and-goal from the Denver 1 on the first drive of the game, took a 17-0 second-quarter lead and never looked back. The Ravens owned 24-7 and 31-10 fourth-quarter leads. The Patriots were impressive in their last outing, overwhelming the Dolphins, 41-14, in Miami on Monday, Oct. 4. S Patrick Chung blocked 2 kicks, and New England scored 2 special teams TDs in the victory.
- This is the second time the Ravens have played at the Patriots this year. Baltimore, as a Wild Card entrant, thumped AFC East champion New England, 33-14, on Jan. 10. Three QB Tom Brady turnovers helped the Ravens to a 24-0 first-quarter lead.
- Currently, the Ravens lead the AFC North with Pittsburgh (3-1), Cincinnati (2-3) and Cleveland (1-4) trailing. After the trip to New England, the Ravens play consecutive home games separated by Baltimore's bye weekend. Buffalo comes to M&T Bank Stadium on Oct. 24, and Miami visits on Nov. 7.

HARBS SAYS

"We've got a bunch of tough guys – mentally tough guys, and that includes our assistant coaches. I think we're a composed team right now, and I think we play as a smart team. It's still early, and we have a long way to go. We have to turn around the turnover issues, and I believe we will. It bodes well, I think, that we're in the minus pool and still able to win some games. ... Joe [Flacco] has played in hostile environments since he got here. Count them up as compared to any third-year quarterback in the history of the league. He can handle those road games."

INJURY REPORT

There were no new injuries reported after the game versus Denver. T Jared Gaither (back), LB Tavares Gooden (shoulder), DE Paul Kruger (knee) and WR Donte' Stallworth (foot) missed the Broncos game because of injury. Pro Bowl S Ed Reed (hip), Pro Bowl ST/LB Brendon Ayanbadejo (thigh) and RB Matt Lawrence (leg) are on the Physically Unable to Perform list. Starting CB Domonique Foxworth (knee), T Ramon Harewood (knees) and NT Kelly Talavou are on Injured Reserve. Top 2010 draft pick LB Sergio Kindle (second round) is on the Non-Football Injury list.

NOTE THE QUOTE

SI.COM'S & NBC-TV'S PETER KING ON THE RAVENS' SECONDARY
"Of all the incredible stats in the NFL this morning, the one that stops me in my tracks is this one: Baltimore's allowing 119 passing yards per game, stingiest in the NFL. Before the season, I'd have sworn the secondary would be such an Achilles heel for the Ravens that it would end up ruining their season. ... If I had an assistant coach award for the first quarter of the season, there's a good chance I'd reward secondary coach Chuck Pagano, because he has this group playing terrific football." (MMQB, Oct. 3, 2010)

WHAT'S GOING ON?

ROAD WARRIORS

During John Harbaugh's short stint as the Ravens' head coach, the team has produced an impressive 13 road victories, including post-season play. This season, the Ravens won at the Jets in the Monday night opener, dropped a tough decision at Cincinnati in the short week that followed and then beat the Steelers at Heinz Field. Here are the NFL's best road teams since "Harbs" started with the Ravens:

Most embarrassing moment: There are a lot, but I peed my pants in third grade. That one comes to mind.

Go-to karaoke song: "Piano Man" by Billy Joel

First job: I was a caddy at a golf course.

TV character who most resembles you: Richie Cunningham from Happy Days

Most you've eaten in one sitting: There was a pizza place in college that had a calzone that was named the "Colossal Calzone." It was a large pizza folded over with four chicken breasts and a pound of cheese inside. I thought it was a joke because the regular calzone was huge. But the owner said it wasn't a joke, and if I finished it, he would give it to me for free. And in college, a free meal is a big deal. I finished it and went outside and threw up in the bushes.

If you could be any age for one week, it'd be: Five. I've got a five-year-old right now, and she just seems to have a pretty good outlook on the world.

Strangest fan encounter: A fan had me sign the hood of his car.

Bucket list: 1) Go to Italy 2) Skydive 3) Catch a world-record fish

Your nickname: When I was a kid it was "Beef." Now it's "Matty B."

Most famous person you've met: I grew up with Josh Hartnett. I think he's pretty famous, right?

Favorite vacation spot: I love fishing in Canada.

Favorite book: "The Alchemist" by Paulo Coelho

Favorite movie: "Slap Shot"

Historical sporting event you'd like to witness: The 1980 Miracle on Ice when the U.S. Olympic hockey team won the gold medal

Favorite moment as a player: The day I was drafted – the realization of fulfilling that dream and all the hard work that went into it.

Favorite part about living in Massachusetts: The history – the freedom trail, Paul Revere's house and all the buildings and monuments that are a couple hundred years old.

WEEK 6 QUICK HITS

- Under John Harbaugh, the Ravens are 10-9 in regular season play on the road (13-11 including playoffs). Baltimore is 2-1 in road contests this season, winning at the Jets and Pittsburgh.
- Baltimore looks to earn a regular season win against the Patriots for the first time ever. New England (5-0) and Carolina (3-0) are the only teams in regular season play the Ravens have not beaten.
- The Ravens are 1-0 against the AFC East this season, earning a win at New York in Week 1.
- The Ravens aim to open the season at 5-1 for just the second time in franchise history (Super Bowl year in 2000).

NOTE OF THE WEEK

The Ravens boast the NFL's No. 1 third-down defense. Baltimore has only permitted opponents to convert 26.6% of their third-down attempts (17 of 64), including just 1 conversion on 18 third-and-10-plus situations. Conversely, the Patriots' offense leads the NFL in third-down percentage, earning a 55.3% success rate (26 of 47).

LAST WEEK: BAL. 31 - DEN. 17

RB Ray Rice ran for 2 TDs and 133 yards in the Ravens' convincing 31-17 victory over the Broncos at M&T Bank Stadium last Sunday. Despite being stopped on fourth-and-goal from the Denver 1 on the opening drive of the game, the Ravens jumped to a 17-0 second-quarter lead on a 1-yard QB Joe Flacco dive, a 1-yard Rice TD and a 37-yard Billy Cundiff field goal. QB Kyle Orton's 42-yard bomb to WR Brandon Lloyd with 48 seconds left in the second quarter made the score 17-7 at the half. Two six-minute-plus drives leading to another Rice 1-yard TD and a 30-yard RB Willis McGahee TD sprint gave Baltimore a 31-10 fourth-quarter advantage. The Ravens rushed for 233 yards, compared to Denver's 39, while Baltimore's offense kept the ball 36:17 to the Broncos' 23:43. McGahee added 67 rush yards, and Flacco completed 14 of 25 passes for 196 yards. Orton was 23-of-38 for 314 with 2 TD throws to Lloyd – the second for 44 yards with 35 seconds left in the game.

2K10: QUOTH

THE RAVENS

"Sure, they are physical, and they are one of the most physical teams in the league. But sometimes, their toughness overshadows the talent that they have. They aren't just tough; they're a good team. When you play them, you have to be ready."

