BREAKING DOWN THE CH EFS

While there was always cautious optimism about what the Kansas City Chiefs could accomplish in 2018, there was still the question of how their 23-year-old first-year starting quarterback would handle the responsibility of being handed the keys to the car after the team had just won back-toback division titles for the first time in franchise history.

Then, all Patrick Mahomes did was go out and prove to be the best player in the NFL—becoming the franchise's first ever Most Valuable Player award winner after an individual season that-statistically—rivals any other in NFL history.

With the team being just a couple of plays away from their first Super Bowl appearance in almost 50 years last year—ultimately falling to the New England Patriots in overtime in the AFC Championship game-the optimism surrounding this team, which bolstered both sides of the ball this offseason and a complete overhaul of the defense, has never been higher.

The conversation surrounding the Chiefs' offense obviously starts with Mahomes, who became just the second player in NFL history last year to finish a season with at least 5,000 yards passing and have at least 50 touchdown passes.

All in all—the fact that he did that in his first year as a starter—is nothing short of amazing.

Mahomes also led the Chiefs' offense to become the first in NFL history to score at least 26 points in every regular-season game, and they finished with 565 points scored on the season, which is third-best in NFL history.

All-Pro tight end Travis Kelce finished with his third-straight 1,000-yard receiving season, which has him now tied for the NFL's all-time record with the Panthers' Greg Olsen. If Kelce can hit that 1,000-yard mark again in 2019, he'll be alone atop the all-time record books. Overall, he finished last season with 103 receptions for 1,336 yards receiving and 10 touchdowns.

Joining Kelce atop the receiving books last year for the Chiefs was WR Tyreek Hill, who finished his first All-Pro season with 87 receptions for 1,479 yards and 12 touchdowns. He's proven to be one of the most-electric players in the league with the ball in his hands.

One player who missed a chunk of the 2018 season due to injury but one that fans should be excited about is veteran Sammy Watkins. He missed considerable time with a foot injury last year but looks to be healthy headed into the 2019 season, and when healthy, Watkins is one of the top receivers in the league.

Heading into 2019—look for guys like Demarcus Robinson, Gehrig Dieter, Byron Pringle and Mecole Hardman to step up and battle to become reliable targets for Mahomes.

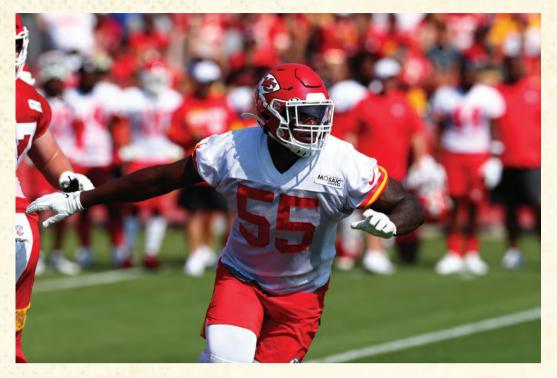

In the backfield, this looks to be Damien Williams' time to shine.

In the last six games of 2018, Williams amassed 600 yards of total offense and totaled 10 touchdowns—a scoring stretch that was only matched by one other player at any point in the league last year (Todd Gurley, Rams).

Veteran free-agent pickup Carlos Hyde, along with rookie Darwin Thompson and second-year player Darrell Williams also look to be in the mix at running back.

Up front, the Chiefs are led by a pair of veteran offensive tackles that paved the way for this high-octane offense to do what it did last year. Right tackle Mitch Schwartz is arguably the best in the league at his position and has yet to miss a snap in his seven-year career, while left tackle Eric Fisher earned the first Pro Bowl nomination of his career last season.

The interior offensive line will have some familiar faces as well as Laurent Duvernay-Tardif, who missed most of last season with an injury, returns to hold down the right guard position, while

Andrew Wylie, Cam Erving and Austin Reiter will all see time throughout the season along the interior as well.

On the defensive side of the ball, there's a lot of new faces—headlined by the offseason addition of Steve Spagnuolo as the new defensive coordinator. He also brings a scheme change with him as the Chiefs will employ a 4-3 defense for the first time since Andy Reid took over back in 2013.

Spagnuolo most recently served as the defensive coordinator for the New York Giants for three seasons (2015-17) and was named the Giants interim head coach for the final four weeks of the 2017 season.

His three years coordinating New York's defense marked his second stint in that role as he served as the Giants defensive coordinator from 2007-08. Spagnuolo's defense helped lead the Giants to a 17-14 victory over the previously undefeated New England Patriots in Super Bowl XLII following the 2007 season.

After his first stop with the Giants (2007-08), Spagnuolo was hired as head coach of the St. Louis Rams, where he spent three seasons at the helm (2009-11) and led the Rams to a six-game turnaround between 2009-10. Spagnuolo also had a stint as defensive coordinator of the New Orleans Saints (2012) where he led a unit that finished with 15 interceptions, including four that were returned for touchdowns, and forced 11 fumbles to help the Saints finish with a plus-two turnover differential. Following New Orleans he spent two seasons on the defensive staff of the Baltimore Ravens, first as a senior defensive assistant (2013) and then as assistant head coach/secondary coach (2014).

Spagnuolo broke into the NFL under Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid when Reid held the same position with the Philadelphia Eagles (1999-2012). Spagnuolo spent eight seasons (1999-2006) working on the defensive coaching staff in Philadelphia under the late Jim Johnson, holding the positions of defensive assistant/quality control coach (1999-2000), defensive backs coach (2001-03) and linebackers coach (2004-06).

While with the Eagles, Spagnuolo was part of four consecutive NFC East titles, reached four straight conference title games and earned a Super Bowl appearance following the 2004 season.

Spagnuolo brought in an entirely new defensive coaching staff with him to Kansas City, but each of the coaches he brought in have worked with him in different stops he's had throughout his career. That familiarity should help as they all look to build a defense that's tasked with slowing teams down that will undoubtedly have to try and keep up with this high-powered Chiefs' offense.

Outside of Spagnuolo and the new position coaches, the biggest change to the Chiefs' defense has to do with their two key free agent signings in safety Tyrann Mathieu and defensive end Frank Clark.

Both players are considered among the best in the league at their respective positions, but even more than that, both players have been praised for their leadership characteristics throughout their careers and possess an ability to establish an identity for the Chiefs' defense that isn't simply playing "little brother" to the offense.

Consequently, offseason workouts proved to be one of the most competitive between the Chiefs' offense and defense since Andy Reid took over in 2013. That tone was set by Spagnuolo and the coaching staff and was then relayed on by Mathieu and Clark.

A few other key pickups for the Chiefs' defense this offseason were the signings of linebacker Damien Wilson and defensive end Alex Okafor, along with the trades for defensive end Emmanuel Ogbah (Browns) and linebacker Darron Lee (Jets).

The additions of safety Juan Thornhill and defensive tackle Khalen Saunders in the draft last Spring shouldn't go unnoticed as both players have an opportunity to contribute early in their careers.

It's a whole new look for the Chiefs' defense in 2019, and while the offense tries to replicate a season that's in the conversation for one of the most-potent in NFL history, there's zero doubt that this is set up to be one of the most-anticipated seasons in Chiefs' franchise history.

Arrowhead Stadium opened its doors for the first time on Aug. 12, 1972 as the Kansas City Chiefs hosted the St. Louis Cardinals in front of 78,190 fans. Since that initial contest, much has changed at the Truman Sports Complex, which is also home to Kauffman Stadium - the home of the Kansas City Royals. Several innovative concepts have been discussed over the years, with some concepts put into action during multiple renovations and upgrades to the facility. While many modernizations have taken place, the spirit of the stadium remains the same as it was for that first preseason football game in 1972.

Arrowhead Stadium Timeline:

 1967: In the late 1960s, after design and seating capacity concerns caused plans for a single, multi-purpose domed stadium to be scrapped, Kansas City opted to construct two separate stadiums, one for football and one for baseball. Voters approved the Sports Complex bond issue in 1967, which included plans for a revolutionary concept - the world's first rolling stadium roof. Construction cost overruns and project delays caused by a lengthy strike eventually forced the roof concept to be put on hold.

• 1984: In 1984, the Jackson County Sports Authority again investigated the feasibility of a dome - this time made of fabric - but that concept too was shelved as being unnecessary and financially impractical.

• 1994: In 1994, under Arrowhead's continued open-air arrangement, a natural playing surface was installed in the facility for the first time.

• 1999: In 1999, the stadium saw its first seat upgrade, replacing all 33,975 seats in the upper level and all 35,277 seats in the lower level.

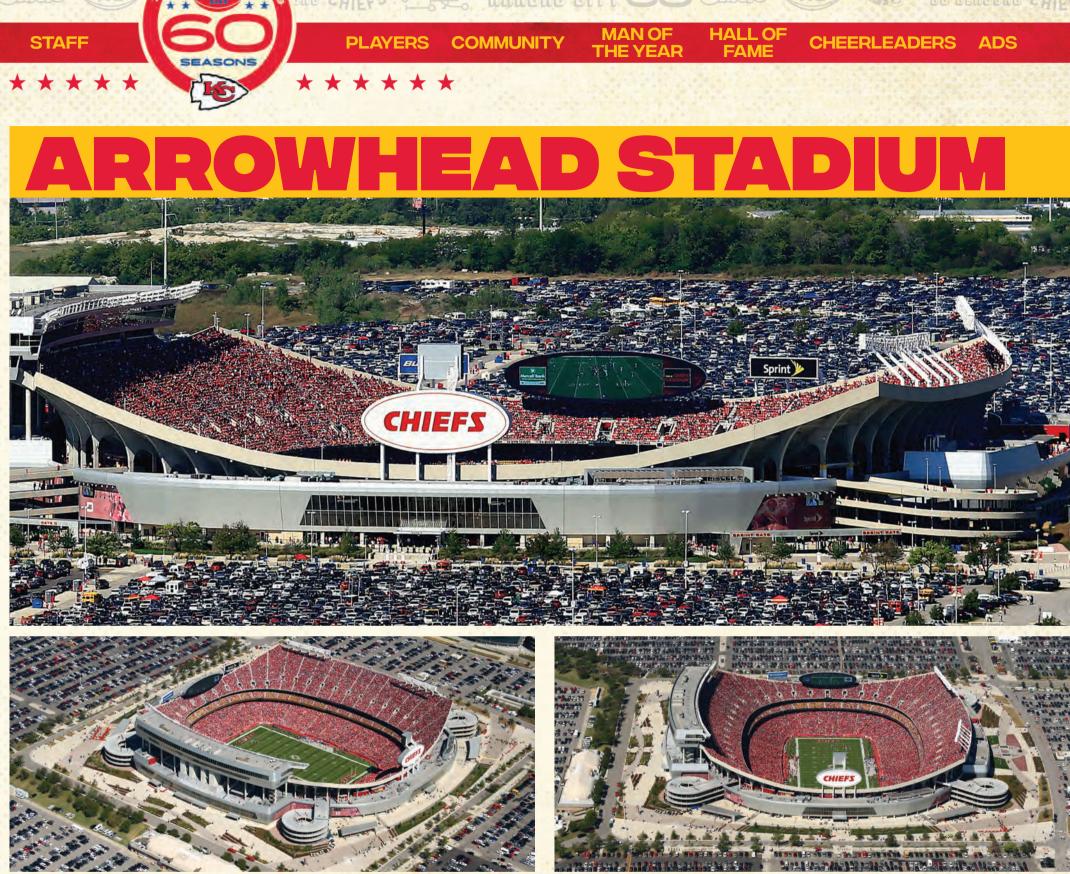

2000: Prior to the 2000 season, all 10,199 club level seats were replaced.

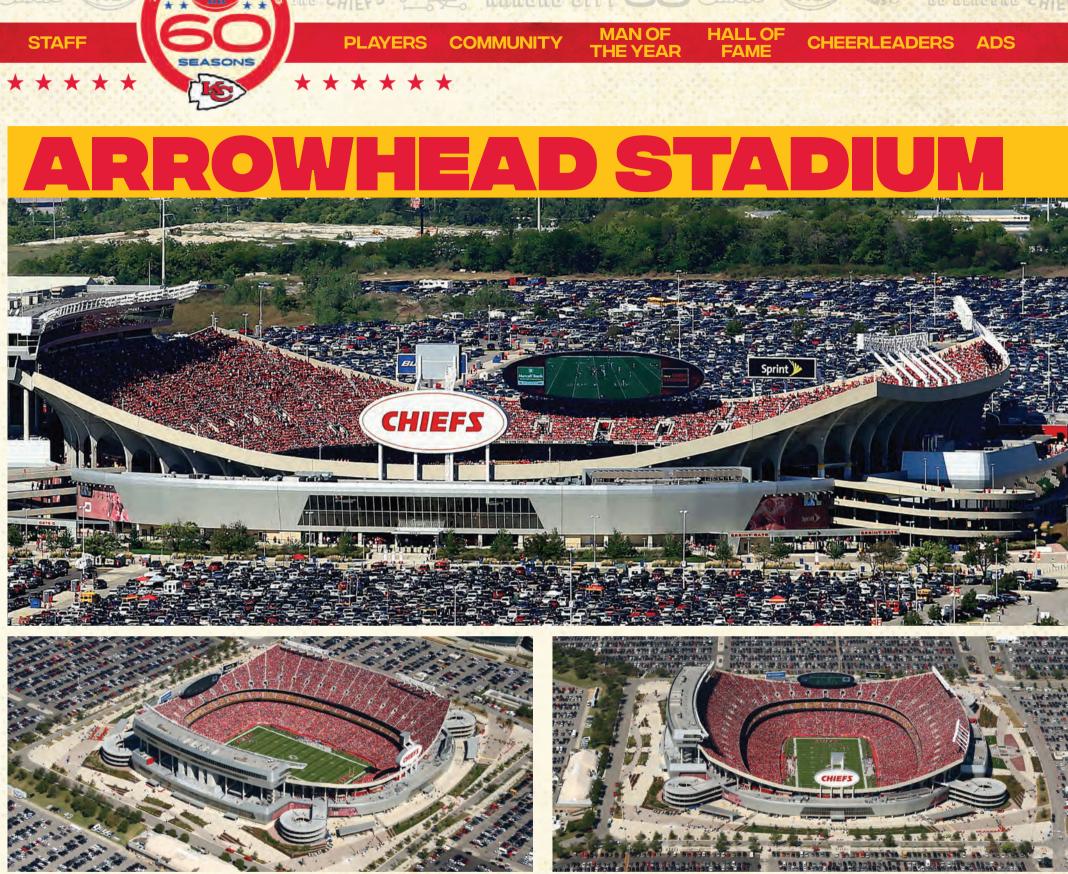

• 2006: On April 4, 2006, Jackson County, Mo., taxpayers approved a 3/8 cent sales tax that was expected to raise $425 million for improvements to the Sports Complex, including $212.5 million for Arrowhead. The State of Missouri also contributed $37.5 million. In addition, the Hunt family contributed $125 million to the project.

• 2010: Upgrades were officially done prior to the start of the 2010 season and included Founder's Plaza, the Ford Fan Zone, the Chiefs Sports Lab, the Chiefs Hall of Honor, the Founder's Club, the CommunityAmerica Credit Union Club Level and a new team store. Other improvements included an upgraded sound and scoreboard system, a 360-degree video ribbon board, concourses that are doubled in size and an upgraded variety of food and beverage options.

• 2013: The club introduced a stadium-wide Wi-Fi network at Arrowhead, installing 600 high-density wireless access points as part of a seven-figure investment to create a more fully integrated mobile experience for Chiefs fans. Arrowhead Wi-Fi changed the way fans consume Chiefs content in-stadium, and also changed the way fans interact with the team and each other. The Wi-Fi network received an upgrade over two years in 2017 and 2018.

• 2019: Prior to the 2019 season, the Chiefs committed more than $10 million in upgrades to the stadium, including concrete repairs and new waterproofing measures in the stadium's upper level. In addition, the club replaced most seats in the upper deck with a newer version that includes cupholders, and in some cases, wider seats. The club also upgraded the technology in the west scoreboard to state-of-the-art LED technology that will offer an enhanced screen image for fans in Arrowhead. A tradition that began in the earliest days of the Chiefs franchise in Municipal Stadium will also see an upgrade in 2019, as the team introduced the Drum Deck, moving the club's gameday pregame drum tradition from field-level to a more prominent location in the upper deck in the west endzone.

To this day. Arrowhead Stadium remains one of the most iconic stadiums in the NFL, and these improvements ensure it is not only one of the nation's top venues for fans to experience the excitement of the NFL, but is also a year-round entertainment destination, serving the entire Midwest region.

At the time of its dedication in 1972, the legendary founder of the Chicago Bears, George Halas, called Arrowhead "the most revolutionary, futuristic, sports complex I have ever seen." Hal Lebovitz, Sports Editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer added, "It took courage to sell the citizens of Kansas City on the twin park plan. But they bought it because they want the best."

Arrowhead Stadium and the fans who consistently fill it have helped produce a homefield advantage for the Chiefs. One of these most notable moments occurred on Sept. 29, 2014, as the club defeated the New England Patriots 41-14 on Monday Night Football as Chiefs fans set a Guinness World Record for Loudest Crowd Roar at a Sports Stadium (Outdoors).

