

RAIDERETTE OF THE GAME

PRESENTED BY E6SFITNESS

Reagan

In the vibrant world of Raiderettes, each dancer brings their unique story and passion to the team. This month, we shine the spotlight on Reagan, a remarkable rookie in her debut season, whose journey embodies resilience and determination.

From Cedar City, Utah, Reagan is not only a talented dancer but also a dedicated high school teacher and dance coach. Her commitment to education and the arts, paired with her enthusiasm for the Raiderettes, makes her a unique asset to the team. "This is my rookie season, and I couldn't be more excited to contribute to such a dynamic group," she shares.

Family plays a pivotal role in Reagan's life, instilling in her the belief that being true to oneself and passionate about one's pursuits is essential. Growing up with four older brothers, she sought inspiration from their adventures and began collecting comic books, a cherished connection that keeps her close to her roots. "They've always encouraged me to embrace my passions wholeheartedly," she notes.

Reagan's love for Las Vegas has blossomed over the past three years, where she has witnessed the incredible unity of the local community. "Dancing for UNLV, the Vegas Golden Knights, and the Raiders has taught me about the pride that residents have for their teams," she explains. This passion fuels her performances and deepens her connection to the city.

A true believer in the power of perseverance, Reagan draws inspiration from her past. At the age of 14, she underwent a full spinal fusion and was told she might never dance again. Over four challenging years, she learned to stand, walk, run, and ultimately rediscover her love for dance. "Every day, I am inspired by my younger self, who faced significant physical limitations. I push myself to never waste a day and to keep nurturing my passion for dance," she reflects.

As she looks to the future, Reagan has ambitious aspirations. She dreams of coaching a college dance team while diving into sports psychology to better understand the mental dynamics of athletic performance. This blend of teaching, dancing, and coaching represents her commitment to both education and the arts.

Reagan's favorite quote, shared from Olympic Figure Skater Bonnie Blair, resonates deeply with her mantra: "Winning doesn't mean getting first place; winning means doing better than you ever have before." With her relentless spirit and dedication, Reagan embodies the essence of what it means to be a Raiderette.

Join us in celebrating Reagan, the Raiderette of the Game, whose story of resilience and passion reminds us all to pursue our dreams wholeheartedly!