- Broncos CB Champ Bailey following the Ravens' 31-17 win last Sunday

The Baltimore Sun's Kevin Van Valkenburg on the rare abilities and athleticism of DT Haloti Ngata:

"Seriously, trying to block Ngata right now is like trying to get between a Grizzly bear and a piece of prime rib. Doesn't matter if you put two guys on him at this point, he's going to be around the ball. You know what separates Ngata from other defensive tackles right now? He's relentless. Yes, you might get him blocked initially, but I'm not sure there is anyone in football who starts the play with his hand in the dirt who runs harder after the ball."

WR Derrick Mason on the versatility of Baltimore's wideouts and making plays for the offense:

"We're capable of making plays. We have three guys in that room who have made a lot of plays in this league, who have caught over 100 balls, have been in Pro Bowls. So, you use them. You find a way to use them. We just want to make sure that each and every game, what we put on film makes the next upcoming defense have to think seriously about trying to take away the pass or trying to take away the run. That's what we want."

QB Marc Bulger, who signed with Baltimore this offseason, on QB Joe Flacco's familiarity of the offensive scheme:

"I've been very impressed with his knowledge of the offense, only going into his third year, and how accurate it is. I think we are similar in personality where he's not running around screaming at guys. He leads more by example. And he kind of took a different path. Us guys that have taken that route kind of form a fraternity, and we pull for each other. It's been fun to get to know him."

Broncos S Brian Dawkins on what impresses him about LB Ray Lewis' ability to lead and be a consistent force:

"I think the thing that impresses me the most about him is the fact that he backs up the things that he asks of his teammates. To me, that is leadership. You talk about motivation and all that stuff, well none of that stuff matters if you don't go out and prove it on the football field. Year-in and year-out, he does that. He asks specific things of his team, and then he goes out and does exactly what he is asking them to do. So to me, that is the definition [of greatness]. You talk about a guy that is a great motivator, [Lewis] is someone who can put the shoes on where he's asking his other teammates to do the same thing."

ESPN.com's James Walker on the Ravens' offensive line:

"It's not a coincidence that the Baltimore Ravens' offense is hitting its stride at the same time as the offense line. The past two weeks, Baltimore has won most of the battles in the trenches against the Denver Broncos and Pittsburgh Steelers. The Ravens have only allowed one sack in each of those two games. They didn't run well against Pittsburgh (who does?) but quarterback Joe Flacco was given time to put together a winning performance. On Sunday, the Ravens had no problem pounding the Broncos into submission, rushing for 233 yards, four touchdowns and averaging 5.0 yards per attempt."

CBSSports.com's Clark Judge on the Ravens:

"Look at the Ravens: They're on top of the AFC North without [S Ed] Reed, arguably the best safety in the game and one of the best defensive players anywhere. They're the only club to knock off Pittsburgh, and now they've frazzled the Broncos. ... It should also make the rest of the division -- heck, the entire AFC -- shudder. The Ravens are who we thought they are, and that's nothing but good for Baltimore and bad for the rest of the conference."

Broncos head coach Josh McDaniels on the Ravens' defense:

"This is a very sound, physical, fundamental defense. I don't think they try to trick you very much. They have good players basically everywhere. ... I think their corners don't give up any big plays. They come up, and they're good tacklers. There's not a lot of run-after-the-catch plays. The front seven certainly applies a lot of pressure without having to blitz. And then when they do choose to blitz, they're very effective in that mode, too. So, this is a team that certainly keeps you on your toes at every position, and like I said, doesn't give up many opportunities to create a bunch of big chunk plays."

LB Ray Lewis on his leadership and the Ravens' brotherhood:

"The greatest thing I bring is total leadership, just being who I am, going out there and getting my players lined up, making sure we are communicating and seeing everything. [It's about] getting that mentality a certain way, understanding that there is no 'I.' There's only 'We.' Everything just transcends into what the game is really formed upon, and that's brotherhood. It's just a strong brotherhood. And I am the big brother for this brotherhood."

NOTES FROM LAST PATS GAME

Here are key notes from the Ravens' last game vs. the Patriots, a 33-14 win at New England in the 2009 Wild Card playoff (1/10/10):

Snapping the Streak: The Ravens beat New England, 33-14, serving the Pats their first home playoff defeat since 1978. Baltimore snapped New England's 11-game home playoff winning streak and halted QB Tom Brady's 23-game overall winning streak at home.

Turnover Battle: The Ravens forced QB Tom Brady into 4 turnovers (3 INTs and 1 fumble), finishing the game with a +2 ratio. Baltimore scored 20 points off its 4 turnovers that day.

Piling Up the Points: Baltimore scored 33 points vs. the Patriots, the second most in Ravens playoff history (34 vs. NYG in Super Bowl XXXV). Twenty-four of the Ravens' points came in the first quarter.

Ground Force: RB Ray Rice ran for a playoff franchise-record 159 yards and 2 TDs on 22 carries (7.2 avg.), spurring the Ravens' 234-yard rushing output (most in team playoff history). The 234 ground yards are the second most New England has ever given up in a playoff game (318 to San Diego in 1964).

Sack Attack: The Ravens sacked QB Tom Brady 3 times (LB Ray Lewis, LB Terrell Suggs and DE Dwan Edwards). Brady had only been sacked 16 times during the regular season.

PATRIOTS SNAPSHOT

Overview: Coming off a bye week, New England enters its third home contest this season with a 3-1 record, including 2-0 at Gillette Stadium. The Patriots currently sit in second place in the AFC East.

Bill Belichick: With 35 years of NFL coaching experience, Belichick is now in his 10th season at the helm in New England. His 119 wins with the Patriots are already more than any other head coach in NFL history through his first 10 seasons with a team. New England has earned the playoffs in six of the past seven seasons.

Offense: The Patriots traded Pro Bowl WR Randy Moss to the Vikings following Week 4. WR Wes Welker, however, is QB Tom Brady's prime target. Welker has earned the Pro Bowl in two-consecutive seasons and leads the team with 26 receptions for 217 yards. Brady, a five-time Pro Bowler, has thrown 9 TDs and just 2 INTs through the first four contests, leading an offense that ranks No. 1 in the NFL in scoring (32.8 ppg). The unit has also converted on 26 of 47 third-down attempts (55.3), the league's best mark.

Defense: The Patriots' defensive unit has recorded 7 INTs from five different players, returning 2 for TDs. First-year Patriot DL Gerard Warren has recorded 2 of the team's 7 sacks.

HOSTILE TERRITORIES

Since 2000, the Ravens own the NFL's third-best home record during regular season play, going 60-22 in Baltimore. The Patriots have also produced a strong record (63-19) in Foxborough. One of the NFL's most challenging road venues, Baltimore captured a 33-14 win in the Wild Card playoff at Gillette Stadium last year (1/10/10).

KEY CONNECTIONS

Pro Connections

• Patriots head coach Bill Belichick's first coaching job in the NFL was with the Baltimore Colts in 1975 as a special assistant to then head coach Ted Marchibroda. Baltimore finished 10-4 that season en route to claiming the AFC East division championship.