Chiefs fans reached a peak decibel reading of 142.2. Five years later and the Chiefs still hold the record.

While other venues of a similar vintage have long since been termed obsolete, thanks to the foresight and vision of the leadership of Jackson County, the Hunt family, the Chiefs and the taxpayers who made it a reality, Arrowhead has stood the test of time. It's been more than 50 years since the first plans were being devised for Kansas City's two-stadium setup. During the 30th Anniversary season of Arrowhead in 2001, Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt expressed the organization's thanks to Colorado-based architect, the late Charles Deaton, who conceived the two-stadium concept. Hunt praised the governmental bodies who took the initiative, and the workers who built Arrowhead, as well as the support of the Jackson County taxpayers who financed this futuristic venture. Hunt also wished to extend on behalf of the entire Chiefs organization a hearty salute to all who have unquestionably made Arrowhead Stadium - The Home of the ... CHIEFS!

Chiefs fans can relive some of the most exciting moments in Chiefs and professional football history inside the Chiefs Hall of Honor at Arrowhead Stadium.

Over 50 years of franchise history highlight this themed area in the lower level concourse, enabling fans to revisit football memories dating back to the franchise's earliest days. Exhibits not only trace the history of the club dating back to its days in Dallas but cover the 10 years of the American Football League, founded by Lamar Hunt. Individual cases pay tribute to every member of the team's Hall of Fame, including this year's inductee, Brian Waters. Each of the franchise's three league championships, including Super Bowl IV, are also covered.

New additions for the 2019 season include dedicated cases to this year's Pro Football Hall of Fame inductees Johnny Robinson and Tony Gonzalez and a Ty Law Pro Football Hall of Fame plaque. In honor of the Chiefs' 60th season new artifacts will be added to the Municipal Stadium case and a series of AFL artifacts from the original eight teams will be added to the exhibit as well.

This will mark the second year showcasing a number of shoes/cleats through the years and team travel gear. A rare official's jacket worn by referees in Super Bowl I was added to the exhibit in July 2018.

The Hall is also filled with interactive video displays that allow fans to watch the team's unforgettable moments and feel the energy and passion that make Arrowhead the home of the best game day experience in the NFL.

The Hall of Honor is open to the public and guided tours of Arrowhead Stadium and the Hall of Honor are available Fridays at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. and Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tickets are sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. They are available for purchase in the Chiefs Pro Shop located at the Founder's Plaza on the north side of Arrowhead Stadium. No reservations are required. Please arrive 15 minutes prior to the tour to allow for check-in.

The Kansas City Chiefs will host their tenth training camp at Missouri Western State University in St. Joseph, Mo., in 2018. In January of 2019, the Chiefs and MWSU reached an agreement that will keep the site of Chiefs Training Camp presented by Mosaic Life Care in St. Joseph through 2019. "Missouri Western State University has continued to deliver outstanding facilities and services for our annual training camp since we moved back to the state of Missouri prior to the 2010 season," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said. "The university and the city of St. Joseph provide our team the unique ability to go away for camp, while also offering resources and amenities for fans throughout Chiefs Kingdom to have access to their favorite team. We are thankful to Missouri Western State University leadership, specifically MWSU President Dr. Robert Vartabedian and Director of Athletics Josh Looney, for their continued support. We are looking forward to another summer in St. Joseph later this year". In 2010, Chiefs Training Camp moved back to the state of Missouri for the first time in 20 years. St. Joseph and Missouri Western are located approximately an hour north of Arrowhead Stadium, and roughly 40 minutes north of Kansas City International Airport. The community of 72,000 and Missouri Western have embraced the Chiefs. The famed Pony Express got its start in St. Joseph in 1860, while noted Wild West figure Jesse James met his demise in the city in 1882. The Chiefs enjoy a number of amenities at the new climate-controlled Griffon Indoor Complex, including state-of-the-art locker rooms, training rooms, meeting rooms, weight room facilities and a 120-yard indoor field. In addition to the indoor practice area, two 120-yard regulation NFL grass fields have been installed. The team also has access to the artificial surface of Craig Field at Spratt Memorial Stadium. Blum Union houses the team's dining needs and serves as the club's media headquarters. The Missouri Development Finance Board approved a $25 million tax credit in June of 2009 to help bring Chiefs Training Camp back to Missouri. Through the Hunt family's additional contributions to the Arrowhead Stadium renovation project, the family and the Chiefs organization made a $10 million investment toward the Griffon Indoor Complex at Missouri Western.

Chiefs All-Pro QB Trent Green, ESPN's Todd McShay, NFL Network's Ari Wolfe and Chiefs Reporter BJ Kissel will headline on the Chiefs Television Network for the Chiefs preseason television broadcasts on KCTV5 in 2019. Chiefs preseason broadcasts will be seen in 12 different markets in a seven-state region. Produced by the Chiefs in-house production team, 65 Toss Power Trap Productions, and aired by KCTV5 in Kansas City, all preseason games will be available in high definition. For the first time, during the 2019 preseason all games will be streamed live on Chiefs.com and through the Chiefs mobile app in market only.

Green will serve as a color commentator, McShay will serve as a sideline analyst, Wolfe will handle play-by-play and Kissel will be on the sideline.

KCTV5 will carry Chiefs preseason contests for the 16th consecutive year.

Trent Green joined CBS Sports as a game analyst for CBS Television Network's coverage of THE NFL ON CBS in April 2014.

Green concluded his 16-year NFL playing career in 2008 and launched his broadcasting career with FOX Sports in 2009. In six seasons with Kansas City (2001-06), Green established then-franchise career records for passer rating (87.3), completion percentage (61.9) and 300-yard games (24). A two-time winner of the Derrick Thomas Award as Kansas City's MVP (2003-04), Green threw for 21,459 yards and 118 TDs in a Chiefs uniform, numbers topped only by Hall of Fame QB Len Dawson.

Todd McShay joined ESPN in 2006 as a college football and NFL Draft analyst, providing in-depth scouting information on college football players across the country, including the nation's top NFL Draft prospects.

McShay serves as a contributor across ESPN's multiple platforms, including SportsCenter, NFL Live, College Football Live, ESPN Radio, ESPN.com, and ESPN The Magazine. Prior to joining ESPN, McShay worked full-time for "The War Room" (1999-2006), a start-up scouting publication created by former NFL scout Gary Horton.

Ari Wolfe joined NFL Network in 2010 as a reporter and play-by-play announcer for Arena Football Friday and currently serves as a news anchor for NFL Network Now news updates in addition to his regular reporting duties around the league.

In addition to his duties at NFL Network, Wolfe broadcasts college football and basketball for Mountain Sports Network. His work in the NFL began in 2003, where he served as a sideline reporter for Fox Sports for three seasons. In 2005, Wolfe spent a season as the Philadelphia Eagles' preseason play-by-play voice. In 2009, he extended his broadcasting experience with the Big Ten Network, announcing both college football and basketball games, as well as joining Universal Sports, covering Olympic events.

BJ Kissel joined the Chiefs in 2014 as an in-house reporter producing both written content as well as on-camera appearances for both web and television productions. In 2019, the Chiefs launched the Chiefs Official Podcast Network where Kissel hosts the podcast In the Trenches with six-year NFL veteran offensive lineman Nick Leckey. 2019 marks Kissel's fifth year as the sideline reporter for Chiefs preseason games.

65 Toss Power Trap Productions, the production arm of the Chiefs organization, will enter its eighth season of live game production in the 2019 preseason. Each game will be fully created and designed in-house by the team's staff of producers and directors.

LAMAR HUNT

The National Football League and the American sports community lost a true treasure on December 13, 2006 when Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt passed away in Dallas, Texas, at the age of 74. Hunt was originally diagnosed with prostate cancer in 1998 and quietly underwent many treatments and surgeries over the next eight years. He maintained his active schedule until entering the hospital for the final time on Nov. 22, 2006. He is survived by his wife, Norma, and four children; Lamar Jr., Sharron, Clark and Daniel. He was also the proud grandfather of 15 grandchildren. Hunt is universally recognized as one of the greatest sportsmen in American history. No one would have savored the 50th anniversary celebrations for the American Football League and the Chiefs franchise in 2009 or the celebration of the team's 50th season in Kansas City during 2012 more than Hunt, the individual who served as the guiding force behind the formation of both football entities. Hunt served as a positive influence on the game for 47 years dating back to his inception of the American Football League in 1959. He was the first AFL figure to be enshrined into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1972, a remarkable feat considering he became involved in the game just 13 years earlier. As the catalyst who brought together the whimsically named "Foolish Club" comprised of the eight original AFL owners, Hunt's "impossible dream" became a reality when his fledgling league took the field for the 1960 season. On June 8, 1966, the AFL-NFL merger was announced by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, and on Jan. 15, 1967, Hunt's Kansas City Chiefs were participating in the inaugural Super Bowl. "Before there was a player, coach or a general manager in the league, there was Lamar Hunt," late Patriots owner William Sullivan remarked at Hunt's Hall of Fame induction ceremony. "Hunt was the cornerstone, the integrity of the league. Without him, there would have been no AFL." Despite his many accomplishments, Hunt's humility was one of his most unwavering and endearing traits. While he modestly declined to take credit for his efforts, he truly played an important role in the design, ongoing development and direction of the modern-day National Football League. Whether it was serving as the central figure behind the formation of the AFL, playing a key role in the AFL-NFL merger talks in the 1960s, or overseeing many crucial issues concerning pro football and the Chiefs franchise over five decades, few individuals helped change the face of America's favorite game for the better as much as this quiet Texan. In addition to being a principal negotiator in the merger of the AFL and NFL in the late 1960s, he was a contributor to the design of the NFL playoff format. He is also credited with unintentionally putting the name "Super Bowl" on the NFL's championship game — the name coming from his children's toy "Super Ball." It was Hunt who not only recommended enumerating each Super Bowl with Roman numerals, but he also suggested that the league's iconic championship trophy bear the name of Vince Lombardi. For years, he was an advocate of the two-point conversion — a college and AFL rule that was finally adopted by the NFL in 1994. Hunt had also lobbied for many years that an additional Thanksgiving game be added to the NFL schedule, efforts that were rewarded when the Chiefs hosted the first-ever Thanksgiving contest at Arrowhead in 2006. When Arrowhead Stadium reopened in 2010. Hunt's legacy was honored in Founder's Plaza, an expansive outdoor area that forms a dramatic entrance to the north side of the facility. A nine-foot heroic statue of Hunt stands as a tribute to the Chiefs late founder. In addition, eight fountains for the original eight AFL franchises symbolize Lamar's innovation and dedication to growing the game of football. Perhaps Hunt's biggest influence on the league was his quiet, yet persuasive voice of reason. Hunt's name is rightfully mentioned alongside other legendary family surnames in pro football history such as Halas, Mara and Rooney for his commitment to putting the betterment of the league ahead of any potential individual gain. His AFL model for the equal sharing of television revenue has helped maintain competitive balance in the NFL for many years. As the founder of the AFL, he helped pave the way for much of the modern growth of pro football. Possibly the greatest tribute to his contributions to the sport was the naming of the Lamar Hunt Trophy, which is presented annually to the champion of the American Football Conference. The early days of the AFL were problem-filled and often tenuous, but Hunt saw his Dallas Texans achieve on-field success. In 1962, the Texans won the AFL Championship with a double-OT victory over the Houston Oilers, the first of three titles won by his franchise during the league's 10-year existence. Hunt moved his team to Kansas City in 1963, where the organization was renamed the Chiefs. His team truly put Kansas City on the "big-league" map, thanks to a star-studded squad that was the winningest in the 10-year history of the AFL. The Chiefs were among the first teams to scout and sign players from historically black colleges and universities, a progressive approach that yielded key performers such as DT Buck Buchanan, LB Willie Lanier, WR Otis Taylor and CB Emmitt Thomas. Hunt's team repeated as league champions in both 1966 and 1969. The Chiefs claimed Kansas City's first major sports championship by defeating Minnesota in Super Bowl IV. In the late 1960s, Hunt was closely involved in the original plans for Arrowhead. While other venues of a similar vintage have long since been demolished, Arrowhead serves as a point of pride for Kansas City. Thanks in large part to the vision and lobbying efforts of Hunt, Jackson County (Missouri) voters approved a 3/8 cent sales tax in April of 2006. That measure raised $250 million for renovation efforts at Arrowhead. Hunt's longtime dream of hosting a Super Bowl in Kansas City appeared to become a reality when NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue announced on November 16, 2005 that NFL owners had passed a proposal to bring the NFL's championship game to Kansas City in February of 2015. Unfortunately, a provision in the April 2006 election that would have resurrected the "rolling roof" concept for Arrowhead Stadium did not pass. The "rolling roof" was part of Hunt's initial vision for Arrowhead in the 1960s. In its 21st century incarnation, the "rolling roof" would have provided a climate-controlled facility suitable for hosting the Super Bowl, the Final Four and other major events. Hunt also worked diligently to bring college football to Kansas City. Arrowhead hosted the Dr Pepper Big 12 Conference Championship Game for the fifth time in 2008. In addition to numerous other college football games, Arrowhead also served as a venue for international soccer matches thanks to Hunt. During the 1990s, Hunt took great pride in his franchise's on-field resurgence as Kansas City compiled a 102-58 (.638) regular season record. Under Hunt's stewardship, the Chiefs developed an intensely-loyal fan following, not just in mid-America, but across the country and around the globe. Kansas City represented the NFL in four American Bowl contests — Berlin, Germany (1990), Tokyo, Japan (1994, 1998) and Monterrey, Mexico (1996) and has since gone on to host a game in London (2015). Nicknamed "Games" during his childhood, Hunt's love of sports was his true lifeblood, an enthusiasm which led to his involvement in six different professional sports leagues and seven sports franchises. Hunt was involved in the development of both NASL and World Championship Tennis. Hunt was inducted into the respective Halls of Fame of both United States Soccer (1982) and International Tennis (1993). He was also honored by the state Sports Halls of Fame of both Texas (1984) and Missouri (1995). In total, Hunt has been selected to 11 "Halls of Fame." In 2008, Hunt's bust was added to the "Hall of Famous Missourians" at the state capitol in Jefferson City, Missouri. In 1981, Hunt was inducted into the NFL Alumni Association's prestigious Order of the Leather Helmet. He also received the Francis J. "Reds" Bagnell Award from the Maxwell Club in 1993. In August of 2009, the Lamar Hunt Super Bowl Gallery officially opened at the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. This 4,000-square foot exhibit showcases the greatest moments in Super Bowl history199 and is appropriately named after the individual who gave the world's biggest single-game sporting spectacle its current moniker. In October of 2009, the Missouri DOT officially designated a stretch of I-435 near the Truman Sports Complex as the "Lamar Hunt Memorial Highway." Truly a sportsman for all seasons, Soccer America Magazine named Hunt one of its "25 Most Influential People" in 1999 after the 95-year-old U.S. Open Cup was renamed the "Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup." That same year he also received the U.S. Soccer Federation Hall of Fame Medal of Honor, joining former U.S. Soccer President Alan Rothenberg as the only other individual to earn that prestigious distinction. In 2005, the U.S. Soccer Foundation honored Hunt with its Lifetime Achievement Award. The Hunt family served as the Investor/ Operators of the Kansas City Wizards (Sporting KC) franchise of Major League Soccer from 1995-2006 and claimed the 2000 MLS Cup. The Hunt family served as the Investor/Operators of the Kansas City Wizards (Sporting KC) franchise of Major League Soccer from 1995-06 and claimed the 2000 MLS Cup. They also founded and operated the Columbus Crew for 18 years, eventually selling the operating rights of the Crew in 2013. The Hunt family still oversees the operations of F.C. Dallas.. Hunt was also one of the founding investors in the six-time World Champion Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association. In total, the Hunt family owns 15 championship rings from five different professional sports associations (AFL/NFL, MLS, NBA, NASL and the U.S. Soccer "Open Cup"). A highly-successful businessman outside of sports, one of Hunt's most notable innovations was SubTropolis, the world's largest underground business complex, located just north of Arrowhead. Hunt also envisioned and developed Worlds of Fun, a 165-acre family entertainment complex which opened in 1973, as well as the 60-acre family water recreation park, Oceans of Fun, which was completed in 1982. While both of those entities were sold in 1995, Hunt Midwest Enterprises continues to oversee a diverse range of business interests. Hunt was born on Aug. 2, 1932 in El Dorado, Ark., and graduated from SMU with a B.S. in Geology in 1956. While at SMU, he was a three-year reserve end on the varsity football team. Hunt was an avid supporter of his alma mater and was an annual fixture at the Cotton Bowl. In May of 2008, he was posthumously inducted as one of four inaugural members of the SMU Athletics Hall of Fame. Hunt's wife, Norma, continues to be involved in numerous philanthropic and civic efforts in Texas and in Kansas City. She owns the distinction of being the only woman known to have attended all 50 Super Bowls, and was selected to preside over the coin toss at Super Bowl XLI along with Hall of Fame QB Dan Marino.

CLARK HUNT CHAIRMAN & CEO

Clark Hunt has been involved in the leadership of the Kansas City Chiefs for nearly two decades and currently serves as the club's Chairman and CEO.

In January 2013, Hunt hired Head Coach Andy Reid and modified the leadership structure of the organization, announcing that for the first time in club history, the head coach, the general manager and the team president would all report directly to the Chairman and CEO.

