

Bria

For Bria, being a Raiderette is about more than performing on game day. It's an opportunity to connect with fans, create lasting memories, and bring energy, positivity, and fun to Raider Nation.

Bria's passion for helping others is at the heart of everything she does. With a background in kinesiology and experience in dance instruction and coaching, she is committed to helping people grow, build confidence, and improve their quality of life. That same passion comes through in dance, where she continues to challenge herself while sharing her love of movement with others.

Originally from Killeen, Texas, Bria is enjoying her second season as a Raiderette. She approaches life with a sense of adventure and a desire to make every moment count. Whether spending time with friends and family, traveling, trying something new, or stepping outside her comfort zone, Bria is always looking for meaningful experiences and opportunities to grow.

That adventurous spirit makes Las Vegas a special place for her. With something new always around the corner, Bria enjoys discovering new places, making memories with friends, and embracing all the city has to offer. Her outlook is captured by a quote she carries with her: "Growth begins at the end of your comfort zone."

Looking ahead, Bria hopes to build a career centered on helping and inspiring others while continuing to share her love for dance. She also hopes to keep traveling, embracing new opportunities, and making a positive impact wherever she goes.

This season's Salute to Service theme holds especially deep meaning for Bria. As the daughter of two 20-year Army veterans, she grew up seeing firsthand the sacrifice, strength, and dedication required to serve something greater than oneself. Her parents' military service helped shape her understanding of resilience, commitment, and patriotism—values that continue to influence who she is today.

For Bria, Salute to Service is more than a moment of recognition. It is an opportunity to honor those who have worn the uniform as well as the families who support them. She is proud to be her parents' daughter and grateful for the example of service and strength they have given her.

With her joyful spirit, determination, and genuine love for people, Bria embodies the heart of the Raiderettes experience. She brings enthusiasm to every performance, encouragement to her teammates, and an uplifting presence to Raider Nation. As she continues her second season, Bria is making the most of every opportunity celebrating dance, honoring her family, and inspiring others to embrace growth, adventure, and life to the fullest.