• Baltimore executive vice president/general manager Ozzie Newsome began his front office career as a special assignment scout with the Cleveland Browns in 1991 when Bill Belichick was the head coach.

• Ravens LBs coach Dean Pees spent the last six seasons (2004-09) on the Patriots' coaching staff. He spent his final four years in New England as the defensive coordinator. During his tenure guiding the defense, the Patriots were the only team in the NFL to finish in the top 10 in scoring defense in four consecutive seasons.

• Patriots special teams coach Scott O'Brien held the same position for the Cleveland Browns from 1991-95 and made the move to Baltimore with the franchise to coach the Ravens' special teams for three seasons (1996-98).

• Baltimore WR Donte' Stallworth played for the Patriots in 2007, registering 46 catches for 697 yards and 3 TDs.

College Connections

• In 2005, Ravens DT Haloti Ngata and Patriots SS Patrick Chung (2009 second-round pick) both enjoyed stellar seasons with the Oregon Ducks. Ngata was named a consensus first-team All-American on his way to being drafted 12th overall by Baltimore, while Chung was enjoying his freshman campaign as the Ducks' second-leading tackler with 91 stops (58 solo) and 2 INTs.

• From 2006-07, Ravens T Michael Oher and Patriots RB BenJarvus Green-Ellis helped guide the Ole Miss Rebels' offense. Oher was instrumental in creating holes for Green-Ellis, who amassed 2,137 rushing yards and 13 TDs over those two seasons.

• From 2006-07, Ravens defensive coordinator Greg Mattison guided Patriots 2010 second-round draft pick LB Brandon Spikes in the same role at Florida. The duo won a BCS National Championship together in '06, and when Spikes was named a starter in '07, he earned first-team All-SEC honors under Mattison.

• From 2005-07, Ravens RB Ray Rice and Patriots 2010 first-round pick (27th overall) CB Devin McCourty played at Rutgers together. Ravens offensive assistant Craig Ver Steeg served as the Scarlet Knights' offensive coordinator/RBs during those same seasons.

High School/Hometown

• Ravens WR Anquan Boldin and Patriots RB Fred Taylor were both born in Pahokee, FL. Both players earned Florida 3A Player of the Year honors – Boldin at Pahokee HS and Taylor for rival Glades Central HS in nearby Belle Glade, Fla.

• Patriots head coach Bill Belichick was raised in Annapolis, MD. Belichick played football and lacrosse at Annapolis HS, where he is currently enshrined in the Hall of Fame. His father, Steve, coached at the Naval Academy for 33 years.

• Ravens RB Willis McGahee is a first cousin of Patriots CB Darius Butler.

• Patriots strength and conditioning coach Mike Woicik was born in Baltimore.

• Two Patriots players grew up in Maryland: CB Kyle Arrington (Accokeek) and CB Leigh Bodden (Hyattsville).

• In last season's Wild Card game in New England, Suggs registered a sack (-9 yards), FF and FR on the same play.

HEAD COACH JOHN HARBAUGH

COACH HARBS

Two full seasons for John Harbaugh as the Ravens' head coach and two seasons in the playoffs. (The Ravens have never made the postseason three consecutive years.) In both seasons under Harbaugh, the Ravens enjoyed playoff success. In his 2008 rookie campaign, the Ravens advanced to the AFC Championship game after winning at Miami (27-9) and at top-seeded Tennessee, 13-10. Pittsburgh, the eventual Super Bowl champion, stopped the Ravens, 23-14, in the AFC title matchup. In 2009, Baltimore dominated at New England, 33-14, in the Wild Card game before dropping a 20-3 contest at Super Bowl-bound Indianapolis in the Divisional Round.

HEAD COACH SNAPSHOT Third Head Coaching Season

- Reg. Season Record 24-13
- at Home 14-4
- on Road 10-9
- vs. AFC 19-10
- vs. AFC East 2-1
- vs. AFC East in playoffs 2-0
- vs. NFC 5-3
- Playoffs Record 3-2

Harbaugh, who established a reputation as one of the NFL's top special teams coaches, is the third head coach in team history, following Ted Marchibroda (1996-98) and Brian Billick (1999-2007). Coach Harbaugh arrived in Baltimore with 24 years of pro and college coaching experience, including the previous 10 seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles. He was the Eagles' special teams coach from 1998 through 2006 and headed Philly's secondary in 2007.

During the Harbaugh Era (2008-present)...

- The Ravens have won three road playoff games, with no other NFL team owning more than two (Eagles & Jets) during that span.
- Baltimore is one of only two teams to have won playoff games in each of the past two postseasons (Arizona is the other).
- The Ravens own a 24-13 regular season record. Including playoffs (3-2), the Ravens are 27-15 in the Harbaugh Era, tying for the NFL's second-most total wins since 2008.

NFL WINS / INCLUDING PLAYOFFS (Since 2008)

Rk. Team	Combined Wins

HARBAUGH ERA TRENDS

Under John Harbaugh (since 2008), here is the Ravens' record...

When scoring 24 or more points	18-1
When offense posts 350 or more total yards	13-3
When offense rushes for 125 or more yards	19-2
When offense passes for 200 or more yards	12-4
When holding opponent to 13 or fewer points	16-2
When holding opponent under 245 net yards	14-2
When holding opponent to 75 or fewer rushing yards	14-3
When holding opponent under 200 yards passing	17-4

HARBS' PLAYOFF SUCCESS

During the 2008 season, John Harbaugh became just the 12th first-year head coach to lead his team to the Conference Championship game in the Super Bowl Era (Rex Ryan became the 13th in 2009). In 2009, Harbs then became the 10th coach since 1990 to reach the playoffs in his first two seasons as a head coach. The last coach to accomplish this feat was Pittsburgh's Mike Tomlin during the 2007-08 seasons.

HEAD COACHES TO MAKE PLAYOFFS IN EACH OF FIRST TWO SEASONS (Since 1990)

Coach (Team)	Years	Combined Reg. Season Rec.	Combined Playoff Rec.
Bill Cowher (Pit.)	1992-93	20-12	0-2

Mike Tomlin (Pit.)	2007-08	22-10	3-1
John Harbaugh (Bal.)	2008-09	20-12	3-2

Note: In 2010, Harbaugh aims to become just the fourth head coach since 1990 to make the playoffs in his first three years (Cowher, Green, Switzer).

TOUGH TANDEM

Last season, John Harbaugh and Joe Flacco set an NFL record when they became the first rookie head coach starting a rookie quarterback (in 2008) to earn the playoffs in their initial two seasons together (2008-09).

Harbaugh and Flacco also set the NFL record in 2008 for most combined wins (13) by a rookie head coach and rookie QB combo.