In the club's past six seasons with Reid at the helm, the Chiefs have qualified for the playoffs five times and have won 65 games, tying for the most wins in any six-year stretch in franchise history (1992-97).

Behind Reid's offensive creativity and an MVP performance from first-year starting OB Patrick Mahomes, the 2018 Chiefs tallied a 12-4 record, won a third-consecutive AFC West title and secured the No. 1 seed in the AFC playoffs. After a first-round bye, the Chiefs defeated the Indianapolis Colts in the Divisional round, advancing to the AFC Championship Game for the first time since the 1993 season. The Chiefs fell to the eventual Super Bowl-champion New England Patriots in overtime in the first conference championship game in the history of Arrowhead Stadium. It marked the first time the club reached the postseason in four-straight years (2015-18) since a stretch of six-straight appearances from 1990-95.

Prior to the start of the 2017 season, Hunt extended Reid's contract and on July 10, 2017, Hunt named Chiefs Co-Director of Player Personnel Brett Veach as the seventh General Manager in franchise history. With Reid and Veach at the helm, the 2017 Chiefs secured back-to-back AFC West titles for the first time in franchise history and qualified for the playoffs for the third-consecutive season.

The Chiefs finished the 2016 season with a 12-4 record, winning the AFC West for the first time since 2010. The 12-4 mark was the club's best finish since going 13-3 in 2003 and earned a first-round bye and an AFC Divisional Game at Arrowhead Stadium. Kansas City swept the AFC West in 2016, the first time since 1995 that the club went undefeated in the division. The team appeared in a league-high six primetime contests

MARK DONOVAN PRESIDENT

Entering his 21st season in the National Football League and his 11th season in Kansas City in 2019, Mark Donovan was named the fifth president in Chiefs history in January 2011 after serving two years as the club's chief operating officer. As president, Donovan is responsible for all aspects of the club's business operations and reports directly to Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt. Donovan brings unique experience and perspective to the team. He is one of only a few executives league-wide who has worked both at the NFL league office and for a club, with valuable perspective and strong relationships both in the Kansas City area and on a national level. Building on the direction of the Hunt family and Founder Lamar Hunt, Donovan has led the focus on the Chiefs fan experience. The team has emerged as a league leader in fan engagement by introducing technology-based solutions and celebrating the traditions and fan rituals that make Arrowhead Stadium special. During Donovan's tenure, significant investment has enhanced the in-stadium experience for fans at Arrowhead. Those features include an upgraded stadium-wide Wi-Fi network and the Chiefs Mobile app, offering fans a fully integrated mobile experience at their fingertips. The free app puts live video, including in-game highlights and replay, in the palm of your hand. It includes access to NFL Red Zone, providing the ability to get highlights from around the NFL on game day. The app also offers location services, customer relations issue reporting, as well as in-game statistics, player and coach biographies, news, videos, photos and much more. Prior to the 2017 season, through a partnership between the NFL and Intel Sport Group, the Chiefs introduced "FreeD" video technology at Arrowhead Stadium. A new form of volumetric video, "FreeD" creates all-new ways to watch video and replays through a network of 38 in-stadium cameras. Following the 2018 season, the Chiefs announced three offseason upgrades to be completed at Arrowhead Stadium prior to the start of the 2019 season. While keeping its iconic shape and size, the stadium's west scoreboard will undergo a technological modernization featuring new LED panels, providing best-in-class video for fans. There will also be a re-application of waterproofing measures to the entire upper seating bowl, protecting the enclosed space of the CommunityAmerica Club Level below while maintaining the structural integrity of the concrete itself. As a result of the waterproofing, almost every seat in the upper deck has been removed and will be replaced by brand new seats, with some seats being wider, and all seats featuring cupholders, an amenity that has never existed for fans in Arrowhead's upper level. After introducing ticketless technology in 2012-13, the Chiefs expanded to mobile ticketing for the 2015 season, allowing fans to manage their accounts and tickets from their phones while still having access to membership benefits such as exclusive content and a points-based rewards program, Chiefs Kingdom Rewards. In 2015, the club announced the expansion of the rewards program to all fans worldwide. This enables Season Ticket Members and non-Season Ticket Members alike the opportunity to earn rewards points for simply being a Chiefs fan. Those points can be entered daily for unique prizes and experiences. The club continues using technology and innovation in ticketing to create a secure method of entry for all fans and offer an array of products to fit many different consumer preferences. In recent years, the Chiefs offered multiple variations of digital-only pass concepts aimed at creating value and flexibility for fans. The club also went to an all-digital ticketing platform in 2018, focusing on efficiency and security for all ticketholders, leading to nearly 80% of fans entering Arrowhead via their mobile device. Donovan has consistently focused on expanding the multi-media presence of the Chiefs. Kansas City's award-winning production group, 65 Toss Power Trap Productions, has continued a trend of content expansion on the Chiefs website, Mobile App, Social platforms and digital channels dedicated to live streaming, press conferences, team highlights and community events. The team's four preseason broadcasts are delivered to nearly five million total television households across seven states (Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Iowa and Illinois) through the club's affiliate network. Under Donovan's leadership, the Kansas City Chiefs partnered with The University of Kansas Health System, bringing a comprehensive healthcare program to the organization, encompassing its players, staff and fans. Besides providing care to the team, The Center for Sports Medicine at The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex is open to the public and serves athletes of all ages. In 2015, the Chiefs participated in the NFL's International Series with a 45-10 victory over the Detroit Lions at Wembley Stadium on November 1. Several fan initiatives were designed to bring together Chiefs fans from around the world, including a pub party at The Admiralty in London's Trafalgar Square, which was highlighted by Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt serving as celebrity bartender for fans and Season Ticket Members. The club was scheduled to appear in its second international contest in 2018, with a game vs. the Los Angeles Rams on ESPN's Monday Night Football. That game was relocated due to field conditions, but the Chiefs are scheduled for a 2019 away game vs. the Los Angeles Chargers at Estadio Azteca in Mexico City as part of the NFL's Mexico series. In addition to connecting Chiefs fans to the team they love, Donovan has overseen a period of tremendous business growth, re-establishing Arrowhead Stadium as a popular venue for sports and entertainment. He serves as the President of Arrowhead Events, LLC, the special events arm of the Kansas City Chiefs. Arrowhead Events has seen exponential growth over the past decade, bringing several major events to Kansas City. Since Donovan's arrival in 2009, U2, the Rolling Stones, Guns N' Roses, Kenny Chesney, Taylor Swift, One Direction and Ed Sheeran have all headlined concert stops at Arrowhead Stadium. In addition, Arrowhead has played host to three international soccer matches, an NCAA FBS match-up between the University of Missouri and Brigham Young University and multiple Fall Classic contests, featuring regional NCAA Division II football teams. The venue also hosted the largest barbecue competition in the country, bringing the four-day American Royal World Series of Barbecue to the Truman Sports Complex. The 2019 Arrowhead Events calendar features Monster Jam, the stadium's first motorsports event since 1993. The Chiefs, in alignment with a number of local business and civic leaders, are also in the bid process to bring 2026 FIFA World Cup matches to Kansas City, with Arrowhead Stadium serving as the proposed match site. In his time in Kansas City, Donovan has also created a new approach to sponsorships, setting a strategy to partner with companies which share the vision, gualities and values of the Kansas City Chiefs. This strategy has resulted in partnerships that are not only mutually beneficial to the Chiefs and the corporations but to Chiefs fans and the Kansas City community. In 2017, the Chiefs were recognized by the Kansas City Business Journal as a Champion of Business for leadership within industry, innovation and commitment to giving back to the community.Locally, the Chiefs continue to be a major economic leader in the Kansas City community. Chiefs games and other events at Arrowhead Stadium generate more than $625 million annually, including $273 million in household income. They also support nearly 6,000 jobs and provide $17 million in annual tax revenue for the State of Missouri. In January 2019, the Chiefs announced a one-year extension with Missouri Western State University that will keep St. Joseph, Missouri, the home of Chiefs Training Camp presented by Mosaic Life Care through the summer of 2019. Since training camp moved to St. Joseph in 2010 more than 330,000 people have seen the Chiefs practice at Missouri Western State University. His leadership extends to the community, where he has initiated a more strategic approach to the Chiefs charitable giving and community involvement, allowing the team to focus resources for greater impact to the community. This approach has identified a handful of causes: feeding the hungry in the region, children's health and wellness initiatives and providing support for families and children in crisis. The Chiefs Charity Game, one of the many Kansas City traditions started by the Hunt family, is the longest-running and most successful charity game in the National Football League. Last year's game, the first of a threeyear relationship benefitting Cornerstones of Care, raised $485,000 while more than $8 million has been raised over the past 15 years. The club was named the 2016 Business Philanthropist of the Year by Nonprofit Connect, an association linking the nonprofit community to education, resources and networking so organizations can more effectively achieve their missions. Donovan and his wife Kathy are also personally committed to the community, serving in numerous civic and charitable leadership roles, including two terms as the inaugural Board Chair for City Year Kansas City beginning in 2016. For his support of City Year, AmeriCorps and the national service community, he was awarded the Citizen Service Award by Voices for National Service in February of 2019. They served as honorary chairs for Forks and Corks to benefit Harvesters - The Community Food Network in 2016, and as honorary chairs for the 2017 Kansas City Repertory Theatre's Fearless Fete. The couple also chaired the 2019 City Year Gala. He was also a co-chair for the American Jazz Walk of Fame in 2016. He joined University of Kansas Men's Basketball Coach Bill Self to headline the KVC Hero Luncheon in 2015 and was a featured speaker at the J.A. Vickers Sr. and Robert F. Vickers Sr. Lecture Series for the University of Kansas School of Business.Donovan arrived in Kansas City after six years with the Philadelphia Eagles as Senior Vice President of Business Operations (2003-08). Prior to joining the Eagles, Donovan held leadership roles as the NFL's Senior Director of Sales and Marketing (1999-2003) and the Director of Sales and Marketing for the National Hockey League (1997-99). He also brings seven years of experience in the private business sector. The Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, native, graduated from Brown University with a double major in political science and organizational behavior/management. He captained the Brown football squad as the team's quarterback and signed with the New York Giants as a free agent upon graduation. He and his wife, Kathy, have two children and reside in Kansas City.

ANDY REID HEAD COACH

Andy Reid enters his seventh season at the helm of the Chiefs in 2019. He was hired as the club's 13th head coach in franchise history on January 7, 2013. Entering his 21st season as an NFL head coach, Reid owns a 195-124-1 regular season record and adds a 12-14 postseason record, giving him 207 total wins, which rank seventh in NFL history and just second among active head coaches, trailing only New England Head Coach Bill Belichick. Reid joined the Chiefs after 14 seasons as Head Coach/Executive Vice President of Football Operations of the Philadelphia Eagles where he compiled a 130-93-1 (.583) regular season record. Including his years as an assistant coach, Reid's teams have made the playoffs 20 times (21-18 record), and he has coached in three Super Bowls and nine Championship Games (8 NFC, 1 AFC). He owns three NFL Coach of the Year titles. Since his arrival in Kansas City, Reid's teams have made it to the playoffs five out of six seasons, including four-straight seasons (2015-18). In six seasons under Reid, the Chiefs have recorded five 10-plus win seasons and a 67.7 (65-31) winning percentage, which is the top mark in franchise history for any coach in his first six seasons leading the club. In 2018, Reid's team notched a 12-4 record and extended its franchise record streak to three-straight AFC West titles. Reid tutored QB Patrick Mahomes as he became the first player in Chiefs history to be named NFL MVP. The club earned a No. 1 seed in the playoffs and defeated the Indianapolis Colts 31-13 in the divisional round. The win marked Kansas City's first home playoff win since Jan. 8, 1994. The Chiefs hosted the first AFC Championship Game in franchise history, falling 37-31 in overtime to the eventual Super Bowl LIII Champion New England Patriots. Following the season, Reid was named Coach of the Year from the Maxwell Football Club for the fourth time in his career (2000, 2002, 2010, 2018). In 2017, Reid led the Chiefs to a 10-6 record en route to the club's second-consecutive AFC West title, the first time in franchise history the club had won the division in back-to-back years. In 2016, Reid led the Chiefs to a 12-4 record and an AFC West title for the first time since 2010. The team finished a perfect 6-0 against its division foes. It was the club's best record since 2003. The Chiefs earned a first-round bye in the NFL playoffs and hosted a home AFC Divisional Game. In 2015, Reid's Chiefs rattled off 10 consecutive regular season wins to finish 11-5 and earn a playoff berth. The Chiefs defeated the Houston Texans 30-0 in an AFC Wild Card game in Houston marking the team's first playoff win in 22 years. Reid and company advanced to the AFC Divisional Round. The club's 10 straight wins after starting just 1-5 marked the greatest turnaround in a single season in NFL history. Reid's efforts earned him AFC Coach of the Year honors. In his first year with the club, Reid was named the 2013 AFC Coach of the Year by the 101 Committee after his squad recorded the greatest single-season turnaround in franchise history. Reid's team finished with an 11-5 record, a nine-game turnaround from the previous season and qualified for the postseason for the first time since 2010. Additionally, Reid mentored 10 players who earned Pro Bowl honors, more than any other team in the NFL that season. One of the most successful coaches in professional sports, Reid utilizes a passionate, yet workmanlike approach as an NFL head coach. A former offensive lineman at BYU, Reid still lives and works with those humble principles he learned during his time in the trenches."Kansas City is just going to get better. This is just the start of it," Pro Football Hall of Fame Head Coach John Madden said upon Reid joining the Chiefs. "He has a plan. And he's very thorough, very smart. He's a good coach, always has been."His vision, his dedication and his organizational skills have been impeccable during his coaching career. Reid joined Philadelphia as head coach in 1999 and remained in that role through the 2012 season, becoming one of just 11 first-time NFL head coaches to lead 12-or-more seasons with the same club. Reid assumed the additional role of Executive Vice President of Football Operations in 2001. While compiling his 10-9 postseason record with Philadelphia, Reid led the Eagles franchise to one Super Bowl appearance, a game that saw Philadelphia fall by a mere field goal to the New England Patriots in Super Bowl XXXIX following the 2004 season. Reid guided Philadelphia to nine playoff appearances (2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010) during his 14-year tenure in the City of Brotherly Love. During that time period, only Indianapolis (12) and New England (10) had more postseason appearances than the Eagles. The Eagles captured their sixth NFC East division title under Reid in 2010. Along the way, Reid played a vital role in the rebirth of QB Michael Vick, who earned Comeback Player of the Year honors as well as a Pro Bowl berth. Reid, himself, earned Coach of the Year honors from the Maxwell Football Club. In 2008, Reid became the 37th coach to reach the 100-win plateau and the 22nd to win 100 games with one franchise. He overcame a 5-5-1 start to reach the NFC Championship Game. In 2006, the Eagles lost six of their first 11 games and two of their most explosive players in QB Donovan McNabb and DE Jevon Kearse, but Reid led a season-ending, five-game win streak to capture the NFC East division title. The 2004 Eagles clinched the NFC East title with five games remaining in the regular season and the No. 1 seed in the NFC playoffs after a 13-1 start. Along the way, Reid passed Greasy Neale for the most wins in franchise history as the Eagles earned their first trip to the Super Bowl since 1980. In 2003, Philadelphia overcame an 0-2 start and a slew of injuries to post its second consecutive 12-win season. A year earlier, Reid was the overwhelming choice as the NFL's Coach of the Year as the Eagles thrived without the services of McNabb to still capture home-field advantage in the playoffs. After a 5-11 mark in his first season, Reid led the 2000 Eagles to the greatest turnaround in franchise history, finishing second in the NFC East at 11-5 and earning a trip to the NFC Divisional Playoffs. For his efforts, Reid was named the NFL's Coach of the Year by the Maxwell Football Club, The Sporting News, and Football Digest. Throughout his time in the NFL, Reid has continuously evaluated what is best for the game of football, serving on the NFL Competition Committee's Coaches Subcommittee. The subcommittee is instrumental in providing feedback to the NFL Competition Committee for potential rule changes and ways to improve the game." I am a huge fan of Coach Reid," NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell said. "He is a person I have tremendous respect for as a coach and family man. Andy has been very helpful to me as Commissioner. He has tremendous insight into our game, and we are fortunate to have him in the NFL."Reid was originally introduced as the head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles on Jan. 11, 1999, after spending seven seasons as an assistant coach with the Green Bay Packers under Head Coach Mike Holmgren. During his seven years with the Packers, Reid served as the tight ends coach and assistant offensive line coach (1992-96) and as quarterbacks coach (1997-98). In his span with the Packers, the team reached the playoffs six times and represented the NFC twice in back-to-back Super Bowls, defeating New England in Super Bowl XXXI and falling to Denver in Super Bowl XXXII.During his two-year stint as quarterbacks coach, Reid worked with Packers QB Brett Favre. While tutoring Favre, Reid and the Packers won their second straight NFC title, and Favre garnered league MVP honors for the third-consecutive season. Prior to joining the NFL ranks, Reid's final collegiate stop was in Columbia, Missouri, as he coached the offensive line at the University of Missouri (1989-91). Prior to his stint with the Tigers, Reid spent two years working with the offensive line at the University of Texas – El Paso, and before that, he held the same position with Northern Arizona. In 1983, Reid took the position of offensive coordinator and offensive line coach at San Francisco State, helping the Gators lead the nation in passing and total offense for three consecutive years (1983-85). A tackle and guard at Brigham Young University from 1979-81, Reid entered the coaching ranks as a graduate assistant at BYU under Head Coach LaVell Edwards in 1982. It was in that time at BYU that Reid began his association with Holmgren, who served as the quarterbacks coach for the Cougars. While at BYU, Reid earned both a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in professional leadership in physical education and athletics. While playing for the Cougars, Reid was also a columnist for the Provo Daily Herald.A native of Los Angeles, Reid prepped at John Marshall High School in Los Angeles and went on to go to Glendale (Calif.) Junior College before attending BYU. Reid has been inducted into the Marshall High School Athletic Hall of Fame, as well as the Glendale Junior College Hall of Fame. Education: Brigham Young University (B.A. 1981). Born: Los Angeles Family: Wife - Tammy; Children - Sons Spencer, Britt and the late Garrett, and daughters Drew Ann and Crosby. He has nine grandchildren - Maverduring the year.

