

BALTIMORE RAVENS LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE

On Aug. 24, the Baltimore Ravens and T. Rowe Price partnered for the fourth-consecutive year to present the Baltimore Ravens Leadership Institute (BRLI), a year-long leadership development program for Baltimore City and Baltimore County high schoolers. Annually, the program consists of six events – a kickoff ceremony, four informative leadership sessions and a graduation/celebration. The four middle sessions are composed of speakers, instruction and collaborative learning focused around four themes: Lead Yourself, Lead Others, Lead Community and Lead Change.

As part of the programming, state and county-level executives, including Maryland Governor Larry Hogan, were in attendance. Additionally, Ravens Legend and director of player engagement Jameel McClain and Ravens' Vice President of Community Relations and Ravens Foundation Executive Director Heather Darney, spoke to students about their leadership experiences.

PAWS FOR A CAUSE WITH RONNIE STANLEY

On Aug. 28, the Ronnie Stanley Foundation hosted a Paws for a Cause event at Jimmy's Seafood. The money raised at the event benefited the Ronnie Stanley Foundation and the Show your Soft Side campaign. Ravens DE Brent Urban was also in attendance. The Ronnie Stanley Foundation, founded by Ravens T Ronnie Stanley, helps improve the quality of life for rescue dogs and individuals in need by training and cultivating therapeutic properties of rescue dogs to be matched with individuals facing various life challenges.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL WITH GUS EDWARDS

On Aug. 29, alongside his Gus the Bus Foundation and in partnership with Dick's Sporting Goods, RB Gus Edwards hosted a giveback event to help support youth in the Baltimore community. Edwards shopped with pre-selected students for back-to-school gear and supplies for the upcoming school year.