MOST WINS / TEAMS WITH ROOKIE HC & QB (NFL Single-Season History)

COORDINATORS: CAMERON / MATTISON

CAM'S ATTACK

In his two full seasons as the Ravens' offensive coordinator, Cam Cameron's impact has been significant. In 2009, the Ravens were the NFL's ninth best in scoring (24.4 ppg), up from 24th in 2007, while setting team records for most total TDs (47) and most rushing TDs (22). Among other notable stats in 2009, Baltimore produced the top three offensive total yards games in franchise history.

In his first season in Baltimore (2008), Cameron built a creative offense that ranked fourth in the NFL in rushing (148.5 ypg), first in time of possession (33:10) and 11th in points per game (24.1 ppg).

Cameron brought his unique offensive mind to Baltimore after one year as the Miami Dolphins' head coach. His successful stints with the NFL's Chargers and Redskins and the NCAA's Indiana Hoosiers and Michigan Wolverines have been celebrated.

Under Cameron's guidance the past three seasons (since 2008)...

- The Ravens have rushed for 139.1 yards per game, fourth most in the NFL. Baltimore also has 48 rushing TDs during that span, second most in the league.
- Baltimore and Carolina are the only teams that have recorded 3,000 passing yards & 2,000 rushing yards in each of the past two seasons.
- The Ravens' 23.5 points per game during this span rank 12th, while their 1,899 plays from scrimmage stand third.

"O" MOVES UP THE RANKS

The Ravens' offense has improved markedly since Cam Cameron took over the reins in 2008. Over the past two full seasons, the Ravens have ranked in the top 11 in scoring each year, while in 2009, Baltimore produced the second-most yards per game in team history (351.2, just shy of 1996's 357.7 average).

400 AND 30

Last Sunday in the 31-17 victory over Denver, the Ravens registered 415 total yards of offense (182 passing and 233 rushing), producing a season high. It marked the eighth time a Cam Cameron-led Ravens offense has totaled at least 400 net yards in a game. The performance also marked the 12th time the Ravens have scored at least 30 points in a game since Cameron became the offensive coordinator in 2008.

Cameron Quick Hits:

- The Ravens have piled up at least 375 total net yards 11 times since 2008, producing a 10-1 record in those games.
- The Ravens have rushed for at least 190 yards eight times under Cameron, earning an 8-0 record. Baltimore is also 19-2 when rushing for at least 125 yards in a game.

"MATTI" MANS THE "D"

Greg Mattison was named the Ravens' defensive coordinator prior to the 2009 season, after originally joining John Harbaugh's staff as linebackers coach in 2008, his first year in the NFL. In 2009, the Ravens continued their staunch reputation as one of the NFL's best defenses, finishing as the No. 3 overall unit. It was Baltimore's seventh-straight top-six finish in yards allowed. The Ravens were also the NFL's stingiest in average yards per rush allowed (3.4), third in points allowed per game (16.3) and were fourth-best in turnover ratio (+10).

Under "Matti" in his first season as "D" coordinator in 2009...

- The Ravens' defense finished third in the NFL in total yards (300.5) and third in points allowed (16.3). It was the seventh consecutive season Baltimore's defense finished in the NFL's top six.
- The Ravens finished second in the NFL for fewest TDs allowed (27), including four games when the "D" allowed no TDs.
- Mattison now coordinates 2010's No. 3-ranked defense, which this past decade, ranks first in most major defensive categories:

OZZIE NEWSOME / PERSONNEL NOTES

WIZARD OF OZ

Ozzie Newsome's legacy is unlike any the game has seen. Known throughout all of sports as a premier leader, Newsome is a Hall of Fame player, the architect of Baltimore's Super Bowl XXXV championship team and an elite personnel evaluator who became the NFL's first African American general manager.

"Ozzie's credibility is what stands out the most," head coach John Harbaugh states. "And it's not just about what he has accomplished. To me, it's his commitment and focus while striving to do more."

OZZIE NEWSOME CAREER SNAPSHOT

- NFL's first African American General Manager (promoted in 2002)
- Architect of Ravens 2000 Super Bowl XXXV Championship Team
- NFL Executive of the Year (2000)
- Pro Football Hall of Fame (class of 1999)
- State of Alabama Hall of Fame (class of 1995)
- National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame and NCAA Hall of Fame (class of 1994)
- 13-Year NFL Tight End with Cleveland Browns (1978-90)
- Three-Time Pro Bowler (1981, 1984-85)
- Four-Time Cleveland Touchdown Club Offensive Player of the Year
- Current Member of Three Major NFL Policy-Making Committees: Competition, Diversity and Player Care Foundation Committees

FIRST-ROUND FINDS

Since moving to Baltimore in 1996, the Ravens, led by GM Ozzie Newsome, have had 15 drafts and selected 16 players in the first round (traded away 2010 first-rounder). These picks have earned an amazing 42 combined Pro Bowls and several All-Rookie honors:

Top 10 Quick Hit:

Of the seven players chosen in the top 10 by Baltimore, five have earned Pro Bowl status. Two of those players — Peter Boulware and Terrell Suggs — also earned Rookie of the Year honors.

Late-Round Success Quick Hit: The Ravens have found gems late in the first round, including LB Ray Lewis (26th), TE Todd Heap (31st), S Ed Reed (24th), G Ben Grubbs (29th) and T Michael Oher (23rd).

NEWSOME'S NFL TREE

In addition to his ability to produce successful draft classes, GM Ozzie Newsome also fosters a working environment that breeds standout coaches. By bringing in individuals who embrace the "Raven way," Newsome aims to create a synergy that manufactures success among the scouts, coaches and players. As a result, Baltimore has had many of its assistants move on to become head coaches on the collegiate and NFL levels.

MILESTONES / TEAM NOTES

MILESTONES IN REACH

WR ANQUAN BOLDIN

Boldin has played in 100 career games, and with 117 more receiving yards, he will reach 8,000 for his career, becoming the fifth fastest in NFL history to reach the milestone (Lance Alworth was first at 83).

QB JOE FLACCO

With 7,700 career passing yards in 37 games, Flacco is 147 yards shy of becoming the Ravens' all-time passing yards leader. Kyle Boller stands first with 7,846 yards, which he compiled in 53 career games. Flacco (40) is also 6 passing TDs short of moving past Boller (45) for second most in team history (Vinny Testaverde has 51).

TE TODD HEAP

Heap is 5 catches shy of 450 for his career. He also needs just 4 TDs to reach the 40 milestone.

WR T.J. HOUSHMANDZADEH

With 7 more receptions, he will record the 600th of his career, becoming the 52nd player in league history to reach the mark.

P SAM KOCH

Koch currently has 121 career punts inside the 20 and needs just 8 more to become the Ravens' career leader (Kyle Richardson, 128). With 66 more punting yards, he'll also move past Richardson (15,069) for first in team history.

LB RAY LEWIS

With 1 more INT, Lewis will record 30 for his career and become just the eighth LB in NFL history to reach the milestone. This Sunday at NE, he'll also play in his 200th NFL game.