Kansas City saw a historic turnaround from a 1-5 start to a franchise-record 10-game win streak to close out the 2015 season. The club qualified for the postseason as a wild card team and went on to a 30-point shutout victory at Houston in the Wild Card round of the playoffs.

In 2013, the first year of Reid's tenure, Hunt and the Chiefs enjoyed a record-setting resurgence en route to a return to the NFL postseason. Kansas City set a franchise record for the best single-season turnaround in the organization's history as the team finished with an 11-5 record — a nine-win improvement from the 2012 season.

Following the dramatic turnaround in 2013, Hunt was named the 2014 Waddell & Reed Executive of the Year by the Kansas City Sports Commission for his outstanding leadership in the Kansas City sports community.

Hunt's proven business acumen, coupled with two decades of experience working side-by-side with his father, American sports pioneer and Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt, helped shape his vision for the storied franchise. Off the field, the Chiefs have made significant strides developing the fan experience, utilizing new technologies and innovative ideas.

"Our fans are the foundation of the Chiefs. Our goal is to provide them with a team that can consistently compete for championships and the best gameday experience in the National Football League," Hunt said.

To meet that goal, Hunt and his family committed $125 million to the renovation of Arrowhead Stadium — an extensive modernization project that will keep Kansas City "The Home of the Chiefs" for decades to come. The $375-million renovation, which was completed in 2010, provides Chiefs fans with the first-class amenities of the finest sports venues in the world while maintaining the distinct soul and mystique that makes Arrowhead one of the most iconic stadiums in the NFL.

Hunt is also focused on improving the gameday experience for Chiefs fans. In 2013, the Chiefs installed a new stadium-wide Wi-Fi network and launched the Chiefs Mobile application, enabling fans to connect to their team and to each other in new, unique ways. Prior to the 2017 football season, the Wi-Fi access points inside the seating bowl were upgraded for a better in-stadium mobile experience. In 2017, the club was honored by the Kansas City Business Journal as a Champion of Business, recognizing leadership within industry, innovation and commitment to giving back to the community.

Following the end of the 2018 regular season, the club announced three offseason upgrades to take place at Arrowhead prior to the 2019 football season. The stadium's west scoreboard received new LED panels for an enhanced picture, all while keeping its original size and iconic shape. There was a re-application of waterproofing measures to the entire upper seating bowl to protect the enclosed space of the CommunityAmerica Club Level below and maintain the structural integrity of the concrete. As a result of the waterproofing, almost every seat in the upper deck had to be removed and will be replaced by brand new seats. All new seats feature cupholders, an amenity that has never existed for fans in Arrowhead's upper level.

Over the last several years, Hunt has emerged as a leading voice among NFL owners. Hunt was one of 10 NFL owners charged by Commissioner Roger Goodell with negotiating the NFL's new Collective Bargaining Agreement which was completed in 2011. Goodell praised Hunt's ability to find creative compromises throughout the process and for his leadership in the negotiations.

"[Clark] had a critical role in getting [the] agreement completed and getting us back to football," Commissioner Goodell said in August 2011. "He is very credible, very smart and has a very strong ability to listen and find solutions. He was very effective with both sides. The players clearly expressed that to me, and the owners have expressed that to me. He has, obviously, not only my respect but, obviously, the respect of everyone involved in the negotiations."

In 2006, Hunt was asked to serve on the eight-member Commissioner Search Committee which recommended Goodell as the successor to then-Commissioner Paul Tagliabue. In 2007, Commissioner Goodell appointed Hunt to the NFL's Digital Media and International Committees, as well as the Executive Committee of the NFL Management Council. In 2011, Hunt was named Chairman of the International Committee and joined the league's Finance Committee. In 2019, Hunt was appointed the Chairman of the Finance Committee. He remains a member of the International Committee, but no longer serves as Chairman. In 2015, Hunt was named as one of six members to the NFL's Committee on Los Angeles Opportunities. The committee evaluated various aspects of the league's potential return to Los Angeles, which came to fruition in early 2016 as the St. Louis Rams relocated to Los Angeles, the city where they spent 49 years (1946-1994) playing professional football. Hunt also serves on the league's Conduct and Chairmen's Committees.

As Chairman of the International Committee from 2011-18, Hunt played a key role in expanding the league's international efforts and the NFL's footprint overseas. The league has hosted a regular-season contest in London's iconic Wembley Stadium since 2007. In response to the overwhelming demand from NFL fans in the United Kingdom, the league expanded the NFL London Game Series to feature two games in 2013, three games in the 2014, 2015 and 2016 seasons and four games in 2017. The league hosted three games in London in 2018 at Wembley Stadium. Four London games are scheduled for the 2019 season, including two games at Wembley Stadium and two at the new Tottenham Hotspur Stadium, which was developed through a partnership between the NFL and the English Premier League club. At the conclusion of the 2019 season, 31 teams will have played a total of 28 London contests.

In 2015, the Chiefs hosted the Detroit Lions in the final of three London games at Wembley Stadium, leaving the UK with a 45-10 victory.

The Chiefs will travel to Mexico City in 2019 to play in the club's second regular season international contest, an away game vs. the Los Angeles Chargers. The game will mark the fourth-consecutive year with an NFL Mexico contest scheduled for Estadio Azteca in the country's capital city.

In addition to his work at the league level, Hunt and his family continue to innovate and invest in new ways to reach fans. In 2013, after more than a year in development, the Hunt family debuted the first phase of the Arrowhead Art Collection, highlighting regional artwork while promoting culture, providing educational opportunities and engaging the community in a way that touches individuals of all ages and walks of life. In total, 35 pieces of art have been installed at Arrowhead Stadium, combining two parts of the cultural fabric of Kansas City — sports and the arts — inside a regional architectural masterpiece, Arrowhead Stadium.

The Dallas, Texas, native is also a founding investor-operator in Major League Soccer. Hunt serves as Chairman of Hunt Sports Group and FC Dallas. Hunt and his family were instrumental in bringing professional soccer to Kansas City, founding a charter franchise, the Kansas City Wizards, later renamed Sporting Kansas City. Hunt Sports Group sold the Kansas City franchise to local investors in 2006. In 2013, Hunt Sports Group sold the operating rights of the Columbus Crew franchise after founding the club and 18 years of ownership. Hunt is actively involved in the continued growth of MLS and serves as a member of the MLS Board of Governors and Commissioner Don Garber's Executive Committee, and he serves as Chairman of the Competition Committee.

Since 2000, Hunt Sports Group has celebrated 10 championships with three different MLS clubs, including the 2000 (Kansas City) and 2008 (Columbus) MLS Cup Championships. Hunt Sports Group clubs also claimed the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup in 2002 (Columbus), 2004 (Kansas City) and 2016 (Dallas), and earned the MLS Supporters' Shield – awarded to the MLS club with the best regular-season record – five times.

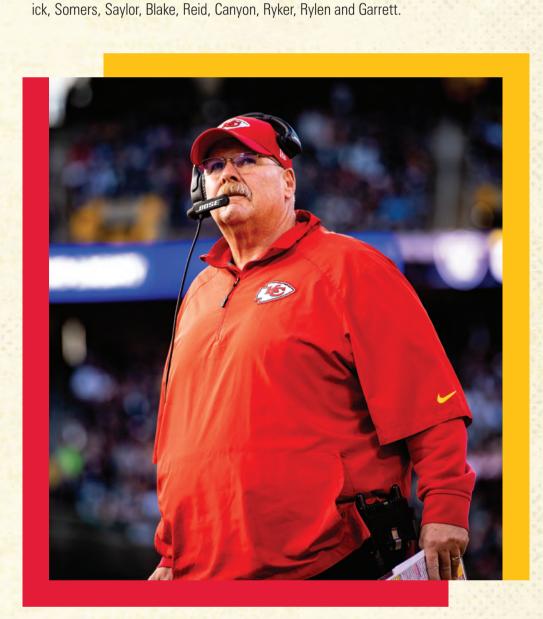

Hunt Sports Group has also been at the forefront of stadium development in the United States. In 1999, the Hunt family constructed Crew Stadium (now MAPFRE Stadium) in Columbus, Ohio – the first soccer-specific stadium in the United States. In 2005, Hunt Sports Group opened Toyota Stadium in Frisco, Texas, which is widely regarded as one of the world's most unique soccer facilities. The stadium has served as a model for soccer-specific stadiums in North America and serves as the new home of the National Soccer Hall of Fame, which opened to the public on October 20, 2018 as part of a $55 million renovation to Toyota Stadium.

Hunt graduated first in his class at Southern Methodist University in 1987, earning a degree in business administration with a concentration in finance. He was a twotime recipient of the university's highest academic honor, the Provost Award for Outstanding Scholar. During his career, he was a four-year letterman on the Mustangs' nationally ranked soccer team, earning first-team Academic All-America honors as a junior and senior and serving as a tri-captain his final season. He was named one of the SMU Cox School of Business Outstanding Young Alumni in 2004, and in 2005, he was appointed to the Cox School Executive Board of Trustees. In 2018, Hunt was named a Cox School of Business Distinguished Alumni. He currently serves on the SMU Board of Trustees.

Clark Knobel Hunt graduated from the St. Mark's School of Texas in 1983. He is married to the former Tavia Shackles of Kansas City. The Hunts are actively involved in numerous philanthropic initiatives in both Kansas City and Dallas, including Harvesters and Lift Up America, as well as the annual Chiefs Charity Game.

In its 35th year, the Chiefs Charity Game is one of the many Kansas City traditions started by the Hunt family and is the longest-running and most successful charity game in the NFL. Last year's game, the first of a three-year partnership benefitting Cornerstones of Care, raised nearly $500,000. The initiative has netted more than $8 million for various charities over the last 15 years and has generated more than $13 million since its inception. The club was named 2016 Business Philanthropist of the Year by Nonprofit Connect, an association linking the nonprofit community to education, resources and networking opportunities so organizations can more effectively achieve their missions.

In 2017, the Chiefs and the Hunt Family Foundation were voted a finalist for the prestigious Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Sports Award, recognizing the influence of sports in inspiring healthy change in communities through innovation and collaboration. Hunt was also honored as the ownership representative to win a Steinberg-DeNicola Humanitarian Award for using the NFL's platform and his own personal efforts to drive change in peoples' lives for the better.

The Hunt family continues its support of many city and team-themed traditions that were established under the leadership of franchise Founder Lamar Hunt. Included in this list of Hunt family traditions are the 101 Awards — Kansas City's Salute to Professional Football, which celebrated its 49th edition in 2019, 50-plus years of the Chiefs Kickoff Luncheon and more than a quarter-century of Red Friday celebrations.

In addition to legacy events, the Chiefs and Hunt Family Foundation continue to identify ways to make a difference in the community. As a founding sponsor for City Year Kansas City in 2015, the Hunt Family Foundation supports a team of AmeriCorps members at Central Middle School in Kansas City. These members serve as full-time tutors and mentors for youth at the school and are part of a larger network of 58 AmeriCorps members at six different schools in the Kansas City Public School District.

As part of the Chiefs celebration of 50 years in Kansas City in 2012, Hunt served as the featured speaker at the 10th Annual American Royal Business and Scholarship Luncheon, joining scholarship winners and the business community to kick off the American Royal Season, which has been a Kansas City tradition since 1899.

In September 2012, the Hunts served as honorary chairs for the 2012 "Treads & Threads" charity event benefiting The University of Kansas Health System. In April 2013, Hunt and his family received the Metropolitan Community College 'Five Star Award' for their significant contributions to the Kansas City community over the last five decades. Hunt was also recognized as a Community SuperStar by the Jewish Community Center of Greater Kansas City for his commitment to the city through athletics and charitable giving in 2013.

In October 2013, Clark and Tavia Hunt served as honorary co-chairs of the Kemper Museum Gala and served as honorary chairs for the 2015 United Way Annual Luncheon. They also served as honorary co-chairs at the 2016 JDRF Dream Gala and were honorary chairs for the 2018 MOCSA Community Luncheon as well as the 2019 Nonprofit Connect Luncheon. In June of 2017, the Hunt Family Foundation and the Kansas City Chiefs were honored with the Partner in Excellence Award for The University of Kansas Health System Hall of Fame.

The Hunts have three children - Gracelyn, Knobel and Ava.

BRETT VEACH GENERAL MANAGER

Brett Veach enters his third season as the Kansas City Chiefs general manager and his 13th year in the National Football League in 2019. Veach was named the seventh general manager in Kansas City Chiefs history on July 10, 2017, reporting directly to Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt on all player personnel matters. Prior to being elevated to General Manager, he served as Co-Director of Player Personnel for two seasons. At 41 years old, Veach remains the youngest general manager in the NFL."After a comprehensive search process, I am pleased to announce that we have hired Brett Veach to serve as the next General Manager of the Kansas City Chiefs," Hunt said in a statement upon his hire. "Brett has a sharp football mind, a tremendous work ethic and a keen eye for finding talent. Over the last four seasons he's played a critical role in building our football team. I look forward to working with him to continue to build on the strong foundation we have in place." Veach enters his seventh season with the Chiefs after originally joining the club in 2013. He was promoted to Co-Director of Player Personnel prior to the 2015 season after serving two seasons as the club's Pro and College Personnel Analyst (2013-14). In 2018, the team notched a 12-4 record and extended its franchise record streak to three-straight AFC West titles Second-year quarterback Patrick Mahomes became the first player in Chiefs history to be named NFL MVP. The club earned a No. 1 seed in the playoffs and defeated the Indianapolis Colts 31-13 in the divisional round. The win marked Kansas City's first home playoff win since Jan. 8, 1994. The Chiefs hosted the first AFC Championship Game in franchise history, falling 37-31 in overtime to the eventual Super Bowl LIII Champion New England Patriots. In 2017, the club compiled a 10-6 record and earned its second-consecutive AFC West championship, marking the first time in franchise history the Chiefs have won the division in back-to-back seasons. In the two seasons Veach has led the personnel department, he has proven his competitive approach to building the roster is ongoing. He has been aggressive via free agency signing S Tyrann Mathieu and DE Frank Clark via a trade with the Seattle Seahawks in 2019, and WR Sammy Watkins, LB Anthony Hitchens and CB Kendall Fuller via a trade with the Washington Redskins in 2018. One of his first notable transactions as general manager was acquiring OL Cam Erving via trade from Cleveland on Aug. 30, 2017. Erving proved himself as a versatile offensive lineman, earning him a contract extension at the beginning of the 2018 season. In Week 4 of the 2017 season, Veach acquired rookie K Harrison Butker from the Carolina Panthers. Butker set a franchise record of 23 consecutive made field goals and finished the season converting a single-season record 38 of his 42 attempts (including two game-winners). He also recorded a rookie kicker record of 142 points scored in 2017. Veach's first two drafts have been without a first-round selection. In 2019, the club traded the 29th overall pick to Seattle in exchange for DE Frank Clark. In 2018, the club traded the 27th overall selection to Buffalo in order to draft QB Patrick Mahomes with the No. 10 overall selection in 2017. Prior to being promoted to general manager, Veach played an integral role in the scouting process of Mahomes leading up to the 2017 NFL Draft. The Mt. Carmel, Pennsylvania, native joined the Chiefs after spending six years with the Philadelphia Eagles (2007-12). He served as a Southeast Regional Scout (2011-12) after originally joining Philadelphia's Player Personnel Department as a Pro and College Scout in 2010. Prior to entering the scouting department, Veach was the Assistant to Head Coach Andy Reid for three seasons (2007-09). Before joining the Eagles, Veach was the Supervisor of Intercollegiate Athletic Events at his alma mater, the University of Delaware (2005-06). He was a four-year letterman as a wide receiver for the Blue Hens, catching 99 passes for 1,470 yards (14.8 avg.). He left Delaware as the school's all-time leader in kickoff return yards with 1,558 yards. Veach earned a bachelor's degree in health and physical education and a master's degree in education from Delaware. Along the way, he earned Atlantic 10 Conference All-Academic honors three times during his collegiate career. He was a standout running back for Mt. Carmel High School where he was named state player of the year in 1996 and was a two-time all-state selection. He was also selected to participate in the Big 33 game between the top high school players from Pennsylvania and Ohio.Education: Delaware (B.S. 2002, Ed.M. 2004). Born: Mt. Carmel, Pa. RICK BURKHOLDER VICE PRESIDENT OF SPORTS MEDICINE AND PERFORMANCE

