Pip

For the Raiders' home opener, one name shines bright: Pip, the Raiderette of the Game. With her captivating energy and passion for dance, Pip embodies the spirit of the Raiderettes and the vibrant culture of Las Vegas.

From Racine, Wisconsin, Pip has graced the Raiderette squad for two seasons, bringing her unique flair and enthusiasm to the field. A professional dancer and dedicated dance teacher, she has seamlessly blended her love for music and movement into her everyday life. "Music is a huge part of my life," Pip shares. "It deeply moves me, and I use it every day to teach and dance."

Residing in Las Vegas has been a transformative experience for Pip. "What I love most about Vegas is my work. I get to meet incredible people through my jobs, and it's fulfilling," she explains. The city has also allowed her to share her life with her older sister, a fellow professional dancer. "Having my sister here has been a blessing," she adds, highlighting the importance of family in her journey.

Pip's favorite quote, "Be nice or leave," reflects her core values. Kindness is not just a motto; it's a principle she lives by, especially as she inspires younger generations. "Being a role model for kids in the community is the coolest feeling in the world," she says, with genuine warmth.

As the Raiders prepare to take the field, Pip looks forward to inspiring those around her, drawing strength from her sisters—both dancers themselves.

"Leading by example for my younger sister is very important to me," she shares, underlining her commitment to mentorship.

Looking ahead, Pip has ambitious dreams. "I aspire to start a family, move to Scottsdale, and one day coach a pro team," she reveals. Additionally, she aims to take over her family's chemical company back in Wisconsin, demonstrating her entrepreneurial spirit.

As she steps into the spotlight for the home opener, Pip personifies the Raiderette spirit with her passion, dedication, and kindness. With fans cheering and the energy palpable, she is ready to make her mark, not just as a dancer but as a role model who inspires through her actions and heart. The Raider Nation is fortunate to have Pip as a shining star among the Raiderettes, leading the way with grace and poise.