RB WILLIS MCGAHEE

McGahee is 12 receiving yards short of reaching 1,000 for his career. He currently has 153 catches for 988 yards. He also needs 70 rushing yards to hit the 6,000 milestone for his career. He'd become the eighth active RB to achieve the mark.

 When turnover ratio is +1 or better 68-4
 When turnover ratio is even 15-15
 When turnover ratio is negative 12-51

50-0: DID YOU KNOW?

Since 2000, the Ravens own a 50-0 record when posting at least a +2 turnover margin.

WINNING WAYS

Dating back to the 2000 season, the Ravens have produced the NFL's sixth-most wins. Baltimore has also made six playoff appearances and won one Super Bowl during this span.

DEFENSE WON'T BREAK

- The Ravens have surrendered 9 give-aways this season. However, Baltimore's stout defense has yet to allow a touchdown off a single turnover. Impressively, of the 9 turnovers, opponents have only scored 9 points (3 FGs).
- The Ravens' "D" has only allowed foes to produce 5 drives of 10-or-more plays this season, tied for the NFL's second fewest.
- The Ravens' "D" has produced 13 three-and-outs this season.

SHUTOUT CITY

Since 2000, Baltimore's defense has registered the most shutouts in the NFL, blanking opponents nine times. The Ravens last shut-out came on Nov. 16, 2009 in a 16-0 win at Cleveland.

STOUT VS. THE RUN

Dating back to the 1999 season, the Ravens have allowed the second-fewest 100-yard rushers (22) in the NFL. (Pittsburgh ranks first with 21.) The top four teams stack up as follows:

100-YARD RUSHERS ALLOWED (Since 1999)

Rk.	Team	100-Yard Rushers
1.	Pittsburgh Steelers	21
2.	Baltimore Ravens	22
3.	Jacksonville	31

Rush "D" Quick Hits:

- Baltimore has allowed only four 100-yard RBs in its last 56 games and six in the past 73 games (last was Cleveland's Peyton Hillis, 144, on 9/26/10).
- From 12/17/06 to 10/4/09, the Ravens produced a 39-game streak without permitting a 100-yard rusher.
- Dating back to the 2007 season, only four RBs have produced a 100-yard day on the Ravens' defense.

LIMITING THE LONG BALL

The Ravens' defense prides itself on not giving up the big play. Since 2008, Baltimore has only allowed 45 passes of 25-plus yards and 79 runs of 10-plus yards. The passes rank fifth best in the NFL, while the runs stand third during that span.

NOTE THE LEWIS QUOTES

ESPN analyst Trent Dilfer on LB Ray Lewis:

"Ray is physically gifted, a leader of men, and now has taken those passions and become a mentor for others — a complete package. Part of the secret sauce of all great players is willpower and the burning desire to get the most out of the people around you. Ray has that and then some. It's hard to find anything negative to say about Ray."

NFL Network's Solomon Wilcotts on Lewis being the NFL's best LB:

"Still at No. 1, after 14 years in the league, he's a poster boy for middle linebackers, the Godfather and still reigning champion, that's right — Ray Lewis. He can run, hit, cover [and is] a wicked tackler. He can wreck your game plan — just ask the San Diego Chargers. The way 'Ray Ray' continues to defy age is superhuman. In fact, I'm starting to think that Lewis is the inspiration behind the Dos Equis 'Most Interesting Man.'"

The Sporting News' Dennis Dillon on Lewis, ranked first in his list of top 20 linebackers in 2010:

"He has three-down ability because of his leadership, experience, instinct and bottom-line production. Despite his age, he remains an elite player."

Defensive coordinator Greg Mattison on Lewis' passion:

"His No. 1 secret to lasting 15 years is his tremendous passion for the game. He respects the game more than anybody, and if you respect the game, you don't want to let it down."

RAVENS PLAYER NOTES - DEFENSE

A DANGEROUS REED

Six-time Pro Bowl S Ed Reed, who is currently on Reserve PUP (hip), has 46 career INTs – most in Ravens history and the NFL since he entered the league in 2002. Among active NFL players, Reed's career picks rank third, trailing Darren Sharper and Champ Bailey.

NASTY NOSE TACKLE

NT Kelly Gregg, one of the NFL's most underrated players, is the Ravens' No. 2 all-time leading tackler (702 stops). From 2002-09, Gregg registered more total tackles than any other active interior linemen. What makes this feat even more impressive is that he missed the entire 2008 campaign after undergoing microfracture knee surgery. Here's a look at the top interior linemen tacklers from 2002-09:

MOST TACKLES BY ACTIVE INTERIOR LINEMEN (2002-09)

1.	Kelly Gregg (Bal.)*	661
2.	Pat Williams (Min.)	597
3.	John Henderson (Oak.)	565
4.	Albert Haynewsworth (Was.)	510
5.	Kevin Williams (Min.)	488

Gregg Quick Hits:

- Gregg is the only DT in Ravens history to record 100 tackles in a season, doing so four separate times ('03, '05, '06, '07). In fact, only one other Ravens D-lineman has ever had 100 stops in a year. That player is DE Michael McCrary, who had 102 in '98 and 103 in '00.

SUGGS SIZZLES

Three-time Pro Bowler Terrell Suggs is the Ravens' No. 2 career sacks leader (60) and all-time sack yardage king (449), including 2.5 for -10 yards this season. Suggs is also the Ravens' all-time leader in FFs (21) and ranks second in FRs (11). His 552 tackles (367 solo) stand as the third most in Ravens history, just behind NT Kelly Gregg (702) and fellow LB Ray Lewis (2,386).

- Baltimore is 10-0 when he tallies 2 or more sacks during his career.
- Suggs has totaled a team-high 2.5 sacks and 20 tackles entering Week 6.

DOMINANT FORCE

One of the NFL's most disruptive forces, DT Haloti Ngata was named to his first Pro Bowl (as a starter) in 2009. Perhaps the NFL's most athletic DT, Ngata stops the run (177 career tackles, including 11 in Week's 4 win at Pittsburgh), rushes the passer (8.5 career sacks) and even drops into coverage (3 career INTs). He also sees time frequently as a FB in Ravens goal-line situations.

The Ravens have a history of strong run defense, but with Ngata's help the past four full seasons, Baltimore's ground "D" has improved markedly from what it was before he entered the NFL.

- In the Ravens' last 22 regular season wins (dating back to 2008), Flacco has 29 TD passes and 5 INTs for a 101.1 QB rating on 385-of-604 passing (63.7%).

- Baltimore is 16-1 when Flacco produces at least a 95 rating (and 9-0 when he's at 109.5 or better).

- In Week 3 vs. Cleveland this season, Flacco posted a 128.7 QB rating, the second-best mark of his career (135.6 vs. Chicago on 12/20/09). The Browns game marked the third time he's had at least 3 TDs in a game (he has 11 multi-TD games in his career).

- Flacco's 14 straight pass completions in the 2009 Week 8 win over Denver set a franchise record, breaking the previous streak of 12, which he also set (10/5/08 at Indianapolis).