Known as one of the top athletic trainers in the National Football League, Rick Burkholder enters his seventh season with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019 and his second serving as the club's Vice President of Sports Medicine and Performance. Following his promotion in 2018, he continued to oversee the athletic training staff and added the team's strength and conditioning and equipment departments to his responsibilities. On Feb. 19, 2014, Burkholder received one of the highest honors in his profession as he was elected to a three-year term as President of the Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society (PFATS), which serves the players of the NFL, the member clubs and other members of the community, while ensuring the highest quality of health care provided to the NFL. During his term, he focused on two specific initiatives – emphasizing the need for gender equality in the NFL's athletic trainers, as well as the importance of athletic trainers at youth and high school levels. In 2016, Burkholder was inducted into the Pennsylvania Athletic Training Hall of Fame. In back to back years, Burkholder received prestigious awards for his work in the field, earning the National Athletic Trainers' Association's Most Distinguished Athletic Trainer Award (2016), and became just the second person and first athletic trainer to receive the NATA's President's Award, honoring his contribution to the profession (2017). Having spent 20 years with Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid, including 14 in Philadelphia as Reid held the same position with the Eagles (1999-2012), Burkholder became well known for his expertise in his rehabilitation programs. He and his staff were recognized by their peers following the 2010 season, being named the NFL's top training staff for the year. Throughout his career, Burkholder has had numerous success stories rehabilitating players. In 2004, an aggressive rehabilitation program allowed WR Terrell Owens to return from a surgically-repaired ankle in seven weeks to play in Super Bowl XXXIX with the Eagles. He also helped RB Duce Staley return to the field in 2001, who suffered a severe Lis Franc sprain in his foot. The process went so well that Burkholder was published and has spoken nationally on the Lis Franc injury and its rehabilitation process. In addition, Burkholder designed a rehab program for Steelers CB Rod Woodson in 1995 after he suffered a torn ACL in the season opener. Woodson returned just four and a half months after surgery to play in Super Bowl XXX. Burkholder has created specialized rehab programs for several Chiefs over the last seven years, including several Achilles' tendon injuries: LB Derrick Johnson (2014 & 2016), DE Mike DeVito (2014), WR Chris Conley (2017) and S Eric Berry (2017). He also played a major role in Berry's return to the field in 2015 after battling Hodgkin's lymphoma.Burkholder has been very proactive in sports medicine, emphasizing programs that prevent and combat dehydration, asthma and lower back injuries. In Philadelphia, he was instrumental in injury prevention by modifying the team's stretching program and instituting a torso-strengthening program known as "back school."Before joining the Eagles training staff, he spent six seasons as an assistant athletic trainer with the Pittsburgh Steelers and three seasons as an assistant football athletic trainer at his alma mater, the University of Pittsburgh. A 1987 Pittsburgh graduate, Burkholder went on to earn his master's degree in athletic training from the University of Arizona where he spent two seasons as a graduate assistant and another as an assistant athletic trainer. Burkholder is a certified athletic trainer and a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association, the Pennsylvania Athletic Trainers Society, in addition to his membership in PFATS. While with Philadelphia, he served as the NFC head athletic trainer representative on the PFATS executive committee. In 2013, he was a part of a football safety clinic geared specifically for moms at The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex. He is actively involved in the Kansas City community having given educational presentations on concussions and heat and hydration as part of The University of Kansas Health System Sports Medicine and Performance Center. Burkholder was instrumental in obtaining funding from the NFL Foundation and a matching grant from the Hunt Family Foundation with which the Chiefs and The University of Kansas Health System will provide athletic training coverage to KC United, a local youth football league currently without any medical coverage.Burkholder first gained NFL experience serving as a summer intern with the New England Patriots training staff in 1986. He was influenced by his father, Richard, a long-time athletic trainer at Carlisle High School, and his mother, Nancy, a registered nurse. In 2003, Burkholder and his father were named distinguished alumni of Carlisle High School, and in 2013, Rick was honored with the Pennsylvania Athletic Trainers Society Distinguished Merit Award.Education: Pittsburgh (B.S. 1987), Arizona (M.S. 1989). Born: Carlisle, Pa. Family: Wife - Kristine; Children - Quinn Taylor and Carly Ann.

Ke

Ted Crews was hired as the Chiefs Vice President of Communications on Jan. 27, 2012 and begins his eighth season with Kansas City in 2019. Crews serves as the club's primary contact and spokesman for the team's communications efforts, both football and business, and is the club's key liason between coaches, players, team executives and local and national media members. He oversees a staff of seven that also work directly with the coaching and personnel departments on research, statistics and other miscellaneous projects. Crews is responsible for media scheduling, preparation and speech writing for all facets of the organization. He works closely with Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt, Head Coach Andy Reid, General Manager Brett Veach, President Mark Donovan and the club's key players to unify messaging across the board and problem solve. In 2014, Crews oversaw the development of corporate communications department designed to serve the needs of the club's business operations. Working closely with Donovan, Crews implemented a strategy that focused on assisting other departments within the organization to meet and exceed media preparation and exposure on both the local and national levels. In addition, Crews has also helped the organization prospect and develop strong relationships with both local and national sports business reporters and outlets. During his time with the Chiefs, Crews has played a critical role in helping the club transition to new coaching and personnel staffs. Entering his 22nd season in the National Football League, Crews has been invited by the NFL 10 times to serve as a captain on the league's Super Bowl public relations staff (XLIX, XLIV, XLV, XLVI, XLVII, XLVIII, XLIX, 50, LI, LII) and has also been invited to work a number of Pro Bowls. In 2017, 2018 and 2019 prior to the Super Bowl, the Fritz Pollard Alliance Foundation has honored Crews at the Johnnie L. Cochran Jr. Salute to Excellence Awards Ceremony for his outstanding work and success as an African American in an executive position in the NFL. A graduate of South Carolina State, Crews was recognized in March of 2014 with one of the school's highest honors as he was selected to receive the Distinguished Young Alumnus Award. In 2013, he was named one of the first 20 people honored as part of the Who's Who in Black Kansas City. He now serves on the Who's Who Advisory Council Board and reviews future selections. Prior to joining the Chiefs, Crews spent three seasons (2009-11) as Senior Director of Communications for the St. Louis Rams. In that capacity, he served as the primary contact on all football matters for the owners, general manager and head coach, in addition to serving as the team's official spokesperson. Before joining the Rams, he held the title of Football Communications Manager with the Atlanta Falcons for four seasons (2005-08). In Atlanta, he provided media support for the general manager and head coach, in addition to the coaching staff and players. The Columbia, Md., native, spent five seasons as the Media Relations Assistant for the Carolina Panthers (2000-04) after originally entering the NFL as a department intern with the Panthers, serving two years in that role. Education: South Carolina State University (B.A. 1999). Family: Wife - Michelle; Children - Tesdell Jacob IV, Olivia Celeste and Dean J. William.

BRANDON HAMILTON VICE PRESIDENT OF STADIUM OPERATIONS AND FACILITIES

Brandon Hamilton was named Kansas City's Vice President of Stadium Operations and Facilities on May 4, 2017 and is entering his tenth season with the Chiefs in 2019. In his current role, Hamilton oversees all aspects of stadium systems, stadium maintenance and the stadium grounds for both Arrowhead and The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex. Beginning in January 2019, Hamilton will oversee three offseason upgrades to be completed at Arrowhead Stadium prior to the start of the 2019 season. While keeping its iconic shape and size, the stadium's west scoreboard will undergo a technological modernization featuring new LED panels for an enhanced picture. There will also be a re-application of waterproofing measures to the entire upper seating bowl, protecting the enclosed space of the CommunityAmerica Club Level below while maintaining the structural integrity of the concrete itself. As a result of the waterproofing, almost every seat in the upper deck has been removed and will be replaced by brand new seats, with some seats being wider, and all seats featuring cupholders, an amenity that has never existed for fans in Arrowhead's upper level. Prior to being named Vice President of Stadium Operations and Facilities, Hamilton served as the club's Director of Facilities for seven seasons (2010-16). As the Director of Facilities, he was responsible for facility management of both the stadium and the club's practice facility and office complex. Hamilton also directs the club's Extra Yard for the Environment program, a sustainability initiative designed to devise and implement new environmentally friendly policies. The program currently focuses on waste diversion, energy efficiency and recycling at Arrowhead Stadium, The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex and encourages fans to examine their sustainability efforts at home. Prior to joining the Chiefs in 2010, Hamilton served as Program Manager at The Konrath Group. During his time there he worked on the Arrowhead Stadium renovation that took place between 2007-10. Before that he spent a decade working in residential construction as a builder and superintendent. DAVE TOUB

ASSISTANT HEAD COACH/ SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR

Dave Toub enters his second season as Kansas City's assistant head coach/special teams coordinator in 2019 after serving five seasons (2013-17) as the club's special teams coordinator. Under Toub, the 2018 Chiefs special teams ranked in the top 10 in punt return, punt return coverage and kickoff return. K Harrison Butker had a strong second season, making 24 of 27 kicks and P Dustin Colquitt placed 21 kicks inside the 20 yard line, moving him to third all-time in NFL history (441). In 2017, the Chiefs led the NFL with 41 field goals, 38 of those FGs were made by rookie K Harrison Butker who exceeded expectations since joining the team in Week 4. Butker recorded a franchise record 23 consecutives FGs, ranking first in franchise history for most FGs made in a single season (38) and tied for first for the most 50-plus yard FGs in a season with four. WR/PR Tyreek Hill earned his second Pro Bowl selection, tallying 25 punt returns for 204 yards and a touchdown. P Dustin Colquitt became the second punter in franchise history to record 1,000 career punts. Since Toub's arrival in 2013, the Chiefs have 11 special teams kick returns for touchdowns (seven punt, four kickoff), which is the most in the NFL over that span. The Chiefs took over the top mark for kick return average in NFL history in 2013 averaging 29.9 yards per return. Special teams highlighted the Chiefs 30-0 win over the Houston Texans in the 2015 AFC Wild Card Game as RB Knile Davis returned the opening kickoff 106 yards for a touchdown. K Cairo Santos converted two 49-yard field goals and a 33-yard field goal in Houston, setting a postseason franchise record as 49 yards is the longest converted field goal in a playoff game, a record previously held by PFHOF and Chiefs Hall of Fame kicker Jan Stenerud. Santos also tied the record for most field goals in a playoff game (three) against Houston. Prior to arriving in Kansas City, Toub's special teams units in Chicago finished in the top third of the league for eight straight seasons (2004-11) according to the Dallas Morning News ranking system, including a No. 1 overall finish in 2006 and 2007. Toub was named Special Teams Coach of the Year in 2006 as voted on by his NFL coaching peers. Toub guided five different Bears players to eight Pro Bowl berths, including Devin Hester's three selections (2006-07 and 2010) Johnny Knox (2009), Brendon Ayanbadejo (2006-07), Robbie Gould (2006) and Corey Graham (2011). During Toub's tenure, Chicago had an NFL-high 22 kick return TDs compiled by six different players. The Bears also added a touchdown return on two missed field goals and a 92-yard kickoff return touchdown in Super Bowl XLI. Toub helped Hester develop into the NFL's all-time leader in kick return touchdowns (17) while compiling the fifth-best punt return average (12.1 avg.). Hester set an NFL single-season record with five kick return TDs in his rookie campaign in 2006 and surpassed that mark one year later with six kick return touchdowns. During his stint with Philadelphia (2001-03), Toub helped Eagles special teams coordinator John Harbaugh earn 2001 NFL Special Teams Coach of the Year honors. Toub spent 15 seasons coaching at the collegiate level, most recently at Missouri where he coached the defensive line (1998-00) after nine years (1989-97) as the school's head strength coach. Toub began his coaching career in 1986 at his alma mater, Texas-El Paso, as a graduate assistant, and one year later was named the school's head strength and conditioning coach. Toub was selected in the ninth round of the 1985 NFL Draft by the Philadelphia Eagles as a center. He also spent time with the Los Angeles Rams in 1986. At the University of Texas-El Paso, Toub was a two-time All-WAC selection and earned two Academic All-WAC nominations (1983-84). He was a two-time team captain and was named the program's most outstanding offensive lineman during his junior and senior seasons. He began his collegiate playing career as an offensive lineman at Springfield College in Springfield, Mass. (1980-81). He earned his Bachelor's of Science and Master's of Education degrees from UTEP. Education: - University of Texas - El Paso (B.S. 1986, M.E.1988). Born: Ossining, N.Y. Family: Wife - Cheryl; Children - Shane and Nicolette.

ERIC BIENIEMY OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

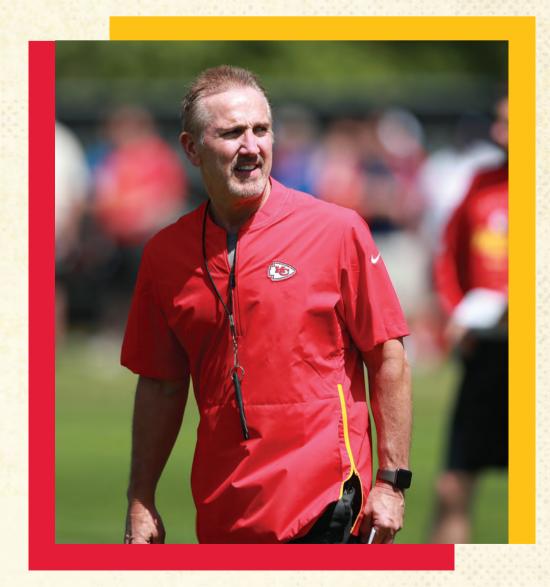

Eric Bieniemy enters his seventh season with the Kansas City Chiefs and second as offensive coordinator in 2019. Bieniemy previously served as the club's running backs coach (2013-17). In his first year as offensive coordinator, Bieniemy oversaw one of the most prolific offenses in Chiefs history as the club finished 12-4, earned its third-consecutive AFC West Championship and a No.1 seed in the playoffs en route to hosting the first AFC Championship Game in team history. QB Patrick Mahomes was named the NFL MVP as he passed for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns in just his first season as a starting guarterback. TE Travis Kelce ranked second among NFL tight ends with 1,336 receiving yards, and WR Tyreek Hill's 1,479 single-season receiving yards ranked first in Chiefs history. Under Bieniemy's tutelage in 2017, the club had a 1,000yard rusher, with the group logging a combined 1,903 yards on the season. From 2013-15, he mentored RB Jamaal Charles. In 2014, Charles recorded 1,000 yards for the fifth time in his career. Charles became the all-time leading rusher in franchise history and finished his Chiefs career with 7,260 career rushing vards. His 5.5 vards per carry average is also the best in Chiefs history. In 2013 under Bieniemy, Charles led the NFL in touchdowns (19) and first downs (104) and ranked second in yards from scrimmage (1,980 yards). He recorded the most receiving yards by a running back in Chiefs history and led the AFC in rushing (1,287 vards). Prior to returning to the NFL coaching ranks. Bieniemy spent two seasons (2011-12) at his alma mater Colorado after coaching the running backs for five seasons with the Minnesota Vikings (2006-10). In those five seasons, the Vikings produced a 1,000-yard rusher each year while his stable of running backs broke the 100-yard mark 31 times in 80 regular season games. In 2006, he coached Chester Taylor, who rushed for 1,216 yards; the next season, Taylor combined with Adrian Peterson, as the two combined for 2,185 yards (1,341 by Peterson, who was All-Pro as a rookie). Peterson set a then-Vikings record with 1,760 yards in 2008, earning the Bert Bell Award as the Pro Football Player of the Year. Overall, Peterson totaled 5,782 rushing yards and 52 touchdowns in four seasons under Bieniemy's guidance. Bieniemy made the move to the professional ranks after three seasons as the running backs coach at UCLA (2003-05). While at UCLA, Bieniemy tutored former NFL RB Maurice Jones-Drew for three seasons. Jones-Drew earned Freshman All-America honors in 2003, rushed for 1,007 yards in 2004 and was a consensus All-America selection as a kick returner in 2005. Following his nine-year NFL career, Bieniemy served as an assistant at Thomas Jefferson High in Denver prior to securing his first job as running backs coach with Coloardo. In his first two seasons coaching the position, CU ranked in the top-10 in rushing. He was a second-round draft pick (39th overall) of the San Diego Chargers in the 1991 NFL Draft. He enjoyed a nine-year pro career with three teams: San Diego (1991-94), Cincinnati (1995-98) and Philadelphia (1999), where he played for Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid. In 142 career NFL games, he rushed for 1,589 yards and 11 touchdowns while catching 146 passes for 1,223 yards. His final year with the Chargers, he played in Super Bowl XXIX.A letterwinner from Bishop Amat High School in La Puente, Calif., Bieniemy earned second-team All-America honors in football as a senior when he rushed for 2,002 yards and 30 touchdowns.Education: -Colorado (B.A. 2001). Born: New Orleans. Family: Wife - Mia; Sons - Eric III and Elijah.

