NATIONAL ANTHEM

TIGIRLILY GOLD

Sister duo Tigirlily Gold has been playing music together since they could walk, and officially formed their band in high school. Growing up, they crisscrossed the mid-west, growing a fierce fan base and selling out amphitheaters across their home-state of North Dakota. After moving to Nashville, they landed a weekly residence at Dierks Bentley's Whiskey Row on Nashville's famed lower Broadway. Playing four-hour sets, three to four nights a week, the sisters developed a performance style that's not only captivating and fun but shows just how much entertaining is in their blood.

After releasing their original song "Somebody Does," in 2021, the track topped the iTunes chart and Tigirlily Gold was signed to Monument Records. They released their self-titled, debut EP in July 2021, working with multi-Grammy Award Winner Shane McAnally, and hit the road with artists Walker Hayes and Ashley McBryde.

Now, the powerhouse duo is set to embark on a new musical chapter with their upcoming EP, Blonde – a deeply personal record that includes poignant tales of love and loss alongside powerful anthems and songs of female empowerment. The first release off the EP, "Shoot Tequila," came out in January and has already found viral success with over 60 million views on the song across social media. Ready to bring girl group energy back to country music, Tigirlily Gold is poised for a breakout year.

HALL OF HONOR INDUCTION

The Carolina Panthers will expand their Hall of Honor when wide receiver Muhsin Muhammad and defensive end Julius Peppers are inducted at halftime.

"Muhsin Muhammad and Julius Peppers were drafted by the Panthers. Both became All-Pros here. Both came back to Carolina to finish their careers. This is another homecoming, a permanent one," Tepper said. "Not only did Muhsin and Julius set high standards on the field, they also were selected as Panthers Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year team winners.