- The Ravens are 10-3 when WR Derrick Mason and Flacco connect for a TD pass and 2-0 when Flacco and WR Anquan Boldin combine for 100 yards through the air.

- The Ravens are 12-4 when Flacco throws for at least 200 yards and also 13-4 when he completes a pass of at least 40 yards.

ELITE QB CLUB

In 2009, Joe Flacco became just the fourth starting QB since the 1970 merger to reach the playoffs in his first two NFL seasons. Flacco joined Pittsburgh's Ben Roethlisberger, Cleveland's Bernie Kosar and Miami's Dan Marino in the elite postseason group. In 2008, he became the first rookie QB in NFL history to win two playoff games in helping lead the Ravens to the AFC Championship game.

RICE NABS SIXTH "100"

Last Sunday in the win over Denver, RB Ray Rice moved into third on the Ravens' all-time rushing list (2,156 career rushing yards). Posting a season-high 133 yards on 27 carries, he tallied the sixth 100-yard game and the second multi-TD game of his career.

RICE RAN WILD IN '09

Last season, Ravens Pro Bowl RB Ray Rice led the team with 1,339 rushing yards (on 254 attempts) and with 78 receptions (for 702 yards). Rice was one of two NFL players (Tennessee's Chris Johnson) to tally 2,000 yards from scrimmage (2,041), ranking second in the NFL with an average of 127.6 net yards per game. His scrimmage yards also ranked second in Ravens franchise history (Jamal Lewis had 2,271 in 2003).

Housh Quick Hit:

- "Housh" has produced six consecutive seasons with at least 70 catches and 900 receiving yards. He has 593 career catches for 6,797 yards.

THE GAME-WINNER

In Week 4 at Pittsburgh, QB Joe Flacco found WR T.J. Houshmandzadeh for an 18-yard TD with 32 seconds left. The late-game heroics secured a 17-14 victory, the Ravens' first in Pittsburgh since 2006. It also marked head coach John Harbaugh and Flacco's first victory at Heinz Field. Additionally, Housh's catch was the 41st TD of his career and his first in a Ravens' uniform.

HEAP: ALL-TIME LEADER

Two-time Pro Bowl TE Todd Heap is the Ravens' all-time leader in receptions (445) and receiving TDs (36). In Week 2 at Cincinnati, he hit the 5,000 receiving yards milestone, and the week prior at the Jets, Heap posted 6 catches for 72 yards (12.0 avg.), including a long of 35 yards. It marked the 15th game of his career when he tallied at least 70 receiving yards.

Heap Quick Hits:

- Heap has registered at least 70 receiving yards in a game 15 times during his career (including 6 for 72 yards in Week 1 at NYJ). He has also recorded at least 50 receiving yards in 45 games during his career.
- Dating back to 2002, Heap has the fifth-most catches and receiving yards among NFL TEs (429 for 4,897). His 35 TDs stand fourth.
- Entering Week 6, Heap's 18 catches tie (NE's Aaron Hernandez) for 15th in the NFL among TEs, and his 210 receiving yards stand 16th.

Birk Launches Ready, Set, Read! in Baltimore

On Tuesday (10/5), Ravens C Matt Birk kicked off his Ready, Set, Read! program at Morrell Park Elementary School (Baltimore, Md.). As part of Birk's HIKE Foundation, the program has been implemented in schools throughout Baltimore City, reaching more than 12,000 students. The goal is to encourage students to take an active role in their educational development by reading more outside of the classroom.

Birk spoke to an auditorium of 200 students, as well as parents and teachers. He stressed the importance of education and reading skills, and he noted how both have served him well and would continue to do so after he retires from football. As an incentive for the students, the program includes prizes of Ravens gear every few months for top participants and a grand prize of a Birk-guided tour of M&T Bank Stadium at the end of the program.

McClain Kicks Off Play 60 Challenge/Project ACES

Ravens LB Jameel McClain visited third, fourth and fifth graders at Manchester Elementary School (Manchester, Md.) on Tuesday (10/5) to kick off the Play 60 Challenge/Project ACES (Active Children Excel in School) program for the Carroll County school district. Project ACES has been a fitness and nutrition program in Carroll County schools since 1996. For Tuesday's assembly, students gathered in the gymnasium where officials from the Ravens and Manchester Elementary challenged the students to be physically active for 60 minutes each day and make wise nutrition choices for the duration of the two-week program and beyond.

McClain gave the students examples of activities he participated in as a youth, and he encouraged them to back away from the video game console and play actual games and sports. After a brief Q & A session, McClain selected four students to demonstrate some options of physical activity in a friendly relay race competition (girls vs. boys). Each demonstration participant received a Ravens goodie bag that included a Play 60-branded football and jump rope. The assembly concluded with McClain at the exit giving a high-five to each student.

HEAD COACH JOHN HARBAUGH MONDAY PRESS CONFERENCE

Opening statement: “Good to see everybody. Thanks for coming. Obviously, it’s good to stand up here after a win, and I think the credit goes to our players. When you get a chance to really watch the tape and study what went on, our players won the vast majority of the one-on-one battles. And, that’s what you hope your guys can do, win the one-on-one battles. And they did that with a combination of talent, physical play and great technique. And that’s what created most of the plays. Of course, there were other situations where we didn’t quite execute as well as we wanted and give us a chance to score some points or extend some drives or get some stops in order to get a couple of returns, so those are the things we keep working on.”

Do you believe the rout of New England in last year’s playoff game will be a motivator for the Patriots in their preparation this week? “No. Hey, we’re playing them in New England in Week 6, and it’s a very important game. So, whatever motivates them is no concern to us.”

When Josh McDaniels stated yesterday that the Broncos were “out-toughed, out-mentaled and out-coached,” which of those three meant the most to you? “You want me to say out-coached is my favorite? I don’t believe it. Like I said before, it was the players. The players won the game. It was one-on-one battles. I thought our guys played very smart [and] played disciplined for the most part, and they won the battles.”

Are you happy to be able to balance the offense between the run game and the passing game without establishing an identity as being one or the other? “I’ll keep saying it: We do have an identity. We’re rough, we’re tough, we’re disciplined, we’re smart, [and] we play hard. We’re good decision-makers. That’s what we’re building toward. Run or pass, who cares? The idea is to be able to do everything you do from one week to the next. I’m not sure why everybody wants to say, ‘Hey, you’re identity is that you’re a running team.’ That means you’re one-dimensional. That’s the next thing someone’s going to say. We don’t want to be one-dimensional. We want to have guys we can hand it to, guys that you can throw it to. Joe [Flacco] made some runs, which was good to see. So, we do have some guys that can make plays. We’ve got an offensive line that’s starting to play really well. It gives us a chance to be tough to defend, and that’s really the goal.”

Do you feel the offensive line has been a large part of the team’s success in anchoring the offense? “The offensive line is always going to be the key. You start with the trenches. When you build your team, you start in the trenches, and the game is won and lost in the trenches. If you can’t win in the trenches, you can’t win. And, that’s what we’ve been built on from the beginning, and that’s never going to change.”