STEVE SPAGNUOLO DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Steve Spagnuolo enters his first season with the Chiefs as defensive coordinator in 2019. Prior to joining the Chiefs, Spagnuolo served as the defensive coordinator for the New York Giants for three seasons (2015-17) and was named the Giants interim head coach for the final four weeks of the 2017 season. In 2016, the Giants fielded the NFL's most-improved defense, one that was a catalyst behind the team's 11-5 record and first postseason berth in five years. Spagnuolo's defense achieved top-10 rankings in 12 statistical categories, including a top-five ranking in eight critical statistical categories during the 2016 season: touchdowns allowed (first), red zone efficiency (first), points allowed per game (second), opposing quarterback rating (second), yards allowed per rush (second), third-down efficiency (third), completion percentage (third), and first downs allowed per game (fifth). His three years coordinating New York's defense marked his second stint in that role as he served as the Giants defensive coordinator from 2007-08. Spagnuolo's defense helped lead the Giants to a 17-14 victory over the previously undefeated New England Patriots in Super Bowl XLII following the 2007 season. After his first stop with the Giants (2007-08), Spagnuolo was hired as head coach of the St. Louis Rams, where he spent three seasons at the helm (2009-11) and led the Rams to a six-game turnaround between 2009-10. Spagnuolo also had a stint as defensive coordinator of the New Orleans Saints (2012) where he led a unit that finished with 15 interceptions, including four that were returned for touchdowns, and forced 11 fumbles to help the Saints finish with a plus-two turnover differential. Following New Orleans he spent two seasons on the defensive staff of the Baltimore Ravens, first as a senior defensive assistant (2013) and then as assistant head coach/ secondary coach (2014). Spagnuolo broke into the NFL under Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid when Reid held the same position with the Philadelphia Eagles (1999-2012). Spagnuolo spent eight seasons (1999-2006) working on the defensive coaching staff in Philadelphia under the late Jim Johnson, holding the positions of defensive assistant/quality control coach (1999-2000), defensive backs coach (2001-03) and linebackers coach (2004-06). While with the Eagles, Spagnuolo was part of four consecutive NFC East titles, reached four straight conference title games and earned a Super Bowl appearance following the 2004 season. A native of Whitinsville, Massachusetts, he attended Grafton (Mass.) High School, where he is a member of the school's Athletic Hall of Fame. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education from Springfield College (Springfield, Mass.), where he was a two-year starter at wide receiver. He earned a master's degree in sports management from the University of Massachusetts. Spagnuolo and his wife Maria established The Spagnuolo Foundation to give hope to youth who otherwise may not have the opportunity to pursue and achieve their dreams. Education: Springfield College (B.S. 1982); University of Massachusetts (M.S. 1983). Born: Whitinsville, Mass. Family: Wife - Maria.

TRAVIS CRITTENDEN STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING ASSISTANT

Travis Crittenden enters his seventh season as an assistant strength and conditioning coach with the Kansas City Chiefs after spending the 2012 season in the same capacity for the Philadelphia Eagles. Prior to entering the NFL, he served as the director of football operations and general manager of Competitive Edge Sports in Atlanta, Ga., where he led professional athletes through offseason training and also prepared collegiate football players for the NFL Combine and pro days, in addition to working with several international and US Olympic athletes. While at CES, Crittenden worked in partnership with Methodist Hospital Orthopedics and Sports Medicine in Houston, Texas, to research various methods of development in human performance. Additionally, Crittenden worked with Methodist to develop programs in "closing the loop" which are designed to shorten the time between the point when an athlete is medically cleared to participate in activities to the point where they are physically at their best and ready for competition, thus reducing risk of re-injury and decline in performance. He was also a co-founder at Speedworx Sports. As co-founder, Crittenden worked with partners to research and develop better ways to produce sports performance training equipment based on what he learned in his years working with athletes, as well as time spent personally as an athlete. Together, Crittenden and his team produced an extensive line of equipment that is widely used in all sports for maximizing athletes potential as well as rehabilitation. Crittenden spent three seasons (2009-11) as a defensive line coach and speed development coach for Stephenville (Texas) High School. During that time, the Yellow Jackets compiled a 28-12 record and reached the Texas State quarterfinals twice. His time in the NFL includes a 12-year career as an offensive lineman. The 2018 season featured Heck's offensive line protecting NFL MVP quarterback Patrick Mahomes who threw for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns, which is only the second time in NFL history. On the way to an AFC Championship berth, the offensive line only gave up 34.0 sacks (regular and post season), which ranked tied for sixth in the league. T Eric Fisher was selected to his first Pro Bowl under Heck's tutelage and T Mitchell Schwartz started every game at RT, extending his current streak with the most straight starts for an offensive tackle to 112. Injuries marred the offensive line, but Heck was able to coach young offensive linemen Austin Reiter and Andrew Wylie to 14 combined starts. First-year OL Andrew Wylie was awared Mack Lee Hill Award, which is annually presented to the Chiefs' top rookie or first-year player in remembrance of the late Mack Lee Hill. During the 2017 season, Heck coached seven different starting offensive lineman with six different combinations, paving the way for the running backs group to record a combined 1,903 vards. QB Alex Smith threw for a career-high 4,042 and both Smith and Hunt made the Pro Bowl in 2017. In 2016, the offensive line proved its versatility once again as eight different linemen filled a starting role throughtout the season. Behind a Heck-coached offensive line, RB Spencer Ware had 921 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns while RB Charcandrick West rushed for 293 yards and one touchdown. In 2015, nine different offensive line combinations including eight different offensive linemen made up the starting lineup. Rookie Mitch Morse started all but one game at center, and T Eric Fisher solidified the left tackle spot during the club's 11-game winning streak. During the 2014 season, the line helped RBs Jamaal Charles and Knile Davis carry the scoring load for the Chiefs. The two scored 22 of the Chiefs 40 total touchdowns, which ranked first among a pair of teammates across the NFL. Additionally, Charles surpassed Priest Holmes as the Chiefs all-time leading rusher with 6,856 rushing yards. Charles' 1,033 rushing yards in 2014 was his third consecutive year over 1,000 vards and second consecutive behind Heck's line. In 2013, Heck led Kansas City's offensive line to help Charles reach 1,287 rushing yards, enough for third-most in the NFL. T Branden Albert made his first appearance in the Pro Bowl under Heck's guidance. Prior to joining the Chiefs staff, Heck served nine years on the Jacksonville Jaguars coaching staff as the assistant offensive line coach (2005) and offensive assistant/assistant offensive line coach (2004) before being promoted to offensive line coach (2006-12). In 2011, Jacksonville's offensive line paved the way for RB Maurice Jones-Drew to rush for 1,606 yards to earn the NFL rushing title. In 2010, the Jaguars boasted the third-ranked rushing offense in the NFL, averaging 149.7 yards per game, including a 4.7 yards per carry average to rank fifth in the league. The team racked up 2,395 rushing yards to rank as the second-most in team history at that point. In 2006 and 2007, the offensive line led the offense to the two highest single-season rushing totals in franchise history to date and two of the three lowest sack totals. The Jaguars set the single-season franchise record for rushing yards (2,541) in 2006 and allowed only 30.0 sacks, the second-fewest in team history. Prior to Jacksonville, Heck served three seasons on the University of Virginia coaching staff, the first two seasons as a graduate assistant and the final year as tight ends coach. He tutored All-America tight end Heath Miller, who set numerous Atlantic Coast Conference tight end records for receiving and scoring. Miller was a first-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers in 2005. Heck played in the NFL for 12 seasons (1989-2000) as an offensive lineman. He finished his playing career with the Washington Redskins, where he played for two seasons. As the starting left tackle in 1999, he blocked for an offense that ranked second in the NFL. From 1994 to 1998, Heck was a five-year starter for the Chicago Bears. In 1995, he gave up no sacks as part of an offensive line that yielded the fewest sacks in the NFL. Heck was drafted in the first round (15th overall) by the Seattle Seahawks, where he was a unanimous All-Rookie selection in 1989. A starter for all five years with the Seahawks, he played three seasons without missing a snap. A 1989 graduate of Notre Dame, Heck was a first-team All-America selection and he cocaptained the 1988 national championship team that finished 12-0. He was a tight end for his first three seasons at Notre Dame before moving to tackle in spring drills in his senior season.Education: - Notre Dame (B.A. 1989). Born: Fargo, N.D. Family: Wife -Jennifer; Children - Jonathan, Charlie, Molly and Evelyn.

MATT HOUSE LINEBACKERS

Matt House will begin his first season as linebackers coach for the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019. Before joining the Chiefs staff, House served on the University of Kentucky staff for three seasons (2016-18), the latter two as defensive coordinator/insider linebackers coach. House's defenses anchored a Kentucky team that reached threestraight bowl games for the first time since 2007-2009, and culminated in a 27-24 victory over Penn State in the 2019 Citrus Bowl. His 2019 defense ranked sixth in the country in scoring defense. In his first year with the Wildcats, House served as the special teams coordinator/inside linebackers coach. Under House's guidance, he led a pair of first-time starters at middle linebacker in Courtney Love and Jordan Jones. Together, the duo combined for 185 tackles and Jones earned second-team All-SEC honors. House spent one season as the defensive coordinator at Florida International (2015) in which his defense limited four opponents to less than 14 points and finished the season ranked 16th nationally in red zone defense. House's defense boasted five players who earned all-conference honors and four would go on to sign NFL contracts. Before his time in Lexington and Miami, House spent time as a defensive coordinator at Pittsburgh (2012-14). House's defenses anchored a Pittsburgh team that won two bowl games in his three years on campus. House coached Pittsburgh defensive tackle Aaron Donald, who was then drafted 13th overall by the Rams in the 2014 NFL Draft and has since won NFL Defensive Player of the Year twice (2017-18) and been named to four All-Pro teams (2015-18). In his most successful season with the Panthers, his 2013 defense ranked 34th nationally in total defense. Before his collegiate experiences, House spent four seasons in the NFL as defensive quality control/assistant linebackers coach for the St. Louis Rams (2009-11) and special teams/strength and conditioning assistant for the Carolina Panthers (2008). While in St. Louis, House worked under then-Head Coach and now-Chiefs Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo. In his season in Carolina, the Panthers went 12-4 and claimed the NFC South title and the franchise's fourth-ever playoff berth. House's final stop of his first collegiate stint was at the University of Buffalo (2006-07), where he was the defensive backs coach and recruiting coordinator for the Bulls. During his time in Western New York, House helped the Bulls to a share of the 2007 MAC East title and helped developed All-MAC safety Davonte Shannon, who finished as the school's all-time leading tackler and signed as an NFL free agent. House spent the 2005 season as the defensive line coach at Gardner-Webb. He coached as a defensive assistant at North Carolina (2003-04), helping UNC to the 2004 Continental Tire Bowl. House began his coaching career at Michigan State University (2001-02) as a graduate assistant, helping the Spartans to the 2001 Silicon Valley Classic with the secondary and special teams units. Education: Michigan State University (B.S. 2000). Born: Harrison, Mich. Family: Wife - Jessi. Children - Avery, Jackson, Jacob and Trent.

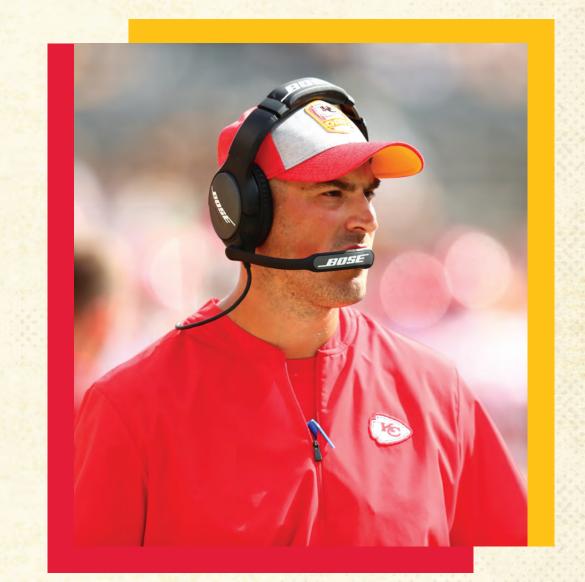

MIKE KAFKA QUARTERBACKS

Mike Kafka enters his third season with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019 and second as the quarterbacks coach. In his first year coaching quarterbacks in 2018, Kafka guided QB Patrick Mahomes as he earned the Chiefs first NFL MVP award after he broke four Chiefs passing records and became only the second quarterback to pass for over 5,000 yards and 50 touchdowns in a season. Kafka served as an offensive quality control coach in 2017, helping mentor rookie QB Patrick Mahomes and assisting an offense that featured a 4,000-yard passer, 1,000 yard rusher, receiver and tight end. Prior to joining the Chiefs, Kafka returned to his alma mater, serving as graduate assistant (offense) at Northwestern University. With Kafka's assistance, the Wildcats averaged 398.2 yards per game and 26.0 points per game, which led to a New Era Pinstripe Bowl selection where they beat No. 23 Pittsburgh, 31-24, inside Yankee Stadium. Under Kafka's guidance, Northwestern saw numerous highlights throughout the course of the season. For the first time in NU history, senior wide receiver Austin Carr accepted the league's Richter-Howard Big Ten Receiver of the Year honor after leading the Big Ten in receptions (84), receiving yards (1,196) and touchdowns (12) during the regular season. He was also a finalist for the Biletnikoff Award. Prior to joining the coaching ranks, Kafka enjoyed a six-year playing career in the National Football League where he primarily saw action as a backup quarterback and practice squad member with several teams. Kafka was drafted in the fourth round of the 2010 NFL Draft (122nd overall) by then-Head Coach Andy Reid and the Philadelphia Eagles. He appeared in four games throughout his career, all with the Eagles in the 2011 season. A collegiate standout at Northwestern University, Kafka appeared in 30 games as a Wildcat, completing 408 of 637 passes (64.1 pct.) for 4,265 yards with 19 touchdowns. He set single-game records in both passing yards (532 vs. Auburn, 2010) and rushing yards by a quarterback (217 vs. Minnesota, 2008). Additionally, his 3,725 yards of total offense as a senior in 2009 still stands as the No. 2 season in program history. A product of Chicago's St. Rita High School, Kafka earned a degree in communication studies from Northwestern. Education: Northwestern (B.S. 2009). Born: Chicago. Family: Wife - Alli; Daughter - Ashton.

GREG LEWIS WIDE RECEIVERS

Greg Lewis enters his third season as a wide receivers coach with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019. This season marks his 13th year in the NFL, with prior stops as a wide receivers coach in Philadelphia (2016) and as an offensive assistant in New Orleans (2015), preceded by an eight-year career as a wide receiver. During the 2018 season, Lewis coached third-year WR Tyreek Hill to his second consectuive 1,000 yard season with 1,479 yards and 12 touchdowns, which both ranked fourth in the NFL. Hill's 1,479 receiving yards in 2018 broke the Chiefs single-season receiving yards record previously set by WR Derrick Alexander (1,391 in 2000). He also led wide receivers Chris Conley and Demarcus Robinson to career-highs in receiving yards and touchdowns. In 2017, Lewis coached WR Tyreek Hil, who had career highs in yards (1,183) and receiving touchdowns (8). Hill had five receptions of 55 yards or more, and 16 receptions of 25 yards or more. Overall, the receivers combined for 2,285 yards and 12 touchdowns under Lewis' tutelage. Lewis spent the 2016 season in Philadelphia guiding a young receiving core. The Lewis-led group of Eagles wideouts produced 1,839 receiving yards on 170 receptions (10.8 yards per catch) with eight touchdowns. Prior to joining the Eagles, Lewis served as an offensive assistant in New Orleans, which was his first full-time coaching role in the National Football League. The 2015 Saints, led by QB Drew Brees, put together a league-leading 460 completions for 5,205 passing yards. Prior to coaching stints in the National Football League, Lewis spent three seasons coaching in the collegiate ranks, spending time with the University of Pittsburgh (2014), San Jose State (2013) and the University of San Diego (2012). Working with the wide receivers at Pittsburgh in 2014, Lewis tutored WR Tyler Boyd, a second-round pick by the Cincinnati Bengals in the 2016 NFL Draft. Boyd ranked second in the ACC with 1,261 yards in 2014, and left the Panthers as the school's all-time leading receiver in receptions (254), receiving yards (3,361) and finished second in all-purpose yards (5,243), earning a first-team All-ACC nod as a wide receiver. In his one season coaching at San Jose State, senior Chandler Jones and freshman Tyler Winston, were All-Mountain West Conference honorees. Jones was a first-team selection with 79 receptions for 1,356 yards and a single-season school-record 15 touchdown catches. Jones also established a new University record for career TD receptions with 29. Despite starting only eight games, Winston was named the Mountain West Freshman of the Year. He finished 2013 with 58 receptions for 858 yards and five touchdowns. Winston led all Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) freshmen with four games of 100 or more receiving yards. Under Lewis' direction, four Spartans wide receivers finished the 2013 season with at least 100 career receptions. Jones and team captain Noel Grigsby completed their college careers with 248 and 237 receptions, respectively. Lewis began his coaching career in 2012 as a wide receivers coach at the University of San Diego. The Lewis-led group of wideouts totaled 2,287 yards on 182 receptions (12.6 yards per catch) with 21 touchdowns. Prior to coaching, Lewis enjoyed an eight-year playing career in the National Football League. Undrafted out of the University of Illinois, then-head coach Andy Reid first signed Lewis in Philadelphia where he appeared in 90 games (23 starts), logging 127 catches for 1,699 yards (13.3 yards per catch) and seven touchdowns. His time with the Eagles was highlighted by a fourth-quarter touchdown pass in Super Bowl XXXIX. The Chicago, Illinois, native finished his pro career in Minnesota, where he spent two seasons and appeared in 26 games (six starts), tallying 293 yards on 25 catches (11.7 yards per catch) with one touchdown. His most notable achievement in Minnesota came on one of the most dramatic finishes in Vikings history, when he made a tightrope catch in the back of the end zone with two seconds left to lift Minnesota past the San Francisco 49ers, 27-24. Lewis would go on to share an ESPY Award for 'Best Play' with then-Vikings quarterback Brett Favre. A standout at the University of Illinois, Lewis appeared in 44 games, logging 103 reception for 1,456 yards (14.1 yards per catch) and 12 touchdowns. Education: University of Illinois (B.A. 2002). Born: Chicago. Family: Married with four children.

