FLYOVER

THE 145TH AIRLIFT WING

The 145th Airlift Wing (145 AW) was established on March 15, 1948, and resides at the Charlotte ANGB at Charlotte/Douglas International Airport as well as the Airport in Stanly County North Carolina. In 2018 the unit celebrated its 70th anniversary and transitioned from the C-130 Hercules to operating the C-17 Globemaster III aircraft, taking on a larger global airlift mission. The C-17 is the newest, most flexible cargo aircraft in the airlift force and can perform tactical airlift and airdrop missions.

As a North Carolina Air National Guard unit, the 145 AW is “operationally gained” by the Air Mobility Command (AMC) and maintains a worldwide deployment capability in support of both AMC and unified combatant commander tasking. The 145 AW is comprised of several wing staff agencies, including the 145th Operations Group, the 145th Maintenance Group, the 145th Mission Support Group, 145th Medical Group, and the 145th Combat Operations Group. In addition, the 145th AW supports the 156th Weather Flight at Charlotte ANGB.

From 2001-17, the unit has deployed 4,275 personnel in support of the global war on terrorism. After Hurricane Floyd in 1999, the unit flew 33,000 cases of food rations in 3 C-130's to flood victims and erected a tent city for 80 people near Wilmington's airport. In 2012 the 145th AW Airmen supported U.S. Africa Command with deployments in support of Operation Southern Accord and MEDLITE 2012 in Botswana. In 2017 the 156th Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron a component of the 145th Operations Group, supported evacuation operations for Hurricane Irma and Maria, airlifting patients from the impact zone to safety. Additionally, the 145th Logistics Readiness Squadron, a component of the 145th Mission Support Group, assisted in providing disaster relief to the U.S. Virgin Islands, transporting 282 passengers, moving 1.1 Million pounds of cargo, and 77,000 pounds of food.

BROOKS MAUK

Brooks Mauk, 18, is a senior at Weddington High School. Brooks is the youngest son of J.J. and Johni Mauk of Weddington, N.C. He has two older sisters and an older brother.

Brooks was born in Birmingham, Ala., and loved football from an early age. He began playing football when he was six years old. Upon moving to North Carolina, Brooks joined the Weddington High School team in 2020 where he plays tight end and defensive end. During a football game in October 2022, Brooks sustained a broken tibia and fibula. As the official health care providers for Charlotte-Mecklenburg High Schools, Atrium Health Athletic Trainer Huston Mattson was on the sidelines to immediately assist Brooks at the time of his injury and call in Atrium Health Sports Medicine Physician Dr. Eric Warren for treatment.

After surgery and many months of rehabilitation and physical therapy with Atrium Health – and a tremendous amount of dedication in the face of adversity – Brooks returned to the football field for spring training in April 2023.

Brooks recently helped lead his team at Weddington High School to win the 2023 North Carolina High School Athletic Association 4A State Championship. Brooks was also named the Charlotte Touchdown Club's 2023 Thomas Davis High School Comeback Player of the Year and was a Queen City Senior Bowl selection. He will represent his team at the Blue-Grey All-American Bowl in Tampa, Fla., in January 2024. Brooks was also named a Friday Night Lights Football Award finalist for Receiver of the Year by the South Carolina Sports Report and is a High School Football of America Academic All-American.

Brooks will graduate in May 2024 and has received multiple offers to play football at the collegiate level. In college, he plans to major in construction science.

SERIES & CONNECTIONS

The Panthers return home for the 2023 season finale to take on NFC South foe, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in Week 18. Since the NFL season moved to 17 games in 2021, this will mark the first time in franchise history the Panthers have played at home in Week 18. All time, this will mark the 47th matchup between the two teams with Carolina holding a 25-21 advantage. The Panthers hold a 13-10 series lead in games played at Carolina. The two teams clashed in Week 13 at Tampa Bay, with the Buccaneers coming out victorious, 21-18. The Buccaneers last visited Bank of America Stadium in Week 7 of the 2022 season with the Panthers winning, 21-3. Carolina enters the week with a 2-14 record after falling to the Jacksonville Jaguars, 26-0. The Panthers are looking for their second-straight NFC South victory after defeating the Atlanta Falcons in Week 15, 9-7. The Buccaneers enter the contest with a 8-8 record, including a 3-2 record within the NFC South. With a win on Sunday, Tampa Bay would clinch their third-straight NFC South crown.

- Panthers CB Shaquill Griffin is a native of St. Petersburg, Fla., and attended Lakewood HS.
- Buccaneers QB Baker Mayfield spent part of the 2022 season with the Carolina Panthers.
- Panthers Offensive Special Advisor Jim Caldwell and Buccaneers Senior Offensive Assistant Tom Moore coached together on the Indianapolis Colts from 2002-2010. Caldwell served as assistant head coach/quarterbacks coach from 2002-2008 before becoming head coach in 2009. Moore was the offensive coordinator from 1998-2008 before becoming senior offensive coordinator/consultant from 2009-2010.
- Panthers Offensive Coordinator Thomas Brown, Secondary/Cornerbacks Coach Jonathan Cooley, CB Troy Hill, Buccaneers QB Baker Mayfield, QB John Wolford and DL Greg Gaines all spent the 2022 season with the Los Angeles Rams.
- Panthers DT Derrick Brown played college football with Buccaneers LB K.J. Britt, CB Jamel Dean and CB Carlton Davis III at Auburn from 2016-2017.
- Panthers CB CJ Henderson, K Eddy Pineiro and Buccaneers QB Kyle Trask played at Florida together in 2017. Pineiro and Trask played with Panthers T David Sharpe in 2016.