What factored into your decision to make the change to go with CB Josh Wilson as the kickoff returner instead of RB Jalen Parmele, and is Wilson the guy you see in that role going forward? “We’ll just see going forward. We’ve got some guys that can do it. It was just kind of an idea to get a spark, to try something. Josh has looked good in practice. He’s getting a feel for the schemes. A lot of times it is less about the returner on the kickoff return thing than it is about the blocking, because you’ve got to create some space and get a guy going. On a punt return, sometimes you can block nobody and get a big punt return. But on kick return, you’ve got to get your guy going. So, I think both of those guys have done a good job. We’re just looking for a big play. The thing on the kickoff return yesterday that was more disappointing than anything was the two penalties. [Those penalties] were completely unnecessary, and they have no impact whatsoever on the return. So, we can do better there.”

Does playing New England twice last year make your preparation for this game like your preparation to play a division opponent? “Yes. You’re probably right, because we have a chance now to go back and include those two games in the breakdown along with the other games that we think are appropriate in terms of scheme and things like that. So, we know these guys pretty well. It’s a very good football team. Traditionally, they have done very well coming off the bye week. That’s going to be something we’ve got to factor in. [The Patriots] are very well-coached, obviously. [They are] tremendously talented, and they have a great quarterback. So, we’ve got our hands full.”

How much of an advantage is it for New England to be coming off the bye week? “That’s the thing with them: They’ve proven [that they play well after the bye]. They have a track record after the bye. So, that’s something that we will be bucking up against, and we’re looking forward to it.”

Going into Week 6, despite a team’s win-loss record, does every team in the NFL have the same outlook for the rest of the year? “By Week 6, you start to determine, maybe, a little bit where you’re at now. It starts to shake out a little bit, and it seems like this year it's, I guess, like most years, it's unpredictable. You never know. And what you see now won't be the same six weeks from now. There will be a lot of changes. They will be teams that seem like they're down and out, and they'll win five games in a row and they'll be right back in it. That's one of the great things about the National Football League. We've just got to take care of our business from one week to the next and let all the rest of that stuff take care of itself."

Are you worried that the season-high eight passes defended yesterday did not result in interceptions? "Worried? No. What's the alternative, you don't break them up? You let them complete them? Then I'd be worried about the fact that [our opponents] are completing too many passes. The interceptions, if that's the question, are going to come. We had a couple that were tougher catches, but we had our hands on them. All the break-ups were one-handed break-ups where you stick the mitt in there and knock it down. So, those aren't really ones you have a chance to intercept. But, we do need more turnovers. We got the one on the kickoff, which was good to see, and it's something we'll shoot for. But I don't think you chase turnovers. That would be to the detriment of playing good defense."

The measures that you go through to limit penalties, having referees regularly out at practice and communicating with the league every week, is that a common practice across the NFL as far as you know? "I don't know if it's common practice or not. I think that's... You try to do everything you can do as a coach in every area. I just credit our players. I think our players have studied, and of course, it's a group effort. We work together – coaches and players and everybody – to kind of find out what we need to understand about the way the game is played and the way it's officiated and the way the rules work. To me, it comes down to playing fast with great technique. If you play fast and you play with attention to detail as it relates to technique, then you have a chance to play within the rules and not get called. We have done a good job of that so far this year. But you know what? Every week is a new week. I think we've put pressure on opponents in some ways to grab us. We've had some pressures that are coming clean, they've grabbed us and they've gotten holding penalties as a result. But, that's a weekly, daily proposition."

How is CB Josh Wilson getting around today, and do you think it is a short-term injury? "I hope it's a short-term injury. It's not a major hamstring pull or anything like that, so we'll just have to see how he looks this week."

When you keep hearing from national media that this could be the best team in the AFC, do you take any sort of pride in that? "No, none, because we know how bogus it is. We know that it means absolutely nothing, because the very next week... The same guys that have got us up there this week had us way down there two or three weeks ago. So, we don't care. I said it before: It's irrelevant to us. We just think it's all just hot air. It's fun for the fans, I guess, and all that. Anytime they're saying nice things about you, we're very wary about that. We like it when you guys don't say nice things about us. We like to read that. That's motivational."

From a tackling standpoint, was yesterday the best game of the season, four quarters of tackling, getting guys to the ground? "That's a great question. I'm not sure if I've compared it to the other weeks, because I think we've been a good tackling team most weeks, except probably for the Cleveland week. But, I do think we're a really good tackling defense. That's probably one of our strengths. We are a good tackling defense, and we've got to make sure we do that from one week to the next. That's the difference, really, in limiting a running game. They may pop one through there and get their six or eight yards, but if you can come up and tackle them and get them on the ground, you're going to eliminate a lot of those yards. And it goes for run after the catch, screens, everything, special teams."

How much of an advantage has it been with K Billy Cundiff on the kickoffs and the position he's helped put you guys in? "It's a big advantage. Once again, I see some of you guys write about our kickoff coverage and how bad it is because of the numbers. I hate the fact that we had that one big return against us. We've worked hard to fix that, but the drive start has been good. OK, why has the drive start been so good? Well, I think we are covering well, but the kicker has had a lot to do with that. He's kicked them deep in the end zone. They've brought them out. It messes up the timing of the kick return, and we've had a bunch of touchbacks, which are automatically at the 20-yard line. So, I can't say enough about what Billy has done with that. Now, as the weather gets colder, there's going to be fewer and fewer of those, and we're going to have to cover better and better. Huge challenge this week: Brandon Tate is emerging as one of the best kickoff returners in the league. [At] North Carolina, he had a bunch of returns for touchdowns. He's had two so far this year. He's a speedster. He's got a great knack and vision. They're being schemed up as well as you're ever going to be schemed up with Scott O'Brien, their special teams coordinator. They've had two weeks to study us and work on what we're doing, and that's something that we're very concerned about."

How important is it this week to put some hits on Tom Brady and try to take him out of his rhythm? "We're going to try to hit every quarterback that we possibly can. We got to Kyle [Orton] a few times, but so many times we were within two steps, and we had to pull off because you have to pull off if you're not within a step. And I thought our guys did a really good job of determining when they could hit him and when they couldn't. I was just disappointed that we couldn't get a little bit closer so that we could get some more hits on him. And that's what you have to do with Tom Brady, but a lot of times the quarterback kind of dictates that. He's got a good feel for pressure, gets the ball out – similar offenses these two weeks in a row – and it's tough to get to him. But, that's something that's going to be important."

How much does the team's versatility play into its success? And, by versatility, I mean the ability to line up DT Haloti Ngata and run him out as a receiver or call a draw for QB Joe Flacco... "It's really important because it's more things for a defense to defend. We talk about defending the width and the depth of a field, and that probably goes within that. There's a lot of different blocking scheme opportunities – the way you go after different defenses – that you want to be able to do. The more guys that can carry the ball or that you can throw to or whatever obviously gives you more creative options that way. It has to do with your offensive line, who can pull. We've got a bunch of guys that can pull. Both our guards can pull. Both our tackles can pull. That's not something that very many teams can say."