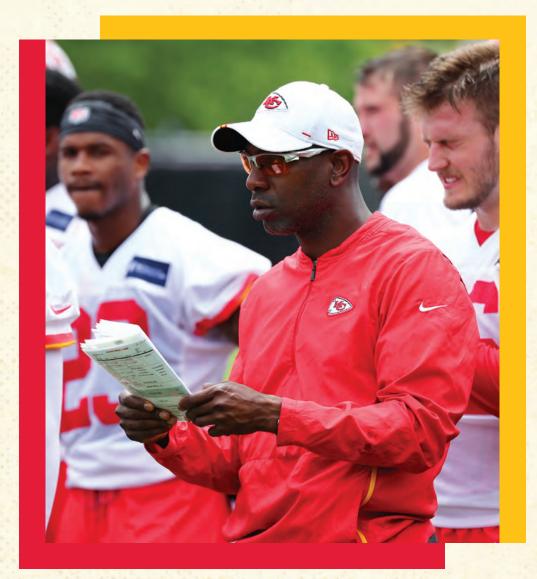

SAM MADISON DEFENSIVE BACKS/ CORNERBACKS

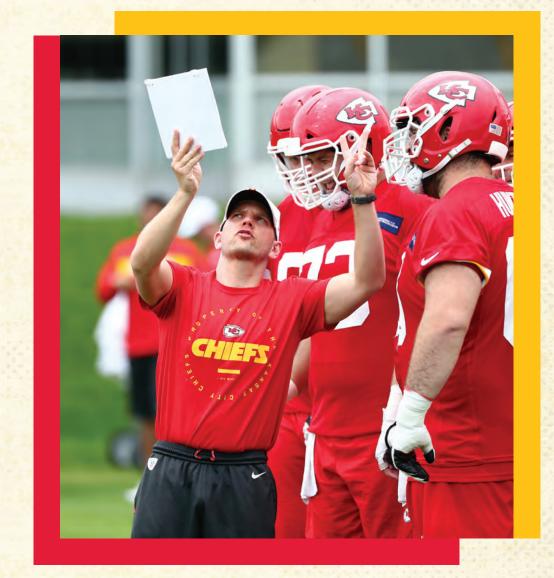

Sam Madison will enter his first NFL season as a coach with the Chiefs in 2019 as the defensive backs/cornerbacks coach. Madison played cornerback in the National Football League for 12 seasons, the first nine with the Miami Dolphins (1997-2005). Following his time in Miami, Madison played three seasons with the New York Giants (2006-08), two of which came under Chiefs Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo and all three under Defensive Backs Coach David Merritt. Madison tallied 38 interceptions and 130 pass breakups during the course of his career. During the 1998 season, Madison intercepted a career-high eight passes for the Dolphins on their way to a Wild Card berth and a 24-17 playoff victory over the Buffalo Bills. Madison intercepted four passes with the New York Giants during the 2007 season, helping lead the team to a victory in Super Bowl XLII against the previously undefeated New England Patriots. Madison and the Giants defense held New England's historic offense to 14 points in one the most shocking upsets in Super Bowl history. Madison was named to four Pro Bowls (1999-2002) and two All-Pro teams (1999-2000) during his NFL career. Following his retirement in 2008, Madison worked as a television analyst for the Miami Dolphins TV Network. He was drafted by the Dolphins in the second round (44th overall) of the 1997 NFL Draft. He played his college football at the University of Louisville, where he excelled at defensive back. At Louisville, he played in 40 games, intercepted 15 passes and returned one for a touchdown. TOM MELVIN TIGHT ENDS

Tom Melvin enters his seventh season as Kansas City's tight ends coach and his 21st season as an NFL coach in 2019. For the third-straight year, Melvin's coaching helped TE Travis Kelce record over 1,000 yards, which is only the second time a tight end has accomplished that in NFL history (Greg Olsen (2014-16). Kelce earned his fourth Pro Bowl nomination and briefly broke the NFL record for receiving yards by a tight end (1,336) and now ranks second all-time (George Kittle, 2018). Kelce was a key component to QB Patrick Mahomes throwing for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns and winning the NFL MVP. Under Melvin's leadership, TE Travis Kelce had another Pro Bowl year in 2017, recording 83 receptions, 1,038 yards and a career-high eight touchdowns. After two straight 1,000-yard and 80-catch seasons, he continues to solidify himself as one of the elite tight ends in the National Football League. Melvin has mentored well-rounded tight ends including the development of TE Demetrius Harris. Harris entered the league in 2013 as an undrafted free agent, spending the season on the club's practice squad after playing college basketball at UW-Milwaukee. In 2017, he recorded 18 catches for 224 yards and one touchdown. Prior to joining the Chiefs in 2013, Melvin spent 14 seasons on the offensive coaching staff in Philadelphia, including the last 11 years of his tenure as the Eagles tight ends coach. Prior to being elevated to tight ends coach, Melvin was the club's offensive assistant/quality control coach. In his time overseeing the tight ends in Philadelphia, Melvin played a key role in the development of Brent Celek, who caught 280 passes for 3,472 yards and 20 touchdowns in his six-year career playing for Melvin and the Eagles. Celek ranked second on the Eagles squad for the second straight season with 57 receptions after hauling in 62 in 2011. He had 684 receving yards in 2012 after registering 811 yards in 2011 with six touchdowns in the past two seasons. In 2011, Celek topped all NFL tight ends with an average of 8.1 yards after the catch. Celek turned in one of the finest seasons ever by an Eagles tight end in 2009 with 76 receptions for 971 yards and eight touchdowns. Melvin joined the Eagles after an eight-year stint at Occidental College, where he served as the school's offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. In 1993, he led the Tigers to a then-school record 326 points and 2,526 rushing yards on the way to an 8-1 record. Prior to his time at Occidental, he served as the offensive coordinator/offensive line coach at the University of California-Santa Barbara. At UCSB, Melvin directed the nation's fifth-ranked offense in 1989 while coaching five All-America selections. From 1982-83, Melvin played on the offensive line at San Francisco State University. During the 1983 season, his position coach at SFSU was current Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid. Following his playing career at San Francisco State, Melvin began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, serving on the same staff with Reid. He then moved on to Northern Arizona, where he mentored TE Shawn Collins, a first-round draft pick of Atlanta in the 1989 NFL Draft. Melvin attended Cubberley High School in Palo Alto, Calif. Today, he holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from San Francisco State and a master's degree in educational administration from Northern Arizona. Melvin's cousin, Bob Melvin, is a former major league catcher and current manager of the Oakland Athletics. Education:
¬San Francisco State University (B.A. 1984, M.E. 1987). Born: Redwood City, Calif. Family: Wife - Kathy; Children - Justin, Joshua, J.T., Heather; Granddaughter - Haylee.

DAVE MERRITT DEFENSIVE BACKS

Dave Merritt enters his first season with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019 as the defensive backs coach. He joins Kansas City after spending last season as the defensive backs coach with the Arizona Cardinals where he coached CB Patrick Peterson to his eighth-career Pro Bowl. Before coaching in Arizona, Merritt spent 14 seasons with the New York Giants, where he was a defensive assistant (2004-05) and secondary/ safeties coach (2006-17). Merritt worked with Chiefs Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo as they coached a defense that helped win Super Bowl XLII. He would also go on to win Super Bowl XLVI under Head Coach Tom Coughlin. With the Giants, he coached multiple Pro Bowlers, including S Landon Collins who led the Giants in tackles for three straight seasons (2015-17) and had eight interceptions, 4.0 sacks, three fumble recoveries and two forced fumbles. During his tenure as secondary/safeties coach, the Giants defensive backfield recorded 198 interceptions, which was tied for sixth in the NFL during that time frame. Merritt entered the NFL as a defensive assistant and linebackers coach with the New York Jets (2001-03) following two stops coaching at the collegiate level, including Tennessee-Chattanooga as the oustide linebackers coach (1997) and Virginia Military Institute as the defensive ends/outside linebackers coach (1998) and defensive line coach (1999-2000). Merrit played for North Carolina State from 1989 to 1992 and was a First Team All-ACC linebacker in 1992 after leading the conference in tackles. After being drafted by the Miami Dolphins in the seventh round, he played in 38 career games in three seasons for the Dolphins and the Arizona Cardinals. A standout player at Millbrook High School in Raleigh, North Carolina, Merritt graduated from North Carolina State with a degree in Political Science. Merritt was inducted into Millbrook High School's Hall of Fame in 2012 as a part of the school's first Hall of Fame class. Education: North Carolina State (B.S. 1994). Born: Raleigh, N.C. BRITT REID LINEBACKERS/ OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS

Britt Reid enters his seventh season with the Chiefs in 2019 and his first as the linebackers/outside linebackers coach. Reid spent the previous six seasons as the defensive line coach (2016-18), assistant defensive line coach (2015) and defensive quality control coach (2013-14). Prior to joining the Chiefs, Reid spent three seasons (2010-12) at Temple University as a graduate assistant working with the offense. During the 2018 season, Reid led a defensive line who ranked tied-first in the NFL with 52.0 sacks with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Third-year DL Chris Jones led the team with 15.5 sacks and ranked third in the NFL behind AP's Defensive Player of the Year Aaron Donald (20.5) and All-Pro Defensive End J.J. Watt (16.0). Jones also became the first player in NFL history to record at least one sack in 11 consecutive games from Weeks 5-16. He was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Month after tallying a leagueleading 5.0 sacks in three November games. Eighth-year DL Allen Bailey had a careerhigh 6.0 sacks, 10 quarterback hits and four forced fumbles during the 2018 season. During the 2017 season, Chiefs newcomer DT Bennie Logan led the defensive line with 52 tackles ranking fifth in Kansas City's defense. Second-year DL Chris Jones continued to grow tallying a career-high 6.5 sacks and four forced fumbles. Jones was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Week after recording four tackles, 3.0 sacks, two forced fumbles and his first-career interception during the Week 2 match-up against the Philadelphia Eagles. In 2016, the Chiefs defensive line showed continued success as 11 Chiefs combined to register 28.0 sacks (-162 yards) and 67.0 tackles for loss. Reid played a key role in the development of rookie Chris Jones. Jones appeared in 16 games (11 starts), logging 28 tackles, 2.0 sacks, four passes defensed and four tackles for loss. Jones was additionally voted to the 2016 All-Rookie team by the Pro Football Writers of America (PFWA). Additionally, Reid helped guide second-year DL Rakeem-Nunez-Roches into an every-game role. Nunez-Roches appeared in the Chiefs final 11 regular-season contests in addition to the Divisional Playoff game. Nunez-Roches totaled 24 tackles, 1.0 sack and three quarterback hurries. The 2015 season saw four different players start at multiple positions along the defensive line. The Kansas City defensive line tallied 14.0 sacks and 27 tackles for loss under Reid's watch. Prior to his graduation, Reid served as a student assistant for the Temple football program for two seasons assisting the offense. Reid also spent two years (2011-12) working the Steve Addazio football camp. In 2009, he was a training camp coordinator intern for the Philadelphia Eagles, and in 2008, he was an assistant offensive line coach at St. Joseph's Preparatory in Philadelphia. Reid has a bachelor's degree in communications from Temple University. He played football at Harriton High School and was a captain for three seasons. Born: Fulton, III.

RUBIN STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

Barry Rubin enters his seventh season as the Chiefs strength and conditioning coach in 2019. Rubin played a critical role during his first six seasons with the club, implementing and maintaining a strength and conditioning program throughout the year that prepared the team for six consecutive winning seasons including a 12-4 record in 2018, earning the club its first back-to-back-to-back AFC West Division Championships in franchise history.He joined the Chiefs after serving the previous three seasons in the same capacity with the Philadelphia Eagles (2010-12). Prior to being promoted to the Eagles Head Strength and Conditioning Coach in 2010, he was an assistant for two years (2008-09). Before his move to Philadelphia, he spent seven years as the head strength and conditioning coach (1999-2005) and four years as an assistant for the Green Bay Packers (1995-98).During his tenure in Green Bay, the Packers earned six division titles, two NFC championship titles and a Super Bowl XXXI victory under Head Coach Mike Holmgren. He also served as a strength coach at Northeast Louisiana (1982-83, 1987-90 and 1994) and LSU (1984-85).Rubin was inducted into the Northwestern (La.) State Hall of Fame in 2014, where he played with former Chiefs great Joe Delaney, and the USA Strength and Conditioning Coaches Hall of Fame in 2003. He played tight end and punter at Northwestern State from 1978-80 after serving as a running back and punter at LSU from 1976-77.Education: ¬Northwestern (La.) State (B.A. 1981). Born: Monroe, La. Family: Wife - Nicole; Daughter - Daley, who will be attending the University of Arkansas this fall.

ALEX WHITTINGHAM DEFENSIVE QUALITY CONTROL

Alex Whittingham enters his second season with Kansas City in 2019 and first as a defensive quality control coach after serving as a defensive assistant for the 2018 season. During the 2018 season, Whittingham worked closely with the outside linebackers including Pro Bowl selection fifth-year LB Dee Ford who was tied-first in the NFL with seven forced fumbles with All-Pro DE J.J. Watt and had a career-high 13.0 sacks. The Salt Lake City, native was a walk on for the Utes earning four letters (2013-17) appearing in 44 games. During the 2017 season, he handled short snaps for the entire season and long snaps for the first four games, and was also a member of the kick return team. He was a three-time honorable mention Pac-12 All-Academic selection. While at Utah, Whittingham played under his father, Kyle, who served as the Utes head coach and his uncle, Freddie Whittingham, who served as the tight ends coach. Prior to attending Utah, Whittingham spent three years (2011-13) after high school serving as a missionary for the LDS church in Auckland, New Zealand. Education: University of Utah (B.S. 2017). Hometown: Salt Lake City. Family: Wife - Gabi.

ROD WILSON ASSISTANT SPECIAL TEAMS

Rod Wilson enters his third season with the Chiefs in 2019 as the assistant special teams coach. He previously spent four seasons (2013-16) at Charleston Southern coaching the safeties, inside linebackers and assisted with special teams, following a six-year NFL playing career. In 2018, the Chiefs special teams ranked third in punt returns, fourth in punt return coverage and eight in kickoff returns. K Harrison Butker had a strong second season, making 24 of 27 kicks and P Dustin Colquitt placed 21 kicks inside the 20 yard line, moving him to third all-time in NFL history (441). In 2017, Wilson assisted Special Teams Coordinator Dave Toub, helping guide K Harrison Butker to a decorated rookie season - recording a franchise record of 23 consecutive FGs, ranking second in franchise history for most FGs made in a single season and tied for first for the most 50-plus yard FGs made in a season with four. Wilson also assisted with the return and coverage units, in which during the 2017 season, the Chiefs led the NFL in kick returns (40) for 1,051 yards. Under his tutelage, WR/PR Tyreek Hill earned his second Pro Bowl selection, tallying 25 punt returns for 204 yards and a touchdown. Within his four years at CSU, he made a brief stop in Kansas City as part of the league's Bill Walsh NFL Minority Coaching Fellowship during the club's 2015 training camp. Under Wilson's tutelage, CSU landed at least one linebacker on the Big South's All-Conference squad each of his four seasons. In 2016, Wilson helped guide the Buccaneers defense to top rankings within the league, limiting opponents to the fewest rushing touchdowns (15) and fewest total rushing yards (1,488). The 2015 Buccaneers ranked atop the league in total defense (292.0 yards per game) and held opponents to the second-fewest rushing yards per game (147.1) which helped earn an outright Big South title and the program's first-ever berth into the FCS Playoffs. Prior to his collegiate coaching career, Wilson enjoyed a six-year playing career in the National Football League. Originally selected in the seventh round of the 2005 NFL Draft (220th overall) by the Chicago Bears, Wilson appeared in 51 games for the Chicago Bears and Tampa Bay Buccaneers, tallying 47 tackles and one forced fumble while primarily playing a special teams role under then-Special Teams Coach Dave Toub. Wilson's career highlights include four playoff appearances, which included two NFC Championship appearances and a trip to Super Bowl XLI. The Cross, S.C. native attended the University of South Carolina, where he played five different positions for the Gamecocks (quarterback, wide receiver, spur, safety and linebacker) and put together an outstanding senior year as one of USC's captains, leading the team in tackles (68) while earning All-SEC honors, and SEC Academic Honor Roll accolades. Education: South Carolina (B.S. 2004). Born: Cross, S.C. Family: Wife - Megan; Son - Jaylen and Ryan.