JACKSON NAMED TEAM'S ED BLOCK COURAGE AWARD WINNER

By Darin Gantt

Donte Jackson has always been known for his speed, so it was reasonable to wonder how he'd come back from a torn Achilles.

The answer is stronger than ever.

The veteran cornerback was named the team's recipient of the Ed Block Courage Award this season, honoring both his comeback and his leadership.

The award recognizes players from each team "who exemplify commitments to the principles of sportsmanship and courage," and they're honored at an event in Baltimore each spring.

Defensive coordinator Ejiro Evero said he'd been particularly impressed with Jackson's steady contributions this year and his reliability in a year when Jaycee Horn missed 11 games, and even the backups to the backups were getting hurt.

"It started off with him just trying to get acclimated to the system, coming off his injury from last year, so I think he was a little slow to get going there," Evero said. "But what you've seen really since about the early part of the season is he's playing at a high level; he's playing the way we expected.

"Making plays on the ball, being very physical and run support, being aggressive, and he's really done a good job, and he's been a good, good leader for our room too."

Jackson suffered his injury in Week 10 last year and spent the offseason rehabbing in a way that left him stronger. Being in the weight room constantly from November through training camp allowed him to put on 10 pounds of muscle. He's still lean, but he's obviously more solid now. And after a career that's included a number of injuries, he's only missed one game this season.

"Definitely the durability," Jackson said of the advantages of the extra weight. "I just wanted to prove so much, but I just couldn't really couldn't get it rolling. I started getting injuries. But once I looked back, what really hurt me, it wasn't nothing to do with my style of play. It wasn't to do with my technique; it was all just to do with health.

"So I looked at all the things that I could that could help me stay healthy. Most of it was just putting on more muscle, changing the way I eat, lifting more, sleeping more, you know, running more stuff like that, just to make sure that I'm able to withstand a full season. It was just wanting to get back in the lab and start thinking outside the box and start changing some stuff up here and there."

Jackson's in his sixth season, and he said the goal was to play six more. So, if that meant changing his diet and workout plan and adding things like beet juice and a lot more protein to his diet, so be it, even if it's something he never considered before.

"Not beet juice, not cherry juice, not none of that stuff," he laughed when asked about the nutritional changes. "After doing a lot more research, now I'm drinking collagen and stuff. You ask questions, and learn a lot more because you know, you can never know too much about the body. It's been the biggest component, and it came with 10 extra pounds of muscle, so I'm not mad about that.

"As a young guy, a lot of stuff that goes in one ear and other because you recover faster when you get an injury. Now, I just want to take a different approach."

He was always fast. He's always made plays when he's on the field. Now, with the help of advice from those who have been through it, he's put himself in a position to make plays even longer. He got tips on coming back from his injury from assistant secondary coach DeAngelo Hall, who suffered the same injury late in his 14-year NFL career.

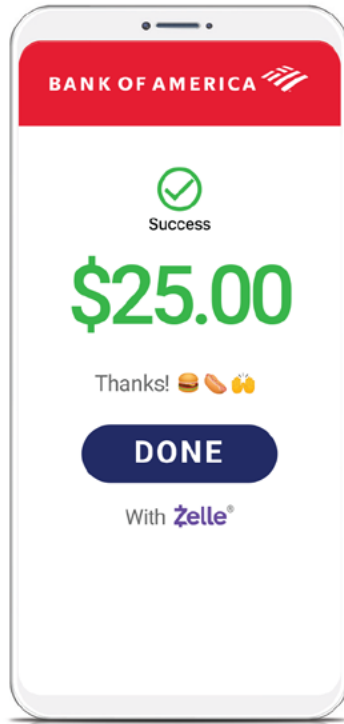

"It helped a whole lot; knowing that he's a guy who not only played my position but played at a high level, pre- and post-injury, it was just a lot of insight," Jackson said of his new coach and a new mentor. "I actually found myself writing a lot of stuff that he said down. The stuff that he says to this day, you know, I'm saying. It was definitely a lot of positive insight just to see that he played several more years afterwards. It was definitely, definitely positive stuff."

BUGGANEERS COACHES

Todd Bowles
HEAD COACH

Entering his 15th season coaching in the National Football League, Matt LaFleur (la-flew-er) enters his fifth season in Green Bay after being named the Packers' 15th head coach on Jan. 8, 2019. Began his coaching career in 2003 at his alma mater, Saginaw Valley State. LaFleur has six seasons of coaching experience at the collegiate level, having also worked at Central Michigan (2004-05), Northern Michigan (2006), Ashland University (2007) and Notre Dame (2014). His NFL coaching career began with the Houston Texans (2008-09) and has taken him to Washington (2010-13), Atlanta (2015-16), Los Angeles Rams (2017), and Tennessee (2018) before his first role as a Head Coach with the Packers.

Born Nov. 3, 1979, in Mount Pleasant, Mich., LaFleur played quarterback at Saginaw Valley State (2000-02). Following his college career, LaFleur played in the National Indoor Football League for the Omaha Beef in 2003 and the Billings Outlaws in 2004.