Does it make it any harder to scheme for the Patriots now that they've gotten rid of Randy Moss and you don't know what this team is like without him? "That's a great [question]. Yeah, I think with Randy you kind of knew, and pretty much people were starting to play them in a similar way. What does that mean? How are we going to defend them? Who's the deep threat? It's going to be Brandon Tate for sure. He can run. He's a threat. Obviously, they feel very good about their offensive weapons or they wouldn't have done it. And I don't think they ever do something... No team ever does something to make themselves weaker. They feel like this is going to make them stronger short term and long term. That's why they've done it, and we'll be the first team to find out what their plan is. And they've got an extra week to get ready, to put that thing together, and I'm sure that's not by coincidence."

What does TE Ed Dickson need to do to continue to develop as a jump-ball threat? "I think in order to get on the field more you've got to do more than one thing well. He was on the field quite a bit yesterday, did some pretty good things, blocking. Had the holding penalty, obviously. He was disappointed with that, as was I. But I think that kind of goes hand-in-hand. But that's also our job to get him on the field more. Here's a guy that's got ability, has worked really hard. I think he's very dangerous in the passing game, and we need to try to get him out there more and more."

Has the secondary exceeded your expectations by playing well without CB Domonique Foxworth and S Ed Reed? "They've exceeded your expectations, which is fair. I get that. When you're coaching a group of guys – and I give a lot of credit to [secondary coach] Chuck Pagano; he's done a great job – when you're coaching a bunch of guys, you're putting together a unit, so you kind of see them as a whole. And I think Chuck felt like, and we all felt like, this could be a good group playing together, playing technique. And that's what they've done, because they're good players. And then we felt like once we started getting guys back – we were a little worried, obviously, with Fabian [Washington] with the ACL, and then you've got Lardarius [Webb]... How fast are they going to be able to get healthy? And we were able to bring Josh Wilson in to give us a little bit of a buffer there. But now, as things have turned a little bit with the health, now all of a sudden we have a little bit of a depth. We've got some competition, at corner especially. The safeties have played well. Ken Hamlin is a good safety, and we haven't seen much of him. Now we're going to add Ed Reed into the mix. So going forward, you get kind of optimistic and excited about the pieces. But, I guess the point I'm trying to make is it's the whole that matters. So, we've got to make sure that we incorporate these guys back in and we continue to get better as a group back there so we can play good pass defense."

Did the fourth-down play when DT Haloti Ngata got hurt cause you to think twice about using a player on the opposite side of the ball? And is there a balance between coordinators when using each other's players? "Everywhere I've been there's always that balance, as you put it, between the coordinators – except for here. This is the first place that I've been where the three coordinators truly encourage one another to do what's best for the team. So, I guess that's where I step in sometimes and have to be on top of things. And I think the coordinators do a good job about being smart about the fact that, 'You know what? Is it really worth what I'm asking him to do based on the risk?' So, you take a guy like Haloti or a guy on special teams returning kicks or whatever, and you try to determine whether or not you're getting enough out of him in order to take the risk of the extra snaps. The bottom line is you're trying to win every play, and whatever gives you the best chance to win every play, balanced against the risk of injury and what he means to the other side of the ball, you want to try to do that. That's kind of a long-winded way of saying, 'Yeah, we've got to figure it out and decide if we want to put him on that or somebody else on something else.'"

Did it change the way you think when you saw Ngata go down after that play? "It makes you hold your breath for a second. I don't think it really changes the way you think, because you already knew there was a risk there. It just kind of draws everybody's attention to it. I think as a coach, you can't get scared away by public perception. I'm not going to get intimidated by the fact that fans are going to say, 'Oh, Lardarius Webb got hurt on special teams. He should never play special teams.' You can think that, but we've got to put 11 good players out there on every single play in order to win that play, because that play might be the play that makes the difference in the game. And that's just the way football is."

Is there anything that played into the team letting up touchdowns at the end of each half or is it just about playing strong throughout the game? "Yeah, and it's critical situations. If you look at each of those situations, we feel like... First of all, the offense feels like they should've never put the defense back on the field. If we get a first down on each of those two situations and we close out the half and we close out the game, the defense is never on the field against that quality of a passing attack, and it's never an issue. The defense feels like every time they get on the field, first of all, don't give up big plays. Secondly, don't have penalties that extend drives. If we do those two things, we're not going to have too many people drive the field against us, the length of the field. Anyone of those things happens, and those aren't an issue. And that's what we have to do better the next time."

How do you feel about talk of eliminating the three-point stance for linemen? "That'd be absurd. I just think that would be... You'd be changing football. You'd be better off putting guys back in leather helmets than do something like that. So, throw that one out there as a possibility."

Why are more teams deferring at the start of the game when they win the coin toss? "Before, the rule was different, because if you didn't take the ball then you weren't getting the ball either half. So you have a chance to get the ball in the second half [now]. I don't know. Maybe everybody's been watching us, because we've been doing it here for three years – probably because we have a lot of confidence in our defense. We were going to take the ball yesterday. What happened yesterday? They won the toss and they took the ball? So now you know. We were going to take the ball if we had won the toss. (Reporter says: 'That's just what you're saying now.') I'm not Cam [Cameron] standing up here. (laughter) Not divulging tactics, right? We were going to take the ball because we felt that was the best thing in that game for us. It's more of a gut feeling probably than anything."

Were you impressed with the way RB Ray Rice ran near the goal line, and do you perhaps see him getting more opportunities in those situations? "I don't think we ever felt like Ray couldn't do it [from inside the 5-yard line]. We just had Willis [McGahee, who] had such a hot hand, and Willis is so good at it. But, all three of those guys can carry the ball. Joe [Flacco] carried the ball [on the goal line], didn't he? He scored a touchdown, right? But I think all three of those guys can carry the ball on the goal line. So, Willis isn't going to want to hear that we're going to spread it out more, so I really don't know what we'll do, but I think they can all do it."

Have you had any conversation or given any consideration into re-signing LB Antwan Barnes since the Philadelphia Eagles released him on Saturday? "I haven't had a conversation with him. You know, we don't really have a roster opportunity right now for that, [but] I wouldn't be opposed to it. You know, Antwan's a good person, a good player, and obviously, he's done some good things here. But right now, there's just no way, roster-wise, we could pull that off."

Are you happy with the way the red-zone offense has performed so far? "Are you ever happy with the production? We want to score every time we get in there. I'm disappointed with the times we haven't come away with touchdowns, you know? I feel pretty good about the fact that we haven't blown too many opportunities to score points in there. You know, that was my decision to go for it on fourth down [on Sunday], so I blew that one, as far as not getting the three [points]. But you always want to get more touchdowns."

Did CB Fabian Washington's play excite you yesterday? "It did, it did. Fabian has ambitions of being an elite corner, and you know what, he's got the ability to do it, and he played like it yesterday."