Families in Crisis

Civic Responsibility

Thanks to the dedication of players, coaches and staff, the Chiefs made significant strides last season in ongoing efforts to serve the communities of our fans throughout Chiefs Kingdom. When the Chiefs moved to Kansas City in 1963, team Founder Lamar Hunt made a commitment to invest time and resources in the communities where our fans live. It is a very special part of his legacy and it remains one of our primary missions today. In 2018, the Chiefs Community Caring Team totaled 267 player outreach appearances and generated $2.1 millions in publicity as a result. From a commitment to improving opportunities in education through our partnership with City Year, to increasing support for children and families in crisis, to promoting health and wellness programs like NFL Play 60, and ongoing engagement and appreciation initiatives dedicated to the brave men and women of the military, we are honored to serve the Chiefs Kingdom. We sincerely appreciate your continued support of the Chiefs and, more importantly, the Kansas City community.

ILIES IN CRISIS

HALL OF FAME MAN OF THE YEAR CHEERLEADERS ADS

Over the past year, the Chiefs Community Caring Team has continued to improve performance in quantifiable ways to support and cultivate growth in all of Chiefs Kingdom. In an exciting measure of success, the Chiefs provided 264,896 meals for the annual Chiefs Kingdom Food Drive. 2018 marked the first year the Chiefs Charity Game benefited Cornerstones of Care. The organization is dedicated to improving the lives of children and families and assists more than 10,000 children and families each year, providing a wide variety preventive and treatment services throughout the region. The 2018 Chiefs Charity Game raised $485,000 for Cornerstones of Care, putting the 34-year total for the event at nearly $13 million. Another point of pride is the relationship between the Chiefs and City Year; a national, evidence-based program with a proven history of improving educational attainment for urban students. As a result of the support from the Chiefs and the Hunt Family Foundation, the AmeriCorps members assigned to Central Middle School saw 71% of City Year math students who started the year off-track (D or F grade) improved to an on-track math grade (A, B or C) by the end of the school year.

KANSAS CITY'S HOMETOWN FAVORITES

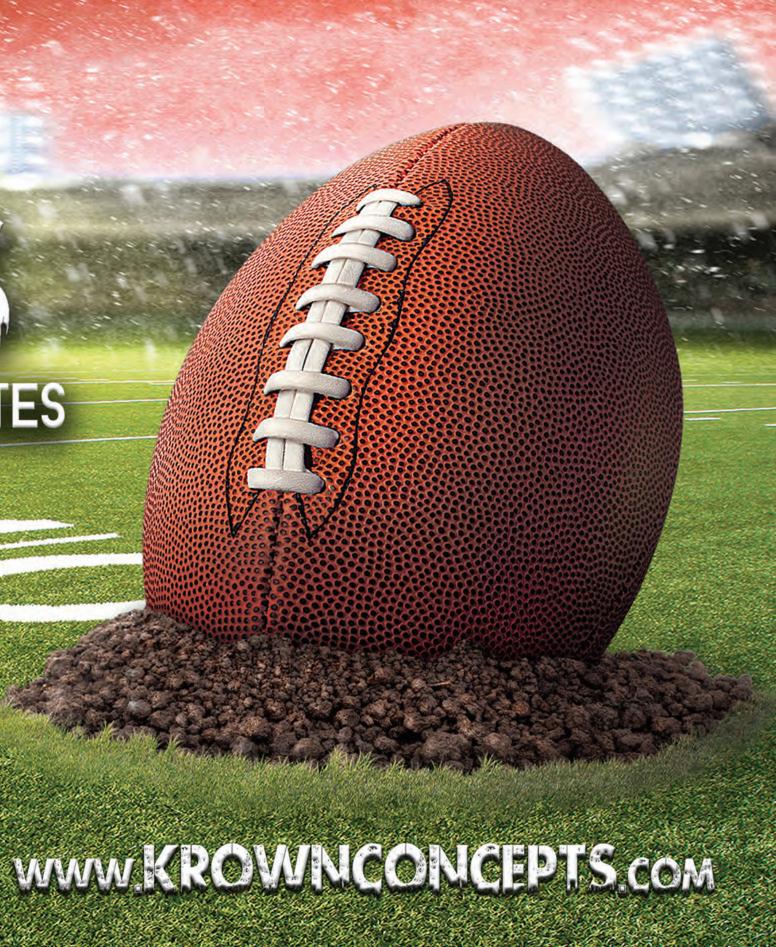

The Chiefs Community Caring Team, led by the Hunt Family, includes Red Coaters, Chiefs Cheerleaders, Ambassadors, KC Wolf, and current players, coaches and staff members who are all committed to making an impact to the Kansas City community. Highlights from the 2018 season include visits to schools, community centers, food pantries, hospitals, military installations and various other youth-focused charities. In 2018, the Hunt Family Foundation 50/50 Raffle raised more than $535,000 for charities. This offseason, Chiefs defensive linemen visited a KCPD Special Operations Division in honor of National Police Week. During the 2018 season, the November 11th game fell on the 100th Anniversary of Armiztice Day, which marked the conclusion of World War I and gave way to Veteran's Day. In partnership with the National World War I Museum and Memorial in Downtown Kansas City, the Chiefs organization created a one of a kind patch to be worn during warmups and to be sold at the museum.

KANSAS CITY AMBASSADO

The Kansas City Ambassadors are a group unlike any other in the National Football League. Comprised of former Chiefs players, the group is a vital part of the Chiefs Community Caring Team and acts as a liaison between the community, various special interest groups and the Chiefs. The earliest version of the group can be traced back to 1989, when several former players got together to discuss what they could do to help young players coming into the league in the spirit of team founder Lamar Hunt. It was this vision coupled with shared life experiences that made the Kansas City Ambassadors a unique tool when it came to helping new players grow comfortable in their roles as influential Kansas Citians. The organization even earned the support of then-NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

Before long, the Ambassadors began investing in the community that had given so much to them. With a variety of fundraisers, the one event that has historically garnered the most support is the annual charitable Ambassadors Golf Classic, which surpassed the $100,000 mark for the first time in 2016. These strong fundraising efforts have empowered the Ambassadors to support various charitable organizations over the years. Current beneficiaries include Camp Quality of Greater Kansas City, and Big Brother and Big Sisters of Kansas City.

To find out more about this group, visit their website at https://www.chiefs.com/ community/ambassadors or follow them on Twitter at @kccambassadors.

OWHEAD ART COLLECTION

In 2012, the Kansas City Chiefs launched the Arrowhead Art Collection within Arrowhead Stadium. The heart of the collection was designed to celebrate regional art while showcasing the culture of Chiefs Kingdom. The Arrowhead Art Collection has provided educational opportunities for local youth and engages the community in a way that touches individuals of all ages and walks of life. Regional artists were selected from the six states of the Chiefs Kingdom, including Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Arkansas and Oklahoma. A committee made up of representatives from the Chiefs and leading members of the Kansas City business and arts communities, has reviewed the submissions and assembled a world-class collection of artwork.

This collection includes thirty-seven pieces of art that have been installed and plans are underway for additional installations. Collection works represent a huge variety of media such as oils, acrylics, wood, metal, glass, and textile and are located both inside and outside of Arrowhead Stadium. Sharron Hunt, a member of the founding family of the Chiefs and Lamar Hunt's only daughter, serves as Chairwoman of the program. The Chiefs introduced an educational program that will give children ages 8-12 the opportunity to visit Arrowhead and learn about art with a curriculum that mirrors the Common Core standards in both Missouri and Kansas.

"THIS IS A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY TO SHARE CONTEMPORARY, REGIONAL ART WITH STUDENTS. IT IS GREAT FOR THEM TO KNOW THAT ART IS HAPPENING AROUND THEM IN OUR COMMUNITY."

- HEATHER HUETTNER, ART TEACHER, CRESTVIEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The Hunt Family, including Sharon, and the Kansas City Chiefs created the Arrowhead Art Collection in 2012 to celebrate regional art while showcasing the culture of Chiefs Kingdom.

CLUCUUC AFC

The Extra Yard for the Environment program is designed to integrate environmentally-friendly principles with the sound management of a world-class sports organization and facilities. The Chiefs are committed to environmental sustainability at Arrowhead Stadium, The University of Kansas Hospital Training Complex, and encourage our fans to actively participate in positively impacting the environment at home.

Since the Chiefs began implementing and tracking sustainability efforts, the organization has put an emphasis on becoming a more socially-responsible corporate citizen. In that time, waste diversion (the amount of waste that is diverted from landfills through recycling, composting and other means) has increased from 11% to 50%.

"Becoming a more environmentally-conscious organization has been and continues to be a long-term goal for us," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said. "We want to be a positive example for recycling and sustainability efforts in the community. The Extra Yard for the Environment program ensures that we are well on our way to having a positive environmental impact in Kansas City and throughout the region."

BREAKING DOWN

THE CHIEFS

The Red Coaters enjoy a very special opportunity to express their fandom on game day and enhance their experience as they proudly welcome the Chiefs to the field at Arrowhead Stadium, a tradition that remains intact since 1963.

Each year, Red Coaters volunteer with Chiefs staff at every level, from Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt to the front office, KC Wolf, Chief Cheerleaders to current and former players; and above all, with the fans.

Currently, there are 70 Active Red Coaters who provided 5,510 community service hours in 2018. Red Coaters range in years of active status from 1 year to 43 years as a member of the Kansas City Chiefs Red Coat Program.

The Chiefs Red Coaters continued a tradition as they donated dozens of new bicycles and helmets in support of the 53rd Annual Chiefs Toys for Tots collection.

CHIEFS SPORTS LAB

Since the 1970s, the percentage of overweight children has tripled in the United States. Today, one out of three children is overweight or obese in our community. Recent studies have found that students with healthier lifestyles actually perform better academically. The Kansas City Chiefs have created a unique way of educating young people about the positive benefits of leading healthier, happier lives to help reverse these trends.

Located inside Arrowhead Stadium, the Chiefs Sports Lab is a destination for students of all ages. It features hands-on and interactive computer activities promoting the importance of being active in your daily life, good nutrition, and healthy living. This one-of-a-kind educational center aligns with the Missouri Grade Level Expectations (GLEs) and Kansas Standards, Benchmarks and Indicators (SBIs) in Science, Physical Education and Health.

Students don't stop learning how to live active, healthy lives after they leave the Chiefs Sports Lab. To help reinforce the lessons learned in the Chiefs Sports Lab, all educators receive Play 60 materials to utilize in the classroom.

Join the Chiefs team and sign up your class or youth group to visit the Chiefs Sports Lab. To register your group, contact us at 816.920.4539 or email asmitka@chiefs.nfl.com.

MAN OF THE YEAR

The Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award, named for the legendary Chicago Bears running back, is unique among league honors as it represents the only league award that recognizes a player's off-the-field community service as well as his playing excellence. While the accolade has been bestowed annually since 1970, no other franchise has garnered more honorees than the Chiefs.

WILLIE LANIER (1972)

Following his selection as the '72 Man of the Year, five $4,000 college scholarships were presented in Lanier's name ... Was actively involved in a campaign to prevent drug abuse and attended the President's Drug Abuse Council in Washington, D.C. in '71 ... "Drugs are one of the worst things that could happen to a potential genius or a mind of someone who could offer a lot to society," Lanier said in '72 ... Played a prominent role with the American Cancer Society in Kansas City and was Chairman of a $100,000 capital campaign for the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Kansas City ... Has awarded over $550,000 in scholarships to Morgan State University and public school students in Richmond, Virginia dating back to '86.

LEN DAWSON (1973)

Selected by a vote of NFL fans as the '73 Man of the Year ... Said Dawson at the time, "If we have the opportunity, we can't turn our backs on people. We can do two things with children – help them or hinder them. I want to help." ... Was actively involved in numerous charitable endeavors, including the March of Dimes and the Missouri Driving Safety Program ... Served as the '72 Missouri Chairman for the "I Quit" anti-smoking campaign sponsored by the American Cancer Society ... Was also a longtime chairman of the Chiefs Huddle Club which sponsored various youth activities ... Every year since '77 he has awarded the "Len Dawson Scholarship" to a Kansas City area high school senior.

DERRICK THOMAS (1993)

Through his "Third and Long Foundation" helped promote children's literacy in Kansas City ... Started an inner-city reading program and read to children at local libraries each Saturday prior to home games ... Was designated by President George H.W. Bush as the "832nd point of light" ... Also selected as the winner of the Byron "Whizzer" White Humanitarian Award in '95 by the NFL Players Association ... Thomas' father Air Force Captain Robert Thomas was shot down on a B-52 mission in Vietnam, leading Thomas to become an avid supporter of veterans and military personnel ... He was the recipient of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall of Fame Award in '99.

WILL SHIELDS (2003)

Formed the "Will to Succeed Foundation" with his wife Senia in '93. To date, the foundation has benefited more than 100,000 individuals ... Primary foundation benefactors include children's agencies, centers for abused and neglected women and children ... The foundation also promotes literacy and creativity initiatives ... Was the inaugural winner of Pro Football Weekly's Arthur S. Arkush Humanitarian Award in '99 and was named the 2001 NFL Good Guy of the Year by The Sporting News ... The Shields are also members of the Mid-America Education Hall of Fame and were the first NFL couple recognized for their charitable efforts by The Citizenship Through Sports Alliance.

BRIAN WATERS (2009)

Four-time Pro Bowler became Kansas City's fifth NFL Man of the Year honoree after forming the "Brian Waters 54 Foundation" in 2004 ... Since its inception, tens of thousands of children and families in the Greater Kansas City area as well as the state of Texas have been positively impacted ... To date, his foundation has awarded 82 college scholarships to low-income students ... His back-to-school program provides backpacks full of school supplies, as well as haircuts, uniforms, shoes, immunizations and dental care, benefitting thousands of children ... The 54 Foundation partners with more than 20 different agencies annually.

BRIAN WATERS • #54 • GUARD

The Kansas City Chiefs, along with Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt, are proud to celebrate former offensive guard Brian Waters as the organization's 2019 inductee into the Chiefs Hall of Fame. Waters is the 49th individual and 45th player to earn this coveted honor. The official enshrinement ceremony into the Chiefs Hall of Fame will be held at Arrowhead Stadium this fall

"In his 13 seasons with the Chiefs, Brian Waters was a fixture on some of the best offensive lines in franchise history," Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt said. "Although he was undrafted coming out of college, Brian made the most of his opportunity here in Kansas City, and his work ethic, talent and toughness made him an undisputed leader on the field and in the locker room. Brian also has a tremendous heart of service, and his commitment to the Kansas City community earned him the prestigious Walter Payton Man of the Year Award in 2009. We look forward to adding Brian's name to the Ring of Honor at Arrowhead this fall."

Over 13 seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs (2000-10), the New England Patriots (2011) and the Dallas Cowboys (2013), Waters played in 186 games with 170 starts, earning six Pro Bowl selections and two first-team All-Pro recognitions by the Associated Press. He became the first offensive lineman to be named the AFC Offensive Player of the Week, which occurred following Kansas City's 56-10 win over the Atlanta Falcons on October 24, 2004 when the team rushed for an NFL record eight touchdowns in the game.

During Waters' time with the Chiefs, he helped pave the way for each of the top four individual single-season rushing performances in franchise history. He was also on the field for three of the top five individual single-game rushing efforts in club annals, including RB Jamaal Charles' franchise-record 259-yard performance at Denver (1/3/10). In 2004, he teamed with Pro Football Hall of Fame G Will Shields to form the first tandem of Pro Bowl guards from the same team since Larry Allen and Nate Newton did it for Dallas following the 1995 season. He and Shields also became the first guard duo from the same team to be named to three-consecutive Pro Bowls (2004-06).

In 2009, the entire National Football League community honored Waters as the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year winner for his on-field accomplishments, as well as his commitment to community outreach. Waters became the fifth member of the Chiefs to receive this honor, tying the Chiefs for the most award winners in the NFL. Since the launch of the "Brian Waters 54 Foundation" in 2004, tens of thousands of children and families in the Greater Kansas City area as well as his home state of Texas have been positively impacted through his back-toschool program where he provided backpacks full of school supplies as well as haircuts and medical check-ups prior to the start of school. At the time of his Man of the Year selection, he had granted more than 80 college scholarships for low-income students. The 54 Foundation partnered with more than 20 different agencies annually.

Waters was signed by Dallas as an undrafted free agent and released after training camp in 1999. Following his release from Dallas, he arrived in Kansas City for a free agent workout in March of 2000 when the Chiefs convinced him to make the move to offensive line, a position he had never played. He spent the spring of 2000 playing for the Berlin Thunder of NFL Europe where he started every game at center.

The Waxahachie, Texas, native played in 44 games at North Texas, starting at tight end for three years before switching to defensive end prior to his senior season. Waters hauled in 86 receptions for 975 yards and nine touchdowns in three years as a tight end. As a senior defensive end, he recorded 45 tackles (32 solo) and 5.0 sacks, earning him first-team All-Big West Conference honors. He also caught four passes for 66 yards with one touchdown as a senior.
